Miramichi Advance.

CHATHAM, N. B., NOVEMBER 14, 1901.

Opening and Closing of the Miramichi

In the past seventy-two years there has been quite a fluctuation in the date of opening and closing of navigation on the Miramichi. The late Hon. Richard Hutchinson kept the record from 1830 until about the time of his death, and the ADVANCE has enabled, through his courtesy, to publish it some years since. Mr. John Johnston, of Chatham, has the list, as published, and has made additions to it for a number of years since, and he has kindly let the ADVANCE copy it up to the present year. From these records it appears that the date of the opening of the river has varied in the seventy-one years from April 1st to May 6th and of the closing from Nov. 20th to Dec. 30th. The record is as follows:—

Col. Gall, who has, for many years, kept a diary of local events, referring thereto, the other day, data regarding the earliest reported closing of the river, Nov. 20, 1839, showed that while the first closing was on the night of 20th, and crowds were on the ice at Newcastle and Chatham and there was skating between the two places on 23rd, there was a heavy rainfall and the ice ran down from Indian-town and piled on Barnaby Island on 29th. On 3rd December all the ice was out from opposite Lamont's mill downwards, while it held on about as far as Morrison's and, from that point upwards, there was open water as far as Canadian Marsh. On 6th the ice was out opposite Newcastle, compelling the small-fishermen to remove their nets to the foot of Nelson, which still held on. Ferry traffic was resumed by row-boats at Chatham on 3rd Dec, and continued until 9th, when the thermometer went down to 4° below zero and the river closed for the winter.

An Improved Service.
It has been decided to reinstate the Maritime express to Halifax, leaving Montreal every Saturday evening. Every Sunday evening, an express will also leave Halifax for Montreal. The change is rendered necessary by the fact that the Allan Line steamers will call from Halifax on Monday, instead of on Sunday.

Wood Goods in England.
In their Liverpool Wood Circular of last week, Messrs Farwood and Jandine say:—

The arrivals from British North America during the past month have been 37,695 tons register, against 42,063 tons register during the corresponding month last year, and the aggregate tonnage to this date from all places during the years 1899, 1900, and 1901 has been 464,546, 502,906, and 405,840 tons respectively.

The business of the past month has again been quiet, but of a steady character. The arrivals generally have been moderate, the deliveries fair, and stocks all round are not too large. Values of some of the leading articles show improvement, and in spruce deals a sharp advance has been established.

The arrival of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia spruce and pine deals during the past month show a decline as compared with the corresponding period last year, viz., 2,370 standards, against 11,958 standards. The deliveries have been fair, and as the import for the balance of the season promises to be light, our market is firm, and a strong advance in price has taken place; stocks are moderate. Pine deals have arrived more freely, and have been in fair request at steady prices.

In their Liverpool notes, the London Timber Trades Journal of 2nd inst. says:—

The spruce market continues in its steady trend upwards, and during the week further and marked advances have been made. This will be manifest when we state that a steamer cargo of deals from Cape Tormentine has been sold this week to one of the largest and soundest firms in the trade at a price in the neighborhood of £7 10s. 1/2.

To-day we have reasons for believing it would command more money. This advance is due to two causes—first, the drainage upon the stocks arising from better business in the country, but chiefly to the limited supply in sight between now and the re-opening of the navigation. We reiterate what we said as illustrative of the Penobscot district applies equally to the St. John, N. B., and other New Brunswick shipping districts, and this being so, we do not wonder why we should be as the usual

Bank of Montreal.

The statement of the Bank of Montreal for the half year ending 31st of October, just issued, is considered very satisfactory. The balance to credit of profit and loss is $764,705, as compared with $627,120 last year. The profits, after deducting charges of management and making provision for bad debts, are $711,823, as compared with $689,903 for corresponding period of the previous year. Provision is made for a dividend of 2 per cent on December 31st, amounting to $200,000, leaving a balance carried forward of $776,531, with the corresponding six months of last year it was $610,084.

The Royal Tourists.
The correspondent of the London Standard, telegraphing to his paper from St. John's Newfoundland, where the royal tour was virtually concluded, said:—

The Duke and Duchess have now completed their imperial pilgrimage. For two hundred and fifteen days they have roamed over the empire, which it will be their destiny to rule. Since leaving Portsmouth on March 16 they have travelled fifty thousand miles by sea and land, or more than the distance twice around the globe. Not once have they set foot on alien soil. Only on two occasions have they touched at ports not British—at St. Vincent, which is Portuguese, and at Port Said, which, nominally at least, is not part of the empire.

They have spent forty-six days in Australia, five in Tasmania, fifteen in New Zealand, thirty-five in Canada, and two in Newfoundland. They have received five hundred and forty addresses from men and women of many races, creeds and languages—Chinese, Malacca, Singalese, Malays, Japanese, Kaffirs, Zulus, natives of the East Indies, Americans, Indians, and people of British, French and German origin. The Duke has made one hundred speeches in reply, and in every one of them he has displayed not merely tact and wisdom, but the statesmanship and the comeliness which are among the qualifications of a ruler.

Prince of Wales.
A New York despatch of last Saturday says:—Commenting upon the announcement that King Edward has conferred the title of Prince of Wales on the Duke of Cornwall and York, the Tribune's London correspondent says, "King Edward appears to have the happy knack of doing the right thing at the right moment, and his action in conferring the title on the Duke of Cornwall and York is a tribute to the Duke's popularity and the approval of the people. The Duke richly deserves the honor. It is a reward for the skillful manner in which he has accomplished his difficult mission to the British dominions beyond the seas. When the Duke and Duchess were crowned on the 9th of June, it was stated in their despatches that many days would not elapse before the heir apparent would be crowned Prince of Wales, and this was not only announced but was not officially published a week ago, because the King wished it to be made known on his birthday."

In the churches of England on Sunday last—generally throughout Great Britain and in the principal cities in the Canadian Dominion—the prayer for the heir-apparent and his consort was for the Prince and Princess of Wales, instead of for George, Duke of Cornwall and York, etc., etc., as the St. John and Fredericton Anglican churches the new formula was observed.

Don't GO HOME, if you have not got at least one bottle of Kendrick's Liniment in the house. Don't go home without it. There is nothing but (read) to Kendrick's as a household remedy.

The Turks and the French.
The French government having become tired of Turkey's usual procrastination in the acknowledgment of its liability for reparations of the subjects upon French subjects and the property of French missionaries, as well as the payment of its debts—determined, "the other day" upon the drastic expedient of sending a fleet to take possession of certain Turkish Customs ports and remaining in charge thereof until its claims were satisfied. The Sultan at once saw the point and became compliant, going so far as to almost lick the hand that was about to smite him, if necessary. A New York despatch on the subject says:—

The Sultan's yielding to the French demands bring out the full gravity of the possibilities of the effect of the French seizure of Mitylene upon the crumbling edifice of Turkish despotism, says the Constantinople correspondent of the World.

The whole of European Turkey is seething with disorder. In Armenia the annual butcheries have been in full swing for the past three months and in the remainder of the empire there is the most personal violence, corruption, crime and lawlessness. From the army down to the magistracy every part of the machine of government is in a hopeless condition. In the opening of the diplomatic body at Constantinople any attempt at passing things up will be merely futile efforts. The news of the French intervention was supposed at Constantinople to be for three days, but the Sultan's cabinet being in constant session showed that a serious crisis had been reached.

The Sultan has been in a condition of perpetual terror of their lives, at his hands, were helpless and afraid to do or suggest anything.

Sir Wilfrid and the Tankers.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's announcement last night in a speech at Montreal that the Canadian government would send no delegations to Washington to seek reciprocity is significant. It has been a plank in both party platforms with our northern neighbors that such reciprocity should be obtained if possible, and delegations to Washington have been the recognized means of doing so. But the announcement apparently means more than the discontinuance of delegations, and points to the relinquishment of Canadian hopes that the joint high commission will meet again. Until his speech last night, Sir Wilfrid Laurier was always hopeful of another meeting of the commission. His utterance has additional significance owing to the arrival of Lord Parnborough from London, the new Canadian treaty. Evidently Sir Wilfrid is not among those who insist that such a treaty should be given by the government of this country as compensation for abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. His speech last night was a hint to that effect. He knows that a concession in Alaska is out of the question, and now he intimates that reciprocity will not be sought by Canada. All the same his apparent disavowal of any Canadian interference in regard to the treaty is well calculated eventually to secure better terms in future negotiations with this country.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

A Buffalo despatch says:—"Next Thursday the board of trade of a large number of the leading cities of the United States will have representatives in Washington, on delegated to call upon the President and solicit his interest in the matter of closer trade relations between the United States and Canada. The intention is to have him incorporate in his message to Congress a strong recommendation that reciprocity be sought by the United States with respect to such measures as will make possible the free trade policy towards Canada."

No one blamed the Ronald engine. Water having come, very short work was made of the fire. Indeed, it seemed that the boiler had burst, and the engine was left to rot. Fortunately, the boiler was not damaged, and the engine was repaired in a few days.

We have a splendid lot of fire fighters as hussars. They have all the activity, pluck, endurance and intelligence necessary. They are superior to the firemen of most towns of Chatham's size as fire fighters, but they are handicapped by the smallness of the steam fire engines in fire for too many instances. It is quite probable that the shameful episode of Monday night will be allowed to pass as a mere accident, and the fire department will be left to its own devices, and no lesson will be taught to those responsible for the condition of the town's fire engines.

It appears that we have an engineer and a superintendent on pay now, each of whom is supposed to be, in some cases, responsible for the condition of the town fire engines. Nobody claims that the plant is not ample.

We understand that the superintendent is not so partial to his duty to see that the engine is in charge of the fire plant does duty.

It is said that the engineer requested permission, within a month, to have the Ronald engine taken out and sent, but the Fire Committee thought it wasn't worth while to incur the cost of doing so.

Neglect to prime the pump with water before starting it at the fire was, no doubt, the immediate cause of its failure to work. The Ronald was tested on the public wharf on Tuesday morning and worked without a hitch.

Will the parties in charge again let the engine stand rust, and give up on the engine of another fire not occurring for several months to wake them up?

If they were to examine the apparatus in their charge as regularly as they draw their pay, there would be no occasion for the ADVANCE to direct attention to the results of their indifference in the performance of their duties.

Mollusc's Vegetable Worm Syrup is safe, pleasant and effective.

Notes from the Pan-American Model Dairy.

The contest is now practically over. Although the cows will not leave until Nov. 1st, the work of the next nine days will not change the relative standing of the different breeds, and we can now, with certainty, guess the winners in all except the class in which the gain in weight is to be added. The cows were weighed on five consecutive days at the beginning of the test and they are to be weighed five times at the end. All, or nearly all, the cows will show gain in weight and the larger breeds will show more hundreds of pounds more than the smaller breeds. The cows which speak well for the care bestowed upon them. None of the herdsmen have escaped having one or more sick cows, but it is gratifying to those in charge that none of the cows have died during their six months' confinement. During the hot weather they had to be very closely watched, and less experienced herdsmen would have had a very different result. The milk produced during the test was of a fine quality, and the butter was of a high standard. The cows were fed on a complete ration of food and all the ingredients are valuable when the whole milk is consumed. In making butter, practically take nothing from the milk, and the fat and sugar, which are the most valuable ingredients, are all practically lost in the buttermilk. It is a pity that the milk is not used for food, as the casein and fat are the principal ingredients taken. The other ingredients are all practically lost in the buttermilk. It is a pity that the milk is not used for food, as the casein and fat are the principal ingredients taken. The other ingredients are all practically lost in the buttermilk.

It is plainly to be seen, by the number of questions that are asked about the "total solids" test, that the majority of people have a very indistinct idea of the real meaning of the term and I will briefly repeat what I have written before:—

Milk is composed of water, casein, fat, albumen, sugar and ash. All these ingredients are necessary to make it a complete food and all the ingredients are valuable when the whole milk is consumed. In making butter, practically take nothing from the milk, and the fat and sugar, which are the most valuable ingredients, are all practically lost in the buttermilk. It is a pity that the milk is not used for food, as the casein and fat are the principal ingredients taken. The other ingredients are all practically lost in the buttermilk.

It is just forty-nine minutes—practically an hour—short of an hour—from the time the alarm was given until we reached the fire from a town steam fire engine.

Nobody blamed the Ronald engine. Water having come, very short work was made of the fire. Indeed, it seemed that the boiler had burst, and the engine was left to rot. Fortunately, the boiler was not damaged, and the engine was repaired in a few days.
