In a hotly-contested election at Alvinston on Monday to fill the vacancy created by Reeve John McCallum having been appointed county road inspector, Sanford Lucas was elected over John Brown by 136 to 44. The Dominion Government has decided on the policy of bringing back to Canada all the misfits in the Canadian forces in England. Those who are not fit for the trenches or some useful service are coming back. There is to be no more allowing of men to stay comfortably in England at the country's expense without even smelling powder or doing that which is worth while. Between now and June 1st twenty thousand of them will come in the next few weeks.

He ordered Mr. Elliot, the defeated candidate, to pay the costs, about $80 in all.

Going to Sarnia.

J. D. McIntosh, the well-known general agent of the Cockshutt Plow Company, is leaving Glencoe this week to reside in Sarnia. Mr. McIntosh has made his home here for the last five years, and during that time he and his family made many warm friends among our citizens, who are sorry they are leaving. As reflecting the esteem in which they are held, several social functions have been given recently in honor of members of the family. His friends among the boys presented Jack with a ring, a fountain pen and a watch fob, and at a surprise party at the home on Monday evening Miss Etta and Miss Eugene Herrington were presented with a ring each.

Aged Resident Dies.

William J. Innes, one of the oldest residents of the township of Mosa, died at his residence on March 15th, after a short illness caused by a fall on the ice. He was in his 94th year.

Mr. Innes was born in Lossiemouth, Scotland, and came to Canada with his family in 1864 and spent four years in the county of Ottawa. After visiting his native land, he returned to Canada and settled on the lot where he resided since 1869. He experienced the usual privations of the early settler. His wife predeceased him three years in her 91st year. He is survived by his sons, William and George, and one daughter, Mrs. A. Burchiel of Mosa.

The funeral took place on Monday, the 18th, interment being in Oakland cemetery, and was largely attended. The services were conducted by his pastor, Rev. G. S. Lloyd. The bearers were James Brown, Alex. Gray, J. Babcock, Elias Reycraft, Angus Stuart and Lauchlin McKelvie.

The Late Mrs. Walker.

Mrs. Sarah Walker, who died February 27th at her home in Metcalfe, was a daughter of the late Wm. Gow of Ekfrid.

Death was due to arthritis followed by an attack of meningitis of three months' duration.

Being of an exemplary Christian character her sufferings, though long and intense, were borne with most marked patience and cheerfulness. Loved by all who knew her, she will be missed by a large circle of friends. Particularly in her home among her young family of three sons and one daughter is their loss immeasurable, and much sympathy is expressed for the children in their sad bereavement. Besides these, her stepmother, Mrs. Gow; three sisters—Mrs. Munn, Scotland; Mrs. Munroe, Mosa, and Mrs. McNeil, Metcalfe—are left to mourn her loss. Rev. Mr. Robertson conducted services in Burns' church and her remains, borne by six nephews as pallbearers, were laid to rest in Kilmartin cemetery.

The Daughters of the Empire will organize next Tuesday, March 26th. Mrs. A. A. Campbell, organizer, wishes to meet every woman in Glencoe in the Town Hall at 3 o'clock on that date to tell of this nation-wide organization during the war. All Red Cross workers, every woman who sympathizes with the boys at the front, every mother who has a boy at the front and every mother who has a son but cannot yet see what is ahead—all are asked to come to this meeting.

Drama at Appin.

What will be generally accepted as a red-letter day in the history of Appin entertainment was enjoyed by the people of that place and district on the evening of Friday, March 15, when the beautiful American drama, "Star Bright," one of the foremost productions of that brilliant playwright and author, Edith F. A. V. Painton, was staged in the village town hall by the Macksville Dramatic Club.

"Star Bright" is a clever and faithful portrayal of modern American life. The scene is laid in a village of the Adirondacks, and comprises comedy-drama of that wholesome and impressive sort that inevitably awakens passions tender and austere.

The players, eleven in number, were in good form and took their parts in a splendid way that indicated natural talent, with long and untiring practice, while an eager and appreciative audience had filled the hall long before the hour set for opening, and scores were turned away.

Many requests have been made to have a return engagement played, but this has not as yet been decided on definitely. The people of Appin and district feel grateful indeed to this splendid aggregation of young actors for a real treat.

The proceeds, which were for patriotic purposes, amounted to $75.40, including $7 received for an autograph quilt of the Fraser Mission Band, auctioned off by Donald McIntyre, junior.

Death of Cyrus McBean.

Word has been received here of the death on Sunday, March 10th, at Winnipeg, of Cyrus McBean, who was well known in this vicinity. He was born in the township of Ekfrid, near Strathburn, in the year 1848 and was a member of a large family. In his early years he went to Toronto and later to Winnipeg, where he lived until his death. He was an active church worker and had been elder of the Presbyterian church for a number of years. He leaves his wife, two sons and three daughters, and also three sisters, Mrs. Angus McTaggart of Ekfrid, Miss Betsy McBean and Mrs. Lewis Tallamy of Glencoe.

War Prisoners' Fund.

Last November the Women's Christian Temperance Union decided to open a subscription list asking for contributions toward the support of one or more of our soldier boys who are prisoners in Germany. Some people on being asked for a small amount expressed the doubt that the prisoners ever receive the parcels of food, so the secretary of the W. C. T. U. was instructed to write to the convener of the Prisoners Department of the Canadian Red Cross Society for information, and received in reply the following letter:—

136 Kent St., London, Dec. 21, 1917.
Mrs. Alice Aldred,
Glencoe, Ont.
Dear Madam,—Your letter to Marion Keith has been handed to me as convener of the Prisoners Department to answer.

We have been constantly assured by prisoners who have been exchanged or escaped from Germany that they receive their parcels and would have been unable to exist without them. Think, dear madam, would the government allow such enormous quantities of food to enter Germany if it were to feed the Germans? Then, too, think of the enormous cost for our prisoners alone—$12,000 a month. Would they allow that money to be spent on feeding the Germans when the money is needed for so many purposes.

The parcels are sent by the Prisoners of War Department of the Canadian Red Cross to whom we send the money. If you care to adopt one (or more) will you fill out the enclosed blank form and return it to me with your money. I send the form to England where the name and address of the prisoner is added and then sent back. It will take about seven weeks before you will have his address but then you can write to him yourself. Thanking you for your interest in this work.

Yours truly,
(Miss) D. GUNN.

KITCHENER'S MOB

By Jas. NORMAN HALL.

I remember that march in the light of our later experiences, in the light of the official report of the total British casualties at Loos; sixty thousand British lads killed, wounded, and missing. Marching four abreast, column of casualties miles in length. I see them plodding light-heartedly through the mud at the end of that gray September day, their faces wet with the rain, and a bloke standing by the side of the road would think they were a-go'n to a Sunday-school picnic.

The sergeant was in a talkative mood.

"Listen to them guns barkin'! We're in for it this time, straight!" Then, turning to the men behind him, "Ave got yer wills made out, y' lads? You're a-go'n to see a scrap presently, an' it ain't a-go'n to be no flea-bite, I give you my word!"

"Right you are, sergeant! I'm leavin' me razor to 'is Majesty. 'Ope 'e'll tyke the 'int."

It is fine for cleaning cans—says the dairyman

Now there is just one WALKER HOUSE in ONE TOWN where I stay. And, say, you ought to see me grin when my trip heads that way.

The only other time I was so happy, goodness knows, was when a kid Dad bought me Red topped boots with copper toes.

When other travelers hit that town, they, too, don't want to leave. For they say, "At that WALKER HOUSE it's just like staying home."

Where is the ONE TOWN where that WALKER HOUSE is? Don't you know?

long files of ambulances which moved as rapidly as the darkness and the awful condition of the roads would permit. I counted twenty of them during one halt, and then stopped, thinking of the pain of the poor fellows inside, their wounds wrenched and torn by the constant pitching and jolting. We had vivid glimpses of them by the light from flashing guns, and of the Red Cross attendants at the rear of the cars, steadying the upper tiers of stretchers on either side. The heavy (garrison) artillery was by this time far behind us. The big shells went over with a hollow roar like the sound of an express train heard at a distance. Field artillery was concealed in the ruins of houses on every side. The guns were firing at a tremendous rate, the shells exploding several miles away with a sound of jarring thunder claps.

In addition to the ambulances there was a constant stream of horses rearing traffic of other kinds: dispatch riders on motor cycles, feeling their way cautiously along the side of the road; ammunition supply and battalion transport wagons; the horses rearing and plunging in the darkness. We approached a crossroad and halted to make way for some batteries of field pieces moving to new positions. They went by on a slippery cobblestone road, the horses at a dead gallop. In the red lightnings of heavy-gun fire they looked like a series of splendid sculptured groups.

We moved on and halted, moved on again, stumbled into ditches to get out of the way of headquarters cars and motor lorries, jumped up and pushed on. Every step through the thick mud was taken with an effort. We frequently lost touch with the troops ahead of us and would have to march at the double in order to catch up. I was fast getting into that despondent, despairing frame of mind which often follows great physical weariness, when I remembered a bit of wisdom out of a book by William James which I had read several years before. He had said, in effect, that men have layers of energy, reserves of nervous force, which they are rarely called upon to use, but which are, nevertheless, assets of great value in times of strain. I had occasion to test the truth of this statement during that night march, and at intervals later, when I felt that I had reached the end of my resources of strength, and I found it to be practical wisdom which stood me in good stead on more than one occasion.

We halted to wait for our trench guides at the village of Vermelles, about three miles back of our lines. The men lay down thankfully in the mud and many were soon asleep despite the terrific noise. Our batteries, concealed in the ruins of houses, were keeping up a steady fire, and the German guns were replying almost as hotly. The weird flashes lit up the shattered walls with a fascinating, bizarre effect. By their light, I saw men lying with their heads thrown back over their pack-sacks, their rifles leaning across their bodies; others standing in attitudes of suspended animation. The noise was deafening. One was thrown entirely upon his own resources for comfort and companionship, for it was impossible to converse. While we were waiting for the order to move, a homeless dog put his cold nose into my hand. I patted him and he crept up close beside me. Every muscle in his body was quivering. I wanted to console him in his own language. But I knew very little French, and I should have had to shout into his ear at the top of my voice to have made myself heard. When we marched on I lost him. And I never saw him again.

There was a further march of two and a half miles over open country, the scene of the great battle. The ground was a maze of abandoned trenches and was pitted with shell holes. The clay was so slippery and we were so heavily loaded that we fell down at every step. Some of the boys told me afterward that I cursed like blue blazes all the way up. I was not conscious of this, but I can readily understand that it may have been true. At any rate, as a result of that march, I lost what reputation I had for being temperate in the use of profanity.

We crossed what had been the first line of British trenches, which marked the starting-point of the advance, and from there the ground was covered with the bodies of our comrades, men who had "done their bit," as Tommy says, and would never go home again. Some were huddled in pathetic little groups of two or three as they might have crept together for companionship before they died. Some were lying face downward just as they had fallen. Others in attitudes revealing dreadful suffering. Many were hanging upon the tangles of German barbed wire which the heaviest of bombardments never completely destroys. We saw them only by the light of distant trench rockets and stumbled over them and over them when the darkness returned.

It is an unpleasant experience, marching under fire, on top of the ground, even though it is dark and the enemy is shelling haphazardly. We machine gunners were always heavily loaded. In addition to the usual infantryman's burden, we had our machine guns to carry, and our ammunition, water supply, tools and instruments. We were very eager to get under cover, but we had to go slowly. By the time we reached our trench we were nearly exhausted.

The men who were to relieve were packed up, ready to move out, when we arrived. We threw our rifles and equipment on the parapet and stood close to the side of the trench to allow them to pass. They were cased in mud. Their faces, which I saw by the glow of matches or lighted cigarettes, were haggard and worn. A week's growth of beard gave them a wild and barbaric appearance. They talked eagerly. They were hysterically cheerful; voluble from sheer nervous reaction. They had been a week of getting away for a little while from the sickening horrors: the sight of maimed and shattered men; the deafening noise, the nauseating odor of decaying flesh. As they moved out there were the usual conversations which take place between incoming and outgoing troops. (To be continued.)

SUN LIFE OF CANADA IN STRONG POSITION

As will be seen from the essential features of its year's operations set forth elsewhere in this issue, Canada's largest life assurance company has just closed a highly satisfactory year. Total assurances in force on the books of the Sun Life of Canada have now crossed the $311,000,000 mark, assurances issued and paid for in cash during the year totalling over $47,800,000, the largest amount ever issued by a Canadian life company.

A NEW FAD.

A Collection of Daguerreotypes Would Be An Interesting Possession.

Have you a hobby? Here is a brand new one, just out of somebody's imagination box. It's to be a collection of daguerreotypes.

Haven't you known of persons who have spent years collecting candlesticks, rugs, odd dishes or beads? Why not daguerreotypes? What could yield more interesting stories than these dainty little colored relics of the past? Truly they are of the past, for the art of Daguerre is a lost one and has never been successfully revived. Did you know that?

So let us go to grandfather's, get the old picture box in the writing desk drawer and find them in their little plush and gold-rimmed cases. Perhaps you will find one of grandmother in her teens. That dainty, soft-coloring will tell you more of her charms than she is willing to confess.

You will find them most interesting and you will catch yourself looking for the different types of faces.

I have one that I hold dear—it's a double. A broad-shouldered young man looking out on a beaming world, while by his side is seated his dainty little bride, her hand on his knee. You will begin to take an interest in the quest, too, and be soon rich in a possession you are proud of, and in a fad which offers an easy field of acquisition.

Try it.

The tractor gets you somewhere, which is more than can be said of the tractor.

WHEN PEARLS NEED DOCTORING

MUST BE WORN CONTINUALLY TO RESTORE LUSTRE.

Here Are Some Little Known Facts About One of the Most Precious Jewels.

Are you the lucky possessor of a string of angels' tears, as someone once poetically visioned pearls, which happen to be the real and genuine article?

If so, wear them, and don't keep them cooped up in the family vault or heirloom casket, for pearls, more than any other precious gem, are almost human in their susceptibility to change, neglect, and indifferent treatment, and if not properly looked after will lose their "life" to an extent which sometimes considerably depreciates their value, says a London weekly.

Perhaps you have noticed that your morning "Mirror" nearly always contains portraits of duchesses and other ladies of high degree engaged in war work and lazzar openings, always accompanied by their own particular famous pearls, even though it be early morn, which we lesser mortals were taught to regard as quite the wrong end of the day to wear a small fortune in baubles.

Sleeps in Them. But there is method in their ostentation. Their jewellers and insurance agents have insisted that pearls to retain their precious lustre, must be worn continually.

Indeed, many Society beauties and actresses, whose pearls are almost as famous as themselves, wear their gems under their gowns when display is unwise, and they even sleep in them!

Gaby Delys, whose pearls are worth many thousands, once told me that she attributed their wonderful sheen and exquisite coloring to the fact that she always wore them in bed.

When that conversation took place we happened to be midway across the Atlantic, and rumor had it that the steamship line detailed a particularly hefty individual to sleep on the mat outside the door of her suite.

It is bad enough to be responsible for the safety of the one and only Gaby, but quite another thing to guard a collection of pearls which is said to have scarcely an equal.

Gaby also told me that her friend, the luckless Mlle. Lantelme, who was drowned in the Rhine some years ago while on a pleasure trip on her husband's yacht, was also the possessor of some wondrous pearls, and always retired with her entire collection distributed over her hands, arms, neck, and ears.

Buried With Them.

In fact, when the body of the beautiful actress was recovered from the river, it was found that she was clad only in her night robe and her pearls.

Paris was a long time forgetting the tragic death of the woman whose eyes were like black pansies, and whom they called the Lady of the Pearls, and some time after her grave was shockingly desecrated by some ghastly fiends, and the jewels which had been buried with her were stolen under particularly nauseous circumstances.

Curiously enough, not all women are good for pearls, and many owners have to delegate the wearing of them to their mothers or healthier relatives.

Some women, however, are famous pearl cure-alls, and one or two years ago one of the big museums of Paris advertised for a young and healthy maiden to sit for a few hours daily wearing some of their pearl exhibits which had lost "life."

The successful applicant for the unusual post was required to wear the jewels next her flesh under the eagle eye of one or two attendants, who were told off to see that she did not play any hanky-panky tricks.

This young girl proved such a good cure-all that she was commissioned by many European royalties and society folk to pay periodical visits to their treasures.

Don't Like the Ex-Czarina.

The ex-Czarina of Russia also possesses wonderful ropes of the most lovely bauble in the world, but very few are aware that other people have to give them their "medicine," as she is constitutionally antagonistic to them.

Senora Tortola de Valencia, of Barcelona, who is one of the famous exponents of the dancing which is peculiarly Spanish, is said to have restored the pearls of the ex-Czarina to life several years ago by wearing them next her heart while dancing at Petrograd.

The pearls had lost their lustre, and the insurance companies were beginning to be alarmed; but after the fascinating Tortola had worn them, they "glistened once more with all the fire of life, youth, and health," according to the unbiased and uncensored report of an admirer of the famous danseuse.

Rely on North America.

Lord Rhonda says: "The Allied larder is dangerously empty but we are carrying on in the resolute belief that we can rely on the people of North America to prevent our food supplies from becoming so diminished as to imperil the issue for which we are all fighting."

Many of the Psalms of David are filled with beautiful and great thoughts; the recognition of God's love, mercy and the greatness of his works; but, beautiful as these are, they do not move us so much as those in which the soul of the man cries out in agony of body or mind. Here we find common ground. David is no longer a king, who reigned hundreds of years ago, or a poet who wrote some of the greatest poems the world has ever known; he is rather a

After we have been through an ordeal of pain, anxiety or sorrow we are very likely to realize, as we never have done before, that our life here is an incomplete one. We may have thought quite differently until one of these things came upon us so suddenly that our whole outlook upon life was changed. Sometimes the years go by with only a few outward changes. Blessings may abound, and but few trials come to us; yet even if we are blessed in this way, our neighbor may

37. Give ye them to eat.—Certainly a strange request in the face of the obvious fact that no food was on hand—so they must have thought. They inferred that it could only mean they were to buy it. Shall we buy two hundred shillings' worth of bread?—Only Mark and John specify the sum—two hundred denarii. The denarius was a Roman coin worth about seventeen cents. It is hardly correct to call it a penny. It represents the wages for one day's work. The implication here is that as it would take two hundred denarii, a large sum, the whole thing was out of the question.

the minds of Christ's faithful friends when they laid Him away in the tomb in the garden. They may have forgotten for the time being all the promises He had made concerning His resurrection. At that moment they could think of Him only as a dear friend, the best they had ever had, who had undergone a bitter and painful death, and was now released from all suffering. They, too, may have been grateful that peace had followed pain.

Before putting together, lay a piece of string through the centre of the egg from end to end, letting it extend sufficiently so that it may be held while dipping. Take one-half can grated cocoanut, sufficient sugar to mold. Press milk from the cocoanut, then work in the sugar, kneading well. Mold, putting the two halves of the egg together. with fire long ago assumed the proportions of an epidemic in Canada and there are no signs that it is being controlled. In spite of the world shortage of food and the fact that the Empire is fighting for its very life, Canada permits to be burned, millions of dollars worth of food and other vital requirements each year. The problem of greater production is of first importance, but it is also important to conserve products already in existence. By far the larger percentage of fires occurring in Canada are the direct result of carelessness, which, in time of war at least, should be punished as a criminal offence.

In an effort to stamp out the fire evil in Saskatchewan the fire commissioner, Mr. Arthur E. Fisher, is carrying out a vigorous campaign to "make Saskatchewan fireproof." By means of bulletins, pictures in movie theatres and with the assistance of the press Mr. Fisher is pointing out the way to ban the fire Rend from the province. Saskatchewan is especially in the dangerous sections of Canada's greatest grain growing province, will doubtless be the means of saving large quantities of food products from the all too common fate of destruction by fire. This effort is a commendable one and should receive hearty support from every organization and from every person who is able to lend a hand.

THURSDAY, MARCH 21, 1918

A fresh vote of five millions of dollars for Northern Ontario development seems a bit extravagant at such a time as this. That amount would go a long way toward stimulating the production movement if used to encourage farming on the many idle lands in Old Ontario already developed.

Union Government was created to serve the one great purpose of raising Canada's quota of men for service for overseas. As a means of implementing this pledge, the Toronto Telegram suggests that all the draftees be allowed to go home and the government enroll the commissioners, boards and staffs created in the past year as a greater army than the 100,000 men to be raised under the Military Service Act.

With big headlines and accompanying portrait in latest cut of gown, the city papers feature Lady Hendry as "a maple sugar enthusiast—a patriotic example." There are lots of maple sugar enthusiasts down this way, but they wear work garments and carry sap buckets and don't cut much of a dash on the society page. They belong to the nobility—that noble class of men and women known as useful citizens.

A correspondent has found an entirely new matter to complain about. After mentioning a number of officials whose duties appear to be entirely advisory, despite their large salaries, she protests against the high cost of advice. That is certainly a new one. We have a proverb that "advice is cheap," and experience teaches us that it is founded on fact. Most of us find that advice is about the cheapest thing on the market. We can not only get it when we want it, but we all get a whole lot that we do not want. Of course, there are forms of advice that always come high, such as legal, medical, engineering and general professional advice, but we all avoid dealing in it while we can. But common or garden advice is pestiferously plentiful. Most of us raise more of it than we need for home consumption and have a plentiful supply to unload on our friends, relatives and neighbors. My correspondent complains that the highly-paid advice that is now coming to us from official circles is largely of the common variety, and that it is a nuisance rather than a help. Not wishing to give offence, I refrain from giving instances of the kind to which she refers, but if you watch the papers you can find examples every day. We are certainly well supplied with advice, no matter what we may think of its quality. But it will not do to complain too much about it or the first thing we know someone will be given a high office with a high-sounding title and a large salary to advise us about the advice we are getting, and tell us how much of it we should take. As we are obliged to pay in our taxes for all the advice we are getting, it is possible that we really have grounds for complaining against the high cost of advice.—Peter McArthur.

Now For the Farmerettes.

The "farmerette" movement started in England in the early years of the war and is now an established factor in English food production. The idea is catching on rapidly in the United States and Canada, and this season, no doubt, "farmerettes" all over America will be doing their bit to help save us from famine. Farmers may not take these candidates for jobs seriously, but their attitude will soon change on trying them out, and the demand for their services will spread like wildfire. Let us not forget that the first farmers were women. While their men hunted game and made war on other tribes, the women stayed at home and sowed, planted, tended, and gathered in the harvests, as well as spinning, weaving, tanning, making pottery, and generally tending to the constructive, conserving business of life. In more ways than one we are returning to primitive conditions and activities. And, by the way, let me tell you that the woman who isn't making garden breeches or overalls a definite and important part of her summer wardrobe nowadays is going to feel like a back number when the warm days come. The most eminent dressmakers in New York and Chicago are now competing to make the perfect design for these bifurcated garments—a design that shall encompass both beauty and comfort and be accepted as the standard for the coming season. Think what money there is for the artist who accomplishes this! There are at least 20,000,000 women in this broad land of ours whose patriotism and passion for fashion will unite to make them yearn to adopt this new style. Once we women get used to the ease and joy of a skirtless condition do you suppose we'll ever return to bondage?—Chicago Tribune.

Advertising As Education.

The confusion that existed in many parts of the country as to the exact meaning of the recent order regarding the three "heatless days" indicates that the Government has already forgotten the lesson it should have learned from its experience last fall. It will be remembered that an extensive advertising campaign was put into operation in connection with the enforcing of the Military Service Act and with the marketing of the Victory Loan bonds. Clear, definite, and authoritative information was given to the public in the advertising columns of both country and city press, with the result that everybody learned just what was expected in each case.

The dissemination of information regarding three-day closing order was left to news despatches, and resulted in much exasperating conflict of opinion as to what was meant. Had the Fuel Controller's office followed the example set by the Minister of Finance and by the Military Service Council, this confusion need not have occurred. An official statement in the advertising columns, giving an exact interpretation of the order in its relation to the various fuels used, would have obviated the necessity of calling for special interpretations in behalf of so many sections of the country.

The educational value of advertising is becoming more and more understood every day and the volume of advertising is increasing in a corresponding degree. The advertising columns of a newspaper are even more closely read than the news columns. This is especially true of the advertising of those merchants or firms who realize that what prospective customers desire is information about the goods advertised. That is why the mail order business has grown to such large proportions in recent years. Both the newspaper and direct advertising of the mail-order houses is packed with definite information as to quality, use, and price of the goods advertised. Such advertising brings results just as surely as the Victory Loan advertising of last fall brought the largest returns of all the loans so far offered by the Government.—Ridgetown Dominion.

Vacant Lot Gardening.

The majority of the horticultural societies in this province have accomplished great things with their vacant lot propaganda. In the cities of Toronto and Ottawa alone many acres have been cultivated. Ottawa reports over 100 acres from which 50,000 bushels of valuable garden products have been garnered in first-class condition. Those interested in horticulture in Toronto through the Vacant Lot Gardening Association have also done a splendid work and in a large way.

The report issued by the superintendent, Mr. Geo. Baldwin, states: Number of lots under cultivation during 1917, 798, all well cultivated. Number of soldiers and soldiers' families working lots, 80. Average size of lots 3,000 square feet, all marked with sign board. Package of seeds provided 725, of which 607 were paid for. Several churches, hospitals, boy scouts, guides, boy scouts included in lot holders. One lot looked after by a returned soldier who lost both his legs, another by a man with only one hand. The condition of both these lots would shame those who are not thus seriously handicapped. All gardens are inspected once a week and reminders sent to those who neglect their plots. The crops produced have a value of $10,000 at a moderate estimate.—J. Lockie Wilson, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.

DOMINION TROOPS RAID GERMAN TRENCHES IN LENS SECTOR

Capture Prisoners and Guns—Enemy Afraid to Meet Canadians in Hand-to-Hand Fight.

A despatch from London says: Canadian troops in the region of Lens again have attacked enemy trenches with success and taken 14 prisoners, according to the British official communication issued Friday evening. On the other hand attempted enemy raids near Passchendaele and south of the Menin road were repulsed by the British.

A despatch from Canadian Army Headquarters says: Canada in France celebrated the beginning of real base- ball weather by a double-header on Friday night, in which 14 prisoners and two machine guns were captured. The raids were eminently successful, only one feature marring the operations. The Hun ran so fast that our men had little opportunity to fight, and had to be satisfied largely with bombing operations, in which the enemy dugouts and machine gun emplacements were destroyed.

The attacks were carried out simultaneously in the neighborhood of Rois Hugo. In both cases the operations were completed within half an hour after our barrage opened. It is impossible to give any estimate of the Hun casualties, as he held his front line lightly, but they must have been heavy as his crowded support and reserve areas were subjected to thirty minutes' intense barrage from our heavy field guns and machine guns, with also some assistance from our Stokes.

The reluctance of the Boche to meet Canadians in hand-to-hand fighting is confirmed by prisoners, who say they were instructed to leave positions in the event of our raids.

Early Thursday morning a lieutenant and fifteen men, supported by arm- ed artillery and trench mortar fire, raided an enemy trench in Avion, but the post was found unoccupied, the raiders having no other opposition than that offered by distant hostile snipers. They returned to our lines without a casualty.

GREAT BRITAIN AND UNITED STATES TAKE OVER DUTCH SHIPS

Allies Seize Million Tons of Holland's Shipping Under International Law.

A despatch from Washington says:—A million tons of Dutch ships now held in ports the world over through Holland's fear of Germany's threat to sink them if they venture out will be brought into the service of the United States and Great Britain at once.

The United States and Great Britain will take them over under international law, availing themselves of a sovereign right which Germany herself has hitherto exercised under the same authority.

ALLIED GOVERNMENTS WILL PLACE GERMAN PRISONERS IN DANGER ZONE

Will Locate Them in Areas Which Enemy Bomb in Reprisal for Like Action on Part of the Enemy.

A despatch from London says: German prisoners of war are to be distributed over areas which the enemy's aircraft are subjecting to attack in their air raids, according to the Evening News on Thursday.

"This," says the News, "is being done because the allied Governments have learned that prisoners of their nationalities in German hands already have been so placed in all towns which the German Government considers likely to be attacked."

The ruins are deep in road and lane. The fields are soggy with the rain. The skies are low and grim and gray. The cattle in the barnyard stay; Hags man the courage and the pluck To dream of mastering such muck? It must be so, for even now The farmer's scouring up his plow!

TURKISH FORCES IN ERZERUM

Strong Resistance Being Offered by the Armenians.

A despatch from London says:—Armenians are offering resistance to Turkish troops, according to an official Turkish announcement received here on Thursday.

In Palestine attempts of the British to advance on March 9 and 10 are said to have been repulsed. An effort to break through the line of the Jerusalem-Nablus road failed, the statement says.

The statement, issued by the Turkish War Office on Tuesday, says that Turkish troops have entered Erzerum and are extinguishing fires caused by the Armenians.

Erzerum, the principal city of Turkish Armenia, 120 miles southeast of Trebizond, was held by the Russians until their evacuation of Turkish Armenia.

TEUTONS STRIKE AT ITALIAN FLANK

Height to the East of Lake Garda Blown Up by Austrian Invader.

A despatch from London says: The Austrians report that Mount Pasubio, on the mountainous section of the Italian "bottle line," has been blown up and that Austrian forces have occupied the ground. Mount Jasubio is east of Lake Garda and on the left side of a deep salient in the Italian line. Its position on the left bank of the Bacchiglione River may indicate the approach of a serious blow at the Italians there in the hope of opening a way into the Bacchiglione Valley and turning the flank of the Italian armies guarding the lower Piave.

LEMONS WHITEN AND BEAUTIFY THE SKIN

Make this beauty lotion cheaply for your face, neck, arms and hands.

At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quart of the most wonderful lemon skin softener and complexion beautifier, by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, whiten and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any drug store and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quart of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It is marvelous to smooth rough, red hands.

REPORT ON PILOTAGE AT PORT OF HALIFAX.

A despatch from Ottawa says: The report of the commission which enquired into pilotage at the port of Halifax, as the result of allegations made following the recent disaster, was given out by Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, Minister of Marine. The commissioners made a number of recommendations, the most important being that legislation should be enacted appointing the Minister of Marine the pilotage authority for the district of Halifax. This recommendation is based on the finding of the commissioners "that the administration of the pilotage service by the present commission has been found unfavorable."

The commissioners further recommended that a superintendent having a sea-going experience with a clean record should be immediately placed in full charge of the district to reorganize and administer its affairs and to be directly responsible to the Minister.

and so we jumped at the chance and bought it for a remarkably low per cent. on the dollar. All Brand New Goods. And listen, this is how we happened on the lucky buy:

A large clothing firm in the West placed an order with the House of Hobberlin (Toronto) over a year ago for clothing to be shipped this month of March. The goods were made up but were never shipped, on account of the Western clothing firm being forced to close doors. Our clothing representative immediately wired us and we were not long in picking it up at a great reduction on the regular prices, and now

Cairo.

Mr. Summers of London is the guest of his son, H. A. Summers, of this place.

The Cairo Farmers' Club received a carload of feed corn, fish and other goods.

I have not seen any reference to the early robin, although he sings cheerily in the early morn'.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. McGugan of Bothwell visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. Gage on Sunday.

Syrup-making is the order of the day. Those engaged declare that the run of the last few days was wonderful.

M. D. Smith left for London this morning, having secured a position in one of the munition factories of that city.

The council of Euphemia met on Saturday and passed several by-laws and transacted other business of importance.

St. Patrick's day passed off very quietly here—even Will Turner failed to appear, singing the old Irish melody "The wearing of the green," as was his custom.

The annual congregational meeting of the Cairo Presbyterian church was held in the church on March 7. Reports indicate a successful year, both as to members enrolled and financially.

Mrs. E. McGugan, who has resided during the winter at the home of her niece, Mrs. O. Gage, when attempting to get water out of the cistern, slipped and fell, breaking the lower bone of the arm above the wrist, and also fracturing her hip. She is progressing favorably.

Do it Now.—Disorders of the digestive apparatus should be dealt with at once before complications arise that may be difficult to cope with. The surest remedy to this end and one that is within reach of all, is Parlee's Vegetable Pills, the best laxative and sedative on the market. Do not delay, but try them now. One trial will convince anyone that they are the best stomach regulator that can be got.

Wm. Tanner is rushing his new house to completion.

The Young People's Society in connection with the Presbyterian church met on Wednesday evening. The topic, which was a missionary one, was discussed by Agnes Campbell and Miss Eva Brown.

Want to know what "roughing it" means? Take a drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Vin Brownlee were Shetland visitors on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Dolson of Chatham are visitors of their friends here.

The fall wheat is looking sick, and several farmers intend trying spring wheat.

Owing to scarcity of grain, Shetland mills are figuring on running only on Fridays and Saturdays.

Alfred Mac has, on his final examination, been turned down for overseas work, but will be given service on the home guard.

One of our boys who was trying out a sap pan for a row boat is now convinced they make a better submarine, but declines experimenting further till warmer water.

"Home Again," given by Shetland Dramatic Club Friday evening, proved a splendid success. We don't like blowing our own horn, but with due apologies we assert the performance equal to the best in the local play category. Owing to Euphemia's famous roads, many thought the play would be postponed, but as this was out of the question owing to "The Major" going west Monday, the lights were turned on and to our surprise a well-filled house resulted. You've all seen these local plays, and so we resist a rehearsal. However, let us say no better order was ever accorded or did an audience receive more for their "quarter." Forty-five dollars was the admission fees, and it seems a pity more was not garnered in, as the folks here are not used to such a show.

But just the same we appreciate the attendance and sincerely hope these brave and courageous hearts went home feeling they had got amply paid for their trouble and "pains."

Some excitement and anxiety was caused last week when reports came in of a shipwreck seen going down on the tide. Whether the vessel had come in contact with an iceberg or had got demolished in an attack on the German fleet or had been torpedoed was the topic of many arguments. The daily papers were anxiously awaited, but nothing about it was in the papers. Surely the wires were down! After a day of suspense a scouting party brought in news that the derelict had stranded due west of

INDIGESTION AND CONSTIPATION

Quickly Relieved By "Fruit-a-tives"

ROCHON, P. Q.

"I suffered for many years with terrible Indigestion and Constipation. A neighbor advised me to try 'Fruit-a-tives'. I did so and to the surprise of my doctor, I began to improve and he advised me to go on with 'Fruit-a-tives'."

I consider that I owe my life to "Fruit-a-tives" and I want to say to those who suffer from Indigestion, Constipation or Headaches—try "Fruit-a-tives" and you will get well!"

Sharp's Sound, and upon investigation the wreck proved to be neither a man-of-war, a merchantman or a trawler, but our old friend the picnic launch, with her poor old sides stove in, her machinery salvaged and decks awash. She had served her purpose and was going out on the tide. Like you and I she must step down for the advancing age. Shall we serve out our mission so well?

Appin

The Appin branch of the Women's Institute will meet at the home of Mrs. John Jones on Thursday, March 28, at 2.30 p. m. The hostesses are Mrs. D. A. McColl, Miss Helen Macfie and Mrs. Dan Galbraith.

The Red Cross secretary wishes to acknowledge the sum of $25 from Maxwell drama, also $40 grant from the council for March. As the council had no meeting in February the Red Cross grant was not given.

The last meeting of the Appin Literary Society for the season was held on Tuesday evening. A good program was given. Disposal of the funds of the society was voted upon and applied to the school fair and the electric street lighting.
