Gladstone's Eyesight. London, Aug. 5. - Mr. Gladstone is able to discontinue the use of colored spectacles for the purpose of reading. Britain's Harvest.

LONDON, Aug. 4 .- The Mark Lane Express, commenting on the British harvest, says: The yield of wheat will be 16 per cent better that in 1893, and will be the best crop gathered in several years. William's Visit at Osborne. LONDON, Aug. 5 .- The Queen's house party, which will meet the Emperor of Germany at Osborne, includes the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, Prince and Princess Christian, the Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise, and Prince and Princess Henry of Battenberg. The Prince of Wales and the Duke of York will live on board the royal yacht at Osborne during the Kaiser's visit.

Cholera in France.

London, Aug. 5 .- The Central News correspondent in Madrid says that the Spanish physicians whe were sent to Marseilles a few days ago to investigate the charges that cholera was epidemic in that city, and that the fact was concealed by the authorities, have reported that they be lieve that cholera does not exist in Marseilles. They were not allowed to enter the hospitals in pursuing their investiga-

Yacht Disabled.

QUEENSTOWN, Aug. 4 .- While the yachts Papoose and Babe Thief were racing in the harbor yesterday afternoon the Papoose, which was leading, running with full sai in a fresh breeze, dashed into the Iron Logs Spit lighthouse. Her starboard side was smashed and she began to sink. The Babe Thief abandoned the race immediately and rescued the crew of the disabled yacht. The Papoose was afterwards beached.

Discount Rates.

London, Aug. 5 .- The rates of discount during the past week were 11 per cent for three months and 1 per cent for 30 days. The glut of money continues. The decision of the joint stock banks to reduce deposit allowances to 1 per cent has been approved. Silver was steady during the week. Business on the Stock Exchange was stagnant. American railroad securities were especially idle and showed very few changes.

Priests May Ride Wheels.

BERLIN, Aug. 5 .- Catholics have been agitated for some time by the question, Is it consistent with the dignity of the Catholic clergy to ride bicycles? In the rural districts many priests have shocked their parishioners by appearing on wheels, and the feeling against these performances be-come so bitter that it was deemed expediin the service of the church, notably when called to make hurried visits upon parishioners or to administer the last sacraments to the dying. In his letter on this subject to the bishops he recalls the fact that as far back as 1845 a priest invented and rode a bicycle.

George Was Wet. Cowes, Isle of Wight, Aug. 5 .- George J. Gould had a narrow escape from drowning Friday, when he met the Vigilant in a steam launch off the Spit lightship. Just as Mr, Gould was walking across a plank held between the two vessels the launch gave a sudden lurch and Mr. Gould fell into the sea. He was wearing a mackintosh at the time, and the garment flew over his head, and for a time Mr. Gould's situation was critical. However, he kept his head, and, treading water, threw his arms up, and just as he was sinking succeeded in gesting the mackintosh clear of his head. Gasping for breath, he held out his hand to the Vigilant's people, who caught it in the Aug. 13. nick of time and dragged him on board the sloop. Mr. Gould is none the worse for his Lady Somerset's Appeal.

LONDON, Ang. 5 .- Lady Henry Somerset, who left Southampton for New York by the steamship Paris, visited the Palace Theater recently. Since then Lady Somerset has written a letter to the newspapers declaring that in the tableaux vivants, at the carotid artery. Brodie will probably that establishment, petticoats, bodices recover. His assailant was arrested. The "and all," are frankly dispensed with for men had quarelled about a bet. the first time in a Christian country, and yet all are bidden to assist at this "exhibition of unclothed women." Lady Somerset adds: "This letting women make publie merchandise of the beauty of their bodies is the gravest insult and dishonor put upon women in our time. I appeal to the English public as accomplices in the ruin and degradation of these girls, and demand to know why the county council does not interfere."

English Capitalists Distrustful.

Ballard Smith cables from London: "The Statist, the leading financial journal of England, declares in its issue of today that the immense withdrawals of English capital from the United States are no longer due to either the domestic or the Australian mency difficulties, but solely because of distrust of the financial future in America. This distrust is amply explained, it says, by 'the unwise currency Congress to take proper measures to restore order in the currency and the unsatisfactory state of the tariff. The surrency question, however, is the main cause of all the trouble.' A gentleman having intimate relations with Liverpool merals. policy followed so long, the refusal of Congress to take proper measures to chants says the belief is very genera ! Please mention this papea among them that if the enormous English withdrawals of gold be not checked the United States will in an appreciable time be practically on a silver basis. He reports a most gloomy feeling among those Liverpool merchants with American connections."

A Royal Scandal Contradicted. LONDON, Aug. 4 .- Reynolds' Weekly newspaper published on July 8 what professed to be authentic account of the much rumored marriage of the Duke of York in Malta, adding that there had been more than one child by the union. Somebody wrote to the Prince of Wales to inquire as to the facts, and Sir Francis Knollys, the Prince's private secretary, replied on July 25 as follows: "I am desired by the Prince of Wales to state that the report was so obviously invented for the mere purpose of causing pain and annovance to the innocent young couple, that his Highness has always declined to allow it to obtain further eurrency by contradiction. There is, of course, no shadow of a foundation for the report, but it is none the less cruel and milignant."

The same inquiries elicted from Archbishop Canterbury a contradiction of the report that the archbishop had banned the Duke of York, knowing that the duke was a husband and father before his marriage with the Princess May. Radical Reforms Wanted.

LONDON, Aug. 5 .- The Trades Union Congress, which will open in Norwich on Sept. 3, promises an unusual development of the political side of trades unionism. The session will cover five days, and notices have already been given of 119 resolutions. The independent labor agents are endeavoring to secure a canvassing for the election of Tom Mann as secretary and for votes whereby to secure increased representation in the council. There will be a hot fight between Mann and Fenwick, who is also a candidate for secretary. The latter is accused by the independents of being a confirmed Government place hunter. John Burns has given notice of his intention to move a petition to the Government against further toleration of the House of Lords, and other resolutions will be introduced demanding such reforms in Parliamentary procedure as will put an end to obstruction. There will also be resolutions aiming at the amendment of the jury law, prevention of poor law administration, and calling attention to the necessity of passing the Employers' Liability Bill in the form in which it left the House of Commons.

The Evicted Tenants Bill. Unionist party in Parliament have served she will be against China. So of France, possessor. McDonald wanted to sell the notice on the Government that if the though French interests are but indirectly horse without the consent of Colnotice on the Government that if the evicted tenants bill is transformed into a voluntary measure it will have some chance of receiving the gracious consideration of the House of Lords. The provision for compulsory reinstatement of an evicted tenant with the assistance of public funds the Unionists denounce as a species of plundering. A provision for voluntary reinstatement, giving the landlords a greater degree of control over the arrangements for reinstatement, they think, might avert the rejection of the bill by the House of Lords, but otherwise they contend that it has no chance of acceptance by the Peers. The Irish members, however, while anxious to obtain some form of a measure to relieve the present situation, feel that the abandonment of the compulsory provision is impossible. Messrs. Redmond and Sexton are seeking some sort of a compromise that will enable the evicted tenants to obtain speedy relief, as the Paris fund cannot be reckoned upon for some time to come. It is certain that the fund cannot be released in time to alleviate the distress which the coming winter is sure to bring, but no ent to appeal to Rome. The Pope decided form of compromise has yet been hit upon that the Catholic clergy might ride wheels | that is likely to be acceptable to the opponents of the bill in its present shape. Mr. John Morley has written a letter to Right Hon. Leonard Courtney, who is charged with the private negotiations on behalf of the Unionist leaders, stipulating that if the bill passes its second reading in the House of Lords the Government will consider the Lords' amendment in committee. This proposal was laid before Lord Salisbury and the Duke of Devonshire. who refused to consider it, but they offered the alternative that if the compulsory clauses of the bill were withdrawn before the measure finally passed the House of Commons the bill would then pass its second reading in the House of Lords. This appears to be the end of the negotiations. The Radicals and Nationalists, discussing the situation in the lobbies, are agreed that the Government cught to immediately appeal to the country in event of the rejection of the bill by the House of Lords. The debate on the Evicted Tenants Bill in the House of Lords has been fixed for Contradictory Stories from the Scene of Conflict.

The Chinese Appear to Have Been Trounced at Gashan.

A Japanese Warship Sunk by a Chinese Ironclad-Uncle Sam Is Not Acting in Concert with Any Combination of Powers in the Matter,

According to George W. Smalley's cablegram, on the face of it China is the offended power. Corea is a vassal state. The suzerainty of China is of old date. She had, at any rate, she claimed, in virtue of that relation, the right to send troops to Corea in support of the King's authority. It is difficult to see on what Japan bases her claim to send troops, but send them she did. Oriental morality in such matters is not very rigid, nor is European. Japan at any rate looks all through like the aggressor. The Emperor of China makes out the better case, and his manifesto though in form an imperial edict to his own people, is clearly addressed to the outside world. The Grand Council, which speaks in the Emperor's name, is composed of able men, some of whom know something of Europe and America. The young Emperer—he is only 23—is in their hands, and they and he are a good deal in the hands of Li Hung Chang, the great Viceroy greater share of power and a hands of Li Hung Chang, the great Viceroy hot fight is expected. They are already whom Gen. Grant compared to Prince Big. marck. The story of his disgrace is not confirmed, nor is it consistent with the imperial decree putting all the military authorities under his command. But which ever has the better case, Japan is believed to have the better army and navy, especially navy. If the war is to be a naval war the chances may be in her favor. Military experts are debating whether China can send troops overland. The country is difficult. Supplies for a great force might take time to collect. They forget that to China time is nothing. Her resources are almost inexhaustible. If the European powers stand aside, and if there be no internal troubles China ought in the pauper immigration, amendment of the long run to win. The European power most concerned is, of course, England. China is her best friend in the east. She had long and still maintains great interest and influence. She will protect her interests. She may side openly with China, but there LONDON, Aug. 4. - The leaders of the Russia may move or may not. If she does and of which McDonald alleges he is sole affected. She has, however, a score to pay off on account of Tonquin and also Siam, and on that account the Boulevard journals of Paris may start a cry that French honor is at stake.

THE CHINESE ON THE RUN. LONDON, Aug. 5. - The Japanese legation here received this dispatch from Tokio yesterday afternoon: "Gen. Oshima, commander of the troops in Corea, reports that after severe fighting from 3 to 8 a.m. on July 29 he won a decisive victory over the Chinese army entrenched at Kashan. Every entrenchment was taken, and more than 500 out of 2,800 Chinese troops were killed and wounded. Our casualties were five officers and 70 men killed and wounded. The enemy dispersed and fled towards Hong Chow, intending, perhaps, to avail themselves of the Corean boats. In the vicinity of Gen San our troops captured many flags, much ammunition and four guns. Gen. Oshima eventually established his headquarters at Kashan."

BERLIN, Aug. 5-The Chinese Minister here has received an official dispatch stating that the Chinese ironclad warship Ting Yuen rammed and sank a Japanese warship off Jerome Gulf on July 29.

A JAPANESE VICTORY. The Japanese Legation received a telegram yesterday which fully confirms the telegram with reference to the defeat of Chinese forces in Corea and shows that the engagement referred to was the same as that of Gasan or Yashan, which telegrams from Shanghai and Tien Tsin described as a Chinese victory and in which it was said 2,000 Japanese soldiers had been killed. The telegrams contain the substance of an official bulletin from Gen. Oshima, commander of the Japanese forces in Corea.

At 3 a.m. on July 29 the Japs advanced on the Chinese entrenchments at Shen Yeng, and after several hours severe fighting won a decisive victory. The Chinese entrenchments were captured, and the whole force of about 3,000 men was put to rout, with a loss of about 300 killed and wounded. The Jap loss was five officers and 70 men killed and wounded. The entire camp equipage of the Chinese-a great quantity of arms and munitions of war. including four cannon and many flags were captured. The Chinese troops fled in complete disorder, with the intention, Gen. Oshima thought, of endeavoring to escape by Corean boats. The Japanese were in pursuit when the bulletin was forwarded. Gen. Oshima took possession of the Chinese headquarters at Gasan or Yashan.

UNCLE SAM IS NOT IN IT. That the United States is a party to any combination of powers designed to act concertedly in Asiatic waters the State Department officials deny. Secretary Gresham and the present Administration do not favor any "entangling alliances."

HOW TO CUT SHORT THE WAR. LONDON, Aug. 5 .- It is apparent that the news from both China and Japan must be carefully weighed before its credibilty be estimated. Even official announcements celles, of St. Hyacinthe, Que. are open to suspicion, especially those from Chinese sources. The most important and ominous news yet received is that regarding the Emperor's abuse of Li Hung Chang. Great doubt of the truth of this report is expressed in London, but its source makes it entitled to more credence than anything yet received from China. The principal fear is, perhaps, that the young Emperor who is now only 23 years old, has suddenly taken the reins of Government in his hands, overthrowing the inbeen the real head of affairs for many

The only hope of cutting short the war at the outset lies in England taking advantage of the Kow Shing affair to interpose decisively. This subject is engaging the active attention of the British Cabinet, and public feeling on the matter is becoming very strong. FRENCH SHIPS SENT. Paris, Aug. 6 .- The French fleet in the east has been ordered to the seat of war. SHANGHAI, Aug. 5 .- The Chiuese deet of LONDON, Aug. 5 .- A dispatch to the Central News from Shanghai says: "It is reported that there has been another engagement off the Corean coast, in which three Chinese warships were captured by the Japanese. The report has not been The officials of the Chinese Legation in London say that they have received no information concerning the naval engagement mentioned in the foregoing dispatch.

They also profess to regard the fight of July 29 as a trifling and overrated affair. NEWSPAPER COMMENT. London, Aug. 5.—The Standard main-tains that despite every cause deducible from later reports there is nothing that exonerates Japan from the charge of brutality and barbarism towards the Chinese The Standard proposes that Russia and England jointly demand that both China and Japan withdraw their forces from Corea forthwith and intrust the government of the peninsula to an international conference. "Failing in this," the Standard says, "we must anticipate a very anxious period, and no time should be lost far east." The Times says of the conflicting accounts of the fighting at Yashan: "The two stories are in about as direct contradiction as they could be. The Japanese version has the merit of having fuller details. If it is a lie, it is a lie without in increasing the British squadron in the circumstance. The Daily Chronicle says that there is good reason to believe that the battle reported to have been fought on July 29 dis identical with the two days battle referred to on Aug. 1, when the Japanese were said to have repeatedly attacked the Chinese entrenched at Yashan and to have been repulsed at all points with heavy loss. The Chronicle considers the earlier story a Chinese invention. Referring to the Kow Shing affair, the Chronicle says: "It is not easy to see what else the Japanese could have done. Soldiers who will not retreat or surrender must take the chance of being killed.

COLLINS HELD THE FORT.

But He Got Arrested on a Serious Charge.

TORONTO, Aug. 5 .- W. A. Collins, a horse trainer, was arrested by Detective Duncan yesterday afternoon on a warrant charging him with shooting with intent to kill David McDonald, a cattle dealer. The trouble, it appears, arose over a horse, in is much virtue in a benevolent neutrality. which Collins claims to own a half interest lins. Collins locked himself and the horse up in a stable at the Woodbine race course, and signified his intention of holding the fort against all comers. McDonald gathered a few of his friends around and proceeded to force an entrance to the stable. Collins warned him that if he persisted he would shoot. McDonald paid no held to the warning and Coilins fired two shors through the stable door, but he claims he shot towards the feet of those who were on the outside. McDonald finally got possession of the animal in dis-

A Coming Election.

TORONTO, Aug. 4 .- It is understood that the Government has decided to bring on the election in Cardwell about the end of September, the present member, Mr. White, having announced that he would not run again. It is said D'Alton Mc-Carthy will make a big stand.

The Governor at Halifax. HALIFAX, Aug. 5.—The state dinner at Government House last night was a grand success. The Sixty-sixth Battalion Band played during dinner. Among the guests were his Excellency the Governor-General and Countess Aberdeen, Vice-Admiral Hopkins, K.C.B., and many others of note. Knied by a Blow. BORDENTOWN, N. J., Aug. 5 .- Harry Rogers, 17 years of age, was killed by a blow on his neck dealt by Frank Cann, aged 19. Rogers fired a stone from a slingshot which hit Cann on the head, and the latter retaliated by striking the former on the neck, causing his death. Cann is under arrest. The young men were companions.

An Orchard Robber Shot. TORONTO, Aug. 5. - John Patter, a boy of 14, living in the east end, was shot and dangerously wounded this afternoon by Timothy Lynch. Patter was in Lynch's orchard getting apples, and Lynch came along with a shotgun and fired at him, hitting him in the neck. Lynch was arrested and locked up. He is a man of 76 years, and has been on the watch for boys robbing his orchard.

THE NEZ PERCE HORSE.

TWO STORIES THAT ILLUSTRATE HIS INDOMITABLE COURAGE.

How He Detected Robbers and How He Baffled Them Tho' He Died-A Brave Boy, A Noble Horse and His 5,000 Fol-

The hardy little Nez Perce horse, sometimes pied or "calico" in color, sometimes blue and sometimes black as coal, and always beautiful, is quite well known in a way; but few people, I fancy, know what remarkable courage and sagacity he has In 1862 and 1863 I was engaged in carrying gold-dust out of the Idaho mountains. One day when descending a steep trail on a densely-wooded mountain side, I found the trail blocked by a tree that seemed to have been suddenly blown down by the wind and a newly-opened trail leading off to the left. My Nez Perce pony stopped, threw back his ears and almost sat down on his haunches as I mercilessly drove my spurs into his flanks. We were often cruel in these hard, swift rides, for time was precious and peril waited on every moment spent between stations. We always dashed on at a hard gallop, the load of gold-dust in the "catenas" hanging down on either side of the saddle-bow, the reins in the right hand and a cocked pistol in the left.

I spurred until the great Spanish spurs were streaming with blood from the pony's | gathering mescal, a liquor made from cactus flanks, but still he would not budge an inch in the newly-cleared trail. At last gathering up all his strength, he poised in the air and then plunged headlong on down the hill over the fallen tree. In the leap my pistol was shaken from my hand, and while I was drawing another from my "catenas" there came a raid of lead from a company of robbers lying in ambush. But flew at the murderer and literally cut his the poor pony kept me in my seat, faced about for a second, as if to give me a chance to defend myself, and then plunged on down the mountain two miles to the ferry. There, on the edge of the river, he fell dead from a bullet-wound that must have meant death from the first, for his nostrils were streaming with blood all the way down the mountain.

When the Indian war swept the Nez Perce country the Indians gathered about 5,000 horses into a valley that fronted on the steep bluffs of the Columbia River: and there, with the great white mountains at their back, prepared to make their last desperate stand. In the battle that followed they were defeated and the small fraction of them that remained unkilled put to flight. The horses, shut in by the steep mountains on one side and the steep river bluffs on the other, had to be left be-

When the battle had closed the soldiers or the volunteers (for only a part were regulars) made a rush for the horses. But they could not lay hands on one of them or approach them. Their splendid heads, with great manes, tossed and tumbled, were in the air, and they went round and round in a circle in the pretty, pent-in little valley, and along the edge of the sheer bluff of the river.

And now for the first time it was noticed that they were under a boy herder. The boy was unarmed, entirely naked and as red as copper. He rode a black stallion with a neck like a bull's and literally man tled and clothed with mane. The boy had no bridle, but wove his hands into the mane, and thus guided the horse at will, at the head of the herd. Sometimes he laid his face down on the proud neck and buried it in the mass of hair, which matched his own in its glossy blackness. Hundreds of men tried to stop or stay the herd in its wild flight, but tried in vain. The green grass disappeared beneath the strokes of spurning feet and dust began to rise in clouds. The volunteers dropped on their knees here and there around the edge of the circle and began to fire at the boy. They were deadly marksmen and they had no care to spare either horse or rider. But the boy did not seem to want to be spared any more than did the horse. At last a bullet struck him in the face. His body flew high into the air, then fell and rolled

The horses now divided as they came by. Their nostrils were distended at the smell of blood and their eyes ablaze at the sight of their young keeper in the dust. It seemed as if they truly knew and understood all the fearful tragedy of that day and hour. On the second round after the boy fell the black leader seemed to run sidewise, his eyes fastened to his little dead master until they looked frightful from under the black mane. He plunged on around and came to the very edge of the beetling basalt bluff. Then there was the sight as of a sculptured image of a horse poised in mid-air; and a mad, wild cry such as a horse makes but once, a cry indescribable, that filled the valley. looked away, and when they looked back the black statue was gone. Then, faithful to the leader, over the bluff into the foaming white river went another horse. And then 10, 20, 50, 500, the whole 5,000! Not one of all the herd was left to the invading victors; and the stream was literally choked with the dead. -Joaquin Miller

An Anecdote of the Empress Eugenie. M. Schneider has just published a book in Paris giving several anecdotes of the Emperor Napoleon III. Referring to the Empress, M. Schneider relates what he considers to be an original anecdote about her courage and presence of mind. While the Imperial couple were walking near a field one day their dog Nero barked at some cattle. A furious bull immediately charged the dog, which took refuge between the Emperor's legs. On came the bull, but the Empress, throwing herself before her husband, kept the animal at bay with a long bamboo cane until the herdsman came to the rescue. M. Schneider describes the Empress as acting on the occasion with all the dexterity of a Spanish toreador.

Inventor of the Modern Plow.

An exchange with an antiquarian turn of mind declares that Thomas Jefferson invented the modern plow. There were plows, of course, thousands of years before the time of the sage of Monticello, but he first laid down the mathematical principles that underlie the construction of the plow, and so enabled any blacksmith to make one. A plow consists of two wedges, a cutting and a lifting wedge, and Jefferson discovered and enunciated the proportions of each and the relations each bore to the other. Before his day no two smiths made plows alike; now they are all made in accordance with a mathematical formula.—Hardware.

THE TARIFF CONFERENCE.

Compromise Reported-The House Recedes from the Free List.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 .- The House conrence have exhibited a disposition to recede from their extreme position in favor f free iron, ore and coal, and to meet the Senate representatives half way, or at least consent to a moderate duty on coal and iron ore. It is also stated that agreement upon these schedules would be followed within a few hours by a further agreement on those which remain in dispute. The House conferees have shown a willingness to compromise the matter of the income tax by fixing the duration of the tax at seven years.

AN AWFUL TRAGEDY.

Sequel to a Dance in Mexico-Mad Through Mescal.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. - A Recorder special from the City of Mexico says: A tragic affair is reported from a mining camp in Northern Mexico. At a rustic leaves, had been drank to excess and all were intoxicated. While the dance was in progress a general quarrel sprung up. A young girl who saw her lover in danger ran to his rescue. Just as she was about to fling her arms about his neck his antagonist plunged a dagger into her breast. The lover was rendered frantic at the sight and heart out. Before the row was quelled four lives were lost.

ABOUT A NOVELIST.

Ouida has come to grief, financially speaking. About a quarter of a century ago her writings were in such demand that a woman with any thriity turn at all for the practical affairs of life could easily have laid up enough to have carried her through the inevitable period of increasing years and declining popularity. But, like all, or most, women and men of genius, her motto has been "sufficient unto the day" is the good thereof. Trouble has come as the natural corollary of this butterfly policy. For years she has been an enthusiastic and an intelligent collector of gems, works of art of all sorts, bric-a-brac, etc.; her entire collection has recently been sold for debt. Ouida't accumulating troubles have afforded tho moralists a golden opportunity to point a moral, and the great novelist's adversity is assigned a place in the natural sequence plan. Her sorrows are the direct visitations by Providence upon one who used her great powers for the purpose of currupting the youths of two continents. It was the fashion years ago to call the dazzling Quida naughty. And she was carefully eliminated from all decorum libraries, but of later years she has been fairly distanced by a score or two of female writers who, without a moiety of her talent, have far excelled her in outspoken coarseness.

"You needn't think to catch me, sir; you ried that once before."
"Madam," replied the counsel, "I haven't the slightest desire to catch you, and your husband looks as if he was sorry he did."

Dandy's Battle With the Cotton Cat.

From the Youth's Companion,) Dandy is the name of a very large and handsome cat belonging to a woman living near Boston. Dandy is really very clever; but he had an experience recently that came near branding him as exceedingly stupid, and he was very much "cut up" over it.

His mistress has a little boy of five years | the late episode. for whom she has bought one of those clever imitation cats stamped on cloth and stuffed with wool or cotton. Dandy did not happen to be around when the cotton cat arrived; and, after playing with it for a little while, the child lett it on the window sill. It sat there looking, from the street wonderfully like a real cat.

The lady was sitting by this window sewing; and presently she saw Dandy come into the yard. He glanced up at the window, and was instantly transformed from a dignified, well-behaved cat into a jealous, anarling demon.

The servant girl who opened the kitchen door in response to his imperative meows said that he shot by her with the rapidity of lightning and seemed to clear all of the back stairs at a single bound on his way to the sitting-room. Into this room he dashed, his yellow eyes aglow with jealous rage, his throat emitting snarls. He leaped fiercely upon the dummy cat, and fell with it to the floor.

Dandy's demeanor, when he saw how he had been deceived, was very funny He walked around and around the cotton cat, amazement and disgust expressed in one prolonged meow followed by another and another. Then he stood still with his head twisted to one side; viewing the dummy in a way too ludicrous to be described. Finally he shot out of the room as swiftly as he had entered it, and was seen no more for four days and nights -an unheard-of proceeding in his life. But it probably took all that time for him to recover from the shame and disgust his feelings had sustained.

When he finally returned he utterly ignored the object of his foolish rage, and never again paid any heed to it, showing greater wisdom in this respect than men and women often show when enraged and mortified.

WESTERN ONTARIO.

ELGIN. James Dow, Erie street, St. Thomas, burst a blood vessel while coughing Friday, and died sitting in his chair. He was a native of Scotland, a miller, aged 51, and formerly a resident of Ingersell. Over 150,000 bushes of wheat have been purchased from the farmers of the section by Mr. E. D. Tillson, of Tilsonburg, during the past year.

ESSEK. The final appearance was made Friday in the Windsor court of the Hyland Potter family feud, in which a quarrel resulting in Jessie Potter, of Maidstone, and her admirer, Wm. Hyland. A fine of $6.50 was imposed yesterday by Magistrate Bartlet on John Ellis, a son of Deputy Reeve Ellis, of Maidstone. Ellis was accused of striking Wm. Hyland a blow in the face which inflicted an ugly gash. The blow was struck during the altercation which took place at the Methodist Church door, where the father of the girl had gone to forcibly take her from her lover. The costs of the airing of the case in court are now made equal for both parties.

The Ridgetown Standard has changed W. H. Auld, of Strathroy, a former proprietor of the Forest Free Press, and C. S. Allen, of the Windsor Record. They will conduct it as a Conservative journal. W. Scott, of Learnington, is circulating a petition through Mersea township which is being unanimously signed, asking the council to refuse to grant a franchise to any company whose purpose it is to pipe natural gas from their township to any point out of the county of Essex. The movement is a boycott against Detroit manufacturers who, they suppose, may try to secure a cinch on the South Essex gas fields. Four extra trains have been plying daily on the Lake Erie and Detroit River Railway owing to the excessive freight.

The Romney Agricultural Society will hold their fair at Wheatley, Oct. 5 and 6.

ELGIN. Friday, while Mrs. Etlis Fick, of Delhi, was ironing, she put her little babe in the cradle beside her. She turned to arrange the article she was ironing and knocked the iron off the table. It fell squarely on the little thing's mouth. The little child's face is burned terribly around its nose and

KENT. Robert Ferguson, M.P.P., has been elected honorary president of the Ridgetown Cricket Club. The gas well on the premises of William Oliver, North Chatham, has fallen into disuse, owing to its becoming filled up with sand, which chokes the flow. Mr. Oliver had not properly piped the well, as he was only boring for water when he struck the vein. He is satisfied there is abundance of gas on the spot, and may possibly proceed to secure it in a more thorough way. A young woman, Beatrice Besant, while working a loom at the T. H. Taylor & Co.'s mill, Chatham, on Friday morning was caught by the machinery, and sustained terrible injuries to the right arm. The surgeons feared at first that amputation

WELLINGTON. After a lingering illness of over a year, Mrs. Mutrie, wife of John Mutrie, M.P.P., died in Ecamosa on Thursday. Deceased was a daughter of Wm. Dow, of Fergus, and was married to Mr. Mutrie some 21 years ago. She was held in high respect in the neighborhood for her sterling qualities, and her husband and family of four children -three boys and a girl-will miss her care and counsel.

BUILDERS TAKE A HOLIDAY And Go to Port-They Ead a Jolly Time

-Plency of Races and Good Prize. A very large number of those engaged in the building trades in London threw down their tools on Saturday, put on their holi-day clothes and went to Port Stanley. It was the builders' third annual picnic, and surpassed all their previous outings in every respect. Every train leaving the city was well filled, and there were bricklayers, carpenters, plasterers, lathers, roofers, plumbers, painters, hod carriers, brickmakers and many other kinds of "ers." They had made up their minds to spend a jolly time, and they succeeded well. The morning was spent in the usual way, and after a successful attack had been made on the ness the sports. A big programme was prepared, including races of every description, tug-of-war, baseball match and baby show. In the last named event Mayor Essery, Water Commissioner Cowan, Ald. Carrothers, Oliver Ellwood and Ald. Thos. Jones performed the duties of judges. It was a delicate task, but after careful deliberation they awarded Mrs. McKinloy's baby first prize, Mrs. Summer's second, Mrs. Parke's third, Mrs. Sargent's fourth, and Mrs. Hamilton's

THE FUSSY MAN

Does More Than Be Thinks to Spoil a Heme.

If there is one thing a real womanly woman despises more than another it is a tussy man. She can never overlook effem. inate qualities in the other sex; yet there are certain little qualities of character make-up not essentially masculine that go such a long way toward making her lot a happier one. The helpful man need not be a Miss Nancy by any means because he sees to putting away his clothes instead of leaving them strewn about for the wife to gather up. He is not one whit less manly because he does not throw cigar ashes on the floor, but puts them in the place allotted for such debris.

Some lords of creation, spoiled from boyhood by mothers and sister who waited on them hand and foot, do ot realize the amount of unnecessary ork they cause their wives by habits i negligence so easily conquered if only hey would think a little. Very few men realize what a well-kept, pleasant home means to a wife. They cannot understand the genuine affection women have for chairs and tables, and that a scratch on one or a stain on the other is a real wound to their feelings. Of course men appreciate a perfect ensemble, but so few help their wives to keep up this high standard. Comfort suggests putting up the feet on the window sills-up they go; result, paint spoiled and woodwork marred-wife naturally vexed. Comfort suggests leaning back in a spindle-legged chair with head rested on a delicately-tinted wall paper, The only wonder in this case is that the result is not far more disastrous than it usually is, and that the ease loving gentleman does not get a much-deserved tumble. In a dozen ways a man unwittingly adds to his wife's labors, which a tiny bit of thought, which means no diminution of his personal comfort, would so materially augment hers. Easy-going husbands, who seldom think, begin to think now .- [Philadelphia Times.

CARNOT AND THE FIGURE 7. Superstitious people are noting the curious way in which the career of President Carnot was connected with the figure 7. He was born in 1837, was admitted to the Ecole Polytechnique in 1857, was elected by virtue of Article 7 of the Constitution to the position of President of the republic in 1887, was assassinated at the age of 57 years in the seventh year of his presidency, in a carriage containing seven persons (four inside and three outside, a coachman and two footmen), on the seventh day of the week, by an Italian (a word of seven letters) named Cesario (also formed of seven letters). Finally, he was borne in triumph to the Pantheon on the first day of the seventh month of the year, seven days after his death.

What Leads You to use the imitations of Pearline ? WSome // trifling prize, cheap prices, or because the grocer or peddler says "same as" or "as good as?" What do these amount to, if your things are ruined in the washing?

They may be. And you can't see the damage that a dangerous washing compound is doing, until the damage is done; with the poorest, that takes some time. With these imitations that nobody knows about, you have to take your own risk. Be on the safe side, and use only the original-Pearline. Millions of women can tell about that. -Did you ever catch a 500-pound bass? You don't believe any one ever did? Yet the picture of the bass, about half as long again as a full-grown man, appears in the New York Sun of Aug. 5, and "if you see it in the Sun it's so." We may explain that the variety is the huge sea-bass, and is caught in this size in the Pacific Ocean, a little below Los Angeles county, Southern California. In style and shape it is an exact fac simile of our Canadian fresh-water black

-Three of the original articles in the August Review of Reviews are devoted to Canadian topics. A sketch of the Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, the leader of the Canadian Liberal party, is contributed by Mr. William B. Wallace; "Canada's Political Conditions" are described by the Hon. J. W. Longley, Attorney-Qeneral of Nova Scotia, while the editor of the magazine, Dr. Albert Shaw, writes on "Toronto as a Municipal Object Lesson." The Review of Reviews is doing a useful service in acquainting its readers more fully with the institutions of Canada.

-The recent meeting of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union at St. Paul received a special greeting from Miss Frances Willard, the chief of the W. C. T. U. At the evening session the following telegram was read:

"RONE-To Archbishop of St. Paul: The Holy Father blesses the convention with his whole heart.

"M. CARDINAL RAMPOLI." Also the following from Mgr. Satolli, addressed to the convention:

"WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 .- My cordial the best fruits follow from it. The total abstinence society is the guardian of the homes of America; they who strive for mastery refrain themselves from all intoxicating drinks and they secure an incorruptible crown for religion and coun-

There was loud applause at the reading of the greetings.

would probably induce more cheerful and buoyant discourses if every Protestant minister and every Catholic priest were enjoined to ride so many miles a day on the exhilarating wheel. What helps to make the Salvationists so energetic and cheerful is that they have no time to bother with

THE TARIFF PENDULUM The swing of the pendulum is everywhere in the direction of lowered tariffs. Britain stands firm for freedom of trade. The Australian colonies are dropping again into line under the banner of trade The Canadian Government, though un-graciously, has had to do homage to the rising sentiment by at least making a pretense of tariff readjustment. This week will probably see President Cleveland's signature affixed to the new United States tariff. The new tariff, while not all believers in tariff for revenue only could desire, is an immense advance on the McKinley Bill.

So runs the tide.

The present generation will not witness any serious revival of protectionism. All interested must now look ahead and govern themselves accordingly.

To the English-speaking world a tendency towards friendlier tariffs means a great deal, especially at a time when there is talk of a 25-years' arbitration-in-everydispute arrangement between Great Britain and the United States. For, after all, the putting up of protectionist stockades, is war-commercial war, it may be, but war none the less. Peace and goodwill among men is a better working

For some years past many of us, in fighting for a revenue tariff as against a protectionist tariff, have had to breast the waves of a strong opposing current. The arduous task of swimming against a tide of adverse public opinion devolves now upon the protectionists.

CREAM AND WHITE FOR CITIES' Cities have fashions as to the color of buildings. In New York red brick is rather going out, while new buildings are to be seen everywhere in white, cream, terra cotta, old gold, brown, gray, buff and tan. The New York Sun thinks "the infusion of Italian, Hungarian, Greek and Russian elements into the New York population has served to stimulate a tendency to bright colors in building already clearly marked. Dark and somber colors are typical of northern climes; light colors are suggestive and characteristic of southern countries. There are a few green houses, indeed, in the Italian quarters of town, and here and there a blue house since the Armenians and Roumanians have made their appearance. New York hotels, theaters and public buildings are now usually of white or cream color. New flat and apartment houses being construct. ed on either side of town are of the same material as the cheaper grade of tenement houses, and from present appearances red brick and brown stone houses in New York will soon become the exception, We will have, in our chief thoroughfares, a creamand-white city where heretofore red brick, brown stone and gray granite were in gen

Some of the new colors and designs have probably come from the Chicago Exhibition. Whatever the reason, here in Canadian London there is a considerable infusion of better taste in the styles of new houses being erected. Nobody should erect a new building of any kind without first taking a run to one or two of the large cities so near at hand and soconvenient of

THE LEADER OF THE CANADIAN LIBERALS.

The qualities which have led to Mr. Laurier's elevation to the leadership of his party and which will probably secure him at an early date the Premiership of Canada can be easily summarized. He is not a man of a bold and aggressive type. Such men are often ill-fitted for the position of Parliamentary leader in a constitutionally governed country. He is a man of unsullied integrity, great ability, commanding eloquence and of an extremely amiable disposition, with a kind heart, chivalrous instincts, unfailing politeness and of a lovable nature. He has been and is still a profound student of political science. As a writer he is exquisitely ornate, his senblessing upon the convention. I pray that tences, like his ideas, displaying a lofty

> Mr. Laurier is a man of striking personal appearance. He has a tall, erect figure, intellectual face, luxuriant dark hair, and ooks much younger than he is. He speaks as fluently in English as in French. At the time of the rebellion in the Canadian Northwest his elequent appeal to the House to consider the condition of the halfbreeds of the Northwest was addressed to the House in English and was referred to by Edward Blake as "the finest Parliamentary speech ever pronounced in the Parliament of Canada since confederation." -[From "A Character Sketch of Hon. The Ingersoll Chronicle says: Our readers will regret to learn that the Rev. J. H. Moorhouse, rector of St. James' Church, has resigned his pastorship of that congregation, and will leave town about the 1st of September to take charge of Christ Church, London. At a recent meeting of the members his resignation was formally accepted, but with much reluctance. During the short time that Mr. Moorhouse has resided in Ingersoll he has endeared himself not only to the members of his own church, but to most of our townspeople as a whole, who have learned to love and respeet him for his wholesouled and generous disposition, and who will regret his departure from among us. Rev. John Barry, B.D., of England, the new curate of St. Paul's Cathedral, preached for the first time Sunday evening.

A PAIN REMEDY.

For nearly 50 years this wonderful remedy has proved itself the best, quickest, safest and surest antidote for pain in the world. THE TRUE RELIEF

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF is safe, reliable and effectual because of the stimulating action which it exerts over the nerves and vital powers of the body, adding tone to the one and inciting to renewed and increased vigor the slumbering vitality of the physical structure, and through this healthful stimulation and increased action the cause of the PAIN is driven away and a natural condition restored. It is thus that the READY RELIEF is so admirably adapted for the CURE OF PAIN and without the risk of injury which is sure to result from the use of many of the so-called pain remedies of the day.

In using medicines to stop pain we should avoid such as inflict injury on the system. Opium, Morphine, Ether, Cocaine and Chloral stop pain by destroying the sense of perception, when the patient loses the power of feeling, This is the most destructive practice: it masks the systoms, shuts up, and instead offremoving trouble, breaks down the stomach, liver and bowels, and, if continued for a length of time, kills the nerves and produces local or general naralysis.

kills the nerves and produces local or general

There is no necessity for using these uncertain agents when a positive remedy like RAD-WAY'S READY RELIEF will step the most way in the remaining an incompanier without entailing excruciating pain quicker, wi hout entailing the least difficulty in either infant or adult. A CURE FOR ALL

PLAYING AT BALL. A fair crowd saw the alleged ball game at Tecumseh Park Saturday afternoon. The Chathams are doubtless very nice boys and may be fine ball players some of these days if they stick at it. It is said they can lick most of the teams around Chatham already, and their ambition to bring down bigger game is quite commendable if not very successful. However, they did their best and it was not their fault that they were outclassed. The Alerts were the for the Stars both as pitcher and at base heavier team and had they not been so running. The Pastimes looked well in tender hearted might have walked all over the visitors with spiked thoes. The game was too one-sided to be exciting, and too was glad when it closed at the end of the seventh, the Chatham boys having to catch their train. The fielding of the Alerts was not perfect, but that of their opponents was wretched, though the score will show that there were a couple of stars amid the gloom. It was a terrific slugging match, too. Carney, who had pitched fairly, was relieved by Sheere in the sixth. Bert did not exert himself greatly, knowing the game was safe, and allowed the to touch him up pretty freely by way of encouragement. The score:

THE UNITED STATES TARIFF.

An Early Decision Locked For-Illness of Chairman Wilson.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 .- The present week will probably seal the fate of the Tariff Rill. The Democratic members of the conference committee met in an informa! way and again went over the bill agreeing here and there to some tentative changes. The senatorial members of the conference were unable to assure their colleagues of the House that the new sugar schedule would be acceptable to the Senate and secure the 43 votes necessary. The senators' conferees declined to indicate what the nature of the report will be, but one of them today stated positively that there would be a conclusion reached not later than Wednesday. The strain on Chairman Wilson is again showing its effects, and his associates fear there will be a recurrence of the painful maladies which sapped his strength during the first tariff conference. His face is again swollen and he reluctantly admits that he is well-nigh physically exhausted

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs. and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Bad Errers the Cause-A Great Crew and a Great Game.

BASEBALL "Ting-a-ling-ling" went the telephone bell at the newspaper office. "Hello !" was the response. "How's the game at Guelph?"

A cry of anguish floated over the wires, followed by the echo of a dull thud as the crank collapsed. The Alerts had lost the Canadian championship-lost it by one run. Their old enemies, the Maple Leafs, had scalped them again, and their 200 odd friends who went down to sing the song of victory were forced to chant the dirge of defeat. The ADVERTISER'S special from Guelph says it was a great occasion. The grounds were crowded with over 4,000 people. The game started at 11:30 a.m., Carney and Thorpe being substituted for Sheere and

Quinn as the battery. Londoners were enthusiastic over Carney's work in the box, but the field did not do him justice. Hiscott's errors lost the game. They were chiefly badly thrown balls to first. Guelph would not have had one chance of winning but for his poor work, the winning run being made with two out. Hiscott had a chance to retire the side, but threw wild to first. Sippi sent in two runs in the third on a three-bagger and scored on a sacrifice. Hiscott was hit by Congalton in fifth. Burton's double and Farnworth's single scored the two runs. Bases on balls to Hiscott and Thorpe, with Hynd's and Sippi's singles, sent in the last two runs in the sixth. The ninth opened Sippi dropped McCraken's hit in the fourth, the latter scoring on a stolen base and a passed ball. Hiscott started in the fifth by throwing Powers' grounder wild to first.

The next two men were easily retired. Three singles and a triple followed, scoring four runs. A hit by pitcher, a stolen base and a single by Benzie scored McElroy in the eighth. Umpire-Dyson, THEY DEFEATED THE BROKERS.

The merchandise brokers of the city and the warehousemen of A. M. Smith & Co., wholesale grocers, went down to Springbank on Saturday afternoon. They were loaded down with baseball guides, bats, masks, stomach pads, gloves, and everything necessary for a desperate encounter. The umpires, too, had Spalding's rules from the front to back covers committed to memory, and were prepared for any attack which would be made on their judgment. The brokers, though by no means thoroughly acquainted with hard work, managed to slug out as many hits as their opponents. They had less errors, too, but luck seemed to be against them, and the grocery men piled up a good surplus of runs. Harding and Lind each circled the bags on long drives, while Brown nearly followed suit. He thought discretion the Cowes, Aug. 6 .- The announcement that the Satanita, regarded by British yachts men as their representative rough-weather cutter, would take part in the race today for a prize of $650, subscribed by the Royal London Yacht Club intensified interest in world was larger than on Saturday. The shores of the Isle of Wight around which the three yachte sailed, were skirted with thronge of English folk, and every part of the little island sent out a small fleet of boats of many kinds whose occupants saw the racers pass on their 50mile tussle around the island. Observation of the race from the shore was sometimes shut off by mist, as the yachts at certain places were far out in the English channel. The day opened propiticusly with a radiant sky and a good northwest breeze, just suited for club top sails. It was a quick start, and the white Yankee sloop was not slow in maneuvering for the line. Booms were gybed to port as the illustrious trio came running for the line a few seconds apart. The colossal Satanita was the first to cross the line, only five seconds after the gun. The Britannia followed and the Vigilant was last. The advantage of the leader was

ASTRONOMERS EXCITED.

Something Going on in Mars-Are They Signalling the Earth. LONDON, Aug. 5.-There is something going on in Mars just now which greatly excites astronomers. So tar as laymen may penetrate these mysteries, it seems that some shining specks, quite unlike anything ever seen before, have been discovered, and that the stars are exceptionally favorable to the hypothesis that Marsians are trying to signal to us. The only other conceivable theories are that these specks are the effects of an aurora, or of are complete. forest fires on a gigantic scale, but scientists appear actually to regard these as less probable that the first explanation. The mere suggestion of such a thing sends a thrill of fascinated expectancy through the whole academic system of Europe, and men of weight are already reviving the old schemes and propounding new ones by which an effort of sending back an answering signal through space may be made.

What Came of

The three girls were going to spend a month at the seaside — Lydia, Rosa, and Julia Tafferal. Their aunt, Miss Hamlet, fter keeping them in suspense for weeks -now up in the skies of hope, now down in the dust of despair-at length made up her mind, and announced her decision-to go. "But I'm sure," she added, "I don't know what will come of it."

Charlotte Hamlet had thought fate rather cruel when, three years ago now, the heard of the death of her widowed sister, Mary Tafferel, and that the three daughters she left in the world had no protector, unless she herself became one. The girls had £300 a year conjointly—that is, £100 each, and could have kept a home over their heads by living together; but they were young for that, and, Miss Hamlet suspected, somewhat giddy. She was well-off herself, and had a roomy, pleasant house. It was not on that score she shrank from the prospect; but she was rather an invalid, nervous, and loving above all things a quiet life. However, there ap-peared to be no help for it, and she wrote to her nieces to come. "We must all have crosses," murmured poor Miss Hamlet, "and I suppose this will become one for me, but I have been pretty free from them hitherto, and must not repine.

The girls arrived at Stagbrook, Miss Ham-let's village home. The eldest of them was 23, the youngest 20. They turned out to be pleasant, sociable, and chatty; full of life and spirits, eager for any gaiety that might fall in their way, and very anxious, each of the three, to pick up a husband.

"Small blame to them either," freely spoke up Mrs. O'Malley, an intimate friend of Miss Hamlet's. "What do girls expect but to marry? and sure the young men are growing scarce !"

Nearly three years had elapsed since they came to Miss Hamlet, and there had been no change, when that lady bethought herself of taking them to the seaside, and bade them prepare themselves:

To get away anywhere was something: but the place she had fixed upon, Brightwater, was new and untried, not a dozen houses as yet in it. A grand hotel was just built, the size of which might, perhaps, make up for the scarcity of other accommodation. It was called the Royal Victoria, and it took its guests by the week, somewhat as a boarding-house does, or after the fashion of Searborough. Miss Hamlet had written to the Royal Victoria to make arrangements, Mrs. O'Malley, who had just returned from a fortnight's sejourn there, having praised it warmly.

"It is not exactly what I like," said Miss Hamlet to her nieces, as they sat at tea. "I have never tried the life myself, and I fear it will prove to be too familiar; but we can leave the hotel at the end of the first week for lodgings, if we choose. "Oh, aunt Charlotte," exclaimed Rosa, "it will seem like Paradise after this dreadful Stagbrook. "Dreadful Stagbrook!" repeated Miss Hamlet, gazing in amazement through her spectacles: "What do you mean by that,

Rosa dropped her high tone. "Well, aunt, Stagbrook is dull; you must know "I have never found it so, young lady, and I have lived all my life in it."

"Yes, aunt; I suppose that makes a difference. We did not think Chichester I wish the holiday to be pleasant to you all," resumed Miss Hamlet stiffly; "and I shall take Dorothy Krane."

"Dorothy Krane!" screamed all the three girls in chorus. "Dolly Krane!" "Yes; why not !" said Miss Hamlet. She will be a pleasant companion for you.

"Why, Aunt Charlotte, Dolly won't have a decent thing to appear in!" exclaimed

"She'll do very well. People are not ex-pected to be fine at the seaside. Fancy dressing up at an hotel!" Lydia kicked Julia under the table, and Julia kicked Rosa. The young ladies were taking every smart thing they possessed with enough ribbons and fal-lols to fill a

'Nearly all Dolly's dresses are cotton!" "If they are they are delicate and pretty," said Miss Hamlet. "More sugar, do you say, Julia? She has her gray silk for best; now that it's turned it looks as good as new. And Dorothy tells me-

"Have you been to the parsonage, Aunt Charlotte ?" Yes; walked over this morning when you three were out shopping. Three hours you were gone! I was back long before you came in. One would think you wanted something at every shop in Stagbrook.

"All the prints Dolly's got have been washed ever so many times, aunt."
"I dare say they have. They'll be just the thing for the seaside. Then she has that pretty figured muslin that was new last year; and for best she has her white. Not that, as I believe, she will require to wear it. Dorothy asked me whether it had better be taken or not."

"The white has been washed too," cried Lydia. "I wonder Mr. and Mrs. Krane can spare her. How will the children get on without Dolly, Aunt Charlotte?—and the parish ?-and the schools ?'

"As well as they can," answered Miss Hamlet. "All work and no play is not good for anybody-least good of all for the young. Dolly needs a change more than you do, and the tears stood in Mr. Krane's eyes when he thanked me for thinking of her. Another cup of tea, Lydia?"

The church and parsonage stood half a mile from Stagbrook. The Reverend Abel Krane, was the incumbent; a hard-working, conscientions man, with a flock of children, and a small income to keep them on. Dolly was the eldest; and she had to teach and take care of the others, not to speak of the running about in the parish, which was partly did for her mother, who was as hard-worked as the rector. Mrs. Krane, formerly Dorothy Hamlet, was first cousin to Miss Charlotte Hamlet and Mrs.

Brightwater was reached; and the Royal Victoria proved to be an imposing white green blinds. Miss Hamlet found it very comfortable, and liked it better than she had thought for.

A slight accident happened to her the day after her arrival. In stepping from a carriage, for she had treated the young people to a drive, she twisted her foot. It was nothing very serious, needing only a few days' rest. So Miss Hamlet reposed on one of the sofas near the window in the ladies' drawing-room, by day, feasting her eyes on the beautiful, ever-moving sea, and conversing placidly with another invalid lady, who had come to Brightwater to recover strength after an illness, and did not seem to be able to do it quickly. For the girls this was just delightful. Not, of course, that they could rejoice ever a twisted ankle, but it was pleasant to be able to go about without the supervision of

One drawback the Miss Tafferels did find: not a soul of the male sex, then at the hotel, could be pronounced quite eligible. Three or four very young men, who were there with their mothers and sisters, and three or four middle-aged ones, who looked grave, and no doubt had wives at home, comprised the list. But the three sisters got a great deal of admiration; they were tall, stylish, and showy, with rather Spanish-looking faces, sparkling black eyes, and blue-black hair. Their manners in society were perfect; their repartees delightful. "Three charming girls!" de-clared young Mr. Pender, a dozen times a day, as often as he could get away from his tutor. "Never saw such beauties!"

Dolly Krane was nowhere beside them: eclipsed as a pale star by the brilliant moon. She was pretty in her way, but of style she had none. She only about came up to Miss Lydia's shoulder; a slender girl, retiring in manner, shrinking from strangers, rather than courting them. Not but that her face was a very pleasant one: fair, gentle, with earnest blue eyes, eversmiling and chiseled features; her ne, silky hair had a golden tinge on it. Dolly was kept down by her imperious cousins; imperious to her; and remained in her place accordingly. Sie was accustomed to think of them as rich and fortunate young ladies, quite above herself. A sweet nature, a sunny temper, utterly unselfish, and ever ready to help all the world; such was Dolly Krane.

Three or four days after the ankle was injured, Miss Hamlet was able to use it again without much trouble, and she went on that evening leaning upon Lydia's arm, to join the dinner in the public room. "Dolly," cried the young lady in a tone of command, "you had better change your place for this one next to Aunt Charlotte. And then you will be at hand, you know, to help her in anything she may want."

Now, by a skillful arrangement of the mistress of ceremonies, the elder people were placed together at the head of the table, and the younger ones at the foot; she had been young herself twenty years ago and she knew what was what. And perhaps a sort of disappointment crossed Dolly's heart at being called away from the lively company of her own age, to sit with the sober elders. The feeling passed in a moment. Dolly had only lived to serve others, not to indulge herself, and she sat down by Miss Hamlet with a loving smile and cheerful brow.

"Let it be your place for good, Dolly," said Lydia, as she moved away to her own. "Now I dare say, my dear, you would rather have stayed down there," said Miss

Hamlet. "Indeed I am glad to be with you, Aunt Charlotte," replied Dolly—for she had always called Miss Hamlet "aunt." "Please let me stav." But by that wonderful law of compensation said to exist in this world, while Dolly was taking her soup, there glided quietly into a vacant seat beside her a tall, handsome, distinguished-looking man, whose face Dolly liked at the first glance; took a fancy to, in fact. It was a very attractive face, its features pale and regular, eyes, hair, and whiskers of a dark brown, and a slight brown mustache.

Dolly passed him the salt. He thanked her, and that broke the ice. He began to talk to her, talked with her throughout the above list are requested to send in dinner, and spoke a little across Dolly to their dates to the ADVERTISER as soon as Miss Hamlet. His English was very good indeed—a slightly foreign accent being distinguishable at times; and now and then he hesitated for a word. Once he used a wrong word, and Dolly laughed.

"What is it mademoiselle?" he asked, laughing salso. What ought I to have Dolly told him. Though a retiring, modest girl, of innate refinement, she had none of the foolish shyness that some affect to have. And—she did not know how it was-but she felt as much at home with him as though she had known him for ten years. He could not be mistaken for anything but a gentleman, and he was certainly a very attractive one.

A Man Made Happy .- GENTLEMEN, -For five years I have been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only seemed a drag to me. When I would go to sleep I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest either day or night. But with the use of only two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unmansion, with pillars and balconies and happy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the wonderful curative qualities possessed by this medicine, that are specially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything, and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGE-TABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim for it. Signed, MELVILLE B. MARSH, Abercorn, P. Q. General Merchant. In China a man who killed his father was executed, and along with him his Aunt Charlotte. The hotel was not half schoolmaster for not having taught him full, but it was enjoying itself. There better.

Row Little Willie and Ban Surprised a

Congregation

(From Our Little Cnes.) Willie was asleep, and Dan was lonely. Willie is the minister's son; Dan is his dog. It was Sunday morning, and everyone was at church but these two friends. It was warm and sunny, and they could hear the preaching, for their house was next door to the church:

"Dan," said Willie, "it is hetter here than in church, for you can hear every word.

In some way, while Willie was listening he fell asleep. Dan kissed him on the nose; but when Willie went to sleep he went to sleep to stay and did not mind trifles. So Dan sat down with the funniest look of care on his wise black face, and with one ear ready for outside noises.

Now, the minister had for his subject 'Daniel." This was the name he always gave Dan when he was teaching him to sit up and beg, and other tricks. While the dog sat thinking, the name "Daniel" fell on his ready ear. Dan at once ran into the church through the vestry door. He stood on his hind legs, with his forepaws close beside the minister, who did not see him, but the congregation did. When the minister shouted "Daniel" again, the sharp barks said "Yes, sir" as plainly as Dan could answer.

The minister started back, looked around and saw the funny picture. Then he wondered what he should do next; but just then through the vestry came Willie. His face was rosy from sleep and he looked a little frightened. He walked straight toward his father and took Dan in his arms and said:

"Please scuse Dan, papa. I went asleep and he runned away." Then he walked out with Dan, looking back on the smiling congregation. The preacher ended his sermon on Daniel as best he could, but he made a resolve if he ever preached again on the Prophet Daniel he would tie up that dog.

possible. "Jack, the Giant Killer,"

The child's story of "Jack, the Giant Killer," furnishes a striking illustration of the efficacy of small agencies towards the suppression of great evils, when indicionaly used. The daring exploits of brave little Jack remind us, in their resuits, of the wonderful achievements of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets in battling with the giant, Disease. Relatively, the proportion between the youthful hero and old Blunder. bore is apparently not greater than that between the little "Pellets" and the relentless monster which preys upon the vitals. Yet, the "Pellets" comes off conqueror of conscipation, sick headache, biliousness and kindred ailments every time. If you are suffering from either acute or chronic disorder of the digestive organs, try this sure remedy.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD. Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves,"

MISSIONARIES AT THE SEAT OF WAR United States Secretary Greaham Says They Will be Protected.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 .- Acting under instructions from the executive committee of the board of foreign missions of the Southern Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. W. Bachman, its representative here, has called on Secretary Gresham and the Japanese charge to ask that measures be taken to protect the missionaries of that church in the east. Secretary Gresham told Mr. Bachman that he did not think there was any immediate danger to the missionaries, but that they would be protected. At the Japanese legation the reverend gentleman inquired into the status of the missionaries and was assured that they were perfectly safe in Japan. The Southern Presbyterian Church has less than a dozen missionaries in Corea, and these, it is believed, can be accommodated on board a United States man-ofwar should their lives be endangered. In China there are about 50, some few of whom are in the northern provinces, and it is regarding these that the board feels some concern. They probably will be ordered to

-A farmer, who lives on the 12th concession of London township, set fire to a stump in the middle of an oat field Saturday. If a policeman were to take a saunter there on Sunday evenings it would no doubt stop the evil.

-The Montreal Witness thus refers to Mr. How, of this city, who is to be general manager of the Montreal branch of the Bank of Toronto: He is a comparatively young man, being not above 40 years of age. He left the Montreal branch about eight years ago. He had been discount clerk there, but the branch at Gananoque being established he was appointed its manager. He was transferred to Brockville upon the opening of a branch there. Then Mr. Wadsworth, the London man ager, being transferred to Toronto, Mr. How succeeded him as manager of the bank in London, where he has been for nearly three years.

The Grasshopper Plague.

A Westminster correspondent writes: The grasshoppers in the vicinity of Westminster have done much damage. Some of the oat fields are nearly stripped, and in others more than balf the oats are off the straw. The turnips are being stripped by them, and in some parts they are cating the corn. The milk to the cheese factories has gone down fully one-third. Some think it is owing to the grasshoppers eating the pasture, while others think it is caused by the horn fly mostly. Foresters at Church.

The Ancient Order of Foresters of London had their annual church service yesterday afternoon. The members of the East End Courts, about 200 strong, met at the Forest City's hall, and, headed by the band of the First Hussars, marched to the city headquarters of Forestry. There they were joined by other local brethren, and thence marched by way of Dundas street to the Congregational Church, fully 700 members of the brotherhood being in line. The parade was viewed by hundreds of spectators along the line of march. Robin Hood Drill Corps, lately inaugurated in connection with Court Forest City, attracted much attention. The uniform of this organizagreen coat, white trousers, long boots and brown hat with three feathers-two white and one red. The Knights of Sherwood Forest also came in for a share of praise,

The church was well filled, and the sermon by the pastor, Rev. J. R. Adams, was of unusual interest. Mr. Adams is a comparatively young man, having graduated from college but a short time ago. He has a pleasing manner in the pulpit, and his soft, clear voice can be plainly heard in any part of the church. He chose as his text, "But if any provide not for his own, and especially for those of his own house, he hath denied the faith, and is worse than an infidel." Mr. Adams said he was not going to pronounce a eulogy upon the order. He addressed them not only as Foresters, but as fathers, husbands and brothers. One great principle was underlying the society, and the relief of humanity was its motive, and power and kindness its objects. Mr. Adams scouted the idea of a man joining slow precess, hooked his scale to the cart merely for selfish purposes, and said he put in a black ball against such a person, and more if he could get them. It was every man's duty to provide for his own, and one who deserted his wife should be dropped on by the law with both the other for the Government Inspector, feet. Another necessity was education. STEAMER LAKESIDE.

The New Boat Line Between Port Stanley and Cleveland—Successful Trips-An Obliging Crew.

The steamer Lakeside, running between Port Stanley and Cleveland in connection with the L. E. and D. R. R., has had some very successful excursions recently. The public in time will, without doubt, largely take advantage of this lake trip, as it makes a most delightful outing. The trips are made at night, the boat leaving Port Stanley on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 11 o'clock, and on Saturdays on the arrival of the 5:40 p.m. train from London.
Returning, the steamer leaves Cleveland
Mondays, Wednesday sand Friday satll p.m. The Lakeside is steady, staunch and swift, and rarely loses time. She rides the waves easily and in calm weather passengers would hardly believe they were on the water. The staterooms, cabin and decks are kept neat and tidy. This shows the care the officers take of the ship, and has a telling effect with the traveling public. Capt. Wigle, who is in command, is an efficient officer. His genial and frank manner makes him popular with his patrons. He has recently recovered from a week's sickness of malaria. The purser is Herbert Lukes, who has been in the employ of the company in various ways for some time. This is his first season on the Lakeside. The crew are all obliging and ecurteous to passengers, and the initial year of the Lakeside on the Cleveland route augurs well for its future success. There is room for a big traffic between the two ports, and the Lakeside is an excellent

AN EMPHATIC CONTRADICTION. Mrs. Meston Denies Her Husband's Statement-Her Daughter Did

Have a Doctor. Mrs. M. Meston, of Becher street, South London, emphatically denies her husband's assertion that her daughter, Miss Eliza Harvey, died without consulting a dector, and that her demise was due to practicing the dogmas of Christian Science. Mrs. Meston says that deceased was not even a member of the sect, though she (Mrs. Mes. ton) and another daughter are adherents. "Some time ago," said Mrs. Meston, "my daughter complained of a pain in the leg. called in Dr. Mackenzie, who pronounced it rhenmatism, and said she might experience the pain at intervals for years. I elt somewhat relieved at this news. Not ong ago a lump began to form on the affected part, but, we were told it was only blind boil.

"It grew worse, and I asked my daughter to consult a doctor. She thought she did not require one and declined, but when I begged her further, to satisfy me she consented to see Dr. Mackenzie. He told her that her mother could do more for her than any two doctors. The trouble proved to be an abscess for which my daughter continued medical treatment.

"I am sorry to have our private affairs made so public," said Mrs. 3 ston, "but in justice to my late daughter d my family, must contradict Mr. Mestou's statements which place us in a cruel and unjust light.'

H. Tilden Swan, a grandson of Gen, L. B. Swan, late of New York, and a nephew of Mrs. George H. Humphrey, of Rochester, saved two female servants of Banker Charles C. Baldwin, of New York city. from drowning at Scabright, on the Jersey coast, on Tuesday afternoon.

The women, in company with Mr. Banker's butler, were bathing on a bar at some distance from the shore and remained on the bar until the tide had risen and made it impossible for them to return. Finally the waves became so high that they were swept from their footing into tion is very showy, consisting of a dark deep water. The butler could swim, and made an effort to save one of the women, who was not swept beyond his reach.

ing off his coat, plunged into the water. With much difficulty he succeeded in reaching the woman, who was struggling alone and brought her to shore in safety. He then returned for the other woman, who was being supported by the now theroughly exhausted butler. He saved her also. but when he returned for the butler he found he had given up and had been swept away. Swan returned to the shore almost exhausted and was cared for by his many friends who witnessed his heroism.

The Wasp and the Spider. Said the wasp to the spider: "Let's build us ship, With a red maple leaf for a sail;

We'll fasten it right at the front of a chip; Like mariners bold we will start on a trip, And weather the heaviest gale." The spider agreed and they both sailed away, Far over the seas in their dory; But whether they went, I really can't say, For they never were heard of again from that

So that is the end of my story. LYING IN WEIGHT. Some of the icemen go to the dealer, and, after obtaining the standard scales, deliberately pass on to the grindstone and weaken the spring. One cartman not long ago, who was not satisfied with his comparatively rung and weakened the spring in that manner. The English use nothing but balance scales, but they are not more honest than we. They have two sets of weights-one light for ordinary use, and
