The Oats to be of the best quality, perfectly free from stones, dirt, weeds, &c., the growth either of the United States or British North America.

One moiety to be delivered into the Commissariat Magazine at each station at the Contractor's expense on or before the 1st April, 1854, and the remainder to be delivered between the months of July and September following, and will be subject to the approval of a Board of Officers, and must be warranted to keep sweet and good for six months from the period of issue, viz.—The first moiety from the 1st April, and the second delivery from the 1st October, 1854.

Offers may be sent in for each station separately, or for the whole command collectively, at the option of the Tenderer, and each tenderer must explain the rate in Sterling per 100 lbs. net weight, in figures and in words at length, at which it is proposed to supply the article, distinguishing whether the Oats are to be the produce of British North America or the United States, and the color and average weight per bushel to be stated.

Payment will be made by the Senior Commissariat Officer at Barbados (on the production of the usual receipts) in Bills at 30 days sight on the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury at par, if the sum be above £50, and if under, in Specie.

The Duties, both Queen's and Colonial, upon the importation of the Oats (Tonnage duty excepted) will be remitted to the Contractor at the period of importation.

The Tenders must be accompanied by a letter signed by two persons of known property engaging to become bound with the party tendering, in a sum not exceeding one-third of the value of the estimated quantity of Oats to be delivered.

The packages containing the Oats will be returned to the Contractor, after their contents have been used.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

THE UNPROTECTED.—The Funeral—Humble Trustfulness—A Whipping—A Change in the Establishment—An Appeal for Uncle Tom—Mrs. St. Clare's Principles.

We hear often of the distress of the negro servants on a loss of a kind master, and with good reason; for no creature on God's earth is left more utterly unprotected and desolate than the slave in these circumstances.

The child who has still the protection of friends and of the law; he is something, and can do something—has acknowledged rights and position; the slave has none. The law regards him, in every respect, as devoid of rights, as a bale of merchandise. The only possible acknowledgment of any of the longings and wants of a human and immortal creature which are given to him, comes to him through the sovereign and irresponsible will of his master; and when that master is stricken down nothing remains.

The number of those men who know how to use wholly irresponsible power humbly and generously is small. Everybody knows this, and the slave knows it best of all; so that he feels that there are ten chances of his finding an abusive and tyrannical master, to one of his finding a considerate and kind one. Therefore it is that the well over a kind master is loud and long, as well it may be.

When St. Clare breathed his last, terror and consternation took hold of all his household. He had been stricken down so in a moment, in the flower and strength of his youth! Every room and gallery of the house resounded with sobs and shrieks of despair.

Maria, whose nervous system had been enervated by a constant course of self-indulgence, had nothing to support the terror of the shock, and, at the time her husband breathed his last, was passing from one fainting fit to another; and he to whom she had been joined in the mysterious ties of marriage passed from her for ever, without the possibility of even a parting word.

Miss Ophelia, with characteristic strength and self-control, had remained with her husband to the last—all eyes, all ears, all attention, devoted to the thing of the little that could be done, and joining with her whole soul in the tender and impassioned prayers which the poor slave had poured forth for the soul of his dying master.

When they were arranging him for his last rest, they found upon his bosom a small, plain, miniature case, opening with a spring. It was the miniature of a noble and beautiful female face; and on the reverse, under a crystal, a lock of dark hair. They laid them back on the pillow, and heaved a sigh that was almost a sob.

Tom's whole soul was filled with thoughts of eternity; and while he ministered around the lifeless clay he did not once think that the stroke had left him in hopeless slavery. He felt at peace about his master; for in that hour when he had poured forth his prayer into the bosom of his Father, he had found an answer of quietness and assurance springing up within himself. In the depths of his own ecstatic nature he felt able to perceive something of the fulness of Divine love; for an old oracle hath thus written: "He that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him." Tom hoped and trusted, and was at peace.

It rose to the mind of Maria, as, dressed in loose mourning robes, and surrounded by anxious servants, she sat up in a great easy-chair, and inspected samples of crepe and bombazine. It rose to Miss Ophelia, who began to turn her thoughts towards her northern home. It rose, in silent terror to the minds of the servants, who well knew the unfeeling, tyrannical character of the mistress in whose hands they were left. All knew very well that the indulgences which had been accorded to them were not from their mistress, but from their master; and that, when he was gone, there would be no screen between them and every tyrannical infliction which a tender superior by affliction might devise.

It was about a fortnight after the funeral that Miss Ophelia, one day in her apartment, heard a heard a gentle tap at the door. She opened it, and there stood Rosa, the pretty young quadroon whom we have before often noticed, her hair in disorder, and her eyes swollen with crying.

"O Miss Feely," she said, falling on her knees, and catching the skirt of her dress, "do, do go to Miss Maria for me! do plead for me! She's going to send me out to be whipped—look there!" And she handed to Miss Ophelia a paper.

It was an order, written in Maria's delicate Italian hand, to the master of a whipping establishment, to give the bearer fifteen lashes.

"What have you been doing?" said Miss Ophelia.

"You know, Miss Feely, I've got such a bad temper; it's very bad of me. I was trying on Miss Maria's dress, and she slapped my face; and I spoke out before I thought, and was easy; and she said that she'd bring me down, and have me know;—and for all that I wasn't going to be so supping as I had been; and she wrote this, and says I shall carry it. I'd rather she'd kill me, right out."

Miss Ophelia stood considering, with the paper in her hand.

"You may, Miss Feely," said Rosa, "I don't mind the whipping so much, if Miss Maria or you were to do it; but to be sent to a man—and such a horrid man! the shame of it, Miss Feely!"

Miss Ophelia well knew that it was the universal custom to send women and young girls to whipping-posts;—and that the law of the man—men vile enough to make their profession—was to be subjected to brutal exposure and shameful correction. She had known it before; but hitherto she had never realized it, till she saw the slender form of Rosa cowering with distress. All the honest blood of liberty rushed to her cheeks; and she strobed bitterly in her indignant heart; but, with habitual prudence and self-control, she mastered herself, and crossing the paper firmly in her hand, she calmly said to Rosa:—

SHAMEFUL! MONSTROUS! OUTRAGEOUS!

"Shameful! monstrous! outrageous!" she said to herself, as she was crossing the paper.

"She found Maria sitting up in her easy-chair, with Mammy standing by her, combing her hair; and sat on the ground before her, busy in chafing her feet.

"How do you find yourself to-day?" said Miss Ophelia.

A deep sigh and a closing of the eyes was the only reply for a moment; and then Maria answered, "Oh! don't know, cousin; I suppose I'm as well as I ever shall be!" And Maria wiped her eyes with a cambric handkerchief, bordered with an inch deep of black.

"I came," said Miss Ophelia, with a short dry cough, such as commonly introduces a difficult subject,—"I came to speak with you about poor Rosa."

Maria's eyes were open wide enough now, and a flush rose to her pale cheeks, as she answered sharply, "What about her?"

"She is very sorry for her fault."

"She is, is she? She'd be sorer before I've done with her! I've endured that child's impudence long enough; and now I'll bring her down—I'll make her lie in the dust."

"But could not you punish her some other way, some way that would be less shameful?"

"I mean to shame her; that's just what I want. She has all her life pressed on her delicacy and her good looks, and her lady-like airs, as soon as another, if they don't mind her one lesson that will bring her down, I fancy!"

"But, cousin, consider that if you destroy delicacy and a sense of shame in a young girl, you deprave her very fast."

"Delicacy!" said Maria, with a scornful laugh; "a fine word for such as she! I'll teach her, with all her airs, that she's no better than the ragged black wench that walks the streets! She'll take no more airs with me!"

"You will answer to God for such cruelty," said Miss Ophelia, with energy.

"Cruelty! I'd like to know what the cruelty is! I wrote orders for only fifteen lashes, and told him to put them on lightly. I'm sure there's no cruelty there!"

"No cruelty!" said Miss Ophelia. "I'm sure any girl might rather be killed outright!"

"It might seem so to anybody with your feelings, but all these creatures get used to it! It's the only way they can be kept in order. Once let them feel that they are to take any airs about delicacy, and all that, and they'll run all over you, just as my servants always have. I've begun now to bring them down; and I'll have them all to know that I'll send one out to be whipped, as soon as another, if they don't mind themselves!" said Maria, looking around her disdainfully.

She hung her head and covered at this, for she felt as if it was particularly directed to herself; and for a moment, as if she had swallowed some explosive mixture, and were ready to burst. Then, recollecting the utter uselessness of contention with such a nature, she shut her lips resolutely, gathered herself up, and walked out of the room.

A few days after, Tom was standing musing by the balconies, when he was joined by Adolph, who, since the death of his master, had been entirely crest-fallen and disconsolate. Adolph knew that he had always been an object of dislike to Maria; but his master lived, he had paid but little attention to it. Now that he was gone, he had moved about in daily dread and trembling, not knowing what might befall him next. Maria had held several consultations with her lawyer. After communicating with St. Clare's brother, it was determined to sell the place and all the servants, except her own personal property, and these she intended to take with her, and go back to her father's plantation.

"Do you know, Tom, that we've all got to be sold?" said Adolph.

"How did you hear that?" said Tom.

"I hid myself behind the curtain when Miss Maria was talking with the lawyer. In a few days we shall all be sent off to auction. Tom, I'm sure, you'll be sold!" said Tom, folding his arms and sighing heavily.

"We'll never get another such a master," said Adolph, apprehensively; "but I'd rather be sold than take my chance under Miss!"

Tom turned away; his heart was full. The hope of liberty, the thought of distant wife and children, rose up before his patient soul, and he turned to the church-spire and loving roots of his native village, seen over the top of some black wave only for one last farewell.

He drew his arms tightly over his bosom, and choked back the bitter tears, and tried to pray. The poor old soul had such a singular, unaccountable prejudice in favour of liberty that he was a hard wrench for him; and the more he said "They will be sold," the more he felt.

SINGULAR MODE OF DUELLING.

It is said that when two Greenlanders quarrel they are accustomed immediately to appoint a time and place for combat, that they may be enabled to decide at once which is the better man. The battle is not fought with swords or pistols, or any deadly weapons; but is simply a singing or dancing combat; and he who has the loudest voice, or most nimble footed wins the victory, and is crowned amid the acclamations of admiring spectators. How much more sensible, if not so satisfactory, a mode of settling a dispute is this than the sanguinary one so frequently adopted among more enlightened nations by "men of honor."

Nothing elevates so much as the presence of a spirit similar, yet superior to our own.

General L. was one day at Indianapolis, in his speech after dinner, that he was "too full for attention."

AMERICAN BEAUTY.

AMERICAN BEAUTY.—There are two points which it is seldom equalled, never excelled—the classic chasteness and delicacy of the features, and the smallest, and exquisite symmetry of the extremities. In the latter respect particularly, the American ladies are singularly fortunate. I have seldom seen one, delicately brought up, who had not a fine hand. The feet are also generally very small and exquisitely moulded, particularly those of a Maryland girl; who, well aware of her attractiveness, has a thousand little coquettish ways of her own of temptingly exhibiting them. That in which the American women are most deficient is roundness of figure. But it is a mistake to suppose that well rounded forms are not to be found in America. Whilst this is the characteristic of English beauty, it is not so prominent a feature in America. In New England, in the mountainous districts of Pennsylvania and Maryland, and in the central valley of Virginia, the female form is, generally speaking as well rounded and developed as it is here; whilst a New England complexion is, nine cases out of ten, a match for an English one. This however cannot be said of the American women as a class. They are, in a majority of cases, over delicate and languid; a defect chiefly superinduced by their want of exercise. An English girl will go through as much exercise of a forenoon, without dreaming of fatigue, as an American will in a day, and be overcome by the exertion. It is also true that American is more evanescent than English beauty, particularly in the south, where it seems to fade ere it has well bloomed. But it is in much more lasting in the north and north-east; a remark which will apply to the whole region north of the Potomac, and east of the lakes; and I have known instances of Philadelphia beauty as lovely and enduring as any that our own happy climate can produce.—Mackay's Western World.

A correspondent of a San Francisco paper gives the following amusing account of a ball among the mountains of California. Just on the outskirts of this city a ball was held which passed off greatly to the satisfaction of those present. At this gathering there were all told, eleven ladies, and not more than a hundred gentlemen! It is currently reported that some of the gentlemen got two looks at a lady, though the most had to be satisfied with one, and even that was not obtained without great crowding. Those who got a chance of shaking a lady's hands have been shaking hands with their less fortunate comrades at two bits a shake! I do not vouch for the truth of this, as I have only heard it hinted. It reminds me of the early days of California, when it was said that a company of miners would get together and dance for joy about an old bonnet. But we hope for better days, and earnestly invite all the fair dancers who love gallant men and honest hearts, to come to Sonora.

Rev. George Trask of Fitchburg has addressed a very valuable letter to Deacon Grant of this city, relating to the use of tobacco among ladies, which has been laid upon our table, and also a neat and very appropriate medal. The medal represents on one side a boy in the act of tramping under foot the noxious weed with the pledge, "I will never use tobacco in any form." On the reverse are the words, "Tobacco leads to idleness, poverty, strong drink, vice, ill-death, insanity and death." It is very neatly got up. We fully sympathize with Mr. Trask in his movement against tobacco, and bid him God speed in his enterprise. The reform will progress.—Boston Life Boat.

We are glad to see that, but we feel that the reform should commence with the fathers, in order to be successful. Is not the habitual use of tobacco in any of its forms, just as much a violation of the Law of God, as the use of intoxicating liquors? How can christian men, (who are the light of the world,) satisfy their consciences, while they use this base narcotic, and set the example before the rising generation? We earnestly request you, reader, if you are a christian professor, to take this matter to your closet with you, and either relieve your conscience, or get a conscience according to truth.

THE OLDEST WOMAN IN THE WORLD. The Charleston Standard thinks that Mrs. Singleton now living in the Williamsburg district, in that State, is the oldest woman in the world. She is now 131 years of age. Her mental faculties are still unimpaired, and she retains all her senses except that of sight, of which she was deprived at the advanced age of 99 years, by an attack of measles. Her bodily energy exhibits no diminution for many years, she being still able to walk briskly about the room. She has outlived all her children, her oldest descendant, living, being a grand daughter, over sixty years old; the first grand daughter of this grand daughter, if now living, would be over 16 years of age.

She is now 131 years of age. Her mental faculties are still unimpaired, and she retains all her senses except that of sight, of which she was deprived at the advanced age of 99 years, by an attack of measles. Her bodily energy exhibits no diminution for many years, she being still able to walk briskly about the room. She has outlived all her children, her oldest descendant, living, being a grand daughter, over sixty years old; the first grand daughter of this grand daughter, if now living, would be over 16 years of age.

THE OLDEST WOMAN IN THE WORLD. The Charleston Standard thinks that Mrs. Singleton now living in the Williamsburg district, in that State, is the oldest woman in the world. Common, and I desire to assure you, that I am very anxious of the health of the people of this Colony...

HASZARD'S GAZETTE.

Saturday, June 4, 1853.

We publish below the Address adopted at the meeting of the inhabitants of Queen's County...

To the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty; The humble Petition of the Underaged Inhabitants of Queen's County...

We, your Majesty's dutiful subjects, the Inhabitants of Queen's County, in Prince Edward Island...

That should the intention of your Majesty's minister be carried into effect, and the Troops hitherto stationed at the Garrison of this Island be withdrawn...

That the insular position of this Colony, renders it most important, under any emergency, that prompt and effective assistance can be afforded during the winter season...

That the lands of the Island, at the period of its colonization, having been granted away to individuals...

The weakness of my own frame and constitution, disordered at birth, led me almost from infancy to improve, through life, a talent nature bestowed on me to relieve the sick and diseased...

For several years I have been acquainted with, and amply tested the powers of a vegetable production of P. E. Island, calculated to relieve and remove a large and varied amount of the many diseases which afflict humanity...

The use of Slicks, and generally failed, failed. At length, a glimpse of Eternity counteracted her great antipathy to my favourite medicine...

THE HORTICULTURIST, And Journal of Rural Art and Rural Taste. THE Subscriber, who has long been connected with Mr. BARRY, as one of the editors of the Genesee Farmer, has purchased the Horticulturist, so ably conducted by A. J. DOWLING, and after the conclusion of the present volume, it will be published at ROCHESTER, and Edited by P. BARRY, assisted by one of the best Horticulturists of the country, whose communications will materially add to the interest of the ARCHITECTURAL DEPARTMENT, which will be conducted by gentleness of ability and reputation.

To render the work accessible to a greater number, an abridgement of the present volume, the price reduced to TWO DOLLARS per year, in advance, and at the same time various improvements made. Each number will contain a full page engraving of some new, rare, and valuable fruit or flower, drawn from nature, and engraved in a style not excelled. Still further to add to the value of the work, and meet the improving taste and increasing wants of the horticultural community, we shall also publish an edition with COLORED PLATES, each number containing a full page engraving of some new, rare, and valuable fruit or flower, correctly colored from nature, by the best living artists in this line. This will be a new and important feature, in this country, and one which will be highly appreciated by all who are interested in the Horticulturist, as it is devoted entirely to Horticulture, and its kindred arts, Landscape Gardening and Rural Architecture, and will keep his readers advised of everything new on the subject, either in Europe or America.

It will be our aim not only to make the Horticulturist superior both in style and matter to any work of the kind in this country, but equal to any of the Horticultural Journals of Europe; and we cordially solicit the aid and co-operation of the Horticulturists of the country. The work is published monthly, and contains forty-eight large pages, without advertisements, stitched in a beautiful and appropriate cover. GEO. T. HASZARD, Agent for P. E. Island.

TERMS.—The Magazine may be obtained by Bookellers, Periodical Agents, or from the Publishers at THREE DOLLARS a year, or TWENTY-FIVE CENTS a Number. The Semi-annual Volumes, as completed, neatly bound in Cloth, are sold at Two Dollars each, and Media Covers are furnished to those who wish to have their Numbers uniformly bound, at Twenty-five Cents each. Six Volumes are now ready, bound. Specimens can be seen and subscriptions received at GEORGE T. HASZARD'S Bookstore.

THE Ladies of St. Joseph's Congregation intend holding a BAZAAR on THURSDAY, the 7th day of JULY next, in all of the funds of the Church—the chief object being to liquidate the debt upon it. The Temperance Hall has been secured for the purpose. Contributions in Materials, Work, &c. will be thankfully received by the following Ladies who form the Committee:— Mrs. ANDERSON, Mrs. FORDAN, Mrs. LYNARD, Mrs. McLEOD, Mrs. BAKERMAN, Mrs. FURDIE, Mrs. SUDGRASS, Mrs. WALKERMAN. Charlottetown, March 17, 1853.

Charlottetown Regatta Club. THE CHARLOTTETOWN REGATTA will take place on Tuesday, 22d AUGUST. Particulars made known in future advertisement. By order of the Club, CHARLES STEWART, Secretary. May 13, 1853.

Twelvrees Brothers' Soap Powder (an entirely new invention.) IS the cheapest, safest, best, and most efficacious article for all washing purposes, a packet of which is equal to ten Peppercorn Soap! The saving of Time and Labour is astonishingly great, that a WEEK'S WASHING can be accomplished BEFORE BREAKFAST—no rubbing being required. This wonderful article is MORE SERVICEABLE THAN SOAP, as it produces a better and much quicker lather, and is adapted for purposes for which Soap cannot be safely or effectually used. It will not injure the hands, or the most delicate material; but whilst it is incomparable for permanent whitening Linens, &c., after they have become discolored by age, or injured by bad Washing, it is also unsurpassable for improving the colors of FLANNELS, BLANKETS, WOOLLENS, COLORED PRINTS, MUSLIN and LACE. For Sale by GEO. T. HASZARD, Queen Square.

1853. New York Illustrated News. $3 per year. P. T. BARNUM, Special Partner; H. D. & A. E. BEACI, General Partners. THE ILLUSTRATED NEWS is published weekly, and contains sixteen large pages, filled with a great variety of interesting reading matter and numerous large and handsome engravings. It is intended that this paper shall be a FAITHFUL and BEAUTIFUL PICTORIAL HISTORY OF THE WORLD, in which scenes and events in this and other countries, sketches and views in all parts of the Globe, Portraits of Public Men, Scenes in our National Capitol, Autographs and Biographies of Eminent Characters, and all matters of general interest to the Community, will be found PROMPTLY ILLUSTRATED. Due attention will be paid to the RELIGIOUS, SCIENTIFIC, and AGRICULTURAL interests of the Country. A large and handsome engraving, of national interest, in view of a common preparation by the eminent artist F. O. Darley, and will be presented to subscribers. At the conclusion of each volume, a handsome title page and index will be gratuitously furnished by the publishers. The publishers will procure, at low rates, the uniform binding of the volumes, when desired. The "Illustrated News and Home Journal," will be supplied to mail subscribers one year for four dollars. On receipt of orders for back numbers which are on hand will be immediately sent, and missing numbers supplied as soon thereafter as possible. The back numbers of the first volume will be supplied, at the price of G. T. HASZARD, Agent for P. E. Island.

Leonard Scott & Co's. LIST OF British Periodical Publications. FORWARDED by mail, under the provisions of the late Post Office Law, at merely nominal rates. 1. The London Quarterly Review (Conservative). 2. The Edinburgh Review (Whig). 3. The Westminster Review (Free Church). 4. The Westminster Review (Liberal). 5. Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine (Tory). These Reprints have been in successful operation in this country for twenty years, and their circulation is constantly on the increase, notwithstanding the competition they encounter from American periodicals of a similar class, and from the numerous Electric and Magazine Presses up of selections from foreign periodicals. This fact shows clearly the high estimation in which they are held by the intelligent reading public, and affords a guarantee that they are established on a firm basis, and will be continued without interruption. Although these works are distinguished by the political shades above indicated, yet but a small portion of their contents is devoted to political subjects. It is their literary character which gives them their chief value, and in that they stand conspicuously above all other journals of their class. Blackwood, still under the masterly guidance of Christopher North, maintains its ancient celebrity, and is, at this time, unusually attractive, from the serial works of Bulwer and other literary notables, written for that magazine, and first appearing in its columns, both in Great Britain and in the United States. Such works as "The Castles" and "My New Novel" (both by Bulwer), "My Paganism Medal," "The Green Hand," and other serials, of which numerous rival editions are issued by the leading publishers in this country, have to be reprinted by these publishers from the pages of Blackwood, after it has been issued by Messrs. Scott and Co., so that subscribers to the Reprint of that Magazine may always rely on having the earliest reading of these fascinating tales. TERMS. For any two of the four Reviews, $3 00 For any three of the four Reviews, 4 00 For all four of the Reviews, 5 00 For Blackwood's Magazine, 3 00 For Blackwood and three Reviews, 9 00 For Blackwood and the four Reviews, 10 00 Payments to be made in full cases in advance. REMITTANCES. The following table will show the great reduction which has been made on these Periodicals since 1844, and the very trifling rates, now charged. Prior to 1844, the postage on Blackwood was $2 00 on a single Review 1 12 From 1845 to 1851, on Blackwood 1 00 on a Review 50 In 1851-52 (average rate) on Blackwood 75 on a Review 38 The present postage on Blackwood, is 33 on a Review 13 (The rates are now uniform for all distances within the United States.) At these rates early no objection should be made to receiving the works by mail, and thus ensuring their speedy sale, and regular delivery. THE HORTICULTURIST, And Journal of Rural Art and Rural Taste. THE Subscriber, who has long been connected with Mr. BARRY, as one of the editors of the Genesee Farmer, has purchased the Horticulturist, so ably conducted by A. J. DOWLING, and after the conclusion of the present volume, it will be published at ROCHESTER, and Edited by P. BARRY, assisted by one of the best Horticulturists of the country, whose communications will materially add to the interest of the ARCHITECTURAL DEPARTMENT, which will be conducted by gentleness of ability and reputation.

To render the work accessible to a greater number, an abridgement of the present volume, the price reduced to TWO DOLLARS per year, in advance, and at the same time various improvements made. Each number will contain a full page engraving of some new, rare, and valuable fruit or flower, drawn from nature, and engraved in a style not excelled. Still further to add to the value of the work, and meet the improving taste and increasing wants of the horticultural community, we shall also publish an edition with COLORED PLATES, each number containing a full page engraving of some new, rare, and valuable fruit or flower, correctly colored from nature, by the best living artists in this line. This will be a new and important feature, in this country, and one which will be highly appreciated by all who are interested in the Horticulturist, as it is devoted entirely to Horticulture, and its kindred arts, Landscape Gardening and Rural Architecture, and will keep his readers advised of everything new on the subject, either in Europe or America.

It will be our aim not only to make the Horticulturist superior both in style and matter to any work of the kind in this country, but equal to any of the Horticultural Journals of Europe; and we cordially solicit the aid and co-operation of the Horticulturists of the country. The work is published monthly, and contains forty-eight large pages, without advertisements, stitched in a beautiful and appropriate cover. GEO. T. HASZARD, Agent for P. E. Island.
