PREFACE.

THE PUBLISHERS have great pleasure in placing before the public this edition of the New Brunswick Directory. The matter contained in this work has been arranged in such a systematic form as to render it very easy for those who peruse it. The fact that this has been such a tremendous undertaking, and the desire to have it published and ready for their advertisers and subscribers in the time specified, has occasioned a great outlay of time, money, and nervous energy. For any shortcomings the publishers must appeal to their readers. They have experienced great difficulty in getting the names spelled properly; especially is that the case in those counties where French names are in the majority. Some errors, of course, will be found (as they are in all works of this kind), but the strict and very careful manner in which this work has been compiled has made the errors that have been committed unavoidable.

The publishers here acknowledge their indebtedness to all who have in any way forwarded this work.

The publishers also express their thanks to one and all of the advertisers and subscribers who responded to make this edition a success, so much so that we find, when this very large edition is supplied to the advertisers and subscribers, very few will be left.

HISTORICAL SKETCH.

PROVINCE OF NEW BRUNSWICK.

THE first European that visited this Province, who has left any record of his voyage, was Jacques Cartier, who was sent out by Francis I., of France, in 1534, in command of an expedition which had for its object the making of discoveries in the new world, which Columbus had disclosed forty-two years before. Cartier sighted Point Escuminac, at the southern entrance of Miramichi Bay, on the 30th of June, and landed next day. He sailed North and entered the Bay Chaleur, which he thus named in consequence of the excessive heat which then prevailed. In his exploration of the Bay Chaleur Cartier visited Bathurst Harbor and traded with the Micmac Indians whom he found there. He gives a most flattering account of the soil and resources of New Brunswick, its fine trees and the various fruits and berries in which it abounded. But this discovery led to nothing, for Cartier's subsequent voyages were all up the River St. Lawrence. It was seventy years before another explorer from Europe with a Royal Commission in his pocket, visited our shores. In the meantime, however, the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the Bay of Fundy had become the resort of fishermen from France and other European countries.

In 1604 De Monts was sent out by Henry IV. of France to Acadia with a Commission which gave him authority to found settlements. Samuel de Champlain, the most distinguished of Canadian explorers, accompanied him. De Monts and Champlain reached the mouth of the St. John River on the 24th of June, the day of Saint John the Baptist, and gave it the name which it still retains. The only inhabitants at that time were Micmac Indians, who had a fortified village on Navy Island. De Monts did not seek to found a settlement at St. John, but established his colony on the small island in the St. Croix, now known as Doucett's Island. But during the winter which followed, 1603-5, the colonists suffered so much from disease and hardship that out of seventy-nine thirty-five died, and the settlement was abandoned. A year or two later a company of men from St. Malo founded a fishing station on the St. John River, at the mouth of the Nerepis, but their operations conflicted with the claims of Poutrincourt, who established himself at Port Royal, and they were abandoned. In 1611 a Jesuit Missionary, named Father Enemond Masse, took up his abode at the mouth of the St. John for the purpose of converting the Indians, but he did not tarry long, for the Port Royal colony was soon afterwards broken up by Argal from Virginia.

Fort La Tour, the first permanent residence in New Brunswick, was commenced in 1631, but was not completed and occupied until 1635, when Charles La Tour removed thither from Cape Sable. It stood on the point of land on the Carleton side of the harbor of St. John, opposite Navy Island, on the place still known as "Old Fort." It was a work of four bastions, 180 feet square, and at half tide there was a channel between it and the main land. La Tour here carried on a large trade with the Indians and acted as Lieutenant-General for the King of France, but he fell under suspicion and lost favor at the French Court, mainly, is is supposed, in consequence of his wife, Madame Frances Marie Jacqueline, whom he had married in 1623, being a Huguenot. His rival and enemy, Charnisay, who had a fort at Port Royal, obtained a Royal order in 1641 commanding La Tour to return to France to answer to the charges which had been made against him. This order La Tour refused to obey, and thus became an outlaw. He sought to strengthen himself with the Puritans of Boston and also obtained assistance from Rochelle. At length in the summer of 1643, Charnisay with a number of vessels and five hundred men, attacked Fort La Tour, and having failed to take it by assault undertook to reduce it by a blockade. La Tour and his lady, however, succeeded in eluding Charnisay's vessels and getting on board a ship of Rochelle, in which they proceeded to Boston. There La Tour obtained such assistance in men and ships as enabled him to defeat Charnisay and drive him home to Port Royal. Fort La Tour was not again attacked by Charnisay until February, 1645, when La Tour was absent and the garrison weak. The heroic Lady La Tour repulsed the invaders at this time, with great loss, but in April another attack was made and the fort fell into the hands of Charnisay, in consequence of the treachery of a Swiss sentry. Charnisay hanged all the garrison, fifty in number, and two or three weeks later Lady La Tour died heartbroken, in consequence of the misfortunes which had overwhelmed her. La Tour, who was absent when his fort was taken, was wholly ruined by this untoward event.

Charnisay demolished Fort La Tour and built another fort on the east side of St. John harbor, on Portland Point. He continued the fur trade until 1650, when he was drowned at Port Royal. Less than three years later La Tour married Charnisay's widow, and again took up his residence at Fort La Tour. In the summer of 1654, an English squadron, which had been sent out by Oliver Cromwell, captured Fort La Tour and all Acadia, and this occupation continued until 1670, when Acadia was restored to France under the terms of the treaty of Breda. St. John became a fishing station and Sir William Temple, who acted as Governor, built another fort at the mouth of the Jemseg. La Tour continued his residence at St. John after the capture of his fort, and died in Acadia in 1666.

In the meantime other attempts at settlement were made in this province. In 1619 a fishing post was established at Miscou, in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and also a mission of Recollet Friars in connexion with it. This mission was soon afterwards abandoned, but was re-established in 1633, as was also a similar mission among the Indians of the St. John river. In 1642 a Frenchman named Enaud built himself a residence at the mouth of the Nepisiquit, married an Indian woman and carried on a large traffic with her tribe. Nicholas Denys, another Frenchman who had been a contemporary with La Tour, had settled at Miramichi and maintained a large establishment; his servants being engaged in fishing and the fur trade. These were all the settlements that had been formed in New Brunswick up to the year 1670, when Acadia again became a French possession.

In 1671 the Chevalier de Grand-Fontaine, who was then Governor of Acadia, sent his ensign to St. John to re-establish the old fort. In 1672 de Marson, who took the title of Soulanges, was in command at Fort Jemseg. Here in 1674 he was captured by a detachment from a Dutch armed ship and the fort ruined. The French establishments in Acadia had at this time fallen into a very neglected state. In 1676 Michael Le Neuf Sieur de La Valliere arrived in Acadia from Quebec, obtained a large grant of land at Chignecto, now in the parish of Sackville, and established a fishing station at St. John. In July, 1678, he was appointed Governor of Acadia, but was displaced in 1684 and M. Perrot appointed. After this La Valliere devoted himself to his farm at Chignecto, and about this time three sons of Councillor D'Amours, of Quebec, received grants of land in this Province. In 1686 a census of Acadia was taken by M. de Meulles, intendant of New France, who visited the country in that year. The number of inhabitants in New Brunswick was at that period very small. On the St. John the only inhabitants were Martin d'Aprendistigue and his wife, a daughter of Charles La Tour, and Louis, Mathieu and Rene D'Amours, the first two being married. At Chignecto La Valliere lived with his eight children and five servants, and near him were a number of other private settlers, forming a population of 127 souls. At Miramichi Richard Denis resided with four or five servants and at Nepisiquit was Enaud and three or four servants.

In 1690 Port Royal was captured by a squadron from New England under command of Sir William Phips, and Menneval, the Governor, was carried off. This led to the re-establishment of the headquarters of the Government of Acadia on the Saint John River. Villebon, who was appointed Governor, occupied the old fort at Jemseg from 1690 until 1692, when he removed to Fort Nashwaak, at the Junction of that river with the St. John. In 1696 Fort Nashwaak was besieged by a New England force of 500 men under Colonel Church, but the attack failed. In the autumn of 1697 Fort Nashwaak was abandoned and Charnisay's old fort at Portland Point, which had been rebuilt, was again occupied. In July, 1700, Villebon died and two years later the fort at St. John was evacuated and the garrison removed to Port Royal. The territory of New Brunswick, with the exception of Chignecto, was left almost destitute of inhabitants.

For the half century which followed the abandonment of the fort at St. John, New Brunswick has, properly speaking, no history. None of its settlements, with the exception of Chignecto, was in a flourishing condition. The last census taken of the River St. John, prior to the abandonment of the fort, shows that only nine families, numbering 41 persons, were settled upon it. Of these families one was at Jemseg and eight were at Freneuse, a name given to the territory at the Mouth of the Chignecto River. How slow was the growth of settlement on the St. John will be seen by a comparison of these figures with a census taken in 1733, when the total number of inhabitants was 105, divided into 20 families. Of these 82 persons lived "below Ecoupay," probably on the present site of Fredericton; 12 were at the mouth of the river, and 11 were at Freneuse. A year or two later, however, a number of persons from other parts of Acadia removed to the mouth of the river, so that in 1736 there were settled at St. John 77 persons, divided into fifteen families, besides Jean Pierre Danilo, the Missionary priest. In the meantime Chignecto grew and flourished. A census taken in 1731 shows that 150 families, numbering some 750 souls, were settled there.

Port Royal had been captured and its name changed to Annapolis in 1710, and by the Treaty of Utrecht, made in 1713, Acadia "within its ancient boundaries" was secured to the English. The boundaries of Acadia had always been understood to extend to the St. Croix, if not to the Penobscot, but in 1749 the French set up the claim that the term Acadia in the treaty only included the Nova Scotia peninsula, and that all the territory north of the Misseguash, now comprised in this Province, belonged to France. To make good this claim the French Governor of Canada sent an officer named Boishebert with thirty men, to take possession of the St. John River in the name of the King of France. They took possession of a little fort on northern bank of the Nerepis at its junction with the St. John, which had been built by the Indians in Villebon's time. In July of the same year Governor Cornwallis, of Nova Scotia, sent Capt. Rous in the war ship Albany to order the French away. He found Boishebert at St. John with one hundred and fifty Indians, and in explanation of his presence he showed orders from the Governor General of Canada requiring him to prevent the English from settling at St. John. Capt. Rous compelled the Frenchman to strike his flag and delivered him a letter from the Governor of Nova Scotia ordering him to desist from erecting forts at St. John.

In 1750 a French officer named La Corne, who had been sent from Quebec with a detachment to prevent any English from settling at Chignecto, compelled all the French inhabitants who lived south of the Misseguash to abandon their dwellings and remove to the north bank of that river. La Corne then commenced the erection of a five bastioned fort near the Misseguash, to which he gave the name of Fort Beausejour. This movement was followed by the erection of Fort Lawrence, on the south bank of the Misseguash, by the English. In 1755 a large force was raised in Boston and placed under Col. Monckton for the capture of Beausejour. That fort was taken after a short siege on the 16th June and immediately afterwards Captain Rous was again sent to St. John to drive the French away. He found the French occupying old Fort La Tour, but as soon as his vessels entered the harbor they burst their cannon, blew up their magazines, set fire to the woodwork of their fort and fled up the river.

The removal of the French Acadians from Nova Scotia took place in the latter part of the year 1755. At Chignecto the English officers who conducted the operations encountered the armed resistance of the inhabitants. A force of 200 men under Major Frye, which landed at Shepody to destroy the houses, succeeded in its mission, but a smaller force of 62 men, while engaged in the same work at Tantramar, was attacked and lost about twenty in killed and wounded. Finally about one thousand French Acadians were got together at Chignecto and transported to Virginia and other English colonies. The other French inhabitants fled to various points in northern New Brunswick, where their descendants are now numerous. One transport from Annapolis with 226 Acadians bound for Virginia was seized by her passengers, while in the Bay of Fundy, and taken into St. John, from which some the people dispersed themselves up river. It was not until 1758, after the capture of Louisburg, that the attempts of the French to hold St. John ceased. Colonel Monckton was then sent with a detachment of Highlanders and Colonel Howe's Provincial light infantry to St. John, to drive the French from Fort La Tour. The fort, which had only a few small cannon in position, was carried by assault on the land side, and a good many of the French killed. The remainder escaped up the river in boats and canoes, and the armed sloop Ulysses, which attempted to pursue them, got carried into the falls and was wrecked. Fort La Tour was then occupied by an English garrison under Colonel Arbuthnot and named Fort Frederick.

The close of the war which resulted in the French losing Canada gave a great impulse to the work of settlement in New Brunswick. On the 28th of August, 1762, James Simonds, of Newburyport, Mass., who had first visited New Brunswick in connexion with the supplying of the garrison of Fort Frederick, arrived at St. John in company with James White, Capt. Francis Peabody, Jonathan Lovet, Hugh Quinton, and about fifteen other persons, intending to take up his residence here. He built his house on the ruins of Charnisay's old fort at Portland Point. Simonds and White were partners and they did business under that style, while a business at Newburyport in which they were interested was conducted by Messrs. Hazen and Jarvis. The chief work in which they were engaged was the burning and shipment of lime and fishing. Communication was maintained between St. John and Boston by means of an occasional sloop. In 1765 Simonds, White and Hazen received from the government of Nova Scotia a grant of a very extensive tract of land at the mouth of the St. John River. A number of persons, among whom were Hugh Quinton, Peter Smith, Thomas Jenkins, Samuel Peabody, Jonathan Lovet, William McKeene, Daniel Lovet, James Estabrook, Elijah Bradley, Zebedee Ring and Gervis Say, took up land on the west side of St. John harbor in what was then called the township of Conway, under agreements with Simonds, White and Hazen.

In 1763 the territory now known as Maugerville and Sheffield and part of Gagetown was settled by a body of colonists from Massachusetts. The families which came to the Province at this time included the Burpees, Barkers, Coys, Perleys, Nevins, Pickards and others now numerous in the Province. They cultivated the rich intervale lands along the St. John River and speedily became comfortable in their circumstances. A census taken in 1763 places the number of people settled on the St. John River at 400. Prior to this many people from New England had come to settle on the lands at Chignecto from which the French had been driven in 1755. In 1763 there were 30 families at Sackville and 35 in Cumberland, both now included in the County of Westmorland. A census taken in 1767 assigns New Brunswick 1,196 inhabitants as follows:

Cumberland	334
Maugerville	261
Moncton	60
Sackville,	349
Miramichi and St. John,	192
Total,	1,196

Of these 143 on the St. John and 9 in Cumberland were described as Roman Catholics; and most of them were probably French Acadians. At this time civil government was fully established in New Brunswick and soon afterwards representatives were sent from the St. John River settlements, known as the County of Sunbury, from Cumberland and from Sackville to the Provincial Assembly at Halifax. The first member for Sunbury was Charles Morris; while Cumberland was represented by Jonathan Eddy, and Sackville by A. Foster.

Soon after the peace settlers began to come to other parts of New Brunswick. In 1763 Alexander Hodges and a Mr. Prebble settled at Pleasant Point and James Boyd and James Chaffrey on Indian Island, Charlotte County. In 1769 James Brown and Jeremiah Frost established themselves at St. Andrews. In 1764 William Davidson, a Scotchman, emigrated to the Miramichi and carried on an extensive business there in furs and fish in connexion with a Mr. Court from Aberdeenshire. About the same time a Mr. Walker from Scotland settled at Alston Point, on the north side of Bathurst Harbor. Among those who accompanied him was John Young, an Englishman, whose descendants still reside in the County of Gloucester. Thus the beginnings of a population were established in many places about the same time and the work of settlement went on.

The breaking out of the war of the revolution in 1775 was a disturbing influence in the growth of settlement in New Brunswick. Privateers from Machias in August of that year had burnt the fort and barracks at St. John, capturing the five men who formed the garrison. They also seized a brig which was in the harbor laden with cattle, sheep and swine for the British troops at Boston. From this time until a garrison was established at Fort Howe raids of this kind were frequent, settlers were robbed of their goods, and Messrs. White, Simonds and Hazen lost much property.

The people of Maugerville sympathized with their friends in New England in their resistance to the royal authority and after passing a set of resolutions approving of their course, in May, 1776, sent Asa Perley and Asa Kimball as delegates to Boston, to obtain arms and ammunition. Later in the year, Jonathan Eddy, a native of Newton, Mass., who had been elected member of Assembly for Cumberland, made an attempt to capture Fort Cumberland, then held by a weak garrison under Col. Gorham. The people of Maugerville furnished a contingent of one captain, one lieutenant and twenty-five men for this enterprise. More than one hundred of the inhabitants of Cumberland took part in the expedition. The attempt on Fort Cumberland was a disastrous failure, its only result being the ruin of those Cumberland people who took part in it. Eddy and his men, after a severe winter journey in which they came near perishing of cold and hunger, found shelter at Maugerville.

In May, 1777, Colonel Gould was sent to St. John with a force to enact the submission of the inhabitants. They all took the oath of allegiance, and afterwards gave the British authorities no more trouble. Early in June Colonel John Allan, who had been a resident of Cumberland but had turned rebel, arrived at St. John with an expeditionary force which had been formed at Machias for the purpose of keeping the Indians of the St. John hostile to the British government. Messrs. White and Hazen were captured by Allan and carried up river, and the same fate befel Lewis Mitchell, who lived at Gagetown. Mitchell, however, escaped and carried the news to Halifax. A force was at once sent to St. John and the rebels attacked and dispersed with considerable loss. Allan and his men fled up river and found their way back to Machias by the St. Croix lakes.

It was in 1777, after these events, that Fort Howe was established as a government post and occupied by a force under Capt. Studholm. In September a treaty was made with the Indians by Michael Franklin, Indian commissioner. The exportation of masts from St. John for the use of the navy commenced in 1780. In 1782 St. John became a port of entry and James White was appointed the first collector of customs. A dozen small sloops, ranging from 7 to 30 tons, arrived and departed during that year. It was the day of small things in New Brunswick, but the country was on the eve of a great change, for the coming of the Loyalists was near at hand.

During the progress of the Revolutionary War a good many people had come to St. John and settled in various parts of the Province. Some of these people had been driven from their homes by the rebels, others had been imprisoned and escaped, while many had fled to avoid the persecution of the Whig Committees. But in 1783 a much larger and vastly different immigration began to come to New Brunswick. When the Americans had won their independence and peace was proclaimed, instead of letting matters remain as they were, which would have been the part of wisdom, they insisted on driving out all those who had taken the side of the Crown during the war. The Legislatures of the newly emancipated States passed the most stringent acts against the Loyalists, confiscating their property and subjecting them to imprisonment, and in some cases to the penalty of death, in the event of their being found on the soil of the United States. Thus it was that New Brunswick obtained that fine body of settlers who have made it what it is, giving a character to its institutions which they have never lost. This Province would have waited long for the advent of such men as the Loyalists but for the folly of the people of the United States in their hour of triumph.

The first Loyalists began to arrive at St. John from New York in twenty vessels, which got into port between the 10th and 18th of May, and their landing is fixed by tradition on the latter day, although being Sunday there seems to be a possibility of tradition being in error. There were about 3000 persons in this first immigration to St. John. The spring that year was cold and backward, and as they had at first to live in tents and afterwards in log houses and huts, which they had to erect themselves, they necessarily suffered many hardships. The whole country was a wilderness, with the exception of the small clearings about St. John, so that the prospects of the new comers were dark indeed.

The British Government, although it had just ended a long, costly and disastrous war in which it had been fighting against France, Spain and Holland, as well as its own rebellious children, with a liberality which cannot be too highly praised, undertook not only to transport the Loyalists to their new homes, but to provide them with provisions, clothing and medicine for one year. It also provided them with mill machinery for both grist and saw mills, with nails, spikes, hoes, axes, and such farming utensils as they required, and gave them tracts of land from 300 to 600 acres for each family. Many of the Loyalists had been officers in the service of the Crown and they received pensions or half pay for the remainder of their lives. Many of them had lost valuable properties and they were compensated for them, not to their full value, but to the extent of the ability of the government. The British Government distributed about fifteen million dollars among the Loyalists who claimed to have lost property by the war, which is well described as "an unparalleled instance of magnanimity and justice in a nation which had expended one hundred and sixteen millions of dollars in the war."

The British Government did better for the St. John Loyalists in the way of provisions than it had promised, for besides giving full provisions for one year it gave two-thirds provisions for the second year and one-third provisions for the third year. About 1,200 Loyalists arrived in the fall fleet from New York, which reached St. John in November. It is estimated that the number of Loyalists who came to Nova Scotia during the year exceeded 30,000, all of whom had to be provided with dwellings and cared for in other ways. John Parr, who was then governor of Nova Scotia, seems to have been very active in the arduous work of settling the Loyalists and when, in December, 1783, a town was laid out at the mouth of the St. John River by Paul Bedell, it was named Parrtown. The original grantees of Parrtown and Carleton numbered upwards of one thousand and included the ancestors of a large proportion of the present inhabitants of New Brunswick. On the 18th of May, 1785, Parrtown and Carleton, with a strip of land north of Union street, were incorporated under the name of the City of St. John. On the 18th May, 1889, the original town was further enlarged by the annexation of Portland, the site of the first English settlement in this Province.

The same process of settlement which I have described in St. John went on in Charlotte and Westmorland Counties. In 1779 and 1780 several families located themselves at St. Stephen and occupied the land adjoining the river from Ferry Point to Porter's stream. In 1783 many Loyalists landed at St. Andrews and other points in Passamaquoddy Bay, and from that time the work of settlement went on in St. Andrews, St. Stephen and other parts of Charlotte County. St. Andrews was laid out as a town in 429 lots, which were granted mainly to Loyalists. In 1784 David Clendennin and 147 others obtained a grant of a large tract of land in the parish of St. David, and the same year Capt. Nehemiah Marks, of Derby, Conn., with 104 others pitched their tents at St. Stephen and settled there.

The original settlers of St. John spread themselves gradually up the river and along the Kennebeccasis, taking up the farms granted to them and commencing to cultivate the soil. As there were no roads then, nor for many years afterwards, the course of settlement was naturally determined by the facilities for travel by boat and canoe which the rivers supplied. Towards the close of the year 1783, the population of New Brunswick was estimated at 11,457, of whom more than one-third resided at St. John. But many of these inhabitants of the future city were merely temporary sojourners who were waiting the issue of their grants for lands in other parts of the Province, and who presently went away. In 1790, seven years after the coming of the Loyalists, the population of St. John did not exceed one thousand, and it probably fell to that figure within a year or two of the date of the census or estimate mentioned above.

The new population of New Brunswick included many men of conspicuous ability, who had been deprived of public positions in the revolted colonies and were accustomed to official life. They speedily commenced an agitation for the division of Nova Scotia into two Provinces, and on the 16th of August, 1784, the northern part, bounded southerly by the River Misseguash, was created into a new province under the name of New Brunswick. Thomas Carleton, who had been colonel of the 29th Regiment, and who was a brother of Sir Guy Carleton, was appointed its first Governor. Governor Carleton reached St. John on the 21st of November, and on the following day took the oaths of office and administered the same to George Duncan Ludlow, James Putnam, Abijah Willard, Gabriel G. Ludlow, Isaac Allen, William Hazen and Jonathan Odell, who were of the number named in the Royal instructions, to be of His Majesty's Council for New Brunswick. The other members of the Council named were Beverly Robinson, Sr., Daniel Bliss, Edward Winslow, Joshua Upham and Gilford Studholm. The functions of the Council in New Brunswick at that period were legislative as well as executive, and this state of affairs continued until the year 1832, when a Legislative Council was created and a new Executive Council formed.

The first heads of departments in New Brunswick were Jonathan Odell, Provincial Secretary; George Sproule, Surveyor General; Andrew Rainsford, Receiver General; and Richard Seaman, Provincial Treasurer. The Supreme Court was constituted immediately after the swearing in of the members of the Council, the Chief Justice being George D. Ludlow, and the assistant Judges, James Putnam, Isaac Allen and Joshua Upham, all of whom were sworn in on the 25th November, 1784. The first term of the Supreme Court was held on Tuesday, the 1st of February, 1785.

The new province was divided into eight counties, viz.: St. John, Sunbury, York, Charlotte, Westmorland, Northumberland, Kings and Queens. Five of these counties still retain the same boundaries they had then, but York, at that time, included all the territory comprised in the counties of Carleton, Victoria and Madawaska; Northumberland comprised the present counties of Restigouche, Gloucester and Kent, and Westmorland included the present county of Albert.

The election of a Legislature for New Brunswick occupied the attention of the people of the Province in the autumn of 1785. The elections, after the evil custom of that time, lasted fifteen days and were attended by a considerable amount of rioting in St. John. The first session of the Legislature opened on the 3rd of January, 1786, at the Mallard House, St. John. The members of the first Legislature were as follows:—

St. John: William Pagan, Jonathan Bliss, Christopher Billop, Ward Chipman, John McGeorge and Stanton Hazard.
York: Daniel Murray, Isaac Atwood, Daniel Lyman and Edward Steele.
Westmorland: Amos Botsford, Chas. Dixon, Samuel Gay and Andrew Kinnear.
Kings: John Coffin and Ebenezer Foster.
Queens: Samuel Dickenson and John Yeomans.
Charlotte: William Paine, James Campbell, Robert Pagan and Peter Clinch.
Northumberland: Elias Hardy and William Davidson.
Sunbury: William Hubbard and Richard Vandeburg.

Amos Botsford of Westmorland was elected Speaker, and William Paine Clerk of the House. The number of acts passed at this first session of the Legislature was sixty-one, most of them being merely the re-enactment of laws in force in Nova Scotia. The session closed on 15th March. The second session of the New Brunswick Legislature commenced in St. John on the 14th February, 1787, and closed on the 8th of March. The seat of government was then removed to St. Anne's Point, which was re-named Fredericton. The third session of the Legislature commenced there on the 18th of July, 1788.

From this time until the close of the century, the history of New Brunswick is simply the record of a people struggling against the natural difficulties of their position. Everything had to be created; the farms which were to support the population had to be cleared; roads had to be opened up; houses built; churches erected and schools established. The hardships suffered by the settlers were very great; their food was often scanty; their houses comfortless, and their clothing indifferent. Many of the original Loyalists grew weary of the struggle and returned to the United States, but the majority bravely resolved that they would remain and endure everything rather than surrender their birthright as British subjects.

The main source of the difficulties of the first settlers was the lack of good roads. New Brunswick had to wait a long time before the means of communication had reached any considerable state of development. The St. John and its tributaries formed almost the only means of reaching the interior of the Province, and in winter the rivers were ice-bound. The removal of the Capital to Fredericton gave a stimulus to the efforts of those who were engaged in the work of establishing means of travel on the River St. John. In August, 1784, Nehemiah Beckwith built a scow or tow boat to ply between St. John and Fredericton, but two years later, a schooner called the Four Sisters was put on the route and left St. John for Fredericton every Tuesday. Schooners or sloops formed the ordinary means of getting up the river until the year of 1816, when the first steamboat, the General Smythe, began to run.

As no census of the Province was taken until the year 1824, we have no proper means of estimating the growth of population in New Brunswick during the closing years of the eighteenth century, but it was, without doubt, quite slow. In 1817, it was estimated that New Brunswick had only 35,000 inhabitants, and this was probably not far from the truth, so that the Province, after an existence of more than thirty years, had made no very rapid advance in population.

The government was of that semi-patriarchal order which then prevailed in Nova Scotia, as well as in the other British colonies. The old families who came into power as members of the Council, or officials, held on to their positions with a tenacity quite unknown at the present day. Up to the close of the century, only fifteen persons were sworn in as members of the Council. Twelve of these have been already named; the other three were George Leonard, John Saunders and Christopher Billop. Prior to the appointment of these three, three of the original members of the Council, James Putnam, Abijah Willard and Gilford Studholm, had died or retired.

The first Secretary of the Province, the Honorable and Reverend Jonathan Odell, held that office from the foundation of the Province until 1812, a period of twenty-eight years. Jonathan Bliss, the first Attorney General by Royal warrant, held that office for twenty-four years, or until he was appointed Chief Justice. The Solicitor General, Ward Chipman, held office from 1785 to 1809, when he was elevated to the bench. George Sproule, the first Surveyor General, continued in office for thirty-three years. The proceedings of the Council were but little affected by anything done in the House of Assembly, which was largely composed of the same classes that ruled the Council. Amos Botsford was Speaker of five successive Houses of Assembly, extending over a period of twenty-seven years.

What may be termed the official class controlled everything in those days. The four Judges of the Supreme Court, the Judge of Vice-Admiralty and the unremovable Provincial Secretary, were all members of the Council and passed laws as well as carried them out. All the good offices were held by a few families and it would have been regarded as little short of high treason for any outsider to aspire to one of them. When the Honorable and Reverend Jonathan Odell had to retire from the office of Secretary, owing to his age and infirmities, he was succeeded by his son, William Franklin Odell, who held the office for thirty-two years. When Ward Chipman, senior, gave up the office of Clerk of the Circuits and Advocate General, he was succeeded in both by his son, Ward Chipman, junior. And so the old families kept all the good things to themselves and the humble people accepted this state of things as meekly as if it had been decreed by Heaven from the beginning of time.

The Lieutenant Governor of that day, Thomas Carleton, held his office for life. He resided in the Province from 1784 to 1803, going back in the latter year to England, where he died in 1817. Governor Carleton continued to be the Lieutenant Governor of the Province until his death, the business of the office being conducted by no less than eight administrators during his long absence. It was a time of political stagnation in New Brunswick, such as we are never likely to see again. The only legislative event that assumed any political importance during Governor Carleton's residence in New Brunswick was a dispute between the House of Assembly and the Council on the claim of the former for 7s. 6d. a day for their services as legislators. The dispute produced a deadlock for a time between the two Houses, but the members finally got their pay and have contrived to obtain it ever since.

Under the system of government which then prevailed, a strong minded governor could do pretty much as he pleased. He was bound to a certain extent by the royal instructions and by despatches from the Home Government, but neither the Council nor the House of Assembly could effectually control him. This system of government answered well enough for a small community, but it was not well calculated to stand the strain of any great emergency when the people really began to feel that their rights were being ignored.

In 1793 war broke out between Great Britain and France, destined to be one of the most bloody and protracted in the history of the world. One of its first results was the formation of a Provincial Regiment, of which Governor Carleton was Colonel, and Beverly Robinson, Lieutenant Colonel. The Loyalists had lost much, but their courage and patriotism still remained to them. This corps was at first known as the King's New Brunswick Regiment, but it was afterwards taken into the British service as the 104th Regiment of the line. It achieved distinction during the war of 1812, and was disbanded in 1817 when a general reduction of the British military establishments took place, in view of the prospect of a long peace.

In June, 1794, the Duke of Kent, the father of Queen Victoria, visited New Brunswick and met with a grand reception both at St. John and Fredericton, at the latter place inspecting the newly formed King's New Brunswick Regiment. In the following year this regiment was ordered from Fredericton to St. John, which was occasionally threatened with attacks by French privateers.

At this time the question of boundary between this Province and the State of Maine became a matter of international controversy. The second article of the Treaty of Peace made at Paris in September, 1783, described the boundary as "From the North West angle of Nova Scotia, viz., that angle which is formed by a line drawn due North, from the source of St. Croix River to the highlands, along the said highlands which divide those rivers that empty themselves into the Gulf of St. Lawrence from those which fall into the Atlantic Ocean to the North-Westernmost head of Connecticut River, * * * * East by a line to be drawn along the middle of the River St. Croix from its mouth in the Bay of Fundy to its source; and from its source directly North to the aforesaid highlands." This description of the boundary led to endless disputes, the first of which was with regard to which River was the St. Croix. This was settled by a Commission appointed under the Jay Treaty, the identity of the St. Croix being clearly shown by the discovery of the foundations of the buildings which Champlain had erected on St. Croix Island in 1604. The American claim was that the Magaguadavic was the St. Croix. Ward Chipman acted as agent on behalf of His Brittanic Majesty, and Edward Winslow was Secretary of the Commission. This decision, although satisfactory as far as it went, only touched the smallest part of the boundary difficulty, for unfortunately the language of the treaty was such as to be incapable of any interpretation which would be satisfactory to both parties.

Many of the Loyalists, when they came to New Brunswick, had brought slaves with them, and the right to own slaves was never disputed until in February, 1800, a test case came before the Supreme Court. The Court divided upon the question, Chief Justice Ludlow and Judge Upham holding that slavery was lawful in New Brunswick, and Judges Saunders and Allen deciding against slavery. The result of these legal proceedings was not to free the slave, but they cast a doubt on the value of this kind of property, and from that time this hateful institution began to die out. Ten or twelve years later slavery had entirely disappeared, and there are many intelligent natives of this Province to-day who are unaware that slavery ever existed here.

Some idea of the state of the Province at the close of the century can be obtained from the following transcript of an estimate of the charges of paying the civil establishment of New Brunswick, from the 24th June, 1799, to the 24th June, 1800:

This estimate speaks eloquently of the smallness of our Provincial concerns in the year 1800. The people were poor, the revenue was small, and the progress of internal improvement was necessarily slow. In 1801 most of the counties received grants to aid them in erecting court houses and gaols. But the roads of the Province were in a bad state, for it was stated in an official document, written in 1803, that there were not ten miles of road in the Province fit for a wheel carriage, except in the County of Sunbury. In May, 1800, the foundations of the Province Hall were laid by Governor Carleton. This building, with one or two enlargements, served as a place of meeting for both branches of the Legislature, and for the Supreme Court, until the year 1880, when it was destroyed by fire.

The export of square timber about this time began to assume considerable proportions, favored as it was by the differential duties imposed upon Baltic timber by the British Parliament. In 1791 when the export of timber from New Brunswick had only commenced, the duty on Baltic timber was only 6s. 8d. per load; but the duty was gradually increased, and in 1812 it was £2 14s. 8d. per load. In 1820 the duty was £3 5s. per load, but in 1821 it was reduced to £2 15s. per load, and for the first time a duty of 10s. per load was placed on American timber. This scale of duties continued to prevail for the next twenty years, or until the new scale of duties was introduced by Sir Robert Peel in 1842. The timber trade of the Province, although exposed to violent fluctuations, continued to grow steadily and soon became the leading industry.

During the early years of the century the war between Great Britain and France continued and everything pointed to a war with the United States. War was declared by the latter country in June, 1812, but New Brunswick had already made preparations for it. The previous March an Act of the Legislature was passed appropriating £10,000 to His Majesty for the defence of the Province. This was as large a sum, in proportion to the ability of the Province, as a grant of $1,000,000 would be at the present day, for the total available revenue of New Brunswick was only about £6,000. The war had no injurious results on New Brunswick. On the border peace prevailed until near the close of the contest, when Eastport was seized by a British force. The St. John people fitted out privateers to prey on the commerce of the enemy, and some of these were quite successful. Defensive works were erected at St. John and other points, but, as the result proved, they were not required. The great scene of the conflict was Upper Canada, and New Brunswick was in a position to send valuable aid to that distressed Province. In February, 1811, the New Brunswick Regiment, which had been raised eighteen years before, was gazetted as His Majesty's 104th Regiment. When the war commenced, the 104th was stationed at Fort Howe, Saint John, but in February, 1813, they marched overland to Quebec, through the wilderness, performing most of the journey on snowshoes, and arriving at the capital of Lower Canada a compact body, without losing a man. The names of the officers of the 104th Regiment at that time were as follows:

Colonel, Martin Hunter, Lieutenant General; Lieutenant Colonel, Alexander Halkett; Majors, William Drummond, Robert Moodie; Captains, Thomas Hunter, G. V. Gerau, Richard Leonard, John Maule, A. G. The regiment, when it made this march, was under the command of Major Drummond, a brother of General Drummond, who commanded the British army at the battle of Lundy's Lane. Major Drummond became Lieut. Colonel in June, 1813, and commanded the regiment until August, 1814, when he was killed in the assault on Fort Erie. The 104th did splendid service in the war. It had detachments at Sackett's Harbor, Lundy's Lane and Fort Erie, and its losses were heavy. It returned to New Brunswick some time after the war and was disbanded in 1817.

The moment the 104th had taken its departure for Canada the ever loyal people of New Brunswick began to organize another regiment under the name of the New Brunswick Fencibles. General John Coffin, who had fought in the Revolutionary war, was the Colonel, and the first commissions were dated 25th March, 1814. The following, which is taken from the army list of 1816, shows the personnel of the New Brunswick Fencibles at the close of the war. They were disbanded in January, 1816.

Colonel, John Coffin, Lieutenant General; Lieutenant Colonel, Francis Cockburn; Major, Tobias Kirkwood; Captains, Henry Cooper, Richard Gibbons, John Allen, John Delancey, Noah Freer, Edward F. Davis, Warnford Ridge, William Dickson, Joseph Kenah; Lieutenants, Alexander Lindsay, Francis Hoyt Vaughan, Thomas Dely, Jacob Smith, Bradshaw Rainsford, Charles Hatheway, William Hatch, George Minchin, Alexander Fraser, Francis Wm. Small, Alexander McKenzie; Ensigns, George Moorhouse, F. Bruguier, George Gibbons, Peter Smith, Wm. Minchin, Wm. A Dely, Anthony Barker, Geo. Bliss; Adjutant, A. Fraser; Quarter Master, ——— Barclay; Surgeon, Wm. O'Donnell; Assistant Surgeon, William Woodford.

The great want of New Brunswick at this period was good roads and means of communication between one settlement and another. At the session of 1812 an Act was passed by the Legislature "to encourage the erection of a passenger boat, to be worked by steam, for facilitating the communication between St. John and Fredericton." It gave certain persons the exclusive privilege of navigating the St. John river by steam for ten years. In 1816 the first steamboat was placed on the river. She was named the General Smyth, after the then administrator of the Government, and her owners were John Ward, Hugh Johnston, Lauchlan Donaldson and J. C. F. Bremner, of St. John, and Robert Smith, of Fredericton. The General Smyth made a weekly trip to Fredericton and back and proved a great improvement on the sloops which had before been the only means of conveyance.

In 1812 there were only 284 miles of main road in New Brunswick communicating with Fredericton or St. John. There was no road to St. Andrews, and the Nerepis road to Fredericton had not then been constructed. The road from St. John to Fredericton on the west side of the river went by Arlington Manor, Worden's, Otnabog and Sunbury Court House, its length being 82½ miles. There was a road from St. John to Fort Cumberland, which went by Hampton Ferry, Sussex, and the Bend, which was 144½ miles long. Leaving this road at Hampton Ferry people frequently went to Fredericton by the head of Belleisle, crossing the St. John at Worden's, or they could go wholly on the east side of the river by the Head of Belleisle, crossing the Washademoak and Jemseg by ferry, and proceeding by Tilley's in Sheffield and Perley's in Maugerville to the ferry opposite Fredericton. This road was 86 miles in length.

The crops of New Bruuswick had failed in 1805 owing to early frosts; they failed again in 1816. and there was much distress in consequence. But there were causes now at work which were destined to exert a powerful influence on the welfare of the Province. The wars which had vexed Europe for more than twenty years were ended; the huge naval and military establishments which had been maintained by Great Britain were in course of being reduced, and a large emigration from the British Islands commenced. Of these New Brunswick at that time and for many subsequent years received a liberal share. This emigration introduced new and valuable elements into the population of the Province and produced a corresponding increase in its trade and prosperity.

The first considerable immigration began in 1819, when 3,200 persons, mostly disbanded soldiers, arrived. An Emigrant Register office was established at St. John and from this time became a necessary part of the Provincial establishment. Immigration continued, sometimes on a large scale, for many years, or until the superior attractions of the prairie lands of the great West turned the faces of the immigrants in that direction. Many of the immigrants to New Brunswick, especially those from Ireland, did not remain here, but proceeded to the United States, but thousands stayed with us and founded families and prospered.

In 1824 the first census of New Brunswick was taken and its population was found to number 74,176. Of these, 12,907 resided in the County of St. John, and 10,972 in York County. The City of St. John had 8,000 inhabitants. The most populous county was Northumberland, which had 15,829 inhabitants, but Northumberland then included not only the present county of that name but the territory embraced in the counties of Restigouche, Gloucester and Kent. York then included the present counties of Carleton, Victoria and Madawaska, and Westmorland took in the County of Albert. The growth of fifty-seven years in population alone is shown by the following comparison between New Brunswick's first census in 1824 and the last in 1881:

St. John,	12,907	52,957
York,	10,972	69,448
Northumberland,	15,829	76,390

The growth of the timber trade of New Brunswick after the peace of 1815 was very rapid. In 1819 St. John and its outbays, which included Miramichi, Bathurst, Dalhousie, Richibucto, Shediac and Dorchester, exported 249,894 tons of timber, and this figure was increased to 408,560 tons in 1821, which was the largest export in the history of the Province. In 1824 there were 295,236 tons of timber exported, of which 114,116 tons went from St. John, 141,384 tons from the Miramichi, and 24,269 from Richibucto. That year the tonnage arriving at Miramichi was 94,601 tons, against 94,248 for St. John, and in the following year, 1825, the business of Miramichi was still more extensive, when the prospects of that port for the time were ruined by one of the greatest calamities recorded in history—the great Miramichi fire.

This fire broke out on the 7th October, after a summer that had been remarkably hot and dry, no rain having fallen for two months. It destroyed Newcastle, Douglastown and all the villages along the north side of the Miramichi River. It burnt three ships with their cargoes in the Miramichi River and two more upon the stocks. But this was the smallest part of the loss from this unparalleled conflagration. The fire extended from the Bartibog to the Nashwaak, a distance of one hundred miles, and it was estimated that an area of 6,000 square miles, mostly covered with noble forests, was burnt over. The number of persons burned or drowned in the Miramichi fire was 160; the buildings destroyed numbered 595, and the cattle 875. The loss of property was estimated at £227,713, but this only included personal property, goods, buildings and crops, and took no account of the loss of forest wealth which the country had suffered. The sum of £39,259 was generously contributed in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Canada, the United States and Great Britain to relieve the suffering the great fire had caused. The Miramichi fire gave the timber trade of New Brunswick a blow from which it never wholly recovered. The exports of St. John and Miramichi in 1825 reached 388,395 tons; in 1826 they fell to 279,644 tons, and in 1827 to 187,332 tons.

Other causes besides the fire, however, contributed to this great reduction in our trade. The years 1824 and 1825 had periods of great activity and prosperity in this Province, as a result of the speculative madness which was prevailing in England at that time. Bubble companies of all kinds rose like mushrooms throughout the three kingdoms, and the capital of the country was absorbed in distant investments which could never by any possibility yield a return. The spring of 1826 opened with depreciated stocks, glutted markets and no buyers, and cargoes of timber sent from New Brunswick to Liverpool did not yield enough to pay the freight. Scores of men in St. John were beggared in a day, and the place and its trade were for a time well nigh ruined. So sudden was the calamity, and so widespread its effects, that many believed New Brunswick's prosperity was gone never to return, and large numbers of people left the Province. Trade, however, speedily rallied and rose steadily for many subsequent years. In 1828 the exports of the Province were valued at £457,855 sterling; in 1839 they had risen to £819.291. In 1828 the imports of New Brunswick were valued at £643,581; in 1839 they had risen to £1,513,204.

The rapidly growing trade of the Province in the early years of the century pointed to the necessity for the establishment of a bank, and accordingly the Bank of New Brunswick was chartered on the 20th March, 1820, with a capital of £100,000. This institution under prudent management has continued to live and flourish since that time, although in the interval many other banks have risen, had a brief period of prosperity, and disappeared. The banking capital required for the business of the Province has increased enormously since 1820, and now while three exclusively Provincial banks are in existence, four other banks, which have their headquarters in other Provinces, do business in New Brunswick through numerous branches.

The shipbuilding industry in New Brunswick has always been closely allied to the lumber trade. One or two small vessels were built at St. John before the coming of the Loyalists, and in the years which followed their settlement a good many vessels were built for local use. But it was not until the first quarter of the present century was well advanced that shipbuilding commenced on an extensive scale. Among the exports of St. John for the year 1824 were 60 vessels of 16,488 tons, valued at £164,880. These vessels, it was explained in the Custom House return, were built and registered at the port of St. John during the year 1824 by persons resident in the Province, either for proprietors in the United Kingdom, "or sent there for sale as remittances for British merchandize, or for owners here carrying on the lumber trade." This business of building ships for owners abroad, or for sale on speculation, continued to increase, but it was always a hazardous and uncertain industry, exposed to great fluctuations and reverses. It was a maxim of the British ship owners that a spruce ship was only good for four years' classification, and the price of colonial ships was kept down in conformity with this opinion. The New Brunswick builders frequently were men with little capital, and they were in consequence largely at the mercy of the men with whom they dealt in England. St. John, Miramichi and St. Andrews were the centres of shipbuilding, St. John usually constructing two-thirds or more of the vessels built. In 1825 the new tonnage registered in the Province numbered 120 vessels, registering 28,873 tons. In 1826 there were 130 new vessels built, registering 31,620 tons. The commercial crisis of that year, however, gave shipbuilding in New Brunswick a blow from which it was long in recovering. In 1829 the number of vessels built was only 64, measuring 8,450 tons. In 1831 61 vessels were built, measuring 8,571 tons. In 1835, 97 vessels were built, measuring 25,796 tons. In 1839 and 1840 there was great activity in shipbuilding, the number of vessels built in the latter year being 168, measuring 64,104 tons. But so uncertain and fluctuating was the business that three years later, in 1843, the number of vessels built had fallen to 64 and their tonnage to 14,550 tons.

In the early years of the Province the tonnage owned in it was very small. In 1795, St. John owned about 4,000 tons of shipping, which was four-fifths of the entire shipping of New Brunswick. In 1824, St. John's tonnage had increased to 16,000, and that of the Province to 20,000. From this time the growth of shipping was rapid. In 1836, St. John had 59,663 tons, and the total tonnage of the Province was 80,876 tons. In 1839, St. John's shipping had risen to 80,830 tons, but in 1845, it fell to 71,843 tons. The shipping of Miramichi at the same date was 6,182 tons. The shipping of the Province has since risen to above 300,000 tons, but it has recently fallen to 250,000 tons.

We have already seen that as early as 1794 the definition of the boundary between New Brunswick and Maine became a subject of concern to the governments of Great Britain and the United States. The commissioners under the treaty of Ghent had decided which river was the true St. Croix, but the locality of "the high lands which divide those rivers that empty themselves into the river St. Lawrence from those which fall into the Atlantic ocean," to which the boundary line was to be drawn from the source of the St. Croix, was still a subject of dispute. The Americans claimed that the line should go due north across the St. John to the River Metis, falling into the St. Lawrence; the British claimed that it should stop at Marr's Hill, a mountain some five miles to the south of the St. John.

By the treaty of 1815 provision was made for the final settlement of the question and the matter in dispute was referred to the King of the Netherlands, who was chosen as arbitrator. His award did not profess to decide the question, but merely to establish a conventional line which might be accepted by both powers. It carried the boundary line north to the St. John, thence along the channel of that river to the St. Francis and thence to the northwesternmost source of the Connecticut River. Of the 12,029 square miles in dispute it gave 7,908 to the United States and 4,119 to Great Britain. The Government of the United States refused to accept this award, and the matter continued to be a cause of irritation for years, and almost led to a war between the two countries. Into the details of the various phases of the dispute and the exciting episode known as the "Aroostook war," the limits of our space will not permit us to enter. Actual war was averted by the good sense of Sir John Harvey, who was then Lieutenant Governor of New Brunswick, and of General Scott, who commanded the forces of the United States and kept the turbulent men of Maine in check. In 1842 Lord Ashburton was sent out by the British Government to settle the matter, and the result was the compromise known as the Ashburton treaty, which established the present boundary. It gave 7,015 square miles of the territory in dispute to the United States, and 5,012 square miles to Great Britain, so that it gave us 893 square miles, or 571,520 acres, more than the award of the King of the Netherlands. Yet Lord Ashburton, instead of receiving credit for obtaining a settlement of the question so much more favorable to us than the award which the United States had refused to accept, has been abused by almost every colonial writer who has dealt with the question. Such imperfectly informed persons ought to know that the Ashburton treaty was a fortunate settlement of a most difficult and perplexing controversy, a better settlement than New Brunswick had any right to expect, under the terms of the treaty of 1783. The persons who negotiated that treaty and not Lord Ashburton are the men on whom censure should fall.

In 1834 the second census of New Brunswick was taken and the population was found to have increased to 119,457, a gain in round numbers of 45,000 in ten years. As the natural increase in that period would probably not exceed 18,500, it is evident that the immigration had been considerable. The County of St. John had increased 7,761; the County of York had added 8,999 to its population, and a new county had been formed from it under the name of Carleton. The old County of Northumberland, which, in the interval, had been formed into three counties, viz., Northumberland, Kent and Gloucester, had increased by 9,695 souls in ten years. In 1840 the third provincial census was taken, and the population was found to be 156,162, an increase of 37,000 in six years, or more than twice as much as the natural rate of increase, showing an immigration during that period of 19,000 or more. The County of St. John had increased prodigiously, having added 12,289 to its population. The City of St. John had increased from 8,000 in 1824 to 19,281, a rate of growth which is a fair index of the commercial advancement of the Province during that period. Fredericton had then a population of 4,002.

In the ten years prior to 1840 some important changes of a political character had taken place. The old system of government, which has been already described, was in 1832 so far modified as to bring about a separation of the legislative and executive functions of the Council. By a Royal Commission dated 3rd December, 1832, a new Legislative Council was created, and an Executive Council of five was formed, the first members of which were Honorables Thomas Baillie, Surveyor General; Frederick P. Robinson; William F. Odell, Provincial Secretary; George Frederick Street and John Simcoe Saunders. Neither the Attorney General, Charles J. Peters, nor the Solicitor General, Robert Parker, were members of this Executive Council, a fact which will serve to illustrate one difference between the system of government as it was then and as it is to-day.

The creation of an Executive Council was one step in the path of political progress, although not a very long one. It was complained that the new Executive Councillors were of the same old families who had helped the Governor to rule the Province from the first; yet if New Brunswick was backward the times were progressive. The reform bill had been carried in England, and ancient privilege was shaking with fear in the presence of the growing power of the people. New Brunswick, however, was not the country from which anything in the nature of a political revolution was to be expected. Its people were, for the most part, satisfied with the old system, and no popular leaders had as yet arisen to show them the path to responsible government. Governor Carleton, who died in England in 1817, had been succeeded by General G. S. Smyth, and he again was succeeded by Sir Howard Douglas. In 1831 General Sir Archibald Campbell was appointed Lieutenant Governor. This person was as obstinate an enemy of political progress as any of his predecessors had been; but he lived in evil days, for a reform government was in power in England. The condition of the Crown Land Department had long been a standing grievance because the Chief Commissioner, who received an enormous income from fees and perquisites, was not under the control of the Assembly and could do pretty much as he pleased. During the session of 1832 the Assembly memorialized the Governor, asking that detailed accounts of the revenue and expenditure of the Crown Land Department be submitted to the House, but the request was rudely refused. Delegates were sent to England to obtain from the Imperial Government the surrender into the control of the Legislature of the casual and territorial revenues, the designation of the revenues derived from the Crown lands. Difficulties interposed at that time which prevented this from being done, but another delegation which went to England in 1836 was more successful, although the whole influence of the Governor was employed to defeat it. The final result was that in 1837 Sir Archibald Campbell was forced to resign, and the Civil List bill was passed, carrying out an arrangement which had been sanctioned by the Imperial Government. The whole of the casual and territorial revenues were placed at the disposal of the Legislature, which made a permanent provision of £14,500 annually for the support of the Civil List. Thus was an important step gained towards responsible government. In 1839, when Sir John Harvey was governor, a still more important reform was inaugurated, in a despatch from Lord John Russell, the Colonial Secretary, limiting the tenure of office of the heads of the Civil departments and members of the Executive Council. These officials had heretofore held their positions either for life or during good behaviour; now the retention of their offices depended entirely on the will of the Sovereign or her representative. This arrangement dealt a fatal blow at the old system of family compacts. It was many years before the full fruits of the change were gathered, but they came at last.

ACCIDENTS are of constant occurrence amongst all classes of society, irrespective of age or occupation; even the strongest and most healthy may, without a moment's warning, be seriously injured, perhaps deprived of life. Every prudent man should therefore protect the pecuniary interests of himself and his family by effecting an insurance against Accident; the Annual Cost of a Policy is very small, and the consequence which too frequently result from an Accident can be guarded against in no other way.

Some persons are possessed with the idea that because they do not take long journeys, or travel frequently by railway, they are not exposed to Accidents.

When the control of the casual and territorial revenues was surrendered into the hands of the Assembly there was a large surplus, amounting to £171,000, which was placed at its disposal. This sum was gone in the course of three or four years, having been mainly wasted or improvidently spent, in consequence of the system of appropriations which then prevailed. Log rolling was the order of the day; the executive exercised no control over the expenditures, and it was not until several years had elapsed, and after a severe struggle, that the Assembly consented to surrender the initiation of money votes into the hands of the government. Until this was done responsible government could not be said to be established in New Brunswick.

In the years prior to 1855, when the people of New Brunswick were slowly elaborating their political system into the form it was finally to assume, they were deeply concerned in the great problem of how to improve their internal communications and their connections with the outside world. Nearly every public man felt that a system of railways was what New Brunswick needed most, and for the past fifty years much of the legislation of the Province, and a great part of its most vigorous political effort, have been devoted to the attainment of that end. The St. Andrews and Quebec Railway was the first great railway enterprise which attracted the attention of our public men. It was incorporated in 1836, and was intended to form a short and direct line from Quebec to the seaboard at St. Andrews, and was regarded as a most promising enterprise. But the Ashburton Treaty gave to Maine a large part of the territory through which the line was to have passed, and the construction of the road by the route intended became impracticable. The St. Andrews Railway was, however, commenced and carried by slow stages towards Woodstock. It was largely subsidized by the government, as all our provincial railways have been; a branch was built to St. Stephen and another to Houlton, and, after an independent existence of many years, it was merged in the New Brunswick Railway.

The Intercolonial, which was designed to connect Halifax with Quebec, was the enterprise which engaged the greatest amount of public attention. The first survey was made by Major Robinson, of the Royal Engineers, who made his final report in August, 1848. His line entered this Province at Baie Verte, followed the Gulf Shore to the Miramichi, which it crossed at the head of the tide; thence proceeding by the Nepisiquit River to the Bay Chaleur, and along the coast to the mouth of the Metapedia. He estimated the cost of the line at £5,000,000 sterling, the distance being put down at 635 miles. It would be tedious to enumerate the various efforts that were made by the governments of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, and of Canada, to make the Intercolonial a reality. Suffice it to say that when the four provinces were confederated in 1867 no tangible result had been reached beyond the fact that the construction of the Intercolonial was provided for by the British North America Act. In the meantime, however, another railway enterprise, the European and North American Railway, had been engaging the attention of our people. This was intended to unite Halifax and St. John with the railway system of the United States, and the project received much support. An important section of it—from St. John to Shediac—was completed at the cost of the New Brunswick government, and opened in 1860, and when Confederation was consummated, two other sections of it—Eastern Extension, from the Shediac line to the Nova Scotia boundary, and Western Extension, from St. John to the boundary of Maine—were being built by companies under a provincial subsidy of $10,000 a mile. Eastern Extension finally became a part of the Intercolonial, while Western Extension was completed, and after some vicissitudes finally came under the control of the New Brunswick Railway.

The repeal of the duties on Baltic timber and of the navigation laws by the British government were very grievous to our people, but they were largely consoled for this by the large demand for shipping which followed the discovery of gold in California and Australia. The reciprocity treaty with the United States, which was negotiated by Lord Elgin in 1854, although it aroused some dissatisfaction at the time, proved decidedly advantageous to the trade of the Province. Prior to this, in 1851 and 1852, local pride had been aroused and much interest excited by the industrial exhibitions held at St. John and Fredericton, both of which were highly successful. The manufacturing industries of theP rovince were found to be of greater magnitude and importance than had been supposed, and their increase was confidently predicted.

The breaking of the long peace which had prevailed since 1815, when Great Britain and France declared war against Russia in 1854, awakened into new life those feelings of loyalty which have always prevailed in New Brunswick. The progress of the Crimean war and of the Indian mutiny which followed were watched with intense interest by the people of this Province, and the triumph of the British arms was nowhere more heartily rejoiced over than here. These feelings were heightened when in 1860 the Queen sent her son and heir, the Prince of Wales, to visit those possessions in America which belong to the Empire over which he will reign. New Brunswick gave the Royal guest a right royal welcome, and his visit was an event which remains fresh in the memories of thousands of our people to this day. It was the first occasion that an heir-apparent had ever visited an American colony, and the new departure was regarded as a gratifying proof of the unity of the Empire.

The people of New Brunswick, although they knew it not, were then within a measurable distance of a great change, and the waves of a political tide destined to sweep away in its resistless course the old order of things were even then beginning to rise. The union of the British North American colonies had been talked of and discussed in the newspapers ever since the appearance of Lord Durham's famous report, but few people regarded it as a practical question. The difficulties were great, and the minds of many men are so constituted that they can see nothing but difficulties. But the force of circumstances were too strong for the doubters. The war which filled the Southern half of the United States with camps and battle-fields showed the thoughtful among our people the danger in which the Provinces stood separated as they were in sentiment and feeling from each other. It was felt that a union of the Maritime Provinces must at all events be had, and after much correspondence a conference of the representatives of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland was arranged to be held at Charlottetown, P. E. I., on the 1st September, 1864. Its object was to bring about a legislative union of the Maritime Provinces. The government of Canada was then in difficulties in consequence of the working of the arrangement which gave Canada East an equal representation with Canada West. Its leader intimated his desire that his government should be represented at the Charlottetown Conference, and an invitation was sent. The Canadians came down and captured the little Maritime Conference at once. A wider prospect was opened up to the vision of its members, and it was broken up with the understanding that delegates from all the Provinces should meet in Quebec to arrange the details of a scheme of Confederation.

The Quebec Conference met on the 10th October and formulated what was termed the Quebec scheme of Confederation. Its details were soon afterwards made public, and the premier of New Brunswick, Hon. S. L. Tilley, dissolved the House of Assembly and went to the people on the acceptance of the scheme. The elections were held in March, 1865, and the result was an overwhelming defeat for Confederation. A new government was formed under the leadership of Hon. A. J. Smith, but it was doomed to a brief existence. The opening of the constituency of York by the elevation of the Hon. John C. Allen to the bench, resulted in the utter defeat of the government candidate, Mr. Pickard, and the return of the Hon. Charles Fisher, who had been a member of the Quebec Conference. After this the government had no peace. They resigned in April, 1866; a new government was formed under the leadership of Hon. S. L. Tilley, and in June Confederation was carried by an immense majority. Delegates were sent to England to meet the delegates of the other Provinces there and perfect the measure of union. This was effected, and the act of union was passed by the Imperial Parliament on the 29th March, 1867. In April, May and June, the last session of the Legislature of New Brunswick as a separate Province was held, and on the 1st July New Brunswick became one of the provinces of the Dominion of Canada.

The leaders of the two political parties in the Province and their principal followers now entered the larger arena of Canadian public life. Twelve members of the Legislative Council went to Ottawa to fill seats in the Senate, and fifteen of those who had held seats in the Legislature were elected to the House of Commons. This wholesale removal of party men to another sphere of usefulness brought forward a host of new political aspirants, some of whom showed themselves to be fully worthy of the trust reposed in them by the people. The fact that the powers of the Legislature were limited only seemed to increase its activity within its restricted sphere. For the first time in the history of the Province the revenues arising from the Crown lands were placed on a satisfactory footing; for the first time the educational problem was fairly grappled with. New Brunswick had made many spasmodic efforts to improve the education of its people, but with no great success. Soon after the Province was founded grammar schools were erected in its eight original counties. In 1800 a college was founded at Fredericton, which. besides being endowed with lands, received an annual grant in money. Its charter was surrendered a quarter of a century later in order that it might be placed on a better foundation, and it received a Royal charter in 1828 under the name of King's College. Although its students were subject to no religious tests, its management was placed in the hands of the Bishop, clergy and members of the Church of England; but in 1846 the control was taken out of their hands. Finally King's College was merged into the University of New Brunswick. At this period the common schools of the Province were in a bad state, but several changes were made at various times which tended to improve their condition. It was not, however, until 1872, when the free school act was carried, mainly through the efforts of the leader of the government — Hon. George E. King— that the schools of the Province were placed on a proper footing and education became universal. The schools of New Brunswick will now bear favorable comparison with the best in the world.

The great fire which took place in St. John on the 20th June, 1877, was a disaster of such magnitude as to assume provincial importance. It burnt over 200 acres of the best part of the city, destroying most of its business houses, turned 15,000 people into the street, and annihilated property to the value of $29,000,000. A great many persons in St. John were wholly ruined and some reduced to poverty. All America, and no inconsiderable part of Europe, responded to the cry of distress that was raised; relief flowed in freely in a golden stream and all fears of suffering were set at rest. A special session of the Legislature was called for the purpose of enacting such laws in regard to the rebuilding of St. John in a proper manner, and now the city has been rebuilt on a much grander scale than before. The recent union of St. John with Portland has given New Brunswick a splendid city of 50,000 inhabitants, a strange contrast to the little town of the Loyalists a century ago.

KID GLOVE AGENCY.

The "Tant Mieux" 4 Button French Kid Glove.

We have been appointed Agents for this Celebrated Glove. It is placed upon our counters direct from the manufacturing tables of the Makers in Grenoble, France. All middle and between profits are dropped, and we offer you the Gloves at First-Hands on a Simple Commission Profit, hence the secret of their VALUE.

Although little known in this market, their extreme low price, softness and remarkable elasticity has gained for them an unparalleled hold, both in Europe and America. Our statement may be questioned, yet we write fearlessly the fact—they are in point of actual wearing value equal to any Josephine Kid Glove ever made, whilst our price is only 64 cents per pair, every pair guaranteed, made in Tans, assorted Browns and Blacks, and are cut upon a scale of measurement slightly smaller than Josephine. We will send them, postage paid, to any address. Write for a pair and try them upon the reputation we have at stake, and you will find them all we represent.

FAIRALL & SMITH, ST. JOHN, N. B.

☞Special Quotations and Terms will be sent to Wholesale Dealers on Application.

REFLECT.

It always pays a Grocer to recommend and keep in Stock the best goods only.

By so doing he gains the confidence of his Customers and increases his trade.

This is especially true regarding Soap, on account of the many LIGHT WEIGHTS AND INFERIOR BRANDS with which the market is flooded.

LOGAN'S IDEAL SOAP is without doubt the best value now before the people.

It is strictly a FULL POUND BAR made from perfectly pure stock, delicately perfumed, and is warranted to give entire satisfaction.

MADE ONLY BY

STAIR BUILDER,

POSTS, RAILS AND BALUSTERS

Of Every Description, on Hand and Made to Order.

CITY ROAD, - - - - ST. JOHN, N. B.

In ordering Rails give us the exact Rise and Run of your Stringer as sawed in the rough. Give number of RISERS instead of number of Steps. Length of Rail on Gallery, measuring from Face of Gallery Board, we allowing for all projections of nosings. If the Stairs are straight, with a continued rail, at landing, state how much the well-hole sets in back of the face of the top-riser, giving the radius of well-hole; and if landing post is to be used state if well-hole is square, if not give the radius. If the Stairs are circular draw a diagram, and give the exact width of each step on face stringer, as sawed, giving size of well-hole. In all cases state whether the rail is on right or left hand going up stairs, and which is wanted — straight or side case.

PORTLAND, MAINE.

Incorporated 1848. John E. DeWitt, President.

The attractive features and popular plans of this well known Company present many inducements to intending Insurers peculiar to itself. Its Policies are the most liberal now offered to the public; after three years they are Non-forfeitable, Incontestable and free from all limitation as to Residence, Travel, Suicide or Occupation, Military and Naval service excepted. Its plans are varied and adapted to all circumstances. There is nothing in Life Insurance which it does not furnish Cheaply, Profitably and Intelligibly. Send to the Manager for publications describing its Maine Law Convertible Policy, Class A, or its 7 Per Cent. Guaranteed Bond Policy, Class A, and other Forms of Bond Policies; also, for Pamphlet explanatory of the Maine Non-forfeiture Law, and for List of Claims paid thereunder.

Over Thirty-Four years of Successful Educational work has given this Institution an unrivalled position in the public confidence. Courses of study are provided, extending through the whole University Curriculum. Teachers eminent in their profession are employed in the different departments.

THE MUSICAL CONSERVATORY is under the direction of an accomplished graduate of Stultgart.

VOCAL CULTURE is taught by a lady who has studied under some of the best Masters of Germany and New York.

The VIOLINIST received his musical education under JOACHIM, the greatest living violin artist.

In order to meet the increasing demand of business offices for Stenographers a department of Short-hand and Type-writing has been recently established. The FINE ARTS department is maintained in a high state of efficiency. Special attention is given to the development of Christian character, as well as to the cultivation of refined taste and lady-like manners. The location is exceedingly healthful, and the Terms are Moderate.

Apply for Catalogue to Principal. Students are admitted at any time.

HALIFAX HOTEL.

H. HESSLEIN & SONS, PROPRIETORS,

HOLLIS STREET, HALIFAX, N. S.

This well established Hotel, the largest in the Maritime Provinces, has been still further enlarged by the addition of a brick wing, containing some forty odd rooms, which will increase the accommodation very considerably, more particularly for COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS, as most of the rooms are on the ground floor, very large, and fitted up as SAMPLE ROOMS.

Thankful for the liberal patronage I have received for over forty years as a Druggist and Dispenser of Medicines, I am still in a position to supply my Customers with all the New and Approved Medicinal Preparations and Druggist's Sundries, at the very lowest market prices.

In the Dispensing of Medicines, such as Physicians' and Family Prescriptions, great care is taken, and none but competent and qualified persons are allowed to take part in this important branch of the business. Keeping in remembrance that Pure Drugs is of the greatest importance both to the Physician and the Patient, and to this end my efforts have been for years directed.

HAVE YOU CORNS?

ARE YOU A SUFFERER?

Listen to what Chatham's popular Cigar Dealer says in favor of

ALLEN'S CORN KILLER.

CHATHAM, June 14.

I found "Allen's Corn-Killer" to be an excellent preparation; my Corns were so bad that I could not get my shoes on. It completely eradicated the corns, and I can confidently recommend it.

HOTEL BRUNSWICK.

MONCTON, N. B.

GEO. McSWEENEY, Proprietor, - - GEO. D. FUCHS, Manager.

The above FIRST-CLASS HOTEL, situated a few minutes walk from the I. C. R. Depot, has been thoroughly renovated and furnished with all the modern conveniences, electric light and electric bells, hot and cold baths, everything in the way of comfort, spacious parlor, ladies' room, office, etc., and the table ranks second to none in the Lower Provinces.

Tourists are specially invited to stop over and see one of nature's most interesting sights, the passing of the Bore, or tidal wave, washing up the Petitcodiac. Moncton is a Railway centre, full of activity. Numerous enterprises in full working order are chief attractions to the traveller. It is the heart of the Intercolonial. From Moncton, the Tourists can go to any point of the celebrated bathing and fishing places, such as Shediac, Charlo, Dalhousie, and to the famed Prince Edward Island. A rest at Moncton would be quite a treat. The Hotel has accommodation for 150 guests, with or without adjoining rooms, or rooms en suite.

This Hotel is famed throughout the Dominion and the United States, and every attention is given to the pleasure seeker. A first-class Livery is attached to the establishment, and the surroundings are well worth inspection.

MONCTON, N. B.

My Studio has become the fashionable resort for parties wishing first-class work, which I do in INDIA INK, WATER COLOR, CRAYON, BROMIDE. Photographs and enlarging in the above a specialty. My general Portrait work is all done by the Instantaneous Process, and the excellence of the same has more than a Provincial reputation, and my special aim is to give my patrons perfect satisfaction, otherwise we ask for no money. My largely increased patronage is the best proof of the satisfactory results thereof.

☞In connection with my Studio I have a FRAMING DEPARTMENT, where the latest designs in Mouldings are kept and frames are made to order at the lowest prices in Moncton.

The public are invited to call and inspect work and prices.

THE BEACHES,

RICHIBUCTO, N. B.

This unrivalled Summer Resort is rapidly taking a front rank among the cultured and fashionable people of Canada and the United States. It is reached from Qnebec via the Intercolonial Railway, down along the south shore of the St. Lawrence River, which widens as you go, uptil its gray northern coast is lost in the summer's mist; then across country down the wild valley of the Metapedia, along the southern angle of Chaleur Bay; through Bathurst, Newcastle and Chatham Junction, and presently you are at Kent Junction, where a branch railway leads away northeastward to Kent and its harbor, and here is RICHIBUCTO. Also reached by the Maine Central, New Brunswick, and Intercolonial Railways to Kent Junction, thence via Kent Northern and St. Louis Railway.

Fanned by the welcome breezes from the bosom of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and protected from harsh easterly gales by the spur of Prince Edward's Island, Richibucto and its sloping beaches has long been a favorite with many dog-day pilgrims.

Those who go hither find safe and pleasant boating, excellent fishing in stream and sea, unrivalled goose, duck, curlew, and partridge shooting, delightful drives over shady, well-kept roads, and ample facilities for sports by flood and field.

At the opening of the season, tourists will find "THE BEACHES" open to welcome them This handsome and beautifully located Hotel, and everything in connection with its equipment, is new and up to the requirements of the times. Swings and other means of enjoyment for children are provided. A separate structure contains the Ball and Music Rooms, which are reached by a covered bridge from the second floor of the main structure, a convenience which ladies can well appreciate. This building also contains the Billiard Room, Bowling Alleys, and Shooting Gallery.

No Piano is used in the main building.

A First-Class Livery is kept in Connection with the Hotel,

——AND——

INDIAN GUIDES MAY BE ENGAGED FOR HUNTING AND FISHING.

Lawn-Tennis Courts, Croquet, Base Ball and Cricket Grounds have been laid out, as well as facilities for Pigeon-Trap Shooting.

"THE BEACHES" will accommodate two hundred guests.

Sea fogs, which are so prevalent at many coast resorts, are almost unknown here.

Salt and fresh water Bath Rooms are provided in the House.

The Menu of the House is unexcelled.

Rates per diem for transient guests, $2.00 to $3.00. Special terms to families and boarders by the week.

For photographs of fishing and gunning resorts in the vicinity, circulars, and special information, apply to

Mr. E. E. PHAIR, Proprietor, P. O. Box 225, Richibucto, N. B.

Mails for Great Britain, via Halifax, close every Friday evening, during the winter season, at 5.00 o'clock; via New York every Monday and Thursday ..... and via Rimouski, during the summer and fall seasons, instead of Halifax, every Wednesday at 9 p m.

Mails for Newfoundland are sent from Halifax every day by despatch of fast steamers.

Mails for Grand Manan and Campobello are despatched by direct steamer, and for the former locality also by rail, at days and hours to suit the seasons and other requirements. The arrangements are announced monthly in the St. John Postal Guide.

Parcel Post Mails for the United Kingdom by the Canadian Mail Steamers will be closed at 4 o'clock on the day the mails are made up.

Letters for the United States will be taken by the Railway Mail Clerks Sunday night, if posted before 8 o'clock, p. m., at the Princess street side door of the Post Office.

Through Register Pouches are exchanged between St. John and Bangor, Boston and New York, St. John being the Exchange Station for the Maritime Provinces.

Office Hours—Daily (Sundays excepted) from 6.30 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Money Order Office and Savings Bank—Open Daily (Sunday excepted) from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Street Letter Boxes.

The Street and Hotel Letter Boxes in the City of St. John are visited daily (Sunday excepted) at 3 00 p. m. and (Saturday excepted) at 10.30 p. m.; also in the business parts of the City at 1 p. m. daily, (Sunday excepted).

Merchants' Boxes.

Rent of small box $4, and of large box $6 a year.

Though every effort will be made in sorting letters to place them in the boxes, when the party addressed is known to have a box, the Postmaster does not hold himself responsible for this always being done; the primary rule being that all letters bearing the number of the house and name of street go there by letter carrier.

An order to place in a box letters belonging to another person than the owner of the box cannot be recognized, unless such letters are addressed to the care of the box or its owner.

Box holders would facilitate the work of sorting by requesting correspondents to add the box number to the address of their letters.

Letter Carriers' Delivery.

Letters and Papers for this delivery should be addressed to Street and Number.

Change of Residence should be promptly notified to the Postmaster in writing.

Two deliveries daily, commencing at 8.30 a. m. and 3.45 p. m.

All letters mailed at the St. John Post Office within fifteen minutes of the hour fixed for morning and evening deliveries will be dispatched by such deliveries.

Letters not bearing the name and number of street, addressed to parties whose address may be known to the Carriers, will be delivered by them.

The Time Ball on Custom House, St. John, N. B.

Will be hoisted half its elevation each day (Sundays excepted) at fifteen minutes before 1 o'clock. At one minute before 1 o'clock it will be hoisted its full length; and at 1 o'clock, mean time, the Ball will be dropped. A Chronometer keeping correct Greenwich time should then show 5hrs. 24m. 15s., and the difference between this and the time shown by a Chronometer is the true error on Greenwich time at the moment. At the above hour of 1 o'clock, when the Ball drops, represents 5h. 24m. 15s., at Greenwich, the error of Chronometer may be ascertained, no matter where the vessel is lying. Masters of vessels arriving in Saint John, should compare their Chronometers by the Time Ball, as it will enable them to get sea rate, which frequently varies from harbor rates. Latitude 45h. 16m. 42s. N., Longitude 4h. 24m. 25s. West of Greenwich.
