THE EVENING TIMES THE DAILY TELEGRAPH

New Brunswick's Independent newspapers. These papers advocate: British connection, Honesty in public life, Measures for the material progress and moral advancement of our great Dominion.

No graft! No deals! The Shamrock, Thistle, Ross entwine The Maple Leaf forever.

WHY THIS EXCITEMENT? Is it possible that the St. John Standard has not learned that the effort to secure reform in civic government is a citizens' movement, and that it has the hearty sympathy of the mayor and a majority of the aldermen?

The Standard this morning returns to the attack upon the Telegraph and Times, and the advertising committee of the board of trade. The latter is represented as having little experience of civic affairs, and therefore its judgment is not to be relied on.

As for the Telegraph and Times, these papers are charged with holding up the mayor and aldermen as "a worthless gang of incompetents who cover by any chance do anything right, who invariably do everything wrong, who are not even human enough to be allowed to make mistakes and who in season and out of season must be placed in the pillory and therefore its judgment is not to be relied on.

Readers of these papers know that this is not a correct statement of their attitude. Nor are they fairly described in the following paragraph from the Standard:

"Who more jubilant at the outcome than these two patriotic journals who have hunted so long and so vindictively for the scalp of the aldermen! 'A new deal,' they shout today in union, and in their mind's eye can see, even now, the City Fathers decorating the telephones poles from The Three Lamps to Indiantown, while the five commissioners are borne through the ranks of the citizens, henceforth their vassals and retainers, to their thrones in City Hall. Then the millennium will begin."

Why does the Standard display so much heat? Whose cause are they trodden on? Whose game is the Standard playing? Whose is behind this violent abuse of those whose only desire is to improve the system of civic government?

Who is attacking the mayor and aldermen. A majority of the council favor drastic reform, such as the citizens' committee has proposed. They know that the system is bad, and they want a better one.

The more noisy the Standard grows the more the people will ask who is making the noise, and why.

CITY GOVERNMENT Can it be shown that the affairs of the city should not be conducted on business principles?

That the affairs of St. John are so conducted cannot be maintained. If asserted cannot be proved. Even the opponents of the commission plan admit that reform is needed, but they only propose a half measure—a reduction in the number of members in the city council. They would keep the old system, which does not apply business principles.

But why should not the business of a city be regarded in the same light as that of a corporation? Is there any sound reason why the collection of revenue and the expenditure of the people's money should not be governed by the principles which make it possible for an industrial or commercial concern to remain solvent?

A large amount of money is spent by the city corporation every year. The system which will give the people—all the people—the best service and value for the expenditure is the one that is sought. It is not reasonable to argue that men who devote only a small portion of their time and thought to civic affairs can get as good results as if they gave all their time, and mastered the details as a man masters those of his own business. Direct responsibility is a great spur to effort. Associated with right methods it brings satisfactory results. In this respect the commission plan is immeasurably superior to the city council system of divided responsibility and the lack of constant application.

GETTING INDUSTRIES The statement that the publicity committee of Ottawa has brought eleven new industries to the city is worthy of attention in other cities. The report of Commissioner Baker states that the total number of Ottawa and Hull manufacturing firms attained the figure of 198, giving employment to about 14,000 people and paying in wages nearly eight million dollars per annum. The Citizen, discussing the report, says:

"As to the actual work of the bureau itself, the report shows that it is responsible for the location of eleven new industries in the city—surely a sufficient justification of its existence from the standpoint of the public."

GETTING THE SPOTLIGHT "He came to the front very rapidly." "Yes, indeed. All he had to do was refuse to sit at the same banquet table with one of our prominent citizens, and his name was on the front pages of all the papers for a week afterwards."—Detroit Free Press.

If you can't be clever, you can at least be foolish.

For reasons not to love him once I sought, And weared all my thought To vex myself and him; I now would give My love, could he but live Who lately lived for me; and when he found Three wails, in holy ground, He hid his face amid the shades of death, I waste for him my breath.

Who wasted his for me, but mine returns, And this lone bosom burns With stifling heat, leaving it up in sleep, And weeping me to weep. Tears that had melted his soft heart; for years Wept he as bitter tears. "Merciful God!" such was his latest prayer.

INSURING AGAINST DEVILS

Curious Way the Chinese Have of Taking Out an Annual Policy

Once every year, during the first fifteen days of the seventh Chinese month, the curious ceremony of Yu-Nan-Whet is celebrated, being in fact the paying of homage to the land and sea deities.

Seven priests carry out the ceremony by offering up various forms of prayer, says the Wide World Magazine, and making an unearthly noise by beating gongs. Any one wishing to show his respect to the deities can do so by a payment of 600 cash—about 22 cents—to each of the priests, for which amount they will continue their performance for twelve hours—a truly modest remuneration.

For an extra payment of 2,000 cash a number of small red paper boats about six inches long, with lights inside, will be sent floating down the river with the current. These lights are for the benefit of the sea devils in order that they may be able to see their way about on dark nights.

Having finished this performance the person on whose behalf it has been carried out goes away happy in the conviction that he will not lose any of his family throughout the year either by sickness or disaster, as that the whole ceremony

Remedies are Needed

Where we perfect, which we are not, medicine does not often be needed. But since eyesight has become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the earliest through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and acquired weaknesses. SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK CONFERENCE IN MONCTON

The Boy Problem and its Solution
by Rev. Mr. Ross—Topics of Importance

Moncton, Feb. 2.—(Special)—The Moncton Parish Sunday School Institute is meeting this week in the Christian Brotherhood Hall, Rev. W. A. Ross, the field secretary, is delivering instructive addresses. City clergymen are co-operating, delivering timely addresses.

Some of the needs of the city regarding Sunday school work are being strongly emphasized, and special attention is being given to the importance of educating our young people. Rev. J. J. Pinkerton, addressing one of the meetings, said that there is need of more home training. "A large number of our boys and girls," he said, "are running the streets and we are in need of something like a curb. We talk of boosting ambition and our need of industries and such things, but Moncton's greatest need is 'home made' men."

At the meeting last evening Rev. E. B. McLatchy, pastor of the Highfield street Baptist church, spoke on "Evangelism in the Sunday School," and Anne O'Brien, school inspector, spoke on the qualifications necessary in the Sunday school teacher. The field secretary, Rev. Mr. Ross, took up "Child study, intermediate and senior giving special attention to the development of boys and girls between the ages of twelve and sixteen, and emphasizing the importance of giving them right ideals. This was the time the "boy problem" arose. The boy needed sympathy, Mr. Ross thought if there was a better understanding of the needs of the boy at the

JORDAN IS NOT TO DIE ON DATE SET

The trial judge, after a hearing on the question of the sanity of the juror, who was committed to an asylum after the trial, held that by a fair preponderance of the evidence the juror was sane during the trial.

Counsel for the defence raised the question then that the trial judges erred, not only in denying the motion, but also in making a finding that the juror was sane by a fair preponderance of the evidence. Counsel contended that such action on the part of the judges was contrary to the 4th amendment to the federal constitution and the 24th article of the state bill of rights relating to depriving a citizen of his life or liberty without due process of law. Since the accused was entitled to a trial by 12 sane men, the defence claims that he is being deprived of his life and liberty without due process of law, since he was not given a trial by 12 sane men for the reason that Juror Wright was sane in the sense required by the constitution and the bill of rights.

It is the contention of the defence that the court should have found that the juror was sane beyond a reasonable doubt and not merely by a fair preponderance of the evidence in order to have held him eligible to serve as juror.

After the writ is returnable to the supreme court the justices there will set aside the case for argument. As capital cases are expected to be argued in the spring, but others do not think it will come up at that time, but later.

Jordan furnished a bond for $1,000 which Fred C. Kendall is surety, guaranteeing to prosecute his appeal to the supreme court.

WEDDINGS

Keast-McKinney.

A pretty wedding took place yesterday afternoon at the home of Rev. H. H. Nobles, Victoria street, when he united in marriage, Guilford A. Keast, a contractor with the St. John street Railway Co., to Miss Tressa M. McKinney. The young couple were unattended. The bride wore a handsome dress of white serge, and her travelling gown was of black broadcloth. After a wedding luncheon, at the home of the groom, in Millidge avenue, Mr. and Mrs. Keast left for a honeymoon trip through the New England states.

The Evening Chit-Chat
By RUTH CAMERON

WHEN you criticise folks and undertakings and conditions, do you criticise constructively or always negatively?

The other day I was puzzling over a birthday present for one of those difficult people who have so very much that it is almost impossible to find an unflattering note in their possessions.

There were four people in the room with me. As I named over to them the different articles I had thought might be suitable, three of the four spoke up objecting to this or that, and only one made any constructive suggestion.

"Think that was a fairly good example of the proportion of constructive and negative critics in this world,"

Negative criticism is of about as much use as a sign post which says, "This is not the way to soundness."

I have an acquaintance who has exquisite taste in dress. I admired her clothes so much that when I was going to have a new gown I sometimes talked it over with her. I don't know at my ideas, assuring me that "she wouldn't think of having that; nobody would think of doing that; she had never even offered me any constructive criticism and seldom said, 'I would have this.'"

And I think it was not because she had any objection to sharing her ideas, either. Merely that the lay habit of negative criticism was so strong with her that she couldn't escape it.

And most people are not only inclined to be negative critics, but worse still, they are apt to be indefinite critics.

An honest, definite criticism is worth something, but an indefinite criticism is absolutely valueless.

A twentieth century business man from the "I will" class was speaking to me one day of people who criticised him, and this is what he said:

"I like criticism. But I want it definite. If a man should come into my office and say, 'Look here, you are running your business all wrong. You don't know anything about this business,' I wouldn't kick him out. I'd say, 'All right, tell me just what I'm doing wrong and how I can do better.' And if he could point out any mistakes I was making and how I could correct them, I'd thank him and even pay him for telling me what a fool I'd been. But if he couldn't tell me anything definite, well, then I'd think I had a right to get pretty thoroughly mad at him for daring to criticise me."

When a woman discharges her maid, or an employer his employe, I think the employer should tell the one discharged exactly what was the matter with the work. And if the employe does not do this, I think the discharged employe should go to him, and frankly and pleasantly ask for definite fault-finding, so that when he rears a new structure of service in a new position he may do it on the foundation of this criticism.

The world needs definite constructive critics very badly. Which kind are you?

IF I WERE CARNEGIE.

If only I were Carnegie, I'd hang up money prizes for the things we need today. I'd give a million to the man who would invent a scheme whereby the janitor could sleep and still let us have steam. I'd give a heap of money for a fountain pen, I think. That one could fill and not appear as though he'd bathed in ink. I'd hire somebody to invent a keyhole with a light. For use when I come home from bed. At ten o'clock at night, I'm sure I'd give a million to the man who would devise a flannel undershirt that would, when washed, not shrink in size. And when he had invented that, I'd make him doubly rich. If he'd denature the stuff and cure it of its itch. CHOIR OF 50 PYTHIANS AT ANNIVERSARY

Local Knights to Attend Church Service in Body on Feb. 19 —Visit From Supreme Chancellor Looked for Soon

The Knights of Pythias of this city have decided to commemorate the anniversary of the founding of the order by a church service to be held on Sunday, February 19, at 4 p. m. As the anniversary falls on Sunday this year it was thought that a church service would be the most fitting way to observe the occasion. Arrangements are not altogether completed yet but a large committee from the three lodges have the details in hand, and will announce later where the service is to be held and who will be the speaker.

A feature of the service will be the singing of a male choir composed of fifty members of the order. The idea of having the service in the afternoon is to afford members who are connected with lodges in city churches to attend—interfering with their regular engagements.

It is probable also that in the near future the local lodges will receive a visit from the supreme chancellor of the order, Hon. George E. Hanson, of Halifax, N. S. It is not known just when the supreme chancellor will come but it is likely that he will be entertained by the knights here in a manner fitting to his high rank in the order.

REPORT IN FAVOR OF THE PAVING

Nelson and Pond Streets This Year and Mill and Dock To Follow — Granite Blocks For All

The sub-committee of the board of works appointed to report on the recommendation of the engineers that Pond, Nelson, Mill and Dock streets, be paved with granite blocks, held a meeting this morning and decided to report in favor of the recommendation being carried out. The committee recommends that tenders be called for paving the four streets, and that if it is considered that the city should not undergo the expense of the entire work this year, that Nelson and Pond streets, at least should be paved this year. It was also decided that the property owners in these streets should be notified to put the service pipes leading into their premises, into proper condition. There was some discussion as to the advisability of getting down some other material instead of granite, but it was the opinion of the members that for heavy traffic, granite blocks would be the most desirable.
