TWO OPINIONS OF TEDDY; HIS POLITICAL FUTURE

NEW YORK, April 16--The annual dinner of the "Grilliers" club made the occasion for speeches by a number of prominent New Yorkers, including former Governor Odell, D. Cady Herrick, and others. Odell in the course of a speech said: "Every age has its follies, its vagaries, its atrocious men and times when the voice of the reformer, like that of the grasshopper, is a burden in the land. The time comes when there are fewer diseases than remedies, more charlatans than physicians, and more apparent faults than virtues."

The Viper of Milan.
A ROMANCE OF LOMBARDY.
BY MARJORIE BOWEN.

The seal and the parchment were much but the keys would be everything. They were not within the crown; she rifled them once again—no, they were not there. She turned away in vexation, and stood a second irresolute.
These rooms deserted, yet so full of their owner, were terrifying. Valentine was sick with fear—still, she must have these keys.
Hastily she turned over every article in the room, left as Visconti had left them—books, papers, ornaments, but she found there no keys there.
She looked into the antechamber, that wall to suppose what she sought could be hidden there.
In desperation she retraced her steps and stood again before the second room. An impulse made her lift the arras, and she beheld another door; and another still; they were either side Visconti's empty seat. She tried one; it opened immediately on a black marble stairway, and she closed it again with a thrill.
Desperately she opened the other door held to her courage desperately, and crossed the threshold. The room was paneled in black and scarlet, floor and ceiling inlaid with gold and black.
A great mirror hung opposite the door; either side a table, with a collection of articles of silver and gold.
Valentine turned them over in frantic haste; there were lace and rings, jewels and curios, gloves, and strangely carved bottles. She handled the last carefully—she knew not what they might contain.
Still there were no keys.
Valentine, fast losing nerve, felt that she had been in these rooms for hours, the silence and suggestion oppressed her still she could have screamed—but she had risked too much to retreat.
There was an inlaid bureau, and a coffee hutch; she opened the bureau and sought again; rings, daggers, treasures from Della Scala's collections, uncut gems, powders, scents, rosaries, charms, missals—only no hint of what she looked for.
On top of the coffee was a roll of drawings, the plans of the new church, several parchment, petitions, specimens of marble from the new quarries, carved mail gauntlets—Valentine swept them off to the floor, and then threw the coffee open.
It was full of clothes—upon the velvet of the topmost mantle lay the small bunch of master-keys.
Valentine grasped it, and hid it in the little pocket at her side.
She had all she needed now, and was turning in relief to go, when, struck by another thought, she bent again over the coffee, lifted the contents out to the floor.
Visconti's doublets were mostly too riddled for her purpose, but she seized the plainest, wrapped it in her mantle, snatched one of the daggers from the table. Then making rapidly through the riddled room, with a breathless prayer of gratitude for safety, she stealthily pushed open the door on to the balcony, and saw the sunlight and her page's eager face.
"Shut the door," she whispered.
"I'm up and shut the top bolt."
"No one has been?"
"No, lady; you have been quick."

Sick all the Time with Kidney Trouble
4 BOXES CURED HIM

Mr. Whellam was a mighty ill man this spring. He had been ailing for almost a year. Sharp pains in the back and through the hips. Dull headaches and dizzy spells. Appetite poor—nothing seemed to taste right.
Finally, an old friend told him about a friend who was in just that condition and who was cured by GIN PILLS.
Mr. Whellam tried them. And you would not know him for the same man now. That worried, strained look about the face is gone. His eyes are bright—his complexion rosy. He enjoys what he eats—has gained in weight—and sleeps like a top.
He had kidney trouble. GIN PILLS practically gave new kidneys—healed and strengthened these vital organs—soothed the bladder—and freed the system of uric acid that was poisoning him.
Broad Cove, C. B., July 6, 1906.
I received a sample of your GIN PILLS last fall. They did me a great deal of good. In fact, they are the best kidney medicine I know of. A neighbor of mine has tried them and they did him more good than all the Doctors' medicine he took in three months. I will not forget during my lifetime the benefit your GIN PILLS have been to me.
Are your kidneys sick? Do you feel just as Mr. Whellam did? Then take GIN PILLS on our positive guarantee that they will cure you. To have you give them a fair trial, we send a free sample if you mention this paper. Write to-day to Sole Drug Co., Winnipeg. 84 GIN PILLS are sold by dealers everywhere at 25c a box—or 6 boxes for $2.50.

again and left the room, followed by de Lana and Giannotto.
"Now, I had almost forgot, my lord," she said, pausing with a smile. "My page his sister and his brother, would leave Milan tomorrow for Brescia—what for, Adrian? Indeed, I have forgot—but I have the Duke's permission and would only ask your countersign upon this passport."
She spread before the captain a parchment bearing Visconti's signature.
"This is no time to be leaving Milan, boy," said de Lana.
"Our father is sick at Brescia," returned Adrian. "Dying, my lord."
De Lana smiled.
"A long and dangerous journey to make for a sick father and a young man."
"There is money in the matter for these children, and it is my pleasure," said Valentine.
De Lana bent over the parchment and affixed his name, and then second, Valentine glancing at Giannotto, their eyes met, and the secretary understood. He had meant to hasten to Visconti's rooms; he meant now not to. De Lana gave the parchment back, and Valentine handed it to Adrian.
"And now, Lord d'Orleans, will come with us to Isotta's prison?"
"Truly," said de Lana, "the lady is as firmly guarded as at any time. I have looked to that."
"Desperation is a great sharpening of the wit, my lord," smiled Valentine. Visconti. "When life and liberty are at stake, the weakest will venture—and accomplish much."
"Indeed, I think with the lady," put in Giannotto, "that too much seal cannot be shown for anything so near to the Duke's heart as this."
De Lana shrugged.
"We will go, lady."
Half an hour later Giannotto and the captain waited in the guard-room of Isotta's prison.
Valentine, one of her women and the Duke's signet, had passed through all the formidable barriers. It was late, almost dark.
"This shows a malice in the lady I do not like," said de Lana. "What need she to triumph over her brother's victim?"

SINKING SENSATIONS IN THE STOMACH

Do They Affect You?
These unpleasant feelings of weakness and collapse indicate that the sympathetic nervous system is out of order.
The cause is impairment of nerve tone, arising from failure of the stomach to perform its work.
Acute indigestion follows and the natural result is mental depression, a feeling of collapse and extreme weakness.
The best, because the quickest and surest cure, is Ferruzone.
It acts at once upon the digestive and assimilative organs—it fortifies the stomach—makes the blood nourishing, gives it a rich, red color, the best evidence of health.
"For ten years I suffered acutely from stomach trouble," writes Mr. Maxwell Thompson, of Toledo. "I always had a headache and dull feeling after meals. My appetite was poor, and I didn't relish food. It was all due to a weak defective stomach. I read about Ferruzone and ordered six boxes from my druggist. It was no time at all before I felt much better, and when all the Ferruzone was used I really took a new lease of life. I am stronger, brighter, and feel more like work than before trying Ferruzone. It is a splendid tonic, the best I ever used."
Ferruzone is unrivaled in curing stomach ailments, try it, and be convinced. Sold by all druggists in 50c. boxes.

Appropriate headwear with coat of checked mohair.
Motoring about town, calling and shopping, one needs garments and headwear which embody a note of dressiness in their makeup. Of course, coats must be made of materials which will shed the dust arising from the city's asphalted streets, and hats must not be of too dressy a character. Mohair is a splendid material for the long enveloping coat to be worn over a dressy afternoon frock of silk or some other fashionable fabric. In this instance the coat of brown and white checked mohair is accompanied by a small mushroom sailor of brown chip, tan satin ribbon, bowed on the front of the crown, and shaded pink roses encircling the crown. Over this is adjusted the long automobile veil, which may be discarded upon entering the house or shop, the hat a sufficiently smart accessory to the gown when the coat is removed.

Howard Norton

Newcastle, April 15—Howard Norton, manager of the open air skating rink, died on Saturday night, after a short illness of consumption. Deceased was thirty-three years old. He had been a widower several years and left no children.

Richard H. Leonard

Sydney, April 15—(Special)—There died on April 12th at the residence of his son-in-law, C. S. Pike, Brooklyn, N. Y., Richard Henry, fourth son of the late C. E. Leonard, of this city, in the seventy-ninth year of his age. Mr. Leonard was the last male issue of an old loyalist stock, his grandfather, George Leonard, having moved with his family from Plymouth (Mass.) to New Brunswick, at the close of the war of independence. For his distinguished services in the war and as partial compensation for his great pecuniary loss, the British government gave Col. Leonard large grants of land at Parrtown and at Sussex Vale, where he afterwards resided and a pension for life of £1,000 a year.

PRINCE LEOPOLD TO SAIL FROM ST. JOHN

Montreal, April 15—His royal Highness Prince Leopold, Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, son of the late Duke of Albany and consequently a nephew of King Edward VII., is at the Windsor en route for the midland. Some weeks ago the prince landed at Vancouver from the Orient and made several halts on his way across the continent, reaching the city yesterday by the Canadian Pacific. His royal highness will visit Quebec, returning in time to take the steamboat special for St. John (N. B.) on Thursday evening.
The young prince, who possesses the English title of Duke of Albany, was born on July 19, 1884, and is the youngest of the reigning duke of the state of Saxe-Coburg, he does not yet possess any reins of power, these being held by a regent until he attains the age of twenty-five. Prince Leopold was married on Oct. 11, 1905, to Princess Victoria Adelaide of Schleswig-Holstein-Glücksburg.

PAIN
Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause in congestion, pain in blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove this he has discovered a little pink tablet, that tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—cures blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasantly delightful. Gently, it softens the arteries, it loosens the blood circulation.
If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's a painful period with women, same cause. If it's a painful period with women, same cause. congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a safety for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets, one in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.
Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and healthy, and pain you, and you know it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply common sense.
We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

LAURIER AND BOTHA

The astute Canadian premier has not permitted himself to be beguiled by the reporters. He will doubtless have much to say to the English people who will be heartily cheered wherever he appears in London, and whose recent utterances have proclaimed him a man of exceptional ability and the rarest tact.

Sir Wilfrid, as premier of Canada, is the most interesting figure among the visiting statesmen; but there is another, who is heartily cheered wherever he appears in London, and whose recent utterances have proclaimed him a man of exceptional ability and the rarest tact.

One of the most interesting articles that has appeared in the Canadian press relative to this conference of premiers is the following, from the names of the Canadian and Transvaal premiers in a commentary on the significance of their meeting as British premiers at the heart of the British empire. We quote:—

"In a few days two men will meet in London, whose presence there and the objects of their visit form a combination, which will be unique in history. The men are Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Premier of Canada, and General Botha, Premier of the Transvaal. The former is a descendant of that devoted race of colonizers, who sought to lay in North America the foundations of a New France; the other is sprung from the adventurous Dutch race, who endeavored to build up a nation in South Africa. Both are of mixed origin. Both go to London to give their aid towards the unification of the British Empire. These are days of intense party strife. In the mother country and in the colonies men seem to be more intent at pointing out the faults of their opponents and discrediting the motives of those to whom they happen to be opposed in the struggle for power, than to the promotion of high national ideals; but it seems as if we might all, for the time being, lay aside our party predilections and consider the immense significance of this meeting. It is nearly a century and a half since Wolfe on the Plains of Abraham broke the power of France on the American continent forever. The American Revolution of 1776 has since the power of the Boers received at Bloemfontein the first of a series of deadly shocks which terminated their existence as a separate nationality; and foremost among the men who administered these blows were the sons of Canada sent out to serve the empire by the government of which they were a part. Such a meeting as this has never taken place before, and it is no extravagance to say that it could not occur under any other flag than the Union Jack.

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier is one of a race which has learned by a century and a half of experience that British Fair Play is something exceedingly real. He will be able to tell General Botha that the promises made by the British government at Versailles in 1793 have been kept not only in the letter but in the spirit. He can tell him that the utmost liberty, which the vanquished French people could have hoped to enjoy, has been more than accorded them. We consider it a most happy augury for the future of South Africa that General Botha will see in Sir Wilfrid Laurier's presence in London the best possible guarantee, which he and his fellow Boers can possibly expect, that Britain rewards faith with faith, confidence with confidence, loyalty with loyalty.

"The meeting ought to be fraught with a salutary lesson to the timid souls in England, who believe it is necessary to create artificial ties in order that the Empire may be kept from falling asunder. It will show to them that there are other Imperial bonds than those of a common origin, a common language and a common literature. They may be vague and indefinable. Those who are held together by them may be unable to tell themselves even what they are. We know that it was none of the things above named which have tied Quebec to Great Britain. We know it was not trade. It may in part have been a sense of security; it may in part have been a sense of liberty; it may in part have been a feeling of mutual good faith; but whatever it was the tie is there. It has held firmly for one hundred and fifty years; there is no reason why it may not hold permanently.

"The meeting will also teach not only the people of the United Kingdom, but those of the world at large, what a wonderful thing the British Empire is. Perhaps the most conspicuous figures at this Conference will be these two men, neither of whom is of what we call Anglo-Saxon stock. We are sure that their presence in London will be an object lesson to the world."

HEARST ONCE MORE

The telegraph's regular New York correspondent says it is generally recognized among politicians that Hearst, through the medium of his Independence League, will endeavor to force himself upon the Democratic party as a candidate in the presidential campaign in 1908, as he did in the gubernatorial contest in New York last year.

It had been generally believed that the crushing defeat of Hearst in New York would put his political ambitions asleep, and he himself declared that thereafter he would be content to fight in the ranks but the latest indications seem to point to another effort to rush the Democratic convention and secure a presidential nomination.

The most that Hearst can do is to throw the Democratic party into confusion and ensure an easy victory for the Republicans. The people of the United States have not yet reached the stage where so obvious a political fraud and self-seeking as Hearst would be welcomed in the chair of the president. But for his great wealth and his peculiar methods of publicity he would be of no more importance than the ordinary confidence man, who profits by the credulity and fears of his neighbors.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

The Times yesterday quoted the opinion of the New York Journal of Commerce that a business reaction appeared to be in sight in the United States. In that connection the following from Bradstreet's is of interest:—

"The general level of commodity values showed a downward swing during March, the first recorded since July 1, 1906, since which date, and until March 1, 1907, the course of prices had been steadily upward, month by month. For the first time in many months the number of products declining in price on April 1, as compared with March 1 this year, greatly exceeded those advancing, and while seasonal changes may be credited with many of these declines, it seems certain that other causes must be sought to explain the lowering of others. In fact, while the change in the general level downward was a comparatively slight one, the circumstances were such as to give importance to the movement, and what may ultimately prove to have been a change in general trade tendencies was thus indicated."

It is to be noted, however, that despite the decline in March, some sixty-five products enumerated by Bradstreet's are still higher than they were a year ago, and only some twenty-five lower. Moreover, the gross earnings of railways are still gaining, showing that the volume of traffic has not yet suffered any diminution.

Hon. Mr. Fielding's warning to civil servants not to be active partisans in politics does not come with the freshness of originality, since it is expected of all members of government in Canada. But it is doubtful if the warning is always heeded, whether the government be liberal or conservative. That it should be heeded, all who are not, and many who are civil servants, will freely admit.

The province of Nova Scotia will have a commissioner of roads, who will control the expenditure on highways, instead of the present system of statute labor and grants to municipalities. Thus the government will assume charge of all roads and bridges. The result should be an improvement in conditions.

That phase of the character of the late Mr. Archibald Tapley on which most comment is heard today was his whole-hearted kindness and unostentatious charity. After all, it is quality of heart that counts in the final summing up of man's achievements.

The mere financial loss to McGill University as a result of last night's fire is not a matter of great moment, but the loss of priceless collections, hard or impossible to duplicate, makes the fire a national calamity.

The re-vote of subsidy by the Dominion parliament clears the way for the Mackenzie & Mann survey of the St. John valley route.

These are exciting times in the earthquake belt. Mexico is now the scene of seismic disturbances, with the attendant horror of loss of life and destruction of property.

There has been a serious blockade for over a week on the Canadian Northern, between Regina and Prince Albert. This beats the Shore Line.

New York despatches yesterday reported a number of brain-trams, with loss of life, knives and pistols being the weapons used.

The weeks are passing and the congestion of the dredging in the harbor seems as remote as ever. St. John needs an influential representative at Ottawa.

Hon. C. W. Robinson appears to be in the line of rapid promotion in the sphere of provincial politics.

"At a meeting of the carpenters' union last night it was decided to give no more information to the press as the union is a secret organization. It was learned, however, that there were about 50 present at the meeting. It was reported that at present 25 are out of work. Manfred Day, who has been secretary for some time announced that he would resign at the next regular meeting as he is going to leave the city to secure work. It was also stated that the brief reply from the International Carpenters' Union executive committee came in for considerable discussion. The reply did not intimate any movement on the part of the head union to assist the local union with funds and it is said that it was decided last night to send a telegram to the headquarters at Indianapolis asking for a specified amount of money."

DA SWEETA SOK

All wenten-tine I work for deeg Da franch een coety street, An' I am looka like da peeg. An' I am looka like da peeg. An' I am looka like da peeg.

But yesterday! O! yesterday! I leave, I breathe again! Da bones was mad far away For work een countra lane. You are so grand, so reek— To be da gods countra, too. An' I ask you tak' been by da hand. An' show been first dees grand land Where eat een pure an' sweet. T. A. Daly in the Catholic Standard and Times.

IN LIGHTER VEIN

OVERSENSITIVE. "I am afraid you don't like work." "Yes, I do," answered Plodding Pete, "I have so much respect for work that when I see a piece of it to be 'tended to I allow feel like turnin' it over to somebody else that wouldn't be as likely to spoil it as I would."—Washington Star.

NOT VITAL

"Your honor," said the lawyer for the accused, "I move the dismissal of this case." "Explain your ground to the court." "On the simple ground, that the testimony is contradictory. The plaintiff first said he was knocked down, and later that he was helped up."

POOR JUDGMENT, HARD LUCK.

"So your brother's fortune is all gone?" "Yes, he lost it because he used bad judgment." "I understand that you, also, have lost heavily." "Yes, I've had an unbroken run of hard luck."

NUGGETS FROM GEORGIA.

If you can't sing along the way, you can say "amen" when the other fellow strikes the right tune. There may be gold in the mountains of the moon, but you can't rise to it in an airship. The old world is always happy on the way, but some of the folks in it always look at the hallelujah days through smoked glasses.—Atlantic Constitution.

GROUNDS FOR CLEMENCY.

"Your honor," said the chauffeur arrested for skidding along the spine of a pedestrian, "I cannot afford to pay a fine." "I suppose, then, you intend to pay the man you injured?" "Even that luxury is denied me," said the prisoner, "for the accident cost all I had."

NASSAU, BAHAMAS, APRIL 11

After clinging nearly six days to the rigging which held the stump of the masts of their slowly sinking vessel, the captain and crew of the Windward, N. S. barkentine Trinidad, were rescued Wednesday near Carter's Bay, Abaco. The rescue was made in the teeth of heavy breakers by a small schooner after repeated but abortive attempts. The men were half naked and almost dead from starvation and thirst. The more exhausted are in the hospital at Nassau as a result of their terrible experiences. Captain Christensen, of the wrecked vessel, tells a harrowing story of the sufferings of himself and crew. The Trinidad, bound from Cuba for New York, with mahogany encountered a terrible storm off the coast of the Florida coast on April 1. Boats, spars, deck houses and finally the rudder were blown away by the furious seas, and the crew, many of whom had been badly bruised, took to the rigging and clung there while the shattered vessel was tossed about in the Atlantic at the mercy of the seas. On the fourth day about a handful of beans was found among the wreckage. This was divided among ten men. The men were barely able to cling to their insecure footing when rescued. The hull was abandoned and is now a menace to navigation.

Archibald C. L. Tapley of Tapley Bros. Succumbed to Heart Failure Yesterday Afternoon—A Man of Sterling Integrity, Kind and Generous.

Death removed a well known and highly respected citizen of the North End when Archibald Combs Lowell Tapley breathed his last about 4.30 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Every member of the large and influential family connected with him was with love and respect, and feel his death is a great loss. He married Miss Emorie Brown, daughter of the late John S. Brown, by whom he had nine children—four sons and five daughters.

Members of the family and friends mourn a wise and loving father and a true and faithful friend. There was scarcely a man better known in the city and he will be much missed from his place. Open handed and generous hearted always, his appearance at any public gathering was always greeted with delight, while his charity was his many warm friends among the less fortunate ones of the city.
