The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

Library Division
Provincial Archives of British Columbia

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol → (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol ▼ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

Library Division

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte una empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole → signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ▼ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., pouvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

SIR,

AVING made many Confiderable Improvements and Additions to my Geography in this Fourth Edition, I have all the reason in the world to shelter it once more under the Patronage of your Name, whose Affairs Abroad have not only given you a better Knoweldge and Experience of Foreign Parts; but whose Encouragement and Bounty, next to Divine Goodness, have only contributed to its Production, which otherwise with its poor Author, must have for ever lain latent under the Horizon of unknown Obscurity, and irrefistible Poverty. The declining therefore the Imputation of Ingratitude, is my only Plea; and though it may not be pleasing to you, yet not to have done it in my Circumstances, would have been my just Crime. I humbly therefore beg your Goodness will be pleased to add to your former Kindnesses, That of pasfing by the Impersections of what is offered. Industry of one Age that can rectify and compleat the Ataxie of Geography; nor the work of any one man that of Coins, Weights, and Measures; so a wellmeaning Estay towards both, I hope will find a Courteous Entertainment from the more judicious and unprejudiced Reader: For I have this, I will not say to justify, but to excuse at least, my boldness and forwardness, That if I had known these things to have been but tolerably performed by others, I had neither troubled my Reader, nor mil-spent my own time about the Rectification of them; wherein although I have again made many Corrections and Amendments, yet that I have made good some mens Expectations, and freed them from all defects and overlights, neither my Fears nor my Modesty will permit me to be confident of; so that knowing this Work which I have undertaken, is liable to common Censure, I am bold to shrowd it under your Protection, humbly imploring your kind reception and Pardon for this my Presumption; for which, and for the excess of many Favours, I shall ever pray for the Prosperity of You and Yours; and for ever acknowledge my felf,

O great was the attempt of my first Essay, in the publishing of my Geography Rectified, that for my heedless pre-Sumption Ivan alledge no excuse, unless, That the zeal of my love for its Truth, so transported my senses, as I considered not the weight I undertook. And therefore I again crave pardon for the audacity of that Attempt. Humbly acknowledging, a Work of that concernment and difficulty in it felf, did well deferve the conjunction of many heads and hands; and surely more advantagious had it been unto Geography, to have fallen under the Endeavours of some able Advancers, that might have performed it unto the life, and added Authority thereto. For I am not ignorant of the discouragement of Contradiction, of the difficulty of Distuasion from radicated beliefs, of what cold requitals Some have found in their Redemptions of Truth; and how ingenious Discoveries have been dismissed with obliquity, and consured with lingularity. But the kind Reception it found from several Worthy and Learned Gentlemen, more especially that Influence that it received from the two most Learned Universities of the World, Oxford and Cambridge, hath once more drawn me upon the Horizon of Publick View, not as a Master, but as a poor Labourer, carrying the Carved Stones, and the Polished Fillars, of the more skilful Architects to fet them in my mean Fabrick. I have indeed laid my building upon other mens foundations; for who in this Subject can do otherwise? Nor do I hold it a Plagiary to fay; Thave used their Richest Jewels to adorn this Work. In excuse whereof give me leave to plead, That in all Arguments and Subjests which have been written upon; from the Infancy of Learning; to this Age, there hath been a continual frife and emulation among Writers, to mend, Supply, or methodize what soever bath been done before. It would be too tedious to reckon up the Several Authors on some one subject, being a Truth so obvious as not to need much proof; nor is it less apparent, that still the latter must needs have agreat advantage beyond the former, by adding the experience of his own times to the perusal of what was formerly attained unto; more especially in Hiltory and Geography; for the in the Axioms, Theorems and Propositions of Logick, Philosophy, Mathematicks, &c. that which was once Truth remains so for ever; yet in History there is a necessity of Continuation, and in Geography of Alteration from time to time; so that as tis no presumption to write upon this Subject, the treated of by others famous for Learning and Parts; foit is a boldness justifiable by truth, to affirm that all former Geographies diligently compared with the more acidrate Observations and Discoveries of late years, are greatly defe-Etive, and strangely erroneous. And that I may not be thought to be singular in my affertion, see what the Industrious Mr. Wright Said in his Correction of Errors in Navigation; where he tells us, That the Longitude of Places would well deferve both Labour and Cost. And tho the Rectification of them were more a buse and expensive work, than profitable; yet most worthy and necessary to be laboured in, as without which all Charts, Maps, Globes, and all other Hydrographical and Geographical Descriptions cannot be freed from many intricate absurdities wherewith they are now every where pestered and perplexed: And who that loveth Truth, faith he, can patiently endure the Mariners common and constant complaint of 150 or 200 Leagues error in the distance between the Bay of Mexico and the Azores (or that which is more intollerable and monstrous) of 600 Leagues difference in the distance between Cape Mendosino, and Cape Californio? And in another place he tells us, that the best Hydrographers of that Age found such Difficulties in labouring to bring their Marine Descriptions to some correspondence of truth, that tired herewith, in the end they have holden it impessible; wherein notwithstanding, saith he, they err in holding that to be simply impossible, which cannot be done by such ways and means as they know and use.

And the Ingenious Mr. Hally tells us in one of his Philosophical Transactions, That the Dutch Maps were out more than 10 Degrees. But Sanson's 18 Degrees in distance between London and Ballasore. And in truth as to all the Dutch and French Maps that I have seen, they were so false and imperfect, that as I was obliged in my first Edition to alter many places in Europe 3 Degr. of Latitude, and more than 5 in Longitude; to make A sia and A merica wholly new, and to rectify Africa more than 10 Degr. And in the second Impression to insert more than 20 New Maps of Countries, some never extant in any Geography before: So al-So in this Fourth Edition I have added a Geographical Index to the whole Work, Alphabetically digested. As also many Cities, Towns, Islands, Rivers, with the Ancient and Modern Names. with many other Improvements, which were omitted in the former fothat 'tis in truth a New Geography. And yet I know this wants the Helps and Advantages of a more Learned Pen; and indeed it ought to have been freed from those frequent avocations and disturbances that attend a Publick Shop and Trade. These were in truth too great disadvantages for the rendring a Book of this nature so compleat and perfect, and of so constant and regular a stile, as might be expected from others, whose quiet doors, and unmolested hours afford no such distractions. However, in the composing of this, I have taken a due regard and greater care in the choice of Authors; nor have I been less studious in avoiding weak and frivolons Relations, but to present plainly the Truth of Geography and History from its first beginning, so far as'tis made known to us by the most approved Writers. And all this after many years experience, not only in making and Projecting of Globes. Maps, &c. but also in examining and comparing of the Relations, Discoveries, Observations, Draughts, Journals, and Writings, as well of the Ancient as Modern Geographers, Travellers, Mariners, &c. wherein I have taken much pains, and fpent much time; tho to my own profit I have done nothing: Only may this be but useful and acceptable to the young Gentry and Scholars of England, and I am sure of this one advantage, That I ball have many an idle hour the less to account for.

Some may yet think the Maps too small, and the Discourse too (bort, and indeed fo do I; but then be pleased to consider, that my Delign was Brevity, wherein I rather consulted your Advantage. by rendring the Book both more Portable, and less Chargeable: fothat I was often times more folicitous and concerned to confider what, than what not to write: Yet have industriously endeavoured by insertion of the most important Observables, that nothing material either in the Maps or Descriptions may be wanting, to prefent you with such a satisfactory view of the Earthly Globe, and its respective parts, as may make good our Title: For without vanity it may be affirmed, that as compendious as it is, yet you have therein now summed up the Reverend Observations of the Ancient Strabo. Pliny, and Ptolomy; the choice Rarities of the Nubian Geographer; the unwearied Industry of Mercator and Munfter; the Great World of Ortelius and Maginus; the Rately Vo. lumes of Bleau and Johnson; the Modern and Applauded Maps of Du Val and Sanson; nay, the Quintessence of the Chorographies, Topographies, Relations, Journals, and Travels of most Authors extant. So that if not large enough for the Readings of the most Curious and much at Leisure, yet may serve as a helpful Introduction to their more Voluminous Tracts; and to others. Thope, fully satisfactory. At least I am confident it may be sufficient to demonstrate the great Errors of the Old Maps, and the necessity of New and Larger; but this is not to be performed without a greater Stock than I am Steward of. And the Encouraging Gentry of England have been so often imposed upon by pretenders to Mapping, that I despair of making any Proposals, and consequently of ever doing of them. And indeed 'tis now time for me to provide for a future Estate, where there will be better Rewards for the true and faithful Service of

Introduction

TO GEOGRAPHY.

E O G R A P H Y is a Science which Teacheth the Description and Dimension of all the Earth, as it doth together with the Water, compose that round Body, which from its form is called the Orb or Globe of the Earth; Describing the Scienations, and Measuring the Distances of all its parts.

The Earth is placed in respect of the other Planets or Stars of the Universe, according to Ptolomy and Tycho, in the Center, fixed and immoveable; but according to Copernicus, between the Orbs of Mars and Venus moveable.

For according to Celestial Appearances, one of these two Hypotheses must be granted: 1. That the Earth is placed in the Center, immoveable, and that all the Celestial Bodies do move round it in their Diur-nal and Annual Revolutions, as in Fig. 1.

2. Or that the Sun is the Center of the Planets and Fixed Stars, which have no daily Motion; but that this Earth, Sea, and Air about it, hath a twofold Motion, one Diurnal, about its own Center in 24 hours, whereby all its parts are alternately enlightned, and Day and Night successively enjoyed; the other, its Annual Motion, by which it is carried about the Sun in the space of a Year, whereby all places in course enjoy Spring, Summer, Autumn, and Winter. These Hypotheses, with the Circles of the Sphere, and Motion of the Planets, you will find explicated and demonstrated more at large, in my Introduction to the Use of the Globes, now ready for the Press.

The Globe of the Earth is variously Described by Geographers into Lines and Parts, which are either Real or Imaginary.

The Real parts of the Terrestrial Globe are Earth and Water. The Imaginary parts are certain Lines, which are not materially, but for the better understanding of this Science, are supposed to be on or above the Earth.

These Lines are either Strait, or Circular. The Axis is a strait Line passing through the midst or Center of the Earth, which is the Diameter of the Universe; the extreme points or ends whereof, are called the Poles; the one Point is called the Artick, or North-Pole, the other the Antarctick, or South-Pole.

These Poles are twofold; 1. The Poles of the World, or Equator, upon which is made the daily Motion from East to West. 2. The Poles of the Ecliptick, upon which the Earth, or all the Celestial Bodies do make their Yearly Revolution from West to East.

The Circular Lines are divided into the greater and the leffer: The Greater Circles are such as divide the Globe into two equal parts, and are four in number, Meridian, Horizon, Equator, Ecliptick: And these are either fixed, as the Equator and Ecliptick; or moveable with the mutation of places, as the Meridian, and Horizon.

The Horizon, the Boundary or Termination of our fight, is the only Great Circle Observable by the eye; for being upon a Plain in any sair Day or Night, and looking where the Heavens and Earth part, we see an apparent Circle, which divides the visible part of Heaven from the invisible; extending it self into a strait Line, from the Superficies of the Earth every way round about that place you stand upon; dividing the Heavens into two unequal parts, which is designed out by the fight, and is sometimes greater or lesser, according to the condition of the place. But this Horizon is not the true Horizon, but parallel to it, and therefore called the sensible or visible Horizon, comprehending all that space of the earth which is visible, and dissinguishing it from the rest, which light under, and is invisible.

The other Horizon, which is called the True or Rational Horizon, is a Great Circle, dividing that part of the Heavens which is above us, from that part which is under us, exactly into two equal parts, passing through the Center of the Earth, always certain and the same; suppose a Line of Direction perpendicular to it, passing through to the Point, directly over our head, called the Zenith, and another directly under our feet, called the Nadir, which are the two Poles of the Horizon, and 90 degrees distant from it.

By this Circle our Days and Nights are measured; for that time wherein the Sun continueth above the Horizon, we call an Artificial Day, and the time that he is under it, the Night; it also shews the Rising and Setting of the Stars and Planets; for when they come up from the dark Hemisphere, they are said to Rise; and percontra, when they go down, are said to Set.

The Meridian is a Circle passing through the Poles of the Earth, and the Vertical or Zenith point of the Horizon, crossing it at right Angles, dividing the Earth into two equal parts or Hemispheres, in the Points of North and South; the one Eastern, the other Western: And is so called, because when the Sun cometh to the Meridian of any place, it is Noon, or Mid-day: Many in number, because all places from East to West have several Meridians:

Amongst these, one is of special Note and Use, which Geographers call the first or chief Meridian: This first Meridian is that from which the Longitudes of places are reckoned: In this Meridian the Poles of the World are supposed to be fixed; and in this Circle, the Latitude of Places, or Height of the Poles, are numbred.

The Equator, or Line under the Equinoctial, is a great Circle encompassing the very middle of the Earth between the two Poles, dividing it into two equal parts from North to South; and it is divided, as all Great Circles are, into 360 equal parts or degrees. It is called Equator, either because it is equally distant from the Poles of the World, or rather because when the Sun comes to this Line, which is twice in the Year, viz in its entrance into Aries, which is about the 10th or 11th of March; and again in Libra about the 12th or 13th of Septemper, he makes equality of Days and Nights throughout the World; from it are the Latitudes of places numbred upon the Meridian, either North or South; upon it the Longitude of places are reckoned: It measures the Quantity of Artificial and Natural Days, Hours, &c. Therefore its Degrees are called Tempora, Times, and is divided in to 24 hours, 15 degrees thereof to an hour; for 15 times 24, makes 360 degrees; every degree is 4 minutes of Time, for 4 times 15, is 60 minutes, or an hour.

The Ecliptick, so called because the Eclipses of the Sun and Moon are here made, is an Oblique Circle crossing the Equator in two opposite Points, called the Equinoctical Points; and is divided into 12 parts, called the 12 Signs. It is called Via Solis, because the Sun always goes under it in its annual Course; but the rest of the Planets have their deviations either North or South from this Line. This Circle hath 2 Poles; for as the Meridians meet in the Poles of the World, so the Circles of Longitude drawn through the 12 Signs, meet in the Poles of the Ecliptick, each Pole of the Ecliptick being distant from its correspondent Pole of the world, 23 deg. 30 min. and are called North or South, according to their position next the North or South Poles of the World.

The Meridian that passeth through the Equinoctial Point of the Ecliptick in the beginning of Aries and Libra, is called the Equinoctial Colure; and that which passeth through the beginning of Cancer and Capricorn, is called the Solftitial Colure.

These Colures divide the Ecliptick into four equal parts, which are called Cardinal Points; for according to the Sun's approach unto any of them, the Season of the Year is altered into Spring, Summer, Autumn, and Winter.

The Lesser Circles or Lines are Named with particular Names, as Tropicks and Polar Circles.

The Tropicks are parallel Circles to the Equator, distant from it 23. Degrees and a half: That on the North-side of the Equator, is called the Tropick of Cancer, where the Sun hath the greatest North declination, and maketh our longest Day and shortest Night, which is about the 11th or 12th of June: The other on the South-side is called the Tropick of Capricorn, in which point the Sun hath its greatest South Declination, making our shortest Day, and longest Night, which is about the 11th or 12th of December.

The Polar Circles are parallels, compassing the Poles of the World at 23 Degrees and a half distance; that about the North-Pole is called the Artick Circle, the other the Antarctick Circle, because opposite to it ! As in Fig. 2.

These Tropick and Polar Circles divide the Earth into five parts, called by the Greek, Zones, from Zárn, Cingulum, as enclosing the whole Earth within their respective Districts; of these five Zones, three were accounted by the Ancients to be so intemperate, as to be uninhabitable; one of them by reason of the Suns beams continually darting upon the same; and this they called the Torrid Zone, terminated by the Tropicks on each side: The other two, the one comprehended within the Arctick Circle, and the other compassed by the Antartict, by reason of the extreme Cold, they thought uninhabitable, as being so remote from the Suns Beams: But only the remaining two were accounted Temperate, and therefore Habitable;

the one lying between the Arctick Circle, and the Tropick of Cancer, and the other between the Antarctick and the Tropick of Capricorn.

Thus much of the General Geography: The Special is that which fetteth forth the Description of the Terrestrial Globe, so far forth as 'tis divided into distinct parts or places: And is either, 1. The Description of some great integrating part of the Earth. 2. Or of some one Region, and so is properly called Choregraphy. 2. Or of some particular place in a Region or Country, which is Topography.

According to the greater integrating parts thereof, the Ancients divided the whole Earth into three great parts, viz. Europe, Asia, and Africa: to which is now added a fourth, viz. America: These are again divided into Provinces, Countries, Kingdoms, &c. And each of thefe are again subdivided into Earldoms, Baronies, Lordships, &c. These three kinds or parts make up the perfect Subject of Geography.

Again, every part and place of the Earth is considered in its felf, or according to its Adjuncts, and so it is either Continent or Island.

A Continent is a great quantity of Land, in which many great Kingdoms and Countries are conjoined together, and not separated one from another by any Sea, as Europe, Asia, &c.

An Island is a part of the Earth compassed and environed round about with Water, as Great Britain and Ireland.

These are again observable parts, both of Continents and Illands, viz.

Perinfula, Ithmus, Promontorium.

Peninsula quasi pene Insula, is a part of Land, which being almost environed and encompassed round with Water, is yet joined to the firm I and by some little Isthmus, as Africa is joined to Asia, or Morea to Greece, by the Greeks called Chersone [us.

An Isthmus is a narrow neck of Land betwixt two Seas, joining the Peninsula to the Continent, as that of Darien in America, or Corinth in Greece.

A Promontory is a high Hill or Mountain, lying out as an elbow of Land into the Sea, the utmost end of which is called a Cape, as the Cape of Good-Hope, and Cape Verd.

The Adjuncts of a place are either such as respect the Earth it self, or the Heavens: Those that agree to a place in respect of the Earth, are three in number, viz. the Magnitude or Extent of a Country, the Bounds or Limits, the Quality.

The Magnitude comprehends the length and breadth of a place. The Bounds of a Country is a Line terminating it round about, distinguishing it from the bordering Lands or Waters.

The Quality of a place is the Natural Temper and Disposition thereof.

A place in regard of the Heavens, is either East, West, North, or South.

Those places are properly East which lye in the Eastern Hemisphere. (terminated by the first Meridian) or where the Sun rifeth.

Those are West which lye Western of the said Meridian, or towards the fetting of the Sun.

Those places are properly North which lie betwixt the Equator and Artick-Pole.

Those South which are betwixt the Equator and the Antartick Pole. The Ancients did also distinguish the Inhabitants of the Earth from the diversities of shadows of Bodies into three forts; viz. Periscii, Heteroscii; and Amphiscii: The Inhabitants of the Frigid Zone (if any such are) were termed Periscii, because the shadow of Bodies have there a Circular motion in 24 hours, the Sun neither rising nor setting but in a greater portion of time.

The Inhabitants of the Temperate Zones they called Heteroscii, because the Meridian Shadows bend towards either Pole, towards the North among those that dwell within the Tropick of Cancer and the Artick Circle; towards the South amongst those that dwell within the Tropick of Capricorn and the Antartick Circle.

The Inhabitants of the Torrid Zone they called Amphiscii, because the Noon or Mid-day Shadow, according to the time of Year, doth fometimes fall toward the North, fometimes towards the South: when the Sun is in the Northern Signs, it falleth towards the South: and towards the North, when in the Southern Signs. And because of the different fight of opposite Habitations, the Ancients have divided the Inhabitants of the Earth into Periæci, Antæci, and Antipodes.

The Periaci are such as live under the same Parallel, being equally distant from the Equator, but in opposite points of the same Parallel.

The Antaci are such as have the same Meridian and Parallel, equally distant from the Equator, but the one North, and the other South.

The Antipodes are such as inhabit two places of the Earth which are diametrically opposite one to the other. See Fig. 4.

The Ancients did also divide the Earth into Climates and Parallels. A Climate is a space of Earth comprehended betwixt any two places, whose longest day differs in quantity half an hour.

A Parallel is a space of Earth wherein the days increase in length a quarter of an hour: so that every Climate contains two Parallels.

These Climates and Parallels are not of equal quantity, for the first is longer than the second, and the second likewise greater than the third, &c. At the Latitude, where the longest days are increased half an hour longer than at the Equator, viz. longer than 12 hours. The first Climate begins, which is at the Latitude of 8 degrees, 24 minutes; and in the Latitude of 16 degrees, 43 minutes, where the days are increafed an hour longer than at the Equator. The second Climate begins, and so outwards. But because the Ancients, and also Ptolomy, supposed that part of the Earth which lies under the Equator to be inhabitable. therefore they placed the first Climate at the Latitude of 12 degrees. 42 minutes, where the longest day is 12 hours & long; and the second Climate to begin at the Latitude of 20 degrees, 34 minutes, where the longest day is 12 hours and 1 long; oc. Tis needless indeed to take any more notice of them, than thus much only; that they that describe the Scituation of places by Climes and Parallels, had as good fay nothing.

The Terraqueous Globe is but an Imaginary point compared to the vast expansion of the Universe, though of it self of great Magnitude; for Geographers divide it into 360 parts of degrees, and each degree into 60 minutes, which are so many Italian Miles; so that the Circumference thereof is 21600 miles, and the Diameter, or Axis, is 6875 miles, and its Superficies in square miles, is reckoned to amount to 148510584

Tis a common Opinion, that 5 of our English feet make a Geometrical pace, 1000 of these paces make an Italian mile, and 60 of these miles in any great Circle upon the Spherical surface of the Earth, or Sea, make a degree; so that a degree of the Heavens contains upon the surface of the Earth, according to this account, 60 Italian miles, 20 French or Dutch Leagues, 15 German miles, 17 & Spanish Leagues, and 56 & English miles.

But according to several Experiments made, the quantity of a degree is thus variously found to be: By Albazard an Arabian, 333333 Arabian feet in one degree, which reduced to our English measure is 367283 f., or 70 miles, and 2868 parts of a foot. By Ptolomy 360000 Rbynland feet, which reduced to our English feet is 371900, or 70 miles 120 By Wilbrodus Snellius, An. 1613. 342000 Rbynland feet, in English 353306 feet, or 67 miles fere. By Norwood in his Experiment between York and London, finds one degree upon the Earth to contain 367200 feet, which makes 691. By Picar a Frenchman, about 73 Italian miles, and is the nearest measure yet found by these Experiments to answer to a degree of the Heavens; so that the circumference of the Earth then is 25020 miles, the Diameter

7958 in English miles.

I shall here note, That no Country doth in all parts of its Territories make use of the same extent in measuring: The Germans have their great, little, and ordinary miles; the Leagues of France and Spain are of different lengths, and so are the miles in our own Country.

The Earth (as was said before) is encompassed about with the Water, which washing and surrounding the dry Land, cuts out and shapes so many winding Bays, Creeks, and Meandring Inlets; and seems nowhere so much confined and penned as in the Straits of Magellan, from whence again expatiating, it spreads its self into two immense, and almost boundless Oceans, which give Terminaries to the four regions of the Earth, and extending it self round them all, is but one continued Ocean.

The Water is either Ocean, Seas, Straits, Creeks, Lakes, or Rivers. The Ocean is a general Collection or Rendezvouz of all Waters.

The Sea is a part of the Ocean, and is either exterior, lying even to the shore, as the British or Arabian Seas; or interior, lying within the Land, to which you must pass through some Strait, as the Mediterranean, or Baltick Seas.

A Strait is a narrow part or Arm of the Ocean, lying betwixt two Shores and opening a way into the Sea, as the Straits of Gibralter, the Hellespont, &c.

A Creekis a small narrow part of the Sea that goeth up but a little way into the Land, otherwise called a Bay, a Station, or Road for Ships.

A Lake is that which continually retains and keeps Water in it, as the Lakes Nicurgua in America, and Zaire in Africa.

A River is a small Branch of the Sea flowing into the Land, courting the Banks whilst they their Arms display, to embrace her silver waves.

Sea: As it lies extended towards the East, it is called the Chinean Sea, from the adjacent Country of China: Towards the South 'tis called Oceanus Indicus, or the Indian Sea, because upon it lies the Indians: Where it touches the Coast of Perfin, it is called Mare Persicum: So also Mare Arabicum, from Arabia: Sotoward the West is the Ethiopian Sea. Then the Atlantick Ocean, from Atlas, a Mountain or Promontory in Africa; but more Westward near to America, it is called by the Spamiards, Mar del Nort; and on the other side of America, it is called Mar del Zur, or Mare Pacificum. Where it toucheth upon Spain, it is called Oceanus Hispanicus, by the English the Bay of Biscay: The Sea betwixt England and France is called the Channel; between England and Ireland the Irish Sea: Between England and Holland it is called by some the German, or rather the British Ocean: Beyond Scotland it is called Mare Caledomum; higher towards the North it is called the Hyperboream, or Frozen. Sea; more Eastward, upon the Coast of Tartary, the Tartarian Sea; or Scytbian Ocean, &CC.

The Names of the Inland Seas are, 1. The Baltick Sea, by the Dutch called the Oost Zee, by the Inhabitants Die Belt, lying between Denmark and Sweden, the chief Entrance whereof is called the Sound.

2. Pontus Euxinus, or the Black Sea; to which joins Meotis Palus, now Mar de Zabacke, on the North; and Mar Marmora on the South.

The third is the Caspian or Hyrcanian Sea. By the Persians, Kursom.

The fourth is the Arabian Gulf, Mare Erythaum, Mare Rubrum, or the Red Sea. Mer Rogue Gallis, Mare Rosso Italis.

The fifth is the Persian Gulf, or the Gulf de Eleatif, & de Bassora.

The fixth is Mare Mediterraneum, by the English the Straits, by the Spaniards, Mar de Levant; the beginning or entrance of it is called the Straits of Gibralter, rather Gibal-Tarif.

Now that all Places, Cities, Towns, Seas, Rivers, Lakes, &c. may be readily found out upon the Globe or Map, all Geographers do, or should place them according to their Longitude and Latitude; the use of which in the absolute sense is to make out the position of any Place in repect of the whole Globe, or to shew the Scituation and distance of one place from, and in respect of any other.

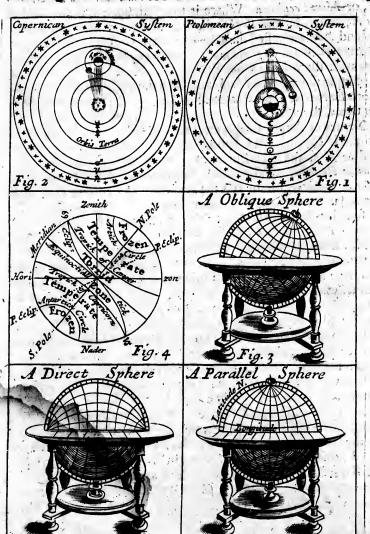

Longitude is the distance of a place from the first Meridian reckoned in the degrees of the Equator, beginning by some at the Canaries, by others at the Azores; by reason of which Confusion, I have made the Longitudes in this English Geography to begin from London, and are reckoned Eastward and Westward, according as they are situated from

Londo

London on the top of the Map. And have also added the Longitude from the Tenerif round about the Globe of the Earth at the bottom of the Map, as usually in the Dutch Maps, that so you may by inspection only, see the Truth or Error, if you compare them with the Tables or.

Maps formerly Extant.

The Latitude of a place is its distance from the Equator, reckoned in the degrees of the great Meridian, and is either North or South, according as it lies between the North and South Poles of the Equator.

Sousb,

A Lithough the Description of the Earth upon the Globe be most proper to the Understanding, and commensurable to Nature; yet there are several ways to project it in a Plane or Flat. Two especially are now in use, one by Parallelogram, the other by Planisphere.

Of the Description by Parallelogram.

This used to be divided into the midst by a Line drawn from North to South, representing the great Meridian; Cross to this at right Angles another Line was drawn from East to West for the Equator. The Meridians equally distant, and the Parallels also equally extended, and straight Lines; and this way of Projection, the utterly against the Original Nature and Constitution of the Globe, yet the plain Charts are bound to follow; indeed 'tis strange to me that this Sea-Chart, being one of the most principal Instruments that the Mariners have for their direction in Sailing, and known to be so greatly and dangerously erroneous, yet is still made use of by those that would be accounted Excellent.

Of the Description by the Planisphere.

This other way of Projection, represents the face of the Earth upon a Plane in its own proper figure Spherically, as upon the Globe, the Gibbosity only allowed for, and this is twofold.

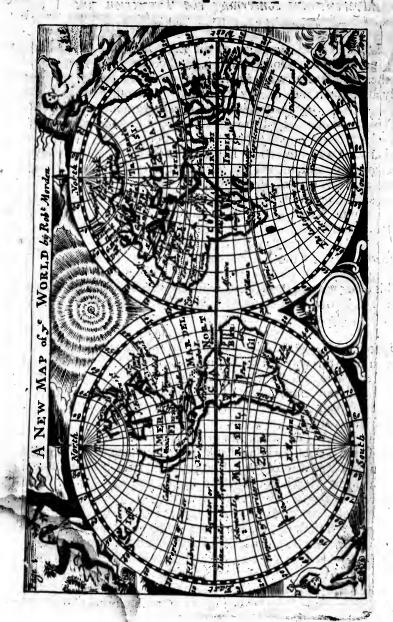

Of the Section by the Equator.

Suppose the Terrestrial Globe statted upon the Plane of the Equator, and you have this way of Projection, dividing the Earth into two Hemispheres, North and South, where the Pole is the Center, the Equator is the Circumference, the Oblique Semicircle from Aries to Libra is the North-half of the Ecliptick, the Parallels are whole Circles, and the Meridians are straight Lines.

Of the Section by the Meridian.

Suppose the Terrestrial Globe slatted upon the Plane of the Meridian, and you have this way of Projection; the Equator is here a straight Line, the great Meridian is a whole Circle, and the lesser Meridians are more Circular as they come near to the great, only that which passet through the midst of the Hemisphere, dividing it into two equal parts, is a straight Line; so that the Meridians do not equally in distance concur, the Parallels are not Parallels indeed, and the Degrees are unequal. However this way is that which is now most in fashion: it is described by those two great Circles that take up the following Map. The Projection and Delineation of these and other particular Maps will be more at large shewed in my Introduction to Astronomy and Geography, as aforesaid.

A General Map of the Earth.

Of Particular Maps.

Particular Maps are but Limbs of the Globe; and therefore, tho they are drawn afunder, yet they are to be made with that proportion, as a Remembring Eye may suddenly acknowledge, and joyn them to the whole Body.

They are most commonly described upon a Parallelogram; but it ought to be with such Consideration, that being but Parts and Members severed from the whole, they yet might make as great an Appearance of Integrity and Truth as can be allowed; and ought to consist of such proportions of Meridians and Parallels, as they truly consisted of in the Globe it self. And because no Country is exactly square, so much of the bordering Territories are usually put in, as may shew the Bounds, and fill up the square also.

The true Projection of Maps chiefly confifts or depends upon the fore-knowledge of the true Longitude and Latitude of places; which having been so Notorious False, 'tis strange to me how the Maps can be true. The Longitude is to be expressed by Meridians from East to West. The Latitude by Parallels from North to South: both which may be Circles or straight Lines. I have so projected all these Maps, that the Top and Bottom of the fquare are always North and South, the right and left fides East and West; so that you see each Country and place in its true Scituation, as in the Globe or general Map; And have made the Parallels and Meridians both straight Lines, so that the Longitude and Latitude are given by Inspection, only the Meridians are inclining and concurring towards the Poles, to agree to the Nature of the whole, whereof they are such parts. And here give me leave to advertise, That altho in these small Maps the Error is not very discernable; yet certainly some Foreign Geographers, whose Maps are now the Fondlings of this Age, did not understand the Projection of the Sphere: for to me it would have been a great shame to have exposed the parts of the World for large, upon fo falle a Basis; which must needs render them intolerably false in the Distances of Places, had the Longitudes and Latitudes been never so well adjusted; which indeed are as false as the Distances are.

As to the Graduation of these Maps, the Degrees of Latitude are divided upon the East and West side: The Degrees of Longitude upon the North and South. The South Figures upon the Maps are the Longitudes from the first Meridian, beginning at the Pike of Teneriss, and reckoned round upon the Globe to 360 Degrees. The Northern Figures are the Difference of Longitudes from London, and are reckoned East or West, according as the Scituation of the place is East or West from London.

For from whence to recken the Longitude in all Maps, is a fault of most Geographers; and I am not the first that have complained of it; for though there be a Graduation, yet you are uncertain where their first Meridian begins

It will not therefore be amis, if I tell you the several Meridians obferyed, and the Distance of Longitude between these Meridians, and their difference from London, viz. Prolomy's Meridian was Junonia Major. Prin. Heras, & Helii, Prol. Madera, teste Nigro & Ortelio; rather Forteventure, teste Band. Histonia, Sansone. This Junonia was from London 20 degr,

The Meridian of the Arabian Geographer is something dubious; for Herculis Columna is a Town in Frisa, between Groeningen and Coverden, called Duvelfcutz, teste Ortelio. The Spaniards tell us they are in the Hes Gaditana, now Cales or Cadix, where are two Towers so called, Columnas de Hercoles. Others make the two Mountains Abila and Calpe, on both sides of the Herculeum Fretum, now Estrechio de Gibralter, to be the Pillars of Hercules. That of Abila is in Mauritania, now Mons Almina, teste Chisto, Mont des Singes, Gallis. Scheminckelbergh, Belgis. Calpe Mons, now Gibralter, Clufto. is a Mountain and City in Spain, overagainst Abile, and about 18 miles distant; now near to, if not the Same with Centa or Zenta; Latinis, Septa; Grecis, Septon; Mauris, Beni Maras, teste Marmolie: But forasmuch as it was but 10 Degrees from London, and that it passed by the utmost Point of the Western Shore, it must rather be from Herculeum Promontorium, (not Hartland Point in Devenshire) but Cabo Cantin in Morocco, which is from London about 10 Degrees.

The Dutch Meridian is the Pike of Teneriff, the Nivaria Plin. teste Sanson. But by the Bishops of Girone and Andrea Bacio, Gomera is the ancient Nivaria. However, the Pike is the most noted place, and indeed the best, if all were well agreed, for the first Meridian, and according to the best Observations that have been made, it is from London 18

Degrees.

Isola del Ferro, (the Pluitalia Ptol. the Pluvialia, Plin. teste Andrea Bacchio. But Niger tells us Gomera is the Pluvitalia of old) now L'Isle de Fee, Gallis; Isla de Hierro, Hispanis; the French Meridian, and is distant from London 20 Degrees.

Corve and Flores, the Meridian of many Writers and Map-makers, is from London 33 Degrees. St. Michael, the Meridian of our English Globes, is about 27.

Pico, the Meridian of Dudlam Sea-Charts, is 31 Degrees.

That of Graciosa, the English Hydrographer, is about 30 Degrees.

By this Table you may easily know from wheace most Geographers begin their Longitudes; and also know how near to truth, by adding or Substracting the proper Numbers in the Table, to or from the Number found in their Maps.

As to the Scale in particular Maps, it dependeth upon the Degrees. of a great Circle, and the proportion of Miles in each Countrey to fuch a Degree, which I have discoursed of in Page 2. to which I refer you; only take notice, That therefore I have made no Scales to the Maps; for the Distance of any two placestaken with your Compasses, and applied either to the East or West-side of your Map, which is the Scale of Latitude, gives you the Number of Degrees that those twoplaces are distant one from the other, which multiplied by 73, gives you the Number of Geometrical or Italian Miles; by 69 for English Statute Miles; by 25 for French common Leives; by 17 ; for the Spanish Miles; by 15 for the common German, Dutch, Denmark, and Great Poland Miles; by 10 for Hungarian Miles; by 12 for Swedish Miles; by 80 for the Muscovian Verstes or Vorest; by 480 for the Grecian Stadia, or 450, according to Mr. Greaves; by 20 for the Persian, Arabian, and Egyptian Parasanga, now called Farsach; by 24 for the Mogul or Indian Cos, according to Sanson; by 250 for the Chinean Stades; by 400 for the Ikins of Fapar; as for the Turks, they have no distinction of their Ways by Miles, for Days by Hours.

UROP E, one of the four great Parts of the World, is also the most considerable in respect of the Beauty of her Kingdoms and Commonwealths, the Politeness of her Inhabitants, the Excellent Government of her Cities; as also in regard of its Excellency in her Traffick and Commerce, the goodness of her Air, and general Fertility. It is the least Part of all, yet has produced the great Alexanders and Casars of the Universe; contains within its Bounds the principal part of the Roman and Grecian Monarchies; and, which in (which to this day furnisheth the other parts of the World with Colonies. Its Scituation is all in the Northern Temperate Zone, which free the Inhabitants from the insupportable Heats of Africk, and from those which also parch the more Southern Climes of Asia: The Air is generally sweet and temperate, unless in the remotest Countries of the North: The Soil affords all forts of Grain and Fruit, of which the other parts of the World are often in want: But her highest Glory and Prerogative is, that she is not only Europe, but Christendom, and hath imbraced the true Religion. But alas! the strange Schisms, the shameful Vices, the lamentable diffentions, the unchristian divisions about Ceremonies and Opinions; are fatal Eclipses of her brightness and splendor, who otherwise might justly have been stiled. The Temple of Religion: The Court of Policy and Government: The Academy of Learning: The Mistress of Arts and Sciences: The Magazine of Trade: The Nurse of Victorious and famous People: And the Paradice of humane telicity.

The length of Europe is variously set down by Geographers. Cliverius saith from the Cape of St. Vincent unto the mouth of the River Oby, is 900 German, or 3600 Italian miles: I find that the true distance cannot be more than 50 degrees, which multiplied by 73, for so many miles are found to be in a degree, makes 3650 Geometrical or Italian miles. Sanson's Map of Europe makes the distance to be 55 degrees, which multiplied by 73, makes 4015, which is 365 miles more than the greatest distance can be. But the Great New Atlas tells us, it is 71 degrees of the Equator, which multiplied by 73, makes 5183, which is but 1533 miles too large in the length of Europe.

Maginus tells us, that the distance from Lisbon to Constantinople is 600 German, or 2400 Italian miles. The true distance I find cannot be more than 32½, which multiplied by 73, makes 2352 miles. But Sanson's Map makes the Distance to be 36, which makes 276 miles too much.

Heylin tells us, that Europe is in length 2800 miles, in breadth 1200 miles; but from whence he begins, or what miles he means, the Reader cannot tell; fo that I think he had as good have faid nothing.

The Breadth by Cluverius from Cape Matrapan of the Morea, to the North Cape, is reckoned to be 550 German, or 2200 Italian miles. Maginus makes it to be almost 600 German, or 2400 Italian miles. The true distance or difference of Latitude is 35 degr. of the Equator, which multiplied by 73 makes 2555 miles. Sanson's Map makes it 38 degrees, which makes 2774 miles, which is 209 miles too much. But the great Atlas tells us, it contains about 44 degrees, which makes 3212 miles, 657 miles too large.

Towards the North, Europe is bounded by the Northern Ocean, otherwife called the Frozen Sea, by reason of the continual Ice which incommodes those Parts: Towards the West it is limited by the Western, or Atlantick Ocean; by the Mediterranean Sea toward the South; and beyond that Sea, by part of Africa. As for the Eastern Bounds, from the Mediterranean Sea to the North, they are thefe: The Archivelago, or White Sea, anciently called the Egean Sea. 2. The Streight of Gallipoli, or the Dardanelly otherwise called the Arm of St. George, and formerly the Hellespont, 2. By Mar di Marmora, formerly Mare Propontis. 4. By the Streight of Configntinop'e, or the Canal of Mar Mag. give, formerly the Thracian Bospharus. 5. By, the Black, or Mar Maggiore, formerly Pontus Euxinus. 6. By the Streight of Caffa, or Velpero, other wife the mouth of St. John, formerly the Cimmerian Bolphorus. 7. By Mare Limen, otherwise the Sea of Zabaigue and Tanais, formerly Palus Mastin 8. By the River Donn, or Tana, formerly Tanuis. 9. By a Line drawn from the most Eastern Wind ag of Donn to the Northern Geean near Ob: Some there are that draw this Line more to the West, from. the Sources of Donn to the White Sea, which is in Moscowy, making Europe much less than it is. Others inclose within the Limits of Europe all the Conquest of the Great Duke of Muscowy, which are in the Aliatick Tartary.

Europe is divided into Continent and Islands, which contain thele-Kingdoms or Estates, viz. Towards the North, the Isles of Great Britain, containing the Kingdoms of England, Scotland, and Ireland, the Principality of Wales, with many Islands dependant upon them.

2 dly, Scandinavia, containing the Kingdoms of 1. Denmark, with Norway, and Sweden. 2 dly. The feveral Kingdoms, Dutchies, &c. of the Grand Czar of Russia and Mascovia. 3. The Kingdom, Estates, &c. of Poland and Lithuania.

Towards the Middle, 1. The Northern Estates of Turky in Europe, viz. 1. Tartatia Europa, Walachia, Moldavia, Transilvania, and Hungaria:
2. The Empire of German, with its eight Electorates. 2. The Estates of the Republick of Switzerland. The Seven United Provinces. The Ten Spanish Provinces. 4. The Kingdoms of France, with its Twelve Governments, and late Acquisitions.

Towards the South: 1. The Kingdoms and Principalities of Spain:
2. The Kingdom of Portugal. The Kingdoms and Estates in Italy. The Estates and Dukedom of Savon, Piedmont, &c. The Kingdoms and Isles of Sicily, Sardinia, and Majorea, &c. The Southern Estates of Turky in Europe, viz. Solavonia, Croatia, Dalmatia, Ragusa, Bosnia, Servia, Bulgaria. The Countrey of Greece, containing the Kingdoms and parts of Romania, or Thracia, Macedonia, Thessalia, Albania, Epirus and Gracia,

The Islands of Europe are seated, either in the Ocean, the Mediterranean, or Baltick Seas. The Islands lying in the Ocean, are, the British Islands in the Mediterranean. The Islands of the Baltick Sea we shall speak of in the Description of Denmark.

England, France, Spain, Portugal, Swedeland, Denmark, and Poland. That of France is most perfect, and descends only to the Heirs male ever fince the Salique Law. The five other admit the Female. All are Hereditary, only Poland, which is Elective. There are moreover in Europe other leffer Kingdoms comprehended under these, as those of Bobemia and Hungary, under the Emperor of Germany. That of Navarr under the King of France. That of Naples in Italy, Sicily, Sardinia, and Majorca, under the Crown of Spain. And those of Scotland and Ireland under the King of England. 4. Eight Electorates, Mayence, Treves, Cologn, Bohemia, Bavaria, Saxony, Brandenburgh, and the Palarinate of the Rhine. 5. One Arch-Duke, the Duke of Austria. 6. Two Great Dukes, of Moscowy and Tuscany. The Prince of the first assumes the Title of Emperor, and indeed it is a Dukedom on which depends thirty other Dutchies, and three Kingdoms. This Duke is abfolute over his Subjects, and is called by the general Name of Czar. 7. Six Sovereign Dukedoms, besides those that are under the Empire, Savoy, Lorrain, Mantua, Modena, Parma, and Curland. 8. Four Principalities that depend upon the Turks, Transilvania, Walachia, Moldavia, and the leffer Tartary. 9. Seven Commonwealths, the Seven United Provinces, Switzerland, Venice, Genoa, Geneva, Luca, and Ragula. To which some add the Commonwealth of Marine in Italy. Lastly, A great number of Principalities and Imperial Free Towns, enjoying a Soveraignty in their Territories, but yet they acknowledg a Superior Power.

The Ecclesiastical Government of Europe in general, is either Papal, owning the Pope as Supreme; or Episcopal, owning the King as Supreme in all cases, and Archbishops and Bishops under him. Or Superintendent, which is a kind of Episcopal among the Lutberans, but yet owning no Head of the Church on Earth, neither Pope nor King, nor Civil Magistrate. There is also the Presbyterian, or Synodical, owning a Presbytery, a Synod, or Lay-Elders, &c. as Supreme, but no Bishops or Superintendents.

There are four Principal Languages reckon'd to be spoken in this part of the World; Tutonick, Latin, Greek, and Sclavonian. The Tutonick is of three sorts, High Dutch in Germany, Saxon in England and Scotland, Danish in Denmark, Sweden, Norway and Ireland. The Latin is corrupted into Italian, French, and Spanish. The Greek had formerly sour Dialects the Attick, Ionick, Dorick, and Eolick. The Sclavonian Language runs through all Sclavonia, Bohemia, Poland and Moscovy, and all the Turkish Empire in Europe. There are also several other Languages of less Note, which are used in Furope: The Albanian, or Epirotick in Epirus and Macedonia. The Cosack or Tartarian in part of Poland and Tartary. The Hungarian or Bulgarian in Servia, Bosnia, Bulgaria, and Hungary, &c. the Finick in Finmark and Lapland, Irish in Ireland and Scotland. The British is spoken in Wales, Cornwal, and in Britany in France. Biscayn is spoken only in Biscany near to the Cantabrian Ocean, or Bay of Biscay.

Of the British Isles.

NDER this Title are comprehended feveral distinct and famous Islands, the whole Dominion whereof (now United) is under the Command of the King of Great Britain, &c. Bounded on the North and West with the Hyperborean and Ducalidonean Ocean; on the South divided from France with the English Channel; on the East separated from Denmark and Belgia with the British (by some called the German) Ocean: But on all fides environed with Turbulent Seas, guarded with Dangerous Rocks and Sands, defended with strong Forts, and walled with a Potent and Royal Navy. Of these Islands one is very large, formerly called Albion, now Great Britain, comprehending two Kingdoms, England and Scotland: The other of lesser extent makes one Kingdom, called Ireland: The other smaller adjacent Isles are comprehended under one or other of these three Kingdoms, according to the Situation and Congruity with them. Many are the Changes and Alterations that these Islands have received in their Governments fince their Original discovery: they were first possessed by divers People, independent one upon the other, supposed to be the Britains descended from the Gauls; for at the Entrance of the Romans, the Island of Great Britain was divided into several Nations, each governed by his own King and particular Princes, different in their Ends and Counsels, and so the more easily subdued by the Roman Force.

After the Romans, the English Saxons were called in by the Britains, to aid them against the Piets. The Inhabitants of Scotland (who, after the common manner of Foreign Auxiliaries, soon seized the better part for themselves, and established Seven Kingdoms, commonly called the Saxon Heptarchy) Foreing the Britains, the Ancient Proprietors, to retire, some into Britain in France (from whence some think they first came) but most of them into the Western and Mountainous Part, called by the Saxons, Walish Land, now Wales; where their Posterity still remains.

After this the Danes broke in, like a violent flood upon the Northumbers; and though often vanquilled, yet being as often victorious, they at last seized on the Monareby of England, which was sometimes held by the Danes, sometimes by the Saxons; till William Duke of Normandy took it from Harold, and established the Monareby; which hath ever since continued in a Succession of Eight and twenty Princes, down to our Present Gracious Soveraign King William.

together with Scotland, as was said before, called Great Britain, and sometimes Albion) was by Egbert the 18th King of the West Saxons advanced to the Honour of an intire Monarchy, who having with prosperous Arms subdued the principal Kingdoms of the Saxon Nepturchy, stiled himself the first Monarch; and Commanded this South Part of Britain should be called Angle, or Engle-lond, from the Angles a People of the lower Saxons, of whom he was descended; by the French, Angleterre; by the Germans, Englands; and by the Inhabitants, England.

It is in length (from Berwick in the North, to the Isle of Wight in the South) 350 Miles; and from Dower in the East, to the Lands-End in Cornwall in the West, about 315 of the same Miles; whereof 70 make a Degree: In Compass about 1300 Miles; in Shape, Triangular;, and by omputation contains about 30 Millions of Acres, being about the Thousandth part of the Globe; and the Three hundred thirty third England was, in the time of the Romans, divided into Britania Prima, Britania Secunda, and Maxima Casariensis; the first of these contained the South part of England, the second all the Western part, now called Wales; and the third, the Northern parts beyond Trent. After the Britains had received the Christian Faith, they divided the same into three Provinces, or Archbishopricks, viz. of London, which contained that of Britania Prima; of York, which contained that of Maxima Casariensis; of Caerlion, under which was Britania Secunda: Divided afterwards by the Saxons into Seven Kingdoms, as aforesaid.

At present, England, according to its Respect of Church and State, is subject to a fourfold division: First into two Provinces, or Archbishop-ricks, Canterbury and York; and under these are 22 Bishops, or Episcopal Diocesses, of which Canterbury hath 21, therefore called the Primate and Metropolitan of all England; and that of York, three: Then there are Deanries 60, Arch-Deanries, Prebendaries, and other Dignities, 544, with 9725 Parochial Benefices, and Vicaridges besides, of good Competency for the Encouragement of the Clergy, who, for ability of Learning are not to be parallel'd in the World.

The second Division was by King Henry the Second into six Circuits, appointed to the Itinerary Judges; who are twice in a year in the chief Town of each County in their respective Circuit, to determine Causes, and administer Justice for the Ease of the People.

The third is the Military Division, for the raising of Horse and Foot for the King's Service; It is also divided by the King's Justices in Eyre of the Forest; and by the King of Arms into North and South of Trent.

The last Division is that of Shires or Counties, first ordained by King Alfred, which are subdivided into Hundreds or Wapentakes, and those again into Tythings. He also appointed a Vice-compt or Sheriff, whose Office was to look after the Peace and Welfare of the Shire: To Execute the Kings Writs and Precepts, and perform several other duties necessary for the Execution of Justice, and Welfare of the People: And these Sheriffs are generally chosen out of the chiefest of the Gentry. King Edward the Third ordained in every Shire certain Civil Magistrates, intitled Justices of the Peace, whose Duties are to look after the Disorders that arise in the Shire or Hundred in which they reside, and to punish Offenders.

There are in all England 25 Cities, 680 Great Towns, called Market-Towns; 9725 Parishes, and in many of which are contained several Hamlets or Villages as big as ordinary Parishes.

England is bleft with a fweet and temperate Air, the Cold in Winter being less Sharp than in some parts of France and Italy, which yet are seated far more Southerly; And the heat in Summer is less scorching than in some parts of the Continent that lie much more Northward.

For as in Summer, the gentle Winds, and frequent Showers, qualifie all violent Heats and Droughts; so in Winter the Frosts do only meliorate the Cultivated Soil, and the Snow keeps warm the tender Plants.

The whole Country is exceeding Fertile, abounding with all forts of Grain, Rich in Pasture, containing innumerable quantities of Cattel, yielding great plenty of all forts of Fowl, Wild and Tame; Its Seas and Rivers infinitely stored with all variety of excellent Fish: In its Bowels are found Rich Mines of Lead, Tin, Iron, Copper and Coal, as useful as advantageous to the Nation; Nor doth it want Mines of Silver, thorare, and but in small quantities: It hath excellent Hot Baths, and divers Medicinal Springs: It is bravely surnished with Variety of pleasant Orehards and Gardens, luxuriant with all sorts of excellent Fruits, Plants and Flowers.

The English are Governed by several Laws, viz. Common Law, Statute Law, Civil Law, Canon Law, and Martial Law; besides particular Customs and By-Laws.

The Comman Law of England is a Collection of the General Common Customs and Usages of the Kingdom, which have by length of time and immemorial Prescription, obtained the force of Laws; for Customs bind not the People till they have been tried and approved time out of mind. These Laws were first reduced all into one body by King Edward the Elder, about the year 900; revived by King Edward the Confessor; William the Conqueror added some of the Customs of Normandy; since which Edward the First did settle divers fundamental Laws, ever since practised in this Nation.

Where the Common Law is silent, there we have excellent Statute-Laws made by the several Kings of England, by and with the Advice and Consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons of England, by their Representatives the Knights, Citizens and Burgesses duly Elected in Parliament.

Where Common and Statute-Law take no Cognizance, As in matters transacted beyond the Seas, and relating to the Admiralty, &c. use is made of the Civil Law, which ought to be the Product of the Common Reason and Wisdom of all Mankind, and fitted for the Interest and Welfare not only of one Nation, but taking Care for the general Affairs of all People.

The Canon-Law is the many ancient General Councils of National and Provincial Synods, the divers Decrees and Judgments of the Ancient Fathers, &c. received by the Church of England; by which she proceeds in her Jurisdictions; as chiefly for the Reforming of the inward man, and matters accounted of a spiritual Nature, as Cases Matrimonial, Testamentary, Scandals, Offences against good Manners, &c.

Forest-Laws are, for regulating Offences committed in, or relating unto some Forest or Chase, for preservation of the Game, &c.

Martial Law extends only to Soldiers and Mariners, and is not to be practifed in times of Peace, but only in War, and then and there, where the King's Army is afoot.

The Doctrine of the Church of England is Apostolical, contained either in express words of the Holy Scripture, or in the 39 Articles, and the Book of Homilies in all things agreeable thereunto; the Worship and Dscipline is in the Liturgy and Book of Canons: By all which it will appear to impartial eyes, that the Church of England is the most exact and perfect Pattern of all the Reformed Churches in the World. Let Italy glory in this, that she is the Garden of the Earth; it may truly be said of England, that it is the Court and Presence-Chamber of the Great Jebovah; which should engage us the more by Holy Livesto walk suitable to such Mercies, and not to forfeit those inestimable Priviledges by our crying.

crying fins; for how can we expect that God should always continue so gracious to us, if we continually turn his Grace into Wantonness?

England is a Free, Hereditary, Paternal Monarchy, Governed by one Supreme, Independent and Undeposable Head, according to the known Laws and Customs of the Kingdom; A Monarchy, that without Interruption hath been continued 1000 years; in a word, a Government of a perfect and happy composition, wherein the King hath his full Prerogative, the Nobility and Gentry Civil and due Respect; and the People in general, Masters of the Estates they can get by their Labours and Endeavours; a Blessing that sew Countries can boast of: Ohappy and blessed England! Thy Valleys are like Eden, Thy Hills like Lebanon, Thy Springs as Shiloe, and thy Rivers as Jordan; a Paradise of Pleasure, and the Garden of God, enriched with all the Blessings of Heaven and Earth.

Her chief Cities are London, Londinium of Ptolomy, Ant. & Tac. Lunden Ger. Londra, Ita. Londres Gal. the Epitome of England, the Seat of our British Empire, the Chamber of the King, and the chiefest Emporium (or seat of Traffick) in the world: To describe all things in this City worthy to be known, would take up a whole Volume. I shall only say, seated she is in an Excellent Air, in a Fertile Soil, and on the samous Navigable River Thames, about 60 miles from the Sea, in 51 deg. 30 min. North Latitude.

In Length from East to West seven English miles and a half; and from North to South two miles and a half: But of late years so increased and still multiplying in Building in all her parts, that there can no Bounds or Limits be set to her Circumference. The Buildings fair and stately; for large Piazza's, for spacious straight Streets and stately Uniform Building, she has not any Rival in Europe.

It had 130 Parish-Churches, besides Chappels; the Mother-Church is that of St Paul, the only Cathedral of that Name in Europe: It was a Structure for length 690 foot; in breath 130, in height 102 foot; and contained about three Acres and a half of Ground: Built in the form of a perfect Cross, in the midst whereof was raised a Tower of Stone 260 foot high; and on that a Spire of Timber, covered with Lead, 260 foot more. This stately Monument of England, and Glory of the City of London, was Ruined by the late Dreadful Conslagration in 1666. Yet since, our late Gracious Sovereign, Charles the Second, like another Solomon, laid a New Foundation of such a Fabrick, as for Magnificence, Splendor, Figure, and Excellent Architecture, the World never saw the like: The Model whereof was Designed by that Incomparable Architect, Sir Christopher Wren.

And

And here I cannot but give a short Account of the vast Damage and Spoil done by the forementioned Fire: It hath been computed that there were burnt within the Walls of the City 12000 Houses, and without 1000; Valued at three Millions and nine hundred thousand pounds Sterling.

Besides 87 Parish-Churches, the aforementioned Cathedral, the Royal Exchange, the Magniscent Guild-Hall, the Custom-House, the many Halls of Companies, the Gates, with other Publick Buildings, valued at two Millions. The Warehouses, Stuffs, Money, and Goods lost and spoiled, were estimated to two Millions of pounds. The Money spent in Removing of Goods, and Wares, in the Hire of Carts, Boats, Porters, &c. modestly computed at the least two hundred thousand pounds: The whole damage amounting at the least to Nine Millions, nine hundred thousand pounds. And what is most Remarkable, that notwithstanding these excessive Losses by Fire, the Dovouring Pestilence but the Year before, and the Chargeable War against three Potent Nations at the same time depending, yet within four or five Years the City was Rebuilt, divers stately Halls and Churches erected; all infinitely more Beautiful, more Commodious, and more Solid than before; for which all praise and glory be given to God by us and Posterity.

The vast Traffick and Commerce of this City may be guessed at by its Customs; which, tho moderate, compared with the Impositions of other Countries. did formerly amount to about 300000 l. per Annum, and now are increased by report to a much greater value.

Time would fail me here, to speak of its Antiquity, Stately Palaces, Streets, Exchanges, Number of Inhabitants, Trade, and Government; of its well-fortified Tower (the Grand Arsenal of the Kingdom:) Its incomparable Bridge, Publick Colledges, Schools, Hospitals, Workhouses, &c. I shall therefore only add, London is a huge Magazine of Men, Money, Ships, and all sorts of Commodities; the Mighty Rendezwous of Nobility, Gentry, Courtiers, Divines, Lawyers, Physicians, Ladies, Merchants, Seamen, and all kind of Excellent Artificers, of the most Refined Wits, and the most Excellent Beauties in the World.

In the beautiful Body of the Kingdom of England, the two Eyes are the two Universities; those Renowned Nurseries of Learning and Religion, which for number of Magnificent and Richly-Endowed Colleges, for liberal Stipends to all forts of Publick Professors, for number of well-furnished Libraries, for Number and Quality of Students, exact Discipline and Order, are not to be parallel'd in the whole World.

So famous beyond the Seas, and so much surpassing all other in Foreign Parts, that they deserve a far worthier Pen than mine to Blazon their Excellency. I shall therefore only say, that nothing was ever devised more singularly advantagious to God's Church and man's Happiness, than these Universities; from whence men of Excellent Parts, after sea-sonable time in Study, are called forth to serve both in Church and State.

York, Eboracum Ant. Eburacum Ptol. Caerfrock vet Caer-Efroc Brit. is a City of great Antiquity, esteemed the second of England; Famous for its Cathedral, for the Birth-place of Constantine the Great, and the Burial-place of Severas the Emperor; it is the Title of the King's second Son, and an Archbishoprick.

Canterbury, Durovernum, Darvenum Ant. & Ptol. Durovernia Beda, is remarkable for being the Seat of an Archbishop, who is Primate of all England.

Bristol, Bristolium, Famous for its Trade and Commerce, and for its Scituation in two Counties.

Norwich, Norvicum, for its Industry in Woollen Manusactures.

Salisbury, Sarum, for its rare Cathedral, wherein there are as many Doors as Months, as many Windows as Days, and as many Pillars as Hours in the Year.

Windsor, Windesora, pleasantly seated on the side of the Thames, and is samous for its stately Castle, and Royal Palace of His Majesty.

Glocester is the Title of the Third Son of Great Britain, seated upon the Severn, near the Isle Aldney, where was fought the Combat between Edmund Ironside, King of the English Saxons, and Canutus the Dane.

I had purposed to have given a more particular description of all the rest of the principal Cities in England, but must deser it for a Treatise of England, wherein each County is drawn for a Pocket-Volume after a more new and compendious way than ever yet extant; I shall therefore here say no more of England.

Of Wales.

ment with England; Inhabited by the Posterity of the Ancient Britains, who being driven out of the rest of the Land by theintruding Saxons, whom they sent for over to assist them against the Incursions of the Scots and Picts, sheltered themselves in those Mountainous parts, and to this day retain their Primitive Language, which hath the least mixture of Exotick words of any now used in Europe, but by reason of its many Consonants is less pleasing to the East: The People are Faithful, and very loving to one another in a strange Country, and to strangers in their own. Their Gentry brave and Hospital, but generally subject to Choler, suddenly moved to Anger, and as quickly pacified; and value themselves very much upon their Pedigrees and Families. The Eldest Son and Heir Apparent of our Kings of England is always qualisted, during the Life of his Father, with the Title of Prince of Wales.

'Tis bounded on all fides by the Sea, except towards England, from which it was once separated by a great Ditch called Offa's Dike, in many places yet to be seen, which Dike began from the Inslux of the River Wye, in the Severn, and reached unto Chester, about 85 Miles. Most Writers tell us 'tis now divided by the River Dee, and a Line drawn to the River Wye. But Monmouth being taken from it, and added to England, its present Limits are the River Dee, and a Line drawn to the small River Rumpney near Cardiff.

The Country is generally Mountainous, yet not without its fertile Vallies, which bear good Corn, and breedeth abundance of Cattel; which produce store of Butter and Cheese. Other Commodities are, Welsh Freezes, Cottons, Bays, Herrings White and Red, Hides, Calves-skins, Honey, Wax. Ishath Mines of Lead, Lead-Ore, Coals.

It is well flored with Quarries of Free-stones, and Milstones.

L. Contained three Kingdoms, viz. Gwineth, Venedotia, or North-Wales. Deheubarth, Demetia, or South-Wales. And Powisland, or Mathr. val.

'Tis now, according to an Act of Parliament in the Reign of King Henry the Eighth, severed into two parts, viz. North Wales and South-Wales; each of these contain six Counties, viz. in the North, Anglesey, Mona Tac. Caernarvon, Denhigh, Flint, Merioneth, and Montgomery. In the South, Brecknock, Gardigan, Carmarthen, Glamorgan, Pembroke, and Radnor. Whose chief Towns are,

Beaumarish al. Beaumorish. Bellomoriscus of old, the chief of Anglesey, seated upon the Menai River, sounded by King Edward the First.

Aberfran was the Royal Seat of the Kings of Gwineth, or North-Wales. And,

Holy-head, or Caergubi of the Welsh, a noted Promontory and passage into Ireland. In this Island was the ancient Seat of the Druids, Liansainan, a small Village, is famous for its Cave in the side of a Rock, known by the Name of Arthur's Round Table.

St. Asaph, Llan-Elwy Welsh. Fatt 1 . St. Asaphi, an ancient Episcopal See, founded by Kentigern a Scotch op of Glascow, in Anno 560.

Flint, which giveth Name to the County. Not far from Cajeruis is the famous Well of St. Winnifrid, in English, Holy-well, a place of great note, and much resorted unto for the Cure of several Diseases.

In this County of Flint are yet seen some Ruins of the Bonium of Ant. lying upon both sides of the Dee, turned afterwards into a Monastery, and named Bancornabury by Bede, and Banchor by Malmesbury; the sirst of the Britains, containing 2100 persons.

Harlech had a strong Castle mounted upon a steep Rock, but reduced to ruins; 'tisthe place of Assizes for Merionethshire, and the chief Market of the Mountaineers.

Bala, seated near Llin-tegid, or Pimblemeer, through which the Dee is said to run, and not to mingle with its Waters.

Montgomery, the Shire-Town, is so called from Roger of Montgomery, Earl of Shrewsbury in the Reign of the Conqueror.

Lanvetblin, or Llanvilling, is thought to be the Mediolanium of Ptolomy and Ant.

Trellin, or Welsh-pool, seated on the Severn, and in a rich Vale, is the greatest and best-buik Town in the County; and its Castle, called Powis-Castle, is a large and stately Building.

Machleneth, the Maglons of the Notitia.

Mathraval, the Seat sometimes of the Princes of Powis.

Knighton is a well-built Borough-Town. The West-part of this County of Radnor is very Rocky and Mountainous, the strong refuge of Vortigern King of the Britains, when pursued by the Saxons, and the fear and hate of his own Subjects.

Snowden-Hill was the safe retreat of Owen Glendor.

Cardigan, Aber 19vi Welsh. Cevetica Lat. seated on a Rock on the Bank of Tywy River near the Inslux into the Sea, is the Shire-Town, and governed by a Mayor.

Llan-beder hath a Market on Tuesdays. Aber-y-stwith seated at the mouth of the Rivers Ystwith and Ridol, descending from the foot of the Philimon Mountain, as doth also the Teme and Wye River.

Llanbadernvaur is a well-built Town, graced with a fair Church, formerly an Episcopal See, now the Pa. A.-Church of Aber-y-stwib.

Caermarden, the Maridunum of Ptolomy, upon the River Tovy, over which it hath a fair Stone-Bridg, and it is a Town-Corporate governed by a Mayor, two Sheriffs, and fixteen Burgesses, all clad in Scarlet, and is also samous for the Birth-place of Merlin the British Prophet. Higher, upon the top of a Hill under which runneth the Tovi, stood Dinevour Castle, the seat of the Prince of South-Wales.

Newcastle on the edge of Cardiganshire on the River Tyvi, thought to be the Coventinum of Ptolomy, but Lyn Savatan near Brecknock, is the Lo-ventinam, or Luentium Camb.

In Glamorganshire, the chief Towns are Landaff, Farum ad Tattam, seated on the River Tavy or Taff, having a large Cathedral, a Bishops See, otherwise scarce comparable to an indifferent Town, occasioned by its vicinity to Cardiff, the fairest Town in all South-Wales, Containing two Parishes, and one Church. A strong stately Castle. 'Tis governed by a Constable and twelve Aldermen, oc. Tis the place of the Assizes, and the best Market in the Countrey.

Neath, the Nidun of Ptolomy, is much frequented for Coals.

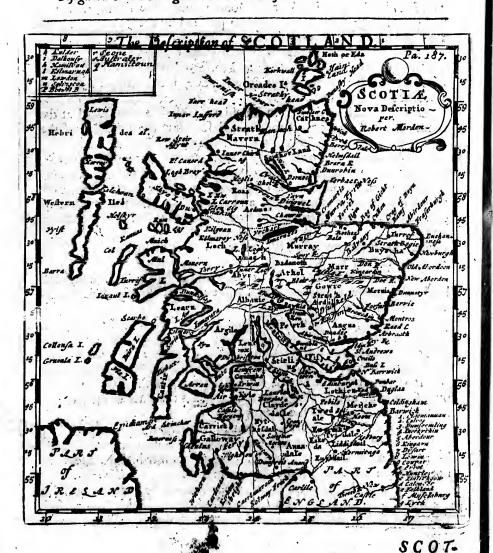

Swansey, or Abertaw, is an ancient Port-Reve Town, of a good Trade, by reason of its Coal-pits, and industry of its inhabitants. Boverton, not far from Cowbridge, is the Bovium of Ant.

Logbar upon the River so called, is the Leucarum of Ant.

Probroke, the chief Shire-Town, seated on Milford Haven, so large and capacious, that it may safely contain a 1000 sail of Ships, over which it hath two fair Bridges, a place of good strength, fortified with a Wall and a strong Castle seated on a Rock.

F 2 St. Davids

St. Davids, Menevia, & Fanum Davidis, once a City of good account, now only notable in that it is a Bishop's See, and a fair Cathedral. Haverfordwest is the Town where the Assizes are kept. Tenby is seated upon a Rock, having a commodious Road for Ships. Fishguard is the Abergwaine of the Welsh.

Solvay, and the Chevior Hills: The Ancient Inhabitants were the Britains, divided by Ptolomy into many leffer Names; by Dion and Xipplylinus into two only general, viz. the Calidonia and Meatæ: Afterwards called the Piëts towards the wain of the Roman Empire, from their Paintings; and for their better distinction from the civil and clothed Britains, distinguished by Am. Marcellinus into the Piëts Ducalidonia, and the Vecturiones: The Scots, a Colony of the bordering Irish intruding amongs, and conquering the Piëts, or Britains, all other Names worn out, the whole are now accounted Scots.

The length of Scotland I find fet down by Heylin, to be 480 Miles, but the breadth in no place more than 60 Miles; the truth of which will appear, if you consider the Latitude of Sol-way-Frith, near Carlifle, the most Southern part of Scotland; and Straitsby-bead, the most Northern; you will find the greatest length can be but 260 English Miles; and the breadth in the broadest place more than 160 Miles, as you will easily see by the Map.

Scotland, according to its Situation, may be divided by the River Tay into two parts, viz. North and South, commonly diffingushed by the Names of Highland, and Lowland. The first was the Ancient Kingdom of the Scots: The other the Old Habitation of the Piets. The People of the former are by Nature and Disposition rude and uncivil: The Inhabitants of the latter, in Disposition, Civility, Language, and Habit, are much resembling the English, and are thought to be Descended of the Saxons.

On the West part of Scotland are many Woods, Mountains, and Lakes: Towards the East it is more Fruitful in Corn, especially Barley and Oats: Their Fruits are not very Excellent, nor plentiful: but they have abundance of Fish and Fowl; not much Cattel, nor big. Their chief Commodities are, Coarse Clothes, Freezes, Fish, Lead, Oar, Feathers, Allows, Iron, Salt-Petre, Linnen-cloth, Train-Oyl, some Hides, and Tallow.

The Kingdom of Scotland confifts of the Nobility, Gentry, and Common: These with the Lords Spiritual Assemble together in Parliament, when called by Writ from the King of Great Britain; who, by reason of his Residence in England, constitutes and appoints a Vice-Roy to Act under him at the said Session of Parliament, called Lord Commissioner.

As to their Courts of Judicature, they have feveral: the Chief is the Seffion, or Colledge of Justice, confishing of a President, sourteen Senators, seven (seven of the Clergy, and as many of the Laity) whereunto is now added the Chancellor, who is chief; and four Lords of the Nobility: be-fides as many Advocates and Clerks as the Senators see convenient. These six and administer Justice every day, from nine to twelve, except Sundays and Mondays, from the first day of November to Christmas-Eve: and from the first day of January to the last of February; and from Trinity-Similar to the first day of August: But now by Act of Parliament the Summer-Sessions are taken away, and instead thereof they are to be kept in March.

This Court is of great state and order; the Clerks write all the Material Heads that are pleaded at the Bar. And after the parties are removed, the Senators consider the Arguments, and give Sentence, and the major part carries it. Their final Sentence or Decrees determines all business, there being no appeal, only to the Parliament, who may receive and repeal their decisive Sentence.

The next supream Court is the Justice-Court, where all Criminals are tried: it consists of a Lord Justice General, and of a Lord Justice Clark, who is his Assistant. This Order was changed, Anno 1669, and by Act of Parliament four Judges were appointed to sit in this Court with the Lord Justice General, & c. The Jury is made up of sisteen, the major part determines the matter. Besides this Court, there are in every Shire or County Inserior Civil Judicatories, or Courts kept, wherein the Sheriff of the Shire, or his Deputy, decideth Controversies and Law-Suits: but from these there are Appeals to the Sessions, or Higher Court of Equity. There are likewise Judicatories, called Commissarials, for Ecclesiastical Assists.

The Shires of Scotland are, viz. Edinburg, Rarwick, Peeblis, Selkirk, Roxburgh, Dumfreis, Wighton, Air, Renfrew, Lanrick, or Lanock, Dumbritton, or Dunbarton, Boot, Inner, Ara, Perth, Striveling, or Sterling, Linlithgow, Clackmanan, Kinros, Couper, & Fife, Forfar, Kinkardin, & Marischals, Aberdeen, Bamf & Errols, Elgin, Nairn, Innerness & Ross, Cromarty, Tayn, Dornock, Weik, Orkney. The Hebrides lying on the West-side thereof, and are 44 in Number: the chief whereof are, Illa, Jona, Mula, Lewis, &c. Plentiful of Wood, Corn, Salmons, Herrings, Conies, Deer, Sheep, in some with, in others without Owners.

2. The Orcades of Tac. or the Islands of Orkney, in Number 31, lying from the North and North-East point of Scotland: The greatest and chiefest Island is now called Mainland, formerly Pomonia, well stored with Lead and Tin, whose chief Town is Kirkwall, Fortified with two Castles, and dignified with the See of a Bishop: the Inhabitants commonly called Red-shanks.

3. Shotland Islands, or Schetland, the Thule, or Thyle of the Ancients, lying about 20 Leagues Northwards from the Orkney, bring many in Number: the chief of which is called Shotland, being about 60 miles in length: the Inhabitants are partly Scots, and partly a mixt People of Danes and Scots. Their Commodities are Ling and Cod.

Toward North Barwick, near the Shore, lieth Bas Island, which appears to be a high craggy Rock, and is remarkable for the great number of Soland-Geese, by some called Barnacles, and vulgarly thought to be ingendred by the Fruit of certain Trees droptinto the Water. But the Hollanders report, that the Barnacles-which they call Rot-Gause, are bred in the Northern parts, and that they couple together, lay and hatch their Eggs. And Gerard de Veev in his third Navigation to Greenland, affirms, that with his Companions they have driven them from their Nests, and taken and eaten of their Eggs.

Besides, Anatomy discovers in their Bodies, where the differences of Sexes do visibly appear, the Males having all the same parts as the common Drakes, and the Females having their Ovaria as other Birds.

Between the Islands of Orkney and Shotland lie two Islands; one called Fair-Hill, the other Fulo, about ten Leagues one from the other.

Thus much, in brief, as to the Situation, Length, Breadth, Division, Fertility, People, Government, Chief Towns, and Islands of Scotland.

G

Of Ireland.

HE first Inhabitants (to omit the Fables of the Irish Chronicles) upon probable Circumstances, were the Britans, together with the mixt Nations of the Goths, Gauls, Africans, &c. though most Geographers are of Opinion, that its first People came wholly out of Britain, being the nighest to it.

Ireland lieth betwixt the 51 and 56 degrees of Northern Latitude, or betwixt the middle parallel of the eighth Clime, where the longest day hath 16 hours and a half, and the 24th parallel, or end of the 10th

Clime, where the same hath 17 hours and a half.

The first Inhabitants, the Irish (for more ancient we find not) were by Ptolomy distinguished into sundry lesser People and Names: The Rhobognii, Darnii, Voluntii, Vennicnii, and Erdinii, now containing Ulfer. The Auteri, Gangani and Nagnatæ, inhabiting Conaught. The Velibori, Uterni, Vodii, and Coriondi, now Munster. The Menapii, Cauci, Blanii, and Brigantes, now Leinster: whose Cities were Rhigia, Rheba, Macolicum, Dunum, Laberus, Jucrnis, Nagnata, Regia altera, Manapia, now Wexford, and Eblana, Dublin, whose Interpretations, unless the two last, we let pass as very uncertain. Towards the wain of the Roman Empire they are named Scots (the occasion or reason hereof we find not) subduing the neighbouring Piets and Caledonians, and giving the Name of Scotland to the Northern part of the British Continent. Leaving there this new affected Name, they lastly resume, and return here unto their first and more wonted name of Irish.

The first Onset it received, by way of Invasion, was by the Saxon Monarchs, who made themselves Masters of some places, but could not long continue in possession of them.

The next that in Hostile manner visited it, were the Northern Nations, Danes, Swedes, and Normans: who scouring along the Sea-coasts, by way of Piracy, and afterwards sinding the weakness of the Island, made an Absolute Conquest of it, under the Conduct of one Turgesus: but were soon routed out by the Policy of the King of Meath. After this the petty Princes enjoyed their former Dominions, till the Year 1172. at what time, the King of Leinster, having forced the Wise of the King of Meath, was driven by him out of this Kingdom: who applying himself to Henry the Second of England for Succour, received Aid, under the Leading of Richard de Clare, Sirnamed Strongbow, Earl of Pembroke; by whose good Success, and the King's presence, the petty Kings, or great Lords, submitted themselves, promising to pay him Tribute, and acknowledge him their Chief and Sovereign Lord.

But as the Conquest was but slight and superficial, so the Irish submissions were but weak and fickle Assurances to hold in Obedience so considerable a Kingdom, though the Charter was confirmed by Pope Hadrian.

So that it was not till the latter end of Queen Elizabeth's Reign that the same was wholly subjugated, and the Foundation laid of a lasting Peace with Ireland, which soon after was very far proceeded in by King James, and now sully perfected, according to all Human appearance, by our Gracious Sovereign King William; So that now Ireland is a Flourishing Island, Civil in its self, and a good additional strength to the Bruish Empire.

Ireland (called by the Latins, Hibernia; by the Greeks, Irnia; by Pomponius and Solinus, called Juverna; by Ptolomy, Jurna: by Orpheus, Aristotle, Strabo, Stephanus and Cladianus, Jerna: by Eustathius, Vernia: by Diodorus, Iris: by the Welsh, Pverdhon: by the Inhabitants, Eryn. Irlandt Germanis, Irlanda Italis, Irlande Gallis, is in length 300, and in breadth 130 miles: containing by computation 15 millions of Acres, and is about \(\frac{1}{3}\) of England and Wales. It was anciently divided into five Provinces, each one a Kingdom inits self, viz. 1. Leinster.

2. Meath. 3. Ulster. 4. Counaught. And 5. Munster. But now the Province of Meath is reckoned for a Member or part of Leinster.

Thefe four Provinces compose that Kingdom: as beautiful and sweet a Country as any under Heaven; being stored with many goodly Rivers, Replenished with abundance of all sorts of Fish, sprinkled with brave Islands and goodly Lakes; adorned with goodly Woods, full of very good Forts and Havens: The Soil most Fertile, and the Heavens most mild and temperate, but not so clear and subtil as the Air in England; and therefore not so savourable for the Ripening of Corn and Fruits, as to the Grass, for all kind of Cattel; And in the Winter more subject to Wind, Clouds, and Rain, than Snow or Frost.

It is an Island of great strength, as well by Nature as Art, by reafon of its Situation in such dangerous Seas; and the several Fortifications and Castles that the English have built since they were Masters of it.

Its chief Rivers are the spacious Shimon, the rolling Liffie, the sandy Slany, the pleasant Boyne, the Fishy Banne, swift Awidusse or Blackwater, sad Trowis, wide Mayre, now Bantry Bay, the Woody Barrow, the spreading Lee, the Baleful Oure or Shoure. Besides these Rivers, there are several Lakes, of which Lough Erne is the greatest, being about 30 miles in length, and 15 in breadth; and this, as all other of its Lakes, are well stored with Fish.

The Irish have had the Character of being Religious, (by which, perhaps, some understand Superstitious) Amorous, Patient of Labour, Excellent Horsemen, and the meaner fort extremely Earbarous, till Civilized by the Neighbourhood and intermixture of the English; yet still the wild Irish retain several of their absurd and ridiculous Customs, accounting ease and idleness their greatest liberty and riches.

The Ecclesiastical Government of Ireland is committed to the care of four Archbishops, under whom are 19 Suffragan-Bishops: The Temporal Government is now by one Supreme Officer, sent over by the King of England, who is called the Lord Lieutenant, or Lord Deputy of Ireland; who for Majesty, State, and Power, is not inseriour to any Viceroy in Europe.

Their Laws are correspondent with those of England, and they have their several Courts of Justice; as Chancery, Common-Pleas, Kings-Bench, Exchequer, Courts of Parliament, and Justices of the Peace in every County.

The Commodities of this Island are, Cattel, Hides, Tallow, Butter, Cheese, Honey, Wass, Furs, Salt, Hemp, Linnen Cloth, Pipe-staves, Wooll, of which they make Cloth, and several Manusactures, as Freezes, Rugs, Mantles, &c. Its Seas yield great plenty of Cod-sish, Herrings, Pilchers, and other Fish: The Bowels of the Earth assord Mines of Lead, Tin, and Iron.

Of LEINSTER.

This Province the Natives call Leighingh, the Britains Lein, the Latins Lagenia; and in the ancient Lives of the Saints, Lagan; and by the English Leinster. This part of Ireland for the generality is of a fertile foil, affording great plenty of Corn, Cattel, Fowl, and Fish; enjoyeth a wholsome and temperate Air; it is well watered with Rivers, well furnished with Towns, and well Inhabited by the Gentry and Commonalty; and divided into these Counties, Longford, West-Meath, East-Meath, Lough, Dublin, Kildare, Kings-County, Queens-County, Wicklow, Caterlough, Kilkenny, and Wexford.

Its chief Places are, Dublin, the Metropolitan City of Ireland, by Ptolomy called Eblana, by the Latins Dublinium, by the Irish, Balacleigh. It is no less pleasantly than commodiously seated on the River Lisse, which after a small course, emptieth it self into a capacious Bay, where it hath a good Haven, and a fair Prospect; and on the South, delightful Hills, which with the several Parks adjacent, afford great Recrea-

Of the Province of CONNAUGHT, or Conaught, and Connagh. Lat. Conucia & Conachtia.

This Province, as it is divided into feveral Counties, so every County is severally commended for its Soil. Clare is said to be a County so conveniently seated, that either from the Sea or Land there can be nothing wished for more.

Galloway is no less thankful to the Husbandman, than profitable to the Shepherd.

Mayo is replenished with pleasure and fertility, abundantly rich in Cattel, and plenty of Honey.

Slego, Coasting upon the Sea, is noted for feeding-and raising of Cattel.

Letrim is so full of grass and forage, that it sometimes endangers their Cattel.

Roscommon is plain and fruitful, feeding many herds of Cattel, and yielding plenty of Corn.

Clare, or Thomond, gives Title to an Earldom, fometimes called Twomond, or Twowoun, gives Name to the County. Kullalow, or Labu, is a Market Town, and Bishops See. Enw Town is a Borough three miles North of Clare. Bonrotty is fortified with a Castle.

H

Galloway, a Bishops See, and the third City of this Kingdom, for beauty and bigness, seated near the fall of the great Lake or River Corbes in the Western Ocean, surrendred to the English, July 22. 91. A noted Empory, and famous for Trade; nigh to this City is the Lough Carble, about 20 miles in length, and 3 or 4 in breadth; in which are many small Isles.

Tuam is an Archbishops See, once a famous City, now decayed.

Athenree, or Aterieth, is a Borough Town Chinfart still keepeth the Title of a Bishops See.

But the Battel of Agbrim will eternize the Valour of the English.

Mayo is reckoned the chief Town of the County, now decayed, once a Bishoprick, now joined to Tuam, and the Jurisdiction to Killala, which is a small Town and Bishoprick, near a large Bay. Castie Bar is a small Borough Town; in this County is the Lough Malk, of.

a large extent and well stored with Fish.

Slego, in the year 1652, was but a very poor Town, but 'tis feated on a great Pass, and most convenient thorough-fare of all Connaught, into the Province of Ulster; Flanked on the West by a Bay of the Sea, which safely brings to it Ships of good Burthen; and on the East with a Lake of about 5 miles in length, stored with brave Salmon, Pikes and Trouts; Protected by a strong Fort, and the whole Countrey enriched with as good Land as any in Ireland, and Neighboured within few miles of the great Lake Earn, 30 miles in length, and half as broad. Being thus happily scituate, and accompanied with so many advantages, will doubles be of great consequence. Aconty, once a Bishoprick, now ruined and united to Elphin in Roscommon.

Letrim is seated in a fertile Soil, near the Lough Alyn on the River Shannon, reckoned the chief of the County. Carrick Drumrush is also a fmall Borough Town on the River Shannon.

fames Town, a place commodiously seated for Trade, upon the River Shannon, being passable by Boats from thence as far as Killaloo, near Limerick; which is 80 miles or thereabouts, except the necessity of once unloading by reason of Athlone-Bridge.

Roscommon, which gives name to the County, otherwise poor and mean. Atblone, a Bishoprick, is a place of great strength, and the Key of Connaught, on both sides of the River Shannon, joyned by a stately Stone Bridge; guarded on Connaught side with a Castle, and strongly fortisted with an Earthen Wall, but could not resist the Power and brave Attacks of the English. Elphin is a Bishops See. Tulsk is a Borough, and Market-Town. Boyle will be famous for the Name of the Honourable Robert Boyle, Esquire, the English Philosopher.

This

This Province contains 52 Baronies, it hath one Archbishoprick, 6 Bishopricks, besides Angebony and Mayo, united to Tuam. 7 Market-Towns; 8 Places of Commerce and Trade; 12 places that return Parliament-men, 24 Castles of old erection, and 366 Parishes.

It is well watered with Loughs and Rivers, plenty of Fish and Fowl; and on the Western Seatt hath many commodious Bays, Creeks, and Navigable Rivers; but its Air not so pure and clear as in the other Provinces.

Of the Province of M U N S T E R, by the Latins Momomia, by the Irish Mown, or Wown.

It is divided into 5 Counties, (by some into 6) viz Tipperary, or Holy Cross; Waterford, Cork, to which is joined the County of Desmond, Limerick, and Kerry. These Counties are divided into 52 Baronies.

It is large, Mountainous, Woody, and of a different Soil; the Valleys garnished with Corn Fields, and generally fertile; well watered with Rivers and Bays, abounding in Corn, Cattel, Wood, Wooll, and Fish, the last whereof it affords in every place plenty, but especially Herring and Cod, near the Promontory of Erangh, that lies between Bantry and Baltimore Bay. The Air mild and temperate, neither too scorching hot, nor too pinching cold; comprehending, besides many safe stations for Ships, 24 Towns of Note and Trade, 66 Castles of old erection, and 802 Parishes.

Tipperary, once a famous place for Pilgrims, now gives name to the County. Clonmel, in the County of Tiperary, a place of great strength and consequence, both for its convenient scituation upon the River Shour, passable to it by Boats, 20 miles above Waterford; as also for that it is the Place of Judicature for the said County, lately made Palatine. It is a Market-Town and Borough.

Cashel or Cassel, is an Archbishoprick. Thurles is a Borough-Town on the River Shure. Carick, or Carick-Mac-Griffin, is a Market Town on the same River.

The North part of Tipperary beareth the name of Ormond, and is honoured by giving Title to our present Duke of Orwand.

Waterford, on the River Shour, a well traded Port, a Bishops See, and the second City of Ireland; the seated in one of the most barren parts, and most foggy Air, yet it is of safe and commodious Site for Trade; for Ships of the greatest burthen may safely sail to, and ride at Anchor before the Key thereof, which is one of the best in the King's Dominions, and chief of the County.

Dungarvan is a Borough Town, seated on the Sea, well fortified with a - Castle, with a commodious Road for Ships. Listmore is a Borough Town on a the River Blackwater, once a Bishops See, but now united to Waterford.

Cork, upon the R. Lee, the principal of that County, and a Bishops See, well walled, and fitted with a very commodious Haven, confisting chiefly of one street in length, inhabited by a civil wealthy, and industrious people, generally all English. It is the Shire-Town of the largest, richest, and best inhabited Countrey of any in Ireland, and the only. Thoroughfare of all Goods and Commodities sent most commonly this way out of England. Sept. 29. 1690. after 3 or 4 brave Assaults by the English, it surrended to King William, the the Garison consisted of 5000, who were all made Prisoners of War.

King sale upon the mouth of the River Bany, a commodious Port opposite to the Coast of Spain, the only safe and ready Port in all Ireland for the English Ships and others to victual at, or refresh themselves, having a strong Castle for its defence; which also surrendred to the English, Octob. 17. 1690.

Toughal upon the Sea, with a fafe Road, and convenient Haven, and is the most convenient place in all the South Parts of Ireland, from whence to transport Cattel, Sheep, &c. to any part of the West of England.

Other places in this County, are Rosse, once of good account, and Bishoprick, now united to Cork. Charleville, Mallo, Brandon-Bidge, Ballimore, &c. are Borough Towns.

Limrick, or Lough-Meagh, the Principal of that County, and the fourth in estimation of all the Kingdom, scituate in an Island, compassed about with the River Shannon, by which means well fortified: A well-frequented Empory, and a Bishops See. Distant from the main Ocean about 60 miles, yet Ships of good burthen come up close to the very Walls; of a happy scituation in respect of Trassick and Commerce. It is counted two Towns, the Upper, where stands the Cathedral Church and Castle: The lower fericed with a Wall and Castle. The last Town that surrendred to the English, and compleated the Conquest of Ireland. Kilmallock is a Borough Town, Rich and Populous. Askeaton and Athdora are small Towns of note.

Dingle, a Borough and Market-Town, is the chief of the County of Kerrey; it is very well feated for Navigation, upon a large Bay of the same name, the most Western of note in all Ireland. Ardseart is a Borough-Town, nigh the Sea, and a Bishoprick. Trally about 4 miles from the Sea.

To conclude; These four Provinces make up a Kingdom, as beautiful and sweet a Countrey as any under Heaven, stored with many goodly Rivers, replenished with abundance of all forts of Fish, sprinkled with many Brave Island, and Lakes, adorned with goodly Woods for building of Houses or Ships; full of good Forts and Havens; of a Soil most fertile, and the Air mild and temperate; so that there is nothing wanting that may serve to make it a most magnificent and sourishing Kingdom.

beaumany oodly DANIA, Lat. DENEMARCK, incolis: DENMARK, Engl. is a Monarchy which in former times was very formidable both to France and England; and though the English for many years have minded no other Interest in this Country but that of the Baltick and North Trade; yet since these two Crowns are now come to a closer Union, it may be worth our while to look back and consider the State of that Monarchy, wherein the English hath so great an Interest by the late Marriage of George Prince of Denmark with the Princess Ann.

Concerning the Original of the Dane, we read not in any of the more ancient Greek and Latin Authors, excepting Jornandes and Venantius Fortunatus, who yet but flightly mention them. In the French and English Histories they are often remembred, first in the Reign of Theodorick King of Austratia, about the year 516, under their King Coebliatius, foraging upon the Sea-coast of Gaul-Belgick; slain in their return by Theodobert, Son to Theodorick. After this in the Reign of Charles the Great, under their Prince Gotrieus or Godfrey, then warring upon the Obertriti, the Inhabitants about Rostock teste Krantzio; and invading Freisland with a Fleet of 200 Sail; threatning the Neighbouring Saxons with Subjection, and much endangering the Empire of the French, if the death of Godfrey, and the Quarrels about Succession had not prevented.

Afterwards their mention is very frequent and famous during the Race of the French Kings of the Caroline Line, and of the Monarchy of the English Saxons, with fundry Fleets and Armies unrefiftible, invading France and England, conquering and subduing the English Saxon Nation, and giving the name of Normandy to part of France; for by that common Name of Normans, the Danes, as well as the Norweis and Swethes were then called.

The word Dane, Saxo Grammaticus, Krantzius, and others fabulously derived from one Dan, a King hereof, about the year of the World 2898. Becanus from Henen or Denen, signifying a Cock in the Danish Language, the Arms of the Alani their Progenitors. But how they got thither is very uncertain. Andreus Velleius in Cambden, from the Dabi, a people of Asia, and Mark signifying a Border. Etbehvardus from Donia, a Town sometimes since seated herein. Montanus, from Aba; signifying water, in regard of the Scituation of the Country. The more Judicious setch their Name from the Bay or Strait of the Sea called by Mela Sinus Codanus, about which Strait, and in the Islands adiacent, these people, since their first being known, have to this day inhabited.

inhabited. From this Name hath the Country been called Denmarks A Nation famous a long time for Arms, and their many and great Victories atchieved abroad. Themselves (never conquered by Foreign Power) Lords sometimes of England and Swetbeland. Yet such is the Viciflitude of Kingdoms, that Denmark was in the compass of four years, viz. 1657, 58, 59, and 1660. almost conquered by the Swedes. the History of which Wars are well written by Sir Roger Manley; there you will find the King of Sweden fighting with a wonderful refolution, and continued Successes; the King of Denmark with an undaunted and indefarigable courage endeavours to check his Career, till by the Mediation of the Dutch and English the Treaty of Roschilt in February 1658. was concluded, and the two Kings had a friendly Interview; Yet soon after this the War broke out again; for the King of Sweden upon pretence of nonperformance of Articles, with much fecrefie got before Copenbagen in August 1658. so that the fate of Denmark depended upon the Invincible Courage and Conduct of King Frederick, who defended Copenhagen with a Royal Magnanimity till the death of the King of Sweden, when was concluded a fecond Peace upon the Basis of the former Treaty. Not to mention the late Wars wherein these two Northern-Crowns were again imbrued in blood, where the Swedes were overcome frequently in Field-fights, and in Sieges, as well as at Sea. They lost Wismar in Mecklemburg, and several places in Schonen. And the Danes had made, as well as Brandenburg, brave Acquisitions and Revenges, had not the French King forced them to a Restitution.

The Monarchy of Denmark, as it is now united and incorporated, contains two Kingdoms, Denmark and Norway; to which we may add Groenland, and the Islands of Island, Shetland and Ferro. Denmark is situate between the Ocean and the Baltick Sea, composed of a Peninsula, contiguous to Germany, a Coast adjoining to Sweden, and of divers Isles which are between the Peninsula and the Coast, with some others further distant. Containing sive more general parts or names of 1. Jutland, 2. The Islands of the Sound, or Sundt. 3. Halind. 4. Schonen. 5. Bleking.

Of Jutia or Jutlanda

Ptol. from the Cimbrians its ancient Inhabitants; who were followed by the Juites, Saxons, and Angles: after these came the Danes, by whom it is now possessed, being divided into two parts, North and and South; the South part is divided also into two Dukedoms, viz. Ducatm Holfatia, or Holftein, and Slesuicensis Ducatms, or Sleswick.

Of the Dukedom of Holstein, or Holsatiæ Ducatus.

THIS is a Woody, low and Marshy Country, and contains the Provinces of Dithmersia, Stormaria, Holsatia, and Wagria, properly and strictly so called. Stormaria, Stormaren, hath for its chief places Hamburgo, Marsonis, Ptol. teste Cluver, a free Imperial City, and a Hans-Town of great strength, as well by Nature as Art, adorned with fair and beautiful Structures, viz. the Council-House, Exchange, and nine Churches; a place of great Trade, and well reforted to by Merchants and Factors of several Nations. Anno 1274. this Town was adjudged to belong to the Earls of Holftein, and that determination ratify'd by Charles the Fourth And 'tis faid that the Hamburgers took the Oath of Allegiance to Christiern Earl of Oldenburg, the first King of Denmark of that House, as Earl of Holstein; but since they live as a free State, and being jealous of their Liberty, or their Guilt, they are always in a posture of Defence, and can upon all occasions raise 1 500 Citizens well armed, besides their constant Garison, and the promised assistance of the rest of the Hans-Towns. 2. Crempa, Krempen, a strong and well Fortified Town, reckoned one of the Keys of the Kingdom. Gluckstadt, Glucftadium, which commands the passage up the Elbe. 6. Pinnenberg, Pinneberga, a strong place, and of great 7. Bredenberg, one of the best Towns in the Country. remarkable for the stout resistance it made against Wallestein 1628.

Wagria, Wageren, hath for its chief places Lubeca, Lubeck, the Treva of Piol. teste Marc. Sans. & Brietio, an Imperial Free City, and a Hans-Town, and Bishops See, built upon a rising Hill, on the summit whereof is placed the Cathedral Church, called St Maries: besides which, it hath nine others. The Streets are straight and fair; 'tis Fortsied with a Ditch and double Wall, in circuit about six miles, and enjoys a good Trade. Heylin tells us there is not a City of Germany which can equalize it, either for the Beauty and uniformity of the Houses, the pleasant Gardens, fair Streets, and delightful Walks without the Walls; seated upon the River Trave, which runs through the midst of it about eight English miles from the Baltick. Guarded at the River's mouth by the Fort Travemund, and is in a strict Alliance with the States-General of the United-Provinces, ever since Anno 1648. The other Towns are Newstadt, Ploen, Plona, upon a Lake fortisted with a Casse, and belonging to a Prince of the House of Holstein, called Holstein Ploen.

Holsatia, Holsace Gallis. Holsein, is the last member of this Estate, though giving name to the whole; the chief places in it are Kiel, alias Chilonium, Seated upon the Baltick Sea, a well traded Town, with a large Haven, and store of Shipping. 2. Rensborg, the best fortisted, and Itzehoa on the River Store.

Adolph of Schaumberg in the Year 1114. (by Lotharine Emperor and Duke of Saxony) was made the first Earl of Holftein. Adolph the last Earl: of which House dying without Issue, the whole Estate fell to Christiern, Son of Theodorick Earl of Oldenberg, who being made King of Denmark, prevailed with Frederick the third, Emperor, to have the whole Estate erected into a Dukedom, 1474. and by this means united to the Crown of Denmark, the Kings thereof, as Dukes of Hol-Itein, being counted Princes of the Empire; though they neither fend to the Imperial Diets, nor contribute to the publick Taxes, nor acknowledge any Subjection more than Titular: Yet fince this uniting of these two Estates, the Title of Duke of Holstein, and a good part of the Countrey, was in a manner different from the Crown, and given to Adoph, Brother of Christiern the Third. Afterwards another part of this Countrey was bestowed upon John, Younger Brother to Frederick the Second. So that now the House of Holstein is divided into three principal Branches, whereof the King of Denmark is the Head, and standing Protector of the first Branch; The other two Branches are that of Hoilftein Gottorp, and that of Holftein Sunderburg, which is divided into four Branches; so that the Dukes of Holstein are now increased to a great number: of which the Duke of Holstein Gottorp is the most considerable; yet was greater before he lost the King of Denmark his Brother-in-Law's favour, by engaging too far with the Swedes, whereby he lost to the King his Rights of Soveraignty over the Dukedom of Slefwick, and has little or nothing there left hesides his Castle at Gottorp. And in Holstein his Subject are under Contribution, whilst himself resides at Hamburg, his place of refuge.

was by Margaret, Queen of Denmark, Norway and Sweden conferred upon Getrard Earl of Holftein. Afterwards it fell, together with Holfrein, to Christiern of Oldenburgh, King of Denmark, by whom it was with Holftein Incorporated in that Crown. A Country which once in three or four years the Inhabitants let the Pools overflow the Land, where they catch plenty of Fish, and the Mud inriches the Soil. Its chief Towns are Schleswyck, Slesuicum, & Heideba, telte Crantzio, an Episcopal See, and Head of the Dukedom, Seated on the River Slea. which falls into the Baltick Sea; where it hath a commodious Haven. 2. Husum, Seated on the River Eyder, Fortified with a Castle. 2. Haders-leben, Fortified with the Strong Caffle Hansberg. 4. Flensberg, with its commodious and deep Port. Between Flensberg and Slefwick is a Country that goes by the name of Angelen, from whence England had its first denomination ever since King Egbert. 5. The Port of Christierp-pries, now Fortified by the Fort Frederick. 6. Gortop, a Strong Fort or Castle, the Residence of the Duke of Helstein. derickstadt upon the Eyder, built by one of the late Dukes, intending to have fet up a Trade of Silk there; to which purpose, in the Year 1622. he fent a splendid Embassy into Muscowy and Persia, whose Travels are described by Oleanius.

Of North Juitland.

Orth Juitland is divided into four Diocesses, Ripen, Arthuen, Albourg, and Wibourg.

The Diocess of Ripen contains seven Walled Towns, and ten Ca-files; its chief places are Ripen, an Episcopal See, Fortified with a Castie. 2. Kolding; the place where Toll is paid for the Cattel that passes that way. 3. Frederick Ode, or Frederica, lies in a Scituation of that importance, that Charles Gustavus having taken it in the late Wars 1657, opened himself a way to pass his Army over the ice into all the Neighbouring Islands, and to alarm Copenhagen; an Action both bold and unheard of; for he marched his Cavalry and his Carriages over a great Arm of the Sea, where before a single soot-man was afraid to expose his life.

The Diocess of Arthuse, or Arthusen, contains seven Cities, and five Castles; its chief places are Arthusen, a well-frequented Port; Kalla a strong place, Horsens and Renderen.

The Diocess of A-lbourg, Actourgum, hath for its chief places Al-bourgh, at the mouth of Limford-Bay. Nicoping, Haring, Wansyssel, Thysted, and Seagen, or the Seaw, the Northermost part of Juitland.

The

The Diocels of Wibourg hath three Castles, and three Walled Towns; the chief is Wibourg, where are the Courts of Judicature for all Juit-land.

The chief Islands belonging to Denmark, that lie dispersed in the Baltick Sea are, Zeland, Fionia or Funen, Alsen, Arroe or Aria, Langland, Laland, Falster, Mone, Huen, or Ween-Island, and Bornholm.

Of the Baltick Sea.

HIS is the Sinus Codanus of the Ancients, otherwise called Sucvicum Mare, seu Balticum. Die Belth, or Oostzee Belgis, La Mar Baltique Gallis, Warezkovie More, Russis. It hath three several passages into it from the Ocean, all of the munder the command of the King of Denmark; the safest and most usual is that samous Strait called the Fretum Sundicum. Le Sund, Gallis. Straet Van Sund, Batavis. Oresund, Danis. The Sound, Anglis. So great a passage, that there often sails 200, sometimes 300 Ships through in one day, and is not above four miles over in the narrowest place. The second Passage or Inlet lies between the Islands of Zeiand and Funen, and is about 16 miles over, and is called Beltsound; or the great Belt. The third passage is between Funess and Instand, not above eight miles over, and is called the lesser Belt. This Sea is said by Captin Collings to be Fresh Water.

Eland, of old Codanonia, the greatest Island of the Baltick Seas, is I scituate near the main Land of Schonen, from which 'tis separated by a narrow Strait, about four miles over, which is called the Sound: through which all Ships must pass that have any Trade or Commerce in these Seas, and pay a Toll, or Imposition to the King, according to their bigness, or Bills of Lading; by which ariseth his greatest Revenue; And for the security of this Passage, there are built two very strong Castles, the one in this Isle, called Cronenburg, the most delightful Seat in the World, affording a profitable and pleafant Profpect of all Ships that Sail through the Sound; the other in Schonen, or Scandia, called Elsenburg. In the Reign of Queen Elizabeth our Eastland-Fleet was by the King of Denmark threatned to be funk in case they passed this Sound, or Straits of E senour; yet they made the Adventure, having only one Man of War, viz. the Minion, and kept their course (maugre all opposition, without any wound received) forwards and back again. The

The chief City of this Island, is Haphnia Kiobenhaven, Danis. Koppenhagen Ger. Kopenhaven Belg. Copenhage Gal. Copenhagen Angl. the Metropolis of the whole Kingdom, sometime the Residence of the King, a University, Seated near the Sea, with a good Port, and safe Road for Ships; Fortified with a Strong Castle, containing one of the Fairest Arsenals in Europe; wherein is a Celestial. Globe six foot Diameter.

Christiern the Fourth having laid the Foundation of a New Dity in the little Island of Armager, joined it to the old by a Bridge, and called it by the Name of Christierns Haven; so that now it is divided into two parts; in the New Town is the Royal Castle, the Mint, the Exchange, and the Arfenal before-mentioned. This City was taken by Frederick, Anno 1522. and in the Year 1536. after a years Siege it was surrendred to Christiern the 3d. The Citizens now enjoy the greatest privilege of any City in Europa.

Resolution, Resolution, is the Burying-place of the Danish Kings. Elsenour, Elsinoria, is near to the strong Castle and Palace of Cronenburg, the Fortifications whereof was, and is the Key of the Baltick Sea, enlarged into the Sea with incredible charge and pains by Frederick the 2d. The Surrender of this Castle to the Swedes by a Stratagem, Sept. the 6th, 1658. was like to have lost Copenhagen, and consequently the whole Kingdom.

Fredericksberg is a Fortress built in a pleasant Plain, oftentimes the place of the King's retirement; but most famous for that solemn interview and Entertainment that happened between the late Kings of Sweden and Denmark upon the Con i ion and Ratification of the Rosebildt Treaty. Other places are Kallenburg. Rinstead. Koge. Korsoer is the place where King Charles of Sweden landed his Army in his Second Expedition against Denmark, Aug. 8. 1658. five Months after the aforesaid Interview of the two Kings at Fredericksburg. Nestwood. Waringburg, was the first place where the King of Sweden set his Foot in Zeland in his first Expedition. In this Island are reckoned 240 Villages.

The Island of Fienia or Funen, is the assignment of the Prince of Denmark; 'tis seated between Zeland and Juitland, separated from the first by a narrow passage called the Belt; from the last by a narrower, called Middle-far-found. 'Tis a fertile Soil, and pleasant Scituation.

Its chief place is the well-traded Odensee, an Episcopal See, formerly the Seat of the General Assemblies of the Kingdom, now kept at Copenbagen: adorned with two fair Churches, and neat Buildings; near this place Count Guldenlew, the Vice-roy of Norway, was overtaken in his Coach by Charles King of Sweden in his first Expedition. Other Towns are Midlefare, Swinberg, with several other good Towns, four Royal Castles, and 264 Villages, besides Gentlemens Houses.

Alsen is a small Island belonging to the Dukedom of Sleswick, whose chief place is the Castle of Sunderberg, giving Name to a Branch of the Royal Family, the Duke of Holstein Sunderberg.

Arroe, or Aria, is a small Island belonging also to the Duke of Slef-wick.

Langland, and Laland, the first is the largest, the other the most plentiful in Corn and Chesnuts; whose chief place is Naskow, a Town well Fortified.

Falfter is a small Island fertile in Corn, its chief place is Nicopin, of a pleasant scituation, called the Naples of Denmark.

Mone Isle is about twelve miles long, and six broad, the chief place is Steke, where the Swedish Forces found a greater resistance than in any of the other Islands.

Huen or Ween is remarkable for the observations of that samous

Astronomer Tycho Brabe.

The Island of Bornholm was granted to the Crown of Sweden by the late Treaty of Peace; but since, the Dunes have exchanged it for an equivalent propriety of certain Lands in Schonen.

Cross we now over the Sound, and take notice of the other part of this Kingdoni, which lies on the East Continent, called Scandia, under which general Name it contains the whole Kingdom of Norway, the greater part of the Kingdom of Sweden, and some part of Denmark. That which did belong to Denmark, is divided into three Provinces, Halland, Schonen, and Bleking, now under the King of Sweden, by the Roschilt Treaty; yet here mentioned, because the places in the Map are more plainly seen, than in the Map of Sweden.

Halland is a Province for fertility of Soil, sweetness of Air, store of Fish, plenty of Lead and Brass Mines, scarce inferior to any; its chief places are Wansbourg; Labolm, Helmstat, Falkenburg, and Torkow.

Schonen is the pleasantest Countrey in all Denmark, most abundant in fruits, and shoals of Herrings; its chief places are Lunden, the Metropolitan Archbishoprick of Denmark, with its samous Dial, where the Year, Month, Week, Day and Hour throughout the Year, asalfo the Motions of the Sun and Moon through each Degree of the Zodiack, the moveable and fixed Feasts, &c. are distinctly seen, being finely adorned, and set forth in variety of delightful Colours. Other places are Helsingoburgam, or Elsinborch, fortisted with an impregnable Castle, and one of the Forts defending the Sound over-against Cronenburg, Lanscroom, Corona-Scania, Malmogia, or Elbogen, Tillburg, Udsted, Walleburg, Simmers-baven, and Christiernstadt, or Christiern-dorp.

Bleking is mountainous and barren; its chifest places are Christianople, Abuys, Selborg, Ellholm, Rotenby, and Carell-baven, often mentioned in the late Wars.

Denmark hath been an Hereditary Kingdom ever fince the year 1660, for before it was Elective; so the Nobility do not enjoy those

The Opinion of Luther hathbeen entertained in Denmark ever fince the Reign of Frederick the first, who was Elected Anno 1523, so that there are two Archbishops, and thirteen Bishops for Denmark.

The Forces of this Kingdom may be known by their former, and now late Undertakings against the Swedes; by which it appears, that they can raise a strong power at Sea, and make good Levies at Land, forde sence of their own Dominions.

The Revenue of this King confifts chiefly in the great Impost laid upon all Ships which pass through the Sound, which is the Key of the Baltick; also in some Crown-Lands, a great yearly Toll made of the Cattel; as also of the Fish transported into other Countries.

The Danes are generally of good Stature, clear of Complection, and healthful; crafty and provident in their affairs, peremptory in their affertions, and opinionated of their Actions; Religious, Just in their Words and Contracts, good Soldiers both at Sea and Land. The Women are fair, discreet, and courteous, fruitful of Children. The Danish Ladies love hunting, and more freely entertain at their Tables, than in their Beds, those that come to visit them.

For great Captains and men of War, it is famous; for Godfrey, or Gotricus, who endangered the Empire of France; for Sweno and Canutus, the Conquetors of England. For men of Learning, Tycho Brabe the Prince of Aftronomers, Hemingian a Learned Divine, Bertholinus a Physician and Philosopher, John Cluverian the Historian and Geographer.

Of the KINGDOM of NORWAY.

Norwegia, Lat. Nerigos Plin. Norway, Angl. contains the Western part of the Peninsula of Scandinavia, the Eastern part being part of Swedeland. A long ridge of mountains making the separation, leaving Norway toward the Ocean, and Swedeland toward the Baltick Sea. From hence are transported Train-Oyl, Pitch, Stock-fifth, Mast's for Ships, Deal-boards. The Coast of Norway, tho of a large extent, has few good Ports, by reason of the small Islands and Rocks that inviron it, and the Gulf of Maelfroom which swallows and endangers all the Ships that come nigh it. Herbinius tells us, that this Northern Charibdis or Vorago, by the Inhabitants Moskestroom, is forty miles in extent. Kircher faith 'tis thirteen miles in Circumference; that it hath a motion afcending and defcending fix hours, by fucking in waters, and as many throwing them forth again. That part which lyes toward the Pole, is full of Forests and Mountains, wherein there are some few Mines of Copper and Iron. In the year 1646, w discovered near Opllow or Alllo, a Mine of very good Gold, which gave the Inhabitants occasion to say, that they had got the Northern Indies. But that Boast endured no longer than the Mine, which presently vanished for fear of being rifledon.

Opflo, Anfloye Gallie, the Anfloga of old, it was burnt down in the time of Christiern the Fourth King of Denmark, and fince called Christiana; 'tis a Bishop's See. Aggerbad is a Castle near to it, full North from Seagen, the most Northern point of Jutland. Stafanger is a Sea-Town, with a good Port, near which is the Fort Doeswick. There is the Herb Offigraga of Norway, which snaps the bones of Cattel that tread upon it. East of Drontheim lies the Countrey of Jemperland, formerly part of Norway, but was by the Treaty of Bromsbroo, Anno 1645, yielded to the Sweder, to whom it is still subject.

This Kingdom has five Governments, with as many Castles, Babus, Aggerbus, Bergen-hus, Dronthem-bus, and Ward-hus. That of Babus, with a Castle of the same upon a Rock, was delivered to the Swedes by the Treaty of Roschilt; Berghen is the better City, the seat of the Viceroy, with a new Fort called Frederisksburg; and a Port into which Vessels have an easier entrance, and where they are safe from the Winds, by reason of the high Mountains which inviron it: The Merchants of the Hans-Towns have there a House and a Magazine. Dronthem, in Latin Nidrossa, the Court of the ancient Kings of Norway, is very much fallen to decay, yet it still retains the Title of an Archbishoprick, and the remains of one of the fairest and most magnissent Churches of the North. Ships ride safe in the Harbour, but they must have very good Pilots to carry them in. Here the People make a kind of Bread of Barly-meal, and Oats, which they bake between two hollow Flint-stones, which Bread keeps thirty or forty years. The Norwegians are little subject to sickness; and of such a Constitution, that when they are in a Fever, one sice of Bacon does them more good than a poached Egg: Their great inclination to Sorcery, makes them have their reputation of Selling the Winds to the Seamen.

Finmark, which makes part of Lapland, advances into the Frigid Zone, so that day or night continues alternately for several Months together. The Inhabitants claim nothing of Property, but take the first place that pleases them; here to day, in another place to morrow. They live upon Fish, and Hunting, and only pay an acknowledgment of certain Skins to the King of Denmark, and carry their Fish to Berghen. The Castle of Wardhus, with a Borough of 300 Houses, the most Northernly of the whole Continent, is in the middle of a little Island, where it serves only to force the payment of cettain duties from those that Traffick to Arch-Angel in Moscowy. The Haven is in the Western part of the Island, which is separated from the Land by an arm of the Sea, about a Quarter of a League broad, through which the Ships make Sail, and the places adjoining are not so subject to the Ice, as other parts of the same Sea.

As for the Norwegians, we have not read of them in any ancient Author; both Name and Countrey seem more lately to have been given from their Northern Scituation, uniting with the Danes and Swedes; they were better known in the time of the French Empire, by the name of Normans; under which appellation in the time of Charles the Simple, they got the Province of Normandy conferred on Rollo the first Duke thereof. Anno 912; afterwards setling in their own Countrey, they were called Norwegians, from their Northern Situation; Governed by their own Kings till their sinal Subjugation by the Danes, which was by means of the Marriage of Haquin the last Prince of Norway, unto Margaret Queen of Denmark, Norway, and Sweden, a second Semiramis in the History of those times; who having once got sooting in Norway, so assured themselves of it, that they have ever since possessed it as a Tributary Kingdom, so that now Norway and Denmark are both fellow-Subjects under the same King.

The Commodities that these Kingdoms afford, are, Fish, Hides, Tallow, Pitch, Tar, Cordage, Masts, Fir-Boards, Wainscot, &C.

THE Monarchy of Suevonia, or Suecia Lat. Sweden Incolis, Suede Gal. Suetia Ital. by the Poles, Szwecya, and Szwedzka-Ziemia, is the most ancient in Europe, if it be true that it has had above a hundred and sifty Kings; and that the first among them was the Son of Japhet, one of the Sons of Noah. Perhaps for this reason it was, that at the Council of Basil a Swedish Bishop had the considence to demand of the Presidents the precedency before all the Bishops of Christendom. Some Historians begin to reckon the Kings of Sweden from Fermanicus; and demonstrate to us, that the Kingdom was Elective rill the Reign of Gustavus de Vasar, or Ericus, who made it Hereditary to his Family in the year 1544; and at the same time put down the Roman-Catholick-Religion to embrace the Lutheran Dostrine; under this pretence of Religion, Charles the Ninth of Sudermania, deprived his Nephew Sigismund of his Crown, who had been the 13th Elective King of Poland of that Name. In the Reign of the Emperor Charles the Great, we find them to have been a Free State, different from that of the Danes, entertaining then Harioldus and Ragenfridus, Kings of that Nation, driven out by the Sons of Goterious. In Reign of Sweno the First, and Canutus the Great, they were subject to the Danes. By Queen Margaret about the year 1387, they were again subdued to the Danish. yoke; after long Wars fundry defections and recoveries, not fully delivered until the year 1525, freed by Gustavus aforesaid, and ever fince commanded by Princes of their own Nation. The ancient Inhabitants of this Nation are supposed to be the Suiones, or Sitones of Tacitus. Inhabiting the greater Scandia of Ptol. by Aimonius called the Suemes, in his 48th and 101st Chap. By Fornandes de Rebus Geticis, the Suetbici at this day; by long corruption the Sueci, giving name to the Countrey now called Suetia, or Suedeland, extended for a great space of Land betwixt the Baltick and the Frozen Seas.

The King of Swedeland stiles himself King of the Swedes, Goths, Vandals, Great Prince of Finland, Duke of Estonia and Carelia, Lord of Ingria; and bears in his Arms three Crowns. The present King is Charles the Eleventh, of the Family of the Palatine of Deux Ponts. The Goths and Vandals are famous in History for their Conquests; So have the Swedes been in the last Age through the Valour of their late Kings, and their Conquests they have made upon their Neighbours, which had made them almost Masters of the Baltick.

The Peace at Bromsbroo near Christianople, Anno 1645, obliged the King of Denmark to restore Fempterland and Herendall to the Swedes, and to surrender him the Islands of Gotland and Oesel to perpetuity, with the Province of Halland for thirty years.

The Peace of Roskil near Copenbagen, 1658, surrendred Halland wholly to the Swedes, together with Sebonen, Bleking, and the Island of Bornbolm, (which afterwards returned to the Danes by exchange of other Lands) the Fortress of Babus, and the Bailiwick of Dronthem.

The Peace at Copenhagen 1660, confirms the Treaty of Roskil, except. for the Bailiwick of Drawhem, and acquires the Island of Ween.

The Acquisitions of the Swede from the Empire by the Peace of Munfer, were the Dutchy of Lower Pomerania, and in the Upper-Stetin, Gartz, Dam and Golnan, the Island and Principality of Rugen, the Isles and Mouths of Oder; the Dukedoms of Bremen and Ferden; The City Signiore, and part of Wismar, Wildbusen in West phasia, the priviledge to attempt the rest of Pomerania, and the new Marquisate of Brandenburgh.

The Treaty of Oliva near Danizick, 1660, was so advantageous to this Kingdom, that the King of Poland there utterly renounced the Ticle of King of Swedeland for the suture; and consented that Livonia from thenceforth should be Hereditary to the Crown of Sweden. This was intended of Livonia upon the North of the River Duna, where only Dunemburgh was reserved to the Crown of Poland, according to the Truce made at Stams dorf for 26 years, Anno 1635.

The Peace with Muscowy restor'd to Sweden all that the Grand Duke had taken in Livonia.

The King of Sweden pretends to the Succession of Cleves and Juliers, by Title from his Great Grand-father John Duke of Deux Ponts, who Married Magdalene the thirteenth Sister to Duke John-William.

In the Estates of this Kingdom, the Countrey-men make a Corporation, or Body, as well as the other Orders.

Swedeland contains that part of Scandinavia, which is the best, as lying toward the East. The cold Weather is there very long, and sometimes very bitter; however the Inhabitants do not so much make use of Furs, as they do in Germany; they only wear Night-Caps, Woollen-Gloves, Just-a-corps, and make great Fires of Wood, with which they are well flored.

There are so few Sick People among them, that Physicians and Apotheearies have little or no Practice. The Inhabitants are equally Rich, and their greatest Revenue consists in Copper, whence the most part of the Europeans ferch it, to make their small Money, their Cannon, and their Bells. The City of Stockholm alone has in the Castle above 800 Pieces of Great Artillery; and it is believed, that in all the Kingdom there are above 80000. Upon review of the Militia made 1661, sourscore thousand men were Mustered in Arms.

This Countrey being so full of Mountains and Woods, affords very little Corn; so that in times of Scarcity the Poor are forced to eat very bad Bread. The Commodities of the Countrey, besides Copper, are Butter, Tallow, Hides, Skins, Pitch, Rosin, Timber, and Boards. The Cities are very subject to Fire, in regard the Houses are all built of Wood. The Lakes and Gulfs are more considerable than the Rivers: Nor is there any trade but upon the Coasts, where there is no venturing without a Pilot, because of the great unmber of Rocks. The lot there is so thick, that Waggons go safely upon it. In other places, the Snow affords them the Conveniency of Travelling in Sledges. The Horses are fit for War; for, besides that they are easily kept, and rarely sick, they are well used to the Road; they carry their Rider swimming, they readily take wide Ditches, they are Couragious and Nimble; and will assail the Enemy of their Rider with their Heels and Teeth both together.

Under the Name of Sweden are comprehended the Countries of Gothia, Suecia propria, Bothnia Lapponia, Suecia Finlandia, Ingria, and Livonia: wherein is contained 35 Provinces (besides the Acquisitions aforesaid) wherein Berlius reckoneth 1400 Parishes: The two first toward the West, and the three last toward the East; the Gulf of Finland between them both.

Gothia, or Gothland, whether so called from the Gothi, or fally affecting that more glorious Name, cannot well be known, is divided into Ofro-Gothland, and Westro-Gothland: And those that conquered Spain were called Visigoths.

Chief places in Ostrogoib, or East-Gotbland, are Calmaria. Calmer in Smalandia is a strong City, and commodious Port; the place where the Swedes usually set Sail for Germany and Denmark. The Cittadel there is as highly esteemed in these Northern parts, as that of Millain in the South. Norcopia, Norcoping, is full of Copper-Forges, which affords Cannon to most of the Europeans. Lincoping a Bishop's See, where Olaus Magnus was born, is remarkable for the Victory of Charles of Sudermania, afterwards King of Sweden. Wadstein, seated on the Lake Veter-Westerwick, as commodiously for the Baltick Sea: To these we may add Borkholm upon the Island Ocland; and Wisby upon the Island Gotbland.

West-Gothland is divided into three parts; 1st. Westregoth, whose chief places are Gotheburgum, Gotheborg, or Gottenborg, where King Charles the 1Xth died; it is a New Town and Port upon the mouth of the Wenar Lake; Scara is a Bishoprick. 2dly Dalia, whose chief Town is Daleborg, a fair Town well fortified with a strong Casse. 3dly, Vermelandia, whose chief place is Carolstade upon the North part of the Wenar Lake, is noted for its abundance of Brass. Fialland, Scar Grand.

Bleking, we have already treated of in Denmark.

Succeia, Succeia propria, or Swedeland, communicates its Name to the other Provinces of this Kingdom; which is divided into ro parts or Provinces, viz Upland, in which Stockholm, or Holmia, is the Capital City, accommodated with a Royal Castle, and a Sea-Port at the Mouth of the Lake Meler, which they formerly had a Design to have cut into the Wener-Lake, to have joined the Baltick and the Ocean together, so to spoil the passage of the Sound. This Wener-Lake is said to receive 24 Rivers, and disburthen it felf at one mouth with fuch noise and fury, that it is called the Devil's-mouth. This City is far better furnish'd than it was before the War with Germany. In the year 1641. they began to straighten the Streets, and build their Houses Uniform. The Harbour is very Secure, so that a Ship may ride there without an Anchor; but the Tower Waxholme on the one side, and Digna on the other side, do so command the Entrance, that no Ships can come in, or go out against the Governour's will, who keeps Guard there. It has three Channels, which carry the Vessels between certain Islands and Rocks. The King's Ships lie at Elsenape: Upsala Upsal, Defended by a great Castle; there is the Metropolitan Church, where the Kings are usually Crowned, and where formerly they kept their Courts. The City is adorned with an University, and the most Remarkable Marts in all those Quarters. The Cathedral has been a Stately Building, as they fay, lin'd, or as it were, Wainscoted within with Gold, and covered with Copper. The 2d Province is Sudermania, whose chief Town is Nicoping, a Maritine Town of good Strength, and Strengues a Bishop's See. 2d is Nericia, whose Chief Town is Orebro. 4th is Westmania, Chief Town is Arosia, now Westerms; rich in Silver Mines. 5th, Gestricia, Chief Town is Gevalia. 6th, Dalecarlia, Chief Town is Idra towards Norway. 7th, Hellingia, Chief Town Hudwickswald, Seated on the Sinus Bothnicus, 8th, Medelpadia, Chief Town Selangar. 9th, Jempiia, whose Chief Town is Aas. 10th, Angermania, Chief Town is Hernofand on the Gulf.

Bothnia is twofold, viz. 1. Occidentalis. 2dly, Cajania, or Bothnia Orientalis, is divided into five parts or Countries, viz. Kimi, Tornia, Lula, Pitha and Uma, on the North and West. Then Cajenberg, Oula and Wassa, or Mustafar on the East of the Bothnia Gulf; in the midst of whose Entrance lieth a great number of Islands, the chief of which is Alandia.

Laponia Succia, or Lapland, which belongs to the King of Sweden, has only certain Habitations that bear the Names of their Rivers. The Laponers are very small, the tallost not being above four foot high; nevertheless, formerly Six hundred of them put to the Rout above an Hundred thousand Molcovites that came to invade them. They wear no other habits but Skins; and when they are Young, they so inure themselves to the Cold, that afterwards they easily endure it, without any Clothes. They have neither Wooilen nor Linnen; only they have pieces of Copper, which they call Chippons, which they exchange for Necessaries. They have neither Bread, nor Corn, nor Fruit, nor Herbs, nor Wine, nor Cattel, nor Butter, nor Eggs, nor Milk, nor other Supports of life. But they have no want of Water: And they have a kind of Wild Deer, which are very swift, the Flesh whereof they live upon. There is a second part of Laponia in Denmark, and a third in Muscowy. The Mount Engraks has three apartments of Lodging for the Deputies of the three Nations.

Finnenia seu Finnia, Finland, is a Dutchy, which some Kings of Swede-land were wont to assign for their Brother's Portion. It is divided into six parts or Divisions, 1st, Savolan, whose chief places are Nysot and Kexbolm, taken by Pontus de la Guarde, upon the Lake Ladoga. 2dly, Tavastia, whose chief places are Tavastbur, or Croneburg. 3dly, North-Findland, whose chief place is Biornborgh. 4th, South-Finland, Chief Town is Abo, a Bishop's See, at the mouth of the River Aurojoki. 5th, Niland, whose chief place is Borge, a place of good Strength. 6th, Carelia, whose chief place is Wyborg, or Viburgh, a chargeable Fortress.

Ingria, vulgo Ingerland, by the Russians Isera, was taken from the Muscowites by Treaty in the Year 1617. It is but small, but considerable for the Chace of Elkes, and for the Situation of the strong Fort of Noteburg, in the midst of a great River at the Mouth of the Lake Ladoga. Caraldorod by the Russian. This Garison was taken by the Swedes, all the Soldiers within being destroyed by a Distemper that took them in the mouth, and hindred them from eating. Other places are Iwanogorod, and Coporio.

The Mountains that part Norway and Sweden, are by Ortelius called the Doffrini Montes, Sevo Montes, of Plin. accounted 300 miles in length, and now in various places have divers Names, not much material here to mention.

The Commodites of this Country are Copper, Lead, Brass and Iron, Ox-Hides, Goats and Buckskins, Tallow, Furs, Honey, Allom and Corn.

The Inhabitants naturally strong, active and stout Soldiers; industrious, laborious, ingenious, and courteous to Strangers. The Women discreet and modest.

The Christian Faith was first planted here by Austgarius Archbishop of Bremen, the general Apostle of the North.

The Forces of Sweden are very powerful, being able to put to Sea more than 100 Sail of Ships, and into the Field forty or fifty thou-fand of Horse and Foot.

And for deciding of Controversies, &c. every Territory hath its Viscount, every Province its Lamen, every Parish its Lanas-man, or Consul; and there lieth an Appeal from the Consul to the Lay-men, and from the Lay-men to the Viscount, and from the Viscount to the King, who alone decideth the same. Livonia Germ. or Listandt, is divided into two parts, via. Estbonia, or Esten on the North, and Listandia, Leithland, or Letten on the South, was entirely Surrendred by the Polander, except Danemburg: Formerly the Order of Carry-Sword Knights resided there; but in the time of Gregory the Ninth, that Order was united to the Teutonick. Asterwards the Polanders and Muscowites enjoyed it. Riga is the Capital City of Livonia: The Germans, English, and Hollanders there drive a great Trade in the Summer, while the Sea is open: In the Winter the Natives Trade into Muscowy upon their Sledges. It stands upon a Plain, upon the River Duna, which in that place is about a quarter of a League over. The Fortisications thereof consist of Six Regular-Bastions, several Half-moons, and Pallisado'd Counterscarps.

In the Year 1656. an Army of an hundeed thousand Muscowites came to catch cold before this City, which valiantly repulsed them. Pernavia, Pernavis a well fortified place: And Derps, in Latin Tupatum, so was also Felin, a strong Town. Dunaboug, an Impregnable Fortress, eight miles from Riga, well Garisoned by the Poles. Revelia, Revel, directs the Trade from Livonia into Muscovy: 'Tis a Bishop's See, and a well Traded Port. Nerva is a strong place, from whence the Neighbouring River derives its Name, where the Brave Pontus de la Gardia was Drown'd. By the last Treaties between the Crowns of Sweden and Poland, the Exercise of the Protestant as well as the Catholick Religion is permitted in Livonia, as also in Curland and Prussia.

The Island of Goibland is the biggest in the Baltick Sea, for therein there are five or six Ports belonging to the Swede: In several of the Rocks there still remain the Ancient Gotbick Characters. And the City of Wisby still preserves certain pieces of Marble, and Houses that have Gates of Iron or Brass, Gilded or Silver'd over, which testify the great Antiquity of the place. This City sirst Established the law for Navigation in the Baltick, and began the Sea Cards. Other Islands are Dagbo and Oeselupon the Coasts of Livonia, belonging to the Swedes.

The chief Rivers in all this Tractare 1. Meler, 2. Delacarle; 3 Angermania, 4. Uma, 5. Lula, and 6. Torna. The principal Lakes are Ladoga, or Ladesko Ozero.

Melar takes its Coast from West to East; the Wener from East to West; the Veter from North to South, through the River Motala.

of which Moscow is the chief City, which hath communicated its Name to all the Provinces under the Dominion of the Grand Czar, or Tzar. This Country is a part of the European Sarmatia, or Scythia; called also Russia Alba, or the Great Russia, whose ancient Inhabitants were the Rhuteni, or the Roxolani of Ptol. the Rolfi, of Cedren. The Basternæ Tacit. teste Willich. From thence some think it called Russia; others tell us'tis called Ruffia from the colour of the Snow which colours the Fields for almost three Quarters of a year. 'Tis the vastest Country in Europe: A Territory folarge, that were it Peopled answerable to some other parts of the World, would either make it too great for one Prince, or that Prince too powerful for his Neighbours: But the Eastern parts thereof are vexed with the Asiatick Tartars, who, like Ælop's Dog, will neither dwell there, nor fuffer the Moscovites. Western parts almost as much harassed by the Swedes and Poles: Southern by the Turks and European Tartars; and the Northern pinched by the coldness of the Air: This excess of cold in the Air was so vehement, that in the Year 1598. of 70000 Turks that made an Inrode into Moscour, 40000 were frozen to death; and water thrown up into the Air, will turn to Ice before it falls to the Ground: Nor is it an extraordinary thing for the Inhibitants to have their Nofes, Ears and Feet frozen off; such is their Winter. Nor is their Summer less miraculous; for the heaps of frozen Snow, which covered the Surface of the Country, at the first approach of the Sun, are suddenly dissolved, the Waters dried up, the Earth dressed in her gaudy Apparel; such a mature growth of Fruits, such flourishing of Herbs, such chirping of Birds, as if there were a perpetual Spring: And though they Sow but in June, yet the Heats of July and August strangely quicken their Harvelt.

The whole Country generally is overspread with Woods and Lakes: and is in a manner a continual Forest, irrigated by several Lakes and Rivers. Here grow the goodliest and tallest Trees in the World, affording shelter to multitudes of Cattel and Wild Beasts, whose Skins are better than their Bodies; and here is the inexhaustible Fountain of Wax and Honey, as likewise allkinds of Fowl, and small Birds in great plenty; most forts of Fish, excellent Fruits and Roots: especially Onions and Garlick: Here is the Corn of Rbezan and Volodomira, the Hides and Leather of Fercussau, the Wax and Honey of Plesow, the Tallow of Wologda, the Oyl and Cavayer about Volga, the Linnen and Hemp of great Novogrodt, the Pitch and Rosin of Duvinez, the Salt of Astracan and Rostof, the Ermins and Sables, the black Foxes and Furs of Siberia, where the Hunters have the Art to hit only the Noses of the Beasts, preserving their Skins whole and clean.

The Muscovites are naturally ingenious enough, yet not addicted to Arts or Sciences; they do not trouble themselves with the height of the Heavens, or the magnitude of the Earth; they amuse not themselves with Syllogisms, nor wrangle whether Logick be an Art or Science. And the plainness and paucity of their Laws makes Attornies and Sollicitors as useless there as Philosophers. Nor are they much addicted to Traffick and Husbandry, being naturally lazy, it must be force or necessity that compels them to labour. Drunkenness is very familiar with them, and Aqua-vitæ or Tobacco, like the Liquor of Circe, turns them into Swine. They are great Lyars, treacherous, crastry, malicious and revengeful, quarressome, though the heighth of their fury is Kicking; their Houses mean and ill-furnished, their Lodging is hard, and their Diet homely; born to slavery, and brought up in hardship.

They are for the most part fat and corpulent, strong of Body, and of good proportion, only great Bellies and great Beards are in fashions and the Women, though indifferent handsome, yet make use of Paint. They are much retired, and seldom in publick; very respectful to their Husbands, who look upon them as a necessary evil, beat them often, and treat them as Slaves.

They only teach their Children to write and read; which suffices them, though they presume to be Doctors. They take for their Sirname the proper name of their Father. They write upon Rolls of Paper, cut into long scrowles, and glu'd (for 25 or 30 Ells) together; They wear long Robes, under which they have close Coats down to their knees, but they tye their Girdles under their Bellies: they make their Collations with spic'd Bread, Aqua-vita, and Hydromel, that is, Water and Honey mixt.

There are two things remarkable amongst the Muscovites; one is, That they begin the day at the rising of the Sun, and end it at the Sun-setting, so that their Night begins at the Sun's-setting, and ends at its rising. The other is, They begin their year the first day of September, allowing no other Epocha than from the Creation of the World, which they think to be in Autumn, and they reckon 5508 years from the Creation of the World to the Nativity of our Saviour, whereas most of our Chronologers account but 2969.

As for their Armies, they generally consist of a 100000 or 200000, but then you must count the Beasts. Botis Frederowitz Grand Duke of Moscowy, toward the beginning of this Age, appeared with an Army of 300000 Men. Alexis Michaelowitz after the defeat of Stephen Radzin, had an Army no less numerous, when the dispute was about stopping ping the Turks progress into Poland. Infantry is better esteemed by them than Cavalry, being more able to sustain a Siege, and patiently to endure all imaginable hardships, rather than yield; as they did in our times at the Castle of Vilna, and in the Fortress of Notebourg. As to the forming a Siege, the Muscovites understand little, as they made appear before Smolensko 1622. before Riga 1656. and before Azac 1672. Their Fores are generally of Wood or Earth, upon the windings of Rivers, or else in Lakes. The chiefest strength of the Kingdom consists in Foreign Forces, to whom they give good allowances in time of War. The Prince bears the Title of Grand Duke, he boalts himself descended from Augustus, and stiles himself Grand Czar, or Tzaar, that is to fay, Cazar. The habits which he is faid to wear, make him look like a Priest: they that treat with his Ambassadors have the greatest trouble in the World to give him his Titles, because of their so extraordinary pretensions. In the Year 1654, to the end he might make War in Poland, and uphold the Cossacks, the Great Duke pretended, that some of the Polish Lords had not given him his due Titles; and that they had printed Books in Poland in derogation of his Honeur One of his Predecessors was so cruel, that he caus'd the Hat of a French Ambassadour to be nailed to his head, because he refus'd to be uncovered in his presence. He commands absolutely, and the Muscovites call themselves his Slaves; and he calls them in contempt by a diminutive name, Fammot Pierrot. His Will is a Law to his Subjects, who hold it for an undeniable truth, That the Will of God, and the Great Duke, are immutable. His Treasure is very large, for he heaps up all the Gold and Silver he can lay his hands on, in his Caftles of Dioligzen and Vologda, and never makes his Presents or his Payments but in Skins, or in Fifth, or else in some few Hides, or Pieces of Cloth of Gold. Thus liveth and reigneth this Russian Monarch, in the reputation of his own Subjects, one of the greatest Sharers in the adventure of the World's Happiness.

The Religion of the Muscovites differs little from that of the Greeks: For they follow their Faith, their Rites, and their Ceremonies. The principal part of their Devotions, after they are baptized, consists in the Invocation of their Saints, for every House hath its Saint Pictured, and hung up against the wall with a small Wax-candle before it, which they light when they say their Prayers. The Pictures of the Virgin Mary, and of St. Nicholas their Patron, are in great veneration amongst them. And the sign of the Cross is the ordinary Preface to all their Civil Actions. On Sundays and their Festival Days, they go three times to Church, Morning Mon, and Evening, and are standing, and uncovered at the time of Divine Service. Besides their Ordinary Fasts on Wednesdays, Fridays, and the Eves before Holidays, they have four Lents every year, during which they eat neither Butter, Eggs, nor Milk, only the first week of their chief Lent serves them as a Carnaval; but after this the most strict of them eat no Fish but on Sundays, and drink nothing but Quaz or fair water.

They commonly take the Communion on a Fasting-day, at Noonfervice; and if any one receives it on a Sunday, he must not eat Flesh that day. 'Tis administred in both kinds with Leavened Bread, and Wine mingled with warm Water. They believe no Transubstantiation, nor reckon no Adultery but marrying another man's Wife. They have many Wives, allow of Divorcement, and yet use the deceitful byways of Filthiness and Incontinency. It is a dangerous matter to transgress the Law of Wedlock, and the Woman is terribly overwatched, is suspiciously restrained from walking abroad. They believe no Purgatory, but hold two distinct places where the Souls remain that are separated from the Bodies. Yet allow Prayers for the Dead. They hold Baptism of great Importance, and admit Children of seven years old to come to the Sacrament. All their Images They never feast but upon the Annunciation of are in flat Painting. the Virgin. They have a Patriarch at Mosco, the chief of their Religion. Three Archbishops or Metropolitans at Rosthon, at Susdal, and at Grand Novogrode: Bishops at Wologda, at Resan, at Susdal, at Twer, at Toboleska, at Afracan, at Cafan, at Plescou, at Colomna; and almost in all the Provinces of the Great Duke, being all chosen out of the body of They have this good quality, that they force no mari's Conscience; they hate the Roman-Catbolicks for the Exorbitances committed by them when the Polanders became Masters of Mosco, in the Year 1611. But there are likewise some Idolaters of them toward the North.

The Rivers of Mulcovy are 1st, Volga, the Rhe of Ptol. Edel. Tartaris, Thamar Armenis, the greatest River in Europe, throws it self into the Caspian Sea, after it has roull'd above seven hundred Leagues. The Duvine, after it has run by the Cities of most Trade in Muscovy, by six mouths empties it self into the Gulf of St. Nicholas, which is called the White Sea, because of the Snow that environs it.

The Donn, Tanais Strab. Plin. Mela, & alis, which separates Europe from Asia, begins not above a hundred Leagues from the place where it ends, and yet it winds above six hundred miles, first towards the East, and then towards the West; formerly a conjunction of these three Rivers was designed, to the end the principal Seas of our Continent might have participated one with another, to facilitate the Trade of the Ocean, Mediterranean, and Caspian; but the contrivance fail'd. There are few good Cities in these parts, none or very few being pay'd, and those that be, are pay'd with Wood; very few Fortisted or Wall'd, but have till d Land between the Streets. The Houses are low, and made of Wood and Lome; a man may go to market and buy one of these houses ready built, and so be caried away; great sires happen ost'times, by reason both of their Timber buildings, and for that the combustible matter is easily set on sire by the great quantity of Tapers which they light before their Images, and which the Muscovites, who are very apt to be drunk, take no care to put out.

The Estates of Muscowy comprehend 3 Kingdoms, about 30 Dutchies or Provinces, and about 20 People or Nations, who live by Herds or Communities; a Country not so Populous as Spacious, nor much frequented by strangers; and therefore I cannot give a certain account of its Provinces and Nations, much less of their Bounds, Length, and Breadth, as some Pretenders to Geography have done.

Moscha, seu Mascun, or Moscow, which is the Capital City, and the Residence of the Grand Duke, seems rather to be a huge heap of Hamlets, than a good City. It had above 40000 Houses, but now there are far less, since it has been so often plundered by the Lesser Tartars, and the Poles; in Anno 1571. the Tartars fired it: And especially since the last sire that happened there, 1668. It hath three Walls, one of Brick, another of Stone, a third of Wood, separating the sour Quarters of the Town. The greatest Ornament of the City are the Churches, of which St. Michael's is the chief, in which the Tombs of the Tzars are placed; the Steeples of the Churches are covered with Copper, whose glittering scems to redouble the brightness of the Sun.

The Tzars Castle, called Kremelenagrod, is about two miles in Circumference, and contains two sair Palaces, one of Stone, and the other of Wood, built after the Italian sashion; besides the Imperial Court, there are several other spacious Palaces for the Bojors or Nobility; as also for Priests, amongst which that of the Patriarch is the most Magnissicent; and over-against the Czars Palace is a fair Church, built after the Model of the Temple of Jerusalem, from whence it is so called; near to which is the great Market for all Wares and Merchandizes. Volodimere, the Residence of the Prince before Musco was, lies in the most fertile part of all Muscovy, defended by a Castle. The Rivers of Musco and Occa are those whereby the Merchants convey their Goods the tree to the Volga. Little Nove-

grode is the last Village in Europe, towards the East; Pleskon is well Fortified, as being the Bulwark against the Poles and Swedes. Novogrode the Great, has been one of the four Magazines of the Hans Town, and a Town fo Rich and Potent, that the Inhabitants were wont to fay, Who can withstand God, and great Novogorod? But in the year 1577, the Great Duke Ivan Valilowitz took it, and carried away, (as 'tis reported) a hundred Wagons laden with Gold and Silver; yet it is still a Town of great Trade; in the year 1611, it was taken by the Swedish General Pontus de la Gardie; and in the year 1613, redelivered to the Tzar of Mulcovy upon the Articles of Peace. Pleskou is the only Walled City. Smolensko is a place of great strength. Petzora is fenced with Mountains. Worotin is defended with a Castle. Archangel is the Staple of all Muscowy, by reason of its Haven: The Duties paid at coming in, and going out, amount to above fix hundred thousand Crowns a year. The English were the first that began to send their Ships thicher; fince, they have been followed by other Nations of Europe. Formerly the Trade of Mulcowy was driven by passing through the Sound, and putting in at Nerva; but the great Impositions put upon the Merchandizes by the Princes through whole Countries they were to pass, made them forsake that place. Rezan was the place that held out when the Tartars had taken Moscow; the Governour whereof, when he had got the Original of the Articles of the Treaty Signed by the Grand Czar, from the Tartarian General, refufed to furrender the Town, or deliver back the schedule; which was the occasion of the Tartars overthrow, and the recovery of Moscowy, and the taking of Casan Astracan, &c. St. Nicholas also drives a great Trade at the entry of the Duvine. These are the only places that belong to the Grand Duke upon the Ocean. Troitza near Moscow, is the most beautiful Convent in all Muscovie whither the Grand Tzars do usually go in Pilgrimage twice every year. Colmogorod is renowned for the Fairs that are kept there in Winter time: The Duvine bears great Vessels to that place so called. Oustiong is in the middle of the Countrey; where it drives a good Trade, as being Seated in a place where two Rivers meet. Besides the White Sea is full of Shoals and Rocks at the entry into it, and then the Snows melting, and the Torrents swelling in the Spring-time, carry the Water with such an impetuosity, that Ships can hardly get in; however there is great store of Salmon caught there. Kola and Petzinka in Lapland receive Trading Veffels. Twer, Permie, Reschowa, Bielk Faroslaw, Rothow, Susdal, Bielejezero, Uftinga, &c. bear the same name with their Provinces.

As for the Conquests of the Great Duke in Afiatick Tartary, the principal places are Aftracan and Cafen, which bear the Titles of Kingdoms, besides Zavolha, and Nagaia. Casan is a great City, with Walls and Towers of Wood, seated upon a Hill. 'Tis Inhabited by Russians and Tartars, but the Citadal is Walled with Stone, and kept only by Russians; Astracan was formerly the Seat of the Nagaran Tartars; it lies at the mouth of the River Volga, in the Island Delgoy, 50 Dutch Leagues from the Caspian Sea; 'tis environed with a strong Stone-wall, upon which are feated 500 Brass Cannon, besides a strong Garison. Its many Towers and lofty Piles of Buildings, makes a noble Prospect. 'Tis a place of great Traffick, especially for Silk. In this Countrey grows the plant Zoophyte, that resembles a Lamb, it devours all the Herbs round about the Root; and if it be cut, it yields a liquor as red as blood: the Wolves devour it as greedily, as if it were Mutton. Locomoria towards the Obi, is inhabited by People who, they fay, are Frozen up fix months in the year, because they live in Tents environ'd with Snow, and never stir forth till it be melted. They are broad faced, with little eyes, their Heads on one side, and bigger than the proportion of their Bodies requires; short Legs, and Feet extremely big. Thus they appear clad in Skins, with a piece of Wood instead of Shooes, these Skins they wear in the Winter, with the hairy sides inward; in Summer, with the hair outward; to few them, they make use of the small bones of Fish, and the Nerves of Beasts instead of Needles and Thread; they are the best Archers in the world. The Fingoeles express their thoughts better by their throats than by their tongues. These Countries goall under the Name of Siberia, a Province which affords the fairest and the richest Furrs, and whither the Lords in disgrace are banish'd. The River Pesida bounds it; for no man dares go beyond it, tho Horses and several other things have been seen, which make us believe that it is as considerable as Carbar, which cannot be far from it.

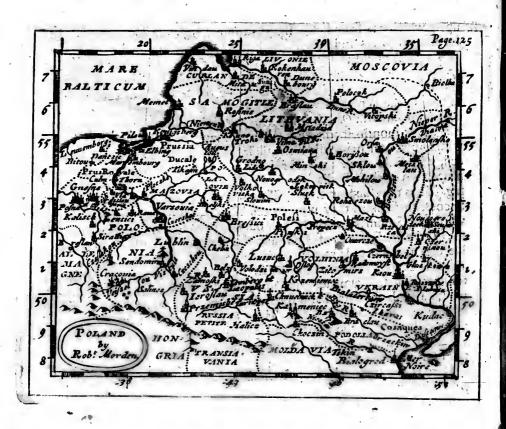

Here is one Patriarch, four Archbishopricks, eighteen Bishops, and no University.

This Countrey hash many Lakes, viz Ladoga, Onega, Biela-Osera, Resanskoy-Osera, &c. Imanow-Osera, the Source of the River Don.

The most Renowned Forest is that of Epiphanow. Its Mountains are those of Camenopoii, or Stolp, that is, the Pillars of the World between the Duvine and the Oby, said to be the Ancient Riphean Mountains.

Of Poland.

Polonia, Hispania, & Italia, La Pologne, Gallis. Poland, Anglis. Poloska, Polis. Dic Polen, Germanis.

Polonia, or Poland, which was formerly but a part of Sarmatia, is now a Kingdom of as large extent as any in Europe. It is an aggregate Body, confifting of many distinct Provinces, United into one Estate, of which Poland being the Chief hath given Name to the the rest. It is 800 miles in length, and the breadth comprehending Livonia, is almost as much.

According to the Polish and Bohemian Historians, they were, with the Bobemians, originally Croatians, descended from the Sclaves, and brought into these parts by Zechus and Lechus, two Brethren Banisht out of their own Countrey. But this is refuted by Cromerus. The more general opinion is, that they were Sarmatians, who upon the departure of the German Nation towards the Roman Frontiers, flock'd hither, and by reason of their common Language, or mixture with the Sclaves of Illyricum, thus accounted; and being united in the common Name of Sclaves, fetled in that part which we now call Poland; the Estate hereof being much improved by the Conquest of many Sarmatian Counties. But whether Zechus and Lechus, the Founders of the two Nations, by all Historians, were Strangers or Native Inhabitants, is uncertain, fince all ancient history is filent herein. The time when these should arrive here, according to Historian reports, was Anno 649, under Lechus, a time indeed near unto the general flittings of the Barbarous and Northern Nations, and therefore the more probable. Poland has for many ages been a diffinct Sovereignty. The first that was Elective, was Piastus, (after the failure of the former Line) a plain Countrey-man, elected Duke of Poland, An. 800. In Anno 962. they received the Gospel; An. 1001, they had the Title of King conferred upon them by Otho the Emperour. Anno 1220, Silesia fell from Poland to Bohemia, and could never be recovered. Anno 1386, they made the Great Duke of Lithuania, by Marriage into their King's Family, King; and so joined that Great Dukedom to Poland, Anno 1466, Casimir adds Prussia; and 1561, Livonia. Anno 1575, the Royal Family, being extinct, they chose the Duke of Anjou, Brother to Charles the 9th. King of France, but he quickly left it for the Crown of France. Anno 1579, they chose Bather, Prince of Transilvania; he dying without Issue, they chose Sigismund, the King of Swede's Son, about the year 1590, who turning Papist, and by the Jesuits Persuasions endeavouring to alter Religion in Swedeland, was ejected, and losing his Patrimonial Kingdom, only keeps Poland: Hence those lasting Wars between the two Nations. To him succeeded Uladislaus; famous for the memorable Victory against the Muscovites besieging Smolensko, Anno 1624. King Casimer succeeded 1648. in whose time the Kingdoms became extremely imbroiled by Factions, especially by the mutinous and feditious Cossacks, and Confederate Nobles under Lubomirsky, and Foreign Enemies; fo that weary of his Crown, he laid it down, not obtaining leave to nominate his Successor. After long long Contentions they chose Michael Wiesnowiski 1669. The present King is John Sobielski, renowned for the Relief of Vienna. His. Revenue is computed to be 600000 Crowns per Annum, arising from. Salt, and Tin, and Silver Mines: His Houshold-Expences, and Daughters Portions, being at the Publick Charge. Nor do the Wars at any time exhaust his Treasure. Poland is very Fertile in Rye, Wax and Honey. Other Commodities are, Flax, Masts, Cordage, Boards, Wain-Scots, Timber, Rofin, Tar, Pitch, Match, Iron, Pot-ashes, and Brimstone. It is well furnished with Flesh, Fowl and Fish; Rich in Furrs, the fairest of which are brought thither out of Muscowy. Near Cracovia, or Craken, they dig Salt out of the Famons Salt-Pits that make a kind of City under ground, and yield a great Revenue. They boyl it in Russia, but in Podolia the Sun makes it. They have the Conveniency both of the Black and Baltick Seas; but are not addicted to Traffick, neither are they well provided with Ships. The Rivers called the Vistula, & Vistillus Plin. Istula Ptol. Visula Mela. Bisula Amin. Vulgo Wixel vel Wiexel. Weissel Incolis. Vistule Gal. Vistula Ital. The Niemen, the Chronus of Ptol. Memel Ger. Niemen Sclavis, test. Cromero & Decio. But by Rithamer and Erasmus Pergel. And the Dwina, or Dzwina, the Rubo of Ptol. Duna, empty themselves into the Baltick. The Bory-Stbenes, Arift. &c. Naparis Herod. Dnieper Decio. Brisna Leunel. Beresina Puser & Eberstenio. Dnester & Nester Cromero. Nieper Mer. Cluver, Briet. The Bogg, Hypanis Arift. Herod. Plin. &c. And the Niester, the Tyras of Herod. Ptol. Tyra of Strab. & Plin. now the Nefter, or Niefter, Tefte Cromer, & Eberstin. These empty themselves into the Black Sea. The Vistula runs by very fair Cities, but the mouths of Boryst benes are under the Jurisdiction of the Turks, who in the Year 1672 took the Ukraine into his Protection, having subdued all Podolia, after the Surrender of the Fortress Kamieniek. This Kingdom is Elective, being the only place in Europe where the People at this day freely retain and practife the Privilege to Elect their King; yet the next of the Blood-royal commonly fucceeds.

The Government is an Aristocratical Monarchy, where the Senators have so much Authority, that when we name the Quality of the State, we may call it the Kingdom and Commonwealth of Poland. The Senate is composed of Archbishops, Bishops, Palatines, Principal Castellains, and Great Officers of the Kingdom. The Prince, like the King of Bees, or a Royal Shadow, canot act against his Nobles, without the Consent of the Senators: Yet his Dignity is so far considered, that never any one attempted against the Life of any of-his Predecessors. Their Kings were more anciently Free and Soveraign:

But by the common calamity of Elective States, now bereft of Royal Right and Prerogatives, having limited power, governing according to the strick Laws and Directions of the Council and Diet, who solely have full liberty to consult of, and determine the main Affairs of the Kingdom: These are of two sorts, 1. The Senate aforesaid: 2. The General Diets, which are composed of the Orders aforesaid, of the Senate or Council, and of the Delegates of each Province, and chiefer City, sent in the Name of the rest of the Nobility. These are for the more high and important business of Republick Kingdoms, not determinable by the Senate.

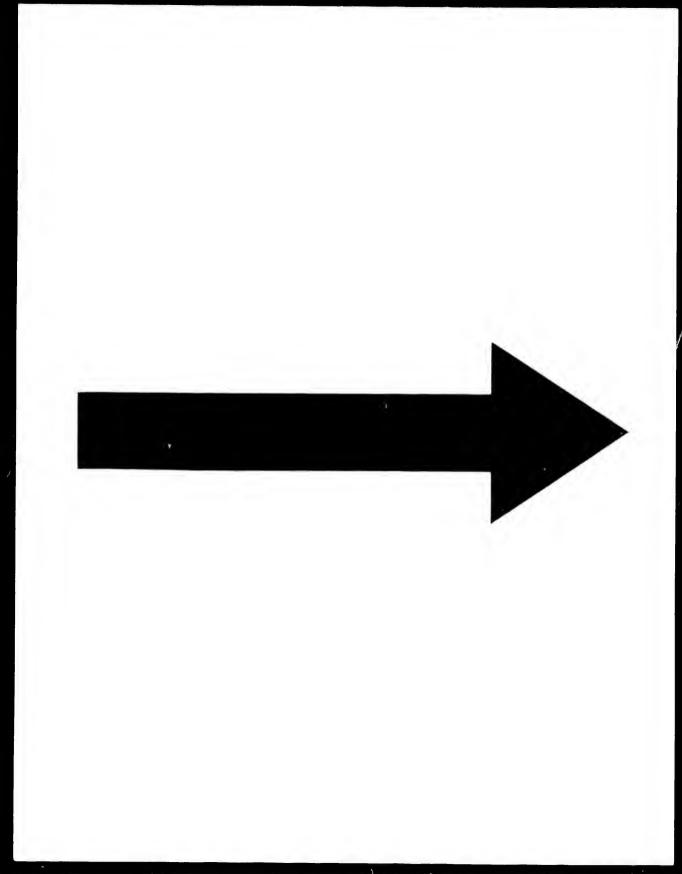

Warfaw or Varsowia, is usually the place of Election; and Crakow, or Cracowia, that of the Coronation. The Archbishop of Guesna, Primate of the Kingdom, Crowns the King, and has almost all the Authority during the Interregnum; for then he presides in the Senate, and gives Audience to Ambassadors. He also contests with the Cardinals for precedency; and therefore there are few in Poland. His Revenue is above 150000 Livres a year. The Kingdom has three Orders; the Church, the Nobility, and the Third Estate, which comprehends all those which are not of the Nobility

Though all forts of Religions are here to be found, yet the Roman-Catholick is most predominant; therefore the Clergy are next in Superiority to the King; and then the Palatines and Castellanis. Written fixed Laws they have but a few, if any; Custom and Temporary Edicts being the Rule both of their Government and Obedience.

The Polanders wear long Garments, shave their Hair upon the Chin, and leave only one tuft of Hair upon their Heads, in remembrance of Casimer the First, whom they fetched out of a Monastery to be their King. They are generally handsome, tall, well proportioned; good Soldiers, and speak the Latin Tongue very fluently. The Gentry are more Prodigal than Liberal; Costly in their apparel, Delicious in their Diet; very free and liberal; but the Pealants no betterthan Slaves. The Absolute Power they pretend to, and ill Usages of the Nobles towards the Commonalty, and Feuds one with another, was certainly the cause of the Revolt of the Cossacks, and produced all the Disorders in the Kingdom. Their Cavalry is very considerable; infomuch, that if they were but united, they might be able to bring into the Field above an 100000 Horse. The Confidence they have therein, and their Fear to render a Knight or a Burgher too Potent, has made them neglect fortifying their Towns. Their Horses are of a middle fize, but quick and lively; pompoully harnessed in Silk, Gold, Silver, and Precious Stones. Their Weapons are generally a Scymitar, tar, Sword, Battel-Ax, Carbine, Bows and Arrows. The Coffacks had always a peculiar Discipline in War, though they were the same Nation. At first, they were Voluntiers that made Incursions upon the Turk and Tartars. 'King Bathors reduced them into a Body, and joined to them two thousand Horse, to whom he affigned the fourth part of his Revenue. Their habitations are in the lower parts of Volhinia and Podolia, which they call the Ukraine; which Country is the best peopled, and the most Fertile in all Poland. There are other Cossacks that live in the Islands of the Boryst benes, which is not Navigable, by reason of the Falls, which they call Porowis. Their Custom was formerly to put to Sea with feveral flight Vessels, and to plunder the Territories of the Great Turk that lie upon the Black Sea. Some years fince, these People Revolted, notwithstanding the Lot which was offered them of Kudack upon the Boryst benes, and began the misfortunes of the Kingdom; for they leagued themselves with the Lesser Tartars, and put themselves into the Great Turk's Protection: Insomuch that we may fafely fay, That the Invasion of the Swedes, the Hostilities of the Muscovites, the Irruption of the Transplanans, the Treachery of the Cossacks, the Rebellion of whole Armies in Poland and Lithuania, the different Factions of the Kingdom, the Contests of the Neighbouring Nations, gave a cruel Blow to this Crown, and were the causes that moved the Great Turk to make War upon them.

Poland contains Ten great Divisions; four to the West, and upon the Vistula: Poland, Mazovia, Cujavia, and Prussia the Royal. Six toward the East; and to the West of Borysthenes, Lithuania, Samogitia, Polaquia, Nigra Russia, Volbinia, and Podolia. These Provinces have been gained, for the most part, either by Arms, or Alliances. They are divided into Palatinates, the Palatinates into Castellains, and the Ca--stellains into Captainships. They call the Government of places Starofies. Besides these Provinces, there is one part of Muscowia, which was yielded to the Muscovite in the Year 1634. after that Ladiflans the Fourth, before he was King, had the year before valiantly relieved Smolensko, and reduced to utmost Extremity an Army of any hundred thousand Muscovites, who were constrained to ask him pardon to fave their Lives. That Treaty which they call the Treaty of Vialma, gained to Poland, Smolensko, Novogrodeck, Sevierki: Czernihou, and other places. The Truce for thirteen years, beginning February: 1667. leaves the Grand Duke of Muscowy in the possession of Smokensko; as also of that part of the Ukraine, to the East of Borysthenes, and re-gain'd to the Crown of Poland, Dunenbourg, Polocak and Witepsk. Queal Prussia, or Borussia (where stands Konigsberg, or Mons Regims, a fair City, University, and Mart) generally by our Seamen called Queen-borow, belongs to the Elector of Brandenburgh, who is absolute Sovereign of it, independent from Poland. The City is so much the bigger, because it incloses two others within the same circuit of Walls. Pitavia, Pitau, and Memelium, Memel, are two Forts upon the Sea, of the greatest concernment of any in that Dominion. Curland is a Dukedom, for which the Duke, of the House Keeler, does homage to the Crown: His Residence is at Mitaw, the chief of the Province of Semigallia in Livonia; near this City Zernesky, the Polish General, and Lubermisky the Great Chancellor, vanquished the Swedish Army, and killed 14000 upon the place. And Vindaw was the Seat of the great Master of the Teutonick Order.

Poland, the best Peopled, is divided into Upper and Lower. The Higher or Little Poland, contains three Palatines, viz. Crakow, Sandomira and Lublin. Cracovia, or Crakow, the chief City in all Poland, where the Kings and Queens are Crowned, is inhabited by a great number of Germans, Jews, and Italians, encompassed with two strong Walls of Stone; on the East-side is the King's Castle, on the West a Chappel, where the Kings are Interred. Upon the Confines of Sileha stands the City of Czentochow, with the Cloyster of Nostre-dame of Clermont; an extraordinary strong place, and which the Swedes besieged in vain twice, in the Year 1655, and 1656. Sandomiria, or Sendomierz, a Walled Town and Castle upon a Hill. Lublin, or Lublinum, is a Walled Town, with a strong Castle environed with Waters and Marishes. Here are held three great Fairs at the Feasts of Pentecoft, St. Simon and St. fude, and at Candlemas, and much reforted unto by Merchants. The Lower Poland, though leffer than the Higher, is nevertheless called Great Poland; because it is more a part of the Kingdom than the other, and contains eight Palatinates, viz. Posna, Kalish, Plocako, Dobrain, Cujavia, Rava, Lancicia and Siradia. The City of Guesna there Seated, in the Palatine of Kalish, is very Ancient, and the Seat-of the first Kings, so called from an Eagle's Nest, which was found there while it was building, and which gave occasion to the King of Poland to bear Gules, an Eagle Argent Crown'd, Beak'd and armed Or, bound under the Wings with a Ribband of the same. Kalisch, Califia, is a Walled Town upon the Prosna, naming the Coun-The Province of Mazovia only has above thirty or forty thoufand Gentlemen, the most part Catholicks; Warfovia, Warfaw, is the Capital thereof, and of the whole Kingdom, in regard the General Diets are kept there, and because its Castle is the King's Court. Czer/ko is the Palatinate. In Cujavia stands the City Uladislau, where the Houses. Houses are built of Brick; and the Lake Gopla, out of which came the Rats that devoured King Popiel. Posania, or Posen, is a Bishop's See, seated amongst Hills upon the River Warfaw, fairly built of Stone, subject to Inundations, chief of the Palatinate. In which is also Miedzyrzecze, a strong Town upon the Borders of Schlesia, impregnably seated amongst Waters and Marshes. Roscien, a double Walled Town amongst dirty Marshes. Siradia, Sirad, a Walled Town and Castle feated upon the River Warlaw, naming the Country; sometimes a Dukedom belonging to the fecond Sons of the Kings of Poland. Lancicia, Lancitz, a Walled Town with a Castle mounted on a Rock, upon the River Blura. Rava, built all of Wood, with a Castle naming the Palatinate. Ploczko and Dobrizin, are two Palatinates on the other side of the Nieper. In Prussia Royal, which belongs to the King of Poland, are several Cities, which the Knights of the Teutonick Order built: The Lakes and the Sea-Coast afford great store of Amber. Marienburgh, Mariaburgum, is a strong Town, where Copernicus was born; a Town of good Trade, with a fair Wooden Bridge over the Vistula. Dantzick Gedanum, one of the Capital Hans-Towns, drives all the Trade of Po-Lind, and has not its equal over all the Baltick Sea: It is a Free Town, and is priviledged to fend Deputies to the States of the Kingdom. The King of Poland has some Rights there upon Entry of Goods, and upon the Custom. Thorn is esteemed next to Dantzick, and Culm is confiderable. The City of Elbing contends for Priority in the States of Prussia; it is a fair City, and well frequented by English Merchants. The Generous Resolution of the Towns-men to maintain the Authority of their King against the Swedes, without accepting the Neutrality, was the preservation of the whole Kingdom.

Lithuania is the greatest Province of all those which compose the Estates of the Crown of Poland. It received the Christian Religion 1389. now united to Poland 1466. It has the Title of a Grand Dukedom, wherein there are also to this day as many great Officers as in the Kingdom of Poland. The Country is so full of Marshes and Sloughs, that there is no travelling in Winter for the Ice. Vilna, the Capital City, incloses so many forts of Religions, that there is no City in the World where God is worshiped after so many different ways, unless in Amsterdam; a Liberty too much allowed in most parts of Christendom but rara temporum felicitas. There are also in Lithuania eight parts or Palatinates, viz. Breslaw, Minsco, Mscizlaw, Novegrodeck, Poloczk. Troki, Vilna and Witepsk, as also the Dutchy of Smoleniko, Novogrodeck, Czernihou, with the Territories of Robaczow and Rzeczych, and Sluczk, whose chief places bears the same name; other chief places of Note in Lithuania you may find in the Map. Samogitia is a Country where the Inhabitants live very poorly; it hath no Palatinate, but its chief places are Rosume, whose Houses are built of Mud, and Straw-walls, teste Sans. and Medniki. Polaquia communicates her Name to the Polanders, who call themselves Polacks, as descended from Lechus, their first Prince. Its chief places are, Bietsko, the strong Augustow, and the well fortified Tycassin, or Tywckzin, where the King's Treasure is kept. Polesia, or the Palatine of Bressie: whose chief places are Pinski and Olewsko. Russia Nigra has several Names: some call it Black Russia, by reason of the Woods; others Red, because of the colour of the Earth; and some Meridiolan, because of its Scituation towards the South. Leopol, or Lemberg, an Archbishoprick, is the Principal City, but Zamoskithe stronger; it contains also the Castelwicks of Chelm and Belz, and Province of Pokatia, whose chief Town is Halicz, Volbinia claims for her Capital, Kion, Polonis. Kioff, Germanis; an Ancient City, having once 300 fair Churches, but destroyed by the Tartars; still a Bishop's See, acknowledging the Patriarch of Moschow, and of the Communion of the Greek Church; feated upon the Bory & benes, where the Coffacks have often had their Retreats: It was once the Seat of the Russian Emperors. Taken and destroyed by the Tartars 1615. and faid to be taken by the Turks in the War 1678. In Podolia stands the well-fortified and Impregnable Kamieniek, olim Clepidava teste Cleaver, which has formerly withstood the Armies of the Turks, the Lesser Tarters, the Transylvanians, and the Walachians; but at length was forced to yield to the Power of the Grand Signior, in the Year 1672. fince re-taken by the Poles, but by the last Treaty delivered to the Turks; as is also Oczakow, the Axiace of Strab. Plin. & Ptol. 1684. the Fortress of Jaslowic in Podolia was surrendred, which consisted of 500 men. And Dassaw at the mouth of the Bory-Abenes.

In the year 1626, the Coffacks entred the Bosphorus with 150 Sail of Saicks or Boats, each Boat carrying 50 armed men, and had 20 Oars on a fide, and two men to an Oar; and on the Grecian-shore burnt Bosno-devi and Yenichioi, on the Asian-side Stenia, and put Constantinople into a general Consternation.

On the Banks of the River Neister Count Esterbasis fell upon the Rear of the Turks, killed 500 on the place, took their Baggage with divers Prisoners, and gave liberty to many Christian Slaves. The next day he charged another party, kill'd a great number, and got a considerable Booty. And afterwards having got more Recruit, he joined Battel with them, and slew 1200 on the place, gave liberty to 1400 Christians.

Christians, took divers of their Commanders, with their Bag and Baggage, with much Gold and Silver in Plate and Money.

1624. Forty thousand Horse of Tartars enters into Podolia, and made Incursions as far as Socal; but at Burstinow were overthrown, thirty thousand slain, and two thousand Prisoners taken, the greatest defeat that was ever given to the Tartars.

Upon a Hill between Tyr River and Chosin, Anno 1684. the Turks and Tartars being 60000 under a Bassa, received a great loss by Konispotzki the Polish General, with 2500 Horse.

Here are reckoned 4 Archbishopricks, 24 Bishopricks, and 5 Universities. Its chief Lakes are Gobla Beybas, and Briale. Its chief Mountains are the Carpathian Hills, dividing this Country from Hungary, Transylvania, and Moldavia.

HE Lesser Tartary which lies in Europe, is so called to distinguish it from the Grand, which makes part of Asia; it is also called Precopensis and Crim, from the Names of the principal Cities, scituated in the Peninsula; formerly called Taurica Chersonesse by Ptol. from the Tauri a certain People of Septhia in Europe. Strabo calls it the Septhian Chersonesse. Pling calls it the Peninsula of the Taurians. Appianus calleth it the Pentick Chersonesse. And P. Diaconus calleth it Chersensa. The Nogays Tartars must not be omitted, that lye between Tanas and Volga; nor the Tartars of Occiacous, between the mouth of Borysthenes and the Niester; nor the Tartars of Budziack, mentioned page 96, to the East of Moldavia, between the mouths of the Neister and Donaw. Besides all these, there are some that are settled also in Lisbuania and the Ukraine, adjoining to the Black Sea.

The Black Sea is very Tempestuous; so named, and so famed from the terrible and frequent Shipwracks that happen in it, for want of skilful Pilots, and good Havens. And the people that inhabit about it, are naturally barbarous and wicked, without any Religion, and under no Government.

The Circumference of this Sea was reckoned by Eratostenes, Hecatams, Ptol. and Ammianus Marcellinus, to be 23000 Stadia, or 2875 miles. This Sea is called by Claudianus, Pontus Amazonius; by Flacuus, Pont. Scythicus; by Fest. Avienus, Pont Tauricus; by Heredotus & Ovosius, Mare Cimmerium; by Strabo, Mare Colchicum; by Tacitus, Mare Ponticum; by Ovid, Mare Sarmaticum; by the Italians, Mar Majore; by the Greeks. Maurathalossa ; by the Turks, Caradenguis.

The Thracian Bospherus is certainly one of the comeliest parts of the World, the Channel is about 15 miles in length, and about two in breadth in most parts. The Shores consist of rising grounds covered over with Houses of Pleasure, Woods, Gardens, Parks, delightful Prospects, lovely Wildernesses, watered with thousands of Springs and Fountains; upon it are seated four Castles well fortisted with great Guns two, eight miles from the Black Sea, and the other two near the nouth of the Channel, built not above forty years ago to prevent the Cossacks, &c. from making Inroads with their Barks.

The Limmerian Bospherus is a narrow Sea two miles broad, which divides Europe from Asia, and by which the Meotick Lake doth flow into the Euxine Sea. This Strait is called by Martianus, Os Meotidis; by Mercellinus, Putares Augustiæ; by the Italians, Boccadis Jovanni; by Castaldus, Streto di Cassa; and by the Tartars, Vospero.

Palus Maestis is by the Turks called Baluck Denguis, that is, Mare Pifsium, for its incredible what a number of Fish is caught in that Lake. And its reported that they usually take Fish there, which weigh eight or nine hundred pounds, and of which they make three or 400 weight of Caveer. Their Fishing lasts from Ottober to April. The Waters do not rife or fall, though it partakes of the River Tanais, and the intercourse of the Euxine Sea. This Lake is commonly called Mer de Zabacche, or de la Tana. Limen accolis; by the Arabians, Marel Azach, the Sea.

From the Channel of Palus Meetis to Mingrelia 'tis reckoned 600 miles along the Coast, which Consist of pleasant Mountains, covered with Woods, Inhabited by the Circassians; by the Turks called Cherks; by the Ancients, Zageans; by P. Mela, Sargacians, a Country reckoned by the Turks not worth the Conquering, nor the charge of keeping.

The Commodities that the Türks exchange for with the Inhabitants, are Slaves, Honey, Wax, Leather, Chacal-skins, a Beast like a Fox, but bigger; and Zerdavas, which is a Fur that resembles a Martin, with the Furs of other Beasts that breed in the Circassan Mountains. The Cherks are a people altogether Savage, of no Religion, unfaithful and persidious. They live in Wooden Huts, and go almost naked. And the Women till and manure the Ground. They are sworn Enemies to those that live next to them, and make Slaves one of another. They live upon a kind of Paste made of a very small Grain like to a Millet. But of this Country little is known to us; and what is discovered, is by means of the Slaves that are brought from thence into Turky, who are in a manner Savages, from whom nothing of certainty is to be expected.

Crim Tartary is a Peninsula about 200 miles in length, and 50 in breadth, wonderfully populous, and exceeding fruitful, abounding in Corn and Grass, but Wood and Fuel is scarce.

The Towns on the Sea-side are Precop, Lus lowa, Mancup, Crim, Caffa, Kers, and Arbotka, which lies between the Black and Macoton or Ratten Seas, near to which is a great Field 50 mile long, enclosed with water, where the Tartars in Winter do keep their Hergees or Horles.

Within the Land are Carasu, and Bakessy Seray. The Town of Astangorod stands upon the Neiper, in former times there dwelt in it two Brothers Ingul and Ungul; who falling at variance, and that ending in cruel Wars, the whole Country adjacent (though pleasant and scuirful) became a Wilderness, and now lieth waste, being a vast Desart.

Defart, 500 miles over, and a thousand miles long, from Precepunto.

the Country of Museowy.

Caffa, known to the Ancients by the name of Theodofia, is a great Town, and place of good Trade, wherein are reckoned 4000 Houses, 3000 inhabited by Mahometans, Turks and Tartars, about 1000 Families of Armenians, and Greeks, who have their several Bishops and Churches, that of St. Peter's is the biggest, but fallen to decay; every Christian above 15 years of Age pays a Piaster and half Tribute to the Grand Signior, who is Lord of the City; which is guarded with two Castles, the Castle upon the South-side commands all the parts, and is the Residence of the Bassa. Provisions of all sorts are very good and cheap. Their chief Trade is Salt-sish, Caveer, Corn, Butter and Salt. Formerly possessed by the Genoese, but taken by Mahomet the Great 1574. hath since been subject to the Turks. In 1627, it was besieged and raken by the Cossacks, 750 miles reckoned from Constantinopse.

Precop, in Latin Precopia, seated near the place where stood the Eupeterea of the Ancients. By the Ancient Greeks called Eupatoria, Pompeiopolis, Sacer Lucus, Dromon Achillis, Gracida Heraclia. Bakessy Serai, of Basho Serrais, is the Residence or Court of the present Kans of Tartary. Mancup is a strong Town where the Kan is said to keep his

German or Crim was the ancient Seat of the Kans, supposed to be the Taphræ of Pliny, or Taphras of Ptolomy. Once a famous Colony of the Grecians.

Kers, stands upon the Bosphorus Cimerius, or the strait of Capha, not far from the Panticapeun of the Ancients. Oczakou is scituated near the instant of the great River Borysthenes, built in or near the place of Olbia.

Tanas, or Tanas of Ptolomy, scituate 20 miles from the mouth of that River, is the last City in Europe, now subject to the Turks, who have there a Garison, and by them called Azac, or Azow, 450 miles from Cassa, and 1300 from Constantinople. In 1637, it was belieged and taken by the Muscovites and Cossacks. In the Year 1641, it was not recovered, though with much blood and slaughter of the Army of Sultan Ibrahim; for it cost 3000 Spakes, 7000 fanisaries, and 8000 other Soldiers, besides Moldavians, Walachians, and Tartars, and yet the Turks were forced to raise the Siege, and return home. However the next year it was abandoned by the Cossacks, and left a sad spectacle of despair and ruin. Since taken by the Czar of Muscovy.

The ancient Inhabitants of the European Tartary, or Sermatia Europea. were of the Scythian Race; but in Chersonese it self dwelt the ancient Tauri, against whom Darius King of Persus made his fruitless War with an Army of 700000. In the actions of the Greeks and Ros mans we hear nothing of them, unless that the Emperor Trajan took the City Taphree. Afterwards growing great, by Conquering the Asiatick Tartars, Mahomet the Great made himself Master of Cassa and Azow, thereby commanding both Mxotis, and the Euxine Seas. And in the time of Selimus the first, who had Married a Daughter of this Crim Tartar, the Turks and Tartars grew into a League. And the the Kan or Prince be Elective, yet he is Chosen out of the true Line and confirmed by the Grand Signior, who have always taken upon them a power to Depose the Father, and Constitute the Son, or next of that Lineage, when found remiss in affording their Auxiliary helps to the War, or guilty of any difrespect, or want of Duty to the Ottoman Port.

The Tartars are Esteemed as Brothers, or near Allies with the Turks, to whom, for want of Heirs Male in the Ottoman Line, the Turkssh Empire is by an Ancient Compact to descend; the Expectation of which doth keep the Tartars in much Observance, in hopes one day to be Lords of the World.

In the Year 1663, the Tartars called to the Assistance of the Turks, made such Incursions into Hungary, Moravia, and Silesia, Sacking and Burning Cities and Towns, that they carried away 160000 Captives, which they Sell to the Turks, who go thither to Trade for this Merchandize, which is the most profitable Commodity that Tartary affords; Young Boys and Girls are rated at the highest price; the latter, if beautiful are, like Jewels, held at unknown Value, though few of them escape the Lust of the Tartars. They live very hardly, and feed especially on Horse-self, which dying in their march, they never examine his Disease, but putting the Flesh under their Saddles, baking it between the heat of the Horse and the Man, it is judged sufficiently prepared, a Dish sit for their Prince.

And as the poorer fort are nourished with a diet of raw Flesh, Herbs, and Roots, such as the Earth naturally produces, without the Concocion of Fire to prepare it for their Stomacks; so also their Hor-ses are of a hardy Breed, patient of Hunger and Cold, living usually upon Roots and Leaves of Trees.

Their Towns or Villages consist of Huts rather than Houses, or Hurdles made of sticks, and covered with a course Hair-cloath, of which Villages there are accounted 200000; so that taking one man out of every Village, they quickly form an Army of to many Fighting men. These Portative Houses, which they call Contares, they put upon Wheels, and dwell in them more in the Summer than in the Winter.

They never mind sciences, but understand what they know by common sense; and therefore its said of them, That they have eaten their Books, and carry them in their Stomacks.

They are faid to be so much of the nature of Dogs and Cats, that they are born blind, and do not see clear till after five days. Their Eyes are not very large, but very black; far asunder, but quick and piercing. They are rather little than big, but very large limb'd: Their Breasts high and broad, their Necks short, their Heads big, their Noses stat, their Teeth white, their Faces round, their Complexion tanned, and their Hair black and course; whilst they are young, their Mothers bathe them in Salt-water to harden their Skin.

Some of them now grown Wealthy by the Market of their Slaves, throw off their homely plads, to wear Sables; and some more frugal, build Houses, eat bread and flesh, and drink burnt Wine, and Metheglin. Sir John Chardin tells us, at Donflow, or Salma, 50 miles from Caffa, there are 200 Vessels yearly laden with Salt; and that about a mile from that place was a Tartarian Habitation, but not above ten or twelve Houses, with a little Mosque, only round about them were a great number of Tents round and square, very well closed, as also feveral Waggons, well closed and covered, which serve instead of Houfes. He also tells us, that some of their Tents were hung with Tapiftry, as also the Floors covered with the same, and the outside covered with Furs; and every Family hath one of these Tents, and two others, one for their Slaves and Provisions, another for their Cattel. That they store up their Corn and Forage in deep Pits or Magazines under the ground, as do most of the Eastern people. The Riotous and Dissolute addict themselves to Strong-waters, and a Drink called Beza, giving themselves up to a Gluttony as Brutish as that which is natural unto Swine, and rest delighted with the meer. contentment of Idleness and a full Stomack.

Justice is administred among the Tartarians by the Law of Mahomet, in the Cities and Towns of the Chan, and the other Sultans: They have their Priests, their Judges, and their Begi or Præsects, who do hear and decide private Injuries; but the Chan, with his Counsellors, do judge of Capital Matters, as Murther and Thest: In declaring whereof they need no Lawyer nor Solicitor; they use no subtilties or tricks, no excuses, or prolonging matters by delays; for the meanest of them, nay, strangers, do freely declare their own wrongs and grievances before the Judges, and the Chan himself, by whom they are quickly heard and dispatched. They instruct their Sons when young, in the Arabick Language; when they come to ripeness of years, they serve the Chan or the Sultans; and when their Daughters are Marriageable, they marry them to some of the Chief Tartars or Turks. The Richest of the Tartars in the Princes Court, go civilly and decent in their Apparel, not for Ostentation and Pride, but as Necessity and Decency requires. Their Judges, according to Mahomee's Law, are accounted Spiritual men, and of undoubted Equity, Integrity, and Faithfulness. And when the Chan goeth abroad in publick, the poorest men may have access unto him; who when he sees them, will examine what their wants and necessities are, and whence they do arise.

I shall only add this account of Tartary, by Massellini an Italian, Physician to the Grand Vizier: I for my part found Tartary a very pleasant Countrey, plentiful of all Provisions, and the people much more courteous and obliging to strangers and Christians, than the Tarks are. That as to their Morals sew Nations are less vicious, being extremely severe and faithful, having no Thieves, or false Witnesses amongst them, little injustice or violence, and live together in union and peace. And that the captive Tartars in Poland are very faithful and just in whatsoever they promise, or are intrusted with.

Of Moldavia.

Walachia on this fide the Mountains. It is very Rich in Honey and Wan, for which the Tenths of the Prince amount Yearly to above 200000 Crowns. You shall meet with several Heaps of thones which they report to have been cast up by Darius King of Persia, when he made War against the Septians. The Capital Cities thereof are, fass, or fassum, the chief Town for Wealth and Trade.

2. Soczova, Soczow, & Sachzow, was the Sacidavo of Ptol. & Ant. the Vaivod's Seat. 2. Chotexin, Arcob lar. Band. a place of great strength near the Neilter, and the ordinary Magazine of the Countrey; the place where the Poles were defeated under King Sigismund Augustus; and where King John Sobietski, a little before his Election, won the most memorable Victory in our Age. This Countrey was first made a Turkish Province by Mahomet the great, An. 1574. The Eastern part, called Beffarabia, lies upon the Black Sea, and belongs to the Grand Signior, who is Mafter of the Mouth of the Danow and Niester; and who uses all ways imaginable to Subdue the Rich Provinces of the Ukraine. Its chief places are Biologrod, Moldavis, Beligrad Turcis, a strong Town near the mouth of the River. Kilin is the Callatia & Callacis Ant. Calate Strab. & Plin. tefte Laz. But Laonicus tells us, that Calletia is now called Calliagra. And Niger faith 'tis called Pandalla, on the Euxine Sea. Ackerman Turcis, Moncastro Incol. is the Hermonassa Plin. Mel. the Hermonactus Ptol. teste Nigro. Nester Alba, Turcis teste Leuncl. Moncastro is the Tyras of Ptol. teste Herbersti. Zothezavia, Nigro, a strong place on the same Coast. The Seat of a Turkish Sangiac. The Plain of Budziack, 12 Leagues long, and half as broad, is possessed by the Dobruce Tartars, who are the greatest Robbers in those parts. They are about 1,000, and lye about Bialigrod. This Countrey became Tributary to the Turks, Anno 1485.

Of WALACHIA.

W A L A C HIA, which lies to the South-East of Transilvania, and extends along the Danaw, was called Walachia Transalpina, to distinguish it from Moldavia. It was watered by a great many Rivers. Some of the Mountains are enriched with Mines of Gold. And for the Horses, they are the best in Europe. The Prince, who is sometimes called Hospodar, and sometimes Waywode, that is to say, Chief of the Troops, resides at Terwisch, Incol. Tervis Gal. Targo visco Ital. Tergowisch Germ. Tergovistus, or Tergoviscum, Lat. Auth. Olim Tiriscum Ptol. Taros & Turo teste Lazim. And pays to the Grand Signior 26000 Livres Annual Tribute. Its other places are, Brailan, the Piroboridava of Ptol. teste Nigro, the Town of most Trade, scituate on the Danaw, memorable for the Destruction and Slaughter made by John the Vaivod of Moldavia.

Zorea, with its strong Castle, taken by Sigismand, Anno 1596.

Bucaresta is remarkable for two Bridges; the one of Boats, laid by Sinan Bassa; the other of Stone, the Work of the Emperor Trajan.

Of TRANSILVANIA.

RANSILVANIA, so called from the Hercynian Woods, and Carpathian Mountains, wherewith it is encompassed. The Dacia Mediterranea of the Ancients, by the Romans called Dacia Ripensis, & Pannadacia; by the Hungarians, Erdely; called also Septem Castra, from the German name Siebenburgen, by reason of the seven Ciries or Seats which the Saxons built there, viz. Hermenstat, Cronstat, Nosenstat, Medwisch, Schiesburg, Clausenburg, & Weissenburgh. Divers Nations formerly inhabited this Countrey; as the Jazyges, by Pliny called Metanastæ; the Getes, Basternians, Sarmatians, Græcians, Romans, Scythians, Saxons, and Hungarians. The Romans did conquer it, when the Emperor Trajan overcame Decebalus, King of Dacia, and reduced it into the form of a Province, calling their City Zarmizegethusa, after his own name, Ulpia Trajana. But Galienus lost it 200 years after. After the Romans, the Scythians under the Conduct of Attilla, leated themfelves in this Countrey, and built feven Cities, the names whereof are Orbay, Kyldi, Czyck, Girgio, Marous, Arania, and Sepsi.

The Saxons succeeded the Scythians in the time of Charles the Great, who followed the example of the Scythians, and built the seven Cities aforesaid. Lastly, the Hungarians, who mingled themselves with the Dacians; and afterwards, being provoked by Injuries, they conquered the whole Countrey, in the Reign of Stephen King of Panonia. The Mountainous part of Transstanta was subdued by Matthias Huniades, who took Dracula their Vaivode or Prince, a man of unheard of Cruelty, and after 10 years Imprisonment, restored him to his former place. Transstanta is now divided into three Nations, differing both in Manners and Laws; viz. the Ciculi, or Zeklers, descended from the Scythians, who are a stery and Warlike kind of people, amongst whom there are no Noble, or Rusticks, but all of them of one rank. 2. The Saxons. 3. The Hungarians, who call themselves the Nobles of the Countrey, and have great Power and Authority was the rest rity over the rest.

As to the payment of Taxes and Tributes, it is divided into eightprincipal Circles or Divisions, called Chapters; in which are contained 26 Royal Towns, and more than 176 Towns or Villages, besides their principal Cities, which are, 1. Hermanstadt Ger. Czeben or Zeben Hung, the Cibinium & Hermannopolis of the Ancients, yielded by the Turks 1659, after much Slaughter, and a stout Resistance; is the Residence of the Prince, a strong City, well fortified both by Art and Nature. Waradin, or Gros Wardeyn, Ger. has been extraordinarily. fortified by the Turks, who have there made a Magazine of Arms ever fince the Year 1660; but upon June the 4th. 1692. after many vigorous Seiges and Attacks made by the Germans, being no longer able to hold out against their Efforts, and despairing of any Relief, the Garison capitulated; and upon the 5th. 400 Germans took possession of the Principal Posts of the Fortress; and upon June the 9th. the Turks marched out of the City, and gave entire Possession to the Germans. This properly belongs to Hungary. Cronstat, Kronstat Germ. Brassow vel Brassowa Hung. Brassaw Incolis, the Patrovissa of Ptol. Stepbanopolis, Corona, & Prætoria Augusta, Vet. is remarkable for a fair Library, and a kind of Academy, and the most noted Empory of the Countrey, seated amought pleasant Mountains, and fortified with Walls, Ditches and Rampires. Nofenstadt, Germ. Bistritia & Bestereze Hung. the Nentidiva Vet, Nentoliva, in Old Manuscripts; is a pleasant and fweet Town. Clausenburgh Germ. Koloswar Hung. Claudiopolis, Vet. Zeugma Ptol. & aliis. Besieged by the Turks, Defended by D. Retani, and Relieved by Scheniden with 6000 men, 1661. But Lazius tells us, that Zeugma is the Zazsebes, Hung. or the Mulenbach Ger. three Leagues distant from Clausenburg towards the South, seated in a pleasant Plain, beautified with handsome Buildings, and is the Court of their Judicature: The first Seat of the Saxons.

Weissemburg, Germ. Gyula-Feierwar, Hung. Albajulia or Alba-Giulia, the Avulum of Ptol. was the ordinary Residence of the Prince, or Vayvod of Transylvania. Anciently called Tarmis; and in Trajan's time it was the Palace of King Decebalus. Varbel Incolis. Gradisch Sclavo. Veczol & Venecz, teste Iazio, is the Zarmigethusa, or Zarmisogethusa of Ptol. & Ulpia Trajana, Vet. Megies, or Medgis Hung. & Megeswar, Medwisch Germ. Mediesus Lat. the Pirum of Ptol. Segeswar Incol. Schiesburg Ger. Sciburgium Latinis, is the Sandava of Ptol. teste Lazio. Janova, besieged by the Grand Vizier, 1658. and taken.

The Countrey naturally abounds with Wine, Corn, Fruit, and Cattel; which the Coin of Trajan doth witness, in which Ceres stood holding in her right hand the Horn of the Goat Amalibaa, which sig-

missieth Plenty; and in her lest hand a Table with this Inscription or Motto, Abundancia Daciae. The People are much of the same Nature with the Hungarians, to whom they have been for a long time subject, but are somewhat more stubborn and untractable; and speak the same Language, with some difference in the Dialect only.

One of the principal Revenues of Transylvania consists in Salt, which is chiefly made at Torda; from whence they fend it into Hungary by the River Marish. There are also Mines of Gold and Silver, and fometimes great pieces of pure Gold are found in the Rivers, that need no refining: So that the Hungarians, when they possessed Transylvania, called it their Treasury. Copper is digged out of the fame Mountains that the Gold and Silver comes out of. Steel is digged and found at Cyk; Iron at Thorofco; Sulphur and Antimony are found in the Copper Mines. There are several forts of Religions in Transylvania; for Catholicks, Lutherans, and Calvinists, had the free Exercise of their Religion there ever since the beginning of this Age. The two Families of Bathori and Ragotzi, have afforded this Country feveral Princes: It being made a Soveraignty in the year 1512. by John Zapolia, by favour of Solyman the Great. The last Ragotzi, who was flain in Battel against the Turks, in the year 1659, was the four. teenth Prince: He styl'd himself, By the Grace of God, Prince of the Kingdom of Transylvania, Lord of one part of Hungary, and Earl of the Ciculians. He paid Annually to the Grand Signior a Tribute of 20000 Dollars; the Ministers of the Port have advanced it to five hundred thoufand Rix-dollars. The Emperor, as King of Hungary, pretends to have the Right of Installation of the Prince of Transylvania: For the Emperor Rodolphus Established Botscai, upon Condition that the Principality should return for defect of Issue Male.

It hath three Navigable Rivers. The Aluta or Avata, by the Hung. called Ult, by the Ger. Alth. Mavifus Strab. Marus Tacit. Maros Hung. Merisch or Marisch Ger. Marons Incolis, both rising out of the Ciculcan Mountains; the first falleth into the Danube, the other into the Tibiscus. The third is Samus, or Samosch, by the Ger. Thimes. It hath many Lakes and standing Waters, which are full of excellent Fish.

It hath great Forests, and spacious Woods, in which are Bears, Wild Oxen, Elkes, Harts, Leopards, Martins, Does, and White Harts.

What should I mention the divers kind of Rirds, as Eagles, Faulcons, Pheasants, Partridges, Peacocks, &c.? And why should I reckon the Water-Fowl, as Swans, Bustards, Pitterns, &c.? This shall suffice concerning Transylvania.

Of Hungaria.

UNGARIA, Lat. Indiginis Maglar. Slavis Wagierska, Germanis Hungerland, Gallis Hungrie, Italis & Hispanis Ongaria, now vulgarly, but improperly, called the Pannonia of the Ancients.

The ancient Inhabitants were the faziges, Metanasta of Ptol. included within the Rivers Danow and Tissa, and the Carpathian Mountains: Part of the Dacii lying East of the River Tissa or Tibiscus. The Paones or Pannonii, inhabiting beyond the Danow, betwixt it and the Savus; afterwards it was the Seat of the Huns, Longabards and Avares, and lastly of the Hungarians. So called from the Huns and Avares, a People known by the Rapines they committed in several parts of Europe under Attila one of their Kings, whose mighty Acts and numerous Forces are very remarkable. He it was that over-ran most part of Germany, and great part of Italy, that forced his way through all the Nations between him and France, beating down all the Towns and Fortresses before him. That compelled the Emperor Theodosius to buy his Peace at 6000 Pound-weight of Gold, and a yearly Tribute; Sacked and burnt Aquilea and Milan, sought the great Battel with Atius the Roman General, where were ten Kings present, and 200000 slain.

Once a great and flourishing Kingdom, whose Dominions extended as far as the Adriatick and Euxine Sea. Now divided by the Danow into the Upper Hungary, lying North of the River; and the Lower Hungary lying towards the South, containing before the Turkish Subjection, 54 Juridicial Reforts or Counties, viz. First,

First Invaded by Amurab the second Ottoman Emperor of the Turks, with almost incredible numbers of men, who yet found that the valiant Off-spring of the once Victorious Huns were not so easily subdued, but stood as the Bulwark of the Christian World for 300 years, putting a stop to the Turkish Conquest, and further Invasion into the other parts of Europe; no other Nation being able to check their unruly Rage, nor set bounds to their Empire. Yet such was the unhappy fate of That People, that after long Wars, sundry Victories, and brave Resistances, it was for the greatest part inthralled to the Turks; the rest, containing about a third part, obeyed the German Emperor of the House of Austria, descended from Anne Sister to Lewis the Second, the last Native Prince, slain by Solyman at the Battel of Mobacz.

But those that write the History of Hungary, tell us, that though Scruples of Conscience, and Contests about Religion, have been the Pretensions of the Discontents and Rebellions there; yet Ambition and Soveraignty have been the cause of the Wars and Miseries of that bleeding Country. That their own Divisions indeed contibuted to their Subjection; for neither the Roman Eagle, nor the Ottoman Crescent had waved proudly over their losty Towers, had not the Civil Dissentions of the Inhabitants, by wounding deep each other's Bosoms, made way for the Enemy.

The Soil of Hungary is very fertile; the Plains, which are exceeding lovely, bear Corn in abundance; and the little Hills produce excellent Wines; those of Tokay are highly esteemed; the Sirmian Wines are very rich and pleasant. And its deep Pasturages are stored with infinite Herds of large and fat Cattel.

It also exceeds most Countries of Europe, in Mines of Gold, Silver, Tin, Lead and Copper; as also Baths and Mineral Waters, some of a strong nature, which falling upon the ground, is turned to a Stone; others again flow in Winter, and freeze in Summer; others, which falling into Ditches make a kind of mud, out of which tried and melted they make very good Copper; and others there are that turn Iron into Copper.

The Veins of the Copper-Mine (near Newfol) are very large, and the Ore is very rich; in a hundred pound of Ore they ordinarily find 20 l. of Copper, fometimes 30, 40 to 60 in the hundred; there are also two Springs of a Vitriolate Water, which turns Iron into Copper in 14 days time, and the Copper thus changed, is more ductile, maleable, and more easily melted than the other.

Three Hungarian miles from Newfol, and two from Chremnitz, there are divers Hot Baths of great esteem, and much frequented; at Boinitz there there are also five natural Baths, of a gentle heat, and delightful to bathe in, being beautified by Count Palfi, then Palatine of Hun-

It produces abundance of Salt, and other Provisions for Humane fullenance, plenty of Deer, Hares, all forts of Poultry, Partridges and Pheasants, great store of Sheep, great numbers of Oxen, of which 100000 are yearly fent into Italy and Germany.

The Hungarians are generally Warriers and good Soldiers, strong of Body, well proportioned, and valiant; more addicted to Mars than to Minerwa; cruel, and great Eaters. Their Habits, as well as their Manners, are not far different from those of the Turks; their Language is a kind of Sclavonian, but differing in most places. But yet the Latin, the Turkish, and the High Dutch are in use among them. There are two Archbishopricks, Strigonium, and Coloeza, with ten Bishopricks, the half whereof were in the hands of the Turks; Four Orders of Persons have liberty to sit in their General Assemblies, the Prelates, Barons, Nobility and Burgesses. The Dignity of Palatine is the most considerable, next to that of the King, for which reason the Hungarians would admit of no King but one of their own Nation. The Archbishop of Strigonium is Primate, and Perpetual Chancellor of the Kingdom, and Crowns the King after his Election.

The chiefest strength of the Country consists in Light Horse; The Horsemen are there called Hussars, and the Insantry Heiduques. Besides Extraordinaries, the Emperor draws out of what he possess in Hungary about a Million of Livres every Year; that is, from the Silver Mines, his Imposition upon Houses, and his Tax upon Cattel Exported. The Grand Signior requires a Carax from those that are under his Jurisdiction, who pretends to all Hungary, and the Dominions belonging to it, by virtue of the Submission made to Solyman by Sigismund, Son to King John, Count of Cepusa, and by the Queen his Mother.

The chief Rivers of Hungary are, first the great Danubius of Ployb. Strab. Plin. & aliis, Danubio Ital. & Hispan. Danube Gallis. Danaw & Thonaw Germanis, which runneth quite through Hungary; making a Course for above 300 miles from Presburg to Belgrade, and from thence passing by the Shores of Servia, Bulgaria, Wallachia and Moldavia, with many Mouths it entereth into the Euxine or Black Sea. Having from its sirst source performed a Course of above 1500 miles.

No River whatsoever, so far from its discharge into the Sea, affordeth more Naval Vessels of strength and sufficiency for Fight. The Emperor hath his Vessels of War built like Gallies at Vienna, Presburg.

The Turk once had his Vessels at Gran, Buda, and Belgrade.

Nor hath any River afforded the like Signal Engagements and Encounters at this distance from the Sea. At the Seige of Belgrade Mahomet the Great brought 200 Ships and Gallies well stored, up the Stream. And the Hungarians sent as many down from Buda, that after a sharp Encounter, they took twenty of the Turkish Vessels, and forced the rest on shore, near the Camp; so that Mahomet caused them to be set on fire to prevent the falling of them into the Enemies hand. At the Siege of Buda the Christians had 24 Galliots, 80 small Pinnaces, and about 100 Ships of Burden, and other great Boats, when all miscarried under Count Regenslors.

At the Siege of Vienna by Solyman, Wolfgandus Hodder did a good piece of Service with his armed Vessels from Presburg, who sank the Turkish Vessels that came from Buda with the great Ordnance to batter the Walls of Vienna.

Nor doth any River afford so large and well-peopled Islands; the most considerable is the Island of Schut, or Insula Cituorum, with its several Islands in it, containing many good Towns, besides many Villages well peopled, and well fortified against the Incursions of the Turks and Tartars. And the Island Raab made by the great and lesser Rivers Raab. There is also another Island against Mobatch; another at the entrance of the Dravus; and a new Island hard by Belgrade; fifty years since there was no face of an Island; but by the settling of the Ouse or filth brought down by the Savus and the Danube, it is now full of Trees, and what advantage or disadvantage this may be to Belgrade, doubtless a little time may shew, tho the Turks once were very secure and fearless of any Forces in these parts. Between Vicegrade and Vacia there is St. Andrews, or Vizze, a fair and large Island. A litte below Buda, there is Ratzenmarckt Island, extending in length 40 miles, containing many Villages in it. Here the Turkish Forces Encamped when they came to raise the Siege at Buda.

2. The Tibicus Ptol. Tibesis Herod. Pathissus Plin. Tisianus Jornand. Tissia, Laz. vulgo Teiss; arising in the County of Moramarusius, out of the Carpathian Mountains. At Tokayit takes in the Bodroch or Bodrogus; at Kascaw the Tarcza, the Hewatz, Hewath or Hernach meets, and rolling down the Mountains, receives the Scheya and Gayo Rivers at Onoth, and a little further they all four fall into the Teisse. At Zasnock the Zagywa, the Turna, Surwizza and Genges, fall into it. At Czongrod the Kalo, the Sebeskeres, the Fekierkenz olim Chrysus R. Keureuz Incol. Kraiss. Germ. At Seged, the Marisus Strab. Marus Tac. Maros Hung.

Merifch

Merisch, or Marisch Germ. Marons Incolis. Lastly, the Temes River falls into it, near its own confluence into the Danaba, between Petra Varadin and Belgrade. By this River Teille cometh down the great quantity of Natural Salt-stone taken out of the many Salt-Mines in Hungary and Transylvania, and carried into the adjacent and neighbouring Countries.

2. On the West-side of Hungary is the River Arabo Ant. Narabe Prol. Now the Raab, rising in Styria, and falling into the Danube by Favarin or Rab, receiving the Lauffnitz, Binca and Gurtz. A considerable River, and famous, for in the Year, 1664. Germany was much alarmed at the raising of the Siege at Canifa, and taking the Fort Serini, much more at the Turks passage over this River Raab; but the extraordinary Valour of the Christians, especially the French, put them to a shameful Flight, so that after 8000 lost upon the place near Saint Gotbard, crowding in heaps to pass the River, the Horse trampled upon the Foot, and the Foot throwing themselves headlong into the water, together with the Horse, sunk down and perished, so that the water was died with blood, and the whole River covered with Men, Horse and Garments, all swimming promiscuously together; no difference here between the Valiant and the Coward, the Foolish and the Wife, all being involved in the same violence and Calamity; so that the waters devoured a far greater number than the Sword, whilst the Grand Visier Achmet standing on the other side of the River able to afford no kind of help, and as void of all Counsel and Reafon, knew not where to apply a remedy; fuch a Defeat and Dilhonour fince the time that the Ottoman Empire arrived to its greatness, fuch a Slaughter and Differed that it suffered, no Stories to that time make mention of; which occasioned a Truce for 29 years between the two Empires, by which Truce the Province of Zatmar and Zabolch, granted to Ragotzi, returned again to the Emperor; That the Castle of Zachelbyd be demolished. That Varadin and Newbausel remain to the Turks.

4. The Draws Mela, Draus Plin. Draws Strab. Draws Ptol. La Drawa Ital. Le Drawe Gal. Drau Incol. Trab Hung. which ariting among the Mountains of Saltzburg and Carintbia runneth a long Course of about 400 miles, through Carintbia and Hungary, falleth into the Danube at Drazat over against Erdoed, or Erdewdy, the old Teutoburgium of Ant. and Ptol. Dr. Brown tells us, that it is a good stream as high as Villach, where there is a Bridge over it, and at Clagenfart he passed over it upon two long Wooden Bridges, and an Island in the middle between them.

The Surver Ptol. Sans Strak in MS. Shelden Zaufro, Salas Salas De Sans Rall. Sans Germ. Le Sans Gal. le a noble River, arising the tile Miserialità betweeti Carinthia and Caribbla, and Iwelling by the accession of many Rivers; after a course of above 350 miles, entereth the Danish at Helgrade. At Crainburg, not far distant from the Head, it was a considerable stream, which afterwards so enlarged as to make remarkable Islands, one at Sisses by Zagrabia, the other Metubarris at the West of old Symmum.

6. Upon the North of Hungar, are the Rivers arising from the Capathian Mountains, which divide Poland from Hungary, viz. the Gran and Ipala, which uniting together runneth into the Danube, over-against Serigonium of Gran.

The Negera, which passing by Newhausel, entereth the Danube, over against Komara.

8. The Ways or Vagus, which Stackius faith, equals the Po in Italy, at Frifat, 50 miles from its entrance into the Danube; it is a very large River, and hath a long Bridge over it. And at Trenschin it hath a confiderable Bridge over it.

9. Besides these there are others esteemed Fluvis non ignobiles, viz, the Leytha, which entereth the Danube at Altemburgh of Owar, the Bounds of Austria,

10. The Servitza, or Orpanus, arising near Vesprinium, and pailing Alba Regalis, runneth into the Danube at Jeni, or Nova Palanka, over against Barbmonster.

11. Curassus, or Crasso, fatal to Lewisthe Second King of Hungary, 12. Valpo or Vulpanus, over which there is a Bridge at Walcovar.

12. The River Bosnath, Boswetha, or Bacunthus, which falleth into the Saven, not far from the old Surmium.

As this Countrey excelleth in Rivers, so it hath many considerable and long Bridges, not to mention the Bridg of Boats over the Danube, between Gran and Barchan, nor of that Bridg of Boats between Buda and Pest, where the Danube is half a mile over, which is so contrived as to open a passage for Boats and Vessels of Burthen to pass; nor shall I name those already mentioned. There is a handsome and well-contrived Bridg at Caloiza. But that over the Danube at Esseckis scarce to be paralleled by any other. Built partly over the Dravus, and partly over the Fens, which are often overslowed, and is five miles in length. Having Towers built upon it at the distance of every quarter of a mile, supported by great Trees erected under it, nine or ten in a rank unto each Arch, and handsonely railed on each side. It cost the Turks 300000 Dollars, and six years time to build it. That part of the Bridge which was over the Drapas was burns down by Count Saids in the late Turkish Wars between Leopald the Emperior, and Sultan Mahomes the 4th, and is now supplied by a Bridge of Boats, toinewhat below the former.

As Hungary aboundeth in Rivers, so its not without its notable Lakes, viz. the Lake Balaism or Plaszee, the Vologe of old, extending a great length between Velprinium and the Drawm, with some strong Forts upon it; which put a stop unto the cruelty of Solyman's Soldiers, when they destroyed all from Bula unto this Lake.

There is also the Newlidler Sea, by the Hungarians Terten, by Pho-Peilo. A pleasant Lake, seven German miles long, and three broad; in the Commotions of Batleay 14 Villages about this Lake were burnt by the Turks, Tartars, and Rebellious Heyduks,

The Rivers and Lakes of Hungary are abundant in Filhes. The Tibility or Teiffe is esteemed the most Fishy River in Europe, if not in the World. Tis commonly faid, that it confilteth of two parts of Water, and one of Fish; and the River Bodrack which runs into the Tabileus as aforesaid, not far from Tokay, is so of full Fish, that in Summer-time when the River is low, the People fay the Water fmells of Fishe though the Riverds thirty fathom broadwand eight and a half deep. This exceeding fertility some ascribe unto the Saline Tinctures, both of its own fream, and others accessionary unto it, which lick the many Salt Mines under ground, and so may carry some principles of feecundity with them. The Danube aboundeth with many good Fishes, as Troubs Perches harge and delicious Garpes an Fish dalled Scheyden muich expecting a Biken Atlame Scalons great from of Haulans, some 20 foor long, effectued a good Dish, and so what like Sturgeon, with many other forts. And as the Rivers are full of Fish, so in the Winter they are covered with many forts of Fowls,

The most considerable Cities of Hungary, are Buda, Hung. Aquincum, or Acincum Ptoli & Ant. teste Chw. Sicambria & Cuota alies. By the German called Offen, by the French Bude, by the Spaniards, Italians and English, Buda; so called, as some tell us, from Buda, the Brother of Attila, Anno Dom. 401. Others suppose it so called from Budini, a samous Scythian People who engaged with Attila in his samous Expedition. Yet others tell us it was called Bada, from the so many Renowned Baths in it. Tis distant from Belgrade 49 German miles, and from Vienna 54 teste Baud.

orders of the States of the Kingdom. But in the year 1529, it was retaken by Solyman, and committed to John Zapolia Prince of Transplvania. An. 1541. King Ferdinand lent his General Roggendorf with an Army of 40000 men, and 40 Cannon. But the Turks coming in to their Affishance with a numerous Army, the Germans were forced to raise the Siege: Whereupon the Sultan politickly seized upon the City, sent the young Prince Sigismund with the Princess his Mother into Transplvania, and kept the Town in his own hands, and made it the Seat of a Beglerbeg of Vice-Roy, whose Authority extended over all the Balhaws of Hungary. In the Year 1542, it was besieged by Jouchim Elector of Brandenburgh, who was forced to draw off, and quit the Siege. 1598, or 9. Count Swartzenburgh besieged it, but the Attempt miscarried. Anno 1602. General Rosworm also with the Imperial Army attacked it in vain.

Wholoever shall read of the Sieges of 1684, and 1686, will find the Story of the most famous Sieges in the World, where Blood was Spilt like water, and many brave men found their Graves: where the Affailants equalling, if not surpassing Titus storming Ferulalem; and Abdi Basha no less bravely obstinate in defending his Trust, than Valevius upon the Walls of Rhodes. But upon the Second of September 16860 the fame day of the year when it was taken by Solyman, after it had grouned under the Tyrannous Yoke of the Ottoman 145 years, was this great and strong City, the Capital of Hungary, reduced under the Obedience of the Emperor Leopold the First, by the Prudence. Constancy and Conduct of the Couragious Duke of Lorrain; the Terror of the Mullelmen, and the greatest General of this Age. The Turks have formerly experienced the Valour of Huniades and Scanderbergh: They have feared the Courage of the Duke of Merceur: They have trembled at the Conduct and flaughter of the Valiant Count Serini; but much more reason have they to dread the Martial Duke of Lorrain: He it was that near Presburg routed the Rebellious Army of Teckley: He it was that defeated the Turks near Calenburgh: He it was with the King of Poland, that raised the Siege of Vienna: He it was that vanquished the Enemy near Barkan, and rescued the King of Poland when the Polish Army was in Confusion: He it was that relieved the City of Gran, and routed the Army of Zestan Ibraim Basha: And lastly, He it. was that whilst the Grand Vizier Solyman looked on with a potent Army, won this Glorious Conquest, Buda.

Not far from Buda, in the Year 1578. was fought a Battel of fo ftrange a fortune between the Christians and the Turks, that the Conquerors were conquered, and the vanquished got the Victory. Other Cities are Poson, Hungaris Presburg, Germanis Posonium & Possonium, the Flexum of Ptol. & Ant. The City is pleasant, the Castle stately, where the highly esteemed Crown of Hungary is kept; the Labyrinth, Fish-Ponds, and Fountains are Noble, it is the Capital of what the House of Austria possesses, ten German miles from Vienna: Since the Loss of Alba Regalis, it is the place of Election and Coronation of the King's of Hungary. Cassovia, Chaschaw incolis & Chaschow, lies towards the Mountains, having the fairest Arsenal in the Countrey. Eperies, Eperies, is much frequented, by reason of the Fairs which are there kept; where also there is a Salt-Mine about 180 Fathom deep, the veins of Salt are large, and there are pieces of 10000 l. weight; the colour of the Salt-stone is somewhat gray, but grinded to powder, it becomes white; nor is the Salt always of one colour, but of divers; there are some pieces so clear and hard, that they carve them into divers figures.:

Schemnizz, the greatest of the Mine-Towns in Hungary, and where great quantity of Silver Ore is every day digged. It hath three fair Churches, and three Cassiles, and several Mines; those of Windschacht and Trinity are the chief, the last 70 Fathom deep; the one is much esteemed, and of a black colour, covered with a white Earth.

There is also often found a Red Substance which grows to the Ore, called Cinnaber of Silver, which being grinded with Oyl, maketh a Vermilion as good as the Cinnaber made by Sublimation. There are also found in these Mines, Crystals, Amethysts, and Amethystine mixtures; as also Vitriol naturally Crystalized in the Earth. And as there is great variety in the Silver Ore, as to its mixtures with Earth, Stones, Marchasite, Cinnaber, Vitriol, &c. so also in its Richness; some holding a great proportion of Silver, in respect of others: A hundred pound-weight of Ore sometimes yields but half an Ounce, or an Ounce of Silver; sometimes two Ounces, 3, 4, 5, and so to 20 Ounces; what is Richer, is very rare.

Most of the Schemnitz Ore holds some Gold, which they separate by melting the Silver, then granulating it, and after he dissolving it in Aquafortis made out of a peculiar Vitriol, prepared at Chremnitz. whereby the Gold is left at the bottom, and is afterwards melted. and the Aquafortis is distilled from the Silver, and serveth again tor nie.

Chremitz, Carpates of old, is the oldest Mine-Town, and the Richest in Gold of all the rest; 965 years they have worked there; the Mine is about 10 English miles in length, and there is one Cuniculus, or Horizontal Passage, 800 Fathonis long, and the depth is about 170 Fathoms; and the Leopold Pit is 150 Fathoms deep.

Of the Gold Ore, some is white, some black, some red, some yellow; that with black spots, within white, is esteemed the best.

There is also a Vitriol Mine at Chreminitz about 80 Fathom deep. the Ore whereof is reddish, and sometimes greenish. This Ore is infuled in water, and after three days the water is poured off, and boiled feven days in a Leaden Vessel, till it comes to a thick granualated whitish Substance, which is afterwards reduced to a Calx in an Oven, and serveth in the making of Aquafortis, or the separating water used at Schremnitz.

Newfol, or Bistricia, has the greatest Copper-works in Hungary, the Copper beling very strongly united to its stone-bed or Ore; the Separation is effected with great labour and difficulty, it being burned and melted 14 times before it becomes fit for Ule.

At a little Village called Smalnik, there is a Rivulet which changes particles of Iron into Copper. The leaves of Oaks that are by the bank-fide, falling into the water, are intentibly eaten through, and the most gross particles of this water getting therein, it is turned into a leaf of Copper, which being exposed to the Sun, or only to the Air. hardens, and always retains its former figure of an Oaken leaf.

At Glas-Hitten, seven English miles from Schemniz, there was once a rich Gold Mine; but fince the over-running of the Countrey by Bethlem Gabor, it is loft. 'Tis much frequented by reason of its natural hot Baths.

Eisenbach, four miles English from Glas-Hitten, and five or six from Schemniz, is also noted for its Hot Baths, the sediment of which is red, and turneth into Stone, and it turneth Wood into Stone.

At Hern-Grunds, an Hungarian mile from Newfol, in that Mine were two Springs of a Vitriolate water, which turn Iron into Copper.

The feven chief Mine-Towns are Schemnitz. Chremnitz, Newfol, Ko-

Here also are several sorts of Warlike Engines and Instruments.

Komore, Comara, is the Crumerum Afaum, of Ant. Comaronium & Bragitium; is Moated by the Danow, and strongly fortified. The Island of the same Name, formerly called Schutt, contains above 300 Villages, and above 15000 Inhabitants, with the conveniences of Hunting and Fishing. Filleck, Filecum, Tokay, Tokaum al. Tressum Zatmaria, and Kalo, have been likewise fortified by Order of the Emperor, who keeps hard by feveral Armed Gallies.

Agria, Egar Ger. Erlaw Hung. Erla Incolis. Temeswar, and Canisia, have also their several Bassa's as being upon the Frontiers. The Turks call Temeswar, The Invincible; by some thought to be the Zaroedra, or

The City of Gran, Strigonium Laz. or Offrogon, Bregietium Cluv. was the Birth-place of King Stephen, the first Christian King of Hungary. Besieged in vain by John King of Hungary; taken by Solyman August the roth. 1542. recovered by Count Mansfelt; but re-taken, or basely delivered in the time of Sultan Achmet to All beg the Turkish General. In August, 1684, it was taken by storm, and the Turks Army defeated near Gran.

Kèresken the Governour thereof, upon promise of a great Reward; but Selimus, the Son of Selyman, for his Treason, caused him to be put into a Barrel stuck full of Nails, and to be tumbled

The Emperor Ferdinand the Second besieg'd Canisia, or Canischa when he was Arch Duke, but could not take it. Nor was Leopold Ignatius more fortunate in the year 1664. The Retreat of the Duke of Marceur from Canisia, was one of the noblest Actions of our Age. Quinque Ecclesia, Furskirchen Germ. Otegiazae Hung. Others tell us 'tis the Amantia of the Ancients, tho tome think Amantia to be Alm. 2; it is the place where Solyman died during the Siege of Zygeth, in the year 1566. Mobacz is remarkable for the Deseat of the Christans in the year 1525, and for that of the Turks 1687. Pont. d' Esseck, famous for the Action of Count Serini, who burnt it in view of all the Turkish Army: and for the Campaigne of 1687.

Anno 1682. Villeck was belieged by the Bassa of Buda, with 25000 Turks and Tartars, but after a brave resistance in September, it was surrended without the Governour's consent, and afterwards demolished, and the Walls levelled with the ground.

At the same time Lewentz was also abandoned and posseried by the Enemy; and the Winter following, the Turks and Hungarian Rebels seized upon the Fortresses of Atsol, Newsol, Sebimnitz, and Chremnitz. Anna 1595, divers Hungarians besieged Papa, and after a long Battery it was delivered to them, who sold the Inhabitants to the Turks. But the Imperial Army advancing, many of the Rebels sted. And some of the chief promoters of that disturbance were impaled alive.

Near Altemberg the Imperial Horse and Foot being divided in passing a River, after a sharp dispute, the Turks seized upon the Imperial Baggage Valued at 4000 Guilders, when also the Princes of Savoy and Aremberg soon after died of their Wounds.

1684. The Castle of Unguar was besieged by Teckley, and taken by Storm, and most of the Garison put to the Sword.

Upon the Hills near Waccia, the Duke of Lorrain attacked a Body of 20000 Turks, commanded by the Vizier of Buda, of whom were flain 3000, 1500 taken Prisoners, with feven Pieces of Cannon, eighteen Standards, the Vizier and two Bassa's slain, a Bassa and ten Aga's prisoners, and of the Duke's Army not a hundred men lost.

1684, Zeben was invested by General Schults, and surrendred upon discretion; all the Hungarians, being about 120, were by the Count d' Bargarzzi cut in peices in revenge of Count Teckley's Impaling alive divers of the Garison of Cziczuar, which was surrendred to him upon Articles.

Barrbfield, a place fortified with good Walls, several Towers and Redoubts, the Garison consisting of about 400 men, capitulated and was put into the Command of the Imperialists.

Mongaiz and Tokay are two strong places; and in 1683 were in the hands of Count Teckley; since fallen into the Germans Possession.

Makowitz was surrendred to General Schultz, October 1684.

In the year 1663, Leventz a strong place, was delivered up to the Turks. Schinta, the Magazine of the Emperor's Arms and Artillery, was affaulted by the Vizier, but being stoutly repulsed, he raised his Camp, and came before Novigrade, a Castle on a high Rock, encompassed with a Ditch of 34 foot deep, Garisoned with 600 Soldiers, and well stored with Victuals and Ammunition, yet resigned unto the Turks.

1663, At the shallow passages of the River Muer, Count Serini with 500 men, overthrew a party of 30000 Turks and Tartars, under the Command of the Bassa of Temiswar, and so delivered Croatia from a total destruction.

In Jan. 1664, Berzenche was surrendred to Count Serini and Bakockza. And Quinque Ecclesiae for its perfidious act, was by the Count after a surious assault, took by Storm, and in recompence of its treacherous stratagem, put all the Inhabitants to the Sword, pillaged and fired the Town, which rendred it a horrible spectacle of Fire and Sword.

At Zigeth, confisting of an old and new Town, conjoined by a Bridg which crosseth a famous Marsh or Fen, N. Serini, the Great Grandfather of the foresaid Count, Immortalized his Fame and Memory with the loss of his Life, against Solyman the Great, in the year 1565, with an Army of 600000.

Serinswar, built by Count Serini, yielded to the Turks; and was demolished. Leiva, before whose Walls C. Susa, and the Christians obtained a great Victory against the Turks and Tartars; and assaulted Barchan, a Palanka opposite to Gran.

Since the Battel between Syclos and Mobatz, 1687, all Hungary, except Temeswar in the Upper Hungary, is in the hands of the Germans.

THE Name of Germans is much controverted amongst Authors; some think them so called by the Romans, who seeing the People so like unto the Gauls, called them Germans to the Gauls. Others derive it from Ger, signifying all, and man, whence also came the Name of Almain, which some fabulously derive from Alman, whom they would have to be the 11th King of the Dutch, or Germans. Others from the River

River Atmul, by later Writers called Almannus, whereunto they should border. Others more probably from the Dutch Allensen Mann; signifying all forts of men, or all hardy and valiant. The many opinions also, and great differences we have found amongst Authors in the Interpretations of the many ancient German Nations, makes me at present not to mention them. 'Tis generally agreed, that the Gomerians, or Cimbri, were the first Inhabitants of Gaul, Germany, and all the Nations of the North and West of Europe; and that the Gauls, their Off-spring, under their Captain Segovefus, victoriously ranged over all Germany, from whom have sprung the ancient Inhabitants of this Countrey. Divided they were into several Nations, and these also subdivided into lesser Tribes. The first Nation of the Germans, who made the Romans as well feel their Swords, as know their Names, were the Cimbri Teutones, and Ambrones, upon their Invasion of Gaul and Italy, who were overcome and destroyed by Marius.

After this, Casar, upon his Conquest of France, having passed the Rhine, and provoked the Germani, stirred up a tedious War; all other Adventures were easie to the daring Romans: Nothing could give check to Cælar's Fortune, only the Germans; who at last, were rather Triumphed over, than subdued by their greatest Armies. How little was their Progress? How inconsiderable were their Acquests, after 5 long a War? which continued for more Generations, than others lasted Years: And indeed some part of Germany, viz. that beyond the Elbe and Danube, was never fo much as Attacqued. Endangered once by Drussin the Reign of Casar Augustus, but freed by the Victory of Arminius, and the death of Varrus and his Legions; neglected afterwards as a people unconquerable, or not worth the conquering. Towards the wain of the Roman Empire, the Names of the ancient Inhabitants by little and little worn out and quite extinguished through their Fights and Butcheries amongst themselves; their Transmigrations into foreign Countries, their affection and union into new Names, and the Fleetings and Invasions of the Sarmatians, and more Eastern people, Germany became confounded, and peopled with thirteen, for the most part, differing Names of the Saxons, Almans, French, Thuringiens, Boioarians, Huns, Lombards, Avares, Hungarians, Danes, Norwegians, Suethide, or Sclaves, whose Original Fortunes, Kingdoms and States issuing from them, I must refer for a larger Treatise of Geography, if God permit. But the fatal period of the Reman Empire drawing on apace, the Franks, Eugundians, Almains, and other German Nations, break through their Guards, disposses the Romans of all Gaul, Rhetia, and Noricum, till in the end, the French prevailing over the rest, extend their Empire over all the Modern Germany, chiefly by the Valour of Charles the Great, created Emperor of the West part of France and Germany. Afterwards in the time of Lodovicus Pius, the Son of Charles the Great, the Empire of his Father was parcelled out into many parts, viz. Italy, France, Burgundy, Lorrain, and Germany, amongst his Sons and Nephews, with the Ticle of Kings; by which means, the Kingdoms of Lorrain and Germany, United in the Person of Lewis the Ancient, were aliened from the French, and possessed by the great Princes of Lorrain, Saxony, Suabia and Bavaria: As also by them dismembred into many principalities and Inserior States, all passing under the Name of Alman, or Germans.

Germany is now bounded on the East with Poland and Hungary; on the West with France, Switzerland, and the Seventeen Provinces; on the North with the Baltick Sea, and Denmark; and on the South with the Alps, which part it from Italy.

The length whereof, from East to West, viz. from the Borders of Lorrain to Poland, is 766 miles, the breadth from North to South, viz. from the Baltick Sea, to the Southermost part of Tyrol is 657 miles of the same Measure, viz. 73 to a degree. Tis scituate in the Northern Temperate Zone; the longest day in the Southern parts being 15 hours and a half; in the most Northern, 17 hours and a quarter.

'Tis a spacious Country, and very Populous; the People of strong Constitution, of a good Proportion and Complexion: very ingenious and stout, much given to Drink, but of an Honest, Noble Nature: The poorer fort great Pains-takers, and the Nobles either stout Soldiers, or good Scholars.

The Women are of good Complexion, but corpulent; good Bearers, and fruitful Breeders.

The Title of the Father descends to their Children; so that every Son of a Duke is a Duke, and every Daughter of a Dutchess is a Dutchess; whence it follows, that the Nobility being too much multiplied, is no less impoverished.

The Language here generally spoken, is the High-Dutch; a Language very Ancient, and hath less commixture with the Latin than any which is used in these Western parts.

No Countrey in the World is either better Planted with goodly Ciica, or more Pleafant and Healthful. A Country abounding with Mines of Silver and other Metals; plentiful in Corn, Wines, Salt, Flesh, Linnen, Quick-silver, Allom, Saffron, Armour, and Iron-works.

The Religion of this Country is divided into Papists and Protest ants;

the latter again divided into Lutherans and Calvinifts.

About the Year 1250, the Empire being greatly distracted into many Factions, each Faction chose a King of the Romans or Emperor. The Empire thus sluctuating for about 20 years, the Princes met at Quidling-burg and made a League of defence together; and meeting at Francfort they chose Radolphus Earl of Hapsburg in the Year 1270, who gaining Austria, and other Territories adjacent, was the first Arch-Duke of Austria, about 1280.

About the Year 1500, the State of Burgundy, which comprehended also the Low-Countries, was by Marraige with the Heires thereof, added to the House of Austria.

About the same time (under Maximilian the First) the publick Courts of Judicature, called the Imperial Chamber, the Supream Tribunal and Appeal of Justice, was fixed at Spire, and the Empire divided into ten Circles.

About 1919. Charles the Fifth, Son of Philip King of Spain, Son of Maximilian the Emperor, succeeded his Jather in his Estates of Spain, Burgundy, the Low-Countries, Austria, &c. and by Election, his Grandsather Maximilian in the Empire also. Under whom the German Empire rose to its greatest height and enlargement.

Under this Charles all Germany was rent into two grand Factions or parts, Roman Catholicks, and Protestants; occasion'd by Martin Luther, born at Islesby in Saxony, who first only taxed the Abuses, and observed the Corruptions of the Church; after makes a general defection, Anno 1524. This was no fooner done, but the Reformers make a new Schism, and divide between Luther and Zuinglius, 1524. which rose to two grand Factions afterwards, by the name of Lutherans and Calvinists. Hence rose other Sects-also, pretending higher Reformation in Religion; fothat in the Year 1525. Tho. Muntzer occasions the Rultick War. And in the Year 1534. Succeeded the Anabaptists at Munster. And in Anno 1547, began the Smalcaldick War in Haffia, where Cafar prevails, and ruins their League; foon after the Protestants prevail, and procure the Passavian Peace, Anno 1552. But in the Year 1618. the Bobemians reject the Emperor, and Elect the Count Palatine King of Bobemin, and Crown him at Prague. Hence the Bobemian War arose, and ipread. spread over all Germany, changed first into the Saxon, then into the Swedish War, Anno 1620. The Duke of Bavaria overcoming the Bobemians, the Palatine was ejected out of the Upper Palatinate, out of the Electorship, as well as out of the Kingdom of Robemia. Anno 1625. the Duke of Saxony is flain. Anno 1620. the King of Sweden enters Germany in the behalf of the Protestants, and Princes Liberty. 1622. The King of Sweden, and Tilly the General of the Imperialists, after several Victories and Conquests, both dye. 1635. The Duke of Saxony and Brandenburg make Peace with the Emperor: And the King of France dengunceth War against the Empire. Anno 1626. the Duke of Saxony is flain, and the Imperialists are diven out of Pomerania by the Swedes. 1629. Saxony and Bohemia invaded. The War continues hot by several Sieges and Battels till 1648. when Munster Treaty enfues, and so the thirty years, wherein had perished about 32,000. was ended. This Peace of Munster changed the Empire to that State that it is now at. For the King of Sweden carried away the Dukedoms of Bremen and Verden, Lower Pomerania and Stetin, with other places in the Upper Pomerania. The Island or Principality of Rugen. The Isle of Wollin, the River and Port of Odor. The Bailiwick of Poel and New Closter. The Signiory of Wismar and Wildbasen in Westphalia, &c. The King of France was to have the Cities and Bishoprick of Mets. Toul. and Verdun, with Morenvic, Pignerol, Brisac, the Landtgravedom of Alfatia the Higher, the Bailiwick of Hagenaw, and the Fortress of Philipsburg. The Palatine of the Rhine is restored to his Estate in part, and made the Eighth Elector, and High Treasurer of the Empire. And the Protestants were afferted into full Liberty of their Religion; which Name arose in the Year 1529, at the General Assembly at Wormes, when the Elector of Saxony, the Landtgrave of Hessen, the City of Norimberg, and others, protested against the Decrees of Cæsar, and appeal to an Universal Council.

Germany is now an Elective Empire, wherein there are feveral Sovereign Estates, of which the Emperor is chief, who governs by Diets, which are almost like the General Estates of France. The Principal Articles of the Government are contained in a Fundamental Law, or Original Constitution and Agreement, called Aurea Bulla, or, The Golden Bull; which treats of the Election of the King of the Romans, the Duty of the Electors, of their Privileges, of the Authority of the Emperor; and lastly, of the means to maintain the Peace and Repose of the Empire. This Bull is a little Book, the Original whereof, being written in Parchment, contains 24 Leaves, and 30 Chapters; and was constituted as the perpetual and fundamental Law of the Empire, not to be altered by the Emperor, no not with the Elector's confent, by Charles the Fourth 1356. The Election of the Emperor ought, 'tis faid, to be made at Francfort upon the Mein; though this Order, in the last Elections, has not been observed. Besides the Assemblies that concern the Affairs of the Empire in general, there are three other forts; that of the Electors, for the Election of the Emperor: That of the Deputies, whither the Emperor fends a Commissioner: And those of the Circles: like the Assemblies of the States in the great Provinces of France. Of these Circles there are ten in the Empire; that is to say, of Austria, Bavaria, Suabia, of the Upper Rhine; of the Lower Rbine, W. Aphalia, Upper Saxony, Lower Saxony, Franconia, Burgundy; but this last is now no more summon'd. Every Circle has a Director Ecclesiastick, and a Secular Director, who preside together at their Assemblies. Two or three Circles may meet when one of them is attacqued from without, or in confusion within. The Empire, as it retains the Title, so it is almost like that of the Romans, though it contains not so large an extent of ground. The Princes that Compose it are of five forts: The Emperor, who is now of the House of Austria, the Electors, the Ecclesiasticks, the Princes Secular, and the Free Cities: In the General Diets are three bodies; that of the Electors, that of the Princes, and that of the Imperial Cities. There are reckon'd above 200 Sovereignties in Germany, who do not acknowledge the Emperor, but only in point of Homage and mutual Agreement.

The House of Austria has three forts of Dominion; those of Austria. which are Hereditary to him; those of Bohemia, which he now claims as his Right; and those of Hungary, which he hath by Election. Out of this House of Austria the German Emperors have been Elected for above 400 years, ever fince the time of Hen. 4th, when the Lords of the Empire began to undervalue his Authority, and Pope Gregory the Seventh taking occasion thereby, Excommunicated him, and ordered the Imperial Scepter should be given to another; Then the Germans abolished the Right of Succession, and assumed to themselves that of Electing the Emperors.

The Emperor, who is of that House, usually in his life-time causes his Son, or his Brother, or his next Kinsman to be Crowned King of Hungary, afterwards King of Bobemia: then if he finds the Princes difposed to it, he causes him to be Elected also King of the Romans, that is, his perpetual Vicar, and Successor presumptive to the Empire.

Without the Revenue of his Hereditary Territories, he would scarce have wherewithal to support his Dignity; for under the Title of Imperial Majesty, he possesses no Land: his principal Rights are the Election and Investiture of Feosty, the Grant of Privileges, and the Right of Legitimation. He may make Laws, give Letters of safe Conduct, establish Posts, make Parliaments, settle Universities, erect Burroughs into Cities, create Offices, and out-law Cities by Proclamation. Lastly, He may make Kings, Dukes and Marquesses; and he is superior to all the Princes of the Empire, who for that reason have a great respect for him.

The Electors are Eight in all, viz. the Archbishop of Mayence, Arch-Chancellor of Germany; the Archbishop of Treves, Arch-Chancellor of France; the Archbishop of Cologn, Arch-Chancellor of Italy; the King. of Bohemia, Great Cup-bearer; the Duke of Bavaria, Great Steward; the Duke of Saxony, Great Marshal or Constable; the Duke of Brandenburgh. Great Chamberlain; and the Prince Palatine, Great Treasurer. These Electors pretend that their Dignity makes them equal to the Kings of Europe; and, which is of greater moment, for that they Elect and Crown the Emperor; after which the Pope, by usurpation, pretends a Right to confirm the Election and Coronation. Four Voices of these Electors suffices to advance any one to the Imperial Dignity: and at present the King of Bohemia only has his Seat in the Election. The Secular Electors may not nominate themselves. Nor can the Lands of their Electorates be alienated. In the House of Saxony the Electorship belongs only to the Eldest, who shares the other Seigniories with his Brothers. The Elector of Brandenburgh is the most Landed of all the rest, next to the King of Bobemia; his Dominions contain above two hundred German Leagues in length; but are for the most part separated one from another; and by the late Combustion, and the Fortune of War, he is become the most considerable Prince of that Quality in the Empire. Anno 1000. under Otho the Third, the Electors had fixed their Electorship, which first began by permission under pretence of avoiding Confusion, and for the good of the common Interest; some tell us, that the Electors were Instituted after the death of Otho the Third. And others fay, it was in the time of Rodulph of Hapsburg. The Ecclesiastical Princes are, The Archbishop of Salisburg, the Grand Master of the Teutonick Order; several Bishops, and other great Prelates, Abbots and Abbesses, who have no voice, but embody'd; these Princes are almost absolute over the Temporality of their Benefices; neither has Christendom any Prelates so potent as they. Their Elections to their Dignities belongs to the several Chapters, wherein neither the Pope, nor the Emperor, has any Right to intermeddle.

Among the Secular Princes there is the Arch-Duke of Austria, the Princes of the Electoral Houses, some Dukes, Marquesses and Landt-graves: there are also some Earls and Barons who differ only in name and method of the Empire.

They have their Seat in a Body which has four Voices in the Estates of the Empire. But they have also every one their Voices in their particular Assemblies, and some of them Coin Money. There are some Noblemen in Franconia, in Suabia, in the Countrey of the Rbine, and in the Lower Alfatia, who are absolute in their own particular Territories, as the most Potent Lords of the Empire in theirs; several Principalities in Germany are possessed by one Prince alone, and many times one Principality belongs to many. The Free Cities, which are so many Republiques, are of two forts, viz. Imperial, and Hans Towns. The Imperial bear the Eagle of the Empire in their Arms, either entire or divided; and they have a Right to fend their Deputies to the Diets of the Empire, where their Corporation has two Voices. They exceed the number of Fourscore, and are considered either as lying upon the Seats of Suabia, or the Seats of the Rhine; and they are thus divided from the several Seats where the Deputies of the Cities take their places; the Deputy of the City of Cologn takes the first place upon the Rhine-Seat, and the Deputy of Ratisbourn takes the first place upon the Suabian Seat: Some are govern'd by Noble Families, others live under a Popular Government.

The Hans Towns are in league together, to aid one another reciprocally in time of distress, as also for the maintenance of the liberty of their Trade, and to preserve themselves from being overcharg'd with Impositions by Foreign Princes; but that League at this day is little regarded by several of these Cities, whilst every one endeavours to stand upon their own bottom, and do their own business themselves. Of these, Lubeck, Cologn, Brunswick and Dantzick, are the four chief; Lubeck may summon all the rest together, with the Advice of five of the Cities which are next adjoining to her.

The most famous Rivers in Germany are the Rhine, the Danube, the Elb, the Odar, the Veser, and the Ems. The Rhine, Rhenus, Casar Strab. Plin. &c. Rhyn or Reign Germ. Le Rein Gallis, Rheno Italis, ariseth out of the Alps in two Fountains, distant about a days journey assumed, the one called the Vorder Rhine, or Anterior Rhenus, sourceth out of the Hills of the Leponti, and the Mountain Luckmanier. The further, named the Hinder Rhein, or Posterior Rhenus, out of the Alps, and the Mountain der Vogel. These meeting together about a German mile from Chur or Coire of the Grisons, afterwards continued in one Channel towards the North by the Cities of Constance, Basil, Spire, Worms, Mentz, and Cologn; encreased by the way with the addition of several other R great Rivers, unto the Fort Schenken-Schans; from whence it is conveyed into the Ocean by four Branches or Channels, first of the Wael by Nimmengen, Tiel and Bommel, until it lofeth its name in the Maes. 2. The Leck into which the Rbine diverteth at Duerstede, and is carried into the Maes betwixt Dort and Rotterdam. 2. The Rhine extended from Schenken-Schans by Huessen, Arnhem and Wagening, unto Duerstede, where the main River being diverted by the Leck, with a small Current, it is continued by Utricht, and through Holland unto Leyden, where in the Sandy Downs betwixt it and the Sea, it leaveth its name, and under another name of the Uliet it is turned towards the South. falling into the Maes at Sluys over against the Breil. The fourth Branch is the I/el, drawn from the Rhine near Arnhem, and passing by Zusphen and Daventer, falleth into the Zuider, or South-Sea, at Campen. The main Channels of the Rbine in the time of Cafar were the Rbine which then fell into the Ocean, at the place where is now Catwick in Holland. And the Vahatis or Wart, making the Island of the Batavians of Tacitus. Chiefer Rivers received into the Rhine are the Neckar. Nicer & Necarus, Flav. & A. Marc, arising in Silva Nigra, or Swartzwald near Rotweel, and falls into the Rhine at Manheim near Heidelberg. The Main, Manus Tac. out of the Mount Fitchtelburg passing the Towns of Bamber, and Wurtzburg, falleth in below Francfort. The Roer Rura. Scrip. Belgis, in Westphalia, flowing hereinto at Duisburg. The Lippe, Luppia, Tac. Lupias Strab. rising not far from Paderborn, empties it self at the Wesel. The Aar issuing out of the Alps of the Leponti near the Hill of St. Gotbard, is discharged hereinto near Waldshut. The 11, Ellus Flavius, out of Suntgow, after the receipt of almost infinite lesser Rivers, falls in a little below Strasburg. The Moselle, Mosella Tac. Aus. arising out of the Mountains of Vauge at the Confines of Lorrain, is disburthened hereinto at Coblentz.

The Donaw Ger. le Danube Gal. Danubio Ital. & Hisp. Danow Ang. Danubius Polyb. Strab. Plin. &c. ariseth in Schwartzwald, distant about two hours journey from the head of the Neckar, and running Eastwards through Suawia, Bavaria, Austria, Hungaria, Bulgaria, &c. after above 1000 miles course it poureth into the Euxine Sea, with a great violence through six Channels, according to Pliny, through seven, according to Sol. Strab. and A. Marc. The lower part of this River was called Ister. Strabo puts the beginning of this Name at its Cataracts, Ptol. at the Town Axiopolis. Pliny, where it arriveth at Illiricum. Appian at the Consuence of it with the River Savus. The greater Rivers received hereinto in Germany, are the Iser, Isara. The Leck, Lycus. Inn, Anus of Ptol. The Nab, or Nabas, and the Marchb or Moraus.

The Ems Germ. Amis & Amusia Strab. Amisus & Amasus Ptol. & Pliny. It ariseth in West phalia near Paderborn, and is disburthened into the German or British Ocean.

The Weser, Visurgis Pliny, Visurigis Ptol. Bisurgis Strab. Iturgis Ovid. hath its beginning in the Hilly Forest of Duringer Waldt, passing by the Towns of Hamlen, Minden and Bremen, and having received the Fuld, and the Aller, sloweth into the German Ocean; the part towards the head is called Wierra, Verra al. Wertz.

The Elbe, Albis of Pliny, Strabo, &c. rifeth out of the Hill Risenbirg, being part of the Sudatæ, incircling Bohemia, and passing by the Towns of Dresden, Wittenburg, Meydburg, it falleth into the German Ocean below Hambourg; towards its beginning in Bohemia, it is called the Labe. Greater Rivers which empty hereinto are the Muldaw, Muldavia. The Egra, the Saliza, Sala of Strab. The Spree, Suevus of Ptol. Unto this River reached the Roman Discoveries, and the French Conquests.

The Odor, Odera, Viadrus Piol. This arifeth out of the Hill Oderberg near Olmuntz in Moravia, passing by Breslaw, Glogaw, Francfort and Stetim, with the Rivers Neisse and Warta, received thereinto; it is disburthened into the Frisch-baff at the two Islands Usedom and Vollin with three Mouths, Pfyn, Swine and Diuvenow, and so into the East or Baltick Sea.

The chief Mountains of Germany were the Abnobi & Abnoba of Ptol. & Plin. near the Heads of the River Danow, and the Neccar, now called Schwartz-wal by Sato, and Die-Baar. Willychio.

The Sudatæ of Ptol. or Suditi Vandalici Montes Dioni, are the Hills encircling Behemia covered with the Woods Gabreta and Luna, Wendenberg. & Fiechtilberg teste Band.

The Sarmatici Montes seem to be the same with Sewo of Solinus & Plin. and Carpates of Ptol. between Poland and Hungary. Now Crapack & Tarczal, & Ben Munch. & Wartzgarten, & Biescid & Scheneberg, Snepesi, & Bies-sciady, Russ, Melibocus Mons, & Tatri Sclavis, Hartzwaldt, Pirkhermero. Brockersberg Peucero. By others Vogelsburg. The Hilly Country of Hessen between Franconia and Turingia by B. Rhenano.

Carvaneas, are the Hilly Tracts of Tirol and Carinthia, now Brenner Pyramio.

The Albanus of Ptol. Albius Strabo, are the Mountains of Stirla, now Schwanberger-Albn, or Affder Alben. Laz.

The Babi Montes, Ptol. are the Crabaten, or Krabaten Mount in Croatia, Cetius Mons, seu Cessus, Liv. & Ptol. now Kalenberg, or Halenberg in Auftria, continued a great length between the Danow and the Dra, and distinguished into sundry particular Names of Schneberg, Deubsperg, Herieberg, Hengsterberg or Heustperg, Semering & Plaitz. The common bounds sometimes of the Countries Noricum, and Pannonia. R 2

The most famous Woods were the Hercyni Cas. Tas. & Plin. Hercina, Claud. It began after Casar at the Rhiin, and the Confines of Helvetia, and was continued Eastwards along the course of the Danube, unto the Dacii in Transplvania, containing then in breadth Nine days journey, in length more than fixty. Parts and remainders of this Wood, were all those vast Desarts and Forest of the Daci and Sarmata, whose parts are Martiana Silva, were the Woods covering the Hills Abnobi, and from their dark shades called Schwartzwald, or the Black Wood.

The Bocenis of Casar, the Semana Silva of Ptol. now Duringerwaldt, or Silva Turingica, upon the Borders of Bobenia towards Bavaria.

Gabrera Silva Ptol. now Behaimer-waldt, or Silva Bohemica Mont. the Woods of the Mount Sudata towards the W. & N.

Luna Sylva are the Woods of the Sudata towards Passaw, and the South.

The Chorography of this great, but Heterogeneous Country, as was faid, is divided into many Estates, and those Estates absolute or independent. For the better Survey of which, we will consider Germany in three great Parts, viz First, Germany about the Rhine: 2dly, Germany about the Danube; and 3dly, Germany about the Elbe and Oder.

Let us begin with Germany about the Rhine; and first with the Free

County of Burgundy, now the French County.

FRENCH County.

Countrey Hilly and uneven, rifing with continual Downs and Mountains, covered with fertile Vineyards, shadw Woods, and pleafant Valleys, watered with infinite Brooks and Rivulets, purling down the hollow bottoms thereof; every where fo fertile, that it is called the Flower of France; its chief places are Befancon, Civitas Visontiensis Ant. Vesuntio Cæsar, Visontium Ptol. a fair City of good strength, a University, and Archbishop's See, and Town-Imperial, seated in a fruitful Valley betwixt two Mountains befet with Vines, upon the Doux, with whose streams it is almost encompassed. 2. Dole, Dola Sequanorum, a Town of great Strength, Riches, and Beauty, and Famous for its Colledge of Jesuits, scituated upon the River Doux. Salino, so named from the Salt-springs thereof, from whence infinite store of Salt is made and transported into the neighbouring Countries. Town is strong large and fair, lying in a deep hollow Valley amongst Mountains, upon the impetuous Rivulet Forica. Nozereth is a fair well-traded Empory, near the Mountainous Ridge of the Tour, fortified with a strong Castle. Luxout under the Vaugue, is remarkable for the hot Medicinal Baths: It is divided into three Shires or Balliages of Dole, Poligny, and Vesoul; besides, here are numbred 20 Walled Towns, and about 160 Lordships. This Countrey was subject to the Princes of Austria, of the House of Spain, and under the Spanish Government, Besancon excepted, which was a Town-Imperial, and belonging immediately to the Empire; But in the year 1668, the French King, under the pretence of his Wife's Title, with a surprizing swiftness, conquered it in the midst of Winter, in less then fifteen days; one of the greatest actions that ever was performed. It amazed all Europe, and caused the Spaniard to quit their pretentions to the Crown of Portugal. However, the Treaty of Aix la Chapelle restored it again, but first they difmantled all the strong Places, and Holds, and would have destroyed the rich Salt-pits, had nor the Interposition of England and Holland prevented; but in the year 1674, Gray, Wefoul, and the loss of other places, began the compleat Conquest of that Countrey, by the taking of Befancon, Dole, Salin, &c.; nor could the Duke of Lorrain, and Count Caprara relieve it, tho they desperately engaged the Enemy at the Battel of Sieren.

Of LORRAIN.

Orth of Burgundy lies the Principality or Dutchy of Lorrain, Lotharingia, Lottheringen, Lorraign; the Duke whereof is a Prince of the Empire; and the Countrey was reckoned as a Feudatory thereof. And by the Pyrenæan Treaty the said Duke was to be restored to his Dutchy of Lorrain, with all the places and Towns which he had possessed in Mentz, Toul, and Verdun, surprized by Henry the Second, King of France, and since. But France after several new pretences and quarrels, in 1663, invested Marsal by the Count of Guiche, the delivery of which by the Duke of Lorrain, tho it calmed the tempest, yet after continual Incroachments upon his Jurisdiction, the Limits of his Territories, and his Soveraignty it self; one of the French Generals in 1668, was ordered to seize his Person, had he not preserved it by leaving his Dukedom, which now France possesses it all.

The Countrey is very Woody, and somewhat Mountainous, over-spread with the Branches of the Forest Ardenne, and the Vaugue; sufficiently stored with all necessary Provision. It affordesh plenty of Iron, Lead, Tin, and other Minerals: Well stored with Likes and Riwers, which are full of Fish; also store of Salt-Pies, in which there is very sine Salt, sweet in taste, and whiter than Seythian Snow, and brings yearly a Revenue of 100000 Franks.

3. Nancy, Nancejum & Nasium Ptol. (He that considers the Antonine Itinerary, shall easily find, that Antonius his Nasium cannot be Seated in that place where Nancryum it now; so that Nasium is not that which we do now call Nancy, but a Town 12 miles distant from it, not far from the River Mosa, in the Barroducan Province, commonly called Nas, as appeareth by the Inscription of Stone digged up there; for by the Ruins it appears that this Nas was formerly a very large City). Seated upon the River Murra, the Residence formerly of the Duke, one strongly Fortisted, remarkable for the Disaster of Charles Duke of Burgundy, who lost the Battel and his Life near her Walls, 1476. taken by the Frenck Anno 1637. And Anno 1661, her Fortiscations were dismantled.

4. Verdun, Virodunum & Verodunum Ant. a Town Imperial, and a Bishop's See, upon the River Meuse: C sled also Civitas Verdunensum.

S. Nicholas, 2 miles from Nancy, if Walled, would be the fairest City in Lorrain. Blankenburg, by the French Blancmont, is a fair and pleasant Town, adorned with an Ancient Castle, and the Dukes Palace. Nor must I forget the New Fort built by King Lewis the XIVth. called Saar Louis, built upon the River Sare, between Vauderang and Sarbruck. By the Treaty of Reswick the French restore all Lorrain to the Duke, except Metz, Verdun, Toul, and Sar Louis.

Of CLEVE.

THE Estates of the Dutchy of Cleveland contained whilst it was the entire Patrimony of those Dukes, 1. The Dutchy of Cleves.

2. Of Juliers. 2. Of Berg. And 4. The Earldoni of Mark. Cleve was made an Earldom, Anno 911; for want of Heirs it devolved into the Empire 1350. Charles the Fourth gave it to Adolph Bishop of Color;

In the County of Marck chief places are Soeft, or Zoeft, Sufatum of old, and increased, Tremonia & Dortmania, both free Cities. The Dutchy of the case and Earldom of Marck, belongs now to the Marquis of Brandenburg, that of Berg and Juliers to the Duke of Newburg. Meurs is honoured with the Title of an Earldom, now subject to the King of England, as Prince of Orange.

Adjoining to these Countries, are the three Electoral Archbi-of COLOGNE.

HE Archbishoprick of Collen, a fair and goodly Countrey, lying upon the left shore of the Rhine: Its chief Places are, 1. Coln Germ, Cologne Gallis, Colonia Agrippinensis Plin. Agrippinensis Ptol. Colonia Agrippinensis & Oppidum Ubiorum Tac. Colonia Agrippina & Agrippinensis Ant. The Metropolis of the Province of Germania Secunda, and a famous Colony of the Romans, brought hither in the Reign of the Emperor Tiberius, by Agrippina Daughter to Cafar Germanicus, and Wife to the Emperor Claudius. The Rome of Germany. An Imperial City, but does Homage to the Archishop. The Cathedral of St. Peter's is of vast and stupendious greatness. Casar's Bridge over the Rhine is one of the ancientest in Europe. Here also are said to lye the Bodies of the three Kings that came from the East to worship our Saviour. 2. Bonne, Bona Ptol. Castra Bonensia Tac. now the Residence of the Elector. Seated in a pleasant and fruitful part of the Countrey. This Archbishop is Chancellor of Italy, and second in Dignity. He is also Prince and Pastor of the Countrey and Jurisdiction of Leige, a Countrey very healthy and pleasant; where are reckoned 25 Walled Towns, and 1700 Villages. But the description of this Countrey I shall refer to that of the Spanish Provinces, being intermixed with them. And shall here only say, that Liege is seated on the River Maez, near that Valley wherein two Legions of Julius Cafar under Sabinus and Cotta were destroyed by Ambioriz, Captain of the Eburones:

Of TREVES.

3. TO this succeeds the Archbishoprick of Triers or Treves, Diocesis Treverensis, extended along the course of the Moselle, from the Confines of Lorrain unto the Rhine. A Countrey rather pleasant than fruitful, hilly and full of Woods, rich chiefly in Minerals of Iron and Lead: Chief Places are, I. Trier Germ. Treves Gallis, Treveri Italis, Colonia Treverorum Tac. Augusta Mela, Augusta Treverorum Ptol. Augusta Libera Pliny, Treweres Salviano, Civitas Trewerorum Ant. the Metropolis then of the first Belgica, and Residence of the Vicar-General of Gaul, feated upon the Mojelle, now an Archbishop's See, and chief of the Countrey, whose bishop is Chancellor of France for the Emperor. Ext to these lies the Palatinate of the Rhine: Palatinus inserior Rheni, Psaltz die Rhein or Nder Psaltz Germanis, Palatinat du Rhin, Gallis, This Countrey (before those unhappy Wars betwixt the Emperor Ferdinand the Second, and Frederick the Fifth, Count Palatine of the Rhine, (whereby it was much ruinated) was accounted the most fruitful and pleasant of all Germany, especially for its excellent Rhenish Wines. Chief Places are Heidelburg, Heidelburga, by some thought to be the Budoris of Ptol. Some Authors call it Edelberg, which signifies the Noble Mountain: Others Eidleberg, which signifies the Near Mountain; seated on the South-side of the River Neccar, in a Bottom, amongst Hills. It was an University, ever since the year 1346, founded by Rupert Count Palatine, and much frequented. the Empire. By the Treaty of Munster 1648, he was restored to the Lower Palatinate. In his Palace or Castle of Heidelburg are divers things remarkable, viz. the Grotes and Waterworks. The Great Tun which contains about 200 Tuns. Other places are Manheim, Manhemium, a Town and strong Fort at the Consuence of the Neccar, or Necker and Rhine. The Bridge over the Moat of the Cittadel into the Town is also remarkable. Not far hence stands the old Castle Psaliz, whence the Palatinates seem to have their Name of PsalizGrave.

Within the Limits of this County, and intermingled with the Lands of this Prince Palatine, are the Bishopricks of, 1. Spiers, Neomagus of Ptol. Noviamagus Ant. Nemetes Cast. & Plin. teste Rhenano. But in June 1689, we had the News that the French had laid the Cities of Spire, Oppenbeim, Worms and Frankendale in Ashes.

West of this Palatinate, if not belonging to it, is Zuneybrucken Incolis, Deuxponts Gallis, the chief City of the Dukedom of the same Name, by others called the Dukedom of Biponts. Charles Gustavum was Son of John Casimer, a younger Brother to the Duke of Zuneybruck, but whether it belongs to the Swedes, or Prince of Newburg, I do not certainly find; I think it was taken by the French much about the time that the Prince of Luzelstein received a French Garison, 1674. To this also let us add the Lantgrave of Darmstadt, who has a Voice in the Assemblies, and is of the House of Cassel.

Of ALSATIA.

Outh of this Palatinate lies the Province of Alfatia, Elfass, or Elfatz Germ. Alface Gallis, a Country that scarce yieldeth to the best in Germany for pleasure and fertility, abounding with Corn, Wine, and fundry forts of delicious Fruits. It is divided into the Uupper and Lower Alface, to which the French Geographers add Suntgow and Brisgow, though all other reckon the latter to belong to the Circle of Schwaben. Chiefer Towns in the Lower Elfatz are Weissemborg, Alba Sebusiana, seu Weissembergum, a fair Town at the foot of the Mountain Vogesus, fortified by Nature and Art. Hagenaw, Hagenoia, once both Imperial Towns, now subject to the French; as is Zabern, Taberna, Ant. once the chief Seat of Justice of the Bishop of Strasburgh. But the chief City of all Alfatia is Strasburgh, populous, strong and well built. The Church is one of the Wonders of the World, for the bigness, the sumptuousness, and the marvellous heighth of the Steeple, 574 foot, and the inimitable Structure. The Arsenal is also very considerable, and well provided with all forts of Ammunition and Arms; yet furrendred to the French 1682. The Argentorarum of Ptol. & Cit. Argentoracensisum Ant. Argentina Italis. A bishop's See, and Imperial City. In the Higher Alfatia, are Schlestad, Schlestadium, Elcebas of Ptol. & Ant. Colmar built out of the Ruines of the Argentuaria of Ptol. & Ant. destroyed by Attila and the Huns. Enfisheim, the Uruncis of Ant. The Upper Elfatz belonged wholly to the Arch-Dukes of Austria, the Lower to the Bishops of Strasburg. Both challenged the Title of Landigraves. But since the Treaty of Munster, the French have enjoyed the greatest part. Chiefer Towns in Suntgow are Mulbausen, a Town Imperial, confederate with the Switzers, noted for its Gardens and Mills. Montbelliard, Mons Belligardus, Monipelgard Germanis, stands upon the Confines of Alfatia and Burgundy, and was subject to the Duke of Wirtemburg, until it was feized upon by the French; it is noted for its strong Fortress, and for a Dispute hetween Beza and Fac. Andrea, alias Schmidlians. Chief Towns in Brisgow, or Brisgovia, beyond the Rbine, are Friburg, Friburgium, a University, built by the Duke of Zeringen, 1112, now possessed by the French; not far from whence are to be seen the Ruins of Zeringen Castle, from whence the ancient Dukes were Entitled. Brisach, Mons Brisacus Ant. a Fortress then of the Romans, now of the French; and well fortified. But Fort Huningen near Bazel, and Fort Levis in this Country.

Come we now to the Estates beyond the Rhine, under which we will take in Franconia, Hassia, and West phalia.

Of the Circle of Franconia.

THE Circle of Franconia is divided into three parts, viz. 1. Into Ecclesiasticks. 2. Laick. 3. Imperial Cities. So that 'tis governed by many distinct Princes, some of greater, others of less Power and Dominion; but the Title of the whole is given to the Bishop of Wirtsburg. A Countrey hedged on all sides with Forests and Mountains, within plain, healthy and pleafant, tolerably fruitful with Corn and Wine. The chief of the Ecclesiasticks are, first the Bishop of Wirtzzurg, Bisthumb. Wurtzburg incolis, Evesche de Wurtsbourg Gallis. Whose chief places are Wurtzburg. Herbipolis quasi Herebipolis, Wirtzburg quasi Mustopolis, olim Marcopolis, & Pæapolis, teste Irenico. & Artaunum Ptol. teste Petro Apiano, seated upon the Main in a pleasant Plain, environed with Meadows, Gardens, and Viny Downs. 2. The Bishop of Bamberg, Gravionarum Ptol. teste P. Apiano. Bamberga & Pamberga & Papeburga, in Script German. This City is large, fair, and entirely Catholick. The Bishop is the first of the Empire, it acknowledgeth no Metropolitan, but depends immediately upon the Pope. 2. Mergentheim, Mergetheim & Morkenthal, & Mariental, Mergethum seu Mariæ Domus, the Residence of the Great Master of the Teutonick Order. These were some German Gentlemen who waited upon the Emperor Frederick the First in his Expedition to the Holy Land, who took the Croifado, and were Installed at the Church or Hospital of St. Mary Jerusalem, and called Marianites. Their Order differed nothink from the Templers of St. Fobn, but in form and colour of their Cross. After the taking of Ferusalem by Saladine, these Knights went to Ptolomais; from whence Frederick the Second sent for them into Germany to fight against the Prussians and Livenians, who at that time were Pagans; which War began in the Year 1220. In a little while after these Knights had made themselves Masters of a Country of very large extent, and obeyed the Order till 1255, at which time Sigifmund, King of Poland, gave the Investiture of Prussia unto Albert Marquis of Brandenburg. In the Year 1563 the Great Master became Secular again, and took part of the Lands subject to the Order, with the Name of Duke of Courland.

4. The Bishoprick of Eichstadt, or Aichstadt, Ala Nirasca Ant. & Aureatum teste Gasp. Brocio near the Danube. The chief of the Laicks are the Marquesses of Cullembach and Onsbach, the Counts of Holae, Wertheim and Erpach, or Erbach, who find their Original from a Daughter of Charlemaigne, who married to a Gentleman after she had carried him upon her back through the Court of the Palace. The Imperial Towns are, 1. Nuremberg, Norimburg, Nurnburg Germ. Neroberga & Noricorum Mons, Norica Cafari. A place of great Trade, and well frequented by Merchants. The fairest, most priviledged, richest, and best governed in Germany. Here the new-chosen Emperor ought to hold his first Diet; and here are the Ornaments used at the Coronation of the Emperors; viz. the Royal Crown: The Dalmatick Gown: The Imperial Cloak. &c. Here was Maximilians Wooden Eagle, that flew a quarter of a mile, and back again. And here the Burgers have power to imprison their Children, and cast them alive into the River. Here Charles the Great designed to make a Communication of passage between the Danube and the Rhine, by joining the Rednitz and the Atmul Rivers, whereby there might have been a Commerce by Water from the Low-Countries to Vienna, and even unto the Euxine. But some inconveniencies in the attempt, and his Warlike Diversions, made him give over that noble Design. 100 7351 300 100 100

2. Frankfort, Francfort, or Frankfurt. Francofurtum & Francphordia, Helenopolis, olim Trajectus Francorum. The passage or Ford of the Franks. A free City, and reckoned in the Circle of Franconia by most Geographers, though I rather take it to be in the Circle of the Higher Rhine. It is renowned for its Book-Fairs, or Marts, in March, and in September. For its Fortress, and for the Election of the Emperor. It is a large and strong place, divided into two parts, Frankfurt and Saxenhausen, by the River Mæin, united by a Stone-Bridge.

Other Imperial Towns in Franconia, are 1. Schwinfort, Suevorum Trajectus, Swinfordia & Suvinfurtum, seated in a fruitful Soil: 12: Rotenburg al. Tuberum, seated upon the River Tauber, which some say is like Ferusalem for its Scituation upon Hills, and for its many Turrets. 3. Weinsheim Vinisima & Vinshemia Winshaim. 4. Altdorff a University, 1.623.

Of HASSIADE CON

Djoining to Franconia on the North-west is the Landgraveship of Hessen, or Hassia, of a healthy Air, and a fruitul Soil in Corn and Pasturage. Some Authors would have it so name I from the

Cattians, who did inhabit this Country by changing the Letters: whence it is yet called Catzen-Elbogen. Beatus Rhenanus, Lib. 1. faith. that the Hellians coming out of High-Germany, and having expelled the Catti, did possess these parts, and called it after their own Name. There is none but the House of Hesse that takes its chief Title of Landgraviate from thence. That of Alfatia was transferred to the King of France by the Treaty of Munster; that of Leuchtemberg to the House of Bavaria by the Marriage of Duke Albert with Matildis, Heiress of that Principality; That of Thuringia belongs to the Duke of Saxony; that of Sausemburg to the Marquiss of Baden; and that of Nollembourg to the House of Austria; the Count of Furst emberg takes upon him the quastyled Landgraves of Klegen. Hallia was heretofore only a County, lity of Landgrave of Stillinguen and Bath; and the Counts of Sultz are and part of the Principality of Thuringia. The greatest part of the Country is now divided into two Families, the one of Cassel, the other of Darmstat of the youngest House; chief places belonging to the Landgraves, are Cassel, Cassella & Cassilia, Castella Cattorum & Stereontium Ptol. teste Pyramio upon the River Fuld, the chief Seat of the Landgraves. 2. Margurg, or Margurg, Margurgum & Martis-burgam, Mattiacum Ptol. teste Ortel. & Amasia, Baud. upon the River Lobn, an University founded in the Year 1426, by Lewis Bishop of Munster. Here the Landgraves have a stately and magnificent Castle, mounted upon a high Hill without the Town, enjoying a pleasant prospect, and one of their chief ploces of Residence. 2. Darmstad with its Castle, is the Seat and Inheritance of the youngest House of the Landgrave. Part of this Country of Hessen belongs to the Abbey of Fulda, one of the richest and most celebrious in Europe. Anno 1640. it was taken by Bannier, and here he heard a Voice in the Air, Be gone, Bannier, be gone, for now the time is; yet he lived to get that Victory at Homberg in Hassia, between Fridberg and Francford. But at the Battel near the River Sale, valorously defending a Bank, he was forced to yield, and goeth to Halberstadt; where voiding much Blood and Matter through an Impostume, or breaking of a Vein, he out an end to his life, and to all his toyl and labours. This Abbey was founded by St. Boniface an Englishman: This Abbot is a Prince of the Empire, and Arch-Chancellor of the Empress, calls himself Primate of Gallia; his County is called Buchen, Buchavia, from the plenty of Beeches. To which we may add the Abbey of Hirchfeld betwixt Hellen and the Rhine, and intermingled lies the Confederation of Wetteraw, or a Combination of many Estates, viz. 1. Earls or Counts of Nassaw, from whence the Illustrious Grave Maurice, and other Princes of Orange are descended, who has made the World understand, That the Kings of Spain and France are not invincible; but have bravely stopt their Career when they were driving apace to the Universal Monarchy. This County of Nassaw, of old Nassaw, contained only a small parcel of Ground, but of late Ages has grown up into a considerable Principality by the accession of the Counties of Weilburg, Idstein, Wistbaden, Dillenburg, Balistein, &c. And therefore usually called Nassaw Catzenelbogen. 2. Solms, well allied. 3. Hanaw, the Counts whereof have large Estates, and a Justice from which their Snbjects cannot appeal. 4. To this Country belongs the Counts of Waldeck, subject to the Lantgraves. The Barons of Limborg have a Title of Semperfre. The Counts of Swartsbourg are great in Riches, with many others.

Of WESTPHALIA.

Ontiguous on the North of Hessen lies the Circle of Westphalia; 2 Country full of Woods, which nourish many Swine, which make excellent Bacon; and abounding as plentifully in other places with Corn. This Country is divided among the Ecclesiasticks, Counts. and Imperial Cities. The Bishops are 1. Munster, a City seated on the River Ems, Monasterium al. Minigrado & Minigrade, built by Charles the Great. In the Year 1523. called New Jerusalem by the Anabaptists, and their King John of Leyden, King of Sion, who being at last besieged and taken, was put on the top of a Steeple in an Iron Cage, where he was eaten up by Flies and Wasps, together with two of his Companions. 2. Of Padeborn, or Paderborn Incolis, of a miraculous. Foundation. 3. Minden Minda, once a Bishoprick, but now settled upon the Marquels of Brandenburg with the Title of Prince, by Mun-Ster Treaty, as also is Ferden. 4. Of Osnabruck or Osenbrug, Osnabrugum seu Osnabrucum, so made 776. à Carolo Magno. The alternate pos-Tession whereof is given to the Duke of Brunswick for his Cession of his. Bishoprick of Halberstat.

This Circle of Westphalia is said to contain sour Dukedoms, viz. Westphalia under the Archbishoprick of Collen, whose chief Town is Arensberg. 2. Berg. 3. Cleves. 4. Juliers, which we have already treated of.

The chief Counts of Westphalia, are sirst of East-Friesland, who in the year 1653. was raised to the Dignity of Prince, whose Seat is at Aurick, or Auricum. 2. The Counts or Prince of Oldenburg, & Delmenborst, are totally extinguished by the death of Anthony Gunther, in the Year 1656. However famous, in that the Kings of Denmark are defeated.

The free Cities are, 1. Emden, the Amasia Ptol. teste Cleverio. 2. Herverden. 3. Brake. 4. Soest. 5. Dortmund in the County of Mark. 6. Lemgow in the County of Lip. The Title of West phalia as Ducal is usurped by the Archbishop of Collen, ever since the prescription of Duke.

Henry, Sirnamed the Lion.

Our second Division of Germany was that of the Dunnbe, wherein may be comprehended first Suevia Italis, Schwaben Germanis, Sovabe Gallis.

Of the Circle of Suevia or Almaigne, Schwaben Incolis, Sovabe Gallis.

THE Circle or Dukedom of Schwaben or Almaigne, for by these two Names the ancient Dukedom was called: The State was erected under this last Title by Clovis King of the French. The first Dukes were but Governours under the French during pleasure. After the division of the French Empire by the Sons of Lewis the Godly; and that the Empire was translated to the Germans, they became Hereditary. The first that transmitted this Honour to Posterity was Frederick the First, created Duke of Schwaben, or Almaigne by Henry the Fourth. Conradinus, taken Prisoner in Italy in his Wars against Charles Duke of Anjou, and afterwards beheaded at Naples, without Heirs, was the last Duke of Schwaben, and in whom ended the Succession and Family of the Fredericks. After this Disaster the Dukedom for want of Heirs falling to the Empire; became scattered into fundry lesser States, viz. Ecclefiasticks, Laicks, and Imperial Cities. The Bishops are, 1. Of Ausbourg, whose Residence is at Dilling. 2. Of Constance, whose Residence is at Mersburg. 2. Of Coire in the Grisons. Other Grand Prelates are, first the Abbot of Kempton: 2. The Grand Prior of the Order of Maltha, whose Residence is at Heitersheim about two German Miles South of Brifach and Friburg.

The Secular Princes are, 1. The Duke of Wirtenburg, who was raifed to Ducal Dignity in a Diet held a Worms 1495. He hath a Country where the Mountains abound in Mines, Vines and Woods. The Forests of Schwarz-waldt, are well stored with Timber-Trees, Game and Venison of all kind; the Vallies are a continuation of Meadows, covered with Cattel, and watered with Brooks full of Fish; the Plains are thick fet with Gardens like those of the Hesperides. His Residence is at Sturgard, Studgardia, seated near to the Necker. There is no where to be seen fairer Rowsof Orange-Trees, Grotta's better contrived and beautified, Fountains more artificial, nor Fruits more pleasant to the fight or taste than here. They that have been at Tubing, Tubing a ol. Augusta, know how many Princes, Counts, Lords, Barons and Gentlemen have been bred in that Noble Colledge and University, where are excellent Professors in all Faculties, principally in those which are worthy of Illustrious Persons. In this Country are reckoned 63 Cities, 158 great Towns, 645 Villages, 527 Water-mills, and 14 Abbeys of large Revenue. He hath a fair Militia of Horse and Foot, and many Fortresses.

2. Of the Marquisate of Baden and Durlach: The Marques of Baden after the death of Philip the last of the Hochbergian Branch, was united to that Anno 1503. who dying in the Year 1515, his Lands were ted between his two Sons Bernard and Ernest, who are now the areads of two principal Branches, into which this House is divided, viz. Baden and Dourlach, whose Country lies adjacent to the Rhine, intermingled up from Basil to Philipsburg, a Country pleasant, and Soil fruitful; chiefer Towns are Baden, giving name to the Country, and so called from the Hot Medicinal Baths thereof. 2. Dourlach, the Title of the second Son.

3. Of the Counts of Hobenzolleren: The Lords of this House are Hereditary Chamberlains to the Emperors since the time of Maximilian the First. Their Castle of Hobenzolleren was ruined by Henrietta Countess of Wirtemberg and Montbelliard, but re-edified about the Year 1480. at which time Philip Duke of Burgundy, Albert Elector of Brandenburg, Albert Duke of Austria, and Charles Marquis of Baden, laid the first stone of it, using a Tray, a Trowel, and a Mallet all of Silver.

The Counts of Furstemburg, who are very renowned in History, are both Princes of the Empire. The Marquisate of Burgaw, or Buchaw, whose chief place is Gutsburg. The Counts of Helfelstein, having flourished above 1000 years, expired some years since. Rechberg whose chief Town is Gemund. The Counts of Ottinguen, or Oeting, are divided into two principal Branches, that of Waldenstein, is Catholick, that of Ottinguen Lutheran. The Fuggers are not very ancient. Konigseek is new. The Papenheims are very famous. The Baronies of

Walburgs

Walburg, Limburg, Justingen, are considerable. Besides these, there are some parts wholly belonging to the Empire.

Constance, Constantia, seased on the Bodenzee, belongeth to the House of Austria. Anno 1548, it was outlawed by Charles the Fifth; and is famous for the Council here held, Anno 1414, where were assembled the Emperor Sigismund, four Patriarchs, 29 Cardinals, 346 Archbishops and Bishops, 564 Abbots and Doctors, 16000 Secular Princes and Noblemen; 450 Harlots, 600 Barbers, 320 Minstrels and Jesters. The business was the deposing of three Popes, Gregory the 12th at Rome, John the 23d at Bononia, and Bennet the 13th in Spain, and setting up Martin the Psth. And the degrading and burning of Hierome of Prague, and John Hus, without any respect of the safe conduct of the Emperor Sigismund.

The Bodensee by Plin. Lacus Acronius & Brigantinus, is about 8 Dutch Miles in length, and 3 in breadth, and in its greatest depth at Mersperg about 600 yards. At the Island Meinaw, in the Year 1647, the Swisses digging, found a Treasure to the value of sive Millions. Below is the Lake Venetus of Pliny, now called the Lake of Cel, from a Town of that name.

The chief and Imperial Cities of Schwaben are, Ausburg, or Auspurg & Augsburgh, from Augusti Burgum, where Augustus seeled a Roman Colony after Claudius Drussus. Nero Germanicus had brought it into Subjection, Druse Magus of old, and afterwards Augusta Tiberia. Augusta Vindelicorum Ptol. & Augusta Vindelicium Ant. samous for its Magnificence, Town-House, for being a Bishop's See, and Imperial. 2. Ulm, Ulma, seated at the meetings of the Rivers Iler, Blave and Danube; of great state, large, rich, and well fortisted, being six miles in compass. Here the Danube begins sirst to be Navigable. Charles the Great designing to make a Navigable Passage out of the Rhine into the Danube, caused a Ditch to be made betwixt the Rivers Regnitz and Altimul, two mile long, and 300 foot broad, not far from Papenheim and Weisenberg, where there are yet some Remarks of that vain Attempt; for by reason of the Rains, and Morish Soyl, the Earth sell down, and silled all up.

Kemptem Campidunum, an Abbacy, was the ordinary Residence of the ancient Dukes of Swaben, and the native place of Hildegardis Wife to Charlemaigne.

Ding kelfpiel or Dunkespibel upon the River Warnitz, was often taken and retaken in the late Wars. Effinguen or Exlingh, is a pretty Town upon the Neckar under the protection of the Duke of Wirtenburgh. At Hall is made great quantity of Salt. Hailbrun or Hailprun is an Impe-

Kauf bigeren or Kaufburen bought its Liberty for 15000 Livres. Lindaw stands upon an Island in the Lake Constance, and is joined to the firm Land by a Bridge 290 Paces long, belonging to the Emperor, who hath given it the priviledge of coining Money. Memmingen the Drusomagus of Ptol. is very ancient. Nortlingen or Nordlinghen is remarkable for the Battel which the Swedes lolt 1624. where General Bannier was flain, and Gustavys Horn taken Prisoner. Retwiel, for the loss of Martial Guebriant 1643. for being a Retreat to the Cimbri when beaten by the Romans. Wimpfez or Vuimpina, signifying Weibspris, for the unheard Cruelties of the Huns upon that Sex. Here Fortune triumphed over Valour, and Magnus Duke of Wirtemburg died in the Battel 1622. Guemund, Gaudia Mundi, noted for its Turnaments and other Passimes. Here are reckoned 35 Free Towns. viz. Raven-Sperg, Buchaw, upon the Lake Federsee, Biberach, Ptullendorff, Isin, Buchorn & Uberlingen, upon the Lake Constance, or the Boden See. Wangen the Neniaria of Antonius, Offenburg, & Gengenbach near the Rhine, &c.

Of BAVARIA.

HE Circle of Bavaria, Bayern Incolis, Baviere Gallis, Baviera Hisp. Italis. Olim Boioria & Vindilicia, so called by the addition of one Letter from the Avarians the remainder of the Hunns, who having driven out the Noricians, feated themselves in this Country; and also Bojaria from the Bojans, a People of Gallia Cifalpina, who sometimes dwelt here. The Air is wholfome, and the Country is pleasant. riscians, Vindelicians and Noritians were the first Inhabitants; is divided into the Dutchy and Palatinate. The Dukedom is divided into three parts; the Higher, the Lower, and the Archbishoprick of Saltzbourg, a Diffrict, and diffinct Jurisdiction of it self. The Higher Bavaria is generally overspread with Woods, cold and barren. The Lower somewhat more fruitful, and abundantly more pleasant. In the Upper Bavaria chief places are, Munchen, Monachium, or Munick upon the River I/er the Residence of the Dukes of Bavaria, and one of the fairest Palaces in Europe, enjoying a most sweet and happy Scituation among the Woods, Gardens and Rivers, famous also for its seizure by the King of Sweden, who found a vast Treasury herein. In the Lower Bavaria are, i. Ingolfrat, or Anglostadium, a noted University, founded in the Year 1471, and is famous for putting the first Affront upon the King of Sweden in Germany, and forced him to raife the Siego by Lewis Duke of Bavaria, 2. Regensperg, or Regensbergh, Ratishone; built by the Third Emperor, Claudius Tiberius Nero, called Tiberina, or Augusta Tiberii; in Antonius Register called Castra Regina; samous for the Diets held there, and for its long Bridge; a fair and large City, beautified with a great number of Churches, Chappels, and other places dedicated to Religious uses. 'Tis a Bishop's See, and Town Imperial. 2.Passaw, Patavium, Bojodurum, Ptol. Ant. and Batava of the Author of the Notitia, then a Garison. Town of the Romans, the station of the Cohort of the Batavians, now a Bishop's See, seated at the meetings of the Rivers Danube, Inn., and Ills, and divided into three Towns, Passaw, Instat, and Istat.

Landshut is a fair Town upon the Iser. Freisengen is a Bishop's See,

'seated upon a'hill. Landsperg is near unto the Alps of Tirol.

Donavert was a Free City till the year 1607. at what time it incurred the Imperial Ban or Proscription, which was executed by the Duke of Bavaria, who brought it into Subjection, and holds it still under his Laws.

Confined within the Dukedom of Bavaria, lies the Archbishoprick of Salztburgh, of a dry Rocky, and barren Soil, some fresher Vallies excepted; rich chiefly in Minerals. The only Town of Note is Saltzburgh, Salisburgum, al. Juvania of Ant. & Castrum Juvaviensi of the Notitia, the Mansion then and fixed Residence of part of a Cohort of Roman Soldiers, now an Archbishop's See, whose Revenues are the largest in all Germany, seated upon the River Saltzach, where lies Interred the Body of Paracelsus. The more Ancient Inhabitants were the Vindilici, Florus, and others.

The Countrey of the Upper Palatinate or Nortgow, from the more Northern Scituation of it as to the Dukedom, is a Countrey rough and hilly, rich chiefly in Minerals of Iron. Amberg, Amberga Cantiabia, Ptol. teste P. App. upon the River Ills, enriched chiefly by the Commodity of Iron digged out of the Neighbouring Hills. The Castle of Luchtemburg mounted upon a Hill, gives Name to the Lantgraves so called. Pfreimbt is the chief Town of the Landgraves of Luchtenberg. Newburg upon the R. Swartzach, is the place whereof are stiled the Princes Palatine of Newburg, the second Branch of the House of the Elector of the Rhine, to whom this Palatinate did belong; but in the year 1622, the Emperor Ferdinand the Second transferred this Palatinate, with the Electoral Dignity, from Frederick the Fifth, Count Palatine, to Maximilian Duke of Bavaria, and the Munster-Treaty conferred to Bavaria the sirst Electorship; and an eighth place was new erected for Charles Lewis of the Rhine, provided that if the Gulielmine Branch hap-

There is in this Countrey the Mount Pinifer, commonly called Fitch-telbergh, being six miles about; out of which there doth flow four famous Pivers, the Mane, the Nah, the Sal, and the Eger, which winding in the figure of a Cross, do run towards the sour Corners of the World. The more ancient Inhabitants were the Narisci of Tacitus, afterwards the Boiearians, or Bavarians, their first known Habitation.

Give me leave to add some of the old Bavarian Laws. It was enacted, That the Judge, to the end he might judge rightly, should have the Book of the Statutes, and that thereby he should determine and end all Suits and Controversies. Neither should the Judges respect Persons or Gists; but when he had judged rightly, he should have the Ninth part of the Composition-Money; but if wrongfully, he should pay twice as much as he had taken away by his unjust Judgment; and moreover should be fined Forty shillings. He that sold any thing considerable for a certain Price, should set down the bargain in writing, and have witnesses thereunto. No bargain or Sale, unless it were free and voluntary, should be firm and current. But I must not be burdensome with the repetition of those Laws which John Boeme Aubanus has treated of at Large.

THE only Arch-Dutchy in Europe, is Austria, or Oost-reich, divided into the opper and lower Austria, and hath united to it, as Hereditary possession of that House, the Provinces or Dukedoms of Stiria, Carnibia, Carniba, the County of Tirol, with that of Chilly, and

Marquisate of Windish-Marck:

The particular Dukedom of Austria, extended on both sides of the Danube, is a Countrey pleasant, healthy, and abundantly fruitfull in Corn and excellent Wines. Its chief Cities and Places are, 1. Vienna, Juliobona Ptol. Vendum Strab. Vindibona Ant. & Unidomana of the Author of Notitia, & Ala Flaviana. Fabiana Heyl. Wien Ger. Wetsch & Petz. Turcis. & Berch teste Brown. Viena Italis, Wiedun Polonis, Widen Bobenii, Vienne Gallis, the Metropolis of Germany, seated upon the South-side of the Danube, the greatest River in Europe. In Circuit about 5000 Geometrical paces. It is Famous for her University, for four great Piazza's, adorned with Marble Fountains and Statues; for its Cathedral of St. Stephen (whose Steeple is about 465 foot high, consisting of hewen stone, and carved into various Figures of Men, Birds, and Beasts)

Beafts) the Emperor's Treasury, the Arch Duke's Gallery, the Treafury of the Church, and the Sepulchre of Otho. The Arfenal, the College of the Jesuits, the Church and Convent of the Benedictines, of the Dominicans, and of the Franciscans, are worthy of Remark. Within the City there was also the Hochbrug, or High-Bridge, which is made by the croffing of two Streets at equal Angles; the ground of one Street being as high as the tops of the Houses of the other, so that to continue it, they were forced to build a Bridge or Arch in the lower Street to pass over. In the Suburbs, the greatest Curiofities were the Favorith, or the Empresses Garden; that of the Bishop, and of the Earl of Thaun, of the Prince of Ausburg, and others; the Church and Monastry of the Carmelites, of the Augustines; the Hermitage of the Capuchine, and the Spanish Monastry; Remarkable also for plenty of Wine, of Craw-fish, and Sallets in Winter. Tis likewife accounted the Bulwark of this Countrey against the Turks, beingas strong, as well fortified; built with part of the Money obtained for the Ranfom of Richard the First, King of England, taken Prisoner in his return from Palestine, by Leopold the fifth Duke of Austria. Famous for the Repulse it gave Solyman, and the whole power of the Turkish Empire, when of 200000 Men he brought before it, he carried away but 118000, Anno 1529. And as famous for this last Repulse of September the 12th. 1683. for being closely besieged by the Prime Vizier with 200000 Turks, Tartars, Cossacks, and Hungarian Malecontents on the 12th of July, 1682, and as valorously defended by that Magnanimous Hero Ernestus Rudiger Count Starenbergh, as Governour, was then manfully relieved by the Invinciale Prince, John King of Poland, the Electors of Bawaria and Saxony, the Duke of Lorrain, Prince Waldeck, P. Salme, P. Louis of Baden, and the Marquis of Brandenburgh, Baraith, &c. During this Siege, the Turks were faid to have lost 70000, and in the Battel more than 20000 men; that the Christians lost 10000 or 15000 during the Siege, and about 2 or 400 on that great and signal Victory, when the Turks formidable Army was totally defeated, their Camp (which was infinitely rich) their Baggage, Cannon, and Tents all taken, and Vienna happily relieved, when brought to its last extremity.

Other places in Eustria are Lintz, Aradati of Ptol. the Residence of the Emperor during the Siege of Vienna, not great, but as neat and handsome a City as most in Germany. The Houses built of white Free-stone, and the Castle is of the Modern Fortistication. Here is a Bridge over the Danube; besieged by 40000 Peasants of Austria, in the time of Ferdinand the Second, at last overcome by Papenheim.

Ens Anista, upon the River Anism or Onusm, near which stood the Lauriacum of old, now Lorch a Roman Garison, and afterwards a Bishop's See. Gmundt, is considerable for its store of Salt, digged out of the bordering Mountains.

Melcke, Nomale, or Mea Dilecta, once the Seat of the Marquesses of Austria, noted for its noble Cloister of Benedictines, which overlooks the Town and the Tomb of St. Colman there much honoured. At Stein is a Bridge over the Danube. Crembs is a Walled Town.

Baden about four German miles from Vienna, is a pretty Walled Town, feated near a part of Mount Com, which divided Noricum from Pannonia. Most remarkable for its Laths, which are much frequented, and are nine in number.

Newstat is one of the Chiefest Cities in Austria, it is of a square sigure, with a Piazza in the middle of it. Here was Count Peter Serini, and Frangipani, beheaded, as chief Contrivers of the Hungarian Revolt.

Pretronel, or Haimburg, the same, or near to the Carnuntum of Plin. & Liv. Carnus of Ptol. a strong Hold of the Pannonians, in vain attempted by the Romans 170 years before the Incarnation, subdued in the time of Augustus, and made a Roman Colony. Here resided the Emperor Antonius Phylosophus three years, and died at Vindibona, now Vienna. And here Severus was Elected Emperor, ruined in after times by Attua in his Incursions into these parts.

The ancient Inhabitants of the lower Austria were part of the Marcomanni of Tacitus; those of the higher Austria were part of the Novici Ripersis, and The Upper Pannonia.

Of STTRIA.

HE Marquisate of Stiria, alias Steirmarck, is a Hilly and Mountainous Countrey, rich chiefly in Minerals. The Inhabitants are much troubled with a Disease called Struma, or the Kings-Evil, a swelling of the Throat, proceeding from their more cold and moist Air, or from their more sharp and piercing Waters mingled with Snow, or with the virose streams and particles of Mercury or other Minerals, descending from off their Mountains.

Its chief Place is Gratz, Graiacum, Gracium, & Savaria upon the Mur. Petaw is the Petavium of Ptol. and the Petavio of Am. Marcel. & Patavio Ant. Racklespurg & Pruck, or Poreig, the Bolentium and Muripones of the Ancients. Seckavi, or Sekou, a Bishop's See, and Cely, the Celeia of Pliny, are of the greatest Pilgrimages in the Austrian Territory.

The Ancient Inhabitants were the Taurisci of Strab. or part of the Norici, rather a part of the Pannonii.

Of CARINTHIA.

Arinthia lies on the West of Styria: Its chief Places are Clagenfurt, near the Lake Werdsee, Claudia Plin. teste Laz. A fair four-square Walled Town, with a fair Piazza in the middle, adorned with a Column of Marble, and a Statue of the Virgin upon it, also with a Statue of the Emperor; also with a noble Fountain in the middle, over which is a large prodigious Dragon of stone, and Hercules with his Club standing before it. At Bleyburg are Lead-mines, where they have worked 1100 years, and the Pit is 110 fathom deep.

Si. Veit, or St. Faith Vitopola, feated upon the Confluence of the Rivers Glan and Wunich, a Walled Town, with fix Churches and a Piazza with a remarkable Fountain. In fight of St. Veit are four Hills with Chappels upon them, to all which upon one day of the year the Inhabitants go in devotion on foot, which is near thirty English miles. Not far from St. Veit is a place called Saal or Solva, Ager Solvensis, or Zolfedt; a place fruitful in Antiquities; among others that of the Kings Chair, used at the Installing of the Duke of Carimbia, which among other Ceremonies, whether he be King, Prince, or Emperor, either himself or his Substitute receives a gentle box on the Ear from a Countrey man.

Lavemondt, or Lavanmynd, Lavanti Ostium, a Bishop's See.

Villach Juliam Carnicum & Vacorium of Ptol. teste Josib. Sabel. upon the Dra. And Gruck, a Bishop's See.

The more ancient Inhabitants were the Carni of Ptol. & Plin.

Of CARNIOLA.

THE Dukedom of Carniola, by the Germans Krain, is rich in Corn, Wine, and Oyl: Chiefer Towns are Laibach, or Laback, Labacum, the Pamportii of Strabo, and Nauportus of Plin. Memorable for the story of the ship Argonauta, wherein was brought the Golden Fleece from Pontus Euxinus, stopped here by the bordering Mountains, and carried over land to the Adriatick Sea, and so brought back again unto Greece. Krainburg is a very strong place. And Gorecz Goritium, near the Adriatick, upon the River Lisonze, belongs to the Archduke of Austria; as also the Earldoms of Lilly and Windismarck, the chief place of the sirst beareth the same name; the chief place of the latter is Metling

Metling, the Metallum, or Metalum of Strab. App. Here also is the Zirk-nitzer-Sea, or the famous strange Lake Zirnitzer, or Zirichnitz, Lugeum, or Lugea Palus, of Strab. Palus Liburnia, & Japedum Palus, a Lake about two German miles long, and one broad. Every year in the month of June, the water of this Lake descendeth under ground through many great holes at the bottom, and in the month of September, returneth again by the same holes, and with a speedy ascent springs up to the heighth of 14 or 15 soot, and affordeth plenty of Fish; and when dry, it yields store of grass for Cattel. Idria, about ten miles from Goritia or Noreia of old, and is samous for its Quick-silver Mines, one of which is between 120 and 130 sathoms deep. Tis seated among the Mountains upon a River of the same name that runneth into the Zizonso, near which Odoacer King of Italy was slain in Battel by Theodorick King of the Goths.

Trieste, Tergestum, is a Port-Town of the Emperors in the Adriatick Sea, as is also Aquileia, once the Metropolis of the Carni, but destroyed by Attila 452. and by the Longobards 590, so that its now poor and mean; both properly were in Italy. Now under the Emp. of Germany.

Ponteba, or Pont Fella, is the exact Confines between the Venetian and the Imperial Dominions; on the one fide of the Bridge live Italians subject to the Venetians; on the other Germans, subject to the Emperor.

West of Carinthia lies the Countrey of Tyrol; of a fertile Soil, and in many places Silver-Mines; whose chief places are Inspruck. Aniponi, seated on the Oenus, or Inn-River, which gave Name to the third Branch of Austria, where the Arch-Dukes have a Magnissicent Palace, sometimes the seat of Charles the Fifth, and Ferdinand the First. Trent, a Bishoprick seated on the River Adesis; famous for the General Council there held by Pope Paul the Third and his Successors, against the Doctrines of Luther and Calvin: It began in Anno 1545, and continued off and on for the space of eighteen years. Brixen, Brixia, is a famous Bishoprick in this Countrey.

Tyrol is a Castle that gives Name unto the greatest Countrey of En-rope. Schwatz and Sterzingen, are rich in Silver-Mines.

And now we are come to our Third Division of Germany about the Elbe and Odar, where we may consider Saxony the Higher and Lower Circle. The first comprehending the Estates of the Dukes and Electorates of Saxony, of Brandenburgh, and Pomerania. The other containing the Dutchies of Holstein, of Bremen, of Luneburg, of Brunswick, of Lawenburg, of Mecklenburg, &c. Then the Kingdom of Bobemia, with the Dutchy of Silesia, and Marquisate of Moravia.

Qf

Of the Higher Saxony.

TTE shall consider first the Estates of the Dukes and Electorate of V Saxony. And here for the better information of the Reader in a matter of much Intricacy, and which without the general knowledge of the Saxonian History (which is too large here to be inserted) cannot well be made plain and intelligible; we shall therefore, contrary to what other Authors of Geography have done in their Descriptions of Saxony, tell you, That whether Albert the Third deceasing without issue in the Year 1412. in whom ended the Dukes Electors of Saxony of the house of Anbalt; Or whether Erick the Fifth of the House of Saxon Lauenburgh lapfed his time of demanding the Investiture of the Electorship; Tis cerrain that Frederick the First, Sirnamed the Warlike Marquiss of Milnia, and Landtgrave of Thuringia, was created Duke Elector of Saxony by the Emperor Sigismund in the Year 1422. by this means the Title and Dignity of the Electors and Dukes of Saxony was quite removed out of the ancient and true Saxony, and confined within Thuringia, Misnia, and the Country about Wittemburg, called the Dutchy of Saxony, or Ober Sachsen. The only Possessions of the Modern Dukes. Only by a further accumulation in the Year 1582. the House of Heneberg totally failing, that of Saxony took possession of it by virtue of a Confraternity made between those Princes in the Year 1554. And also that since the last War of Bobemia the Emperor gave the Upper and Lower Lusatia to John George Elector of this House, who died the 8th of October 1656, and was interred the 4th of February 1657, with more than Regal pomp, there being a 500 persons in Mourning, and 24 Horses of State covered with Black, and the Electorate Escutcheon Embroidered thereon, every one of them led by two Gentlemen.

This Elector bequeathed by his last Will to John George his Eldest Son, the Lands inseparable from the Electoral Dignity, viz. the Dutchy of Saxony, together with the Upper and Lower Lusatia, with some Bailiwicks about Dresden; To Augustus, the Administrator of Magdeberg, with twelve Bailiwicks about Hall, and in Thuringia. To Christian, the Diocess of Mersbourg, and some Lands in Voirtland, and in the Mountains. To Maurice, besides the Diocesses of Naumburg and Zeitz, all that of his Electoral Highness in the Principality of Heneburg. These are all the Princes of Saxony of the Descendents of the Elector Augustus, Brother to Maurice Duke of Saxony of a younger House, who have their Habitation at Hall, at Mersburg, at Naumburg, and at Dresden;

for John Frederick, Sirnamed the Magnanimous, of the House of Frederick the First, Sirnamed the Warlike aforesaid, was in the Protestant Wars taken Prisoner by the Emperor Charles the Fifth, by whom he was deprived of his Lands and Electorship, which was given to Maurice aforesaid, his Kinsman; but after five years Captivity or Impriforment, his Lands, but not the Electorship, were restored to him again, which his Successors now posses; which are now divided into three Branches, viz. of I. Altembourg and Coburg: 2. Of Weymer: 2. Of Gotta and Eisenach. To these we may add the Principality of Anhalt, which is divided amongst many Princes who reside at Deslaw, at Beremborg, at Pleskaw, at Zerbst, and at Cotsen. Intermingled with these are the Counts of Mansfield, Hobenstein, Schwartzburg, Scolberg, &c. with two Imperial Cities, Northausen and Mulbausen, and the University of Jena; all these Estates are contained within Milnia, Thuringia, or Duringe, and Saxony, or Sachsen, and Lusatia, or Lavenitz. Other chief Cities are, I. Milnia or Meissen, seated upon the Elbe, whence the Province had its Name, a Bishop's See, adorned with three fair Castles or Palaces of the Bishop's, Burgraves, and of the Dukes of 2dly, Lipsia, Leipsig, or Leipsick, not very large, but wealthy and populous, beautified with fair Buildings of Stone, viz. the Cafile, and St. Nicholas's Church. 'Tis a rich Empory, and noted University, seated upon the River Elster, having three Marts in the year: Famous also for two great Battels fought near unto it in the last Swedish Wars; One between Gustavus Adolphus, King of Sweden, and Count Tilly General of the Imperialists 1631. wherein the Swedes obtained a great Victory: Tilly was wounded, and lived not long after. In the other, Torftenson the Swede overcame Arch-Duke Leopoldus Gulielmus, and Octavic Piccolomini, Generals of the Imperial Army. And about a mile and a half from hence, at Lutzen, another great Battel was fought 1632. between the King of Sweden and the Imperial Army commanded by Wallenstein Duke of Friedland, wherein the Swedes obtained the Victory, but the King of Sweden was flain; and on the Imperial side that famous Godfrey Count of Pappenheim; for that Victorious King could not die but conquering, and Pappenbeim ought not to fall but in the company of so great a Prince. But the chiefelt is Drefden Incolis, Dresda Italia, the Seat and Residency of the Elector of Saxomy, Grand Marshal of the Empire, seated upon the River Elbe, over which there is a very noble Stone-Bridge of 17 Arches; 'tis well fortified after the Modern way, with a strong Wall, and a large Ditch, having three Gates. Places most worth the seeing here, are the Italian Garden in the Suburbs; The Hunter's House in the old Town; The Elector s

4. Freiburg, a noted place, with others adjacent, for its Silver Mines; a round well-walled City, with a Piazza, Castle, and five Gates. In St. Peter's Church is the fair Monument of Duke Maurice Elector of Saxony, which in Ostob. 1632. upon the Surrender of the Town, cost 80000 Dollars to save it from being ransacked and defaced.

5. Wittenberga, Leucoraa Lat. Wittenburg, in ober Sachsen, in an open Plain upon the Elhe, strongly fenced with Bulwarks, Walls, &c. a noted University for Lutheran Divines, where also are the Sepulchres of Luther, born at Eisleben, in the Earldom of Mansfeldt; And of Me-lancthon.

South of Missia, if not comprehended in it, lies a little Country called Voitland, or Viteland, which seemeth to take its Name from the Juites or Vites, who together with the Saxons and Angles conquered Britain, and gave Name to the Isle of Wight. Its chief place now is Zwickaw, Cignea in Scrip. Germ.

Marchia Brandeburgensis.

With Woods, Lakes and Fens, and in some places with Corn. It is generally divided into two parts, the old and the new Marquisate. The Metropolis of the Old is Brandenburg, or Brennoburgum, a Bishop's See, and the first Seat of the Marquesses, giving name to the Country. The Metropolis of the new is Francfurt, Francosurtum ad Oderam, a University 1506. enjoying a pleasant Scituation among Corn-fields, and Viney-downs, so that Ceres and Bacchus seem both enamoured of it. Berlin, Berlinum, seated in the midst of the Province upon the bank of the River Spree, which Maginus, Bertius Willichius, Dresser, Prickheimer, and other Geographers have mistaken for Ptolomy's Suevus: on the other side of the River is Coln, the place of the Prince Elector's Residence.

Costrinum, Costriin, Custrin & Kustrin, is a very strong Fortress, said never yet taken; it bassled the King of Sweden in the Year 1631. Havelburg is the Seat of a Bishop. Stendal is the Metropolis of Alt-Marck, seated upon the River Ucht. Soltwedel, or Solwel (i. e. the House or Temple of the God Sol) on the banks of the River Jetze, Gardleben, said to be the Ancient Hobergum, from the Image of Isis here worshipped, is famous for its Beer, and Hops. Oranienburg, formerly Bolzaw, affords the greatest variety of pleasures, being encompassed with Parks and Forests. Besides this Marquisate whereunto the Electoral Dignity is annexed, there belongs to this Prince the Dutchy of Prussia in Poland. The Dutchy or moiety of Pomerania. The Reversion of the Dutchy of Magdeburg. The Dutchy of Cleves, and Earldom of Marck; The Principalities of Halberstat in Brunswick, and Minden in West phalia, which he had in lieu of his Resignation of the Higher Pomerania to the Swede. The Dutchy of Crossen, and Lordship of Pregnitz in Silesia. The Jurissication of Cotbuss, or Coswis, and the other Towns in Lusatia, or Lausnitz. The Branches of this Family are the Marquesses of Cutembach and Onspach.

of Pomerania, or Pomeren.

Pomerania lies extended all along the Shore of the Baltick Sea, divided into the Upper and Lower Pomeren, now Royal and Ducal Pomerania, the first belonging to the Swedes, the latter to the Elector of Brandenburg. A Country plain, populous, and in some places fruitful in Corn, Pasturage, Honey, Butter, Wax, Flax and Beer, wiz. the Bitter Beer of Stetin, the Mum of Gripswald, the Knock-down of Wallin.

Chief Places in Pomerania Royal, are Stetin, Stetinum, memorable for its brave Siege, and as brave defence in the Year 1671. when taken from the Swedes, fince restored again by the Treaty of Nimeguen.

Wollin, when Julinum a flourishing Emporium, Anno 1170. sacked by Waldemarus King of Denmark. Gripswald a noted University; its Fields and Cattel are tinctured with the taste of Wild Garlick. Wolgast over-against the Isle Usedom. Camin, a Bishop's See, over-against the Isle of Wollin. Straessundt, alias Sundis, a well-traded Empory over-against the Isle Rugen; taken by the Elector of Brandenburg 1678. but by the Treaty of Peace signed at St. Germain's en Laye, July 29, 1679, he resigned it back to the Swedes.

Chief Places in Ducal Pomeran, are Colberg at the mouth of the River Persandt. Costin upon the River Radnie. Newgarten upon the Hamersbeck, Stargart upon the Ina, Rugenwal upon the Wipper, are all considerable Towns.

The famous Oder, having passed Gartz and Grieffenhagen, and entring into Pomerania, divides its self into several Branches or Arms, containing therein many large and fair Meadows; whereof some are above two English miles in breadth; After it had passed by Stetin, it di-

lates it self into the Dammish Sea or Lake, then into the Damantzke, or Pfaffenwasser, and at last spreads it self into a Vast Fresh-water Ocean called Das grosse Frische-Haff, extending it self about 46 English miles in length, and 4 in breadth: which Lake disembogues it self into the Baltick Sea in three Currents or Harbours, the Divenow, Swyne, and Penemunde.

This shall suffice for the Higher Saxony, or the Eighth Circle of the Empire. Come we next to that of the Lower Saxony, which contains,

The Dutchy of Mecklenburg.

TEckelburgiensis, sive Megalopolitani Ducatus, lies next to Pomerania, along the Coast of the Baltick Sea, of a fruitful Soil, and rich in Corn. The Princes or Dukes whereof are now divided into two Branches; the one whereof make their Residence at Suevin, or Schwerin, upon a great Lake, a Bishop's See, whose first Bishop, Fobn Scotus, was cruelly 1 vartyred, Ann. 1260, by the Wendish Apostates. The other at Gustron, or Gustrow, a well fortified Town, about 18 or 20 English miles from Rostock, and have now each of them a moiety of the Dutchy, and are said to be derived from the Vandal Princes. However in the late German Wars the Emperor made these Princes feel the weight of his Indignation, giving their Lands to Wallestein a Silesian Gentleman, (a great Captain indeed, and renowned Soldier, who by a strange Ingratitude, and Devilish Ambition came to a miserable end; the Duke of Biron and the Earl of Effen had fuch like Designs, and as Tragical Catastrophes.) Nevertheless they re-entred into it by the Arms of the Great Gustavus their Cousin-German, 1621. And though Munster-Treaty took Wismar, yet gave them in Exchange the Bishopricks of Ratzeburg and Suerin, turned into Principalites.

Other chief places, are Wismar, Wismaria, a Hans-Town, and noted Port upon the Baltick, founded out of the Ruins of the great and ancient City of Mecklenburg, or Megalopolis, Anno 1240. taken by Christian V. King of Denmark, 1676. from the Swedes, but according to the Treaty of Peace figured at Fountainbleau on the 2d of Septemb. 1679. it was to be restored to the Swedes within three weeks after the ratification of the said Treaty; yet in a second Treaty signed on the 26th of the said Month at Lunden in Schonen, it was agreed that Wismar should remain in the hands of the King of Denmark as a Surety for the Arrears of certain Contributions due from that King to the Crown of Denmark: so that the Danes, I think, still keep possession of this Town, the Obligation being not cancelled. z. Rostock, or Rotzstock, a City of great Antiquity, by report of the German Antiquaries. What great things the Ancient Roman Writers report of Lacinium, Laciburgium, and Rodopolis, they appropriate to Rostock, how true, I know not; 'tis certain, that in the Year 329. 'twas only a small inconsiderable Village, built by some poor Fishermen on the Banks of the Warna: now there are reckoned 140 Streets, many adorned with high and stately Houses. There are 7 times 7 remarkable things in Rostock. Seven great Doors to the Cathedral Church of St. Mary's, 7 large Streets leading to the Market-place, 7 Gates of the City towards the Land, 7 Bridges over the Warna, 7 Towers on the top of the Town-Hall. 7 great Bells which chime at certain hours in the Town-Hall, 7 great Linden Trees in the Common Garden. Its most noted Commodity commonly is Beer, a Hans City, noted Port, large, rich, and well-traded, a University founded Anno 1419. Since the Treaty at Munster, the Swedes have built a Fort at the Mouth of the River Warna, and exact Toll or Customs of all ships that pass to Rostock, to the great prejudice of the City.

Come we next in course to Holstein, which is under the Homage and Right of the Empire, but being in possession of the House of Denmark, we shall refer its Description to that Kingdom, and speak of the Dutchies of Erunswick and Lunenburg.

Of the Dutchies of Brunswick and Lunenburg.

THIS was a part of the ancient Dukedom of Saxony, till the Profeription of Henry, Sirnamed the Lion, by the Emperor Frederick Barbarosa; but by the Mediation of Henry the Second, King of England, his Father-in-Law, (being reconciled unto the Emperor) had the Cities of Brunswick and Lunenburg, with their Countries, restored unto him; afterwards erected into a Dukedom by the Emperor Frederick the Second, whose Posterity enjoyed these Dukedoms jointly till the Year 1430. when they were divided between William the Victorious, who had the Title of Brunswick, and his Uncle Bernard who had the Title of Lunenburg, and in their Posterity both these Dutchies do still continue.

In the Dukedoms of Brunswick al. Brunswigensis, & Hannover, The South and East parts towards Hessen, &c. swell with Woody Mountains and Hills, parts of the ancient Hircinian; the Northern part more plain and fruitful in Corn, and other Commodities.

Chief Places are Brunswick, al. Braunswyck & Brunsviga & Brunopolis the Tulisurgium of Ptol. teste Appiano, upon the River Oacer, and one of the chief Hans-Towns, containing about feven miles in compass, fair, populous, and strongly fortified with a double Wall, peopled with industrious Inhabitants, jealous of their Liberty; Governed in manner of a Free Estate, held under the right of the Princes. Its chief Trade is in Hides and Mum: Goslar, Goslaria, a Town Imperial. All the Houses in this City are covered with a glittering kind of Slat; the Inhabitants are all Miners, and the only Trade of the Town is in digging, cleanling, tempering, and vending all manner of Metals, except Gold; and a great many choice Minerals of the Country, as Vitriol, Brimstone, Quicksilver, Copperas, &c. Holmstadt is reckoned the oldest City in Saxony (except Bardiwick) built by the Emperor Charles the Great, about Ann. Dom. 782. it is famous for its Acidemia Julia, or University. Welfenbuttel, a very strong Castle, and the Residence of the Dukes of Prunswick, where is a famous Library: within these Territories were also included the Principality of Halberstat, now under the Elector of Brandenburg, and the Bishoprick of Hildesbeson, the Alcalingium of Ptol. & Irenicus, the Abbey Quedelingburg, who is the botess was sometimes Princess of the Empire, now subject to the state Hannover is the Seat and Title of another Branch of the Dukes of Brunswick, whose Duke is a Catholick, and by Munster Treaty Bishop of Osnaburg, in whose Territories are Calenburg, Grubenhagen, Gottingen, and Hamelen, where the Inhabitants keep the Records of the famous Piper, who in 1284. drew the Boys of the Town into a Cave, who were never after heard of.

Lunæburgensis Ducatus, Hertzogthumb Lunenbourg, incolis: Dutche de Lunebourg Gallis. The Countrey is plain, the Air sharp and healthful. and the Soil barren. The chief Town is, Lunenburg, Lunæburgum, upon the River Ulme, now one of the Six Hans-Towns, large, populous, and adorned with fair Buildings, whose chief Trade is in Salc. Cell, or Zell, is the Residence of the Dukes, about 10 German miles di-Stant from Luneburg.

Of Bremen, Episcopatus Bremeniis.

THIS Diocess or Archbishoprick of Bremen is a Country whose extreme parts along the Elbe and Weser are very fertile for Corn and Pasturage, the more inner parts wild and barren. upon the right side of the Weser, large, populous, rich, and well-tra ded, and strongly fenced, and is famous for its Art of dressing Leather, and Cloth, and for their Fish.

Stada, Stadt, a noted Hans-Town, accounted the most ancient in Saxony, and once the Staple of the English Merchant-Adventurers. now the place where the Ships pay Tole, strongly fortified. Bremer/forde, or Bremerverden, a Castle, and Village, where the Archbishop did reside. But now the Swedes have there a strong Garison. Charlsstat is a strong Fort built by the Swedes near the mouth of the River Weler. This Country, with the Principality of Ferden, or Vebrden, in Westphalia, now belongs to the Swedes by the Treaty of Munster, and is annexed to their Territories and Domminions under the Title of a Dukedom.

Of Lawenburg-

HIS Dutchy gives name to the Princes of Saxon-Lawenburg, who are branches of the same House with the Princes of Anhalt. Its chief place is Lawenburg, or Laubenburg, upon the Elb, a fine Town, but the Castle is ruined, and the Duke lives at Ratzeburg, though he hath nothing there but the Castle, the Town belonging, as was said, to the Duke of Mecklenburg.

Of Magdeburg, Ditto Magdeburgensis.

HIS Diocess lies extended on both sides of the Elb, betwixt Brandenburg, and the proper Saxony. The chief Town is Magdeburg, & Meydenburg, incolis. Meydburg, or Meydeburg: antiquis monumentis Pathenopolis. Mesuinum Ptol. testis Appiano. - A Burgraveship of the Empire, and Archbishop's See, giving name to the Country. Reedified by Editha Wife unto the Emperor Henry the First, and Daughter to Edmund King of England, and thus named in honour of her Sex. Her Effigies in stone is in the Cathedral Church, with 19 Tuns of Gold which she gave thereunto; though others say it was for the Worship of the Virgin Diana. A place of great state, large and fair, and strongly fortified, once the Metropolitan City of Germany, famous in the Protestant Wars for a whole year's Siege against the Emperor Charles the Fifth. But sacked and burnt by Tilly, and 36000 persons put to the Sword, and destroyed 1631. and the Town almost ruined. Twas also famous for the first Turnament which was in Germany, which was performed here in the Year 627, by the Emperor Henry, Sirnamed the Fowler. X

DOiemun. Tac. Beiohemum Paterc. Bomi Ptol. Boheim Germ. Boheme Gallis. Boemia Hispanis, Bohemia Italis. Czeskazem incolis teste Brieto. This Kingdom is environed about with Mountains and Forests, as it were with Fortifications. The Air sharp and piercing, the Countrey rough and hilly, rich in Minerals, and yielding sufficient plenty of Corn, and other necessary Provisions, Wine excepted. First inhabited by some of the Germans, the Hermiones, who were dispossessed by the Baii, who gave Name unto the Country. The Boii were routed by the Marcomanni, a people of Germany. And these were also ejected by the Sclaves under Zechus, Brother unto Lechus, the Founder of the Polish Monarchy, about the Year 649. called in their own Countrylanguage Czechi, but named from the Country they feized upon, Boiohami, upon their first arrival. This people were governed by Dukes until about the Year 1086. when Uratiflans or Uladiflans was created the first King of Bobemia. In a Diet at Menta, by the Emperor Henry the Fourth, about the Year 1199. Power was given to the States to chuse their Princes, before being Elected by the Grace of the Emperor; fince which time the Kingdom cordinued Elective, though most commonly enjoyed by the next of by od, until the Royal Line being extinct the Kingdom was devolved upon the House of Austria.

Chief Places are, Praga Italis, Prag Incolis, Prague Gallis. Marobudum Ptol. teste Sans. & Briet. the Capital and Royal City of the Kingdom of Bobemia, seated upon the River Muldaw, by the Bobemians Ultave; it consistent of three Towns, the Old, the New, and the Lesser. The Mountains of the Giants in Bohemia, called Riphæi or Cerconoffi, are famous for three things; for their Signification and Prognosticks of all Tempests, for the rarity of Plants, Stones and Gems there growing, and for a Spectrum called Ribenzal, which is said to walk about those Mountains in the form of a Huntsman. Anselmus de Boot tells us, that Rudulphon the Second, King of Bohemia, had a Table of Jeweli which he calls the Eighth Wonder of the World; it was wrough: with such Art, that the Jewels which were set together with invisible Joints, presented a most pleasant Landskip, naturally representing Woods, Rivers, Flowers, Clouds, Animals, &c. the like not to be found in the World.

The Ancient Inhabitants were partly subdued by L. Drusius, in the time of Augustus Casar; the other were before overcome by Julius Cafar: After which subjection they remainded under the Roman Empire until the Expiration of that Empire, when they were involved in that Publick Calamity under the Victorious French, who here succeeded the Romans; the whole was contained under the Name and Kingdom of Austrasia or Oostenreich. After that the French Monarchy became divided amonst the Posterity of the Emperor Lewis the Godly, this part hereof broke into fundry new Principalities and Governments, and became divided into 17 States; or Provinces, whereof some En-

Their Names are these: Four Dukedoms, Brabant, Limburg, Luxemburg, and Guelderland. Seven Earldoms, Holland, Zeland, Zutphen, Flanders, Artois, Hainault and Namur. One Marquisate of the Holy Empire, comprehending Antwerp. Five Signiories, or Lordships, Malins, Utrecht, Over-Mel, Friesland and Groningen. Two of these, Flanders, and part of Artoile, appertained to the Soveraignty of the Kings of France, quitted unto Philip the Second king of Spain by Henry the Second, French King, in the League of Cambray. Brabant, Flanders, part of Artais, Limberg, with Malines, and the Marquisate of the Sacred Empire, became added to the Dominion and Family of Burgundy by Philip the Hardy. Holland, Zealand, West-Freisland, Hainalt, Luxemburg and Namur, by Philip the Good: Gelderland, Zutoben, Utreicht, Over-Iffel and Groningen, by the Emperor Charles the Fifth. Since this Union they were Governed in manner of Free Estates by their Princes and Magistrates, making a distinct Nation and Commonwealth by themselves. Duke Charles the Fighter, Prince hereof, had an intent to unite the parts then under his Government into one intire Kingdom by the name of Eurgundy. But the Provinces being Soveraign, and had their several Laws, Privileges, &c. this Project took no effect. In the Reign of Philip the Second King of Spain, Heir of the House of Burgundy, and in the Year 1566. began those memorable Civil Broils, so long afflicting those rich and sourishing Countries, continued with the spoil and ransacking of all their Chief Towns and Cities, with the inspeakable misery and calamity of a bloody War of 48 years; a War which cost the King of Spain the Lives of 600000 men, and 150 Millions of Crowns, and England not sewer than 100000 men, and above a Million of Money. At last, part of the Provinces were forced to continue under the Spanish Yoke, and part recovered their Liberty; so that now there are in the Low-Countries two Estates, or Dominions, far differing one from another; for the one is a Republick, or rather several Republicks United and Confederated in one, and therefore called the United Provinces, and (commonly from the Principal Province) Holland: The other for the most part did belong to the King of Spain, as Heir to the House of Burgundy, and is called the Spanish Provinces, or Flanders; but of late Years the French King hath conquered the most part thereof.

As the Country is divided, so is also their Religion; for the Spaniards strictly follow the Romish, and the States-General indulge the free Use of all Religions, but countenance only that of the Reformed Churches, according to Calvin.

The Men for the most part are well proportioned, unmindful of good Turns and Injuries; of good Invention, Frugal, and of indefatigable Industry.

The Women generally of good Complexions, Familiar, Active, Laborious, and conversant in Affairs in the Shops and Houses.

Their Language, for the most part, is Dutch, with little difference in the Dialect; but in the Provinces adjoining to France, they speak a corrupt and impersect French, from their Language called Walloons.

The Air is Temperate, and more wholfome than formerly; the Winter more long than cold, and the Summer like the Spring in Southern Countries.

The Soil towards Germany is Woody and Hilly; but towards the Sea full of Pasture and Meadow-ground, which breed great store of Cattel, which make Cheese and Butter plentiful.

Of the UNITED PROVINCES, Or DUTCH Republick.

THE United Provinces are so called, because of the Union which they made together in the Year 1579. They are seated toward the end of the two Rivers, the Rhine and the Meuse, in the Northern part of the Low-Countries, between the Dominions of the King of Spain in Flanders, and many Principalities of the Empire. The Princes of the Empire, which are Neighbours to them, are, the Duke of Newburgh in his Dutchy of Juliers; the Elector of Brandenburgh in his Dukedom of Clewes; the Elector of Cologn, the Bishop of Munster, the Count of Bentheim, and the Prince of East-Friesland, in the Territories of the same Name.

The United Provinces, which formerly acknowledged the King of Spain, afterwards became Independent; or, to speak more properly, so many Commonwealths of themselves, which yet all together make up but one Republick, under the Title of The United Provinces of the Low-Countries; so that the Dignity remains with the States-General, but the Absolute Authority (in matters excepted in the Alliance) abides in the States of every Province. The Arms of this Commonwealth is a Lion holding a Bundle of seven Arrows close tyed together, in allusion to so many Provinces Confederated by the same Alliance. And yet these Provincts have not been always so well United, but that they have sometimes rather resembled a Body with so many Heads, some of which looked one way, and some another.

There is no Dominion in the World of fo small an Extent, that has fo great a number of Fortresses, and which seems to be better Defended by the Natural Scituation of the Countrey it self; for it is fortisted by the Sea, and several Rivers; that is to say, the Rbine, the Meuse, the

urgh,

Besides the United Provinces, and the Territories belonging to them, the States have certain Towns in Brabant and Flanders. They have in Flanders the Sleuce, Middelburg, Ardemburgh, the Sass of Gaunt, Axel, and Hulft. In Brabant, Lille, Bergen-Opzoom, Breda, Boisleduc, and Grave. They had also Dalem and Fauquement in the Dutchy of Limburgh; and Maestricht in the Bishoprick of Liege; won from them by the King of France, but restored, and at this present in their possession. In Germany, they had upon the Rhine, Orloy, Wesel, Reez, Emeric, and Genep, in the Dutchy of Cleves; and Rhineberg, in the Electorate of Cologne. But those places are returned to the right Owners. Upon the edge of Westphalia, they have a Garison in Embden, and in the Forts of Eideler and Leer-ort, which belongs to the Prince of East-Friesland.

Of these United Provinces, four lye toward the West, Holland, Zeland, Utrecht, Guelderland and Zutphen. Three to the East, Overyssel, Friesland, and Groningen. In their Assemblies these Provinces have always given their Voices in this Method, Guelders and Zutphen first; then Holland, Zeland, Utrecht, Friesland, Over-Issel, and lastly, Groningen, with the Ommelands. Here note, that Zutphen is reckoned one of the Seventeen Provinces, but makes not one of the Seven, being comprehended under Gelderland; so that those who will have ten under the Spanish Y Jurisdiction, Jurisdiction, must reckon Cambray for one, or that part of Gelders which yet remains subject to the King of Spain.

Each Province sends their Deputies to the Hague, where they compose three Colleges or Assemblies; the States-General, the Council of State, and the Chamber of Accounts. In the Assemblies of the States-General, it behoves all the Provinces to give their Consent in general and particular, to the Resolutions there taken, there being no such thing among them as Plurality of Voices. Gueldres takes place first, as being the Eldest, and because her Plenipotentiaries first propos'd the Union. The Admiralty sits in five places, and has five Magazines; at Roterdam, Amsterdam, Horn, or Enchysen, Middlebourgh, and Harlingen; the three first in Holland, the fourth in Zeland, and the fifth in Friesland.

Holland (faith Sir William Temple) is a Countrey where the Earth is better than the Air, and Profit more in request than Honour; where there is more sense than Wit; more good Nature than good Humour; and more Wealth than Pleasure; where a man would chuse rather to Travel than to Live, and shall find more Things to Observe than Desire, and more Persons to esteem than to Love.

The Earldom of Holland and Zeland, together with the Neighbouring Countrey of West-Frisia, was given unto Theodoric Son to Sigebert Prince of Aquitania, by the Emperor Charles the Bald. By Arnulph their fourth Prince, quitting the French Allegiance, they were first made subject to the Soveraignty of the German Emperors. In John the Second, became added to the House of Hainalt. In William the Third, to the House of Bavaria. In Philip the Good, to that of Burgundy. In Philip the Second, to that of Austria; in whose Reign, after forty years War, they were acknowledged a Free Estate by his Son Philip the Third.

The Province of Holland is of most Power and Consideration, as giving Name to all the rest: It is scituate very low, and therefore senced with Banks and Ramparts to keep out the Sea; it is also senny, and sull of Marshes, and therefore trenched with innumerable Dikes and Channels, to make it fit for Dwelling.

Remarkable indeed is the Industry and Trade of the Inhabitants; that having little or no Corn, yet they are always provided, not only with sufficient for their own Use, but to supply their Neighbours. Having no Timber of their own, they spend more in Building of Ships, and fencing their Water-courses, than any other Countrey: And having no Flax or Wool, they make more Cloth of both sorts, than most Countries in Europe.

The Stadt-house is the Prodigy of the World, and a Miracle beyond the Seven that Antiquity brags so much of: A Building of great Magnificence, and as vast Expence, begun in the year 1648, and in August 1655, was the Dedication of it solemnized. In a Vault under this Stadt-house, secured by the strongest Doors and Locks, is kept that famous Bank, which is supposed to be the greatest Treasure either real or imaginary, in the world. It is certain there is the appearance of infinite Riches in Bars of Gold, Silver, and inumerable Bags of Metals, thought to be all Gold and Silver. But the Security of this Bank lies not in those Effects, but in the Credit of the whole Town, or State of Amsterdam, whose Stock and Revenue is equal to some Kingdoms.

Dort, Dordracum, pleasant and large; scituated upon four Rivers, hath the first Voice, as the Town where the Earls of Holland and their subjects reciprocally bound themselves each to another. There it is that they Coin their Money, and their Magistrates have the Privilege to go with one of their Guards. In the Year 1421. of a City upon the Continent it became an Island, through a most dreadful Inundation, that Drowned about 100000 People and 80 Villages, Harlem, Harlemum, is the place where they make their finest Linen Cloth, and the whitest in the whole Province. Famous for the Invention of Printing by Lawrence Cofter, and its Inhabitants for breaking the Pelusian Chain. The Duke of Alva having taken it, committed very great acts of bloody Cruelty therein. Delph, Delf, or Delft, in Latin Delphi, or Delfum, is the Burying-place of the Princes of Orange, and of great Trade for Cloathing; famous for the story of the Storks, who covering their young ones in the fire-time, all perished in the Flames; and infamous for the Birth of David George, who called himself King and Christ, who died in 1556 at Basil; and three years after, his Bones were taken up and Burnt: And for the barbarons Assassination of William the first, Prince of Orange. Anno 1536. it was utterly ruined by a dreadful Fire. Anno 1654, it was unaccountably blown up by a vast Magazine of Powder. Leyden, Luddunum, Batavorum, is the Eye, or as others will have it, the Garden of Holland, as well for the cleanness of their Streets, as the beauty of their Houses. It is also famous for its Antiquity, for its Library, and the Excellent Edition of Books there Printed; as also for the entire Deseat of the Spanish Army. In this City was born that Taylor, who to his ruin was made King of the Anabaptists in Munster. Strong and rich Goude, or Gouda, has this advantage, to be scituated among Springs, and where the Inhabitants enjoy the purest Air in all Holland. Roterdam, Roterodamum, the place where Erasmus was born, is the best of the twelve Cities which they call small ones, by reason of its great Trade upon the Meuse.

The Hague, by the Dutch Den Haghe, and St. Gravenhaghe, (that is the Grove of the Earls or Forelters), in Lat. Haga Comitis; it glories in being the principal Village, and as delightful a place as most in the world; highly commended for the breadth of its Streets, the state-lines of its Buildings, and the shadiness of its Walks; and for the Princes Palace, and for the Assemblies of the States-General.

The Brill, Briela, is a well frequented Harbour towards the South, in the Island of Voorn; the rest of the Coast is all Sands, with some shelter for Fisher boats, with the Islands Over flac and Gorre.

There is also the rich and daily Butter and Cheese-Market Gorkum Lat. Gorichemum, on the Wale; a strong place, and one of the Keys of Holland: The fair and commodious Haven Schonboven, or Schonbovia.

So called from its pleasant Gardens.

At Scheveling was the flying or failing Chariot, which in two hours time would pass with Eight and twenty Persons from Scheveling to Putten, which is about 42 English miles. It was made for the samous Prince Maurice, by Simon Stevinus, a samous Mathematician.

Levestein is a Castle at the confluence of the Maes and Wael.

Heusden has a good strong Castle, but in Anno 1680. the Lightning in the night-time piercing the Wallsof the great Tower, set fire to the vast Magazine of Powder, which blew up the Tower and Castle, and great part of the Town.

Clunders

Clunders stands in the Isle of Ruggenbill; fortified with eight Bastions, and some Ravelins.

Sevenbergen is now a well-peopled Village. Willemstadt is a place of considerable strength, and a good Harbour.

Is else on the Holland Isel, or Fossa Drussana, now under the Prince of Orange, well fortified, and surrounded with Gardens and pleasant Inclosures. Its Trade consists much in Cables and Cordage, and other like Manusactures.

Vianen, in Lat. Viana & Vianda, the neatness of whose buildings, as well as the neighbouring fields, advance the pleasantness of the place.

Alphen is supposed to be the Albiniana Castra of Ant. Roomburch is called in Velserus's Geographical Tables, Pratorium Agrippina.

Woeden is a strong Town, and a Post of great concern, taken by the French, Anno 1672. quitted Anno 1673. Oudewater, or Veteres Aqua, pleasantly seated upon the Islel, is noted for the best Hemp. Schiedam is a place of considerable Antiquity, said to have had the Privileges of a City, Anno 1274.

At Lausdum, a League from the Hague, is the Interment of Margaret Countess of Henebergh, and her 365 Children born at one birth, if Reverend Antiquity may command our assent to all its Stories and Traditions.

Mayden upon the Vetcht, in the late Wars was made one of the strongest Posts for the Desence of Holland.

Wesep, Wespe, or Wesop, is famous for its Beer, which is called the Flemmish Physick.

Naerden is a strong, but little Town, fortissed with six Bastions, yet in Anno 1672. the Garison of 200 men, at the first appearance of the French threw down their Arms and sted to Amsterdam, which is distant about three Leagues. In August 1673, it was besieged by the Dutch Army of 25000, but the Garison of 3000 men quickly surrendred; for which the Governor was condemned to perpetual Imprisonment, and all the other Officers cashier'd. In Anno 1481, those of Utrecht surprized this Town (by dressing up a company of Soldiers like Countrey-women going to Market), and compelled the Inhabitants to pay a vast sum of Money to redeem themselves and houses from the namost extremities of Fire and Sword: But in the same year the Naerdener, slew 1500 Utrajestins upon the spot, and carried off a great Booty. Anno 1572, it surrendred to Frederic of Toledo, who ordered all the Inhabitants to meet together in the Market or Church, and then commanded his Soldiers to cut them in pieces.

Alemaer, encommpassed with Marshes; when the Metropolis of West-Friesland, called Altena; now enriched by its Butter and Cheese, and adorned with extraordinary pleasant Gardens. Memorable for the Deseat the Inhabitants gave D. Alva, merely because he gave them no way to escape.

Horn upon the Zuyder-Zee, from its plenty of rich Villages, and Pasture-grounds, with pleasant Gardens and Walks, called Cornucopia.

In May is the Fair for Butter and Cheefe.

Edam, tather Ydam, or Tedam, a good Haven, is noted for its Building of Ships, for making excellent Cheefe, and for the Sea-Nymph, (Anno 1430) that learned to spin Monnekedam or Monachendam, upon the small River Monick.

Purmerend, formerly belonged to the Noble Family of the Egmond, but fold to the States, Anno 1590.

Medemblick, or Medemleck, whether it was the Seat of Radbodus the famous King of the Frizons, is uncertain; but its commodious Harbours, capable of 300 large Ships, are of great profit and Reputation to it.

Egmond i a pleasant and fine-built Village, and gave Title to one of the most Ancient and Illustrious Families of these Countries.

Bewervick (anciently called St. Aga:ba's Church.)

The Text, or Tessel-Island, abounds with all manner of Necessaries; and having a great influence upon the entrance into the Zuyder-Zee, the States have built there a strong Fortress, which is always provided with a good Garison.

Flicland or Uliclana, called in Lat. Flevolandia, is of a long and nar-

At Schelling the English burnt and fired about 100 or 150 of the Dutch Merchant-men, with some Men of War. These three Islands, together with several large Banks of Sand, lye along the Mouth of the Zuyder-Zee, and in some measure break the first Assaults of the raging Ocean, making two good Harbours, viz the Texel and Elie.

Sheep.

The Art and Industry of the Dutch have manifested themselves in a thousand particulars, but in nothing more than in their putting Bars to the Ocean, and in draining of Takes of so great extent that they might be term'd Inland Seas; such were the Zype and Beemster in North-Holland.

4. Overflacke or Overvlackee, comprehending fereral Villages, where is good Corn-land, but little Pasture. These Islands were formerly part of the Province of Zeland; but upon the distribution of a Tax to be paid to the Prince, they subjected themselves to the States of Holland.

Zeland, Zelandia, is the Province which was first set at Liberty, and last consented to the Peace with Spain: At this day it contains the greatest part of the Prince of Orange's Possession. That of Vacheren, Walachria, in the Map, contains ten Dutch miles in compass, is the fairest of all in the Low Countries, with the City of Middleburgh, the Capital City of the Province, and the Staple for Wines; a strong and large Empory. Flushing, Flissinga, the Key of the Netherlands, is also a good Harbour. Once an English Garison, and a Cautionary Town, delivered to Queen Elizabeth, Anno 1585, and restored by King James Anno 1616; where the Renowned Sir Philip Sidney was the first Governour, and died in that Service. The strong Sea-Town, Vere, or Ter-Vere, Veria Lat. having many Staples for Herring and other Commodities; Famous for the most Noble and Illustrious Family of the Veres, once Earls of Oxford. Zeeburgh, or Rammekens, is a fixing Fort and good Harbour, engaged to the English, but restored to the Dutch, together with the Brill and Flushing.

The second Island is Schowen, Scaldia, Lat. containing six miles in Circuit; its chief Town is Zerick-Zei, or Zirizee, noted for Madder and Salt; and Browershaven, inhabited by Fishermen; here was first invented the Marting of Herrings. The third is Zuitt-Beverland, or South Beverland, whose only Town of note is Goes, or Ter-Goes. The fourth is Duucland, or Duyueland, named thus from the abundance of Pigeons there breeding. It siath no Town of Note, but is memorable for the bold passage of the Spaniards under Mondragon cross the Sea, in the year 1575; and for that in the year 1520, it was overwhelmed with a deluge of waters. North Beveland, once termed

Tolen is an Island so called from a Town of that Name, divided from Brabant by a narrow Creek or Arm of the Sea. The more ancient Inhabitants of these Islands were the Mattiaci of Tacitus. They contain in all 8 Walled Towns, and about 100 Villages. The Countrey is low, slat, and Marshy, rich in Corn and Pasturage, unhealthful and subject to Inundations, being kept in and defended from the Sea by Banks.

The Bishoprick or Lordship of Utrecht, Utricesium Amm. was first occasioned by one Willebrod, an Anglo-Saxon, the Apostle of those parts, and first Bishop hereof about the year 611. during the Regency of Pepin the Fat. The Successors of this Willibrod, by the Liberality of the French Kings and German Emperors, attained unto as well the Temporal as the Spiritual Jurisdiction, together with that of Overisel, until Charles the Fifth, who by the consent of Henry Count Palatine, then Bishop, seized upon the whole Temporal Dominion hereof, leaving only the Spiritual to the Prelates, which also fince, by the Usurpation of the States, hath likewise been taken from them. It has a Capital City of the same Name, inhabited for the most part by the Nobility of the Countrey: But its greatest Glory for feveral Ages was, its being the Seat of one of the most Ancient and most powerful Bishops in the Christian World: First called Inferius Trajectum, or Ultrajectum; Utricesium, Amm.; seated six horary miles from Amsterdam, upon the old Channel of the Rhine; now diverted into the Leck: Mr. Ray tells us, That it was, Anno 1663, envirnoed with a thick and high Wall, and a deep Trench; yet in the year 1672, the Ultrajectins submitted to the French long before it could be summoned; which Civility cost them a Million 668000 Gilders, (that is, above 160000 l. sterling) which was exacted of them in Contributions between June 1672, and November 1673; besides 200000 Rix Dollars for a Viaticum or Foy at the departure of the There is also the Thorowsare Rhenen, the fair and strong Amersfert, the Frontier-Town Montfort. It was made an Earldom by the Emperor Henry the Third, made a Dukedom by the Emperor Lewis of Bavaria. After the decease of Charles of Egmond, the last Duke, by composition between him and Charles the Fifth Emperor, this Province, with the Earldom of Zutphen, united for a long time in the House of the Dukes of Gelderland, descended upon the Emperor Charles the Fifth, and added by him to his other Provinces of the Netherlands under Philip the Second; the greatest part shook of the Spanish Yoke, and now with Zutphen governed in manner of a Free Estate, confederated with the rest of the United Provinces, a third part of Gelderland excepted, where stands the Towns of Rurewond, Loyal; Gelders, Martial; Venlo, Strong; Watchtendum and Stralen, remaining yet subject to the Arch-Duchess, or Spaniards; who in the Year 1627. attempted in vain to bring the Rhine to the City of Geldria, and into the Meuse, to deprive the United Provinces of the Trade of Germany. Nimarhen, Noviemagus al. Neomagus, the Capital City of the Dutchy of Gueldria, the Oppidum Batavorum of Tacitus, from whence Civilia, after a fatal overthrow given him by the Romann fled with his Army into the Island of the Batavi, now called the Batuwe, or Betaw: It was one of the three Palaces of Charles the Great, and Lewis the Pious; as also of the succeeding Emperors for four Ages; Repaired by Frederick the first, Sirnamed Abenobardus, 1155. taken by Prince Maurice in the Year 1592. In July 1672, surrendred to the French upon none of the best Terms: but in April 1674. given up by the French upon the ranfome of 82000 Rixdollars for it and the Betaw. Arnbeim, the Arenacum of Tacitus, is the Capital City of the Velaw, or Veluwe, and the Seat of the Supream Council of the Dukedom of Gelder, walled about, and fortified in the Year 1233. destroyed by Fire Ann. 1525. feated on the right side of the Rhine, about two German miles from Nimeguen, and as many from Doesburg. One of the best sortified Towns in all the Provinces; yet attack d and surrendred to the French in the same day, 72. but for 170000 Gilders re delivered, Battenborg, Lat. Arx Batavorum. Tiel, the unhealthy; Buren, belonging to the Prince of Orange. The Town and County of Culenburg, the Forts Knotsenburg, Schenck-Sconce, and Tolbuys, are considerable; Haderwick and Elburg upon the Zuyder-Zee, Hattem upon the Isfel, and Wageningen upon the Rhine, are the chief Towns in Arnheim quarter; And Over-Issel, or Trans Issallania, (so called from its Scituation beyond the Issel) where the Rhine and that, share their Streams together, by means of a Channel which Drusae formerly made. It is divided into three parts; the Twence, Welland, and Drent, in which are contained 11 Towns, and 100 Villages; the principal of which are Deventer, Lat. Daventria, an Imperial Hans-Town, being a famous Passe over the Issel; taken for the States by the Earl of Leicester, Anno 1586, but surrendred by Sir William Stanley, Ann. 1587, to the Spaniards; recovered by Prince Maurice, Ann. 1591, but in the fatal Year 1672, it was taken by the Bishop of Munster, or rather betrayed by the Artisices of one Collonel Broersma; upon the Division of the Conquered places between the Military Prelates, this sell to the share of the Bishop of Collen, by whom it was quitted in April 1674, to the States for 42000 Rix Dollars.

Campen Lat. Campi & Campa, seated at the Confluence of the Isel into the Zuyder-Zee; its main strength lies in its Marshy Scituation: upon the treacherous Surrender of Daventer, 1672. this capitulated, and yielded up it self; upon division it fell to the French, who about the latter end of 1673, quitted it for 80000 Gilders.

Swol is fortified with double Walls, double Ditches, and very strong Ramparts and Bulwarks, and is a place of great Trassick. In April 1674. it was quitted of the Bishop of Colen's Garison, but the Bourgmasters, and some others of the Town, were sent to Maestricht, Steenwyck a small Town, but well fortisted by Prince Maurice, who recovered it from the Spaniards 1592. Towards the end of 1673, it was forc'd to pay a Ransome of 10000 Gilders to the Bishop of Munster's Forces, and yet they ruined the Fortistications, and blew up the two Gates and the Ammunition-House. These are in the Twente, Lat. Twentia & Tubantia.

The County of Duent consists much in Marshes and Heath; but the two great Fens called Smilder-Veenen, and Echterreenen, affords the Fuel-Turf, which is conveyed in great quantities to Holland, and the parts adjacent. Coeverden is the chief place of the County, and for strength inferior to none in Europe, yet not above 650 paces in compass, yet commands all the considerable Passes thereabouts. It is memorable for many Sieges in the Spanish Wars, too tedious to relate. In Ann. 1672. it was fortified with a large deep double Dirch, with very high and strong Ramparts, defended with 7 good Bastions, bearing the Names of the 7 Provinces, with well-wrought Parapets, Fause Brays, and other Outworks, and a Castle esteemed impregnable, yet yielded to the Bishop of Munster in July, before it had been at the expence of one man's life in defence of so considerable a Fortress. In December sollowing the Dutch by a kind of a private surprize retook it.

Groningen, comprehending the Omlands, is but of small extent, where there is nothing more rare than Stones and Wood; so that their Fuel is Turf, which they dig in great abundance. The Air is sharp and wholsome. The Metropolis of this Province is Groningen, or Groninghen, commodiously seated for Water and Land Carriage: Anno 1614, was an University sounded here by the Provincial States; at the entrance into the publick School is this Inscription, Face a que moriens fasta suffe volis. The Resistance made by the Groninghers in the Year 1672, not only raised the Siege, but obtained the Reward of a double Vote in the Grand Council of State of the United Provinces. Other Places are, Bourtang Fort, Biltick, Wolder-Sconce, Winschosen, and Langacker Sconces. Midwold, once a flourishing place, but now almost ruined by the outragious Dollars, which about 400 years ago spread it self upon the Ruines of 33 good Villages. Dam, & Delphzil, are the two most considerable places in the Omlands. The last is a very good Haven. In the Year 1672, the Dutch East India Fleet of 14 Ships, whose Lading was valued at 1600000 pound Sterling, had been taken by the English, had they not got into this Port.

Places

West-Friesland was a Country formerly much larger than now: The Ancient Frizons were possessor the Provinces of Friesland, Groningen, Overyssel, Westphalia, and North-Holland, called then West-Friesland, and contiguous to the Province of Friesland: For the Zuyder-Zee, which is not found in the Writings of the Ancients, was formed by some great Inundation, breaking in between the Texell and the other Islands, which are but the broken remainders of a continued Coast. It is now divided into three parts, viz Oostergo, Westergo, and Seven-wolden, or the seven Forests; which comprehends two Cities, 12 Presectures, 127 Tillages.

The two Cities are, r. Leewarden, Lewardia & Leovardum, the largest, richest, and best built City in the Province, and strongly fortified; enjoying the benefit of many large Navigable Channels, honoured with the Supream Court and Chancery.

2. Dorckum, or Docum, well fortified. The Guild-Hall and Bridge are most considerable; it was the Residence for the Colledge of Admiralty, now translated to Harlingen, a Haven Town, and well fortified, and may easily be overslowed by the help of their Sluces.

Francker, or Franicheria, is an University, encompassed with a good

Wall and Ditch, and defended with a strong Castle.

Sneeck is an ancient, populous, neat-built and well-fortified Town;

Balfwaert is encircled with good Corn, and Pasture Fields.

Of Staveren, in Lat. Stavia & Stavordia. The Friezish Writers tell us, that it was not only the Metropolis of the Country, and chief Seat of their Kings, but the largest and most famous Empory of both Germanies.

The chief Commodities of the Natural growth of these Provinces are Butter and Cheese; the rest being Manusacturies which they make out of such Materials as they setc' and of other Countries: But the Commodity that hath been of greatest advantage to them, is Fish; and that not caught upon their own Coast neither. Their Herring-Trade, by computation, is worth 450000 l. per Annum: And that of Collession l. Steel. yearly.

Generally the people are inclined to Navigation, and a Sea faring Life; and many being born on Shipboard, and bred up at Sea, know no other Country; so that their natural inclination, and necessity of employing themselves that way, hath exceedingly increased their Shipping; so that it they are Masters of more Ships and Vessels of all forts, than almost all Europe besides.

But that which is the just admiration of all men, these Seven Provinces are become greater, and more potent than Seventeen, in riches and power: Nay, they have outdone some of the greatest Princes in Europe. Their Cities are many and splendid; and yet rhere are more Sects among them than Cities, and almost as many Creeds as Heads; yet so wise in their Meetings, as never to discourse of Religion. Their Country (in general for its Dimensions) is fuller of People, Cities, Towns, Castles, Forts, Bulwarks, &c. for Military Defence, than any one Country in Europe. Their Naval Forces prodigious, befifting Wonders rather than Words; even a terror to the great Princes of the World. For their Trade, it far exceeds that of the Neighbouring Princes; and in the Oeconomy of it much more prudently managed: To every Town they affign some Staple Commodity; as, to Dort, the German Wines, and Corn; to Middleburg, the French and Spanish Wines; to Rotterdam formerly, now to Dort, the English Cloth: To Harlem, Knitting and Weaving, &c. which maketh their Towns for equally rich and populous.

One Miraculous Accident I must not forget, because mentioned by all Writers, viz. That Margaret, Sister to Earl Floris the 4th, being about 42 years of Age, brought forth at one Birth 365 Children, half Males, and half Females, the odd one a Hermaphrodite; they were all Christened by Suido Suffragan to the Bishop of Utrecht, in two Basons, which are yet to be seen at the Church of Lasdunen, the Males John, the Females Elizabeth; immediately after they all died, and their Mo-

THESE Provinces are so called, because subject to the Monarchy of Spain. It carries also the Name of Flanders, from that Province which is the fairest, the richest, and the best Peor sed part.

Empire, the Signiory of Malines, the County of Namer, and the Dutchy of Limburgh. There are also two Feiss of the Empire, the Bishoprick of Liege, and the Archbishoprick of Cambray. The Kings of Spain were once Masters of these Provinces, and for the preservation thereof have expended a good part of their Gold and Silver brought from the Indies, in the Wars they maintained against the Dutch and French.

The County of Flanders, Flandria Latinis, Ulaenderen by the Inhabitants, Flandre French, Flandes Spaniards, & Flandra Italians, is so sull of People, that it seems to be but one great City, and the loveliest Country in Christendom; enjoying a good and wholsome Air, and well water d by a great number of Rivers. All along the Coasts lie banks of Sand, that cover very Rich places. In the Neighbouring Sea are several Sands and Shelves, nevertheless Ships ride there safe enough. It formerly was divided into Dutch Flanders, Gallican Flanders, and Imperial Flanders; This belonged sometimes uno the Kingdom of West France, and held by the Princes thereof under the Fief of this Crown; quitted unto Philip the Second King of Spain, and to the Heirs of the House of Burgund, by Henry the Second King of France, and the League of Cambray.

In Flanders, the principal places are Gaunt, Gandaurum, Ghendt & Gand by the French, one of the biggest Cities of Europe: But though it hath several Rivers that still bring a Trade to it, yet has it not the sive and thirty thousand Families that anciently it had, when it was able to Arm sour and twenty thousand men. 'Tis samous for the Birth of Charles the Fifth, and of John Duke of Lancaster, commonly called John of Gaunt. The Cathedral is a stately Structure. In the Tower Rellefort hangs the Bell Roland, said to weigh 12000 pound. The Church of St. Bavo is the chief: That of St. Michael is samous for ex-

Ostend, Ostenda, is a Town whose Haven they can never block up, and which was once the Theater of War, when it held out as Siege for above three years, too long for the Arch-Duchess not to shift her Smock, being Garisoned by the English, and under Sir Horatio Vere, who was then Governour thereof, at which Siege the Spaniards are said to have lost one hundred thousandmen. After the Town was yielded up, there appeared nothing but a mishapen Chaos of Earth. Trenches filled up, Curtains beat down, Bulwarks torn in pieces.

Lille, Gal. L'Isle. Incol. Ryssel, or Tor Issel, upon Dole, the Capital of Walloon-Flanders, is one of the best in the Low-Countries, by reason of its Wealth and Strength...

Tournay, Tornacum, & Dornick, Baganum of Prol. Civit. Turnacensum of Ant. an Ancient City; is fair, great, strong, rich, and well-peopled: This was the first Town that subbmitted to the King of France, after a formal Siege, who has fet up a Parliament, and built a very strong Cittadel to secure it. It is observed of Tournay, that it was taken four several times upon St. Andrew's day. 1. By Henry the Eighth, King of England. 2. By the Emperor Maximilian the First. 3. By the Emperor Charles the Fifth. 4. By the Duke of Parma, 1581. Yielded to the French, An. 1667. Douay, or Duacum upon the Scarpe, is considerable for its Extent, Strength, Trade, and Seminary of English Roman-Catholicks. Anno 1667. Iurrendred to the French after the short Opposition of three days. The Church of Nostredam is about 1200 years old: It is a Staple of Corn, and honoured with an University. Oudenaerd, scituate upon the Scheld; is one of the fairest Towns in this Province, both for Scituation and Trade, commanded by a high Hill, taken by the French, 1667. in less than 24 hours; altho it cost the Prince of Parma two months. Anno 1682. restored to the Dutch by the Nimeguen-Treaty:

Courtray, seated upon the Lis, is a Hold of great importance, and well fortified by the French, who took it after a short Siege, An. 1667. The Inhabitants are excellent at Diapering of Linnen.

Dunkirk, Dunquerca, or Duinkirk, said to be built about the year' 966. It is one of the Five Ports of Flanders, once considerable for its Herring-Fishing, more for its Privateering.

Anno 1535. Charles the Vtb. built a Fortress here; Anno 1558; it was taken and burnt by the French. Anno 1583. it was suprized by Chamois, who commanded a Regiment in the Town; not long after it was yielded up to the Prince of Parma, having endured all the Extremities of a Siege. Anno 1590. Prince Maurice endeavoured in vain to surprise it by Scalado. Anno 1647. it was after a troublesome Siege taken by the Prince of Conde, with a great loss of men, and the Expence of some English Blood. In August, 1652 it was besieged by Ach-Duke Leopold, and being disappointed of Relief by means of the English, it surrendred. In the year 1657 Cromwell having entered into a League with France, the English took Montmedi, St. Venant, and the strong Fort of Mardyke, and invested Dunkirk. In 1658. Don John of Austria came with an Army of 16000. Horse and Foot to Relieve Dunkirk; but after a brisk Encounter was defeated by the English alone. This Overthrow, followed presently after by the Loss of the Marquels of Leda, Governor of the City, slain in a bold Sally, occasioned the speedy surrender of the Place, which according ed to not inex the the More Exp

Winnocksberg or Winnoxbergen, Lat. Mons Sancti Winoci, or Berguer S. Winnox, 7 Leagues from Dunkirk, and 7 from Ipres; it owes its name to a noble Monastry erected upon a Hill in Honour of St. Winnoc an English-man of wondeful Devotion and Piety. 'Tis now made very strong by the French. Between it and Dunkirk are two strong Forts well Fortisted, the one called Fort-Lewis, the other the Spanish Fort, kept by the French to procure the more Elbow-room for the Garison of Dunkirk.

Veurne or Furnes, is distant from Dunkirk 4, and from Dixmude 3 Leagues; a neat Town, in a very rich Soil; it was the Residence of Lewis the 11th. of France, during his Retirement with Philip of Burgundy.

Graveling, in the middle between Dunkirk and Calais, upon the mouth of the River Aa, which divides France from Flanders. It was fortified by Charles the Vth An. 1528. with five strong Bastions, and a Citadal; it stands in a low and plashy Level, and is environed with so many Outwarks and Ditches of Water, that it seems strange it should be yielded up in so short a time to the English and French in the year 1658.

Cassels, or Kassel, Lat. Kassetum, originally Castellum, seated upon the top of an high Hill. Near this place have been sought Three memorable Battels, by Three Philips, Generals on the French side: The first advantagious to the Low-Countries by the evil fate of Philip the Fair. The second was fortunate to the French, through the Courage or good fortune of Philip of Valois. The third was in April, Anno 1677, between the Prince of Orange, and Philip Duke of Orleance: The Dutch were 30000 sent to the Relief of St. Omers; but after a hot sight of three hours, defeated by the French, with the loss of 3000 slain upon the spot, and as many taken Prisoners: The loss of the Faench was about 2000.

Bruges, Lat. Bruge, scituate in a large Plain about three Leagues from the Sea, and four from Osend, about four Italian miles in compass, and well fortified. The new Channel, cut with vast charge to the Sluce, is secured by prodigious Turn pikes from the rage of the Sea. The Canal cut by Spinola between Bruges and Gaunt, is eight Leagues in length, and guarded by about 200 Forts and Redoubts. The City is exceeding neat and well built; in it are seven Parish Churches, that of St. Johns is the Cathedral, An. 1559. sixty Religious Houses, and three Colleges of Canons. The Jesuits College deserves most admiration. The Market-place is very commodious, and of a pleasant scituation in the Center of six principal Streets, running from as many of the chief Gates. The Palace La Franche is nobly adorned with the Pictures and Statues of several Emperors, Kings, Arch-Dukes, &c. The Women of Bruges are said to excel both in Beauty and Bravery.

Sluce, Slusa, Lat. by some Clausulæ, once an exceeding wealthy place, now its Fortifications and Scituation are such, as render it very strong; taken by the Prince of Parma, An. 1586. Retaken by Prince Maurice, 1604. It is the largest Harbour in all Flanders.

All the other places of Flanders are generally considerable, either for their Beauty or for their Fortifications, for eminent Sieges or remarkable Battels.

The Soil is so fertile, that the Low-Countries, as the Natives say, would have produced as much Riches as the Indies, had all their Territories been as fruitful as that of Furnes. Near Newport or Neoportus was fought that memorable Battel betwixt the Arch-Duke Albert, and the States, where, by the Valour of the English, and the excellent Conduct of those Noble and Gallant persons, Sir Francis and Sir Horatio Vere, the Victory was gained for the States.

The Province of Artou, in Lat. Artefia & Arthefia, united to the Crown of France by the Pyrencan Treaty, from which it was dismembred. It enjoys a mild and temperate Air, with a fertile Soil, producing all forts of Grain and Fruit, especially Wheat in abundance.

Arras Gallie, Artrebatum, antiquis, Origineum Ptol. Atreebt Ger. Arazzo, Italia. The Capital City thereof confifts of a High and Low Town, both very strong; since the late Conquests of the Frenc's King, the River which belongs to it has been made Navigable for Vessels to go beyond Downy. Heldin, Heldinum, is a Regular Hexagon, by which the River was Navigable as far as Montrevil. Bapaulme, Bapalma, is a place place that cannot well be Besieged, because there is no Water in all the Neighbourhood. Lens is famous for the Victory of the French in the year 1648; where the Prince of Ligne, and the Marquels of Grana were taken, with 20 Captains, 6200 common Soldiers, 40 Great Guns, and 90 Enfigns. Berbune is fair and strong, and makes excellent good Cheefe. And Terroane, Tervanna, Terwin, is known by its Ruins. At the Siege whereof, An. 1513 Maximilian the Emperor served in Person under the English Colours. St. Omers, Audomaropolis & Fannum S. Audomari, is a strong City, surrounded with Marshes, wherein there are Floating Islands. It is seared on the River Aa, well fortified with Bastions, Half-moons, Ditches, &c. It was Anno 1667. affaulted by Monsieur, at the same time that Cambray was by the King of France; and the Prince of Orange coming to its Relief, being defeated near Cossal, the Town was yielded up. In short, the Riches of the People, the Canal for Commerce, the Abby of St. Bertin, and the English Seminary of Jesuits, have rendred it a place of no common fame throughout all Europe.

Aire, or Arien, Lat. Aria, upon the Lie River, is a very strong place, being environed on three sides by a Moorish Level, and fortified with good Dirches, Bastions, Half-moons, Redoubts, Hornworks, Counterscarps, &c. on the other side it is defended with the strong Fort of St. James, or St. Francis; in July 1676, besieged by the Mareschal de Humieres, and surrendred.

Mons, called also Montes, and Berghen, the Capital City of Henegow, and one of the principal Cities in the Spanish Provinces; wonderful strong by its Scituation, the Countrey round about being easily overflowed. It is also very well fortified with all manner of Works. Concerning the Surprisal of it, Anno 1572. by means of twelve Soldiers pretending to be Wine-Merchants, obtained the Keys of the City, and so let in some Forces of Horse and Foot, under Lewis of Nassau, brother to the Prince of Orange; see Meteran, lib. 4. and Moursing, lib. 2. Rerum Belgic. As for the Attempt upon the French Camp, in. 1678, near Mons, by the Prince of Orange's Guards, and the English, under that excellent Soldier and Valiant Earl of Offory, deferves a far better Pen than mine to deliver it to Posterity in a peculiar manner, and among the greatest and most glorious Actions of this present Age. No sooner was Mons invested, An. 1691. but the King of France arrived rived in the Camp, the 21st of March. The besieged all along vigoronsly defended themselves; but on the 8th of April, the Burghers, spurred on by the Ecclesiasticks, and discouraged by the Ruin of their Churches and Houses, forced the Governor to Capitulate; and upon the 9th, the French took possession of the Gate of Bartament, and on the 10th, the Garison marched out to the number of 2400 men, and 280 Officers. The French put into the Town a Garison of 4000 Horse and 10000 Foot. 'Tis reckon'd that the Siege cost France several Millions, and above 5000 men.

This County of Hamault contains four Principalities, Barbancon, Chimai, Conde, and Ligne; three Marquifates, Aisaux, Terlon, Vergnies? and 15 Counts, 22 Baronies, 26 Abbies, 12 Signiories, 24 Fortified Towns, and 950 pleasant and rich Villages. The Estate is ancient. being forhetimes a part of the great Earldom of Ardenne, from which it was divided and made a diffinct Earldom by Alberick Sirnamed the Orpheline, one of the youngest Sons of Brunulph Count of Ardenne, flain by Dagobert a French King, who had this part, with Title of Earl, given him by Sigebert King of Austrasia to be held under the Soveraignty of the French Kings. After long continuance and often changes, it was by faqueline the last Princess (wanting Heirs), surrendred (together with Holland, Zealand, and West-Friesland, united in Families) unto Philip the Good, Duke of Burgundy, her next Kinfman, in whose House the Right (but the Possession in the French King) now remaineth, at least the greatest part. Valenciennes, Valentiana, is a great, fair, and well fortified place, taken by the Ftench, 1677. lying upon the Scheld. Quercetum, Quesnoy: Landdecium, Landrecy; Avenna, Avesnes; Philippevilla, Philipville; and Marienburgh, Mariaburgum, are strong places, all in the French King's Power; together with Binch, Binchium; Marimont, not far from it. was one of the fairest Houses in all the Countrey, Mary Queen of Hungary having omitted nothing that might adorn the Structure. The Battel of Senef, 1674. was one of the most remarkable Exploits of that exquisite General the Prince of Conde.

Luxemburgensis Ducatus. The Dutchy of Luxemburg. It was sometimes a part of the Principality of Ardenne. By the Emperor Charles the south made a Dukedom in the person of his Brother Weneslaus. By Elizabeth the last Princess, wanting Heirs, it was sold to Phillip the Good Duke of Burgoiny. This Province contains in Circuit about 70 Leagues, or 200 Italian miles; comprehends 20 Wall'd and Fortified Towns, and between 11 or 12 hundred Boroughs or Villages. Its chief City is Luzenburg, or Luxenburn, in Lat. Lutzenburgum, or Luxenbur-Guicciardin and others think it to be the Augusta Romanduorum of Ptol. It is commodiously seated on a Hill, strong and well fortified, but has suffered much by the Injuries of War. It was taken and plundered by the French under the Command of the Duke of Orleance, An. 1542. As also the year following by the same Enemy. Anno 1552. the whole Countrey was laid desolate by the Army of Henry the 2d. of France, led into Germany against Charles the 5th. Nor was it ever more barbaroufly pilliged and harafs'd, than by the French in July and August, An. 1672. And in An. 1674. the City was besieged, and surrendred to the French.

um,

The Dutchy of Moselle lies along the Course of that River, between Metz and Triers, is now under several Lords and Masters.

The Principality of Arduenne is very Ancient, said to have been erected in the time of the Merovingii, the first Royal Family of the Franks: and to have been governed by several brave Princes descended from Chodion the second Monarch of that Nation.

The Earldom of Chyny is of an ample Jurisdiction over several Towns and Villages.

The Earldom of Rouffy, formerly called St. Paul; of which little memorable.

La Roche en Ardenne, gives Title to an Earldom, made fuch by the Ancient Kings of France, and formerly comprehended divers Lordships. Durbuy gives Title to an Earldom. Marville is the Capital Town of a Lordship. Vianden, Viennen, & Vientbal, supposed to be fo called from an Ancient Castle erected by the Vandalls about the year 882, and by them called Vandelen; It gives Title to an Earldom which did belong to the Family of Orange.

Bastonac, News-Chatcau, St. Vit. Mars-en famenne, or Marche enfamine, are small Towns, some with Castles, and some without Walls.

Theoniville, Theonis Villa, or Theonivilla, by the Dutch Diedenboven: Lewis the 14th of France was not much advanced in the Fifth year of his Age, ere he began to Triumph over his Enemies at the memorable Battel of Rocroy, 1643, and the gaining Theoreville by the Conduct of the Duke D' Anguen. Mommedi, Mons medius. Dunwilliers, Damuillerium, belong to the French King: And Yuoix Yuolium, by the French Carigan. There are some Lands in the Forest of Arden that belong to the Bishop of Liege; that is to say, Bovillion, Bullionum, with the little of a Duteby, and a strong Castle upon the Rock or high Hill, whereof was named that samous Godfres of Bowillon, Duke of Larain, and the sirst of the Latins, King of ferusalem. St. Hubert, to whom the Huntsmen make particular Devotions: And Rochefort, that beheld the French Victors over the Spaniards at the Battel of Avin in the year 1625.

Brabant, Brabantia, or Brachland, is a neglected or uncultivated Soil; but the Art and Industry of the Brabantines and Flemmings have now not only altered but improved their barren Lands, by fowing of Flax, one Acre whereof is worth about 40 or 50 1. After the Flax is pull'd off, they either fow the same Land with Oats, and upon them Clover-grass seed, only Harrowing it with bushes; which Grass, after the Oats are mowed, yields a very great Pasture, and is cut three times in a year, and continues good for four or five years together; or else after the Flax, they fow Rye and Turnips; what Turnips they do not fell, they give to their Cattel, beating the Roots and Leaves (well-wash'd) together, and then boyling them in water, which makes their Cattel not only fat, but to yeild a greater quantity They also convert their heathy Land into Hop-Grounds. Orchards, and Nurseries for Pear, Apple, Cherry, and Walnut-Trees; and also Oaks, Ashes, and Elms; whereby they make a vast advantage by their Linnen, Paper and Oyl, which with the help of their Windmills they press out of the Seeds of their Flax and Turnips. shall here only add to the Reproach of our own Sloth and Negligence. what hath been credibly reported, That there was no less than 100000 l. worth of Flax yearly brought into England from Foreign Countries. But enough, and perhaps too much upon this Subject. The States of Brabant confift of, I. The Ecclefiafticks, or Abbots. 2. The Nobles, viz. Dukes, Marquesses, &c. 3. The Deputies of the chief Cities. It is divided into four Quarters, called Tetrarchies, and distinguished by the Names of their four principal Cities, Brussels, Lowaine, Antwerp, and Boisleduc. Brussels, or Bruxella, is a City very well peopled, the Seat of the Governor, in whose Palace is room enough to lodge several Kings.

The Number 7 is observable in many things belonging to this City: wiz. 7 publick Fountains; 7 principal Streets leading to the great Market-place, about which stands 7 stately Houses; here are also 7 Parish Churches, 7 Noble Families; 7 Licensed and Sworn Midwives, 7 Gates of Doric Work, each leading to a different Pleasure or Exercise: The Louvain Gate to Fowling, the Algidomontana Gate to Fishing, the Anderlecht to pleasant Fields, the Flandrian to Pasture Grounds, the Laken Gate to Springs and Vineyards, the Meeblin to Gardens:

here was also at one time 7 Crowned Heads. The Church of St. Gudula is one of the fairest in all the Country. The Palace seated upon a Hill, is a most magnificent and stately piece of Building; adjoining to which is a large space of Ground enclosed with a Wall, containing in it whatever can be subservient to the Pleasures and Diversion of a Prince; as Grotto's, Ponds, Water-works, Gardens, Walks, and places appropriated to different and particular sorts of Recreation. The Senate-house is a noble Pile of Building. The Tower is adorned with a Brass Statue of St. Michael the Titular Angel of this City. The Palaces of the Nobility are magnificent, the Houses of the Citizens stately and sine. The Eccho is admirable, reslecting the voice 15 times: about three Leagues from it stands the ample and samous Abby of Afelingen.

The Channel that runs to Antwerp is one of the greatest Undertakeings in the Low-Countries, wherein there are prodigious Sluces; for the making whereof, Sums of Money, no less prodigious, were expended. The Neighbourhood of the Forest of Sognies lies very convenient for Hunting.

Lovaine Lovanium, which some affirm to be the Capital City of Brabant, is one of the biggest Cities of Europe, with a famous Univerfity, which gives the Natives occasion to call it a City of Scholars; Brussels, a City of Courtesans; Antwerp, a City of Merchants; and Malines, a City of Advocates, by reason of its Parliaments. It is pleasantly seated upon the River Dele; it contains 11 Market-places, 12 Principal Streets, 140 Lesser; 14 Mills, 16 Bridges, and 4 Fountains for publick use. About the Year 1350 are said to have been at least 40000 Weavers Shops, upon each of which at least 30 or 40 feveral persons depended for work and livelihood; the Hall or Stadt-House is large and costly, adorned with variety of Figures of the most. curious Wormanship; the Castle is seated on the top of a Hill, surrounded with Vineyards and pleasant Gardens, and a healthy Air. Half an hours Journy from Leuvain stands a Palace of the Duke of e way leading thereunto is Wonderfully rare; but the House for magnificence, pleasure, and convenience, has perhaps not: many Rivals in Europe. Other lesser Townsin the Quarter of Louvain are Tionen or Tilmont, Lat. I banæ; In the Year 1675. much ruined by the French. S. Truzen, or St. Trou, Lat. Centrones, its Walls were demolished, and its Gates blown up by the French. Strong Leewe, Lat. Levia, upon the R. Greet. Dieft, or Dieftheim, upon the R. Demer. gives. title to a Barony, now appertaining to the Prince of Orange. Gemblours, Gemblacum Lat. seated upon the steep of an Hill, environed.

roned by Precipices and deep Vallies. Halen, Lat. Hala, Sichen, Judoigne or Geldernac. Hannuye, & Landen, are pretty considerable Places.

Tillemont was taken by force in the Year 1635. by the French and Hollandors. Niville is made remarkable by her Religious Covent of 42 Nuns, who must be not only Virgins and Legitimate, but both by Father and Mother of Noble Extraction for four Descents: for the fine Linnen-cloth made there; and for the fair High-ways round about ir. Vilvorden upon the River Sinne, glories in an ancient Castle, the Grand Repository of the Records of Brabant.

Senef, a small Village, is lately memorable for the Battel fought between the Duteb, Confederate with Spain, the Empire, and the Forces of France, Ann. 1674.

Marquisate of the Empire derives its Name from its Scituation, lying upon the Ancient Bounds of France, and the Empire, and whither the Emperors were wont to fend Governors, which they called Marquesses. There is only the City of Antwerpin it, Atuacutum & Aduatacum fou Becano, Andoverpum al. Antuerpia, Antwerpen incolie, Antwerp Angles, Anveres "Hilp. Anvers Gal. Antorf Germ. Anversa Italis. One of the fairest and most pleasant Cities in all the Low-Countries; for which Reason, Charles the First called it his Holy-day City: The Importance of the Scituation hath caused it to be strongly fortified with ten great Bastions, and one of the frongest Citadels in Europe; flank'd with five great Bastions lined with Brick and Free-stone. This Citadel was built towards the highest part of the River, that it might command the City, and be succoured from that part of the Country which was subject to its Prince. The Duke of Alva who built the Citadal, caused his Statue to be set up, which was afterwards taken down. The Jesuits in Antevery have a Church built all of Marble, which is faid to be the fairest which they have in the World. The Church dedicated to the Bleffed Virgin is a very magnificent Structure, in which are 66 Chappels and Altars curiously built, and sumptuously adorn'd with Statues and Pi-Aures. One of the Towers adjoining to this Church is faid to be 420 foot high, besides its top or Cover, which is 5 foot, and a Cross upon that 16 foot more. As to its Trade and number of Inhabitants, the Year 1768. may be accounted its grand Climacteric. Then it was that 2500 Ships were seen together upon the Scheld, and 400 Vessels observed to come up with the same Tide. That 200 Waggons arrived every day laden with Passengers, and 10000 Country Carts employed in a day in the carriage and conveyance of Goods; and 500 Coaches

Breda, 8 Leagues distant from Antiverp, is considerable for its bigness, well built, and populous, and of Great strength. The Lordship of it belongs to the Prince of Orange, who has a Castle and fair Palace in the Town, surprised and taken by the Spaniards, Ann. 1581. recovered by a Stratagem of 80 Soldiers hid under a quantity of Turf in a Boat in the Year 1590. Its Siege, which lasted nigh a whole year, was very remarkable; but all hopes of Relief at length vanishing, it was surrendred to the Spaniards at the end of May, 1625. yet in An. 1637. by the indefatigable Valour, and excellent Conduct of Prince Frederic, it was put into the possession of the United Provinces.

The Fort Lillo, scituate upon the Scheld, three Leagues from Antwerp, is in the possession of the States, under whom it hath been gradually augmented to the bigness of a small Town. Opposite to which is the Fort Liefkenshoeck, both which being reposses of, and its Fortiscations rebuilt by the Dutch, is a great Curb to the Trade of Antwerp, all Vessels being constantly search'd which pass to or from that City.

Lire, Lira Lat. is a neat and pleasantly seated Town, therefore the Retirement of Persons of Quality and Merchants, whom a happy temper of mind has bles'd no less with Content, than Fortune with Riches. Herentals is a strong place. Hoog straten hath the Title of an Earldom. Bergen Op Zoom Lat. Bergie ad Zonam, raised to the Dignity of a Marquisate by Charles the Fifth; it is a strong and well fortisted place, the Buildings sair and handsome, the Church of St. Lumbers, and the Marquiss's Palace are worthy of commendation.

Soon after the violating of the Pacification of Gaunt, it was delivered into the hands of the States: About the year 1588, befieged in vain by the Prince of Parma, being floutly defended by the English under Drury and Morgan. Ann. 1622. it was in vain befieged by Spinola; never was place more furiously assaulted, and seldom any more couragiously defended.

By the Peace of Nimeghen concluded Ann. 1678. the Marquisate of Bergen Opzoom, with its Appendences, &c. as also all Rights, Actions, Privileges. &c. was restored to the Earl of Auvergne, one of the French King's chief Commanders. Steenbergen, not far from the Sea, possessed by the Spaniards in Ann. 1622. but after the raising of the Siege of Bergen Opzoom, it was retaken by Prince Maurice, afterwards strength-

Santulit, a large Fortress, designed to have been built with 7 great Bulwarks, and other Works; but a Fire, and the violent Inundations of the Scheld, were exceeding prejudicial to the Spanish Purposes and Endeavours.

The City of Bois-le-Duc, by the French Bolduc, in Latin Silva Ducis & Buscum Ducis, in Dutch Hertogen Bosch, gives denomination to the fourth and last Quarter of Brabant; several Canals run through this City, over which lies 51 Stone Bridges, and 38 Wooden ones. The City is seated upon a Hill in the midst of a Fenny Level, of a great extent, well fortified with a strong Wall, a deep and broad Ditch, stout Bulwarks and Ramparts, and all other Works, as the Ingenuity and Experience of Modern Engineers could invent, to render a Town, so commodiously scituated as this is, little less than impregnable. After the taking of Maestricht, Ann. 1579. it fell into the hands of the Prince of Parma. Ann. 1601. it was besieged by Prince Maurice, but relieved by Arch-Duke Albert. But in the Year 1629. it was, after a tedious and difficult Siege, yielded up to Henry Frederic Prince of Orange. Begirt by the French, Ann. 1672. but the King's unexpected Departure for France, Turenne quitted the Siege, and marched higher into the Country.

Bois-le-duc has a large Jurisdiction, comprehending Lampin, Peland, Maesland; the District of Osterwyck, and the Towns of Helmont, Eindboven, Megen, Ravestein, and Grave. Helmont is watered by the River Aa, it gave wirth to Andreas Helmondanus, as the adjoining Village Breeck to Geropius Becanus. Eindhoven is a little walled Town upon the Domniel. Megen gives title to an Earldom. Ravestine is defended by a good Castle. Grave is a place of great Concern, the Prince of Orange is Lord of it. This City is head of the small Earldom of Cuyck, it commands a confiderable Pass upon the Maes, and is very strongly fortified. In the Year 1586, it was surrendred to the Prince of Parma by the Cowardife of the Governour, who therefore lost his Head. In Ann. 1602, it was after a Siege of two months by Prince Maurice, reduced under the Obedience of the Confederate States, until the Year 1672. when it was taken by the French, the Garison deserting the place upon the approach of 40 or 50 of the Enemies Horfe: By the French it was more strongly fortified, and made their Store-House. But Ann. 1675. the Dutch, after a close Siege of 3 or 4 Months, carried on with most furious and continued Assaults, it was yield-

Mecblin or Malines is the Residence of the Parliament of the Catholick Provinces of the King of Spain. Her Territories are very small, confisting of about nine Villages, yet making one of the 17 Provinces. Mechlin enjoys a very healthy and temperate Air, the River Dele runs through one midst of it, dividing the City into divers Islands, united by a great number of Bridges, the Tide flows up the River about a League above the City; it is well fortified, and may be laid under Water. Guicciardin tells us of a dreadful Tempest which happen'd here in the Month of August, 1546. in which the Lightning gave fire to 2000 Barrels of Powder in a Tower near the Sandpord; a fevere and lamentable Providence! It is reported, That the Women of Malines, when they are ready to Lye-in, go into Brabant to be brought to Bed, to the end their Children may enjoy the Privileges of the Brabanders, which are very great and advantagious, granted by the grace and favour of several Emperors, and by the goodness and condescention of their proper Princes. There is also in Brabant the Dukedom of Arichot, and the Earldom of Hoochstraten. The whole Country is faid to contain 80 German miles in compass, 26 Towns strongly fortified both by Art and Nature; and 17 other which enjoy great Privileges. The Inhabitants have been accounted a Warlike People, but none of the wifest; of whom Erasmus's Proverb was, Brabanti quo magis senescunt eo magis stultescunt.

Namur, Namureum, is a Town of consequence, by reason of the passage over the Mense, in that part where the Sambre salls into her. Marble, Slate, and Sea-coal are thence transported. It was about the beginning of June, 1692, that the French having amass'd all their Forces together, that they set down before Namur, the Town quickly surrendred, but the New Fort and Castle made a vigorous defence; which cost the French the lives of many men and Officers; but being over-powered, on the 30 of June the Garison capitulated, and marched out. Charleroy, Carolo-Regium, upon the Sambre, is one of the best Fortresses of the Low-Countries, since it sell into the hands of the French, restored by the Treaty of Nimeguen to the Spaniards.

Limburgh, Lemburgum, has only the Town of the same Name, which is of any Remark, with a strong Castle upon a Rock, taken by the French King in the Year 1675. Valkenburg, Falcoburgum, Lat. Fauquemont, and Dalem, two Earldoms, are a part of this Dutchy. Rolduc, Rode-le-Duc, by the Dutch, Hertogen Rode, is a little neat Town. Campen is a spacious Village, guarded with a strong Castle.

The Country of Liege belongs to its Bishop, to whom the Inhabitants formerly gave the Title of Grace. He is elected by the Chapter, who formerly relided at Tongres, or Tongeren, Civitas Tungrorum Ptol. & Advatuca Tongrorum. Here flourished in the time of the Romans, an ancient Bishop's See, after the Invasion and spoil by Attilas and the Huns, by whom the Town was sacked and destroyed in the Year 498. it was removed by St. Sargatius to Maestreich; afterwards in the Year 713. by St. Hubert it was removed to Luick or Liege, where now it resteth. The Bishoprick is of a large extent, and has many places within the Limits of the Neighbouring Provinces. Leige, Leodleum & Leodium, is a City of Trade; and as they fay, the Paradise of the Ecclesiasticks. It is Remarkable that in the Year 1121, there were among the Canons of the Cathedral Church, nine Sons of Kings, 14 Sons of Dukes, 29 Sons of Earls, and 7 Sons of Barons. The Elector of Cologne, Prince thereof, caused a Cittadel to be built there. The Cathedral of Leige beareth the Name of St. Lumbert, who was Bishop of Maestrich, murchered by Dodo, &c. about the Year 622. The Cittadel standeth upon a Hill, and is of great strength, built to keep the City in subjection, since the Year 1649. Maestreich, for its Fortifications, and the famous Sieges which have been laid to it, in that of 1672: the English signalized their Valour under the Conduct of the Duke of Monmouth. The Treaty of Nimeguen restored it to the Dutch, who now possess it. The Quarry of Stone about a quarter of a mile from the Town, is one of the noblest in the World, far surpassing the Cave of Custoza or Cubola, said to be 500 fathoms in breath, and 700 in length. This is two miles in length under ground, high and stately, no Labyrinth can be contrived more intricate, and yet all parts uniform. Maeswick formerly was said to belong to the Duke of Brabant; and Wick, that was an Appurtenance to the Bishop of Leige's Territories. The Spa is a neat Village in the Forest of Ardenna, seated in a bottom encompassed with Hills. A place which for the vertue of its Mineral Springs is as famous as beneficial to Mankind. Maestreich, Trajectum ad Mosam, is composed of two Towns.

Cambreses, now almost environed by the Territories of France. The City of Cambray, Cameracum, by the Dutch Camerick; has two good Cittadels, the guard whereof was seldom committed to any other than Natural Spaniards. There is a Sun-Dial of singular Workmanship, wrought by a Shepherd: It is a Town, which in times of Peace yearly exposed to Sale above 60000 Pieces of sine Cloth. It was taken by the French at the beginning of the Year 1677, though before, the Kings of Spain, uncontradicted by the Emperor, did appropriate to themselves the Temporal Jurisdiction of Cambray, as being of the

The Extent of these Provinces is but small, but it is one of the best peopled, and richest spots of Ground in the World; more wholsome than formerly; toward Germany Hilly and Woody, as we have faid; but towards the Sea, generally fertile, and full of Pasturage. The Principal Rivers of the 17 Provinces, are the Rhine, the Meuse, and the Scheld. The Rhine rifes in Switzerland, running cheifly through Germany. After it has divided it self at Fort Schenk, as it enters intothe Low-Countries, it mixes with several other Rivers, and loseth its Name in the Sand a little below Lerden in Holland. The Meuse, which falls out of France and Lorrain, has this Advantage above the Rbine, that she retains her Name, and preserves her Waters unmix'd till she fall into the Ocean, where she makes several good Ports. The Scheld was formerly the Limits between France and the Emplre, in the time: of Charles the Bald. At Gaunt, the Lis, a Navigable River, falls into it; and before it wholly loseth its Name, it divides its felf into two principal Arms; of which, the Left, which they call the Hout; and the Right, which flows to Tolen, falls into the Meuse. Besides these Rivers, and those that fall into them, there are Cuts, Channels and Marshes, which serve the Inhabitants both for Traffick and Defence.

at the River Allia, sacked the City, and besieged the Capitol. These were the Men who ransacked Illyricum, Pannonia, Thrace and Greece; and plundred the Temple of Delphos: But at last were totally subdued by Julius Cafar, but not without much difficulty; for they did not then self their Liberty at so cheap a rate as other Nations did, 1192000 of them; being flain, before they would submit to the Roman Yoak; by whom the Country was divided into four parts, viz Narbonensis, or Bracata, containing Languedoc, Dolphin, and part of Savoy. 2 Aquitanica, (from the City Aqua Augusta, now D' Acque) comprehending Gascoign, Guienne, Saintonge, Limosin, Querci, Perigort, Berry, Bourbonnois and Auvergne. 3. Celtica, containing he Provinces of Bretagne, Normandy, Anjou, Tourain, Maine La Beause, the Isle of France, part of Campaigne, the Dukedom of Burgundy, and the County of Lionoife. 4 Belgica, containing Picardy, the remainder of Champagne, Burgundy, and the Spanish Netherlands. Long it stood not in this state; for about the Year 400. Honorius being Emperor, the Goths, having over-run Spain and Italy, sent part of their Forces and subdued Gallia Narbonensis, calling it Langue de Goth, afterwards corruptly Languedoc. Then extending their Conquest unto the River Ligeris, now Loire, they founded a Kingdom, the principal Seat whereof was at Tholoufe.

About the same time, the Burgundiones, or Burgundians, a people that inhabited part of the Country of the Cassubii, and part of the Country of the Marquisateof Brandenburg, together with the Vandalls and Suetbes, seized upon other parts of France, and constituted a Kingdom called Burgundy, comprehending both the County and Dutchy of Burgundy, the County of Lionoise, Dauphine, Savoy and Provence, whose chief City was Arelate, now Arles.

About the same time also, the Franks, a German Nation having passed the Rhine, seized upon the adjacent Territories of France, where founding a Monarchy (under their first King Pharamond, al. Waramon) gave it the Name of France.

France lies excellently compact together, between the most Flourishing States of Christendom, and in the middle of the Northern Temperate Zone, where the Inhabitants breathe a most serene and healthy Air. In short it is Rich, Fertile, and well peopled; there being reckoned in it about 4000 good Towns and Cities.

Its Length from Calais to Toulon is about 620 miles, 73 to a degree, the Breadth from Brest to the Borders of Lorrain, or from Baine to Nice in Piedmont is not more than 492 miles. I well know all other Authors falsely make it much more. Most of her Cities are equal to Provinces, and most of her Provinces are equal to Kingdoms.

Her.

Her Corn, her Wine, her Salt, her Linnen Cloth, her Paper, and several Manufactures, inrich the Inhabitants.

The Limits and Bounds of this Kingdom have been various; at present, saith a French Geographer, the King's Conquests cannot be bounded, not by the Rhine nor by the Ocean, nor by the Pyreneans, nor by the Alps. And those that are not altogether strangers to the world, will acknowledge. That of all the Kingdoms of Europe there are none but may be said to be inserior to France in some respect or other. The greatness of its Territories, the populousness of it, the number of their Nobility and Gentry, their natural Courage, with the advantage of their Military Actions, and Warlike Exercises, the Scituation of their Countrey, the fruitfulness and riches of the Soil, the prodigious quantity of all Commodities and Maunsactures, and the great Revenues of their Kings. These Advantages have in all Ages raised in them aspiring thoughts of the Erection of a new Western Empire. And how far this present King has gone (by his Acquisitions of late years) the rest of the Princes of Europe may consider of.

The Kingdom is Hereditary, and by an ancient Constitution as they pretend, called the Salique Law, never falls into a Female Succession. And by the Law of Apennages, the younger Sons of the King cannot have partage with the Elder. The King's Eldest Son is called the Dauphin. The Monarchy, which has stood ever since the year 420. hath been upheld by the three Royal Races, of Marovinian, Carolinian, and Capetine, in a Line of 65 Kings. Pepin the short, Son of Charles Martel, deposed Childerick the last of the Merovignian Line, the Pope approving and confirming of it.

About the year 918, Hugh Capet, Earl of Paris, outed the Caroline Family. Since this Capetine Race has gone in three Families; first in a direct Line till 1328, then in the House of Valois, till Henry the Fourth, of the House of Bourbon, Anno 1589.

Among other Titles, the King hath that of Most Christian, and Eldest Son of the Church, beltowed upon him by the Pope.

The Arms have been Three Flower-de-luces Azure, in a Field Or, ever fince Charles the Sixth.

The Christian Religion was here first planted by Martislis among the Gauls; but among the French by Remigius, in the time of Clovis the Gfeat. At present the people are divided, some following the Roman, others the Reformed Religion, which have occasioned two several Massacres, viz. that of Merindol and Chabrieres 1545, upon the Borders of France and Savoy; the other that at Paris, 1572, and now this late Persecution.

There are 16 Archbishops, 106 Bishops, besides those of Arras, Tournay, and Terpignan: 16 Abbots, Heads of Orders, or Congregations; about 50000 Curateships, besides many other Ecclesiastical Dignities: Several general and particular Governments, 12 Ancient Peerships, and divers of new Creation; a great number of Principalities, Dukedoms, Marquisates, Earldoms, Baronies, and other Lordships: Eleven Parliaments, eight Chambers of accounts, 22 Generalities, or Publick Places of Recelt of the King's Revenue.

There are four Principal Rivers; the Seine, whose Water is accounted the strongest in the world, and more whossome to drink than Fountain water. The Loire, King of the French Rivers; the Garonne, most Navigable; and the Rhone, or Rosne, most rapid. By others thus Characterised; the Loire the sweetest, the Rhone the swiftest, the Ga-

The Garonne, running from the Pyrenean Hills, glideth by the Walls of Bourdeaux and Tholouse, and with the addition of 16 other Rivers dilates it self into the Aquitain, now Biscain Ocean. The Garumna of Casar.

The Mountains by Ancient Authors were the Gebenna by Casar, Cammani Ptol. & Ital. running along by Languedoc, Chevennes, and Auvergne, now les Sevennes.

The Jura, Cas. Jurassus Ptol. which divideth the French County from Savor and the Swisses, now called by several Names.

The Vogefus, almost Encircling Lorrain, and dividing it from Alfatia and Burgundy; now Vauge Mons, &c.

There are several Divisions of France, which respect the Church; the Nobility, the Courts of Justice, and the Finances. But it suffices here to say, That the general state of the Kingdom was held, An. 1614, after the Majesty of Lewis the XIII.b. and that then all the Provinces met under 12 great Governments, Four of these Governments lye to ward the North upon the Seine, and those other Rivers that fall into it, viz. Piccady, Normandy, the Ise of France, and Champagne.

Towards the middle, adjoining to the Loire, Bretagne, Orlenoise, Bourgogne, Lionnoise. The other four, toward the South, near the Garonne, viz. Guienne, Languedoc, Dauphine, and Provence: Under the Orlenoise is comprehended Maine, Perche, and Beauce: On this side of the Loire, Nivernois, Touraine, and Anjou; above the said River, beyond it, Poissou, Angoumoù, and Berry.

Burgundy hath Brest: Under Lionnois are comprehended Lionnois, Auvergne, Bourbonnis, and Marche: Under Guienne is Bearne, Gascoigne and Guienne it self, Saintoinge, Perigort, Limosin, Querci, and Rovergue: Under Languedoc is Cevennes.

In each of these Governments are several great Cities, the chief of which I shall speak of in order, viz. In Piccardy the Storehouse of Parisfor Corn, is 1. Calais, called by Casar, Portus fecius; Portus Britannicus, Morinorum Plin. Prom. Icium Ptol. held by the English near 200 years, being taken by Edward the IIId. after eleven months Siege, in 1347. but unfortunately lost by Queen Mary, 1557. seated opposite to Dover in England, from whence it is distant about Ten Leagues: A strong Town of great importance, and accounted the Key of France. Not far from Calais, at a place called Agincourt was the Flower of the French Nobility taken and slain by King Henry the Fifth of England, viz. 5 Dukes, 8 Earls, 25 Lords, 8000 Knights and Gentlemen, and 15000 common Soldiers.

2. Bulloign, Cesoriacum Navale Ptol. Portus Morinorum Plin. Civit. Boncnensium Ant. Portus Gessoriacus of Casar; a strong Frontier-Town, taken by Henry the VIIIth of England, 1544. at which time the Empe-

In the Province of Guien, wherein are the Provinces of Gascoign, Guien and Bern, are many Cities, the cheif whereof are, Bourdeaux, Burdegala Strab. & Ptol. Cit. Burdegalensium Ant. seated upon the Banks of the River Geronne; famous for being the Birth-place of King Richard the II. of England: at present honoured with an University and Parliament, and is a place of good Trade. Near to this City is the small Village called Greve, which yields those Excellent Wines, called Graves Wine

About the Year 1259. Lewis of France gave unto Henry the Third of England, the Dutchy of Guien, conditionally, that he should renounce all Title to his other Inheritances. It continued English till

In the particular Güien is the Province Saintoigne, whose chief place is Saintes, Mediolanum of old, Strab. Mediolanum Ptol. Cit. Santorum Ant.

2. The Province of Perigort, whose chief place is Perigueux, Vessua of Ptol. Cit. Petrogoriorum Ant. Environed with Viney-Downs, divided into two Towns. 3. In the middle of the small River Vidosa, between France and Spain, is the Island Faisans, (not mention'd by any Geographer I know of) where Cardinal Mazarine, and Don Lewis de Haro began the Pyrenean Treaty the 13th of August, 1659, and whence in the Year 1660. hapned the Interview between the two Kings, and the Reception of the Infanta; when the Island was divided in the middle, and a House built built so, that at the Table where the two King sate to eat, the King of France sate in France, and the King of Spain in Spain.

In the Government of Lionoise, are the several Provinces of Lionoise, Avergne, Bourbon and March.

In Lionoise, the chief City is Lyons, by the Ancients, Luzdunum; feated upon the conjunction of the Rosne with the Soane, esteemed the second City of France; a Famous Mart-Town, Ancient, and the See of an Archbishop, who is Primate of all France.

In Avergne is Cleremont, Claro Montium, upon its high Mountain. In Bourbon, Moulins, the Centre of France. Molinum, of old much resorted unto from all parts of France for its Hot Medicinal Baths. Gergobia al. Gergobina Casar, teste Parad. & Belsor.

In March, Gueret and Bellac, are the most considerable.

In the Government of Landguedec are, 1. Tholoufe, Talofa Caf. Strab. Ptolomy, seated on the Garonne, the Seat of an Archbishop, and an University; whose large Fields, called by old Writers Campi Catalaunici, (which I rather think to be the Fields near Chalons) were memorable for the overthrow of Attila, King of the Huns, whose Army confisted of 500000. of which 180000 that day lost their lives, by Ætius the Roman Lieutenant, who was rewarded (by Valentinian, Emperor of the West) with the loss of his Head. 2. Narbon, Norbo of Cal. Plin. & Narbona Suet. A. Mar. in the Roman Infancy the most populous and greatest Town in France, and the first Roman Colony (Carthage excepted.) To which Archelans (Son to Herod King of the Fews) was banished by Augustus. 3. Montpelier, Montpessulanus, seated on a high Mountain twelve miles from the Sea; an University for the Study of Physick, the Country about affording variety of Medicinal Herbs; memorable for the Resistance it made against Lewis the XIII. in the last Civil War about Religion. Nimes, Nemaulus, Strab. Mel. Nemausium Plin. & Prol. & Nemausensium Ant. Inthe Year 1270. Languedoc returned to the Crown in the days of Philip the Third.

In the Government of Dauphin, (which is the Title of the first Scn of France) is Vienna, Scituate on the Rosne; an Archbishop's See, and the chief of this Province; 2. Valence, a Bishop's See, and University for the Civil Law; a Rich, Strong, and well-traded Town; the Title of Casar Borgia, when he cast off his Cardinal's Hat. 3. Grenoble, Cit. Gratianopolica Ant. Provence took its name from the Romans, who being called in by the Marsilians, possessed themselves of this Country until Stillico called in the Burgundians, of which Kingdom it was a member, until the time of the Ostrogoths, Ann. 504. In the Year 1480. Rhene, Grandchild to Lewis Duke of Anjou, Brother to Charles the first, gave it to Lewis the Eleventh King of France. Chief Towns are, 1. Marseilles, Massilia, commodiously seated on the Mediterranean Sea, enjoying an Excellent Haven and Road for Ships; a place of great Trade, and well frequented with Merchants, and a Colony of the Phocians.

2. Aix, Aqua Sextia, a Parliament Seat; near this Town the Cimbri, consisting of 300000 fighting men, as they passed by Marius, asked his Soldiers what Service they would command them to Rome; but in their march through the Alpes, (having divided themselves) Marius put them all to the Sword; who had slain Q. Servilius Capio, and his whole Army, after his surprisal and pillaging of the Aurum Tolosanum.

3. Arles, Arelate Plin. Arelatem Col. Ptol. 4. Toulon, Tauroentium Ptol. Taurentium Strab. the best Sea-port Town in all France. On the North-West of Provence lies the principality of Orange, whose chief place is Orange, Arausia Plin. Arusio Strab. Col. Arausiorum Ptol. C. Arausinorum Ant. Famous for many Rare and Wonderful Antiquities; belonging of Ancient Right to his Illustrious Highness the Prince of Orange, but of late years seized upon by the French King.

South of which lies the County of Venasin, so called from Avenio, now Avignon, the chief City of it; Famous for being the Ancient Seat of the Popes, for about 70 years; said to have 7 Parish Churches, 7 Monasteries, 7 Numeries, 7 Palaces, 7 Inns, and 7 Gates to its Walls.

To these Governments might be added Lorrain, the Frer 1 Comte, Alface, most part of the Spanish Provinces, the County of Rousillon on the Coast of Spain, being now under the French King's Conquests; but for Method and Order-sake, I shall refer them to the proper place.

The chief Islands of France, are, 1. Strong Bell-Isle, Venetica San. Calosus. 2. Salt Normoustier. 3. Ree, the Out-work to Rochel, fatal to the English 1627. 4. Oleron, Uliaras, where Richard the III. gave those Laws as Lord of the Sea, known to the World by the Title of The Laws of Oleron. 5. The Tower d'Cardovan in the mouth of the Garonne. 6. The Isle Ouessent, Uxantus; by the English, Ushent, overagainst the Lizard. In the Mediterranean lye the Isles de Eres, the Stæchades of Ptol.

So also by the Greeks and Romans it was called Emuria, from Pan, the Companion of Bacchus. By the Phanicians Spania, or Sphania, a Country of Rabbets or Conies; lastly, by the Moors Mus-Arabia.

Conjointly with Portugal, it makes a great Peninsula, being encompassed with the Ocean, and the Mediterranean Sea; only towards the North-East, for 240 miles, its firmly tack'd to the Continent by the Prienean Hills.

It is scituate in the most Western part of all Europe, in the most Southerly part of the Northern Temperate Zone, and the longest Summer's day is about 15 hours.

As for the Dimensions, it is said to be in length from Porto on the mouth of the River Duero, to Cape Creus in Catalonia, 600 Geometrical miles. And from Cape Gibralter to Cape Penas, in the Bay of Bisca, for the breadth, is 480 miles. By Cluwer 760 miles in length, and 600 in breadth.

Heylin, who follows Josephus, saith, this Kingdom was first inhabited by the I. eny of Tubal, the Son of Japher, being the Descendants of the Iberii, who came in under Panus.

Cluver saith, that the Celia, a great and potent Nation, descended from Aschenaz, were the first that did people Spain, and caused the whole Country to be called Celtiberia.

The next Foreigners that came into Spain, were the Phanicians, failing from Tyrus, as Diodorus and Strabo relate. Then the Greeks or Rhodians; afterwards the Carthagenians did overrun a great part of it (under the conduct of Amilear, Afdrubal, and Annibal) even from the Western Ocean, to the Pyrenes; destroyed Saguntum, now Morvedre, built new Carthage; and had not Annibals ill Fate hurried him for Italy, the whole Country had been subdu'd to the State of Carthage.

But the Carthagenians being overcome by the Romans in the second Punick War, it fell under the Dominion of the Romans, by whom it was divided into three Provinces, Batica, Lusitanica, and Terraconensis; Batica was bounded on the North and West by the River Ana, now Gaudiana; on the South by the Mediterranean Sea as far as Almeria: on the East it was separated from Terragon by a straight line from Almeria to Cuidad Real, and contained the Kingdoms of Granata, Andaluzia, part of New Castile, and Estremadura, and was inhalized by the Turduli Eastward, and by the Celtici towards the West.

Lustiania was bounded on the North by the River Durius, now Duero; on the West by the Ocean; on the South by the River Guadiana; on the East by a line drawn from Cuidal Real, to Samora, a Town seated on the River Duero, and contains almost all Portugal, part of Old, and part of New Castile.

The rest of Spain went to the making up of the Province of Ter-

The Romans also divided Spain into two parts; the one Citerior, the other Ulterior; the first comprehended the Province of Terragon; the latter did comprise Bætica and Lusitania, and so remained until the time of Honorius the Emperor, when Gundericus, King of the Vandals, made an Irruption out of Germany, and over-ran it about the Year of our Lord 400. The Vandals were not well fetled in their New Conquest, when the Goths seized on this Country, forcing the Vandals into Bætica, and after into Africa, and so made the Conquest absolute. The Saracens and Moors invaded it in the Year 720, under the Conduct of Musa and Tariff, who were invited in by Julian, who was fent on an Embassy to the Moors of Africa by Roderick the Gothish King, but in the mean time defloured his Daughter Cava, which the Father took in fuch indignation, that he procured the Moors to come into Spain, who after a Battel that lasted 7 days, in which Roderick had 120000 Foot, and 25000 Horse; and Tariffe had 20000 Horse, and 180000 Foot, the Moors were Victorious; and having harassed the whole Country, founded several Kingdoms therein; but the Moors not long enjoyed the fole Sovereignty therein; for the Goths having recovered themselves, the Moors by little and little were brought under. Heylintells us, that at last Spain fell into a 12-partite division, viz. Leon and Oviedo, Navare, Corduba, Gallicia, Bi/ca, Tolledo, Murcia, Castile, Portugal, Valentia, Catalogne and Arragon. But I chose rather to follow Cluver, Mercator, Sanson, who all agree, that at last Spain fell under the Command of feveral more powerful Princes, and was parted into 15 grand Divisions, most of which carried the Title of Kingdoms; five lie upon the Ocean, Biscaia, Astruria, Galicia, Portugal, and Andiabusia; five-upon the Mediterranean, Granada, Murcia, Valentia, Catalonia, and the Islands of Majorca, Minorca, and Yuica; and five Midland, viz. Arragon, Navar, the two Castiles, and Leon.

Afterwards the whole Country was reduced under the Power of the Kings of Castile, Arragon and Portugal, and under these three Titles it is, that the King of Spain at present possesses but in the Year 1640, the Duke of Braganza was proclaim'd King of Portugal, and ever since it continues Independent.

In matters of Religion they are Roman-Catholick, and are most strict to the Rites of the Roman Church, and of the Faith and Doctrine therein professed; the Inquisition being introduced against all other Beliefs; only there are some Churches in Toledo where the Mus Arabic Office is used.

The Language is not the same in all places; in some parts it hath a mixture of the French: In Granada, and part of Andaluzia, it partakes much of the Moorish: In other parts there is the Gothish, Arabick, and old Spanish; but that which is common to them all, is, the Vulgar Spanish, or Castilian, which hath much affinity with the Latin, and is faid to be a brave lofty swelling Speech.

Their Civil and Imperial Laws generally used among them, are intermixed with many Customs of the Geths; the Edicts and Constitutions of their several Kings; those of the Goths first committed unto writing, and to order, by Euricus, first King of the Goths: those of Castile digested by Ferdinand the Fisth into seven Books, called Partidas, which are read and disputed on in the publick Schools, as well as the Decretals, the Code, the Pandicts, or any other part of Civil or Common Law.

The Country is not very fertile in Corn or Cattel; but where it is productive of the Fruits of Nature, it yeilds to no part of Europe for Delight and Pleasure; but for the most part, it is either over-grown with Woods, or cumbred with Rocky Mountains; the Soil of a hot and Sandy Nature, and deficient in Water; their chief Food being Sallets and Fruits, which appear in greater ripeness and perfection than in other places.

In recompence of Corn and Flesh, they have several Rich Commodities, viz. Wines, Oyls, Sugar, several Metals, Rice, Silk, Licoras, Honey, Wax, Saffron, Anniseed, Raisons, Almonds, Oranges, Limons, Cork, Soap, Anchovies, Soda Barrellia, Samack, Wool, Lamb-

Lambskins, Tobacco, &c. besides the Gold and Silver which they bring out of America, whereby they furnish themselves with those other Conveniences which they want: In the Year 1618, it was affirmed, that since the first Discovery thereof by Columbus, the Spaniards had drawn out of it above sisteen hundred and thirty six Millions of Gold, of which the European Merchants share the greatest part: And their necessity of purchasing Foreign Commodities, empties their Purses; and their getting of this Gold and Silver, depopulates and weakens the Country.

The Horses of this Country are in general esteem, but those of Andalusia more than the rest; however they travel upon Mules and Asses, by reason of the roughness of the Mountains.

Here lived in ancient times the Giants Geryon and Cacus, overcome by Hercules. Seneca the Tragedian, and Seneca the Philosopher; Quintilian the Orator, Lucian and Martial, Pomponius Mela the Geographer, Fulgentius and Isidore Bishops, Arius Montanus, Osorius, Tostatus, Massius.

For Soldiers it had Theodosius the Great, Bernard del Carpio, Cid Rues Dias, Sancho of Nawar, Ferdinand the Catholick, and Charles the Emperor.

The Mountains of Spain may be distinguished into six greater Ridges continued and knit together, and whereof the rest are parts: The sirst are the Pyrenii Montes Strab. Mons Pyraneus Plin. Tyrene Ptol. Los Montes Pyreneus Hisp. Les Montes Pyreneus Gal. Monti Pyrenei Ital. extending from the Cantabrian Ocean to the Mediterranean Sea, once the Bounds between France and Spain, which in several places have divers Names, which we shall not here mention,

The second are the Idubeda of Strab. Mela Ptol. & alia, the INGEA, Seld. extending from the Pyrenes near the Springs of the River Ebro, Southwards, towards the Levant Sea, having divers Names in several places.

A third Row of Mountains are coasting all along the Shore of the Cantabrian Ocean; the Juga Asturum Plin. a more eminent top hereof is the Mountain St. Adrian, from whose top Vascus Brugensis saith, he saw both the Cantabrian and Mediterranean Seas, now Sierra d'las Asturius, & Monte d'Oca. Vill. Sierra d'Oviedo, Coquo. Vindius Mons. Ptol.

A fourth Ridge, or Branch of Mountains, are the Orospeda of Strab. the Ortospeda of Ptol. which at Alcaraz part into two Branches, the one tending towards Murcia and the Levant Sea; the other passing through Granada, ends at the Strait of Gibralter, the Extream Point whereof was called Calpe.

The fixth Branch begins about the Springs of the Duero, and keeping the River Taio upon the left-side, parteth New Castile from the Old, and divides Portugal into two parts, ending at the Town Sintra, some 30 miles from Lisbon. Some Authors reckon this the Idubeda Branch. But we find not any known Name new or ancient, only part hereof in Castile was by Pliny called Juga Carpetanta, and part of it in Portugal, Luna Mons by Ptol. The chief of its new Names are Sierra de Tornas, Vaccas Montus d'Avela, & Sierra Molina.

The Principal Rivers of Spain, the Duero, Durius Plin. very full of The Tagus Strab. now Taio, renowed for its Golden Sand. Fish. The Gaudiana, Anas Strab. which, they fay, runs under ground. The Gauldalquiver, Rætis Strab. the deepest of all. The Ebro, Iberus Strab. famous by its Name: They all of them have their Sources in Castile, but are not so Navigable as those in France. The Gaudiana has given occasion to the Spaniards to say, That they have the richest Bridge in the World, upon which generally feed above 10000 Sheep, and over which a good Army may march in battel-array. The Ancients may have feem'd to have called this River very properly Anas, by reason it dives into the Earth, and rifes out again as a Duck does in the water. Some of the Moderns fay, that there are certain Mountains that swallow up this River. Others affirm, That it only falls into the Dikes and Graffs which the Country People make to water the Country, which is very barren; however, this is certain, That this running under ground happens to be near the Springs of Gaudiana, and not towards Merida, as marked down in the Old Maps: To fay truth, This is one of the three Miracles of Spain; of which the others are, a City encompassed with fire; that is, with Walls of Flint-stones, as Madrid; and a Bridge, over which the water runs, as is the Aquaduct of Segovia.

The Cities of this Kingdom have their Names from their Excellency: Sevil the Merchandizing, Granada the Great, Valencia the Fair, Barcelona the Rich, Saragossa the Contented, Valadolid the Gentile, Toledo the Ancient, Madrid the Royal. It comprehends 8 Archbishopricks, and 45 Bishopricks. The Archbishopricks are, Toledo, Burgos, Compostella, Sewil, Granada, Valencia, Saragossa, and Tarragon. There are several very considerable Sea-ports, Passegio, St. Andrews Coruna, Cadiz, Cartagena, Alicant, &c.

Biscay, formerly called Cantabria, is Mountainous and Woody, which furnishes them with Timber to build more Ships than all the Provinces of Spain besides: It hath also so great a Number of Mines and Iron Forges, that the Spaniards call it the Defence of Castile, and the Armory of Spain. The Biscayners, who were the Ancient Cantabrians, enjoy very great Privileges, and boast themselves never to have been thoroughly Conquered either by the Romans, Carthagenians, Goths, or Moors. They use a disserent Language from that of the other Inhabitants of the Countrey, which is faid to be the ancient Language of Spain; for as they remained in their Liberties not mastered, so in their Language not altered. They differ from the rest of Spain also in Cufloms, yeilding their Bodies, but not their Purses to the King; not fuffering any Bishop to come amongst them; and causing their Women to drink first, because Ogno a Countess would have poisoned her Son Sancho. The Land, as well as in the Countrey of Giupu/coa, is very well Tilled; for they pay neither Tax nor Tenth, nor Right of Entry. Their chief Cities are Bilboa and St. Sebastian; places of great Trade, especially in Wool, Iron, Chesnuts, and Bilboa Blades. Great Vessels cannot come war Bilboa, being seated two miles from the Ocean, but upon a High Tide. It was built or re-edified out of the Ruins of the ancient Flaviobriga of Ptol. by Diego de Haro, 1200. The Port of St. Sebastian has a very fair Entrance, being Defended by two Castles, the one towards the East, seated high; the other to the West, upon a low Rock. St. Andero and Passagio are two excellent Ports, Fuentirabia the stronger place, and further Town in Spain, and Guataria the Native place of Sehastian Cabot, who was the first that compassed the world, in the Ship called the Victory; Magellanus, who went Chief in that Expedition, perishing in the Action. Laredo Portus, Lauretanus, hath a spacious Bay. Placenza, upon the River Denia is inhabited by Blacksmiths. Tolosa upon the Orio River. Asturia, called by some the Kingdom of Oviedo, is the Title of the Eldest Sons of the Kings of Spain, being called Princes of Afturia. The younger Children whereof are called Infants, ever fince the Reign of John the First. Hence were the small but swift Horses which the Romans called Aftercones, the English Hobbies. Galicia is not so fertile as well peopled; its former Inhabitants were the Gallaici, whence it had its name. St. Jago Compostella, which Bishoprick and University is there famous for the Pilgrimages which are thither made by those that go to visit the Reliques of St. Fames, the Spaniard's Patron. Coruna, by the English the Groine, is often mentioned in our Spanish Wars in Queen Elizabeth's days. The Flavium Brigantium of Ptol. Brigantium of Ant. Strong, and the chief Bulwark of Galicia, is memorable for the goodness and largeness of her Port: The Rich Silver Fleet, of about thirty Millions, put in there in the year 1661, to avoid the English, who to surprize it, had way-laid all the Points of the Compass to Cadiz. Lugo is the Lucus Augusti of Ptol. and Ant. the Lucus of Plin. now a Bishop's See. Orense is the Aquæ Calida of Ptol. the Aqua Calenia of Ant. a Bishop's See. Tuy is the Tude of Ptol. Andaluzia, formerly Vandalitia from the Vandals. By Pliny Conventus Cordubersis, is so fair a Countrey, and so plentiful in Corn, in Wine and Olives, that is passes for the Granary and Magazine of the Kingdom. Sivil in this Province, is the Magazine of the Wealth of the New World. The Hispalis of Strabt Ptol. and Flin.

It is in compass six miles, compassed with stately Walls, and adorned with no less Magnificent Buildings, insomuch that there is a Spanish Proverb, Chi non ha Vista Sevilla, non ha Vista meravilla.

> He that at Sevil bath not been, Structure's Wonder bath not feen.

The River Batis, or Gaudelquiver, separates it into two parts, which are joined together by a stately Bridge; from hence the Spaniards set forth their West-India Fleets, and hither they return to unload the Riches of the Western World. It is dignished with an University, wherein studied Avicen the Moor, and Pope Silvester the Second; here alfo also were two Provincial Councils held Anno 584, and 636. and the See of an Archbishop, who is Metropolitan of Andaluzia and the fortunate Islands. Here was Islands. From hence comes our Sevil Oranges, and Here lies the Body of Christopher Columbus, famous for his Discovery of the New World.

Not far from hence are to be seen the Reliques of the Italica of Strab. Here Hannibal is faid to have took his Wife Himilee, and was one of the last Towns that held out for the Cartbagenians; the chief City of the Oritani, seated upon an high Mountain, rather in New-Caftile, than in Andaluxia near Ubeda. St. Lucar, at the mouth of the Guadalquiver, is a Town of great Trade; the West-India Gold and Silver Plate has fometimes stopp'd at the Tower of the Port, which is called the Golden Tower; but generally that Fleet put in at Cadiz, or Port St. Maries, which is near to it. by the continual Fleets of the Tyrian Merchants, and by the Phocenfis in the Reign of Arganthonins, a little before their Expugnation by Cyrus, and by some thought to be the same with that Tharsis, from whence Solomon's Ships did fetch his Gold for the Temple at Ferusalem. Some make this the same with Carteia of Mela, Ptol. & Plin. Cartha of Ovid. Cartea of Steph. as Curio, Mariana and Becan. but Moralus will have Cartheja or Carteja to be Algezira, whose position now is alike uncertain, but both seems to me to be the Gibal Tariff of the Arab. or Gibralter Gibalter, which now gives a Name to the Famous Streight which joins the Ocean and Mediterranean, and parts Europe from Africa, called by the Ancients Fretum Herculeum, Gaditanum, & Tarteffiacum, now Estrecho de Gibralter, Hispanis. This Streight is in length 26 miles from Cape Trafalger to Gibralter, in breadth at the Entrance 18 miles, at the narrowest place about 7 English miles. Pales is the Port from whence Columbus first embarqued, upon his Intentions of a New Discovery: And Cadiz, Cales Angl. & Batavis, Cadice Ital. Gades Cas. Plin. & Mela, Gadira Ptol. Continusa Dieny. is the Harbour of the Rich Plate-Fleets; a Port so important, that Charles the Fifth recommended the conservation thereof in a special manner to his Son Philip the Second. Antiquity there shews us the Footsteps of a Temple dedicated to Hercules, with two Columns, either of Copper or Silver, which the Natives aver to be the Pillars of that Hero, as well as the two Mountainsupon each fide of the Streights of Gibralter: they Report, That in this Temple it was that Julius Cafar wept when he called to mind the Prodigious Conquests which Alexander the Great had gain'd at the Age of three and thirty Years, the consideration whereof carried him to those High Enterprises; as Scipio was incited by the Actions of Zenophon's Cyrus.

The Kingdom of Granada under the last Kings of the Moors (who lost it in the Year 1491.) was far more Rich, and better Peopled than it is at this day: It was also much more Fertile; for the Moors had a thousand Inventions to water their Lands, by means of Cuts and Trenches, bringing the Water from great Reservatories which they made in the Mountains, which are called Montes d'los Alpayaras olim

The Scituation of this Kingdom, and the Polition of the Towns, agrees with the Relation or Description which Julius Cae ar has made. The City which bears its Name, Granatum al. Granado, is the biggest in all Spain; its Buildings are of Free-stone, fenced about with a strong Wall, on which are 130 Turrets, and it hath 12 Gates. It is very pleasant dwelling there, by reason of the pureness of the Air, and plenty of Fountains; the Moors placing Paradise in that part of Heaven which is the particular Zenith of this place. Malaga, Malaca Ptol. Strab. Mel. Ant. a strong Town, and Bishop's Sec. Velez Malaga is the Sex of Ptol. Sexitanum Ant. Sexi Firmum, & Julium Plin. is famous for the excellency of its Wines and Raisins. Munda is notable for Julius Cæsar's Victory over Pompey's Sons. For near unto this place, in a Wood, was fought that notable and last Battel between Cafar and Pompey's Sons; the Honour of the day fell to Casar, though not without great loss. In other Battels he used to say, he fought for Honour, in this for his Life; which not long after he loft, being murthered in the Senate-House. Almeria is the Abdara Ptol. Abdera Mela, founded by the Tyrians, Strab. by the Carthagenians; Plin. Antiquera is the Singilia Plin. Albama the Artigis of Ptol. noted for its Medicinable Baths. Gaudix is a Bishop's See. Loxa enjoys a pleasant Scituation. Muxacra is thought to be the Murgis of Ptol. Plin. Hue ca the O ca of Ptol. Vera the Vergao of Plin.

Murcia is said to be the Garden of Spain, by reason of the plenty of Excellent fruits in those parts; and so abounding in Silver Mines, that the Romans kept 400 men at work. The City also that bears its name, the Menralia of Ptol. drives a great Trade in Silk. Cartagena, built by Astrabal of Carthage, Father of the Great Hannibal, and taken in the second Punick War by Scipio Africanus, twice sacked and razed by the Barbarous Goths and Vandals; re-edified and fortified by Philip the Second, King of Spain; Is a good Sea-Port, a safe and large Harbour. Caravaca affords the wood for the Cross, to which the Spaniards attribute a power to preserve Men from Thunder.

Valencia is the most delightful Countrey of all Spain. The City (besides the name of the Province) bears the name of Fair and Great Valencia. An Archbishop's See, the Valentia of Ptol. Plin. Co. seated not far from the mouth of the River, Durias by Mela, Turium Plin. Turia & Turias by others; now Guadalaviar, Plusso. A University, where studied St. Dominick the Father of the Dominicans. Here was born under contrary Stars Ludovicus Vives, and Pope Alexander the VIth.

Cullera a Sea-Town, at the mouth of the River Xucar, formerly Sacron, after the name of the River, and is famous in Plutarch for the Victory of Sertorius against Pompey.

Denia, Dianicum of Ptol. Strab. Plin. and Solin. gives Title to the Marquess of Denia, since created Duke of Lerma.

Alicant is known by the good Wines which are transported from thence. Upon the Sea-shore, at a place called Morvedra, are to be seen the Ruins of the Ancient Saguntum of Polyb. the destruction whereof Xelua is by Florian the Incibilis or Indibilis of Livy, where Hanno was overcome by Scipio; but Baud. saith, Incibilis is now Trayguera, 20 Spanish Leagues distant from Xelua, or Chelua.

Gandia gives title to the Dukes of the House of Borgia.

Segorbe or Segorve, is the Segobrega of Strab. and Plin. testa Vasa Plus. and Tarap. but the confusion of Authors makes me uncertain what it now is.

The Islands of Majorque and Minorque, are the Ancient Baleares, the Inhabitants whereof are exquisite Slingers, and great Pyrates; they accustom their Children to hit down their breakfast with a Sling, or else to go without it; and yet as nimble as they were, they were constrain'd to begaid of Augustus against the Rabbets that destroyed their Lands. The Books of knowledge writ by Raymund Lully are very much studied at Majorque. The Soil of Twica has a peculiar quality to destroy the Serpents that are bred in the Island Tormentera.

Arragon is over-run with the Branches of the Pyrenean and Idubeda Mountains, and is in most parts dry and scanty of water, yet the River Iberus runs through the middle of it. Its chief places are Saragoca, Caf. Augusta of Ptol. Strab. Plin. Ant. &c. a Colony and Municipium of the Romans, before called Salduba. Under the Moors it was the Head of a particular Kingdom, recovered in the Year 1118. by the Christians, and made the Residence of the Kings of Arragon, an Archbishop's See, and University and seat of the Inquisition, and Vice-Roy for the Province Taracona, or Tarazona, the Turiaso Ptol. Turiasso Plin. is a Bishop's See. Calatajut upon the River Xulo, founded by Ajub a Sarazen Prince, half a mile from which was the ancient Bilbis of Ptol. and Bilbilis of Strab. the Countrey of the Poet Martial. Fraga upon the River Senga Gallica, Flava Ptol. & Gallicum of Ant. Balbastro is the Burtina of Ptol. Bortina of Ant. Huesca, the Osca of Strab. Ptol. & Ant. was the place where Sertorius (in Plutarch) kept the Children of the Spanish Nobility as Hostages for their Fathers sidelity; but the Fathers revolting, the Children were cruelly murthered. Jacca amongst the MounMountains, was the first Seat of the Kings of Arragon. Ainsa and Renbuari, have been the Capitals of two little Kingdoms, Sobrarbia and Ribagorca, or Riba Curtia. Monzon is a place where formerly the States of Arragon were wont to Assemble.

Navarr was the second Kingdom for Antiquity in Spain, but surprised and taken by Ferdinand the Catholick, Anno 1512. without one blow given. The King and Queen of Navarr being at that time both French Subjects; the Country is plain, yet on all sides environed with mighty Mountains, well watered with Rivers, and fruitful: Chiefer Towns are Pampelona, Pompelon of Ptol. Strab. & Ant. sirst sounded by Pompey the Great, after the Wars ended with Sertorius; a Bishop's See, and Seat of the Viceroys, seated in a Plain upon the River Arga. At the Siege of which Ignatius Loyola a Cantabrian, defended it against the French, was almost killed by a wound of his Leg, which occasion'd a New order in the Church, viz. The Society of the Jesuits; vide Monferrat in Catalonia.

3. Victoria (is the chief of the little Countrey called Olava, or Olaba, between Navarr and Biscay) first built, or rather re-edified out of the Ruins of the ancient Villica of Ptol. Anno 1180. by Santius King of Navarr. This Countrey is divided into six Merindida's, or Governments, one of which lying on the other side of the Pyreneans, is called Low Navarr, and is in the hands of the French King.

The Kingdom of Castilia was at first named Bardulia, and was the most prevailing Kingdom of all Spain either by Conquest or Intermarriages, divided into Castillia la Veia, or old Castile, and Castillia la Nueva, or New Castile. Chiefer places in Old Castile are Burgos, Bravum & Masburg Ptol. teste Tarapha, & Burgi, once the Royal Seat of the Kings of Castile, now an Archbishop's See.

Avila, the Abala of Ptol. of which Tostatus, Sirnamed Abulensis, was Bishop, who is faid to have writ as many sheets as he lived days.

Soria is the place where the great Standard of the Kingdom is kept; not far from which, towards the Springs of the Douro, stood sometimes that samous Numantia, in which 2000 Soldiers withstood 40000 Romani for 14 years, and at last gathering all their Money, Goods, Armour, &c. together, laid them on a Pile, which being fired, they all voluntarily buried themselves in the stame, leaving Scipio nothing but the name of Numantia to adorn his Triumph.

Logronnio upon the said River was the Juliobriga of Ptol. and Juliobrica of Plin.

New Castile, is a Countrey for the most part Champian and plain, affording sufficient plenty of Corn, Fruits, and other necessary provision. Chiefer Towns are, 1. Madrid, the Mantua of Ptol. Madritum al. the Seat of the Kings of Spain, and now one of the most fair and populous places of the Kingdom, well built with good Brick Houses, many having Glass Windows, which is very rare in all Spain; the most considerable Buildings are the Piazza, the Prison, the King's Chappel and Palace, the Palaces of the Duke of Alva, of Medina de los Torres, &c. The English Colledge of Theatines, Il Retiro, &c. Out of Town, St. Perdo, and the Escurial, or the Magnisticent Monastry of St. Laurence, which is about seven or eight Leagues from Madrid, amongst the Spaniards passed for the Eighth Wonder of the World, and is said to have cost King Philip the Second above twenty Millions of Gold; no great Sum for a Prince who is said to have expended 700 Millions of Gold during his Reign.

2. Toledo, the Toletum of Plin. and Ant. then the chief City of the Carpetani, mounted upon a steep and uneven Rock, upon the right shore of the River Taio, with whose circling streams it is almost encompassed. By the Goths it was made the Chamber and Royal Seat of their Kings. Under the Moors it became a petty Kingdom, and their strongest hold in those parts; after five years Seige in the year 1085. recovered by Alphonsus the Sixth, King of Castile and Leon. Now an University, an Archbishop's See, the richest in Europe, whose Bishop is Primate and Chancellor of Spain.

Alcala de Henares, is the Complutum of Ptol. and Ant. an University founded by F. Ximenes, Cardinal and Archbishop of Toledo.

Calatrava upon the River Gaudiana, abandoned by the Templers, and now gives name to the Order of Knights so called, confirmed by Pope Alexander the Third, 1164.

Alcaraz gives name to the Mountainous Tracts of Sierra de Alcaraz. Curaca, a Bishop's Sec. and Seat of the Inquisition, once an Invincible Fortress of the Moors against the Christians, yet won from them Anno 1177. by Sanctius the Second King of Castile.

Siguenea, or Siguenza, is the Segontia, Strab. Plin. the Secuntia of Liv. Secontia Ant. Segontialasta of Ptol. a City of the Celtiberi, now a Bishop's See, having a fair Cathedral.

The Kingdom of Leon was the first which the Christians established after the Invasion of the Moors. The City which bears its name, has in it a Cathedral famous for its beauty. The Church of Toledo is magnified for its Wealth; that of Sevil for its biguels; that of Salamanca for its Strength. The City of Salamanca is honoured with an Univerfity, which has the Privilege to teach the Hebrew, Greek, Arabick, and Chaldee Languages: They talk here of the Valley of Vatuegas, lately discovered in the Mountains of this Kingdom, and which was never known before from the time of the Moors Invasion; discovered by the. occasion of an Hawk of the Duke of Alva's, which was lost amongst those Mountains: His Servants clambering from one Hill to another in fearch of it, at last happened into a pleasant and large Valley, where they spied a Company of naked Patacoes, or Savage people, hemmed in amongst those many Rocks or Mountains. And then told their Master, That instead of his Hawk, they had found a New World in the midst of Spain. Upon further discovery and enquiry they were thought to be a remnant of the ancient Spaniards, who had hid themselves amongst these Mountains, for fear of the Romans.

Of Catalonia, and the County of Roussillon.

Atalaunia, rather Catalonia, by the French Catalogne, is variously derived by Authors; some from Gothalonia, of the Goihs and Alani; some from the Castellani, the old Inhabitants hereof: Others from the Cattalones, who also had here their dwellings; others from the Catti of Germany, and the Alani of Sarmatia, now Lithuania.

Paulus Hieronymus afferts it to be 170 scalian miles long, and 130 broad: Boterus tells us there is numbred in this Province one Dukedom, viz. Cardona; three Marquisates, 11 Earldoms, many Baronies and Lordships, 56 Cities, or Walled Towns, and Six hundred thou-fand Inhabitants, among which were 10000 French Shepherds and Husbandmen.

Some Authors tell us the Countrey is Hilly, and full of Woods, yielding but small store of Corn, Wine, and Fruits; some say it abounds with Corn, Wine, and Oyl. Others tell us it is more Lerida, Tlerda Ant. Strab. Ptol. Plin. Lucan. A Bishop's See and University, seated upon the Rivers Sicoris, now Segre, or Segor, and not on the River Linga, and the chief City of Arragon, (as Heylin saith) Its adjacent Fields are well stored with Vines, Corn, Fruits, and Oyl, oftentimes besieged by the French, and as often relieved by the Spaniards. And is samous for the Encounter which happened nigh unto it, between Herculejus the Treasurer of Sertorius Army, and Manillius Proconsul of Gallia, wherein Manillius was discomsited, and his Army routed.

Cerdona is a Dukedom of the same Name, where are three things remarkable, A Mountain whose Earth is like Meal or Flower. A Fountain whose Water is of the colour of Red Wine. A Salt of di-passages were too well secured by the French.

Not far from the right shore of the River Lobregat ariseth the pleafant Mountain Edulius Mons Ptol. & Medulius by others, now Monserrato, a noted place for Miracles. Here Ignatius Loyola laid the foundation of the Society of Jesus, Anno 1522. This Mountain is said to be two Miles high, and four Miles in Circumference, stuck full with Anchorets Cells, and honoured with a much frequented Chappel and Image of the Blessed Virgin; whose ravishing description read in Nonius Bibliothec. Hisp. and in Zeiler's Description of the place, in his Iteneries of Spain.

Rosas, or Roses, the Rhoda of Ptol. and Rodope of Strab. founded by the Emporites or Rhodians, under the Pyrenean Mountains; a strong place.

This Country was pawned by John King of Arragon, 1462. to Lewis the 11th. of France, for 30000 Crowns; and restored to Ferdinand the Catholick, by Charles the 8th, 1493. that he might not be hindred in his Journey to Naples. In Africa, Oran, Marselquiver, Mellilla, Pennon de Velez, Ceuta, and the Isle Pantalarea, all along the Coast of Barbary, upon the Mediterranean Sea. To which we must add the Philipine Islands in Asia, and the greatest part of the Islands and Continent in America.

Ci

Of Portugal.

Ortugal is a Kingdom of above five hundred years Erection, in the Western part of Spain, anciently called Lustrania, taking the present mame from Porto, a Haven-Town at the Mouth of the Dueras, where the Gauls used to Land, and therefore called Portus Gallorum, and since Portugal, Portugal; of rather from Portus and Cale, then a small Village not far from it; of of Portus Calenfis, now Portugal. The length of it from South to North is about sixscore Leagues. The breadth thereof about 25 or 30 Leagues, and in some places fifty. It is seated upon the Ocean.

The Experience of the Inhabitants in Navigation, has caused their Kings to be known in all the four Quarters of the World; where they have had many Kings their Vassals: as also the convenience of bringing into Europe the most rare and precious Merchandizes of the East. Their Conquests have extended above five thousand Leagues upon the Coast of Brazile, and in the East-Indies, their design being only Trade. It is true, that of late for several years they have not made any great Progress, or farther Advantage, by reason of their War with Spain, and the great Garisons which they are forced to keep against the Hollander, which has caused the furrender some Places into the hands of the English upon the Royal March between Portugal and England, viz. Tangier and Bombay.

The Provinces of Portugal have all their particular Commodities; they afford among other things frore of Citrons, and excellent Oranges.

They have some Mines; for the Greeks and Romans sought in Portugal for that Wealth which the Portuguezes search for in the Indies. They are so well Peopled, especially toward the Sea, that there are to be reckon'd above six hundred privileg'd Towns, and above four thousand Parishes. The Roman Catholick Religion only is professed there; and those that are of the Race of the Jews, are forc'd to baptize their Children.

There are three Archbishopricks, Lisbon, Braga and Evora; and ten Bishopricks; the Archbishops of Lisbon and Braga, have each of them 200000 Livres Rent. There are Inquisitions at Lisbon, at Coimbra, and at Evora; and Parliaments at Lisbon and Porto, places of general Receipt of the Kings Revenue. Twenty seven Places have their Generalities, which are called Comarques, or Almoxarifates. The Order of Christ that resides at Tomar, is the most considerable which they have. The Kings are Grand Masters thereof; for upon that Order depends all their Conquests from abroad. The Knights wear a red Cross, and a white one in the middle, whereas the Knights of Avis wear a Green Cross, and those of St. James a Red one, who have their Residence at Palmella near to Setuval. It is said that the Revenue of the Kingdom, setting aside that of the Indies, amounts to above ten Millions of Livres.

In the Year 1640. this Kingdom revolted from the King of Spain, and at that time it was an admirable thing to confider, that a Secret of so great importance should be carry'd on with such an exact Secrecy among above two hundred Persons, and for the space of a whole year: The principal motives to this Revolt was, for that the King of Spain gave leave to others besides the Portugals, to Traffick into the East-Indies, together with the Tribute of the fixth part, which the King caus'd to be published in the Year 1626. whereby he exacted five per Cent. of all the Revenues and Merchandizes of the Kingdom. It consists of fix Provinces, which are as many General Governments, Entre-Douro and Minho, Tralos Montes, Beyra, Estrema dura, Alenteio, and the Kingdom of Algarve. Entre-Dauro and Minho, is the most delicious part, and so well Peopled, that for 18 Leagues in length, and 12 in breadth, it contains above 130 Monasteries well endow'd, 1460 Parishes, 5000 Fountains of Spring-water, two hundred Stone Bridges, and Six Sea-ports; some call it the Delight and Marrow of Spain. Porto by the Dutch, and by the English Port-a-Port; a City, containing about 4000 Houses, is a place of great Trade; and Braga, b Acaria Augusta of Ptol. Bracara of Ant, and Bræca of Plin. is renown'd for the several Councils that have been held there, and for the pretention of the Archbishop, who claims to be Archbishop of all Trales-Montes, is stored with Mines, and adorn'd with the City of Braganza the Capital of a Dukedom of 40000 Duckets Revenue, wherein there are also fifty little Towns, and other Lands, which Entitle the Duke of Braganza to be three times a Marquis, seven times an Earl, and many more times to be a Lord. The Princes of that Name, who are now in possession of the Crown, usually resided at Villa Viejosa; and had a Prerogative beyond the Grandees of Spain, to sit in publick under the Royal Canopy of the Kings of Spain. Beyra is fertile in Rye, Miller, Apples and Chesnuts; Her City of Coimbra, formerly the Residence of Alphonsus the first King of Portugal, who enjoyed a longer Soveraignty than any Prince fince the beginning of the Roman Monarchy attained to, saith Heylen; Sapores the Son of Misdales. King of Persia, whose Father dying, left his Mother with Child, and the Persian Nobility set the Crown on his Mother's Belly before she was quick, came short of him by two years; is famous for the University, and for the Bishoprick, which is reckoned to be worth above a hundred thousand Livres of Annual Rent. Estremadura produces Wine, Oyl, Salt and Honey, which the Bees there make of Citron Flowers and Roses. Her City of Lisbon, Oliosippon of Ptol. Olisippon of Ant. Olysippo Solynus, and Olylipo of Pliny, a Municipium of the Romans, Sirnamed Falicitas Julia, the Royal Seat of the Kings of Portugal, an Archbishop's See, the Residence of the Vice-Roys, a flourishing Empory; scituated upon five rifing Hills upon the right Shore of the River Tages, Tajo incolis, about 5 miles from the Ocean, having the advantage of the Eb. bing and Flowing of the Sea. It it said to contain 32 Parish-Churches, 250 Streets, 11000 Dwelling-Houses, 160000 Inhabitants, besides Church-men, Strangers and Courtiers; and with the Suburbs, about 7 miles in compass; the Capital City in all the Kingdom, one of the fairest, richest, the biggest and best peopled of Europe. The little Town of Belem, which is near to it, is the Buryng-place of many of the Kings of Portugal. Sentarim is so happy in the great number of Olives that grow round about it, that the Natives boast that they could make a River of their Oyl as big as Tagus. It was the Scabaliscus of Ptol. the Scabalis of Ant. and Pliny, Sirnamed Prasidium Julium, then a Roman Colony, and a Juridicial Refort, named from St. Irene, a Nun of Tomar, here martyred and enshrined. Setubal, the Salatia of Ptol. is well scituated, and well built, and is a Town of good Trade; it is the best Haven in all the Kingdom, 30 miles long, and 3 broad; her Salt-pits, and her Wines, by what the Portugezes relate, bring a greater Revenue to their King, than all Arragon to the King of Spain. Alenteio paffes for the Granary of Portugal, by reason of the Corn which it produces. The City of Evera claims the next place in Dignity to Lisbon. In the Year 1663, the Portuguezes overthrew the Spaniards in a memorable Battel near to this City. Elvas is famous for its excellent Oyls, and for the Seiges that it has prosperously held out against the Spaniards. Ourique is the place where was lought that famous Battel which occafioned the Proclaiming of the first King of Portugal; Portelegre is a Bishop's See; Beja is supposed to be the Pax Julia of Plin. and Ptcl. Algarve, though small in extent, it assumes the Title of a Kingdom, and was re-united to the Crown by the Marriage of Alphonius the IIId with Beatrice of Castile: It produces Eggs, Olives, Almonds and Wines, which are very much esteemed; and indeed the word Algerbia in the Language of the Moors, fignifies a fruitful Campaign.

Chief Towns are, Tavila, or Tavira, the Balsa of Ptol. and Plin. Faro is feated near the Cuneum Promontorium, now Capo St. de Maria. Silves is the Ancient Ossonaba of Ptol. the Onoba of Mela, the Senaba of Strabo, by the Moors, Excuba by the Spaniards, Estoy, by some Estomber. Lagus is feated near the Promontorium Sacrum of Strab. and Ptol. now Cape St. Vincent, from the Relicks of the Holy Martyr brought from Valentia by the perfecuted Christians, slying the Cruelty of Abdarrahman, the first King of the Spanish Moors; removed afterwards to Lisbon by King fome one Nation did plant here, after the Confusion of Babel; or that It was peopled by little and little, as feveral Nations did arrive; 'tis equally dubious, whether it received its general Name at first, or whether particular Parts had first their Apellations: 'Tis certain, that several Nations, at fundry times, did transport themselves thither from Greece, and peopled all the Sea-Coast, said to be Janus, An. Mun. 1925. after whom came Saturnout of Creet, Evander, or Oenotrus out of Arcadia; with their Followers; after them arrived some Trojans, under the Conduct of Eneas, whose kind entertainment by Latinus King of the Latins, occasioned the Warsbetween him and Turnus, King of the Rutuli; but after the Romans grew potent, all Italy fell under their Subjection until the time of Honorius; after wich several barbarous Nations, viz Goths, Vandals, Herules, and the Huns, passing the Alps, overran all Italy, and divided it into several Kingdoms. And when these were ejected, or at least subdued by the Lieutenants of the Emperor Justinian, it was once more united to the Empire, till the Empress Sothis envying Narsis's Honour, re called him from his Government; whereupon he opened the Passage of the Country to Albonius King of the Lombards, who possessed themselves of that Country, calling it by their own Name Longobardia. These were at length subdued by Pepin King of France, who was called into Italy by the Bishop of Rome. After that the Seat of the Roman Empire being fixed in Germany, Italy was reduced into several Parcels and Factions, so that the Soveraign Princes thereof at this day, are

1. The Pope, Pontifex Maximus, under whose Dominion are these Provinces or Estates, viz. Campania, Romania, Sabina, Provincia Patrimonii St. Petri, Umbria, Marchia Anconitana, Ducatus Castrensis, Territoria Orivetanum, Perusium, & Civitatis Castelli, Ducatus Urbini, Romandiola, Bo-

Of Helvetia, or Schwitzerlandt.

This Country, which should have followed Germany, being misplaced in the Copy, is therefore here incerted.

T what time this whole Mountainous Tract, containing many feveral Nations, was comprehended under the general Name of Helverii, they were grown to so great a Multitude, by a long Peace, and want of Traffique, that the Country being barren, was no longer able to maintain them; so that setting fire to their own Towns, they refolved to seek out new Dwellings; but their passage being stopp'd by Casar, he so wasted them by several Defeats, that they were forced to crave leave to return into their own destroyed Country: After this, they continued Members of the Roman Empire, till Conquered in the times of Honorius and Valentinian, by the Burgundians and Almains, betwixt whom it was divided; after taken by the French, it was made a part of the Kingdom of Burgundy; and at length by degrees brought under the Power of the House of Austria, by the force of the Emperor Albert, the Son of Rodelph of Haspurg: But the People being overburthened by the Oppression of their Governors, taking occasion by the Factions of the Empire, and the weakness of the Austrian Family, they contracted a League offensive and Defensive, for preservation of their Liberty; into which entered those of Switz, Uren and Underwald 1308, more strictly 1315. To these joined Lucern, 1332. Zurich, 1351. Glaris, Bearn, and Zug, 1352. Friburg and Soloturn, 1481. Basil and Schashausen, 1501. Appenzeel, 1512. Called Switz, from the name of the Village where first began this Confederacy, or because the most Famous and most Potent of them; not all united into one Confederation till the Year 1513. Of no great Reputation till the War made upon them by Charles Duke of Burgundy, whom they defeated in three Battels at Granson, Morat, and Nancy.

This Country is in length about 240 miles, and 150 in breadth; very Mountainous, affording Deer, Wild Goats, and Bears. The lower parts of these Mountains afford rich Meadows, and nourishing Pastures for Cattel, wherein consists their greatest Wealth. In some places they have good Wines and Corn, if the Care and Industry of the Husbandman be not wanting. This is said to be the highest Country in all Europe; yet is no place more stored with Lakes, and the rise of more famous Rivers, which run through all parts thereof, viz. The Rhine Northward, through the 17 Provinces; the Danube Eastward, through Germany, Hungary; the Poe Southward, through Italy; and the Rodanus Westwardthrough France.

As the Soil, such are the Inhabitants, of rude and rugged Dispositions, more fit for Arms than Civil Occupations; serving any Prince that will hire them. In a word, they are tall, well proportioned, and strong; naturally honest, frugal, and industrious; great lovers of their Liberty.

As for the Body of their State, it confilts of three distinct Parts, viz.

1. The Schwitzers.

2. The States which are Confederate with them.

3. The Prefectures, which are Subjects to the Schwitzers.

The Schwitzers are camprehended in 13 Cantons, viz. Suitia Switz, Uria Uren, Transilvania Underwald, Luceria Lucern, Tugium Zug. Berna Bern, Tiguriam

Tigurum Zurich, Basilea Basel, Friburgum Friburg, Salodorum Soloturn, Abbatu-cella Appenzeel, Glarona Glaritz, Scaphusia Scaf bausen. These make the Body of that Commonwealth, enjoying many Rights and Privileges, which the others do not.

The second Member is made up of the Towns and States Confederates with them for the Preservation of their Liberties, viz. The Rhatii or Grisons, who in the year 1498, united in a perpetual League with Uren, Switz, Underwald, Lucern, Zurich, Glaritz and Zug.

The Valesti, Valaise, or Walisland, who in the year 1533. entred into League with the feven Catholick Cantons.

The Town of St. Gal, in the year 1454. obtained the Protection and Confederacy of the six Cantons of Zurich, Bern, Lucern, Switz, Zug, and Glaritz. The Abbot of St. Gal only with Zurich, Lucern, Switz and Glaritz.

Mulhausen & Mulhusium, & Arialbinum Ant. teste Simlero, in Alsatia, a Town Imperial, joyned in a perpetual League with all the Switzers, ISIS.

Rotweil & Rotavilla, in Suevia, a Town-Imperial not far from the head of the Danaw, united 1519. with all the Cantons.

Bienna, Bienne teste Baudrand, rather Biel, upon the Bieler-Lake, was taken into the League with Bern, 1547.

Neocomium, Neufchastel Gallis, Novemburg Germ. With Bern, Lucern, and Friburg.

Geneva, first with Friburg, then with Bern and Zurich.

As for the Prefectures of the Switzers, they are such lesser Parcels and Addittaments, as have arrived to their State, and are subject to their Authority, either by Gift, Purchase or War, viz. the Town and Countrey of Baden, Bremgarten, Mellingen, Raper vila or Raperch will. The free Provinces of Wagenthal. The County of Turgow, al. Turgea. The Countrey and Town of Sargans and Walenstat. The Prefectorship of Rheineck. The Vallies of Locarn, Lugan, Mendriss, and Madia. The Bailiages of Belinzona, Gasteren and Ulzenach. Of Granson, Morat, and Orbe, and Schwarzemburg, and the Count Verdemburg. All which Cantons as well as their Allies, are as so many distinct Commonwealths, Governed by their Magistrates, and independent upon one another. They have two forts of Religion amongst them, the Roman Catholick and the Protestant: The Catholick Cantons are five, or as some count, feven; the fire Cantons are, Uri, Switz, Underwald, Lucern, and Zug: They that reckon seven add Friburg and Soleuri. But Zurich, Bern, Bafil and Scasouse, are Protestant; Glans and Appenzel are Protestants and Papilts mix'd together: The Catholick Cantons assemble at Lucern, Among all these Cantons, Zurich has the Precedency: Bern is the most Powerful. Basil has the finest City, the Residence, and the Rendezvous of several learned men. The Canton of Seas bausen has a City, famous for Trade; and in Solorum stands a City of the same Name, where the most Christian King's Ambassador resides. Uren, Switz, Underwald, Glaris, and Appenzel have only Burroughs: The Order of the 13 Cantons, according to their Precedency, is Zurich, Bern, Lucern, Uren, Switz, Underwald, Zug, Glaris, Basil, Friburg, Soloturn, Scaf hausen and Appenzel.

Amongst the Allies of the Cantons, the Grisons are the most Powerful of all. Their City of Coire is the place whither the Merchandizes of Italy and Germany are brought, by reason of its Scituation upon the Rhine, which in that place begins to grow Navigable.

The Chief Cities in these Cantons, are Zurich, the Tigurium of Cas. & Liv. pleasantly scituate at the end of a Lake called Zurich-Sea, or Tigurium Lacum, divided almost into two equal parts by the River Ligamus, which runs out of the Lake, but joyned together by two Bridges. The Houses built of Timber, and Painted, many four or five stories high. The Streets narrow, but paved with Flints and Pebbles. Tis well Fortified, besides the Wall, with good Earth, works and Trenches. It hath a University. Its Citizens are Rich, given to Merchandise, Busic and Industrious. To this belongs the Power and Authority of summoning the General Diets, and having the first place in both Assemblies.

Near Zurich was Zuinglius slain, aged 44 years, whose Heart remained whole in the midst of the Fire, after his Body was consumed. As also the Heart of Bishop Cranmer in England, as 'tis reported.

Below Zurich upon the Ligamus, enjoying a most happy and pleafant Scituation, lieth the Town of Baden, named thus from the hot Baths thereof, beautisted with fair Buildings. The Seat of their Geheral Diets; much frequented and resorted to also for its publick and private Baths, not so much for Health as Pleasure. The chiefest Virtue, is the quickning Power they have upon barren Women; for here the Men and Women promiscuously wash together, and which is worst, in private too.

Basil Ang. Rasil Germ. Basile Gal. Basilea Ital. Basilia Mercel. The Arial. binum of Ant. teste Cluver & Sanson. A City large and fair. The Houses built of Stone for the most part, and painted, compassed with a double Wall and Trench, Rich and Populous. The River Rhine divides

it into two parts, which are joined together by a Bridge of fourteen Arches. In this City are faid to be 600 Fountains. It gives Title to a Bishop, who is not suffered to lodge in the Town one Night. Spantalus an Englishman was the first Bishop here. 'Tis an University founded by Pope Pius the 2d.

Here was Erasmus buried; and here was held that Council, where it was decreed that a General Council was above the Pope, An. 1431.

Near hereunto is the Village Augst, where stood the City Augusta.

Rauracon, Ptol. Rauriaca of Plin: and Basilia & Civitas, Basiliensium of Ant.

Bern, seated upon the Aar, with those Streams, Island-like, it is almost round encompassed; on that side which is not, it is strongly fortified with Bastions and Outworks. This built of Stone, and hath one long Street, with narrow Porticoes, or Cloysters, on both sides. The great Church is one of the handsomest Stone-Fabricks in all Switzerland.

Lucern is seated upon both sides of the River Russ, issuing forth of the Lake Lucern and Walstetten-Sea, a neat City, and pleasantly seated; it hath four Bridges over the Russ, one fot Carts, the other Foot-Bridges, one near a quarter of a mile long. The great Church stands without the City-Wall, and is noted for its great Organ. The City is well traded, and much frequented by Strangers, being the ordinary Road between Italy and Germany, and the Rendezvouz of their Merchandise passing that way.

Altrof, and open Village, is the chief of the Canton of Urent The Village of Switz gave name to the Countrey. Siantz is the chief of the Canton of Underwald. Glaris gives Name to that Canton. Zw, is a Walled Town upon the lest Shore of the Zugen-Sea. Appenze was sometimes the Seat of the Abbots of St. Gal, then Lords of the Countrey: now gives Name to the Canton. Soloturn, Solotburum of Ant. upon the Aar, was the place of Martyrdom of Ursm and his 66 Theban Soldiers, in the Reign of the Emperor Dioclesian. Friburg upon the River Sanz, is a handlome Town, and Head of the Canton.

Scaf-bausen is seated upon the River Rhine, where all Boats and Floats that come down the River, unload because of the Cataract or precipitous Descent of the Rhine at Wassarfal. Here, as at Zurich, the Citizens wear Swords when they go abroad.

Chief Towns of the Confederate Estates, are Geneva Cæs. Genewa Ital. Gersff Germ. is pleasantly seated at the lower end of the Lake Lemanus, now Gensferzee, or the Lake of Geneva, divided by the River Rhusen into two parts, which are joyned together by two Wooden Bridges, strong and well sortified with Ramparts and Bastions of Earth;

Coira vei Coria Ital. Chur Incolis, Curia Ant. Diac. is the Capital City of the Grisons, almost environed with Mountains, a Bishop's See, whose Inhabitants are all Protestants, except the Bishop, who hath nothing to do in the Government of it, yet Coins Money, which is currant there. This Rhatia, or Country of the Grisons, is divided into three parts. 1. Lega Della, Casa Dio, or Fadus Domus Dei. 2. Lega Grisa. 2. Dicci Dritture, or Fadus decem furisdictionum.

Sion Ital. Sitten Ger. Sedunum Cal. & Plin. is the chief Town of Valefine or Wallislands, reaching along the Course of the Rhosne. Also divers Fountains of hot Medicinal Waters. Without, the Country is environed with a continual Wall of horrid and steep Mountains. The surprise of it alarmed all Europe, when seized upon by the Count Fuentes, for the King of Spain.

Mellingen, Bremgarten and Meienberg, chief Places of Wagenthal, lie upon the Russ River. Biel appertaineth to the Bishops of Basil, Newenburg to the House of Longueville in France, both confederate with Bern.

The chief places of Turgow, are St. Gal, seated amongst Mountains, not far from the Rhine, and the Lake Bodenzee, or Constance. The City is Rich and well Governed, inhabited by an Industrious People, in making Stuffs and Linnen Clothes. From the famous Monastry hereof, are named the Abbots, Princes of the Empire, and of great Power and Reverence in this Countrey. Frawenfeld is the chief belonging to the Confederate Cantons.

Chief places in the Italian Prefectures, are Locern & Locarnum, seated in a pleasant and fruitful Plain, betwixt high Mountains, and the Head of the Lake Maggiore, the Verbanus Lacus Strab. & Plin. and H h

The Lake of Geneva is crossed by the Rhosne, and yet they never mix their Waters together. And there are Tempelts upon it; even in fair Weather, because it lies at the foot of the Hills. The Natives report, That Julius Casar threw his Treasure into this Lake, when he was pursued by the Switzers; but hitherto they have sought for it in vain.

The Waters of all the Lakes and Rivers in this Countrey, are obferved to be of a greenish Colour, as the Sea-Water, and yet are not Brackish or Salt.

Of ITALY.

Taly is scituated in the middle Temperate Zone, in shape of a Leg, between the Mediterranean Sea, and the Gulph of Venice. The Alps (which F. Livy calls the Walls of Italy and Rome), guard it towards those parts where it borders upon France, Savoy, Switzerland, and Germany. The Appenine cuts through all the length of it. Po, Adige, Tiber and Arno, are the biggest Rivers.

The Italians are Polite, Ingenious, Subtile, and very prudent; in Conversation pleasant; in Carriage obliging, extreme in their Customs, temperate in their Diet, faithful to their Friends; but these Dispositions are much sullied by four Vices, Revenge, Lust, Jealousie and Swearing.

The Women for the most part are handsome, of good Wit, and modest Behaviour; Saints in the Church, Angels in the Streets, Magpies at the Door, Syrens in the Windows, and Goats in the Gardens.

Their Cities are therefore the fairer and better built, because the Nobility and Gentry usually have their Habitations in them.

Their Language is Courtly and Eloquent, much of the Latin; but the Tuscan Dialect, as being more polished, is received at the Court of Rome, and among Persons of Quality.

The Italians count not their Hours as we do, from 12 to 12, beginning at Mid-day and Mid-night; but begin their account from Sunfetting, reckoning from 1 to 24 Hours for a Day; and therefore necessitated

In Italy are a vast number of Religious Houses, where young Women of Quality, who for want of sufficient Fortunes or Personal Endowments, cannot get Husbands suitable to their Birth or Quality, their Parents for a small matter dispose of, and settle them there for their lives.

There are also Hospitals for the Entertainment of poor Travellers, who have their Diet and Lodging for three days (Gratis), besides a

There are also Hospitals to take care of all exposed Children that are brought and put in at a Grate on purpose; for at the ringing of a Bell an Officer comes and receives the Child, and carries it to a Nurse, and there it is maintained till it be grown up.

The Nobility and Gentry of Italy chule rather to spend their Revenues in building fair Palaces, and adorning them with Pictures and Statues, in making Orchards, Gardens, Walks, than in keeping great Houses, and plentiful Tables. And certainly tis better Charity to employ poor people, and give them Money for work, than to give them Money freely, and suffer them to live in Idleness.

One Phanomenon observed at Rome by Mr. Ray was, that in sharp Frofly weather in the middle of Winter, the Water in the Fountains was so hot that he thought it had been heated over the fire.

Italy is divided into three great parts: 1. The Higher part, which is Lombardy, Longobardia, containing the greatest part of Gallia Cisalpina, in which lies the Dutchy of Savoy, the Principality of Piedmont, the Dutchy of Montferrat, the Commonwealth of Senoua, Riviera di Genoua, the Dutchy of Milan, Stato di Milano, of Parma, Stato del Duca di Parma, of Modena, Ducatus Mutinensis, Stato del Duca di Modena, of Mantoua, Stato del Duca di Mantoua, the Territories of the Venetians, Stato di Venetia, and the Bishoprick of Trent.

2. The middle part, wherein are the Dominions or Land of the Church, Stato della Chiesa, or Ditio Ecclesia. The Estates of the Great Duke of Tuscany, or Ditio Magni Ducis Heturiae seu Tuscia. And the Commonwealth of Lucca, Dominum Reipublica Lucensis.

3. The lower, in which is the Kingdom of Naples, Regno di Napoli.

THE Ancient Inhabitants of this Mountainous Countrey, were generally called by the Name of Allobrogus; of whom the first mentioned we find in Story, is the Atonement made by Hannibal in his passage this way, between Bruncus and his Brother, about the Succession of the Kingdom; afterwards subdued by the Romans under the several Conducts of C. Domitius Anobarbus, and Qu. Fabius Maxianus:

After which, Costius, one of the Kings of these Allobroges, was in special favour with Augustus Caelar, whence it had the Name of Alpe Costiae, and by that Name reduced into the form of a Province by Nero In the declining of the Roman Empire, it became a part of the Kingdom of Burgundy, and passed with other Rights to the Empire of German.

Amadis the IId. Earl of Maurienne, was, by the Emperor Henry the IVth invested with the Title of Savoy: And Amadis the VIIIth, created the first Duke by Sigismund, Ann. 1297. But the main Power and Patrimony of this House, was by the Valour of the two Earls, Thomas and Peter, in the Years 1210, and 1256, who got by Conquest a great part of Piedmont; to which the Marquisate of Saluces was united by Marriage of the Daugher to Charles Duke of Savoy, whose Successors kept possession of it, till Francis the First pretending some Title to it, in Right of his Mother, a Daughter of the House of Savoy, annexed it to the Crown of France; from which it was recovered, during the Civil Wars of France, by the Sawayards, about 1588. by whom 'tis still possessed: By reason of the difficult and narrow ways, and those full of Thieves, it was once called Malvoy; but the passages being opened by the Industry of the People, and purged of Thieves by good Laws, it was called Savoy, Salvoy, Sabaudia Lat. Savoia Italis, La Savoye, Gallis.

It is full of those Mountains which we call by a general name of Alps, though several Branches have their peculiar Names: Mount Conis, and little St. Bernard, open the two most considerable Passages into Italy. 'Tis a Country healthy enough, but not very fruitful, except fome Valleys, which are very fertile and delightful.

The common People are naturally dull and simple, and unwarlike, but the Gentry civil and ingenious. It passes for the most noble and primier Dukedom of Christendom; the power and presence of whose Dukes are the more considerable, because Masters of the most part of the passages out of France into Italy; and by the possession of Piedmont, the County of Nice, and other Signiories.

Under the name of Savoy are comprehended these six parts, Sabaudia propria, La Savoye. Genevensis Comitatus, Le Genevois. Mauriana, La Maurienne. Tarantaissa, La Tarantaise. Fossiniacum, Le Fossiny, &

Cabillicus Tractus, Le Chablais.

Chambers, Chambericum, Chamberiacum or Carmeriacum, Civarro, Cicateste Canali, & Forum Vicontii, teste Pineto, is the Capital City of the Dukedom, and the residence of a Parliament; fortisted with a strong Castle, and good Outworks.

Mont me-

Montmelian, Monmelianum, is the place of strength, with a Citadel that defends the rest of the Mountains, almost inaccessible, where they say the Keys of Savoy are locked up. Taken by the French 1691.

Monstiers Monasterium is an Archbishop's See, the Civitas Cantorum of Ant. Annecy Annecium, was the Residence of the Bishops of Geneve.

Ripaile was the Retiring-place of Felix the IVth, before and after his Pontificate, that Prince living at peace in such a retirement from business, that it became a Proverb, To live at Ripaile, of those that only took their pleasure, and lived at ease.

Other Places are Cluse, Clusa. Fannum Sancti Johannis. St. Jean in Mauriene Thonon, Thononium, or Thunonium. Le Rourg St. - Morice. In the Mountains bordering on this Country and France, are the Progeny of the Albigensis, which about the Year 1100. stood for the Liberty of the Church, and the Doctrine of their Predecessors; and about the Year 1250, they were almost utterly ruined by the Popes and French Kings. The remainder preferring their Conscience before their Country, retired up into the Mountains, and by their Industry and good Husbandry, made the very Rocks to bring forth Herbage for their Cattel, and here they worshipped God according to the Reformed Churches until the latter end of Francis the First, when happen'd the Massacre of Merinianum, or Marignan Gallis, and Chabrieres. And in the Year 1662, and 1662, they were again perfecuted and massacred by the Savoyards. Mr. Ray in his Travels of 1662. met with some of the Protestants of Lucern and Angrona at Turin, who told him that they were in number about 15000 Souls, and 2000 Fighting-men; that they dwell in 14 Villages, that they are the only Protestants in Italy, and have maintained their Religion 1200 years. But what have been done to them fince 1684. History is filent; until the Expedition of the Vaudois, 1689.

Within the Limits of Savoy is the Signiory of Geneva, about eight Leagues in compass, seated on the Lake Lemanus, divided into two parts by the Rhojne, well fortified, and a flourishing University, governed by a Common Council, consisting of 200, the four chief where-of are called Sindiques. The Church-Government consisteth of Laymen and Ministers, begun by Calvin, Anno 1541. Formerly it was the Soveraignty of the Duke of Savoy (and therefore mentioned in this place) but since the resistance of the great Siege 1589, they have stood on their own Liberty, and are reckoned a Commonwealth.

The chief City whereof is called Genoua, of old Genua; first built by Fanus the first King of Italy, but miserably destroyed by Mago the Brother of Hamibal; built again by the Senate of Rome, but again ruined by the Lombards, and re-edified by Charles the Great, scituate on the Shore of the Ligurian Sea, full of stately Palaces richly adorned within and without, to which are joined pleasant and delightful Gardens. Its Strada Nuava or Newstreet, being along and spacious Street, on each fide, side, embellished with stately Palaces, for the most part all supported with vast Pillars of Marble, not to be parallel'd in the World: Among which is the Jesuits College, and Magnissent Church, but inferior to a new Church, over one of whose Altars (to omit other Ornaments of an excessive value) are placed four Pillars of wreathed Aggat of an incredible greatness. The Palace of the Doria with its samous Bird-Cage. To which we may add its new Mould built even in the Sea, which makes the Port (encompassed with fair Buildings, in form of a Theatre) twice as large, and much safer than before; opposite to which, on a Pharos is a Lanthorn of great bigness, to give light to Sea-men in the Night. This City is in circuit about 8 Miles, fortified towards the Sea by Art, towards the Land by Art and Nature. Now Genova, la Superba. The Inhabitants are addicted to Trade and Usury. The Women are allowed the liberty of the Streets.

Other places of Note, are Sarzaña, or Serezana, a strong Fortress within the Confines of Tuscany. Principatus Monaci, Monaco Incolus, Mourgues Gallis, Hercules Monaci Portus of old, is a small, but a strong Town, seated upon a Rock under its own Prince Gente Grimaldi. Ann. 1641. it received the French Protection. Finale is the Polliopice

Of the Dutchy of Milan. Ducatus Mediolanensis Stato de Milano.

Hose Ancient Inhabitants were the Insubres, but is now under the Obedience of the King of Spain, seated in the best part of Lombardy, rich in Natures gifts, and for its wonderful Fertility esteemed the Flower in the Garden of Italy, and the Noblest Dutchy in Christendom; the ways are there very pleasant, set out almost as strait as a Line, with Channels of running Water, and rows of Trees on both sides; the most desirable Place to live in that can be seen, if the Government were not so excessive severe, that there is nothing but poverty over all this rich Country.

Its cheif City is Milan, Mediolanum Strab. Plin. Milano Ital. Meyland Germ. which tho fo often ruined, and its Foundations fown with Salt; having been befieged 40, and taken 22 times; yet it exalts it self as the fairest and greatest City of all Lombardy, seated in a wide Plain, environed with several Rivers, strongly guarded with a spacious and almost impregnable Castle, besides its other Fortifications; the Buildings fair and stately, three especially very magnificent, its Castle or Cittadel, Hospital or Lazaretre, its Cathedral or Dome; here are 36 Monasteries of Nuns, 30 Convents of Friers, 95 Parochial, 11 Collegiat Churches, most of which are stately Structures, beautified with curious Paintings, Images and Sepulchres. In the Cabinet of the Chancine Setalla, are rare Curiosities, both of Art and Nature.

The whole City is about 10 miles in compass, exceeding populous, containing 300000 Inhabitants; very rich, having many Families of Nobility and Gentry, of great Commerce by reason of its Merchants, Shopkeepers and Artisticers, and a general Staple for all Merchandizes from France, Spain, and other parts of Italy and Germany.

Other places in Milan, are I Pavia, Papia seu Ticinum, made an University by Charles the IVth, guarded with a Castle, and adorned with the richest Cathedral in Europe, worth 30000 Crowns per Annum, famous for the Battel in which Francis the sirst King of France was taken Prisoner by Charles the Vth. 2. Alexandria, or Alessandria, now the strongest Work of the whole Dutchy; well fortissed against the Assaults and Batteries of the French. 3. Cremona, seated on the Banks of the Poe; a place of good Trade, its Houses stately, its Streets large, beautisted with curious Gardens, famous for its high Tower and Cathedral Church. Here Vitellius's Soldiers were defeated by the Forces of Vespassan, and the Town fired by them. Lodi is the Laus Pompeja of the Ancients, a Frontier Town, but a miserable Garison, 20 miles from Milan, in the Venetian Territory. Tortona is the Dertona Ptol. & Plin. Derton, Steph. Derthon or Darthon, Strab. taken by the French, 1642. after delivered to the Spaniards. Novara, Crema & Mortara, are also considerable. Her Lakes are Lago Magiore, Verbanus Lacus of Strab. in length 200 Stadia; 56 miles, and 6 broad, with her two Borremean Islands, the loveliest Spots of Ground in the World. 2. Lago Del Coma. 2. Lugam Lacus, or Lago di Lugano. Its Rivers are Ollius, now Oglio River; Abdus, now Adde River; Lambrus fl. bodie, Lambro River, Ticinus fl. now Tesine River, which runs with such a force, that in 2 hours with one Rower, Dr. Burnet was carried 30 miles. Sencia fl. or Scesia River. 4. Coma, or Comum, where the Plinies were born, on the South of the Lago de Coma, aforesaid, a Lake 48 miles in length. Laricus Lacus, Strab. & Plin.

Of Modena.

Modena, contains the Cities of Modena and Reggio, with the Territories adjoining to them, Modena the Capital City, anciently better known by the name of Mutina, famous for the first Battel between Antony and Augustus Casar. Now the Residence of their Duke, whose Palace, though not outwardly great, yet is richly adorned within; whose Cabinet or Museum, is well furnished with choice of natural Rarities, Jewels, &c. Brissellu, Brixellum Plin. & Ptol. famous for the Death of Otho the Roman Emperor, who here slew himself, because his Army was unfortunately vanquished by Vitellius. Reggio, Regium Lepidi, a Place that has occasioned great Stirs between the Popes and the old Dukes of Ferrara. Here are many Sculptors both for Ivory and Wood-

Of Parma.

HE Dukedom of Parma, Ducatus Parmensis, or il Ducato di Parma, is much of the same nature for Soil and Air, as Modena. Its cheif City Parma, is seated in a fruitful Plain, 5 miles distant from the Appenine, about sour miles in compass, adorned with many rich

Here is made the curious Parmajan Cheese so much esteemed throughout all Europe.

The Duke hath here his Palace, a place of great delight and state; its Churches are beautified and rarely embellished with Pictures and Images.

2. Piacenza, or Placentia, famous for the Resistance which it made both to Hannibal and Asdrubal; now renowned for its Fairs quarterly kept, which all Italy, Germany, and other Countries do frequent, and here make their Exchanges.

The River Trebia was witness to the overthrow of the Romans by Hannibal.

Of the Dutchy of Mantua.

THE Dukedom of Mantua, Ducatus Mantuanus, Ducato di Mantoua Italia, is a Country plentiful in Corn, Pasture, Wines, and all fort of Fruit; Mantoua the cheif City, is feated in a Lake, 20 miles in compass, by nature very strong and well fortified; having no entrance, but over Cawsies. The Dukes Palace is fair and stately, and the best furnished in all Italy, except his Palace at Mirmirolla, 5 miles from the City, which for the Pleasures and Delights thereof, and for its rich furniture and beautified Gardens, may acceptably entertain the best Prince in Christendom. Mantoua is of Great Antiquity, Schotins faith, 'tis 4 Miles in compass, hath 8 Gates, and about 50000 Souls. It was miserably attacked by the Germans, 1619. and by the Emperor Ferdinand the IId's Army in the Year 1630. The Duke's yearly Revenue is said to be 400000 Crowns; yet the present Duke is very poor, being indebted to the Venetians, as Leti faith, four Millions of Crowns. There are besides four or five small Princes, but Soveraign Lords, viz. Novellara, Guastella, Bozolo, Sabionetta, whose Maleline is failed; Castiglione and Solfare.

As also of the Estate of the Dutchy of Montferrat, which doth in part belong to the Duke of Mantua, the other part to the Duke of Savoy, as aforesaid.

Of the States of Venice.

THE Demesses of the Venetians are very full of Rivers, Lakes and Channels; 'tis a Republique of above 1200 years standing, and the Bulwark of Christendom against the Turks. The chief City is Venice or Venetia, seated at the bottom of the Adriatick Sea, or Gulph of Venice, built on 72 Islands, distant from the main Land about sive mile, and defended from the sury of the Sea by a Bank of (some say) 60, other 35 miles in length; open in seven places, which serve for passages for Boats or Gondola's, of which there are 1300, but for Ships or Vessels of great burthen, the only passage is at Malamocco, and Cassille Lido, which are strongly fortised; it is about 8 miles in compass, having about 4000 Bridges, of which that of the Rialto is the chief, built over the Grand Canal. The Lagunes or Shallows of Venice, sink of late so much, that the preserving it still an Island, is like to become as great a charge to the Venetians, as the keeping out of the Sea is to the Dutch.

Its Arsenal is the most beautiful, the biggest, and the best furnished in all nurope, being about two miles in circuit, where the ways keep 200 Gallies, with all Materials for War.

Its Magazine of all forts of Engines and Arms for Sea and Land, among which are x000 Coats of Plates gurnified with Gold, and covered with Velvet.

But above all, its Church of St. Mark, reported to be the fairest and richestin all the World, a Church of admirable Mosaick Work, with Pillers of Marble, Porphiry, &c. and for the inside the Riches of it are so great, the Images, Tombs, &c. so glorious, the Altars so adorned with Gold, Silver, Pearls, and Precious Stones, that all the Treasury of the State may seem to be amassed in the decking of it.

In this City are 200 particular Palaces, built of Marble, adorned with Columns, Statues, Pictures, &c. of great value, of such grandeur, as that they are fit to lodge, and give entertainment to any Prince; 17 Rich Hospitals, 56 Tribunals, or Courts of Justice, 67 Parish Churches, 26 Monasteries of Nuns, 54 Covents of Friers, 18 Chappels, 6 Free Schools, and its Piazza's sumptuously adorned with Statues, Paintings, &c.

As for the Religion of this State, though they tolerate that of the Greek Church, they profess that of the Church of Rome, but with caution and respect to their own Authority.

Of their Forces some estimate may be made by the Arms they brought against Lewis the XIIth, where they had 2000 Men of Arms, 3000 Light Horse, and 20000 Foot, most of their own Subjects, without any detachments from their Forts or Garisons.

And a fignal Evidence of their power at Sea, was their great Fleet fet out against the Grand Signier for the War of Cyprus, Anno 1570. in which they manned out one great Gallion, 11 great Gallies, 25 tall Ships, and 150 Gallies of lefter fize. To sum up all, they once held a War for seven years together against all the Princes of Europe, except England; in all which time they neither wanted Men nor Money.

We may conclude therefore, That as Europe is the Head of the World, and Italy the Face of Europe; so Venice is the Eye of Italy, the fairest, strongest, and most active par in that powerful Body.

The Annual Revenues of this Repulick, according to Mr. Rays information, was about five Millions, and 300 and 20000 Venetian Duccats yearly.

Other Cities with their Territories belonging to the State of Venice, are the pleasant Vicenza, or Vicentia; the Healthy, Populous, and Fruitful Brescia, Brixia. The strong Fortresses Crema, six miles off which is the famous Cave of Custoza, 4000 foot long, and 3000 broad, and three miles in circuit, with its stately Temple Santta Maria della Cruce, and Bergamo. The pleasant Physick-University Padoua, Padua, the Patavium of the Ancients, built by Antenor, and is famous for the Birth of Livy, Zabarel, and Maginus, noted for the Civility of the Men, and Chastity of the Women, with its Garden of Simples. Tarvisium, Trevisi, with its excellent Wheat. Verona, with its Hill Baldus, famous for Medicinal Herbs. The Territory of Friuli, where is the wellfortified Palma, Feltre, and Bellune. The Territory of Istria, Istrie Gall. Hystereich Germ. where is Triest, or Tergestum, Petana; now Pedena, belonging to the Emperor. Citta Nova, cr Amonia, Parenzo, Parentum, and Pola. Rovigo once belonging to the Dukedom of Ferrara, with Chioggia, the Bulwark of Venice.

Besides all these, the State of Venice commands a great part of Dalmatia, with the Islands Corfu, Cephalonia, Ithaca, Zan, Cithera, and others. The Isle of St. Mauré, and the strong Prevesa, were in the Year 1685. conquered from the Turks; and the Morea.

The Bishoprick of Trent, which belongs to its proper Bishop, is in the Protection of the House of Austria: Its chief City of the same name, is inhabited by Italians and Germans, and is samous for the Council held there. But of this we have treated of more at large in the Description of Tirol in Germany.

Of the Estates of the Church or Pope.

HE Second part of Italy, according to our Method, contains the Estates of the Church, of Tuscany, and Lucca: The Teritories of the Church are the more considerable, because the Pope, to whom they belong, is a Spiritual as well as a Temporal Prince, Chief and Sovereign Pontifex, as he stilles himself, of all Christendom: Patriarch of Rome, and of the West; Primate and Hexarch of Italy, Metropolitan of the Suffragan-Bishops of Rome, and Bishop of St. John Lateran.

The chief City is Rome, formerly the Capital City of the most conside able Empire in the World; Mistris of the fairest part of the Universe: Famous for her great men that excelled in Valour, Justice, and Temperance. The Seat of Kings, Confuls, and Emperors; faid to have been 50 miles in compass, and her Walls fortified with 750 Towers. But now not having the Moiety of its former pristine Splendor and Magnitude, scarce containing 11 miles in circuit; yet few Cities can compare with her, if we confider her Antiquity, her Churches, her Palaces, and other Curiofities. Here was the Capitol faved from the Fury of the Gauls by the Cackling of Geefe. It wastwice burnt, once in the Civil Wars of Marius and Sylla, and in the Wars of Velpafian and Vitellius. Here was the Temple of Janus open in the time of War, and thut in the time of Peace, which happened but three times during all their Monarchy: 1. In the time of Numa. 2. After the Punick War. And 2. . the Reign of Augustus, when our Saviour Nor must I forget the Ponte Molle, a mile out of the City, anciently Pons Milvius, where Constantine was shewed the Cross, with these words, In hoc Signo Vinces. This City is seated on the Banks of the River Tyber (formerly upon ten Hills, though now chiefly in the Campus Martius.) On the top of the Vatican Hill is the proud Palace of the Popes, large enough to entertain three Sovereign Princes at once, and their Attendants; beautified and enriched with excellent Paintings and Curiofities, with the Garden Beluedere, famous for its rare Plants, delightful Walks, and curious Statues. On this Hill is the Church of St. Feter, the most splendid and famous in all Rome; the most sumptuous, stately, and magnificent Structure in the World; of that Majestick bulk and greatness, that it exceeds in all dimensions the most famous Temples of the Ancients; in length 520 Foot, and 285 in breadth; adorned with Paintings, Tombs, and other choice Reliques. spitals, Monasteries, Convents; of its Libraries, as the Vatican, the Fesuits College, &c. The Palaces of the Cardinals are stately Structures, and richly adorned; to which are joined pleasant Gardens. Here are several Piazza's, abundance of Antiquities and Statues, which I shall not name; but may not forget the Castle of St. Angelo, which for its strength, is effeemed impregnable, unless starved; and here the Pope liveth in more State than any Prince in Christendom. The chief of the other Cities and Territories belonging to the Estates of the Church, are Bologna, (alias) Bononia; famous for its Study of the Civil Law, for the Pope's Palace, or retiring-place; Rich, Populous, and well inhabited by Nobility and Gentry, the chief University in Italy. Ferrara, Ferrarea, with its Iron-Mines, beautifully built, adorned with many Superb Edifices; in the midst of it is a spacious Market-place into which do open about twenty uniform Streets. And Comachio, with its Eels. The once fair Haven Ravenna, in the Province of Romandiola, when Cafar Augustus kept his Navy there; famous for the Seat of the Emperor Honorius, and Succesfors of the Gotbish Kings; of the Exarchs, and of its Patriarch; now the Haven is choaked up, and its land covered with Water. Cervia, invironed with Fens, is famous for its great quantity of Salt, as Fienza is for its Earthen Ware. Urbin, Urbinum, seated at the bottom of the Appenine Hills, once famous for a sumptuous Palace and a most excellent Library; as also for Polydore Virgil, the Author of the History of England. Rimini, Ariminum of old, the taking of which so frighted Pompey, that he left Rome. Other Places are Fano, the Sea-Port-Town to Urbin. Senigaglia, the Seno-Gallia of old; and Pesaro, both Maritime Towns. On the Banks of Me o, of old Metaurus, was fought the great Battel betwixt Asdrubal the brother of Hannibal, and the two Consuls, Zivius and Cl. Nero, where 563000 of the Carthagenians were flain, 5400 taken Prisoners, as Livy writeth.

Ancona, in Marchia Anconitana, or Strato Marcha del Ancona, the best Haven of Italy towards the Adriatick Sea: And here I must not forget Loretto, or St. Maria Lauretane, famous for the Church of the Virgin Mary; a stately Structure, richly adorned with Presents, Offerings, and Gifts of Princes, Nobles, &c. whose Organs and other Musick makes an harmonious Sound to those that go on Pilgrimage thither, either for Devotion, or Penance. Ascoli is the Asculum, near which was fought the second Battel between the Romans and Pyrrhus; it was also the Seat of the War called Bellum Sociale. Macerata the Seat of the Governours of this Province; Firmo the strong.

Perugia, or Perufia is chief of the Province so called, seated on the Banks of Tyber in a rich and fruitful Soil: Here it was that Augustus K k believed belieged L. Antonius, and Fulvia, the Wife of M. Antony; and near to this City is the Lake de Perugia, of old Thrasemene, of about 20 miles in compass; near whose Banks Hannibal sew Flaminius, and 15000 of his Romans. Spoleto, in the Dutchy of Umbria, of great Antiquity, where are yet remaining stately Aquaducts, the Temple of Concord, and the Ruins of a spacious Theatre. Here is also the high Orvieto, in the Province of Orvietin, seated on a high Rock. In Terra Sabina are Narni, Nequino, and Terni. In Campania Romana, the chief places besides Rome are Ardea, now ruined, once the Seat of Turnus King of the Rutuli, the Rival and Competitor to Enew; taken by Targ. Superbus, the refuge of the Romans when the Gauls had taken Rome; as is also Alba Longa, once the Seat of the Sylvian Kings; after the Due! between the three Brethren of the Horatii and Curatii, it was ruined by Tullus Hostilius. Interamna of old, on the River Allia, where Brennus with his Gauls overcame the Roman Army of 40000, and marched to Rome, and had agreed for 1000 pound weight of Gold to forfake the City, but before the payment of the money, they were vanquished by Camillus. Alba the Seat of the Sylvian Kings. Palestrina, Praneste, of old the refuge of Marius against Sylla, who killed 12000 of the Citizens when he tookthe Town. Oftia, built by Ancus Marcius, feated at the mouth of Tiber, but its Haven stopped up; whose Bishop consecrates the Pope. Lavinia, so named from Lazinia Daughter to Latinus King of the Laurentini, married to Aneas. Trivoli, Tibur of the Ancients.

Chief Places in the Patrimony of St. Peter, are Veii a City once of great strength, wealth, and compass. In the assault of which, 306 of the Fabii were flain in one day, only one Child left at home, who restored the Family, and was the Ancestor of Fabius Maximus, the Preferver of Italy against Hannibal: After a Siege of ten years, this City was taken and destroyed by Furius Camillus. Civita Vecchia, a Maritine Town abounding with Allom; here are kept the Popes two Gallies, maintained by 20000 Duckets, the yearly Tribute of 40000 Curtezans. Terracina is the ancient Anxur near the Promontorium Circeium, now Monte Circello, famous for the dwelling of the Enchantress Circe. Monte Fiascone, where is the so much celebrated Wine near the Lake Volsinii, now Bolfena. Viterbo is a large and well-scituate Town, where is the Monument of Pope John 21, in the Domo. Here are Sulphure-Wells, and hor Springs.

Intermingled with the Estate of the Church, lies the Dutchy of Cafro, with the Town of Ronciglione, the Countrey of Citta di Castello. Strato del Duca di Parma, whose chief place is Castellana. The Sabatia, now il Ducato di Bracciano, the Title of the Family of the Ursines, near the Lake so called. And lastly, the Republick of Marino, a little Town on the top of a high Hill or Rock. The whole Territory is but one Mountain about three miles in length, and about ten miles round, containing three Villages more, and eight Corn-Mills, and two Powder-Mills, and about 4 or 5000 Inhabitants, of fighting-men about 1500. It hath been a Free State or Commonwealth for about a 1000 years, as the Inhabitants boast.

Of Tuscany, La Toscana.

TUSCANY comprehends the greater part of the Ancient Hetraria, or Etruria, and is a Countrey full of spacious Fields, and fruitful Valleys, swelled here and there with pleasant Mountains, abundantly stored with delicious Wines, and other Blessings of Nature: Its Metropolis is Florence, Florentia, or Florinza la Bella, a fair and flourishing City about six miles in compass; seated in a fruitful and pleasant Plain; the River Arno divides it into two parts, which are joyned together by four fair Stone-Bridges: Famous for the Stately and Magnificent Palace of the Great Duke, richly adorned: and for the largeness of the Building, the Architecture, and Ornaments of it, as also for the Gardens, Fountains, Statues, Rarities, in the Gallery, in the Closets, in the Armory, and in the Argenteria, equalling, if not surpassing most Palaces in Europe. The Cathedral or Domo St. Maria Florida, is also one of the chief Ornaments of it; as also the New-Chappel of St. Lorenzo, said to be the most rich and magnifick Structure in the World.

The fecond City is Pisa, once a rich, populous, and flourishing City when a Free State; now poor, and much desolate; feated at the entrance of the River Arno into the Sea, recovered to the Florentines by the Valour of Sir John Hawkwood, an Englishman, now much eclipsed of its former Riches and Power: Memorable for its fair Aquadust of about 500 Arches; its Cathedral with Brazen folding Doors, curiously engraved; and its Steeple so built, that on all sides it seems crooked at the top, ready to fall on the Head of the Spectator.

Siena, an Inland City, seated in a large, pleasant, and sertile Territory; enriched with Mines of Silver, and store of Marble; adorned with beautiful Buildings; as the proud Palace, the losty Tower of Mangio, its Domo built of black and white Marble; part of it paved with inlaid Marble, containing part of the History of the Bible.

Legorn,

Legorn, or Livorna, Portus Liburnus of old, a fair and beautiful City, accounted the strongest, and one of the principal Towns of Trade in the Mediterranean Sea, and the Scale of the Florentine Dominions, by whom it was purchased of the Genoeses for 120000 Duckets; now the Residence of many Merchants and Strangers. The Haven within the Mole is but small, but there is good riding for Ships without. Here the Wind is Easterly in the Forenoon, and Westerly in the Asternoon, and after Sun-set, no Wind stirring. At Pistoya strift began the Quarrels of the Neri and Beanchi, and of the Guelfe and Gibellini.

The Commonwealth of Lucca is about 80 miles in compass, very fertile, and so well Inhabited, that in two or three hours time it can have ready 30000 men in Arms. The chief City Lucca, is a Free Town rich and splendid; well Fortisied, and Adorned with many fair Edistices, and stately Churches, of which that of St. Martin is the chief: 'Tis seated in a Plain about two miles in Circuit. It bought its Liberty of the Emperor Rodolphus, and hath been ever since very zealous to preserve so sair a purchase. It was the Meeting-place of Pompey Cæsar, and Crassus, where they joined into a Confederacy. And here the Women walk the streets more freely than in other Cities of Italy. The publick Revenue is thought to be 100000 Crowns per Annum. Their Olives the best in Italy.

Adjoining to Lucca, are the Principality of Malespine, and the Principality of Massa, containing only Massa and Carrara; the last is often the Residence of the Prince, the other is noted for its white Marble.

The Great Duke in all his Dominions is supreme and absolute Lord. and imposes what Taxes and Gabels he pleases; every House pays to him the Tenth of its yearly Rent. No House or Land sold, but at least one tenth part goes to him. No Woman married, but he hath 8 per Cent. of her Portion. And every one that goes to Law, pays 2 per Cent. of what he fues for. Every Heifer pays a Crown. And not a Basket of Eggs that comes to Market but pays some Toll. Besides the Territories of Florence and Pisa, called the old State, of which he is absolute Soveraign, and the Territory of Siena, called the new State, for which he is Feudatory of the King of Spain: He is also possessed of a great part of the Isle of Elba, which he holds of Spain: part of Graffignana, bought of the Marquesses of Malespina. The Earldon of St. Fiora, purchased of the Strozzi. The Marquisate of Sarano. And the Earldon of Pitigliano and Sarano, and some other small places for which he is Feudatory of the Emperor. Radicofani in Tuscany, and Burgo San Sepulchro in Umbria, for which he is Feudatory to the Pope.

Intermingled in the Territories of the Great Dnke, are the Principality of Piombino, Noted for some Mines of Lead; Fortified with a strong Castle, in the Hands of the Spaniards; as also some other Ports and Places on the Sea, viz. Telamon, Remarkable for the great Battel sought near unto it by the Romans and the Gauls, where Attilus was slain, but the Victory was got by Amilius, with the slaughter of 40000, and 10000 Prisoners of the Enemies.

Estat delli Presidi, Orbitello, Portus Hercole, and Monte Argentara, are all subject to the Spaniards, and strongly Garisoned by them.

Of Naples, or Neapolitanum Regnum, Latin; Regno di Napoli, Incol.

HE Third part of Italy we have comprehended under the Kingdom of Naples, of large extent, and very Fertile; abounding with Wines and Wheat, and famous for its brave Horses: Here you may see large and beautiful Fields over-shaded with rich Vines, thick and delightful Woods watered with sweet Fountans, wholesome Springs, Medicinal Waters, Baths of divers Virtues; enriched with Mines of several Metals, and decked with sundry Physical Herbs: Replenished with fair and beautiful Cities and Towns.

The chief City is Naples, one of the fairest in Europe; Seated on the Mediterranean shore, amongst pleasant Hills, and fruitful Fields; Fortified with four brave Castles, besides a strong Wall, Ditches, Towers, &c. Enriched and Beautisted with many superb Structures, and magnificent Churches, Monasteries, Colleges, Palaces of Princes and Nobles, with pleasant and delightful Gardens; a commodious and safe Port and Haven, where are kept store of Gallies. Here was the Rebellion under Massantle; and in this City the Disease Morbus Gallicus was sirst known; and nigh unto it stands the Hill Monte Grogo, formerly Vesuvius; no less samous now for its Grazo Wines, than of old for its casting forth smoke and slames of sire. Upon the very top is a great Pit or Hollow in form of an Amphitheatre of about a mile round. Near to which is the Grotta di Cane, where the venomous vapour ascends not above a Foot from the Ground.

Other places of Note, are imporrant Cajeta, on a Capacious Bay. Delicious Capua, the Pleasures whereof enervated the Victorious Arms of Hannibal. Nola was witness of Hannibal's overthrow by Marcellus. Near Cuma was the Lake Avernus, with its unwholsome and Sulphureous stink, so infected the Air, that the Birds slying over, lose their Lives. At Puteoli, now Pozzuolo, was the Bridge of Ships to Baiæ three miles over, made by Caligula in a Bravado to awe Neptune, and to exceed the like Acts of Xerxes and Darius. Misenum was one of the Stations of Augustus's Armada, as Ravenna was the other that awed the whole Roman Empire, and the Burial-place of Misenus the Companion of Aneas, teste Virg.

Baiæ, famous for Antiquities, viz. the Sweating Vault, or Bagne de Tritoli, and Monte de Cenere, raised by an Earthquake.

And here was Aneas's Descent into Hell, Fabled by the Poets; and the Cave or Grot of one of the Sybills. The Grot or Hole through Mount Pausilypus, about a mile in length, and 12 Foot high, and broad ~ enough for two Carts to pass one another. Amali, where was invented the Mariner's Compass Anno 1200. by Flavio. The Physick-School Salerno, Nero's 100 Churches under Ground in the Rocks, and his admirable Fish-pond within the Earth, within a mile of the Sea; in the Cathedral is the Monument of Hildebrand, or Pope Gregory the 7th. The Sea-shore Polecastry, once Buxentum. The well-traded Mart Lanciano, four miles from the Adriatick. Teate, now Viti di Chiefi, seven miles from the Sea. Sulmo, Ovid's Birth-place. The Lakes Lesina and Varanus, memorable for Eels; and for that draining cannot diminish them, nor floods encrease them. Locris is famous for the Law-maker Zaleucus, and for the Victory of Cunomus an excellent Musician, upon Aristonus of Rhegium, of the same profession. Gallipoli, affording abundance of Oyl. Manfredonia an Archbishop's See, with its Capacious Harbour and Impregnable Castle Populous St. Severine, the Rich Soiled Barri. The high, steep, and full of cragged Rocks, Angelo, ol. Garganus Mons, a place Defensible by Nature, and Strong by Art. The Important Haven-Town Bereulum, now Berletta. The poor Village Cannæ, near the Banks of Ausidus, now Lafanto, once memorable for the great Defeat that Hannibal gave to the Romans, of whose Army he sew 42700 in one place.

Rich Lecca. The Choaked Haven Brindssi. The Capacious Port Otronto, Hidruntum of old, taken by Mahomet the Great, Anno 1481.

The once well fortified Reffamm, now Refame. Old Tarentum, where lived Archytas, so famous for his Plying Dove. The Ancient Cosentia, now Cozenza, on seven Hills; seated between two Rivers, of which the one turneth Hair red, and Silk white; the other Hair and Silk black. St. Euphenie, where Roses grow thrice a Year. And Desolate Rhegio.

To conclude; here are in this Kingdom Twenty Archbishops, One hundred twenty seven Bishops, Thirteen Princes, Twenty seven Dukes, Twenty four Marquesses, and Ninety Earls.

The Fourth General part of Italy, we faid, might comprehend the Islands of Sicily, Sardinia, Corfica, &C.

Of Sicily.

Fall the Islands in the Mediterranean-Sea, Sicily is the most Eminent, both for its Repute and Bigness: It was once, if we may credit the Ancients, joined to the Continent, parted by an Inundation of the Sicilian Sea from Italy; now divided by a small Channel a mile and half broad, between Messina and Regio, called the Far, or Phare of Messina; once terrible from the frightful Names

Names of Scylla and Charybdis; the first a Rock, towards the North in Italy; the other a Gulph, or Whirlpool, on Sicily-side, which gave the occasion of the Proverb, Incidis in Scyllam cupiens vitare Charybdim; now not so dangerous or affrightful to the skilful Pilot.

It had its name from the Siculii, a People of Iraly; before that, it was called Sicania, from King Sicanus, who came thither before the Trojan War, with a great number of Iberians. By the Greeks, called Trinacria; by the Latins, Triquetra, from its three Promontories. It is placed under so favourable an Aspect of the Heavens, and so rich a Soil, that the Mountains themselves, even to the tops thereof, are found fruitful.

The People that now inhabit it, are ingenious, eloquent, and full of talk, prone to revenge, subtle, envious, and flatterers, valiant, and greedy of Honour, not much addicted to Traffick or Labour.

This Island was famous for Aschylus, the first Tragedian of Fame; Diodorus Siculus, the Historian; Empedocles, the first Inventer of Rhetorick; Euclid, the famous Geometrician; Archimedes, the Mathematician, who made a Sphere of that art and bigness, that one standing within, might see the several motions of every Orb.

The chief Places are, r. Messia, of great strength, as well by Nature as Art; strongly walled, fortissed with Bulwarks, a strong Citadel, and a commodious Haven; beautissed with fair and stately Buildings; the chiefest place of Trassick in the whole Island; well frequented with Gentry, Citizens and Strangers, who live in great delight and pleasure. It lately, in a Rebellion, was under the Command of the French; but they abandoning it, it is now returned to the Spanish Government, who have four Cassies, and the City as many in their Command. The City Gates stand open all night, for any to go in or out. The Government is by six Jurors, sour of the Gentry, and two of the Citizens.

Its other places of note, are Syracusa, once the Metropolis of the whole Island; the greatest and good iest City of the Greeks; of a strong situation, and excellent prospect: The Ruins and Foundations of it do still demonstrate its pristine Grandeur. Note, a City which heretofore contended with Syracuse for greatness; scituate on a very high Rock, unaccessible on all sides, but by one narrow passage.

Pluto is faid to have ravish'd Proserpine. Panormus, now Palermo, scituate on the West Cape of the Island, beautisted with large Streets, delicate Buildings, strong Walls, and magnificent Temples, with its Artificial Haven, forced out by a mighty Pierre, a Work of vast expence; an Archbishop's See, an University, and Competitor for Trade with Messina. The Port Trapani, was the Drepanum of old, affords the best Seamen.

The Ruined Erex, near Mont St. Julian, the Seat of King Acestes, who so kindly entertained Aneas, and his wandring Trojans. The Ancient Catana, the strong Taormina, Tauromedium, near where the Cyclops dwelt; near Milazzo was Sextus Pompeius deseated by Augustus. Gerganti, the Agrigentum & Ayeaas of old, is samous for the Tyrant Phalaris, and the brazen Bull of Perillus.

The chief Hills in this Isle, are Mont Hybla, famous for its Bees and Honey; and Mount Ætna, for its once continually sending forth Flames of Fire; the Flames now commonly not being so great and visible as formerly; but the extraordinary Eruptions and Constagrations, when they happen, are still as terrible and amazing, as ruinous and destructive to the Countrey.

The Ancient Egathes, at the West end of Sicily, are famous for the Defeat of Catullus by the Carthaginians in the first Punic War.

Sardinia, Sardegna Ital. Zerdegna Hisp. Strab. & Sic. Sardon Hess. Sandaliotis Plat. Ichnusa Plin. once a Carthaginian Colony; the next Island to Sicily for greatness in the Mediterranean, where the Earth is more benign than the Heavens; the length about 45 German miles, the breadth about 26. Its chief Places are, Calaris Plin. Carallis Ptol. now Cagliari, the Seat of the Vice-Roy; a good Haven, and well frequented. Here is the Beast called Musoli, of whose skin is made the right Cordovant Leather. Here is also the Herb, from whence comes the Proverb, Risus Sardonicus.

Corsica was first called Therapne, afterwards Cyrnus; in length about 30 German miles, the breadth about 20. It was first inhabited by the Tusci, afterwards by the Carthaginians, then by the Romans, then by the Saracens, and now by the Genouans. The most considerable Places now, are Adiazzer, Calui, Bonifaci and Bastia: Of old, Aleria and Mariana were the most noted.

The chief of the Ligurian or Tuscan Islands, are Elba, Ilua Plin. Ptol. Mela. Arbalia Strab. about 40 miles compass; famous for its two Ports, Forto Longone, and Porto Ferraro; the first belongs to the Spaniards, the other to the Duke of Florence; other Islands are, Gorgona, Capraia, Monte Christo, Giglio, &c.

Of Croatia, or Crabaten.

Roatia. By this general Name were all the more Inland parts of Sclavonia, called. The reason of the Name we find not; it was brought hither sirst by the Sclaves. It is a Country, for the most part, cold and Mountainous, yet reasonably fruitful, with all necessary Provisions for the life of man; were it not for the Oppression and Neighbourhood of the Turks, to whose Injury it is continually exposed: Its chief Places are, 1. Sissey, famous for the notable Resistance which the Turks there found, Anno 1592. /2. Wibitz, once the Metropolis of the Country; strongly fortisted by Nature and Art, but taken by the Turks, Anno 1592. But the chief Place in Croatia belonging to the Emperor, is now Carelstat, the Residence of the Governor or Vice-Roy, Count Herberstein, Anno 1685.

This Country contained anciently the more Inland part of Ly-

Of Bosnia

O'nia Italis, Bosnia Gallis, Bossen Germ. was anciently accounted a Dart of Croatia; by Piol. part of Illyricum; by Cluver part of Panonia. To me it seems to contain the more Inland part of the Dalmatia of Plin. and Ptol. and together with it, it was united to Hungary, under the Homage whereof it was erected into a Kingdom, but of a short continuance; for in the Year 1464. Mahomet the Great surprized and took it, and converted it to a Province of the Turkish Empire. The Places of most importance therein, are Jaicza or Jazyge, for its Scituation on a Rocky Precipice, an unfordable River Plena, and an inaccessible Castle, accounted Impregnable. 2. Bosna Serajum, Bosna Serai, the Metropolis and chief of the Country. 3. Banialucum & Vammelucha, formerly Banjaluch, the Residence of the Bolnian Kings. Named thus from the River Bosna, or from the River Bessi, a People of the Lower Masia, expulsed thence by the Bulgarians, and fleeing hither. Of Dalmatia, Illiricum Polib. Illiris Ptol. Illiria Stepb.

HIS Province was by the Ancients divided into Liburnia on the West, and Dalmatia on the East, now vulgo Schiovonia, teste Band. It lies along on the Sea Goast of the Adriatick Sea, and is now possessed by the Venetians and the Turks: The chief places possessed by the Venetians, are Spalato, Spalatum olim Epetium, now Zarnovia, or Zarnouniza, teste Lucio, a Maritime Town, and the Emporium of the Venetians; seated in a most pleasant Valley in a Peninsula, joined to the sirm Land of Dalmatia by an Isthmus of about a mile over, and is guarded by a prodigious Precipice of Mountains to the sirm Land, through which it hath only one Passage, which is desended by a Fort built upon a Rock, just in the Entrance, with an open Port, but unsecure Bay for great Ships.

Clissa, supposed to be the Andrews of Strabo, and Anderium of Ptol. is a strong Fort more by Nature than Art, scituated upon a Rock, which stands just in the middle of the Passage between the Mountains, which is so narrow, that not a Man or Horse can pass by without the License

In 1647. Obraozza, Carino, Ortissina, Velino, Nadino, Urana, Tino and Salona, were subdued to the Venetian Arms by the prosperous Success of Foscolo. And Sebenico besieged by Mahomet Techli, who was forced to raise the Siege with the loss and slaughter of many of his Soldiers.

Zegna, the Senia of the Ancients.

Zara, the Jadera of Ptolomy; strongly fortified, and well mann'd; of a commodious Scituation, almost encompassed with the Sea, only the East-end joined to the sirm Land; now very strong, being secured by divers Redoubts, and 4 Royal Bastions, and a new Line of Fortifications, which makes it the most considerable and strongest Place in all Dalmatia.

Sebenico is a strong Fortress, seated on a rising Hill, whose spacious Port is secured by the Fort of St. Nicolas, and the Hills, by a Citadel, and the new Works of St. John. Lessina is the Isle which Ptol. calls Pharia, Strabo Pharas, very high, Rocky and Mountainous, reckoned about 100 miles in compass; at the South-end is a good Haven, where is the Town, having a Citadel on the top of a steep Rock. The place is noted for the Fishing-Trade of Sadelis, which are like Anchowies; 100 miles from Zara, 30 miles South from Spalato, and 30 miles North from Lisse.

Almissa, the Peguntium of Ptolomy, or Pigantia; seated on a high Rock, and defended with a strong Castle, now belonging to the Turks, teste Baud.

Caftie Novo, a strong Fortress within the Gulph of Cataro, taken by the Venetian, under the Conduct of General Cenaro, 1687. Cataro, Ascrivium Plin. Ascrivian Ptol. a Strong-hold also of the Venetians against the Turks. But Mr. Wheeler saith, 'tis the first Town belonging to the Turks.

Budua, the Butua of Ptol. is the last place of the Venetians on the Dalmatian Shores. Places more belonging to the Turks, are Narenza, Dulcigno, or Ulcinium of old, a City of indifferent good Trade, where the Franks have a Conful; containing about 7 or 8000 Inhabitants.

Scudari.

Scudari, the Scodra of Old; strongly seated on a steep Rock, Memorable for the years stout Resistance which it made against Mahomet the Second; but taken Anno 1578, by the Turks. And Alesso, the Lissus of Old; the farthest Town of all Dalmatia, where Scanderbeg was buried.

Of the Commonwealth of Ragusa.

THIS is a small Commonwealth, whose Town and Territories are in Dalmatia, upon the Gulph of Venice, and which pays annually to the Turk 50000 Livres, as being environed by the Territories under his Jurisdiction, and not able to subsist without the Grand Signior's leave. It makes some Acknowledgment also to the Venetians, as Masters of the Gulph. It keeps good Correspondence also with the Princes of Italy; and endeavours to preserve themselves under the Protection of the King of Spain, to whom it pays Tribute in the Person of the Viceroy of Sicily. The Gentlemen must marry Ladies, if they defire to be accounted Nobles of Ragula. Contrary to the Custom of other Nations, they count the Age of men from the Conception, and not from the day of their Birth. The Revenue of the Republick is about 200000 Livres. The Inhabitants addict themselves altogether to Trade. In the year 1667, a great Misfortune befel the City, it being almost all swallowed up by an Earthquake. Their Principal Port is that of the Holy Cross, Santo Cruce, about nine Miles from the City. The chief Governor is called the Rector; but his Government lasts but one Month. The Citizens change every day the Governor of their Castle: Neither do they let him enter into his Command but in the Night, and then they blind his Eyes. The Turks have a kindness for the Ragusians, because they pay their Tribute exactly, and because they have, by their means all the Commodities of Europe which they stand in need of. They give them those Privileges which they grant to no other Chriflian; for they permit them to buy Provisions in their Dominions: For the Countrey about Rugula is so barren, full of Rocks and Stones, that if it brings forth any thing, 'tis by means of the Earth which they fetch from other parts. The Town is well built, and fortified with Walls, and a Castle; a noted Empory, and of a good Trade; the Epidaurus of old.

1. Sabioneera is a Town feated on a long slip of Land (opposite to Curzola) belonging to the Republick of Ragusa, where are many delightful and fruitful Gardens.

2. Santa Croce, the Entrance good, the Port large, deep, and secure, being every way Land locked by Mountains round it, covered with Vineyards, Gardens and Houses of Pleasure of the Ragustans.

2. Budoa, the Bulua of Ptol. is the last place of the Venetians on the Dalmatian shores. Butua of Plin. Butboe Stepb.

4. The Gulph of Lodrin was anciently the Gulph of Apolonia, where Cafar narrowly escaped with his Life and Fleet. Tis a dangerous pasfage, about 150 miles over.

Curzola by Strabo, Coreyra Nigro, once belonging to the Republique of Ragula, but taken from them by the Venetians by a cunning Exchange. The Town is of the same Name, and seated upon a Peninsula, is a Bishop's Seat, and Walled; besides which there is about five Villages.

Along the Coast of Dalmatia lies a great cluster of Islands, Debronic of the Turcis, Liburnides Insulæ by Strab. the Names of the chief you will find in the Maps, most of them belonging to the Venetians, which are faid to contain 40000 Inhabitants.

SERVIA, or Zervia, as some call it, contains part of Masia Superior, and part of Dalmatia of old; it had once Kings of its own, now extinct. It was once under the Hungarian Kings; now wholly possessed by the Turks. It is now divided into Maritine and Midland Servia, teste foan Lucio Servia Maritima Chulmia, now Herzegovina, extendeth towards Dalmatia and Albania. Servia Mediterranea is divided into two parts, viz. Rascia and Bossa. It is a fruitful and pleasant Countrey; consisting of Plains, Woods, and Hills, not without stout Men, good Horses, Wines, and convenient Rivers. Once well stored with Mines of Gold and Silver, but those now decayed, or lost, and the People gross and tude, addicted to Wine, and salfe in their Promises. Its Seated she is upon the confluence of the Danube and the Savus, having the great Rivers Tibiscus, the Dravus, and Morava running into the Danube not far from it; as brave a scituation for Trade, as any Inland place in Europe. It is now adorned with two large Bezesseems, or places where the Richest Commodities are Sold; with a Noble Caravansara and Moschea, with a Mererescek or College for Students.

Zenderin, Singdunum Ant. Semendera Lat. Simedro Græc. taken by A-

Scopia: Scupi Ftol. by the Turks called Uschopia; a Gity of great Trade, Seated in the remotest part of Servia, or Mæsia Superior, or rather on the Confines of Macedonia. It is a fair and large Town, having a great Number of Moscheas; once a Bishop's, after an Archbishop's See; now noted for a great many Tanners, that make excellent Leather.

Great Actons have been hereabouts performed in the times of the Romans, especially by Regillianus. Hereabouts also stood Paracopolus, and

Jagodna is pleasantly seated in a fair Countrey, half way from Vienna to Constantinople.

Halli Jahisar is a considerable place, where there is a Church with two fair Towers.

Lescoa, or Lescovia, seated upon the remarkable River Lyperitza, the Mæneder of Mæsia.

The Hills between Servia and Macedonia, are a part of Mount Hamus, of which the M. Clissura, one of the Spurs or Excursions, shines like Silver, consisting of Muscovia Glas.

Urania is a strong Pass, which the Castle commandeth, and locks up the passage into Macedonia.

The chief Rivers of Servia are, 1. Morava, Moschius of old; is divided into two Streams, the one named Moravi di Bulgaria, the other Moravi di Servia, which uniting, run into the Danube at Zenderin; so that by this River the Commodities of Servia and Bulgaria are carried into the Danube, and so dispersed in Hungaria, Austria, &c. Not far from which was that great Slaughter of the Turks by Hunniades, who with 10000 Horse set upon the Turks Camp by Moon-light, slew 30000, and took 4000 Prisoners. And 2. Remarkable Lyperizza, which Dr. Brown saith, that in less than twelve hours they passed it 90 times.

Of Bulgaria.

BULGARIA is a Countrey generally full of Woods and Defarts, the most unpleasant and unpeopled of all the Dacian Provinces; but the lower parts not without some Plains and Valleys.

The Inhabitants of a Natural fierceness, yet patient of Toyl and Labour.

Its chief places are, Sophia Procop. Sofia Italis, Sophie Gallis, the Tibifea of Ptol. teste Nig. & Mol. the Seat of a Reglerbeg, under whom are 21 Sangiaes; feated in a long and fruitful Valley three miles distant from a high Mountain, covered with Snow all the year. It is Beautified with many fair Hanes and Baths, a stately College, and fair Mosques.

Axiopolis, Galacz teste Laz. Flotz. Marc. & Colanamick. Band. on the Banks of the Danaw, which from this Town begins to take the Name of Ister. Mesembria, scituate on the Euxine. Mercianopolis, much mentioned in the stories of the Goths, for the Fights and Battels they had there with the Emperor Claudius. Nicopolis, by the Turks Sciltaro, teste Leunc. & Nigeboli, memorable for the Founder of it, the Emperor Trajan; more for the many great Battels fought near unto it, whereof one was by Sigismund the Emperor, and King of Hungary, who with an Army of 130000 Christians besieged it, and Bajazet came to the Relief of it, got the Victory, with the loss of above fixty thousand Turks, killed 20000 Christians, and most of the rest took Prisoners. The Second between Michael, Vaivod of Valachia, and Mahomet the Third, over whom Michael got a Remarkable Victory. Varna, the Dyonifipolis of the Ancients, on the Euxine Sea; Remarkable for the first flight of Hunniades, and the Death of Uladiflaus King of Hungary, 1444. Silifria, the Ordinary Abode of a Turkish Bassa. Ternova, the usual Residence of the Princes of Bulgaria. Budina once of great Importance, but burnt to the Ground by Humniades, not far from the Old City Oescus Triballorum. Acridus, the Birth-place of Justinian; by the Turks called Giustandil. Confined at first to Astica, and the parts adjoining, only then called Helles, from King Hellen, the Son of Deucalion; the Inhabitants Helenes in Sacred Writ; and Greece, from King Greeces, the Son of Cecrops, the first King of Ashens; communicated afterwards to Thessaly, to Peloponnesses, then to Epirus, and lastly to the Macedonian Empire.

The first Inhabitants of Greece did live each under their proper Magistrates in several Cities, until Philip King of Macedonia, clearing his own Countrey of the Iherians, subdued Achaia, Thracia, and a great part of Pelopomesus. And succeeded by Alexander his Son, who retained his Father's Conquests, and vanquishing Darius the great King of Persia, and other Kings of India, founded the Grecian Monarchy, but in the height of his Successed being Poysoned at Babylon. Afterwards the Romans became Masters of it; and after that the Goths and Huns didrather Harress than Inhabit it. Lastly, the Saracens, now the Turks, and the Victorious Venetian, share it under their Obedience.

Hence it is that Greece hath lost its former Division of Countries, and their Names, and received new; that which was particularly called Greece, is now called Livadia; Pelopennesus, Morea; Thessay, Janua; Epirus, Canina; Macedonia is divided into four parts; that next Janua is called Comenolitari, that which borders upon Dalmatia is called Albania; that next to Thrace, is named Jamboly; and the midst of the Countrey retains its old Name Macedonia. Lastly, Thracia is now called

The Grecians, once a Nation in matters of Government Famous, in Arms Glorious, in Arts Admirable; addicted to the love of Virtue, Civil of Behaviour, affecters of Liberty, and every way Noble; only in their Commonwealth Principles, and Civil Diffentions unhappy. But now under the Turkish Yoke, their Spirits are low, their Knowledge is Ignorance, their Liberty contented Slavery; their Virtues Vices, their Industry Idleness: They are generally of good Proportion, and of a swarthy Complexion: Their Women very well favoured, brown, and excessive Amorous: In Habit and Garb both Sexes generally follow those under whom they live.

Their Primitive Language needs no Commendation, being well known for its lofty found, Elegancy, and fignificant Expressions, genuine Suavity, and happy Composition of words; Excellent for Philosophy and the Liberal Arts, but more excellent for that so great a part of the Oracles of our Salvation is delivered therein; but now not only the Natural Elegance is lost, but the Language almost devoured by the Lingua Franca, Turksh, and Sclavonian Tongues.

The Christian Religion was here first Planted by St. Paul, who went into Macedonia, passing thence to Thessania, from thence to Athens, and thence to Corinth, watering the greatest part of Greece with the Dew of Heaven: But now considering the Tyranny of the Turks on the one side, and the Temptations of Preferment on the other, 'tis almost a wonder there should be any Christianity lest amongst them; yet the Gates of Hell cannot prevail against this afflicted Church; for its members are endued with a Divine Humility, Patience, and Constancy; their Priests are reverenced, the Articles of Faith and Rules of a Holy Life preserved; their Fasts and Feasts observed; the power of the Keys Exercised, and the Judicature of the Church preferred before that of the Divan. As to the material Points of their Religion, I shall refer to the Description of my Scripture-Maps.

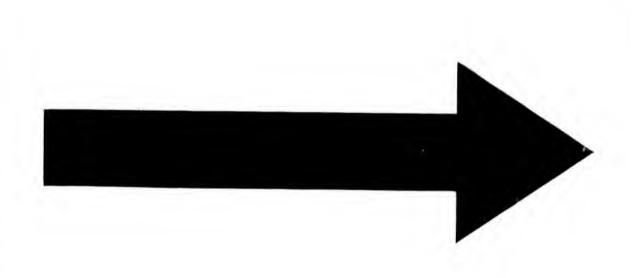

This Countrey hath formerly been Famous for Miltiades, Aristides, and Themistocles of Athens; Lysander and Agesilaus of Sparta; Pelopidas and Epaminondas of Thebes; Aratas and Philoparmem of Achaia; Pyrrhus of Epirus, Philip of Macedon, Alexander the great, brave Commanders. For Plato, Socrates, Aristole, Divine Philosophers: For Demosthenes, Isocrates, Associates, Eloquent Orators. Hesiod, Homer, &c. Excellent Poets; Solon and Lycurgus, Eminent Law-givers. Xenophon, Thuciades, Plutarch, Herodotus, Famous Historiographers; with several other Authors and Promoters of Arts and Sciences, too tedious to relate. But to proceed to the Provinces.

The Inhabitants of Greece were of old divided into three forts, viz. the Iones, the more famous whereof were the Athenians. The Dores, the most renowned of whom were the Lacedemonians; and the Loles, who fent Colonies into Asia, near to Phocaea. By the ancient Writers called Achei, Achiai, Argivi, Danai, Dolopes, Dores, Driopes, Hellenes, Iones, Myrmidones, and Pelasgi.

The Province of Romania, or Romelia, is the Ancient Thrace, by Stephanus, Aria; by some Scythia; by Josephus, Thyras from Thiras the Son of Japhet; by the Turks now called Romeli: A Countrey neither of a Rich Soil, nor pleasant Air, yet well Inhabited. But the chief Glory of this Province, and of all the Ottoman Empire, is the Renowned City Constantinople, formerly called Lygus, Byzantium, and Nova Roma, now by the Greeks Istampoli, and by the Turks Stambol; seated in the Latitude of 40 Degr. 56. In shape Triangular, commanding the Propontis, Bosphoros, and Euxine Seas; Seated on a Haven so deep and Capacious, that the Turks, for its Excellency, call it the Port of the world. At this day the chief Buildings are the Turks Seraglio, and the Temple or Mosque of St. Sophia, for Beauty and Workmanship exceeding admirable to behold.

The Seraglio is a vast place, inclosed and divided from the rest of the City with a Wall three miles in compass, wherein are stately Groves of Cypresses, intermixed with delightful Gardens, Artificial Fountains, and all varieties of Pleasures which Luxury can effect, or Treasure procure. The principal Beauty of the City is the Scituation of it on the Mountains; Crowned with Magnificent Mosques with gilded Spires, restecting the Sun-beams with a maryellous splendor.

Other Cities of this Province are Andrianopolis, or Hadrianopolis Ptol. formerly Oresta Lampridio. Uscudava, seu Uscudama Ammiano, Andernopolis, & Turcis Endren, teste Bush. a fair large and well-composed City, with fair and stately Mosques, especially one built by Sultan Solyman the Second, a very Magnificent Structure.

Gallipoli, formerly Callipolis, seated near the Hellespont within the Sea of Marmora, the first City that ever the Turks possessed in Europe, Surprized by Solyman, Anno 1358.

Below Gallipoli is the straitest passage of the Hellespont, formerly famous for Xerxes's Bridge, but especially for the two Castles, Sestos and Abidos, noted for the Story of Hero and Leander, now called the Dardanelles, or Old Castles, the new Castles being at the mouth of the Hellespont, and are the Bulwark of Constantinople, as the Castles on the Thracian Bosphorus are on the other side. Galara or Pera, is opposite to Constantinople, where live all the Foreign Ambassadors, Residents and Envoys. Belgrade is 12 or 15 miles Northwards, where are the Sunmer-Houses of the Nobility, and the costly Aquaducts that supply Constantinople.

St. Stephanoes is inhabited most by Christians. At Great Scheemashe are the Seraglio's of the Nobility. Selimbria hath Mosques, a Bazar and Greeck Churches. Heraclea Leunc. Heraclia Soph. Perinthus Plin. & Ptol. its Harbour makes it a Peninsula of four miles in compass; now an Archbishop's See, and its Church the best in Turky: Noted also of old for the Palaces of Vespatian, Domitian and Antoninus, Emperors of Rome; as also for its Amphitheatre cut out of one entire Marble.

Rodeste, Redæstum Plin. Bisanthe Ptol. Rodosto Sophi, 30 miles from Heraclia, seated on the side of an Hill, at the bottom of a Bay, peopled with about 15000 Inhabitants, Christians, Turks and Jews; much frequented, but of little Trade.

Myriophyton by the Greeks, Murston by the Turks, it hath about 200

Houses, about five miles from Rodesto.

Abdera, now Asperosa, was the birth-place of Laughing Democritus. Enos, now Enio & Eno Grec. Ygnos Turcis, a Town of great strength and safety, therefore an honourable Prison. Lysimachia, once of great Impor-

Importance, now Heximily, said to be built out of the Ruins of Phillipoli, from Philip the Father of Alexander.

The Province or Kingdom of Macedonia, was so called from King Macedo, Son of Osiris. Others say it had its name from a Son of Jupiter and Thræ; or as Solinus says from Macedo, a Son or Grandchild of Ducalion, called also Emathia Plin. & Peonia, Emonia Livio. Formerly it contained several Provinces, (the Names whereof are in my Sheet-Map of Greece) and 'tis faid was Inhabited by 150 several Nations. By the Ancients it was divided into four Principal parts, viz. Prima, Secunda, Tertia, Quarta. That towards the West, or the Fourth part, is now called Albania. That part toward the N. E. first and second part, is called Jamboli. That in the middle retains the Name of Macedonia Propria. That towards the South is called Comenolitari, containing part of Macedonia Tertia, and some part of Thessalia. The chief Towns of Albania, or Pars Occidentalis Macedoniæ, are,

1. Dyrachium C.a.f. Cic. Ptol. &c. & Epidamnus Thucyd. Plin. &c. Durazzo & Drazzi Turcis, once memorable for the Valour of Scavo, who alone so long refisted Pompey's Army, that he had 220 Darts sticking in his Shield, yet was Cæsar foiled. It was taken by Bajazet from the Venetians, Anno 1499.

2. Inaccessible and Impregnable Croia, thought by some to be the Epicaria of Ptol. George Castriot, or Scanderbeg, took it by a wile; but Amurath the Fourth lost his Life before it. The Antigonia of Ptol. teste

Of Thessalia.

THE Province of Theffaly was called Amonia & Fyrrhaa; by Strabo. Estiaotis, by Plin. Dryopis, by Diod. Argos Pelasgicum, by Homer. Comenolitari Caft. Thumeneffria Genfrao, Lamina Lazio. But the greatest part is now called Janna teste Brietio. It is a Country no less fruitful than pleasant, famous for the Hill Olympus, visible at a great distance, consisting not of one rising Peak, but extending a great way in length from East to West, remarkable for the Exploits of Paulus Emilus, of Appius, Claudius, and of the Conful Martins; of which, see Sir Walter Ramleigh, lib. 1. cap. 7. For the Mountains of Pelion and Offa. For the Hill Othrys, the Hill Oeta, where Hercules is said to have burned himself with a poisoned Shirt. For the pleasant Valley of Tempe, called the Garden of the Muses. For the Pharsalian Fields, where the Empire of the Roman Universe was disputed in two great Battels; the one between Cafar and Pompey, the other between Brutus and Callius on the one fide, and Anthony and Augustus on the other. Here lived the Mirmadons, over whom Achilles was Captain at the War of Troy. The chief places are, Lariffa, Larizzo Soph. Yennee Sheir, Turcis, an Archbishoprick, inhabited by Christians, Turks and Jews; pleafantly feated upon a rifing ground, on the upper part whereof stands the Palace of the Grand Signior, reputed also for the Town where Achilles was born. 2. Ternovo, a large and pleasant City, about ten miles Westwards of Larissa, where most of the Inhabitants are Christians, there being 18 Churches, and but three Mosques. 3. Dimitriada, De-

metrias of old; by Plin. the same with Pegasa, of great strength by Art and Nature. 4. Pegasa, now Volo, in which the Ship called Argo was said to be built. Armiro, Argos Pelasgicum al. Larissa, the Seat of a Turkish Sangiac. Domichi, the Lamia of Polyb. Cic. Ptol. &c. Homile Ptol. Homolium Plin. Omole Strabo, Homolius Steph. Homolium Liv. a City and M. in Thessay, vide Virgil. lib. 7. Aneidos, now Lamina teste Mol. Lastly, Janna, which gives name to the Country, an Archbishoprick, that hath under it sour Bishopricks, Argiro-Castro, Delvino, Butrinto, and Glykaon. Doliche Ptol. is the Techala of Merc. & Briet. Alchria, Fillano. Trita, or Tricca, once the Bishoprick of Heliodorus, the Author of the Ethiopick History.

Of EPIRUS.

HE Province of Epirus, now Canina, rather Chimera & L. Arta teste Baud. is mountainous and barren, languishing under the Turkish Tyranny. Divided by some into Chaonia Thesprotia, Acarnania & Etolia. But by Brietius into Chaonia, Thesportia. Cassiopæa, Acarnania, Amphilochia, Athamania, Dolopia and Molossia, once a Country very populous, until Paulus Emilius destroyed 70 of their Cities in one day.

Places of most note were Dodona, memorable for the Temple and Oracle of Jupiter, scituate in a fair Grove of Vocal Oaks.

Ambracia Cas. Cic. & Strab. Ampracia Herod. now L'Arta, the Regal Seat of King Pyrrbus, accounted by Hannibal, next to Alexander, the second great Soldier of the World.

Actium near Cape Figula, nigh unto which Augustus and Anthony fought for the Empire of the World.

Nicopolis, now Prevesa, built by Augustus, yielded to the Venetians 1684. where were 200 Turks, who were conducted near to Arta, 44 Pieces of Cannon, 18 of Brass, and 1200 Inhabitants which remained, whereby the Turks have lost 100000 Crowns yearly by the Fishery. And after the taking of Santta Maura by General Morosini, he caused his Troops to make a descent at Dagomestro, who advanced 50 miles into the Country, and ruined the whole Province of Acarnania, and burnt two great Towns, called Uragosi, and Zapandi, and several Villages.

Cassiope, now Joanna, or Joannina, said to be the Metropolis of the Country, which I suppose to be the same with Janna in Thessaly.

Hecatompelon, in the Wars of Cyprus called Supoto, now Chimera.

In this Province is Mount Pindus, facred to Apollo, and the Acroceraunian Mountains, the Rivers Acheron and Cocytus, said to be the Rivers of Hell; and here was Olympias the Mother of Alexander born.

Of ACHAIA.

HE Province of Achaia, once called Hellas & Gracia teste Plinio, Livallia & Rumelia teste Castalde, of old divided into Baotia, Attica, or Hellas, Megaris, Phocis, Locris Ozola, Doris, Atolia, & Opunorum regio. Now by the Turks called Livadia. A Country famous in the Authors of the ancient times, for the Gallantry of its Men, and for the Stateliness of its Structures.

Places of most note in Attica were, 1. Athens, Admes, or Athini, vulgarly called Setines, in Lat. 38 degr. 5 min. A City heretofore adorned with all those Excellencies of strength and beauty which Art or Cost could add unto it; a large rich and stately City, the Nursery of Learning, and the Source of all Arts and Sciences; once called the famous Athens, the City of Theseus, built by Cecrops, and ruled by Kings 550 years, then by Archontes for 600 years; then by the thirty Tyrants, till expelled by Thrasibulus, and by the help of Epaminon lass it obtained the Sovereignty of Greece, and many Isles of the Egaan Sea for 70 years; till it submitted to Philip of Macedon, and Alexander the Great. Afterwards was much destroyed by Sylly; but restored by Adrian the Emperor, and afterwards received various Fates, till it was enslaved by Mahomer the Second 1455. now taken from them by the brave Morisini, 1687.

The Inhabitants are now, according to Esq; Wheeler's Description, 1675. about 10000, three parts Christians, the rest Turks, who permit no Jews to live among them. 'Tis an Archiepiscopal See, and has the Bishops of Salona, Libadia, Granicza, and Thalanta under it. It affords a vast number of Antiquities, viz. the Temple of Victory, by the Turks made a Magazine for Powder: The Arsenal of Lycurgus: Minerva's, or 'arthenion's Temple, Demostheres Lanthorn, the Octogon Tower of the Winds, Theseus's Temple, Adrian's Pillar, the soundation of the Areopagus, the Theatre of Baybus, the Temple of Jupiter Olympius. Lastly, the Aeropolis or Castle on the South of the City, upon a hard Rock, and inaccessible on all sides, save the W. S. W. from this Cittadel is the Hill Museum, and the Mount Anchessaus, now

St. Georgio.

St. Georgio. And S. E. from Athens is Mount Hymetus, now Televouni & Lambrarouni, where is plenty of Bees and Honey. All provisions of Flesh, Fish, Fowl, Corn, Wine and Oyl, are cheap here. Their Merchandizes are Oyl, Turky-Leather, Raw Silks, Pernocochi, Cake, Soap, Honey, Wax, &c.

The Town hath eight Platoma's or Parishes, and about 50 Parish-Churches, 150 Chappels, and feveral Convents.

Its two chief Ports are Portus Pyraus, now called Porto Lione by the Franks, Turcis, Dracona; more South, Port Munichia, now Hagio, & Phalaras Portus, now Port Nicolo.

Other Places in Attica are, 1. Marathon, famous for the Marathonian Bull slain by Theseus, and for the defeat of the Numerous Army of Darius by Miltiades; now a ruined Village.

2. Eleusis or Elusin Cic. & Strab. now Lepsina, buried in its own Rubbish; it lies at the Foot of the M. Kerata, or Gerata. Here was the Temple of Ceres, her Sacrifices called Sacra Eleusinia, and her Mysteries unclean and Devilish, and once the Fortification of the thirty Tyrants of Athens. A mile off West, is the Spring Arbivov, i. e. Floridas, where Ceres sat weary with the search of Proserpina; and North is the Eleusinian Plain, and the Cytheron, now Elitita Mountains.

3. Phyle, now Bigla Castro, or Casha, Wheeler, was the place where Thrasibulus began his Exploit of Expelling the Thirty Tyrants, and delivering his Countrey.

4. Panormus Strab. & Ptol. a Sea-Town, now Porto Raphai Soph. whence the Athenians failed to Delos to carry the Presents to Apollo sent from the Hyperboreans.

5. Brauren, now Urannia, where was the Temple of Diana.

6. Rhamnus, now Taura Castro, or Hebrae Castro, famous for the curious Statue of Nemesis.

7. Palene, now Angelopico, where the Athenians have their Country-Houses.

8 Pentelitus Mons, now Pendeli, where is a Monastry of 100 Caloires on a Mountain of curious Marble, in which are Grotta's incrusted with curious Congelations.

9. Promontorium Sunium, now Cape Colonni, from the white Pillars of Minerva's Temple yet standing; and the Town Sunium, one of the Δελλοι, or Burgels-Towns of the Athenians.

Places in Bavita are, 1. Thebes, Tiva Soph. Stives & Stibes Baud. rather Thiva, Wheeler, in Lat. 28. degr. 22. min. Built by Cadmus, teste Isadore, and fabled to be walled with Amphions Harp. Famous in old time for the Wars of Executes and Policines, Sons of Oedipus. Here lived Pelo-

2. Aulis, now Aulide, is famous for the Grecians Shipping out for the Trojan War.

3. Lebadea, not Lebadia teste Baud. teste Zardo, now Livadio, or Libadia, Wheeler, and gives name to all Achaia.

The Christians have here four Churches, and the Turks five Moschs. Their Trade is in Woollen Stuffs and Rice, and near it is the Trophonian Cave and Grove, where was an Oracle given by Jupiter.

4. Ascræa, the Birth-place of Hesiod.

5. Chærona, that of Plutarch.
6. Granitza, a Bishoprick.

7. Coronæa, the same or near to Dymnia, i. e. two Months, be cause Corn is sowed, ripe and reaped in that time, reste Wheeler. Here were the Coronæi Agri, where the Games Pambriotia were Celebrated.

8. Alalcomene, probably now St. Georgio, where is a Convent, and two Churches.

9. Thespia, now Neocorio, hence Mula Thespiades.

10. Platea, now said to be called Cocla, in whose Plain was Mardonius slain, 160000 Persians, and of the Grecians but 699.

11. Leuctra, betwixt Thespia and Platea, now Parapagia, in whose Plains the Thebans overthrew the Spartans, some of whom had ravished Scedasus Daughters.

12. Thisbæ, now Rimo Castri; it hath now about 100 Cottages of Greeks and Albanefes.

13. Tanagra of old, Graz & Pamandria, now Scamino, its Ruins are large; it hath about 200 Houses, and many Greek Churches; 'tis scituate near Mount Cerycius, on the River Asopus, that divides Attica and Bæotia, over against Oropus.

Its chief Lakes are, 1. The Lake of Livadia, formerly called Copais & Cephifis, about forty miles in compass. The Streams and Torrents that fall into it would drown all Baotia, but for the Subterraneous Channels, the Wonders of Art and Nature, that suck in the water, and convey it into the Egean Sea: These Subterraneous Catabatha, are about fifty in all. 2. The Helica Paulus, now Lake Thives.

Its chief Rivers are Ascpus, now Scamino, and Cephissus River.

Its chief Mountains were, 1. Helicon a Poetis decantissimus, Musis Sacer. by the Inhabitants called Eialia, now Zagara, Wheel. 2. Cithæron Mons, Musis Sacer, now Elatea Mons, teste Wheel.

Chief Places in Etolia are Lepanto, Naupactus Ptol. Neopactus Cic. Naupactum Plin, Lepanti Gallis, Epactos Gracis, Einebrachri Turcis, teste Leone. An Archiepiscopal City, now built from the Sea-shore to the top of a high Conical Mountain, having four Ranges of Walls before the Castle, which is seated on the top of the Mountain. Its Harbour is narrow at its entrance, and shallow; where 'tis faid, the samous Cosair Durack Beg, Basha of Candia resided. In the year 1408. it was subject to the Emperour of Constantinople, but the Emperour Emanuel gave it to the Venetians, who so fortified it, that in the year 1471. it destroyed 20000 Turks, and the Army forced to raise the Siege; but Bajazet the Second with and Army of 150000, attacked it by Sea and Land, and brought it to a most deplorable estate, and took it from them 1499. But in the year 1687. it was retaken by Generalissimo Morosini. The Trade is Leather, Oyl, Tobacco, Rice, Barley, Wheat, Furs, &c. Near this Town was that famous Sea-fight betiwat the Venetians and the Turks, where 29000 Turks were killed, 4000 taken Prisoners, with 140 Gallies, and 1200 Christian Captives redeemed, 1571. At the Entrance of this Gulf of Lepanto, by the Ancients Sinus Crisaus, Sinus Corinthiacus, & Mare Alcyonum, said to be 100 miles in length, are two Castles called also the Dardanelles of Lepanto, not far from the Promontories Rhium & Antirrhium, Caro S. Andrea, Baud. rather C. Antirio.

Other places in £tolia are Calydon with its Forest, where Meleagar slew the wild Boar, now Aiton teste Cyriaco, rather Gallata Wheel. Here the River Evenus, over which the Centaur Nessus carried Hercules Wise Dejaneira, to have ravished her. Also the River Achelous, much sabled by the Poets. The £tolians were a turbulent and unruly

People.

Chief places in Locris are, Amphissa, Lambina teste Nigro, Ansisa Baud. Salona, Wheel. once the chief place of the Locris Ozelorum, seated now on a Rock under a Mountain, that joyns Mount Corax and Parnassus, Musis Saccrapud Poetas, Parnasso Lacura teste Soph. Licoura, Wheel. The Turks have here seven Moschs, and the Greeks six Churches, whose Bishop is under the Arch-bishop of Athens: They Trade with Tobacco and Cottons.

Turchocoreo, thought to be the ancient Lilea, is seated near the River Cephisus in the middle of a Plain between Mount Octa and the Thermopylae, samous for King Leonidas desence; said to be a Town of the Locil Epicnemides, so called from the Mount and Town Cuemides.

Drepanum & Molycrium Strab & Ptol. Trapani Nigro, now Capo di Pra-tras.

Chief places in Phocis are Delphos, or Delphi, Salona Nigro, Castri Soph. & Wheel. once famous for the Oracle of Apollo, who delivered his fayings in Amphiboli's and dark Sentences, whereby he deceived his Devotee's, as Crassus and Pyrrhus; seated it was on the middle of the South side of the Mount Parnassus, where Ducalion and Pyrrhus saved themselves.

2. Daulis, now Dalia, noted for King Terens, who ravished Philomela.

3. Cyrrha Plin. & Liv. Chyrra Ptol. Aspropiti Zardo & Nardo, now Tramochi, Wheeler.

4. Anticyrrha Ptol. Anticyra Paus. famous of old for its Helebore, now in Ruins near to the Aspropiti Sinus.

5. Pythia, the Navil of the World, remarkable for the Assembly of the Amphictiones that condemned the Phocians for Sacriledge.

Chief Places in Megaris are Megara, seated in a Valley towards the Gulph of Engia, once comprehending two Rocks, now but one, having three or four Cottages of Greeks, much insested with Pyrates, famous once for the Megarica of Euclid, and for the Fable of King Nyssa's Purple Hair.

2. Towards the Harbour Minoa is the ruined Fortres Nicæa, and the Dodeca Ecclesia; West are the Scironides Rupes, now Kakiscalia, or Bad Bay; and the ancient Cromium, the Bounds between Attica and Peloponnesus.

Peloponnesus, now Morea, is the most Famous Peninsula in the World; Bounded with the Sea only, where it joineth to Greece by an Ist mus of six miles in breadth; very Memorable for the Fruitless Design of divers Kings and Emperors to cut it through, and to make a persect Island of it; and for the Ist built of Games instituted by Theseus; and for the Wall of-Hexameli built by the Emperor Emanuel 1413. demolished by Amurab the Second 1424; 1463. rebuilt by the Venetians in 15 days, with 136 Towers.

A Country it was once abounding with all things, as well for the Delicacy and Contentment, as Necessary for the Life of man; and for the bigness of it, none in the World hath suffered in the Ruin of so many brave and stately Cities, yet the best Inhabited of all Green, being well Seated with Ports and Havens on all sides of it.

This pleasant part of Greece has not always had the name of Marce, as 'tis now called; Strabo saith that it was once called Argo or Argos, from a famous City of that name within its Confines; and Agialea from Agialus, a famous King of the Syconians. Apollodorus and Pliny call it Apia, from Apis the third King of the Argives, Son of Agialus, and also Pelasgia. Afterwards it had the Name of Pelaponnesus, from Pelops the Son of Tantalus King of Phrygia and Taygeta, now Morea.

As to its Bigness, Authors disagree, Isodore allows it 363 miles in Circuit. Bourdon 563. Porchacchi 573. Bleau, Sacredo, and Vianoli, make it 600. Baudrand 550. Strabo makes the length 1400 Stadia. Sagredo makes it a 170 miles from the Istomus to Modon. Baudrand makes it 150 from Corinth to Tenarium Prom. and from C. Schilli to C.

Tornele 175.

It was by Ptolomy and others divided into eight parts, Achaia Propria, Arcadia, Argia, Corinthia, Elis, Laconia, Messenia and Sicyonia. Pomponia Mela divided it into but six of those parts; he lest out Cerinthia and Sicyonia.

Morry and Baudrand make four Divisions, viz. Ducatus Clarentia, the Dutchy of Clarence, or Chiarenza, which comprehends Achaia Propria, Sicyonia and Corinthia. 2. Belwedera, which contains Elis and Messenia. 3. Saccania, or the lesser Romania, containing the ancient Argia or Argos. 4. Traconia, comprehending Laconia and Arcadia.

Places most Famous are, I. Patras, an Arch-Bishoprick, known to the Romans by the Name of Augusta, Aroo Patrensis, called also Neuparisis by the Turks; now Badra and Balabutra, teste Leune. Memorable for the Death of St. Andrew the Apostle; and now a Town of good Trade in Raw Silks, Leather, Honey, Wax, Wool, Cheese, and Currans. Situate near the Strait which openeth into the Bay of Corinth, now Lepanso, a Strait Fortisted on both sides with two Castles by Bajazet, to secure the Entrance of the Bay; taken by Andrew Doria 1571, Recovered by Solyman the Magnisticent July 1687. abandoned by the Turks, and possessed by the Venetians.

Chiarenza the Cyllene of Plin. Ptol. & Thucy teste Soph. Antravida Nig. But Brictas will have Dyme, olim Stratos & Cauconia, to be Clarenza, once the Capital City of that Dutchy, now some slight Traces of it are all that is visible. Tylas of Strab. Thucy d. &c. Abarinus Ptol. Nelea, Homero, reste Paus. & Coryphasium teste Steph. Navarino Soph. Zonichia Leurst. now Zunchio, or Navarin, 10 miles distant from Coron; is famous for its Port, where 2000 Vessels may ride at Anchor; about five miles long, and three broad, having an Island lying before it; on the right hand it is guarded with a strong Castle called New Naverin; on the other hand stands old Navarin, formerly called Pylus.

Modon, 10 miles from Coron, by the Turks Matum, by Plin. Methone; its Situation by Nature and Art makes it strong, having a safe and commodious Haven, taken first by the Venetians in the year 1124. In the year 1498, it was taken by Bajazet with a great Slaughter. And in the year 1685. retaken by the Venetians.

Coron, once Pedusus Nisi, Lauremb. Epea, Paus: hath a strong and advantagious Situation on the night side of Cape Gallo, the Acrius Prom. of the Ancients taken by Bajazet 1498. Taken again by General Doria 1533, but soon again returned to the Turkish yoke. But in the year 1685, after the defeat of the Turkish Camp, and a vigorous resistance, it was taken by assault, with a dreadful slaughter of all, the Inhabitants, by the Venetians, who found 128 Pieces of Cannon, of which 66 were Brass.

Calamata the Abea Ptol. Thuria & Epea Strab. teste Soph. (but Abea is Chioris, Mol. And the Thurium of Ptol. & Thyrea Plin. is now Cumestra, teste Mol.) The Thalame of Strab. & Paus. Theramne Plin. Therapne Solino & Mela, teste Gemistro. But Niger will have Thalame to be Basilopotamo, or Vasilipotamo; and Mol. will have it Barboliza. It is seated at the boctom of the Bay of Coron, about a mile from the Sea, on the Bank of the River Pamisus of Strabo, Stromio Niger, defended with a strong Casse, with Regular Fortifications, taken by the Venetians 1685. Nigh to which is the Lake Lerna, where Hercules slew the Monster Hydra; as also Mount Tenarus, where was the Cave (called the descent of Hell) out of which he drew the Dog Cerberus; and Næmea was the place where he slew the dreadful Lion. As was also Zarrasa a Fortress much savoured by Nature, but much more by Art, which was delivered up to General Morosini in sight of the Captain Bassa with a numerous and powerful Army, who dared not to attempt its succour.

Chielefa, is a Fortress of great importance for its advantages of Nature and Art, seated upon a steep Rock, a mile and half from the Sea; of a Quadrangular Figure, Flanked with sive great Towers, not far from the place where once Vitulo stood. It surrendred to the Venetians

Passovais a Fortisication seated in the Province of Maina, opposite to Chiefefa, and Port Vitulo, yielded to the Venetians 1685. Without a stroke, and demolished.

As also the Fortress of Maina, built where once stood the ancient Cersapolis, by the Ottomans called Turcotogli Olimienas, by the Greeks Castro di Maina, by the Turks Monige, demolished in the year 1570.

Musterry. Trees, about 25 miles from the Sea, the Mountain Taygetus commands it on the West; once Sparta, then Lacedamon, once one of the most famous of the Grecian Cities, now shrunk to a little Town, scarcely shewing any Remains of its former Glory. Historians do not agree who was its first Founder; some say it was Spartus the Son of King Amiclas, others the Princess, King Lacedamon's Wife, who was called Sparta; some affirm it was Cecrops, and others attribute it to Spartus the Son of Phoronew King of Argos, Contemporary with the Patriarch Jacob, and make it older than Rome 983 years. The Castle is so advantagously seated, that Histories assure us it was never taken. In the year 1687, surrendred to the Venetians.

Malvasia, the Epidaurus, Limera & Monembasia of the Ancients, has a very advantageous Situation in a little Isle on a Rock, washed by the waves of the Archipelagus, yet enjoying several Sources of sweet clear Springs, inaccessible on all sides but one place, which is defended with a thick tripple Wall, and joined to the main Land by a Wooden Bridg, having avery spacious Port, and well defended; yet though its Situation renders it almost invincible, by its ill fortune it hath undergone several Changes: Taken from the Greek Emperors by the French and Venetians, Anno 1204. In the year 1537, it was taken by Solyman, and during the Wars of Candia it was attacked by the Venetians and taken, who demolished the Fort, and left it. There is another Epidauras in Argia, called Esculapia Soph. famous for the Temple of Esculapius. Pi-giada Nigro, Cherronisi Soph.

Napoli di Romania, amongst the Celebrated Cities, once the Glory of Argia; this is now the chief, the Anaphia of Herod. Xenoph. & Strab. Nauplia Ptol. Napli Soph. built by Nauplus King of Euhaa, the Son of Neptune and Amimone, and Father to Palamedes. About two miles in Compass, almost surrounded by the Sea, and defended by a Castle, as the Harbour is by a Fort, built upon a Rock about 300 foot into the Sea, so that both Nature and Art have conspired to render it strong; now an Arch-Bishoprick, and the Residence of the Governour of the Province. Containing 6000 Greeks, besides a great number of other Inhabitants; first taken 1205. by the Venetians, joined with the French; taken soon after by King Giovanissa, who left terrible marks of his rage and sury, by putting the whole Garison to the Sword, and sacking the Town. his rage ing the Army, but in vain; so Solyman also had no more fortunate success, but by agreement obtain'd it from the Republick. These two last places are all that the Turk now hath in the Morea, so that the Venetians are now Masters of all that Country.

Argos, of this Name are three Cities in Greece, viz. 1. Argos Amphilochium in Epirus, now Ansilocha. 2. Argos Pelasgicum in Thessilia, now Armiro. 3. Argos Pelaspennesiacum, once Phoronia, Jassia, Hypobole, Diposa, or Dipsian. Seated on the River Inachus, now Planizza Soph. not far from the Ruins of the Ancient Mycenia; Founded by Inachus in the year of the World 2197. and continued for 546 years under Kings, then a Commonwealth, now only retains the Name of its passed Glory, though seated in a delightful Plain, about 24 miles from the Sea, abounding with Wine and Oyl, and all sorts of Grain, and defended with a Castle seated on a Hill. Here King Pyrrbus was killed with a Tile from the hands of an old Woman.

Trapolizza, Megalopolis Polyb. Strab. & Christianopolis ditta teste Baud. Leondari, or Leontari Sopb. by the Turks called Mora Orta, the Center of the Morea, the chief place in the once famous Arcadia, the Birth-place of Polybus the Historian.

Inhabitants Coranto, and by the Turks Gerame. In the Lat. of 38 degr. 14. m. had its foundation from Aletes, who lived in the time of Cerops 3066. So advantageously seated in the midst of the Isthmus, that some have called it the Eye of Greece, others the Bulwark of the Peloponnesus, and the splender of Greece. This City formerly so rich and Magnificent, is now nothing more than a wretched Remnant of Wars and of Time, and hath preserved nothing more of its pristine. Grandeur than its own Ruins.

The famous Fortress of the Acrocorinthus, the Guard of Corinth, must not be passed by without a particular Remembrance. Built upon the point of a high Rock, and strengthened with a stout Wall very strong both by Art and Nature; yet after the taking of Lepanto, the Serasquier being terrified by the Venetian Forces, had set fire to it, and less it; where the Venetians sound 45 Brass and 4 Iron Guns 1687.

Thus have I as briefly as possible given an Account of the Chief Cities now extant in the Morea, the Stage and Theater of Action in the late Wars.

The chief Mountains in this Peninsua are the Foloe, or Phole Mountain, near which was seated the City of Olympia, famed by the Poets for the Country of the Centaurs shin by Hercules, after his being Victorious over the Nemaan Lion, the Lernan Hydra, and the Eryman than Boar Cylene Mons, at the top whereof are yet to be feen the Remains of the Temple of Mercury.

Lycaus Mons, memorable for the Sacrifice of the Tyrant Aristarchus, made to the publick Rage of the Lacedamonians.

Menalus Mons, for its shady Groves and refreihing Air, Dedicated to Pan.

Mons Sepia, for the Death of Epites, stung by a Serpent.

Montes Poylizi, for Diana's Temple, called also Stympbalides.

Mons Mintia, or Mitena, which gives a Prospect to the Gulph of Coron, where the proud Fanes of Pluto and Proserpina once stood, at the foot of Mount Nonacres, at the foot whereof roul the fatal waves of Styx. Lastly, the Tageta, Sacred to Bacchus, Ceres, Apollo, and Diana.

Chief Rivers are, Alpheus Ptol. &cc. Carbon, or Darbon; vulgo, Orphea, Soph. much famed by the Poets, who tell us also of its Subterraneous passage to its beloved Fountain Arethusa in Sicily.

Eurotas, now Vassalipotamos, Iris Niger, Homerus Plut. it runs by Missalra, and falls into the Gulph of Colchina; in Summer very dry and shallow, but in Winter sometimes overflowing its bounds.

Inachus, now Plannizza, once Cramavor, then Haliacmon, called Inachus from the Son of Oceanus and Theru, whose story is well known.

I must not forget the River Pamysus, Strab. Plin. & Amathus, Panysus Prol. Stromio, Niger, Tifeo, Giovio, which falls into the Gulph of Coron.

All Europe affords not a place comparable to this pleasant Peninsula. Its fruitful Plains flourish with plenty, adorned with the charms of variety. Its high Hills, though thought unpleasant objects for their cragginess, yet endowed with excellent Plants, and delicious Fruits; and its Climate is soft, serene and temperate. Here we may have the Melancholy view of the Imperial Seats of the Corinthians, Lacedomonians, Syconians, Mycenians, Elians, Areadians, Pyleans, and Messenians, now lying buried in their own Ruins.

Of the Islands in the Ægean, Cretan, and Ionian Seas.

HE Islands that are adjacent to Greece, are, 1. Such as are in the Archipelago, or the Egean Sea, which are about 43, and of late years have had 145000 Inhabitants that paid the Herach or Pollmoney to the Turks; few or no Turks live in them, because of the Corfaires: Being Christians they are subject to the Metropolitan of Scio, and are governed by their own Archontes, and admire their own poor Freedom. 2. The Isles of the Cretan Sea, that are the Bar of the Arches.

3. The Islands of the Ionian Sea, now all under the Venetian.

Of the Ægean Isles.

THE chief of these Islands are, 1. Negropont, by the Greeks called Egripes, but formerly Macris, Abantis, and Eubea; it lyes East of Achaia, from which it is said to be once separated by an Earthquake, which made the narrow Strait called Euripus, whose ebbing and flowing is not only feven times a day, but sometimes 11, 12, 13, 14 times in the space of 4 or 5 hours. This Island is Queen of the Agean Sea, as well for fertility as greatness; about a 100 miles in length, and 25 in breadth, and is plentiful in Sheep, Kids and Goats, Fish, Wine and Fruits, and all other provisions. The chief City is Negropont, or Egripos, on a Peninsula near the place where Chalcus stood, a place formerly of great wealth and power, and fince so well fortified, that it cost the Turks A. D. 1471. 40000 men in the taking of it from the Venetians ; there S. Erizzo was murdered; and his beautiful Daughter Signora Anna refusing the splendid Courtship of Mahomet, was hewn in pieces by him. 2. Cariftus, now Carifto, hence Columne Carifta. 3. The Promontory Capberus, now Doro, where Nauplius the Father of Palemedes (having by his false fires in several parts of the Island, ruined and destroyed 200 Gracian Ships, and many thousand men) drowned himself, because Ulysses and Diomedes escaped. The whole Island is now under the Turks.

2. Stalamine, once Lemnos, memorable for the fabulous fall of Vulcan, and for the Entertainment of Fason and the Argonauts by Hypsipyle, Daughter to King Thoas, Son of Bacchus and Ariadne; now noted for a Sove-Sciros, the lurking place of Achilles, as Orielius conceives; others think it to be one of Cyclades, more Southerly. 4. Thassius, now Tasso, 'tis 40 or 50 miles in compass, fruitful in Wine, &c. and Woody. On the North it has a Town situate upon a good Harbour. 5. Samothrace, quasi Samos Thracia, formerly Dardania and Leucosia; it has plenty of Honey and wild Deer, and commodious Harbours, now much insested by Pyrates. 6. Imbrus, now Lembro, ten miles from Samothrace, and about 30 miles in compass, 'tis Mountainous toward the East, and has a well-watered Plain to the West. 7. Alonesus, now Lanio. 8. Scopelius, now Scupelo. 9. Sciathus, now Siatta, of which little memorable.

2. The Gulph of Saron, now Egina, hath these Islands. r. Egina, now Engia, the Country of Eacus, who was fabled to be Judg of Hell, with Radamanthus and Minos It is 18 miles in compass, and has the Town Ægina, that confilts of 800 Dwelling-houses, and from the Castle is a fair Prospect; here the Greeks and Latins have each a Church. Here is plenty of Corn, Cotten, Honey, Wax, Almond, and Carobs, and Redlegged Patridges. Betwixt the Islands Angestri, Metopi, Deuronisa, Monia and it self, is a Harbour where Ships may ride. 2. Cophinidia is S. W. And so is, 2. Calabria, now Porus, 18 miles in compass, now inhabited by Albaneles; here Demost benes was banished, and poysoned himself to avoid the Fury of Antipater. 4. Salamis, now Colouri, 50 miles in compass; it has three Towers. r. Colouri, has now about 400 Perfons. 2. Metropis, 20 Houses. 2. Ambalachi, near this was the ancient City Salamis, near which was the Overthrow of Xerxes his Navy, where 200 of his Ships were lunk, and most of the rest taken by the Athenians, &c. Here also was the Birth-place of Solon, and the Royal Seat of Telamenthe Father of Ajax. 5. Lypsocalalia. 6. Megala Kira, and Micra Kira, two Scoglio's, one formerly called Kara, on which Xerxes fat in a Silver Throne to behold the fight of the Navies. are other small Islands and Scoglio's which I omit for brevity's sake. The Inhabitants of these Islands had a Vayvo'e and a Caddi, but now they are lest to themselves, and pay the Captain Balha 785 Dollars for all Duties.

4 The Cyclades, now the Islands of the Arches; the chief are, 1. D-los, for e ly Ortigia, now S. Deli, because it comprehends the Island Rheneia West. It is now desolate, though formerly noted for the reception ception of Latona, where the was delivered of Apollo and Diana. Apollo had here a Temple, and the circumjacent Islands called Cyclades endowed it, and fent prefents to it. 2. Mycone, or Muxor 9, 4 miles distant East, and 20 miles in Circuit. The Inhabitants are all Pyrates, yet Christians, and have 30 Greek Churches, and a Latin one. The Women are handsome, but not chaste. Here is plenty of Corn and Wine, but little Wood and Water. They are Tributaries to the Turks. 2. Tenos, now Tina, formerly Hydrusa, and Ophiusa, it lyeth high, being a large heap of Marble Rocks, but in many places covered with a fertile Soil. Its chief Town stands in the middle of the Island on a pointed Rock, on the highest part whereof is the Castle, which affordeth a curious Prospectover most part of the Archipelago. Here the Venetian General of the Archipelago resides. 4. Theramnia, Polyagos of old, in most Maps Fermenta; it is much frequented by Paralyticks, Lame, &c. by reason of its many Baths and hot Springs that are very Diaphoretick. 5. Seriphos. by the Greeks Serfo, In most Maps Serphanto, it hath a Town and Harbour on the South-fide, with a Convent of Greek Monks. 6. Paros, or Pario, formerly Pattya and Minoa, famous for its good Air, and excellent Marble; it was dedicated to Bacebus, because Wine is here no more than Twelve-pence a Barrel; under the Marble Mountain is a Grotta with Figures of all forts of Woods, Groves, Trees, Pillars, and rare Poetical Fancies, framed by the falling of Water congealed into Marble, which by Candle light is a most furprizing Workmanship of Na. ture. 7. Siphanto, hath ten Villages, famous for excellent fruit, and beautiful Women. Here is a Monastry in which the Greek Nuns are first initiated. 8. Argentera, from a Mine of Silver, by the Greeks Kipuelo. by Ptolomy and Strabo Kiwonos, it hath some Inhabitants. 9. Mile, 'tis faid to have one of the best Ports of the World, now a refuge for Corsairs. 10. Bello-Pola, or Isola Brugiala, because burnt and blown up not many years fince with Subterraneous fires. 11. Andres, once Cauros and Amandros. 12. Nazos, now Necsia, or Nixia, of old Insula Venerus and Dyonisia, remarkable for the goodness and plenty of its Wines, and for the excellent Marble Ophites. 13. Chia, or Cheos, now Zea, with others of less note.

5. The grandes, from welfe, because scattered in the Sea; the principal are 12 in number, 1. Astrypalea, now Stampalia. 2. Anaphe, now Namsio. 3. Helena, now Macronisa, where Paris enjoyed the fair Helena. 4. Sos, where Homer is said to be butied. 5. Lagusa. 6. Phocusa. 7. Phocassa. 8. Philocandros. 9. Schinusa. 10. Strybia. 11. Thera, the Birthplace of the Poet Callimachus. 12. Gierra, &c.

6. Cythera, now Gerigo, S. of Morea the Birth-place of Venus and Helena. It's ill peopled, of a barren and Mountainous Soil; it has plenty of Sheep, Hares and Fowls, especially Turtles, Venus's beloved Birds. On the South it has a Town, and a good Harbour on the East-Point St. Nicolo. Here was the Temple of Venus, out of which Helena was stolen. On the South are the Scoglio's Ovo and Cerigotto. The rest of the Islands of the Agean Sea we shall refer to the description of Asia Minor.

The Cretan Islands: I. Candia, formerly Hecatompolis, Macronnesus, Idea, Telebinia and Creta. It is feated in the mouth of the Agean Sea, at the Entrance of the Achipelago, in fight of Asia and Africa; so advantageously situated, that Aristotle said it was the only proper Seat of an Universal Empire. It is above 270 miles in length, and about 50 in breadth. It hath been famous for the Wars of the Titans against the Gods; for its excellent Ships and Archers; for the Bull that ravished Europa; for the Amours of Pasiphae and Ariadne; for the cruelty of the Minotaur; for the Government of Saturn; for the Habitation and Sepulchre of Jupiter; for the Laws of Minos and Rhudamanthus; for the Labyrinth of Dædalus; and many other things the Inhabitants boast of: but there is no belief of men that were always accounted Lyers, as Tit. 1. 12. out of Epimenides. Anciently it had an 100 Cities, 40 remaining in the time of Ptolomy. 1. Gnossus, now Cinosus. 2. Cydon, now Canea, Mater Orbium, hence Poma Cydonia, now Adam's Apples. 2. Eleuthera, or Erythrea. 4. Miletum, named 2 Tim. 4. 20, with Act. 27. 7, 8, 6c. and 21. 17. 5. Gortyna, hence Spicula Gortynia, their best Arrows. 6. Di-Etamnum. 7. Ampelus. 8. Minoa, now Allemara. The chief Mountains are, r. Ida, the highest in the Island, now called Psiloriti, from the top whereof may be discerned both Seas. 2. Diete, now Sethia and Lasthi. 2. Leuci, a long Chain of Hills called of late di Madara, la Sphachia, and la Sfacioces. The Rivers are none of them Navigable, but the defect is supplied with good Harbours and Bays. The Mullet Scarus was a great Roman delicacy. Its Commodities are Muscadel Wine, Sugar, Sugar-candy, Hony, Wax, Gum, Olives, Dates, Raisins, but little Corn. This Island was first Governed by Saturn, then by Jupiter, who was Interred at Gnoffos; then succeeded Minos his Son, begotten on Europa; after that the Island was Governed by a Republick; and in the time of Pomper the Great it was subdued by the Romans; then the Emperors of Constantinople were Malters of it; after it was given to Boniface M. of Montferrat, who parted withit to the Venetians Anno Dom. 1204. But the Turks in the year 1669, after a War of 24 years quite expelled the Venetians, and so became Masters of it. This Island is now divided into four Territories. y of On Niolen. the Candia, the Capital City, so strong by Art and Nature, that it was the Bulwark of Christendom, and maintained it selfagainst many long and desperate Sieges of the Turks, before it surrendered to them. Other Islands are, 2. Claude, Act. 27. 16. now Goza. 3. Dia, now Standia. 4. Letoa, now Christina. 5. Ægilia, now Cecerigo. Crete had one Archbishop, and eight Bishops.

The Ionian Islands.

1. Ant, anciently Zacynthus, in North Lat. 36. degr. 30. min. The Town is stretched along the shore, and is very populous, according as the rest of the Island, that has so Towns and Villages, some Springs; it is infested with frequent Earthquakes. The Greek Church is here, as in other places, under the Venetian, much Latinized in their Doctrine, though they hate the Church of Rome. The Latins have here a Bishop, and divers Churches and Convents. The English have a Factory, but no Priest, as in other places, and they feem to the Natives to live without Religion, to die without hope, as they are buried without decency, to the difgrace of our Reformed Church, and the great scandal of them that are without. Here is plenty of Currans, Wine, Oyl, Melons, and other good Fruits. 2. Straphades, two Isles, 50 miles South of Zant; herelive many Greek Monks, well fortified. 3. Cephalonia, formerly Samos, Mælena, and Tcleboe; 'tis 120 miles in Circuit, the greatest Isle in Ulysses Kingdom. Argostoli, a large Port every way Land-lockt, the Residence of the Venetian Proveditor; the chief Town is Cefalona, it affordeth abundance of Currans, Wine, Oyl, &c. Thiaki, four or five miles over-against Port Pescarda, it affords abundance of Currans. c. Ithaca, formerly Dalichium, now Val de Compare, the Birth-place of Ulysses now without Inhabitants, yet it has good Currans. 6. Echinades, five Scoglio's, now called Curzolari at the mouth of the River Achelous; near these were fought the Battels of Attium and Lepanto. 7. St. Mauro, by the Greeks Lucas Leucada, and Nerilos; 'tis separated from Acarnania by a Streight of five Paces over, and three or four foot deep in water; the Castle is strong, called St. Mauro, Delivered up to General Morosini, July 1684. The Port is good, and named Chimeno, and the Island Leucas; 'tis inhabited with Turks and Greeks, most are Pyrates; 'tis thirty or forty miles in Compass, and fruitful P p 2 in Corn, Pasture, Oranges, &c. 8. Corsu, sormerly Coregra, 180 miles in Compass, but for a Rock West, the Town would be almost impregnable; in the Castle East resides the Venetian General by Sea and Land, to whom the other Islands appeal. The Ruined Towns are Cassiopia, now Cassiopo. 2. Chersopolis, now Palaopoli; here are also the Gardens of Alcinous, &c. The Inhabitants are very revengeful; here is plenty of Wine, Oyl, and Fruits, but little Corn. The Greeks have here a Proto-pappa subject to the Bishop of Cephalonia, but the Latins have a Bishop. Thus much for the Gracian Islands in the Egaan, Cretan, and Ionian Seas.

The present State of the Countries, Forts, and other Places, which belong to the Europeans in the West and East Indies.

The state of the s

HERE were at first but two Nations in Europe that Successfully undertook long Voyages by Sea, or who sent Colonies into Distant Climates: The Spaniards toward the West, and the Portugals into the East. These also obtained from Pope Alexander the Sixth, a Donation of all Lands undiscovered; but the other Europeans were not satisfied at the Pope's Liberality; for the English, Dutch, and French, would also have their share; since which time there have been several Changes in those Countries; that Rigor which the Portugal and Spaniard used to exclude all other Nations, serving only to destroy themselves.

The French have first in Canada, Montreal, the Three Rivers, Quebec, Tadousac, and other Places upon the great River of St. Laurence, and upon Sufferance or Incroachment, they pretend to that which we call Nova Scotia, the Island of Cape Bretan. In New-found-Land, they have Bay Plaisance, and Bay Blancho.

2. Among the Islands called Antilles, part of St. Christophers, St. Bartholomews, Santa Cruez, St. Martins, Guadaleupe, La Desirée, Maria Galante, Les Saintes, Martinique, St. Aloisia, Grenada, and the Grenadins, La Tortne, and several Colonies in the Western part of the Spanish Island, otherwise called Santto Domingo. 2. Upon the Southern Continent of America upon the Coast of Guyana, the Island of Cayene, where stands the Fort St. Michael de Ceperoux, now called Fort St. Louis: The Islands of Corou, Coonama, Comoribo, &c. 4. The Trade of the Coast of Africa, upon the Rivers of Senega: where they have a Fort: Also upon the River of Gambia, at Russique near Cape Verd, at great Sestre, at Ardra, and many other places in Guinie. 5. Fort Dauphin, and many other Fortresses in the Island of Madagascar, called by them the Dauphin Island. The Islands of St. Marie, Bourbon, and Diego Rois; The Bereaux, new Surat, and other places in the Mogul's Country. In the Kingdom of Tunquin, at Siam, in the Island of Java, and in other places.

The Spaniards possess the largest and best part of all America, where they have a great number of Cities: 1. In Northern America, New Spain, where are the Parliaments of Mexico, Guadalaira and Guatimala; the Islands of Cuba, Hispaniala, Boriquen, &c. besides St. Austins, and St.

Of the Properties between Gold and Selvei binney or Coin.

in a na abundance of those Meretin and induct he

Oney commonly is the mean for all Commodities: it is the Si-I news and strength of a State, the Life and Soul of Commerce. Geometricians say, That two Lines equal to a third Line, are equal one to another; so is Money a third Line by which all things are made equal in Value, not Materia prima, because it serves actually to no Use, but potentially to all. -

Coin feemeth to come from the French; Coin, a Corner; for the Ancientest fort of Coin was cornered, not round.

The first use of Money was to supply every mans particular wants by a Pledge thereof.

The most Ancient Money was of the purest Gold, because it had greatness of Weight, closeness of Parts, fixation, pliantness, or softness, immunity from Rust, and Beauty or Colour. And the Alchimists, who have most vexed that Body, say, that 'tis harder to destroy Gold, than to make it. Silver is next to it, and is more ductile than any other Metal, except Gold

The purenes and fineness of Money, and the weight, is observable for the intrinsick value thereof. The outward Form or Charaeter of the Prince or State, for the extrinsick knowledge of Money.

The intrinsick value of Money or Coin is so much as there is pure Gold or Silver in it, in finenels and weight. As for Gold, it is divided into 24 parts, called Carrets; so that when 'tis said, Gold is 22 Carrats fine, there is a 24th part of Allay mingled with it. Or if 22 Carrats fine, then there is a 12th part of Allay, &c. The Ancient Standard of Sterling Gold was in Edward the Third's time 23 Carrats 2 grains and one half of fine, and half a grain of Allay. Dr. Chamberlain in his Present State of England saith, 'tis now 22 Carrats of fine Gold, and 2 Carrats of Allay. The Silver is 11 Ounces and two penny weight fine, and 18 penny weight of Allay, which also agrees with what that Author saith 'tis now.

'Tis manifest that the most proper Measure in Nature for Gold and Silver, is weight; and the Practice of Antiquity doth confirm it; for the Shekel, Mina, Talent, and Drachme, both of the Romans and Grecians, were the names of several forts of weight.

The

Of the Proportion between Gold and Silver.

This proportion must needs differ in several times and places, according to the scarcity or abundance of those Metals; and indeed I find much variety amongst Authors, what it was amongst the Hebrews, both as to Times and Interpretations. Bodine alledges the same places to prove, that the Proportions were 25 for one, which other Authors do alledge to prove it to be above 45 for one; and others to for one. Tis the general consent, that in the times of the Florishing of the Grecian Commonwealths, the Proportion of Silver to Gold was 12 to one. And Livy tell us, that the £tolians agreed with the Romans to pay ten Talents of Silver, instead of every Talent of God.

In France in the Year 1614, the Proportion did arise to 13, wanting about a seventh part, to one of Gold!

In Germany in the Year 1610, the Proportion held 13 for one, sometimes a little more, sometimes a little less.

The Proportion in Spain hath for a long time been as 12 to one. In the United Provinces, by the Placcard. 1622. it was about 12, and two thirds fine Silver to one of Gold.

And in England in the 14th Year of Q. Elizabeth, the ancient Sterling Standard of Gold and Silve was altered, and a pound of fine Gold valued at 11 l. of fine Silver, and 7 s. 10 d. over. And in the Second Jacobi, the Proportion was 12 for one, but after raised by Proclamation. The Proportion was 13 l. of fine Silver to 1 l. of fine Gold, at 24 Carrats to the Pound: afterwards I find it at 14 and one third.

The raising of the Price of Money both of Gold and Silver, as it hath been ancient, so it hath been a great Confusion and uncertainty among Coins; for the As, which was Originally coined of a pound weight by the Romans, was in the first Punick War brought to two ounces, and the lesser parts of it were abated proportionably. By Papirius it was reduced to half an Ounce. The Denarii of Silver were at first currant for 10 As, at length reduced to a Drachma, which is 8 in the Ounce, and the lesser parts were abated in proportion. Afterwards it was worth 16 As. And their Solidiaurei were coined of 48 pieces in the pound; and in the time of Justinian they were 72 in the pound. And for some hundreds of Years most Princes and States have vied one upon another who shall raise their Money highest.

But as Money was first invented and chosen to be the Instrument of Exchange and Measure of all things, to avoid the trouble and charge-able Carriage of Commodities from one place to another: So was Exchange of Money also first devised to avoid the danger and adventure thereof from place to place.

By the Exchanges, all Princes Coins are brought into one and the felf-same quality and parity; for the real exchange is grounded upon knowledge of the Part of Value for Value of the Moneys of each several Country according to their several Standards, abating or allowing according to the Value, Weight, and Fineness of the same, and so rectifying both the one and the other in equality and true value.

But though the intrinsick value be the principal Rule by which Exchanges are squared, yet there are many other Circumstances which do vary and alter the Exchange: As the Plenty and Scarcity of money, the Occasions and Necessities of Princes; the Trade and Commerce of Merchants, whose Estates being continually traversed from one Country to another, and from one Coin to another, do give and take as their occasions and the Rules of the Exchanges conduce to their profit. Hence the Bankers in Italy, Spam, and France, being the great Takers and Deliverers of moneys at their several places of meeting, do concur in setting the Rates and Prices of Exchange for their own Commodity and Advantage, which are seen so variously to alter, and daily to rise and fall by those that use this Mystery; so that although I have given the common Estimate of Foreign Coins to the Standard of Landon, as they are commonly valued, yet according to the Rules of Exchange they will be very different.

Of the Roman Coin.

HE General Names for Money among the Romans are three, Moneta, Numus, Pecania.

Moneta, (whence the French Monnoye) because it sheweth the Author, the Value, and the Time.

Numus, or Nummus, faith Vossius, à Numa, or rather of a Greek Original and is roux, from the Law.

Pecunia, Either from the Images of Cattel stamped upon it, or from their skin out of which money was Coined.

The Names of the Brass money among the Romans, were As, quasi As, the twelfth part of a Roman penny, value of our money 3 farthings; Semin, half an As; Triens, I third of an As; Quadrans, I fourth of an As; Sentans, I fixth of an As, \frac{1}{2} of a farthing, &c.

Of Alicant.

Licant, seated on the Mediterranean Shore, is a Commodious Road for Shipping; It affords Wines, Raisins, Licoris, Anniseeds, Hard Soap, Soda Barrilla, and Almonds.

The Coins, are Livres, Solds, and Deniers, 12 Deniers make a Sold; 20 Solds a Livre, which is about 5 d. Sterl. Here are also Rials which they call Currant Money, a single Rial being reckon'd above 6 d. Sterling: the Currant Money is of less worth than Plate from 7 to 16 per Cent. according to the Plenty or Scarcity of Pieces of eight in the Countrey.

The Weights are the Cargo, Quintal, and Rove of 24 l. being 18 Ounces; and the Rove of 36 l. being 12 Ounces: all gross Commodities are weighed by 24 l. to the Rove, and 4 Roves to the Quintal, and 2 Quintals and a half to the Cargo, the Quintal 96 l. because of 18 Ounces to the Pound, make 108 English.

Pepper, Cloves, or Spices, and other Commodities of Value, are fold by the Rove of 36 l. being 12 Ounces to the Pound, whose Quintal is 120 l. which is about 18 or 20 per Cent. less than the English 112 l. Here the Rove or Cantar is a quarter less than at Cadix or Mallaga.

The Measure is the Vare, which makes 35 Inches English and \(\frac{1}{2}\).

The dry Measure is the Hanague, whereof five make 8 Bushel English.

The Wine Measure is the Cantar, which is about two Gallons English.

Note that 12 Barrachilia's is a Chiaze, which is equal with 4 Homimocks of Cadiz or Mallaga.

Salt at a Rial a Measure; you are according to Custom to have one Measure for the Ships use without Money.

Of Amsterdam.

HIS City by reason of its vast Trade to Foreign Parts, affords plenty of all known Commodities in the World; the several Commodities of Europe, the Drugs, Spices and Silks of Asia, the Product of Africa, and the Riches of America.

Rr

Their

Their Money or Coin is often inhansed or debased as they see occasion, but commonly is sound to be the same as in the account at Antwerg. Their Livre or Pound which is 20 s. Flemish, and 120 Stivers, makes a Pound of Gross, and 20 Stivers or Solds Turnois makes a Gilder, which is commonly 2 s. Sterling; and 6 Stivers is a Flemish Shilling, and 5 Stivers is reckoned as much as 6 d. Sterling. Besides these, all Coins of Europe do here pass currant, and are paid and received in Merchandize according to their value. The Duccateons are equal to 10 Dutch Shillings, or 60 Stivers; Patatoons are equal to 48 Stivers, or 8 Dutch Shillings.

Their Weight is the Pound of 16 Ounces, 100 whereof makes their Quintal, which makes at London 108, or 109 l. neat.

Their Measure is the Ell, which is $\frac{1}{4}$ of a Yard English; so that 100 Ells makes at London 74 Yards, or 60 Ells and a half, some say 59 Ells.

Of Antwerp, or Anvers.

THE former and Ancient Trade of this City was as great and eminent as now Amsterdam is.

Commodities here found, are Tapestries, Pictures, several Manufa-

Etures, and other the Commodities of Flanders.

Their Accounts are here kept by Livres, Solds and Deniers; which they term Pound, Shillings, and pence of Groffes; 12 Groffes making a Sold, and 20 Sold a Livre or Pound Flemish.

The Currant Money here, as generally through all the Spanish Provinces, are (besides the Spanish and Imperial) Doits; of which 8 makes a Stiwer, and 6 Stiwers a Shilling Flemish; and 20 Stiwers makes a Gilder, 6 Gilders a Pound Flemish; which is reckon'd for 12 s. Sterling, and 20 s. Sterling for 33 s. 4. d. Flemish; but in Exchange 'tis sometimes more than 36 s. Flemish; for a pound Sterling.

Their Weight is the Quintal of 100 l. of 16 Ounces per l. which makes at London 104. l.

Their Measure is the Ell Flemish, which is one fourth of a Yard English, so that 100 Ells Flemish makes 60 Ells, or 75 Yards English.

Corn is fold by a Measure called the Vertule, whereof 37 and a half makes a Last at Amsterdam, which is 10 Quarters English.

Wine is fold by the Stoop, the Ame, and the Butt; 50 Stoops is one Ame, and 152 Stoops is a Butt: the Stoop makes at London 7 Pints, and the Ame 42 Gallons Wine-measure.

Of Bilboa.

Biboa is a Town of great Trade, and much frequented by Merchants; Seated two mile from the Ocean: Its Commodities are Iron, Chesnuts and Wool.

The Coins are the same as used throughout Spain. Vide Madrid and Sevil.

As to their Weights, they make use of two Kintals, the one being 100 l. Subtile, which produceth at London 111 or 112 l. the other is only proper for Iron, which makes at London 128 l.

Their Measure is the Vare, of which 109 makes 100 Yards English. Corn is sold by the Hanega, 5 whereof makes a Quarter English.

Of Cadiz.

HERE their Weight of Gold is more than in Italy, the Pistol being two Grains heavier. To a Dobleon you must add 4 Grains; to a double Dobleon you must add 6 Grains.

Of Copenhagen.

Openbagen, the Seat of the Danish Kings in Winter; Commodities are Hides, Tallow, Stockfish, Armour, Cordage, Masts, Pitch, Tar, Deals, Wainscot, Buck-skins and Salt-fish.

Coins here currant are the Dollars and Shillings; 66 Shillings makes a Rix-Dollar, which is 5 Shillings Sterling.

They keep the Accompts by Marks of 16 s. Danish: and their Exchanges are made by Rix-Dollars, which is the current Coin of the Kingdom.

Their Weights are the great and small Hundred, viz. one of 120 l. the other of 112 l. which are divided into 12 parts, or Stones, at 10 l. per Stone.

They have also a Skip pound, which makes 32 Stone at 10 l. per Stone, which is 320 l. or 20 Lis-pounds of 16 pound mark, is a Skip-pound. And the 100 l. English is found to be 92 at Copenhagen.

Their Measures I find no where certain; the best that I can six upon is, that 100 Yards English makes about 163 Ells there.

Of Constantinople.

Constantinople is the Seat and Residence of the Great Turk, enjoying the Advantages of the Euxine and Mediterranean Seas; of which it observed, That the first Emperor that Commanded it, was a Baldwin, and a Baldwin that lost it. That a Constantine built it, a Gregory being Patriarch; and a Constantine lost it, a Gregory being Patriarch: And it was gained by Mahomet, and a Mahomet (according to the Turks Prophecy) shall lose it.

The Commodities are Grograins, Camlets, Mohair, Carpets, An-niseeds, Cottons, Galls, &c.

The Coins currant are Aspers, 80 whereof is accounted a Dollar, and 120 Aspers to the Sultanies of Gold: a Rial of 8 and a half is a Sultanie of Gold. The Lion Dollar at 75 Aspers. The German Sestine at 70 Aspers. The Rial of 8 for 80 Aspers. Sometimes the Sultanie, Hungar, or Chequin, is worth 10, 12, or 15 Aspers more than 80. And in Merchandize it doth pass for 90, 100, or 110 Aspers.

Thevenot tells us, that the Aspers are little pieces of Silver stampt with the Grand Signior's Name, and are worth about 8 Deniers, or 3 Farthings a-peice. The Holette is worth 55 Aspers. The Assaues, or German Rix Dollar, is worth 18 Aspers. The Piastre, or Piecede of 58 Sols, is commonly worth 90 Aspers, sometimes but 80. And then the Assaue is worth but 75 Aspers. The Turkish Chequin is worth 2 Piasters. The Venetian is worth 10 Aspers more. And that a Purse contains 500 Piasters, or 45000 Aspers.

The Canter, which is 150 Rottes, the Rotte is 12 Ounces, the Ounce 12 Drachms, the Drachm is 16 Quirats, the Quirat is 4 Grains. The Oque contains 400 Drachms, 176 Drachms is a Lodero, and 100 Loderoes is accounted to be 42 Oques, and called a Quintar, or Cantar, which is 120 l. English.

Silk is fold by the Baleman, which is fix Oaks, or 16 l. and one third English; but weighed by the Lodero, 13 Loderoes, and 112 Drachms makes a Baleman.

The Mitigal, or Midical, is 1 Drachm and a half, which is 24 Killats, 20 Mitigals of Gold is 3 Ounces English. The Chequin, Sultanie, or Hungar, is 18 Killats.

The Measure is the Picos, one of Cloth, 4 of which makes three Yards English, and is about 26 Inches and a half.

The Second is the Grogram or Chamlet Pico, containing 24 Inches, 24 whereof makes 16 Yards English.

Corn

Corn is fold by the Killow, and weigheth about 20 Oaks; and eight Killows and two thirds is a London Quarter.

Wine and Oyl is fold by the Meter, which makes 8 Oaks, and is about two thirds of a Gallon English.

Of Cracovia.

CRacovia, the the Metropolitan City of Poland, yet of small account in Trade.

Its Coins are the Gold Ducat, of the same value of the Hungarian Ducat. Groszes, Orts, and Rix-dollars. 18 Grosz make an Ort, 30 Grosz make a Gilder or Florin, 6 Gilders make a Ducat, 5 Orts of 18 Grosz makes a Rix-dollar, and 4 Orts of 22 and a half Grosz makes a Rix-dollar, which in Specie is worth 40 Polish Grosz, but in Buying and Selling it is accounted 36 Grosz. They make Contracts by Silver Gilders or Florins, but no such real Coin.

The common weight is the pound, 136 whereof is accounted a Quintar, which makes in London 114 pounds circa; and the 100 pound of London hath yielded here about 120 pound.

The Measure of Length is the Ell, which is half of the English Ell, but their Linnens are fold by the Shock, which contains 57 Ells and a half English.

Of Dantzick.

Antzick, Seated about an English Mile from the Baltick Shore, on the River Vistula; the fairest City, and greatest Trade of any in Prussia. Her Commodities are Wheat, Rye, Oats, Pot-ashes, Clapboards, Flax, Hemp, and Canvas.

Their Coins are Dollars, Gilders, Grofz, and Pence. The Rix-dollar is worth 90 Grofz, which is commonly valued at 4 s. 6 d. Sterling. A Gilder is worth 30 Grofz, and 18 of their Pence makes a Grofz. So that a Gilder is about 1 s. 6 d. Sterling.

They keep their Accounts by Gilders, Grofz, and Pence. And they reckon one great Mark is 2 Polish Gilders, and one Tolish Gilder is worth two lesser Marks, one lesser Mark is worth 15 Grofz, and the Grofz is 18 Pence. And a Grofz is worth 23 of a Farthing Steeling.

Their Weight is the Pound, whereof 1161 at London makes 1001. There is also the Skip-pound, and the Lis pound, 160r 14 Mark-pound

Their Measure for Length is the Ell, 100 Ells whereof makes in London about 49 Ells.

The Measure of Beer is the Fat, which contains 180 Stoops.

The Measure of Corn is the Last, which contains 60 Sheffels, 56 whereof makes a Last in Amsterdam, or 10 Quarters and a half English. And 4 Sheffels make one Mud, which is the Ship-pound of 34 l.

Of Florence.

Florence is Seated on a Fruitful and Pleasant Plain, near the Confluence of the River Arno and Chiani, first built by Sylla, made a Colony by the Triumviri; razed by the Lombards; Rebuilt by Charles the Great; bought its Liberty of Rodolphus; and lastly, Subject to the Medices, now Dukes of Florence.

The Commodities that this City produceth, are the product of the Dukedom, viz. Wines, Oyls, Silks both raw and wrought into feveral Fabricks, as Taffaties, Sattins, Velvets, Plushes, and Grograms.

The Coins here currant are Ducats of 7 Livres per Ducat, which is reckoned for 5 s. 3 d Sterling. The Livre is 20 Solds, which is valued 9 a. Sterling. The Livre is also divided into 12 Craches, whereof 8 is a Julio, which is 6 d. Sterling; 5 Quatrins is a Crach, and 60 Craches makes a Livre.

They keep their Accounts generally in Livres, Solds, and Deniers, 12 Deniers to a Sold, and 20 Solds to a Livre.

The Weight is the Quintal, or 100 l. of 12 Ounces to the Pound, which 100 makes at London 78 l.

In the time of Richard the First, pure Money was Coined in the East of Germany, whereof some of those Easterlings were sent over for. and employed in his Mint; from thence our Money was called Easterling, or Sterling Money, as some think; but others say, of the Saxon word Ster, weighty.

The Coins here, and throughout all England, as well Gold as Sillver. are several, and of a different value, but all reduced to Pounds, Shillings, and Pence; all Coined of Gold and Silver; only in relation to the Necessity of the Poor, and Exchange of great Money, a small piece of Brass, called a Farthing, or fourth part of a Penny, hath been permitted to be Coined, but no man enforced to receive it in pay for Rent or Debt, which cannot be faid of any other State or Nation in the world besides. Four Farthings make a Penny, 12 Pence a Shilling, and 20 Shillings a Pound Sterling.

No Monies in any Mint are made of pure Gold and Silver, because they are too flexible, and therefore allayed with Copper. The Standard of Crown Gold is 22 Carrats of fine Gold, and two Carrats of Allay in the Pound weight Troy, which is divided into 44 parts and a half, each part is to pass for 20 s. and the half part for 10, which is 44 l. 10 s. the Pound Troy. The Allay of some Gold Coins is all Silver, as the Guinea Gold, which renders the Gold Coins some more white, some more yellow. The Standard of Sterling Silver is 11 Ounces and 2 penny-weight of fine Silver, and 18 penny-weight of Allay of Copper out of the fire; fo that 12 Ounces of pure Silver without any Allay, is worth 3 l. 4 s. 6 d. and an Ounce is worth 5 s. 4 d. halfpenny, but with Allay it is worth but 3 % and the Cunce 5 s.

Of Weights there are two forts used throughout all England, viz.

Troy Weight, and Avoirdupoise Weight.

Pound Troy 12 Ounces. The Ounce 20 Penny weight. Penny weight 24 Grains. The Many ers divide the Grain into < 20 Mites. Mite 24 Droites. 20 Perits. Droite Peric 24 Blanks.

'Tis also divided into 24 parts, which are called Carrats, so that each Carrat is 10 penny weight Troy, or half an Ounce. And this Carrar is divided into four parts, which are called Carrat-grains; fo that the Carrat-grain is two penny weight and a half, or 60 ordinary Grains: fo there are 480 Grains in the Ounce, and 5760 Grains in the Pound. By this weight are weighed Pearls, precious Stones, Gold, Silver, Bread, and all manner of Corn and Grain, and this weight the Apothecaries do or ought to use, tho by other Denominations, their least weight is a Grain, Avoirdupoise Weight is reduced into several Denominations, viz. Tuns, Hundreds, Quarters, Pounds, and Ounces; so that

By this weight are weighed all Grocers Ware, Flesh, Butter, Cheese, Iron, Hemp, Flax, Lead, Steel; also all things whereof comes waste. All Measures in England are either Applicative, or Receptive. The smallest Applicative Measure is a Barley Corn, whereof,

3 In Length 12 Inches 13 Foot 1 Yard and a quarter 1 Foot and a half 2 Cubits	an Inch. a Foot. a Yard. an Ell. a Cubit. a Yard.
Foot Foot Foot and a half Perch Furl. or 320 Perches	a Geometrical Pace. a Fathom. a Perch, Pole, or Rod. a Furlong. a Mile English.

So that a Mile, according to the Statute of Henry the Seventh, ought to be 63360 Inches, 1760 Yards, 1056 Paces, 320 Pole, or 5280 Foot, that is, 280 Foot more than the Italian Mile; 60 Miles more exactly, 69 and a half, makes a Degree, and 360 Degrees, or 25020 Miles compass the whole Globe of the Earth.

Receptive Measures are two-fold: First of Liquid or moist things: Secondly, of dry things, whereof about a Pound Avoirdupoise make a Pint.

Confishing of 1728 Pints or Pounds; and a Barrel of Butter or Soap is the same with a Barrel of Ale. The English Wine-measures are smaller than those of Beer or Ale, and hold proportion as four to five; so that four Gallons of Beer-measure are five Cilons of Wine-measure, and each Gallon of Wine is eight Pound Troy weight; fo that a Roundlet of Wine holds eighteen Gallons, half a Hogshead thirty one Gallons and a half, a Tierce of Wine holds forty two Gallons, a Hogshead fixty three Gallons, a Punchion eighty four Gallons, a Pipe or Butt a hundred twenty fix, and a Tun two hundred fifty two Gallons, or two thousand and fixteen Pints.

Dry Measures are those in which any kind of Dry Goods are measured, as Corn, Coal, Salt, &c. of which there is the Pint: two Pints make a Quart, two Quarts a Pottle, two Pottles a Gallon, two Gallons a Peck, four Pecks a Bushel, four Bushels a Comb or Curnock, two Combs à Quarter, four Quarters a Caldron, five Quarters a Weigh, ten Quarters a Last or Weigh, which contains 5120 Pints; where note, that the Corn Gallon is bigger than the Wine Gallon, and less than the Ale or Beer Gallon, and is in proportion to them as 33 to 28 and 35, and is counted 8 pounds Troy weight.

Of Malaga.

Alaga, Seated on the Mediterranean, abounds in Raisins and Wine. Their Moneys are general with all Spain.

They generally keep their Accompts in Beillon or Brass money, by Rials, Ducats and Mervedes. 34 Mervedes make a Rial of Beillon, which according to the Law of the Kingdom should be worth 50 in the Hundred less then a Rial of Plate or Silver, upon the accompt 100000 Mervedes are worth about 61 l. English. But because the Silver Coin in Spain is now Cent. per Cent. better than the Money of Beillon, which is most part of Copper, 100000 Marvedes is worth but half of that Money: So that Beillon is not intrinsecally worth so much as the Prince puts upon it.

Wine is fold by a Measure called the Amphora which is 4 Bigorza's; the Bigorza is 4 Quarts, the Quart 4 Sachies, the Sachie 4 Lera's.

Oyl is fold as well by weight as measure, the measure is called the Miro, which makes by measure 25 1. and by weight 30 1. 2 Ounces.

Of the Coins, Weights and Measures of the Chief Cities in Asia.

Of Arabia.

HE Money of Arabia-is called Larins, and are in value as one of the French Crowns, only they want in weight 8 Sous of the French Crown, or Rial of Spain, which is about 14 per Cent. loss. These Larins are the Ancient Coins of Asia, but only current in Arabia, and at Balfera, and along the Persian Gulf, where they take 80 Larins for one Toman, which is 50 Abassis. Another Author I find, that faith, that all the Coins throughout all Arabia, especially Arabia Falix, are the same, or at least do correspond with those under the Grand Signior's Dominions. In other places, viz. the Asper, 60 whereof (or rather 80) makes a Rial of 8 Spanish, or a Dollar; also 100 Aspers are reckoned for a Sultanie, Chequin, Zechin, or Sheriff, which are the common Gold Coins, and held to be about 8 s. Ster.

That their Weights are also much the same with those of Turkey, viz. the Drachm, of which 10 makes an Ounce, and 14 Ounces a Rotello, 24 Rotello's is a Fracello, which is 25 l. 12 Ounces English, 15 Fracello's is a Cantar, or as'tis called at Aden, a Babar, making about 286 l. English.

Their Measure is also Turkish, viz. the Pico, esteemed to be 26 Inches and a half English.

Of the Chief Cities in Turkey, &c.

Of Aleppo.

A Leppo is the most Famous City of all the Grand Signior's Dominions, and is seared about 100 English miles from Alexandretta or Scandaroon, which is the Sea-port and Road for all Ships to lade or unlade their Goods, which are transported by Camels to Aleppo.

Commodities are Silks, Chamlets, Galnuts, Valaneed, which is a fort of Acorn-shell (which the Curriers use to dress their Leather)

Cotten, Yarn, Mohairs, Soap, Drugs of all forts, Galls, &c.

Coins of the Country are Shehees, of which 16 make a Piece of Eight, and 14 of them a Lyon Dollar. The Sultanie, which is two Doll irs or Pieces of Eight, which is 80 Aspers, the Lyon Dollar is 70 Aspers.

Thevenot says, That at Aleppo the Piaster of Rials is worth 80 Aspers. The Boguelle 70. The Schaied 5 Aspers, and 16 Schaieds for a Piaster, and 14 for a Boguelle.

The Weights are the Drachm, and the Rottulo, which differs in Drachms according to the Commodities.

The Rottulo is 41. 13 Ounces, that is 720 Drachms.

The Rottulo for the Persian or Ledg-silkis 680 Drachms, 72¹/₄ Ounces.

The Balladine Rottulo is 720 Drachms, 74¹/₄ Ounces. The Aleppo Rottle Thev.

The Tripoil Silk Rottulo is the same.

The Castravan Silk Rottulo is 600 Drachms, 4 l. English, and 5 l. Marseilles.

The Aleppo Wells is 120 Drachms, 13 Ounces English.

The Cyprus Cotten Kintal of 100 Rottulo's 506 l. English.

The Kintal of 100 Rottulo's is 625 l. Levorne.

The Oque contains 400 Drachms.

Others tell us, a Kintal of 100 Rottulo's is 4301. English, called a Cantar.

A Wesno of Silver is 100 Drachms, and there is a Wesno of 3600 Drachms, 60 Drachms to one Ounce, and 10 Ounces to the Rottello, which is about 4 l. 14 Ounces Aveirdupoise; so that 112 l. Averdupoise is 22 Rottello's 8 Ounces; and 100 Rottello's is a Cantar, which is 481 l. Avoirdupoise.

Of Alexandria.

A Kintal is 103 l. English. A 100 Rottulo's is 101 per Merseilles. 330 Rottulo's is a Sciba, which is 120 l. Livorne.

Of Bagdat.

Hevenot tells us, that the Patman makes three Rottuloes of Aleppo, or 6 Oques and 3 Ounces. That the Abassi is worth there two Chair and 1. The Piaster Rial is worth 8 Chair, and each Chair 5 Paras, and the Para is 4 Aspers. The Boquelle is worth 7 Chair. The Turkish Chequin is worth 18, the Venetian 19 Chair.

Of Smyrna.

Myrna Weight, 180 Drachms is a Rottello.
100 Rottello's is a Kintal of 45 Oaks, and is 119 l. English.

44 Oaks is a Kintal.

2400 Drachms, or 6 Oaks is a Battman.

400 Drachms is an Oak, which is 2 l. 11 Ounces, Avoir. English.

800 Drachms is a Chique.

250 Drachms is an Oak Opium.

120 Drachms is an Oak of Saffron.

146 Drachms is a Pound English.

To reduce Rottulo's into Oaks, multiply by 9, and take the half thereof, cutting off the Last Figure, and multiply that by 20. To bring Oaks into Rottello's per Cent. that is, multiply by 20, and divide by 9.

To bring Rottello's into Battmans, multiply by 3, cut off the last figure, and divide by 4, adding the remainder to the figure cut off, which mult. by 60.

To bring Battman's into Rot. mult. by 40, and divide by 3.

To reduce Battmans into Kintals, mult. by 2, and divide by 15.

To bring Kintals into Battmans, multiply by 15, then take the half;

The Custom paid by the English is 3 per Cent. as generally throughout all Turkey.

The Coins current of Smyrna are the same with Constantinople, and they keep their Accompts in the same nature, and therefore I shall refer you thither.

The Weights of Smyrna and Scio are the same, viz. the Drachm, of which 180 makes a Rottello, 100 Rottello's makes a Quintal, which is 45 Oaks, and is 119 l. English; 400 Drachms also make an Oak, which is 2 l. 11 Ounces and a half Avoirdupoise English.

I find the Ephab is stated at 52 l. which reduced into English Measure makes six Gallons one Pottle and half a Pint, and 10 Ephahs made one Omer; the Omer was 1 Pottle 1 Pint 3 Ounces, and 10 Omers made 1 Ephab.

Liquid Measure.

Their Liquid Measures were the Log, Hin, and Bath; The Bath is ordinarily reckoned of like quantity with the Ephah, more exactly it is 52 Pints and a half, or by others 6 Gallons one Pottle and a half.

The Hin is one Gallon and three quarters of a Pint, which is the 6th. part of _ Bath.

The Log is the one 12 of the Hin, that is 3 of a Pint, and 3 of an Ounce, that is 3 quarters of a Pint, wanting but the 3 part of an Ounce; fo that the 3 part of a Hin is almost one quarter of a Pint.

· Of the Coins, &c. of Persia.

THE Commodities of Persia are Gold, Silver, Raw Silk in great abundance, some Drugs and Spices, Wine-fruits, several Manufactories, viz. Carpets, Arras-work, Hangings, Cloath of Gold and Silver, and fine Cotten-Cloths.

The Coins in Persia are Real and Nominal; Real Coins are Bistis Shaxet's, Mamoudis and Abassis; a Bisti is a tenth of an Abassi, a Shaxet is a fourth of an Abassi, and the Abassi is valued at 16 d. Sterling, or 18 Sous 6 Deniers. The Nominal Coins are Larins, Ors, and Tomond: a I arin is 2 Shaxes \frac{1}{2}, and 18 Larins to a Tomond in Commerce at Gamron, but in no other place; an Or is accounted for five Abassis, 6 s. 11 d. English, and a Tomond for ten Ors or sifty Abassis, which is in value 3 l. 9 s. English. Rix Dollars and Pieces of Eight pass for 14 Shaxets, or 3 Abassis \frac{1}{2} per Piece.

Thevenot tells us, That the Piasters are commonly worth 13 Shais if full weight; 13 \(\frac{1}{2}\) a Bisti. The Bisti consists of 4 Casheghis, of which to makes a Schais. The most currant Money are the Abassi's, Mamoudis, Schais and Cashaghis; the Abassi is of the value of 4 Schais, which is about 18 Sols French The Mamoudi contains two Schais, which is about 9 Sols, the Scai about 4 Sols \(\frac{1}{2}\), and the Casheghi 5 Deniers \(\frac{1}{2}\). The Tomond is worth 15 Piasters, or 50 Abassi's; the Bovello is worth three

The Maund Surrat contains two and a half of the other, and is used for gross Goods, especially at Gombrou.

The Load, or Cargo, which contains thirty fix Maundshaws, makes about 486 l. Avordupois.

The Mittigal for Gold, &c. whereof fix and a half makes an Ounce Venice.

The Rattee for Diamonds, Pearls, &c. wherein are twenty Vals, and twenty three Vals makes an English Carrack.

Their Measures are two, called Cavedoes, the greatest is an Inch longer than the English Yard, and the lesser is three quarters of the other, agreeable to the Pico of Turky.

Tavernier faith, Their Wine, as all other things, are fold by weight, and not by measure; and that in the Year 1666, the whole account of Wines made at Sciras amounted to 200025 Mens, the only weight for Wines, containing nine pound French at fixteen Ounces to the pound, or 4125 Tuns at 300 Pints to the Tun.

Of the Coins, &c. under the Dominion of the Great Mogul.

THE Commodities in Surrat, Cambaia, Amadabat, and generally throughout the Mogul's Country, are Precious Stones, Agats, Jasper, several Drugs, Civet, Sugar-Candy, Indico, Lacque, Saltpetre, Musk, Borags, Ogium, Myraboles, Ginger, Sal-Armoniac, Amber and Rice; all sorts of Cottens, Callicoes of all sorts, Carpets and Coverlets of Leather, artificially wrought with Silk of all Colours, Sattins, Tassaties, Velvets, several Manusactories of Wood carved and imbellished, as Desks, Chests, Boxes, Standishes, &c... Coins. The Roupy of Gold weighs two Drachms and a half and eleven Grains, and is valued in the Country at source Roupies of Silver, and the Roupy of Silver is reckoned at thirty Sous; so that a Roupy of Gold comes to twenty one Livres of France, the half Roupy comes to ten Livres ten Sous, and the quarter Roupy to sive Livres sive

Their Weights are various. As for Gold, Silver, Civet, Musks, Bezarstones, &c. they have the Weight called the Toll, which is 12 Masses, and is seven penny sixteen grains Troy weight English; nine

Thevenot tells us, That at Surrat there are divers Heads of Weights and Measures, but the most common Weight used in Trade is the Man, which contains 40 Serres or Pounds, and the Pound of Surrat contains sourteen Ounces, or thirty five Toles. That all Gold and Silver is weighed by the Tole, which contains forty Mangelia, which makes fifty six of our Caracts, or thirty two Vales. A Vale is 3 Gongys. That two Toless 12 makes one Ounce of Paris weight.

The Man makes 40 pound weight all the Indies over; but the Pounds or Serres vary. The Pounds of Surras are greater than those of Galconda; and the Pound at Agra is double to that at Surras, viz. 28

Ounces or Serres.

The Silver Roupie is as big as an Abassi of Persia, it weighs a Tole, and commonly passes for thirty French Sols, but is not worth above 29 or 31 Pechas 1, sometimes 32 1. The Pecha is worth something more than 10 French Deniers; and 68 Badan or bitter Almonds for a Pecha.

For Silk there is the Pice, which is five Mittigals and a half, or two Tole s.

The common Weight for other Commodities is the Sear, which is various in feveral parts; the Sear at Agra is twofold, the one is twenty six Pices, which is 26 \(\frac{2}{3}\) Ounces, the other is thirty Pices, which is 22 Ounces Avoirdupoise.

The Sear of Surrat is eighteen Pices, which is 13\frac{1}{4} Ounces Avoirdupoise: Tavernier saith, 'tis \frac{1}{4} of a Pound, and the Pound is of sixteen Ounces.

There is also the hundred Weights called Maunds; forty Sears make a Maund of thirty three pound English, and forty Sear makes a small Maund of fifty four Pound & of English. Tavernier saith, The Man is 69 Pound at 16 Ounces to the Found; but the Man which they weigh their Indico withal, is but 53 Found.

Their Measures are called the Covado or Cobit, the shorter is used for Silk and Linnen, and is 27 Inches English; the other Covado is different in several places, viz. at Surrat, Camboja, &c. it is thirty sive Inches, but in Agra, Delis, &c. it is thirty two Inches.

All Grains and Liquid Commodities are fold by weight, there being no Concave Measure in any of the Mogul's Territories.

Of Pegu and Arackan.

HE King of Pega's Silver Coin weighs two Drachims and a half and twelve Grains, and makes about twenty Sous fix Deniers. And his Fano's or little pieces of Gold weigh feven Grains, fifteen of which passes in value for a Real or French Crown.

The King of Arackan's Money weighs two Drachms and a half and fifteen Grains, and makes twenty one Sous: He Coins no Gold, but Trafficks in Gold uncoined; the Metal is not worth above fourteen Carats, one Carat being the third part of an Ounce.

Of the Money which the English Coin in the Indies.

THE Money which the English Coin at the Fort of St. George upon the Coast of Cormandel, they call Pagods (as those of the Kings and Raja's of the Country are called) are of the same weight for goodness, and pass at the same value, which is about the weight of the French half Pistol; but the Gold is of baser Metal, so that an Ounce is not worth above forty two or forty three Livres, and not going for more than 4 Roupies. And at the samous Port of Bombay, the English have built a strong Fort, and Coin both Silver, Copper, and Tin, but that Money only passeth among the English, and the Villages along the Coast for two or three Leagues about, as 'tis reported.

Of the Money in Sumatra.

HE Money of Gold coined by the King of Achen, is better than the French Louis in goodness, an Ounce being well worth 50 Franks; it weigheth ten Grains, and is worth 16 Sous and 8 Deniers of French Money: Another Author faith, that the Coins here are the Catte, which is 8 Tayle, or 6 pound 8 Shillings Sterling. A Tayle is 16 Masses, or 16 Shillings Sterling; and a Massis 4 Cupany, which is twelve pence Sterling.

Their Weight is the Babar, which is 200 Cattes, a Catte is 29 Oun-

if we consider the Advantages which the Author of Nature hath given it; or the memorable Actions which have passed in it; That the first Monarchies and Religions have here had their rise: That the chief Mysteries both of the Old and New Law, were here laid open: That from hence all Nations of the World, and all Arts

Arts and Sciences, had their first beginning: We may justly prefer it before the other parts of the World.

It is seated in the Oriental parts of our Continent, and most part in the temperate Zone, what it bath under the Torriel, being either Peningula on Isles, which the Waters and Sea do much refresh.

It extends from Smirna in the West, to the sarthest part of Tartaria near Jossia in the East, four thousand and eight hundred Miles; and from the lowermost point of Malacca in the South, to the Streights of Weigats in the North, it makes four thousand and two hundred Miles of fixty to a degree. In this length and breadth we do not comprehend the Islands which belong to Asia; which are as great, as rich, and possibly as numerous, as in other parts of the Universe.

Whether it took its Name from Asia the Daughter of Oceanus and Thetis, Wise of Japetus, and Mother of Prometheus; or from Asias the Son of Asia, a King of Lydia; or from Asias the Philosopher, who gave the Palladium to the Trojans; or from the Phanecian word Asia, signifying Medium; these Originations to me are uncertain; most certain it is, that this Name was first known to the Greeks on that Coast opposite to them, after it was given to that part of the Country extending to the Euphrates, called Asia minor, and at last was communicated to all that Oriental Continent.

Many are the Religions there followed; but the Jews, Mahumetans and Idolaters, far exceed the Christians in number. I dolatry began in the time of the Affyrians; Judaism among the Hebrews; Christianism in the Holy Land, but first so called at Antioch; and Mahumetanism in Arabia.

Mahumetanism is received by the four principal Nations of Asia; the Turks, Arabians, Persians and Tartars. The Turks give the most liberty, the Arabs are most superstitious, the Persians are most rational, and the Tartars are most simple. Some have made seventy and two Sects among them, which may be reduced to two: That which the Turks follow, according to the Doctrine of Omar; and that which the Persians follow, according to Haly's Instructions: These have their Patriarch at Ispahan, the Turks theirs at Bagdat. The Greeks have also their Patriarchs here, known under the titles of Antioch and ferusalem. There are also other Christians, as facobites, who have their Patriarch at Caramit, otherwise called Amida; the Nestorians, the Cophites, the Georgians, the Armenians, and the Maronites. The Two latter have two Patriarchs, the one, at the Monastery of the Three Churches near Erivan in Armenia, the other at Canobin in Mount Libanus.

Asia towards the West is separated from Africa by the Red Sea, and by the Istbinus of Sues. It is divided from Europe by several Seas and Straights already mention'd in the Description of Europe. Toward the other Regions of the World, Asia is environed by the Tartarian, Chinean, Indian, Persian and Arabian Seas.

The principal Seas within the Country, are the Caspian, the Euxine, and the Persian Sea. The Dead Sea is very small in respect of the rest, yes it is famous for being in the Holy Land.

The principal Rivers of Asia, are Euphrates, Tigris, Indus, Ganges, Croceus, Kiang, and Obi.

Caucasus and Taurus, so celebrated by the Ancients, are the highest Mountains; but several Countries give them several other Names.

We find that the Air of Asia is almost every-where temperate. And if we consider her Gold, or Silver, her Precious Stones, her Drugs, her Spices, her Silks, we may aver it to be the richest, as well as the most noble part of the World. Among other of her Products, we most esteem the Diamonds of Narsingue, the Pepper and Ginger of Malabar, the Silks of Bengale, the Rubies and Lack of Pegu, the Porcelane of Chinas, the Cinamon of Ceylon, the Gold of Surat, the Camphire of Borneo, the Cloves of the Molocca's, the Nutmegs of Banda, and the Sandal of Timor.

Of the Seven Wonders of the World, there were four in Asia; The Temple of Ephesus, the Mansoleum in Halicarnassus, the Walls of Babylon, and the Rhodian Colossus. The Statue of Olympian Japiter in Europe. The Egyptian Labyrinth, and the Pyramids in Africa.

The Asiaticks have been always a Soft and Esseminate People, except the Mountainiers and the Tartars, who by their Incursions perpetually vex'd their Neigybours. Their (vats of Arms are nothing like those which the Families of Europe bear, being compos'd only of the Letters of their Names, to which they add sometimes the Names of their Predecessors. Their Embassies, considering the Presents they make one to another, are but a kind of Trade and Exchange of Merchants, wherein every one looks after the true value, and so to make his advantage.

Asia is in subjection to four Potent Monarchs, who are able to bring mighty Armies into the Field: The Grand Signior, who resides in Europe, the Sultan of Persia, the Cham of Turtary, at this day King of China, and the great Mogul. Besides these, there are several great Princes in Georgia, in Arabia, in Tartary, in India, and in most part of the Isles. Several Nations also maintain their Liberty by living among the Mountains.

As to the Division of this part of the World, some Authors divide it into Interior and Exterior, in reference to Mount Taurus: By means of which Mountain the Greeks make two grand Parts, the first tothe North, the latter to the South. I shall first divide it into Terra Firma, and Islands. The Countries of the Terra Firma toward the West, are Asiatick Turky, Georgia and Arabia. Toward the middle, Persia; toward the North, Tartary; to the East, China; and to the South, India; divided likewise into Terra Firma, which is the Empire of the Great Mogul; and into two Peninsula's, one on this side, the other beyond Ganges, The Islands in the Eastern, or Indian Seas, (which are the biggest, the richest, and more in number than in any other part of the World) are the Maldives, Ceylon, the Islands of Sonde, viz. Sumatra, Borneo, Fawa, &c. of Japan; the Philippines, and the Molucca's. There are some Isles appertaining to Asia in the Mediteranean, as Cyprus and Rhodes; and others in the Archipelago, as Matellino, Scio, Samos, &c.

So that Afia now stands divided in these Monarchies or Principal Parts, Viz.

Once very populous and full of Stately Cities; now lamenting the Ruine and Destruction of them

The Mahometan Religion is chiefly profess'd in most places thereof, only there are some Jews and Greek Christians mix'd among them. As to their Manners, a Cadi or Turkish Judge judiciously observ'd, that the Turks were to be blam'd for their Lechery, the Jews for their Superstition, and the Christians for their Litigiousness.

Most excellently Seated is this part of the World, for it lies in the midst of our Continent, in the temperate Zone, being water'd by the whole Course of Euphrates and Tigris, with the convenience of Four Seas, the Mediterranean, the Euxine, the Caspian, and the Persian Seas, by which it Commerces with the principal Regions of the World, and chiefly with that of the East-Indies.

Four great Provinces are in this Afiatick Turky. Anatolia, Turcomania, Diarbeek and Syria. Anatolia, or Asia Minor, is almost a Peninsula lying between the Black Sea, the Archipelago, the Mediterranean, and the River Euphrates The Ancient Greeks were wont to store it with Colonies, and the Grand Cyrus did not think his Emprie considerable without it. For the same Reason have so many Battels been sought either to preserve or conquer it. The Ancients divided this Anatolia or Asia Minor, into several lesser Parts or Regions, viz. Pontus and Bithinia, Paphlagonia, Cappadocia, Armenia Minor, Cilicia, Isauria, Pamphilia. Lycia. Carra, Jonia, Lolis, Lydia, or Mæonia, Pisidia, Lycaonia, Galatia, Phrygia Major and Minor, Misia and Treas. Here I had intended to have givena larger Description of all the ancient Names of places, &c. contained in this Afiatique Turky, viz. in Asia Minor, Mesopotamia, Armenia, Assiria, Caldea, or Bubylonia, Arabia, Terra Sancta, Syria, &c. But having lately defigned fix Plates, vulgarly called Scriptural Maps, V12.

Village with heaps of ancient Ruines and Monuments of Destruction. Abidos, now one of the Dardanels, was famous for the Loves of Hero and Leander, and for the Passage of Xerxes's prodigious Army over a Bridge of 674 Gallies. Foglia Vecchia, formerly Phocan, the Mother of Marfeilles; the first City which was taken by a formal Siege, by Harpagus Lieutenant to Grand Cyrus. Smirna, Ismar Turcis, for Trade by Sea and Land, is the most celebrated City in the Levant; hither the Western Fleets are bound, and from hence the fairest Caravans set out, seated at the Bottom of a Gulph, which is seven Leagues in length, defended with a Castle or Fort in such a part of the Gulph, that no Ship can escape its Command.

One of the Seven Churches of Asia; at this day a great City, but not so great and beautiful as formerly; here are the Ruines of the Amphitheatre, where it is said St. Polycarp was exposed to fight with Lions.

This City is very populous, wherein is reckoned no less than Sixty thousand Turks, Fifteen thousand Greeks, Eight thousand Armenians, Six or seven thousand Jews, besides European Christians.

Smirna is a place of great plenty, the Soil abounding with Oil and Wine. The Sea affords good flore of Fish, and Fowl is very cheap. But the Heats are very excessive in Summer, and would he insupportable, were it not for the Breezes that come off the Sea about 10 in the Morning, and continues till the Evening; but the Plague and malignant Fevers that succeed it, are more destructive. Over the Gate of the upper Castle the Roman Eagles continue still Engraved, and a great Head of Stone, by the Turks called Coidasa, which some think it to be the great Amazon Smirna, which gave Name to this City.

Ephelus, Efelo Soph. Figena or Fiéna Cast. Ayasaluck Turcis, Ricaut. During the Trojan War, Pliny tells us it was called Alopes, then Ortigia, by Lysimachus Arsinoa; then Morgas, then Ephelus, 45 Miles from Smirna, and about 5 Miles from the Sea upon the River Cayster, another of the 7 Churches of Asia. Once famous for the Temple of Diana, said to be Four hundred twenty five Feet in length, Two hundred and twenty in breadth, supported with One hundred and twenty seven Marble Pillars Seventy seet high, Two hundred and twenty years a building, seven times fired, the last time was in the Night that Alexander was born.

Laodicea, more anciently Diospolis, one of the Seven Churches, now forgotten in its Name, and overwhelmed in its Ruines, which are by the Turks called Eskibijar, not far from a place called Dingizlee, inhabited by Greeks, seated upon the River Lyeus.

Of STRIA.

Stria, Soria, Italis, La Sourie, Gallis; Suristan, Turcis; Souristan, Incola. By the Ancients it was divided into three principal parts, viz. Syria Propria, Phanicia and Palestina, or the Holy Land. At prefent the Turks divide it into three Beglerbegs, viz. of Halep, or Aleppo, Tripoli or Tarabolos, and Scham or Damascus, which contains 16 or 20 Sangiacks, whose Name and Scituations being for the most part to us unknown, I shall follow the Ancient Geography, and first speak of Syria Propria.

In the Division or Parts of this, I find much Contrariety among all. Geographers, and in all Maps. Baudrand tells us, 'tis divided into Comagena, Phanicia, Calosyria, Palmyrena, and Seleucia. In another place he saith, its parts are Syria Propria, Calocyria, Comagene, and Palmyrene.

Cluverius saith, 'tis divided into Antiochene, Comagene, Calo-Syria, and Palmyrene.

Golnitz, divides it into Comagena, Seleucia, Calo-Syria, and Idu-

Heylin, into Phanicia, Calo-Syria, and Syrophanicia; Bleau, into Comagena, Calo-Syria, Phanicia, Demascena, and Palmyrena.

I come therefore to speak of the chief places in Syria Propria, which are,

1. Antioch, or Antiochia magna, Theopolis à Justiniano Imperatore, Rebbata à S. Trinitate, by the Turks Antachia Leuncl. once the Metropolis of Syria, situate on the River Orontes, now Assi, or Hasei, 12 Miles from the Mediterranean Shoar. Once adorned with stately Palaces, Temples, &c. The Seat of some of the Koman Emperors.

The Suburbs called Daphne, from Apollo's Mistris so called, turned into a Laurel, now 5 Miles from Antiech, was accounted one of the most delicious places in the World, famous for the Oracle and Temple of Apollo, who was here worshipped in a Grove 10 miles in compass, planted with Cypresses, and other Trees, so full and close together that the Beams of the Sun could not dart through, wate-

Aleppo, Chalybon Rawolfo & Postello. Berza, Berou, or Beroe. Zonara, Cedreno & P. Gyll, Hieropolis teste Bellonio. Sansone & Brietia. At present Aleppo or Halep, is the greatest and principal City of all Syria, and one of the most famous of the East, and the 3d in the Ottoman Empire, if we consider it as the Rendezvous of the Caravans, and of the Turkish Armies; as the Magazine of Jewels, of Spices, of Silks, and other costly Commodities which are brought thither by Sea and Land, and from thence sent into other parts of the World by the Port of Alexandretta or Scandaroon

3. Hamab Leunel. Hamous Bellon. Aman aliis & Damant in Mappa Bleau, is the Apamea or Apamia of the Ancients, built by Seleucus, and so called from the Name of his Wife, seated in the midst of a great Plain, encompassed with pleasant Hills, abounding in Corn and Wine. Its Orchards stored with variety of Fruits and Palm-Trees Its Gardens watered with many Channels drawn from the Orontes.

4. Hams, Hemz. Turcis, Haman Bell. Chemps Postel. & I. Kydo. Ca-malu Nigro, is the Emisa Euseb. Emissa Ptol. Hemesa Plin. for pleasant sci-tuation much as the same with Hamab.

5. Seleucia, built near the Mouth of Orontes by Seleucus, esteemed the greatest City-builder in the World, viz. 9 of his own Name, 16 in memory of his Father Antiochus, 6 bearing the Name of his Mother Laodicea, and three in remembrance of his Wise Apamæa, besides several others, either built, repaired, or beautisted by him. It had the Surname of Pieria, called also Soldin Nig. & Seleuche-Jelber. Leone Sidoniensi.

6. Zeugma, seated on the Banks of the River Euphrates, where Alexander the Great passed over on a Bridge of Boats.

7. Samojatha, Scempfat L. Sidonienfi, near the Banks of the Euphrates, over which there was a Bridge for a passage into Mesopotamia; here was born Lucian, and Paulus Samosatenus, Patriarch of Antioch, who was condemned for Heresy.

8. Palmira, Amagara Ortel. Fayd. Sans. seated near the Desart of Arabia, famous for Zenobia, who stood in opposition with Gallienus for the Empire of the East, but was taken Prisoner, and led in Triumph through Rome by Aurelian.

9. Adada is memorable for the Victory that Aretus King of Arabia obtained against Alexander King of Jewry.

To. Damascow. Damasco Europain, Sciam Minad, Scham incolis Leuncl. Damas Gallin, once the chief City of Syria, and one of the most ancient in all Asia, seated near the River Chrysorrhoas, Pharphar Hebrain, Adegele Bell. Farfar & Ferne Gist. in a Soil so fertile in Gardens, Orchards and Vineyards, a place so pleasant with Rivers and Fountains, so surfeiting of Delights, so ravishing with Pleasures, that some have called it, The Paradise of the World; samous for the Temple of Zacharias, garnished with 40 stately Porches, and adorned with about 9000 Lanthorns of Gold and Silver. Ruined and destroyed by the Persians, Macedonians, Romans, Parthians, Saracens, Tartars, by the Soldans of Egypt, and by the Turks. After the Battel of Issus, Alexander the Great sound in Damas 200000 Talents of coined Money, and 500 Talents uncoined.

Laudicha, Laodicea Cic. Strab. Plin. Laodice Polyb. so called from Laodice the Wife of Antiochus, and Mother of Seleucus, sirnamed Cabiosa, called Lizza & Liche Minad. & Olivario, 100 Miles from Damascus.

There was also another Laodicea, Ptol. upon the Sea-coast, 30 Miles from Antioch West. Rhamata Hebræis, Lyche incolis teste Mol.

Beritus, now Barutii or Berite, once much frequenced by Merchants, and others, near which is that noted Valley where (as it is faid) St. George, by killing the Dragon, redeemed the King's Daughter.

Biblus, now Gibbeleth, was the Habitation of Cinivas the Father of Myrrha, Mother to the fair Adonis, from whom the Neighbouring River took its Name; once a Bishop's See, now desolate.

I had almost forgot Alexandretta or Scanderoon, the Sea port of Aleppo, a confused heap of paltry Houses inhabited by the Greeks, who keep Fudling Schools for the Mariners, and other meaner fort of the People; only the Dwellings of the Vice-Consuls are very covenient: But Tavernier saith, They must be Men who love Money that accept of those Employments; for the Air, like that at Ormus, is so bad, in Summer especially, that if it doth not kill, yet they cannot avoid very dangerous Distempers: And after some stay there, to remove to a better Air, is to endanger their Lives: But Aurisacra fames.

Of Mesopotamia.

rey by the Arabians, Meredin by the Armenians, by the Turks Diartick, is a Peninsula between the Euphrates and Tygris on the West, South and East; and on the North, the Mountains separate it from Turcomania; the South part desart and barren, the Northern part abounding with Corn and Wine.

A Country memorable for the Birth of Abraham and Rebecca; the long Abode of Jacob, and the Birth of his Children, the Original of the Hebrew Nation.

Successively subjected to the Babylonians, Assyrians, Medes and Perfians; from them conquer'd by the Romans; recover'd again by the Perfians, then fell into the power of the Saracens, and now enslaved under the Turks.

Orpha, or Ourfa, is the ancient Edesa; Edessa, Ptol. & Plin. Edesa

Strab:

Erech, by the Hebrews and Rages, as Villanovanus tells us, Orpha by Paulus Jovius. Rotas by Haithonus, Rhoas & Rhoa Niger. Orfa by P. Gyllius, Rohai al. Orrhoai Arab. The Capital City of Mesopotamia, where they dress the Yellow Cordovant Skins, the Blue at Tocat, the Red at Diabeker.

Band. Leren. Nig. & Sanf. Dr. Leonard Ronwolf, who in Anno 1575. was at Haran, tells us it was then called Ophra, 11 days Journey, or 232 Miles from Molul or Ninivels; That it was a fair City, well inhabited, and richly furnished with Merchandize, but especially with fair Coverlets of divers Colours.

Tweernier and Theorems tell us, That Our a is built where flood the ancient Edessa, memorable in the Church-History for the Story of Abangarus; and in Roman History for the death of the Emperor Caracalla; and, by the Report of the Inhabitants, the place where Abraham lived: So that Haran, Edessa, Carrha, and Orfa, seem to me to be all the same City. The Walls of the City are of Free Stone, with Battlements and Towers, but Ruinous within; upon the South-side there is a Castle upon a Hill, with some old pitiful Guns. The City is governed by a Bashaw.

Seated near the Tygris, a Frontier Town of great Strength, the Seat of a Turkish Bashaw, containing two or three fair Piazza's, and a magnificent Mosque, formerly a Christian Church. 'Tis well peopled, containing, by Report, 2000 Christians, Armenians, the rest Nestorians, and some few Facobites. Famous for its Red Marroquins, surpassing in Colour all others in the last, as also for excellent Wine and good Bread.

Bir, or Ririgeon, is seated on the Euphrates, upon the Brow of a Hill; Plenty of Bread, Wine, and Fish.

Sharmely Tav. Tcharmelick Thev. is a very good Town, with a fair Inn, and very good Baths round about it, near which is a Mountain, on the top whereof is a Fortress, with a Garison, which the Grand Visier in the Year 1621. after his loss at Bagdat, intended to have made his Refuge, but was strangled before he could accomplish his design.

Dadacardia Tav. The Ruins whereof denote it to have been a large Town; but now the Inhabitants have no other Habitation but the Hollows of Rocks.

Cousasar Tav. Kodgiasar Thev. is a Village where you pay the Customs of Diarbequir Tav. rather of Merdin teste Thev.

Merdin, Marde Herob. Ptol. Merdino Onuph. Mirdin. Barb. Mirdanum Procapio, two Leagues from Kodgiasar, is a little City seated on a Mountain, with good Walls, and a Caltle, where is resident a Bashaw, who hath under him 200 Spahi's, and 400 Fanisaries.

Karasara Tav. Caradene Thev. thews the Ruins of seven or eight Churches, and was once a great Town, one day's Journey from

Nesbin is but the shadow of the ancient Nisibis of Streb. Ptol. Plut. Plin, and formerly a great Town, now hardly an ordinary Village.

Mosul, upon the West side of the River Tygris, is encompassed with Walls of rough Stone, plaistered over with little pointed Battlements on the top. It hath a Castle built of Free Stone, and the Walls are about three Fathom high; on the Land-fide separated from the Town by a Ditch five or fix Fathoms broad, and very deep. In the Castle there are fix large Guns, whereof one is broken, and one is mounted; several Field pieces, whereof two mounted.

The Tygris here in Summer is not broader than the River Sein in France, but deep and rapid, and in Winter tis as broad again.

And here I cannot omit what Thewenot affirms of Sanlon's Map of this Country, viz. That besides the mistakes of Rivers, he hath Diarbeck, taken in general, comprehends Arzerum, the Affyria of old, and Yerac the ancient Chaldea, or Babylonia, the chief Cities whereof are Babylon and Niniveb, which were heretofore very famous, now altogether ruined: Niniveb just over against Mosul, was the Residence of the King of Assyria, 24 Leagues in Circuit. The voluntary death of Sardanapalus, and the Repentance of the Inhabitants, have renowned it in Story. Towards the Frontiers of Allyria inhabited a Warlike People, called, The Curds, where many great Battels have been fought, viz. That at Arbela and Gaugannela, Plin. or Gangamela Strab. now near to, if not the same with Schiabrazur, the Seat of a Turkish Reglerbeg, Renowned for the Victory of Alexander the Great against Darius, killing above 400000 Persians, with the loss of 200 Macedonians. There the Caliphs won the Battel of Maraga, which made them Masters of all Persia. And near to Chuy, Selim defeated Ishmael Sephi, who had always been a Victor before. Babylon lay a small day's Journey from Bagdat, which stands upon the Tygris, and is only a heap of Ruins in a place called Felougia, near to which they shew the place where stood the Tower of Babel, famous for the Confusion of Languages.

This Babylon was built by Nimrod, whom some affirm to be Belus. Semiramis and Nebuchadnezzar much augmented it: The first of the two having encompassed it with such Walls as were accounted one of the Seven Wonders of the World; and the high and fair Gardens upon the Terras were no less admir'd. It was taken by Cyrus, by Darius, by Alexander the Great, who died there, and by Seleucus. The Power and Wealth of Babylon was so great, that it contributed more to the Grand Cyrus, than the third part of all his Dominions. Next to Babylon, Seleucia, called Coche and Alexandria, then Seleucia, from Antiochus the Son of Selucius, teste Martiano, now Bagdad, or Bagadat, teste Sansone; was the most considerable City in all Asia, and then Ctesiphon: Bagbdat, or Bagadad, generally called Babylon, is not only the Rendezvous of feveral Merchants, but also of the Mahometans of all parts of Asia, who go to visit the Sepulchres of Omar and Haly, and other Mahometan Saints. It was a long time the Residence of the Caliphs. Ulit, who was one of them, was Mafter of one of the greatest Monarchies in the world, for it extended from the most Western parts of Burbay, to the East-Indies. Another Caliph of this City, at his Death left Eight Sons, Eight Daughters. Eight Millions of Gold, Eight thousand Slaves, and the Addition of Eight Kingdoms to his Dominion. In the year 1628, when Amurath the Fourth re-took it from the Persians, he caused three men out of every Tent through his Army to be cast into the Moat, and over them a vast number of Bavins and Wool-Sacks, that he might the more easily Assault the Town. Kufa, or Mecha Ali, is a City, for which the Mahometans have a particular Veneration, as being the Buryingplace of Haly. Bassora, or Balsora, is the Teredon of Strab. Plin. Ptol. a Town near the Mouth of Tygris, which they of the Country call Shat. It is large and pleasant, by reason of its Palm-Trees. The conveniency of its Ports furnishes India and Persia with Dates, which are Bread and Wine to those that know how to order them. Some few years fince, Balfora fell under the Jurisdiction of Ali-Baffa, who stil'd himself King thereof, who left it to his Successors, who enjoy it from Father to Son, paying a small Tribute to the Grand Signior, who is afraid to oppress him lest he should Revolt; but these two last Places properly belong to Arabia.

After 259 years, the Iraelites were led into Captivity by the King of Affria, some fay beyond the Caipian Mountains, from whence they never returned. And the Affrians possessed their Land, and were called Samaritans. The People of Fulab were also afterwards carried Captive into Babylon by N buchadnezzin, after fet at liberty by Cyrus, and returned back under the Conduct of Zerubbabel. After this, they were called Fins, and the Country Fewry; and for about 264 years they were governed by Aristocracy, until the Maccabees, who, after many Conflicts with their powerful Neighbours, upheld the Government 121 years; during which interval, the Romans under Pompey conquer'd Judea; and after the Death of Antigonus, the last of the Race of the Maccabees, Herod is made King by Augustus and Authory; a man of admirable Virtues and execrable Vices, fortunate abroad, unfortunate in his Family; his Life tragical, his Death desperate. After whose Death, the Kingdom was divided into Two parts, half of it had the Title of Ethnarch, the other half divided into two Tetrarchies, Archelaus banified and dying in Exile, his Ethnarchy was reduced into a Roman Province, and the Government committed unto Pontius Pilate, by Tiberine Cielar, under whom our Saviour, the Holy Jesus, did suffer Death, when the Tews cried out. His klood be upon Us and Ours. A wish not long after effected with all fulness of Terror; for the Calamities of the War inflicted by Gallus, Ve passan, and Tuus, exceed both Example and Description, and destroyed about 110000 People. The Land destroyed, and on every Head an Annual Tribute imposed; the Tews were quiet until the Reign of Adrian, when again they raised new Commotions, being headed by Berochab their counterfeit M. fliab; but Julius Severus, Lieutenant to Adrian, razed 50 of their Strong-holds, and 985 Towns, and flew 580000; fo that the Countries lay waste, and the ruined Cities became an Habitation for Wild Beafts, and the Captives were transported into Spain, and from thence again. exit'd in the year 1500.

In which Interval of time, the Country inhabited by other People, about the time of Constantine, embraced the Christian Religion: But in the Reign of Phocas, the Persians over-ran the whole Country of Palefine, inflicting unheard of Tortures on the Patient Christians. No sooner freed from that Yoke, but they suffered under a greater by the execrable Saracens, under the Conduct of Omar, who were long after expulsed by the Turks, then newly planted in Persia by Tangropilix. When the Christians of the West, for the recovery of the Land, set forth an Army of 200000, Godfry of Bol gne the General, who made thereof an absolute Conquest, and was elected King of Ferusalem, in the 89th year of that Kingdom; and during the Reign of Guy, the Christians were utterly driven out and destroyed by Saladine, the Egyptian Sultan, who held it until Selymus the First, Emperor of the Turks, who in the year 1517, added the Holy Land, together with Egypt, unto the Ottoman Empire, under whose Power it now is governed by Two Sanziacks, under the Bassa of Damajcus, one residing at Ferusalem, the other at Naplous. It is now for the most part inhabited by Moors and Arabians, those possessing the Vallies, these the Mountains; some few Turks, many Greeks, with other Christians of all Sects and Nations; some Fews, who inherit no part of the Land, but live as Aliens in their own Country.

The Chorographical Division of CANAAN.

This Land of Canaan, within Jordan, was divided into five Principal Parts or Provinces, viz. 1st, Jewry in the South, where King David's Throne was fet, and the Holy City built, comprehending the Two Tribes of Judah and Benjamin. 2d, Samaria in the midst, the chief Seat of the Ten Tribes of Israel, containing the Tribe of Ephraim, and the half Tribe of Manasses 3d, Galilee in the North-East, where Christ Jesus was very conversant, and was divided into the Higher and the Lower, containing part of Ashur, all Napthali, and part of Zebulun. 4th, Phanicia on the North-West part of Canaan, containing the Seacoast of Ashur and Zebulun. 5th, The Land of the Philistins upon the West of Canaan, whose Country was allotted to Judah, Dan, and Simeon, these were always great Enemies to the Israelizes; and from them was the whole Land called Palestine.

The Land of Canaan, without Fordan, possessed by the Amorites, who had driven out the Moabite and Ammonites, contained three Principal Parts; 1st, Part of the Kingdom of Sibon King of the Amorites, in Heshbon, taken from the Moabites, which was given to the Reubenites. 2d, The Land of Gilead, which contained part of the Kingdom

Kingdom of Silon, taken from the Ammonites; and part of the Kingdom of Og King of Bashan, which was given to the Gadites. 3d, The rest of the Kingdom of Og, with half Gilead, and the Region of Argob, was given to the half Tribe of Manasses: All which are delineated in the Map, as also the Names of the Chief Cities and Towns in each Tribe.

Once a Country so fertile, that it was called, A Land flowing with Milk and Honey; adorned with pleasant Mountains, and luxurious Vallies; neither scorched with Heat, nor pinched with Cold. The Wealth and Power of it so great, the People, Cities and Towns so numerous, that there was no Countrey in the World that could compare with it. But now remains a fearful Monument of Divine Vengeance, a fad and difmal Mirror for all other like finful Countries to view their Destiny by. Jerusalem, though fallen from her ancient Lustre, deserves still our remembrance. Once her Kings, her Princes, her Temple, her Palaces were the Greatest, the Richest, the Fairest, and most Magnificent in the World. Once a City Sacred and Glorious, the Seat of infinite Majesty, the Theatre of Mysteries and Miracles, the Diadem in the Circle of Crowns, and the Glory of the Universe, but now Icabod: It was ruined by Nebuchadnezzar; Vespasian and Titus utterly razed it, and destroyed above Eleven hundred thoufand People.

To describe this Country in all its Curcumstances, to speak of its Laws, Religion, its Divisions, Wars and Alterations; to write of all the various Transactions that have happed in it, would require a Volume of itself. I shall therefore leave it to my aforesaid Description of this part of the World, where I shall give a more particular Geographical and Historical Relation of its Cities, Towns, and other memorable Transactions, which will be a very useful and necessary Introduction into the Principia's of ancient Geography and History.

The Ancient Inhabitants were the Mardi, and Gordiei; now the Turcomans and Curdes. The first are said to be descended from Turquessan in Tartary, from whence came the Turks. The later are descended from the Ancient People of Assigna.

Ptolomy divided Armenia into four principal Parts, which contained 20 Provinces, and 87 Cities.

Pliny accounted 120 Strategies, Governments, or particular Jurisdictions of every Province.

A Conntry much better known, and more Famous in Ancient Time than now. The Advantage of its Bounds, the Nature of its Situation, the Magnificence of some of its Kings, among which, Tygranes, Sonin-law to Mithredates King of Pontus, hath been the most Famous; its Greatness, Government, and Riches, much contributed to its Renown.

In this Country are the Heads of four Rivers, Euphrates, Tygris, Phasis and Araxes.

Euphrates, Perath Moses, Frat. Nicolaio, Moret sou Turcis; from one side of the Mountain Mingol falls this River, which divides Armenia and Mesopotamia from Asia Minor, Syria and Arabia, descends into Chaldea, where it waters the Ancient Babylon, and joyns with Tigris somewhat below Bagdat.

Tigris, Hidekel Ebræis, Tegil Castal & Pinero, Diglath Josepho, descends from the Georgian Mountains, falls into divers Lakes, loses it self divers times in the Earth, cuts through the Mountains, separates Mesopotamia from Assyria, washes the Ruines of Niniveh, receives the Branches of the Euphrates, and discharges it self into the Persian Gulph.

Phasis, or Fassa, hath its Head in the same Mountain with the Euphrates, and runs its Course towards the North; and after it hath passed 100 Bridges, falls into the Euxine Sea.

Araxes, Arases, Achlar Leunel. Cajacz. There. runs Eastward, and joins it self with Kur, or Cyrus, whose Rise or Spring is from the other side of the Mountain Mingol, and then falls into the Caspian Sea. Since these Rivers have here their Springs, Sanson tells us, That if there yet remains any marks by which we may discover the place where the Terrestrial Paradise was placed, it was rather in this Country, than in any other. But Sir John Shardin makes the River Phasis to arise from the Caucasus Mons, about 350 Miles distant, and to run South into the Pontus Euxinus.

Air. In their Humours, Covetous and Sordid, Heady and Obstitute; of a dull and stupid Apprehension, unless in Merchandize and Trade. Yet, 'tis observed; That those that are brought up in other Countries, are of a more acute Understanding, pleasing and merry in Behaviour; but the Women are commonly ill shaped, long noted, and not so much as tolerable handsome. Ric.

Armenia was conquered in the Year 1515. by Selimus the First, and annexed to the Ottoman Dominions; yet the Armenians pretend they cannot be made Slaves, by reason of certain Privileges which their Predecessors obtained from Makomet, when they assisted him to settle his Empire; upon which consideration most of the Merchants of Turky go by the Name of Armenians.

The Armenian Church is Ruled by four Patriarchs, the chief of which resides at Etchmeasen Ric. Ecs-miazin Chard. Changlee Chilse by the Turks, or Ounch Chilse from the Three Churches, which are there built in a Triangle, about two or three Leagues from Rivan or Erivan.

The chief Places now are Erzirum, Theodosiopolis, P. Gillio, Sinera Minadaio, Aziris aliis, a Frontier Town, and great Thorough-Fare, the Residence of a Basha. The Houses are ill built of Wood, without any Order or Proportion, where are some Remains of Churches. Tavernier tells us, That though it be very cold, yet Barley grows there in 40 days, and Wheat in 60.

Erez, after Garifoned by Mustapha, was taken by Storm, and was witness of Emirbanz first Contest with the Turk.

Cars, Carse, or Charsa Leunc. a large City, but thin Peopled, seated in a good Soil, the Rendezvous of the Grand Signior's Army. A days Journy from Karsare to be seen the Ruins of a great City called Anikagee, strongly situate in a Marsh, Tav.

Rivan or Erivan, is feated in a plentiful Country now belonging to the Sultan of Persia, being taken by Sha Sefi, who put all the Garison to the Sword. 'Tis famous for its Trade of Silks and plenty of Wine; not far from this City are to be seen the Ruins of the Ancient Artaxata, the Seat of the Ancient Kings of Armenia, teste Tavernier: So that Testis in Georgia cannot be the Artaxata of the Ancients, as in our Geographical Doctionaries.

Nassivan, or Nachavan, the Nexuana of Ptol. according to the Opinion of the Armenians, is the most Ancient City of the World, three Leagues from Mount Ararat, the place where Noah lived after he came out of the Ark. There is seen the Ruines of a great Mosque, which, they say, was one of the most stately Buildings in the World, erected in memory of Noah's burying-place.

Beilis, by some said to be the Tigranocerta of Plin. & Tac. belongs to a Bey, or Prince of the Country, who neither acknowledges the Grand Symior, nor the Persian Sultan. It is scituate between two high Mountains, guarded with a Castle and Draw Bridge. The Bey, besides the strength of his Passes, is able to bring above 25000 Horse, besides Foot into the Field. Near this place the Persians obtained a great Victory over the Turks, in which were slain five Sanziacks, 800 fanizaries, 20000 Soldiers, 40 pieces of Cannon taken, and Solyman's Seraglio, in which were Beauties he not a little doted on, when Ibrabim Bassa was strangled by a Mute.

Of Georgia.

Between the Black Sea and the Caspian, lies Gergia; so called by the Greeins from the word Georgei, which signifies Husbandmen: Some would have this Name derive it self from that of St. George, the Patron Saint of all the Christians of the Greek Church Under the general Name whereof, we comprehend Mingrelia; Gurgistan, Zuiria, and Comania: Provinces which the ancient Romans could not subdue by reason of the ruggedness of the Mountains, which were known to the Ancients by the Name of Caucasus, made samous by the Fable of Promisheus. Mingrelia, with Avogasia, are the same with Colchis, or little more: Famous for the Amours of Jason and Medea, and for the Conquest of the Golden Fleece by the Argonauts.

Gurgistan'is the ancient Iberia; Zuiria answers to the ancient Albania; and Canania or Carcassia composeth some part of the Asiatic Sarmatia on the South of Don.

The ancient Kingdom of Choloba was not fo small as now 'tis reckoned, when it extended from the Palus Maotis, as far as Iberia, whose Capital City was also so called, where our Modern Geographers place Fallo. The Corax and Phasis, famous Rivers in ancient History, now called Codours and Rione, serve for its bounds, in length 110 Miles, in breadth about 60. It is now divided into three parts, viz. Min-grelia, Guriel, and Imiretta.

Mingrelia, Odische Incol. is a Country full of Hills and Mountains, Vallies and Plains, almost covered with Woods. The Air is temperate, but very moist and unwholsome, in regard of the extreme wet Weather; so that in Summur the moisture of the Earth, being heated by the Sun, causeth frequent Pestilences, and other Diseases, very dangerous to Strangers. It abounds with many Rivers, which fall from the Mountain Caucasus, and discharge into the Black Sea, viz. Codours, the Corax of the Ancients. The Tacheur, which Arrian calls Sigamus. The Socum, supposed to be the Terscen of Arrien, and the Thasseris of Ptol. The Langur, the Astolphus of old The Kelmbel, or Cobi of Arrian. The Cianiscari, Cianeus of the Ancients. The Scheniscari, or River Horse, by the Greeks Hippus. The Abascia, or Glaucus of Strabo, the Caries of Arrian, and the Caritus of Ptol. These two Rivers intermix with the samous Phasse, about 20 Miles from the Sea,

The Phasis, by the Turks Fachs, by the Inhabitants Rione, at the Mouth is about a Mile and half over. There are several small Islands in the Mouth of it, upon the biggest of which Sultan Morat built a Fortress in the Year 1578, when he attempted the Conquest of that Country, the Ruines of which are now to be seen, but no Remainders of the Temple of Rhea to be seen, which was consecrated to the Worship of Christ in the Reign of the Emperor Zeno; nor any Ruines of the ancient Sebasta, or the samous Colchis, now to be seen. And the City Faso, placed where Choless stood by our late Geographers, is also a great mistake, teste Sir John Chardin, who was upon the place.

The Country produceth little Corn or Pulse, the Fruits are most wild and unwholsome; that which thrives best is the Grape, of which there is great plenty, and the Wine most excellent, strong, and a good Body, pleasing to the Taste, and comfortable to the Stomach; so that if the People knew how to make it rightly, there would be no better in Asia.

Their usual Grain is Gom, which is as small as Coriander Seed, and very much resembles Millet, which is sowed in Spring-time after the same manner as Rice, by making a hole in the ground with their Finger, then put in the Grain, and cover it, which produce the Stalk like to the Sugar-Cane, at the end of which there is an Ear that contains above 300 Grains. This boiled into a Paste, is the only Bread of all the Inhabitants of the Black Sea, from Palus Mastin round to Trebizond.

Besides this Gom, they have Miller, Rice, Wheat and Barley, which two last they sow upon the Ground without plowing; for the Ground is so soft, that it takes root a foot deep in the Mold, and comes up without any trouble.

The ordinary Food of the Country is Beef and Pork very plenty, and so good that the World affords no better. Their Wild Fowl is good, but scarce. Their Venison is the Wild Boar, the Hart, the Stag, the Fallow-Deer and Hare, which are most excellent. There are Partridges, Pheasants, Quails, and Wild Pigeons in abundance.

In the Mountains of Caucajus are bred great numbers of Eagles and Pelicans, Hawks, Hobbies, and other Birds of Prey, and other strange. Fowl, unknown in our Parts. And the Forest produce a number of Wild Beasts, as Tygers, Lions, Leopards, Wolves and Chacals.

At Pigivitas is a Church with Three Bodies, where they fay St. Andrew preached in that place, and the Catholicos once in his life goes thither to make the Holy Oyl.

In Mingrelia are neither Cities nor Towns, only two Villages by the Sea-side. If gaour is the chief Port and grand Market of Mingrelia. Anargbia is the most considerable Village built, where stood the ancient Heraclea. But all the Houses are scattered up and down in the Country, that you cannot travel a mile, but you shall meet with three or four together.

There are about nine or ten Castles, at the chiefest whereof, called Ruos, the Prince keeps his Court. 'Tis surrounded with a slight stone Wall, and Guarded with a sew Cannon, but the rest of the Castles have none. Sapias is the name of two Churches, one of which belongs to the Theatines.

The Mingrelian Men are endued with all mischievous Qualities, there is no wickedness to which they are not inclined. All Addicted to Thievery, which they make their Study, Employment, Pastime and Glory. Assassing, Murther, Lying, are esteemed noble and brave Actions. Drunkenness, Fornication, Adultery, Bigamy, Incest, are Virtues in Mingrelia. Otherwise good Soldiers, well shaped, ride a Horse well, and handle their Lance with extraordinary dexterity.

The Women of Quality are very handlome and well fhaped, having Features and Glances very charming and obliging, naturally fubile and quick of Apprehension, extremely civil and complemental, otherwise the most wicked in the World Haughty, persidious, deceiful, cruel, and impudent to procure their Lovers, or to destroy them.

The Education of Children in Mirgrelia, is the most lewd and vicious in the world; their Fathers bring them up to Thievery, and their Mothers to Obscenity.

The Inhabitants of Caucasus that border upon Colchis, are the Alanes, whose Countrey was formerly the Northern Frontier of Armenia, The Suan's, the Gign's, the Caracioles, by the Turks called Cara-Cherks, that is the Black Circofficus, by reason of the Fogs and Clouds that darken their Sky, though else they are the fairest People in the world. Formerly they were Christians, and yet retain some Relicks and Customs of it, but now profess no Religion, but live by Robbery and Rapine, ignorant of all Arts and Sciences, more tall and portly than other People, surious in their Looks, and their Dispositions and Courage no less savage; the most daring Robbers, and most resolute Assassing the world.

The Nagayen-Tartars for the most part inhabit the Champaigne Land about Astracan, living in Tents senced with stakes and Palisadoes, to secure themselves from the Assaults and Insolencies of Night-Robbers, and the Kalmuck Tartars, who oftentimes surprize them unawares, and carry away both Men and Cattel.

The Country of Curie is very small, separated from Mingrelia by the River Phass: And in every thing, as to its Nature and the Manners of its Inhabitants, it resembles Mingrelia, for they have the same Religion, Customs, and the same Inclinations to Lying, Robbery and Murther.

Gonie is a large Castle, Four-square built, of hard and rough Stones, of a great bulk, seated upon the Sea-side; it hath sour Walls and two Gates, but no Trenches nor Fortifications; belonging to the Prince of Guriel, distant from Phasis about four Miles.

Akalziki is a Fortrels, built upon the descent of Mount Caucasus, seated in a hollow place among Hillocks, fortified with double Walls, and stanked with Towers, both built with Battlements after the Ancient manner, defended with a few Guns, and is the residence of a Turkish Bassa. Adjoining to this Fortress is a large Town, consisting of about four hundred Houses, all new, and of a late Erection, inhainhabited by Turks , Armeniane , Georgians , Greeks, Jews and Chri-

Imiretta is called by the Turks, Pachatebeouk, or Pachakoutchouk, the Little Prince; is a Country full of Woods and Mountains, but the Valleys are lovely, and the Plains most pleasant: Here Money is coined, and here are several Towns; but as for the Manners and Customs of the Inhabitants, they are the same as in Mingrelia. The King hath four good Castles, viz., Scander, seated upon the side of a Valley, Regia and Scorgia, both almost inaccessible in the Mountains, and naturally fortissed; 4 Cotatis, beating the Name of the Town and Country round it; perhaps the Catasiane of Ptol. 90 miles from the Mouth of the River Phasis, built at the soot of a Hill, consisting of about 200 Houses; it hath a Fortress built with several Towers, and a double Wall.

These Three Kingdoms are tributary to the Tarks. The Tribute of the King of Imirretta is 80 Boys and Girls, from ten to twenty years of Age. The Prince of Gariel pays 46 Children of both Sexes. And the Prince of Mingrelia 60000 Ells of Linnen Cloth made in that is, the Head of Justice.

Of Gurgistan.

Lorgia, by our modern Geographers and the Persians, is called Gurgistan, by the Georgians Cartbuel. By some Authors tis divided into four particular Provinces, viz Imirette and Guriel, of which we have spoken before; 3. Caket; 4. Cartbuel. These two last are under the Persian Dominion; and this is that which the Persians call Gurgistan, and the Georgians Carttbueli.

It is a Country full of Wood, and very Mountainous, yet encloses a great number of pleasant Plains; and the River Kur, the Cyrus of the Ancients, runs through the midst of it.

The Temper of the Air is very kindly; their Fair Weather begins about May, and lasts till the end of November. The Soil, if well watered produces all sorts of Grain, Herbs and Fruit in abundance; therefore as fertile a Country as can be imagin'd, where a man may live both deliciously and cheap. Their Bread as good as any in the world, and their Fruit of all sorts is very delicious. Nor is there any part of Europe that produceth fairer Pears and Apples, or better tasted; nor any part of Asia that brings forth more delicious Pomegranates.

Their Cattel very good and plentiful; their Fowl of all forts is incomparable. There is no better Meat in the world than their young Porkers, of which there are abundance. The Caspian Sea and Kur River surnish it with all forts of Salt and Fresh Fish; and there is also not Country where they drink more or better Wine: No Men are more addicted to their sensual Pleasures, and beastial Voluptuousness, that is to Drunkenness and Luxury; neither are the Women less vicious and wicked, having an extraordinary Inclination to the male Sex, and contribute more to that torrent of Uncleanness, which overslows all the Country.

Nature, saith Sir John Chardin, hath bestowed upon the Women of that Country Graces and Features which are not other-where to be seen; so that 'tis impossible to behold them without loving of them; more charming Countenances, nor more lovely Statures and Proportions can be penciled forth by the Art of man: They are Tall, clear Limb'd, Plump and Full, but not over-fat, and extremely slender in the Waste; but that which spoils all, is their Nasty Shifts, and Painted Faces.

The Men are naturally witty; nor would there be more Learned Men, or more Ingenious Masters in the world, were they but improved by the knowledge of Arts and Sciences; but their Education is so mean and brutish having nothing but bad Examples, that those Parts are altogether drowned in Vice and Ignorance, so that they are generally Cheats and Knaves, Persidious, Treacherous, Ingrateful and Proud.

There are several Bishops in Georgia, an Archbishop and a Patriarch, whom they call Carbolicos: There are also many Churches; but nothing remains of Christianity, unless the name of their Fasts, for they neither know or Practise the least Precept of the Law of Jesus Christ.

The Church-men also will be as drunk, and keep Female Slaves for their Concubines as well as others.

The Nobility exercise a more Tyrannical power over their Subjects than in Mingrelia, challenging a right over their Estates, Liberty and Lives; if they seize upon them, whether Wise or Children, they sell them or dispose of them as they please.

The Province of Cartbuel contains no more than four Cities, Gori, Suram, Aly and Teflie; Gori, or Kori, Armatics or Harmafis, of old, tefte Sanf. is a small City seated in a Plain, between two Mountains, upon the Bank of the River Chur, at the foot of a small Hill, upon which there is a Fortress built, which is garisoned by Native Persians.

Suram is a small Town, but the Fortress is large and well built, having 100 Men in garison.

Teffis, Artanata Plin. Artania Tac. Artaniafora Strab. by the Georgians Cala, by some Tebele-cala; is called also Darel Melec; by P. Fouius Choim, the fairest City in Georgie, seated at the bottom of a Mountain, at the foot of which runs the River Cur. The City is encompassed with strong Walls, defended with a large Fortress on the South-side; it contains about 14 Churches, fix belonging to the Georgians, and the rest to the Armenians. The Cathedral, which is called Sion, is feated upon the Bank of the River, built of all fair hewen Stone. There is not a Mosque in Testis, though the City belongs to a Mabometan Emperor, and governed by a Mahametan Prince. The Bazars or Market-places are very fair and large, built of Stone. The Inns or Caravansera's are no less beautiful. The Prince's Palace is one of the most beautiful Ornaments in Testie; it hath been twice under the power of the Turks, once in the Reign of Ihmael the second, King of Persia, and in the Reign of his Successor. Sulyman took it almost at the same time as he did Tauris:

The Kingdom of Caker is at present in subjection to the King of Persia, governed by his Viceroy. The Cities are all Ruines, unless that which is called Caket or Kaket.

In the Northern part of that Kingdom, the Amazons are supposed to have inhabited. Ptol. fixes their Country in the Affatick Sarmatia to the West of Wolga. Quintins Cartius saith also, that the Kingdom of Thalestris was near to the River Phasis; and Strabo, speaking of the Expeditions of Pompey and Canidius, is of the same opinion.

Quiria borders upon the Caspian Sea; its chief places are Derbent, Caucasiae Portae, Plin. or Pylae Iberiae Ortel. Demir & Temir-Capi Turcis, Alexandria, Portae Ferreae & Caspiae Portae, of old, now belonging to the Persians; it is a great Market for Slaves, and is a strong wall'd Town, said to be built by Alexander the Great. And Tarky, at this day under the Lake of Moscowy. Some Authors tell us of Stranu or Zambanach, which answers to Ancient Albana, of Zitach, or Gorgora, thought to be the Ancient Getara, or Gagara of Piolomy, and Chipeche to be the Ancient Chabala.

It contains the Circassan and Dagessan Tartars: The Circassan Country is very fertile, producing good store of Fruit and Grain; and also good Passure Ground. The Men are very Corpulent and Robust, have broad Faces, but not square, like the Crims and Calmucks; of a swarthy yellow Complexion, shaving their Heads and Beards after a strange manner; a surly ill natur'd People, good Horse-men: Their Arms are a kind of long Bow, which they handle with great dexterity. Their Women are very fair and lovely, with black Eyes, well proportioned in their Bodies, of a middle Stature.

The Dagest an or Dagbest an Tartars inhabit the Hilly Country, which lies towards the Sea; the Men are in Shape and Habit much like the Circas-Tartars; their Arms are Bow and Arrows, and a Scimitar: When they ride out, they have Spears and Launces, a Helmet and Target; great Men-stealers, which they sell to the Tarks and Persians. The Dagest an Tartars are subject to several Princes and Lords, who are independently soveraign.

About Derbent appear the Ruins of a Wall, which is faid to reach as far as the Euxine Sea; and in many places of the Country appear the Ruins of many Castles.

Schamachy, Sammachi & Summachi, the Cyropolis of Ptok Gircambate, Perfis; Cyseleth, Arabibus, was once a strong place, but in the Wars of the Turk and Perfians it was dismantled, and made an open Village. The Streets are narrow, the Buildings low; it hath a spacious Market-place or Bogan, having several Shops and Galleries, rich in Merchandizes and Manusactories, but much subject to Earthquakes.

2. Metilino, Lesbos seu Mytlena, of old Antissa, Pelasgia, Macarea, Hemerte, Lasia, Agyra & Atbiope, Plin. & aliis. Its chief City is Mereline, which for its greatness, and excellency of its Wine, gives Name to the Island. Here was Sapeho born, the Inventress of the Sapphick Verse: Pittaeus, one of the Sages of Greece; and Arion the Dolphin

Harper.

3. Chios, of old Ætalia, Æthale, Macris & Pitysja, now Chio or Scio, by the Turks Sacher, by the Persians Seghen, distant from the Ionian Shores about four Leagues, in compass about 124 Miles. It affordeth excellent Fruits in great plenty, but is most remarkable for its Musick, for its Honey, for the Church of its Convent of Niomene, once one of the fairest in the world. And for the Sepulchre of Homer. It was given to the Gennues by the Emperor Andronicus Palæologus, and by them possessed. Ann. 1565. it was by Selimus Secundus fraudulently surprized and taken, and now subject to the Turks.

4. To the West of this Island lies Psyra, a small Island now called Psara, witness of the unhappy Fate of a great part of the Venetian Fleet 1647. and the loss of G. Grimani, then drowned.

5. Icaria, now Nicaria, ofold Doliche, Maeris & Ichsbiela. It abounds in Corn and Pasturage, in compass about 80 Miles, and is remarkable for the Shiprack of Icarus. The poorest, and yet the happiest life of the whole Agean Sea; the Soil Barren, but the Air healthful; their Wealth but small, but their Liberty and Security great.

6. Samos is one of the greatest and most remarkable Islands of the Archipelago, the Country of Pythagoras, and once a Kingdom, and governed by its own Kings. It is now about 26 French Leagues in compass, and counts 18 Towns and Villages.

The Ruines of the old City of Samos, are fix Miles in compass, over against the old City; about a Mile distant stand the new, now called Migale Chora, where is the Residence of the Archbishop (lately in London) the Cadee Aga, &c. Mons Cercetius, or the Mountain Krais, is the highest of the whole Island, and is covered with Snow almost all the Year, and hath a Lake on the top well stored with Eels.

The little Samos abounds with a Flower which hath a fragrancy like Musk, and hath also this quality. That time doth not decay but augment the fragrancy of its smell. This Flower is transplanted thto the choicest Gardens of Confrantinople, and the Grand Signier wears it ordinarily in his Turbant.

Carlovaly is the second Town in the Island, having 500 Houses, and five Churches; a place of great Trade to sea, and yet their Port is so unsafe, that they are forced to load their Vessels ashore, and so launch them off. Nor must I forget the Samian Vessels, sovereign for diversuses in Physick and Chirurgery.

Between Nicaria and Samos, lie the noted Rocks once called Melan-thii; now Fornoli.

7. Pathmes, Palmosa, Soph. & Bel. now Patino, by Georgerines, 36

Miles in compass.

Once famous for the Residence of that great Apostle St. John, and for those wonderful Revelations which that Evangelist had there, during his Banishment in the time of the Persecution under Domitian, which to him indeed was Apocalypse, but to all others Apocrypha.

The Port called Scala on the West side towards Naxos, is the best of all in the Archipelago, near which is a Rock of a great heighth, called Synops, from the Magician in St. John's days. The Island is well stored with Vines, Fig-Trees, Lemon and Orange Trees and Corn, but all subject to the Robbery of Pyrates, as well Christians as Mabometans; so that Poverty is their best Protection against Rapine, and Patience the only Remedy against their Tyrannical Oppression.

8. Heron, now Lere, about 18 Miles in compass, noted for Aloes.

9. Claros, now Calamo, 40 Miles in compass, very mountainous, once facred to Apollo, abounding also with plenty of Aloes.

Lango, Nig. Stancora Turcis. It is in compass 70 Miles, furnished with sweet and pleasant Streams; and is famous for being the Birthplace of Hippocrases, the Reviver of Physick; and Apelles the famous Painter.

11. Carpathos, now Scarpante, in compass 60 Miles, stored with the best Coral.

12. Rhodus, Ophiusa & Telebinis, Strab. Asteria, Ethraa, Trinacria, Corimbia, Poessa, Arabyria, Macaria & Colossa, according to the Ancients, in compass is 135 Miles. Its Soil fertile, its Air temperate; plentiful in all things as well for Delight as Profit; full of excellent Pastures, adorned with pleasant green Trees. The Sun is here so constant, that it was dedicated to the Sun, and held sacred to Phabus, to whom they erected that vast Colossus of Brass, accounted one of the Seven Wonders of the World, said to be 50 Cubits in heighth, every Finger as great as an ordinary Statue, and the Thumb too great to be sathomed, made by Charetes of Lindus. It was 12 years a making, and 66 years afterwards thrown down by an Earthquake. 900 Camels were laden with the Brass which was used about it to fasten and hold fast the Stones.

The Town or City is well fortified with a trebble Wall, and five strong Fortresles, embracing a most safe and admirable Haven, given to the Knights of St. John de Acre, or Jerusalem, by Emanuel the Greek Emperor in the year 1308. but in the year 1522. after it had been defended against the Insidels 214 years, it was taken by Solyman the Great, and after six Months Siege it was surrendred. Villerius being the great Master, to the general dishonour of the Christian Princes in their tardy Succors.

13. Cyprus, of old Crypta, or Crypton Ptol. It was also called Cerastin, Gethin & Cetkina, then Amathusia, Paphia, Salaminia, Macaria, Cithereo, Achamantis, Asperia, Collinia & Erosa. It is in circuit, according to Strab. 427 Miles. To Plin. 375. From the Rocky shore of Cilicia 60 Miles, and from the Coast of Syria 100. During the Empire of the Persians and Macedonians, it contained nine Kingdoms: but by Ptol. divided into four parts, Salamina, Amathusia, Lapathia, and Paphia, so named of their principal Cities.

1. Salamis Ptol. Salamine Plin. was built by Teucer, when banished by his Father Telamon.

Afterwards called Constantia Steph. but destroyed by the Jews in the days of the Emperor Trajan.

And lastly, by the Saracens in the Reign of Heraclitus, from the Ruines whereof the Hamacostas, Fama Augusta, now Famagosta was erected by King Costa, the Father of Queen Karbarine, samous in Story for the Unfortunate Valour of the Venetians, under the Command of Signior Bragradine, against the surious Assaults of the Army of Selymus II. conducted by Mustapha, who caused them all to be murthered but the Governour, whom he sead alive, after the Surrender of the Place upon honourable Conditions.

In Lapathia, where once stood Tremithus, Trimethus Ptol. Tremisansa, or Tremisuge Soph. now stands the Regal City of Nicosia, Leucasia & Leucotheon Grac. Ledrinsis & Leutheon Soph. of a circular Form, and sive Miles in circumference, taken by the aforesaid Mustapha, Ann. 1570.

with an uncredible Slaughter.

North of this and upon the Sea, stood Ceraunia, or Ceronia Cirynia, Plin. Carynia & Cerinium Ortel. now Cerines, erected by Cyrus, a strong place, yet yielded to the Turks before it was belieged.

Amaibus, now Limis, Sacred unto Venus, and wherein the Rices and Sacrifices of her Adonius were annually celebrated; said to be built by Amas, who was the first that conquered Cyprus Our late Naviga-

Army, the chief Port in Cyprus.

Further Westward is a Promontory, in form of a Peninsula, now called, Capo delle Gatte, formerly Curias, from a City not far distant of the same Name, now called Episcopia. On this Promontory is the Ruines. of a Monastery of Greek Coloieros, who bred up Cats to destroy Serpents, and to return home upon the found of a Bell, and therefore by some called the Cape of Cats.

Phrurium Promont. now Bianco, is the place from whence they were thrown that but presumed to touch Apollo's Altar in the adjoining Grove.

Paphos Nova, Ptol. Neapaphos, Plin. Palapaphos, Strab. & Mel. Paphyum Polyb. now Baffo, or Bapho, built by Agapenor, five wiles from the old Paphos, said by Ovid to be built by the Son of Pigmalion, by. his Ivory Statue; such, said to be, in regard of her Beauty. Others fay it was built by Cyneras, Father and Grandfather to Adonis, who having sworn to assist Menelaus with 50 Ships, fent him only one. with the Models of the other in Clay to colour his Perjury. Both places famous for the Worship of Venus, and the Sacrifices which her. Votaries of both Sexes did perform in their natural Nakedness: But her Temples were razed to the ground by the procurement of St. Barnaby, not only here, but throughout the Island.

Eastwards of Capo St. Pifano, formerly Pro. Acamas, was the City. Arsinoe, now Lescare, Lusig. or Crisoca & Alessendretta, renowned for the Groves of Jupiter.

This Island boalts of the Births of Asclapiades, Solon, Zeno the Stoick, Apollonius and Zenophon. A Country abounding with all things necesfary for Life, and therefore called Macaria,; and afforded matter to: build a Ship from the bottom of the Keel, to the top of her Topgallant, and to furnish her with Tackle and Munition. In Summer exceeding hot and unhealthy, annoyed with Serpents. The Brooks, for Rivers it hath none, are often exhausted by the Sun, and for. 36 years, in the time of Confrantine, it never rained. It was first possessed by the Sons of Japhe:, paid Tribute tothe Egyptain Amasis, conquered by Belus, and governed by the Posterity of Teucer, until Crrus. expulsed the nine Kings that there ruled. After the Grecians reposselt. : the Sovereignty, and kept it until the death of Nicocles; then it fell under the Government of the Ptolomy's; then the Wealth of it allured. the Romans to make a Conquest of it; restored to Cleopatra, and her Sister Arsinoe, by Antonius; but he overthrown, it was made a Roman Province, and with the Transmigration of the Empire, submitted to the Bizantine Emperors, governed by a Succession of Dukes for 800 years, when conquered by our Richard I. and given in Exchange for the Titular Kingdom ferusalem, unto Guy of Lusignan, in whose Family it continued until Ann. 1473. It was then by Catharina Cornelia, a Venetian Lady, the Widow to King fames the Bastard, who had taken it by force from his Sister Carlotte, resigned to the Venetians; who, 97 years after, lost it to the Turks, under whose Yoke it now groaneth. 'Tis for the most part inhabited by Greeks, whose Ecclesiastical Estate is governed by the Archbishop of Nicosia, and the three Bishops of Famagosta, Paphus, and Amathus.

Its chief Mountain is Olympus, containing 50 miles in its Basis, now called the Mountain of the Holy Cross, cloathed with Trees, and stored with Fountains and Monasteries, possessed by the Greek Coloieres of the Order of St. Balil.

Its Commodities are Oil, and Grains of several sorts. Wine, that lasteth for eight years. Raisins of the Sun, Citrons, Oranges, Pomgranates, Almonds, Figs, Sassron, Coriander, Sugar, Turpentine, Rhubarb, Colloquintida, Scammony, &c. Cotton, Wools, Chamelets, Salt, Sope, Ashes.

There are Mines of Brass, some Gold and Silver, Green Soder, Vitriol, Alom, Orpiment, White and Red Lead, and Iron, divers kind of precious Stones, viz. the Emerald and Turky.

Thus having described the chief places of the Ottoman Empire, I shall also give a short account of their Government, Policy, Religion, &c.

In order whereunto, we need not so much regard their first coming out of Scythia, Anno 577. nor when they seized on Armenia Major, giving it the Name of Turcomania, Anno 844. nor when Trangrolipix overthrew the Persian Sultan, 1030. nor yet when Cutlu Moses revolted from him, and made a distinct Kingdom in Arabia: But when Octoman, by strange Fortunes, and from small Beginnings, swallowed up the other Families into the Ogusian Tribe, and united them into one Head, Anno 1300. from thence must we deduce the first Foundation of the Ottoman Empire: They had then no Government but what was Martial and Arbitrary in the highest degree; wherefore it is not strange, if their Laws are Severe, their Justice Rigor, their Government Tyranny: That their Emperor should be absolute, uncontroulable, whose Speeches may be irrational, and yet Laws; whose Actions irregular,

So that when one reflects on the small reward for Vertue, and no punishment for thriving Vice; how men are raised by Flattery, Chance, and the sole Favour of the Prince, to the weightiest and most honourable Charges of the Empire, without any previous deserts, or experience of Parts or Abilities: When one considers, that one Frown of their Prince cuts them off, that their Treasure is their Snare, and their Riches will inevitably effect their Ruine, though they have all the Arguments of Faithfulness and Honesty; one might admire the long continuance of this vast Empire, and wonder at the encrease of its Dominions.

But that which cements all Breeches, and cures the greatest Disorders, is the quickness and severity of their Justice, which makes every Crime relating to Government, equal, and punishes it with the last and extreamest punishment, Death. And to die by the Hand, or Command of the Grand Signior, with an entire Resignation, is accounted the highest point of Martrydom, the greatest reward of Faithfulness, and the consummation of all Flonour. Otherwise this great Body would burst with the Poyson of its own ill Humors, and spread into ruinous Divisions.

The Youth, that are designed for the great Offices of the Empire, are called by the Turks Ichoglans, which are of Christian Parents, taken in the War, or presented from remote Parts, so that they have no other Relations nor Dependencies; no other Interest to serve, besides that of their Great Master, to whom they are taught by Education, and compell'd by necessity, to be faithful. And indeed they are the best adapted Instruments for such a Tyrannic Prince, whom he can raise without envy, and destroy without danger.

Their chiefest studies and learning is in Reading and Writing, being instructed in the Arabian Tongue, wherein the Secrets and Treasure of their Religion and Laws are contained, especially the Alcoran. The more Polite and Ingenious learn the Persian Tongue, which fits them with Eloquence, corrects the grossness, and enriches the barrenness of the Turkish Language.

The Visier Azem, or Prime Visier, whose great Office of Charge and Trust, as it is the highest, so it is the nearest to fove's Thunderbolt. and most exposed to Envy and Destruction. It being the Policy of the great Princes of the East to constitute one on whom all the blame of miscarriages in Government might be thrown, whilst they with the more freedom enjoy their Softness and Luxury. This great Minister, as he is the Representative of the Grand Signior, because to him all the power of the Sultan is immediately devolved; so he is the Head or Mouth of the Law; and to him are all Appeals made, and his State and Greatness lives in the Honour of him whom he represents; and his Power, in respect of his Inferiors, is as ample as his Master's who gives it him. Next to this Visier Azem, are the several Beglerbegs, which are so many general Governments, upon which depend several Sangiacks or Provinces; there being in Turkie about 30 Reglerbegs, whereof 22 are Ha's, that is, such as have their Revenue allotted them in the places that they govern, collected by their own Officers according to Commission: Of which the first is Kiotai, or Choutaja of Anatolia, t he yearly Revenue of which is a Million of Aspers, and hath under its Jurisdiction 14 Sangiacks, and the Command of 22 Castles. The 2d is at Cogni, or Iconium in Caramania, whose Revenue is 660074 Aspers, and contains 7 Sangiacks, and 20 Castles. The 3d Diarbeker, or Sangiar, whose Revenue is a Million 200660 Aspers, and hath 19 Sangiacks, of which a 11 are properly belonging to the Ottoman Royalties. and are Curdian Countries, called Hukenmet, or Saline, which have no Lords or Timariots to command them, but are absolute Masters of their own Estates. The 4th is Soham, or Damas, whose Revenue is a Million of Aspers, and hath 7 Sangiacks, and 5 Sangiacks Saline. The 5th is Siwas in Armenia, which hath 900000 Aspers Revenue, and 6 Sangiacks, and 19 Castles. The 6th is that of Erzerum, on the Confines of Georgia, which hath a Revenue of a Million 200660 Apers, and contains 11 Sangiacks, and 13 Cassles. The 7th is the Government of Wan or Van in Media, of a Million 122209 Aspers, and hath 14 Sangiacks. The 8th is Tebilder, on the Confines of Georgia, with a Revenue of 925000 Aspers, and 9 Sangiacks. The 9th is the Government of Scheberezulin Affria, which hath a Million of Aspers, and 20 Sangiacks. The 10th is Halep, or Aleppe, which hath 877772 Apers, and commands 7 Sangiacks, and two in which are no Timariots. The 11th is Marasch, near the River Euphrates, being a Revenue of 628450 Aspers, and commands 4 Sangiacks. The 12th is the Government of Cyprus, or Kibros, allowed a Revenue of 500650 Aspers, and commands 7 Sangiacks, 4 with Ha's, and 2 with Saline, and 14 Castles. The 13th is Tripoly of Syria, or Tarabolas Scham, hath a Revenue of 800000 Aspers, and 4 Sangiacks. The 14th is Trabizond, formerly the Imperial Seat of the Comneni, seated on the Euxine Sea: This hath no Sangiacks, but the Revenue is 734850 Aspers, with 14 Castles. The 15th is that of Kars, hath a Revenue of 820650 Aspers, and commands 6 Sangiacks. The 16th is that of Mosul, or Ninevel, in Affria, a Revenue of 681056 Afrers, and commands 5 Sangiacks. The 17th is of Rika, hath a Revenue of 680000 Aspers, and 7 Sangiacks: These are the Beglerbegs in Asia. Of those in Europe, the 18th, viz. that of Romuli is the most honourable; the Seat of the Palca, or Basha, is at Sophia, it hath a Million and 100000 Aspers yearly Revenue, commands 24 Sangiacks, whereof Morea was one, tho now made part of the Revenue of the Queen-Mother. The 19th is the charge of the Kupudan, or General of the White Seas, whose Revenue is 88,000 Aspers; he is Admiral of the Turkish Fleet, and commands 12 Sangiacks, whose Residence is at Galipoli. The 20th is that of Buda in Hungary, it commands 21 Sangiacks. The 21st is that of Temeswaer, and hath 7 Sangiacks. The 22d is that of Bosna, now called Sclavonia, which commands 8 Sangiacks. Those that are with Salary, or paid out of the Grand Signior's Treasury, are first, that of Grand Cairo, or Mistr, who hath a Revenue of 600000 Scheriffs, or Zechins, a year, and commands 16 Sangiacks, besides as much is the Tribute paid the Grand Signior, and another Sum of 600000 Zechins yearly goes to the Payment of the Turks. The 2d is the Government of Bagdet, or Babylon, which hath a Revenue of a Million and 700000 Aspers, and commands 22 Sangiacks. The 3d is that of Yemen in Arabia Felix, whose place of Residence is Aden, upon the Red Sea, which is now under the power of the Arabians. As is also the Government of Habeleb, upon the Confines of the Abassines, now wholey lost to the Turks. And the Government of Bojra, or Balfera, a Maritime City in the Sinus Persicus, where were reckoned 26 Sangiacks, but now the Turks have no power there. Lastly, the Government of Luble; on the Confines of Ormus, where are 6 Sargiacks, but poor and inconfiderbale.

To these, we should add the Governments of Algiers, Timis, and Tripoli in Barbary, but these are now much fallen off from the Turk's obedience, and almost independent, and subsisting of themselves.

Besides the Dominion of the Grand Signior already mentioned, he possesses Suaquem upon the Red Sea; Dolfar and Elcalif, Asab, or Azac, at the Mouth of Don; Temreck, near the Palus Meotis; Caffa, and other places in Lesser Tartary; Bessarabia, Ocziacow, and Dussan, towards the Mouth of the Nieper, and the Kingdoms of Zibit and Ziden, in Arabia the Happy. All which may be seen in the following Map.

So that in less than 300 Years, the Turks have made Conquests in Europe, Asea, and Africa, as considerable as those of the Romans, who spent 850 e're they accomplish'd theirs.

The delightful Fields of Asia, the pleasant Plains of Greece, the Plenty of Egypt, the Fruitfulness of the Nile, the Luxury of Corinth, the Substance of Peloponnesus, Lemnos, Scio, with other Isles of the Egean Sea, the Spices of Arabia, the Riches of great part of Persia and Georgia, all Armenia and Assyria, the Provinces of Asia Minor, the Countries of Syria, Palestine and Phanicia, the Principalities of Moldavia, Valachia, Romania, Bulgaria, Servia, and the best part of Hungaria, concur altogether to satisfy the Appetite of this Turkish Sultan; In all the Extent of this vast Territory, the Lands and Houses, as well as the Castles and Arms, being all his, and at his sole Disposal and Gift; only to Lands dedicated to Religious Uses he disclaims all Right, and will not (to the shame of our Sectaries) violate the Penetralia of the Sanduary.

The absolute and unlimited Power of this Prince is evident by his Titles, as, God on Earth, The Shadow of God, Brother to the Son and Moon, The Giver of all Earthly Crowns, &c. And 'tis an ordinary saying, That the Grand Signior is above the Law, that the written Law is controulable, that his Mouth is the Law it self, and the power of an infallible

Interpretation is in him.

It is vulgarly known to all, that their Law was compiled by Mabemet with the help of Sergius the Monk, whose infamous Life is particularly recorded by many Authors, and too tedious to be repeated here: I shall therefore only say, That though there is a great diversity amongst Doctors as touching the Explanation of their Law; yet there are five Articles, or Fundamentals thereof, to which every Turk is obliged.

1. Cleaness in the outward parts of the Body and Garments. 2. To make Prayers five times a day. 3. To observe their Ramazan, or monthly Fast. 4. To perform faithfully the Zekat, or giving of Alms.

5. To make their Pilgrimage to Mecha, if they have means and possibility to perform it. The sole Article of Faith required to be believed, is, That there is but one God, and Mahomet his Prophet.

When Mahametanism was first weak, and therefore put on a modest Countenance and plausibe Aspect to deceive Mankind, then it courted and favoured the Christian Religion, drawing its Tenets and Doctrines in some Conformity to that Rule, confessing Christ to be a Prophet, and greater than Moses, that he was born of a Virgin, &c. But as soon as its Government encreased, and that by Arms and bad Arts the Grand Signior had secured his Kingdom; his promises of Toleration and Indulgence were changed into a harsher Note, and his Edicts were then for Blood and Ruine; what knots of Argument he could not untie, he cut, and made his Spiritual Power as large as his Temporal. Yet towards his Followers, he rendred his Precepts easie and pleasant, acceptable to the Fancy and Appetite, as well as to the Capacity of the Vulgar: Representing Heaven to them, not in a spiritual manner, or Delights unexpressible, and Ravishments known only in part to illuminate Souls; but with gross Conception of the Beauty of Women, of the Duration of one Act of Carnal Copulation, of the beaftly Satisfaction of a gluttonous Palate? and that Persuasion and principle in their Catechism, That the Souls of those who die in the Wars against Christians, are therefore immediately transported to Paradife, must necessarily whet the Swords, and raise the Spirits of the Soldiers, and is the reason they run so eagerly to their own Slaughter; esteeming their Lives and Bodies at no greater Price than the value of Stones and Rubbish to fill Rivers and Ditches.

The Mufti is the principal Head of the Mahometan Religion, or Oracle of all doubtful Questions in their Law, and is of great esteem amongst the Turks. When he passeth Determination in any Case, it is brought to the Cadie or Judge, and the Grand Signir himself will in no wise contradict or oppose it; so that Law-Suits of the greatest moment are concluded in an hour without Arrest of Judgment, Appeals, or other dilatory Arts of Law.

The State of Marriage is accounted both Honourable and Holy amongst the Turks, yet the Priests or Churchmen hath the least hand in the Solemnity, but it is performed by the Cadie or Judge. Polygamie is freely indulged to them by their Religion, as far as the number of four Wives. And least this Confinement should seem a restriction of their Liberty, and free use of Women, every one may besides enjoy his Women Slaves, which is not much envied by the Wives, so long as they enjoy their due Maintenance, and a reasonable share in their Husbands Bed: For if neglected above a Week, she hath Remedy by Law; and if she be so modest not to sue for the Default, she is often so ingenious to contrive a supply of her Wants, being accounted the most lastivious of Women, and excel in the most refined and ingenious Subtilities to steal their Pleasure; which if discovered, the Blood of her Family is reckoned tainted and disgraced; but the Husband getting a Divorce, quits himself of his Wife and Dishonours together.

- Among all the Privileges that the Sultan enjoys above his Subjects, this one he has less than they, that he cannot marry, yet hath as many Women as serves his use, tho never so libidinous, which are kept in the Seraglio, like Horses in Stables.

Circumcisson is not reckoned one of the Five Points which constitute a true Mahometan Believer, but is only proposed as a tryal and proof of Man's obedience to the more necessary parts of the Law.

They never Circumcife their Children until the Age of 7 years. and upwards; and then they do it by a Barber or Chyrurgion.

The Forces of the Turks are very numerous, their Armies well difciplin'd, and the Belief of Predestination, besides the use of Opium, makes them bold to undertake any Enterprise. Their Militia is of two forts, one receives Maintenance from certain Lands bestowed on them by the Grand Signior: And these again are either Zaims or Timariots, which together may amount to about 100000 Men, and come under the general Denomination of Spahi's, and compose the Turkish Horse.

The other fort, which receive their constant pay in ready Money, out of the Grand Signior's Treasury, are the Janizaries, who are now increased to the Number of an 100000, and the next main Sinew of the Ottoman Power; being considered in the Wars, they are the best Disciplined Soldiery of the Turkish Camp.

Besides these in Egypt, there are 20000 Horse, paid at the Charge of the Country, and 80000 Timariots; the Crim Tartars are also to furnish him with an 100000 Men, and the Prince in Person to lead them, if the Grand Signior come into the Field; otherwise but half the Number. But the Ottoman Armies are not now so renowned for their Chivalry and Discipline, as in former times; that ancient Sublimity and Majesty of the Sultan is much abated, their Forces by Land decayed, their Maritime Power weakened, nothing remains of their Ancient Government and Valor; nor doth the Ottoman Court remunerate the Services, exalt the interest of the Cavalry, or maintain the Reputation of the Janizaries; but grow Rich and Luxurious with Peace and Plenty, they are much declined from their Greatness and Power: for in this vast and large Empire Countries are depopulated, Villages abandoned, whole provinces, as pleafant and fruitful as Tempe or Thessaly, uncultivated and turned into a Defert or Wilderness.

their Appellation.

The Arabians that live in Cities, go by the Name of Moors. They that live in the Deferts are divided into Tribes, and every Tribe into Families, which have every one a particular Cheik, who acknowledges the supreme Cheik. These Vagabond Arabians boast themselves to be the most Noble People in the World; for which reason they never ally themselves with any other Nation but their own. They could never be subdued either by the Egyptians, Persians, Greeks, Romans, or Turks: But, on the contrary, they have fetled themselves in several Parts of Africa, where they have a large Dominion. They wander up and down in that fashion, the better to find out Pasturage for their Cattel, and to free themselves from the oppression of the Turks. The Basha's of the Grand Signior, who are their Neighbours, and the Caravans, are forced to give Money to the Cheiks, to preferve themselves from being molested or despoiled by them in their Journies. Under Ulit, one of the Caliphs, or Arabian Princes, their Empire extended from Messa, upon the Atlantick Sea, to the River Industification length it exceeded the Roman Empire.

The Arabick Language is so enchanting, that 'tis' a common Hyperbole, That the Saints in Heaven, and those in Paradise, speak it: And as in it the Holy Decalogue was given, so, as an Allay, therein was hatched the Delusive Alcoran, and therefore is generally received in Afia.

These Archians, because of their continual lying in the open Fields, were once a counted the best Astrologers and Physicians in the World, as Rhasis and Mesue, Avicen and Averroes Philosophers; Algazales, Hali, Albumaxer Astrologers; great Geographers Leo and Abulfeda.

The Beduins and Bengebres, who are the most known People, are so inclined to Robbery, that their principal Maintenance consists in plundering of Passengers, claiming a Priviledge to demand Ishmael's Right from the Sons of Isaac. They are very dextrous on Horseback, in managing their Bows and Half-Pikes, so that Thirty Turkish Musqueteers will hardly attack Ten of these Arabians armed after their manner.

Their Wealth confifts in Herds of Cattel and Horses, which will travel great Journies; of which they make so great reckoning, that they keep a Register of their Breed, which is approved by certain Judges.

The Succession of the Kingdom belongs to that Noble Person who was first born after the King was proclaimed. And, indeed, to compare the Manners and maxims of the Asiaticks and Europeans to gether, we may say, That the Arabians are like the Kalians, the Persians like the French, and the Turks like the Spanjards

Arabia, in general, was first called Ethiopia, is subject to such excessive Heats, that People are constrained generally to Travel by Night. There are abundance of Mountains, but sew Rivers. It is divided into three parts. The Stongs the Defert, the Happy. The two first belong, almost, to the Turk; the Happy Arabia acknowledges feveral petty Princes.

The Stony Arabia Barraab, Nabathæa Ptol. Barra Castald. Bengaucal Zeigler. Rathal-Albagh incolis, was anciently possessed by the Midianites, Moabites, Amalekites, and the Idumæans, or Edomites. The Lands of the Ammonites or Amorites, and of Og King of Bashan, were parts of Arabia Petrea; though it be also true, that some part of Arabia Deserta belonged to the Ismaelites and Amalekites; The Inhabitants thereof at this time pay a Tribute to the Basha of Cairo. Petra gave it its Name, which signifies a Rock, whereon it was built, was a place of great strength, and much noted as well in Holy.
Writ, as in prophane History. Besieged in vain by Severus, and before him by Trajan, who was compelled to throw away his Imperial Habit, and slie for his Life.

The Soldans of Egypt; for the exceeding strength thereof, kept therein all their Treasures. Of this place, see more in the Description of Canaan, and the bordering Countries.

Bostra, now Bussereth, is a place of good Esteem, I suppose the same with Petra.

Tor, or El Tor, upon the Red Sea, is a pittiful Haven, defended by a Four-square Castle; near to it are found Champignons, petrified white Coral, Seal-skins, Small Oysters, and sometimes Sea-Monsters like men. They report that this was the Haven Ezion Geber, from which Solomon sent his Ships for Ophir. Mount Horeb and Sinai are samous in Scripture.

Ana upon the Euphrates (the place where the Grand Seignior's Tribute is paid; as the Lord of the Country) is the best place in it. There is one King in Arabia that has a moving and portative City, that is to say, it consists in Tents, which he can command them to carry where he pleases. Sumiscasae is thought to be the ancient Saba, whence the Maginset forth to adore Christ, and the Queen to visit Solomon.

But Sir Thomas Herbert tells us, That after the Flood, Nimrod Sovereignizing at Babylon, his Brother Havilah seated his Colony in Susiana, Seba, Raamah, and Sabbata, in Arabia. Seba or Sbeba fixed on the Western Coast adjacent to the Red Sea, where he built a City after his own Name, from whence the Queen came that visited Solomon, as he supposething the same that solomon is the supposet the same that solomon is the supposet the same that solomon is the supposet the same that supposet the same that solomon is the supposet the same that sa

That Sabata planted the South-part of Arabia; and Raamah, or Rhegma, on the North-east part towards Balsera, where they built Cities after their Names, mention'd Ezek. 27.

In these parts was the Wilderness where the Children of Israel wandered 40 years. Here Moses established Ecclesiastical and Political Laws. Here was the burning Bush, the Water-bearing Rock, the Mountains of Sinai and Horeb, and Mount Hor where Aaron died.

The Happy Arabia, Hyaman or Aimar, Gemen or Giamen Turcis, Marmotta, Sarracenis; Sabæa, Plin. carries that Name, as being a more fruitful Soil than either of the two. It breeds excellent Horses, Manna, Cinnamon, Myrrhe, Balsam, Benjamin, Incense, and other Perfumes; so that if Aromatick Gums, Succulent Fruits, Frage Flowers, and such fort of Delicacies please thy sense, say, Arabia is the Phænix of the East, and with Danæus, The Epitome of Delight, and with St. Austin, Paradise. The Air is temperate and healthful. The Country enriched with pleasant Streams and Fountains, whose Waters are Medicinal.

Aden is a Town of great Trade, standing in a little Peninsula, at the soot of a Mountain guarded with two Castles towards the North, and a small Fortress at the Entry into the Haven. The Portugueses, when they first settled themselves in the Indies, had a design to make themselves Masters of this City, as also of Ormus and Malacca. But the Turk prevented them from taking Aden, the King whereof they hung at the Yards-Arm of the Admiral's Gally. Since which, some other Revolutions have happen'd, so that the Natives of the Country have again dispossessed the Turks. Mecca and Medina are samous for the Pilgrimages of the Mahometans. For which they that make them, are in high efteem among the rest. They go particularly to Meeca, to pay their Devotions to a Four-square House, which they call The House of God, and pretend the same to have been built by Abraham. This City, containing about 6000 Houses, stands about a days Journey from the Red Sea, being the place where Mahomet was born; whose Body was afterwards translated to Medina, upon the discovery of Albuquerque, the Portuguese's design to have surprized the Port of Ziden, otherwise Gidde, with an intention to have carried away that Mahometan Relique. The Country about Mecca produceth abundance of that sort of Berry, of which Coffee is made.

Omir, the Burial place of Mortis-Ali, Saint, King and Prophet of the Persians.

Medina is three days Journy from the Red Sea the burying place of Mahomet, as the Turks pretend. The Sepulchre or Tomb wherein Mahomet lieth, is enclosed within an iron Grate, and covered with Green Velvet, which is every year made new, and fent by the Grand Seignior, the old one being by the Priests cut in little pieces, and sold at great Rates, as Reliques, to the Pilgrims. In the Temple where this Tomb is placed, there are faid to be 2000 Lamps of Gold and Silver, wherein is Balfam, and other Rich Odours, Ointments and Oils continually kept burning. They would impose it for a Miracle that his Tomb should hang in the Air by means of the Loadstone: But besides that there is no such thing, were it true, there were no wonder in it; For Democrates the Athenian, by the Order of Ptolomey King of Egypt, undertook to make the Statue of Arsinoe all of Iron, and to hang it up in the same manner. And in the Temple of Serapis in Alexandria, there was an Iron Sun that hung in the Air by the force of a Loadstone, being a rare piece of Workmanship.

The Prince of Mecca, called Sultan Sheriff, is one of the most potent Princes in all Arabia: His residence is usually at Almacharana, feated on the top of an high Mountain of difficult access.

Sanaa is one of the greatest, fairest, and strongest Towns of Arabia, adorned with Vineyards, Meadows and Gardens.

Dafar is one of the chief Ports upon the Red Sea, next to Zibit, near the mouth of the Red Sea, which is Fair, Rich, and of great Trade for Drugs, Spices, Perfumes, &c. Once the Residence of a Turkish Beglerbeg; before that, the Seat of a King, beheaded by the Turks, at the same time when the King of Aden was hanged at the Yards-Arm of the Admiral's Ship. Fartach, a Kingdom and City near the Sea, Canem, Gubeibaman Alibinali, Amabziridin, Masfate, Mascalat, and Jemen, are so many Sultanies or petry Kingdoms in the Happy Arabia: Muscate, or Mascatfaif, not far from Razelgate, Corodanum Ptol. Sobar in the Eastern part had also formerly the Trade, but since the same hath been translated to Ormus and Gombron. Mocha upon the Red Sea is an open City, indifferently well built, and fortified with a small Castle. CATA STATE AND S

THE Kingdom or Empire of Persia, is at present one of the greatest and most famous of Asia; yet is but a part of the ancient Empire of the Persians; for the Assyrian Monarchy contained all all that which both Turk and Persian at this day possess in that part of the World: And beginning under Ninus, lasted 12 or 1400 years. ending in that Notorious and effeminate Epicure, Sardanapalus,

After which it was divided into that of the Medes and Babylonians, who continued it less than 300 Years. Then the Persians made themfelves Masters of it during 200 and odd Years, under Cyrus Son of Camebyses, Son of Cyrus, Son of Darius, Son of Achamenes, Son of Perses, who, saith Isidore, gave Persia its Name. In Nimrod's days, called Chusa, or Cuth; in Chedorlaomer's, and to Daniel's time, Elam; afterwards Persia, from Persius, Son of Perseus, a Grecian Hero, Son to Jupiter, by Danae the Daughter of Acrisius. Afterwards called Arsaca, from Arfaces the Heroick Parthian. After by the Inhabitants, Artea. By the Tartars, Corsaca. By the Arabians, Saraednea. By the Turks, Azamia and Axmia. Farsi & Farsistan Incolis.

The Macedonians and Greeks succeeded; for having Ruined the Empire of the Persians, they gave a beginning to that of the Macedonians: But Alexander the Great held this Empire but few Years, and dying, it was Cantonized out among his Captains, who, taking the Title of Kings, waged War against each other, till the Romans seized the Western, and the Parthians the Oriental part of that Mo-

These Parthians freed themselves from the Rule of the Macedonians 250 years before the Birth of Christ, and reigned near 500 years.

Artaxerxes restored the Persian Government 228 Years after Christ's Nativity. About the Year 605, the Caliph of Bagdat, Omar, or Hoshmar, the Third after Mahomet, became Master of it. So that Persia, after a long uninterrupted Succession of 28 Kings from Artaxerxes, fets in an eclipfed Cloud, and becomes fettered under the Iron Yoke of a Saracenick Bondage; once garnished with 22 Kingdoms, formidable to the Roman Emperors, and Mistress of the greatest part of Asia.

In the Year 1257 or 8, the Tartars exterminated the whole Race of the Caliph of Bagdat. And in the Year 1472. the Turcomans of Armenia got the Kingdom. But about the Year 1505. Ishmael Sophi once more re-established the Persians in the possession of the Oriental part of that ancient Empire, which now extends from the Tygris and Euphrates on the West, almost to the River Indus on the East; And from the Persian Gulph, and the River Oxus on the North, to the Persian and Indian Seas on the South.

17. Is Curdiftan, or Arzerum, formerly Assyria, excending all along the East-side of the River Tygris, from the Lake Van, to the Frontiers of Bagdat.

18. Is Yerach, or Hierack-Arabi, otherwise the Country of Babylon, or Chaldea. These three last Countries being most now under the Turkish power, we have already discoursed thereof.

The Government of Persia is Despotick, or absolutely Arbitrary, the King having the fole power of Life and Death over all his Subjects, without any Tryals, or Law-proceedings. Nor is there any Sovereign in the World more Absolute than He; yet, in the exercise thereof it is faid to be gentle and easie, supportable both to Persians and Strangers. And for the Laws of Hospitality, they are so strictly observed, that the King will have all Strangers to be his Guests. The general Title given to the King of Persia is that of Sha, though the Vulgar call him by the Name of the Sophi, which is a proper Name. The Persians had ever a very great Veneration for their Sovereign. And, at this day, they believe it to be a greater Asseveration to swear by the Name of their King, than by the Name of their God, perhaps out of the same belief with those of Achem in Sumatra, who say, that God is far off, but the King is near at hand. The Wealth of this King is very vast, as appear'd by the Treasure which Alexander found in the Coffers of Darius. And to descend towards our Times, Sha Sophi, one of their last Kings, had no less than 7400 Markes of Gold-Plate for the ordinary Service of his Court.

The King deceasing, the Eldest Son ascends the Throne, whilst his Brothers are kept in the Haram, and their Eyes put out; and oftentimes the Children of the King's Brothers and Sisters also, to avoid Competition for the Sovereignty, and Rebellion.

The State of Persia is distinguished, like most of the European States, into three Bodies.

The first of the Sword, which answers to the Nobility.

The fecond is that of the Gown, which answers to the Law and Religion.

The third is composed of Merchants, Handicrastsmen, and Labourers.

The Athemat Doulet is the Prime Minister in Temporals, the Sedre in spirituals, whose Offices are much the same with the Grand Visier's and the Musti in Turky.

The greatest part of the Lands in Persa belong to the King and are farmed by private persons; the rest are measured, and pay so much a measure. The King hath also a vast Income by Merchandises that pay Custom and Toll.

The Commerce of this mighty Empire confifts in Trade of the Country, and Foreign Traffick. The Country Trade is in the hands of Persians and Jews. The Foreign Trade is in the hands of the Armenians, who are Factors for the King and Noblemen.

Their Commodities are curious Silks, exquisite Carpets and Tissues, with other Manusatiures of Gold, Silk and Silver, great quantities of Linnen Closh of all forts of Colours. Their Seal-skins and Goat-skins are transported by the Hollanders into India and Japan, as also into Moscovy and Poland. The famous Ronas Root is transported over all India, great store of dried Fruits, of Candid Quinces, and Boxes of Marmalet made at Balsera, Fruits pickled in Venegar, sweet Water, Almonds, Raisins, and Purgative Prunes; They vend abundance of their Camels into Turky, great store of Horses and Mules into India, and a prodigious number of Sheep into Natolia and Romania.

The natural Complection of the Persians is Tawney, as may be seen by the Gaures, the Original Inhabitants of the Country; but the present Persians, by reason of their frequent Marriages with fair Georgian Women, have contracted a better degree of Comeliness and Beauty.

The Justice among them is very exact and speedy, Suits being determined upon the place. Murther severely punished, and extraordinary Care taken for the security of the High-ways, for Thieves find no mercy; and if a Merchant be robbed, the Governour of the Province makes good the Loss.

The Air of Persia varies according to the diversity of its situation; the Country of Edzerbeitzan is very sharp and cold, but healthy; the Air of Kilan is very unwholsom; but the Province of Mazandran, from September to March, seems a kind of Terrestrial Paradise. At Ispahan in the middle of Persia, there are six months of hot, and six months of cold weather. In the Southern Provinces the Heats are very excessive: In some parts the Snow falls three or four times in a Seafon and fometimes very thick; but Rain there is very little. As for Woods there are none in all the Country; and Springs are very fcarce to Travellers. 'Tis a Country generally mountainous, out of fome of which they dig Salt, as Stones out of a Quarry; and there are fome Plains there, where the Sand is nothing but Salt. Of late feveral Copper Mines have been found out, of which the Natives make all forts of Kitchin Houshold-stuff: their Lead comes from Kerman, their Iron and Steel from Corazan and Casbin; fome Mines of Goldand Silver there were, but the Expence is more than the Profit. The Provinces of Guilan and Mazandran furnish'd all Persia with Oil. Armenia, Mingrelia, Georgia and Media abound in Vineyards, but their Vines they bury all Winter, and take them up in the Spring. The Flowers of Persia are not comparable to those of Europe for Variety or Beauty; nor are their Apples, Pears, Oranges, Granates, Prunes, Cherries, Quinces, Chesnuts, Medlers, and other forts of Fruits so well tasted as ours; yet their Apricocks, the better fort, are better than ours; which when you open, the Stone cleaves in two, and the Kernel, which is only a small Skin as white as Snow, is most pleasant to the: Tafte; so likewise their Melons are most excellent, very plentiful, and more wholesome than ours.

Their Fowl are much the same as we have in Europe, and their Poultry, are very plentiful, only there are no Turkies. All sorts of Water-Fowl are commonly in some parts of the Country; and as for Birds of Prey it wants none.

The Native Inhabitants are generally very inquisitive after suture Events, consulting their Astrologers like Oracles; much addicted to illustrate and percent Dissert Dissert

The two great Sects amongst the Followers of Mahomet (which are most violent against each other) are the Turks and Persians. The First hold Mahomet to be the Chief and ultimate Prophet; the latter preser Haly before him, and esteem his Inspirations greater, and his Interpretations of the Law more Persect and Divine; and their Grand Festival is the Feast of Hocen and Hussein. The King permits the Carmelites, Capuchins, Austin-Fryers, and other Orders, to have their Houses and Churches in his Royal City of Ispahan, where their Superiors live in nature of Ambassadors for the Christian Princes:

They are as superstitious as the Turks, and believe material Enjoyments in Paradisa; the others, more refined, affirm, That Beatitude consists in the perfect knowledge of the Sciences; and for the Senses, they shall have their satisfaction according to their quality.

Their Women are esteem'd the hansomest in all Asia, their Horses the nimblest, their Camels the strongest: And in the Country they commend the Bread of Yezdecas, the Wine of Schiras, and the Women of Yez'd.

The Persian Language is so sweet, that it is only in use among the Women and Poets; the King and Nobility generally speaking the Turkish Tongue.

The greatest Trade is at Bagdat for Turky, and at Gombron for the Indies. The Kings of Persia permit Strangers to trade upon their Coasts, but not to build Forts: and the Mogul and Emperor of China observe the same Policy in their Dominions. They lie between two potent Neighbours, the Turk and the Great Mogul. The Strength of their Kingdom consists chiesly in its Situation, being surrounded by high Mountains and vast Deserts. Ishmael Sophi brought into the Field an Army of 300000 Men against Selim Emperor of the Turks. And other Persian Kings have had Armies of 7 or 800000 Men: But generally their Armies now a-days consist not of above 50 or 60000 Horse, besides 30000 which are always kept upon the Frontiers.

The Militia is divided into three forts, which are the Corschis, generally called Kesel-Bashi, or Red-heads, in number about 22000 all good Soldiers and Horsemen.

The fecond fort, the Goulams or Slaves, Renegado Georgians, who are about 18000, being also Horsemen.

The third fort are the Tafenkgiis, who are composed of Men taken from the Plough, as most fit for Labour; they are Footmen arm'd with a Scimeter and Musquet.

The Persians, especially the Rich, are much less subject to Sickness than the Europeans; nor are they much troubled with the Pox, for the dry Air of the Country is an Enemy to it; besides, they go often to the Bath, to sweat out the Venom of that Distemper; for as for any Method of Physick, they have none; Diet is the chief Remey which the Physicians prescribe in all Diseases, and account most vereign.

They divide the Natural Day into four parts; from Sun-rifing to Noon, from Noon to Sun-fet, from Sun-fet to Midnight, and from Midnight till Surrife; and in the Vulgar Computation of Time, make

The First Month begins upon the 11th of our March, the day of the Vernal Equinox being the first day of their Year; upon which Day if a Persian hath not money to buy him a new Habit, he will mortgage his own Body to have one.

The Persians betroth their Children very young, at nine or ten years; and among the Armenians some are married and lie together at five or six; their Law allows them but four Wives, but they may have as many hired Women as they please, and may also enjoy their Slaves whom they purchase; the Children both of the one and of the other are accounted Lawful, and inheritall alike. The Nobility of the Persians is tounded upon their being descended from Mahomet, and these have the Title of Mir or Prince; and the Daughters that of Mirza or Princes.

The Persians wear Red Turbants, the Tartars of Giagatary Green ones: The Turkish Turbants are White, and the Greeks Blue. And as they are thus distinguished in the Colour of their Turbants, so if we regard the natural Emities of Nations, we shall find as great an Antipathy between the Turks and Persians, as there is between the Chineses and Japanners, the Armenians and Nestorians, the Arabians and Abassines, the French and Spaniards, the Italians and Greeks, the Germans and Polanders, the Danes and Suedes, or the Muscovites and Tartars.

The Capital City of all Persia is Ispahan, built by Arsaces, who enlarged the Parthian Dominions, and called Dara, afterwards Aspadara, also Nymzamena by Ben. Jonas Hagistan, Clu. Asbahawn by the Arabian Geographer; Saphaon Mandevel. Spahawn Herb. Spahan, Afpachan, Izpaan and Hispahan, in some Maps and Authors. 527 Miles from the Persian Sea, 360 from the Caspian, 450 from Babylon, and 870 from Candahor: By which last distance, agreeing very near with what Tavernier makes it viz. 390 Agats, (every Agat being a Province League) I find Persia is at least 2 or 400 miles too much in length. in most Maps, and in some much more: As it is the Residence of the Persian King, and in the Centre of his Empire, Noble; as feated on a vast Plain, which extends three ways 15 or 20 Leagues, fair and pleafant; for Air healthy; confidering her Palaces, stately; her Gardens delicious and fragrant; her Piazza's, and the Wealth of her Bazars or publick Market-places rich and populous; only the Streets are narrow and dark, and annoyed with Loads of Ordure and Filth; in the Summer Dufty, and in the Winter Miry.

Zulpha,

Zulpha, or felphey Herb. is a little City, separated from Ifphaham by the River Sonderou, and is a Colony of Armenians, who enjoy Lands and great Priviledges. They have 15 or 16 Churches and Chappels, and no Mahometans may live amongst them.

Schiras, Sherazz à Persis, Schirasium Baud. Sheraz Herb. Siaphas Ben fonas, Xirias Don Garcias, Zyras P. Venet. Cirecatha Steph. Cyropolis Muslaedini-Saddi: A City no less ancient than great, according to that Proverb, Quando Schiras erat Schiras tunc Cairus erat ejus pagus, and is now the Second City for Magnificence in the Persian Monarchy, pleasantly seated at the end of a spacious Plain circumvolved with losty Hills, enriched by Trade, made lovely by Art. The Palaces rise so amiably, the Mosques and Hummums with their Carulean Tiles, and gilded Vanes, among the Cypresses so glitter by restecting the Sun-beams in a curious splendor. The Vineyards, Gardens, Cypresses, Sudatories and Temples, ravishing the Eye and Smell; so that in every part she appears fair and delightful.

Here Cyrus, the most excellent of Heathen Princes, was born; and here his Body (all but his Head, which was sent to Pisagard) lies entombed.

Here the Great Macedonian glutted his Avarice and Bacchism. Here the first Sybel sung our Saviour's Incarnation; And here a series of 200 Kings have swayed their Scepters.

The Government of Schiras is one of the Highest Commands for a Subject, and is particularly famous for the most excellent Wines in all Persia.

Tavernier tells us, That now it looks rather like a Town half ruined, than a City; And that there is a wonderful Well, which is 15 years rifing to the top, and 15 Years falling or finking to the bottom.

Persepolis, by the Greek and Latin Authors, Elamis by the Persians and Oriental Nations, when in its Persection was the Metropolis of the World, & Totius Orbis Splendor, when in its slourishing condition, saith D. The Success of Antiochus Epiphanes at Jerusalem, when he sacrilegiously ravished ten Tuns of Gold, made him march to Persepolis with an Army, in hopes of getting the greatest Exchequer in the World; for the Babylon and Shushan were very rich, the one surnishing the Macedonian Victor with 50000 Talents, the other with 9 Millions of Gold, and 50000 Talents in Bullion; yet in Persepolis there was found 120000 Ta-

Time would fail me to mention the lofty Palace of the Persian Emperors, which for Situation, Prospect, Richness in Materials, and Curiosity of Art, rendred it incomparable of that Majesty and Splendor, as put the World's Conqueror into amazement at his entrance thereinto. But alas! this rich and samous City, yea, the Palace also, was at a drunken Feast, in a debauched Humour, by the instigation of Thais, and at the command of Alexander, set all on fire; an Act which the Great Prince would have quenched with his Tears; but preceding mischiess are not amended by succeeding Lamentations: but of the Mausolea, the Temple dedicated to Anaia, or Diana, and of the Ruins of it at this day, called Chilmanor, or Chehelminor, Vide Herbert's Travels.

Comeshaw, where Sir R. Shirley was once Commander, thought to be the Caunaza, where there the memorable Battel betwixt Artaxerxes and Cyrus his Brother was fought. Others think it the same

Near Gheez is a narrow Strait, the Mountains on either side are very precipitous, and vastly high, not more than 40 Yards broad, and 8 Miles long, and is one of the three noted Passages through the Mountain Taurus, which leads to Hircania; through this Strait the sair Amazonian came to Alexander.

Periscow Herb. Firuscheuch Val. is noted for the abundance of Phea-fants, and other Game for Hawking.

Asharaff Herb. Escref de Val. is about two Miles from the Caspian Sea, in Latitude 38 degrees, 17 minutes, due North from Ispahan. Here Sha Abbas gave Audience to Sir Dodmore Cotton the English Ambassador, and is but five miles from Ferrabaut the Hircanian Metropolis.

Ferrabaut, or Estrabut upon the Caspian Sea, some take this for the Remains of the old Amarusa, some for the Socanda Ptol. others suppose it to be the Phraata, which Marcus Antonius besieged when he invaded Media, to be revenged for the Death of Crassus the Rich, who, with 20000 of his men, were slain by Phraartes the Parthian.

Omoul, by some Zarama, by others Ladracarta, where Alexander refreshed his Army in the pursuit of Bessus the infamous Bactrian; others think it to be the Remains of Nabarca, where the Oracle of Dreams was famoused. The Inhabitants observe six or seven several Sabbaths.

At Damoan the Jews inhabit in great numbers, having, as they report, been feated, ever fince the Transplantation from Canaan by Salmanasser, 2 Kings 17. 6. and also say, that upon the Damoan Mountain Noah's Ark rested.

Sula, or Sulhan, every where famoused for one of the three Royal Palaces the Median Monarchs so much gloried and delighted in; was the place where Abashuerus kept his Court, and some other Kings: Alexander there espoused Statyra the Persian Princess, and Daughter of Darius, and Ephestion her Sifter. Here he made a Feast for 9000 Guests, to each of which he gave a Cup of Gold. Here he got 50000 Talents in Silver, and 9000000 Millions of coined Gold; now Valdac or Baldach, P. Venet. Suftra Caft. It was called Ulai in Daniel, Eulaus Plin. Tiritiri Sans. Here Cyrus the Great entertained his most beautiful Parthea. Here Alexander gave 10000 Talents to pay the Debts of those that had a mind to return into Greece, and received a recruit of 20000 young Soldiers. Here it was also that Hester obtained so much favour for the Jews, and where Haman was hanged in the place of Mordecai. It is related, that the Palace of Susa, built by Darius, was enriched by Memnon, with the Spoil of the Great Thebes in Agypt, and that the Stones were fastened with Gold. Next Persepolis it was reckoned one of the most sumptuous Fabricks of the Kings of Persia; but this Ciis now waste and desolate.

Congo or Bander Congo, is a City upon the Gulph of Balfara, not much unlike Toulon in Provence: It rose from the Ruins of Ormus, as well as Gombron; and there is a Custom-house, of which the Per-

Some believe it to be the ancient Pasugardes, where the Grand Cyrus vanquished Astyages, and translated the Empire of the Medes into that of Persia. Calanus, an India: Philosopher, suffered a voluntary Death there, in sight of the whole Macedonian Army. It has been much dispeopled by Earthquakes, which often happen in those Parts.

Larr is the Capital City of the Province, which formerly bore the Title of a Kingdom; it is enclosed on both sides with high Mountains, being built round about a Rock, upon which there stands a Castle, where the King keeps a Garison; the most part of its inhabitants are fews; there is no Water but Rain-water, which does not happen sometimes for three years together, which Water standing in the Cisterns so long, breeds Worms, and whether you strain or boil it, there will remain a soulnessand corruption in it, which breeds Worms in the Legs and Feet of men; and J.B. Tavernice saith, That at his return to Paris the sifth time of his Travelling, he had one came out of his Lest Foot an Ell and a half long, and another from the Ankle of his Right Foot an Ell long.

At Jaarown, or Gaarom, about 20 Farfangs, or 62 English miles from Larr, the Inhabitans are most Jews who tell us, they are the Issue of Reuben, Gad, and the half Tribe of Manasses, who by Tiglath Pilasser were carried captive to this place, 2 Kings 17. 6. and that the-Off-springs of Dan, Zebulon, Asher and Naphthali were planted at Damoan.

Near this place is a precious Liquor or Mummy growing, carefully preserved for the King's sole use. It distils only in June, from the top of those mountains, a most redolent Gum, sovereign against Poyson, a Catholicon for all forts of wounds.

Taurs, (the Echatana of the Ancients, the Metropolis of the Empire of the Medes) by the Turks Taberyz; by Ezra, Achmetha, is a great City, and well peopled, the general Mart for Turky, Muscowy, the Indies, and Persia; for all forts of Merchandize, especially Silks.

Anno 1514. the Grand Signior Selym sent a Basha with an Army, and ransack'd it: 1530 Solyman invaded it with so much sury, that it slamed many days; reviving again it was made prostrate to Ibrahim Basha's Luxury 1534. But 1585, it groaned under the greatest Suffering, when Osman Basha, Slave to Amurat, perpetrated all manner of Cruelty.

In the year 1630. it was almost ruined by Sultan Amurath, but now re-edified, the Buildings of Brick being baked in the Sun. At this City are seen the Ruins of stately Structures, or great Mosques or Temples of a prodigious height and magnitude. In one dedicated to Diana, the Great Artaxerxes sequestred the sair Aspasia, whose Beauty made him and his Son Competitors. Here are dressed the greatest part of the Shagreen Skins that are vended all over Persia.

Casbin. Cazbyn Herb. Kazwin by the Persians: The Arsatia of the Ancients, or Arsisaca of Strabo. Here Parmenio was killed, and Fff2 Ephestion

Ephestion, Alexander's Favourite, died, and a Monument erected, upon which was spent 12000 Talents, or 7 Millions of Crowns. Then did the Altar smoke with Incense, and Tearswere offer'd up in Sacrifice, and the dead Corps worshipped as a Deity. It is a great City without Walls, thought to be the Rages in Tobit, the best half of it is in Gardens, seated in a large and fair Plain, 30 miles in compass. Here died Sir Robert Shirley, and Sir Dodmore Cotton, the Ambassadors who went for Persia, Anno 1626, having no gilded Trophies to adorn their Sepulchres, only their Virtues, which will out-last those bubbles of Vanity. Here also died Abbas the Persian Monarch in the year 1628.

A Thousand warbling Notes their Throats displays, Which their sweet Musick chants as many ways.

About 11 Leagues from Tauris, a Lake about 15 Leagues compass, in the middle of which is a little Hill, that rises insensibly, out of which there bubble out many little Springs; and the Earth which they water is of two strange distinct Qualities; for one fort serves to make lime, the next to that is a hollow spungy Stone, and under that is a white transparent Stone, which is onely a congelation of the Waters of these Streams; for sometimes you shall meet with creeping Animals congealed therein; for one piece sent to Sha Abbas, Tavernier offered 15000 Crowns, in which was a Lizard about a foot long.

Ardevil is not only famous for the Royal Sepulchres of Sha Sefi, and other Persian Kings, and for the Pilgrimages that are made to it; but also for numerous Caravans of Silk, which render it one of the most considerable Cities in Persia: It is of a moderate bigness, seated in a lovely opening of the Mountains, the Avenues of it are very pleasant, being Allies of great Trees, and is watered with a Caschan is also a large City, and well peopled, stored with Silk-weavers, which make the best pursted Sattins mix'd with Gold and Silver. The Houses are fairly built. The Mosques and Baths are in their Cupoloes curiously caruleated with a seigned Torquoise. The Buzzar is spacious and uniform. The Caravansera is the most stately Fabrick of that kind in Persia.

Bakuy gives its name to the Caspian Sea; and near to it there is a Spring of Oil, which serves all over Persia to burn in Lamps.

Kirman towards the Ocean affords very fine steel, of which they make Weapons very highly priz'd: For a Scymiter of that Steel will cut through an Helmet with an easie Blow.

Ormus formerly bore the Title of a Kingdom: As to the Name, it was called Organo and Gera by Verrerius, Necrokin by B. Jonas, Zambri by the Tartars, Vorolta by Niger, Ormusia by Josephus, Omiza Pliny. Amozon Ptol. Ogyris Theuetus, Curtius and Rusus, Ternia Strabo, where Prince Erythaus was buried, from whom Mare Rubrum had its denomination. The Island is about 15 Miles in compass, subject to such excessive heats, that it produces nothing considerable but Salt, and is two good Leagues from the sirm Land. There is not a drop of fresh Water in it but what is carried thither.

In the Year 1507, it was reduced under the Crown of Portugal by Alphonso d'Albuquerque. The fair and delicate Situation of Ormus, for Trade and Commerce, as it was the Staple and Glory of the Eastern World, has occasioned some to say, That if the World were a Ring, Ormus was to be the Jewel.

In the Year 1622. Sha Abbas took it by the Affistance of the English, commanded by Capt. Weddal; and then translated the Trade to Gombron, which he called by his own Name Bender-Abassi. The Portugals lost about 6 or 7 Millions at the taking of the Town.

Gombrou, or Gomrou, Hacand Ofor. since the Fall of Ormus, is become a City of great Commerce, guarded with two Castles in which are planted 80 pieces of brass Ordnance. The Air is so hot and unwholesome, that no Strangers can live there above 3 or 4 Months in the Year, but for 6 or 7 Months are forced to retire up in the Mountains 2 or 3 days Journy off. About 3 Miles from Gombron, is the samous Bannyan Tree, of as great Repute, as the Idol Oak to our Druidæ of old: Now all Nations that traffick upon the Indian Seas, and Land Caravans, carry Commodities thither, and bring from thence thence Velvets, Taffaties, Raw Silk, and other Persian Commodities: So that now Ormus is ruined, and may well be called Ormab, or destruction.

Baharem, upon the Coast of Arabia, is the ancient Tylos yet belonging to Persia; it is an Island famous for its Springs of fresh Water at the bottom of the Sea: For its Pearl Fishery, where are found the clearest, biggest, and roundest in all the Levant. The Air is so unwholsom and so hot, that no Strangers can live there, unless it be in December, January, and March; for the Wind is so sultry and stifling, that it suffocates and kills them presently; and sometimes its so hot, that it burns like Lightning.

But at Bander Congo the Air is good, and the Soil and the Water excellent; only the Passage for Ships is dangerous, and therefore not so much traded to as the other.

The City Candabur, is the chief of one of the conquered Provinces of Persia; Sha Abbas lest the possession of it to Sha Sesi, in whose time Alimerdenkan delivered it up to the Great Mogul: But Sha Abbas the Second took it in the Year 1650, under whose power it still remains.

At Caramon-Shashoon, of old Counstia, was decided that Famous Contest for the Persian Crown betwixt Artaxerxes and Cyrus.

Of

Imaum, Sucæ, Sogdiana, and the greatest part of Sarmatia Asiatica, extending it felf the whole length of Asia.

If we look back to their Original, we shall find that they were of all other, the most Ancient people, patient in Labours, sierce in War, and strong of Body; their Flocks and Herds their greatest Wealth; Silver and Gold they contemned as much as others coveted it; Meum and Tuum, those common Barretors and Authors of Debate, were not known among them: And the ignorance of Vice did as much contribute to their welfare, as the knowledge of Virtue doth to others.

The first grand attempt of these People, of which we find any mention, was when the Chazari, or Chezars, in the time of the Emperor Justine, overspred all that vast Continent between China and Boristhenes, conquered part of India, all Bastria, Sogdiana, and made the Persians Tributaries, and possessed also Taurica Chersoneses, called by them Cassaria, or Cazaria: The residence of their Prince was about the mouth of the Wolga, which the Tartars called Athel, a large City of great trade; by Nassir Eddin, called Belanjar; and by him and Abusteda placed in 46 Deg. 30 Min. N. Latitude, which is within a few minutes where Olearius makes Astracan, and doubtless may be that which he calls old Astracan.

These Chazari did continue till about Anno Chr. 900. at which time they gave place to the Comanians, or Cumanians, a Turkish Nation, who inhabited all that Tract of Land from the Neiper unto Turquestan; these were almost totally destroyed by the Tartars, soon after the death of Ingis Chan, or Cingis Chann, under the conduct of Batu or Bathy, Nephew to Hocata the Tartarian Emperor, only the King Kuthen escaped with 40000 men into Hingary, where they had a Country alloted them, called to this day Campus Cumanus.

Bathy having destroyed the Comanians, established his own Dominions, and fixed his abode on the East of the River Volga, and built a place, and called it Serai, which was a great and populous

City, the Ruins whereof are now called Czarofsgorod.

But when Tamerlan, who was Viceroy or General of those Countries comprehended between the Oxus and Iuxartes, had extended his conquests towards Baleh and Chorasan, (the Aria of the Ancients) Thuotamisch then Emperor of Serai, filled with jealousies of his growing greatness, gathered a great Army to invade him, whom Tamerlan met on the borders of his own Country, and after a most bloody fight gained the Victory; after which Success Tamerlan having subdued great part of India, Persa, Media Armenia, Mesopotamia, Babylonia and Syria, resolved to requite the Invasion of Thuctanish; whereupon with an Army of 500000 Men, he marched through Media, passed passed the Porta Caucasa, now (Derbert), and over Volga, and at last encountred with Thuckamish. The Battel was long and doubtful, three days without intermission; at last Thuckamish was deseated and fled, leaving his Country exposed to the fury of his Enemies, who demolished Sergi, with other Cities on the north and west of the Cas pian Sea; and leaving the Country a defert, they returned into Persia. After this devastation, these Tartars, by discords, fell into feveral divisions, and Tamerlan dying, his great Empire was also divided amongst his Children; so that Tartary is now divided into several Hords and Tribes; but the knowledge we have of them is so little, the Asaxy or disagreement and confusion of Authors that write of them, fo great, that I am not a little doubtful what to write of them, that may be of any certainty for the Readers satisfaction: however in this obscurity we shall follow the light of the best repured Geographers, and say, that the Asiatick Tartarie is divided 1900 live great parts. The Defert Tartaria, Zagathy, Tarquestan, Northern Tartarie, and Crim Tartarie.

The Defert Tartarie is so call'd, because most part of the Lands lie untill'd; for the Tartars are a people that hate Agriculture, and laugh at Christians for feeding on the Tops of Reeds, for so they call our Gorn: The Inhabitants are divided into several Tribes or Hordes, of which the more considerable are, I. The Nejagan Tartars, or great Nagor, whose Country is all plain and desert 400 or 500 miles in length, between Astracan and Sumara, and 200 miles in breadth from Astracan to Teike or Iaik River; it hath no senced Towns or Habitations, though sormerly there were divers, especially that of Czarossgored, said to have been 20 miles in Circuit, seated between the River Volga and Astabon, in a fertile and healthful Country: And Astracan I have on a rising ground not far from the mouth of the Volga, about 12 miles distant from the Caspian-Sea, guarded with a strong Castle, and encompassed with Water.

These Tartars are said to be more Tall and Proper than the rest, but ill savoured, broad Faces, stat little Noses, small hollow Eyes, and of Blackish; or rather Tawny Complection: The heat of the Sun for some months of the year is most excessive, and the Cold in the Winter no less extream.

Polygamy is much in fashion amongst them, having many Wives according to their ability, if one Brother die, the other takes all his Wives; and if all the brothers chance to die, then the Wives are devolved, like other Goods and Chattels, unto the Eldest Brothers Son; not suffering a Married woman in any wife to go out of the Kindred.

nda of Ptol. Tarquest an lies east from Usbeck, and is subdivided into several Kingdoms; of which the best known are Caschar, or Hiachan, Chialis of Turphan, Chiartiam, Cotam. Thebet, or Tenduo ... Camul. That of Cascar is the richest, and is well stored with Rhyba by That of Ciartham is the least and sandy, but hath many Jaspars and other Stones.

Those of Cotam and Chialu have Corn, Wine, Flax and Hemps: Thebet or Tanguth is stored with Musk and Cinamon, whose Kings were formerly called Un-Chan or Prester John, a Tiple now erroneoully conferred on the Abassine or Ethiopian Emperor in Africa; for Preshiter, John was chief of the Kingdom of Tanchut, or Tanguth which the Tartars call Barantola, the Sarazens Boratai, and the Natives Lasla, which is by the content of all knowing persons seated in Afia, next to the confines of the great Mogul, amongst the Mountains of Caucasus and Imaus. It was in the year 1248, when King Lewis was in the Island of Cyprin at Nicolia, that Ambassadors from one of the Tartarian Princes, whose Name was Ercalibay, informed the King, that the Great Cham of Tartary had about three years before been baptized, having been converted by the Empress his Mother, and Daughter of a King of the Indians; She having always been a Christian; and that their Master Prince Ercalthay, who had also for a long time been a Christian, was fent by the Great Cham with a potent Army against the Cailiffe of Baldge, an Enemy of the Christians.

The Name of Presbiter John, denoteth some Christian Prince, whose Dominions are placed by the consent of most knowing Perfons, not among the Ethiopians, nor in any part of Africa, as most suppose.

fuppose, but in the Continents of Asia; but in what part formerly 'twas, is not exactly known. Some Authors say they were Kings of Cathar, which is doubtful, because 'tis now discovered by modern Relations and Travels into those parts, that all Cathar is but the Northern part of China.

But it is more than probable, that besides that portion of Land. there is another large part of the World conterminate on the north and west, unto the Empire of China, which in former Ages had the Name of Cathay, and is the fame with that of Thebet, by some called Begargar, &c. as aforesaid, which clearly appeareth by a Voyage of two Fathers from China to the Mogor, who tell us that at Bietala, a Castle at the end of Barentola, the Great Lama or Priest did then reside, and gave an account of their Christian Religion: And to me it feems further confirmed, by a Journy made into the Western Tarta-77. Anno 1682. by the Emperor of China; we have this account of those People, In all the Western Tartary there is nothing to be found but Mountains, Rocks and Vallies; there are neither Cities, Towns or Villages, nor Houses. The Inhabitants lodge under Tents in the open Fields, which they remove from one Valley to another, according as they find pasture. They pass their life either in Hunting or doing nothing. As they neither Plow nor Sow, fo they make no Harvest. They live upon Milk, Cheese and Flesh, and have a fort of Wine not much unlike our Aqua-Vita, with which they are often Brunk. In short, they care for nothing from morning to night, but drink and eat like the Beafts and Droves which they feed. They are not without their Priests, which they call Lamas, for whom they have a fingular veneration; in which they differ from the Oriental Fartars, the most part of whom have no Religion, nor do they bedieve any God. This part of Tartary lies without the prodigious Wall of China for more than 300 Miles; of which Wall, faith our Author, I can fay without Hyperbolizing, that the Seven Wonders if the World put together, are not comparable to this Work. And all that Fame has spread concerning it among the Europeans, is far short of what I my felf have seen. He also tells us, that divers of the Petry Kings of the Western Tartary, came from all sides for 200 Miles, and some for 500 Miles, together with their Wives and Children to falute the Emperor. That this Country is divided into 8 provinces, and now Tributary to the Emperor of China.

the King of Niulbam, or Niuche, called Xunchi, conquered China at twelve years of Age, with the faithful affiftance of his two Uncless a young Conqueror, not only famous for his Success, but also for the Moderation which he used to his newly subdued people. And itis certain, that these Tartars know of no Cities or Towns beyond the Wall of China; therefore Cathay can be no other than the Northern part of China, and Cambalu is Pekin; and Quinzoy answers to Hanchun.

The Northern Tartarie, which is called the True Ancient Tartarie, is coldeft, most untilled, most barbarous, (and most unknown of all;) Some amongst them have their Kings, others live by Hords, or Commonaities: as for their Names, 'tis easy to give what Names men please, in parts wholly unknown.

But in the Year 1682. the Emperor of China made a Voyage into the Eastern Tartary: In this Journey (saith the Father Verbiest who was the Publisher of it) we always went towards the North-East, from Pekin, in all 1100 miles to the Province of Leac-tum; the way being about 300 miles, the Capital City whereof is Xin-Yam in the Latitude of 41 Degrees 36 Minutes; a City very fair and pretty intire, and has in it the Remains of an ancient Palace where was no declination of the Magnetick Needle.

This Province is about 400 miles from the Frontier to the City. Ula; but all the Cities and Towns are intirely ruined, only fome few Houses built of Earth, or the Rubbish of old Buildings, and covered with Thatch or Straw.

That all the Country beyond the Province of Leao-tum is exceeding defert, where nothing is to be seen on all sides but Mountains and Vallies, Dens of Bears, Tygers, and other devouring Beasts; here and there a poor Reed-hut upon the side of some Brooks.

The City Ula, on the River Songoro Tart. Sumboa-Chin. lies in 44. Degrees 20 Min utes. The Needle there declines from the South to the West 1 Degree 20 Minutes, and is the fairest in all this Country, and sometimes asso the Seat of the Empire of the Tartars.

But Kiron is about 30 Miles from Ula, upon the River Songoro, which takes its Course from the Mount Champe) famous for having been the ancient Seat of our Fartars. That the Muscovites come of tentimes to the River Songoro to fish for Pearls. That the Distance of Kiron from Xin-Yam was 1028 Chinese Stadia, containing 369 miles; the Chinese Stadium being 360 Geometrical paces.

Ishall only add, that by this Relation it doth appear to me, that Niulban, or Niucbe, must be the same Country which is here call'd Leao-tum, for the Emperor's design was to visit the Sepulchres of his Ancestors.

Of

THE Name of India is now given to the Empire of the Mogul. to the two Peninsula's, one on this side, the other beyond Ganges, and the Islands scattered in the Indian-Sea, which are all comprehended under the General Name of the East-Indies, under which Appellation fome Authors do also take in all the Oriental Part of Asia. The Old Inhabitants hereof were by Megasthenes said to be 122 feveral Nations; originally descended from the Sons of Noah. before their Journey to the Valley of Shinaar; and Heylin faith that the Plantation of India did precede the attempt of Babel. Its first Invasion was by Semiramis, with an Army of above 4 Millions, (if Ctefias and Diodorne Siculus fay true) who was met with by Staurobates an Indian King, with as great an Army, by whom she was overcome and flain. The next Invation on this Country was by Bacchus, the Son of Jupiter, accompanied with Hercules, who by force or by arts overcame them, and taught them the use of Wine, Oyl, and the Art of Architecture. After this Alexanden invaded India, beginning first with Clopbae, Queen of Magaza. After with Porus, whom he vanquished and took; but giving them their Liberty and Kingdoms again, he returned into his own Country; after this they lived in peace under their several Kings, until the year 1587, when discovered by the Portugals, after by the English, Dutch, &c. in a marker of the first the same as the first bear in a direct Line descendant from him; there are several Indian Kingdoms tributary to him, and he is esteemed the richest Prince in the world, and the most potent Monarch of all Afa.

The Territories of his Country being his own Hereditary Revenues, the great Lords are but his Receivers, who give an account to Governors of the Provinces, and they to the chief Treasurers and Comptrollers of the Exchequer. He is also the general Heir to all those to whom he gives Pensions, and his Will is a Law in the decision of his Subjects Affairs, and therefore they carry the Names of their Employments, and not of the Lands which they enjoy.

Sha Jehan, who Reigned Forty years, left behind him about 5 Millions, and the Throne that he made cost an 160 Millions, and 500000 Livers; besides six other Thrones set all over with Diamonds, Rubies, Emeralds, and Pearls: Teste Tav.

The Money of this Kingdom is of a good Alloy: The Mogul is able to bring 100000 Horse in the Field, but his Insantry is very inconsiderable, either for Number or Experience. He has a good number of Elephants, which do him great service; for they are sure of foot, and lie down and rise up very readily. The King is a Turkish Mahumetan, nevertheless the most part of his Vassals are Pagans: But as there are several sorts of People, so likewise there are divers forts of Religions amongst them, which I shall briefly mention at the end of the description of the East-Indies.

The Mogul's Country is very fertile and well peopled near the great Rivers. They make excellent Bread, having Corn and Rice in abundance: Victuals, in general are very cheap, however the Inhabitants are very temperate and fober. The neighbouring Country to Tartary is full of Mountains and Forests, where the Mogal ofttimes takes his pleasure in Hunting, there being great abundance and variety of wild Beafts: And there it was that Alexander cut down the Wood for the Ships which he fent down the Indus into the Ocean. As for Remains of Antiquity there are few or none, the Moguls having ruined all the ancient Cities, which (according to the Ancients) were 30 large Cities, 3000 walled Towns and Castles, for natural Defence reckoned impregnable, which may not be improbable, if it were, as some affirm, the first Seminary or Station of Noah; after his descent from Ararat, not far hence distant, and afterward the delight of Bacchus, which some think was the same with Neab; and from the wonderful encrease of People, which appears by that huge Army Staurobates drew out in his defence against Semiramis the Affrian Empress, both Armies containing 3 Millions. And so well builded and planted was this part of India, that when Alexander, by the overthrow of Porus near the River Hydaspis, entered India, Herodotus and Curtius report, that Alexander should say, He found greater Cities and more sumptuous Buildings in King Porus's Dominions, than he had observed in all the World besides.

Indus is Navigable from Labor to Sende; the Natives call'd it Pang-ab, by reason of the five Rivers that fall into it toward the upper part of its Course, which are now called Rauee, Bebat, Niladan, Coul, and Send; by Ptol. Acesimes, Cophys, Hydaspis, Zaradas and Hispalis.

Ganges was formerly famous for its Gold, now for its Water, which is very pure. The Nativeshold, that it fanctifies them, whether they drink, or whether they bathe in it.

There are in the whole Empire about 37 Kingdoms, the Names whereof are almost the same with those of the Capital Cities, viz. Agra, Attock, Bakar, Bakisch, Bando, Bengala, Berar, Buchar, Cabul, Kakares, Candahar, Candis, Kanduana, Cassimere, Chitor, Delli, Gor, Guzarate, Haiacan, Jamba, Jenupar, Jesselmere, Jesual, Maluay, Mevat, Multan, Narva, Naugracut, Patna, Pengab, Pitan, Sambal, Siba,

There are also some petty Territories, as the Raja's, which are of very ancient Extraction, and maintain themselves in Mountains and Fortresses that are inaccessible. Some of their Cities, that terminate in Pore, seem to retain the memory of Porus; as others by Scander, the Name of Alexander. The Dominions of the great Mogul are larger than the Persians, and equal to those of the great Turk. His strength lies in the Number of his Subjects, the Vastness of his Wealth, and the Extent of his Empire, his Revenue exceeding the Persian and the Turks both puttogether; but the Sophi surpasses him in Horse, in Arms, and warlike People; And with the Turk he keeps a good Correspondence, as being both of the same Religion. Guzerat yields him yearly above 18 Millions of Gold, and the Merchants of that Country are accounted the best in all India. It contains 3 sair Cities, Amadabat, Cambaya, and Surat, with about 30 others very considerable.

Amadabat, Amacastis Ptol. teste Herb. Amadavistis in Arrian, one of the greatest Cities in India, and of a vast Trade. The Buzzar is Rich and Uniform; The Castle Strong, large Moated; The Mausoleum Stately, compassed at a little distance, with the Dormitories of many Cambayan Potentates; and two Miles off, are the chio, was call'd the Indian Caire, as well for its Greatness, as also for its Traffick, and the Fertility of the Soil. Here they shape the fair Agats that come from the Indies into several forts of Workmanship, and in the Suburbs they make Indico. The Tides are so swift to the North of the Gulf, that a Horse at full Speed cannot keep pace with the first Wave. The Streets were formerly lock'd up every Night, but the Sea and its Trade is fallen away from it.

Surat, the Muziris of Ptol. Herb. Siraftia, Sanf. about 40 days Journy from Agra, drives as great a Trade as any of the Cities of Afia, though the Access to it be very dangerous; and the River Tappy or Tindy, which rising out of the Decan Mountains, glides through Brampore, and in Meanders runs by the Walls of Surat, and after 14 or 15 Miles circumgyring to and fro, discharges it self into the Ocean, so shallow at the Mouth, that it will hardly bear a Bark of 70 or 80 Tuns, so that the Ships are forced to unlade at Soali or Swali, remarkable for the mischance of Capt. Woodcock, who, at the taking of Ormus, had lighted upon a Frigat laden with about a Million of Ryals, which he seized, and coming into this Swali Road, the Whale sunk. Alas! the uncertainty of fading Pels. The English and Dutch have there their Presidents and Factories, making it the greatest Mart in the East-Indies.

Baroche is of a great Trade for Cottons, the English have a very fair House there, not far from which place Tavernier tells us That of a dry stick, a Mountebank in less than half an hour made a Tree four er five foot high, that did bear Leaves and Flowers.

Broudra is a great City, in a fertile Soil, and of a great Trade for Calicuts.

At Navapour near Surat, grows the best Rice in the World.

The famous Port of Bombay, the Milizigeris of Ptol. belongs to the King of England, where is built a strong Fort, and Mony is coined there.

The Portugals have had frequent Quarrels with the Mogul about their Fortress of Diu, the Patala of Ptol. teste Nig. & Pinet. Patalena & Hidaspa Plin. & Strab. Petacal. Castaldo, Barace of Ptol. Adriano. Here after Alexander had sailed down the Indus, and arrived at this place, he invaded the Country of the Oxydrachans, and stormed the principal place of the Mallians, where temerariously mounting the Parapet, and violently leaping into the Town, followed but by 2 Officers, he had perished by the Darts and Weapons of his Enemies, had not the Army, as men desperate, in his Rescue, enforced their speedy Entrance.

This Island is about a League long, and four Musquet-shot broad; the Haven is barred with an Iron Chain, being under the command of the Cannon of the Castle. It was Nobly defended in the years 1539, and 1546, against prodigious Armies; so that the Mogul was forced to let them settle there to his extreme distatisaction; But the last Relations from those parts bring News, that the Portugals have been at length constrain'd to abandon it.

Agra was of old (as fome tell us,) called Negara, before that, Dionysiopolis, founded by Bacchus. Nissa Justino, vide Haclust fol. 489. It contains the Capital City of the Empire, able to raise 200000 fighting men upon occasion. The Prince receives a great Revenue for about 200 Stows that are therein. It is twice as big as Ispahan, but ill-built, and without Walls; and has been enlarged since 1566. When Eckhar resided there, and having built a stately Castle or Palace, gave it the Name of Echar-Abad. Deli or Delby, was the Residence of the Mogul before Agra, and so continues, since Sha Jehan had built the New City and called it by his Name Jehan Abad, or Gehanabat, where the Mogul hath a stately palace half a League in Circuit. Gouleor is a Castle where the Mogul imprisons to Princes of the Blood that he suspects.

bor is the Metropolis of that Kingdom, built upon one of the five Rivers that descend from the Mountains to swell the River Indus. It is the Rendezvous of the Caravans, and was the ancient Bucephalus, and has been by report, 24 Leagues in Compass. Naugracut shews an Idol, to which many come in Pilgrimage.

Fettipore, if the Water had been good, by this time had triumphed over all the Cities in India.

Bannaras, on the Banks of Ganges, is full of mishapen Pagods.

Cabul, the Chabura of Ptol. by some thought to be the Alexandria Arachosia which the Macedonian built near the Mount Caucasus, whose City bears the same Name, is large and well fortified; of great Trade for Horses, Sheep, and other Cattle, and is in the great Road from Lahor to Samarcand.

Mando is one of the fairest Towns of the Province of Malva, fortified with Walls and a Castle on the top of a Hill.

Siranaker is the chief City of Cassimere.

Multan is of a rich Soil, and great Trade for Callicoes, but decayed.

Attok, or Atek Tau, is one of the best and strongest Garisons the H h h 2 great great Mozul has, and no Stranger is permitted to enter without the King's Pasport.

Buckar stands where the Rivers Rawey and Chaul sall into the Indus. Lourehander and Diul are the Ports to Tatta. Januagar is the chief City of Soate, Beisher of Bankish, Dankalus of Kakares, Hardware of Siba. Jambu gives Name to its Province, as also doth Sambal.

Bikanar is chief of Bakar, and Narual that of Meuat. Pitan and Patna gives Name to their respective Provinces; between the Kingdoms of Cambaya and Bengala are the provinces of Candis, Chitor, Maluey, Berar, and Ranas, whose chief places are Brampore, Chitor, Raniipore, Shapor, the Sora of Ptol. by Baud and Gurchitto. Fesselmere is the City where Ekbar was born. Asmere is samous for the Sepulchre of Hogi. Hendown, Bande and Janupar, are three Provinces near Agra and Delli. Rotas is one of the strongest places in Asia.

Brampore, Baramatis Ptol. is a great City, but much ruined, with a Castle in the midst of it; of a great Trade for Calicuts, some painted with Flowers of divers Colours, others white and clear, and some striped with Gold and Silver.

Chytor is a City upon a high Rock, claiming Precedency for Antiquity amongst all the Cities of India; of old Taxilla, supposed to be the Metropolis, whence King Porus issued against great Alexander. After which Battel, Alexander celebrated the Bacchanalia at the Mount Mæres, and for 15 days glutted his Army with those mystick Popperies, and constituted his Argiraspides. And at Nyssa, built by Bacchus upon the Bank of the Hydaspis, a Branch of the River Indus, Alexander reposed, samous in those days for the Sacre's Mount, and incomparable Vines there abounding, which some think to be the first Plantation of the Patriarch Noab.

Scronge and Chitpour are of great Tade for painted Callicuts, called Chites; those of Seronge are the most lively Colours, and lasting.

Hallabas, or Elabasse, the Chrysoborca in Plin. by some Nisua teste Herb. is a great City upon the confluence of Jeminy and Ganges, which River there, is no broader than the Seine before the Loure; and at some times in the year so little Water, that it will not bear a small Boat; much resorted by the Bannyans, for the Relicks of divers deformed Pagothia's. These Bannyans swarm in multitudes all over the Indies, sucking in the sweeness of Gain by an immeasurable thirst and industry: But the Moors and Gentiles often ravish it from them; for the Bannyan is no Hector nor Fighter, but morally honest, rally neft, Elora, not much above three hours from Doltabad, is famous for the many Pagods of Gigantick Figures of men and women cut in the Rock, so that if one considers the number of spacious Temples sull of Pillars and Pilasters, and the many Thousands of Figures, all cut out of a Natural Rock, it may be truly said, That they are Works surpassing Human Force.

The River Ganges having received an infinite number of Brooks and Rivers from the North-East and West, discharges it self by several Mouths into the Gulph of Bengala, making several pleasant. Islands, containing many Towns covered with lovely Indian Trees.

Patna is one of the greatest Cities of India upon the Banks of Ganges, about two Leagues long, where the Hollanders have a House, because of their Trade in Salt-petre.

Daca is a great Town, about two Leagues long by the fide of Ganges, where the English and Hollanders have very fair Houses for their Goods and Trade, reckoned the Capital City of Bengala.

At Ouguely is the general Factory of the Dutch, and at Cassen Baser is the House of the Director of all the Holland Factories in Bengala.

Kachemire, Cachmin and Kichmir. Thev. is esteemed the little Paradise of India, by reason of its Beauty. At Bannereus upon the Banks of Ganges and Jaganate, upon the mouth of it, are the chief Pagods; than which nothing can be more magnificent, by reason of the quantity of Gold and Jewels wherewith they were adorned, and millions of People repair thither to celebrate their Festivals.

Benzala, famous for its temperate Air, for the Fertility of the Soil, for the great store of Rice, for its Cane or Bamboo's, and its Calamba Wood, which yields the most pleasant scent in the Worldi. It gives its Name to one of the most famous Gulphs of Asia, called Golfo de Bengala, the Simus Gangeticus of Ptol. Its yearly Revenue paid to the Mogul, comes to a Million and 500000 Roupies clear; the chief City thereof is Bengala, by some Satigan. Gange Ptol. Ganges Strabo. Thevenot calls this Province Oulesser; the Idolaters, Jaganat.

Besides these Countries, I find mention made by Mr. Tavernier, 1. Of the Kingdom of Bouton, of a large Extent, samous for Musk, Rhubarb, Wormsed, and Furs, and the Caravan is three months.

Forests, and over Mountains, which after you have passed, the Country is good, abounding in Rice, Pulse and Wine. They have had for a long time the use of Musquets and Cannon, and their Gun-powder is long but of great Force: The Natives are strong and well proportioned, but their Noses and Faces are somewhat stat; and there is no King in the world more seared and more respected than the King of Boutan.

2. Of the Kingdom of Tipra adjoining to Pegu, of whose extent there is no certain Conjecture to be made; there is a Mine of Gold, but course, as also a fort of course Silk, which is the greatest Revenue the King hath.

3. Of the Kingdom of Asem, which is one of the best Countries in all Asia, producing all things necessary for human sustenance, yet Dogs stell is the greatest delicacy; there are Mines of Gold, Silver, Lead, Iron, and store of Silk and Gumlake. Kenerof is the Name of the City where the King keeps his Court; and at Azo are the Tombs of the Kings of Asem; and tis thought that these were the first Inventors of Guns and Powder, which from thence spread into China. They have Vines, but make no Wine, but dry their Grapes to make Aquavitæ; and of the Leaves of Adam's Fig tree they make Salt. The Men and Women are generally well complexioned, but swarthy, subject to Wens in their Throats, as well as those of Bouton and Tipra. They go Naked, only covering their Privy Parts; and a Blue Bonnet or Cap upon their Heads, with Bracelets upon their Ears, Arms and Legs.

washed by the Ocean or Indian Sea. It is divided into two parts by the Mountains of Gata, which stretch themselves from the North to the South with several fair Plains on the top, and occasion several seasons at the same time; for many times it is Winter on the one side, and Summer on the other. It belongs to above sifty Kings the potentest of which by degrees subdueth the rest. The Portugals, English, and Hollanders, have several places near the Sea, Fortresses for the security of their Trade, which is generally in Spices, Jewels, Pearls and Cotten-Linnen. The other places upon the Land are inhabited by the Natives, whose Petty Sovereigns not being able to hinder the Settlement of the Europeans, are glad to entertain Commerce with them, and to crave their Assistance in their Wars one with another. This Peninsula may be divided into four principal parts; Decans Golconda, Narsinga, and Malabar.

Decan acknowledges Visapour, Musopatta, Baud: Viziapour, Thev. for her Capital City, which is large, but scambling; the King's Palace is vastly big, but ill built, the seat of Idalcan, or Dialcan, a Mahometan King, once very powerful; He took Dabul from the Portugals, besieged Chaul and Goa, leading his Army, near two hundred thousand men, well provided with Ammunition, his Artillery great, having, as 'tis said, one perticular Cannon that will carry a Bullet of near eight hundred pound weight; once Tributary to the Mogul, but now absolute, Tav. who has won from him Dultabat, of a great Trade, and one of the best Fortresses in the Mogul's Empire; Bider, Paranda, and other places, and built the great and new City of Aureng-abad, encompassed with a Lake, and adorned with a sair Mosque and stately Monument.

Goa, the Barigaza of old, is the residence of the Portugal Viceroy, and the King of Portugal's Magazine for the East-Indies, and Harbour for their Indian Fleet: 'Tis reported, that the Hospital of Goa is more Beautiful, Richer, and better accommodated than the Hospital of the Holy-Ghost in Rome, or the infirmery of Maltha: The City is very large; and though without Gates and Walls, yet with its Castles and Forts' tis of great strength and force: Their Houses sair, their Palaces and publick Buildings very Magnisteent, their Churches stately and richly adorned. Her Strength and Beauty took rise from the Decan Kings, from whom Anno 1509 Albuquerque the Victorious Portugal conquered it, and after that defended it against 70000, Foot and 3500 Horse, which Idulean brought to reduce it with. The History of Sevagy Tav. Sivagi Thev.

The Plundering of Surrat by Sivagi, and the desperate Attacks made upon some of our East-India Ships, especially that of the President, Captain Jonathan Hide Commander, in the year 1683. by 1500 of his men, in three Ships and sour Grabs, who were bravely repulsed with a great Slaughter, though those brave men had not the Happiness long to enjoy the Honour of that noble Action, the Ship being unfortunately cast away coming into the Channel, and all the men but two lost. These and many other of his Actions, have given many occasion to inquire what he is, and what Country he possesses.

This Raja Sivagi, born at Balhaim, the Son of a Captain of the King of Visiapours, being of a restless and turbulent Spirit, rebelled in his Father's life-time, and putting himself at the head of several Banditi, and other debauched Young men, he retired unto the Mountains of Visiapour, and made his part good against all those that came to attack him. Rawer strill to

The King of Visiapour thinking that his Pather kept Intelligence with him, caused him to be arrested, and he died in Prison. Siving conceived so great a harred against the King, that he used all endeavours to be revenged of him. And in a very hort time he plundered Visiapour, and with the Booty he took made himself so strong in Men, Arms and Horses, that he became able enough to seize fome Towns, viz. Rajapour, Sasigar, Crapaten, Daboul, and to form a little State thereabout. The King dying about that time, and the Queens endeavours to reduce him being unfuccessful, the accepted the Peace he proposed to her, that he should enjoy the Territories which he had subdued, that he should be tributary to the Young

King, and pay him half his Revenue. A transaction of the way

However, he could not rest, but plundered some places belonging to the Great Mogul, who therefore fent Forces against him under the Conduct of the Governour of Aureng-Abat. But Sivigi having his retreat always in the Mountains, and being extremely cunning, the Mogul could not reduce him. In the mean time to be revenged on the Mogul, he refolved to plunder Surrat, which he did for 40 days; so that none but the English and Dutch faved themselves, by the vigorous Defence they made, by reason of their Cannon, which Sivigy would not venture upon, nor durst he adventure to attack the Castle, but marched of with the Wealth he got, which was reported to be worth in Jewels, Gold and Silver, to the value of Thirty French Millions, which was in the year 1664, when he was 35 years of Age. And the Mogul's Affairs not suffering him to pursue his Revenge upon Sivigy, he still continues his Robberies and Pyracies upon all opportunities and occasions.

Malabar, or Malavar is a low Country, with a delightful Coast, and well inhabited by people that practice Pyracy. There is a certain wind, which blowing there in winter, so disturbs the neighbouring Sea, that it rowls the fand to the mouths of the adjoining Ports: fo that at that time there is no water for the little Barks to enter; but in the Summer time another contrary wind is there so violent, that it drives back the same Sand, and renders the Ports again Navigable: The great number of Rivers in this Country renders Horses useless, especially for War. A Country most part of the year verdant, and abounding with Cattel, Corn, Cotton, Pepper, Ginger, Cassia, Cardamum, Rice, Myrobalans, Ananas-pappas, Melons, Dates, Coco's and other Fruits.

- Calcent, or Calicut, thought to be the Town which Ptol. Calls Canthapis; an Error of Niger and Bertius. Calicaris Herb. is a Town of Trade, where the Portugals first settled themselves, though not with that fuccess as at Cochin, where they obtain'd leave to raise a Cirta del! which was the first Fort they had in the East-Indies; but that Fortress was taken from them by the Hollanders in the year 1662. The Prince of Calicuts calls himself Zamorin, a Prince of great power and awe; and not more black of colour, than treacherous in difposition. Many deformed Pagotha's are here worshipped, but with this ordinary Evallon, That they addre not Idols, but the Deumo's they represent. Coulan has been much richer, and better peopled than it is; for it had formerly above 100000 Inhabitants, Soparpa in Arrian, and Colay in Ptol. Zamoryn valued it for its Scittlation, for its Port, and its Fidelity. Since that the Sands having stop'd up the Port, Goa and Calecut have got all the Trade from it.

Cananor, Callegeris Ptol. teste Castal. holds also some Islands among the Maldrues, viz. the Isle Malicut, and the five Isles of Diavandorow.

Onor, the Hippocura of Ptol. teste Band, produces a weighty fort of Pepper, and Bluck Rice, accounted better than the White.

Batticale and Gersopa, further in the Land, are the Capital Cities of their Kingdoms, included under the general Name of Canara.

To Malabar joins the fishing Coast, called the Coast of Manar, where they fish for Pearls in April for three weeks together. The Couldn'ty, which contains about 30 little Cities, is dry and Sunburnt, having no other advantages but by the Fishery, for which they keep a Fair at Tuticorin; The most part of it is under the Naic of Madare, the Hollanders possessing only the Island of Kings, where they have built a Fort, and to which there is no coming but by a Channel, for the defence whereof they have raised several Works, for confervation thereof, being of so great importance to them, by reason that thereby they are Masters of the Banks of Manar. There is also found some Ambergreice; and heretofore near to Cape Comorin, a Cape well known of old by Ptol. called Cory & Calligicum by Strak. Conomencina by Plin. Calusca & Colaicum. Comar by Arrian in his Periplus. Comara extrema, or Cape Carmyn; there was a Pearl found that weighed above 20 Quintals.

Coromandel, or Corobander, Cartagar damna Ptol. so called, from the abundance of Rice which it produces, is famous for the best Ports of India. The City of Meliapore, Malipur incolis, St. Thomaso Lustrauis Melange Ptol. or the Calurmina of Sophron, and St Thomas's Anglis, where that Apostle wrought many Miracles, and where (as their Traditions) he foretold the coming of White People into that Country. It is observed that the Off-spring of those that Martyr'd St. Thomas, have one Leg bigger than the other.

Malipur is feated upon a small River, having five foot of Water at the Mouth of it, which is about a Cannon-shot from the City; but small Ships had rather harbor themselves at Pelicate, and the great ones at Negapatan, which with Meliapor belongs to the Portugals.

Pelicate, besides the Town, there is a Fort called Geldria, that belongs to the Dutch, where they have their chief Factory, and where lives the chief Intendant over all the rest that are in the Territories of the King of Golconda. In the Fort are generally 200 Soldiers, besides Merchants. The Bastions are well stored with good Guns, and the Sea comes up to the very Wall of it. Taverneir tells us, That when the Inhabitants setch their water to drink, they stay till the Sea is quite gone out, then digging holes in the Sand as near the Sea as they can, they meet with fresh Water.

About 7 or 8 Leagues off, is Fort St George, which belongs to the English, whose Port or Harbour is called Madraspatan.

The Kingdom of Golconda is a Country abounding in Corn, Rice, Cattel, and other Necessaries for Human Life; and Bagnagar is the Name of the Metropolis, commonly called Golconda, which is the Name of a Fortress about two Leagues from it. The City is said to be little less than Orleans; seated upon a River, which near to Massignatan sails into the Gulph of Bengala, over which River there is a stately and fair Bridge into the City, which is adorned with the King's Palace, and the Houses of the great Lords, and other Persons of Quality, the Merchants and Tradesmen living in the Suburbs, which are a League in length. In this City is to be seen the Foundation of a magnificent Pagod, which, had it been finished had been the fairess in India; there is one Stone, which is an entire Rock of such a prodigious Bulk, that 5 or 600 men were five years before they could hew it out of its place, and they say, that 1400 Oxen were employed to draw it away.

Concerning the Kingdoms of Narsinga and Bisnagar, which some Authors make two distinct Countries, though some others confound them together, I shall give you this Account, That formerly the Territories of the Raja of Narsinga extended from Cape Cormorin all along the Coast of Cormandel as far as the River Guenga that falls into the Bengalan Gulph, near the mouth of the Ganges; the other Raja's being his Subjects; that the last Raja, who was at War with Ackbar the Mogul, brought into the Field four Armies, the first lay in that Province which is now called Golconda, the second was quartered in the Province of Visapour, the third in Brampore, the fourth in Doltabat. This Raja dying without Children, the four Generals divided amongst them the Country; but the Successor of the Mogul conquered again that of Brampore, of Doltabat, and part of Vifapour; but the King of Golconda became Tributary to him. as was faid before; fo that 'tis very probable there are no fuch Cities as Narsingue or Bisnagar. Tavernier in his Travels makes no mention of them.

The last Relations tells us, that Gandicot, Tav. Guendicot, Thev. is one of the strongest Cities in the Kingdom of Carnatica, about 85 Leagues from Meliapour, and 1200 from Golconda: And that the greatest Raja on that side Ganges is of Velour, whose Territories extend to Cape Cormorin, and who succeeded to some part of the Estate of the Raja of Narsingue; but in regard there is no Trade in his Country, he is but little known to strangers.

Thevenot tell us, That the Usurpers were but Three, viz. of Viziapor, of Bisnagar, or Carnates, formerly called Narsinga, and Golconda. Thus these Kings clashing together, the Kings of Visiapor and Golconda warred upon the King of Bisnagar, and seized upon several of his Towns, so that he was constrained to sie into the Mountains, and that his chief Town was Velcur.

The Winter begins at Golconda in June with Rain and Thunder. the Air was little cold at Night and in the Morning ; and in February the great Heats begin; Vines are plentiful there, and the Grapes are riperin Fannary. ... Our latest Discoveries tell us, 'tis dismembred and subdivided into almost as many Kingdoms and Estates as Cities and Towns, and into as many distinct Governments as there are Tribes and Nations among them; the chief Cities of which are Pegu, Triglipton, or Triglipton of Ptol. by Castal. which was very considerable, when it comprehended two Empires, and Twenty six Kingdoms, and then it was that Gold, Silver, Pearls, and precious Stones were as common in the Court of Pegu, as if the whole Orient had brought all its Riches thither: But what its Revenues, what its Government, what its Forces and Riches now are, I do not certainly find.

On the North of Pegu, near Bengala, is the City and Kingdom of Arachan, now faid to be Subject to the Great Mogul. Siriangh, or Sirejang, is a strong Fort on the mouth of the River, given to the Portugals by the King of Arachan, who, at last, were forced to yield it to the King of Ava, by whom the Governor was cruelly tortured on a Spit.

Sandiva is an Island about 30 Leagues in compass, very fruitful, once subdued by the Portugals, but taken from them by the King of Arachan, Anno 1508.

2. Siam, of which our last Relation tells us, That 'tis a Country plentisul in Rice and Fruits; The Forests of large Bamboos, are tull of Rinocero's, Elephants, Tygers, Harts, Apes, and Serpents with two Heads, but one has no motion.

The Rivers are very large, and overflow the Banks when the Sun is in the Southern Tropick. The Capital City is Siam, the Sobanus or Cortacha of Ptol. about 3 Leagues in Circuit, and walled, the River running quite round it; and in the year 1665. fortified with very good Bulwarks by a Neapolitan Jesuit, whose Port-Town is Bancock, six Leagues from the Sea.

The Natives are all Slaves either to the King or the great Lords; they have a great many Priests called Bonzes, very ignorant, yet greatly reverenced; they hold the Transmigration of Souls into several Bodies, and say, that the God of the Christians and theirs were Bro-

They have 33 Letters in their Alphabet, and write from the Left to the Right, contrary to the Custom of other Indians.

Their King is one of the richest Monarchs of the East, and styles himself King of Heaven and Earth, though Tributary to the Tartars, as Conquerors of China. He never shews himself in Publick above twice a Year, but then in an extrordinary Magniscence. He hath a great kindness for Elephants, counts them his Favourites, and the Orna-

Martaban, said to be the Triglipton of Ptol. on the Gulph of Bengala, once subject to Pegu, now to Siam; once a Kingdom, now of a great Trade, especially for Martabanes, which are Vessels of Earth, of a kind of Porcelain varnished with black, and much esteemed in all the East.

3. Malacca, the Aurea Chersonessus of old, in the Peninsula whereof are divers Kingdoms, all which, except Malacca, are Tributary to that of Siam; Tenasseri, Juncalaon, Queada, Pera, and Malacca, are on the Western part; Ibor, Puhang, Patane, Burdelong, and Ligor, are on the Eastern Coast.

Malacca, the Tacola of Ptol. tefte Alph. Adriano. (aliis Tacolais Juncalaon) is the most famous, being great, rich and powerful; An. 1511. the Portugals took it, and kept it till 1641. when the Hollanders took it from them. Among the Rarities of the Malacca, or rather of the World, is the Arbor Tristis, which bears Flowers only after Sun-set, and sheds them so soon as the Sun rises, and this every Night in the year.

4. Camboja, Forte Pytindra, or Pityndra of Ptol. on the River Mecon, 60 Leagues up the River, once one of the three prime Cities in this part of India: The King thereof is, or lately was, Tributary to Siam, whose Manners and Customs the People much resemble. In the year 1644, four Holland Ships made into this River, and got out notwithstanding all the opposition of the King of Camboja.

5. Chiampa, which communicates its Name to the Country, said to be a distinct Kingdom. It is seated near the Sea side, and of good Trade for the Wood called Lignum Aloes; by some the Town is called Pulo Caccim.

Cochin China is faid to be one of the best Kingdoms in all India; it borders upon China, of which it was once part; and whose Manners, Customs, Government, Religion, and other Ceremonies they yet retain, but their Language is that of Tonquin. Among the Rarities of this Country, is,

First, The Inundation which in Autumn covers with its Waters almost all the Country, making the Earth so fruitful, that it brings forth its Increase twice or thrice a year.

Secondly, their Saroy Boura, or matter wherewith the Swallows make their Nests, which being steeped and moistned in Water, serves for Sauce to all Meats, communicating a variety of Taste, as if composed of several Spices.

Thirdly, Their Trees called Thins, the Wood whereof remains uncorruptible, whether in Water or Earth.

Sanfoo is one of the greatest Cities of Cochin China, and greatest Trade, but now the Port failing, it decays.

Haifo, or Faifo, is remarkable for its Forest of Orange and Pomgranate Trees.

Dinfoan is a good Port, but of a difficult entrance.

Tacaan is an Isle where the Fowls retire during the Heats.

Boutun is a good Haven.

Checo, Kekio, or Kecchio, is the chief City of the Kingdom of Tunquin, and the ordinary residence of the King, said to contain a Million of Inhabitants.

The Tunquineses, as well Men as Women, are for the most part well proportioned, of an Olive Complexion.

Their Habit grave and modest, being a long Robe that reaches down to their Heels, bound about at the Waste with a Girdle of Silk. Only the Soldier's upper Garment reaches no farther than his Knees, and Breeches down to the mid-leg.

They are naturally mild and peaceable, submitting to Reason, and condemning the Transports of Choler.

The Air is so mild and temperate, that all the year long seems to be but one continued Spring; Frost and Snow are there never known.

There are but two Winds which divide the whole Year, the one

North, the other South, both continuing for fix Months.

The Country produces neither Corn nor Wine, but store of Rice, Aqua-vita, and excellent Fruit.

Bodego is the place whence they embark the King's Body.

Chang is the Port where all the great Ships lie.

Cuacidis the Bounds between Tunquin and Cochin China.

Chancon is the place where St. Xavier died 1552.

The Country is adorned with many beautiful and fertile Plains, and watered with many great Rivers.

Two Ships, or at least one, goes yearly from Nangesaque to Tonquin, where is much Silk and Musk, and Lignum Alves, which they truck for Scarlets, Linen, and Amber; the Alabaster the Dutch load for Balast.

Modern Relations also mention the great Kingdom of Lav, which extends from Fourteen Degrees to Two and twenty and a half of Northern Latitude, and Fifty miles in breadth all along on the River Mecon, whose Capital is Lanjang in eighteen Degrees of Latitude. As also the Kings of Ava, the Palibothra of Ptol. by Mercat. Palimbothea Arriano, Bao, Brema, Ciocangue, and Tangu, which are said to be Tributaries to the King hereof.

About Twenty Leagues from the Coast Cambodia, lies the Bank Pracellis, being about an Hundred Leagues long, and Forty broad. The Indians relate, that it was a Kingdom in former Ages, but sunk by Earthquakes; and here it was in Anno 1660 the rich laden Ship Tergoes was shipwrack'd.

of its Cities, their Number and the politeness of the Inhabitants. It is also reputed, that Printing, the Silk Manusactures, Artillery, Powder, are morein use there than in Europe. Besides all things necessary for human subsistance and delight, it produces the most precious Merchandizes of the East; and Nature seems to have bestowed upon every one of its Provinces something of particular Esteem; and some that have lived there affirm, that whatever is sound dispers'd in the rest of the World, is there to be met with in one heap together; and some things that no part of the rest of the World affords.

China lies in a kind of a Square, and is so populous, that there have been reckon'd 60 Millions of people sit to be tax'd. The Rivers are so full of Boats, that it is thought they have more than all the Rivers of the World beside. The Revenue of the King is said to be 150 Millions of Gold; or, as others affirm, 400 Millions of Ducats.

The Chineses laugh at our Maps, that place their Kingdom in one of the extremities of the World, averring, that they lie in the middle, as the Fews pretended for Ferufalem, the Greeks for Delphos, and the Moors for Granada! The Chineses also say, that they have two Eyes, the Europeans one, and that all other Nations have none at They have been alway to jealous to conceal the Maxims of their Policies, that willingly they will not give Strangers admittance. into their Countrey. The great Wall, or Entrenchment rather, 400 Leagues in length, was a Work of more Labour than Use; for the Tartars have several times over-run China, : twithstanding that Obstacle. If you will believe their Histories, they will tell you, That the Tartars have troubled China for above these 4000 years. In these last years there have been strange Revolutions in this Empire: For after the Rebels had acted there as Sovereigns, the Tartars under Xunchi their King, conquer'd their Countrey in less than feven years, beginning fince 1643. Their Military Force was but small, the Men of Learning overpowering the Men of the Sword; to that the strength of their Kingdom was only their Number and their Policy. Their Principal Nobility and Rulers were call'd Mandarins, and now the Tartar keeps his Tartar and Chinese Officers under the Title of Vice-Roys; the one for War, the other for Learning: there is only this difference, that now the Sword ore-tops the Gown, and the Mandarins are clipt of their Power, which they exercise. with no small Pride over the People.

Paganism is generally received, yet Vertue is in high esteem. The publick is far richer in proportion than private men. They continue their Writing from the top to the bottom in length. They have above 60000 Letters, but not above 300 Words, which are for the most part, all Monosyllables. So that whereas the Europeans have sew Letters, but many Words, the Chineses have many Letters, but sew Words, which they pronounce with a various Tone, denoting the wrious Signification of the Word, so that they may be said to sing rather than speak. The Chineses are so in love with their Hair, that they will rather suffer Death than be shav'd.

All China is divided into 15 Provinces, which are bigger than large Kingdoms. There are 10 towards the South, that is to say, Junnan, Queichcu, Quangsi, Quantung, Fokien, Chekiang, Kiadgsi, Kiangnang, or Nanking, Suchuen, and Huquang, which Provinces united, some call by the Name of Cathay, or Katay, as they call the Southern, Mankin. The five to the North are Xensi, Xansi, Pecheli, or Peking, Xantung, Honan, to which they also reckon the Territory called Leaotung, and the Peninsula Corea.

The Isles of China are Ainan towards the South; near to the Coast of Fokien lie Quemoy and Eymuy; further off at Sea appears Fermosa; and to the East of Cheklang are the Isles Chanque and Chexan.

The Province of Peking or Pecheli, is the first in dignity, and is divided into eight lesser Counties, containing 121 Cities.

The Metropolis is Peking, by the Tartars Xuntien, by Marcus Paulus Cambalu, in 29 Degr. 50 North. Latitude, adorned with many stately Palaces or Courts: According to the Dutch Narration, the Emperor's Court was exactly square, containing 3 quarters of an hours walk, with 4 Gates opposite to the 4 Angles of the World; at the end of this Court stands a Bridge, on each side whereof stand three Elephants richly caparison'd, and generally loaded with gilded Towers: through this you enter into another Quadrangle of 400 paces, at the end of which stand three stately Houses. Beyond this a third, and farther a fourth Court all pay'd with Free-stone, and being 400 spaces square. In this stands the Emperor's Throne, and four stately Edifices curiously built, and covered with costly Roofs, adorned with gilded Galleries. Beyond this Court are several Orchards and Gardens planted with all forts of Trees, and adorned with curious Buildings: And thus flourished the Palace of Pekin, rebuilt by the Tartars in Ann. 1645.

In or near the Place of Paoting the Emperor Hoangti anciently planted the Seat of his Kingdom; and on the East-side of the City Hokien stands stands a great Temple, in the middle of which is a stately and great Image. Chinting is great and populous. fenkin and funyping are strong places for the defence of the Empire. The Garison-Tiencial lies on the Bay Xang; it is a Port or Haven Town to Peking, and of a great Trade; and on the North-side lies the great Garison Xanghaie, on the Island Cue.

Westward beyond the Province of Peking lies Xansi, on the North whereof lies the great Wall, and behind that the Tartar Kingdom of Tangu, and the Desert Xamo. This Province is divided into five Counties, having eighty six Cities, and the not very big, yet is pleasant. The City Taiyven is the Metropolis, which for its Antiquity of Building, stately and brave Edifices, is accounted amongst the best Cities of China: At the City Pingiany the Emperor Jan kept his Court within the Walls; and without the Gates of Fuenchen stands two stately, ancient, and magnificent Buildings.

The Province of Xensi extends into the Kingdom of Prester John. Casar and Thebet, which the Chineses in a general Name call Sistan; it is a large Province, and is divided into eight Counties, having one hundred and eighty Cities: Sigan is the Metropolis of the whole, seated on the River Guei, in a most pleasant and delightful place, of a noble Prospect, and good Trade.

In the Year 1625. a Stone was found in digging a Foundation for a House, inscribed with the Old Chinese and Siriack Characters, which contained the Christian Religion. Cungehand, Fungciang, Hanchung, Kingyang, and Linyao, are the chief Cities of the Countries of the same Names. Socheu is a strong Hold, and well fortified; Xanchen, or Cancheu is very strong, and the Residence of a Vice-Roy.

Xantung may justly be esteemed an Island, being washed by the Sea on one side, and separated by several Rivers on the other, and is divided into six Countries.

Chinan, the Metropolis of the whole Province, is very large, and full of stately Houses, having two Lakes within its Walls, out of which slow several little Streams through the whole City; it is also adorned with several stately Temples. Among the great Cities of this Province, Lincing exceeds in Inhabitants, Buildings and Trade, but above all for its Porcelane Tower ninety Cubits high, curiously adorned with Imagery and Painting without, and within laid with Marble of divers colours smoothly polished; on the Top stands an Image cast of Copper, and gilt, thirty foot high.

The Province of Honan, by the Chineses thought to lie in the middle of the World, because it lies in the midst of China; it is divided into nine Territories and Countries, having one hundred and eight Cities. The chief City Caifung lies about two Leagues from the Yellow-River, whose Water is said to be higher than the City: The other chief Cities are Quente, Changte, Honan, Nunyang, and Juning.

Suchuen is a great Province, and separated by the River Kiang, and is divided into eight Countries, containing one hundred and fifty Cities, besides Garisons. Cingtu is the Metropolis, and lieth in an Island, yet includes several Moats, over which are many Bridges; Paining, Xunking, Sincheu, Chunking, Quicheu, Luggan, are the chief Cities of the other parts of this Province.

The Province Huquang is divided also in the middle by the River Kiang. The Chineses call it the Land of Fish and Rice, and the Storehouse of China, and have a Proverb, that the rest of the Provinces afford them but one Meal, but that of Huquang feeds them all the year long; it is divided into fifteen Countries, containing one hundred Cities great and small, and eleven Garisons.

The Metropolis whereof is Vuchang, on the South Shore of the River Kiang, Hanyang, Siangyang, Tegan, Hoangcheu, Kingcheu, Jocheu, Changxa, Paoking, Hanchen, Chante, Xinchen, Iungchen, Chingyang, and Chingtien, are the other chief Ciries, and Chingehen is the chief City of a little Territory of the same Name.

Kiangli, is divided into thirteen Countries, containing 67 Cities: the chief whereof is Nanchang, once the Metropolis of the Empire: Iaocheu, Quansin, Kicukiang, Kienchang, Linkiang, Kiegan, Kancheu, are other chief Cities. In this Province near Iaocheu, and no where elfe. is that Water to be found which brings Porcelane to perfection, efpecially when they intend it in Azure, Vermilion, or Yellow Tincture. The last Travellers into China tell us, that Porcelane is made of a particular Sand or Earth, which is fetch'd out of the Country of the City Hoiechen, in the Province of Nanking; nor is it necessary that the Earth should be buried a whole Age together, as others idly affirm; for the Chineses only knead this Sand or Earth together. and make Vessels of it, which they bake in Furnaces for fifteen days: but the colouring of it is one of the chief Arts or Secrets which they conceal from Strangers.

The Province of Fokien is divided into eight Counties, and contains 60 Cities and Towns; Fochen, or Hocksien, is the Metropolis and chief of the Country; it is feated about fifteen Leagues westward from the Sea, on the Southern Shore of the River Min, which with a wide mouth falls into the Sea, and brings: both small and great Vessels up to the City; it is populous and of great Trade, where the Dutch also had sometime a Factory in the year 1662.

The City Cheenchen lies near the Sea, in a delightful Plain, with a large Bay, that the greatest Ships ride close under the Walls. Chauchew of great Trade for all rich and foreign Commodities. Kienning upon the River Min; is a place of great Trade, for all Commodities pass through it. Hinhoa is neatly built, adorned with many triumphant Arches and Colledges for the encouragement of Learning.

Xaouw and Tincheu are also considerable. Foning is also fair and large, lying near the Sea. The Castle Ganbui near Changebou hath a convenient Haven for Ships: And Tinyan is a Fort for the defence of the Sea-Coast.

The Province of Chikiang exceeds all the rest in fertility of Soil. delightfulness in Prospects, and in plenty of Silk; it is divided into eleven great Countries, having eighty three Cities or Towns, besides unwalled places, Castles and populous Villages. Hanchew is the chiefest City, thought to be the ancient Quinzay. Kiahing is moted about with Rivulers of Water, full of stately and well-built Structures; all the Streets are arched, under which they walk as in a Piazza, free from wind and weather. Niencheu, Kincheu, Chucheu, Kinhoa, Vencheu, Ningpo and Xoahing, all chief Cities, and bravely adorned; not far from Ningpo lies Liampo, once much frequented by the Portugals. The whole Province of Chekiung is every where cut through with Rivers, Rivulets and murmuring Streams, some natural, others artificial. The chief River Che, which gives name to the Country, of which they tell us, that annually upon the eighteenth day of the eight Moon, (which is our October) a prodigious Spring-tide happens. roaring extreamly in its ascent, beyond the loud murmur of Cataracts or Water-breaks, and comes with a head high and strangely mounted above the Waters.

The Province of Nanking, by the Tartars called Kiangnan, is the fecond in honour, in magnitude and fertility in all China: It is divided into 14 great Territories, having Cities and Towns an hundred and ten; Nanking, or Kiangning, being the Metropolis; a City, that if she did not exceed most Cities on the Earth in bigness and beauty, yet she was inferior to few, for her Pagods, her Temples, her Porcelane Towers, her Palaces and Triumphal Arches. Fungiang, Sucheu, Sunkiang, Leucheu, Hoaigan, Ganking, Ningue, Hoeicheu.

are also eminent places and of great Note and Trade.

The Province of Quantung lies along upon the Sea-shore, having many convenient Havens and Harbors; it contains ten Counties, and eighty great and small Cities. Quanchen, or Canton by the Portngals, is the Metropolis and chief of the Province; exceedingly beautified ches; fortified with strong Walls, Towers, Bulwarks and Redoubts, defended by five Castles. Of the greatest Trade, and the richest in the whole Kingdom. The other great Cities are Xaocheu, Hocicheu, Chaocheu, Chaocheu, Liencheu, and Luicheu. The Island of Ainan, or Hainan, is reckoned for the Tenth County, it lies in the Bay of Tunking, separated from China by a Chanel of above five Leagues broad, where they fish for Pearls; its chief City is Kiuncheu or Ingly, fortisied with strong Walls, handsome buildings, and well seated for Trade, and the whole Island produces all Necessaries for human sustenance.

Southwards of Canton lies many small Islands in the Sea, on one of which, or rather a little Rock, joined to a great Island, lieth the City Macao, once possessed by the Portuguese, so naturally fortified, that 'tis almost invincible, being defended with two strong Castles against the attempts of an Enemy.

The province of Quansi in bigness, plenty of Merchandise, and pleasant Fields, may compare with the rest. It is divided into eleven great Countries, which contain 98 Cities great and small, the chief whereof is Quilia, full of strange Structures; other chief Cities are Guchen, Kingyang, Cinchen Nunning, Taping, Chingan, and others.

The Province of Quicheu is divided into eight 8 Counties, having great and small Cities to the Number of 81, of which Quiyang is the chief; Chinyveng, Tunying, Liping, are the next confiderable.

The Province of Junuan, tho the last in place, is not the least in extent and goodness, viz., in the abundance of rich Commodities. 'Tis divided into twelve Provinces, containing eighty seven Cites great and small, besides thirteen Garisons. The Metropolis Junuan boasts to be one of the best and greatest Cities in all China, stourishing in Trade and Riches, adorned with fair Structures and Temples. Jungning, Likiang, Taogan, Tali, Manhoa, Kinghung and Lancand, are other chief places.

In short, they reckon in these Counties twelve hundred ninety nine Towns, two hundred sorty seven great Cities, called Cheu, and eleven hundred sifty two little Towns, called Hien, yet as big as an ordinary City in Europe. Martinius sets down thirteen hundred forty eight Towns, whereof one hundred sifty nine are great, called Cheu, and the other Hien. There are also great Garisons, or Military Countries, every one with lesser Garisons under their commands, thirty seven in number; also several Forts and Castles to the number of one hundred seventy six. Besides these Towns and Fortresses, China is very sull of innumerable Villages and Hamlets, so that it appears to be as one entire City.

Corea is divided into eight Territories; on the North it joins to Nieuche in Tartary; the South respects the Island Fangma, or Quelparts, on which in the year 1653, the Ship Sperwer of Batavia was ship-wracked, and of sixty sour men thirty got to shore, who suffered many extremities, and there sound one of their Dutch Country men that had been Prisoner 27 years. The whole Country is exceeding populous, full of Towns built after the Chinese manner, whose Fashions, Language, Letters, Religion and Government the Coreans follow. Its chief City is Pinjang; but by the aforesaid Dutchmens Relations, Sioor was the Royal City, from whence in the year 1666. in a Fishermans Bark, in ten days, eight of them got to Gotto Island, and from thence to Nengesaque on the Island Dysma.

The Isle Formosa, once Paccand, now under the Tartars, abounds with Deer, Wild-Goats, Hares, Coneys, Swine and Tygers, the Woods with Pheasants and Pidgeons, and the Ground produceth Rice, Wheat, Sugar, Ginger, Cinnamon, Coco-Nuts, and several other Necessaries for human sustenance.

Their chief practife or special Vertues are, Thest, Murther and Adultery; but if any of the Women prove-with Child before they are thirty seven years of age, when they are ready to be delivered the Midwise kneeds it to death in the Womb. They write, read,

In Anno 1554. happened a mighty Earthquake, which continued feven weeks with little intermissions: In December and January is generally the fairest weather: Their greatest Rains are in July and August: The Mousons or stormy Seasons begin in October, and continue till March, which is called the Northern; the other, or Southern, begins in May and holds till September.

Against the North-East part of Formosa lies a rich Golden Mine, surrounded by many Rocks, from whence in August the Rains wish down great store of Golden Ore, not far from the Fort Ke-lang, which she Dutch had in possession.

Taywan, or Tayovan, upon the Isle Formosa, the utmost Northpoint, being distant almost a League, but the Southermost point within a Bow-shot of the Land, it is about two Leagues and an half in Length, and a quarter in Breadth; on the North-side upon a Sand-hill stands the Fort Zelandia, built by the Dutch, 1632. under the Castle Westward lies another Fort, guarded by two points of the Sea: A Bowshot distant lies a strong Out-work being the Key to the Castle, call'd Utrecht; Eastward from which stands the Town built by the Dutch: On the other side, on the main of Formosastands the Fort and Village Sukkan; well planted with Cannon; but in the Year 1661. Coxinga and his Associates, being a Crew of Rebels Chineses, took both the Island of Formofa and Tayoutn from the Dutch, after a Siege of Ten Months, where Coxing a found Ten Tun of Gold, Forty pieces of Ordnances, and other things to a great value.

vulets, descending from the upper Grounds, with their mixt interweavings, both from Sea and Land, make a numerous crowd of petry Isles, the most spacious and wealthy whereof is Japan, by the Natives Nippon, formerly faid to comprehend filty three Kingdoms; but our later Relations tell us, that they are now fallen into the lap of one fole Monarch, who keeps his magnificent Court at Jedo. This Island extends in length seven hundred and twenty Miles, the breadth generally about one hundred and eighty, but various. The East looks towards Californea in America, though four thousand and two hundred Miles distant. I am not ignorant, that some Geographers have made them to meet, others bring them very near together: I have two Lunar observations, and the coherence of the Sea chart with them to strengthen my affertion. The Air of these Islands is temperate, but for the most part snowy and cold; they abound in Rice, Pearl and Mines of Silver, very much esteemed; the Pearls are very large, but somewhat inclining to Red.

The Country appears more hilly than plain, amongst which are two wonderful Mountains, one vomiting continually slames; the other of a Prodigious height.

The Palm-Tree that grows there, is of a strange quality, (if true) for it endures no manner of moisture at the Roots, which is as destructive to them as Poyson. To make it grow, it must be set in a hole full of silings of Iron and dry Sand; and if any Boughs or Branches are broke or torn off by winds or any accident, if but nailed to the body, it will grow as well as if grafted.

The Japanners are generally tall of Stature, and well-fet, and of a strong Constitution, being exercised in all manner of suffering, and seperated from their Mothers and semale Relations, believing that nothing makes them more tender and esseminate than to be near Women: They much delight in War, and are good Soldiers, they exercise their Arms at Twelve years of Age, and their Swords or Scimiters are of an excellent temper.

They have the most happy Memories in the World, a nimble Fancy, and solid Judgment: They are of a courteous Behaviour and civil Deportment, covetous of Honour and Reputation, impatient in Affronts and Disparagements. But unhappy it is, that these excellent Qualifications should stand taxed with as many notorious vices. Their Language is very curious, wherein they have several words to express one thing, some in derision, others in honour, some for the Prince, others for the People. Their Customs and Fashions are quite contrary to ours. They drink warm, or rather hot Water; alledging, that Cold causes Coughs and diseases in the Stomach, but that hot Water preserveth the natural heat, opens the Passages, and quencheth the Drought sooner. To their Sick they minister very sweet and fragrant Potions. They never let blood, which they husband as the chariot of Life. They esteem black Teeth, and mount the right side of a Horse. And it is scarce to be believed with what a studied opposition they differ from us; but though they differ in common Customs and Opinions; yet in the solid work of Government and Authority, they act by the same Rule and Policy, rising by degrees as we do, and ending in a sole Monarch, the Emperory who rules not by the Power of his Riches, but by the number of Men, and is honourably attended in times of Peace at his Royal Palace: And in time of War is guarded with a strong and numerous Army.

The Jefuits, Franciscans, Jacobins, and Austin Friers, had made a great Progress in the conversion of the Natives, in the year fifteen hundred ninety fix; for they were reckon'd to be above 600000 Christians. But since the year fixteen hundred and fourteen, they have been all driven out of the Island, and no person dares profess Christianity but in private. Spaniards, Portugals, and Priests, are all expell'd; only the Dutch are permitted, in regard they firictly forbid their People to speak of Religion, and by relation as little to profess it. There are teveral Tones or Princes among them, whose Power for the most part is confin'd to a fingle City. And 'tis observed, that when one of these Tones. or Governors, lose their Principalities, their Subjects lose their Goods. The Darro had once the chief Command of the Fapan Empire: but fince the year-1; 50, the Dayro hath only the chief command in Ecclefiaftical affairs, and is esteemed above the Emperor, who keeps all the power in his own hand. In the center of the Imperial City Meaco. stands the glorious Palace of the Dayro, which out-shines the Emperors Court the Temple of Bonzi, or the stately house of the chief Bonfiosen. There is also the Imperial Garden so curiously planted, that the Eye feems never fatisfied with fo pleasant an object. This City is faid to contain 90000 houses. At Dubo, not far off, is the stately Temple of the Idol Zaccha, said to contain ninety thousand houses.

Jedo, the second City in Japan, is very large, and exceeding populous, the Streets are 60 Ikins long, which is 150 paces; at the end is a gate that is locked and guarded every night; it is famous for the great houses of the Nobility, the Emperors Banquetting-house, his Magazine, his Seraglio or Chandran, the Imperial Garden; the Empresses magnificent Palace, and the Temple of the Golden Amida; but in the year 1657, in two days time this City lay all in Ashes, a-Saccai is one of the stateliest Cities in all Japan, sortified with an invincible Castle; and there is scarce any place in Japan, that sort pleasantness surpasseth Jonda. Mewarry is a handsom City, crown'd with many Spices: Akay is well fortified with a Castle, and surrounded with a Wall: Ofacca is a Stately and Imperial City, in the midst of which stands the much celebrated Temple of the Idol Canon, or their Neptune. And before the Earthquake sisteen hundred eighty sive, there was the fairest and largest Palace that ever Sun shined upon: And a large Castle built by Taicosama.

Tempe and Campania may not be compared to the pleasantness of Sajoja, so exceeding delightful, as the Dutch Ambassador tells us, that the whole Earth cannot shew a finer spot of Ground.

Onwari is situate on the hanging of a pleasant Hill, near which is a steep Rock, on which stands an invincible Castle, which is seen: at a great distance.

Quano is the most artificial built City in all Japan. Piongo was ruin'd in the War of Kobanunga and the Emperor Cassas. Mia is curiously built and adorned with many Temples.

The stately City Occasates is fortisted with a strong Castle; Josin-da is of a delightful Situation. Sarunga is a great but ruinous City. Facione is the place where is kept a strong Guard; formerly a samous City, but swallowed up, and shuffled into Ruins and Rubbish by an Earthquake, which are very frequent in Japan. Oudarro is a stately City, adorned with a sumptuous Palace, and losty Spires.

Congoxuma is the first City where the Portuguese landed and got soting in Japan, and was their Staple: Nangesaque is the chief Staple and Residence of the Dutch in Japan, first built by the Portuguese. This Lodge, or Fortress, lies on the small Island Disma, and is the Magazine for all Indian Commodities, and the best harborfor the reception of Merchant Vessels, of any Port in Japan.

At this day the Hollanders pretend all Trade at Japan.

Of the Islands of the MALDIVES.

THE Maldives Islands, scituate under the Equinotial Line, derive their Name from the principal City called Male, and Dive; which signifies an Island. They are reckon'd to be about 12000 but that is supposed to be only by taking a certain Number for an uncertain: They are dispersed from the North-West to the South-East, into 12 Provinces, which the Inhabitants call Attollors, every one of which is fenc'd with a Bank of Sand; but some of them are only Sand-hills, or Rocks, being all of them very little; for Male, the chief, is but a League about.

They are divided by Arms of the Sea, and environ'd with Rocks. which renders the Access to them very difficult: There are some Ports or Openings, one opposite to another, so plac'd, that they give an Entrance into the four Attollors, for the benefit of Trade. otherwise the Currents would carry the Vessels above 7 or 800 Leaguesbeyond. The Currents run fix Months to the East, and fix to the West sometimes more, sometimes less: But the Sea being shallow. the Winds outrageous, and few Commodities to be had, these Islands are not frequented by the Europeans. The King of Maldives is called Rascan; his Kingdom is never governed by the Female Sex; and for his Revenue it consists in the Missortunes of others, that is to fay, Wrecks at Sea. So that there is no trufting to the Maldives Pilots. who will cast away a Ship on purpose that their King may have the Spoil. On the other fide, the King himself uses to cares the Masters of Ships, and to invite them to his Island, to the end, that dying of the Diftemper of the Island, which carries of ftrangers in a short time, he may be Heir to their Goods.

The Natives are little, Olive-coloured, and Mahumetans: They are subject to violent Fevers and Sickness, by reason of the excessive heat. They shave with cold Water, catch Fish swimming, and will dive to the bottom of the Sea to find a convenient place where to cast their Anchors. They will fetch up out of the Sea, with an incredible easiness, an 100000 weight, by the help of a Cable, and some pieces of their Candon Wood. Their Coco's are very profitable to them, for of those they make Wine, Honey, Sugar, Milk and Butter. They eat Almonds instead of Bread, with all forts of Food. They putevery Trade into a particular Island; and to preserve their Wares from Vermin, they build their Storehouses upon Piles in the Sea, about an 100 paces from their Isles.

A Description of ZEILON, alias CEILON, the Nangieris of Ptoh

THE Hollander is now Master of all the Sea-Coast; the Inland Country is now under the King of Candy, and is divided into several Parts or Provinces, which lie upon Hills fruitful and well watered, and are called in general Conde Uda.

This Inland Country of Conde Uda is strongly fortified by Nature, the Entrances being up vast and high Mountains, and the Ways so very narrow that but one man can go a-breast; and these Paths also are barricado'd up with Gates of Thorns, and two or three men to watch and examine all that come or go.

Candy, or Conde by the Europeans, Hingodagul-Neure by the Inhabitants, is the Chief or Metropolis, of the whole Island, bravely scituated in the midst of it for all Conveniences, but of late much

South of Candy, 12 Miles distant, lies Nellemby-Neur, where the

Alent-Neur is the place where the King was born, and his Magazine for Corn and Salt. Badoula was burnt down in the time of War by the Portugals.

Digligy-Neur is the place where the King now keeps his Court fince the Rebeltion Anno 1664. Its Scituation is very Rocky and Mountainous, veing a place for Safety and Security.

Anuradgbarro is one of the ruinous Cities where they say 90 Kings have reigned, diftant from Candy. 90 Miles Northwards.

Leawava affords Salt in abundance, the Easterly Winds beating in the Sea, and in the Westerly Wind (which makes fair Weather) it becomes Salt.

Rice is the chiefest Flower of their Corn, which is of several forts; some will be ripe in seven Months, others in six, sive, four, and three, but all requires water to grow in. Their Seed-time is about July and August, their Harvest about February.

Of Fruits there are great plenty and variety, viz. the Betel Nut, whose Leaves are 5 or 6 Foot long, and have other lesser Leaves growing out of the sides of them; some of these Nuts will make People drunk, and giddy-headed, and purge, if eaten green.

There are also facks, which are as big as a Peck-Loaf, the outside pricky like a Hedgebog, and of a greenish colour; the Seeds or Kernels do much resemble Chesnuts in colour and taste.

The Jombo is like an Apple full of Juice, and pleasant to the Palat; 'tis white, and delicately coloured with red, as if painted.

There are also Murro's, like Cherries, sweet to the taste; Dongs, like Black Cherries; Ambeloes, like to Barberries; Carolla Cabella, Cabella, Carolla Cabella, Ca bela Paradigye, like our Pears.

Here are also Coker-Nuts, Plantines, and Banara's of divers forts, sweet and sowre Oranges, Limes, Partaurings, in taste like our Lemmons, but much bigger; Mangoes of several sorts, Pine-Apples, Su-M m m 2.

gar-Canes, Water-Melons, Pomgranates, Grapes black and white; Mi-rablins, Codiews; and several other.

There is also the Tallipot-Tree, which bears no kind of Fruit until the last year of its life, and then it comes out sull of yellow Blossoms which smell very strong, which come to a Fruit round and hard as big as our Cherries but not good to eat; but the Leaf of this Tree is so broad and large, that it will cover 15 or 20 men, and keep them dry when it rains; and the Pith within the Tree is good to eat, and tastes much like to white Bread.

There is also the Kettale-Tree, which yields a delicious Juice, rarely sweet and pleasant to the Palat, which they take from the Tree two or three times a day, which Liquor they boil, and make a kind of Sugar.

The Cinnamon-Tree grows wild in the Woods as other Trees, and by them no more efteemed, being as plenty as Hazel in England. The Cinnamon is the Bark or Rind, which when on the Tree looks whitin, when they pull it off they scrape it and dry it in the Sun. The Wood hath no smell, 'tis of a white colour, and soft like Fir. The Leaf much resembles Laurel both in coulour and thickness. The young Leaves look red like Scarlet; if bruised, they will smell more like Cloves than Cinnamon. It bears a Fruit which is ripe in September, much like an Acorn, but smaller; it neither tastes nor smells like as the Bark, but being boiled in Water, it will yield an Oil, which when cold, is hard as Tallow, and white, and of an excellent smell; and 'tis used for Ointment for Aches and Pains, and to burn in Lamps.

There is also the Ovula, the Fruit whereof they make use of for Physick in Purges; and being beat in pieces in a Mortar, and soak'd in Water, it will dye a very good Black; and rusty Iron lying one Night in the Water will become bright, and the Water black like Ink.

The Betel-Tree, whose Leaf is so much loved and eaten, grows like Ivy, twining about Trees or Poles, which they stick into the ground for it to run up by; and as the Betel grows, the Poles grow also.

Of Roots, they have Albes, or Inyames of divers forts; fome they plant, and others grow wild in the Woods. These serve for Food, and for Sauce, or a Relish to their Rice; some of them in a year or two will grow as big as a man's Waste, others as big as a man's Arm.

Of Flowers they have great variety, growing wild, as Roses red and white, and several other forts of sweet smelling Flowers, one called the Sendric-mal, of a murry colour, and white, which opens at 4 of the Clock in the Evening, and shuts at 4 in the Morning, which serves them sometimes instead of a Clock.

The Pichamauls are a white Flower like our Jasmine, well scented; the King hath a parcel of them every Morning brought to him, wrapt in a white Cloth; but the Hon-mauls are the chief Flowers the young people use, and are of greatest value among them.

They have Cows, Buffalows, Hogs, Goats, Deer, in great abundance;

Hares, Dogs, Jucols, Apes, Tygers, Bears, Elephants.

There are Ants of divers forts, fome worthy our remark, viz. the Cora-atch, which is a great and black Ant, living in the Ground, making great hollow holes in the Earth, and have no Sting.

The Vaco's are the most numerous, whose hinder part is white, and the head red; they eat and devour all they come at, except Iron and Stone; they creep up the Walls of Houses, and build an Arch of Dirt over themselves all the way as they climb, be it never so high; and in places where there are no Houses, they will raise great Hills, or Humbosses, some five or six foot high, so hard and strong, as not easily digged down with Pickaxes, within sull of hollow Vaults and Arches where they dwell. Their Nests are much like Honey-combs, sull of Eggs and young ones: As they encrease in multitude, so they also die in multitude; for when they come to maturity they have wings, and in the Evening, after Sun-set, they issue forth in vast numbers, that they almost darken the sky, slying to such a height, that they go out of sight, and so keep styling till they fall down dead upon the Earth.

Seas; the Air of these three Islands is very unwholsome, nor do they afford those Provisions which the Continent doth. The Inhabitants of the Uplands are Pagans; of the Sea-Coasts, Mahumetans. They have several Kings potentials well by Sea as by Land. They afford rich Commodities, especially Spices, which the Portugals, the Hollanders, and the most part of the other Nations of the world setch from thence.

Sumatra is the most famous Mand in all the East, for largeness and richness, for it is 300 French Leagues long, and 70 broad, having several Mines of Gold: It lies to Leagues from the Continent and the Ancients believ'd it to be a Peninfala, by reason of the several little Islands that feem to join it to the Land. Six Kings command it; the King of Achem, best Known to us; of Camper, Iambi, Menancabo and Palimban. They have so well defended their Island, that the Europeans could never get footing on it. There is a Mountain that casts forth Flames like Mount Gibel. The Pepper of this Island is better than that of Malabar, because the Land is more moist. They find Gold in Grains, and in little pieces after the great Floods of Water. The Inland part is Inhabited by Barbarians, that will eat the Raw-flesh of their Enemies with Pepper and Salt. The City of Achem is the best in all the Island, it has been better than it is; it lies half a League from the Sea upon a Plain, by the fide of a River, as large as the Seine in France, but very shallow. There is also a Fortress upon the Bank of the Rivere

Java, governed by several petry Kings, every City having one: Among the rest, the Kings of Japara, Tuban, Jottan, Panarvan, Panaruran, and Palambuam. Many are Pagans, some are Mahumetans, and the most part acknowledge the great Materan, or the Emperor of Materan, who formerly claimed the Sovereignty over the whole Island. Upon the Coast grow Oysters that weigh 200 pound. The Isle produces fuch large Canes, than one alone suffices to make a Boat. It affords excellent Lignum, Aues, Salt from Fottan, and Gold and Pepper in abundance. The Southern Coast is least known. It is one of the largest Islands in Asia; and for its Plenty may be called, The Epitome of the World. The City of Bantam lies at the foot of a Hill, environed by 2 Rivulets, and divided by another. The Port is large, and the most frequented of all the Islands of Sonde; for it affords all kind of Spices, Stones, and other Commodities of the East-Indies. The Spaniard's call Bantamthe Geneva of the East. Facatra, or Batavia, is the Residence of the Conful for the Holland Company, ever fince the year 1619. it is defended by a good Cittadel, with four regulated Bastions; it lies in a Bay, which being fecur'd toward the Sea by fome Islands, makes the best Road in all the Indies. Fortam, next to that, is one of the best Ports, and most frequented. Borneo.

Borneo, the very biggest Island of all Asia, abounds in Mirobalans and Campbire: it has several good Ports, but sew good Cities. Some say that it was the Fava of Mark Poll of Venice, and that the Lesser Fava was that already mentioned. The City is built upon Piles in the Sea, at the mouth of a fair River, having a large and commodious Harbor. The Natives have a peculiar King of their own, as likewise has Bender-Massin. Sambos is the Capital City of the Kingdom, assorbing Diamonds.

The PHILIPPINE Mands.

Milipthe Second gave his own Name to these Islands, which are about Forty or Fifty great ones; for should we reckon up little ones, they would make, by relation, some Thousands, the most part of them very fertile, and the Inhabitants pay their Tribute in Soldiers.

The Council of Spain oftentimes proposed the quitting of those. Islands, because of the expences of the Garisons: But because they lie convenient for the Trade between China and the Molucca Mands. the King was resolved to keep them. The Islanders are valiant, and preserve their Liberty in several places.

Luc'on, otherwise New-Castile, is the biggest of all the Philippine Islands. The City Manilla, which lends its Name to the whole Body of these Islands, is the Seat of the Viceroy, and an Archbishop: It is but small, but neat and well fortified, and safe from Mining, two thirds of the Town lying upon a River navigable for Barks, and the third part lying upon the Sea. Besides Spaniards and Indians, there are several Chineses that resort thither, as to the Magazine of the richest Commodities in the World. Cavite, two Leagues from the City, is the principal Haven, secured from the winds, and fortified with two wooden Forts. The Bay is 40 Leagues in compass, where there is a Convenience to build great Gallions, however the North winds blow hard upon it; the Bottom is bad and Entrance difficult.

Tandaya, or Philippina, is South-East from the Southermost part of Lucon, and the Straight between them is called the Straight of Manilla, esteemed the best and most pleasant of all the Islands, whose chief place is Achan.

The Island Mindanao has been in the Spaniards hands but a little while.

St. Juan. or John, lies North-East of Mindanao. That of Paragoya, or Calamianes of Boterus, the Puloam of Maginus, who discovered these Islands in 1520, and some others, obey their own Kings. Cebu and Matan are known the first by the discovery of Magellan, the other by the death of Magellan.

The Spaniards that are bound to the Philippines never fail through our Hemisphere; and therefore they would have these Islands, as well as the Molucca's, to be the Bounds of the West-Indies, which they, for that reason would have to reach as far as the Molucca's. Other Hlands are Mindora, which gives Name to a Straight so called, Mas bat, Negoas, Panay Kupil or Bobol, Abuya or Rebujan.

From the Philippine Island Eastward, there lies several other Isles, called in Spanish by the general Name, Islas de las Velas, by the Datch Isles de Ladrones, or Larrons, of which I find nothing memorable, except their Names in some Maps; And that the Inhabitants are poor, haked, and great Thieves, which is dealers and its and the control of the co

Here are five of these Islands that carry the particular Name of Molucca's: These five Islands are very small, seated much about the Equinostical Line, in an unwholsome Air for Strangers. They are under several Kings: The Hollanders have also some Fortresses there. They afford Nutmegs, Ginger, and Cloves; Ternate, the biggest of the five little ones, is eight Leagues about, with a Mountain that casts out Fire. It hath besides, several Villages uninhabited in times of war, three Cities or rather Forts, viz. Gammalamme, Mayloge, now called Orange; Tacony, by the Dutch William-Stad: The rest are Tidor, very considerable; Motir, Machoan, Bachian.

The Molacia's are good Soldiers, and for the most part Mahumetans. Besides the Kings of Ternate, Tidor and Bachian, there are several others in the Celebes Island, and Gilolo. The King of Macassain in the Celebes, particularly has a while since extraordinarily fortissed his City. He has always given Strangers free entrance into his Ports. In 1667, he treated with the Hollanders, and quitted the Portugals. But in 1668, the Hollanders obliged him to trade with no other Nation but them: And there was a Report that the Dutch have since seized upon, and taken Macassar.

The Air of this Country is good, but the Heats are insupportable in the Day-time. Formerly the Natives of Macassar eat Human-flesh, for which reason the Neighbouring Princes sent them all their Criminals.

Celeber is fertile in Rice, and the Land of Papous yields Gold, An-

Banda is an Island towards the South of the Molucca's, with five or fix other Islands about it, to which it gives its Name. It is the only Island in the World that produces Nutmegs and Mace: There is in it a burning Mountain, and in the year 1615. all the great Guns in the Island were spoil'd

About four years before the barbarous Proceedings of the Dutch at Amboyna, they shot Captain Courtupt in his Boat, going from his House and Factory in Polleroon, to one of the adjacent Clove Islands, called Lantore; on which Islands not long after; some English suffer'd such unparallel'd and barbarous Cruelty by the Dutch as a created Nature was capable of enduring.

In the year 1617, the Inhabitants of Banda Islands befought Capt. Bal, then President at Bantam, to receive their Islands into his Jurisdiction, to defend them from the Tyrannies of the Dutch, who murdered them at their pleasure, and abused their Wives, whilst themselves were enforc'd to look on; protesting also, that they never gave the least consent to them to possess their Island, which was accepted of by the English; but in the year 1622, they were forced by the Dutch to abandon the Banda Islands; and it is credibly reported, that after the English had less those Islands, the numerous shoals of Mackerel, which was the chiefest support to the Inhabitants, and which constantly came in their Season, forsook those Islands also.

Amboyna, towards the South of the Molucca's, gives its Name to some other Isles. It is an Island abounding in Cloves; for the buying and gathering whereof, the English had sive Factories the chiefest whereof was at Amboyna, the other at Hitto, at Larica, at Cambillo, and Lobo, who begun to be rich; when on the 11th of February, 1622, began the barbarous proceedings of the Dutch against the English, where the two Elements of Fire and Water, altho merciles of themselves, by making their Fury more deliberate, were here instructed to be more unmerciful, whilst accurate Cruelty did torment even invention it self-to torment the innocent. The Dutch have now several Forts there. 'Tistheir best Colony next to that of Batavia, and they have forced the Inhabitants of the Island to trade with no other.

And here let me remark, how strange and admirable indeed it is, That a small number of Merchants, assembled at first upon the single score of Trade, should, in a few years, presume to make war in Countries so far distant, and to assail so many potent Kings and Princes; to plant so many Colonies, besiege so many Cities and Forts, expelling the Permyals in many places, surprising the English, encroaching upon all. And lastly setting forth so many Navies at such prodigious Charges and Expences, of about 12 Millions a year, that the most potent Sovereigns in the Universe cannot equalize.

the Arabians Ifriches, or Ifriquia; by the Indians, Bezecath; by the Turks Magribon; but the most noted-Appellation is Africa, either from Apher, an Hebrew word signifying dust; or from Epher or Aphar, one of the Nephews of Abraham; by the Greek Fablers, from Afer, a Companion of Hercules; by the Arabians, from Faruch, to divide or separate, or from the ancient Name of Carthage, called Africa: By Bochartus from Feruc, a Corn Country.

Scituate it is, for the most part under the Torrid Zone, the Equator croffing it in the very middle, and therefore by the Ancients fupposed uninhabitable, and parched with the Sun's excessive heat: But what they knew not, and thought almost impossible to be known, is now common; for the secrets of her deap, and remotest Shores are now beaten up and tracted with continual Voyages, first by the Portugals, and after by the English and Dutch. So that now four famous Seas are known to be the bounds of Africa; on the North the Mediterranean, on the East the Red Sea, or Arabian Gulf, on the South the Ethiopian, and on the West the Atlantick Ocean; so that 'tis divided from all the World by Sea, except Asia, whereunto it is joyned by a narrow Isthmus. The whole being formed like a huge Pyramid or Triangle, whose largest extent from North to South, and from East to west, is differently set down by most Geographers; though contrary to others, I shall state it thus: The length from Cape Verde to Cape Guardefuy is 72 degrees of Longitude, which is 5256 miles: Sanson makes it 80 degrees, which is 5840 miles, 584 miles too much: And its breadth from Cape Bon to the Cape of Good Hope, is 72 degrees of Latitude, which makes 5110 miles, at 72 to a degree.

Africa in General is divided into these Regions or Parts.

The greatest Rivers in Africa, are Nilus, and Niger. The River Nilus is famous for its Greatness and Fœcundity; it hath anciently had several Names; the Hebrews called it Nabar or Nachal, the Inhabitants Nuchal, by the Jews it was called Shichor, or Sihor; by the Greeks Melas; Homer, Diodorus, Xenophon,&c. gave it the common Appellation of the Country, viz. Egyptus. Plutarch calls it Osyris and Syris; Appollonius, Triton, Pliny, Aftraton, Diodorus Aquila, Cedrenus Chryforrhoe; Dyonifius Syene: The Abysines Style it Abanha; the Negroes, or Moors, Takkui; the Inhabitants of Goyame, by Report of Sanatius, call it Gibon; and the Lybians and Africans, Nilus. It runs many Leagues, passes through feveral Lakes, divers Mands, and Waters the most lovely Vallies in the World. The heads thereof, now well known, are in Athiopia.

Kircher, from a manuscipt of one Peter Pais, (who in company of the Abystine Emperor, in the year 1618, March 21. most accurately fearched for it), tells us, that it rifes in the Country of Sabala, being part of the Province of Agass, bordering on Goyam, whose Source or Spring-head first appears in two Founts, seeming perfectly round: The Diameter of each about 18 Inches, but in depth unfathomable; on the top of a Moras, or Boggy plain, (which shaking Plain, saith Kircher, was once a large open Pool) which by length of time, conby the prowing and spreading of Grass and other Dust and Slime. Concerning this, see more in the Description of Ethiopia; The Cataralts or Falls, upon the confines of Ethiopia and Egypt; And the Mouths that often throw themselves in the Sea below Egypt; where the Ancients have made seven, some nine, and the Moderns four. But now there are but two, when there is no inundation,

Damiata and Rosetta. Whatfoever was or is, the Number of the Ostiaries of Nile, ancient and modern Authors, as well as Maps, differ among themselves; for Pomponius, Strabo, Diodorus, and Herodotus make feven; others, with Ptolomy, nine, viz. the Heraclean, called also the Canopean and Naueratian; the Bolbitian; Sebennitian; Pathmetian, by Strabo; Fatnian. by Herodotus in his Euterpe Bucolian; the Mendesian; the Tanitian and the Pelualian. The other two were the Dialcos and the Pinaptimi, to which some add two more. William of Tyre, who had exactly search'd the Number of them upon the place, assures us, there were no more but four. To reconcile these Differences, give me leave to note, that when this River overflows the Country, it then dischargeth it self into other Channels, which remain dry all the rest of the year, and then it is restrained to those four which were then the natural branches, now faid to be but two when there is no inundation, viz. Damiata and Rosetta, by which its Waters flow regularly into the Sea. The Water has a focundating virtue, and peculiar quality to fatten the Land: fo that its yearly inundation, which begins about the middle of June, and ends the beginning of September, Egypt is made exceeding fruitful; for it not only produceth a Harvest plentiful. even to Admiration, but caufeth an infinite encrease in all forts of Cattel that water there, and breeds a prolifick faculty in Men and Women, even to Admiration, as makes Wonder stand amazed to fee Nature turn prodigal. This made the Gimesophists of Egypt to make it one of their chief Nimens, which they worshipped under the name of the Goddess Iss. This also was the cause of those noble E-Dithets bestowed off it, viz. The Gift of Jupiter, The Tears of the Gods, The Veins of Paradife, the Seed of the Gods, &c. The Moors and Negroes often call it, The Fountain of Heavenly Water; and the Arabian Poets Ityle it. The Life of the Earth. Mr. Sands tells us, that in the year 1610, at Cairo, it usually did rise 23 Cubits; it rises generally sixteen Cubits. It is per-crived by the retiring of the Cattel; by the marks which are in their wells; and by the weight of the flime of the River, which the people lay out at their trindows to receive the Dew which falls, and Prognosticates the increase. The cause of this overflowing of Nile is variously conjectured; some fay, that the Tempests of the Sea swell the River; others affirm, that the Sand which gathers at the Mouth, stops the Stream, and that the Northern Winds drive it back again. Many Moderns believe that it is swell'd and increas'd by the melting of the Snow, and the Rains that fall in great abundance, and at certain seasons in Libiopia; and in regard that in Legypt it is Wiriter, when Summer in Ethiopia, they fay, that the Nile encreases when other Rivers decrease. Of late it hath been afferted that the Nitre. which abounds in this River, is the true natural reason of these marvelous effects; which, being melted by the heat of the Sun, mixes with the Water, troubles it, ferments it, and fwells it, and makes it exceeds its bounds; fo that the Mud, which the Nile carries along with it, neither comes very far, nor raises the Banks any higher. The Niger retains the Name, which it received from those people whose Country it runs through; fometimes it runs under ground, and before it falls into the Atlantick Ocean, divides it felf into three principal Members, Senega, Gambia, and Rio Grande. Enfertiles all the Countries through which it passes; and in the Sand are found good store of Gold. The Water having the same virtue as Nile, has made some believe, that these two Waters somewhere meet together. The Zaire is considerable for its sweetness, and for its plenty of Water. The Zambera divides it felf into three Currents : Guama. Spirito Sancto, and Rio De los Infantes. The Gbir loses it self often in the Sand, and as many times retrieves it self again.

The greatest Lakes are Zair, Zambere, and Zastan, all three in Athiopia. The Mountains of most Remark are the Great and Lesser Atlas, the Christal Mountains, Mountains of the Sun, Salt petre Hill, Sierra Liona, Amara, Mount Table, and Isle Picos Fragosos, Montes Luna. &c.

The great Atlas (by the Natives Idvacal, teste Marmol; by Aug. Curio, Anchisa; by Olearius, Majuste) runs through Africa; as Taurus through Asia, beginning in Marmarica; about 20 miles from Alexandr, extending Westward (with many Gaps and Breaks) to the Atlantick Ocean, dividing Barbary from Bellidulgerid. No Mountains in Africa are more celebrated for its wondrous height, that seems to reach to the Skie. The Poets seign'd, that Atlas sustained Heaven upon his Shoulders, by reason of its excessive height: Or else, because that Atlas King of Mauritania, was the first that studied the motion of the Heavens

The Leffer Atlas Coasts with the Midland Sea, extending from Gibralter to Bona, by the Spaniards, Montes Claros.

Eastwards appears Sakpeare Hill. On the borders of Guinea appears Sakpeare Hill. On the borders of Guinea appears Sakpeare Hill. On the borders of Guinea appears Store Loope: Amora is the most noted of Ethiopia. Table Mount appears near the Cape Good Hope; not far off are those called Officer Fragefos. And those of the Moon lie between the two Ethiopia's, and are the highest in Africa, and called by the Inhabitants Beist. The Ancients took these Mountains to be the limits of the World.

The Ishmus of Sues, which keeps Africa from being a perfect Island. is about nine Leagues in breadth between the Red Sea, and the Channel of Nik; for from one Sea to the other is above thirty five Leagues, Stories relate, that one of the Ptolemies, Q. Cleopatra, some of the Soldans, and others that have been Mafters of Agypt, have affay'd in vain to dig through that Million, and chatthey gave over the enterprife, as well by reason of the prodigiousness of the Toyle, as for fear of being greatly endanger o by the Red Sea which was found to be higher than the Mediterranean Sea, and which with its bittorness would have tainted the River Nile, the only drink of the Agyptians: And indeed all Authors agree, that the Waters of the Nile are Iweet. healthful and nourithing. Ptolomer's design was to perform a work of Fame, by making Africa an Island. Cleopatra's intention was to carry her Ships into the RedSea without any danger of falling into Augustus's. hands. The contrivance of the Soldans was to carry the Trade of the Europeans into the East Indies, through their Territories, in hopes of some great Tribute. But none of them were able to attain their Ends.

Africa is the barrenest and worst peopled part of our Continent. Her great Rivers are sull of Crocodiles. Her Mountains and Deserts sill'd with Lions and other wild and cruel Beasts; the scarcity of Water producing many Monsters, while Creatures of several species couple and engender at the warring-places, where they often meet. There is no Creature in the World that grows so big, from so small a beginning, as the Crocodile, for it is hatch'd in an Egg, and grows every day as long as it lives, which is said to be an hundred years. The Elephants are very serviceable to the Africans, as also are their Camels and great Baboons. Dromedaries are a fort of Camels, less and swifter than the others. They have also wild Asses, Unicons, Barbary Horses, Cameleons, little Monkyes and Parrots. Their Osciches assort them fine Feathers, and their Civet Cats are esteemed for the excellency of their Scents.

Amongst a great number of different Tongues that are in Africa, the most general are the Beribers, or African, which comes from the Ancient Punick and the Arabick; these two extend through all Barbary, Billedulgerid,

Their Religions in Africa are for the most part Idolatrous, as Paganism, and Mahometanism; though there are also mixed amongst them vast numbers of Jews, and Christians of several forts.

At this day Africa is possessed by five sorts of Religions, viz. Christians, Jews, Caffers, Idolaters, and Mahumetans. The Christians are partly Strangers, and partly Natives, whereof some are Slaves to the Turks and Barbarians, others are free people. Of the Jews some are Natives, others are strangers; divided they are into several Tribes, Wealthy and Numerous, but despised and abominated by the Turks and Moors.

The Caffers, or Libertines, hold many Atheistical Tenents, live together without Ceremonies, like our Familists or Adamites, inhabiting from Mosambique, all along the Coast, beyond the Cape of Good Hope.

The Idolaters are numerous, in Negroland, in both the Ethiopie's, and towards the Great Ocean.

The Mahumetans possess the greatest part of Africa.

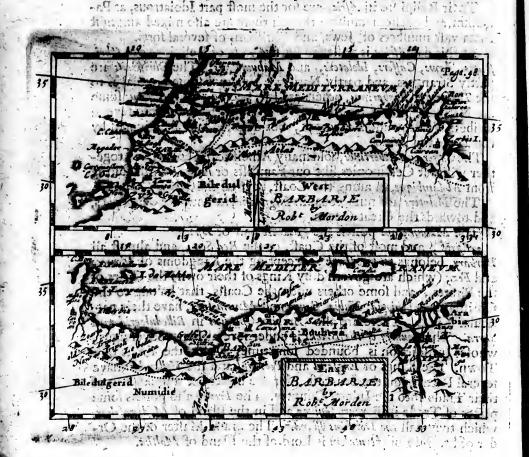

Agypi, and most of the Coas, or the Red Sea, and almost all Barbary, belongs to the Turk, excepting the Kingdoms of Morocco and Fez, (which are govern'd by Kings of their own) the Cities of the Pirates, and some others upon the Coasts that belong to the Christians. Athiopia, Nuhia, Gonga and Monomotopa, have their particular Kings. There are also Arabian Cheiques in Billedulgerid and Sarra. The Country of the Blacks is under several Petty Sovereigns, whose Jurisdiction is bounded sometimes within the limits of a Town. The Kings of England and Portugal and the Hollanders, have several Ports upon the Sea-cost, for the better accommodation of their Trade into the Inland Country. The French also possession places of Trade in Barbary, Guinea, and in the Island of Madagaschar, which they call the Dolphins Island. peopled Gounty of all Africa, by reason of the convenience of Trade. The Romans, the Saranan, the Wandals, the Arabians, the Moors, the Turks, have been successively Lords thereof, and have called the Cities by different Names; but, at this day, a great part of it is under the Turk. The Emperor of Fez and Morocco rules the North-West part. The Spaniards, Portugals, English and Dutch, possess several places upon the Coast. Susam, Constantine, Couco, Labes, are little Kingdoms that lie in the Mountains. Saly, Tituan, Algier, Tunis, and Tripoly, belong to the Pirats; the three last under the Protection of the Grand Signior, who sends a Basha to each, tho they have but very little Authority. The French hold the place called, The Bastion of France, and the Genoeses the Island Tabarque.

Barbary is inhabited by the Africans or Bereberes, oftner called Moors. There are also some Arabians who settled themselves there in the Year 999. They live in the open Fields in Adouares, or Commonalties composed of several Families, which they call Baraques, where they have an 100 or 200 Tents set up in a Round.

The Inhabitants are generally of a duskish, or rather blackish Complexion, naturally ingenious, and given to Arts and Literature, studious in their Law; very distrussful, inconstant, crassy, malicious when angred; very active, good Horsemen, of a stately Gate, costly in their Apparel, and jealous of their Wives, who are of a comely Body, well seatured, of delicate soft Skins, and in their Dress exceeding sumptuous.

The Language spoken, at present, in most of the Maritime Towns is the Arabick, but in Fez. and Morocco the Punick, or old African, the ancient Language of the Country.

'Tis situate between 30 and 35 Degrees of Northern Latitude, the longest Summers day about 13 hours one quarter, increased to 14 and one quarter in the most Northern parts; it is extended, in length, from the Atlantick Ocean to Egypt; in breadth, from the Mediterranean Sea to the Atlas Mountains.

Barbary comprehends several Kingdoms that contain Cities of the same Name, Morocco, Fez, Teknsen, or Tremisen, Algier, Tunis, ancient Mauritania, Tingitania. 'Tis now divided into seven Parts' or provinces, viz. Temelne, Fez. Azgar, Habat, Errife, Garret, and Chaus.

The chief Places of the Province of Temesne are, 1. Rabath, Opinum olim Episcopalis Tingitana, built after the Model of Morocco, with its Aquaduct 12 Miles long, by King Mansor.

Anfa and Anafe on the Coast, seated in a delightful plain, was once one of the most famous Cities of Africa for its Trade with the English and Portugals, and for its Riches; but being addicted to Piracy, was the cause of its Ruine, and of that of Almansor.

Muchatia on the Guer is now famous only for the Tomb of one of their Morabuts or Saints.

Adendum is noted for its many Iron Mines about it.

Tegaget for its store of Grains.

The Province of Fez lies between the Rivers of Suba, Sabur, teffer. Marm. & Cast. and Baragrag, the Salu of Plin. Prok. &c. The Ornament of this Province, nay, of all Barbary is Fez, which the Mahometans call, The Court of the West, about a Degree from the Ocean, and as much from the Mediterranean Sea, Volubilis Tingitana, Ptol. Volubile, Plin. teste. Marmol. Overvious, Seldeni, the fairest and best City of all Barbary, but the Romantick Description by Heylin, Blome, &c. is very different from our later Relations, so that I can write nothing of it with certainty

The City of Mahmora fell into the hands of the Portugals in 1515, but retaken by the King of Fez, who there defeated 10000 Christians, and got 60 pieces of Artillery; taken again by the Spaniards, 1614. and fortified, having a good Port.

Sally, or Sale, is the Salu Plin. Ptol. & Sol. Sella, Jo. Leoni; Cela, Marm. is composed of two Cities, the Old and New; its Fortress is on a rising Ground, with an high Tower; in its Castle is the magnificent Tomb of King Manson and others; it hath a Trade with the English, French, Dutch, and Genouese, but its most enriched by its Piracies.

Michneß, between Sally and Fez, is encompassed with Gardens of excellent Fruits, as Pomegranates, Citrons, Oranges, Lemmons, Figs, Olives, Grapes, &c.

Afgar, or Azgar, towards the Sea, affords Fens and Marshes, where they catch store of Eels: And store of Forests, whence they have Char-coal and Wood, whose chief places were Elgiumba, or Elgiumba, now only a Granary, where the Arabs store up their Corn.

Casar-Eleaber, or Aleazar, is a place of pleasure, built by King Mansor, samous for the Battel which Don Schastian, King of Portugal, lost in 1578. fought near this place; in which all three of the Competitors lost their Lives; Don Sebastian was slain in the Field, Muly Mahomet of Fez was drowned, and Abdelmelech of Morneco the Conqueror, died either with the labour and pains, or with the Sickness with which he was seized before the Battel; and, amongst several others of eminent Quality, was that samous insamous English Rebel Stuckley slain.

Lharais, or Larrach, the Lixos of Plin. Lixa, Ptol. Lix, Sol. teste Marm. Arais, Africanis, once greater than the great Carthage, the Royal Residence of Antaus, whom Hercules deseated, and from whence he brought the Golden Apples, gathered in the Hesperides Gardens, is now one of the principal Fortresses of the Kingdom, delivered to the Spaniards by Muly Xecque 1610. for which he lost his Life by his own People.

Habat is one of the most considerable Provinces in Fez; its chief Cities are Arzilla, Zilia, Ptol. Zelis, Strab. teste Marmol. took by the Portugals 1471. but in the Year 1508. besieged by Muley Mahomet, and Oataz, who took the City and Castle; the Portugals securing themselves in the Tower, were relieved, and retook the City and Castle; retaken since by the Xerifs, who at present keep it. It was oftentimes the retreat or shelter of Gayland in his Wars against Ben Boucan, and Taffilette. Tangier, Tingi, Strab. & Plin. Tingis, Ptol. Tingios Steph. Tangeri Marmol. some Writers tell us that it was first built by Phut; others fay it was founded by Syphax, Son to Antaus, flain by the Lybian Hercules, and called after his Mother's Name Tangena, but depopulated and ruined by the Civil Wars among the Natives: After which the Romans, making themselves Masters of the Country, re-edified or founded this City, which gave Name to the whole Country of Fez. and Morocco, called, Tingitana, Mauritana, under whom it continued. until the Goths over-ran the whole Country: These were dispossessed by the Africans and Arabians; first attempted, in vain, in the Year 1483. by the King of Portugal; but in the Year 1508, it was seized by the Governour of Arzilla for the King of Portugal, who ftrongly fortified it. In the Year 1661, it was delivered into the hands of the King of Great Britain, Charles II. as part of the Dowry of His Royal Confort Queen Katherine.

Tettuan, or Tetteguin, is a well-built Town, and keeps many Chri-

"Ceuta remains in the hands of the Spaniards.

The Mountains or Cavila's of this province are very confiderable, viz. Angera for Flax and Timber.

Gazar Azzagir, once belonging to the Portugals. Chebib much enlarged.

The Province of Errif is very mountainous and woody, abundant in Barly, Vines, Figs, Olives and Almonds.

Gomer is seated on a River of the same Name.

Terga drives a Trade in Salt-Fish.

Bedis, or Belis, with its Castle and Parace, maintain some Gallies, but much molested by the Fort Pinnon de Velez, held by the Spaniards in an Island hard by it.

Mizemma, or Bozuma, formerly great and well peopled, where the French intended to settle a Factory or Trade.

Of the Mountains or Cavila's, that of Beniguazeval, or Benzarael, can arm 25000 men, and hath a Vulcane which continually casts out Fire. It found a Months work for Taffilet's Army, after he had taken Fez by Stratagem.

Sulaon is one of the most fruitful and most pleasant places of Africa; its people, under the Xeque, keeping themselves in Liberty.

Gebba, or Gebba, is the Sestiaria, of Ptol. teste Castal. but according to Mol. Capo de tres Forcas, is the Sestiaria of old; and Capo de tres Forcas is Metagonium Strab. Metagonitas Ptol. Castal. But Capo de Casasa teste Mol.

The Province of Garret lies upon the Coast of the Mediterranean Sea, extending to the River Mulvia, which separates it from Teleasin; its chief place is Melilla, Ryssadirum Ptol. Rusader, Ant. Rusardir. Plin. teste Marmolio, now in the hands of the Spaniards, taken Anno 1597. by John Gusman, Duke of Medina Sidonia. Chusasa was taken before by Ferdinand King of Castile, &c.

The Province of Chaus is very large, among its Cities Tezza is the chief, esteemed the third of the Kingdom, adorned with three Colledges, 23 Banians, many Hospitals, and 100 Mosques or Temples, and a Magnificent Castle.

2. Turret, seated on a Hill in the midst of a Plain, very advantageously enclosed with strong Walls.

2. Dubdu, on the fide of an high Mountain, from which many Fountains descend.

Among the Inhabitants of the Mountains fome are rich, and others poor; some are fruitful in Vineyards, some in Fruits, and some in Pastures. In this Province is the noted Basket-bridge over the River Sebu, the Subur of Plin. & Ptol. teste Marmol. & Cast. between two high Rocks, 150 yards from the Water.

Gherseluin is beyond the Atlas Mountains. Garsis is the Galapha of Ptol. teste Marm.

The Kingdom of Morocco, with that of Fez, contains the ancient Mauritania. Tingitania.

'Tis divided into seven Provinces, viz. Sus, Hea, Guzula, Morocco, Teldes, Hascora, and Ducala, and contains the ancient Mauritania Sitisfensiis.

C. Cautin is the Usadium Ptol. teste Baud. Marmol. makes Usadium to be C. de Alguer. Mercat. makes Herculis Promontorium to be Cabo Cantin.

Sus Province lies about the River Sus, and extends as far as Cape Non, whose chief City is Taradunt, where the English and French Merchants have a Staple for their Sugars, the only Mart-Town of all the Country.

Tefelfeldt is the Tamusida, or Thamuside of Ant. teste Marmol.

Messa, seated at the Flux of the River Sus, is composed of three little Cities.

Tedsa, accounted larger, but not so rich as Taradant.

Teient on the Sus is composed of three Towns, each distant a mile from the other, having their Temple in the midst.

The Fortress and City of Guarguessen belongs to the Portugals.

Aguar is a Promontory of great importance, near which is San-Eta Crux built by the Portugals.

Masagan, or Mazzagran, Cartenna, Cast. Mostagan Marm. Circelli Etrobio.

The Province of Guzula is not far from the Seat of the Ancient Getuly; it hath many Boroughs and Towns, but no walled Cities or Fortesses; said, by Sanson, to be rich in Mines of Gold, Brass, Iron, &c.

The Province of Morocco, the chief City bears the same Name, the Bocanum Homerum of Ptol. Hisp. Marueccos Gal. Maroc. teste Nig. & Curione, and was the chief of the whole Kingdom, and once the Metropolis of all Barbary, at which time it had 24 Gates, in Circuit contained 12 Miles, and about 100000 Families, strongly girt about with walls, and adorned with many pubick and private Buildings; especially one Mosque, accounted the greatest in the World seated in the midst of the City, beautisted with a stately high Steeple. yards, and fertile Fields, that it was called the Little Morocco

Elgbiumba is but a small place.

Imegiagen is seated on a high Mountain, as is also Temella. Tenez-za is a Town of some Note.

The Province of Hea is mountainous and woody, inhabited by an idle and barbarous people; its chiefest Cities are Tednest on the River Sauens, the Inhabitants most Jews.

Hadeguis, Teguleth, Tejeut, are places of Trade.

Tesegfeldt, the Tamasida, or Thamusida of Ant. teste Marmol. and Kleusugagen, are the most considerabe of those in the Mountains.

The Isle of Mogador near the Cape of Ocem, is distant from the Coast about two Leagues, where is built a Fort to guard the Mines of Gold and Silver which are in the neighbouring Mountains.

Gozoporto is the Suriga of Ptol. teste Curiane.

Ducala Province is the most Northern part of the Kingdom of Morocco, whose chief Cities are Azamer, taken by the Portugals 1612, since retaken by the Moors, who have a strong Garison there, the Thymaterium Hanno, Thymiateria Steph. teste J. Marian. & Ramusio.

Magazan is so strongly fortified by the Portugals, that 200000 have in vain besieged it. Tite was by them dismantled. Asafi or Saffa hath a French Conful.

The Province of Hascora hath Elmadine for its chief City, once accounted the Capital of the Country, whose Inhabitants addict themselves to Arts, Traffick, and Manusactures. Tegodast hath sair Women. Elgiumuha is governed by Artizans, as Tegodast admits of none but Nobles. Bzo is a place of some Trade.

The Province of Teldes hath the rich City of Tefza, built by the old African Moors, beautified with many Mahometan Mosques, and its walls a kind of Marble.

In these two Provinces are great quantities of Goats, of whose Skins are made the Cordovants; and of their Hair, plain and watered Camolets. Their Grapes are as big as Pullets-Eggs.

The chief Rivers of Morocco are the Sus, the Una of Ptol. teste Marmol. that waters the Suspern part; the Tensist that divides it in the middle, the Asama of the Ancients; the Ommiraly which teparates it

The Asifmual, that makes an Abyss or Gulph, like to that of Si-well in Italy. The Agmet loseth it self under-ground.

The Commodities of this Country bearing the Name of Mercantil, are Flax, Hemp, Honey, Wax, Sugar, Hydes, Marchins or Cordavants, Gourse Twine, Dates, Almonds, Camolets, and other Manusactures; as Mats of very curious Straw, Mantles, Albeicks, and in some places store of Salepetre. As for the salutous abundance of Gold, there is no truth in it.

The Kingdoms of Fez and Morocco ought to be considered in three forts of Lands, Mountains, Campains, and Coasts. The Mountains and Vallies are almost all in the hands of the Alarbes and Barabars, who live partly free, and partly tributary to the Zeriffs. The Coasts, in part belong to the Moors, and part to the Spaniards and Rortugals; these holding those on the Atlantick; the other on the Mediterranean Sea.

The Alarbes are, by the Europeans, called Mountaineers, living in Hairnas or Tents, more rudely and rovingly, shifting from Mountain to mountain, according to their Exigencies, or Fickle Humours, carrying with them their Itinerary Habitations, Robbery being their best Livelyhood.

The other fort of Moors are called Barabars, or Brebers; these have fixed Dwellings, and live in Neighbourhood, and gather into Aldeah's Cavilab's, or Villages: Over these Barabars are subordinate Governours, or Almocadens, to whom they pay a dutiful Observance; their Vocation is Tillage and Grazing.

The Moors are of a large Stature, strong Constitution, stately Carriage, and differing in Complexion, according to their conversing with the Sun and Air; jealous and revengeful; implacable in their hatred, and impatient till they have avenged an injury.

The Female Moors, if preserved from the injuries of the Sun and Weather, are generally well complexioned, sull bodied, and of good Symmetry; those that live in Townsare inclined to paleness, seldom stirring abroad, unless to visit the Sepulchres of their deceased Friends, in Devotion to pray for their Felicity; and in the Nighttime to the Baths for Health and Cleanliness; but always closely vailed, that no part is visible but an Eye. In the state of Matrimony their principal study is to please their Husbands, and to render themselves delightful to their Conversation.

Those

Those Husbands that are able, allow their Wives Negro's, or Black Women, to do all the servile Offices in the Family; yet there is no Quality that sit idle; for the chief of the Morisco Dames employ their time in some thrifty Housewifery. In their Visits one to another, no Man, though never so near a Relation, can be admitted into their Society; to prevent which, she that makes the Visit, first sends to know whether the Husband be at home, if not, then she goes to her Goffips Appartment, where she is entertained with a Liberality that never injures her Husband: And if the Husband chanceth to return home in the interim of the Visit, he is careful to give no interruption, but, upon notice, quickly departs the House, which intimated to the Visitant, she also shortens the Visit. This prevents the custom of expensive Gosspings, with which in some Nations so many Wives are debauched, and Husbands beggar'd. The Women are, indeed, kept in great subjection and retirement, which makes Adultery a Stranger to their Bed: Nor can it reasonably be otherwise, seeing that the Wife is fully affured, that the very Attempt to pilfer a Pleafure, if discovered, will cost her her Life.

There is a great appearance of Piety, in the customary Expressions and Salutations of the Moors in the beginning of any Labour or Journey, with Zeal and Humility they will look up to Heaven, and with a low Voice say, Bismillath; that is, In the Name of God: Intimating, That nothing ought to be enterprized, but in the power and hope of the Divine Favour and Help. And when the Work, or Journey is finished, they say, Ham der Illah, Thanks be unto God; denying all Ascriptions of Success to themselves. When they meet upon the Road, their Greeting is, El ham dilla al salam tips, i. e. God be praised that I see thee well. In passing by one another, Salem alleque, Peace be with thee. At the hearing of one another sneeze, they say----God be your Keeper. The like Air and Genius of Devotion and Piety is observable in their Letters.

This Country abounds with Giamma's, Moschs, or Churches, to which the Moors perform a great Reverence and Liberality, never fuffering them to be prophaned, nor to want a competent Stock to keep them in Repair; their Scituation is East and West.

. In greater Towns there are many Giamma's; in Tituan 15; in Alcazar more; in Arzilla 5, and in Fez. 700.

The Moors have at this day no Schools of Science, like the European Universities and Colleges. As for the College called Amarodock in Fez, whose Structure cost King Aba Henan 480000 Crowns, and which has been so often celerated for its delightful Situation, Mesaick Arches, and Brazen Gates, it is now wholy destitute of Students. There are only petty Schools to write and read; and when the Pupil can read the Alcoran with perspicuity, and understand the principal Points it contains, and bears a good affection to the Priesthood, and is informed of the Rites of the Giamma, which are few and easie, and is deemed competent for Age and Learning, then two or three Alfaqui's, or Priests, examine the Candidate, and being found deserving, they grant him Testimonials of his willingness and abilities to be an Alfaqui; and this is all the Education and Orders bestowed upon their Priests.

The Moors season of Prayer is five times in 24 hours: The first is about Noon; the second about Three of the Clock in the Asternoon; the third at the going down of the Sun; the fourth a little within Night; the fifth a little before day in the Winter. In their Addresses to these Holy Celebrations, the Moors use great tokens of Reverence, being very careful by washing, &c. in sitting themselves for the Giamma.

And here give me leave to hint, what some of these Men (which we count Barbarians) have animadverted, That the irreverent Carriage in Holy Places, and sawey Behaviour at our Sacred Solemnities by some of us Christians, are great Reproaches to our Religion, and often by them resented with Anger and Indignation.

Prayer they stile, The Key of Paradise, and, The Pillar of Religion; and generally maintain so careful a performance of this publick Duty, that no secular Business can detain them from, nor any thing divert them at their Devotion.

As every Cavila have an Alcalib, or High Priest, chosen by the Alfaquis, or Priest, who is possessed of the Giamma Geber, or Great Church, wherein every Friday, which is their Sabbath, he expounds some Text of the Alcoran; so also every Cavila and Town have a particular Alcadde, from whom they cannot appeal to any other but Alcadde Gheber, or the chief of these Justicers, who is appointed to receive such Appeals, and is in constant attendance upon the King or chief Governor. The Alcaddees sit in the Gates of the Cavila, or some publick place, to hear and determine all Cases. And the Alcoran being the immutable Rule both of Civil Justice and Religion, therefore, according to the Letter and interpretation thereof, the Alcaddee frames all his Definitions and Judgments: Here's no intreaguing the Plea, with Resolutions, Cases, Presidents, Reports, Old Statutes, but according to the fresh circumstances of the Fact, and the proof of what is alledged.

Adultery is a Capital Crime in the Moresco Catalogue, and the person Convicted thereof, without any regard of his Eminence or Quality, is certainly stoned to Death.

For the first These the Convict is publickly whipped in the Market. For the Second, he loseth his Hand. For the third, he dies exquisitely tormented, and then exposed to the Birds of Prey. All Homicide, or killing of a Man by a Man, is Capital.

Usury is totally forbidden by their Law; for Mahomet hath made it an irremissible Sin; but he that borrows Mony of another wherewith to traffick and gain, gives the Lender an equal share of the Profits; and it is usual for the Lender to forbear the Borrower, till he perceive him fraudulent, careless, or unfortunate.

Marriage is in fo peculiar an Estimation, that Mahomet made it the second of his eight Precepts; and the Moors are so generally observant of this Commandment, that sew among them are sound to live out of the state of Wedlock, if they are able to purchase a Wife.

Polygamy, Concubinage, and Divorce, are used by them; for Mabomet, that he might the better compleat the loose Humours of his first Sectaries, made his Religion to contain many carnal Indulgences, denying nothing to Muslulmen that had any sensible compliance with their brutal Affections.

Geographers divided it into five Parts or Kingdoms, Telensin, Tenes, Algier, Bugia, and Constantina: Grammajus tells us, That the Turks have established therein twenty Governments, whereof ten are upon the Coast, and ten within Land: To these he also adds ten Divisions more but so intermixed and uncertain, that I shall not mention them.

But I shall proceed to a Description of the sive principal Parts afore-said; and first of the Province of Telensin, by the Inhabitants called Tremecen, from its chief City, which is the Timics of Plin, and Ptol. Marmol. distant about seven or eight Leagues from the Sea. In the decay of the Saracenical Empire, it usurped the Majesty of a Kingly Title, which, tho' much disgraced by being made subject to Abulthasen, King of Fez, after a Siege of Thirty Months, yet at last it assumed its Liberty under divers Kings of its own; one of which, viz. Abdalla, shaking off the Spanish Allegiance, submitted himself and Kingdom to Solyman the Magnisicent. It was once a City one of the greatest and fairest of Barbary, and very strong; for it sustained a Siege of seven years against Joseph the puissant King of Fez, and at last forced him to raise it.

Humain al. One is the Antient Artifiga, Sanf. Cifira & Sigar of Ptol. Castaldo. in 1535. ruined by the Castilians. The Country about it abounds with Figs, Oranges, Pomgranets, and Cotton, of which the Inhabitants make divers Manufactures.

Harefgol or Arefgol is the Siga of Strab. Plin. and Mela teste Marmol. by some Zersen or Zersen: A Roman Colony and Residence of Syphan; before he seized the Estate of Massinisa. Its situation is on a Rock, surrounded with the Sea, except on the South side; once much greater than it is; but the ill treatment it hath received from the Kings of Fez, from the Caliss, from the Moors, from the Castilians, and from the Arabs, hath reduced it to that small estate that it is now at, under the Government of Algier.

Oran, which the Africans call Tubaran (rather Gubaran) the Nubian-Geo. Vabaran, is this Cuifa of the Antients. Sanf. The Quiza and Zenitana of Plin. the Buzia of Ptol. taken by Cardinal Xingines, in the year 1509. at which time the Spaniards lost but fifty Men, killed four thousand Moors, redelivered twenty thousand Christian Captives.

Tefezara or Tefefre was the Aftalicis or Aftacilitis of Ptol. tefte. Marmol.

Hubbede or Hubet, is the Mniara of Ptol. the Mina of Ant.

Marmol.

Guagida the Lanigara, of Ptol. Marmol. is the capital City of the Province of Hanghad or Anghad, possessed by the Arabs, and noted for its Ostriches.

Beniarax, or Beniardsid, the Bunobora of Ptol. Sans. is the Capital Town of the province so called; it contains twenty five thousand Inhabitants, and pay twenty five thousand Ducates of Tributes.

Calat-Hapara, or the Urbara of old, is strong.

Monfear, the Victoria of Ptol. is the Residence of the Governour of the Algerines.

Batha is the Vaga of old much ruined; but Villanov. and Mol. tell us,

That Vaga is now Tegmedel.

Tenes is a Country both plain and mountanous, yielding Fruits, Wax, Hony and Cattle: Its chief City beareth the same Name, and by Sanson is the Fol and Fulia Casaria of Plin. Strab.&c. seated near to the Sea, having a Castle and Palace, formerly the abode of its Kings, now of its Governours: other places are Brisch alias Brexcar, the leosium of Plin. and Mela. Sans. But Castal. and Mole tell us, Icosium is Acor.

Melian is on the mountains, so is Beni Abucaed and Guanser the Zabacus of Ptol. which can raise two or three thousand Horse, and fifteen or fixteen thousand Foot.

Mostagan is the Cartenna of Mela. Ant. and Ptol. Marm. Mazzagran

Caft. Circilli Etrobio.

The Government of Algier comprehends likewise that of Couco in the Mountains, Built on the top of a Rock, whose Governors have often disputed their Liberty with the Deys of Algier. These Mountains are two or three days Journey long, and their Approaches difficult. They yield Olives, Grapes, and especially Figs, which is the Kings principal Revenue: As also, Iron and Salt-peter: the Plains afford Corn and Cattle. The Inhabitants are Bereberes and Azuages, well armed and couragious.

The Metropolis of this Province is Algier or Argier, Incolis Gezier, the Antient Jol built by King Juba, afterwards the Julia Casaria, Plin. teste Marmol. But Sanson will have Algier to be the Ruscurium of Plin. the Rusuccurrum of Ant. the Rusuccora Ptol. But Marmol. will have Ruscuram to be Garbele. Castaldus will have Algier to be Salda of Plin. upon the Ocean and Mediterranean. It is said to contain fifteen thousand Houses, and near as many Gardens round about it, abounding with store of pleasant Fruits; with their Fountains, and other places of delight.

The Air about Algier is pleasant and temperate; the Land hath excellent Fruits, as Almonds, Daves, Olives, Raisins, Figs, some Drugs, &c. The Plain of Mottia, fifteen or fixteen Leagues long, and eight or ten broad, is so fertile, that sometimes it yields an hundred for one, and bears twice a year. But most of the Inhabitants live by their Pyracy, which doth so much enrich the place, that Cardinal Ximenes was wont to say, That they that could take Argier, would find Mony enough in that Town to Conquer all Africa. Among the Tombs without the City is remarkable, that of the sairest Cava, Daughter of Count Julian of Bettica, who having been ravished by Rodoric King of the Goths, was the cause of the Moors descent into Spain. The Emperor Charles the Fifth lost before Argier the fairest Navy he ever had in his life.

The City of Temendfust, or Mansora, is about six Leagues from Algier, the Iomnium Municipium of Ptol. the Lomnium, Ant. teste Sans.

The Province of Constantina hath sometime had its Kings. This Province is divided into three Parts or Quarters, viz. that of Constantina, Bona and Thebessa.

Constantina, which the Moors or Arabians call Consantina, the Ancients Cirtha or Cirta Julia, which in Roman History was the Residence of many Kings of Numida, as Massinissa, and Syphax. This Cirta was besieged and taken by Massinissa, where Sophonisha, the daughter of Assinisha, Syphax's Queen was; who had so many Attractions and Charms, that in the same day she was Captive and Wife to Massinissa, who, that she might not be led in Triumph through Rome, poysoned her self. Its situation on a Mountain, which hath but two Avenues, the rest being Precipices, makes it strong.

Bona is the Antient Hipporegius, the Bishop's See of St. Augustine; ab-Africanis Bened el Ugneb, teste Marmol. Vaga, Silio. Aliis Biserta Vecchia, & Razamilara, teste Baud.

Thebesta the Antient Thereste, is said to excel all other Cities in Barbary in three things, in the force of its Walls, beauty of its Fountains, and great number of its Walnut-trees.

Collo is the Collops Magnus of Ptol. Mabra is the Aphrodium Colonia, teste Mol. & Castal. Stora is the Rusicada of Plin. Ptol. and Mela, teste Mol. and Marm. The Genovese have a Fortress in the Isle Tabarca: And the French a Bastion between the Isle Tabarca and Magazin, called Bastion de France, for the security of their Fishing and Commerce.

These two Provinces of Bugia and Constantina contain the Numidia. propria of the Antients, Guzuntina incolis, teste Marmol. A Country which hath suffered great Changes under the Romans, Vandals, Moors, and afterwards by Barbarossa.

HE Kingdom of Tunis was the Native Country of Amilear, "Hannibal, Asdrubal, Mago, and Massinissa; And Christianism also, is beholden to it for the Birth of St. Augustine, Tertullian, St. Cyprian, Lastantius, Fulgentius. The Kingdom of Tunis is divided into four Maritim Governments, and three or four Inlandones. are Biserta, Goletta Sousa and Africa. The Inland ones are Beija, Urbs, Cayroun, to which some add a part of Billedulgerid: And contains the Africa propria of old: In qua Punica Regna vides, Tyrios, & Agenoris, urbem. Virg. Lib. I. Eneidos. The Libyphanices Liv. Libophanices Phin. Libophanicia apud Salustium., This City grew from the Ruins of Carthage, once formerly Romes great Rivaless: And the Capital City of a large Territory first built by Dido, Anno Mundi 2070, about an hundred forty and three years before Rome, and two hundred and ninety years from the Destruction of Troy. Tunis is now one of the Simil Cities in Barbary, a Place of great Traffick, and much frequented, affording several good Commodities, viz. Saffron, Wax, Ovl, raw and falted Hides, hard Soap, variety of Fruits, Wooll, Spunges, Offrich-Feathers, and chiefly Christian Slaves: The Tarfis of the Ancients teste Sanut. memorable also, in the Holy Wars, for the Sieges and Successes of two of our Princes, Edward the First, and Henry the Fourth, when but Earl of Darby. As to the old Carthage, let me only fay, that it was once one of the fairest Cities of the World when in its Splendor it was three hundred and fixty stadia in circuit, like to that of Babylon. Its inhabitants forich and powerful, that they disputed with the Romans, as was said, for the Empire of the World, but now lies buried in its Ruins. No Biferta is the ancient Urica, of Cafar. Cic. Memorable for the death of Cato, confisting of a high and low Town, the one on a Rock, the other on the Sea. That of Soula (the Ruspina of Ptol. teste Sans. but Mahadia is the Ruspina teste Mol.) is a higher and lower City, the first on a Rock, and of difficult access; the latter on the Sea with a good Fort. In the year 1619, the Duke of Savon made an unfuccessful Enterprize Enterprize upon them: Within this Government is the City Hammametha Arab. the Adrumetum. Plin. Hadrumitum Mela, Adrumittos Ptol. which by Adianus is now called Toulba, by Merc. In the Government of Africa, Merc. is a City of the same Name, Mahadia Incolis, teste Faz. El-madia. Sans. the Aphrodisum, Ptol. twenty Leagues from Mahametta. Its Situation is in a Peninsula; guarded with a double Wall, and good Ditches: Its Port capable to lodge fifty Gallies, but its entrance so narow, that a Gally cannot pass without listing up its Oars. Sanson makes El-madia to be the ancient Thapsus, where Casar deseated Scipio, and Juha, after which deseat Cato slew himself at Urica; where Scipia being the by Casar's Fleet, passing his Sword through his Body, slung himself into the Sea: Juha retired to Zama, where he had lest his Children and Treasures, but being resused entrance, he and Petrejas retired into a house in the Fields, where they killed themselves.

Zamara is the Zama of Polyb. Strab. and Plin. teste Marmol. Zamamizon Plin. where Hannibal was overcome by Scipio, one hundred Miles from Mahometta, and one hundred and twenty from Tunis.

Goletta is a Fortress between Tunis and the Sea; under this Fort General Blake with the English Fleet fired the Pirate Ships of Tunis in 1654. Cayroan was the Residence of a Caliph, or one of Mahomets High-Priests. It is the ancient Thesdrus. where Massinissa beat Asdrubal, while Scipio look'd on. Begge. Of the Kingdom of Barca.

Cyreniaca, Libya, Marmarica are now comprehended under the name of Barca, which begins on the part where formerly stood the Altars of the Phylevians, which were also the Bounds between the Territories of Carthage and Cyrene; and after that to the Empires of East and West. It is a Country for the most part dry and barren, covered over in most places with a thick light Sand, continually moved about with the Winds, turning Hills into Vallies and Valleys into Hills. As infamous for the Birth of Arius, who denied the Divinity of Christ, so, as famous for one of the Sybils, hence named Lybica. These Sybils were in number ten, viz. Persica, Lybica, Delphica, Cumaea, Samia, Helle. spontica, Tiburtina, Aebunea, Scythaea and Cumana, which last is said to have writen the Nine Books of Sybils presented to Tarquinius Superbus, which contained Prophesies, of the Name, Birth, and Death of Christ.

The chief Places of most esteem in former Times were, r. Barca, of old called Ptolomais, of such account, that it gave name to the whole Country.

2. Cyrene, once of such Power, that it contended with Carthage about their Territories: The Birth-place of Eratosthenes, Callimachus, and Symon of Cyrene, who carried our Saviour's Cross: Now called Carvanna, Corene, Villano and Cair an. Baud.

3. Berenice on the great Syrtes, now Bernicho.

4. Herculis Turis erected in honour of Hercules for killing the Dragon, and robbing the Orchards of the Hesperides of their golden Apples, this Orchard being placed here by Ptolomy, by Pomponius in the Atlantick Islands, by Virgil and Pliny in Mauritania.

5. Alberton, of old Paraetonium, the Sea-port to the Temple of Jupiter Hammon, feated in the midst of a vast sandy Desert, as they tell us, encircled with a delightsome and pleasant Grove, watered with wholsome Springs, refreshed with a temperate Air, shaded with Fruit-bearing Trees, whose Leaves were always green.

This Country is now the thirteenth Calfiliff or Government under the Turkish Bashaw in Egypt, called Bonhera or Barcathe Southern Part whereof is called the Defert of Barca, samous for the Temple before mentioned, for its Oracle, for the Fountain of the Sun, for the destruction of Camby se's Anny; and for the visit of Alexander.

This flourishing Kingdom possess by Mizraim, changed her antient Name, and became Egypt, at such time as Agyptus (or Ramasis) the Son of Belus, having expelled his Brother Danaus or Armeus into that part of Greece, now called Morea, by whom the Argives were made Danai, which happen'd 877. years after the Flood, in the time of Tolhua, as St. Augustine conjectureth out of Eusebius.

This Country by the Jews was called, Mifraim; the Caldeans, Mifrai; the Assyrians, Misri; the Arabians, Mesra; the Moors, Missir; and Babara, by the Antient Inhabitants Chemia and Hamia; by the Romans, Augustinica; by Berosus, Oceansa; by Xenophon, Ogygia; by Herodotus, Potamia; by Lucian, Melambolos, alias Milampodus; by Homer, Hefestia; by others, Nilea, Aeria, and Osira; by the Modern Turks, El-kebit. - It is the only Region of Africa that borders upon Asia; and though the Air be bad, it is the best peopl'd in the World. Nor was it less peopl'd formerly, if it be true, that in the Reign of Amasis, one of their Kings, it contain'd above twenty thousand Cities. The extraordinary quantities of Corn which it yielded, caus'd the Antients to call it the publick Granary of the World. And the plenty or scarcity of the whole Roman Empire was still according to the Harvest of Egypt. Nile by the Inundation of his Stream, which is full of Nitre, gives the Ground this fertility. The Plants grow in fuch abundance, that they would choke one another, did they not strow the Fields with Sand. The Western part of Nile is more fruitful than the Eastern. Besides Corn, this Country affords Rice, Sugar, Dates, Sena, Cassia, Balsom, Hides, Flux, and Linen. They know little, who fay that it rains not there. For the ordinary time of Rains and Winds begins in the Month of December or Kijahak, and continues till January and February; at the Eve of Pentecost, in the year 1672, there was Rain at Rossette, and on the 24 of November, the Rains fell at Cairo, teste F. Vansleb. So that it is a great Error to fay, it never Rains in Egypt; besides, there are often wet Mists, and in all seasons of the year, when the Nights. are serene, there is much Dew that falls, but when the Nights are cloudy there is no Dew.

To this day also Egypt shews us Pyramids, Obeliques, Labyrinths, and other Works of the antient Kings raised at an incredible expence, to testify their Puissance, and to employ their People. The Statute of Memnon was there formerly most remarkable, as also the Pharos near Alexandria: In the Lake Meris is said to be seen the place where the Labyrinth stood, wherein they say, There were above thirty three hundred Rooms. but the Bodies of dead Men embalmed and buried in Vaults, carefully provided for that purpose, where they keep entire two or three thou-land years.

About five Miles from Cairo, as one Stephen Dublies reports, (being an eye witness) there is a place in which on every Good-friday there appears a great many Heads and Leggs of Men, rising out of the Ground: By late Relations tis said to be only a Trick of the Watermen to get Money.

The Palm-trees may be reckoned among the Rarities of Egypt, they grow in couples, Male and Female, and do not fructify but by coiture; the Fruit it bears is known by the name of Dates, in tafte much like Figs, and all its parts are of several uses, as the Pith for a Sallet, the Husk of the Cod for Cordage, the Leaves for Fans, Feathers &c.

Egypt at the begining had Native Kings, who governed their Subjects with a free and unlimited Authority, and till the Government of Psammenitus, Son of Amasis, who rul'd in the year of the World 3454, were all called by one general Sirname, or Title of Pharaoh, being a Name of Dignity as with us the Name of Emperor or King. But the Egypt hath been always of old governed by Kings, yet the Royal Seats have been changed. The first Royal Seat we read of was Tanis, where was Pharaoh's Court and where God performed great wonders; Thebes also was the Royal Seat. Then Memphis, which was the Seat of the Kings, of the Race of Coptus, till Nebuchadonozer sacked it. Alexandria, where the Greek Kings resided for nine hundred years, till the Arabians took Egypt, and made Fostat near old Cairo the Metropolis. After Giauber had built Cairo, about the year of the Hegira 362, he made that the Royal Seat, which continues to this time.

The Egyptians were antiently Heathens, almost every City had a God to adore; Abusir, or the old Busiris worshipped a Calf; Alexandria, the antient Racutis, adored a Serapis of Stone; Achmin, the old Panos, acknowledged Apollo; Bana worshipped a Dog; Bassa, or the old Bubastis had for a God a Lion of Stone, Eida adored a Serapis; Ischemunein, or the antient Hermepolis, worshipped a Man of Stone; Isvan, called by the Cophties Sevan, reverenced the Tree Lebaca; Cous worshipped the Moon and Stars; Mindadi the Fig-tree of Pharaob; Memphis a Calf; Atrib, or the old Arribis, adored a Calf of Stone; Semenaut, which is the antient Sebennis, worshipped a Calf of Brass; Sa a Hog of Stone; Tuba had respect for the Water according to an old Manuscript in Arabick.

Cambyses, the Son of Darius, in the year of the World 3454, was the first that made them stoop to a foreign yoke, he with a strong Army invaded and conquered Egypt, took Pfammentius Captive putting him to death, banishing and destroying all before him, reducing the Country to a Province, in which subjection to the Persians it remained above one hundred and fifty years, till the Reign of Artaxerxes Longimanus, in whose time the Egyptians set up one Inarus, Son of Psammitichus, before King of Libya, who governed happily, till Artaxerxes, with a great Fleet and Army, came upon them out of Phenicia unawares, and foon reduced them again to his obedience, from which time it was subject to the Persian Kings, until the Reign of Darius Nothus, when they were expell'd by Amirteus, born in the City Sais or Pelusium, new Calixene.

Six years reigned Amirteus, succeeded for about ninety one years by four Mendifian Princes, after that by three Sebonites, untill Nectabanes the Second, in whose time Artaxerxes Ochus bereaved him of his Kingdom, and so Egypt fell again into the hands of the Persians, to whom it continued subject till the destruction of Darius Codomanus, by Alexander the Great, who brought it to the Grecian or Macedonian Kings, that reigned five years over it; after Alexander's death it fell to Ptolomeus, Sirnamed Lagus, whence all the Kings, his Succeffors in that Kingdom, were called Ptolomies, subjoining thereunto some other name.

The Ptolomies in Egypt which bore the Title of Kings, were ten in Number.

And their Race ended with Cleopatra, the Daughter of Ptolomy Auletes, courted at first by Julius Cæsar, then by Mark Antony, through whose favours she kept her Sovereignty, but Augustus, at the Battle of Actium, ruining Antony's fortunes with the death of Cleopatra, who poisoned her self, made it a Roman Province, and it continued under that Empire, till the Reign of Heraclitus, who held his Royal Court at Constantinople. After the dividing of the Roman Empire into Eastern and Western, Egypt fell to the Greek or Western share, till the Egyptians submitted to the Arabian Califs, about the year 704, to whom they flood faithful till conquered by the Mahumetans. In the Year 1155 Syracon or Xarracon, by others Aferddin, Schyrachoch, an Armenian General, or first Vizier of the King of Damas, by his Victorious Arms took Captive the Calif of Egypt, and made himself Master there with the Title of Sultan, or Souldan; so that it continued in that Name and Race till the year 1242, when the Mamalucks, the offspring of a people, on the Banks of the Euxine Sea, Mercenary Soldiers, kept in pay of the Souldan, by the Murder of their Lord made themtha hav flec he to rui Co felves Lords of the Country, under the Tyranny of whose Race and Possession it groan'd from 1255, until the year 1517.

The last Souldan of Egypt, being call'd Tomumbey, the second of that Name, which by the Warlike Mamalucks was elected Sultan, who having. Wars with the Turkish Emperor Selim, and by him defeated. fled to Cairo, were taken Captive and delivered up by a Moorish Prince. he was miserably in the said year 1517 Murdered, and his Body tyed to the Tail of a Camel, and dragged through Cairo. Which Victory fo ruined the Power of the Mamalucks, that Egypt, by their Courage and Conduct kept in subjection above three hundred years, hathever fince truckeld under the Command of the Turkish Empire, where the Grand Signiors manage the Government by a Bashaw, or Pacha, and chief of the Sangiacks, in the same manner as other Countrys, subject to the Turks: Whose yearly Revenue is about 150000 pounds, which is divided into three equal parts, of which one is allotted for the discharge of the Annual Pilgrimage to Meccha, the second for the payment of the Soldiers, with other necessary charges of the Kingdom, and the third goes into the Turkish Chequer.

Egypt is inhabited at present by Cophties, Moors, Arabians, Turks, Fews, Greeks and Franks. The Turks govern the Countrys, and act in all Offices of State. The invention of Astrology, Arithmetick, and Physick, is attributed to them, for which reason Egypt is call'd the Mistress of Arts. Ptolomeus Philadelphus, is said to be the Person who ordered the Bible to be translated by the Seventy Interpreters, as usually called, though indeed they were feventy two; and bought above two hundred thousand Volumns of Manuscripts. There were also a prodigious number of Books in the Library at Alexandria, which were unfortunately lost, when Julius Cæsar made War there. The Natives of the Country, have a particular Art to hatch Chickens by the heat of their Ovens, wherein fometimes they will put three or four thousand Eggs together; and when they are hatch'd, they fell them by the Peck. The Cophties are Natives of Egypt, the natural Inhabitants of the Country, and use a Language altogether particular to themselves, and a certain fort of Writing little different from that of the ancient Greeks. There is now scarce ten or fifteen thousand of them left, according to the Relation of their Patriarch; Millions of them having been put to the Sword, partly by the Pagan Emperors, for their adhering to the Christian Faith; and partly by the Christian Emperous, for their obstinacy in maintaining the Error of Dioscorus, one of their Patriarchs, concerning one Nature, one Will, and one Perfon in Jesus Christ. The Egyptians, in old time, were eminent in Arts and Learning, from them Pythagoras and Democritus Learnt their Philosophy, Licurgus, Solon, and Plato, their Forms of Government. Here flourished the Learned Grammarian, Aristarchus; Herodian and Didymus so well skill'd in Sciences; Appianus the Historian; C. Ptolomeus the Geographer; Trismegistus the Philosopher; Pantenus a Reader of Divinity; Origen, and Clemens Alexandrinus, notable in all Learning; Dionysus, Athanasius and Cyril, Bishops, and the glories of their times.

The Cophties divided the Seasons of the Year thus; Autumn from the fifteenth Day of September, to the fifteenth of December; Winter from thence to the fifteenth of March; Spring from thence to the fifteenth of June; and Summer from thence to the fifteenth of September.

They begin the year on the eighth of September, according to the Gregorian Style, or on the Twenty eighth of August, according to the Greeks Calendar.

They begin their Computation or Era from the Diodesian Massacre and reckon this present Year 1687 to be the Year 1412.

To every Month they allot thirty Days, which makes up three hundred and fixty, and to compleat the Year, they add the five at the end of all.

The present Egyptians are generally of an Olive Colour, and the further they are from Cairotowards the South, the more tawny, and toward Nubia black, as the Nubians. Their ordinary Vices are Idleness and Cowardize: Their ordinary Employment is to take Tobacco, and drink Cosse: To sleep and lie in an idle place, or sit talking together: Generally ignorant in all manner of Sciences.

In the present state of Egypt, the Author F. Vanslebius tells us concerning the Crocodile, which is the most remarkable, and most curious Animal belonging to Nilus: That (though Pliny affirms it to be commonly above eighteen Cubits in length) many Hunters of Crocodiles have assured him, that it never grows above a Cubit in length in a Year, and when it comes to twelve years old, it grows no more: That its Eggs are as big as the Eggs of Ostriches, and are sometimes thirty, never an hundred; and as soon as out of its Body, it carries them to some Island of Nilus, and puts them in a Hole, and covers them with Sand, and so leaves them, till by natural Instinct it knows that the Young are formed: It goes then and opens the Hole, and breaks breaks the Shell for the Young to creep out: Of all the Creatures that live upon the Earth, this alone is without a Tongue, and this alone moves the upper Jaw in eating.

Concerning the Ichneumon, called by the Arabians, Nims; by the Italians, Sorca di faraone; by the French, Rat d' Egypte; it is very true, that it creeps into the Mouth of the Crocodile, enters into its Belly, which it gnaws to the very Entrails; the like happens to the Camels and wild Beeves, and other Animals, when they sleep in the Fields.

That which Pliny speaks concerning the Dolphins, is not likely, for there are none in the River: But it may be the Tirfe, which is the only Fish that assaults the Crocodile.

That which Pliny faith of the Trochilos, requires a farther enquiry: for one may ask an hundred Years in Egypt what this Bird is, and yetget no account of it. Beitar faith, there is a certain Bird as little as. a Teitavy, enters between his Jaws, and eats up Slime and Worms if any; and when the Crocodile feels that all is clean, he shuts his Mouth to eat the Bird also; but Nature hath provided an expedient to fecure it, for it hath two sharp pricks on the top of the Birds Head, which when the Crocodile feels, he opens his Jaw again for the Bird to escape out.

But the Moors in Egypt knew not any Bird that had any prick on the Head; they told the Author, That there is in Egypt the Sakfak, a Bird that always kept the Crocodile company, and which lives upon the Filth and Meat that flicks about the Crocodiles Teeth: So that whether the Saksak of the Moors, or the Bird mentioned by Beitar be the Trochilos of Pliny, I leave it to the Reader to Judge.

That the Crocodile will live a long time without Meat, as Pliny affirms, is a truth, for the Author had two which lived a Month without eating: And the Moors fay, they will live forty Days without Nourishment: They have in all seventy two great Teeth, very sharp, thirty fix in the upper, and as many in the lower Jaw.

Its four Paws are furnished with great sharp Claws, the two fore feet have five distinct, seperated the one from the other; the two hinder feet have but four, which are all joined together by a thin

Skin, as are the Feet of Sea-Fowl, as Geefe or Ducks.

Amongst the rare Trees of Egypt, he names the Doum, or the Gum-Tree, in which are two things remarkable. 1. That its leaves burst forth only at the ends of its Branches, and in the thick Bunches. 2. That they are so equal and even at the end of the Branches, that one would think they were cut with Cissars. Amongst the Plants he mentions one called Gesalaht, that grows as big as a Tree.

As to the rare Birds, he hath seen Heads of Ostriches in the Deferts, that lead to the Monastry of St. Anthony; what he relates of their hatching their Eggs with their Eyes is very strange, and that the Sciamta is so strong, that it can carry a Man up into the Air.

That there are such a prodigious number of Pidgeons, that they are fold at the rate of about two hundred and fourty Couple for four shillings and fix pence.

Concerning the Pyramids he tells us, That he guesses by the place, that they have been formerly an hundred Pyramids great and small; that they are all built on a Rock, for the greatest is nothing but a Rock cut as a Pyramid, and covered over with a Wall of Stone; so that its probable that the Stones have been taken from the place, and not brought from far as some imagine; That the greatest hath but two hundred and six steps; and that on the top of it was anciently a Statue or Colossus. And on the top of the Sphinx stands the Head of a Woman, of an extraordinary bigness and height.

That the Caves of Egypt are strange Curiosities digged in the main Rocks, the Walls of many of them are sull of Hieroglyphical Figures carved in the Rock; the Colours of them being extream fresh and beautiful, after so many Ages since. Tis said that the Kings of Egypt employed the Israelites in digging of them.

At Sacara, a Village four Hours travelling from the Pyramids are Pits where Mummies are buried.

That at the Church of Gemaine, on a certain Day, they yearly obferve the Apparitions of some Saints, which F. Vanslebius tells us, are only from the Restections of Objects, that pass by the Church at some convenient distance.

That the Lodgings of the Seventy Interpreters are yet standing with the Closets; where they performed the Work in Alexandria.

The Salt-pits and Cifterns near Alexandria are remarkable, for that the Water of Nilus, the sweetness and freshest in the World, makes a Salt not only whiter than ordinary, but very excellent, having the taste of Violets: This quality proceeds from the Nitrous Earth, for if a piece of it be laid in the Sun, it will become white as Snow on that

These Lakes of Salt-peter or Niter yield every year three thousand and six hundred Quintals, so that every Quintal sold for twenty sive Meidins, this Revenue comes to thirty six Purses, or eighteen thousand French Crowns yearly.

The Grand Signior hath yearly carried out of Egypt to Constantinople, in Spanish Coin and Zequins of Venice, one thousand two hundred Purses, each Purse containing five hundred Crowns, which makes one hundred and fifty thousand pound.

The Talismantick Science is much used in Egypt. And our Author tells us, He hath procured all the rare Manuscripts of the antientest and best Arabian Authors concerning it, and that he hopes one day to discover the admirable Secrets of this Science, and to unfold the Enigmas under which it lies hid.

Egypt is generally divided into four parts, Thebais now Sahid, or upper Egypt; Bechria or Demesor, otherwise middle Egypt; Errif, or the lower Egypt, and the Coast of the Red-Sea. Some make only two Divisions, the Upper and the Lower, following the course of Nile: But at present Egypt is also divided into Twelve Cacies, Sangiacutes, or Governments.

Jaques Albert reckons thirteen Kassiss or provincial Jurisdictions, viz. Girgio or Sahid, Benesuef, Fiam, Gize, Bouhera; or Baera, Garbia, Menousia, Mansoura, Kallioubich, Minio, Cherkess, and Kattia: But the Divan, or Council of Gran Cairo will not allow Kattia to be numbered with the rest. F. Vansleb. tells us There are thirty six Caciefs or petty Governors.

Strabo of old divided it into thirty seven Parts, by the Greeks called Monoi: Ptolomy enlarged it to forty; and Herodotus reduced it to twenty eight: But thirty seven seems most agreeing to the mysterious Temple or Labyrinth, (on the South side of the City of Alexandria, near the Lake Mereotis, and adjoining to the Sepulchers of King Meris and his Wise) in the midst whereof were thirty seven Palaces belonging to the thirty seven Jurisdictions of Egypt, whereof ten in Thebacs, ten in Delta, and seventeen in the middle Region; unto which resorted the several Presidents, who had there their particular Temples to celebrate the Festivals of their Gods. There were also sisteen Chappels, containing each a Nemesis to advise of Matters of Importance concerning the General Welfare.

Among the Cities, Cairo is call'd the Great, in respect of the advantages, which it has above all the Cities of Africa. It is three Leagues Lower, and upon the opposite side to that place, where stood the antient Nemphis. The Castle, which is built upon the rising ground, has the noblest prospect, and enjoys the best Air in the World. It is one of the largest, and most Magnissicent, and counted the strongest that ever was contrived: But the last relation of 1627, says, it hath lost much of antient Splendor, and it is not now of any strength; It is not of Marble as some relate, but beautified with several pieces of Mosaic work. In the Castle, Gun-powder is made in two Rooms, in each of which are twelve Pewter Mortars, with Iron Pestles to pound the Ingredients, which receive their motion from a long Pole that answers. to a Beam that stands in the middle of a Chamber, which a Horse turns round. The Water of Nile is convey'd thither by an Aqueduct of an Hundred and fifty Arches. The Inhabitants of Cairo must needs. be very numerous; it being averr'd that in the year 1618 there dy'd above fix hundred thousand People of the Pestilence, and yet there was no miss of the Inhabitants. And our Author tells us, That the Archbishop of mount Sinai told him, That the Plague of 1671, or 1672, had swept away 680000 poor Persons, but of the richer fort scarce four hundred were dead. In short, they say, it contains two hundred thousand Houses, eighteen thousand considerable Streets, and is in Compass about twenty five or thirty Leagues. But then you must take in the Old as well as the new Cairo, Festat, Babylon, Charaffat, and the Boulac, that joyns to it: For the New Cairo it felf is not fo . big as Paris. The People ride in the Streets upon Asses, as we make use of Sedans; not but there are Horses in Egypt, but the Turks have introduc'd this Custom to preserve the Horses for themselves. The Inhabitants of Cairo make those fair Carpers which we call Turky Carpets. five Miles South East of the Pyramids, and two from the Nilus West stood the Regal City of Memphis, the Strength and Glory of old Egypt, where was the Temple of Apis, and the sumptuous Temple of Vulcan. Here stood the Fan of Venus, and that of Serapis. City once adorned with a World of Antiquities, but now the Ruins are almost ruinated.

Besides the Pyramids and the Mummies, which are about six Leagues from Cairo, all Travellers are curious to see Joseph's Well and his Granaries. About two Leagues also from Cairo is to be seen the Matarea, Ma-Tarca, or retiring place of the Virgin, with a Fountain, which, together with that at Cairo, is the only Spring Water of Egypt. But the Plant, or Balm trees, which bears the true Balsom, and which was brought from the Holy Land, by the care of Cleopatra, and the permission of Antony, is quite lost. As also the Sycamore Tree which split in two to hide our Lord Jesus Christ, and his most Holy Mother, when the Soldiers of Hèrod pursued them.

Egyptian Kings, who afterwards remov'd to Alexandria, thence to Memphis, and lastly to Cairo. The Modern Relations call this City Gergio, and make it the Residence of a Bashaw, affirming that only the Province bears the Name of Sabid; called Hecatompylos, and in the Copties Dictionaries, Antinoe and Thebes, now Insine, teste, Vansleb. Its Mountains and Islands are as great Curiosities as any in Egypt. As also the Pillar of Marcus Aurelius, and the Arch of Triumph, and the Hieroglyphick Cave, where the Colours of the Figures are very beautiful and lively during so many Ages passed: Now Minio, teste Sanson.

Alexandria, Scanderic, Turcis & Arabibus. Hebrais, No, built by Alexander the Great, was formerly one of the best Cities in all Africa next to Carthage, where the Ptolomies and Cleopatra kept their Courts. It was adorned with many stately Edifices, the most famous whereof were the Serapian, which for the curious Workmanship, and stateliness of Building was not inferior to the Roman Capitol. The Library of Ptolomy Philadelphus, founded the year after the Creation of the World 2704, or by others 3680, is faid to contain 400000, or, as others writ, 700000 Volumes. The Obelisks full of Egyptian Hieroglyphicks of a vast bigness, and of an intire Stone. When this City was subject to the Romans, it contributed to them more in one Month, than Feruschem in a whole year. Formerly the Tower of Pharos stood not far from it, one of the seven Wonders of the World. The Pillar of Pompey leans on one fide, occasioned by the Arabians digging, and under-mining of it, fearthing for a great Treasury hid under it, as they believe. The City enjoys a fmall Trade to this day, by reason of its two Ports, or Havens; and is the seat of a Patriarch. St. Mark and St. Catherine have render'd it famous in Ecclefiastical Hiflory, and in the Defarts of St. Macarius, where were reckon'd to be above three hundred Monasteries which lie to the West of it. But now of all those Monasteries there are but two remarkable, that of the Syrians, and Amba Biscici.

Damietta, by the Arabians Damiat, Tamiatis, or Tamiathis, teste Guilandino, about eight Miles from the mouth of Nilus: Next to Cairo it is the greatest, most beautiful, the richest, the most populous, and sullest of Merchants of all Egypt. It is built upon the River Nilus in form of an half Moon: But it hath no Walls, nor Fortistications, only a round high Tower, where there is neither Watch, nor Ward, nor Guns, yet memorable for the often Sieges laid unto it, by the Christian Armies, and the taking of it, Anno. 1218, and 1249. The Trade of this City is in Linnen and Stuffs of all kinds and Colours, Cossee and Rice, of which last there is every year above sive hundred Ships great and small loaded out for Turky. Mansoura is situate upon the East side of the Nilus. Here St. Lewis the French King was taken Prisoner by Sultan Salch, in the History of the Holy War, translated out of the French, 'tis called Kasel. Its antient Name I find not, by its situation it should be near unto the Tanis of Strab. and Ptol. the Taphnis. Ezekieli.

Pelusium, called Belbais, by W. of Tyre, now Calixene, teste Bonaccicla, was the Birth place of Ptolomy the Geographer, and the Episcopal Seat of Isidore.

Rosetta Italis, Raschit Turcis, the Metelis of Ptol. and Mela, teste Ben. Tudelensi. Bolbitina, teste Villano, & Mol. aliis, Canopus: But by Zieglar, Bocher, or Bichieri, vulgo C. de Becur, is the Canopus from Canobus. Menelaus, Pilot was here buried, and where stood the Temple of Serapis.

According to F. Vanslebius, Fuva, or Fuva seated upon the East side of Nilus, seven hours from Rosetta, was by the Greeks called Metelis, and in the Copties Dictionary, Messil, which he saith is very antient, a great and considerable Town, in a delightful Territory of pleasant Fields and Gardens, and that Geziret, or the Island of Gold, is over against this City.

At Rosette the Nilus hath two Branches or Mouths which run into the Sea, which are guarded with two Gastles, that which is about a Mile and a half from Rosetta, is a square encompassed with strong Walls, built according to the old way, having four Towers surnished with sevency four Pieces of Cannon, whereof seven are of an extraordinary bigness. The other Castle is but a Mosque, before it stand seven Pieces of Artillery on the Ground.

The Waters of Maadie is a Gulph or Pool, whose Waters are very falt, and comes not from Nilus.

Benesuais is the Hermopolis of Strab. and Plin. teste J. Leone, the Hermetis, or Hermopolis Ptol. Here Pan and Hircus were Worshipped, teste Zozomeno in Historia Ecclesiastica: 'Tis now called Ischemunein, teste Vanseb.

Seminaut, the antient Schemis, or Sebenit, teste Vansleb, Sturione Negro, is a great Town seated on the West side of Nilus, where the Barks that sail for Cairo pay Custom. The Custom-house is built upon a Ship in the River.

Mitgamr, is a very beautiful and large Town, in the middle way between Damiata and Cairo, on the East side of Nilus, and over against it is Sifte a sair and large Town.

Sues, or Suez, the Residium of Strabo, the Arsinoe and Cleopatris Ptol. teste Zieglero, which contains not above two hundred Houses, with a bad Port, is nevertheless the Turks Arsenal upon the Red-Sea. Haven is small and shallow, for neither Gallies nor Ships can enter into it, till they are half unladen; which is the reason that most of the Vessels lie in the Road, where they are more secure than in the Port. The Governour keeps two small Gallies, and some other Vessels, to maintain his Authority in the Red-Sea. The Commodities of the Eagle Indies were heretofore brought thither, and then convey'd into Europe; but now the Turks enjoy no more that commerce, by reason of the fettlement of the Christians in the Indies. The Ships set out from Sues in the Spring and Summer, when the North Wind blows; the South Winds being most constant in Winter and Autumn. Cossir formerly Berenice, was the Port whither the Romans ordered all Goods to be brought that came from the East Indies; which from thence were carryed the nearest way by the Nile to the City of Coptos, now called Cana. Buga in the most Southern part of Egypt is a Kingdom, according to the Relations of 1657, tributary to the Abyssins.

The ancient Town of Arsinoe situated near Fium is totally ruined, nothing now remaining but a great many Mountains made of the Ruines and Rubbish of the Town, once one of the most great and glorious Cities of Egypt.

The Monastery of St. Anthony hath no Gate, but Men and Beasts are all drawn up over the Wall by a Pulley, it hath about two thousand four hundred Acres within the Wall.

Sint called in Greek Lycopolis, teste Vanst. but Band. tells us, Lycopolis is now Munia, teste Mol. is one of the most famous Towns of the Upper Egypt, feated on the foot of a barren Mountain, that stands on the West side about half a League from Nilus: The Town is great and populous, full of Christian Cophties, where is a Cave cut in the Rock, Large enough to draw up in Battalia one thousand Horfe.

Tabra is feated near the Ruins of the ancient Town Abutig, called by the Cophties another upon the Banks of Nilus about two days journy from Sint towards the South.

The Monastery of St. Senodius the Archimandrite, sirnamed the White, is built near the Ruins of the Antient Town Adribe, where are the Remains of one of the most Magnissent Structures that hath been in Egypt.

Minie is an antient, great and fair Town, on the West side of Nilus, where are made the Bardaques, or Water-pots, which are so highly esteemed at Cairo.

Isne, Vanst. Asna, F. Leont, the Syene Plin. Ptol. & Diod. four hundred and fifty Miles from Alexandria. Isvan, Asnan, or Asuam, is the Metacompsa of Ptol. Tacompson Plin. Tachemimpto Mela, teste Zieglero. Tuot is Eleven Leagues North of Isna, on the East of Nilus, where is a Temple of the Antient Egyptians.

Arment is twelve leagues from Tuot, now ruined and forfaken where the Egyptians believe, Moses was born.

At Luxer two Leagues from Tuot, are to be seen the Remains of an antient and beautiful Temple, in which are seventy eight Pillars a prodigious bigness, and at the Old Luxer is an antient Palace, whose Ruins shew, that it hath been very glorious.

Bethsames, was one of the Chief Cities of Ramasis or Goshen.

Abydus, now Abutich, once the Royal Seat of Memnon, renowned for the Temple of Osiris, and the Statue of Memnon.

The chief Lakes in Egypt were Marcotis, now Lago de Antacon Sebaka Vansleb. the other Meeris, now called Buchiarea, or Kern, Vansleb.

BILEDULGERID, ZAARA:

B Iledulgerid improperly is the Numidia of the Antients, where Inhabited the Getuli, it signifies a Country plentiful in Dates. Which is a Fruit which much enriches the Inhabitants. This part of Africa extends from East to West, almost as far as Barbary. Its principal Parts are Sus or Teffet, Darha, Segelomessa, Jegorarin, Zeband. Mezzab, Techort and Guergula, Biledulgerid, and the Defarts of Barca.

Sus by Sanutus is called Tesset, to distinguish it from that in the Kingdom of Morocco: It is said to have many Towns Castles and Villages. Its Inhabitants are Beriberes, Africans or Arabs.

Tesset is a Fown of about four hundred Houses.

Darha, its chief Town bears the same name, seated upon a River, also so called.

Segelomessa is one of the greatest and best Provinces of Biledulgerid, whose chief City bears the same name, containing several small Estates.

Tegorarin hath more than fifty walled Towns, and one hundred and fifty Villages.

Zeb and Mezab are much troubled with Scorpions, whose biting is mortal.

The Estates of Techoi Guergula have each their Prince; yet pay Tribute to Algier.

Biledulgerid, or Biled-Elgered contains the Estates of Gademes, Fezzen and Teorregu, the chief City is Caphsa, or Capha said to be built by the Lybian Hercules.

There are in Biledulgerid some sew Mahometan Kings, whose power is very inconsiderable. The Arabians under their Cheicks or Chiefs, are very strong in Horse, and would be able to attempt great things, were they not so much at War among themselves. Sometimes they assist the Turks, sometimes the King of Morocco and Fez. The change of Governments, and diversity of Languages has made a great alteration in the Names of the Cities. The Arabians are great Hunters of Ostridges, as getting great profit by it. For they sell the Feathers, eat the Flesh, make Bags of their Skins to put their baggage in; they divine by the Heart, they make their Medicaments of the Fat, and Pendants for their Ears of the Claws and Beaks.

Mount Alas extends fome of its Limbs into Biledulgerid. And the Cape of Non was for a good while the furthest shore of the Portugal Navigation.

Zahara or Zaara fignifies a Defart: And is part of that which the Antients called Lybia Interior, where lived the Antient Getuli and Garamantes.

The Getuli were a People of the Interior Iybia, Vagrants having no certain fixed Habitation, teste Silio & Mela: By Pliny they are placed in Mauritania Gasariensis, next to the Massassis. By Ptolomy in Lybia interior near to Dara: By Honorius between Carthage and Numidia.

There is nothing to be feen but Sand, Mountains, and Scorpions; for which reason the Inhabitants were Boots to preserve themselves from being bitten by those Aminals. Nevertheless, the Air is wholesome, and the Sick are brought thither out of other Countrys to recover their Health. The Arabians make three Divisions of it; Cebel, where the Sand is small without any greenness. Zaara, where it is all Gravel, and somewhat green. And Asgar full of Lakes, Grass and Shrubs. Travellers must provide themselves of all necessaries. For the Houses and Wells are so far distant one from another, that a Man may Travel a hundred Leagues together, and not meet either with Lodging or Water. In one of these Desarts, a Merchant suffer'd so severe a Drowth, that he gave ten thousand Duckets for a glass of Water; and yet he dy'd as well as the Carrier that had receiv'd the Mony. Men are forc'd fometimes to bury themselves in the Sands, to avoid the Lions, and other Wild Beafts, that make a most dreadful roaring in the Night. The Natives are for the most part Shepherds, and the best Huntsmen in the World, but very miserable. Some of them are Mahum ans, but the most part Libertines. Several petty Lords receive the Tribute of the Caravans that pass through the Country. Their other Revenue confifts in Cattle; and when they value the Wealth of a Man, they ask how many Camels he hath.

There are reckon'd to be five principal Defarts, Zanhaga, Zuenziga, wherein there are Salt-Pits, Targa, Lempta and Berdoa, to which some add Borno and Gaoga. The Chir, which is their biggest River, makes some very considerable Lakes, and is lost in the Sands, in several places as it runs; the Rio Ouro, was so call'd by the Portugals, by reason of Gold which they found in it, at their first coming. This River runs under the Tropic through Defart Countries, with ten or twelve Arms toward the end of its course. The Coast to Cape Bejador is nothing but white and grey Sand-hills, overgrown with wild Bulrushes.

Nigritia, or the Land of the Blacks feems to be so call'd from the Antient Nigrites, so term'd also from the blackness of their Complexion: Or else from the Colour of the earth, which in some parts is all scorched and burnt up by the excessive Heat. The Niger some what qualifies the Heat of the Country; but the Rains occasion several Diseases. Cape Blanco, or Caput Album, is a long extent of Sand, as hard as a Rock, about ten or twelve Cubits high, with a spacious Port, where Ships ride safe, whatever Wind, for the most part, blows. Arguin, a Castle in a small Island, belongs to the Hollanders. Barks may go up the River of Saint John, and there Trade with the Negro's for Ostridge Feathers, Gums, Amber, and some small parcels of Gold. Senega, one of the principal Arms of Niger, is not above a League over at the Mouth. The Coast to the North of Senega is very low, not to be feen hardly twelve Leagues off the Road of Cape Verd. the Asinerium promontorium, teste Barrio. Mancandan and Besenege, Thev. Ryssadium promont. teste Nigro. is about twelve Fathom deep, with a gray Sand at the bottom. The Flemish Island, or Goree, is fortified with a Platform flanked with four Bastions, with a strong brick Tower. The entry into it is upon the West part of the Island, where a Ship of sifteen hundred Tun may Ride. The Road is good, but there is little fresh Water. Refrisco is a very convenient retiring place. Gambia is about five Leagues over at the Mouth; but is not Navigable for Barks above fixty Leagues, by reason of the Sands and Rocks in it. Some say, that the Portugals go up the Niger, as far as the Kingdom of Benin, which is above eight hundred Leagues: That the Danes possess Cantozi, toward that part where Niger divides it felf; That Niger makes feveral Lakes, upon which are built many fine Cities, from whence there go Caravans as far as Tripoli in Barbary. The Negro's are very simple, Idolaters toward the Sea, and Mahumetans in the Island Coun-They have some very considerable Kingdoms, but the greatest part of their Cities are not so good as our Villages; the Houses being built of Wood, Chalk and Straw; and many times one of these Cities make a Kingdom. The last Kings of Tombote were reported to have Great store of Gold in Bars and Ingots. The Kingdom of Gualata affords Millet. Geneboa is rich in Cotton: In that of Agades flands a City indifferently well built. Borno, formerly the Country of the Garamantes, is Inhabited by a people that have all things in common, every particular person acknowledging them for his Children which are most like 'em; the most flat nos'd being accounted the most beautiful: They of Senega trade in Slaves, Gold-dust Hides, Gums and Civits. The Negro's they are very strong and therefore bear a better price; those of Guiny are good, but not so strong, for which reason they are usually put to work within doors. 'Tis the Proverb, that he that would have good service from a Negro must give him little Meat, keep him to hard Labour, and beat him often. To the South of Niger lie feveral little Kingdoms, that of Melli, with a City containing fix thousand Houses. Gago, abounding in Gold. Zegzeg, considerable for its Trade. Zanfara, fertile in Corn. I shall only say, That the Arabian Geographer tells Wonders of Ghana or Cano, of its Greatness, Riches and Trade, of its King, Government, Palace, &c. But how far to be credited must be lest to those who have been in those parts, the Portugals and Hollanders, having been the chief Traders on these Coasts.

Of GUINEA.

Uinea is a long Coast of Land, contain'd between the Cape of Sierra Leone, on the West, and the River Camerones on the East, containing about seven or eight hundred Leagues in length, and not above one hundred, or one hundred and sifty, in breadth: It is divided into three principal parts, Maleguete, Guing and Benin. Under the Name of Malaguete, is contained all that Land between the Capes of Sierra Leone, and Palmas, and is so called from the abundance of Maleguete, a fort of Spice like pepper, but much stronger than that of India, and of their Palm-trees they make Wine as strong as the best of ours.

Guiny extends from Cape Palmas, to the River Voltus, it is the largest and best known of all the three parts; its Coast from Cape Palmus to Cape three Punctas, is called the Ivory Coast, that which is beyond it is called the Gold Coast, where are the Kingdoms of Sabou, Footu, Accara, and others. The Kingdom of Benin, which is the third Part, hath more than two hundred and sifty Leagues in length. Cape Formosa, dividing it into two parts, its principal City so called is esteemed the greatest and best built of any in Guiny, the King thereof is said to keep sive or six hundred Wives

The whole Coast of Guiny is subject to such excessive heats, that were it not for the Rains, and coolness of the Nights, it would be altogether unhabitable. It furnishes other Countrys with Parats, Apes, White Salt, Elephants Teeth, Hides, Cotton, Wax, Ambergreese, Gold and Slaves. The Natives are reputed to be presumptuous Thieves, Idolaters, and very superstitious keeping their Festisces day or Sabbath on the Thursday; there is Saint George of the Mine, built by the Portugals, but now, in the possession of the Hollander, as alto the Ports Nassau, Cormentin, and Anima. To the English, among others belongs Cape Corse, and to the Danes, Frederic's-burgh. The best City that belongs to the Negro's is Arda, toward the Coast in Benin, Guiny is Govern'd by a King, who fent an Embassador to Paris toward the end of the year 1670 for the settlement of a Trade. The Baboons in Guiny do the Natives very great pieces of service, for they setch Water, turn the Spit, and wait at Table, &c.

Nubia, is three hundred Leagues in length, and two hundred in breadth. It preserves some remains of Christianism, in the old Churches and in their Ceremonies of Baptism. The Nubians are under a King, who always keeps a body of Horse upon the Frontiers of his Kingdom, as having potent Enemies to his Neighbours, the Abyssins and Turkish Historians credibly relate, that an army of one hundred thousand Horse was rais'd, and lead against one of the Governours of Egypt, by a King of Nubia. Out of this Country the Merchants export Gold, Civet, Sandal-wood, Ivory, Arms and Cloath. The Nubians trade chiefly with the Egyptians of Cairo, and other Cities of that They have a subtile and penetrating Poyson, an ounce whereof is valued at a hundred Ducats. Infomuch that one of the principal Revenues of the King is in the Duties, which he receives for the exportation of this Poyson. They sell it to strangers, upon condition they shall not make use of it, within the Kingdom. There grow Sugar-Canes in the Country, but the Natives know not what to do with them. There are among them a fort of Bereheres, of the Musselman Religion, who travel in Troops to Cairo, where they put themfelves into fervice, and return again, as foon as they have got ten or twelve Piasters together. The Capital Cities are Nubia, and Daneala, near to Nile. The rest so little known, that it suffices to see their names in the Maps. A Relation made in the year 1670, tells us. That the King of Dancala pays a Tribute in Linen Cloath, to the King of the Abyssins. Geography is in some measure beholding to this Country, as being the place that gave birth to that famous Nubian Geographer.

Of ETHIOPIA, Or,

So little of Truth hath been communicated to this part of the World concerning Ethiopia, that having met with the Ethiopick History of Joh. Ludolphus, which is the most exact

Of

Account extant: I have been the larger in taking an Abstract of it.

'Tis seated, as this Author tells us, in Africa above Egypt beyond Nubia, between the eighth and sixteenth Degree of North Latitude, contrary to all our Maps extant, which extends its self to the fourteenth or sisteenth Degree South Latitude: So that the length of it from North to South, is not more than four hundred and eighty Miles, of sixty to a Degree; but according to the old Maps it was more than one thousand eight hundred of the same Miles; and the length of it is about six hundred Miles from the Red-Sea, at the Port of Bailleur, to the River Nilus, at the farthest limits of Dembea.

Towards the North, it joins to the Kingdom of Fund or Sennar by the Portugals, Fungi; a part of the antient Nubia, towards the East it was formerly bounded by the Red-Sea. But now the Turks are Masters of Arkeko, the Island Matzua, and all that Coast, only the Prince of Dancale, who commands the Port of Bailleur, is a Friend to the Abessines: But the King of Adel, a Mebumetan, upon the straits of Bab-elman dab (the Dreadful Mouth) is a project Enemy to them.

Towards the South, the barbarous Nation of the Gallans have either wasted or possessed the Kingdoms of Dawaro, Bali, Fatagar, Wed, Bizama, Cambata, Alaba, Zendero, by the Portugals, Gingiro, and Enarea the Southern Bounds: Lastly, the River Maleg and Nilus rowling through several vast Desarts close up the Western Limits.

The Inhabitants are now called Habessines, Abessines, or Abassines a Name given them by the Arabians, in whose Language Habess signifies Consustion or mixture of People: The Germans sound it Shabash, or Hhabash; the Italians, Habassia; the French, Habesh; the Portugals, Abex: But they generally call their Kingdom Itjopia (Ethiopia) and themselves Itjopiamjan, Ethiopians; and also Geez, and the Country of Ag-azi, or the Land of Ag-azjan, that is, Freemen. These Abassines formerly inhabited, Arabia, and were reckon'd into the number of the Sabeans or Homerites: So Stephanus relates out of the Arabicks of Uranius, that they hardered upon the Sabeans. The Grecian Writers called them Anumites; and many of the Antients called them Indians, others the Empire of the Negus, and some the Kingdom of Prester John.

The Kingdoms of Ethicpia are variously named by most Authors. Paulus Jovius distinguishes the Empire into more than sorty Kingdoms; Mathew the Armenian, first Ambassador from the Abassens to Portugal, will needs have sixty, Tessa Sionus affirms sixty two,

P. Nicolaus Godignus, from John Sabriel, a Portuguese Colonel, that had been many years there afferts twenty fix Kingdoms, and fourteen Provinces: But Fob Ludolphus, in his History reckons these 1. Ambara the most Noble, where are those inaccessible and fortified Rocks, Gelben, and Ambacel, where formerly the Kings Sons were fecured; 2. Angot; 3. Bagemder, in the old Maps Bagamidri, a large and fertile Kingdom, Watered with many Rivers: 4. Balli. the first fubdued by the Gallans: 5. Bizamo: 6. Bungna: 7. Cambata, the Inhabitants whereof are called Hadea: 8. Cont, by the Portugals called Conch. 9. Damot: 10. Dawaro: 11. Dembeja, or Dembea, now famous from the Royal Camp continually pitched there: 12. Enarea by the Portugals, Narea; and by Cordinus, Nerea: 12. Tatagar: 14. Gafat. 15. Gaighe: 16. Gan: 17. Ganz: 18. Ghedm: 19. Gojam, Goyame in the Maps, famous for the Fountains of Nile therein now discovered: 20 Combo: 21. Gonga. 22. Guraghe: 23. Ifat. 24. Samen, by Tellezius Cemen: 25. Set. 26. Sewa, or Shewa, by the Portugals Xoa, or Xaoa, a very large and opulent Kingdom: 27. Shat, by the Portugals Xat: 28. Tigre, or Tegra, one of the principal and most fertile Kingdoms; where the former Kings kept their Courts at Axuma: 29. is Walaka, by the Portugals Oleca, or Holeca. The 20. Wed, by the Portugals, Ogge; of all these the King of the Abessines enjoys at present Ambara, Bagemder, Cambata, Damot, Dembea, Enarca, Gojam, Samen, and Sawa, with the Provinces of Emfras, Mazaga, Tzagade, Wagara, and Walkayt, to which we may add the Coast of Abax, ou da Abexim, whose chief places are Suaquem, Ptolemais Ferarum of old. Ercoco, or Arguico, the Auliton Plin. Adulis Steph. Adule Ptol. and Zeita, or Auca-Gurece, the Avalites of the Antients: The two first places belonging to the Turk, the last to the King of Adel.

The Air is various, in low and open places the heat of the Sun is intolerable, as the Coast of the Red-Sea, and the Islands, especially at Suaquen, it excoriates the Skin, melts hard Indian Wax in a Cabiner, and seares your Shoes like a red hot Iron: But the higher you ascend the Mountains from the Coast of the Red-Sea, the more temperate you shall feel the Air, which is generally healthy.

Their Thunders are dreadful, ratling continually, with Lightning incessantly stashing: Their Rains are violent, pouring from the Clouds, not by drops, but by Streams; and the Earth also opens her Mouth, and vomites up Water, which renders their Winters for three Months very unpleasant, tedious and troublesome. They have a Whirlwind, which they call Sendo, which signifies a Snake, so sure that it throws down all before it, Houses, Oaks, &c.

There

There are properly but three Seasons among the Abissines, viz. the Spring, or feason of Flowers, which begins upon the 25th. of September, called Matzau: Then the Summer which may be divided into two parts, the Season of Harvest or Autumn, which begins upon the 25th. of December, called Tzadai: The Summer Season called Agas, which, my Author faith, begins upon the 25th. of June, but I suppose rather the 25th. of March, for it must follow their Harvest and Autumn. And then their Cramp or Winter begins on the 25th of June: So that our Summer is their Winter. But upon the Coast of the Red-Sea, there their Winter is in November, December and January, as in Europe, which sufficiently convinceth what some Geographers affirm, that the Periaci, or those that dwell under the same Meridian. have the fame Winter and Summer.

Abassia abounds in Gold, which is found in the shallows of Rivers in Damota, and Enarea, upon the superficies of the Earth, and is the chiefest Tribute which they pay.

In the confines of Tigra and Angote are natural Mountains of Salt; in the Mountains it is fost, but in the Air it hardens, from whence it is conveyed in Caravans or Cafilas, and vended through all the neighbouring Countries, and serves them instead of Mony, to buy all things not much defired: Gems and Jewels are in Ethiopia, but black Le they more esteem of to black their Eye-brows: And for Iron t find it in great plenty upon the superficies of the Earth.

All Ethiopia is very Mountainous, between which are immense Gulphs, and dreadful profundities among the Mountains: Lamalmona lifts up her head more loftily than the rest, and is most dangerous: But the most famous are Amba. Geshen, and Ambacel in the Kingdom of Amhara, where the Ethopic Princes used to be caged up. And in our old Maps and Globes, called Amara, and placed under the Equinoctial. In these Mountains the Inhabitants breathe a ferene Air; and they are as fo many Castles, not only for Habitation. affording pleasant Springs, but for defence against their Enemies, the Adelenses and Gallans, for some of these Mountains are so craggy and precipitous, that there is no way to get up without Ladders, and Cattle are drawn up with Cords. Tellezius writes, that the Alps and Pyreneans compared with the Abessin Mountains are but low Hills: And the Portugal Mounts are but trifles to them. The tops of some of them are very spatious, with Fields, Woods, Fish-ponds and runing Streams, as Amba, Dorbo, &c. The temperature of the Air makes the Country healthful, and maintains a vivacity in the Inhabitants, fometimes to an hundred years: Only in Tygra about the beginning of the ! Feav H

He rationally conceives, that the Rivers flowing from the Mountains in this Country, take their rife from the Rainwater, infinuating it self into the Pores of the Earth, and Clefts of Rocks, and so passing into fubterraneous Vaults; observing, that in those Countries where there is little or no Rain, there are few or no Fountains; and that where there is much, they abound.

He tells us that Nilus, which for the length of its Course, the abundance of its Waters, its sweetness, wholsomeness and fertility, exceeds all the Rivers in the World, owes its rife to the Kingdom of Gojam in Habessinia, found out by the Travels of the Portugals, and by the fedility of the Fathers, which was so long and unsuccessfully fought for by the Antients, and Kircher hath described them from the relation of Peter Pays, who saw them himself, which differs not much from what Gregory an Ethiopian hath writen of it, viz. That it hath five Heads, that it incircles Gojam, and passing by several Kingdoms of Habassia, reviews the Kingdom of Senna, and travels to the Country of Dengala: Thence it turns to the right hand, and comes to a Country, called Abaim, before it arrives in Nubia, where by reason of Clifts and Rocks, its Stream is divided into two Branches, one running South to drench the thirsty Fields of Egypt, the other West to quench the drowth of those Sands in the Country of the Negrites. It is called in the Scripture Shibbor from its darkness, because it carries Waters troubled with Mud from the Fields of Ethiopia; and by the Greeks, for the same reason Mixas by the Habessines, Abawi, in their Vulgar Language; but in the Ethiopick Geion, or Gewon, from a mistake of the Greek Geon, and Hebrew Gebon. He says, the antient Geographers thought it to take its rife beyond the Equinoctial, in I know not what Mountains of the Moon; thinking it might receive its increase by the Winter Rains of those Regions: For they could not perswade themselves, that the Sun being in the Northern Signs, there could be Winter and Rain enough so near, to raise so great a River After it has past about forty Leagues from its source, from them. which is in an elevated, but trembling and moorish Ground, it enters a vast Lake in Dembea, and passes it without mixing its Waters, as the Rhone does the Lake Lemanus, and the Rhine, Acronius. cause of the Inundation of Nile is from the great Rains falling in many Regions of the Torrid-Zone, upon the Suns retiring back into the Winter Signs. It has been the opinion of some, that it has been formerly in the power of the King of the Habessines to divert Nilus from its course in Egypt, and to drive it into the Red-Sea; there being at a certain place an absolute fall of Land to convey it thither, only one Mountain being cut through; though now that place where it could be diverted, is possest by others.

He mentions another River in Ethiopia called Hawas, which paffing a great way from its Source, finks at length into the Sands, never going to the Sea, as other Rivers do: Also, that the Rivers Melegi and Tacaze abounding with Crocodiles, fall into the Nilus. That the River Mareb rising in Tygra, encompassing great part of the Kingdom, hides it felf under ground, and then rifes, and, after a continued course, it disperses and leaves its divided Waters in the Sands of Dequin.

The Soyl is so sertile, that in some places they sow, and have Crops twice, and in others thrice, a Summer. They make Bread of a fort of Corn called Tef, thought to be the same with our Rye, though they have Wheat, Barley, &c. They make no Winter provisions for Cattle, the Soyl yielding always Herbage enough, nor lay up any stores for other years for themselves, confiding in the fertility of their Soyl, for their Fields are always pleasant, and always smiling with a Flowry Grace.

He fays, they have an Herb called Affazoe, which by its touch, or even shadow, so stupisties all Serpents and venemous Creatures, that you may handle them without offence; and that he who has eaten the Root of it, is secured from them for many years. And he is of opinion, that the Psylii of Africa had the Virtue of curing the bitings of Serpents by the touch, through the use of this Herb. The Amadmagea that cures broken and Disjoynted Bones; as the Offifraga of Norway Inaps the Bones of Cattle that tread upon it,

They have a Tree called Enfets, resembling the Indian I igtree, which is four yards thick if shrowded, it sprouts forth with a world of young Shoots, which are all good Food; so that this Tree need not bear any Fruit, being indeed all Fruit, if fliced and boiled it affwages thirst.

He tells us, that by reason of the plenty of Herbage, and the heat of the Climate, Quadrupedes and Insects are much bigger in Ethiopia and India than with us. They have strong and excellent Horses, but never shoe them nor use them, but in War, employing Mules in all their drudgery.

They have the known fort of Sheep with great Tails, of which fome weigh above forry pounds.

They have multitudes of Elephants, but never use them. To say they have Lyons, Tygers, Panthers, Wolves, Hyana's, Camels, Panthers, higher than Elephants, &c. it's no more than other Countries yield: But he fays, they have a Beast called Zecora or Zembra, exceeding in rally of B cy a tate One netia fand Ston a Sto mov devo plea eleg 71073 fpec beauty all Quadrupeds; it is about the bigness of a Mule, and naturally genule; his Body is all encompast with interchangeable Circles of Black, and of a lively Ash colour; and this with such an Elegancy and Order, that they surpass the Art of the best Painter to imitate them: His Ears only are a little disproportionate, being too long: One of them was fold by the Basha of Suaquena for two thousand Venetian pieces, for a present to the Great Mogul. They have thoufands of Apes, feeding chiefly on Worms, which they find under Stones. Hence in the Mountains where they use, you will scarce find a Stone unturned, be it never fo great; for if two or three cannot move it, they call more aid. They ear also Ants, and sometimes devour whole Fields of Fruit. They have also an inocent and very pleasant Animal being a fort of little Monkey, of which there is an elegant Ethopick Rime; in Latin thus: Hominem non lado, frumentum non edo, oderunt me frustra. It is of a various colour, full of grevish specks. They are extream tender, so that unless they are cloathed and kept warm, they cannot be brought to us. He tells also of some that have seen the fam'd Unicorn there, an Animal of the form and fize of a midling Horse, of a bright Bay colour, with a Black Mane and Tail, and with a fair Horn in his Forehead, five Palms in length, being somewhat whitish.

For Water and Amphibious Animals, he fays they have the Hippopotamus, thought to be the Behemoth in Job, and the Sea Horse of the Greeks, the Crocodile, the Water-Lizard, and amongst others the Torpedo, with which they cure Tertian and Quartan Agues: The way is thus; They bind the Patient sast on a Table, and then apply the Torpedo to his Joints, which causes a very cruel torture in all his Limbs; but the sit of the Ague returns not after. The Authour conceives it may also do good in the Gout; and the Ethiopians sirmly believe, it will drive the Devil himself from a Man.

For Birds, they have Oftrich, or Struthiocamel, and Cassowars, swifter than Horses: The stesh of this either fresh or dried, is accounted a Medicin against the Poyson of Serpents, this Bird devours them without prejudice to himself. The Bird Pipe that discovers prey to the Hunters of Wild Beasts, conducting them where they be hid.

He tells us of Dragons, that will swallow whole Children, little Pigs, Lambs and Kids; and that they are scaly, and look like the Bark of an old Tree, but not venemous. That there are Water-Snakes and Adders, which upon drying of the Moorish grounds in Summer, are very hurtful, being inraged with the drought and heat, and that they kill by their Breath, unless a quick remedy be used,

That the Habessines are sometimes strangely insected with Locusts, devouring their Fruits and Herbs; they appear in prodigious multitudes, like a thick Cloud, that obscures the Sun, nor Plants, nor Shrubs, nor Trees remain untouched: And wheresoever they seed their leavings seem, as it were, parched with the Fire, and a general Mortality ensues: And that those People sometimes seed on the Locust, being a pleasant and wholesome meat, and thereby satisfie their hunger and revenge, That there are great store of Bees, amongst others a very small black Bee without a Sting, making their Combs under ground, which yield an extream white Wax, and most delicious

Honey, which they use in their Medicines.

He fays the Habessines are generally of a good Disposition, strong, vivacious and Long-livers, Ingenious, and very defirous of Learning, easily remit Injuries, and commonly determine their Quarrels and Differences at Cuffs, or by any Arbitrator or two. From this their towardly Disposition, he thinks their King has been called Prester Jan, by some, the words Prester Chan in the Persian Language, fignifying a Prince of excellent Servants; and the Servants of this Nation are more prized, and fell for more than others. In the shape of their Body, and comeliness of their Countenance, they far excel other Ethiopians, having no fwoln Lips, nor broad bottle Noses. Their Colour for the most part is Black or Brown, though they are not born Black, but very Red, foon after turning Black. The Women are strong, fruitful and easily bring forth Children, as generally all Women in the hotter Countries. They have no Midwives, but fall on their Knees at the time of Childbirth, and disburden themfelves. Several other Nations inhabit this Kingdom, viz the Fews who formerly dwelt in Dembea, Wegara and Samen, till driven thence by Sasneus, and now dispersed into several parts. Mahumetans are also intermingled up and down the Country, and drive the greatest Trade with the Turks and Arabians. There are also Wild Men living in the Defarts, without God, King or Law: The most fordid and vileft of Human Creatures.

The Noblest and Antientest Tongue of the Habessines is that Ethiopick, whereof our Authour set forth a Lexicon and Grammar in London, Anno 1661. This was formerly the Tongue generally spoken by the Tigrenses, when the King of Habessina lived in Tigra, but now it is only used in Writing, and has its Dignity continued in the publick Sacred Worship, and in the Kings Charters, &c. It is very much ally d to the Arabick, and serves often to illustrate the Oriental Tongues, especially the Hebrew: For instance, he says the Latins have called that most elegant and delightful Work of God, which comprehends all things in its felf, Mundus, in imitation of the Greeks, who called it Koou the Appellation not being invented by themselves, but by the Phanicians, with whom the World, and especially the Earth was called TOTR Adamab, Formofa: He fays, he knows it is commonly derived from Redness, because the Hebrew Root Adam fignifies to be Red; whereas 'tis certain, that our first Father took his name Adam, not from the Redness of the Earth, but from his perfect and absolute Beauty, as being the most consummate Work of the Creator. And that fignification which has been unknown in other Oriental Lexicon-writers, is plain to the Ethiopians, with whom Adama fignifies delightful, elegant and lovely; nor do the Ethiopians take Adam's Name otherwise than from Formosus. The present King of Habessinia (the feat of Government being removed in the midst of the Empire) uses the Amarick Dialect, which all the Nobility and Learned speak, being as general in Habessinia, as the Latin in Europe. They fay, that on the Coast of Africa, every fifteen or twenty German Miles produce a diversity of Language.

He fays, that tho' the Kings of Habessinia cannot well make out their Decent from the times of Solomon, (as some think they may) but begin it only from the two Brothers Atzbeha, and Abreha, under whom the Christian Religion began amongst the Axumites, being about three hundred years after Christ; from whose time the History of the Habessines is more clear, and their Kings names more certain: They may nevertheless contend with the most famous Kings of the World for Antiquity of Progeny.

Their King Lalibala fent for Workmen from Egypt, and fet them on a strange and unheard of Enterprise, viz. to work Temples out of solid Rocks, by hewing them in a regular form; leaving, where need required, Pillars, Arches and Walls. Fr. Alvarez affirms upon Oath to have seen ten Temples built there after this wonderful manner, and brought Draughts of them with him.

No private Ethiopian, he fays, only a very few of the Nobles excepted, has any thing of his own: All Lands and Possessions are the Kings, and are enjoy d precariously by the Subject; so that all take it patiently, if the King gives or takes away all, when so ever or wherefoever, to and from whom he pleafes.

The King's Revenues are not in ready Money, but confift of the natural Products of Countries, by an even way of Tribute: Some pay Gold, others Horses, Cows, Oxen, Sheep, Bread-corn, Ox-hides, Garments, &c.

Enarea pays fifteen hundred ounces of Gold, formerly much more; to Suspeus it paid one thousand, and sometimes but sive hundred, when they are at Wars with the Gallans. Gojam pays yearly eleven hundred Ounces, and some Garments to the value of three thousand German Dollars, together with two hundred Fustian Tapestries.

Out of Tigra twenty five thousand Patacks; out of Dembea five thousand, and as much out of other Kingdoms. Gojam and Bagendra find him Corn and Flesh. But his chief Tribute is from the Grassers, who are bound to pay him every three years the tenth Ox or Cow. Besides every Christian Weaver pays him a Fustian Garment: Every Mahumetan a Drim or Patach, which amounts to one thousand Imperials yearly. The Toll of Lamalmona Mountain, over which all the Merchandise must pass from the Red-Sea into Erhiopia, the King reserves for himself.

The King and chief Nobility think it an Office beneath them to lift their Hands to their Mouths to feed themselves: and keep Boys to cut their Meat, and put it into their Mouths; which they do in great gobbets, as those that cram Poultry.

Axuma or Ascum, erroneously Chaxumo, was formerly the Metropolis of Habessinia, from whence rhey were called Axumites; And then adorned with beautiful Structures, a fair Palace and a Cathedral proudly vaunting her Obelisks, Sculptures, and sumptuous Edifices, but now demolished by the Wars, or defaced with Age, and the City now totally ruined, seated it was in the 14d 30m North Latitude; and distant from the North Sea forty sive Portugal Leagues, or six or seven tiresome days Journeys, by reason of the Mountains.

Besides Axuma, there are no Cities in Habessinia, and but sew Towns; Dobarowa in Tygra is the Seat of the Vice-Roys. Fremona was the first Residence of the Fathers, enlarged by the Portugals. Gubay a Town in Dembea, where the Queen resides. Nanina in Gojam was long inhabited by the Portugals. The Celebrated Mountains of Ambara are their only Citadels, where the Kings Children were formerly committed to cuftody.

The Kings, he fays, always live in Tents, and feldom long in a place. In the year 1607, the Camp pitched in Coga. In 1612, it was at Duncaza, and after at Guendra, which Bernier called the Metropolis of Ethiopia. Their Tent is of a white colour, and very large, standing in the midst of the Camp, a large space being lest round it for the conveniency of Persons to approach it. Next this, two Temples are plac'd, and Tents for the Queen and her Atendants. Next these the Nobles, the Kings Friends, Servants, and other Countries pitch their Tents, then all the common Soldiery, with the necessary Attendants and all the Neighbou ood are fin'd.

In the third Book, which treats of the Ecclesiastical Affairs of the Habessines, our Authour tells us, That some hold, they have had the.

knowledg of God ever fince the time of Solomon.

That they use Circumcision, though not on any Religious Account, in Obedience to the Law of Moses, but only as a Custom of their Country, (being done by a Woman privately) the Fews slit the Skin with their Nails, till the Preputium salls down and leaves the Nut bare. The Habessines only round the Skin with a Knife.

That they do not Circumcife Women, (as some idly affirm) though it's a Custom not only with Habessines, but likewise with other People of Africa, as the Egyptians and Arabians, to cut from Girls something which they think to be an undecency and upersuity of Nature.

That they abstain from Swines Flesh, Blood and suffocated things, not as commanded by Moses, but by Apostolick Constitution, this having been always observed in the Oriental Church, and in the Western Church for many Ages, and having been ratisfied by some Councils: And they Condemn us for leaving the practice. Nor do they allow the Jews Sabbath, out of respect to Judaism, but because it was the antient Custom of the Primitive Church, for which they have some written Antient Constitutions. Yet they Preser the Lords Day before the Jewish Sabbath; for upon that Day (say they) our Lord Jesus Christ rose: And upon that Day the holy Ghost decended upon the Apostles in the Oratory of Sion: And upon that Day Christ shall come again to reward the Just and punish the Evil.

He fays, If an Habessine marries his Brothers Wise, or commits Polygamy, the Civil Magistrate takes no notice of it: For they are of opinion, that whatsoever does not offend the Commonwealth, nor the security of Private Persons, ought not to be chastised with Secular Punishments: Nevertheless the Church is severe in the case, and will not permit Persons so married to receive the Sacrament. He also tells us, That Habessima is full of Monks, that their Institutions and Habits are different from the Greek and Latin. He speaks of the portentous Miracles of their Saints, their Austerities and Spontaneous Torments.

It's a common fame in Europe, that the Conversion of the Habesfines to the Christian Faith was effected by the Eunuch of Queen Candace: But our Authour says this is certain, that in the time of St. Athanasus Patriarch of Alexandria, in the Reign of Constantine the Great, about the Year of Christ 230, or not long after it, the Conversion of Ethiopia happend after this manner: Meropius a Tyrian Merchant going into India, came to the Coast of Ethiopia in the Red-Sea; dying there, he left two Sons, Frumentius and Adefius, who being taken and carried to the King, were kindly received by him; and he finding them ingenious, employ'd them in keeping his Books of Accounts. During the time of their Employ, they did all good Offices to Christian Merchants that came to those Parts, and shewed so fair a specimen of their Virtue and Integrity, that they wrought in the Habessines a great Esteem for the Christian Religion. Which ground being laid, Frumentius went to St. Athanasius, who considering the excellency of his Parts, and the constancy of his Faith, created him the first Bishop of Ethiopia; and returning thither, he Baptized the Inhabitants, Created Deacons, built Churches, and so first planted the Christian Religion.

The Habessines received the Scripture with Christian Religion, and it is translated into the Ethiopick Language from the Version of the Septuagint; and that according to the Copy used in the Church of Alexandria: They have the New Testament translated from the authentick Greek Text. They enjoy the Holy Scriptures intire, and reckon as many Books as we do, tho' they divide them after another manner. They acknowledge the Holy Scripture to be the sole and only Rule of what they are to believe and do. They use the Nicene Creed; they admit of the ancient Greek Councils; they acknowledge the Trinity, and the sufficient Merits of Christ; one Person in Christ, his Divinity and Humanity; they use Baptism, and the holy communion; they Administer it to the Laity and Clergy, as it is the Custom of all the Eastern Churches, and acknowledge the Real Presence, but not Transubstantiation, pray for the Dead, deny a Purgatory.

He gives an Account of their Errors; as that they hold the Holy Ghost to proceed from the Father only, and not from the Son. That they hold the Soul of Man not to be created, because, they say God persected all his Work on the Sixth Day they think it there-

On their Eleventh of January, which to us is the Sixth of the same Month, and the Feast of the Epiphany, the Habessines, in memory of the Baptism of our Saviour (which they hold, with many of the Antients, to have been for a certain on that day) keep a joyful Festival, all of them just at break of day, before the rising of the Sun, going into Ponds and Rivers, and there dipping and sporting themselves; This Custom having given occasion to some to affirm, That they were baptized anew every year.

They begin the year on the Calends of September, with the Grecians, Armenians, Russians, and other Oriental Christians; for they believe, as many of the Antients have afferted, that the World was made in the Autumnal Equinox.

If any discord arise betwixt Man and Wife, so that they cannot be reconciled, the Kings Judges dissolve the Marriage, and they are free to marry again.

As we have mentioned before the King of Habessinia's unparallell'd absoluteness in Temporals, so our Author says, That the chief Eccle-siastical Power is in him; so that all things of Jurisdiction, only some small Causes excepted, are Determined by the Kings Judges. Nor do the Clergy enjoy any Ecclesiastical Immunity or Priviledge in Courts of Judicatute, but undergo correction from Secular Judges as mere Layicks. Our Author tells us, That the Habessiness have sew Books but those of Sacred Things. That they have no written Laws, but judge all Right and Wrong, according to the Custom and Manner of their Ancestors.

Phytick, he fays, is wholly neglected by them: They cure Men by Burning and Cutting, as they do Horses. They cure the Jaundice by burning a Semicircle about the joynt of the Arm with a crooked Iron, putting on the place a little Cotton, and so letting the vitious Humor distil from it till the Distemper be gone. They cure Wounds with Myrrh, which is there mighty common.

They look upon it as an egregious Fable, for any Man to affert, that the Earth is a round Globe, suspended of its self in the midst of the Air.

He tells us, they eat raw Flesh, or such as is but half-boil'd, and use Gall as a sauce. That they take Herbs half digested out of the Bellies of Cows and Oxen kill'd, and seasoning them with Salt and Pepper, they make a fort of Mustard which much gratises their Palate.

HE Country which bears the name of Cafraria is the most. Southern part of all Africa, and indeed all our Continent along the Ethicpick Sea, part in the Torrid, part in the temperate Zone, extending about twelve hundred Leagues upon the Coast. It is full of Mountains, subject to great colds, and under several petty Kings, the most part of which pay Tribute to the Emperor of Monomotopa. The King of Sofala, which was part of the Ægisymba of old, pays also to the King of Portugal, who keeps a Garrison in the Castle of Sofala, and by that means gets good store of Gold from the Mines. which are up in the Country. times out of the Rivers in little Nets, after it has Rain'd. The Coast of Cafraria lies low, and full of Woods; but the Soyl produces Flowers of a most pleasing scent; and the Trees afford a lovely prospect. Three great Rivers fall into the Indian Sea out of Cafraria Every one of which is known at the head by the Name of Zambera. The most Northerly is call'd Cuama, the middlemost Spirito Santto, and the Southermost Los Infantes.

The Cafres live under no Law nor Religion, as their Name imports: Herbert tells us, That during the time he staid amongst them, he faw no figns of any knowledge of God; no spark of Devotion; no symptom of Heaven or Hell; no place set apart for Worship; no Sabboth for rest. Many of them will steal with their Feet, while they stare ye in the Face. They fell their Cattle to the Seamen that come into those parts: But they are forc'd to tie the Oxen to Trees, and to put the Sheep in Penns before they pay them, for else upon a peculiar Whistle, the Cattle will run after them, and leave the Purchaser in the lurch. In Complexion they are like our Chimneyfweepers: Besides, they have great Heads, flat Noses, whether it be that they are press'd in their Infancy, or because that their Mothers carry them at their backs, against which they may be subject to knock them. Their Hair is frizl'd, their Lips extraordinary big, their Back-Bone very sharp, their Hips large; so that there can be nothing feen more ugly. The Cape of good Hope, which lies in the most Southern part of this Countrey, is the most famous, the longest and the most dangerous Cape in the World. It was so call'd, because that being once past that, the Seamen had some hopes to arrive quickly at the East-Indies. Formerly it was call'd the Cape of Whirl-Winds or Tempests, which much annoy'd those Seas. Some call it the Lyon of the Sea; others the Head of Africa. There are certain signs to know when you are near it: For within fifty or fixty Leagues, the Sea is full of the Bodies of thick Reeds that float upon the Water: and the white Birds with black spots make their appearance. Mouth of the Bay to the East of the Cape is five Leagues broad, encompassed with sharp Rocks. The Air is temperate, and the neighbouring Valleys are full of Herbs and Flowers. Their Rivers abound in Fish, their Woods in Venison and Bees: The Natives that cloath themselves with the Skins of these Beasts, are very swift, but Brutes in their eating; and when they beak, they gobble like Turkie Cocks.

The Hollanders have built a Fort there, a League from which they have a fair and handsome Town; all forts of Grain there out of Asia or Europe, thrive better than in other parts.

526. CAFRARIA and MONOMOTOPA.

The Cafres are black, because they rub themselves with a Grease or Ointment, composed of several fort of Drugs, to preserve themselves from being Hydropical; they have great knowledge of Simples, and have cured several of the Dutch of Ulcers and old Wounds, which were past the skill of their own Chyrurgeons.

Monomotopa is almost environ'd by Cafraria. It bears the name of the King. It is very fertile, abounding in Ivory, and fo rich in Gold, that the King is call'd the Golden Emperor. The Inhabitants who are very superstitious, have no other Arms, than Pikes, Bows, and Arrows: But they are fo fwift, that they will run as fast as a Horse. The common People wear nothing above their Wastes; and for the Maids they go flark naked, fo that a Man may chose his Wife according to the Cultom of the Utopian Common-Wealth. A Relation made in the year 1651, Reports, that the King of Monomotopa was baptiz'd with all his Court, by the Jesuits. The King himself is generally trick'd with Bracelets and Pretious Stones like a Bridegroom, nor will he ever were any Foreign Stuffs, for fear they should be poison'd: Unless it be the Twist, the Coller, and his Buskins, of which he has liberty to change the Fashion; he isobliged in other things to follow the Fashion of his Predecessors, by the Laws of his Kingdom. "Tis reported, that for his usual Guard, he has a Regiment of Women, and another of Dogs, and that those Women in War do as much service as Men. He gratifies the Princes, which are his Tributaries with a present of Fire every year, as a mark of his acknowledgment. Mono Emugi is a potent Kingdom to the North of Monomotopa. The Giaques, otherwise call'd Galles, and Chava's are neighbours to one another, and are famous for their Valour, and for the Victories they have got over the Abessins, in the Upper Ethiopia.

ANGUEBAR, call'd by the Antients Barbary, is a large Coast in the Eastern part of Africa, which extends it self all a long the Indian Sea, on this side, and beyond, the Equator. The Natives are Idolaters, under divers Sovereigns. They give their minds to Trade as well as the Arabians and Mahumetans that are among them. The Southern Part, chiefly bears the name of Zanguebar, which contains the sinall Kingdoms of Mozambique, Quiloa, Mombaza, and Melinda. The

The Northern part is call'd Ayen, and sometimes New Arabia. It comprehends the Dominions of Brava, Magadoxo, Adea and Adel. In Mozambique lies the best place that the Portugals have in all those quarters. For they possess a very strong Castle in the Island of that Name, about halr a League long, where their Ships stay for seasonable Weather to carry them to the East Indies. The Port is upon the North-side of the City, and you must leave two Islands upon the left hand as you enter into it. It would be better Inhabited, but the Air isvery unwholefome, Quiloa lies in the same Peninsula: The King therefore was the sirst in Zanguebar that became Tributary to the Portugals. In Quiloa are a most excellent fort of Hens, tho' their Flesh, their Feathers, and their very Bonesbe black. Mombaze lies in an Island, and upon a Rock under 3d 50m South, was subdued to the Crown of Portugal by Almeyda, in the year 1505. Sometimes the Portugals Winter there, for Provifions are very plentiful and cheap. The entrance into the Port is fo narrow and fo rocky, that in some places there is not room for above one Ship to enter. The Estates of Lamon and Pate are under the Government of Melinda. The Coast of Ajan contains the Republick of Brava, a small Common-wealth, with a City built, according to the Falhion of the Moors. It has usually paid a small Tribute to the Portugals. Magadoxo is under a King their own, and the Natives are Mahumetans. To Adea belongs a very good Port, call'd Barraboa Adel, whose chief City is Arat, obeys a King, who is an enemy to the Abessines. Barbora and Zeila are places of great Trade, by reason of the Conveniency of their Ports, towards the entry into the Zeila was the Aralites of Plin. Ptol. and Steph. the Emporium of the Trogloditica, teste Mol.

Zocotora Isle, well known to former Ages, to some by the Name of Dioscorida, thought to be the Topazo of Pliny; by the Turks, Catuchomer; by the Persians, Cabar; by the Spaniards, Acebar: Ramusio, Curia Muria, aliis Alba Curia, incolis Abbadal Curia, is situated at the Mouth of the Red Sea, sixty Miles long, and twenty four broad, which though defective in most necessaries for life, yet it hath plenty of Physical Drugs, especially of Aloes, called in Spain, semper vivum & Sanguis Draconum.

Here John de Castro for many days found it high Water at the Moons Rising, and low Water when the Moon was Highest.

Of the AZORES.

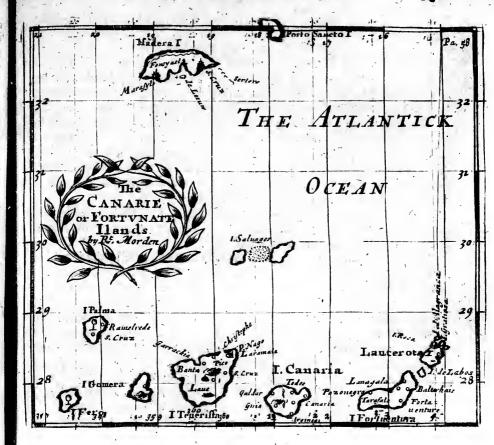

THE Azores are fituate betwixt the thirty seventh and forty sixth Degree of Northern Latitude, and are Nine in number, St. Michael, Saint Maries, which hies next to Spain, Tercore on the North-West, then Saint Graciosa, Saint Georges. Faial, and Pico, in the middle; Corno and Flores nearest to America: Saint Michael, directly North of Saint Maries, is the largest, and of most note among Modern Geographers for the place of the first Meridian, about which you may see more in my Use of the Globes. Tercera is the chief of the rest in regard of its strength; of its commodious Haven, and well fortified Town Angra; the Residence of the Governor and Archbishops Sea, it is esteemed the Principal of these Islands, and communicates its Name unto them, the Air of these Mands is generally good. They are well stored with Flesh, Fish and Fruits, but the Wines not very good nor durable. The chief commodities they transport unto other Countries are finging Birds. Oad for Dyers, which yearly they gather in two places, called Los Folhadores, and los Altares, and a fort of Wood red within, and waved within, admirable beautiful, I suppose the same Workmen call Princes Wood.

The Isle Tercera is as well fenced by Nature, and strengthened by Art, as mon Islands in the World, being every where hard of access; having no good Harbor wherein to shelter a Navy, and upon every Cave, or Watering Place, a Fort erected to forbid the approach of an Enemy, yet the Marquess of Santta Cruz, after he had shewed himself (in the Road of Angra) to Emanuel de Sylva and Mons. de Chattes, who kept it for the use of Don Antonio, with sive or six thousand Men, set sail suddenly, and arived at Port des Moles, and here won a Fort, and landed before Mons. Chattes could come to hinder him.

The difficult landing of our English at Fayal, in the year 1597. under the conduct of Sir W. Rawleigh, was as valorously performed, as honourably and bravely enterprised, but was more of Reputation than Sasety.

These Islands were first discovered by the Flemings, but subdued by the Portugals, under the conduct of Prince Henry, in the year 1444.

THE Canary Islands are now in number seven; by the Antients call'd Insulæ fortunatæ, and by Pliny, Ombrio, Iunonia, Major, Iunonia Minor or Theode, Canaria, Nivaria, Capravia, Plavialie.

By Ptolomy they were styled, Aprositos, Heras Insulæ, Canaria, Pinturia, Or Centuria, Casperia, Pluitania or Pluitalia; first discovered

But now better known by the names of Lancerotta, Fortuentura, Canaria, Teneriffe, Palma, Ferro, and Gomera. Lancerotta, or the inaccessible and enchanted Island, because of the difficulty sometimes to make it more than at other times. It was the first of these Islands that was made subject to the Crown of Castile, discovered 1393. In Forteuentura, are said to be the Tarbais Trees which bear a Gum, of which there is Yyy 2 made

Canary Island is exceeding fruitful, and the Soyl so fertile, that they have two Harvests in one Year, its Commodities are Hony, Wax, Sugar, Oad, Wine and Plantons, which bear an Apple like a Cucumber, which when ripe, eats more deliciously than any Comfit.

Teneriffe, is famous for its bigh Pike, said to be the highest Mountain in the World; for its Lawrel-trees; where the Canary Birds warble their pleasant Notes; and for its Dragon-trees, out of which they draw a red Liquor, well known to the Apothecaries by the name of Dragons-blood, and for its yearly export of twenty thousand Tuns of the most excellent Wine which the World produces.

Palma abounds in Corn, Wines and Sugars, and all forts of Fruits, well flored with Cattle, therefore the Victualling place of the Spanish Fleet that passeth to Peru and Brasil.

Fero Isle is famous for a Tree whose Leaves destil Water which serves the Island, it would be too tedious for me here to relate the different Relations of Writers about this Island, I shall therefore only mention some sew: One Nichols, who had been seven years Factor there, saith there is no fresh Water in the Island, only in the middle of the Isle there grows a Tree, which being always covered with Clouds, drops from it's Leaves into a Cistern very good Water, and in great abundance. One Jackson, an English Man, affirms that the Tree hath neither Flowers nor Fruit, that it dries up in the Day, that at Night a Cloud hangs over the Tree, and destils its Water drop by drop, and fills a Reserver of twenty thousand Tuns.

Jans in his Hydography saith, it very rarely rains in the Island. Linschot saith there is no fresh Water, except about the Sea Coast; but this defect is supplied by the Tree.

In the History of the Conquests of these Islands, 'tis said that this Island hath great plenty of Water, and Rain often; and in the higher Countries are Trees which drop Water pure and clear, which falls into a Ditch, the best in the World to drink.

Ferdinand Suarez saith, That this Tree bears a Fruit like an Acorn, of a pleasant and aromatick taste, and that the Pond or Cistern contains not twenty Tuns.

Sanutus saith, the Cloud begins to rise about Noon, and in the Evening quite covereth the Tree. Others say, that this Water salls from Noon all Night. Others will have the Cloud always about the Tree, and that its distillation is continually; now how to reconcile all these different Relaters in a Virdict of Truth I must leave

These Canaries are often times the Rendevouz of the Spanish West-India Fleet, where they receive Orders to what part of Spainthey shall Madera, or Isle of Wood, fixty Leagues in compass, in the Atlantick Sea, and to the North of the Canaries, belongs to the Crown of Portugal. The Air is very wholesome, many Fountains and Rivers refresh the Country, so that it is not subject to excessive hears; it is called the Queen of the Islands, because of its Beauty, and the Fertility of the Soil, which produces excellent Wine, strong and racy, and in great abundance; for the Vines bear more Clusters than Leaves. It bears delicate Fruits, excellent Wheat, and delicious Sugar, the best in the World, it affords great store of Quinces, and other Sweetmeats, Dragons blood, Cordevants, Ceder Wood, and a Plant call'd Mader. contains three Cities, the chief of which is Fouchial, or Funghal, the Residence of a Governor and a Bishop. The City is long and narrow at the foot of a Mountain, which is about three quarters of a League high, with three Fortresses and a Port like a Crescent, where Ships may ride without Pistol shot of the Town. The Island contains thirty fix Parishes, five or fix Religious Convents, four Hospitals, fix or feven thousand Houses, twenty five thousand Inhabitants. and so many Gardens, that the whole seems a Garden of pleafure.

The Island Porto Santto hath much what the same Commodities with Madera, but is not above eight or ten Leagues in Circuit, thought to be the Cerne of Ptolomy, and reckon'd for the most remote Colony, which the Carthaginians had in the Western Ocean: Between the Canaries and the Madera's, I find two small Islands called Salvages in some Maps, but in the Sea-Charts I find only a heap of Sands, and no description of them in any Geography.

THE Islands which are in the parallel of Cape Verd, are to the number of ten, and bear the name of the Cape, which lies in the most Western part of all Africa. The Antients call'd them Hesperides and Gorgades, and the Fables plac'd there the Orchards with Golden Apples which were kept by a Dragon. Christopher Columbus said, they were falsly nam'd, for in his third Voyage he found them to be dry and barren. They are, for the most part, possessed and inhabited by the Portugals, who transport thence Salt and Goatsskins, of which they make excellent Cordevants. There is in one of these Islands, called Mayo, so great quantity of Salt, that it is said it could load above two thousand Sail of Ships, so that the Flemings call call them all the Islands of Salt. The principal Island is that of Saint Jago or James's, with a City of the same Name, which is none of the best Inhabited, through the unwholsomness of the Air. The Nine other Islands are Saint Anthony's, Saint Vincent, Saint Luce, Saint Nicholas, the Isle of Salt, Bona Vista, Mayo, I. de Fugo, and Brava. There are some wherein there are no Inhabitants but only Goats. The neighbouring Ocean bears the Name of Green, by reason that it is covered with a kind of Green and Yellow Weed, so that it looks like a Meadow.

There are four things which to me strongly prove, that the Islands of Cape Verd do rather answer to the fortunate Islands of Ptolomy, than the Canaries; I. Their difference of Latitude for Ptolomy placeth his fortunate Islands between the tenth and sixteenth Degree of Latitude, the Canaries are about twenty eight Degrees of Latitude.

2. Their distance in regard of the Coast of Africa, which Ptolomy makes the nearest distance to be eight Degrees, when as the surthest of the Canaries is not so much.

in 3. The disposition of their Situation from East to West, for Ptolomy confines his fortunate Isles almost under one Meridian, the Canaries contain five or six Degrees in Longitude.

4. In respect of their Situation from North to South; for Ptolomy extends those four or six Degrees of Latitude, whereas the Canaries lie all in the same Degree of Latitude, however I shall submit to better judgments therein.

mings call The Isle of Saint Thomas, under the Equator, affords a great quantity of Sugar, but the Air is bad for strangers that come to live there; for they never grow bigger than they were at their first arrival. The Portugals were the first that subbu'd it. The best Town in it is Pavaosan, containing about seven hundred Houses, with a Fortress in the Eastern part of the Island. It has several Trees like those in the Island of Fer, which distil Water continually for the use of the Inhabitants. Hogs Flesh is more wholesom and nourishing than Fowl, by reason they feed their Hogs with Sugar Canes.

The Island of the Prince (so call'd because the Revenue of that Island is appointed for the Maintenance of the Prince of Portugal) yields some Fruit, Sugar and Ginger.

Annobon is so called, because it was first discovered upon the first day of the year. The Portugals live toward the North part thereof; it yields Sugars, Cottons, Cattle, and excellent Fruits, and Oranges that in the year 1623, weighed twelve ounces.

Saint Hellens, fixteen Leagues in compass in the Ethiopick Sea, high and mountainous. There is no Island in the World so far distant from the Terra Firma, 'tis called the Sea-Inn, because they that rerurn from the East-Indies stop and refresh there, and in the Vallies it's very Fertile, the Air so healthful that sick Persons are in a short time restored to their Health, well surnished with good Water, which alone is a great refreshment to the Ships, and of so great importance, that the English keep and possess it in despite of Portugals, Spaniards or Dutch, or any other that dispute with them the Dominion of the Sea.

The Islands of Fernando, Saint Mathews and Ascension, are not Inhabited, and of no great account, only they afford Fowls, Wild Beasts, and Fish.

Zocotera, and Behel-Mendel, lie toward the Red-Sea, where the passage is most convenient from the Coast of Africk, Zocotora, near Cape Guadafui, is under the Jurisdiction of an Arabian King. It is a good Road, and hath very convenient Bays, where Ships may ride secure among the very Rocks. It affords excellent Fishing, Cattle in great abundance, and is famous for the goodness and quantity of its Aloes.

Its chief Ports are the Bay of Antongil, or St. Anthony, the best in all the Islands: Further towards the North, Boamarage; towards the South, Angoada, Gacumbout, Manialoufe, Manajara, or the Port of Prunes, Matatane, Manapate, or the Port of Gallions, Manatenga, Anam-Fort des Francois, Sancia, Chara, Bay St. Lucia, Fort Dauphin; Cape Romain; Cape St. Mario; Port St. Augustin; Port Santiago, or St. fames; Port St. Vingent, Terra del Gada, Terra de St. Andro, Vingarora, &c. According to our Relations, the Air is temperate enough. the Soyl produces several forts of Grains and Trees; the Waters are excellent, and the Fruits delicious. The Mountains are full of Wood, Pasturage and Plants of divers forts, and the Champain Country is water'd with Rivers and Lakes full of Fish. Pity it is, that so noble an Island, and so populous, should continue so long uncivilized, and corrupted with Mahumetism and Heathenism, and estranged from God and Virtue, and seated so advantageously for Traffick with all the World, They transport from thence Rice, Hides, Wax, Gums, Christal, Steel, Copper, Ebony, and Woods of several forts. Among the Natives there are both Blacks and Whites, generally strong, Active and Couragious, elighted with sports. Novelties, Hunting, Hawking, Fishing and Dancing are their Recreations: Nature abhorring Cruelty, instructs them to punish Murther with Death; Adultery with publick Shame; Theft with Banishment: Ignorant they are in Agriculture and Learning, for to them Nil scire, nibil fucundius.

There are in Madagascar a great number of particular Lords, who bear the Title of Robandrius, who are continually at War among themselves for their Cattle. The English, Portugals and Hollanders have sometimes set sooting there. The English in the Bay of St. Augustin, and at a Port del Gada. The Portugals in the Bay of Gallions. The Hollanders in the Bay of Antongil: But since the erecting Fort Dauphin, the French have assumed to themselves all the Eastern and Southern part of the Isle.

Madagricar fits as Empreis amongst many smaller Islands, which do as it were, inviron and defend her: The Chief whereof are the Islands of ourteen broad, it belongs at this day wholly to the French. In this Island there is a Mountain that vomits Fire; but the rest of the Land is the best and most pleasant in the World, for the Waters are very wholesome, and there are most of the Commodities which are in the Island of Madagascar. Altha, feated almost in the middle of the Mediterranean, was formerly call'd Melita from its plenty of Hony. It is said to belong to Africa, as being nearer to that Coast than the Coast of Europe; and for that the Maltest partake more of the Customs and Manners of the Africans than of the Europians.

The Island had formerly the same Lords as Sicily. Now it is the Residence of the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, under one Prince whom they call the Grand Master, the Patron of the Order. The Emperor Charles the Fifth gave it to the Knights who had no certain Residence after the loss of Rhodes, having formerly Resided at Jerusalem, Margat, Acra, and Limisso in the Island of Cyprus. The Order is composed of eight Languages, Provence, Auvergne, France, Italy, Aragon, England, Germany and Castile. The three Languages of France, have three hundred Commanderies; but the rest of the sive altogether have no more. The Name of Knights was not in use at the beginning of the Institution; being then call'd the Hospitallers of St. John of Jerusalem.

The Soyl of the Island, which is not above two Foot deep, produces Cuminseed, Anniseed and Cotton Wool; here is but little Corn and Wine, so that Sicily supplies that defect. The Island is not above twenty three Miles in length and twelve broad. It is the best fortistical place in the World, as being the Bulwark of Christendom, there being above three hundred Cannons mounted upon all her Fortresses.

The Roses of Maltha contend for sweetness with those of Pastam: and the Hony with that of Hybla or Hymettus. The Air is clear and healthful, and the Inhabitants live long. The New City Valetta is fortified with impregnable Walls and Bulwarks. There are also three other considerable Towns, viz. the Isola, or the Town Senglea, with the Fort of St. Michael, which, for its stout resistance it made in 1565. against the Turks, obtained the Name of Citta Invitta. The other, the Borgo del Castello a Mare, guarded with the Castle St. Angelo, for its Valor and Fidelity against the Ottoman Army, 1569. was honoured with the Title of Citta Vittoriofa. Lastly the Old City, called Melita, now Citta Notabile, about the middle of the Island: To which we may add about thirty or forty great Cafales or Villages, and twenty fix Parilh Churches; the number of Inhabitants according to a Survey taken 1622, were 50112, of which about 1 may be now accounted fighting Men. The number of Knights are faid to be between two or three thousand: And the number of Slaves about two thousand belonging to the Order, besides three hundred to private Persons, besides those in the Gallies. The Great Master of the Order is now Prince and Chief. Governor of the whole Island; and the Island now is in a very flourishing condition, so that few Subjects live more happily.

Gozo, of old Gaulos, a little Island near to Maltha affords Wheat and other Grain; and the Grand Master is call'd Prince thereof. It maintains about three thousand Persons, and about five hundred Houses, in the year 1565, the Turkish Armata most inhumanly wasted it, and carried away six thousand Prisoners.

Between Maltha and Gozo lies a little Island, called Commo, the phaltia of old guarded with a Fort opposite to that in Gozo And to the young Knights, whose Valor deserves reward, he gives the Title of Prince of Forfolo, which is a Rock not far from the Coast.

AMERICA.

THIS fourth and last part of the World is call'd the New World, New for its last discovery, World for its greatness; 'tis like wise commonly, but improperly, termed America, and often the West Indies; what kind of Country it is, and what it produceth we new do know in part, but shall know better in future Ages.

This great part of the Earth was unknown to the Europians until the year 1492. when it pleased Divine Providence (God having promised, that his Gospel should be Preached to all Nations) to stir up one Chrifopher Colon, alias Columbus, a Genoese, who (whether by considering

Lakes the Quality of the Soil, and the Nature of the Winds that blow. The Wealth of America is so vast, that Spain has drawn, and still draws from thence prodicious quantities of Gold and Silver, and the Mines of Potosi have surnished him with many Millions. There are no Treasures comparable to those related to be found in possession of Attablippa, and Guimacapa, Kings of Peru, and to the precious Houshold-stuff of the City of Gusco. It was no extraordinary thing in the Reigns of those Kings to behold Temples ail plated with Silver, and to see Houses covered with slates of Gold. The Spaniards affirm, that their Kings Revenue amounts to above twelve Millions yearly by means of the Impositions which lies upon goods transported thence, as Gold, Silver, Pearls, Emraulds, Skins, Sugar, Tobaco, Cochenille, Sarsa-parilla, Ginger, and other things. The first Expence upon the discovery of America, came but to fifteen thousand Ducates, which were advanced to Columbus by the Spanish Secretary of State, and not taken out of the Treasuries of the King. As for the Original of this People, it is most probable, that they did descend from the Tartars, if so be that the West side of America be continent with Asia, or disjoyned but by a very small strait, as 'tis described in some Maps.

But from whatsoever Root they did first come, certain it is, that they had settled here many Ages since, and overspred all the parts.

and quarters of this large Continent.

But their numbers are much wasted since the Spaniards discovery; for some Authors affirm, that they put to death above fiften Millions of Natives in less than fifty years, and that the blood of those that perished in the Mines, where they were forced to labour, weighed more than all the Gold and Silver drawn from thence.

At the first Arival of the Spaniards, they found the People naked, reasonably fair and clear, little inclining unto that blackness which is natural to most of the Africans, and to some of the Asiaticks that inhabit under the same Clime.

Ignorant they were of all things they had seen, wondering exceedingly at the Spaniards Ships and Horses, and strangely admired to see them know the Health and affairs of one another by reading a Letter; yet 'tis reported, the Mexicans had some knowledge of the Deluge; that they believed the Soul could not die, and the Body should revive; that those that lived honestly and justly, or offered up their Lives for defence of their Country, should find a place of everlasting peace and happiness: So natural is the knowledge of the Souls Immortality, and of some Ubi for the suture reception of it.

They have as many Languages as Towns, which may be the reason we have so little knowledge of their Original: They are naturally active, fwift Runners, and good Swimmers.

The Mexicans and Peruans, were the only Americans that lived in Cities, which Cities tho' founded by People which we call Savages, were no way inferior to ours in Europe, either for bigness or magnificence.

The Spaniards possess the largest, the richest, and the most fertile Provinces; among the rest Mexico and Peru, formerly two famous Kingdoms, the sirst Elective the other Hereditary, and Claim it all as their

The Portugueser have the Coast of Brasil. The French have their Colonies in Canada in several Islands, and upon the sirm Land. The English are fairly seated all along the Coast of North America, and in the Islands. And of late the Dutch have gotten many places on the Continent and on the Islands: For so rich a Prize could not be kept by the Spaniards, who hoped indeed to have had a Monopoly of so wealthy a Country, and to have enjoyed without a Rival the possession of so fair a Mistress.

The Seas that compass this Continent are, on the East, that commonly called the North Sea, or Mar del Nort; on the West, the South Sea, or Mar del Zur, and on that part which hides it self under the Pole of the Erymanthean Bear, to the South of the straits of Megellan, the North and South Seas meet and embrace together, dividing it as is supposed, from either Pole.

Divided it is into two great parts or Penisula's, by the Isthmus of Panaria, viz. Mexicana on the North, and Peruviana on the South.

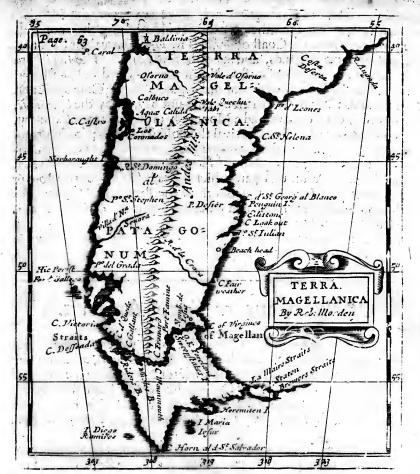

Of Peruviana or South America.

THIS part of the two great Peninsula's, into which the vast Continent of the New World doth now stand divided, extends it self from about the twelfth Degree of the Equator North, unto the four and siftieth Southerly, and is now by Geographers divided into these Kingdoms or Parts, viz Castella del Or, by some called Terra Firma, Guiana, The Amazons, Peru, Chili, Brasil, Paraguay, or La Plata, and Terra Magellanica.

Its form approaches near a Triangle, whose sides are almost equal. Its situation is for the most part under the Torrid Zone, the rest under the Antartick temperate Zone.

The Coasts of this part of the World are in part known to us, but the Inlands very little.

And here I must beg Pardon for my digression, from the usual Order and Method of Geographers, for being necessarily oblig'd to wait upon some of our North American Proprietors, for a more exact Description than what is generally extant: And the hast of the Press prossing me for more Work, I was forced to take this Course to begin at the most Southern part of America, and to proceed to the more Northerly, and so sinish this Circle of Geography. Come we therefore to Agellanica lies upon the South of America, near the Streight of Magellan, whose Name it still retains, though sometimes call'd the Country of the Patagons. It is a very poor Country, and subject to cold, by reason of the high Mountains, where the Snow lies almost all the year. As for the Natives, they live in Caves, and adore the Devil, that he may do them no harm. The Spaniards, English and Dutch, have given Various Names to the places where they have been. In the first part of the Reign of King Philip the Second, the Spaniards built Cividad del Rey Philippe, and several other Forts upon the Eastern Entrance in the Straits of Magellan, to hinder their Enemies from passing.

For which reason that City was afterwards called the Port of Hunger. Port Saint Julian, where Magellan winter'd, and punished his Mutineers. Port Desire upon the Eastern Coast: This Port, otherwise called Bay de los Trabayos, has an entrance about half a League broad, with two little Islands, and two Rocks, which are not to be seen at high Water. The Soil is a white Sand without Trees. However there is fresh Water, of which the Ships provide themselves that are bound toward the Streight. Magellan, Drake, Cavendish, Oliver of the North, Maire, Schowon, and others have all passed the same Streight.

The Relations of the Spaniards affirm, that there are Men there ten foot high. Those Relations add, Demi-Giants, that will carry each of them a Tun of Wine, &c. They call them Patagons. The English who lately passed the Magellan Streight report things quite contrary, and say, that the Natives of that Country are no bigger than our Europeans.

In the year 1669 his Majesty of Great Britain, his Royal Highness the Duke of York, and leveral others of the Nobility, deligned a better difcovery of the Southern part of Chili in order whereunto were two Ships fent out, the one called the Sweepstakes, under the Conduct of the adventurous and worthy commander, Sir John Narborough, and the other the Batchelor, who proceeding on their Voyage, near the Streights of Magellan, about Rio S. Julian, loing one the other, the Batchelor returned home with an apprehension that his Confort was lost: But contrarily the Sweepstakes very honourably proceeded on her Voyage; passed through the Streights into Mar del Zur, and failed all along the Coast of Chili unto Baldivia, which is under the Command of the Spaniards, who by a pretended friendship betrayed and detained four of the English, all endeavors of Sir John for their Relief being ineffectual, he was forced to leave them behind, and so he returned back through the Streights and in June 1671. came to London, giving great hopes and expectation of a very advantagous Trade in those Parts, by reason of the abundance of Gold and Silver in that Country. Out of whose Journals I have taken these following Memorials, That the difference of Longitude from St. Jago to Penguin Island was 46d 38m, and Meridian distant was 2321 Miles to Seals Bay in Latitude 8d 19m. at the North end of this Bay was a Rocky Island full of Seals, therefore called Seals Bay.

In Spiring Bay lie three Rocky Islands.

Port Desire lies in the Latitude 47d 30m, and from St. Fago 46d 28m Longitude, where is fix Fathom Water, at low Water Northward: Off Port Desire there lies a League of Rocks, and are about a League from the Shore: And on the South-side is Penguin Island, and just at the entrance of it, on the South fide, is a spired Rock, much like a Steeple or Watch Tower, which is a good Mark, and stands about \frac{1}{2} a Mile from the Sea fide, and the River runs up about thirty Miles: A barren Land, little Wood, or fresh Water, and no People were seen by the English: There were great store of Weyetnacks or Spanish Sheep: plenty of Hares and Estriches; abundance of Ducks, Mallards, also Ducks, Curlews, Black-shanks, White-breasts, and great blew Ducks as big as Geefe, and store of Seals; upon an Island, up the River, the English found a piece of Lead nailed to a Post, and a Tin-Box with a Paper left by Captain Jagus Lamir, dated December 8. 1615. It is high Water at twelve of the Clock upon the full Moon or Change; and at Spring Tides it ebbs and Flows about three Fathoms right up and down; the Harbors mouth is but narow, being about a Musketshot from fide to fide.

Port Julian lies in the Latitude 49doom: A Mile within the Narrow, there is nine Fathom Water at high Water, and but four Fathom at low Water; the Chanel going in lies S. W. and N. E. and when in the Harbor it lies S. S. W. and N. N. E. 'Tis high Water at half an hour past eleven at Full Moon, or at Change, the Water riseth and falls about four Fathom and a half. In the Harbor there are several Islands and also two Ponds without a Bow-shot of the Water-side, the one is Salt-Water, the other Fresh. The Harbor affords great store of Wild Fowl, as at Port Desire: And the Land, Weyetnacks, Estriches, Hares, &c. Here were seen five or six Indians, and about nine Miles W. from the Harbors Mouth was sound a great large Salt Pond sull of good Salt

In Fortescu's Bay, or Port Gallant, Water floweth ten Foot, and 'tis

About Cape Munday was observed sixteen or seventeen Degrees Variation, and is about thirteen Leagues from Cape Desire.

The English went up Segars River by Boat about nine Miles, and two by Land, but could fee no Inhabitants.

From Cape Blanco to the Lizard, the difference of Longitude was found to be 60d 45m foand Meridian distance eight hundred and

The West Entrance of the Streights of Magellan is 53d of South Lat. and the East Entrance lies in 52d 20m: The length is an hundred and ten Leagues. The breadth in some places two Leagues, in others not two Miles over, and is famous for the passage of Magellan, Drake, Cavendish, Oliver, Van North, Scouten, &c.

There is another passage between the South Sea, and the Atlantick Ocean, call'd Fretum-la Maire, found out in the year 1615. much more convenient than the former, being about ten or twelve Leagues' of length and breadth, and then a large Sea formerly supposed to be Terra Australis or Terra Incognita.

That of Brewers discovered in the year 1643, hath the same advantages as that of La Maire.

Hili bears the Name of one of her Valleys, though, some say, it is so called by reason of the Cold Weather in the Mountains, which environ it toward the North and East. The difficulty of passing through these Mountains obliges the Spaniards to go by Sea, when they have business at Chili. They have possessed it ever since the year 1554, at which time they conquered it under one of the Almagres. In some parts of this Country the Soil is soft fertile and pleasant, that no part of all America more resembles Europ. It yields Ostriches, Copper, the finest Gold in the World; and the coare so many Mines, that Chili is Reckon'd but one plate of Gold, which makes the King of Spain take more than ordinary care for its preservation. So that it costs him more to defend that place, than all the rest of America. The Cold is however

The Spaniards have a Governor there, who is under the Vice-Roy of Peru. The Savages being governed by their Captains. The Araugues above all the rest made such a resistance, that the Spaniards were forced to make a Peace with them in the Year 1641. In all America there are no People more Valient or more Warlick than those Arauques: They know how to make Swords, Muskets, and Cuirasses; as also how to range themfelves in Battle, to fight retreating, to encamp to advantage, to fortify and to use Stratagems; all which they learn by having seen but once. They have often surpriz'd and ruin'd Cities, massacred Garisons, and demolished the Fortresses Araucho, Puren, and Tu-Capel. In short, an Aranque will not be afraid at any time to encounter a Spaniard.

St. Jago, La Conceptio and Imperiale are the principal Cities of Chili. La Conceptio is the Residence of the Governor, by reason of the neighbourhood of the Arauques, Valpariaso is an excellent Port for the City of St. Jago. Mocha, five Leagues from the Continent, is a little Island upon the Coast, where the Ships oft-times take in fresh Water, and whither many of the Inhabitants retired from the cruelty of the Spaniards.

La Sarena, taken and fired by the Buccaniers. It had seven Churches, and one Chappel, the Houses neatly furnished. In the Gardens were Strawberries as big as Walnuts.

At Isle de Juan Fernandez, in Lat. 33d 40m neither Fowl nor Fish. At El Guasco the Buccaniers got store of Sheep and Goats, Lat. 28d 40m. Near Point St. Helena is a Rock which runeth into the Water for half a Mile, distant about eight Leagues, called Chanday, where many Ships are lost.

Of Paraguay Rio de la Plata.

THE Name of Plata is common to the Country, and to a great River that waters it, 'twas given thereunto in confideration of the Mines, and the Silver which they first got from thence. The Country is very pleasant and delightful, for it abounds in Corn, Vineyards, Fruit-trees and Cattle in abundance. Assumption is the chief Place in the Country, where the Spaniards keeps a Garison, near to which is as great Lake in the middle whereof is a great Rock, faid to be two Fathorn above the Water. The true Paraguay lies toward the head of the River, that bears the same name, which in our Language signifies the River of Feathers. Parana lies along by the River side, wherein there are Cataracts or falls of Water above a hundred Cubits high. Buenos Aeres is one of the best Colonies, by reason of its Commerce with Brasil, from whence it receives the Merchandizes of Europe. Which is the reason, that invites the Spaniards thither from Potosi to exchange their Ingots for such necessaries as they want; notwithstanding the rigorous Prohibitions of their King, whose duties are lost by that means. Chaco is a Fruitful Country interlaced with many Rivers. The Tobares were about fifty thousand, and a valiant People. The Chiraguanes will not suffer the Spaniards to live among them. In this Country grow great Trees of which the Natives make Boats all of a piece. They mark out their Highways by the fellings of their Trees; and in regard these Trees are some black, some green, some red, some yellow, the Forests afford a pleasant prospect.

The Orchans are remarkable for the bigness of their Ears. According to the relations of the year 1627. there are in Plata, a more civiliz'd People, and more capable to learn our Arts, and our Religion, than in all the other parts of America: For they say, that, according to a Tradition delivered to their Fathers by St. Thomas, whom, they call St. Sume, certain Priests shall come into their Country and instruct them in the way of their Salvation.

Tucuman is a very temperate Country, interdivided with several Rivers which having water'd the Plains, fall into the great River of Plata. The Inhabitants are docible, lovers of Peace rather than War; So that that the Spanish Captain, that subdu'd them had no great need of any considerable force for that purpose. They have many Cities where they live under the Jurisdiction of the Caciques, and their Wealth consists rather in Cattle than Mines. The Spaniards have a Governor there and the Principal City is St. Jago de Estro in the mid-way between Buenos Ayres and Potosi. Then St. Miguel de Tucumen. N. S. de Talevera on the River Salada. Corduba on the Road from Buenos Ayras and Patosi, and from Santha Fee to St. Jago in Chili. The Quirandies to the Meridional part partake apparently of the Scithian humor: For they live in Huts, that move upon Wheels, and have always made great resistance against the Spaniards. The Trapalandes, the Juries, and Diaquites are the most famous.

B Rasile was called the Country of the Holy Cross, when it was first discovered, which was in the year 1501. in the name of the King of Portugal, it extends it self all along upon the North Sea, toward the North and East, with great Rocks near the shore under Water; the distances between which make several good Ports: The bounds thereof towards the West are not known: The Southern bounds are variously placed, according to the Wills of Portugals and the Spaniards; for both the one and the other interpret, according to their own sense, the Regulation that was made in the year 1493, and both claim the possession of the River of Plata, and the Molucca Islands, making to that effect B b b Geographical Geographical Maps to their own advantage. By this Regulation Alexander the fixth (whom Sixtus the Fifth extols for one of the three greatest Popes of the Church) invested Ferdinand King of Arragon. and Isabel Queen of Castile his Wife, in all the Lands to the West of an Imaginary Line, drawn from one Pole to the other, one hundred Leagues beyond the Isles of Azores. What was discovered to the East. of this Line, was to belong to the King of Portugal; the difficulty, was to put it in execution; for on the one fide, the Castillians began. to count these hundred Leagues from the most Occidental parts of the Azores; and the Portegueses reckon'd from the most Oriental, with the design to exchange the Desarts of America, for the possession of the wealthy Molucca's, which were afterwards engaged to their King by the Emperor Charles the Fifth, for three hundred and fifty thousand Duckets. At length, because these two Nations could no more agree in this Particular than in many others, the Portugals accounted Brafile all that which extends from the River Maranham, to the River of Plata Southward; and the Spaniards placed the Southern bounds, thereof at Cape St. Vincents.

Tho' Brafile lie under the Torrid Zone, nevertheless the Air is temperate, and the Water the best in the World; so that the People live often to the Age of an hundred and fifty years. Besides Brasile, the Country produces Amber, Balfom, Tobaco, Train-Oil, Cattle, Sweetmeats, above all things Sugar in abundance. The neighbourhood of Plata gives the Portugueses great opportunities of sucking the Spaniards Silver from Peru. There are in Brafile living Creatures, Trees, Fruits, and Roots not to be found any where elfe. The Serpents, Adders, and Toads have no Poison in them, and therefore the Natives feed. upon them. The Plains are destin'd for Sugar, the Hills for Wood, the Valleys for Tobacco, for Fruits and Mandroche, which is a certain Root, of which they make Bread. The most part of the Villages do. not contain above an hundred or fixfcore Houses. The Coast of Brafile is divided into several Capitanies, which belong at this day all to the Portugals. The French had formerly fomething to do there; but the Hollanders lost all their footing in the year 1654, their Wars with England not permitting them to fend any relief; and the Portugals being far more numerous than they. Nevertheless in the year 1662, the Portugals treated with them to allow them some damages, to preserve their friendship, when they were to defend themselves against the Spaniards. Among all the Capitanies Tamarica is the most antient, though the smallest. Fernanbuco is esteemed the Terrestial Paradife, by reason of the beauty of its Soil. Babia de Todos los Santos contains contains the City of San Salvador, the Residence of the Governor, which was taken in 1624 by the Hollanders, who got so much Plunder there, that every Common Soldier had for his share above sisteen thousand Crowns: But this good Fortune was the cause of their retreat, and their retreat gave the Portugals opportunity to retake it. The Capitania of Rio Janeiro, which the Savages call Ganabara, is a great Rendevouz for Ships by means of a navigable River, or rather an Arm of the Sea, that runs up tenor twelve Leagues into the Land, some seven or eight Leagues broad. In the year 1658. a Silver Mine was found in that Capitania. That of San Vincent contains Mines of Gold and Silver. The City of Santos is able to harbor Vessels of four hundred Tuns in its Port, in the year 1591, it was assaulted by Sir Thomas Cavendish.

The People of Brafile go naked for the most part, and will crossgreat Rivers by the help of a Pannier and a Cord. The Chief are the Toupinambous, Les Margajas, Tapuyus, and others who differ in Manners and Languages, and are generally distinguished by the wearing of their hair. They were more numerous before the coming of the Portugals, but several Toupinambous, to preserve their liberty, crossed the great Defarts, and went to live near the River Maranabon. The Tapuyes are more difficult to be civilized than the Brasilians, which inhabit the Aldees. The Aldees are certain Villages, which contain not above fix or feven Houses, but very large. and able to contain five or fix hundred Persons. The most part of the Inhabitants of Brafile have so well defended themselves, that, notwithstanding the Wars they have had among themselves, they have however hindered the Europeans from making any progress in the Conquests of their Lands. And have also several times ruined the Plantations and Engines belonging to the Sugar-works that are upon the Coast.

THE River Amazone is the greatest and swiftest River in America. It begins at the foot of the Cordellier Mountains eight or ten Leagues from Quite: From its Springs, to its approaches to the Sea, is according to its course eleven or twelve hundred Leagues, at its mouth it is fifty or fixty Leagues wide: It is Inhabited by abundance of People, and receives an innumerable Company of Rivers. The Voyages of Texeira tells us, that the Countries about the Amazone enjoy a temperate Air. That the Annual Inundations, like to those of Nile, the great quantity of Trees and Forests, that the pleasantness of their Fruits, the Verdure of their Herbs, and the beauty of their Flowers, give refreshment and delights to the Inhabitants all the year long.

That its a Country fertile in Grains, rich in Pastures, sull with Rivers and Lakes, stored with delicate Fish and Tortise, that their Honey is Medicinal, their Balm excellent for Wounds; that they have inexhaustible quantities of Ebony and Brazil, store of Cacoa and Tobaco, plenty of Sugar Canes, and Rocon for the dying of Scarlet, besides Gold, Silver, and other Metals, which are found there.

That they observe an hundred and fifty different Nations upon and about the Banks of the Amazone, of which the Homagues are excellent for their Manufactures of Cotton Cloath. The Crosspares for their Earthen Vessels. The Sarines for their Joynary Work.

The Topinamubes for their power.

As for the Amazonian Women, from whence it is pretended this River took its name, many and strange Relations have been writ of them. All I can find of it is, that when the Inhabitants were in Arms, at the arrival of the Spaniards, there were some Women so couragious as to be amongst them, but never any Country of such; and therefore as fabulous, as those of whom the Greeks have formerly writ such wonders.

Of PERU.

Let RU is a name so remarkable, that, under the same, many times all the other parts of Southern America are comprehended; It lies almost all under the Torrid Zone; and yet it has not the qualities of the Countries in our Hemisphere, that lie under the same Zone. There are in it three sorts of Countries, very different the one from the other, the Plain, the Hill, and the Andes. The plain lies near the Sea, nothing delightful, being Sandy, and subject to Earthquakes. The hilly Country consists of Vallies, Hills and Mountains, where it is very cool. The Andes, where it almost continually rains, are very high Mountains, yet fertile and well peopled. The plain is not above twelve Leagues broad, the Hilly Country twenty; and the Andes as broad as that. So that under the name of Peru are comprehended more Lands than are subdued by the Spaniards.

The Spaniards have a Vice-Roy in that Country, where they have particularly fortified Anien; being the place where the Merchandises of Lima, and the Wealth of Potosi are brought, They invaded this Kingdom under Pizamo, in the year 1525. But the Civil Wars that ensued, hindered for sometime the absolute Conquest of the Country. The Indians that cannot defend themselves pay Tribute. The King of Spain receives vast Treasures out of the Mines of Peru. For the principal Cities are full of it, and the very Earth is oftentimes nothing but Gold and Silver: So that Peru is certainly the richest Country in the World. And it is reported, that the Spaniards made above twenty Millions of Ducates of their Voyage thither.

The Ways are so secure from Robbery, that four Musqueteers ferve for a Convoy, for three or four thousands Ducates.

The Inca's were Hereditary Kings of Peru, for above three hundred years before the Invalion of the Spaniards. They had made there two High-ways; the one along the Plain, where it required an extraordinary Expence to settle the Sand, the other over the Mountain; where it was as necessary to fill up the Valleys. These High-ways were every one of them five hundred Leagues in length; and upon the road stood Houses, whither Travellers were carried and entertained by the Natives upon freecost. The same Inca's had also reared Temples to the Sun, to the Moon, and to the Stars, which they call Ladies artending the Moon; to Lightning, Thunder, and Thunder bolts; and to the Rain-bow, which they faid executed the Sun's Justice. It is reported, that their polities were not unlike those of the Greeks and Romans; that their Government was mild, free and liberal: And that they divided the Earth into three parts, the first high, the second low and the third under ground, signifying Earth, Heaven and Helf. Atabalippa, who was one of those Kings, said, That the Pope was not a Wife Man, to give away that which was none of his own, and that for his part be had more reason to perfer the Divinity of the Sun, than of a Man that was Crucified. He also threw away a Breviary, which they presented, be cause it spoke never a word of Christ, of whom they told him it related great things. . This unfortunate Prince being defeated and taken by the Spaniards at Canamalca, offer'd for his liberty as much Gold as could be heaped up half way in a Hall feven and twenty foot long, fixteen foot wide, and proportionably high; nevertheless they put him to death, as a Traytor and a Tyrant. It is not to be wondered, that the Inca's had fuch vast store of Gold and Silver, for they had framed in Gold all the Creatures and Plants imaginable in their Temples; also they put great numbers of Statutes of all pure Gold, and adorn'd with precious Stones. The Edifices were demolished molished by the Spaniards, who expected to find Gold in the Materials, and in the cement of the Stones, though they got a prodidgious Sum besides.

The Provinces of Peru are Quito, Los Reyes, Los Charcas, and La-Sierra: Quito, which produces much Gold, Cotton, and Physical Drugs, has a City of the same Name, the Antient Residence of Inca Guaynacapa. The Province de los Reyes, contains the best Cities in the Country, Lima and Cusco: Lima is new, and one of the best in all America, though it contain not above six thousand Inhabitants. There are also about four thousand Negroes, but they keep them disarm'd for fear of revolting. The great Trade of the Town, the Residence of the Vice-Roy, and the Archbishop make it the Capital City of Peru. Callao a City and a Port two Leagues from Lima, is able to receive and secure several Vessels. Cuse built four hundred: years before the Spaniards took it, very well Peopled, because the King usually kept his Court and obliged the Lords of the Country to build them Houses, and dwell in the City with their Children. vince de los Charcas contains the Cities of La Plata and Potofi, which is the best inhabited place in all the West Indies, for it is stored with. all conveniences and delights of this Life; for which reason several People go to live there. The Silver Mines in her Mountains are certainly the richest in the World, and no way subject to the Water, as the other Mines are. The King of Spain had from thence a Million of Ducates formerly for his fifth; but some time since the Rent has fallen.

At the Island Perico was the Fight between the Buccaniers and Spaniards, where the Buccaniers took five Ships; the Buccaniers were but sixty eight Men, the Spaniards two hundred and twenty eight.

At Gorgona Island the Buccaniers carren'd.

At the Isle of Plata, Sir F. Drake made the Dividend of that vastiquantity of plate, which he took from the S. Armada, which, the Spamards say, was twelve score Tuns of Plate, and sixteen Bowls of Coyned Mon, so that they were forced to heave some over board.

Of GUYANA.

This Country has by fundry Europeans been called the Savage Coast, the Country of the Amazons, El Dorado, and Guyana. But this last name, which is Indian, has put down all the rest. Asterwards the continued resolutions of the French to settle themselves there, together with the situation of the Country, has occasioned it to be called by them Equinostial France. Orenoque bounds it to the West; Amazonia to the East, the North Sea to the North, and the high Mountains to the South. All which limits give it a Figure, that is somewhat oval.

Oronoque, or Raliana, from Sir Walter Raleigh, who in 1595 discovered it, constrains the Neighbouring Inhabitants, by reason of its overslowing, to lodge in the Trees. The other Rivers of Guyana are Essequebe, Brebice, Coretine, Boron, Marwvine, Surinam, the entrance whereof is as large as the Sein at Honsluer: Mawari, Sinamari, Caurora, near to which great plenty of Tortises breed. Caynenna, that makes an Island of the same name; Cauwo, at the Mouth whereof lie great Mountains, where they say, there is a Mine of a Lapis Lazuki. Aperwake, which is thought runs to the Lake Parima, but it hath so many falls, that its course is hardly known, Via-poco, Poumaron, &c.

At the lower part of these Rivers, and all along the Coast, which is generally low, and extends above two hundred and sifty Leagues in length, several English, French and Dutch Colonies have settled themselves. Who having made the Indians sensible, that they are not able to master their Lands alone dispute among themselves the possession of other Nations Rights. The Country between Viapoco, and the North Cape, is not much coveted by the Europeans, because it is very boggy,

The Country about the Lake Parime, in the middle of Guyana, acknowledge, by report, a Succeffor of Guainacapa of the House of Inca's of Peru, and compose the true Kingdom of the Golden King. The remaining part toward the North is possessed by divers People, which cannot of themselves make a Body of two hundred and sifty Men. They are all Idolaters, and obey the antient Chiess of their Families. Some Relations affirm, that there are Amazons in those parts, or rather large-sided Women, that wage War with much Skill and Valor, insomuch that the Natives of the Isle of Arowen, at the Mouth of Amazona, have acquired that Name, by reason of their long Hair: The same Relations aver, that there are some Nations, where the men exchange their Wives Wives, and where the Men always chose the most elderly, as being more industrious, and better experienced in Huswifry, than the young ones.

The People of Guyana live long, by reason of the good Air, which they breath. Their Country lies in the middle of the Torrid Zone, but the Eastern Winds are very constant. The Days and Nights are equal, the later being very cool, the dews falling in great abundance. The Mountains are high, and the Forests very thick, so that it is never excessive hot, nor excessive cold. The Soil is very proper for the Tillage of Manioc; others for the planting of Cotton; others for Sugar and Tobacco; others that yield Gums, Wood, Stones of divers sorts, Parrots and Monkeys. Besides that Hunting and Fishing are equally profitable and delightful.

Manoa, near the Lake Parima, the principal City of Guyana is call'd El Dorado, by reason of the quantity of Gold, which, they say, is there so great, that the Inhabitants make their Weapons thereof, and cloath their Bodies with it, after they have rubb'd themselves with Oyl or Balsom. So that this City may be accounted the richest in the World, if there be such a one.

The Island of Cayenne, the principal Colony of the French in those quarters, is above sixteen or seventeen Leagues in Compass, five whereof shoot into the Sea, the rest lie between the Arms of a River of the same name. It incloses several high Hills, which are manurable to the very tops; and some Meadows for the fatting of the Cattle. St. Thomas is remarkable for the unhappy enterprise of that worthy Englishman, Sir Walter Raleigh, by whom Cumana was fired in his first return from Guyana.

And at St. Fosephs, a small City in the Isle Trinidao, Sir W. Raleigh took the Spanish Governor Antonio Berio, from whom he got the best account of those Parts and its Trade.

Olden Castile, so called from the plenty of Gold the Castillians.

I sound there, called also Terra Firma, because one of the first parts, or firm Land, which the Spaniards touched at; divided likewise into several Parts or Governments, viz Panama, Carthagena, Santta Martha, Rio de la Hacha, Venezule, Paria or New Andalusia, Popajam, and Granada.

The Government of Panama, which particularly takes the name of Terra Firma, is between the North and South Seas, placed in the Isthmus, which joyns the two parts of America together. The Country is either low or miry, or Mountains or barren, its Air is very unhealthful, subject to great Heats and Fogs: Its chief Places are, Panama seated on the Southern Sea-shore, the Residence of the Governor, a Bishops See and a Town through which the riches of Spain and Peru pass every year. In December 1670, it was taken by the English, and kept twenty eight days.

Panama is the Place whither they bring the Gold and Silver of Peru, which they afterwards carry to Porto Belo, a place of great strengh, fortissed with two Castles, which lies about sixteen or eighteen Leagues off upon the North Sea, and raised upon the Ruins of Nombre de Dios, which was forsaken for the badness of the Air, and lying too open to the Invasions of the English: This carriage is performed by great Rams, called Vinves, which are the only Mules of the Country: At Porto Belo they lade this Gold and Silver in the Ships, that carry it to Spain.

In the way from Panama to Porto Belo, you may, if you please, take the convenience of the River Chagra, which comes within five Leagues of Panama, and then you may go all the way by Water.

In the year 1668, the English plundred Porto Belo, and got considerable sums of the Spaniards, before they would surrender it again.

Cartagena affords foveraign Balfom, little inferior to that of Egypt, Rosin, and several forts of Gums, long Pepper, Dragons-blood, Emeraulds, &c. Formerly the Inhabitants had particular places, whither they carried their Dead with their Gold, their Chains and their costly Ornaments. But the Spaniards to get this Wealth into their hands, made those Relicks see the Sun again. The City standing in a Peninfula, had its name from the resemblance of its Port, with that of Cartagena in Europe. It is one of the best Cities in America, for it contains above four thousand Spaniards, about four thousand Negro's, and is the usual Randevouz of the Fleets, that are bound from Cadiz to the Firm Land.

Saint Martha produces almost all forts of Fruit that grow in Spain, Gold, Saphires, Emeraulds, Jasper, Cassidoins: And there begin those high Mountains, which under the names of Andes run a long as far as the South. The City is honoured with an Episcopal See, but still laments the Ruins suffered by the English in Anno 1595 and 1596.

Venezuela had its name from a Village hard by which was built upon Piles in the middst of the Water: When this Country was first difcovered, the Germans, to whom Charles the Fifth had engag'd it, had a design to have built a City at the Mouth of the Lake Macataybo, according to the Model of Venice, but afterwards they changed their resolution, and chose rather to return into their own Country: The Water of the aforefaid Lake is falt, but it becomes fweet through the abundance of Water that falls into it out of several Rivers. Venezuela produces all things necessary for human fustenance, so that it is, as it were; the Granary of the adjacent Provinces.

New Andalusia is otherwise called Parta, from its great River; and the Seacost bears like that of the Venezuela, the name of the Coast of Pearls, by reason of the Fishery there, since it fail'd about the Islands of Margareta and Cubaque. Some of the Indians still hold out against the Spaniards, and the most part of the Sea Towns have been often plundred by the English. The Country near Comana is full of Saltpits. The Country and City of Popayen have preserved the name of their last King. The Paezes, the Pino's, the Manipo's, and other neighbouring Natives could never be subdued.

The New Kingdom of Granada, which was discovered by one Ximenes a Granadin, affords Silver, Copper, Iron, and Emraulds. Heretofore there was one brought to Philip the Second King of Spain, of to high a Price, that the Goldsmiths knew not how to value it: And therefore as a rarity it was laid up in the Treatury of the

Of the ANTILLES.

THE Islands of the Antiles are Hispaniola, Cuba Jamaica and Peru, Rico alias Boriquen. Hispaniola is affirmed to be in length an hundred and fixty Leagues; the breadth in some places sixty, in some but thirty, thence growing less and less till it comes to the Angles; situate between the eighteenth and twentieth deg. of the Northern Latitude. in their Summer Livery, the Meadows green, as if they did enjoy a perpetual Spring; of such excellent Herbage, that the Cattle brought thither out of Spain have increased beyond measure, grown wild for want of proper Owners, and are hunted unto death, like the Stags of the Forest, only to rob them of their Skins. In a word, rich Mines of Gold without mixture of Dross, or other Metals; the great increase of Sugar Canes, one Cane filling twenty, sometimes thirty Measures, the exceeding increase of Corn, producing in some places an hundred-sold; Herbs and Fruits, that in the eighteen days will come to their perfections, and ripen, &c. are evident Arguments of the richress and sertility of the Soil, only the Air is much insested with Morning Heats, but cooler in the Asternoon.

It was discovered by Columbus, in his first Voyage made 1492. The Spaniards have since settled many potent Colonies there, who, having rooted out the Natives by their infinite Cruelties, and exhausted the riches of the Country with an infinite covetousness, dispersed themfelves into the Continent.

Its chief places are St. Domingo, first built by Baribolomeus Columbus, Anno 1494. now situate in a pleasant Country, with a safe and capacious Haven for Ships to ride in. An Arch-Bishoprick, and a place of great Trade, till the taking of Mexico, and the discovery of Peru, since which time it hath much decayed, nor hath it yet recovered its self of the great loss and damage itsustained by Sir Francis Drake, in Anno 1586.

Porta de la Plato, the second place of Trade and Wealth, seated on a commodious Bay on the Northern Shore.

At present among their Infects and Vermine, the Nigua is the most dangerous, it leaps like a Flea, and piercing it self 'till it lodges between the Skin and the Flesh isvery troublesome to get out.

The Cacugo, a kind of Snail, that hath its Eyes and Flanks when it opens its Wings, so Bright, that it serves to Read or Write by in the darkest Night.

Among their Fish the Manati is the most remarkable, which is a kind of a Sea-Calf, about twenty Foot long, and their young not above a hand long.

The Commodities now are Cattle, Hides, Cassia, Ginger, Cocheneil, Guaiacum, and other Herbs, as well for Physick as Dying.

The French now possess the Western part of this Island, as also the Island Tortugas, not far from it.

Of CUBA.

CUBA, by Christopher Columbus call'd Ferdinanda, is in length from East to West about two hundred Spanish Leagues; in breadth not about ewenty five or thirty, in content equal with Hispaniola.

for fertility of Soil, and temperature of the Air, beyond it.

Liberally stored with Ginger, Mastich, Cassia, Aloes, Cinemon and Sugar, besides great plenty of Flesh, Fish and Fowl, the Gold more drossie in the Mines than those of Hispaniola, but the Brass more perfect; the Mountains filled with divers Trees, of which some drop the purest Rossin; and the Hills send to the Vallies many Rivers streaming down with Gold.

Among the Rarities of this Island, there is a Fountain, out of which floweth a pitchy substance or Bitumen, excellent for the caulking of Ships, and serves the Indians for divers Medicines.

As also a Valley covered with an innumerable number of Flintfrones of divers Magnitudes, which Nature hath made so round, that they may ferve for Bullets for all forts of Cannons.

Its chief places are St. Jago, built in 1514, by Don Diego de Valasques. feated in the bottom of a capacious Bay, in the South part of the Island, the feat of a Bishop, much decayed, and now of little Trade. 2. Havana, one of the most famous Ports in the West Indies, for strength. largeness and richness, so strong situated and fortified, both by Nature and Art, that it feems impregnable; the entrances defended with two Castles, and a greater opposite to the Mouth of the Haven; it is the general Rendevouz of the Spanish Fleet, (and is capable to receive a thousand Vessels) when they return for Spain, honour'd therefore with the Seat of the Governor, and the greatest Trade of all these Seas. Twenty five Leagues from the Havana towards the East is the Port of Matageas, memorable for that Peter Heyn General for the Dutch West India Company, there suprized in the year 1629, the Spanish Fleet, and carried it into Holland: A Prize esteemed worth more than feven Millions of Crowns, yet very ill recompensed for his Service and pains.

Nor can I forget the memorable Story of one of the Caciques of the Island, who addressing himself unto Columbus, advised him to use his fortune with moderation, and to remember, that the Souls of Men had two journies, when they leave this World: The one soul and dark, for the injurious and cruel; the other delightful and pleasant, for the peacable and just.

Its Difeases are Dropsies; occasioned often by ill Diet, Drunkenness and Sloth; Calentures, too frequently the Product of Surfeits, Fevers and Agues, but with good Diet, and moderate Exercise, without excess of drinking, the English enjoy a competent measure of health.

The Island abounds in good Bays, Ports and Harbors, viz. 1. Port Rofal, formerly called Cagway, fituate on the extream end of that long poins of Land, which makes the Harbor exceeding commodious for Shipping, and is secured by a strong Castle; the Harbor is two or three Leagues cross in most places, and hath every where good Auchorage, and is so deep, that a Ship of a thousand Tun may lay her sides to the Shore to unload, and is the only place of Trade in the Isle, being populous and much frequented.

2. Port Morant seated on the Eastern Point, a very capacious and secure Harbor, where Ships do conveniently hold Water, and ride safe from the Winds, where is also a potent Colony settled.

3. Point Negrel in the West, very good and secure to wind-ward.

4. Port Antonio in the North, a very safe and Land-locked Harbor, being wholly taken up by the Right Honourable Charles Earl of Carlifle, once Governor of the Island; and now called Port St. Garge.

About twelve Miles from Port Royal, within the Land, in a plain by a River is feated St. Jago, once a place of great account, when the Spaniards were Masters of the Isle, now the Residence of the Governor, and the chief Courts of Judicature are held there, and therefore likely to arrive to a greater Splendor than before: Its Inhabitants live in great pleasure, where they have their Havana, in which the richer sort recreate themselves every Morning in their Coaches or on Horseback, as the Gentry do here in Hide-Park

About the middle way between St. Jago and Port Royal, and on the Mouth of the River is feated Passage, a small Town, built for the conveniency of Passage to Port Royal from St. Jago, where is also a Fort raised to secure the same.

In a word, the great encouragement of gaining riches with a pleafant life doth invite every , car abundance of people to inhabit there, fo that in a short time it is likely to become the most potent, and richest Colony in the West Indies.

Besides

Besides the number of Inhabitants, which are reckoned to be about forty or sifty thousand, there belong to the Island about three thousand lusty stout sighting Men, called Privateors or Buccaniers, whose Courage hath been sufficiently evidenced in their late exploit, and attempt against the Spaniards at Panama.

As concerning the Laws, by which they are governed, they are affimiliated as near as can be to those of England, having their several Courts, Magistrates and Officers for the executing of Justice on criminal Offenders, and the hearing and determining of Causes betwixt Party and Party; and for the better affistance of the Governor he hath his Council to consult with.

Rorequen is little less either in Circuit or Fruitsulness than Jamaica. Its chief Place is St. Juan del Putero Rico, which communicates its name to the whole Island; the Residence of a Bishop and Governor. The Island is traversed by a Chain of Mountains, which cuts it from West to East. Here is found a white Scum, which they use instead of Pitch to chalk their Ships, and instead of Tallow to make Candles, and for want of other Medicaments for Wounds and Sores. These four Islands are the greatest and chiefest of the Antilles.

Of the CARIBBE Islands.

Barbado's is the most considerable Island, that passes under the name of the Caribbe Isles. It is seated on thirteen Degrees and thirty Minutes of North Latitude; being not above eight Leagues in length, and five in breadth, of an Oval form. strength that Nature hath bestowed upon it, is able to bid defiance to the stoutest Foe.

This Island is very hot, especially for eight Months, yet not so but labor or travel is sufferable, by reason of the cold breezes of Wind, which rise with the Sun, and blow fresher as the Sun mounteth up. The Air, tho hot, is moist which causeth all Iron Tools to rust, but this great heat and moisture makes the Soil exceeding sertile, bearing Crops all the year long, and its Trees and Plants are always green, and the Fields and Weeds always in their verdant Livery.

Its commodities are Sugars, Indico, Cotton-Wool, Ginger, Logwood, Fustick, Lignum Vita, &c. Of the four first there is such great abundance, that above two hundred Sail of Ships have yearly their loading there.

As for its Trees, Fruits, Herbs, Roots, Fowl, Beafts, Infects, and Fish, they are much the same as found in Jamaica, to which I refer you.

The Island is divided into eleven Precincts or Parishes, in which are fourteen Churches and Chappels. The Names whereof, and how situated, you may plainly see in the Map. Its chief places are.

St. Michael, formerly the Bridg-Town, situate at the Bottom of Carlisle-Bar in the Lee ward or Southern part of the Island, having a capacious, deep and secure Harbor for Ships, large enough to entertain five hundred Sail at once.

The Town is graced with abundance of well-built Houses being the Residence of the Governor, the place of Judicature, and the Scale of Trade, where most of the Merchants and Factors have their store-houses or shops: It hath two strong Forts opposite one to another, with a Plat-form in the midst, which commands the Road for the desence and security of the Ships.

Next is little Bristol, formerly Sprights Bay, seated about sour Leagues Leeward from St. Michaels, hath a commodious Road for Ships well traded, and strongly defended by two Forts.

3. Saint James, formerly the Hole, hath a good Road for Ships, and is of a confiderable Trade, where is kept the Monthly Courts.

4. Charles Town, on Oyster Bay, secured by two strong Forts with a Plat-form in the midst.

The Inhabitants of this Isle are of three forts Masters, Christian Servants, and Negroes. And according to the Calculation not long fince made, the two first did amount to fifty thousand, and the Negroes to double the number.

The Masters for the most part live at the height of Pleasure, and the Servants, at the expiration of five years, become Freemen of the Island. and imploy their times according to their abilities and capacities, and the Negro Slaves are never out of their Bondage, and the Children they get are likewise perpetual slaves.

The Isle is governed by Laws affimilated to those of England, by a Governor as supream, his ten Council as so many Peers, and an hundred Burgesses chosen by the Commonalty out of each parish.

C'Aint Christophers, so called from Christopher Columbus the first Discoverer thereof, situate in the Latitude of seventeen Degrees and twenty five Minutes, in Circuit about feventy five Miles, the Soil light and fandy, produceth Sugar, Cotton, Tobacco and Ginger: The whole Isle is divided into four quarters, two of which are possessed by the English, the other two by the French; the English have two fortified places, one commanding the great Haven, the other distant not far from the Point De Sable. By the Treaty of Breda, the French were to return us St Christophers, which after four years delay was delivered to Sir Charles Wheeler, but my Information tells me, the Plantations were destroyed, and Country laid waste, and left in a much worse condition, than if it had never been planted. However the French have now four strong Forts; that of most note is called Basse, Terre: There are five Churches belonging to the English, at Sanday. Point, at Palm-Tree, one near the great Road, and two at the falet of Cayoun: And the French have a Town of good bigness, whose Houses are well built with Free-stone, well Inhabited and Traded unto, with a fair and large Church and Castle, being the Residence of the Governor, pleasantly seated at the foot of a high Mountain, not far from the Sea, having spatious Courts, delightful Walks and Gardens. with a curious prospect.

Nevis or Mevis, a small Isle, not above eighteen Miles in circuit, near St. Christophers, Inhabited by about three or four thousand English, who live well, and drive a Trade of Sugar, Cotton, Ginger. and Tobacco, a well governed Colony, it hath three Churches for Divine Worship, a Store-house for the accommodations of its Inhabitants; a strong Fort for the security of Ships, in the Road called Bath Bay, from its Bath which are much frequented for the curing

Antego

Antego, seated in the Latitude of fixteen Degrees, eleven Minutes, of a difficult access, and very dangerous for Shipping, it hath some few Springs of Fresh Water, plenty of most fort of Wild Fowl, for Fish great abundance.

Dominica seated in the Latitude of fisteen and a half, of about twelve Leagues in length, and eight in breadth, is very Mountainous, yet not without many fertile Vallies, and might be of some account to the English, would they subdue the Natives, who do much annoy them.

Monsferrant in the Latitude of seventeen Degrees, of small extent, is much inclined to Mountains, filled with Cedar Trees, and the Vallies and Plains are fertile, most inhabited by the Irish, who have there a Church for Divine Worship.

Anguilla in Latitude of eighteen Degrees, twenty one Minutes, an Island but slenderly inhabited, and esteemed not worth the keeping.

Barbada in the Latitude of seventeen and a half, not of any considerable account to the English.

Sancta Crux, inhabited by the French, Woody and Mountainous. Guadaloupe, about three Leagues in length, possessed by the French, of some note for its Fresh Water.

Grenada, about six Miles in length, in form of a Crescent, posses-fed by the French.

Saint Vincent, about fix Leagues in circuit, of a fertile Soil, yielding abundance of Sugar Canes, well watered with Rivers, having fafe and convenient Bays for Shipping, possessed principally by the Dutch. For the English have here some settlement, but not considerabe.

Guracao, Tabago, Saba, and Eustache are also in possession of the Dutch. February 26. 1677. was the account of the taking Tabago by Count d'Estree: The ninth or tenth of December landed sisteen hundred, and attack'd the Fort, opened the Trenches, and raised a Battery, on which were three Mortar Pieces; the third Bomb that was shot in the Fort, set sire to their Magazine of Powder, by which the Vice-Admiral Binches, sisteen Officers, and about three hundred Soldiers were kill'd and the rest surrendred, the Fort was destroyed, two hundred Pieces of Cannon taken, and sour Dutch-men of War in the Port.

Martin possessed by the French and Dutch.

St. Martinique, Desseada, Marigatanta, St. Lucia possessed by the French.

THE Bermuda's are a certain number of small Islands first discovered by one John Bermudas, since called the Summer Islands, from the Shipwrack which Sir George Summers and Sir Thomas Gates suffered Anno 1609. Of these Islands, the greatest, to which the Name of Bermudas is more generally given, is about 5 Leagues long, and 2 Miles broad, all the rest being very small: The whole cluster together do form a Body much like a Crescent, and inclose several good Ports; the chief whereof are the Great Sound, Harrington's Sound, Southampton Harbour, guarded with several Forts, taking their Names from the several Noblemen that were concerned as Undertakers, which are set down in the Map; as also the Names of some of the biggest Islands

Since the English first settled in these Islands, they have now established a powerful Colony, consisting of about 4 or 5000 Inhabitants, who have strongly fortified the Approaches by the aforesaid Forts, which, with the Rocks in the Seas, render them secure and impregnable; so that without knowledge of the Passages, a Boat of 10 Tuns cannot be brought into the Haven; yet by the assistance of a skilful Pilot, there is entrance for Ships of the greatest Burthen.

every year, which they gather in about July and December.

They have no fresh Water but that in Wells and Pits, which ebbs and flows with the Sea, there being neither Fountain nor Stream in these Islands, nor venomous Beasts, neither will they live if brought thither; nor are their Spiders poysonous, but of sundry and various Colours, and in hot Weather make their Webs so strong, that the small Birds are sometimes entangled and caught therein.

The Sky is generally serene and clear, and the Air so temperate and healthy, that 'tis rarely any one dieth of any distemper than that of old Age: So that the Inhabitants enjoy a long and healthy Life.

When the Sky is at any time darken'd with Clouds, it thunders and lightens, and is very stormy and tempessuous: The North and Northwest Winds cause Winter in December, January, and February, which yet is so very moderate, that young Birds, and Fruits, and other concomitants of the Spring, are seen there in those Months.

They have several sorts of excellent Fruits, as Oranges, Dates, Mulberries both white and red; in the Trees whereof breed abundance of Silk-worms, which produce much Silk. There is also plenty of Tortoise, whose Flesh is very delicious. There is good store of Hogs, and great variety of Fowls and Birds. There is also a fort of Cedar-Trees, which differ from all others in the world, the Wood whereof is sweet and well-scented.

Their chief Commodities are Oranges, Cochineil and Tobacco, with some kind of Pearls and Ambergreece; of which last, 'tis reported, that the three men lest there, after the Death of Sir George Summers, found in Somerset Island as much of it as was woth 9 or 10000 Pounds Sterling. And now they keep Dogs for the finding of it out by its scent.

These Isles are now divided into Tribes or Counties, and the whole reduced to a settled Government, both in Church and State and is still improving to greater persection.

Of the LUCAYES.

A E so called from Lucayon the Name of the biggest, which is amongst them. Bahama lends its name to a very rapid Chanel, running from South to North, and is remarkable for the passage of the Spanish Fleets; in their Return from Mexico into Europe. A Passage as satal to the Spaniards by many Shipwracks of their rich laden Plate Ships; as kind to some English Undertakers of late years, who, by Diving get up vast quantities, of that Plate, which for many years have laid close hugg d in her rocky and precipitous embraces. Binini, hardly accessible, is said to have a Fountain that renews Youth, being stored with handsome Women, for whose sake it is much resorted to. Guanahani is that Island, which was discovered by Columbus for which reason he called it St. Salvador, in regard it saved him from the Conspiracy of his Men, who a little before would have thrown him over board.

New Providence, a late erected Colony of the English, by Patent from his Majesty to the Proprietors of Carolina, and is found to produce the same Commodities, Fruits, Plants, Beasts, Fowls, Birds, &c. Of an Air healthful and agreeable to English Bodies, that, since their settlement, sew or none have died of the Distempers or Diseases incident to other Colonies.

THE Indians call this Country Mexico; the Spaniards, New Spain; the Latins, Nova Hispania; a Country abundantly enriched with inexhaustable Mines of Gold and Silver, the Air exceeding Temperate, though seated in the Torrid Zone: Its Soil is so fertile, that no Country in the World seeds so much Cattel.

The Riches of the Country, besides their Gold and Silver, Copper and Iron, are their Grains, as Wheat, Barley, Pulse, and Mayz. Their Fruits as Pomgranets, Oranges, Lemmons, Citrons, Malicatoons, Cherries, Pears, Apples, Figs, Coco-nuts and variety of Herbs, Plants and Roots. There is also Wool, Cotton, Sugar, Silk, Cochenel. From thence is likewise exported the Grains of Scarlet, Feathers, Hony, Balm, Amber, Salt, Tallow, Hides, Tobacco, Ginger, and divers Medicinal Drugs.

of whose leaves they make Pepper, Flax, Thread, Cordage, Girdles, Shoes, Mats, Mantles, Stuffs, &c. Its Bark, if roasted, makes an excellent Plaister for Wounds; from the top branches comes a Gum, which is a Soveraign Antidote against Poison, from the top a juyce like Symp, which if Boil'd, will become Hony; if purified, Sugar; they make out of it also Wine and Vinegar, and it affordeth good Wood to build with.

As also two Mountains, one of which vomits Flames of Fire like Etna; the other sendeth forth two burning Streams, the one of black Pitch, the other of red, to which I may add their fine Pictures made with the Feathers of their Cincons (which is a little Bird living only on dew) so excellently are their Colours placed, that the best Painters of Europe admire the delicacy thereof, far exceeding a piece of Painting.

It was once an Elective Kingdom, full of great Cities, well governed, civilized. Should we, faith Acofta, parallel the Politicks of the Uncas, or Kings of Peru, and Mexico, with those of the Greeks and Romans, these would have the advantage, but the best of these good Laws and Policies were abolished, when the Spaniards became Masters of the Country, dividing it into several Parts or Provinces, viz. New Galicia, Cuadalajara, New Biscay, Mexico, Mechoacan, Panuco, Jucatan, Guatemala, Honduras, Nic ragua, Costarica, Veragua, and others: they have established Parliaments at Mexico, Guadalojara, and Guatemala. Mexico properly so called lying round about the City of Mexico. is the best, and best peopled part of all America; that City suffered a dreadful loss in the year 1629, all the Dams, and most part of the Houses, being carried away by the violence of the Streams, for it is situated upon the salt Lake about twenty five or thirty Leagues in compass; into which falls another Lake of fresh Water, and both together are forty five or fifty Leagues circuit, in which are faid to be fifty thousand Ferries continually rowing about to carry Passengers, having about fifty Towns on their Banks, some say, eighty Towns, many of them count five thousand Houses, some ten thousand. The salt Lake Ebbeth and Floweth according to the Wind, yielding no kind of Fish. In Mexico are said to be four thousand Spaniards, and thirty thousand Indians; it is the Residence of the Vice Roy, and Arch-Bilhop. Before the Spaniards took possession of the Country, there were several considerable places near to Mexico.

The Siege of Mexico lasted about three Months, wherein Cortez had near 200000 Indians, nine hundred Spaniards, eighty Horses, seventeen or eighteen Pieces of Ordinance, sixteen or eighteen Vergantines, and at least six thousand Canou's, where were sain sifty Spaniards fix Horses, and about eight thousand Indians on Cortez side: Of Mexicans were flain 120000, besides those that dyed with Famine and Peftilence.

The Vergentines wherewith Cortez besieged Mexico by Water, were brought by land in pieces from Tlaxcallen to Texcuco, and 400000 Men fifty days employed in the finishing of them, and making a Sluce or Trench, and lanching of them in the Lake.

At that Siege Montezama the Emperor was taken by Cortez out of his own Palace and made Prisoner, which caused the Mexicans to rebel against Cortez and the Spaniards, and fought a fierce and bloody Battle two or three days together, crying out for their Emperor; whereupon Cortez desired him to go to the Window to shew himself, and command his Subjects to cease their fury, who so doing, was hit on the Head with a Stone, with which blow he fell down dead to the Ground, and this was the end of that great Emperor, who was of the greatest Blood, and the greatest King in Estate that ever was in Mexico, flain by his own Subjects against their wills, in the City of his greatest Glory, and in the custody of a foreign and strange Nation.

After the death of Montezuma, they made Quabutamoc their Emperor, and perfifting in their furious Battery against Cortez his Palace, caused him and all his Spaniards to flie out of Mexico: But the Spaniards having made fixteen or eighteen Vergentines at Tlaxcallen, and got new Supplies; they again so besieged Mexico by Water and Land, that it was reduced to great necessity with Hunger and Sickness, and tho' in this extream misery, yet they would not yield, no not when they faw the Kings Houses burned, and the greatest part of their City confumed, fo long as they could keep one Street, Tower or Temple; and though the Spaniards had won the Market-place, and most of the City: And tho' their Houses were full with dead Bodies, and all the Trees and Roots gnawn by these hungry wretches that furvived, yet would they not accept of peace, but defired death; fo that when the Spaniards thought there had not been five thousand in all the City, yet were there that day flain and taken Prisoners 400000 Persons, and Quahutamoc their King taken Prisoner, who told Cortez he had done his best endeavour to save and defend himself and Vassals; but confidering you may now do what you please with me, I befeech you to kill me, which is my only request: But Cortez comforted him with fair words, and required him to command his Subjects to yield, which he did. And at that time after fo many were flain and starved, so many Prisoners taken, yet there were about 700000 who threw down their Arms and submitted, Thus did Cortez win

Chulula, enclosed about twenty thousand Houses, with as many Temples as there are days in the year. And the Inhabitants facrificed every year above fix thousand of their Children to their accursed Idols. Texcuco, was said to be as big as Mexico, which was faid to contain fixty or eighty thousand Houses, and is samous among the Spaniards, for that it was the first that received a Christian King, Hornando son to Nezavalpincintli, Cortez being his God-Fa-Quaretaro had a Fountain out of which the Water floweth for four years together, and the next four years feemed to be empty. Los Angelos, upon the Road from La Vera Cruz, first built and inhabited in the year 1530, by Don Antonio de Mendoza, Vice-Roy of Mexico, famous for the Cloath that is there made, as good as any in Segovia, which is the best in Spain: And a Glass House, which is the rarity in all those parts. It is a City containing fix thousand Inhabitants, to which three belongs a Bishoprick, endowed with sixty thousand Crowns a year.

Guacocinga is the chief Town between the City of Mexico, and Los Angelos confifting of above five thousand Indians and one thousand Spaniards, and is priviledged by the Kings of Spain, for that it joyned with the Tlaxcellans against the Mexicans.

Acapulco, upon the South Sea, is a well sheltered Bay, distant from Mexico one hundred Leagues; from hence the Spaniard drives a rich Trade to the Philippine Isles, and to China, from whence they are distant three thousand Leagues. Jucatan is a Peninsula, between two Gulphs, where stands the Antient Merida.

In Panuco, the Castillians have three Colonies, of which Saint Steven del puetro is the Metropolis, twelve Leagues from the Sea, and a Town of great Traffick; next is Saint fago de los Vallos; thirdly, Lewes de Timpico.

They have Mines of Gold in the Country, which are not wrought; falt-pits, out of which they draw the greatest profit, Machoaian, the Metropolice of the Province, so called, now the seat of the Areh-Bishop, since removed from Valadolid, seated upon a Lake as large as that of Mexico. This Country is said to be so healthful and of so sweet an Air, that sick People come thither to recover their health.

Near Colima, is four d the Plant Cozometeath or Oleacazan, which takes blood-shot from the Eyes, preserves the strength of the Body, cures the Tooth and Head ach, resists all poisons, and is most excellent against all Diseases.

This Province is of a fertile Soil, yielding great encrease of all forts of Grain, Fruits, &c. It produceth Cotton, Amber-Greece, Gold, Silver, Copper, black Stones so Shining, that they serve instead of Looking-Glasses, store of Plants, Medicinal Herbs, Silk, Hony, Wax, &c. It is well stored with Springs and Rivers of fresh Water, Cattle and Fowl and in great plenty, and other Lakes, and Rivers afford store of Fish.

Thascala or Los Angelos, is a Country very plentiful, both of Corn and Cattle, full of rich Pastures, well watered with Rivers, and wonderfully stored with Maize, which they make their Bread of.

Places of most note are, first Thascala, situate on an easie ascent betwint two Rivers, encompassed with a large, pleasant and fruitful plain, said to be so populous before the arrival of the Spaniards, that it could number above three hundred thousand Inhabitants: Second, Angelos, a fair City distant from Mexico twenty two Leagues, and thirty from La-Vera Cruz: Thirdly, La-Vera Cruz, built by the Cortez, a place of great concourse situate neartheGulph, from whence there is a throughfair to Mexico, from whence it is distant about sifty two Leagues. In May 83. about nine hundred or a thousand Privateers at Night landed and through the negligence of the Spanish Centinels, surprised the Town and two Forts, the one of the Twelve, the other of eight Guns, They plundered the Town for three days, where they got a great deal of Plate, Jewels, &c. and might have also taken the Castle, which is seated about three quarters of a Mile into the Sea, and hath thirty Guns mounted.

Saint John de Ulloa, or Ulloua, the most noted Port of this Province, fenced with a Peer against the sury of the Winds and Sea, defended Naturally by Rocks and Quick-sands, and by two Bulworks well fortisted on both sides of his entrance. Famous, for that it was the first beginning of that great Conquest of the Valiant Cortez: Here he first sunk the Ships that brought the Spaniards from Cuba, to the intent they might think of nothing but Conquest, and here sive hundred Spaniards ventured, against millions of Enemies, and began the Conquest of the fourth part of the World!

Xalappa de la Vera Cruz, made a Bishops See in the year 1624, faid to be worth ten thousand Ducates a year.

La Ricenada is a House or Inn, which the Spaniards call Venla, feated in a low Valley, the hottest place in all the Road to Mexico, plentiful in Provisions, and the sweetness and coolness of the Water is a great refreshment, but the swarms, of Gnats in the Night are most intolerable.

Segura de la Frontera was built by Cortez in his Wars with the Culbuacans and Tepeacaes.

Tlaxcallan, a Common-wealth: The Inhabitants whereof in one Battle against Cortez had 150000 fighting Men, afterwards joined with Cortez, and were the chief Instruments of his unparelle!'d Conquest, being mortal Enemies to Montezuma the Mexican Emperour, and therefore are free from Tribute by the Kings of Spain.

Nixapa is a Town of eight hundred Inhabitants Spaniards and Indians, where is a rich Cloifter of Dominican Fryers, and one of the richest places in the Country of Braxuca.

Tecoantepeque is a small and unfortified Harbor on Mar del Zur. Aguatulco and Capalita are great Towns in a plain Country.

Tapanepeque is a sweet and pleasant Town well stored with Flesh, and Fish, and Fowl.

In this Province are faid to be two hundred Towns, one thousand Villages, twenty five thousand Indians, which are priviledged and exempted from all extraordinary Charge and Imposition, because of their affishing Cortez in his Conquest of Mexico. In the Valley of St. Paul was a Country Man possessed of forty thousand Sheep, which were the product of two only, which were brought him out of Spain.

Guaxaca is a Province of a healthful and a fweet Air, of a fertile Soil, not only in Corn, but also in Fruit, Cochineil, Silk, Cassia; the Earth well stored with Mines of Gold, Silver, and other Metals, and most of the Rivers stream down Sand-Gold.

Its chief places are Antequera, a Bishoprick adorned with stately Buildings and a Magnisscent Cathedral Church. Aquatuleo is a noted and convenient Port to Mar del Zur, from whence is transported the Merchandisc of Mexico to Peru, plundered both by Drake and Cavendish in their Voyages about the World.

Gage tells us, that Guaxaca is a City and Bishops Seat, fair and beautiful, fixty Leagues from Mexico, and consists of two thousand Inhabitants, not far from the head of the great River Alvarado, upon which are Zapotecas and St. Idlesonso: That from thence they went to Antequera a great Town.

Tavasco or Tabasco, is a Coast of one hundred Leagues between Guaxacan and Jucatan, of an excellent Soil, abundant in Maiz, and Cacao. There are Vines, Fig-trees, Oranges and Citrons, great quantity of Cattle and Fowl, besides wild Beasts, Apes and Squirrels. The Spaniards have but one Colony here, which is called Newstra a Signiora de la Victoria, so called from the Victory Cortex gained 1509.. The first City in America, that defended it self, and suffered the Spaniniards sword.

Fucatani

Jucatan is a Peninsula of about sour hundred Leagues in compass, situate between the Gulph of Mexico and Honduras, whose Cape Catoche is opposite to Cape Saint Anthony in the Island Cuba, and distant from it forty odd Leagues. In the middle of the Land are to be seen Scales and Shells of Sea Fish; its chief Cities are Meridia, distant from the Sea on either side twelve Leagues, the Seat of the Bishop and Governor, adorned with great and antient Edifices of Stone, with many Figures of Men cut in the Stones, resembling those at Meridia in Spain. 2. Valladolid, beautissed with a fair Monastery of Franciscans. 3. Campeach, situate on the Shore of the Gulph, a fair City of about three thousand Houses, which in Anno 1596. was surprised and pillaged by the English, under the command of Captain Parker, who carried away the Governor, and the Riches of the City.

The Audience of Guadalajara, or Kingdom of New Galicia, makes the most occident part of New Spain, and contains the Provinces of Guadalajara, Xalisco, Los Zacatecas, Chiamettlan. Culiacan, and New Biscany.

The Air of Guadalajara is temperate and ferene, except in Summer, which is most troubled with Rain. The Land rather mountainous than plain, very fruitful, well furnished with Mines of Silver, Copper, Lead and Margasites; the Pastures are rich, feeding abundance of Cattle, they have Cittrons, Oranges, Figs, Apples, Pears, Peaches, Olive-trees, whose Fruit is often destroyed by Ants, as their Corn, Maize and Pulse is by the Pies, which, though no bigger than Sparrows, are so numerous that they destroy whole Crops.

Its Cities are Guadalajara, the Residence of the Kings Treasure, dignissied with the Courts of Judicature, the See of a Bishop, beautissed with a fair Cathedral Church, watered with many Fountains, and little Torrents not far from the River Beranja.

In the Province of Xalisco, the chief City is Compostella, built by Guzman, 1551. situate in a Barren Country, and bad Air.

In the Province of Chiamettlan is Saint Sebastian, nigh to which are many rich Silver Mines.

The Province of Culiacon hath Saint Michael, and that of Chinaloa

Saint John, where are rich Mines of Silver.

In Los Zicatecas, are several samous Lodges near the Mines, and some Cities, as Zacatecas, Durango, &c. In new Biscany there are no Cities, but only Mines of Silver, as Saint John, Barbara and Endes.

The Audience of Guatemala, is divided into these Provinces, Guatemala, Soconusco, Chiapa, Vera-paz, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costarica, and Veragua.

Guatetarica,

timala

Guatimala is a Country hot, but rich, subject to Earthquakes, and hath excellent Balms, Amber, Bezoar, and Salt, and Indigo.

Full of rich Pastures, stocked with Cattle, plenty of Cotton Wool, excellent Sulphur, store of Medicinal Drugs, and abundance of Fruit, especially Cacoa, in vast plenty, that it lades many Vessels which ferves both for Meat and Drink.

Chief Cities are Saint Jago de Gautimala, Situate on a little River betwixt two Vulcano's, one of Water, the other of Fire; that of Water is higher than the other, and yields a pleasant Prospect, being almost all the year green, and full of Indian Wheat, and the Gardens adorned with Roses, Lillies, and other Flowers all the year, and with many forts of sweet and delicate Fruit. The other Vulcan of Fire is more unpleasant, and more dreadful to behold; here are Ashes for beauty, Stones and Flints for Fruits and Flowers, for Water Whispering and Fountain-Murmurs, noise of Thunder, and roaring of confuming Metals; for fweet and odoriferous Smells, a stink of Fire and Brimstone. Thus is Gautimala seated between a Paradise and Hell; other chief Towns are Mexico, Pinola, Petapa, and Amartitlan. The Residence of the Governor, the Seat of the Bishop, and Court of Audience. In 1541. it was almost overwhelmed by a Deluge of boiling Water, which descended from that Vulcano, which is near it, out of which it cast Fire in abundance.

Soconufco hath only the little City Guevetland, on the Coast nothing of particular or worth to be noted in it.

Chiapa is not very fruitful in Corn, or Fruits, but well stocked with losty Trees, some yielding Rosin, other precious Gums, and others Leaves, that, when dried to Powder, make a Soveraign Plaister for sores. 'Tis full of Snakes and other venemous Creatures.

Chiapa exceedeth most Provinces of America in fair Towns, 'tis divided into three parts, viz, Zeldales, and Zeques.

Chief places are Chiapa Real and Cheape de Indies, twelve Leagues from the first upon the River Grejavalva. St. Bartholomews, at the soot of the Cuchumatlanes Mountains, Capanabastla noted for its Cotton Wool.

Near Chiapa are feveral Fountains which are strange; near Acasula is a Well, whose Water is observed to rise and fall according to the slowing and Ebbing of the Sea, though far from it, near St. Bartholomews is a Pit, into which, if one cast a Stone, though never so small, it makes a noise as great and terrible as a Clap of Thursdon.

Thunder;

Thunder; another Fountain, that for three years together increafeth, though there be no Rain, and for three years after diminisheth, though there be never fo much; another that falls in rainy weather, and rifes in dry; another that kills Birds and Beasts that drink it, yet cures the Sick.

The entrance into Golfe Dulce is streightned with two Rocks or Mountains on each side, but within a fine Road and Harbor, wide and capacious to fecure a thousand Ships.

Honduras, or Comayagua, is a Country of pleasant Hills and fruitfull Vallies, hath Fruits, Grains, rich Pastures, brave Rivers, and Mines of Gold and Silver, but its greatest profits is Wool. Its chief places are Valladolid, equally distant between the two Seas, situate in a pleasant fruitful Valley, 2. Gratias a Dios, near the rich Mines of Gold. 2. Saint Juan del Porto de los Cavallos, once a samous Port.

4. Truxillo, both pillaged by the English.

Nicaragua called Mahomets Paradife, by reason of its sertility and store of Gold, a Country destitute of Rivers, the want whereof is supplied by a great Lake, which Ebbs and Flows like the Sea; upon its Banks are seated many pleasant Cities and Villages, the chief is Leon near unto a Vulcano of Fire, where a Fryer, seeking for Treasure, met with the end of his design, and of his Life, the Residence of the Governor, and Seat of a Bishop. Granada beautisted with a sair Church and Castle. Jaen, Sogovia, and Realejo; near Mar del Zur.

The City Granada is one of the most richest places in the India's. The passage of the Lake Grenada, or Nicaragua, called El Desa-guadera is very dangerous.

Costarica, and Veragua, are the two most Eastern Provinces of the Audience of Guatimala, in the first, are the Cities of Cartago, seated between the two Seas, in the other, La Conception, La Trinadad, and Sancta Fe, being the place where the Spaniards melt, refine, and cast their Gold into Bars and Ingots.

WEst of Florida, and North of New Spain, there are numerous Inhabitants, and various Provinces and Countries little known by the Europeans, which I call in general New Mexico; others comprehend them under the name of New Granada, however there have been observed divers people very different in their Languages, Manners and Customs, some having fixed and settled Habitations, others wandring after their Flocks, some dwelling in Cities or Towns, others in Herds or Troops like the Tartars. This Country was first made known to the Spaniards by the Travels of Fryer Marco de Nisa, inflamed by whose reports Vasquee, di Coronado, in the year 1540, undertook the further discovery thereof, where not finding what they looked for, Gold and Silver, hungry honour yielding but poor subsistance, the further search of these Countries was quite laid aside, almost as little known now as before, New Mexico, California, Anian, Quiviria, and Libola, are the principal parts of it; St. Fe or St. Foy is the principal City, distant from the Old Mexico, above five hundred Leagues, being the Residence of the Spanish Governor, where they have a Garison and Silver Mines.

California, once esteemed a Peninsula, now thought to be an Island, extending in length from the twenty second Degree of Northern Latitude to the forty second, but the breadth narrow, the Northern Point called Cape Blanco, of which there is little memorable; the most Southern called Cape St. Lucas, remarkable for the great Prize there taken from the Spaniards by Captain Cavendish, in his Circumnavigation of the World, Anno 1587.

Where is also Nova Albion, discovered by Sir Francis Drake, Anno 1577, and by him so named in Honour of his own Country, once called Albion, who caused a Pillar to be erected in the Place, on which he fastened the Arms of England.

Opposite to Cape Blanco, and the utmost North parts of Americalies the supposed Kingdom of Anian, from whence the Streights of Anian, which are by some thought to part Asia and America, do derive their name.

The Riches of Quiviria confift in their Oxen, whose Flesh is the ordinary Food of the Inhabitants, their Skins serve them for cloathing, their Hair for Thred, of their Nexves and Sinews they make Cords and Bow-strings; of their Bones, they make Nails and Bodkins; of their Horns Trumpets; of their Bladders Vessels to keep Water in, and their Dung when dried serve for Fire.

In Cibola, Granada, Acoma, and some other Places the Natives live in Foretresses upon the Mountains with Palisadoes and Moats, calling their Villages by the names of their Cacicks, which last no longer.

than their Lives, therefore to us uncertain.

The River of Nort, which in all other Maps is made to fall into Mar del Vermejo, or Mar del California, falls with three Mouths into the Mexican Gulph.

Florida,

Lorida was first discovered by the English, under the Conduct of Sebastian Cabot, 1479. Atterwards, farther searched into by John Depony a Spaniard, who took possession of it in the name of that King, 1527, by him called Florida: Its Coast is on the Gulph of Mexico, which slows on its South; it extends it self now from the River Palmas, which bounds it on the Province of Panuco, in New Spain, unto Bay Saint Matheo, or Mar del Nors between this Gulph and the Sea.

Forida firetches out a Peninsula towards the South, where the Cape of Florida is not distant from the Island Cuba, above thirty five or forty Leagues. Others only give the name of Florida to the Peninsula F f f f 2 of Tegeste, which advances to the South, and contributes to form the Great Gulph of Mexice, and the Chanel of Bahama. The Air of Florida and Carolina is so temperate, that Men live to the Age of two hundred and fifty years, while the Children of five Generations are all alive at the same time. The Soil is very fertile, sull of Eruit-Trees, and the Towns the best peopled in all America. The Principal River is that of the Holy Ghost, which falls into the Gulph of Mexico. The Coast is very inconvenient for great Vessels, by reason of the shallowness of the Water. The Inland Country is possessed by the Savages, under the Jurisdiction of Paroustis, who are their Lords. They are of an Olive Colour, great Statue, well proportioned, their Hair black and long, their Women of good shape and handsome, they adore the Sun, and the Moon, and though they make War one with another, nevertheless the Europeans cannot master them.

They have publick places, where they meet for the diffribution of Corn, which they give to every Family that stand in need of it. Spaniards have possessed the Coast of Saint Austins, and Saint Mathews, two inconsiderable Colonies, though there be a Castle belonging to each of them. Saint Austin is of most Consequence, by reason of the Bahama, through which the Spanish Fleets usually pass. when they return from Havana into Europe. The Situation of this Country may be feen in the Map; containing all those Lakes and Rivers of Canada, as they have of late years been discovered by the French and English, I had long waited for a new Description of the Country, and of those vast Inland Seas and Rivers, so advantageously situated for Trade and Commerce that it must needs be one of the finest Plantations in the World. But at present, the Proprietors, and those that are concerned, are not willing to publish any thing of it, and therefore I must be filent. Since the writing of this one Father. Henepin hath published a large Description of this part of the World.

Arolina about the year 1660. was by his Majesty, the King of Great Britain, &c. united to his Imperial Crown, and he by his Royal Grant established it a Province or Proprietorship dignisted it a Principality, and granted it by Patent to the Lord Chancellor Clarendon, to the Lord Duke of Albemarle, to the Earl of Craven, to the Lord Ashley Cooper Earl of Shaftsbury, to John Lord Barkley, to Sir William Barkley, and to Sir John Colliton Knt. and Baronet, and to their Heirs and Successors, &c.

It contains that part of the Continent of America, which by the French was called Florida from her florid and fragrant Fields, verdant. Meadows, delightful Savana's, guarded with stately. Woods. It extends it self from the River St. Matheo to Carana, an Inlet near Virginia.

In this large Tract of Land are many Navigable Rivers, the chief whereof are Albemarle River, Naratoke River, Pentego River, Neuse or Nus River, Clarendon River, Water River, Craven or Santee River, Ashley River, Cooper River, Stono River, Edisto River, Colleton River, Cambabe and Westro River, May and Matheo River, many safe, commodious and spacious Harbors, and for lesser Rivers and Brooks, it hath innumerable.

It contains two principal settlements, the one called Albemarle, otherwise Roanoke situated in about thirty five Degrees of Northern Latitude, from whence as good Beef and Pork have been stored, and sent to other Plantations as Art and Industry can Improve, 'tis a large and spacious settlement, consisting at present of some two or three hundred upon a fertile Soil. But the late and slourishing Plantation or Settlement lies more Southerly upon the Navigable Rivers of Ashley and Cooper, known to the Natives by the Names of Wando and Kiawah.

Carolina is of a fertile and fruitful Soil, where the Natives are strong, lively, and well shapen People, well humor'd, and generally kind to the English. They live a long and pleasant life, taking little care for the suture. Their old Women plant their Mays: And for the rest, the River affords them good Fish enough. And in the Wood, they have plenty of Provisions. Its chief place is Charles Town.

Neither is the heat fo fultry nor offensive as in places of the same Latitude of the old World; nor is the Winter so pinching: Yet enough to correct the humors of Mens Bodies, to strengthen and preserve them in health; and enough also to put such a stop to the Rise and Sap and the budding of Plants, as to make them Bud and Blossom in their distinct Seasons, and keep even pace till they be gathered. Which makes it also proper for Wine and Oyl; of both which they may in time have good quantities.

Liberty of Conscience is there allowed also; but Atheism, Irreligion and vitious Lives are condemned. The English Proprietors have a Register of all Grants and Conveyances of Land to prevent Suits and Controversies. And in sum, their frame of Government is generally so well put together, that judicious Men that have seen it, say, it's the best for the People that live under it of any they have read.

To conclude, here the Savana's are crowded with Deer, large and stately Herds of Cattle parol the Meadows. Here the pleasant Pastures abound with Sheep and Oxen, the Fields are replenished with English and Indian Corn. The Gardens, as in Asia and Europe, are imbelished with the choicest Fruits and Flowers: Here the Heavens shine with a Soveraign Ray of Health, a serene Air and a losty Sky defends it from the noxious Insections, and common Distempers that are incident to other parts of the World. In a word, 'tis a salubrious Air to the Sick, a generous retirement and shelter to the injured and oppressed. 'Tis a Fund and Treasury to them that would be Rich.

This design was after seconded by Mr. Hare, bringing thence certain of the said Petit-Kings, who did homage to King Henry the Eight.

Rediscovered by the Direction, and at the charge of Sir Walter Rawleigh Anno 1584; who sending Mr. Philip Amadas, and Mr. Arthur Barlow, did take possession thereof in Queen Elizabeth's name; in honor of whom, he caused all the said Tract of Land to be called Virginia.

Some fay, it was so called by the Queen her self, by the Natives called Apalchen, but Virginia is now circumscribed by that space of Land that lies between Mary-Land, which bounds it on the North, and Carolina on the South. New-England, New-York, New-Fersey, Mary-Land, Carolina and Pensilvania, have since been seperated from it by particular Patents, and made distinct Provinces of themselves.

The entrance by Sea into this Country, is by the Mouth of the Bay of Chesapeac, between Cape Henry and Cape Charles.

The chief Rivers of Virginia are, 1. Powhatan, now called James River, on the West side of the mouth of the Bay of Chesapeac; this River is at its entrance about three Miles wide, and Navigable about one hundred and fifty Miles. 2. Pamaunkee, termed York River, sourteen Miles Northward from James River, Navigable now sixty or seventy Miles, but with small Vessels about thirty or forty Miles sarther. 3. Rappahanoc, anciently known by the name of Toppahanoc, Navigable about one hundred and thirty Miles. Besides these Navigable and more principal Rivers, there are other smaller Rivers, and of less note, which sall into some, or other of the sorementioned: Into Pawhattan salls Apumatuc Southward; Eastward Quyanycahanuc, Nunsamund and Chesapeac; Northward Chickamahania. Into Pamaunkee sall Poyankatank.

That part of the Country now planted by the English, is divided into Nineteen Counties, viz. On the Eastern Shore, the Country of Northampton in Acomack; on the Western Shorethe Countries of Caratuck, Lower-Norfolk, Nansemund, Isle of Wight, Surry, Warwick, Henrico, James, Charles, York, New Kent, Glocester, Middlesex, Lancaster, Northumberland, Westmoreland, Rappahanock, and Hartford. Of the sew Towns hitherto erected in this Colony, the chief is James Town, the principal seat of the English, and so denominated from, and in honor of King James of Great Britain. This Town is situated in a Peninsula, on the North-side of James River, and hath in it many fair Houses, whereof some are of Brick; and at a little distance from the City is a fair Brick House called Green Spring, where the present Governor himself usually resides. The other English Towns of most considerable note are only three, viz. Henricopolis, or Henry's Town, situated about eighty Miles from James's City, farther within Land; Dales Gift, so named, from Sir Thomas Dale, Deputy-Governour, in the year 1610, at whose charges it was built and planted; and Elizabeth's City, containing several good Houses of Brick and Stone, and lying on the same side of the River with James's City, only nearer the mouth of the River.

Though English, and other Forreign Coyns are not wholly wanting here upon several occasions, yet the usual way of Trafick, is, by exchange of one commodity for another; but the general Standard, by which all other Commodities receive their Value, is Tobacco; which of all other Commodities this Country is capable of producing, hath been hitherto the Subject of the Planters Industry, of which there are two forts, one called Sweet-Scented, the other called Oranoac, which fignifies as much as bright and large; the first is of the greatest price. the other more in quantity. The Plantations that are judg'd to produce the best fort of Sweet-Scented, are upon York River: Of this Commodity of Tobacco, there is, so great a quantity planted in Virginia, and imported from thence into England, that the Custom and excise paid for it in England, yeilds the King about 50000 or 60000 Pound Sterling yearly; for there are bound hither every year above one hundred and fifty Sail of Ships from England, and other English Plantations, merely for the taking off of this Commodity, which they barter for Clothing, Houshold-Stuff, and all manner of Utenfils. and the only thing which lessons the value of it, is the great quantity that is planted of it, which if it were in less abundance, it would be of much more esteem, and yeild far greater profit.

The Government of Virginia is by a Governour and Council, deputed and authorized from time to time by the King of Great Britain; the Legislative Power being in the Governour, and a General Assembly which he calls to advise with; and which consists of two Houses, the upper House which is the council it self, and the lower which consists of chosen Burgesses.

The chief Court of Judicature, where all Civil and Criminal Caufes are heard and determined, and where the Governour and Council are Judges, is called the Quarter-Court, as being held every quarter of a year. There are also Inseriour Courts which are kept every Month in each of the forementioned Counties, where matters not of the highest moment, that is to say, not relating to Life or Member, or exceeding a certain limited value are tried, and from whence in such Cases Appeals are made to the Quarter Courts. There are likewise appointed by the Governour, for the better administration of Justice in every respective Country, Sheriffs, Justices of Peace, and other Officers, of whom being deputed by the Governour to fit there, these Country-Courts chiefly confifts.

The Climate of Virginia is generally healthful, and fince the rectification of Diet and Lodging, not disagreeable to English Bodies; however at the first Plantation they were subject to a Distemper called a Seasoning, though of late not frequent, and much less mortal.

A Description of Mary-Land.

Ary-Land is a large and fertile Province lying between thirty eight Degrees, and forty Degrees of North Latitude upon both fides of Cheasapeak Bay, which is Navigable near two hundred Miles. The Southerly Banks of the River Patow-meck divide it from Virginia on the South. The Atlantick Ocean and Delaware Bay bounds it on the East, Pensivania on the North, and the Meridian of the first Fountain of the River Patow-meck on the West.

This Province of Mary-land, his Majesty King Charles the First, Anno 1632, granted by Patent to the Right Honourable Cæcilius Cal-wert, Lord Baltemore, and to his Heirs and Assigns, and by that Patent created him, and them the true and absolute Lords, and Proprietors of the same (saving the Allegiance and Sovereign Dominion due to his Majesty, his Heirs and Successors;) likewise granting thereby to them all Royal Jurisdictions and Prerogatives, both Military and Civil; as Power of enacting Laws, making of War and Peace, pardoning Offences, conferring of Honours, Coyning of Money, order, and in acknowledgment thereof yeilding and paying yearly to his Majesty, his Heirs and Successors two Indian Arrows at Windsor Castle, on Easter Tuesday, together with the fifth part of all the Gold and Silver Ore that shall be there found.

The Rivers of Mary-Land are Patonomeck, Paturent, Ann Arundel, alias Severa, Safauefahanough, Choptanke, Nantecoke, Pocomoke, with feveral other lesser Rivers and Rivulets, to the great Improvement of the Country, and Beauty of the Province, which is now very healthful and agreeable to the Constitutions of the English. And such is the temperature of the Air, that the Heats in Summer are so allayed by gentle Breezes, and fresh Showers of Rain, and the Cold in Winter is so small and short, that the Inhabitants are not incom-

The Country is generally plain and even, yet not without its small and pleasant Hills, which heighten the Beauty of the adjacent Valies. The Soil rich and sertile, naturally producing all such Commodities as are found in New England or Vinginia, or in any other part of this Continent.

The Government of Mary Land is by his Lordships Care and prudence brought to a good Order and Settlement, and framed much after the Model of the Government in England. Upon Emergent Occasions, his Lordships Governour there adviseth with the two Estates of the Province, which consist of an upper and lower House, and is called a General Assembly; the upper House consists of the Governor and Council, and such Lords of Mannors, and others, as his Lordship or his Lieutenant shall by Writ from time to time call thither; and the lower House consists of Delegates, chosen by the Inhabitants in the respective Counties in the said province; which Assembly his Lordship, or his Lieutenant, Convenes, Prorogues, or Dissolves at pleasure; and whatsoever is Decreed or Enacted by this Assembly, with his Lordships assent, is of the same Force there as an Act of Parliament is in England, and cannot pass or be repealed without the concurring assent of his Lorpship, with the other two Estates.

Next to this Legislative Council, is the Provincial Court, which is held every quarter of a year at St. Maries City; this is the chief Court of Judicature, where the most important Judicial Causes are tried; of which, in the absence of the Lord Proprietary; the Lieutenant, or Governor, and Council are Judges; and this is for the whole Province; but for each particular County (for a great part of the province where any English Men are seated, is divided into ten Counties) there are other inferior Courts which are held six times of the year, in each of these Counties, for the Trial of Causes not relating to life and exceeding the value of three thousand weight of Tobacco; with Appeals from them to the Provincial Court.

Of the can Counties, five lie on West side of the Bay of Cheasapeack, (viz) St. Maries, Charles, Calveat, Ann Arandel, and Baltimore Counties; the other five on the Eastern Shore, (viz) Somerset, Dorcester, Taibot, Cecil, and Kent, Counties; in some of which there are several Towns built, as Calverton, Harrington, and HarvyTown; on the East side of St. George's River, is St. Maries City, the Original and chief Town of this Province, where the Gemeral Assemblies meet, and the Provincial Courts are kept, and alsional Secreteries Office, it being erected into the Priviledge of a City, by the name of St. Maries, which gives denomination to that County. The Ground plat of a Fort and Prison was long since laid here, upon a Point of land termed Windmill-Point, (from a Windmill which formerly stood there) being a very proper situation for the commanding of St. George's River; this Fort will make a secure Harbor for Ships to ride in from all danger of Hostile and Piratical Invasions.

Besides the House which belongs to the Governour there, by the name of St. Johns in this City, the present Governor, Mr. Charles Calvert, his Lorpships Son and Heir, hath of late years built him a wery fair House partly of Brick, partly of Timber, where he and his Family usually reside, about eight Miles from St. Maries at Mattapany.

The Natives of this Country are generally well proportioned; and able-bodied Men, delighter objects in Hunting, being generally excellent Marks-Men, while ... Vomen not only manage their Domeflick Affairs, but also Tillage, Plantation, and all manner of improvement of their Land.

To conclude; the Impeopling and Trade of this province, by the vast Expence, Care and Industry of the Lord Proprietary, hath been improved to that height, that in the year 1670, there were reckoned near twenty thousand English planted there.

And that which keeps them together in the greatest Peace, Order, and Concord imaginable, is the Liberty of Conscience, which his Lordship in prudence allows to all Persons that profess Christianity, though of different persuasions, so that every Man lives quietly and securely with his Neighbour, neither molesting, nor being molested for difference of Judgment in Religion; which Liberty is established there by an Act of Assembly, with his Lordships consent to continue for ever.

For .

II. The Air is sweet and clear, the Heavens serene, like the Southparts of France, rarely overcast; and as the Woods come by numbers of People to be more cleared, that it self will Refine.

III. The Waters are generally good, for the Rivers and Brooks have mostly Gravel and Stony Bottoms, and in Number hardly credible. We have also Mineral Waters, that operate in the same manner with Barnet and North-Hall, not two Miles from Philadelphia.

IV. For the Seasons of the Year. First, of the Fall, I found it from the 24th of October, to the beginning of December, as we have it usually in England in September, or rather like an English mild Spring. From December to the beginning of the Month called March, we had sharp frosty Weather; not foul, thick, black Weather, as our North-East Winds bring with them in England; but a Skie as clear as in Summer, and the Air dry, cold, piercing and hungry. The reason of this Cold is given from the great Lakes that are fed by the Fountains of Canada. The Winter before was as mild, scarce any Ice at all: while this for a few Days Froze up our great River Delaware. From that Month to the Month called June, we enjoyed a fweet Spring, no Gusts, but Gentle Showers, and a fine Skie. From thence to this present Month, which ended Summer, (commonly speaking) we have had extraordinary Heats, yet mitigated fometimes by cool Breezes. And whatever Mists, Fogs or Vapors foul the Heavens by Easterly or Southerly Winds, in two hours time are blown away by the North-West; the one is always followed by the other; A Remedy that seems to have peculiar Providence in it to the Inhabitants.

V. The natural produce of the Country, of Vegetables, are Trees, Fruits, Plants, Flowers. The Trees of most note are, the Black-Walnut, Cedar, Cyprus, Chesnut, Poplar, Gumwood, Hickery, Sassafrax, Ash, Beech and Oak of divers forts, as Red, White and Black; Spanish Chesnut and Swamp, the most durable, of all which there is plenty for the use of Man.

The Fruits that I find in the Woods are the White and Black Mulberry, Chefnut, Walnut, Plums, Strawberries, Cranberries, Hurtleberries and Grapes of divers forts. The great red Grape is in it felf an extraordinary Grape, and by Art doubtlefs may be cultivated to an excellent Wine, if not fo fweet, yet little inferiour to the Frontiniack, as it is not much unlike in taft. There is a white kind of Muskadel, and a little Black Grape, like the Cluster-Grape of England, not yet fo ripe as the other; but they tell me, when ripe, sweeter, and that they only want skilful Finerous to make good use of them. Here are also Peaches, and very good, and in great quantities, not an Indian plantation without them; but whether naturally here at first, I know not, however, one may have them by Bushels for little, they make a pleasant Drink, and I think not inferior to any Peach you have in England, except the true Newington. -

VI. The Artificial produce of this Country, is Wheat, Barley, Oats, Rye, Peafe, Beans, Squashes, Pumpkins, Water-Melons, Musk-Melons, and all Herbs and Roots that our Gardens in England usually bring forth.

VII. Of living Creatures; Fifth Fowl, and the Beafts of the Woods here are diversforts, some for Food and Profit, and some for Profit only.

VIII. We have no want of Horses, and some are very good and shapely enough; two Ships have been freighted to Barbadoes with Horses and Pipe-staves, since my coming in. Here is also plenty of Cow-Cattle, and fome Sheep; the People plow mostly with Oxen.

IX. There are divers Plants, that only not the Indians tell us, but we have had occasion to prove by Swellings, Burnings, Cuts, &c. that they are of great Virtue, fuddenly curing the Patient: And for fmell, I have observed several, especially one, the wild Mirtle; the other I know not what to call, but are most fragrant.

X. The woods are adorned with lovely Flowers, for Colour, Greatness, Figure and Variety: I have seen the Gardens of London best stored with that fort of Beauty, but think they may be improved by our Woods.

XI. The first Planters in these Parts were the Dutch, and soon after them the Sweeds and Finns. The Dutch applied themselves to Traffick, the Sweeds and Finns to Husbandry.

XII. The Dutch inhabit mostly those parts of the Province that lie upon or near to the Bay, and the Sweeds the Freshes of the River Delaware. As they are People proper and firing of Body, fo they have fine Children, and almost every House full; rare to find one of them without three or four Boys, and as many Girls; some fix seven and eight Sons: And I must do them that right, I see tew young Men more fober and laborious.

XIII. The Dutch have a Meeting place for Religious Worship at New Castle; and the Sweeds three, one at Christiana, one at Tenecum, and one at Wicoco, within half a Mile of this Town.

XIV. The Country lyeth bounded on the East, by the River and Bay of Delaware, and Eastern Sea; it hath the advantage of many Creeks or Rivers rather, that run into the main River or Bay; some Navigable for great Ships, some for small Crast; Those of most Eminency are Christiana, Brandywine, Skillpot, and Skulkhill; any one of which have room to lay up the Royal Navy of England, there being from four to eight Fathom Water.

XV. The lesser Creeks or Rivers, yet convenient for Sloops and Ketches of good burthen, are Lewis, Mesphilion, Cedar, Dover, Cranbrook, Feversham, and Georges below, and Chichester, Chester, Toacawny. Pemmapecka, Portquessin, Neshimenek and Penberry in the Freshes: many lesser that admit Boats and Shallops. Our People are most settled upon the upper Rivers, which are pleasant and sweet, and generally bounded with good Land. The planted part of the Province and Territories is cast into six Counties, Philadelphia, Buckingham, Chester, New Castle, Kent, and Sussex, containing about sour thousand Souls. Two General Assemblies have been held, and with such Concord and Dispatch, that they sate but three Weeks, and at least seventy Laws were past without one Dissent in any material thing. And for the well Government of the said Counties, Courts of Justice are establisht in every County, with proper Officers, as Justices, Sheriffs, Clarks, Constables, &c. which Courts are held every two Months: But to prevent Law Suits, there are three Peace-makers chosen by each County-Court, in the nature of Common Arbitrators, to hear differences between man and man; and Spring and Fall there is an Orphans Court in each County, to inspect and regulate the Assairs of Orphans and widows.

XVI. Philadelphia, the expectation of those that are concerned in this Province, is at last laid out to the great content of those here that are any ways interested therein: The Situation is a Neck of Land, and lyeth between two Navigable Rivers, Delaware and Skulkill whereby it hath two Fronts upon the Water, each a Mile, and two from River to River. Delaware is a glorious River, but the Skulkill being an hundred Miles Boatable above the Falls, and its course North-East toward the Fountain of Susquabannab (that tends to the heart of the Province, and both sides our own) it is like to be a great part of the sertlement of this Age. But this I will say for the good Providence of God, that of all the many Places I have seen in the World, I remember not one better seated; so that it seems to me to have been appointed for a Town, whether we regard the Rivers, or the conveniency of the Caves; Docks, Springs, the lostiness and soundness of the Land andthe Air, held by the People of these Parts to be very good.

Of West New Jarsey.

THIS Province of West farsey, with that called East farsey, among other Tracts of Lands and Territories, was granted by the late King to the present King James the Second, (when Duke of York) and to his Heirs and Assigns for ever; who granted the whole-Premises entire unto John Lord Berkley, and Sir George Carteret to be holden in common. And the Lord Berkley being minded to dispose of his Moiety or half part, Edward Bylynge bought the same of him. Whereupon that each Party might hold their Country in severalty, it was mutually agreed by Sir George Carteret and the faid Edward Byllynge, that a partition should be made thereof: the which was accordingly done by Deed interchangeable enroll'd; which partition begins on the West side of a certain place upon the South Sea, call'd by the Name of Little Eag Harbor, and which runs from thence by a streight Line to the most Northerly Extent of the whole Premises; Upon which Partition it was agreed, that Carterets part should be call'd the province of the East New Jarsey, and Byllynges part should be call'd the Province of West New Jarsey. East Jarsey is bounded from the Line of Partition Eastward, part with the Main Ocean, and part with, Hudsons River (which seperates it from New York.) And West Farley from the faid Partition Line expands it felf Southward and Westward, unto that samous Bay and River of Delaware; which also seperates that Province from Pensilvania, in which Bay and River. it's well known Ships of the greatest Burthen may ride at Anchor, and pass with safety an hundred Miles up into the Country: And in which River, from the Mouth of the Bay, are not less than twenty Creeks and Harbors: fome whereof illing five, ten, fifteen, if not twenty Miles into the province. The Partition being thus made of the two Provinces, the Government of West Farsey was thereupon given and granted by the present King, when Duke of Tork, unto the abovenamed Edward Byllynge, and his Heirs, with the same Jurisdictions, Powers, Authorities and Government, as fully and amply to all intents and purpoles, as the same was granted to him, his Heirs and Assigns, by the late King his Brother, who was also pleas'd to approve thereof by Publication, under the Royal Signet and Sign Manual, Thereby, and therein, commanding the present and future

Inhabitants, within the Limits of the faid Province, to yield all due Regard and Obedience unto him, the faid Edward Billynge as their Governor, and to his Heirs, Deputies, Agents, &c. This Province from the Mouth of Delaware Bay, along by the Sea side, to the Line of the Partition, appears in the Map to be about sixty Miles in breadth: And from the Mouth of the said Bay, to the Head or most Northerly Branch of the River of Delaware, likewise appears to be about two hundred and fifty Miles in length. This Province is divided into one hundred Shares or Proprieties. as may be seen by the Registred Deeds of every person or persons, who have already purchased a whole or part of a Propriety jointly with others, which Register is kept by Herbert Springet in George-yard in Lumbard-street, London; unto whom any persons, who are minded to buy one or more Proprieties, may repair: The faid Edward Byllynge having above twenty of those hundred yet to fell. As to the Government, out of each Propriety, a Free-holder is to be Annually. chosen by the Inhabitants thereof, and to Meet and Sit as a General Assembly upon a certain day every year, which with the Governour, or his Lawful Deputies are the Legislative Power of the Province to make and alter Laws in all times coming: But not contrary, or in any wife repugnant, to Liberty of Conscience in matters of Faith towards God, or the Religious Exercise thereof: Liberty and Property, both as Men and Christians being establish'd in West New Farsey, by an irrevocable Fundamental Law, never to be extinguish'd or invaded by any subsequent Law hereafter to be made whatsoever: As also not any the least Tax, Talledge, Subsidie, Rates or Services, to be imposed upon the People; but by the consent of these their Representatives in the General Assemblies. The Towns and Plantations already fettled in this Province, for the most part are upon that Noble and Navigable River Delaware, or upon some Creek or Harbor contiguous thereunto, or upon the South Sea. And upon both, are the like conveniences for thousands of more Familes. Its chief Towns and Rivers are noted in the Map: And it certainly enjoys all the advantages that the other parts do.

The Description of East New Jarsey.

He Province of East New Jarsey lies next to New York South westward, having on the South the Main Ocean, on the East that well-known Bay for Shipping, within Sandy Hooke, to the North, part of the province of New York and New Albany, and is bounded by that vast Navigable Stream, called Hudsons River, to the forty one Degree of Northern Latitude, and from thence croffing over in a streight Line, extending to the most Northern Branch or Part of Delaware River; then to the West, West Jarsey, from which divided by a Partition Line : it takes its beginning from a place upon the South-Coast, called Little Egg-Harbor; and so runs in a streight Line to the aforesaid Northernmost Branch of Delaware River. This Province is very pleasant and healthful, a great part of the back Land lying high.

As to the Trees, Fruits, and most other products, it's not inferior to any of the neighbouring Colonies. And for the fertility of Soil, fresh-Water Rivers, Brooks, and pleasant Springs, it is highly esteemed The Country along Rariton-River, is a place so delightful, and fruitful, that Ogilby in his Volumn of America, folio 181, 182, many years ago hath given the World an extraordinary account there-

The Situation of this Province hath a very great and apparent advantage, for it lies even in the Center of all the English Plantations on that Continent, near to an equal distance from the South parts of Carolina, and the North of Pemaguid, the aforesaid Bay of Sandy-Hooke, being very notable, both for the conveniency and fecurity of any number of Ships: And the Sea-Coasts of this Province are very commodious both for Trade and Fishing; especially the Whale Fishing.

Within the faid Bay, upon the North fide of the Mouth of Rariton River, there is an excellent Tract of Ground, called Amboy Point, where a Town or City is building called Perch: In which Town, feveral good Houses are already built, and inhabited, and more daily are building by the Proprietors and others, that are come to fettle there. Nothing can be better and more advantageously situated than this place for a Town of Trade, which lies about fixteen Miles within the aforesaid Bay, into which there may go in Ships of the greatest Burden, and come out again at all Seasons, as well in Winter time as in Summer, and lie safe in Harbor, without any inconvenience of Winds or Tydes, and close to the Warf before the Houses in this Town of Persh, can lie Ships of three or four hundred Tun, with their safts on Shore at low Water.

There is besides the forementioned New Town, seven Towns more built in this Province, viz. Elizabeth Town, Newark, Woodbridge, Piscataway, Bergen, Middletoune and Shrewsbury, in which, and in the out Plantations, many thousand People are settled; who possess their Lands, &c. some by purchase, most upon very easie. Rents, payable to the present Proprietors, there being all sorts of excellent Lands undisposed of, enough to plant many more thousands of Families, who shall desire to transport themselves thither.

As to the right, which the twenty four Proprietors have to this. Country, it is derived from the Title of the late Sir George Carteret, by conveyance from the Earl of Bath and other Trustees, joining with the Lady Carteret, and is since granted and consirmed in the year 1682, to them, their Heirs and Assigns for ever, by his present Majesty king James the Second, under his Hand and Seal, with all the Royalties, Powers and Governments thereof. The late King Charles the Second, was also pleased to approve of the said Grant and confirmation, by publication under his Royal Signet, and Sign Manual, dated 23d. of November 1683, therein, and thereby, commanding all Planters, and Inhabitants within the Limits of the said Province to yould all due Regard and Obedience to the said Proprietors, their Deputies, Agents, &c., 1686.

In this Province are some Noblemen, and several Gentlemen of the Scorch Nation interested, (as well as those of England) some of which have gone themselves, and Families, and are sertled there, and many hundred others are sent from thence, who have made good Farms and Plantations there, and sundry persons are concerned in Shares under several of the Proprietors, some have half, some a quarter, others an eighth, or tenth Share, &c. and these have Tracts of Land laid out to them by the Surveyor General, according to the proportions of their respective interest, upon their sending over Families and Servants to fettle there.

The Traders in the Towns being furnished with such Goods and Merchandize from England, as are proper to those Parts, where the Planters and Farmers may be supplied with all such necessaries: They having good Stocks of Corn and Cattle, not only for commutation porilies at home, but for Exportation abroad, to other places that want. The Town of Newark alone, in one year, made ready a thousand Barrels of good Cyder out of the Orchards of their own planting. And the Town of Woodbridge above five hundred Barrels of Pork, this Province affording Corn and Cattle, and other product to ship off to the Caribbe Islands, Oc. to supply their Neighbours, who have not that plenty.

In this Province of East Jarsey is this surther encouragement, there is such good Provision made for Liberty of Conscience, and Property in Estate, by the Fundamental Constitutions or great Charter, on behalf of all the Inhabitants, as Men and Christians, that very many from other parts of America, as well as from Europe, have chosen to go thither to live, where they do not only quietly and freely enjoy their Estates, but also an uninterrupted treedom in the Exercise of their Religion, according to their particular Perswasions.

Such as defire to Transport themselves and Ramilies, or be otherways concern'd in this Colony, may be directed at the Sign of the Star in George Yard in Lombard-Areet, where, and when, to meet with some of the proprietors, who will give them further Information.

New

Ew England is a vast Trace of Land, happily Situated, reaching from forty to forty five Degrees of Northern Latitude in the middle of the temperate Zone, and parallel to some part of Italy, in the Eastern Hemisphere.

The Country for many Miles is not Mountainous, yet intermixt with pleafant Collines, Plains and Meadows.

For Rivers, it hath in its largest extent Delaware River, navigable one hundred and thirty Miles: Hudsons River Navigable above one hundred Miles. Connecticut River Navigable above fifty Miles, Marimeck River, Pascatanay, and many other conveniently Navigable; and for less Rivers and Brooks: you can hardly travel a few Miles without passing one.

The Soil is fruitful, and yields Wheat, Rye, Peafe, Beans, Barley, Oats, Indian Corn, Flax, Herry, and all forts of English Herbs, and excellent Simples proper for the Country. For Food, it had Beef, Pork, Mutton plentiful, besides Goats, Deer, &c. For Fish, Fowl, and good Cyder, it excels with good Cellerage to preserve all, which is not common in Virginia. The South side of their Houses are in many places begint with Hives of Bees, which encrease very much.

For Fruit, it hath Apples, Pears, Plums, Quinces, Cherries, A-pricocks, peaches in standing trees, and many forts of wild Blew, Black and White Grapes, and their wild white Muskadine Grape makes a pleasant Wine.

For Timber, it hath several sorts of Oak, and their white Swamp Oak; (whereof they have great quantities) is esteemed near as tough es any in Europe, beside Walnut, Ash, Pine, Cedar, Or.

For Trade, they have all forts of Provision for the Belly, as of Flesh, Fish, and all Grain, as Corn, Peale, &c., And Masts for ships, Deal-boards, Iron, Tar, Bever, Moose-skins, Furs, and some hundred Vessels and Ships of their own, and Merchants who disperse their Commodities to the West-Indies, and from thence to England.

The Country is capable of many other Commodities, as Wine, Sak, Brandy, &c. When labour grows more cheap by the farther increase of their own Children, or purchase of Negros. They have many Towns supplied with good Ministers, and have two Colledges at Cambridge; they train their Youth when past sixteen years old, and so make them bold and resolute.

As to their Government, they had fourteen Magistrates, and were not to exceed eighteen Assistants by their Patent, whereof one is annually chosen Governour, and another Deputy-Governour by the People, who are jealous of the infringement of their Priviledges.

For Religion they are Protestants, much as Perkins, they pray for the King, and the English Nation, and for the Protestant Religion throughout the World. As to the Weather, the old Planters say, that sifty years since, when the Country was not so much opened (by the selling of the Woods) they had much more heat in Summer, and more cold in Winter, then they had since; and that they find the Winter still tessen as the Country is more opened. Their Winter begins in December, and commonly ends in February. The North West Winds blow very keen, and sometimes hold forty eight hours. After that with the change of the Wind, they have moderate Weather. So they reckon to have sen or twelvo cold days in a Winter, which days are colder than in the same Climate in Europe.

Their Summer is hotter, and that Heat more certain, and yet more tolerable than this of England; being moderated and allayed with often Breezes; and is very peculiar and agreable to the Bodies of those of our Nation, the Air being most generally serene, sweet and exceeding healthy. And if any Fogsarise, the North West and West Winds do quickly disperse them; and the Country lends forth such a fragrant smell that it may be perceived ere we make Land.

The Metropolis of New England is Boston, commodiculty seated for Traffick on the Sea Shore, a very large and spatious Town, or indeed City, composed of several well ordered Streets, and adorned with fair and beautiful Houses, well inhabited by Merchants and Tradesmen, it is also a place of good firength, having several Fortifications raised on the Hills adjoining, well mounted with great Pieces, and well garded Secondly Cambridge, formerly Newtown, is beautified with two Colleges, and divers fair and well-built Houses, other Towns are Amsbury, Andover, Branftacle, Beverly, Billerica, Bradford, Braintre, Bridgewater, Charles-Town, Chensford, Concord, Dartmouth, Dedham, Dorchester, Deersield, Dover, Duxbury, Exeter, Eastbam, Falmouth, Glocester, Grotton, Hadfield, Hadly, Hampton, Hariford, Haveril, Hingham, Hull, Ipfwick, Kenecbeck, Kiteri, Lancaster, Lime, Lin, London, Maldon, Manchester, Marshfield, Malborow Mendon, Medfield, Milton, Midleton, Monimoy, Newbury, Newton, Newport, Northampton, Norwick, Penicock, Portsmouth, Plymouth. Providence, Port mouth in Rode Island, Reading, Rowly, Roxbury, Salfbury, Salem, Sandwich, Saybrook, Scarborough, Scituate, Seaconk, Springfield, Stoniton, Squabaug, Squabeey, Sudbury, Swanfield, Tanton, Watertown, Wetbersfield, Windfor, Wick-ford, Warwick, Woodcook, Wamfick, Workefter, Wenam, Wells, Yarmouth, York, most of these Towns are of good account, and well inhabited, being commodiously seated either on the Sca-Shore, or on Navigable Rivers, as may be seen in the Map.

The English Inhabitants are in Colour, Features, Husbandry, Navigation, Cohabitation in Towns and language, much as in England, and have an eagerness of Courage and yet lasting,

They our chased their Lands of the Saehems, which were the head; and the eldest of the Indian Families, the Ancient Proprietors, most of which were about the first English settlement; swept away with the small Pox; Another part by Wars among themselves, and the remainder almost destroyed by their late Treacherous War with the English, being either sold, slain, or dead with the Flux; so that there now remains but sew of them in the Massachuset, and Phymouth Colonies, except some Christians and other Indians, who were true to the English against those other bloody Barbarians; these indeed deserve encouragement. Major Gottkins, and Mr. Elliot, whose care and charitable Endeavours for their Conversion may not be forgotten: And as to the Indians lately destroyed, they were leveral little Nations, living under the Sachems or Sagamors, in Hamlets, consisting of Wigwams or Cettages; and for the most part were cloathed with Mantles and Deer-skins; they were a timorous, rash, and unfaithful People, judging all others by themselves, such as had no tye, but what sear or interest drove them to, and grew insolent by the English indulgence, yet some of them consessed they did not begin the war merely upon Indian instigation, and the English sound they had Powder and Shot enough, that they were good Marks-men, and generally well armed, especiall with Fusies; which, they said, they beaght of the French in Canada.

The manner of their Wars was by incursions, Surprizes and Ambuscades; and their contrivances very subtil, but if once discovered, they would be greatly dismayed. And this is certain, they were at last overcome, and in a fort extirpated by an apparent and distinguishing hand of Gcds Providence. And as to their conquer'd Countries, (now under the English Jurisdiction) they are large and fruitful, and have many spacious Corn fields, Plantations, pleasant Rivers and Brooks, fit for delight and human fustentation.

As to New England, it is observable, that within the Compass of sixty years past, near two hundred Gentlemen, Ministers and Merchants carried their Wives and Children thither, and about forty hundred Husbandmen and Mechanicks, with their Wives, and Children, and Servants, and near two hundred thousand pound value.

That Stock of people is faid to be increase to about one hundred thousand: And that more persons for condition and number of the increase of the said first planters have come for England, than have gone thither since their said principal settlement.

And that the people of New England have some years annually imported and exported to and from old England to as great value in commodities, as they first exported hence.

And as to that which hath kept them low, they thought if they bought Negro's and had them Baptized, that they were then free, and upon this mittake omitted it, and then so much indulged their English Servants, (because themselves could not work) that they gave them almost what they would have; and thus inriched them, and impoverimed themselves.

And when others came afterwards, (if any thing likely) they were foon tempted by inferior Planters to Marry and become Freeholders; and feeing a goodly Country before them, these also quickly made their service unease to the intolerable damage of their Masters, who of the visit for The 2 ghall the were at great charges about them.

But some may object, that Barbadoes Merchants, over-much minding their profit, have twenty Negro's to one English Servant, to the now great hazard of their lives. As to that, it is very remarkable that the long patience of the first New England Gentlemen hath at last wrought this happy effect to their Posterity, that should they now flock their Farms with Negro's and Indians, and mix them in Marriage, (hich Mulato's being found the best Servants) in some years they may make them Copy-holders as the Villains were of old in England, and so may make a great improvement of their Land.

Nor is it likely, that (were a few thousand Negro's Slaves in this fort now to encrease there) they could rationally prejudice so great a body of English already bred and naturalized, besides so vastly more encreasing in that Country, which alters the Case from that of Barbadoes.

Moreover, should any Negro's run far into the Woods, they are fure the wild Indians would destroy them.

Now for its advancement, some Barbadoe's Merchants have lately calculated, (and those of their most experienced Planters also) that twenty Negro's in New England, (being taught, for they are found as. capable to learn as the English) with fifteen hundred pound stock in Iron-Mills, Charcole, Bog-iron, Oar, &c. would bring their Masters. as good and clear an Annual Income, as the same Stock of Money and Negro's will produce by their Sugar-Mills in Barbadoes:

And that such a number of Negro's, being taught the way raising Corn, looking after Cattle, to make Cyder, Wine, Brandy, and the Art of Carpentry for Houses, of Saw-Mills, making of Brick, and Brick-laying; building of Veffels, and Ships, and the Craft of Fishery, &c. may rationally with a less Stock of Money produce as much advantage to their Mafters as the former.

It is also considerable, that the Land it self of the first Gentlemen Planters in New England doth begin to make a good Recompence to the Children for the loffes of their Parents. Besides it imports into England Bever, Moofe-skins, Furs, Bullen, and many other Commodities which they bring from the West Indies in their own Vessels, and do export Cloth, Stufs, Cordage, &c. which is confiderable to His Majesties Customs, and to the Manufacture of England. And they yearly build many goods Ships and Frigats, and fell them at London.

It is the Granary and Magazine, and lies most ready to supply Barbadoes, Jumaien, Mevis, &c. with Provisions, Oc. being a thousand y *Bar*uland It is a well fituated and fettled Emporium, having many excellent. Harbors in the great Bay.

It is the best prepared place to build Navies at easie rates, (at his Majesties pleasure) fince they are of late something more choice in their Timber then formerly they were, and specially since Ship-Timber is so generally wanting in England and Ireland, and the Eastland Oak (as some say) is so very spungy.

It carries the most aw and countenance, and can (best with a little encouragement) desend it self against a Foreign assault; and is most sit and ready to bely and relieve His Majesties other Colonics, if such a distress should hap in.

And it is the grand Nur. rry that breeds, and indeed that is found most proper to breed Men in great numbers of resolute, bold and lasting courage (and all other Creatures in like manner) nearest unto those of old England in the World and their Men most fit for Navigation, Merchandize, or War by Sea or Land.

A Description of New York.

and this wife a Ly or la more is a transfer of the contraction

New England, Virginia, Mary-Land, and the length of which Northward into the Country, as it hath not been fully discovered, so its not certainly known, but in general it extends to the Banks of the great River Canada, East and West, its breadth is accounted the hundred Miles, comprehending also that Tract of Land, which is between Hudson's River, and Delaware River, called New Jarsey.

Its principal Rivers are Hudson's River toward the East, Raritan River about the middle, and Delaware River on the West, its chiefest Illands are Long-Island, Manahattens- Hland, and Staten-Islands.

It was so called from his Royal Highness the Duke of York, the Proprietor thereof by Grant from his Majesty, Anna 1664. Who the same year grants and conveys out of it all that aforesaid Tract of Land, and Premises which is between Hudson's River, and Delaware River, unto John Lord Berkley, and Sir George Carteret, jointly by the name of New Casara or New Jarsey. So that New York now contains only that part of New England, which the Dutch formerly seized, and called it the New Netherland, and Nova Belgia, lying between Hudson's and Conecticut Rivers on the Continent, with the Islands of Manabatten, and Long-Island, opposite thereunto.

Manabattens Island, fo called by the Indians, it lyeth betwixt the Degrees of forty one and forty two North Latitude, and is about fourteen Miles long, and two broad, whose chief place is New York, seated upon the South end of the aforesaid Island, having a small Arm of the Sea, which divides it from Long-Island, on the East side of it, which runs Eastward to New England, and is Navigable, though dangerous.

Hudjon's River runs by New York Northward into the Country, to-ward the Head of which is feated New Albany, a place of great Trade with the Indians, betwixt which and New York, being above one hundred Miles, in as good Corn-Land as the World affords, enough to entertain hundreds of Families, in the time of the Dutch Government of those parts. At Sopers was kept a Garison, but since the reducement of those parts under his Majesties Obedience, by the care of the Honourable Colonel Nichol's, Deputy to his Highness, such a League of peace was made, and Friendship concluded betwixt that Colony and the Indians, that they have not resisted or disturbed any Christians there, in the settling or peaceable possession of any Lands with that Government, but every Man hath sate under his own Vine, and hath peaceably reapt and enjoyed the Fruits of their own labors, which God continue.

New York is built most of Brick and Stone, and covered with red and Black Tile, and the Land being high, it gives at a distance a pleasing Aspect to the Spectators. The Inhabitants consist most of English and Dutch and have a considerable Trade with the Indians, in Bevers, Otter, Raccoon Skins, with other surs; as also for Bear, Deer, and Elk Skins; and are supplied with Venison and Fowl in the Winter and Fish in the summer by the Indians, which they buy at an easie rate; and having the Country round about them, they are continually surnished with all such provisions, as are needful for the life of Man, not only by the English and Dutch within their own, but likewise by the Adjacent Colonies.

The Commodities vented from thence are Furs and Skins beforementioned; as likewife Tobacco made within the Colony, as good as is usually made in Mary-Land: Also Horses, Beef, Pork, Oyl, Pease, Wheat, and the like.

Long Island, The West end of which lies Southward of New York, runs Eastward above one hundred Miles, and is in some places eight, in some twelve, in some fourteen Miles broad; it is inhabited from one end to the other. On the west end are sour or five Dutch Towns, the

There are several Navigable Rivers and Bays, which put into the Northside of Long Island, but upon the Southside which joins to the Sea, it is so sortised with Bars of Sand and sholes, that it is a sufficient desence against any Enemy, yet the Southside is not without Brooks and Rivulets, which empty themselves into the Sea; yea, you shall scarce travel a Mile, but you shall meet with one of them, whose Christal Streams run so swift, that they purge themselves of such stinking Mud and Filth, which the standing or Low-paced Streams of most Brooks and Rivers Westward of this Colony leave lying, and are by the Suns exhalation dissipated, the Air corrupted, and many Fevers and other Distemper occasioned, not incident to this Colony: Neither do the Brooks and Rivulets premised, give way to the Frost in Winter, or Drought in Summer, but keep their course throughout the year.

Towards the middle of Long Mand lyeth a Plain fixteen Miles long, and four broad, upon which Plain grows very fine Grafs, that makes exceeding good Hay, and is very good patture for the Sheep or other Cattle; where you shall find neither stick nor stone to hinder the Horse Heels, or endanger them in their Races, and once a year the best Horses in the Island are brought hither to try their swiftness, and the swiftest rewarded with a Silver Cup, two being annually procured for that purpose. There are two or three other small Plains of about a Mile square, which are no small benefit to those Towns.

Upon the Southside of Long Island, in the Winter, lye store of Whales and Grampusses, which the Inhabitants begin with small Boats to make a Trade, catching them to their no small benefit. Also an innumerable multitude of Seals, which make an excellent Oyl; they lie all the Winter upon small broken Marshes, and Beaches, or Bars of Sand before-mentioned, and might be easily got, were here some skilful Men would undertake it.

But the English would not relinquish their pretensions to the Primier Seisin, and therefore in the year 1583, Sir Humphry Gilbert took possession of it in the name of the Queen of England, who being Shipwrack'd in his return, the sending of a Colony was discontinued till the year 1608, when undertook by fohn Guy, a Merchant of Bristol, and in the year 1626, Sir George Calvert Knight, then principal Secretary of State, atterward Lord Baltlemone, obtained a patent of part of Newfoundland, which was erected into a Province, and called Avalon, where he caused a Plantation to be settled, and a stately House and Fort to be built at Ferriland.

'Tis an Island for extent (they say) equalizing England, from whence it is distant about sive hundred and forty Leagues, situate between the Degrees of forty sive and sitty three Northern Latitude, and is only severed from the Continent of America by an Arm of the Sea, as England is from France.

It is famous for many excellent Bays and Harbours, it hath great plenty of Fish, Land and Water Fowl, and is sufficiently stockt with

Deers, Hares, Otters and Foxes, which yelld great Fur, it affords stately Trees fit for Timber, Masts, Planks, and other uses. The Soil is esteemed fertile, the Climate wholsom, but the rigor of Winter, and excessive Heats of Summer much detract from its praise.

Before the Island at the distance of twenty Leagues from the Raze. lieth a long Bank or Ridge of Ground, extending in length about two hundred and forty Leagues, in breadth in the broadest place about five and twenty Leagues, by Cabor called Bicalus, from the great multitude of Codfish, which swarmed there so numerons, that they hindred the passage of the Ships, and is now called the Grand Bank.

where our Ships falt and dry their Fish.

There is no part of Newfoundland more happy for multiplicity of rexcellent Bays and Harbors, than the Province of Avalon, and there are valt quantities of Fish yearly caught by the English at Ferriland, and at the Bay of Bulls; though the whole Coast afford infinite plenty of Cod and Poor Fohn, which is grown to a tettled Trade, and were the English diligent to inspect the advantage of settling Plantations upon the Isle, and raising Fortifications for the security of the place. they might ingrois the whole Fishery.

Our English Masters, who have fished there many years, give this Account of it, That the most Southerly part of it, called Ingulf-foot, is in the Latitude of fixty four Degrees and twenty five Minutes! And the most Northerly part is Rag-point, in the Latitude of fixty fix Degrees and five minutes, whereas our Maps, as also the Great Atlas makes the Island above eighty eight Degrees of Northern Latitude, which gross mistake is refuted not only by observation, but also by the Suns continuance two Hours above the Horizon, in the middle of December, in the most Northern part of the Island. It hath four remarkable Mountains in it, of which Heela is the most famous, which burns continually with a Blew, Brimstone-like, and most dreadful Flame, vomiting up vast quantities of Brimstone; and that when it burns with greatest vehemency, it makes a terrible rumbling like the noise of loud Thunder, and a fearful crackling and Tearing that may be heard a great way off. See more of this in Martinere. Northern Voyage, page 134.

In the Philosophical Tansaction, Number 103, Dr. Paul Biornonius Resident informs us, That it abounds with hot Springs, of which some are so hot, that in a quarter of an hours time they will sufficiently boil a piece of Bees. Arngreim Jonas tells us, It was inhabited by the Norwegians, Anno 874, afterwards by the Danes, under whose Gevernment and Religion it now is. The Island is well peopled, but they live only in the Vallies, and towards the Sea-Shore. Their Dwellings are rather Caves than Houses. The Inhabitants are said to be a Lusty, Comely, Affable People, saithful in their Dealings, addicted to Learning, having three Universities, such as they are: But their Law allows of no Phiscians, but admit of some Chirurgeons to cure their Wounds. The Air is healthy, but the changes of Weather are very uncertain, for sometimes it Snows and Hails in the middle of Summe, and the Winds are often in that season most surious.

Their commodities are Sheep, Cows and Horses. Great plenty of most fort of Sea-sish all the year round their Coast. There are Lakes upon the high Mountains, well stored with Fresh-Water-Fish, and their Rivers with Salmon. In Summer time they have plenty of Wild-soul, as Mallard, Duck, Teal, Partridge, Wild Geese, Plovers. In Winter time Ravens, Eagles, Wild Ducks, Swans, &c. Their Drink is Milk mingled with Water. Their Bread is Cod caught in the Winter time, and dried in the Frost, commonly called Stock-Fish, as also Hokettle or the Nurse-Fish, with the Livers they make Oil to burn in their Caves under Ground; the other parts they cut into pieces, and bury them for four or five Weeks under Ground, then wash them, and dry them in their Stoves, and this serves instead of Bread, if broiled on the Coals, it serves for Meat; and of the Skins of the Fish they make their Shoes.

The general Employment of the People is either Fishery, or the making Wad-moll, or a course fort of Woollen Cloth, of which they make Gowns, Coats, Caps, Mittins for Scamen and Fishermen. There are also little Shock Dogs said to be the Whelps of ordinary Bitches, lined by Foxes, that come on over the Icc.

There is only one Fort, which is upon one of the chief of the West Manny Isles ten Leagues from Merchants Foreland, with twelve Iron K k k k Guns

Guns in it, and there their Courts are held, and the Bishop has his Residence: As for their Government and Laws, see Dithmar, Belfkins and Arngreim Jonas, or Purchas in his Pilgrimage. Sometimes Danes, Hamburgers, and Lubekers, put into the Island, and surnish the Islanders with such Provisions as they want. The chiefest places where the Ships stay are the Havens of Haneford and Keplawick, and the Governor resides at Belested; the Danes bring from thence dried Fish, Train-Oil, Butter, Tallow, Sulphur, Raw Hides, and particularly a fort of whales Teeth, which some esteem as much as Ivory.

Berwixt Cape Farewell and Cape Sumar, lieth a great fea dilating it self, both towards the North, South and West, giving great hopes of a North West passage to China, and the East Indies, much searched into by many English Worthies, Forbisher, Weymouth, Hudson, Button, Baffin, Smith, fames, and others, who have failed therein, some one way, fome another, and given names to many places, as may be feen in the Map, and in the year 1667, an Honourable and Worthy Defign was renewed, and undertaken by feveral of the Nobility of England, and divers Merchants of London, for the discovery of this North West passage, and to settle a Trade with the Indians there. Captain Zachariah Gillam being Commander, who in the Nonfuch Ketch passed through Hudsons Straights, then into Baffins Bay, from thence Southerly into the Latitude of fifty one Degrees, or thereabouts, in a River now called Prince Ruperts River, he there found a friendly Correspondence with the Natives: Built a Fort called Charles Fort, returned with good fuccess, and laid the Foundation of an advantageous Trade in those parts. But in the year 1687, seised upon by the French.

Reenland is a Country of vast extent, an unknown Tract, and not yet fully discovered, for notwithstanding several Voyages, and many Ships have touched upon its Coasts, yet it still lies obscured in a Northern Mist; unless the names of certain Bays, Capes, &c. viz. Of GREENLAND.

Dowards the North East lies a Tract of Land, called Greenland by the English, Spitsburg by the Dutch, seated between seventy six Degrees, and eighty two of Northern Latitude, but whether an Island or continent, is not yet known. The whole Land is so compassed with Ice, that it is difficult to be approached, sometimes in the iniddle of June, tho' ordinarily the Ice breaks in May.

The Soil is in most places nothing but Rocks, or heaps of vast Stones, many of them so high, that the upper half seems to be above the Clouds. The little Vallies between them are nothing else but broken Stones, and Ice heaped up from many Generations. About Roefield and Maple-Haven is the greatest quantity of low Land, which also is sull of Rocks, Stony, and for the most part covered with snow and Ice, which when melted in Summer Govers nothing but a barren Ground, producing Heath, Moss, and some few Plants, as a kind of Cabbage, Lettice, Scurvy-Grass, Sorrel, Snakeweed Heartsease, a kind of Strawberry, divers forts of Ranunculus, and of Semper-Vives in the Mountains, that are exposed to a warm Air and Sun-beams; in the Holes and Rocksinsinite quantity of Fowls Nests, whose Dung, with the Moss washed down by the melted Snow, makes a Mould in the Vallies or Clests, which produceth those Plants aforesaid.

For the' it hath the Sun for half a year, yet never above thirty three Degrees and forty Minutes above the Horizon; the power of its beams are infufficient to dispel the Cold, or disolve the Ice, so that the Vapours from the Earth are not hot enough to warm the Air, nor thin enough to rise to any considerable height, but hang continually in thick dark Mists about the Land, that sometimes you cannot see the length of your Ship. "Tis also remarkable, that at Cherry in June 1608, it was so hot that melted Pitch ran down the sides of the Ships, and that the Ice is raised above the Water many Fathoms, and many times above thirty Fathom under Water, and sometimes its frozen to the bottom of the Sea. The freezing and breaking of the Ice makes a great and terrible noise, sometimes it breaks into great pieces, and fometimes it shatters at once into small pieces, with more noise but less danger.

The Beafts of the Country are Foxes of divers Colours, Raindeer, Bears fix foot high, and fourteen foot long.

Of Water Fowl there is great variety, and in so great abundance, that with their slight they darken the Sun, viz. Ducks, Willocks, Stints, Sea-Pidgeons, Sea-Parrots, Gulls, Noddees. There are also great quantities of Fishes, as Seals, Dog-Fishes, Lobsters, Gernels, Star-Fish, Macarel, Dolphins, Unicorns, Whales, &c.

Our Men that Wintered in Greeland, Anno 1630, lost the Light of the Sun, October the fourteenth, and saw it not again till February the third.

Those that staid there 1633, say, that October the sist was the last day they saw the Sun, tho' they had Twilight till the seventeenth, and on the twenty second, the Stars were plainly to be seen, and so continued for all the Winter. Fanuary the sisteen, they perceived so much Light as to read by it; February, the twelsth, they saw the light of the Sun on the Tops of the Mountains.

Those that wintered in Nova Zembla 1596, in the seventy six Degrees, on October the twenty third saw the Sun not sully above the Earth: After October the twenty sisth, they saw the Sun no more till fanuary the twenty sourth; they saw the edge of the Sun above the Horizon. These also tell us, That in seventy sour Degrees, the Water was as green as Grass. And that at Cherry or Bear Island in the seventy sourth Degree, and thirteen Minutes, the variation was thirteen Degrees.

The first we read of that searched for the North West passage, was Martin Forbisher in Anno 1576, with two Barks, coming to the Latitude of sixty two Degrees, found a great Inlet of sixty Leagues in length, and main Land on both sides, called by him Forbishers Strait. He found there a certain Oar, which he thought to be Gold, and the next year made a Voyage to setch a quantity of it, but it proved but black Lead. And upon Smiths Isle they found several Stones, out of which they melted Gold, but in very small quantities. They found also a dead Fish of about twelve foot long, in shape like a Porpoise, having a Horn six soot long growing out of his Snout, which is still kept at Windsor.

In 1583, Sir Humphry Gilbert went to the great River of St. Law-rence in Canada, took possession of the County, and settled a fishing.

Trade there.

In 1585, Mr. John Davis was employed for search of the North West passage: The first Land he came to, he called the Land of Defolation; then he arrived in Gilberts Sound, in the Latitude of sixty sour Degrees and sixteen Minutes. Thence they went to sixty six Degrees and forty Minutes to Mount Raleigh, Totnes Sound, &c. In 1586, he made a second Voyage to the same place, sound amongst the Natives some of Frobishers Oar, as also Lapis Specularis, Copper Oar, as also black and red Copper, and returned, after search of many places, with hopes of discovering the desired Passage: So that in the year 1587, he made a third Voyage to seventy two Degrees and twelve Minutes, where the Compass varied to eighty two Degrees Westward, the Land he called London Coast, and there they found an open Sea, forty Leagues between Land and Land, which he called Fretum Davis.

In the year 1610, Mr. Hudson proceeded one hundred Leagues surther than any before had done, and gave names to certain places, viz. Desire-provokes, Isles of Godmercie, Prince Henries Cape, King James Cape, Queen Anns Cape, &c. but the Ice hindred him from going surther, and the mutiny of his Men from returning home.

In 1612, James Hall, and with him William Baffin discovered Cockings Sound, in the Latitude of fixty five Degrees and twenty Minutes, which differed from London fixty Degrees and thirty Minutes, where James Hall was killed in the Boat by a Native, pretending to trade.

They law Rocks of pure Stone, finer and whiter than Alablaster, and Angelica growing plentifully.

1615, Baffin was ient again, he found Fair-point to differ from London seventy four Degrees and five Minutes, and found that there was no passage through Davis Straits, it being only a great Bay.

1626, Baffin went again, and in Sir Thomas Smith's Sound, their Compass varied fifty six Degrees Westward, but finding no passage returned home.

Sir H. Willoughby, 1553, in his discovery for a North-East passage, passed by a large Country, by the Westside whereof he sailed for some days together, and therefore could not be a small Island as the Dutch make it: We have nothing of the Voyage, but those short notes which were found lying upon his Table after his Death; which was, that in Angust the second they parted from Seynam; August the sourteenth, they were one hundred and sixty Leagues North Easterly from Seynam; that they continued sailing till September the sourteenth, where they Landed on a Country, high, Rocky and uninhabited, from whence the Cold and Ice forced them to return more Southerly; which they did, till they came to Arzina, a River in Lapland, where the next Spring they were found all frozen to death in the Ship.

1556, Stephen Burrows, who fearching a passage by the North-East unto the Indies arrived in 112 Degrees and twenty five Minutes of Longitude, seventy six of Latitude, and to sailed to eighty Degrees and eleven Minutes, and thence to Nova Zembla.

1580. Arthur Pet and Charles Jackman sailed all over those Seas.

And that no Nation but English frequented those Northern Seas, till 1578, that a Dutch Ship came to Cola, and a year or two after another, to St. Nicholas, and that by the encouragement of an English Man that set himself against the Russia Company which was Incorporated in 1553.

Afterwards the Dutch crept in more and more: and in 1594 they employed Barents and others to find out a passage, Barents separating from his Company sailed to the North East of Nova Zembla, where he lost his Ship, and himself died: In the Latitude of seventy sour Degrees and thirteen Minutes, the variation of the Needle was thirteen Degrees which was at Cherry or Bear Island.

In 1608, Henry Hudson was sent forth to discover the North Pole, who went to eighty two Degrees, as did also Thomas Marmaduke of Hall 1612, who saw divers Islands beyond that.

And in the year 1610, the Company It out the Ship Amity, Jonas Pool Commander, for Whale-fishing, who fell upon the Land, formerly discovered, and called it Greenland, and gave names to many of the eminent places, viz. Horn-sound, where they found an Unicorns Horn, (as they called it) Ice-point, Bellpoint, Black-point, Lowns Island, Cape Cold, Ice-sound, Knotty-point, Fowl-sound, Deersound.

And in Croß Road, (feventy nine Degrees and fifteen Minutes Latitude the Variation was eighteen Degrees and fixteen Minutes North-West) he seised upon the Country to the use of his masters, by seting up a Red Cross, and fastning a Writing to it, there he made the first Oyl.

And in 1611, the Company fent out two Ships and fix Barques to fish for Whales, where the first Whale they killed yielded them twelve Tuns of Oyl.

In the year 1612, the English set out thirteen great Ships and two Pinnaces well armed, and the Dutch eighteen, whereof sour were Men of War. The English took possession of divers parts of the Country:

Country for the King, setting up a Cross and the Kings Arms in Lead: And the Dutch did the like afterwards in the same places for the Prince of Orange.

In the year 1615, the King of Denmark sent three Ships, Men of War, to demand Custom for Fishing upon this Island, which was denied, and the Island affirmed to belong to the King of England.

In the year 1616, the Company sent eight Sail of great Ships, and this year discovered Edges Island.

In the year 1617, the English sent out sourteen Ships and two Pinnaces April 24, they set sail from Gravesend, and May 28, they arrived at Greenland, and met with eleven Sail of Dutch, sishing in Horn-sound, whom they forced away, and took from them all they caught, and also the English that were in their Ships, and made 1900 Tuns of Oyl, and discovered Wyches Island in seventy nine Degrees.

There are some Discoveries of Land, which cannot be said to belong to any of the sour grand Divisions, being seperate by Seas of vast extent; viz. New Guinea towards the Equator, so called, because thought to be opposite to the African Guiny. New Zealand the Antipodes almost to England, discovered first by Ferdinando de Quier, but both of the East-India Companies in Holland now pretend to it, the they were but ill used, when they attempted to settle themselves there. About three hundred Leagues from it lies another Tract of Land called Anthony Van Diemens Land, discovered by the Dutch. The Land of Parrats (if any such) was part of Terra Australis incognita. In the year 1504, one Gonneuille a Frenchman, sailed thither, and was well entertained by a petty King, called Arosca: Who also brought away with him some of the Natives, amongst the rest the Kings Son Essentic, of whose Race there are some yet in Normandy (saith du Val.)

New Holland is so highly esteemed by the Durch, that they have caused the Map thereof to be cut in the Stones of their Magnissicent State house, though I could not afford one Map for it here. It is a Tract of Land containing about 1600 Leagues.

Not far from Greenland lieth Cherry Island; thirty Degrees to the North Eastwards, whereof (faith our Sea Waggoner) is the Island of Nova Zembla, and twenty Leagues to a Degree is the Scale made in the Chart, so that thirty multiplied by twenty makes six hundred Leagues, which is three hundred more than the true distance. This also is certain, that in all the Land Maps, that I have seen, it is laid down above one hundred and twenty, and 150 Leagues Eastwards farther than it ought to be. And I have the rather instanced in this particular, for that I have reason to think, that this was the chief cause of the misfortune fortune of that venturous and worthy design of Captain Wood in his Attempt for a N. E. passage to China.

I cannot also but mention the Opinion of some, who tell us, that Nova Zembla is the Isle Carambice of the Antients, from whence Men may go upon the Ice as far as Greenland and further, fo that its thought that the People that first inhabited America went over this way.

The Land of Fesso lies between Asia and America, where they are feparated by great and wide Arms of the Sea; tho' others think, they excur and meet almost together, and by this way was America first peopled, but utrum horum mavis, accipe. The Inhabitants of Jesso exchange their Fish, their Tongues, their Whales Oyl, in the Cities of Fapan, which are next to them. The Planks of their Barks are not nailed but fowed together with Ropes made of the Rinds of Cocoes. The Relations of the Dutch in the year 1643 tell us, that part of the Country acknowledges the King of Japan, and that the Governour who relides at Matzimay, carries him every year Silver, Feathers of fundry Colours, and fine Furs.

Thus briefly have I described all the most known parts of the Earth. but must leave that of the unknown to the discovery of suture Ages: only give me leave to fay a word or two to our English Planters, &c.

And I have done:

To advance a happy Plantation, the Undertakers, Planters, and Place it felf, must contribute their endeavours.

Let the Undertakers be Men of no shallow Heads, nor narrow Fortunes, such as will be contented with their present less to be Benefactors to Posterity. Let the Planters be Honest, Skillful and Painful People; for what hope is there, that they, who were Drones at home, will be Bees abroad.

Let the Place be naturally strong, or at leastwife capable of Fortification; for though at first Planters are sufficiently senced with their own Poverty, yet when once they have got Wealth, they must get Strength to defend it.

Islands are easily shut, whereas Continents have their Doors ever open, not to be bolted without great charges.

Let not the Towns, where there is choice of Ground, be built in places of a servile nature, as being over-awed, or commanded by some Hills about them.

Let it have fome Staple Commodity to ballance Traffick with other Countries, few Countries can stand alone, the Luxury of our Age hath made superfluities necessary.

Let the Planters endeavour to be loved and seared of the Natives, ជព្រៃន using Justice and Honesty, being as naked in their dealings with the Natives, as they are naked in their Attire, imbracing all occasions to convert them, each Convert is a Conquest, and it is more honour to overcome Paganism in one, than to destroy a thousand Pagans; for an extirpation of the Natives is rather a supplanting, than planting a New Colony.

I am confident, faid Dr. Fuller long fince, that America is now grown Marriageble, and hopes to get Christ for a Husband by the preaching of the Gospel.

I shall only add, that no Nation hath spread her Sails for Traffick surther than the English: and that our Foreign Plantations upon the Asian, African and American Continents, are so many, and so conveniently seated, that no Christian Nation hath opportunity of piercing deeper into those vast Heathenish Islands, than the English.

And yet can we fay, we have improved the advantages God hath put into our Hands, to his Glory, and the propagation of his Gofpel? have we made so much as one solemn Mission of Pious and Learned Men to preach the glad Tydings of Salvation in Jesus Christ, so much as to those ignorant Heathens and Idolaters, that confine upon the English Pale; yea, or the poor Negroes, that are detained in cruel flavery in our own Plantations? I cannot fay, what Glory and Advantage this would be to the English Nation: Pardon me therefore Great Sirs, the Proposal of this to your pious considerations, whom it doth most concern: For your faithful management of the opportunities intrusted to you for the Service of God, and the inlargement of his Kingdom at home and abroad, you may be affured, will not only make an Accession of Renown and Honour to your selves and generous Families, but bring in also eternal Prosperity and Happiness from God the Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. As, I pray God it may. Amen.

Advertisement to the Reader.

As for an Index of the Coins, Weights and Measures, treated of in this Book, I thought it not necessary to insert it; for they being altogether Alphabetically placed under their respective Cities and Towns from Page 297, to Page 340, the Reader may sooner find them out there, then by looking over a long Index.
