on the sly and—he was an insidious young scoundrel-bolted with him. They were both very young, and we all hoped that the marriage would not turn out as badly as we expected; but before the girl Rachel was born her father was arrested and convicted at the Old Bailey: I forget what it was: s.s. Ryhope forgery or burglary or coining. However, Mrs. Farren's daughter came home when her precious husband went to prison, and she died here, in

'No: her grandmother was completely prostrated by her daughter's death; not only lost her sight, which had been failing for some years past, but her memory. The earl sent the child away to some people in London, and she is with them now, I think. 'She is at a training-school for gov erness,' said Sidney.

The old lawyer glanced at him with faint surprise. 'Yes; I remember. You had some

'Oh, I don't know,' said Sidney, indifferently. 'What became of her father?'

Mr. Oldham shrugged his should-

'I haven't the least idea. I don' even know how long his sentence was he may be in prison still. I believe he has never turned up since his conviction. Dead, probably. Of course, he added, quickly, and with a little emphasis, 'the girl does not know that her father was a convict. Indeed, I should imagine most persons have forgotten the whole business. Y this time, the fact that Mr. Oldham was standing talking to a young gentleman who had driven in from the castle had driven in from the castle had spread up and down High Street, and the tradespeople were peering out of their shop-windows, or coming, in an apparently casual way, to their doors to look at the newcomer. It is won derful how quickly news spreads in a country town, and nearly all Starborugh had heard the rumour that the heir to the title and the earl's vast wealth had arrived at the castle; and all unconsciously Sidney Bassington was the mark for a battery of curious

He was invited into the manager's room, offered sherry and biscuits, after he had signed the big ledger, and was bowed out with a state and ceremony which filled him with elation, even while it made him uncomfortable and ill at ease.

From the bank he went to the ailor's, where he was received with even greater deference and obsequiousness by the principal, while a cople of assistants stood a little aside in attendance.

Sidney Bassington ordered some clothes, remarked that he wanted hem at once, then hesitated and look round rather awkwardly and said. with a hauteur which he hoped would conceal his shyness:

' Have you-a-I want a dress-suit by to-night. I have left mine in Lonlon by mistake-The tailor explained that he did

Previous to this time the Manhat tan, owned by the same company held the world's halibut catch record having come into port a year ago last summer with a catch of 339,009 pounds, 60,000 pounds of which were loaded on deck. Of the Kingfisher's cargo 300,000 pounds will be actual fish, while the other 100,000 pounds will be made up of the ice and boxes ikan are packed. On account of this immense cargo on the small steamer it is expected that the Kingfisher will be lying as low in the water upon her arrival as she would dare.

Because of the unusual record Manager Hager has issued a cordial invitation to all residents of this city who desire to visit the company's dock at Gore Avenue on Saturday afternoon between the hours of 2 and o'clock in the afternoon and see the Kingfisher's cargo discharged. The halibut is shipped in refrigerator cars to New York, Boston and other Atlantic Coast cities, and the fishery is carried on throughout the year with great success .- Vancouver World, Feb. 24, 1910,

Afraid of Ghosts

Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. Yet the ghost is a fancy and the germ is a fact. If the germ could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would appear more terrible than any fire-breathing dragon. Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, the water we drink.

The germ can only prosper when the condition of the system gives it free scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a deficiency of vital force, languor, restlessness, a sallow cheek, a hollow eye, when the appetite is poor and the sleep is broken, it is time to guard against the germ. You can fortify the body against all germs by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the vital power, cleanses the system of clogging impurities, enriches the blood, puts the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in working condition, so that the germ finds no weak or tainted spot in which to breed. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients printed on its outside wrapper. It is not a secret nostrum but a medicine of known COMPOSITION and with a record of 40 years of cures. Accept no substitute—there is nothing "just as good." Ask your neighbors.

After Mr. Clapp had made these ra marks the Premier attempted to break their force by making a speech, but utterly failed. Both Capt. Winsor and the Premier forgot to draw the attention of the House to the names of the petitions.

Mr. Kent-If the petition had been presented to the House by the hon. member from Bonavista, Captain Winsor, had emanated from others than the people of Bonne Bay he considered it an interested attempt to deceive the people of the Colony upon the subject of the vote recently taken in this House on the Resolu tions relating to railway construction. It was an attempt to make the people of Bonne Bay believe that Mr. Clapp had voted against the construction of a branch line of railway from the main line to Bonne Bay This was not the case. There was no such proposition before the House. There was no such vote taken in the House. The resolutions had involved a large expenditure upon the Colony branch lines, involving an increase ir the obligations of the Colony by way $6,000,000. Mr. Clapp had over and over again made it distinctly clear Bay as a developing railway which construction of such a branch line h would have supported it with all the force he could command. were developing lines, whilst he was not prepared to accept the immense burden which five branch lines would impose on the Colony. There was another radical objection to the Re-

tract which was not in the interests of the country but would be ruinous to the Colony. Even if a person was in favor of the construction of all the Lecture at St. Bon's.

Sir William Vaughan who established a colony on the Southern Coast of Newfoundland, in 1617, was the subject of Mr. M. W. Furlong's Golden Fleece in the beginning of the 17th century was in Mr. Furlong's opinion "The Poet who would King," as his Sovereign, James the 1st, was the King who would be poet. There was a large audience present Archbishop Howley, Sir E. P. Morris,

J. P. Howley, Hon. J. Harris and T. J. Edens and Rev. J. Roe. The lecturer dwelt on the early attempts to establish colonies in Newfoundland and showed that they mainly originated with Oxford men, dreamy believers in the possibilities of the golden west as ever were Jasson and the Argonauts in the palmy days of Grecian adventures. Vaughan, Carey, Mason, Guy, Raleigh and Calvert were all men of poetic temperament, chivalrous and romantic as well as nautical and piratical Vaughan who received his charter from James the author of the "Gaberlunzie Man" and many other popular poems of the day, in 1616 came to Newfoundland and settled, Mr. Furlong thinks at Renews and not at Tr passey as Judge Prowse says. urlong thinks, too, that Chance Co Vaughan's Cove, or Cambriol Colchos and Golden Grove, named for hi home in Carmarthen, Wales. William Vaughan did his best like Whitbourne to make the merits of this country known to the people of England. He published his "Camorensium Caroleia" in 1625 and his Golden Fleece" in 1626. In the first mentioned work Sir William gives an interesting account of Newfoundland and the possible resources. For want i means Sir William Vaughan a few ears after was obliged to sell out part of his grant to Lord Baltimore and Lord Falkenberg. Shortly after ais name disappeared from the re cords in connection with the colonication of Newfoundland. The Great Strike.

Editor Evening Telegram.

PHILADELPHIA, March 7. To-day was the most peaceful one during the strike. A minor demon stration following a big meeting of the workmen in the Lyceum to-day was attended by some disorder and stoning of cars, but the police quickly quelled the disturbance. To-night there was absolute quiet. According to the police reports from all parts of the city up to a late hour there was every indication that the night would pass without any outbreaks of any sort worth mentioning. At the Lyceum meeting there was much enthusiasm and in addressing Labor leaders expressed their confidence, that the strike was fast being won, and urged the men to stand fast for the victory that was in sight.

Should the Franchise be Granted to Women?

The Cochrane Athletic Association will meet this evening to debate the question "Should the franchise be granted to women?" This has become a burning question especially in the Old Country, and great interest will be taken in this debate. The lady friends of the Association will be heartily welcomed and probably cheered. At 7.45, previous to the debate, the half hour service for young men will be held. This meeting is growing in interest and the attendance is on the increase. All young men whether members or non-members of the Association are cordially invited. Our aim is: "Mens sana in cernore sano,"-Com.

I refer to the late Doctors Carson and Crowdy, Miss Cowan and the present Dr. Shea.

Now, Mr. Editor, I would like to ask those responsible for this dedication why the memory of the late Dr. Renouf, who for a quarter of a century in conjunction with the late Dr. Crowdy was attached to the institution, does not share in the perpetuity accorded to the other Hospital doc-

There are now very few amongst us who can recollect the lithe, active, form of Dr. Renouf for many years the Coroner of the city, and fewer still, who remember his superhuman efforts in the cholera sodden district of Taraban's Town during that awful visitation. Yet is seems remiss that his name and his fame should have no place at the side of his brother

I think, Mr. Editor, that the Cowan Ward is superfluous, as the noble work of Agnes Cowan will be ever kept green by the devoted ladies of the "Cowan Mission" and that the memory of Dr. Renouf's long medical career in his native city, extending over nearly half a century, should be perpetuated by having one of the Wards of the General Hospital named

DAINTY FOOD

Turns Pale Cheeks to Rink.

Our best physicians of the present day seek to cure patients by the use of food, rather than heavy drugs, and this is the true method, for all physicians agree that only from food can the body be rebuilt.

Many people fail to give their physicians credit, for after living on poorly selected or badly cooked food for a long time, perhaps, and when their ailments become chronic, they expect the Doctor, with some magic otency, to instantly rebuild them. This is not possible. The only rue method is to turn as quickly as can be, from poor food to good. A young lady over in Ohio says: "I was variously treated for my nerves, muscles, lungs, etc., but none of the treatments gave me relief.

"About a year ago my appetite failed completely and I began to have sinking spells similar to fainting, then I took all manner of tonics and stimulants, but they were of no effect. I had been brought to quit drinking coffee and taking Postum in its place, and gradually began to get a little better.

"Someone suggested that if I found Postum so beneficial I had better use Grape-Nuts food, as they were both the children of one brain. I comnienced on Grape-Nuts food for breakast, having Postum with it. I found the food so dainty, delicious, and appetizing that I always looked forward breakfast with pleasure.

"Shortly after commencing this diet, the wretched pain in my side was greatly relieved, and now, a year later, it has gone entirely, also the sinking spells; in fact, my pale gained back more than the twenty n every way."

On Telegraphic Communication, Steam Transit and Roads and Ferries in the District of Saint

Barbe.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,-In the Governor's Speech from the Throne at the opening of the House telegraph extension in the District of St. Barbe was foreshadowed. Telegraph extension was begun during Sir R. Bond's regime, and offices were established at LaScie, Western Cove and Seal Cove, which proved to be of immense benefit to these places. The late Premier had promised me that development would go on in that direction, should he come back to power; and the leader of the present Government would only be carrying out a work that had been initiated by his predecessor in office. I would suggest wireless stations on the north-east coast in the neighbourhood of Quirpon, or St. Anthony Head. The land wires will have to go to Quirpon as this is a port for vessels from Green Bay, Bonavista Bay, Trinity Bay and other places when on their way to the Labrador Besides some 100 families fish out o Quirpon, and a telegraph station would consequently be of immense importance to the fishermen there. I might add that a wireless station a Quirpon would bring the owners of craft-harbouring at Quirpon from the different places above mentioned into communication with wireless stations at the Labrador before proceeding on their voyage there. Telegraph stations at other points along the north-east coast would greatly conas they would be brought into direct culd telegraph for provisions, fish ing gear, etc.; again, what is most mportant, a storm might sweep the coast, which has happened more than The same thing applies to the northwest part of the District, and I trust that this work will be begun at as

Festival of Empire and Pageant of London

SOME STRIKING FEATURES.

A captive monoplane-not an airship -promises to be one of the most attractive of the "side shows" now being prepared for the Great Festival Empire, to be held at the Crystal

Apart from the Pageant of London (15,0000 performers), which is to be the central feature of the Festival, the organisers have arranged for a programme of entertainment in the Palace and grounds, the like of which has probably never before been at-

The captive monoplane is the invention of an Australian, with whom negotiations are now proceeding, and in its flight it comprises everything that is meant by that hackneyed term, "thrilling." For three minutes or so the "aviators"-the monoplane can carry a number of passengers-will fly through the air, soaring and dipping in the manner of a bird.

The list of entertainments that fol lows affords some idea of the scope of the Festival, and it should be understood that the list is in nowise complete:-

The interior of the Crystal Palace will be artistically decorated and the lighting scheme considerably augniented. The whole of the famous statuary in the building has been rearranged and catalogued under the supervision of Sir George Frampton,

The organisers of the Festival of Empire have just completed elaborate arrangements with the London and Brighton and the South-Eastern and Chatham Railway authorities. As a result it will be possible to dispatch many thousands of passengers from the female organs, and could not stand or walk any distance. At last I was confined to my bed, and the doctor said I would have to go through an operation, but this I refused to do. A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now, after using three bottles of it, I feel like a new woman. I most heartly recommend this medicine to all women who suffer with female troubles. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills and think they are fine."—Mrs. Frank Emsley. Lindsay, Ontario.

We cannot understand why women will take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, without first trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

Paul's, and Charing Cross every hour. A railway official said to a Press representative vesterday: "T h e scheme which has been formulated by the Festival Council and the railway companies serving the Crystal Palace near the world-famed Palace is to the heart of London. "The time occupied in running be-

is such that the majority of Londoners will be astonished to find how

tween Victoria and the Crystal Palace

will be about 15 minutes. "There will be no need for an intending passenger to study timetables. The service of trains will be so frequent that he can walk on to the platform any time and be almost certain to catch a train going to the Crystal Palace. By the railway compenies' arrangement with the Council of the Festival, a passenger can travel from London to the Crystal Palace, see the exhibition, and return for 1s. 6d. For the payment of another 1s. he will be able to see the great Pageant."

The booking arrangements made by the Council afford some idea of the magnitude of the Festival of Empire. The central booking office at Festival Offices, 49 St. James's Street, will be opened on February 21, and tickets will be available at every booking agency in the kingdom. The chief booking offices in London will be connected with the central office by private telephone. The number of reserved seats for the Pageant during the Festival total half a million. In addition, there will be reserved seats for the theatre matinees and for the Empire Concerts; and seating capacity of the great orchestra is 7,000. Altogether the Festival organisers are prepared to deal with an attendance daily, of 250,000 persons.

FEARED PARALYSIS.

Mr. F. A. Krutz, Schwartz, Que., writes: "For one year I was a complete nervous wreck, could not rest or sleep, had indigestion and terrible headaches and consequently feared paralysis. Six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food made me well and strong. There is no treatment in the world so good as this for building up the nerous system.'

Famous Solicitor Retires From Business

Sir George Lewis Leaves Law Firm. of Which He Was the Head.

Sir George Lewis has retired from hat notable firm of solicitors, of which he has been the head for so many years, but, says the Manchester Guardian, Lewis and Lewis will still go on in the old style with Mr. George Lewis as its head. As a matter of fact "Mr. George," as he is called in the office, has taken the main part of the work for the past year or two. The office in Ely Place, a quiet and somnolent backwater of Holborn. is ostentatiously reticent. There is no display about it. It might be the Georgian residence of some city magnate with its old-fashioned front door and a certain air of dinginess about the place. Inside all is quiet and formal. There is a sort of little wicket behind which stands an impressive looking gentleman whose manner is as elegant as his frock coat. He is the major-domo. There is no rush or scramble about the business. Your name is written on a little slip of paper, and a young man with an Oxford accent carries it upstairs, and presently you are ushered through : mysterious passage and up into : somewhat dingy waiting-room, where another young man with a Cambridge accent gazes midly at you over the works of a typewriter and says pleas ant things to pass away the time while Sir George or Mr. George is dealing with another caller inside. A little bell rings, and you are the next to the presence. It is a big room, the presence chamber. And here morning at a big Sheraton desk, with his fur nificently over the back of its own particular armchair, his umbrella leaning on one arm of the chair, and his silk hat, brim upwards, on the Turkey carpet. Then Sir George. leaning back, of course, with his thin finger-tips pressed together, would talk pleasantly and wisely. He invariably took the gloomiest side of your case, picking out holes in it and flaws and pitfalls at the outset until you felt wretched and sorry you had ever come. Then he would suddenly swing round on his revolving chair, and in a few illuminating phrases show you the other side, how the October 30, 1909, p. 167) gold, silver, and nickel. seme interesting information from the pen of Mr. Brenton Symons, M.I.C tures of Newfoundland, Mr. Symons has but lately returned to England, and in the course of an interview with one of our representatives afforded much additional information on the terprise." commercial position of the prospects

In answer to a question as to his experience in the island, Mr. Symons said: "I have resided in the Colony about three years, and have been engaged principally in prospecting and developing ore deposits, and have thus enjoyed favourable opportunities of making myself acquainted with its Lately an important lode has been industrial potentialities."

"What is the position at the pres-

"Well, putting aside the staple in lustry of fishing, scant attention has been betsowed on the development of the island, such as metallic minerals. coal, oil, &c. Within the last four years, however, there has arisen quite a furore to obtain concessions for the purpose of pulping the inexhaustible spruce forests of the inter ior, and several important companies have been formed for pulping and paper-making. Many millions of dollars have been invested in this single industry, which evinces unmistakable signs of success. If money were exnended as generously in opening up the mineral deposits, which have long awaited the quickening pick of the miner, the wealth and progress of the country would rapidly increase, and a more active and flourishing community succeed."

"There are the iron mines of Bell sland, near St. John's, which have an annual output of more than a million tons of excellent hematite ore, which is exported to Sydney, N.S., and to Germany, and there is an admitted profit of over a dollar per ton. The seams are intercalated in Cambrian slates, and are so favourably situated for economic exploitation that the cost f.o.b. is less than 1s. 6d. per ton. Yet, notwithstanding this brilliant success, other hematite beds in the Cambrian, as well as extensive magnetic deposits in the Archaean, reniain untouched for want of capital "Which do you believe are the

On the northern shore of Green Bay several rich mines have been worked, and have given good profits, notably Tilt Cove mine, which has paid large dividends for many years. The outcrops cf copper ores in Green Bay and Notre Dame Bay are very numerous; but, although the indications have been extremely promising, rarely has any important sum been spent. All the mines that have been worked, and all the ores that are known, are situate immediately on the coasts. and as the copper-bearing rocks known as the Quebec Formationprolong themselves for a hundred and fifty miles into the interior, there are immense areas awaiting the prospector. The copper-producing strata extend for hundreds of miles along the west coast of the island; numberless outcrops of ore are known, many of which hold out sufficient promise to justify a moderate expenditure to test their continuance in depth. The only large copper mine working on the west coast is on the south shore of Bay of Islands. An inclined shaft has been sunk to a depth of 364 ft., very complete machinery has been put up, and a remarkably fine loading stage built. Many of the copper ores

Antimony has been extracted from a mine in Morton's Harbour in Notre Dame Bay; and near Kelligrews, in Conception Bay is a manganese lode from which 3,000 tons of ore have been taken. At Filley's Island cupreous pyrites was successfully worked for many years, but a severe fall in the price of sulphur per unit has caused its suspen-

As the gold lodes of Newfoundland are in all probability enclosed in the same Silurian strata as the gold measures of Nova Scotia, one can certainly believe that gold must exist wherever their basset edges come to the surface. "In addition to the precious metals, there are immense deposits of high quality chromite in the interior, but very little has been done to open them. There is a large mass of this ore near the coast of Bay St. George, from which some thousands of tons of ore have been exported. The excellence of these chrome ores will one day induce capitalists to exploit them.

"We have heard something lately bout Newfoundland coal. Have workable deposits been found?"

"There is no doubt in the minds hose who have been engaged in prospecting the coal measures that some of the seams can be worked with very profitable results. The carboniferous series of strata, extending over thousands of miles, is believed by geologists to be synchronous with the same formation at Sydney, N.S., where coal as been raised and exported in considerable quantities for more than a quarter of a century. The coal measures stretch across the island in a broad, interrupted belt from Portaux-Basques to White Bay, and up to he present the Government, by pits and borings, have prospected three basins, within which nine seams of coal have been proved to exist. The principal basin appears to be at Grand Lake, on the Reid-Newfound-'and Railway, and here workable seams have been intersected by the borings. Many thousands of tons have been utilised by the locomotives of the Reid-Newfoundland Railway, and the St. John's Gas Company have demonstrated the merchantable quality of the coal. At present the various industries of the Colony import their coal from Sydney, paying a duty of 4s. 2d. per ton, so that the opening up of collieries would give rise to the employment of a great number of workmen, furnish a cheaper fuel, and keep the money now expended abroad in the country.

Besides coal, however, there are strong indications of oil for at least a hundred and fifty miles along the western shores, but boreholes only have been sunk at an inlet from the Gulf of St. Lawrence known as Parson's Pond. Here a number of bores have intersected the Lower Silurian beds, one reaching a depth of 1,535 ft.; but owing to the deficiency of capital the operations were so desultory, and so inexpertly handled, that most of the wells were more or less damaged. It is believed by geologists oped. Analyses have proved the oil f'With the use of this medicine, I to be a crude petroleum of excellent soon found relief. HOW CAN WE COUNTER-ACT

THE INCREASED COST OF LIVING?

A second's reasoning will supply the answer. Beef and pork are dear and getting dearer all the time, and the cost is out of proportion with their food-

EAT MORE BREAD

There is more nourishment in a shilling's worth of bread than a shilling's worth of beef or pork. But the problem is not done with yet. The shilling's worth of bread is not always the same value. Breadmade from contains more nourishment than any other, because it contains the greatest amount of gluten, the health-giving nutriment of wheat.
