Russian Cruiser Askold Sustained Terrific Damages.

The Warship Is Now Being Repaired as Rapidly as Possible at Woo Sung.

Shanghai, Aug. 14.-Evening.-It is expected that the Russian protected cruiser Askold, which arrived at Woo Sung on Aug. 12, will dock tonight.

A correspondent of the Associated Press went to the Askold today for the purpose of inspecting her, but at first it seemed impossible to obtain permission to do so. The sentry at the gangway answered every request to come on board with a stern refusal, no matter in what language the request was couched. Finally appeal was made to Capt. Gammatchikoff, who with the consent of Capt. Seiberstein, gave permission for the correspondent to come on board.

On reaching the deck of the cruiser everything was found to be in confusion and it was noticed that no attempt had been made to put things in shipshape. There were many evidences of a hurried flight and a running fight. The correspondent had expected to notice a universal depression and gloom on board the warship, but on the contrary, he soon became beware of a remarkable spirit of cheerfulness and Sung on Aug. 12, will dock tonight. trary, he soon became beware of a remarkable spirit of cheerfulness and onfidence on all sides. A Miracle.

[Pittsburg Gazette.]

An Irish farmer asked a priest what a miracle was. He gave him a very full explanation, which, however, did not seem to quite satisfy the farmer, who said: "Now, do you think, your reverence, you could give me an example of a miracle?"

"Well," said his reverence, "walk on before me and I'll see what I can do." As he did so the priest gave him a training to the placing of steamships on the Pacific by the Allan Liae in connection with the Grand Trunk Pacific, wessels will be sent out around Cape Horn with much of the Pacific, western end of the Pacific sections of the new railway. Police court was cosmopolitan this morning. One might almost have thought he was in the court of some netropolis to have seen the variety. First the drunks were dealt with, and of these there were English, Scotch and Irish, 'A Westminster man who had never been in court before was allowed to go. So was Peter Reilly, who has been good lately. But Alexander Warwick was refused the privilege of stepping out in the merry sun-shine unless he produced $5. The al-ternative of the fine was fifteen days, and the magistrate refused to give him time to pay it.
The name of John Hasa was then called. An officer motioned to one of the men behind the bars to arise. He did so, saying that was not his name; t was Hans, but no one could make out the last mame, so fast did the German talk. The court inquired if he inderstood English. Hans replied that he made out was that he did not know why he was arrested, but that he had been robbed. It was a regular flood of German. Language just rolled out. But Hans was wasting his sweetness on the desert air. Policeman Lucas informed the court the man had been drinking and he had been called to 'ake him to the station to be taken care of as Hans was without shoes and had talked intelligently enough to let the people know he had been robbed of $500 and his "timer," and that he came from Port Huron. The magistrate remanded him and an effort will be made to get his story from him again. Hans is still bootless. One interpreter was at court but he was there to interpret Italian, a case charged. Mr. Woolatt said that as far as the passenger equipment was concerned, he could promise that next season the citizens of London and St. Thomas would have no cause for complaint nor would they have had this summer had the intentions of the company been carried out. Last winter before the beginning of 1904, Mr. Woolatt told the mayor the company took steps to secure a number of first-class passenger coaches for use on the London and Port Stanley line, but it was found at the shops of the company in Chicago that there were so many orders ahead that the cars could not possibly be built in time for the summer traf-fic this year. Thus it was that the patrons of the road had been compelled to stay at home or ride in the old wornout cars now in use on the road.

The object of the city is to hand the siding over to the Pere Marquette, the lessees of the L. and P. S. R., as the Pere Marquette is greatly handicapped here owing to lack of room for its frieght cars. The Grand Trunk has entrance to the siding from Waterloo street, and the city engineer says that it has all along managed to keep : jammed with cars. It is expected that the Grand Trunk Company will make he did not. But he talked good German, and he did talk. All that could track, but if it should do so, the city engineer says the only thing to do will be for the city to have the crossing at the Waterloo street end taken up, and then turn the line over to the Pere Marquette, which would enter the siding from the east end. A part of the track is on Bathurst street proper. and a part of it is also inside of the street line. The Pere Marquette has been after it for some time, as the officials of the road say that if they had the use of the track, which will hold about 40 cars, they would be able to increase their freight business very considerably. To help the Pere Marquette to increase its earnings would mean also an increase in the percentage paid to the city by the company. of most successful work here will be The Pere Marquette is asking for in which two Italians were interested certain rights to which it claims it is pected he will accept the Lindsay call. being on the docket. As we know positively the form of the physique for which we tailor suits we can do many things.

We can shape the parts better-we can mould form with the needle—sew the special shape into a garment part.

We can insure permanence of shape—a thing impossible when garments are slashed out by the hundred and thrown together by uneducated help as in "ready mades."

Then each suit is made up to the "try on" stage.-You prejudge effect before you buy.

Johannesburg Man Did Not Expect to Find Such an Advanced Country. Mr. Edward Leake, of Johannesburg, South Africa, is visiting Mr. Arthur E. Hourd, of this city. This is his first Visit to Canada and he expresses his surprise to find such an advanced country. What struck him upon his journey here was the great farms that are seen in Canada in contrast to the farms of South Africa. Canadian cities, too, are noticeably better than those of South Africa. Johannesburg, however, has 120,000 population and Mr. Leake has seen it grow from a few huts in the last 24 years. Although on the Rand they have a city with 700 miles of streets, yet they have ew pavements and they are backward in many ways. For instance the water is controlled by a company and is so dear that there can be little street watering. They have no trolley cars and it would take many million dol-lars, he says, to make Johannesburg the equal of Canadian cities.
