an after-dinner oration at which they happen to be present: and the real fact is, that the scope and tendency of Mr. Roby's speech was anything but disloyal. He was attacking the Ministry, who placed their satellites about the Court, but did not breathe a word against her Majesty herself. The expressions selected by Lord Hill have been animadverted upon by usin a former article, and disapproved of; Colonel Thomas distinctly states that he did not hear them unde use of; and, therefore, all shadow of a justification for censuring him on that ground is genoved. If-Lord Hill means to lay down the rule that a British officer is not to attend a public dinner in which the conduct of the Government is violently attacked, we venture to say that he will only make himself ridiculous by an impossible attempt, and needlessly provoke the indignation of the British army.—Liverpoot Mail.

Stockport, Nov. 16, 1839.

"Sir,—I do myself the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of yesterday's date, conveying to me Lord Hill's express desire, that in my emswer to your letter of the 12th instant, I shall confine myself to the simple denial or (admission) required of me by that communication, omitting the words—Which, in my opinion, is a garbled report of what that gentleman did say in his, speech at the Ashton dimer.

of what that gentleman did say in his, speech at the Aslaton dimer.

"Having in my letter of the 9th instant "asserted with confidence that the whole tenor of Mr. Roby's speech on the occasion referred to, breathed a high spirit of loyalty to the monarchy, and that no expression intered by that gentleman conveved to my mind, that the slightest disrespect, much less insult, offered or intended to the Queen, and that consequently there appeared no grounds for the expression of my disapprobation, which would not have been wanting if such an impression had been raccived by mee:

"Having further stated in my letter of the 14th instant," That I did not hear the particular expressions on the occasion referred to," and quoted in the margin of your letter of the 8th inst., which in my opinion is a garbled report of what that gentleman did say in his speech at the Askton dinner:

"I now beg to sequant you, for the information of Lord Hill, that with the greatest respect and submission to the Commander in Chief, I have nothing further to offer in explanation: nothing to retract or omit from what I have a lready stated, and I stand upon my character as a soldier, and my birthright as a gentleman, which I cannot help feeling have been reflected upon by most unmerited suspicion.

The Queen's Marriage.—Since the queen told the council that she made known her resolution to them at the "carliest period," of course it is a fact; but it seems that the Duke of Cobourg was enabled to communicate his intention of marrying Prince Albert to her majesty at a much earlier period to his subjects. since the German papers furnished accounts a twelve-month back of the duke's publicly receiving congratulations on the forthcoming event. Among other stipulations which the duke and King Leopold made in favour of Prince Albert, in negociating his marriage with the queen, they claimed for him the title of king-consort. This proposition however startled even the careless indelence of Lord Melbourne, who ventured so energetic a protest against it that the project was abandoned, at least for the present, and the younger branch of the ducal House of Cobourg is to be content with having the rank and dignity of blood royal of England conferred upon him, a patent or decree to that effect will be promulgated very shortly. Her majesty says she persuades herself that the match will be "most acceptable" to all her loving subjects: but if she had said that she had "been persuaded," it would perhaps have been a more exact account of the case. Some influential London papers have expressed astonishment that there is no allosion as to the protestant princes of the future husband of the queen. The innocence displayed in their remarks on this subject is difficult to reconcile with the great talent and ability otherwise manifested in these journals, as if religious principles in the Cobourg family ever stood in the way of a good match. They can find a protestant princes, and though at the time of his marriage with the Princess Charlotte his protestantism was of the first water, yet now it has assumed so accommodating a character that he as no object to the bing in the children as papi power—his revenue I" These inquiries are easily answered: he has no rank except what his wife may give him—no constitutional power whateverand his revenue depends on the Iberality of Parliament. All that can be said of the husband of the Queen may therefore be comprised in a few words. Politically, he can ostensibly be nothing: though privately he may be almost everything—The representations and advice of Ministers will avail little against the wishes and arguments of a beloved spouse: and the deliberations of the nuptial couch—if, as is ardently hoped, harmony, tenderness, and love attend it—will probably be found infinitely or more efficac ions than those of the Council board. He will be created a Duke, and perhaps Duke of Kent, and a Privy Councillor, (though, if he be wise, he will refuse all honors connected with responsibility and duty.) a Field-Marshal, a Knight of the Garter, the Bath, and perhaps of all the other orders; and like his uncle, be authorised to quarter the arms of England, with a grant for precedence of all persons except Dukes of the Blood Royal. Monneal Jan. 7.—We beg to call the prompt attention of the Commander of the Forces to the following statement of facts, which we have from a most respectable and responsible source. We give them as we got them, and hope an enquiry will be instituted. The Stantead Volunteer Cavalry have a station at Charleston village, Hatley, and a sentry parading on all-occasions in front of it, as is custo mary. On New Year's eve, Mr. James Edgar, who resides close beside it, had a few friends, among whom were some of the Calvary, with him to welcome in the new year, and for the sake of greater effect, at midnight, a volley was fired, and a couple of bins lights were burned outside the windows of the house. After seturing inside with his friends, some fellows, of whom one named Hoyet, belonging to the guard, came over and smassled to pieces the frame on which the lights had been supported. On hearing the noise, Mr. Edgar came out, when the fellows went away, after giving him a good deal of insolence. Two of Mr. Edgar friends, Messrs, Hill and M. Kerzie, Englishmen, reunained with him a short time after some of the others had departed, and on oging out of the house to return home, this same sentry Heyet celled out "Who comes there, who's that," as quickly as the could pronounce the words, and immediately fired his carabine at them; the builtet, fortunately, missed them, but passed close to Mr. Bracker, another of the troop, who were still with Mr. Edgar. They rushed out and found the sentry re loading his piece, and saying that he world shoot some of them that time. Mr. Brock, the corporal of the guard, ordered him to desist which he refus d to do, and the whole guard were called out, by whom he was disarrated by force, and the carabine was found loaded and on full cock, and the carabine was found loaded and on full cock, and the carabine was found loaded and on full cock, the carabine was found loaded and on full cock, and the c

TERS!

Those who have perused the letters above referred to will observe that in almost every case they attest the fact, that no inconvenience of any sort attends the taking of these medicines, in ordinary cases, but that the posient, without feeling their operation, is universally left in a stronger and better state of health than was experienced previous to being afficted with disease; and in all cases of acute selfering, great relief is obtained in a few hours, and a cure is generally effected in two or three days.

It case of Fever of every description, and all bilous affections, it is unnecessary for me to say sight, as I believe the Life Medicines are now amyersally admitted to be the most speedy and effectual cure extant in all diseases of that class.

The Life Medicines are also a most excellent relief in affections of the liver and Bowels, as has been proved in hundreds of cases where patients have come forward and requested that their experience in taking them might be published for the benefit of others. In their operation in such cases, they restore the tone of the Stomach, strengthen the digestive organs, and invigorate the general functions of the whole body, and thus become to both sexes (for they are perfectly adapted to each) an invaluable means of preventing disease and rostoring health.

In affections of the head, whether accompanied Case of Amos Davis; Affection of the Liver; after trying docter's remedies in vam for a long time was cured by the Life Medicines without trouble.

Extraordinary case of Lyman Pratt, who was afflicted with Phthusic 20 years; effected a perfect cure in 24 hours by the use of the Life Medicines.

Thousands of persons afflicted in like mianner have, by a judicious use of Moffats Life Pills and Thousands of persons afflicted in like manner have, by a judicious use of Moffats Life Pills and Phonix Bitters, been restored to the enjoyment of all the comfurts of life. The Bitters are pleasent to to the taste and smelt, gently astringe the fibres of the stomach, and give that proper tensity which a good digestion requires as nothing can be better adapted to help and nourish the constitution, so there is nothing more generally acknowledged to be peculiarly efficacions in all inward wastings, loss of appetite, indigestion, depression of spirits, trembling or sinking of the hands and limbs, obstinate coaghs shortness of breath, or consumptive habits.

The Life Medicines possess wonderful efficacy in all nervous disorders, fits, headaches, weaknesses heaviness and lowness of spirits, dimness of sight confused thoughts, wandering of the mind, vapours and melancholy, and all kinds of hysteric complaints are gradually removed by their use. In sickness of the stomach, flatulencies, or obstructions, they are safe and powerful, and as a purifier of the blood they have not their equal in the world.
