POETRY.

Our Birthdays.

Life's milestones—for we've gained the hilltop now,

And turned our faces to the setting

sun—

Are pauses in the symphony of years?

Are rests in journeying ere the day be done?

Are but eases 'neath the waving palms;

Are records 'read at night' from Memory's scroll?

Are shavers of wheat grown heavy for our care,

While far behind our fields are reaped and here.

But see the lesson in these speaking things!

For sunset makes another world—a day.

Our music fades, but mounts on heavenly wings;

The blessed wave their palms in realms

of light;

The records of our love rekindle life's light.

And for the sheaves of wheat our toil

hath won,

We meet His hand, we hear His voice:

"Well done!"

ed: "A task! No, you see, I've been travelling about, and he would have been in the way. But don't be upset,

I'm quite capable of dressing myself!"

"Very well, dear," she said; and as he passed on across the hall she rejoined

Constance, who had shrunk out of sight behind a man in armor.

"You will see Mrs. Russell, dear?"

"Yes," said Constance. Goodnight,

Lady Brakespares."

"Good night, dear, and—thank you very much"; and she looked as if she were going to kiss her, but Constance did not meet her half way.

She had a kind of feeling that she ought not to take advantage of the old lady's excitement, but the withered hand pressed the soft, warm one with a grateful clasp.

"Constance had no idea where to find

Mrs. Russell, but asked her way of a footman in the housekeeper's room, and found a comfortable-looking personage in a plain black silk busily engaged with sheets and blankets.

"She dropped half a courtesy as Constance entered and gave the marionettes message.

"The south room? Yes, miss, I thought that would be the one, and I've given orders about it; but they're all so busy in the servants' hall," and she laughed good-naturedly.

"Can I help you?" asked Constance.

"Oh, thank you, miss; if you wouldn't mind carrying up this pair of castanets. His lordship's room is next to year's so it won't be out of the way. It's his lordship's old room," she continued as they went up the back stairs. "He chose it because because he could see the paddock where the horses are exercised in the morning.

I was only head housemaid then, Miss

Grahame, but of course I can't remember him, though he has altered," she added.

"I knew him by his portrait," said

Constance.

"Ay, yes, miss, of course. But he has altered. He seems so—

"This stopped for a word—so much quieter, and staidier, and I saw that there were some specks of grey in his hair;

beautiful hair, like Lord Lancelbrook's, isn't it, miss?" The Brakespares all have that hair."

"Yes," said Constance, as they entered a large room, with a large bed which looked so solidly built as to be immovable, and with antique furniture that might have been there, as no doubt it had been, for generations.

"This is the room, miss, and there is his lordship's gun hanging up as it used to when he was a young man;

though for the matter of that he's a young man still. Five-and-thirty isn't very old, is it?" and she smiled.

"No," said Constance. "Shall I put the candles here?" and she placed them on the dressing-table.

"She had so sooner dressed, than she heard a knock at the door, and Arol's voice calling to her, and when she opened the door he came in with a joyous bound.

"Oh, Miss Grahame!" he exclaimed, throwing his arms around her neck and kissing her. "I'm so glad you are up and here! I was afraid you wouldn't be here. I was so glad you were up

and here! I was afraid you wouldn't

be here. I was so glad you were up

and here! I was afraid you wouldn't

be here. I was so glad you were up

and here! I was afraid you wouldn't

be here. I was so glad you were up

and here! I was afraid you wouldn't

"Perhaps the Marquis has grown more as well as staidier," said Constance, laughing.

"Thank you, Miss Grahame," said a voice at the door, and Constance, swinging round, saw the Marquis standing there and regarding them with a strange smile.

"You will see Mrs. Russell, dear?"

"Yes," said Constance. Goodnight,

Lady Brakespares."

WOLFVILLE, N. S., JAN. 10, 1896.

Town Council.

The last meeting of the present Town Council was held on Tuesday evening...

The various committees submitted reports. The following bills were read and ordered paid:

Table with 2 columns: Item, Amount. Includes Wolfville Coal Co., Higgins & Vaughn, E. S. Crawley, etc.

On motion it was resolved that the reports of the various committees be accepted in bloc.

J. W. Wallace was appointed presiding officer for the coming election and F. A. Dixon poll clerk.

On motion of Coun. Starr he is instructed to put up two lights on the upper end of Highland Avenue...

Baptist Church Notes.

The annual business meeting of the Wolfville Baptist church was held on the 24 inst. About two hundred members of the church were present...

The treasurer, Mr. Geo. H. Wallace, gave a very satisfactory account of the general church finances...

The treasurer of the communion fund, for the assistance of needy members, and the sick society, both reported several hundred dollars in hand...

The Sunday School, had a very encouraging report, which was presented by Mr. Geo. H. Wallace...

The expenses of the church for the current year are to be met by weekly offerings by members...

The roll of class journals in Canada has been augmented by the publication of Industrial Canada...

Reading Newspapers. To one who has acquired the art of reading newspapers they are not too large, nor are there too many of them...

At a public meeting in Halifax Thursday evening, strong resolutions of sympathy with Armenians were passed...

Ask for Rand's Emulsion and be sure you get Rand's. Don't take any substitute even if it is just as good.

WOLFVILLE.

ITS NAME AND LOCAL ADVANTAGE.—SUGGESTIONS REGARDING IMPROVEMENTS.

Mr. Editor.—"Wolfville," soft and liquid, falling on the ear like the sound of running brooks in Summer time...

A general election for the Dominion is looming up before us. It will be a crucial time for the great question of prohibition...

Let all friends of this movement make note of the matter and strenuously endeavour to be present.

Prohibition Convention. To the Editor of the ACADIAN. Sir.—Kindly allow me the privilege of your columns to call attention to the notice elsewhere appearing...

It is evident that there is a determined effort being made by the liquor fraternity to set back the hands on the dial of the temperance reform...

It is just here that we find the prime reason of the weakness of our temperance forces, in certain important directions...

At a public meeting in Halifax Thursday evening, strong resolutions of sympathy with Armenians were passed...

Ask for Rand's Emulsion and be sure you get Rand's. Don't take any substitute even if it is just as good.

A Sudden Call.

One of the saddest events that has ever been our duty to chronicle, occurred on the Carleton bog, Aylesford, on Saturday morning last. Two young men, George Bentley and Arthur J. Loomer, sons respectively of George Bentley and John G. Loomer of Shaftfield's Mill, left their homes on Friday and drove to the residence of Mr. Wm. Baker, Somerset, where they remained for the night, leaving next morning for Aylesford, taking the bog road. They were crossing the bog from the north, and drove upon the railway track just at the time the morning train crossed the crossing. Their legs sprang from the crossing. Their carriage was struck and both young men instantly killed. The body of young Loomer was thrown to the northward of the track, while that of Bentley was found between the rails. The full truth of the matter can never be certainly known. The most probable supposition seems, however, to be that on account of the storm and high wind the boys being well muffled up, did not hear the whistle or the engine's warning. The most sincere sympathy is felt for the sorely bereaved parents and friends. Both young men were popular among their associates, and will be much missed. George Bentley had but recently returned from British Columbia, where he went at the age of 17. Austin Loomer was a member of the A. class in Kennebec Academy, and a promising young man.

The Weather.

Temperature of December, 1895, as observed by G. Thomson at Wolfville.

Average max. temperature 38.22; average min. temperature 22.45; average for the month 30.38. The lowest reading for this month was on the 9th when it reached 7 above zero. The highest point touched was on the 31st, when it reached 69.

During the night of the 5th January, '96, the mercury fell to 11 below zero.

Personal Mention.

Mother's Meetings—Mrs Heaton. Next meeting in Temperance Hall Thursday, Jan. 16th, at 3.30 p. m.

The meetings are always open to any who wish to become members. Gospel Temperance meetings, conducted by members of the W. C. T. U., are held every Sunday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, in the vestry of the Methodist church. All are welcome.

Here and There. The following significant message has been received at Headquarters. President World's W. C. T. U., The Temple, Chicago.

We join prayers and influence to you, to avert greatest calamity possible to the world, a war between nations in whose history is involved the highest hopes of humanity. God grant we may stand united everywhere.

LADY HENRY SOMERSET. Vice President. The National Congress of Colored Women which met in Atlantic City, December 27, and continued in session over Sunday, is remarkable as being the first of its kind in the history of this country.

Representative colored women from eighteen different states were in attendance and a permanent organization was effected with Mrs Lucy Thurman, W. C. T. U. National superintendent of work among colored people, as president.

The topics discussed prove that the power which evolves the "new woman" (using the term in its best sense) is no respecter of color. Among the speakers were Mrs Booker T. Washington and Mrs F. E. W. Harper. Frederick Douglass memorial services were held on Sunday afternoon, at which Mrs Fanny Williams, of Chicago, was the chief speaker.

Roman Catholic young women of Danbury, Conn., have formed a society of members pledged not to marry a man who is not a strict abstainer. The only wonder is that this measure of self-protection is not carried out by young women of common sense in every line of life.

They should no more run the risk of marrying a drinking man than they would that of going to the madhouse. And yet, by tens of thousands, they do this every day, and while their husbands take the drink, they take—the consequences.

Letters from England state that Jane Cakbread, the old woman who has been arrested two hundred and seventy-eight times for inebriety, seems quiet and content in the Farm House for Inebriate Women, founded by the B. W. T. A. near Reigate, England. By the action of the executive committee of that society, the name of Somerset Village has been given to this colony of women seeking to reform.

The value of bottled beer shipped to Russia from England in the first eleven months of last year was fifty-four thousand rubles. The use of beer is said to be increasing in the four Eastern provinces where the state control of spirits has been established. According to precise receipts, spirits consumption has hitherto been nearly one hundred times greater than that of beer.

At the annual meeting of the Dominion W. C. T. U. in Quebec, the Training School women from New York were permitted to preach in the oldest Presbyterian church in the Dominion, founded by the Highlanders that fought under Wolfe and in which no woman had ever before lifted up her voice. Verily the world "do move."

A letter has just been received by Miss Ackermann from Miss Olivia Johanna-Dout, the new president of the W. C. T. U. of Iceland, who states that she rode on horseback two days in the darkness to form a W. C. T. U. and that she now has a Loyal Temperance Legion of eighty members.

In July, 1896, the liquor traffic of eight more provinces of Russia will be placed under government control; in July, 1897, seven other provinces will be added and by July, 1898, the entire empire will be thus under the dispensary system.

Miss Willard has been invited by the Countess of Aberdeen to address the next annual meeting of the National Council of Women of Canada, to be held in Montreal next May.

To do what seems right may involve an extra struggle sometimes, but one may be sure that in the long run it will bring the most happiness.

Evangelistic training schools and institutes have been added to the departments of the Dominion W. C. T. U. Quebec union last year held the largest state in Canada for the World's W. C. T. U. missionary work.

There are now fifty-two unions in New South Wales—1,817 active and 237 honorary members.

A BROAD-MINDED DOCTOR.

Relates some experiences in his Own Practice.

Believes in recommending Any Medicine That he knows Will Cure His Patients.—"Thanks, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a Great Discovery."

Akron, Pa., April 24th, '95. Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. Gentlemen,—While it is entirely contrary to the custom of the medical profession to endorse or recommend any of the so-called proprietary preparations, I shall, nevertheless, give you an account of some of my wonderful experiences with your preparation, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

The fact is well known that medical practitioners do not as a rule recognize much less use preparations of this kind, consequently the body of them have no definite knowledge of their virtues or lack of it, but soundly condemn them all without a trial. Such a course is manifestly absurd and unjust, and I, for one, propose to give my patients the best treatment known to me, for the particular disease with which they are suffering, no matter what it is, where or how obtained. I say, said Edgar, about indirectly, but the subtleties are very nice, too. My doctor—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I've called to see why you didn't attend sabbath school this morning? Are you ill, my lad?

Willie—Now, ain't I. Sister's got a bicycle and is out with my pants. Minards Liniment cures Dandruff. Customer—See here! all the buttons came off this coat the first time I wore it. Dealer—Yah. So many people admire that coat, you shew up mit pride and burst dose buttons off.

Goinsie—How many boys are there in that choir at your church? Basley—About seven. Goinsie—Why, I had an impression that it had forty or fifty members. Basley—It has, but you asked me how many voices.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for coughs and colds. Ask your druggist for Ayer's Almonds. Wife—What in the world do you want with a trombone? You know the man next door has driven us nearly wild by his performances on that awful instrument. Hubby—Calm yourself, my dear. That's the one I've bought.

Johnny called his mother, quit using that bad language. Why, replied the boy, Sakehears is a bad name. Well, replied the mother, growing infuriated, you should quit going with him—he's no companion for you.

Edwards Liniment relieves Neuralgia. When Don Pedro, of Brazil, was formed at the Philadelphia World's Fair that a certain engine made several hundred revolutions a minute, he said: "The South American republics can beat that. Which six rather clever, for Don Pedro."

Good-looking Young Girl—Will you do something for me, Mr. B. With pleasure, my dear Miss A. What is it? Well, I wish you would propose to me so that I may crow over my cousin. I promise I won't accept you.

Believes in often prostrated or accompanied by grayness of the hair. The present both business and grayness, use Hall's Hair Restorer. You are worth your weight in gold to me, darling, be reassured. Then do come home early, George, dear, she replied, wearily. I've lost ten pounds since we were married just sitting up late for you. We can't afford such extravagance.

Sir! That was the sound that he heard when he asked her for just one little kiss. Sir! There was so much emphasis to the sound that came from her pretty lips that he longed to have the ground open and swallow his timid self.

When she finished the word he at last realized that she was only a new woman somewhat given to slang. TAKE NOTICE. During the year the space devoted to advertising MINARD'S LINIMENT will contain expressions of no uncertain sound from people who speak from personal experience as to the merits of this best of household remedies.

C. O. RICHARDS & Co. Two girl friends met on the street and stopped to shake hands. So glad to see you, Grace, said the taller-made Alice. Was just on my way to ask you, as my oldest friend, to be one of my bridesmaids.

Bridesmaid! How lovely! I did not know you were engaged, replied the slender Grace. It's sudden, very sudden, but he's awfully in love, and is just too lovely to live. Will you accept? Act? Of course. I'll be charmed. But, moving forward and speaking in an undertone, do come round the corner and tell me all about it. There comes that idiotic, irrepressible donkey, Jim Bertou. He's grinning as though he meant to stop, and I don't care to be seen talking to him.

Jim Bertou! He's the man I'm going to marry. Great your indignation with E. D. O. the Great Checker.

Mr. Shipman, of Owen Sound—Seven Years' Acute Suffering, Diabetes. Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Owen Sound, Jan. 6 (Special)—Mr. Shipman tells his story in the hope that he may benefit others, and says—As the result of a tumble when a boy which injured my back, I have been troubled with weak kidneys all my life. For the past year I have been a great sufferer growing worse until a friendly druggist advised me to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Tests of the urine showed Diabetes and I realized my danger. I had found it impossible when tired to stand upright and at such times was drawn down sideways. In all I have used about one dozen boxes and am now hearty and healthy as ever in my life.

Oh, papa! said a Pittsburg little girl. Susie Geavell has subscribed for a magazine, and got such a beautiful picture—a yard of cats. Mayn't I subscribe, too? No, my dear, said papa kindly, yet firmly. I really weary you in the community is full of cats after dark, and I don't think we ought to add to the number.

Weary Watkins—My folks always told me I was cut out for a gentleman. Hungry Higgins—Maybe you was, partner, but of you was you sure being in the middle department.

Mr. Macquinn—And now wouldn't you like me for a Christmas present? Miss Alex—Certainly, if you'll hang yourself on the Christmas tree.

Scrap for Odd Moments.

Wife—I see that a comet is likely to come to the earth and kill us all. Husband—Well, I hope it comes before that side of mine is due.

First Post—Did you get a check for your poem that you read to me the other day? Second Post—No, my aspirations got a check.

Minards Liniment for sale everywhere. Young Wife—Mother says she wants to be cremated.

Young Husband—Tell her I'll get her on her things I'll take her there this morning.

In the counting-house of an Irishman the following notice is exhibited in a conspicuous place: Persons having no business in this office will please get it done as soon as possible.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla stops the nauseous discharges of catarrh, and cures the complaint. Oh, she exclaimed, as they stood on the balcony, don't you love the stars, Edgar?

Yes, said Edgar, about indirectly, but the subtleties are very nice, too. Rev. Minister—Mr. Willis, I've called to see why you didn't attend sabbath school this morning? Are you ill, my lad?

Willie—Now, ain't I. Sister's got a bicycle and is out with my pants. Minards Liniment cures Dandruff. Customer—See here! all the buttons came off this coat the first time I wore it. Dealer—Yah. So many people admire that coat, you shew up mit pride and burst dose buttons off.
