Driver Frank Bowen Instantly Killed Fireman and Brakeman Badly Hurt-Eight Cars Wrecked.

[Special to The Advertiser per G.N.W.] Delhi, Ont., July 7.-West-bound train No. 89, engine No. 67, was wrecked at 1:45 this morning about two miles east of this station. Driver Frank Bowen was instantly killed. His body was found lying between the engine and tender covered with ties. Fireman Perry and Brakeman Hickinson were badly hurt. Conductor Griffin and another brakeman, who were in the back coach, escaped unhurt.

The engine cab was completely de-molished, and the remainder of the en-gine was hurled into the ditch upside down. The tender turned completely over, and four cars were piled up in front of the engine and four behind, all being completely demolished. The track was torn to pieces. The cause of the accident is unknown. The condition of the track shows that something had dragged for nearly half a mile. Bowen lived at Bridgeburg, and

Everett Versus London.

The Free Press, in coming once more to Mr. Everett's defense, thinks it makes a point against The Advertiser, by saying that while Canada needs all the foreign capital it can get, The Advertiser "denounces as a public enemy any owner of capital living away from the city who has a large investment here."

The Advertiser has done no such thing, and Mr. Everett's organ knows it. We do not recall anyone who has termed Mr. Everett "a public enemy"; but it would puzzle a Philadelphia lawyer to point out any respect whatever in which he has been London's friend.

For an American millionaire to bring his capital into Canada to develop our natural resources, is one thing; to bring his capital into Canada merely to gobble up the control of our London street railway charter, is quite another. At no time has London been dependent on Mr. Everett for street railway facilities.

Mr. Everett did not go into the London Street Railway as an act of philanthropy. He did not go into it even as a permanent investment. The way Mr. Everett has made much of his wealth has been by organizing companies, watering the stock and appropriating big slices in the stock-jobbing operations involved

We are aware there are local holders of stock who have been holders for a long time, and who are not fairly to be held responsible for Mr. Everett's actions as controlling shareholder, and we are sure our citizens have no desire they should suffer loss. They are not, however, in control; and probably the only thing they can do might be to advise Mr. Everett that more money would be made by working with, rather

As to Mr. Everett himself, the final controller of the street railway corporation, he came into it with no sentimental feelings of friendliness to London, but solely from the standpoint of a stock jobber; and therefore while London owes him fair play, indeed, it is not called on to fall abjectly at his

The Advertiser has for Mr. Everett not so much as an atom of personal illfeeling. Personally it does not know him from Adam. But Mr. Everett, if he will think it over, must admit it has a very anomalous look, that a state of war, on a small scale, should be going on in a Canadian city, between good citizens and good British subjects on the one hand, and a Cleveland millionaire on the other Explanation From Mr. Chamberlain-China Rejects the Proposed Alliance With Japan-Wholesale Poisoning.

London, July 7 .- The German Review (Berlin) prints a series of conversations of Cecil Rhodes, in the course of which he says that, in the interest of his African undertakings, he has done all he could to influence the British Government in favor of the German proposals on the Samoan question. He declares his intention to hold entirely aloof from the Transvaal controversy and to "leave the government to have it out with Kruger on their own responsibility." He repudiates the suggestion that he is in favor of using force toward the Transvaal, saying: "I once made that mistake, and it was enough for me."

PEACE LIKELY TO PREVAIL. It is reported from Cape Town and Bloemfontein that the franchise proposals accepted by the Pretoria conference will grant the franchise immediately to residents who have been in the country since 1890, and to others after five years' residence from the date of the new law. Thep roposals will also give Johannesburg five representatives in the volksraad. The special conference between President Kruger, the members of the cabinet. Fischer, a member of the executive council of the Orange Free State, who was bearer of compromise suggestions from the Free State in the matter of dispute between the Transvaal and Great Britain, and Hofmier, the Afrikander leader, has been practically concluded. It is believed that the franchise proposals have been accepted, and that peace will be preserved. LIBERAL GAINS.

London, July 7 .- The Liberal party gained two parliamentary seats yesterday in the bye-elections held to fill the dual vacancy created in Oldham by the death last month of Mr. Robert Ashcroft, Conservative, and the subsequent resignation of his Conservative colleague, Mr. James Francis Oswald. Results: Mr. Alfred Emmett, Liberal, 12,976; Walter Runieman, Liberal, 12,770; Winston Churchill, Con-servative, 11,477; J. W. Maudsley, Conservative, 11,449. Messrs. Oswald and Ashcroft at the time of their election, polled respectively 12,465 and 13,085 Conservative votes. Yesterday's elec-tion therefore is a distinct Conserva-tive reverse. Mr. Alfred Emmett is a wealthy cotton spinner of Oldham. He is a cousin of J. Emmet Barlow, Liberal for the Frome division of Somersetshire. His brother married Lady Constance Campbell, daughter of the Duke of Argyll. Mr. Walter Runieman is also a local man. He is 29 years of age, and a son of Mr. Walter Runie-

He voted for the resolution of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, which was formal, but he would not participate in any future discussion or vote. POISONED BY SAUSAGES. Berlin, July 6. — Nineteen families have been poisoned by smoked sausage in the village of Ingbert, in the Rhine Provinces, and in the case of Herr Heinrich, the burgomaster, it proved fatal. He died so suddenly that it was thought at first that he had succumbed to heart disease. It was found later, though, that he had made a hearty meal of the poisoned sausage. Of the nineteen families who partook of the sausage, fifty men, women and children are dangerously ill. The authorities are making a thorough investigation in the village sausage factory, but thus far the nature of the poison has not been ascertained. JAPS MUST BE GENTLEMEN. Yokohama, July 7.—In view of the coming into operation of the various new treaties, the mikado has issued an imperial rescript and the cabinet has issued orders, enjoining the people, officials, soldiers and postal and telegraph employes to observe courtesy and tact in their relations with foreigners. The Tsung-Li-Yamen's rejection of the proposed alliance between Japan and China has effectually smothered the chance of friendship between the two nations. The mikado is reported to be both disappointed and piqued, and he is said to have refused to consider negotiations for supplying China with funds for military purposes.

British Government Agrees to Carry Out Original Arrangement.

Amendment to the G. T. R. Agreement Bill Decided Upon by Opposition Senators,

[C. P. R. Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, July 7 .- The Dominion Government has been advised by Mr. Joseph Chamberlain that the imperial government will contribute its share, as originally suggested, to the Pacific cable project. The original arrangement was that Australia and New Zealand would contribute eight-eighteenths of the cost of the Pacific cable, and the balance would be made up by

Canada and Britain jointly. Canada at first thought that this was more than her share, seeing that the scheme was an imperial one, and Britain then refused to do anything peyond granting a subsidy equal to its share, when a joint interest was all along contemplated. British Columbia came aroused over the fact that though a shareholder in the Niger Company, he had voted in favor of the transfer of Mr. Chamberlain says that Britain will contribute its share, as originally proposed, and will take an interest in the project along with the other colonies. Indeed, the result of it all has been that Britain may go a little further than it was asked to do in the first instance.

The committee opposition senators appointed to prepare an amendment to the Grand Trunk agreement bill met this morning. It is understood that they agreed on an amendment, which will be moved by Mr. Bowell today in the senate. The amendment, in effect, will provide that the traffic arrangement can be terminated by the minister of railways, after three months' notice to the G. T. R. Hon. David Mills' amendment is one year's notice. The amendment will also provide that in addition to giving power to the minister to terminate the 99-year agreement by three months' notice, he can also do away with the agreement, which calls for all west-bound traffic originating along the line of the Intercolonial, and not routed to be given to the G. T. R. in return for the G. T. R. handing over east-bound traffic at Montreal to the Intercolonial. The arrangement however, in neither case can be abrogated by the G. T. R.

Senators stated today that the reason for changing the time to three months, was that a general election may be held this fall, and in that case, if the Conservatives were returned, the change could be introduced without de-

STOOPED AND HIS LEG BROKE

A Serious Accident Befell Alonzo Blackwell While Playing Ball.

About 7 o'clock last night an unfortunate accident happened to Alonzo Blackwell, who resides with his mother at 26 Dundas street, West London. He was practicing ball with others on Ready's commons, near the river bank, and stooped down suddenly to pick up the ball, when his leg gave way with a loud grating of the bones. He has a stiff and deformed knee, which accounts for the possi-bility of so serious an accident from so slight a cause. It was found that he could not rise, and was suffering intense pain. The ambulance was sent for and he was conveyed home, where Dr. Ferguson examined the injury, and found both bones broken, one a few inches below the knee and the other lower down. Much sympathy is felt for the young man and his mother in their misfortune. The bones were set under chloroform, and it is expected that it will be at least six weeks before he is out of bed.

Brazos River Six Miles Wide and Seventy Feet Deep. .

Houses Floating Down the Raging Stream -Men, Women and Children Clinging for Life.

Galveston, July 7.—James Collinson, superintendent of machinery for the Santa Fe railroad at Galveston, arrived in Galveston on the last through train the road has been able to run.
The Brazos is running wild, Mr. Colinson says, but with repard to the ultimate damage he is very optimistic. He thinks the damage has been greatly overestimated, and that the loss to crops in the bottoms will be counterbalanced by the increasing yield on the uplands.

At Sunnyside, twelve miles from Brookshire, the Brazos River is ordinarily 200 yards wide. About parallel with this and two and a haif miles away is Elm Creek, which is seldom over 20 feet wide, and in midsummer often dry. The two streams are separated by low bottom lands and are now united, making a river between five and six miles wide and from 60 to 70 feet deep. Along the currents uniteten people were rescued yesterday nineteen people were rescued yesterday in a skiff sent from Houston. The people were demolishing their sheds and outhouses and making boxes that they used for boats. Cattle were found resting their heads in the boughs of trees, making a pitiable struggle for existence. At one point two houses were seen coming down tream. In one of them was a man stream. In one of them was a man and two women, and on the other a woman and five children were cling-ing for life and calling for help. One of the houses was a fine two-story affair and the other was a smaller dwelling. They passed on with the foaming current and may have struck an obstruction and been smashed to pieces, or found their way into the TERRIFIC DOWNPOUR.

The Texas flood situation is the result of four days' steady rain, be-ginning June 26, which at some points partook of the nature of cloudbursts.

Gov. Sayers has been asked by Representative W. T. Ellis to call a special session of the legislature to relieve the distress.

Reports from a special correspon-Reports from a special correspondent of the News indicate that while the property loss by the recent floods has been enormous, the loss of life has been greatly exaggerated. According to the News only two lives have been lost in the lower Brazos flood. Every year the Brazos and Colorado valleys year the Brazos and Colorado valleys suffer from inundations. A RECORD-BREAKER.

Up to the present flood the greatest destruction from the annual inunda-tions was in 1885. This year the high water mark of 1885 has been surpassed in Washington, Waller. Austin, Fort Bend and Brazoria counties in southern Texas. The Brazos is falling rap-fully in the southern part of the state, the scene of last week's flood. The flood reached the southern part of the state Sunday night and Monday. The planters had received ample warning, but many negroes remained in the Brazos valley, believing that the water would not reach higher than in 1885.

STAYED TOO LONG.

From 1,500 to 2,000 were caught in the valley in Austin. Waller and Fort Bend counties, and were forced to take to the trees and house tops. An appeal was sent to Houston for boats, but Houston had sent all boats available farther up the river last week to Calvert and Bryan. Gov. Sayers, at the suggestion of Congressman Hawley, appealed to the war department for permission to send government life saving boats from Galveston. Permission was granted, and a special train left in the afternoon for the flooded district, carrying several government and a number of private boats. It is believed that nearly all the people lodged in trees and on house tops have been rescued, but the boats sent from Galveston will patrol the flooded district and make a thorough search for stragglers.

AN OPTIMISTIC VIEW.

It is believed there is now food enough in transit to feed the negroes until the waters recede and they can return to plantation work. As to crops, cotton is not lost. It is entirely washed out in some places, but on the whole more good than harm has been done to crops by the flood. Cotton will be replanted in most cases. Corn has soured in some localities, but the crop is not an entire loss. The ground in the inundated counties constitutes the garden spot of the state. There is plenty of time to raise cotton before January, 1900.

NEXT DANGER SPOT.

The next trouble will be at Velasco. the mouth of the Brazos, which point the floods reached yesterday. The town may be cut off from communication with the world for a day or two, but no loss of life is anticipated, because the people had two days' notice that Richmond, Texas, July 7.-Never in the history of Richmond were such day. Business is practically suspend-Many plantations are under water. All trains, save those on the Southern Pacific west have been abandoned. Provisions are running low, and un-less something is done quickly there will be great suffering here within a few days. It is believed there will be at the very least from 3,000 to 5,000 persons to feed from this place within week. Stories of drowning and disasters are coming in constantly, but they cannot be verified, although it is probable that many of them are correct. The water has reached the river bridge, and is dashing between the fron guy rods under it, and for the first time the railroad company has stopped all triffic over it.

BASEBALL.

It all happened in the wonderful Seventh. Until then the Leafs had Sather the best of it. Pitcher Price, of the Cockneys, was a little wild at the start, while Kostal, of the Leafs, was fairly effective. When the Cockneys went to bat in the seventh the Leafs were one run ahead. Mohler, Reed, Babbit, Cope, Franck and Price made singles, and Lohman and Reed both batted out home runs. The net result was nine runs. Twelve men faced Kostal in this inning, and it looked as Chough the side would never be retired until McFadden struck out and ended the slaughter, and Babbit hav-ing both died at second on fielder's

The drop of a long fly by Reed and a bad fumble of Babbit's were responsible for the Leafs' two runs in the fifth. Reed made four clean hits, one of them a homer, out of five times at bat. He also, with the one exception mentioned, fielded well. The Leafs' fielding was rather wooden, on the

WOODSTOCK WON. Hamfiton, July 7.—Thompson, of the Bains, proved too good for the Ham-litons again yesterday. Not until the last inning were the locals able to hit his curves. Then four hits gave Ham-liton three runs, and another hit would just about have won the game. Old Marr Phillips was at bat, and Thompson struck him out. McCann patched good ball for Hamilton, but the support he got was rank. Score:

The Chatham players think the town has been badly treated and say the club was frozen out of the Canadian league. The Planet says: During the past two weeks, ending

This, with Monday's holiday receipts and the winning playing of the team so enthused the management that no idea of quitting the game was contemplated, and, it must be realized very shortly that the league has lost one of its most loyal, financially sound and liberal cities, while it is probable that a strong team will be retained here, either for exhibition games or to form a vigorous member of some league organization, for the formation of which efforts are now being made. The future of the Chatham players is as yet uncertain. It is probable, however, that Manager Nordyke will be asked to hold a strong independent team together there, when occasional 6 o'clock games will also be played.

little John Sanders, the popular catcher, was called home to Chicago, by the death of his father last night. Manager Nordyke is much disappointed at the turn things have taken. "Chatham is one of the best towns I have ever played in," he told the Planet. "All the players like the town and its people, and judging from the attendance, I have seen in the other towns, I think the loss will prove to be the league's and not yours."
This morning Samuel Crawford,

Chatham's star left fielder and perhaps the steadlest and most systematic batter in the Canadian league, left to join the Columbus team in the Western league. Crawford was virtually released to Columbus team by ex-Manager Tennant some two weeks ago Loftus giving the service of Pitcher Cross in part payment for the release. President Van Derbeck, of the Detroit team, also made a liberal offer for the fielder's services, $175 being offered by the Detroit magnate for him, but the deal with Loftus had been previously Redistribution Bill.

The second reading of the Redistribution Bill was passed early yesterday morning in a thin and somnolent It was a straight party vote, acepting that Messrs. McCarthy and Stubbs went with the Government. The Opposition offered no organized obstruction, doubtless by desire of sir Charles Tupper, who wishes to leave for England as soon as possible. According to the rules of the game a show of resistance was made, but there was nothing in the bill which could call out the fighting spirit of the members to the left. In their own minds they know the measure is fair, even generous. Many of them must be surprised at the Government's moderation. If the only aim had been party advantage, it would have been just as easy to devise a bill which would strike a blow at the fortunes of the Conservative party. Perhaps there are some Liberal zealots who would have preferred a downright gerrymander in revenge for the act of 1882. Happily the Government chose a cleaner model. By intrusting to a commission of judges the work of dividing the counties, a principle has been established which will make an effective gerrymander well nigh impossible hereafter. Both parties will be morally bound by this precedent to refer to a judiciary in all future redistributions.

The Salisbury Government

Staggered The bye-election in Oldham yesterday must appear like the handwriting on the wall to the Salisbury Government. It is a very curious situation. The Liberal party is in a disorganized state, with discordant leaders, and a chaotic policy, yet it continues to win sweeping victories in the country. The Conservative party, on the other hand, is powerful and united in parliament. The Salisbury Government has been a strong and progressive one, especially in the conduct of foreign affairs, and there seems to be no great argument for turning it out and putting in the disrupted Liberal party at this junc ture. Yet all the signs point to the return of the Liberals to power at the next general election. In Oldham, one of the Government candidates was Winston Spencer Churchill, the promising son of the late Lord Randolph Churchill. He made a spirited and picturesque fight, and had all the traditional prestige of a great name, and yet was defeated by an enormous malority in a Conservative riding. This triumph for the Liberals comes directly on top of their surprising victory in South Edinburgh, and follows a long string of bye-election conquests. As nothing succeeds like success, Liberalism may pull itself together, and present a united front when the hour of battle comes. The body of the party seems to be healthy enough, but there is a muddle at the top just now.

Penitentiary Appointments

Referring to the report of the Minister of Justice on the penitentiaries of the Dominion, the Toronto Register

"It would appear that the practice of making the appointment of the prison guards a matter of political patronage involves a grave cause of possible dan-ger. Guards (so we gather from the report) are crippled, ruptured, deaf and defective of vision and in case of trouble arising the weapons of the in-efficient officers would be available for use by the convicts."

Our contemporary is in error in attributing to the method of their selection the ailments with which some of the officers in the penitentiaries are at times afflicted. The guards at the penitentiaries are of human make-up like the rest of us, and they are afflicted with disease, from time to time, as most people are. It is not true that they are in this condition when appointed. They are carefully examined by the medical officer of the penitentlary before they are approved. They must be of a certain age, in the prime of manhood, physically sound, and able in every sense of the word to cope with the desperate characters who are confined under their care. Periodical examinations are made, and those men who do not come up to the standard set by the law are retired, because it would be manifestly unsafe, as our contemporary recognizes, to retain in the service men whose strength would unequal to any emergency which might arise at at any time in the management of a great penal intitution such as is the Kingston Penitentiary. As will have been seen from the answer given to a question in the House of Commons by the Prime Minister, the other day, a number of guards have been recently retired at Kingston because they have fallen away from the standard required by law. The fact that this may be the fate at any moment of a guard makes the offices much less desirable than some may have been led to believe, though we suppose there is never much difficulty in getting men who are willing to take their chances.

The Hague Conference.

The conference at The Hague has almost finished its labors, but its broad results are already known. All attempts to arrest the growth of armaor limit military expenditures have failed. Some agreements have been reached which aim to mitigate the atrocities and improve the humanities of war. It is now about certain that the principle of arbitration will emerge more or less triumphant. The idea appears to be the erection of a permanent tribunal to which the powers may refer all disputes. It is true they will not pledge themselves to resort to arbitration on all or any occasions, but they will be under a moral pressure to choose the peaceful method, especially when the machinery of arbitration is constantly standing. The conference has not been very fruitful of immediate tangible results, but its concession to a noble principle registers an advance in civilizing tendencies and has moved the nations nearer the goal of universal peace.

Not a Party Fight.

The Toronto Mail is either afflicted with the dog-day heat or it has gone politically crazy. It has been telling the public that on the occasion of the late mayoralty election in Brantford, necessitated by the retirement of Mayor Raymond, who has been appointed postmaster of Brantford, Mr. Cockshutt was elected over Mr. Elliott, and that the result was a great victory for the Conservative party. A Grand Trunk workman in this city, who recently lived in Brantford, informs us that his fellow employes at the car shops are greatly amused to hear that Thomas Elliott, who contested the seat with Mr. Cockshutt, is a Liberal. The fact is that the contest was a strictly non-political one. The Liberals had their innings, and Cocksnutt take a turn in the Mayor's ley; west side Wharncliffe, Becher chair, and so there was no party effort street to Riverview avenue; east side to secure victory for either of the can- Wharncliffe, G. T. R. to Victoria street; didates. Mr. Elliott had but recently been Mayor, and it is probable that he owes his defeat more to the fact that the citizens desired to let the municipal honors go round than to any political consideration. It is, therefore, a decidedly rich joke to have the leading Conservative organ, and all the organettes after it, declaring that this little domestic fight between two esteemed Conservatives in Brantford was a national indorsation of the Conservative party, and a crushing defeat of

Ought to, but Does It? [Boston Herald.]

It may be admitted that constant, unremitting work, the taking of no en-joyment whatsoever out of life, while The matter was referred to the engineer it may be an industrially productive method-though this is open to question—converts man into a machine.

There must be a golden mean in this, as in other human experiences. if by the use of modern methods one man can now do the work which formerly required the efforts of a hundred men, clearly the improvement ought to do something toward giving to the workingman a taste of that happy, careless life led by the man for whom nature has provided everything.

The Bishop of London.

[Bobcaygeon Independent.] The Hamilton Spectator gives a portrait of Rev. Mgr. McEvay, and states that while no official announcement has yet been made, the priests of the London diocese are expecting it in a very few days, and the appointment of monsignor as Bishop of London seems to be conceded by everyone. The portrait depicts the reverend gentleman as much stouter than the reverend father, whose genial, happy, kindly disposition, and whose broad Christian charity made him so popular years ago, to all denominations throughout this district. In the early days of his ministration, his marked administrative ability was quickly observed by Bishop Jamot, and his successor, Bishop Dowling, as readily apclated his excellent judgment and skillful tact in management. The reverend monsignor will certainly be bishop sooner or later, and if the rumored appointment to London proves to be correct, his advancement, though rapid, will be fully merited.

Canada's Importance [Buffalo Times.]

Canadian exhibit at the Pan-American Exposition should be second in interest and importance only to that of the United States. The reasons for this are so manifest that they scarcely need mention, yet it will do no harm to call to mind a few The Dominion of Canada is one of the great geographical and political divisions of the continent and its population and territory make it second in influence and importance to no other country of the new world except the United States. In racial characteristics and governmental institutions Canada and the United States are so similar that the arbitrary line between the countries is about the only thing that divides them and distinguishes the one country from the other. The Pan-American Exposition is to be held on the Canadian border, not two miles from Canadian soil, and in a city containing some 40,000 persons of Canadian forth dian birth. Other countries, Mexico, Brazil, Argentine and the remaining leading republics of South and Central America will, it is to be hoped, be represented in an adequate manner at the exposi-tion, displaying in concrete form the progress during the nineteenth century of all the Americas, but Canada should conspicuous above and beyond all except our own great and glorious na-

The Time for Objecting Has Passed-Contractor Howies Grievance Many Matters Before the Board of

The board of works some time ago advertised the laying of nearly 200 blocks of artificial stone walks. Last night the time for receiving petitions against the walks expired, and the board found that less than 40 blocks had to be struck off the list, leaving about fifteen miles of walks to be laid during the summer. The blocks struck off were as follows: East side of Cathcart, Bruce street to Elmwood avenue; Bruce and Cynthia streets; north and south sides of Queen's avenue, English to Ontario; north side Lorne avenue, Ontario to Quebec; west side Wortley road. Bruce street to Elmwood avenue north side Empress avenue, St. Andrew's to Argyle; north side Empress drew's to Argyle; north side avenue, Napier to Argyle; north side King, Adelaide to Lyle; south side Dundas, Wilson avenue to river; west side St. George, Mill street to Carling's Creek; east side William street, King to York; east side Maltland, Central avenue to Pall Mall; north side Grey, Richmond to Clarence; north side of Bathurst, Talbot to Richmond; east side Talbot, Dundas to Carling; south side St. James, Richmond to St. George; east side Waterloo, King to York; east side Wellington, Simcoe to Grey; west side Adelaide, King to York; south side Horton, Wellington to Waterloo; east side William, Oxford to St. James; north side Elias, Adelaide to Elizabeth; north side Elias, English to Elizabeth; north side Queen's avenue, Adelaide to The Laberais had their hinnings, and Elizabeth; north side Becher, the they were not averse to letting Ald. Mr. William Howle, jun., who early in the year was awarded the contract for laying plank walks in the city, asked the committee to alter its decision and lay some plank walks where cement walks are not desirable. He had locked up $7,000 in lumber, which he had ordered on the strength of his contract with the city, he said, and thought he should receive some consideration.

Ald. McPhillips said a great mistake had been made in passing the motion not to lay any plank walks. Mr. Howie had a moral claim on the council. council will consider the contractor's grievance.

A petition for a mosaic walk on the north side of Dundas street, from Waterloo to Wellington street, was laid The Barber Asphalt Company will not be compelled to relay the walk on the north side of King street, between Wellington and Waterloo streets, until next spring at the earliest. A petition for a mosaic walk on the south side of Dufferin avenue, between Colborne and Waterloo streets, was read. This is the second petition for mosaic walks, and the question of specifications was raised. The right of the committee to let the contract was also questioned. There was very little difference between the mosaic walks and the cement walks laid by the refor a report. A letter was received from Messrs. Purdom, Parke & Purdom, protesting against the laying of a walk on the south side of Dundas street, between Waterloo and Wellington streets, on the ground that the construction of the new armory would damage it. The committee concluded that there was not sufficient reason for delaying the walk, and filed the objection.

Manager Carr, of the London Street Railway Company, reported that the question of extending the Hamilton road line to Egerton street had not yet been considered by the directors, as there had not been a full meeting of the board since the matter came up.
The City Gas Company's claim for damages through the flooding of the gas works was considered. The en-gineer reported that Mr. Duffield would give the city a clearance from all damages if the city would convey to him a portion of the old millrace purchased from Hunt Bros. some time ago. property is a ravine about 100 feet long and 40 feet wide, and was of no use to the city. The property will be transferred to Mr. Duffield according to his

Mr. P. J. Watt, who resides near Evergreen avenue, close to the outlet of the sewer, appeared before the committee and complained of a nuisance caused by the emptying into the river. The bed of the river was exposed while the Springbank dam was undergoing repairs, and the sewage was offensive, he said. He suggested that a temporary dam be built across the channel of the river to abate the nuisance. The cost, he thought, would not be more than $40. Referred to the sewer committee.

The Bell Telephone Company objected to paying the wages of an inspector for their conduit work on Dundas and Richmond streets.

A petition against a cement walk on the north side of Evergreen avenue, was filed, being insufficiently signed. A petition for a mosaic walk on Simcoe street, south side William to Maitland, was laid over, being insufficiently signed.

The members present were: Douglass (chairman), Parnell, McPhillips, Wilkey, Reed and Garratt, the mayor, secretary and engineer,

PATRIOTIC EVENING

At the Empress Avenue Methodist Church, West London-Messages

The Christian Endeavor and Epworth League Societies of the Empress Avenue Methodist Church held a novel service last evening, which was in every way a success. The proceedings were of a patriotic character, and the audience completely filled the spacious edifice. The church was prettily de-corated with British flags and bunting. edifice. The music and speeches were in keeping with the occasion. The Imperial Male Quartet, under the direction of Mr. J. T. Dalton, sang a number of selections, and added much to the evening's enjoyment. They were warmly complimented by the chairman, Rev. Mr. Harris. "God Bless Our Broad Dominion" and "The Story of the ag" were two of the numbers given. Short and bright addresses were made by Rev. Mr. Sage, of St. George's Church, and Rev. Dr. Johnston, of St. Andrew's. Messages were received from Lord Minto and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, hoping for the success of the meeting, and conveying congratula-tions. The celebration of Confederation Day by the young people's church so-cieties is likely to become an annual

The delegates from Manitoba evidently did not calculate upon the differences in latitude of their frost-bitten home and the convention city. When they left their boat yesterday morning all of the men in the delegation wore, heavy overcoats, and the ladies wore

"Overcoats off!" commanded the leader of the North Dakota delegation when that crowd struck the dock. The Dakota and Minnesota people were all warmly dressed, and most of them said that they didn't expect such hot weather.

"Why, this is nothing at all," said a good-natured man from Texas, who was waiting for a friend from British Columbia. "We don't think anything of this kind of weather down our way. You know the people never die there. They just dry up and blow away."

The hospital force on the grounds had its hands full yesterday. Twenty cases of prostration occurred during and shortly after the meeting in Tent and shortly after the meeting in Tent Endeavor, fourteen of which happened to ladies. None of the cases were serious, and they were soon able to return to their respective lodging-places. No record is kept of these cases at the hospital tents. SECRETARY BAER'S REPORT. Secretary John Willis Baer read his annual report. This stated that taking from the lists the societies that have ceased to exist for any and all reasons, the net gain in number of societies during the last year is nearly 2,000 societies, with over 100,000 new

Pennsylvania, including the junior societies, now has over 5,000 societies within its borders; New York, over 4,000; Ohio and Illinois have over 3,000; Indiana and Ontario, 2,000; Iowa, Michigan, Kansas, Massachusetts, have over 1.500; California, Missouri and New Jersey, not far behind, with over 1,000 greetings from our brothers and sisters under the Southern Cross. India has 454, China 148, Africa 136, Mexico 108, West Indies 103, Germany 101, Madagascar 93. Japan 73, and on through a long list, which I must omit at this time, but cannot pass by Spain, the country with whom we were at war last year. Spain, rent with war and turmoil, has more than held its own, for she has 36 societies. There are now 979 Intermediate societies—there ought to be more; 14,680 junior societies; 85 mothers' societies, and 49 senior societies. Over 100 societies are to be found upon ships, merchantmen and men-of-war; many societies in the soldiers' camps and in unexpected places, such as prisons, schools of reform, workhouses, alms-houses, asylums, institutions for the blind and for the deaf, schools and colleges; among car-drivers and motormen, policemen, traveling men, life-savers on the coast, lighthouse employes, factories, etc., to the number of over 200. PASSED THE 55,000 LINE. I have a right to the exultant ring in my voice when I say that we have crossed the 55,000 line. The official enrollment is 55,813 societies, with a total membership of 3,500,000. If any Christian has lost his enthusiasm, these figures should be a source of inspiration.

THE LEADERS.

In England the Baptists lead in Christian Endeavor, in Australia the Wesleyan Methodists, in Canada the Methodists and in the United States the Presbyterians are in the van, with over 8,000 societies. These figures include the junior and intermediate societies. The Congregationalists have over 6,000; the Disciples of Christ over 4.000: Baptists over 3,000; then Methodist Protestant, Cumberland Presbyterians, Lutherans, Reformed Dutch and Methodist Episcopal, in order named, each with over 1,000 societies. Then follow the many evangelical denom-inations, in all, including those already named, nearly 40. With a commendable spirit of friendly rivalry, our denominational banners are carried in the front rank, and never lowered. High above all, however, do we raise the blood-stained banner of the cross, and are amenable to no other From Lord Minto and Sir Wilfrid authority than that of our commanderin-chief, the King of Kings, and Lord of Lords, Jesus Christ, the Saviour of the world. Why should any true denomination-alist remain outside of Christian Endeavor. Ours is a happy family. Come and join our ranks; we will do you good. Christian Endeavor lives.

"SING A JIG." At the Central Presbyterian Church yesterday morning, Rev. V. P. Jenness conducted a "street evangelistic con-ference" and called for volunteers from the audience of 200 or 300 present to aid him and others in conducting open air meetings in various parts of the city during the week. After the arrangements of committees, H. B. Gibbon, the street evangelist, gave a

15-minute address on how to conduct an open air meeting. He said:

DON'T PRAY ON THE STREET. "Don't form in a circle and destroy the volume which can be obtained by 'grouped singing.' Don't sing old hymns that have put ten or fifteen generations to sleep. Sing a jig if necessary to catch the crowd, and as the interest increases, add those more spiritual. Get on a box above the people to talk. Don't pray on the street; do your praying at home. your eyes on a crowd. "SHOWERS OF BLESSING." Detroit, July 7.—"Showers of Bless-cision and "There's Sunshine in My tional Soul Today" were the favorite hymns sung by Christian Endeavorers this morning on their way to the "quiet hour" in Tent Endeavor. The rains drenched everything in sight, and the utter incapacity of the Endeavor tents to exclude rain was fully demonstrated. The Rev. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, leader of the "quiet hour," and H. G. Mr. Baer's report continues: Great Smyth, the New York gospel singer, Britain has over 6,000 societies, and a stood on the speakers' platform with royal welcome awaits us next July in London. Australia has over 2,000 so-cieties, and is represented in this confrom the streams of water that dribbled vention by two delegates that have through the big sheet-iron resonater traveled over 6,000 miles to bring overhead. Tent Endeavor was a broad and long expanse of shining umbrellas. Scarcely anybody found a dry spot to sit upon, and it rained inside the tent almost as hard, and in some place harder, than out of doors. long decorative bands of red and white sagged and drooped like sponges, and the banners all looked tired. The audience appeared large enough to fill the tent, but the outlook was an expanse of umbrellas. For a long time the muffled roar of rain on the roof precluded hope of speaking or audible prayer, so the people sang instead, led by four brass wind instruments sticking out from under umbrellas.

After a time there was a short, partial cessation of the downpour, and the "quiet hour" was carried out, amid surroundings which made the title a misnomer.

Hundreds of young people braved the elements, and appeared at the grounds for the two main 10 o'clock gatherings, but postponement for the time being, at least, was inevitable. NOTES.

Ontario Natural Gas and Oil Company Sold to the Big Monopoly for $600.000.

[Detroit Free Press.]

The tentacles of the Standard Oil monopoly have reached over into Canada and gathered in the Ontario Natural Gas and Oil Company. The latter concern is the one which has controlled the gas fields from which Detroit homes are being supplied with the natural illuminant and fuel. There has been talk of the deal for some time and yesterday it was an-nounced in Windsor that the formal transfer had been made by which the Standard Gas and Oil Company had taken over the business of the Ontario Natural Gas and Oil Company, of Essex county, and that hereafter the business will be transacted by the new firm. None of the officials would give out any statement, but it has been ascertained that the purchase price was $600,000. There were only 25 shares in the original company and those sold for $600 each. The price paid by the Standard company made those shares worth $24,000 each. The same management will have charge under the new company, Dr. King acting as general

PURE ELECTIONS

Government Will Allow Investigation of Charges

In Connection With West Huron and Brockville-The Redistribution

Ottawa, July 7.-In the House yesterday Mr. Borden (Con., Halifax,) made his motion for the production of the poll books, etc., in connection with the Brockville and West Huron elections; that the returning officers and deputy returning officers might be cited before the privileges and election committee to have their conduct inquired into. He quoted numerous precedents to prove that it was the right as well as the duty of the house to inquire into the conduct of election of its members if a prima facie case were made out showing fraud. Mr. Borden gave a number of alleged instances of grave irregularities in West Huron and Brockville, claiming that narked ballots were used and that in several polling places in West Huron Conservatives swore that they polled Conservative candidate. PREMIER UPHOLDS PURITY. Sir Wilfrid Laurier agreed that the purity of elections must be guarded at all costs and at all hazards. The Liberals had insisted on that when in opposition. The cases referred to by Mr. Borden were largely questions of fact; but in regard to the West Huron matter, he must say that after he had heard the honorable gentleman he could only conclude that he had made out a prima facie case. In regard to Brockville election while he thought the honorable member had made out • weak case, if any, such was the government's regard for the sanctity of the ballot that he would offer no objection to both cases going to the committee on privileges and elections. He deprecated, however, the heat and partisan spirit exhibited by the mem-ber from Hallfax, and would ask him if, after what he had said, he might not expect to find that partisanship in committee. Sir Charles Tupper wanted Mr. W. T. R. Preston recalled by the govern-ment, and said the conscience of Ontario was awakening. Dr. Landerkin happened to laugh at one of Sir Charles' remarks. "The member for South Grey laughs," said Sir Charles. "Well, Nero laughed when Rome burned. There was the same idiotic laughter that was significant of Nero's coming doom." (Laughter.)

Sir Richard Cartwright said the spectacle on Sir Charles Tupper condemning corruption was one of the most curious he had ever witnessed. It was enough, as Carlyle said, to make the agenls and very jackasses weep. Sir Charles Tupper, adjusting eyeglasses, and looking across the house—I do not see the angels. (Laughthe

Mr. Casey, Liberal, West Elgin, endeavored to show that there was no such an organization as the Liberal machine. Dr. Sproule congratulated the preon his honesty and frankness in stating that the purity of elections must be guaranteed at all costs. It was a healthy sign of the times to hear an announcement of that kind. Sir Richard Cartwright had said that the government courted investiga-tion, but why did not they grant an investigation into the Yukon charges? He commented upon the revelations made in the courts and reminded the

LAST OF CANADIAN LEAGUE.

It seems to be almost an assured act that Canadian League baseball will become a thing of the past at the close of the present season. A suggestion has been made looking to the organization of a new international league, composed of Hamilton, Toronto, London, Rochester, Buffalo, Detroit, Cleveland and Toledo. Such a league would be far more compact than the present Eastern League, and it is believed would become very popular and profitable.-Hamilton Herald. THE AMATEURS.

The Daisies and the Junior Rockets played a game of ball on the Queen's Park diamond on Thursday evening, resulting in favor of the Daisies by a score of 23 to 10. They will play again tonight.

EGG STORY

Young Man Does Not Remember an Unpleasant Incident.

Mr. Taggart Explains Why He Rode on the Cars-Quit His Job on Account of His Health.

The following letter was handed into The Advertiser office this morning by Mr. Taggart, who objected to the publication of his full name, as he did not want any notoriety. The Advertiser has no desire to be unfair to anyone, and cheerfully publishes the letter: To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Kindly allow me sufficient space in your columns to contradict a statement that appeared in yesterday's

I am accused of being a spotter in the employ of the street railway com-pany. I positively deny having any-thing to do with the street railway company. I acknowledge having used the car Thursday morning, so as to reach the G. T. R. car shops by seven o'clock. Not seeing a 'bus in sight I could not help myself.

Now, as to being egged at the Stevens' Manufacturing Company, the story is totally false. I was engaged at that place, but owing to the fact that the work did not agree with my health I quit work, and before leaving I was accused by one of the employes with having ridden on the cars, which I acknowledged, owing to the above reasons. But the question of being a spotter was not mentioned. I was not interfered with more than some jeer-

Now, I will not allow my former good reputation to be raided upon. I therefore wish to emphasize the fact that I bear an irreproachable reputation, and therefore take this medium of setting before the eyes of the readers of this paper the true position in which I stand before the public. Thanking you for your valuable space, I am, respectfully yours, TAGGART.

SAY THE STORY WAS TRUE. The story referred to was given to The Advertiser on what appeared to be good authority. Upon receipt of Mr. Taggart's letter, an effort was made to learn whether Mr. Taggart had been the victim of mistake or misrepresentation. The following account was given to an Advertiser reporter this morning by the employes of the Stevens' machine shop, where the trouble occurred. When Taggart appeared at the factory yesterday morning he was greeted with cries of "You dirty spotter," and a volley of stale eggs. Later on his coat pockets were filled with eggs, and smashed unawares on Taggart. Bits of wood and other articles were also thrown, and hit Taggart, who went in and complained to the manager, Mr. Stevens, who told him he had better quit work if he could not get on with the men. Taggart came back to the bench, but on getting another shower of eggs, rushed out of the front door, and slipped around to a side entrance and got his coat. He did not go into the shop after his dinner pail, but left it there. The men have it now, hung up as a souvenir. Foreman John Thatcher said that the odor from the eggs through the building and saw eggon the bench where Taggart had been working. The employes say that Tag- | gard to it. gart was called a "spotter" as often as a hundred times. They informed Mr. Thatcher, the foreman, that the men would lay off in a body if Taggart was not told to go. The following employes of the machine shop stated that the story in The Advertiser was correct in every particular:

Messrs, Geo. Reid, Oliver Brady, Harry Barber, Frank Patterson, Frank Irvin, Fred Ramsay, Alfred Doke, W. Winders, W. Burney, F. W. Nichols, Wm. Mason, W. Archer, T. Heeney, H. Clark, J. Navin, M. Carney, Ed Gaze, and Lou McDonald.

MORE TROUBLE ON THAMES STREET

Officer Said to Have Handled a Small Boy Roughly.

P. C. Egelton Denies the Story-Sons of England Pass a Resolution.

Detective Egelton has reported Ernest Moseley, a Thames street boy, for putting obstructions on the street railway track. Residents of Thames street are indignant at what they deem the unwarrantable conduct of the officer in his efforts to get the boy's name. It is said by several people who witnessed the affair, among whom were Mrs. James Malin, Mrs. William Kenny, Mrs. R. Jones, Mrs. James Ward and Mrs. Andrew James, that young Moseley, who is 8 years of age, was playing on the street with his little brother and sister, when the detective walked along on the opposite side of the street. Egelton ran after the children, and Ernest, who was the biggest of the three, ran into his mother's house. Egelton ran in after him and dragged him out. Mrs. Moseley, who was away at the time, says the boy was handled roughly, that his mouth was cut, and his nose made to bleed. Egelton denies having handled the boy roughly, and says that if there is any complaint to be made he is quite ready to defend his actions before the board of police commissioners. SONS OF ENGLAND PLEDGE SUP-PORT. At the regular meeting of Trafalgar Lodge, No. 51, S. O. E., held last evening, the following resolution was unanimously adopted: "Whereas, the employes of the London Street Railway system are making a just demand for better conditions and recognition of organized labor, and believing that it is only one of the essentials of British fair play that labor as well as capital we, the members of Trafalgar Lodge, No. 51, S. O. E., hereby tender to the striking employes our hearty sympathy and co-operation, and pledge ourselves and our families not to in any way patronize the cars until such time as a satisfactory adjustment of the present grievances is made with the employes now on strike." (Signed) W. BOX, President, THOS. MAY, Secretary.

It is probable that there will not be a meeting of the strike committee of the city council until Tuesday.

COLOSSAL COMBINE

New York Central and Pennsylvania Railways Said to Have Virtually United.

New York, July 7 .- The Times says: The New York Central and the Pennsylvania Railroads have entered into a compact unprecedented in railway history. Under its provisions the two great properties become, for practical purposes, one system. Not only are old rivalries dispensed with, but there is a new policy of actual co-operation. Concerning the report that the N. Y. C. system and the Pennsylvania was so bad that every window and Railway system were to be merged, door in the shop had to be opened to S. R. > > "JUDGE NOT."

We know nothing of the trials, sorrows and temptations of those around us, of pillows wet with sobs, of the lifetragedy that may be hidden behind a smile, of the secret cares, struggles and worries that shorten life and leave their mark in hair prematurely whitened, and in character changed and almost recreated in a few days.

We say sometimes to one who seems calm and smiling, "You ought to be supremely happy; you have everything that heart could wish." It may be that at that very moment the person is passing alone through some agony of bite into the lips in the attempt to keep their feelings under control, when life seems a living death from which there is no relief. Then these light, flippant phrases jar upon us, and we seem as isolated and separated from the rest of humanity as if we lived on another planet.

Let us not dare to add to the burden of another the pain of our judgment. If we would guard our lips from expressing, we must control our mind, we must stop this continual sitting in judgment on the acts of others, even in private. Let us by daily exercises in self-control learn to turn off the process of judging-as we would turn off the gas. Let us eliminate pride, passion, personal feeling, prejudice and pettiness from our mind, and higher, purer emotions will rush in, as air seeks to fill a vacuum. Charity is not a formula; it is an atmosphere. Let us cultivate charity in judging; let us seek to draw out latent good in others rather than to discover hidden evil. It requires the eye of charity to see the undeveloped butterfly in the caterpillar. Let us, if we would rise to the full glory of our privilege, to the dignity of true living, make for our watchword the injunction of the supreme charity of the world-"Judge not."

And concerning Algeria, one of the few Frenchmen who regard these questions in the light of plain facts, G. Garreau, writing in The Siecle a few days ago, makes the painful confession:

'During well nigh 70 years we have failed to make Algeria pay. Have we even striven to make it? During 20 years we have been pursuing Ahmadon or Samory. What have we done with the Soudan? We have contributed to depopulate it; we have made waste, directly or indirectly, immense territories, on which a rich population formerly lived; we have extended the desert instead of reclaiming it. Our soldiers have labored so well that they successfully thwarted all useful besorrow, where the teeth seem almost to ginnings, and blocked the road to the pioneers of our commerce."-Contemporary Review.

"Yes, I know." The day was warm for the season— Jessie stood in the open oriel-window, and let her eyes roam through garden and churchyard-ever returning, without volition of hers, to the gap in the long lines of gravestones next her mother's tomb. Had nature swooned all over the broad earth? Was there nothing real left in creation save the fact of her great woe?

that the house should be set in order for the coming of the grim guest, had dusted the furniture, set back the chairs in straight rows against the walls in parlor and dining-room, and closed all the blinds on the lower floor; made her kitchen neat as Miss Eunice could have wished; then seated herself upon the upper step of the side porch, her arms wrapped in her clean apron. Jessie's orders were positive that no one besides the doctors should be admitted, and as the servant's lookout commanded the front gate, she intercepted the many callers who flocked to the pasonage at the swift rumor of the pastor's extreme illness "We will keep him to ourselves while he stays with us," the younger sister had answered the other's fear lest this proceeding should give offense to "the people." "He has belonged to them for thirty years. At the last we may surely claim him!"

"But they love him dearly," expostulated Eunice. "He is their spiritual father and guide."

"He is our all!" was the curt reply, and Eurice forebore to argue further.

In the midst of her grief she was slightly afraid of Jessie. The wide eyes that were caverns of gloom—the tune-less accents that never shook or varied, cowed her into quiet and obedience.

There was little to be done. The sick man slept-if it were sleep-except when aroused to take medicine or food. At these periods he recognized his children and spoke coherently, although briefly. His kind heart and gentle breeding were with him to the end. His utterances were of thankfulness for the services they rendered, and love for those who bent over him, that not a word should be lost of that they felt, at each awakening, might be the last sentence they should ever hear from

He spoke again, intelligibly and calmly, of the nearing separation. "I am going fast!" he said to Eunice, who was lifting his head upon her arm that she might adjust the pillow. "The Father is very good. The precious blood avails—even for me—for me! I

Eunice bowed her ear, and held her breath to catch the words. "The token was an arrow, with the point sharpened by love, let easily into the heart!' God is good—very good!" It had been the testimony of his whole life, "Jessie, my dear! my little girl! you are wearing yourself out for me!" he said, at another time. "I wish Roy were here! But his will be done! He four hours at the utmost. I shall re-knows my darling's needs—her tempt-turn, presently, with Dr. Trimble. But atlons—her trials. Like as a father pitieth his children, dear! And it is true! Recollect that I told you so, this —and when—and how!" true!

She was to recollect it in the Father's good time. Now the words meant lit-tle, after she had heard the dying parent's wish for Roy's return. She said something in her own neart that was like a thanksgiving that her father was spared the one pang which the coming of the man he would have her marry would bring—that the sea rolled between them.

"We shall be cared for papa!" she replied. "I know! The promise is sure," and he slept again, like a child at even-time upon the mother's breast.

"The 'great peace' is his!" said Eunice, in plous gratitude. Jessie was mute. So the afternoon went by, and the shortening twilight of autumn drew on apace. The shutters of the southern windows were unclosed to admit the air which evening had now made raw. The fleecy clouds were packed in a cumulus mass upon the horizon, and this one another, and see how the environbegan to rise in portentous majesty, as | ment varies according to the evolution ning in the blue ether look soft to lasted, with ragged brassy edges, it April tearfulness. How still it was, as darkened and thickened as Jessie watched it from her seat at the bed-head, into a banner of blackness absorbing the light from the rest of the heavens, and blotting out the earth from her sight. The silence was breathless. Not an insect chirped or leaf rustled. Even the pine boughs were motionless. The mill wheel was still; the roar of the waterfall was the only sound abroad under the inky sky. The sisters could no longer see each other, but

She had hardly reached the foot of the staircase, when Jessie heard the garden gate shut, and steps upon the gravel walk leading to the kitchen; next, a stifled scream from Patsey, and a low, manly voice, in rebuke or reas-surance. Listening, as for her life, the deadly cold of hands and feet creeping up to her heart, she caught a faint ex-clamation from Eunice; then the cautious tread of feet in the hall to the parlor door, which was shut behind those who went in; after which all was

The Grandest Treasure. One of the fondest, happiest anticipations of a mother's heart is that by her husband's earnest toil, and by careful economy on both their parts they shall be able to lay by a little store which the baby when it is grown to man-hood or wom-anhood shall have as its own private possession.

But every wife who ex-pects to become a mother may provide a far more come a mother may provide a far more valuable treasure for her little one's future than can ever be contained in any savings bank if she will take the proper care of her own health and physical condition during the time when the baby is expected. And if every husband would feel it his bounden duty to see that all possible means are adopted to carry his wife safely through this critical time, he will help to bequeath to his offspring that health and natural vigor which is the grandest fortune a father can bestow.

"During the past year I found myself pregnant and in rapidly failing health," writes Mrs. W. J. Kidder, of Hill Dale Farm, (Enosburg Center) Enosburg, Vt., in a grateful letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. "I suffered dreadfully from bloating and urinary difficulty. I was growing perceptibly weaker each day and suffered much sharp pain at times. I felt that something must be done. I sought your advice and received a prompt reply. I followed your directions and took twelve bottles of Dr. Pierce's Fayorite Prescription, and also followed your instructions. I began to improve immediately, my health became excellent, and I could do all my own work (we live on a good sized farm). I walked and rode all I could, and enjoyed it. Environments

Jesus' Birth and Resurrection-Sermon by Rev. Dr Joseph Parker.

Jesus had a way of meeting people unexpectedly. He has never abandoned that significant and blessed way. Jesus waylays men; Jesus watches the travelers, counts their footialls, observes the whole manifestation of their personality when they are in grief and wonder and tender communication one with another, and at the right moment, for Jesus keeps all the moments. He joins them, faces them, suddenly encounters them, and asks them delicate and feeling questions. The ap-pearances of Jesus Christ would seem to be always sudden, though they have been expected for centuries; for they have been foretold by the most elaborate and dignified prophecy. Two things always come suddenly into our experience, the great joy and the great loss. Death is always sudden. You have been watching for many a day, for a hundred days and more, and at the last it seemed to come without prediction or announcement. The light also comes suddenly into life; a great joy startles the soul into a new consciousness. You thought that you were prepared for the new man, the new prophet, the child that was to lead your house to greater conquests; but there was an element of suddenness in the appearance, a peculiar force of light, a deep consciousness that the universe must make way for another life, the biggest and most beautiful that ever lived in it. "And the Lord will suddenly come to his temple." Jesus Christ often met his disciples quite unexpectedly. Go, said the angel, and preach to his brethren the good news, and as they went Jesus met them, and added to the doctrine a personality, completed the historical resurrection by an actual visible presence, and that presence has never been withdrawn; our eyes are never been withdrawn; our eyes are dim; the presence itself is always

WE SEE SO LITTLE. because we look so helplessly and indifferently. Jesus would more fre-quently meet us if we were more frequently going in the right direction; he travels on certain roads; it is not suggested that he does not leave those roads, and go upon the unfrequented paths, but there is a pledge that where his people gather together he will be there. He also will be where Saul is and he will burn the letters from the high priest, and Saul shall suddenly be struck down by a white flame at the gate of Damascus. The Lord haunts all the gates; he knows that when we are fumbling over that lock that we may open it; if the gate is the right road he opens it from the other side, if the gate is the wrong one he vexes the lock and the key so that they canthe lock and the key so that they can-not interplay. We live within the pro-vidence of God; we might meet Jesus Christ every morning if we went out to seek him; he is the Lord of morning, he is the glory of the coming time, he has vested interests in the dawn. With what infinite profitableness, were we so disposed, we might linger upon the environment of the Resurrection, comparing it with the environ-ment of the Birth, contrasting it rather than comparing it. Will you look at the two environments in relation to of the Personality? You rememb your own earliest environment; you would not have been without it for the world today, now that the snow of years is whitening your heads, you would not for the world go back to the environment which was once the ex-pression of life's dearest holiday; you would not go back to the old nursery and the old toys and the old amusements and delights: When I was a child I spake as a child; when I became a man I put away childish things, I escaped from one environment into I escaped from one environment into another, larger and wholly more fitted to my increasing manhood. Shall we

THE ENVIRONMENT OF THE RE-SURRECTION?

What is that first object that you see? "It is a garden; there is a tomb in it." I do not speak of that, I reverse your sentence, retaining its history and ensentence, retaining its history and enlarging its meaning. We could say moaningly and fretfully, almost, indeed, atheistically: There was a tomb in the garden. That is poor talk. How can you improve it? Easily, by almost inverting it. There was a reader most inverting it: There was a garden round the tomb. That is better, the gospel gleams in that nobler talk. I see only the tomb, and after some spirit has talked with me for a mo-ment I lose sight of the tomb in the broader, lovelier view of the garden. Let the theist say there was a tomb in the garden; I pray my God to help me to say there was a garden around the tomb.

Is there anything in the environment of the resurrection to match the garden beauty and the garden fragrance? Yes. What is it? Morning: "As it began to dawn." It always begins to dawn when we are conscious of the presence and the blessing of the dear Lord. His coming means light, morning, something that has to grow, an increasing light, adapt of the heavy increasing light, a gleam of the heavenly lightning that makes and seeks the eternal that it means. So far, then, the environment is right, garden and morning, how they match one another! what a duet is that! let them sing their music to the accomthem sing their music to the accompaniment of the spheres. Garden and morning—what next? What we call spring, April, the time when the green blade is coming up or the little flower has cought its may through the front has fought its way through the frost and snow. When Christ rises all things rise; when Jesus comes up from the tomb there is no tomb. He has left it; now there is nothing but vernal beauty vernal music thrills the responding air. A lovely environment, garden, morning, spring—what more? Angels. A beautiful picture it is to see the angel of the Lord coming and thrusting back the little pebble that was rolled to the door of the tomb, and— oh the subtle irony! oh the holy conoh the subtle frony! oh the holy con-tempt!—rolling back the stone and sitting on it! Marmion waved the fragment of his blade in sign of vic-tory, a sign in its way and at the time pardonable, but there stands out one utterance and expression of vic-tory grander than Marmion's waving of his blade. The angel of the Lord fleked away the stone with its red flicked away the stone with its red Roman seal, and having set it a few inches away sat upon it. It is then a right beautiful environment, and full of holy suggestion, and wet with a of holy suggestion, and wet with a very gracious pathos, wet as with sacred tears, such as might have dropped from heaven. Garden, morning, spring, angels; that is resurrection, resurging, coming back to flood and throne and final diadem.

ENVIRONMENT OF THE BIRTH.

We do not see all the beauty of that environment until we contrast it with the environment of the birth. What do we see at the nativity of Christ? A manger, and no garden; night—"and there were shepherds keeping their flocks by night." This child is going A manger, and no garden; night—"and there were shepherds keeping their flocks by night." This child is going to be born in the darkness, he may bring the light with him. He has al-ways done so. He will not fail at Ways done so. He will not fair at Bethlehem. A child always brings light with it; the darkness has notice to quit the moment the child cries. Manger, night and what we call winter. We keep the Saviour's birthday when the snow is on the ground; the keener the frost, the more highly piled the snow we say: This is true Christthe snow, we say: This is true Christmas weather. Not resurrection weather; something has happened between the winter and the spring, something has taken place between the fall of that snow, the growing of that ice, and the breathing of that balmy breeze over Jerusalem. "This same Jesus," over Jerusalem. "This same Jesus," Jesus of the garden and the morning, of the spring and of the angels, was once the Jesus of the manger and the night and the winter. Better that the environment were not reversed! We have a trick of going the other way. Some men have everything at their birth; their Bethlehem is gold and morning and garden and sun and feast, and their old age a withered failure, the fair page ill-written and crumpled as with contemptuous hands. There is a possibility of inverting what God has arranged as the natural evolution and proper culmination of life. It is sad to tears that a man should have everything before he is two years old; call it misfortune piled on misforture that the boy should have tra-versed the galleries of Europe before he is thirteen years of age; call it an irony that a boy over-caked, over-fed, fondled and dandled and confectioned until at thirteen he is an old noue; the boy has exhausted everything and cries because there is not another world to exhaust. Blessed are the poor, blersed are they who have to count their shillings and fit their bread to the week, if so be they are honest in heart, independent. courageous, religious. You do not know

WHAT YOU OWE TO YOUR POV-ERTY.

You never would have been the man you are if you had been born any-where else than at Bethlehem, cradled in the manger, surrounded by night, winter-bound, frost so severe on your front door that you cannot open it to get to the well which has been turned into one block of ice. These things are hard if hardly taken. Who are the men that shake the world? men who were born at Bethlehem. Who are the men that come to the garden and the morning and the spring and the angels? The men who have had to travel from Bethlehem to Golgotha, and to travel that via mala not in their own strength, but in the presence and under the comforting inspiration of God and his Christ and the eternal Spirit. Of course there are great difficulties in the way, because many people have had to undergo the depleting and disennobling process of having been born in plenteousness and rocked in cradles of gold. Take our Lord's own course as an example and an encouragement: he was rich, and yet for our sakes he became poor; he made himself of no reputation, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross; wherefore God hath highly exalted him. To know nothing about poverty may be not to have made the acquaintance of the best friend you could have had; you always have had so much that you did not feel the need of asking a blessing upon it, always so surrounded you did know there was a God. The man who has no acquaintance with the poor man's sick chamber does not know what life is. If you would improve your tempers go and visit the sick poor; if you would enlarge your own spirit of contentment and satisfaction go down to those people whose lives are spent in struggle and pain and disappointment. So Jesus Christ BEGAN AT THE RIGHT END. began with manger and night and winter and fishermen, and went straight up to garden and morning and spring and angels. Let us take heart, then. We cannot help our poverty; sometimes we have been almost tempted to envy the boy at school who had everything, the boy who was so dressed that it never would have en-tered our imagination that he was goinng to school at all, he must have been going to some festival, to some exhibition day, to some grand show, and surely not to what we know school, a hard master and a hard les-son and bare board, and the pence hardly gathered by faithful industry and every penny of the pence with a hue of blood upon it. You never would have been so military and yet so for-bearing; so dignified and yet so condescending, if you had not been the child of the manger and the night and the winter and the little fisherfolk. Never be ashamed of it! I will be ashamed of you if you are ashamed of the father and mother that did their best for you, though that best mayhap was but poor.

THE MEANING. Look at the spiritual and ideal significance of these two environments, and especially the environment of the resurrection. What is the meaning of all this? The meaning is poetry, ideality, higher consciousness, a continually self-refining spirituality, a continually shedding off of the old and the poor and the mean that belongs to the poor and the mean that belongs to our own nature, and a constant rising into the true manhood. Always remember that there is a spiritual here-

The Dam Vs. Coal.

N. W. EMERSON, DRUGGIST.

To the Editor of The Advertisers It appears that the city authorities are going to put their foot into more trouble than they anticipate in building a new dam, for I certainly think if they look into the matter, they will see that it has cost more to maintain the water power during the past 20 years than it would have cost for ooal and steam to have pumped the same amount of water that has been pumped by the water power. If we take all the money that the dam and its connections cost in the first place, together with all the money that has been expended in damages, repairing and keeping the dam and river banks, etc., in order, would coubtless have been sufficient to have paid for coal and steam power to have run for at least 25 years. Now this immense expenditure is all swept away, principal and interest. Nothing to show for it, saying nothing about London West. The damage done here has averaged nearly $1,000 a year, caused by flood. Take this, with the cost of breakwater, and it would have been sufficient to have run steam pumps for at least ten years. Now bear in mind that the city will have to foot all the damage she causes herself by flooding in West London. Just wait a year or two; the city knows nothing about one freshet, which cost more than $1,000, no doubt, and the first freshet that comes will sweep that much or more away every time West London is flooded. After a while the city will begin to investigate the cause. If the city will not see it now, mark my words, she will later on. I will just give a rough estimate between the cost of maintaining a dam to pump about two-thirds the water required. Building new dam, say $50,000; interest, about $2,000; keeping it and banks etc., in repair, $1,000; keeping old breakwater in repair, $1,000; repairing damage in West London after every flood $1,000; a new dam means a new breakwater, say $50,000; interest on this or more, $2,000; depreciation of property in West London, $200,000, say $2,000 in loss of taxes. Add to this $1,000 for steam to assist the water power. Here you have, roughly speaking, $10,000 to maintain a water power worth $4,000 a year. Now take the cost of coal for pumping all the water by steam power. Say it takes $5,000, which is a high estimate. You then have about $6,000 a year saved in favor of steam power. Why then commit such a grave mistake as rebuilding a new dam without a full and impartial investigation. Not only this, a dam may be swept away any day and this immense expenditure all lost again. Now I am not talking as a West Londoner; I am talking as a heavy taxpayer of the city, and know whereof I speak, and if the city would delay the building of the dam until after the next spring freshets, I think they would see the truth and force of my contentions. Where such a momentous question is at stake, the cost to do so not very great. Some people contend that the city is building the dam to accommodate the boat clubs more than for its own use, but of that I know nothing. One thing I do know, and that is, that West London would in a few years be one of the best and most prosperous parts of the city were it not for those floods, and pay five times general council of the A. M. O., to be more in taxes than all the dams in the river are worth to the city. Yours

sincerely. JOHN CHAPMAN. West London, July 4.

METEOROLOGICAL

Toronto, July 6-8 p.m.—The weather today has been fine and warm over most of Ontario, and cool and showery in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces. In Manitoba and the Northwest Territories it has been fair and moderately warm, with local showers. Another shallow low area is moving towards the lake region, and there are strong indications that showers and thunder-storms will be prevalent again Friday night in the Georgian Bay district; but it is quite probable that the drought existing near Lake Erie and Ontario will not yet be broken. Battalion Inspected by Col. Otter Last Hvening.

Some Kindly Criticism-The Inspector ments on the Band.

Col. Otter, inspector of infantry, inspected the books and equipment of the Seventh Fusiliers yesterday afternoon, and in the evening reviewed the battalion. Hundreds of citizens witnessed the review, and were much impressed with the fine appearance of the battalion, which turned out over 300 strong. Col. Otter was attended

Lieut. Layborn, R. R. C. I. he regiment paraded at 7:30 and lined up on Central avenue, and, upon the colonel's arrival, gave the general salute. After an individual inspection, the men were put through the manual and firing exercises by Major Little, and then marched south on Wellington street, where they were inspected on the move. They proceeded then to the market square, where they drilled in fours, in quarter-column, in column of route, and in line of attack. Upon their return to the drill shed Col. Otter expressed his complete sat-isfaction with the battallon, considering the very short period during which the men had been receiving instruction. He said that there were some discrepancies which were to be expected in a young regiment, and which a hint from him would doubtless remedy.

The colonel is a disciple of Gen. Hutton in his belief that closely cropped hair adds greatly to the smart appear ance of the men, and emphasized this particularly. He says also that the forage caps should be worn at a uniform angle, and not in any position to suit the pleasure of the wearer.

In his remarks to the band, he said they were too much like a civilian band. Their step was a little too free and easy, and their general appearance was not quite so soldier-like as it should be. The music, however, pleased him greatly, and he was sure that in a short time the band would regain the position that it held when he knew it some years ago as one of the finest organizations in the Dominion. In expressing the hearty pleasure that it gave him to see the reorganized Seventh, Col. Otter said that the battalion had men with the required physique; it had excellent officers; it had a healthy spirit of cooperation, and with the necessary training it will soon occupy a position in the foremost rank of Canadia mili-

A Correction.

Through inadvertence, a regrettable mistake was unintentionally made in the paragraph which appeared in Thursday evening's Advertiser, respecting the death of a most estimable lady, Miss Agnes Mitchell. The statement that deceased had died at the Old Peoples' Home should have read, at the old homestead, which would have conveyed the correct and a totally different impression. The estimable lady died at her late residence, 311 Bathurst street. Deceased was a lady of culture and refinement, and was influentially connected not only in Canada, but beyond the Atlantic. The Advertiser desires to express its deep regret that it has inadvertently caused pain to anyone in such a matter, as it is the last one in such a matter, as it thing it would desire to do, Business Educators' Association of Canada in Annual Session.

President Westervelt's Optimistic Outlook-Interesting Papers and Addresses.

The Business Educators' Association of Canada began their annual meeting yesterday at the Forest City Business College in the Y. M. C. A. building. Among those in attendance are Messrs. D. Hoskins, W. H. Shaw, and A. M. Kennedy, Toronto; R. E. Gallagher and C. R. McCullough, Hamilton; John Keith and S. T. Willis, Ottawa; H. M. Kenney, Woodstock; W. Brooks, Galt; H. T. Gough, St. Thomas; P. Bradshaw, Stratford; W. A. Gowling, Berin; E. Kaulbach and R. Schurman, Halifax, N. S., and J. W. Westervelt, London.

At 2:30 p.m. Mayor Wilson addressed the convention, welcoming the delegates to London, and expressing the appreciation on the part of the peo-ple of London of the value of the association's educational work.

Then followed the address of the president, Mr. J. W. Westervelt. In part, he said:

"Notwithstanding all the objections that were set forth, the association has succeeded beyond the most sanguine expectations of the most enthusiastic educators, which goes to show that the business educators of Canada were alive to their best interests, ready for just such an organization, and that the structure has been reared upon foundations well and truly laid. We are as broad as the continent, and our association, défying all high tariffs, is attracting the attention of our American friends, and bringing forth their favorable comment. Like all similar educational organizations, to make it a general success demands considerable time and thought from its members. We believe that we have a good thing; then why not make it known? What have we, as a convention, done to place before our patrons and the business public the merits of our work? Nothing. Let us be up and doing and tell to the business world that the business educators of Canada have joined hands to elevate the standard of commercial education and to advance the interests of our beloved pro-

"The time has arrived when our graduates should have some better recognition for the honest, faithful work performed in our classes, other than the apology for a diploma known as the 'sticker.' I feel sure that some action will be taken before the convention closes, whereby the successful pupils of 1899 and 1906 will carry away something more elaborate than the aforesaid 'sticker,' and something which the 'fortunates' will take pride in displaying to their friends.

"We hear a great deal these days about the cramming caused by our educational system, but are we not following in that direction as rapidly as we can travel? Is it not time to consider concerted action along the line of a lengthened course? "In bidding farewell to the position in which you so kindly placed me, I desire to have you accept my thanks for the uniform kindness and consideration extended me during my term of office;

my work has been made thereby a pleasure. I have endeavored to perform the duties of president in a manner alike befitting the office, and the best interests of the work. I assure you that any mistakes that I may have made were errors of judgment, and not chargeable to intent. I bespeak for my successor in office, whoever ne may be, the same brotherly treatment which has been accorded me, and I feel

THEY WANT SOMETHING NEW

Sewer Committee Has Changed Its Mind Since Last Year.

Another System of Sewage Dis. posal Now Favored.

Dr. Ol. T. Campbell Is Opposed to the Committee's Recommendation-And Presents a Minority Report.

The city council will be recommended by the sewer committee to adopt the septic tank system of sewage disposal, and to send a deputation to Mountain Grove and Champaign, Ill., with a view to obtaining all nesessary information on the subject. These recommendations were contained in a report which Chairman McPhillips and Mayor Wilson submitted last night. The chairman and mayor, together with Dr. Cl. T. Campbell were named some time ago as a sub-committee to consider the matter, but Dr. Campbell did not agree with his fellow-committeemen. He submitted a minority report, as follows:

"Whatever system of sewage disposal may be adopted will involve filtration; and the extent to which any tration; and the extent to which any system will be successful must depend on the efficiency of the method of filtration employed.

"Our object should be to secure the most effective system with the least expenditure. We do not want to construct anything which may be unnecessary, we do not want to spend more than is absolutely required. I would recommend: (1) That section 'A' be constructed; (2) that a halfacre of coarse filter beds be prepared. Having done that much we can see how it works. If it is satisfactory, and how it works. If it is satisfactory, and receives the approval of the provincial board, we can simply extend the area of filtration bods as required. If we find we need a little more thorough filtration we can add the fine beds, and thus have a complete moid little.

tion or Dibdin system. If we find that the open beds are defective in their work, or in any way unsatisfactory (though I do not anticipate anything of the kind), then the covered tank can be added, into which the sewage can be discharged before it passes into the filter beds, and in this way we would have the septic tank system. "If the beds first laid down prove satisfactory, that will end the matter. If they do not there will be no wasted expenditure, because these beds would have to be constructed in any event, and no matter what other methods might be adopted." The mayor and Ald. McPhillips presented a lengthy report, in which they stated that they could not recommend land filtration; that the "chemical precipitation" system (the system which the committee recommended the council to adopt last year) costs too much to construct and to maintain, and was also objectionable because of to maintain. the sludge; that the septic system is the cheapest to construct, the cheapest to operate and the most satis-factory; that in Mountain Grove and Champaign, Ill., are septic tank systems such as the sub-committee recommends London to adopt. The report concludes with a recommendation that before plans and specifications be prepared that the city engineer and one member of the sewer committee visit Mountain Grove and Champaign. On motion of Ald. Garratt it was decided to recommend the council to adopt the majority report. There was very little discussion. The chairman refused for some time to put a motion that the unexpended balance of the $7,500 set aside last balance of the $7,500 set aside last year from the sewer debenture fund for repairing streets on which sewers have been laid be again placed at the disposal of No. 2 committee. Several members of the committee claimed that no authority had been given to take the money back from No. 2 committee, and that it still stood available for the repairing of the streets. The matter will ing of the streets. The matter will come up in the council. Dr. Cl. T. Campbell and Ald. Parnell were ab-

TRIED TO COMMIT SUICIDE.

A Chicago dispatch says: William Waddell, 19 years old, who ran away from his home in London, Canada, seven years ago, was tried today for his mental condition on complaint of the police. He arrived in Chicago two weeks ago. Monday he tried to drown himself. He walked out upon the pier shortly after 11 o'clock, and while everal fishermen were watching him, jumped into the shallow water. James Ellis and J. J. McKenna, who were fishing near by, jumped into the water and drew Waddell to the shore before he had suffered any injury. He was sent to the Elgin Asylum. SABBATH SCHOOLS AT PORT.

Askin Street Methodist and Wortley Road Baptist Sabbath schools held their annual picnic at Port Stanley yesterday, and it was attended by about 1,000 persons. The day was an ideal one for a picnic, and there was hardly a ripple on Old Erie. The pleasure steamer Urania carried a big crowd out for a two-hours' trip on the lake. The scholars and their friends were supplied with tickets gratis for the trip. This was thought by the committee in charge to be a better way of entertaining everybody than a programme of sports. The day was one of great enjoyment, and will long be remembered by the scholars. The picnickers, with a few exceptions, returned home early in the evening
