Issued by the Premier of Queensland.

Parliament Dissolved—Federation Not Proving Satisfactory.

The Marquis of Dufferin's Condition Does Not Improve-200 Japanese Soldiers Perish With Cold.

Brisbane, Queensland, Feb. 4.-Parliament has been dissolved, and the premier, Robert Philp, has issued an election manifesto voicing Queensland's dissatisfaction with the result of the Australasian federation. The premier criticises the commonwealth governnent, and declares it has bitterly disappointed the strongest advocates of the union, which many Australians would gladly see dissolved.

LORD DUFFERIN SINKING. Belfast, Feb. 4.-It was announced from Clandeboye this morning that the Marquis of Dufferin, who has been seriously ill for some time past, is growing weaker. PREMIER SALISBURY'S RETIRE-

MENT. London, Feb. 4.-It is now said that the retirement of Lord Salisbury from office will be coincident with the end of the South African war. The St. James Gazette this afternoon claims to have, the highest authority for saying "the premier has fixed the restoration of peace in South Africa as the appropriate moment to resign office. If the war is ended Lord Salisbury will retire at the conclusion of the present parlia-mentary session, but it is his present intention to retain his post until peace is accomplished."

THE WEEPING CHINESE EM-PRESS.

Telegrams from Pekin describe the Chinese empress dowager's reception of the women and children of the foreign legations on Saturday. The empress is said to have wept in acknowledging the errors of the court. But ple here are rather skeptical about the genuineness of her grief. Commenting on the reception on Saturday last of the wives and children of the members of the diplomatic corps at Pekin by the dowager empress, the emperor and the empress, the London Globe wrathfully remarks that it was humiliating to every European and American; and expresses indignation at the fact that the ministers "permitted their wives and children to be degraded by bowing to the infamous woman and receiving decorations from her bloodstained hands." 200 JAPS PERISHED. Yokohama, Feb. 4.—A detachment of 210 infantrymen left Awomori on Jan. 23 to practice marching over the snow. None of them has been seen since except a corporal, who was found last Monday by a relief party. The corporal says the men lost their way and were overcome by the intense cold. They were without fuel, and burned their haversacks and rifle stocks, but by the evening of Jan. 25. all but 71 of them had perished. The survivors separated into small parties and sought refuge. A TEMPERANCE CAMPAIGN. London, Feb. 4.—At a mass meeting, held in Exeter Hall last night, General Booth, the leader of the Salvation Army, inaugurated a special temper-ance campaign as a feature of the work of the Salvation Army during the present year. General Booth said he relied confidently upon the co-operation of saloon keepers, in this through their indicating habitual drunkards, insomuch as the supplying of habitual drunkards with liquor en dangered the publican's license, and that he intended to compile a drunkard's directory in each town and follow the habitual drunkards home and re-

The McClary and White Assessment and Street Railway Extension Bills Reported by Committee.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Toronto, Ont., Feb. 4.-The City of London bill, providing a ten-year fixed assessment for the McClary Manufacturing Company and the George White ported upon by the private bills committee of the legislature this morning. The Lodon Street Railway bill regarding a line extension to Brough's bridge, was also similarly dealt with.

[Press Dispatch.] Toronto, Feb. 4.-During the consideration of a private bill promoted by the city of London this morning, the question of exemption of manufacturing plants came up for discussion. London asks the legislature to ratify bylaws that had not neceived the necessary two-thirds majority for the fixing of the McClary Company's assessment for ten years at $150,000, and that of the George White & Sons' Company, at $17,000, for ten years. The request was granted after a most emphatic protest from Mr. Pattullo against the defiance of the provisions of the bonus bylaw. Attorney-General Gibson said that if this sort of thing was to be continued it would be better to exempt all manufacturing plants, and put everyone on an equal footing. After the passage of the bill, Mr. Pattullo said he did not see how the house could refuse Toronto's request to exempt factories on a two-thirds vote of the council. Hon. Mr. Gibson replied that that was out of the ques-

Who Is Responsible for the Remount Frauds?

Important Revelation by Major Arthur Lee. & Sons' Company, was favorably re- Expert Assistance Offered in the Par-chase of Horses and Disregard ed-Balfour and Brodrick Censured. London, Feb. 4.-In the House of Commons yesterday evening, Major

Arthur Lee said Great Britain had been offered the services of the chief horse expert of the United States army, as adviser in the purchase of American horses for the British army. The revelation was made during a heated debate on the remount question, when Major Lee said that, being military attache at Washington, he was not informed that there was any intention of buying horses in the United States. He added: "I learned from the American newspapers that British officers had been sent to buy horses, but I was not informed who they were, nor was I asked to give them such assistance as my position implied I was competent to give. At the time, I had the opportunity, through the good will of a high official, of getting the service of the chief horse expert of the United States army as adviser. I cabled the suggestion to the war office, but I received no reply." WIDESPREAD INDIGNATION. The whole debate on this question in the House of Commons causes widespread indignation. The ministerial press vigorously charges the war office with absolute incompetency, if nothing worse, and demands a searching inquiry.

The Globe suggests that the war secretary, Mr. Brodriek, ascertain the identity of the officials responsible for pigeon-holding and not acknowledging the communications, for the purpose of summarily and ignominiously dismissing them. The supporters of the government are shocked, not only by the revelawar office but more so by the tone of Mr. Brodrick's and Mr. Balfour's defenses. The former claimed merit because he did not suppress the investigating committee's report altogether. City Council Asks That Election Be Investigated.

An Effort to Prevent Lease Extension Thwarted.

Municipal Buildings Are On the Market- Ald. McMechan Must Answer Questions.

The city council, which met last night, discussed several questions of more or less importance. They ranged from investigations into alleged wrongdoing at election time, down to a 20minute argument over an account for $15. The more trivial the matter, the longer was the discussion.

The matter of greatest seriousness was introduced by Ald. Beattie, who presented a resolution, as follows, which was adopted without opposition:

"Whereas at the election for the members of the municipal council of the city of London, held on the 6th day of January, 1902, it is apparent from the poll books and returns made and delivered by the deputy returning officers of the several polling subdivisions to the clerk of the said city, that the number of ballots cast for mayor is greatly in excess of the number of persons who actually

"And whereas, the ballot papers ordered for use at the said election by the said clerk were printed by A. Talbot & Co., who have a contract with the corporation of the said city for the printing thereof;

"And whereas it is desirable in the Interests of good government of the municipality and of the conduct of the public business thereof that inquiry be made into and concerning the person or persons from whom the said excessive ballot papers were obtained, "Be it therefore resolved, that the council of the municipality of the city of London do hereby, under section 324 of the municipal act, request-Edward Elliott, Esq., the junior judge of the county of Middlesex, to investigate and report to the council upon the following matters, namely: "(1). The number of ballot papers r mayor ordered by the said clerk be printed by the said A. Talbot

"(2). The number of ballot papers mayor actually printed by the said A. Talbot & Co. '(3). The person or persons to whom cer in each polling subdivision to the '(12). The number of ballot papers bearing genuine initials of the deputy returning officer, the number of un-initialed ballot papers, and the numballot papers bearing initials other than the genuine initials of the deputy returning officer in each polling subdivision. (13). The malfeasance or misconduct of any of the deputy returning officers, poll clerks, or other officials, performance of their duties at the said election. "And the said city clerk is hereby instructed to forward a certified copy of this resolution to the said junior judge and to the city solicitor, who is hereby instructed to attend on the said investigation on behalf of the

In speaking at length to the motion, wondering where any extra ballots used at the last election had come sible, he asked, to dispose of the build-from; they could come only from the contractor who printed the ballots, or from some deputy returning officer. If the printer who had the contract was innocent, then it was due to him that he should be exonerated. If the deputy returning officers were innocent, it was due to them that they should be exonerated.

Ald. Campbell also favored the reso-lution. He said it was not the first time this sort of thing had occurred, and this sort of thing had occurred, and he was inclined to believe with Ald. Beattle that it was high time that a thorough investigation should be made, and the guilty parties punished, even if they should turn out to be personal friends of gentlemen sitting around friends of gentlemen sitting around the board. London had an unen-viable reputation in the matter of her elections. Neither political party was perfectly pure in the public estimation. If there was any way where-by ward-heelers could be taught a lesson they would heed in the future and something done to make elections in this city pure, it was time to do it. The motion was adopted without objection, and the city clerk was instructed not to destroy any papers or ballots until after the investigation. COMMUNICATIONS.

Engineer Graydon asked that a bylaw be passed prohibiting spitting in street cars, the signs in the cars, he wrote, were ineffective. No. 1 com-mittee will obtain the solicitor's opin-

A communication from Mayor Hendrie, of Hamilton, was read, in which the council was asked to cooperate in stopping legislation by which the assessment upon machinery, plant and tools of manufacturing concerns would be abolished-legislation which the city of Toronto wished to secure, but is considered by Mayor Hendrie to be detrimental to the interests of all cities except Toronto. It is contrary to the amendments recently secured by the Municipal Association of To-rento, by which all cities are placed upon an equal footing in the matter of exemption.

Ald. McMechan said he thought that the council should act strongly in this matter. It should oppose any such action upon the part of the city of Toronto. As things now are, all cities are on a par, so far as assessment is concerned, and the law should remain as it is. Toronto should enjoy no privileges not enjoyed by other cit-

Ald. Greenless agreed with this view of the situation. of the situation. He said that the council was agreed that the legislation should be opposed and should not postpone action.

A motion was made to record the council's approval of the substance of the letter, and refer it to No. 1 committee, naming the mayor and Ald. Beattie as a special committee to oppose the legislation at Toronto, if necessary; and an amendment simply to refer the matter to No. 1 committee with power, was also made. The division thus caused resulted in a tie vote, which was broken by the mayor, who voted in favor of the motion.

COMMITTEES.

The only discussion that was aroused by the reading of No. 3 committee's report was caused by the recommendation that the relief officer be sup-plied with a telephone. It resulted in the clause being sent to No. 2 committee, as it was considered an unnecessary expense, which could be obviated by a rearrangement of the 'phones now

Tenders will be advertised for a supply of clothing for the firemen. THE MUNICIPAL BUILDINGS. No. 2 committee submitted specifications and plans of work to be done, in making proposed alterations in the city hall, which the engineer estimated at $1,500, and recommended that tenders be immediately called for.

In this connection, Ald. Campbell said that while he would not say that the city hall did not need to be improved, would remind the council that other public buildings also required to be remodeled-the police station and registry office, for example-and very he said, these alterations would cost $7,000, $8,000, or perhaps more. Therefore the question arose, Was it possible to do better than this? He did not Beattle said that people were say it was, but the question might well Would it not be pos-

The tablet is the ideal form in which to administer medicine, but until recently no successful catarrh tablet had ever been attempted. There is now, however, an excellent and palatable remedy for catarrh in tablet form, known as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and sold by druggists composed of the the city. So Ald. Stuart's Catarrh Tablets contain highly concentrated antiseptics, Red Gum, Blood Root, etc., which kill the catarrh germs in the blood and mucous membrane, and in this respect are strictly scientific and modern, because all authorities are now agreed that ca-tarrh is a constitutional blood disease, and local applications can have only a transitory effect.

The use of inhalers, douches and sprays is a nuisance an inconvenience and can in no wise compare favorably with the same antiseptics given in tablet form internally, where they can reach the stomach and blood and kill old system. Those who opposed this idea were led by Ald. Cooper, who said that there were certain streets which required new walks, but not cement catarrh germs right where they are prominent lawyer and public speaker of Pittsburg, says: "I have been troubled with catarrh of the head and throat for twelve years. In this climate it seems impossible to get rid of it. The continual dropping of mucous from the nose into the throat caused irritation and hoarseness, serlously interfering with my public speaking. It took me an hour or more of coughing, gagging, expectorating and sneezing every morning before I could settle down to work, and this condition gradually brought on catarrh of stomach, causing loss of appetite, poor digestion and a foul breath, which annoyed me exceedingly. My physician advised me to try Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and I took them for two months and was astonished to find how quickly they cleared my head, throat and stomach, and I have no hesitation in recommending them. They are not only pleasant to take, but they seem to get at the very root of the trouble, ecause since using them I have had no trace of catarrh.

Many Members Were Storm-Bound-Introduction of Mr. Pense-A Few Minor Measures Dealt With.

[Special to Advertiser.] Toronto, Feb. 3.-The storm stayed the progress of the legislature's work this afternoon by rendering a long businesslike session an absolute impossibility because of the absence of many members. All the M.P.P.s from the north and those living in outlying sections of the province were unable to reach the parliament building by 3 o'clock. In fact, only fifteen representatives ocupied seats on the floor when the speaker arose to read the prayers. The adjournment, which came in half an hour, was witnessed by 22 in all.

MR. PENSE'S INTRODUCTION. Mr. E. J. B. Pense's introduction was the feature of the afternoon. As Hon. George W. Ross and Hon. Richard Harcourt, minister of education, led the newly-elected member for Kingsten down the main aisle, loud government applause was enthusiastically given. Sickly smiles were evident on the opposition faces, and with good reason, for the editor of The Whigstands for the native city of the late Sir John A. Macdonald.

MINOR MEASURES. A number of minor measures were ccorded second readings. Dr. Pyne's bill to amend the assessment act was allowed to stand over till Wednesday. The Conservative mover of it would have liked to have had the bill referred to the legal committee, but the government laid it up for discussion the day after tomorrow.

The measure of Dr. Barr (Conservative) affecting the boundaries of school districts, did not meet with the approval of Hon. Richard Harcourt, min-ister of education, who felt that it might be of value in special cases, but not as a general enactment. It will be threshed out in committee.

In answer to Mr. Whitney's question regarding the appointment of Alexander Merner as returning officer for the election of a member for North Waterloo at the election, held on the 7th of November, 1900, the attorneygeneral replied that the statute did not require returning officers to be apby order-in-council. They could be appointed by the lieutenant-governor upon the recommendation of his advisers. There was no registrar or sheriff in North Waterloo at the time of the election, and Mr. Alexander Merner, who was acting registrar, was appointed returning officer.

The speaker read the report of Judges Street and Falconbridge, re garding the estate of John Duniop, of Oxford county, who left an unsigned document which the legislature was asked to declare to be his will. The judges reported against any such action on the ground that it would be making a will for a man who died intestate, and would be a dangerous pre-

фффффффффффффффффффффффф READY TO CHEAT THE HANGMAN

Well Provided With Poison.

The Discovery Made by Accident-Statement of Doctor Who Made the Autopsy.

Butler, Pa., Feb. 4.-Had Ed. Biddle failed in his plan to escape from the Allegheny county jail, he was prepared to cheat the hangman and most likely would have done so. This discovery has been made accidentally by Mrs. Mary Redd, who lives in Butler, and whose son, Thomas Redd, was in the jail at the time. The Biddles' clothing that they wore when captured, was packed for shipment to Pittsburg. Redd managed to secure a piece of the strap on the back of Ed. Biddles trousers, which he carried home as a souvenir and turned over to his mother. Mrs. Redd ripped the strap open and found within a pill which physicians examined and declared to contain enough strychnine to have killed two or three men.

REMINISCENCE OF JOHN. A year ago last fall Detective Chas. A. Mahoney, of Windsor, arrested John Biddle on a dredge in the river at Amherstburg, on a charge of stealing a watch from a widow living near Watford, Lambton county. The dredge was in the middle of the river and the detective came alongside in a tug-"Help me aboard," shouted the detective. A man's head and shoulders appeared over the side of the dredge and a hand was extended to the officer, who clambered up on deck. looking for a man named John Biddle," said the officer. "I'm your party," answered the man who had helped Mahoney on board. "Well, I've got a warrant for you, and you're my pris-oner," and the officer grabbed Biddle by the arm. "Well, what a fool I was to help you up here," observed Biddle, appreciating the grim humor of the situation. Biddle was taken to Windsor, but the detective says that the prisoner's brother-in-law, a well-known man in Detroit, came over and effected a settlement, which was made easy by the fact that the woman from whom the watch was stolen was too ill to appear in court.

RESULTS OF THE AUTOPSY. The evidence secured by the autopsy dies intended to kill themselves rather than be taken alive, and that Ed succeeded in his attempt, while Jack failed though life was forfeited. Dr Bicker gave the following statement. HAD NINE WOUNDS.

"Jack Biddle was the worst shot of the two men, although he was in better condition than Ed. when the men were brought to the jail on Friday night. He had two gunshot wounds on the right side in the region of the liver, bullets passing up and around the body, but doing no damage. They were removed on Saturday. A bullet wound was found in the roof of the mouth, but it was slight and would not have caused death. This wound was inflicted by himself with the evient intention of committing suicide. His right aim was shattered by five bullet wounds and the radius broken in the upper third. The wound that caused his death was made by a 41.75 calibre bullet that passed through the crest of the illium on the right side and passed back through the kidney, causing hemorrhage.

"In all, Jack was suffering from nine wounds, but excepting the one that penetrated the kidney none of them would have been fatal. A FATAL SHOT.

Ed's terrible sufferings were caused by a bullet wound that struck him on the left breast about an inch and a half to the right of the nipple and passed down between the fourth and fifth ribs to the left of the heart and through the lungs. This wound was made by Ed himself, the powder marks being visible on the skin. Death was the use of the M. C. R. and Big Four. caused by hemorrhages, and the man suffered untold agony to the The Cockshutt Plow Company, of breath. Another wound found on his body was on the same side about an inch from the left nipple, but the bullet struck the fourth rib, passed under the skin and did no damage. Both bullets found in Ed were 32-calibre, and in the opinion of the doctors who held the autopsy there is no doubt that he killed ALL SHOT! At the coroner's inquest, Deputy Hoon, in describing the fight with the Biddles, said: "We put our two teams in charge of J. A. Snyder. We then got in line, and they came down hill, and the first thing I saw was Ed Biddle pulling a revolver. When he pulled the gun all began to shoot. could not tell who fired the first shot. We all shot. I should judge we were 150 feet from them. They both fell on the sled. McGovern and I walked up to them. They were both lying on their faces. I walked up first, and McGovern swore at me for it. I had a revolver in my hand, and had it loaded. I walked up to them, and McGovern walked up and hit Jack on the back of the head with the butt end of his Winchester when he was on his face. Then I turned Ed over on his back. I was the first to touch either of the men, and Point, at 3:20 Monday morning, and is a total wreck. All hands, 36 in he was going to shoot them again. He stepped back and shot Jack again after he was on the ground. I turned Ed over, and he said: 'For God's sake, don't shoot again. Let me die.'"

THE BIDDLES' BODIES VIEWED BY THOUSANDS. Pittsburg, Feb. 4.-From nine to ten o'clock today the bodies of John and Edward Biddle were exposed to public view at the undertaking establishment and several thousand persons passed before the coffins. The bodies were in black caskets. The heads of the boys were turned so that the crowd could see them at a glance and the police kept the crowd moving all the time. The procession kept up throughout the three hours. The burial will take place

CARE-LINED FACES

Are not always the sign of mental worry, for many a person goes silently along day in and day out, suffering almost beyond telling from bodlly pain, and the only sign that betrays it is the care-

Mr. Whitney as Objector.

At the East Middlesex nomination meeting, Dr. McWilliam neatly countered on the Opposition leader with regard to the number of useful measures he had objected to. To some of these measures introduced and carried by the Ontario Government, he had since become converted. But had he possessed the necessary statesmanlike breadth, would not have opposed them at the first. Mr. Whitney opposed the creation of a Minister of Agriculture. He opposed the establishment of the Algoma Pioneer Farm, the Western Dairy School, and the fruit-spraying tion, clothe them with new functions experiments. He opposed many of the grants intended to make the Agricultural College more efficient. He opposed the grant to the Poultry Association. He opposed the appointment of a Provincial Road Commissioner. He opposed the appointment of a Clerk of Forestry. He opposed providing more accommodation for the insane by the erection of a new Asylum at Brockwille. He opposed a grant to the Viccorian Order of Nurses. He opposed the appointment of a Superintendent of Neglected Children. He opposed the appointment of a Municipal Auditor. He opposed a grant for the making of Township Surveyors in New Ontariothat New Ontario which Mowat preserved to the Province, and which is full of resources now in process of marvelous development. It will thus be seen that Mr. Whitney is a chronic kicker, against progress. It is one thing for an Opposition leader to subject to proper scrutiny all measures presented by the administration of the day; but a leader should be constructive as well as destructive. An Opposition leader who has so often kicked at measures for the development and upbuilding of Ontario, is not the man to replace the progressive Premier of the most progressive Province of the Empire.

Premier Ross in Britain.

Total87

A pamphlet has been recently compiled, containing addresses delivered by the Hon. George W. Ross during his visit to England. The first address is a reply to the toast of "The British Empire League," at a banquet at which Lord Avebury was chairman. Premier Ross dealt with a matter apropos of the subject of the toast, and at the same time tending to promote the interests of Canada in the minds of Britishers. He dwelt upon the growth of Candaa during the last 30 years. "Our population," said Mr. Ross, "has increased from 3,300,000 lions of people represent England, as she was in the time of Elizabeth. Be-England has seen since that time, nobody here can say how large we shall

For the sires live in their sons, And they pay their father's debt, And the lion has left a whelp Wherever his claw is set."

The Ideal of Education.

In the January issue of The Nineteenth Century and After, Sir Joshua Fitch writes on "The Education Problem in England." He thinks that a better solution of this problem has been gained in Scotland than in England and says: "If we in England follow the precedent established so successfully in that one portion of the United Kingdom in which the general estimate of the value of education is highest, we should take the existing school boards rather than the county councils as the basis of our future local organization, enlarge them with some new elements, increase in the rural districts the area of their administraand cause them either in counties or county boroughs to have cognizance of the whole field of educational work, subject only to the authority of the central government and to their own constituents." The writer gives several reasons, among them this, that ladies cannot be members of county councils and the universal experience is that lady members of the school boards have rendered priceless services. In reply to the statement that school board elections bring "faddists" to the front, he says: "The fact is, that 'faddist' is a convenient word by which we are wont to designate anyone who is more in earnest or who has stronger convictions than ourselves." Speaking about the present political situation, he remarks: "It would be a lamentable result of present political exigencies, if, in the future, it should be found that the principles of Mr. Forster's act had in 1902 been too hastily abandoned, that a new hindrance had been placed in the way of educational progress, and that we had introduced into our municipal and popular schools religious divisions from which these schools had been for many years happily free." Yes, it would certainly be a peculiar price to pay for fighting for freedom in Africa to have the cause of freedom put back in England itself. Sir Joshua Fitch wishes to see "full opportunity for the recognition and encouragement of merit in the case of scholars in all ranks in life; such a method of public administration as may recognize the best forces the nation possesses-imperial, municipal, religious and philanthropic-and co-ordinate them in the great task of social progress; and above all, loftier national ideals and stronger convictions on the part of the public respecting the value of intellectual power as a national asset, and as the chief factor in the future honor and prosperity of the race." This is surely a worthy ideal for Canada as well as England; it demands the efforts of intelligent, patriotic men.

German Anglophobia—by Pencil

The London Times of recent date contains an article on the literature of German Anglophobia, of which it states the pencil has unquestionably been the favorite and most effective weapon. From the beginning of the war, all the German comic papers vied with one another in holding the British army in South Africa up to ridicule. During the earlier part of the war, so long as the British reverses continued, these fournals were marked by a dominant note of jubilation and contempt for British arms. British soldiers were caricatured as poltroons, and the officers as drunkards and long-eared fools. Not content with this, the subtle cartoonist next set himself to work to falsify the minds of the German people in regard to the position of the royal family, and especially that embodiment of womanly virtue the late lamented Queen.

When the tide of victory began to to 5,400,000-all loyal Canadians, all flow favorably to British arms, the prepared to bear their share in the Anglophobe spirit of Germany took on budrens, in the battles and in the such a form that contempt gave way struggle for imperial unity. Five mil- to invective. Nor is this virulency confined to the low-class German comic papers. One of the worst offenders is fore we have seen as many years as the Berlin Kladderadotsch, a comic paper which holds the same position and enjoys the same popularity in Germany as Punch does in England, or Life in the United States. In Kladderadotsch, during the past few months, have appeared cartoons denouncing Lord Roberts as "the hyena have been increased over 250 per cent, of the Transvaal." King Edward was and the exports over 300 per cent. This represented now as a monkey, and shows that Canada has steadily pros- again as praying in a closet-a monpered. Our the majority of cases precedes, and governor-generals have, from Lord seems to have inspired the written Dufferin to Lord Minto, been men of calumny. "The Islanders" and Their Critic

We have noted the comments in the London Times on Kipling's recent it is highly creditable to the good sense and temper of the English people. On the whole, the reception of the poem was reasonable and discriminating; objection was taken to particular phrases, but it was admitted that the portpreacher was in the main right. There is, we think, great hope for a people who can stand and take sharp critieism in a good spirit, and say, Well, what next? What is to be done about it? How can we put this thing right? Several gentlemen, who are by no means fanatics, have written, pointing out that the interest in military affairs and in politics is small, compared with the tremendous enthusiasm displayed in sport. Now, if there is to be a real imperialism, the great body of the people must take an intelligent interest in public affairs. Our boys and young men must feel that there is real, lively interest and much enjoyment in discharging the duties of citizenship. We have plenty of the patriotism that shouts, "We don't want to fight, but, by jingo, if we do." We need more national and imperial enthusiasm of the educated kind.

In ancient Rome, the common citizens were a mean lot of people, fed out of the spoils of weaker nations. Today the ordinary citizen must be a man of noble spirit who knows that to rule means to serve. Neither Britain nor America can discharge their evergrowing duties to the outside world unless the standard of citizenship, within their own borders, is raised. A populace given up largely to sporting and pleasure-seeking will not be able to preserve its own liberty, not to speak of ruling and guiding others. Hence we are glad that the poet receives from so many a fair hearing.

The Tickets of Leave.

[Hamilton Times.] Mr. Mills' scheme of tickets of leave appears to have worked out fairly well. The revocations of licenses issued have amounted to only 2.01 per cent of the number issued. Evidently great care has been used in administering the act to attain such results. It is of the kind that may be discredited very quickly by a careless administration. Few men are better fitted to make such a measure a success than the present minister of justice.

A Good Idea.

[Youths' Companion.] A Massachusetts business firm prints this paragraph at the top of its letterheads: "Errors-we make them; so does every one. We will cheerfully correct them if you write to us. Try to write good-naturedly, if you can, but write to us, anyway. Do not complain to some one else first, or let the matter pass. We want the first opportunity to make right any injustice that we may do." The little sermon deserves a wide audience. Few people have not had occasion at some time of their lives to regret the sending of a may be necessary to assert one's rights n subsequent letters, but there is no better rule of correspondence than to make the first one good-natured.

SIR JAMES WATSON

This Eminent English Physician Is One of the Greatest Authorities on Diseases of the Respiratory Organs.

In a recent address, he stated that the commonest of all disorders was undoubtedly Catarrh, and not one person in ten thousand passes the winter without an attack of some sort. He advocates local treatment, and says it is all nonsense to attempt to cure Catarrhal diseases by atomizers or stomach remedies. Local treatment is applied in the most scientific way by Catarrhozone, which is inhaled into the nose, throat and lungs, and drives the disease completely out of the system. It is a rational, common-sense treatment that clears the air passages and relieves at once. Physicians use it with most gratifying results, and pronounce it a specific for Catarrh in any part of the system. Mr. G. F. Fadden, of Royan, Que., says: "In my opinion Catarrhozone is the only real cure for Catarrh. I had the disease in its worst form, so bad that ordinary remedies did not relieve, but Catarrhozone cured me perfectly, and I have no fear of it again

Mr. Thomas Cox, of Minden, Ont., one of the best-known men in that town, writes: "I want to recommend Catarrhozone as the best and nicest cure for Catarrh on the face of the globe. Any remedy capable of curing the disease so bad as I had it is miracle-worker, and deserves a trial from everybody that has Catarrh." Brief extracts only, but convincing. They are not mere claims, but absolute proof that Catarrhozone can cure the worst kind of Catarrh. It is the right remedy to use, always gives satisfaction, and will cure your Catarrh if a cure is possible. Profit by the experience of others, and use Catarrhozone. Two months' treatment, price $1; small size, 25 cents. Druggists or by mail from Polson & Co., Kingston, Prizes of $1,200, $750 and $500 for the best instruments to measure wind tees sure are offered by the Hamburg Marine Observatory to German and foreign inventors. The plans must be sent in by April 1, 1903.

End Neuralgia's Agony. Have you failed to get permanent relief?
Are you almost frantic with neuralgic pain? If so, why not use Polson's Nerviline? It is the only neuralgia remedy that has never failed to cure even the worst cases, and it will surely cure you. Five times the strength of other remedies, it peneurates the tissues and drives out the pain instantly. Quick relief, sure oure, large bottles Zec.

Had Not Planned to Join Biddles at Time of Flight-Bandits Forced to Make Escape Before Plans Ware Completed.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 3.-Mrs. Soffel. wife of the warden of the Allegheny jail, who accompanied the Biddle brothers when they escaped last Thursday morning and was shot in the fight between the bandits and officers, made a statement to some newspaper men tonight at the Butler hospital. She said she had not intended going with the Biddles when they escaped, but Ed's entreaties won her over. She said that in the school house where they passed the night, and during the drive through the country the follow-ing day she suffered greatly from the jumped out. In jumping I fell. Decective Swinehart ran to me, and, calling to me, asked me if I was hurt, and I said I was shot. He raised me up and held my head on his knees. Then I felt myself fainting, and the next thing I knew I was in the sleigh. We arrived at the jail, and the rest is

"I wish to express my gratitude to Detective Swinehart for his treatment of me, and saving me from being shot down. The detectives were justified in shooting at the boys, for they intended to kill them.

"We were forced to leave the jail our arrangements were completed. I learned on Wednesday that the bars on the doors of the cells on that range were to be inspected on Thursday. I knew the sawed bars on Ed's and Jack's cells would be discovered. I gained admittance to the jail and conveyed this information to boys. We then agreed to go that night. I did not intend to go with them. They were to make their flight alone. I intended to go to the country for a few days and then meet them.

The Methodist Sunday school and Epworth League committee for the Strathroy district have arranged for the annual convention to be held in Brantford, on the 18th and 19th of March. The literary meeting of the Collegi-ate Institute last Friday, Jan. 31, was the best of the year. Mr. Auld ably occupied the chair. The programme opened with a reading by S. Cuddy, after a chorus by the glee club. R. Brown gave a reading, which was followed by a vocal duet by the Misses Davidson, which received an enthusiastic encore. Miss Margaret Williams gave a most acceptable reading, followed by an excellent plano solo by Miss Ida Woods. The meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

Miss Della Smith, of London, is the guest of Miss Nina Whitehead.

Herman Douglass, Michigan Central fireman, fell off the tank of his engine at Tilbury on Saturday. His back was seriously injured. He was removed to his home at St. Thomas.

Charles A. McCarthy, who is alleged to have stolen the sum of $300 from his former employers, the Port Hope Brewing and Malting Company, Toronto, has been arrested in Sarnia by the police of that place. John Balcom narrowly escaped being killed at Vienna the other morning. He was coming down the Plank hill, when the sleighs slewed and horses and load went over the hill. He jumped when he saw the accident could not be averted, and so escaped unhurt. Albert Manning, an Englishman, 61 years of age, appeared before the police magistrate at Chatham, charged with refusing to be vaccinated. He told the magistrate he would neither undergo the operation nor pay a fine, and was sent to jail to think over it.

Mrs. George Fellers, who resides with Mrs. S. S. Benjamin, 98 Victoria avenue, Windsor, fell downstairs on Sunday morning, fracturing her left leg. Mrs. Fellers is 96 years old, and owing to extreme age her condition is critical. Her husband, Capt. Fellers, was for years associated with Mr. Benjamin, the two gentlemen establishing the Russell House, in Detroit, years ago.

A most serious accident occurred at Vienna the other day, in which Alfred Bartlett lost his life. He was driving home from the mill at a very swift pace, and when just turning to drive on to the lower bridge, the sleighs slewed to the lower bridge, the sleighs slewed with such force against the railway that the posts were broken to pieces, and the bolt which held the sleighs together was jerked out, and box, load and hind bob were precipitated to the ice below, about eight or ten feet. His death took place three hours after. Deceased was 24 years of age.

A quiet wedding took place on Thursday evening last at the residence of J. W. Williams, Toronto, when Miss Annie Gordon, of that city, daughter of Mr. Peter Gordon, of Ailsa Craig, was united in marriage to R. J. Robinson, of Golden, B. C. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Alex. Dawson, of Indian Road, an old and esteemed friend of the Gor-don family, he and the bride's father don family, he and the bride's father having been boys together in Scotland nearly half a century ago. The happy couple left, per G. T. R., for Alisa Craig, the home of the bride's parents, where they will remain for a few days before leaving for their home in Golden, B. C. John Andrews, of Fairmount Farm, Southwold, died on Friday evening, aged 70 years. Mr. Andrews was one of the most prominent residents of the township of Southwold, and one of its most successful and progressive farmers. Mr. Andrews was born in St. Thomas Oct. 1, 1831. With his parents, when 3 years or Is31. With his parents, when 3 years or age, he removed to Southwold township, where he has resided ever since. He had lived on the farm where he died for over 40 years. Besides his wife, he leaves three daughters, Mrs. (Ald.) A. M. Hutchison, Mrs. John W. Currie, Elgin street west, St. Thomas, and Mrs. Fred Andrews, of Ottawa; and two sons, Richard, of Yarmouth, and Edward, on the homestead. Mrs. McCrae, of Glencoe, and Mr. Charles Whitwam, of Toronto, are usters of the deceased, and A. E. Andrews, of Lansing, Mich., and William and Thomas, of California, are brothers. IT IS A LIVER PILL.—Many of the ailments that man has to contend with have their origin in a disordered liver, which is a delicate organ, peculiarly susceptible to the disturbances that come from irregular habits or lack of care in eating and drinking. This accounts for the great many liver regulators now pressed on the attention of sufferers. Of these there is none superior to Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. Their operation, though gentle, is effective, and the most delicate can use them.

HANDS AND FEET SWOLLEN

The Serious Condition of a Welland Woman Whom Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets Cured.

Mrs. Joseph Young, Division street, Welland, Ont., says: "I have suffered from backache and kidney trouble for four or five years. At times I could hardly shut my eyes they were so swollen, and my feet the same. Going upstairs hurt my back so I thought would die, and my breath grew awful short. I tried almost everything with no relief. Black specks floated all around, and my eyes were very bad. The pain ran from the small of my back to the base of my brain. I could not sleep lying on my back. I went and got a bottle of DR. PITCHER'S BACKACHE KIDNEY TABLETS, and they have been a great boon to me. They are just splendid. I can see to thread a needle, and the pain in the head is about gone. All the old feeling of cracking and creaking in the base of the head is gone and the back comfortable. The old spells that came on any time, night or day, are gone, and I feel like living again. I can work now with comfort, and go upstairs fast with no trouble. I am only too glad to recommend them to everyone. I used to be afraid to turn over at night and could not sleep: now I am not afraid at all, and can sleep well."

DR. PITCHER'S BACKACHE KID-NEY TABLETS are the newest and most effective remedy for backache, ame or weak back, Bright's disease, diabetes, dropsy, puffiness under the eyes, swelling of the feet and ankles, London, Feb. 4.-The British Government replied to Dr. Kuyper, the Dutch premier, that if the Boers in the field desire to negotiate for peace, negotiations can be entered into,

BUT ONLY IN SOUTH AFRICA. The British Government adhered to its intention not to accept the intervention of any foreign power.

The text of the reply of the British foreign secretary, Lord Lansdowne, to the communication of Dr. Kuyper, the premier of the Netherlands, is as fol-

"The Foreign Office, Jan. 29. "Sir,-You were good enough to lay before me, Jan. 25, a communication from the Netherlands' Government, in which it was proposed that, with the object of bringing the war to an end, his majesty's government might grant a safe conduct to the Boer delegates now in Holland, for the purpose of enabling them to confer with the Boer leaders in South Africa.

"It is suggested that, after a conference, the delegates might return to Europe, with power to conclude a treaty of peace with this country, and the Netherlands Government intimate that, in this event, they might, at a later stage, he instrumental in placing the Boer plenipotentiaries in relation with plenipotentiaries who might be appointed by his majesty's government.

"The Netherlands Government intimate that if this project commends itself to his majesty's government, they will inquire of the delegates whether they are prepared to make the suggested visit to South Africa. It may, therefore, be inferred that the communication I received was made on the responsibility of the Netherlands Government alone, and without authority from the Boer delegates or

Commenting on similar data relative to failures in the United States, Manager Close, of Bradstreet's agency at Chattanooga, Tenn., said to the Chattanooga Times:

"The saying that a man is the architect of his own fortune, and that, generally speaking, the individual trad-er possesses within himself the elements of success of failure in the business world, has been very effectually demonstrated in discussions of this subject, wherein the leading causes of business embarrassment have been analyzed. For the benefit of those who have not followed this matter closely, however, it might be stated that experience over a period of years has shown that the causes of commercial embarrassment may be quite generally classed under the following eleven heads, close study of which is invited in order that the reader may become familiar with their application to the matter in hand:

"A .- Due to faults of those failing: "(1) Incompetence (without other incompetence).

"(3) Lack of capital. "(4) Unwise granting of credits. "(5) Speculation (outside regular business). "(6) Neglect of business (due to doubtful habits).

"(7) Personal extravagance. "(8) Fraudulent disposition of property.
"B.—Not due to the faults of those failing.
"(9) Specific conditions (disaster

"(10) Failure of others (of apparent ly solvent debtors). "(11) Special or undue competition.

"Eight of these eleven causes it will be observed may properly be classed as proseeding from, or attributable to, the trader himself, while the remaining three may just as clearly be said to be beyond his control. Of the failures reported in the United States during selves desire to lay a request for a the past year, 71.4 per cent were resafe conduct before his majesty's gov- ported due to one or more of the firsternment, there is no reason why they mentioned eight causes—in other should not do so. But his majesty's words, more than seven-tenths were due to faults of those failing, while 28.6 per cent were due to faults of others. This, it is to be noted, is rather a different showing from that made in 1900, when fully 77.4 per cent was due to faults of the traders themselves and 22.6 per cent was due to faults of others. The closest approach to this showing made of recent years is found to be that of 1898, when 70 per cent was due to faults of weaknesses of the traders themselves and 30.3 per cent to others."

UMBRELLAS: THEIR WAYS

Twas a Malignant Mortal Who First Devised Them.

Conspicuous Among Their Evil Qualities is a Lack of Natural Affection.

"I think I've left my umbrella upstairs," I said to the elevator man.

'Take me up till I get it." He took me up accordingly, but of course I didn't get it. I never do get my umbrella when I go after it. I may hang it securely on its nail or place it safely in its corner one minute, but it surfeited with sorrow it is allowed to is always somewhere else when I go to get it. If I know it's going to rain during the day and feel happy because | Star. my umbrella is waiting for me down at the office, I always get left, because it is always at home. If I take it home at night knowing it's going to be raining in the morning, that umbrella vanishes like a thief in the night and greets me malevolently when I arrive dripping at the office. I don't know how it travels, whether it hangs on to a strap in the street cars or projects itself parachute-wise through the air. I do know, however, that it's never where I want it when I want it, and that I own an umbrella save when I have it safely clutched in my strong right hand. The worst of this wandering habit of my umbrella's is that it seduces my rubbers. They have always chummed with my umbrella, and consequently have become demoralized. They, too, are never where I want them when I want them. What a striking example of the results of keeping evil com-

I never would have owned an umbrella, anyway, had not an associa-tion of land pirates who disliked me for my excessive morality given me one once as a present. It was a nice, in-nocent-looking umbrella, too, with my initials engraved on its handle plate, but you can't judge an umbrella by its looks.

I often wonder who the malignant mortal was who invented the umbrella. Whence drew he the inspiration to create this noisome thing that curses humanity, holds half mankind in terror, and breeds suspicion among the members of the race? I pause for a reply. Conspicuous among its evil qualities I discover in the umbrella a lack of a joyful affection. Your dog proach; your cat will arch its back and purr delightedly when you arrive; but your umbrella does nothing but slink into a corner, drop surlily on the clean floor, and plot either your downfall or the undoing of some great and

They accomplish their foul purpose by deserting you the very first time any of your friends come to call on you. They invariably select your dearest friend to decamp with. Sometimes they march out boldly under his arm, sometimes they hoist themselves brazenly over his head, but generally they their crooked handle in your friend's overcoat pocket and sneak out with him on the side farthest away from you. Sometimes you can catch them in the act, but generally you do not discover your loss until a rainy spell comes and you have to buy an-

Umbrellas do not always elope thus with your friends, however. Some of them are so utterly deprayed, so lacking in natural affection, that they will go away with the first rent collector, book agent or plumber who happens along, and I had one umbrella so utterly lost to all sense of decency that it chummed up with a deacon in our church one night when he came around to see me about a trifle of back pew rent, and, being only human, I have never since been able to regard that particular deacon with the amount of brotherly love that is undoubtedly his due.

Nowadays umbrellas make very little pretence of being useful. There was a time, of course, when they did affect some pretensions to usefulness, but that day is pretty well past. You can't humbug all the people all the time, and so the umbrella has in later years come to be regarded somewhat in the fight of an ornament and a luxury, like pocket flasks or a coachman, for instance.

Of course, I do not mean to say that umbrellas are litterly useless. I have known an um rella when tightly wrapped to make a very fair substitute for a walking-stick; opened, an umbrella has sometimes stopped a runaway horse; held in the hands of an infuriated female, has sometimes Prinzessin Victoria Luise... New York.... West Indies Chastised a recalcitrant husband or kept a mob at bay. But, after all, these are purely negative virtues. Why buy a substitute for a walking-stick when you can get the real article so much cheaper? Why stop runaway horses with umbrellas when we have a police force with no other task before them? And why should lovely woman make herself an object of terror to the innocent and the guilty alike with an umbrella when she already has a whole arsenal at her command, including hatpins, flat-irons, mop handles and rolling pins, with which she can do much surer and equally deadly work? Again I pause for a reply.

Summed up, then, I claim that the twentieth century umbrella is a curse to any country, a stirrer-up of strife, a caster of unjust suspicion upon worthy men, and a needlessly painful weapon of punishment in the hands of gentle, tender-hearted woman. It is a deception and a demoralizer, a fraud, a delusion and a snare, and the wonder to me is that in a world already over-burdened with care and pursue its career of devastation unchecked .- "Ravenspur" in Toronto totototoootototot Barton in his excitement pressed close to the scene, dragging Warden with him. The avenue by which they approached The avenue by which they approached the blaze was a narrow street which lay along that side of the house in which were the entrances to the gallery and stage. As on this side there were no windows through which any of the flames within might escaped, so the effect which met their eyes was made up of a dense background surmounted by fire, in strong contrast with the red glow of the sky and of the opposite houses. of the sky and of the opposite houses.

The danger in case the walls should fall outwardly was great; and this, probably, according to the nature of crowds in general, was the reason why it was precisely here that the throng was thickest. The broad shoulders of Barton and his complete carelessness about ton, and his complete carelessness about the shoulders of others, as well as for the abuse with which he was frequetnly assailed, but which he was well able to pay back in kind, soon forced a passage for himself and for his companion; and there they stood for some minutes shar-ing in the dead silence around them, which was only broken by the hissing of the flame, and by occasional ejacula-tions of delight whenever the glow made a sudden leap upward. Fortunately the the abuse with which he was frequently from being entirely complete by their disappointing knowledge that the house had been empty for some hours, and that consequently the lust of horror, which is one of the chief attributes of crowd under such circumstances, was doomed to be ungratified.

Presently, however, it seemed as though fate was for once about to bestow more than it had promised, and to provide a real tragedy after the spec-

Though no human lives were in immediate danger, the burning house, nev-ertheless, continued what was worth the while of many to risk life itself to save. while of many to risk life itself to save. Close by the stage door, opposite to which Barton and his friend were standing, had gradually gathered together. It is a standard of the standard of the unfortunate members of the orchestra, whose only means of livelihood were being consumed almost before their eyes. For one with the income of a fiddler or trumpter to lose his inof a fiddler or trumpter to lose his in-strument is much the same, in its conse-quences to him, as to lose his very hands It means at least temporary ruin, and probably something worse than ruin, to wimself and to those who are dependent upon him. But still, what was to be done! Who would be so rash as to plunge into that Phlegethon? Suddenly Barton felt himself, in spite

Suddenly Barton felt himself, in spite of his shoulders, thrust aside, and turning round, saw a young man who, like himself, had contrived to reach the front, but, to judge from his appearance and figure, less by dint of strength than by force of energy and activity. The new-comer, having reached the door, mounted upon one of the stens outside it, and then faced round quickly.

hurt. In five minutes one shall have them—me, at the least, I shall have the mine. Suivez-moi!"

And so, with the air of a captain calling upon his company to follow him into the breach, he ran straight through the stage door.

Such an example is notoriously contagious; and there were not more than one or two of his comrades that did not follow—possibly their instruments were safe at home. There were even one or two volunteers, amongst whom Barton was conspicuous. He had come for the whole spectacle; and he was apparently not one whom any instinct of self-preservation would restrain from all of it that there was to be seen.

But there was also one who without having anything at stake and without being a volunteer, also accompanied the charge. Mark Warden, grasped by Barton and pushed from behind, had to enter the narrow and intricate passages of the house whether he would or no. And though he did not feel fear, he would certainly have preferred to be left outside. He would scarcely have cared to risk life for life; and much less did he care to risk it to satisfy unproductive

Not sharing, therefore, in the eagerness with which the rest ran forward, but rather drawing himself backwards from them as well as he could, he before long found himself alone in a labyrinth; nor, so sudden and rapid had been the process of his arrival there. the process of his arrival there, was he able to regain the outer air without a guide. So he made up his mind, as the wisest thing he could do, to wait there quietly till the others returned, seeing that, if he tried to extricate himself, he would probably only succeed in making would probably only succeed in making matters still worse. How long he waited there he did not

In which he stood was beginning to fill rapidly with smoke; and he heard, instead of the returning feet of his companions, an ill-omend roar of voices out-

In another moment his ears heard worse sound still, and that not outsid but close at hand. It was as though the whole building had given an audible shudder, which passed through himselt shudder, which passed through filmself also. Lifting his eyes, he saw a fearful sign of doom indeed. The celling was cracking in long lines above him, through which rained a shower of sparks; and a tongue of fire, which at every beat of his pulse grew longer and wider had lighed its way through the wider, had licked its way through the cornice, and was writhing on and on to-wards him through the air.

The roaring of flame, the falling of beams, were now the only sounds he heard. The whole world seemed to have suddenly faded away, and to have left him alone with instant death.

Who may describe the terror, the despair, of a moment when a lifetime of horror seems crushed into the space of he falling of a single grain of sand?

It was not even as though a struggle for life was still possible. With his energy unimpaired he could do nothing but wait for the end, and pray that it might And yet he did not lose his presence of mind. But that only made his utter powerlessness all the more terrible to bear. The most abject terror is nothing to what he has to undergo who retains his senses and his strength only to find in them additional instruments of tor-

Meanwhile the orchestra had been reached; those who could find them were already hurrying away with their instruments by another entrance—for the pasage leading to the stage door was no longer practicable—and in another in-stant the hand of the young musician who had led the way would have grasped the instrument for whose sake he had entered the house of fire, when Barton, who was close to him, suddenly exclaim-

"Good God! where is Warden?" He heard the exclamation and turned. A word or two, rapidly uttered, passed between him and Barton; and then at once, forgetting his violin, and in spite of the suffocating smoke-clouds that were thick enough almost to destroy without the aid of flame, he dashed back through the perilcus entrance from which his companions were now flying in confusion. Barton would have followed; sooner did he attempt to do so than his passage was barred by the sudden de-scent of a burning beam, so that he had perforce to make the best of his out with the rest.

lost. His lungs were already more full of smoke than air, and he could already feel upon his face the hot breath that glowed from the fiery tongue that had now come so near as almost to have broadened into a sheet of flame, when, borne in as it seemed to him, upon a blazing cloud, stood before him the figure the young musician.
"Quick!" cried out the latter in French

'Quick! in another moment—'
Unaware of the risk that had been run by a stranger for his sake, thinking only, if he could be said to think at all, that if was to save himself that his that it was to save himself that his guide had returned, Warden followed him nto the street. It was indeed only a moment that had lain between them both and certain death. There was barely time for them to regain the outside of the house, when a crash, followed by a sympathetic cry from the crowd, told that the heavy roof had fallen in, and that all was over.

Then rode up a troop of the Life Guards, but, except for their adding to the effect of the scene by reflecting the the effect of the scene by reflecting the red and white light of the flame from their helmets and cuirasses, they might just as well, for any good they found themselves able to do, have remained quietly in their barracks. Foot Guards also, and volunteers in uniform, also also and volunteers in uniform, also mixed with the crowd; and, all too late, and yet as quickly as had been possible, came the galloping of fire engines from all directions—just in time for their drivers to see and hear the ferrible crash that told of the fall of the outer walls themselves. Then the flames, after a last leap upward, suddenly sank down into the crater thus formed, and the tragedy was wholly at an end.

Address of Dr. Mackay to Oxford Temperance Advocates-Resolutions Adopted -Divergence of Opinion.

Woodstock, Feb. 1 .- In obedience to the summons of Rev. W. A. Mackay, D.D., president of the Dominion Alliance, the annual convention of the friends of temperance in the county of Oxford was held here today, the town statement not made in his presence. hall being well filled.

President Rev. Dr. Mackay, in his annual address, said: Every great re-form passes through the successive stages of indifference, ridicule, opposition and victory. Prehibition having passed the first three, has now entered upon the last. "Friends," he said, "we have entered the last stage, that of victory, fight we must still; but it is not more sure that tomorrow's sun will rise, than it is certain that prohibition is in the near future. Liquor sellers may curse and politicians may squirm, but 'victory is nigh.' What did our eyes behold on Friday last week? We gazed with astonishment upon the sight of 1,000 men-brewers, distillers, licenseholders and the bottle-corkers on their knees, a somewhat unusual attitude for these men to assume. But there they were on their knees, and this before our premier, the temperance lecturer, and the prohibition statesman, and an executive officer of this alliance. And what were they doing on their knees? They were praying! No indifference now. No ridicule now. And what was their prayer? Here it is in their own words: "Let us alone; we have a license. Let us alone." But Christ did not let evil doers alone, nor shall we let them alone until they let us alone. I say to our liquor sellers: Gentlemen,-So long as you make wives widows, fathers fiends and children orphans, so long as you break the hearts, desolate

NO SUCCESSOR WAS SELECTED

-Mr. Richard Oke, the well-known To Fill the Position of the Late Engineer Findlay.

> Water Commissioners Favor the Promotion of Assistant Engineer R. M. Simmie.

At the inaugural meeting of the water commissioners, held yesterday, the most important business before the board was the choice of a successor to the late Engineer Findlay. Nineteen applications in all were received, several being from persons outside the advantage in the role of Eldreige Groscity. Among the applicants are the following residents of the city: R. M. Simmie, Sam S. Glass, Robert Angus, R. M. McCormick, J. R. Thomas, A. W. Bowbridge, John Copeland, George Rose, J. R. DeWolfe, Fred Fortner, Thomas Shaw, John Waud, A. R. Tal-

The mayor suggested that a man should be chosen who could do mechanical drawing; a man able to superintend the putting in or fixing of machinery, and who could attend personally to the fitting of valves. He was in favor of promoting the present first engineer, Mr. Simmie, if the latter proved to be fully qualified for the position, a plan which met with the full approval of the other members. Commissioner Little moved that the chairman and engineer report as to who was most fitted for the position, and the motion was carried.

Mr. Wm. Jones, on motion of Com-missioner Little, was elected chairman for another term. Mrs. Findlay, widow of the late Engineer Findlay, communicated with the board asking them to allow her to occupy the engineer's house at Spring-bank. How long a space of time this occupancy would cover was not made known, and the matter was accordingly referred to Engineer Moore to

A communication was received from Superintendent Moore recommending (1) that the service connections at Victoria Hospital be left as at present and that meters be put on each service, to be charged at the usual rates, with a minimum gross rate of $100; and (2) submitting plans for the proposed changes at the pavilion at Springbank, showing the improvements required by the present tenant.

The estimated cost is $500. On motion of the mayor, the meter rent at Victoria Hospital was fixed at $50 net. The balance of the report was accepted. Engineer Moore was instructed to submit a report on the cost of changes

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

The Trusted and Never-Failing Medicine in Homes Where Sickness Prevails.

As the sun daily diffuses its light and heat for the benefit of rich and poor, so do the life-giving virtues of Paine's Celery Compound bless the sick in granite mansion and humble cottage. Today, it is the trusted and popular medicine in our Canadian homes Paine's Celery Compound makes pure, rich, and healthy blood by driving poison germs from the system. It is the true food for weak and shattered nerves. It invigorates and gives new tone to the system. It gives the refreshing sleep so necessary to brain and nerve centers. It brings buoyancy of spirit in place of lassitude and despondency. It makes sick people well and strong. Mrs. Anna Dawson, Wilkes-watchful eye, she meets a young and handsome artist, Albert Slade, the adopted son of the rascal who ruined port, Ont., says:

"I consider it a pleasure and duty to put on record what Paine's Celery Compound has done for me. I have been afflicted with nervousness and at times have been without sleep for 50 hours. He believes the man leaving his house. He believes his wife unfaithful and accuses her. Her protests and prayers are unavailing, and he leaves her to seek the man whom he believes has ruined his happiness. He finds the artist dying in Egypt, and after learning from him that Lois is pure and faithful, he returns to beg forgiveness. The curtain falls on a reunited and happy pair. Miss Adelaide Thurston, as Lois Holcombe, showed herself especially fitted to portray the lighter shades of emotion. In the tender scenes with her father in the first act, she was most effective, but in the stronger emotional passages she failed to entirely satisfy the artistic reguirements. A share of the honors fell to Otis B. Thaver, for his delineation of the gentle, lovable, old Connecticut farmer, whose heart was wrapped up in his daughter. Wm. H. ## PREPARING FOR FRIDAY.

We are telling you quite early this week of the preparation for Friday and Saturday sales.

A Big Walking Skirt Sale. A Big Wrapper Sale.

Wrappers and Skirts are filling our workrooms, and the two sales will start early Friday morning. What better could you want than a Wrapper or Skirt made in our own workrooms in the latest styles, and then, when the materials are picked from stock, you can place double dependence on them. Prices and fuller particulars will be given in Wednesday and Thursday evening's paper.
