The Romance of Two Loyal Hearts!

CHAPTER XXVI.
In great distress and uncertainty Nita returned to Cara, who received the news almost apathetically.
"We can't stop here, signorina," said Nita. "It is one of the first places the Count will come to when he misses us. We must go away from the docks and hide somewhere."
Cara rose, with a pain and a difficulty which she strove to conceal. They left the docks, and, striking the road to Monte Carlo, walked along it for some little distance before Nita noticed that Cara was limping. She stopped at once, crying:
"Oh, signorina, you are hurt! You are lame! What is it?"
"I think I have hurt my foot, Nita," said Cara, as casually and cheerfully as she could. "I must have slipped as I came down the road; but I am not in very much pain, and I can walk for some distance yet. Do not be alarmed. I am very sorry!"
They struggled on for another half a mile, and reached the outskirts of the town, before Cara was compelled to own herself vanquished by the pain which had become almost intolerable. She sank down on one of the seats, and set her teeth hard.
"I must wait a little while, Nita," she said; "it will be better directly."
Nita knelt down and examined the injured foot; it was badly sprained, and the ankle was swollen and inflamed. She saw at once that her mistress could walk no farther, and that at any moment the Count might overtake them! She rose, wringing her hands, and uttering little faint cries of pity and consternation, while Cara endeavored to soothe and encourage her.
"You shall leave me here, Nita," she said. "They can but take me back; they cannot do me any harm, force me to—do anything against my will."
"I will never leave you, signorina," the girl declared fervently, still wringing her hands, and with the tears running down her cheeks.
At this moment a carriage approached, coming from Monte Carlo. A small and extremely beautiful lady was its sole occupant; she leaned forward curiously and eyed the two girls, and, when she came abreast of them, she called to the coachman to stop, and alighted and went up to them.
"What is the matter?" she asked.
At the sound of an English voice Cara raised her pale face; and Nita exclaimed with relief and joy:
"Oh, madam, it is my young mistress! She is in danger—I mean, she has hurt her foot, is in great pain. Oh, pray help us!"
"Certainly I will," said the Princess, all sympathy, as she regarded with surprise and admiration Cara's beautiful pain-stricken face. "I suppose you came out for the fresh morning air, like myself?" she said. "What is it—a sprain? Ah, yes; and a bad one, I fear! Have you far to go? Where are you going?"

"To Monte Carlo, madame," said Nita, quickly, before Cara could speak.

"Then I can help you quite easily," said the Princess to Cara. "Lean on both of us—take care not to put your foot to the ground!—and we will get you into the carriage."

They got her to the carriage, and Cara dropped back against the cushion, and her eyes closed.

"She has fainted," cried Nita. "And little wonder! Oh, madam, if you only knew! My dear mistress is in great trouble. She is flying from a very wicked man. She is an angel, an angel from heaven, and you must help me to save her!"

"Of course I will!" responded the Princess, much excited. "Tell me all about it—no, your mistress shall tell me later on. Have you any place to which to go?" Nita shook her head despairingly. "No matter! You shall come to my hotel; your mistress shall have every care. How beautiful she is—and how young! She is Italian? What is her name? Never mind!"

As Nita hesitated, "She will tell herself. She is recovering; do not speak to her; let her rest; raise her foot on the opposite seat; and be calm my girl. Nothing, no one, shall harm either of you."

She held Cara's hand, and murmured words of sympathy; and in this way they drove to the Eagle. The Princess had Cara taken up to the Princess's own room, a doctor was sent for, and Cara received every attention. She was still so weak, suffering so much from the reaction, that she was scarcely conscious. The Princess sat beside her for some little time; then, thinking it well to seek the assistance of some one of the sterner and stronger sex, she went out, intending to cross to the Paris and inquire for Ronald.

When, after awhile, he went into the next room, he found the Princess waiting for him. She had recovered from the cruellest blow that Fate had ever dealt her; or, if not recovered, had called to her aid all a woman's powers of endurance, and infinite capacity of suffering in secret and in silence. The face she turned to him was pale enough and set; she even forced a smile, though no pen can tell what that smile cost her. The man she had loved, worshipped, was lost to her for ever, beloved heart and soul to another woman.

"She is better, stronger already,"

She had got half across the square when a fly drove up at a rapid pace, and Ronald himself got out. Calling out his name, she hastened to him, then stopped aghast startled by his appearance; for he was as white as death, his clothes were torn and stained, there was a cut on his face, his hands were smeared with blood. Before she could give expression to her consternation and terror, he seized her by the arm and said hoarsely: "Princess! Oh, I am glad! You must help me! I am in great trouble!"

He struggled for breath, and, in the pause, she led him aside, and, still holding him, gasped:

"Oh, Ronald! what is it? Are you hurt?—there is blood on your face and your hands—!" She shuddered, and looked as if she were going to faint, but she mastered herself.

"Tell me—tell me quick, Ronald! You are wounded?"

"No, no!" he said impatiently. "I am not hurt in the least. But my man—poor Smithers—he is badly hurt, perhaps dying. It was at the Villa—the Count's. The girl—we went to rescue her—I know her; she is the girl I love, the girl I want to marry—!"

He did not notice that her hand had dropped from his arm, that she had shrunk back, her face white to the lips, her eyes filled with agony.

"It's too long a story to tell you; I can't wait; every moment is precious! She had escaped, she and her maid, before we got to the Villa. The Count—I mean, Raven, her father—stabbed Smithers and got away. I don't know where Cara has gone. I had hoped that she had gone to the yacht; but I cannot find her! I am going to the hotel—to get Brandon and Clemson to help me. The police may be here any moment—I may be arrested; she will be helpless; no one to protect her! If I find her, will you be her friend? For God's sake, take woman's pity on her—and on me, Princess! If I lose her—!"

He turned away with a groan.

The Princess had sunk upon a seat; her clasped hands writhed in her lap; her head was bent, so that he could not see her face. A terrible struggle was going on within her. The girl she had befriended was the sweetest, with a love, a passion, which tore at her heart-strings. What should she do? It would be easy to send him on a false scent, to hide the girl, perhaps to separate them. She was sorely tempted, her love cried out to her to yield; she raised her eyes, dim with anguish, and glanced at him; and love—the higher, purer, truer love—conquered.

She rose, and, with averted face, said slowly, as if every word cost her pain:

"I will help you, Ronald. I have, all unconsciously, helped you already. You have no need to express in words; and she met his gaze with a look which, though she tried to mask it, would have told him all, would have revealed her secret, if he had not been too absorbed in thinking of Cara to heed it.

He wrung her hand, looking into her eyes with the gratitude which men find it so hard to express in words; and she met his gaze with a look which, though she tried to mask it, would have told him all, would have revealed her secret, if he had not been too absorbed in thinking of Cara to heed it.

In less than half an hour Cara was carried down by him to the carriage. They had already taken leave of each other alone; but Cara clung to him for a moment; and the Princess had to look on with a white face while the lovers kissed each other. Immediately the carriage had started, Ronald drove to the Villa. He found the police there.

Now, as is well known, there is nothing Monte Carlo detests so much as a row of any kind, and, when one occurs, the first thing the authorities do is to hush it up. It is popularly supposed that a certain number of suicides take place every year in this earthly paradise of the weak, the foolish, the vicious; but the authorities of Monte Carlo strenuously deny the truth of such rumors. If a man is found lying dead in the gardens outside the gambling-saloon, with a pistol in his hand, it is officially stated that the revolver had gone off by accident while the unfortunate owner was casually examining it. If a ruined gamester is found dead in one of the rooms of an hotel, with a bottle of poison beside him, the authorities are able to prove that he died from taking an overdose of a sleeping-draught.

Ode to President Wilson

In Der Tag (The Day), the illustrated daily supplement of the Government-controlled Lokal-Anzeiger, the prevailing hostility to the United States is voiced in a bit of rhyme entitled "Wilson," of which the following is a rough translation:—

How you roar your wild oration!
How splendid is your cause!
How you shriek and foam damnation—
Words the winds at once disperse!

Must we stifle blood by reason?
Germans in an alien strand,
Must we meekly count it treason
To assail the Fatherland?

German souls you seek to bride
In the shackles that we spurn,
You would hold us mute and idle
Fiddling while our camp fires burn.

Ruddy shame would flood our faces
Did we suffer all such slurs,
Fools may talk in "neutral" places;
Were we silent, we were curs.

he said, still agitatedly. "Her heart is full of gratitude to you, Princess. As for me—ah, well! I can't tell you, never shall be able to tell you—! And now what is to be done? I seem scarcely able to think—"

"I have been thinking for you, Ronald," she said very quietly. "She must be taken away to England—"

"Yes," he broke in eagerly, but despairingly. "But how?"

"By the yacht," she said.

"But I can't go!" he exclaimed. "I can't leave poor Smithers. She can't go alone—"

"I know," said the Princess, with a quiver of her lips, a droop of her eyelids. "I will take her. No; don't thank me," she went on quickly, breathlessly, as he strove to break in with words of gratitude. "It is very little to do for you, I would do much more, much more, for you—and for her—than this, Ronnie."

He gave up the idea of attempting to thank her.

"I will have a closed carriage for you; you shall go to the yacht at once. I will write an order to the captain to sail immediately. If possible, I will join you at Marseilles, but I can say nothing about that; all depends on Smithers—if we can move him!"

"I know," she said. "I will go up to her and get her ready."

He nodded.

"I have said good-bye," he said in a low voice, his face averted. "You will take care of her? But I know you will. You have proved yourself a true friend to me, Princess; we shall never forget it. Good-bye! I must go to that poor fellow, and face the music, whatever it may be."

He wrung her hand, looking into her eyes with the gratitude which men find it so hard to express in words; and she met his gaze with a look which, though she tried to mask it, would have told him all, would have revealed her secret, if he had not been too absorbed in thinking of Cara to heed it.

A report that German cavalry has been seen just north of the Greek frontier is forwarded in a despatch to the Havas Agency, filed yesterday at Athens. The Serbian Minister to Greece has left Athens for Salonika to confer with King Peter.

SAILED FROM SALONIKA.

LONDON, Jan. 3.

A message from Athens to the Reuters Telegram Company says that the French battleship Patrie, captured from Salonika, having on board the German, Austrian, Turkish and Bulgarian Consuls at Salonika, who were arrested last week by order of General Sarrail, the French Commander. The protest made by Greece to the Entente Powers against the arrest of the Consuls dwells on the fact that even the Greek Government was not advised in advance of the decision to take such a drastic step. At a meeting of the Council in Athens, on Friday, Premier Skoufoulis laid before his colleagues the protest made collectively by the Austrian, German, Turkish and Bulgarian Ministers, and How to Have the Best Cough Remedy and Save 22 by Making it at Home.

Cough medicines, as a rule, contain a large quantity of plain syrup. Two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, stirred for 2 minutes gives you as good syrup as money can buy.

Then get from your druggist 2 1/2 ounces Pinex (50 cents worth), pour into a 16-ounce bottle and fill the bottle with sugar syrup. This gives you, at a cost of only 54 cents, 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50—a clear saving of nearly 82. Full directions with Pinex. It keeps perfectly and tastes good.

It takes hold of the usual cough or chest cold at once and conquers it in 24 hours. Splendid for whooping cough, bronchitis and winter coughs.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals and soothes the inflamed membranes in the case of a painful cough. It also stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, combined with guaiaac, and has been used for generations to heal inflamed membranes of the throat and chest.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex," and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

OFFICIAL.

LONDON, Jan. 3.
The Governor, Newfoundland,
From the Fertia about 299 lives were lost. The American Consul at Aden is among the missing. The Glen Line steamer Giengyle was also sunk; about ten lives were lost.
Headquarters in France report that a small party seized a position on the German front line at Armentieres, inflicted several casualties and withdrew. There is mining activity on both sides. Artillery activity at Hart-mannswillerkopf, as a result of which the French withdrew on a front of one furlong.
Fierce fighting continued south of Priepet on the Styrr, where the Russians crossed to the left bank and captured Khurdsand on the Styrr.
Near Chortoriak the enemy were repulsed with heavy loss; seventy prisoners were captured. Near Czernew-itz the Russians have occupied several heights, capturing about nine hundred prisoners and three machine guns.

MARTIAL LAW.

LONDON, Jan. 3.
An Athens newspaper states that martial law will be declared on Jan.
15th and the Chamber of Deputies has been summoned to meet on the 17th, to ratify the proclamation thereof, according to a despatch received here.

FRENCH VICE-CONSUL ARRESTED.

BERLIN, by wireless to Sayville, Jan. 3.
The Bulgarian Government has arrested the French Vice-Consul at Sofia, in retaliation for the arrest of the Bulgarian Consul at Salonika, according to the Overseas News Agency, which adds that the Vice Consul remained at Sofia with the permission of the Bulgarian Government in order to assist the Dutch Minister charged with the care of French interests.

LONDON, Jan. 3.

the arrest of the Consuls. The Cabinet discussed at length recent events at Salonika, and the correspondent says it is apparent, the situation has become a delicate one which is seriously occupying the attention of the Greek Government. There is much uneasiness as to the next move by the Central Powers. The Athens newspapers publish articles, presumably inspired, which take the Entente Powers severely to task.

THE ENEMY REPULSED.

PARIS, Jan. 3.
A Montenegrin official statement received here to-day, says: The enemy on January 1st attacked our positions at Goluivo, and after a day's fight was repulsed with loss. There have been artillery and infantry combats on other fronts.

RELATIONS MAY BE SERIOUSLY AFFECTED.

BERLIN, Jan. 3.
The Overseas News Agency to-day, is that relations between the Entente Powers and Greece will be seriously affected by the reported disclosures
of letters found on Colonel Napiet, former British military attaché at Sofia, when he was taken from a Greek steamer by an Austrian submarine last month. Contemptuous remarks concerning Greece, and revelations regarding Serbian military preparations against Bulgaria before Bulgarian mobilization, said to have been contained in the letters, have made a deep impression on Bulgarians. The subject was one discussed by the members of all parties in the lobbies of Parliament at Sofia.

RUSSIANS GAIN GROUND.

LONDON, Jan. 3.
It was the Austrians, not the Russians, who began the big offensive in Volhynia and Galicia, according to Mail's Petrograd correspondent. The attempts failed and the Russians gathered ground. General Planders efforts to take Tarnopol, and break through in the direction of Kooos, were frustrated. Field Marshal Von Mackensen is at Czernowitz for the purpose of threatening Roumania, and for an active offensive against the Russian advance in Galicia.

THE KAISER'S ILLNESS.

PARIS, Jan. 3.
Press despatches from Switzerland and Italy, continue to affirm that the illness of Emperor William is serious. It is stated that he was operated on last Wednesday successfully, but the nature of the operation is not specified. It is stated that the Emperor is suffering from a deep-seated affection of which the cutaneous Eruption is but an incidental symptom, and that the malady is complicated by the re-appearance of his old throat trouble, which has extended to the mouth. It is even asserted that it would be necessary to provide him with an artificial palate made of silver.

GERMANS RELEASED.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.
The State Department was officially advised to-day by the French Government, in response to representations made by the United States, that it had ordered the immediate release of Germans recently removed from American ships on the high seas by the French cruiser DesCartes.

BRITISH STEAMER SUNK.

LONDON, Jan. 3.
The British steamship Giengyle has been sunk. There are about one hundred survivors.

SUNK BY GERMAN SUBMARINE.

TOKIO, Jan. 3.
The owner of the Japanese freighter Kenoku Maru has been advised that the vessel was sunk by a German submarine in the Mediterranean on Dec. 22. The members of the crew were landed at Cannes, France. The Kenoku Maru was under charter by a foreigner, was loaded with hemp at Manila, and sailed for Italy and England on Nov. 5. The Maru was a steamer of 2,169 tons.

ANOTHER BRITISH STEAMER SUNK.

LONDON, Jan. 3.
The British steamer St. Oswald has been sunk. The St. Oswald was in the service of the British Government and presumably was sunk in the Mediterranean. Her movements had not been reported since Oct. 13th, on which date she arrived at Mudros Island from Alexandria. The St. Oswald was 361 feet long, of 3,810 tons gross. She was built in 1895 and owned by the British and Foreign Steamship Company, of Liverpool.

GRANTED PERMISSION.

COPENHAGEN, via London,
January 3.
The German Government has granted the Ford peace expedition permission to travel to the Hague
through Germany by special train.

The party will leave Copenhagen
next Friday.

THE UNITED STATES.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.
The possibility of a combined attack by two foreign powers to break down the new Pan-American doctrine evolved from the maintenance by the United States, and the acceptance by the South and Central American Republics of the Monroe Doctrine, is one of the fundamental bases for the national defence plans formulated by the Army and Navy strategists. They believe it essential in the formation of the national military policy. It was learned to-night, to provide against the possibility of an assault upon the Doctrine by either an Asiatic or European Power, or even by the alliance of two such powers which might hurl forces simultaneously on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. A navy equal in strength to those of any two world powers, except Britain, and an army prepared to fight for the integrity of the pan-American idea anywhere in pan-America, is the ultimate aim of the plans of military experts. Ten years is the time the Navy General Board believes the United States has in which to prepare for a re-adjustment of the world status, which will follow the European war. In setting 1925 as the time when the U. S. Navy should equal any fleet, which means reaching the two power standard of the British Navy, the board estimated as much time as would elapse before the stock of the United States had passed sufficiently to permit any of the belligerents to look to South or Central America for Colonial development or trade aggression. The plans of the Army War College would be consummated in six years. They take the position that United States must have sufficient troops and ships to land forces in any threatened pan-American country to meet an invader. All these preparations, it is now known, have been presented by strategists to the Administration as essential to the support of the Monroe Doctrine, so that the United States may be able to act alone, if necessary, to preserve its ideal of no entangling alliances.
Such ideals, students have stated, impose new duties on the U. S., duties that require something more than policy and mere passive resistance.

OUR SUBMARINE

In the Baltic.

Lieutenant-Commander F. N. A.
Cromie, in command of a submarine, has been decorated by the Czar with the Cross of St. George, the Russian V.C. for his brilliant work in the Baltic. Lieutenant Cromie is a son of Mrs. J. Cromie, Haverfordwest, Pembrokeshire, and has been twelve years with the submarines.
Lieutenant Cromie received the Cross of St. Vladimir with swords.
Since then his ship has been responsible for the sinking of the German cruiser Undine and some ten merchant ships have been destroyed or driven ashore.
The fine spirits of our submarine crews are shown by the following amusing letter from the officer to his mother:—
"The Czar came to inspect the submarines. I had a very pleasant surprise in being decorated by him with the St. George's Cross—the Russian V.C. and the best war Order they have."
"We did another 1500 miles this last trip. I went to bed for the first two days out with 'flu,' and so directed operations from my bunk. On the third day the inhabitants of a ship left a small puppy dog which we re-cued. Its father was a great Dane and its mother a pug, but considering it is a 'flun' it is not half bad, and is a great favourite."
Under a Hun Cruiser.
"I tried a spot where I knew train ferries must pass. We had an exciting chase, but it was spilt by two destroyers and a cruiser turning up.
Guessing that they would come back again I lay low, and sure enough I caught the Undine in the afternoon.
The first shot stopped her and put her on fire, but she was not going down quickly enough, so, avoiding the destroyer that was after us, I dived under the Undine's stern and gave her another from the other side. It was a very fine sight."
"The Czar was very polite and nice,
and said our work in — had made all the difference to the country. In the evening we dined with all the Kings and Princes, etc., in the train, which was a palatial affair. We sat down at one table and still left room for waiting. I sneaked a menu card as a souvenir, but had not the cheek to ask for signatures."
"Being a Chevalier of St. George, I am pretty safe, as no one can arrest me without an armed escort and a band to take me to prison. I think I told you that the other crew gave me the right to go into girls' schools and taste the food and express my opinion! I only hope now that we shall not be at sea on November 25 (St.
George's night), when all members dine in the palace and take the plate home with them as souvenirs!"
[The Undine was reported sunk on November 7, 22 miles from the Swedish coast, while conveying the German steam ferry Prussia from Trelleborg to Sassnitz.]

Turn the rascals out—the headache, biliousness, indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and bad colds—turn them out to-night and keep them out with Cas-carets.
Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver, clogged bowels, or an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets clean your stomach; remove the sour, fermenting food; take the excess bile from your liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret to-night straightens you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from any drug store means a clean head, sweet stomach and clean healthy liver and bowel action for months. Children love Cascarets because they never gripe or sicken.

and waited to get in the game. And people came from here and there, to see if they could help me out, to try to lighten my despair, and place large plasters on my soul. They sawed the wood, they milked the cow, they fed the hens and wound the clock, they packed in water for the frau, and shied at my thankful talk. They sat all night beside my bed, until the morning hours were struck, and held me down when, seeing red, I only longed to run amuck. They brought me chicken soup and pie, and all the things the sick require, and kindness beamed in every eye—the kindness that no wealth can hire. When I recovered from the gout, the mumps,

Opposition Willing to Aid in Coal Crisis.

The Daily News regrets to hear the note sounded in the Telegram last evening. We do not in the slightest degree regret what we said. We quoted a paragraph in the Manifesto of Sir Edward Morris pointing out that the Government was pledged to deal with the situation then existing. Sir Edward then stated that the price of coal was a national grievance. The price now is about sixty per cent higher in the city, and for householders much more difficult to obtain even at the present rates. It was a national grievance then it is a much more intense national grievance now. We pointed out that we drew attention to these matters with a view to urging on the Government the need of drastic action immediately. We recognized also "that the War had added to the difficulties of the situation by making tonnage difficult to get and made freights high when tonnage is obtained." We also pointed out that the situation had been aggravated by the sale of our large steel ice steamers to the Russian Government and expressed the opinion that this constituted a good ground for asking the Admiralty to assign to the Government a large collier for coal carrying. Instead of making the question a partisan one, we carefully avoided that attitude by asking the Government, if it needed backing to call Parliament to meet on the shortest notice. This request implied support from the Opposition in measures calculated to relieve the situation by bringing the price of coal down to a normal rate. To make this offer more definite and copper fasten it.

We now pledge the support of the Opposition to any reasonable measure or measures which will bring down the price of coal to the normal one. We have consulted with the leaders of the Opposition in the House of Assembly, and we are in a position to make an offer of co-operation. Let the Executive call on the leading members of the Opposition and consult with them as to a common policy to deal with the situation.

We have already pointed out that the situation is a difficult one for coal importers. They hold stocks, it is true, brought here at lower freight rates than they can, of themselves, make to-day. They are also bound by contract to supply factories at contract rates, and many of them are husbanding their stocks to meet their contracts, in order to avoid losses from supplying coal, brought here in future at advanced freight rates. The sufferers from this course are householders and others who have no contracts with coal dealers. It is eminently a situation which calls for Government intervention. Take to-day's message and it will be seen that in spite of the heavy commandeering of British shipping during the past seventeen months of the war, the Admiralty are not hesitating about requisitioning ships for the conveyance of food or other necessities. Coal is a prime necessity in Newfoundland, especially during the next three months. Drastic action is needed at once. Yesterday, we made several suggestions:

- (1) The obtaining of a large collier from the Admiralty for Government service in the coal trade;
- (2) The granting of drawbacks on coal to be imported;
- (3) The commandeering of coal in port and premises and shipping if necessary and of course an equitable handling of the situation as between coal dealers, contractors and householders.

We put these forward as suggestions. If the Government has alternatives, equal or better than these suggestions, the Opposition will support them. This is no party matter. It is a question of State. It is an acute grievance of national importance and as such will be treated by the Opposition. We must, however, repeat what we said yesterday: Let the Government act at once, or give place to those who will.

Child Kicked by a Horse.

James Walsh, aged three years, who was the victim of a severe accident the previous day, was brought to the city yesterday from Avondale for treatment. The little patient had his injuries temporarily dressed by Dr. Jones, after which he was ordered to hospital.

Amusements.

BRITISH THEATRE.

The programme at the British Theatre last night was most refined and thoroughly entertaining. Two feature pictures namely: "The Flash" and "The Saving Grace" were both splendid. The Animated Weekly News contained many interesting items such as "looping the loop" in an aeroplane, etc. Madame Timmons sang "The Danza," by Chadnuck, and had to respond to an encore. Now that the stores are closed the public will have an opportunity of hearing a selection of the best and newest compositions that are obtainable, sung by this talented vocalist. Prof. P. J. McCarthy and Madame Timmons are preparing several duets which will be rendered shortly. The great world famed serial, "The Black Box" which has been kept back until the closing of the stores will be begun on Wednesday on which day the introductory episode will be shown. The serial has been an unequalled success, both in America and Europe and our theatre-goers should not miss the opportunity of seeing it from beginning to end.

THE WONDERFUL PANTOMIME AT ROSSLEY'S.

Are you going to the Pantomime to-night? Everyone goes to the pantomime, you will come away well pleased, as Beauty and the Beast is the best yet. The show is chock full of fun and enjoyment and the costumes are superb. The scenery is equal to the best ever brought here. Miss Madge Locke makes a veritable prince charming; whilst after seeing Miss Bonnie Rossley in the role of Feasty one cannot but envy the Prince his happy lot. Mr. Ballard Brown as the Baron is splendid. In fact the whole show is magnificent. There is an infant, the idol of the show, who made her appearance last night in a dance that simply electrified the house. There is a matinee on Wednesday at reduced prices.

Sold by Half-ton at $8.00 Rate.

With commendable consideration, Mr. Collin Campbell sold soft coal this morning at the rate of $8 a ton, while all the other coal dealers of the city continued to sell at the advanced figure of $10.80, and as a sideline, an extra charge on people who bought a quarter of a ton at a time. A further commendable step on the part of Mr. Campbell is that he would not retail any more than a half ton to a single purchaser, his main idea being to help out the poorer class of people. Unfortunately, Mr. Campbell's supply was only limited and at noon was practically all bought up.

The veteran hockey players of St. John's are now contemplating to run off a match amongst themselves, the proceeds to be devoted towards the W.P.A. fund. ## TAKE NO ACTION.

WASHINGTON, To-day. Secretary of State Lansing today told the United States probably will take no steps in the case of the Japanese Liner Yasaka Maru torpedoed in the Mediterranean, because of Leigh, the only lost passenger, who was supposed to have been an American, but whose citizenship was never established. Leigh was born of American parents in China.

PARIS, To-day. An Havas despatch from Athens says word has been received from Salonika to the effect that all suspected subjects of the nations at war with the Entente Allies are being arrested and taken on board a warship after being interrogated. ## BRITISH GOVERNMENT COM-MANDEERING STEAMERS.

LONDON, To-day. The Government is taking stringent measures to see the prevailing shortage in ships shall not interfere with the shipment of food and other necessities to ports in the United Kingdom. Vessels are being requisitioned, right and left for shipment of wheat from America, and in shipping circles it is reported the Admiralty intends to call in British ships that are now trading between foreign ports. The latter measure is expected particularly to affect British ships trading between South America and the United States. Shippers here predict that such action would have a disastrous effect on this trade. Ship-owners in England and neutral shippers regard the new home emergency Government with misgivings, as requisitioned wheat ships are only receiving thirteen shillings, compared with the normal rate of seventeen shillings. The first hint the vessel receives that it is to be requisitioned is the following telegram from the Admiralty toward the end of its voyage: "You are required by requisitioning for carriage of foodstuffs by the Committee to fix your vessel and load 75 per cent. wheat from Atlantic coast, Canada, the United States or the Gulf to the United Kingdom. You may make your own arrangements as to freight, etc. Formal notice is following by letter."

SUBMARINE CRISIS MOST SERIOUS.

WASHINGTON, To-day. President Wilson started to Washington from Hot Springs, Va., last night, to take personal charge of the nation's foreign affairs, on the new crisis brought about by the sinking of the British steamer Persia, with the loss of at least one American life. The situation is regarded in official circles as being the most serious which confronted this Government since the submarine operations of the Central Powers began. The President probably will lay the facts thus far established before his Cabinet to-day. The destruction of the Persia, following closely upon the crisis precipitated by the Ancona disaster may result in the United States determining to settle immediately all questions involved in the submarine warfare. The subject is expected to find its way to the floor of the House of the Senate to-day, when Congress reconvenes. The States is represented to-night as being prepared and determined to take any action on the facts concerning the Persia yet to be established which they may warrant. Officials are still trying to view the situation with an open mind, but it is apparent they are disturbed by reports received from Consular Agents at Alexandria, Cairo and Egypt. Every effort will be made to establish the truth of the report that the Persia was torpedoed without warning.

RESUMES GOLD PAYMENT.

STOCKHOLM, To-day. The National Bank of Sweden resumed payment of notes in gold which had been suspended since August 2, 1914.

ALL SAVED.

LONDON, To-day. All on board the steamer Geelong were saved.

VALUABLE CARGO.

LONDON, To-day. The Glengyle carried a valuable cargo of fourteen thousand tons.

HEAVY FIGHTING BY RUSSIANS.

LONDON, To-day. The latest despatches from the southern extremity of the Russian front indicate that heavy fighting is continuing with the Russian army, and General Ivanoff is gaining ground. One correspondent reports the operations began with an offensive movement on the part of the Austrians, designed to strengthen their line, and that after repulsing this attack the Russians assumed the initiative. It is evident the Russian advances are now extended a considerable distance beyond Stripa River. In other despatches it is asserted the two great offensive actions clash. The Russians have advanced as a threat against the Teutons in their Balkan operations, while the Austrians and Germans for the necessary improving of their positions against an attack expected from General Ivanoff early in the spring. Whatever may be the facts of the case there is no doubt the result of these operations will have an important effect in the Balkan campaign, especially on their influence on the future plans of Roumania. It is reported with increasing frequency the Central Powers are planning to attack Salonika, but they are said to be experiencing difficulties with Bulgaria, which, according to these reports, does not wish to participate in such a campaign, unless it promises something more than the expulsion of the Allies from Salonika.

AWAITING ASQUITH'S BILL ON COMPULSORY SERVICE.

ATHENS, To-day. Anxious thought is being given to the seizure of Consuls representing Germany and her allies at Salonika. It is expected that so far as Greece is concerned the incident will be closed with the release of the Consuls under safe conduct. While requesting some such action by the Entente Powers, Greece also has protested to Germany against the aeroplane attack on Salonika. England awaits with great interest the details regarding the bill of compulsory military service, which Premier Asquith will introduce into the House of Commons on Wednesday. It is announced Ireland will come within the scope of the bill.

BOMBING ATTACKS.

LONDON, Jan. 3. (Delayed.)—The following British official statement was given out tonight: On the southern part of our front a small part of our troops made a successful bombing attack last night. To-day our artillery effectively bombarded several portions of the enemy's lines. Hostile artillery is active, northeast of Loos and east of Ypres.

ITALIANS REPULSE ATTACKS.

ROME, Jan. 3. The following statement was given out by the Italian War Office to-night: In the region of Laguzaci, north of Falzarego, the enemy exploded several mines, releasing an avalanche of rocks which, however, caused no damage on the Carso. On Sunday the enemy attacked our positions on Monte San Michele, but was repulsed also with heavy losses.

RUSSIANS CONTINUE ADVANCE IN BUKOWINA.

PETROGROD, via London, January 3. A statement given out by the Russian War Office to-night says: In the Caucasus on the Black Sea Coast during the night of the 1st of January, the Turks attempted to approach our positions, but were stopped by our fire. In the direction of Hamadin, Persia, southwest of the town of Azabad, we attacked a body of five hundred Persian-gendarmes and drove them back toward the village of Chena north of Kangawar, killing dozens of rebels, and capturing prisoners and supplies. We suffered no losses. On the 1st of January our detachments holding Hamaden retreated military honors to the British flag which was hoisted over the Brit-

Northeast of Czernowitz, Bukovina, the fighting continues with unabated energy. Our forces continued making advances, despite the numerous enemy counter-attacks. The enemy's losses have been very great. We took another group of sixteen officers and 749 unwounded men prisoners, without counting the great number of wounded remaining on the battlefield.

145 P.M.

SEIZED BY GERMANS.

COPENHAGEN, via London, (Delayed.)—The "Polken" states that the Swedish Liner Cron, bound for Japan, has been seized by the Germans and taken to Swinemound.

NO ANSWER TO PROTEST.

ATHENS, via London, To-day. Premier Skoufoulis, of Greece, states that he has not yet received an answer to his protest to the Entente Powers regarding the arrest of the Consuls of Germany and her allies. The public has been greatly aroused, by the arrest of the Consuls, and the claim of the Entente Powers that the Consuls were engaged in spying, is characterized as laughable. It is asserted they were so carefully watched by the Entente Police that espionage was impossible.

M. P. DEAD.

LONDON, To-day. Sir George Scott Robertson, member of Parliament for the Central Division of Bradford, is dead. He was born in London, 1852.

THE COMPULSORY BILL.

LONDON, To-day. Before the House of Commons re-assembles, the Cabinet will meet to put the finishing touches on the draft of the compulsory bill, which will be introduced to-morrow. Thus far there has been no official statement as to the scope of the bill, and the greatest interest is taken by the general public, as to the attitude the measure will take toward Ireland. The Press Association declared that Ireland would be included in the operation of the bill. The estimate this morning that the number of members of the House, who will vote against the bill, will not exceed forty, and adds that a considerable diminution of the total is likely as soon as the facts and figures in the report of the Earl of Derby, Director of Recruiting, are made public. Some of the newspapers protest vehemently against the inclusion of Ireland. The London Evening Star says: "Those who know Ireland have no illusions in regard to the fatal issues which would follow from any attempt to coerce Irishmen. The thought of bloodshed in Ireland appalls us. Let the House of Commons look well before it leaps. The attitude of the Labor group toward the measure is still nebulous. A news agency item said last night that the labor men will try to effect a compromise, whereby after the bill has been introduced an inter-venal should be given for unattested men to enroll under the Derby scheme and adds that if the number remains insufficient, after a reasonable time the bill then should be allowed to pass."

TURKISH WAR REPORT.

CONSTANTINOPLE, via London, To-day. The Turkish War Office gave out the following to-night: "On the Dardanelles front there have been heavy battles with bomb throwing on both wings and a temporary artillery fire along the whole line. A hostile cruiser and a monitor retreated after temporary bombardment of our positions. Our airmen flew over hostile position and made a successful reconnaissance. Near Arburun four hundred cases of munitions which were concealed by the enemy were found there. There are no other events to report."

DUTCH MINISTER OF WAR.

LYONDON, To-day. Major General Nicholas Bosboom, Dutch Minister of War, has tendered his resignation, but it has not been accepted, according to the Rotterdam correspondent of the Daily Mail. Major General Bosboom has been subjected to serious Parliamentary criticism, whilst the correspondent adds, because he has been suspected of a desire to make the Dutch the instrument of a small aristocratic circle with German sympathies.

1,000 ENEMIES ARRESTED.

LONDON, To-day. The Amsterdam correspondent of Reuters' Telegram Co. sends the following: The Athens correspondent of the Wolff Bureau reports the total number of enemy subjects arrested by the Entente Allies at Salonika is one thousand.

KING PETER SEES COMMANDERS.

ATHENS, via London, To-day. King Peter of Serbia, who is now on board a French destroyer at Salonika, yesterday gave an audience to the General Commander of the French forces there and Lieut. General Mahone, Commander of the British troops.

"DEAD AGAINST CONSCRIPTION"

LONDON, To-day. The South Wales Miners appear to be dead against conscription. James Winston, President of the South Wales Miners Federation in speech at Pontypool yesterday announced that the Executive committee had passed a resolution unanimously protesting against conscription: "I know what I am saying," he added, "unless the politicians of this country are careful, they will stop the South Wales coal fields, and there will be no coal for the Navy."

POLICE SEIZE SOCIALIST PAPER.

GLASGOW, To-day. The police have seized all the copies of the new current issue of the Scotch Socialist paper "Forward," which is said to have printed an account of the meeting on Christmas Day of David Lloyd George, Minister of Munitions, with the Glasgow Trade Union Officials, which account was not approved by the British censor.

The Crib at Belvidere Orphanage

Not least among the attractions of this festive season ranks the Crib at St. Michael's Orphanage, Belvidere. In past years during the Xmas season large numbers of people visited daily the little grotto model of the cave of Bethlehem, to render in spirit together with the Shepherds and Wise Men of the East their adorations to the Divine Infant. This year has been no exception; the Crib itself simple and realistic has been arranged perhaps even more artistically than in the past, whilst as to visitors, from Christmas Day when in commemoration of the Birth of Our Saviour the tiny voices of the orphan children sang forth the joyous strains of "Gloria in Excelsis" all through these hallowed days of the Octave, very many of those who know about the Crib have flocked to this quiet retreat, spending some moments contemplating the simple yet impressive scene and listening to the musical voices of the orphans who twice each day at noon and at four in the afternoon gather around the grotto singing festive canticles and carols. Needless to say the little children take keen delight in the Crib and in their little part and find great gratification in the presence of their visitors, whilst these experience for themselves apart from the pleasure and interest in the surroundings a sense and feeling of joy and satisfaction which comes from all charitable work; from the mere act of doing good, of encouraging the orphan mites and rendering their Christmas one of peace, happiness and goodwill. Access to the Crib is open to all during these days and on Thursday the Feast of the Epiphany, commemoration of the Adoration of the Wise men, which is well represented in the scene, the Crib will close for another space.

Fighting With Children.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"Now I want you to stand right still and not move from there again." The speaker was a nervous-looking woman who stood on the curbstone beside me, waiting for her car. She was addressing a little girl who had been hopping off the curbstone and climbing back, and turning round to look at the passerby, and otherwise trying to let off some of her pent-up energy. She had finally succeeded in stepping on her mother's toe, hence the command, delivered in no modified tones. She accompanied it by vigorously thumping the child into place and ramming her hat down upon her head.

Two Bundles Of Nerves.

The woman was evidently a bundle of nerves. She talked rapidly and nervously to her adult companion and there a furx of pent-up irritation in her tone as she rebuked the child. And yet she wanted the child, whose restless energy was plainly nothing but a reduplication of her own nerves, to "stand right still and not move from there again."

What an absurd, unreasonable thing to ask! And how shameful to lose her temper at the child for showing the same nervousness in one way that she showed in another!

Losing one's temper at a child is one of the meanest, little things one can do.

The Thing I Am The Most Ashamed Of.

I know of few things in my life that I am more ashamed of than a little incident which happened to me last summer. I had been asked to take my small niece home and send her to bed to take her nap. To do this I had to leave a scene in which I was much interested and to which I was anxious to return. I hurried her along and was about to deliver her to the maid when she suddenly set up a protest. She wasn't going to bed at all, she said, and stamped her foot. And then I did the thing I am so ashamed of. I stamped mine, too.

Where A Big, Strong Man Strikes A Cripple.

For a big, strong man to strike a cripple would be considered an utterly contemptible thing to do. For a person with a fully developed mentality to lose his temper with a little child— isn't that much the same sort of thing?

Discipline, punishment, battles of the will we must have, but for decency's sake let's keep ourselves as far as possible from battles of the temper.

New Year Resolutions.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Slwash." At this particular period of the year, the New Year's resolution begins to occupy the attention of a great many citizens of varying prominence and sobriety. The New Year's resolution is a superstition to the effect that between 11 p.m. and midnight on December 31st of each year, a backbone composed of gelatine and putty will suddenly stiffen up and become so inflexible that its possessor will be enabled to say "No" and stick to it for years at a time.

Acting on this superstition, men who cannot exist throughout the year without a drink before and after each third, resolve never to drink again; while men whose mouths would feel like an extinct and unfilled crater without cigars in them, declare that henceforth and forever they will remain outside of the Amalgamated Order of Human Chimneys and will use the money thus saved to buy houses and farms.

Another reason is the fact that resolutions go into the game with no practice. A man who wouldn't play football without looking up the rules will start on a dry year with no practice whatever. New Year's resolutions ought to be made on November 1st, thus giving the maker two months in which to get up when necessary and dust off his clothes.

Another reason is the fact that men of weak and wabby wills attempt too much. Such men should begin by swearing off on Welsh rarebits for a year. When this has been accomplished, let them swear off on mince pie of the intoxicating variety. They will then find it easy to refrain for a year from spring tonics and by the fourth year they will be able to look the cocktail squarely in the cherry and pass it by with a virtuous frown—providing they can get rid of their friends. Friends are to a New Year's resolutions what cats are to mice, and what a hard frost is to a peach bud.

"CAN YOU AFFORD TO TAKE CHANCES?"

A little cold may not seem a dangerous thing—you may feel inclined to let it go on hoping that to-morrow it will be better—but can you afford to take chances? Just as the little insignificant acorn grows if let alone, to the mighty giant oak, that cough if not stopped may grow to a very serious illness. When a cough starts there's no telling where it will end. You know no doubt, of cases right among people you have known where serious complications and fatal illnesses have had their start from a neglected cough or cold.

A cold is more than inconvenient—it is dangerous—so the big thing is to find a reliable remedy—one that will give you quick, satisfactory relief. There are many treatments that are recommended for a cough or cold but STAFFORD'S PHARATONE COUGH and COLD CURE is recommended to be the safest, surest and most satisfactory way to cure a cold, gripe, etc.

Price 25 cts., Postage 5 cts. extra. Prepared only by DR. F. STAFFORD & SON, St. John's, Nfld., Manufacturers of 3 Specialties: Stafford's Liniment, Stafford's Prescription "A," Stafford's Phoratone Cough & Cold Cure.

New Yorkers Indicted Manslaughter Charge.

New York, Dec. 30.—Edward L. Diamond, his wife Celia Diamond, Samuel Parkin and Samuel Simon, were to-day indicted on a charge of first and second degree manslaughter growing out of the deaths of twelve persons in a fire which destroyed the five story diamond candy factory in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn on Nov. 6th last.

Mrs. Diamond, as owner, and her husband, as agent of the building are charged with failure to provide adequate fire protection. They pleaded not guilty and were held in $10,000 bail each.

Parkin and Simon, proprietors of the Essex Street Company which occupied the third and fourth floors, were charged with having maintained a locked trap door on the stairs on the fourth and third floor in this way causing a majority of the deaths. They also pleaded not guilty and were held in $5,000 bond each.

The City's Health.

Twelve cases of diphtheria were reported in the city during last week and one resulted in death. Six weeks were disinfected and released from quarantine. During the present week six new cases of diphtheria were reported to the Health Authorities. There are now over forty diphtheria patients under treatment at the Fever Hospital.

LIGHT, HEAT, COMFORT!

The proprietor of one of the best known multiple shopping systems is credited with saying, "Give me any old shop, in any old street, and I'll guarantee to make it in twelve months the most widely known and best frequented shop in the district." He was asked to explain. Holding up three fingers he said, "I believe in the trinity of LIGHT, WARMTH, COMFORT. I should dazzle the moths until the candle drew them, I should bring them into a warm, comfortable shop, filled with a soft, pleasing radiance, and the rest is—well, mere child's play."

Mixed metaphors, perhaps, but expressive. Now we can more than imagine the kind of shop this well-known individual would open, for we pass it in almost every town—always a landmark to the street. No one fails to notice it. There is an indefinable air of welcome and invitation as one stands for a moment on the pathway and lets one's gaze travel inside it. The subdued, restful lighting effect that so charms because of its very unobtrusiveness, the absence of dark corners, the intangible feeling that if one would step inside one would be sure of experiencing a delicious sense of warmth and comfort and cheerfulness—all these are part of its appeal. Truly a shop with an individuality.

We cordially invite all progressive business men to visit our showroom and see our latest Lighting and Heating Appliances, by the adoption of which the ideal outline in the above extract from a London paper may be easily secured. Our new RADIO X. Lamp and GASTHEAM Radiators fill all light and heat requirements.

LONDON

LONDON, Nov. 3.

LONGER LIFE OF PARLIAMENT

Under the Parliamentary Act of the present Parliament, which ends five years, comes to an end in any. A General Election in any is impossible, and the Government will therefore introduce the promised measure to prolong the life of Parliament. The measure which is under the charge of the Home Secretary, will be carried by Parliament and Registration. When the war broke out on August 4, 1914, the statutory life of Parliament had still about six months to run. The new bill, if passed, will provide that the life of Parliament shall extend to six months after the conclusion of the war. In other words, when the war ends the Parliamentary situation will be exactly as it was on August 4, 1914, that is, the present Parliament still have a possible statutory life of sixteen months. For any election which may take place, the register will have to be completed, provision is made for a scheme on this object to be worked out on lines which will satisfy those who favor electoral reform.

LONDON'S NEW DRINK RESTRICTIONS.

On November 29th London was under the new and stringent restrictions. The hours are from noon to half-past two, and from nine to nine on week days, and from three and six to nine on Saturdays. The drastic rule by which premises may be sold for consumption between Thursday and Friday is not enforced, but the liquor for consumption ceases in the evening one hour earlier than other sales. It may be said that London takes rules quite quietly. An agitation has been carefully conducted for a fortnight to rouse public opinion against such restrictions, but it has failed entirely in its aim. The London public are very disappointed in the decision by the small support received from the distillers and brewers. The latter are said to have declared that whatever the result might be, it would not hurt their own output, for the consumption will go on through other channels. An indication of this is to be seen in the great activity in the off-trade. The largest wholesale in London are now extremely busy, and one hears of applications being made for extended hours of sale for the extra goods got out for consumption. The soreness is being engendered among on-license traders at the apparently unassailable prosperity of the off-licensees.

A TRIBUTE TO RUSSIA

Russia's Day, celebrated in London on November 18th in a manner which the demands of war have customed the whole country, the Metropolis as generous as the capital of the Empire may compare unfavorably with some cities in its tendencies to desecration and querulousness. It has been criticized, not only by shrewd observers at home but by officers of the front. But to none of these has it been given the full credit of its admirer, the financial endurance of the Russian people, and their incomparable determination to pursue the war to its bitter end. The celebration and are anxious to "do your bit," you can relieve the suffering of the men who are spending winter in the trenches by sending them Zam-Buk for which they are asking. Numerous letters from the front prove their need. Write a letter from one of the men who says: "If I had my choice between tobacco and Zam-Buk I would choose Zam-Buk." Constant exposure to damp, cold, inevitable in trenches, causes rheumatism, chapped cold cracks, and frost bites. Zam-Buk heals these, and a box of Zam-Buk, which can be easily carried in the pocket, will save a man unnecessary suffering. Zam-Buk is equally effective for sore throats caused by trench diarrhea. Application of Zam-Buk to the feet will prevent foot-soreness, blistering on long marches. Sold by All druggists at 25c. per box, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, $1.25, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

LONGER LIFE OF PARLIAMENT.

Under the Parliament Act the life of the present Parliament, fixed at five years, comes to an end in January. A General Election in war time is impossible, and the Government will therefore introduce the long-promised measure to prolong the existence of Parliament. The bill, which is under the charge of the Home Secretary, will be called "The Parliament and Registration Bill." When the war broke out on August 4, 1914, the statutory life of this Parliament had still about sixteen months to run. The new bill will, I learn, provide that the life of this Parliament shall extend to sixteen months after the conclusion of the war. In other words, when the war ends the Parliamentary situation will be exactly as it was on August 4, 1914—that is, the present Parliament will still have a possible statutory life of sixteen months. For any General Election which may take place a new register will have to be compiled, and provision is made for a scheme with this object to be worked out—it may be on lines which will satisfy those who favor electoral reform.

LONDON'S NEW DRINK RESTRICTIONS.

On November 29th London came under the new and stringent drink restrictions. The hours are from 12 noon to half-past two, and from six to nine on week days, and from one to three and six to nine on Sunday. The drastic rule by which no liquor may be sold for consumption off the premises between Thursday and Monday is not enforced, but the sale of liquor for consumption elsewhere ceases in the evening one hour earlier than other sales. It may safely be said that London takes the new rules quite quietly. An agitation has been carefully conducted for the past fortnight to rouse public opinion to resist such restrictions, but it seems to have entirely failed in its object. I am told that the London publicans are very disappointed in this connection by the small support they have received from the distillers and brewers. The latter are said to have declared that whatever the publicans might lose, it would not much affect their own output, for the consumption will go on through other channels. An indication of this is to be seen in the great activity in the off-license trade. The largest wholesale traders in London are now tremendously busy, and one hears of applications being made for extended hours at the bond so that the extra goods can be got out for consumption. Much soreness is being engendered amongst off-license traders at the apparently unassailable prosperity of the off-licenses.

A TRIBUTE TO RUSSIA.

Russia's Day, celebrated in London on November 18th in a manner to which the demands of war have accustomed the whole country, found the Metropolis as generous as ever. The capital of the Empire may compare unfavorably with some of our cities in its tendencies to depression and querulousness. It has so been criticized, not only by shrewd observers at home but by officers on leave from the front. But to none does it yield in its admiration for the magnificent endurance of the Russian people, and their incomparable determination to pursue the war to the bitter end. The celebration was,

and are anxious to "do your bit," you can relieve the sufferings of the men who are spending this winter in the trenches by sending them Zam-Buk for which they are asking.

Numerous letters from soldiers at the front prove their need of it. In a letter from one of the men to his people he says: "If it is a choice between tobacco and Zam-Buk—send Zam-Buk." Constant exposure to damp and cold, inevitable in trench life, causes rheumatism, chapped hands, cold cracks, and frost bites. Zam-Buk heals these, and a box of Zam-Buk, which can be easily carried in the pocket, will save a man much unnecessary suffering. Zam-Buk is equally effective for sore hands, caused by trench diggers, and an application of Zam-Buk to the feet will prevent foot-soreness and blistering on long marches.

Sold by all druggists, 2/6; 3 for 1/25, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

therefore, in the truest sense of the word a popular event. Frost and fog may have stirred anxious thoughts in the minds of Lady Paget and her enthusiastic supporters, but they failed completely to chill the generosity of London's street crowds, and high hopes are entertained that the Anglo-Russian Hospital in Petrograd, the Russian wounded generally, and the Russian prisoners in Germany will benefit by the handsome sum of £40,000. The Countess of Limerick had two interesting experiences representative of the popular character of the day. On the streets a ragged little archer demanded a flag from her, and proudly presented twopenny. In the Corn Exchange she sold by auction a penny flag for £25. Lady Garvaigh by a happy inspiration exploited the underground tube railways, where she discovered, in her own words, "an absolute trap for charitable effort."

MESOPOTAMIAN FIGHTING AND BABYLONIAN RESEARCH.

The course of the Mesopotamian expedition is being followed with keen interest by the group of distinguished scholars interested in Babylonian geography and research. The locality now reached by the British forces was of supreme importance to the ancient world, because, within a circle of a hundred miles, there lie the sites of the cities by which the Mesopotamian plain was dominated throughout the whole period of written history. The northward drift of the political center of the land began when "Ur of the Chaldees" was abandoned for settlements further up the Euphrates, and it was realized by all the great captains of antiquity, from Amraphel, King of Shinar, to Sargon, from Sennacherib to Cyrus, from Alexander to Haroun al Raschid, that the true center of dominion lay in the narrow neck where the Euphrates and the Tigris lay closest together. This is why Babylon and Seleucia, Ctesiphon and Bagdad, drew to themselves the envious eyes of conquering soldiers, why German ambition has sought to secure this region for its Asiatic capital, why our own statesmen have resolved to eliminate from the future an inimical settlement whose influence would be felt as far as Egypt and Aden on the one hand and Persia and India on the other.

THIRD-YEAR MEDICAL STUDENTS

Fourth and fifth year medical students were sometime ago recommended by the War Office to continue their studies and to proceed to qualification with all possible speed. Those junior to them in the curriculum are permitted to enlist in the combatant branches of the army. I understand that the military authorities are being urged that when third-year students do join the army arrangements should be made by which they should not lose association with medical studies, and that they should be attached to the Royal Army Medical Corps. The idea is that in such circumstances they would be more likely to resume their medical studies at the conclusion of the war. Of course, it has been suggested in the House of Commons and elsewhere that third-year medical students should be exempted altogether from military service.

This suggestion has found no favor in official circles and the one that they should be associated with the Royal Army Medical Corps is put forward after the rejection of the proposal that these young men should be exempted. Whether the second suggestion will receive any more encouragement than the rest remains to be seen. Medical students, by education and temperament being admittedly to the class from which excellent junior combatant officers are supplied, and it is at least open to doubt whether the military authorities will be prepared further to restrict the source from which they are drawn.

COMFORTS FOR TROOPS.

Patterns of comforts for troops at the front will in future be "sealed" by Sir Edward Ward, the Director-General of Voluntary Organizations, who has now, after consultation with representative members of the drapery trade, completed the details of the plan by which it will be assured that our soldiers receive really necessary and useful articles. The Drapers' Chamber of Trade, which represents the whole of the retail drapers of the United Kingdom, is co-operating with Sir Edward Ward, and will appoint representatives in each of the towns approved by the Director-General. Standard patterns of comforts—shirts, pants, vests, body belts, bed jackets, etc.—will be supplied to these representatives, who will make a flat pattern of each garment and also one completed article. These will be sent to Sir Edward Ward for inspection, and if approved will be "sealed" and then sent to the voluntary organization depot for each par-

Girls! Girls! Try It! Stop Dandruff and Beautify Your Hair

Hair stops falling out and gets thick, wavy, strong and beautiful.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Dandérine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Dandérine and carefully draw through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This cleanses the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Dandérine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Dandérine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

ticular district. Comforts made from the "sealed" patterns will be consigned by the drapery experts, who in effect become Government officials. If the garments do not conform to the standard patterns they will be promptly rejected, for the object of the scheme is to see that the men at the front and the hospitals get garments which will be of service. Another duty of the drapery experts is to see to the proper packing of articles. Secretarial work for the whole of the country is to be given by the Chartered Institute of Secretaries, who have volunteered for this duty under the scheme.

STAMPS AS PAPER MONEY.

The shortage of small coin for change has been the cause of an interesting innovation in Russia. To meet the difficulty postage stamps of the value of 10, 15, and 20 kopeks have, since the first of October, been in use as paper money. At the same time they can be used for postage, but they are printed on stout paper and have an overprint on the back in black which denotes the new use to which they have been put. It is not intended to keep them in use for long, and currency notes for these small values are being prepared. This is not the first time a Government has resorted to this expedient. About 45 years ago the current postage stamps of the United Kingdom were used in the Republic of Uruguay. I have also been shown a new "war stamp" from New Zealand. The current halfpenny stamp with head of King George is overprinted with the words "war stamp" and two stars. It is used in reality as a war tax in addition to the ordinary postage.

THE WIDOW OF A BONAPARTE.

A curious little footnote to history of a kind is to be found in the announcement of the death in a nursing home at the age of 84 of the widow of Prince Louis Lucien Bonaparte. It seems a far cry now to the quaint Napoleonic philologist who repaid this country for the asylum it afforded him by almost the first attempt to provide a systematic record of its dialects. If one ever knew that he was married one had forgotten it, for the marriage seems to have ended in a mutual recognition of incompatibility and a separation. Conjugal happiness was scarcely perhaps to be looked for in a life controlled by the obsession of linguistic research and the amassing of a philological library choice enough and representative enough to claim a guinea for the price of its sale catalogue. Perhaps one has some glimpse of the reasons of the failure of life on this side in the humour which selected "The Song of Solomon" as his medium for dialectical record. At his instance "The Song of Solomon" made its successive appearance in the dialects of Somerset, Dorset, the Scottish Lowlands, and other parts of the country—versions which may be almost as valuable in their way as a phonographic record, but are certainly weird enough to make Solomon himself and the scholars responsible for the authorized version of "the song"

Makes Hair Grow

The time to take care of your hair is when you have hair to take care of.

If your hair is getting thin, gradually falling out, it cannot be long before the spot appears. The greatest remedy to stop the hair from falling is SALVIA, first discovered in England. SALVIA furnishes nourishment to the hair roots and acts so quickly that people are amazed. It destroys the dandruff germ, the little pest that saps the life that should go to the hair from the roots. Large, generous bottle for 50 cents.

turn in their graves. It is a strangely freakish chapter in the annals of the Bonaparte family, to which the death of this obscure old lady puts a belated close.

WAR AND THE CHRISTMAS BOOK.

The "National Book Fortnight" organized by the Publishers' Association, began on November 22nd a plucky attempt to persuade the public that they ought not to economize on books—at any rate most London bookshops show a poster appealing to you to take a book home. It is hoped that this effort will do something to save the Christmas book season, for which the prospects are by no means bright. War is hitting the book trade by concentrating the buyers' attention upon war books, which are extremely short-lived and not at all profitable as the staple of shops. The sale of general literature has fallen off seriously, and expensive books, which always bring the biggest returns, are hardly selling at all. This Christmas there will be very few of the guinea and half-guinea books illustrated by famous artists which are usually produced specially for the Christmas present trade. This kind of book is, of course, a luxury, and luxuries are not in fashion. Some beautifully produced colored books are coming out to be sold for the benefit of various military charities, but the booksellers say that although many people buy these books who in ordinary times do not buy books at all, this does not compensate for the shrinkage in the ordinary trade. The cost of producing books has increased by probably 25 per cent owing to the rise in paper and the cost of labor. There is a fairly good demand for cheap reprints of light literature to be sent out to the trenches and the training camps, but here the booksellers have to meet the severe competition of the voluntary libraries. It is true that a good many people nowadays will buy a book with the intention of sending it to the soldiers after they have read it. In the South of England, at any rate, there is not much evidence that the war prosperity of the artisan is benefiting the bookseller.

CAPTURED FROM GERMANY.

The color printing trade in this country formerly dominated by Germany is on the whole shaking itself free from these old trammels. Two firms, Raphael Tuck and Sons and Gale and Polden, have made a tremendous fight to "bring the England with all-British Christmas cards, Christmas gift books, calendars, etc. for this end of the year. The artists were always here and a certain amount of the printing and production, but never before had British enterprise and British artists had the field clear that they have upon this occasion. Raphael Tuck especially feature Christmas and New Year cards and calendars and the result of this occasion is beyond even this house's previous high records. Over three thousand different types of cards have been issued besides a large array of other novelties, including the ever green "Tuck's Annual" a substantial illustrated volume for the little ones. Gale and Polden have issued for the end of the year trade between 30 and 40 large and small gift books all in colors and all wonderful examples of new British enterprise in color printing. It is believed that never again will Germany get back her lost trade in these goods with this country.

The Comments of G. K. Chesterton.

He Candidly Shows Where We Have Been Wrong and Where Right—How Salisbury Was Wrong and Cobbett Was Right—How the English Can Save England.

Mr. G. K. Chesterton has written a witty and wise little book, rather misleadingly called "The Crimes of England" (Cecil Palmer and Hayward, 1s. net).

The opening chapter is addressed in the form of a letter to "Professor Whirlwind," because "your name in the original German is too much for me." It is this "Professor Whirlwind" reads the book right through he will be more impressed with the righteousness of England than with its so-called crimes.

Where We Were Wrong. Here is Mr. Chesterton's "Catalogue of the real crimes of England."

"We were very wrong indeed when we took part in preventing Europe from putting a term to the impious piracies of Frederick the Great.

"We were very wrong indeed when we allowed the triumph over Napoleon to be soiled with the mire and blood of Blucher's sullen savages.

"We were very wrong indeed when we allowed the peaceful King of Denmark to be robbed in broad daylight by a brigand named Bismarck; and when we allowed the Prussian swash-bucklers to enslave and silence the French provinces which they could neither govern nor persuade.

"We were very wrong indeed when we flung to such hungry adventurers a position so important as Heligoland. We were very wrong indeed when we praised the soulless Prussian education and copied the soulless Prussian laws."

Never Wronged Germany. "Yet there is one part of life and history in which I would assert the absolute spotlessness of England. In one department we wear a robe of white and a halo of innocence. Long and weary as may be the records of our wickedness, in one direction we have done nothing but good. Who ever we may have wronged, we have never wronged Germany. Again and again we have dragged her from under the just vengeance of her enemies, from the holy anger of Maria Teresa, from the impatient and contemptuous common-sense of Napoleon.

"We have kept a ring fence around the Germans while they sacked Denmark and dismembered France. And if we had served our God as we have served their kings, there would not be to-day one remnant of them in our path, either to slander or to slay us.

Lord Salisbury's Humour. "The late Lord Salisbury, a sad and humorous man, made many public and serious remarks that have been proved false and perilous, and many private and frivolous remarks which were valuable and ought to be immortal.

"He struck dead the stiff and false psychology of 'social reform,' with its suggestion that the number of public-houses made people drunk, by saying that there were a number of bedrooms at Hatfield, but they never made him sleep. Because of this it is possible to forgive him for having talked about 'living and dying nations'; though it is of such sayings that living nations die.

"In the same spirit he included the nation of Ireland in the 'Celtic fringe' upon the west of England. It seems sufficient to remark that the fringe is considerably broader than the garment. But the fearful satire of time has very sufficiently avenged the Irish nation upon him, largely by the instrumentality of another fragment of the British robe which he cast away almost contemptuously in the North Sea. The name of it is Heligoland; and he gave it to the Germans.

History of Two Islands. "The subsequent history of the two islands on either side of England has been sufficiently ironical. If Lord Salisbury had foreseen exactly what would happen to Heligoland, as well as to Ireland, he might well have found no sleep at Hatfield in one bedroom or a hundred. In the eastern isle he was strengthening a fortress that would one day be called upon to destroy us. In the western isle he was weakening a fortress that would one day be called upon to save us.

"In that day his trusted ally, William Hohenzollern, was to batter our ships and boats from the Bight of Heligoland; and in that day his old and once imprisoned enemy, John Redmond, was to rise in the hour of English jeopardy, and be thanked in thunder for the free offer of the Irish sword. All that Robert Cecil thought valueless has been our loss, and all that he thought feeble our stay."

A Biography of A Life. Mr. Chesterton declares that it is the English ruling class and not the English who rule England, and he praises as a typical Englishman Cobbett.

"This terrible pamphleteer was one of those men who exist to prove the distinction between a biography and a life. From his biographies you will learn that he was a Radical who had once been a Tory. From his life, if there were one, you would learn that he was always a Radical because he was always a Tory. Few men changed less; it was found him that the politicians like Pitt chopped and changed, like fairs dancing round a sacred rock.

"His secret is buried with him; it is that he really cared about the English people. He was conservative because he cared for his past, and liberal because he cared for his future. But he was much more than this. He had two forms of moral manhood very rare in our time; he was ready to uproot ancient successes, and he was ready to defy oncoming doom.

"Cobbett was defeated because the English people was defeated. After the frame-breaking riots, men, as men, were beaten; and machines, as machines, had beaten them. Peterloo was as much the defeat of the English as Waterloo was the defeat of the French. . . . Though Cobbett sometimes overshoot the mark of truth he never shot away from it like Frodo.

"There are, as it were, valleys of history quite close to us, but hidden by the closer hills. One, as we have seen, is that told in the soft Surrey hills where Cobbett sleeps with his still-born English Revolution."

Saved by the English. Coming to the "awakening of England" in 1914, Mr. Chesterton says that England was saved by a forgotten thing—the English. Simple men with simple motives, the chief one a hate of injustice which grows simpler the longer we stare at it, it came out of their dreary tenements and their tiny shops, their fields and their suburbs and the factories and their rookeries, and asked for the arms of men. In a throng that was at last three million men, the islanders went forth from their island, as simply as the mountaineers had gone forth from their mountain, with their faces to the dawn.

"England was justified of her children," says Mr. Chesterton, "when that 'strange thing happened.'"

"Prussia, now at last armed to the teeth and secure of triumph, stood up before the world, and solemnly, like one taking a sacrament, consecrated her campaign to the crime. She entered by a forbidden door, one which she had herself forbidden—marching upon France through neutralized Belgium, where every step was on her broken word.

Two Facts. "The statistics of non-combatants killed and tortured by this time only stun the imagination. But two friends of my own have been in villages sacked by the Prussian march. One saw an ibernacle containing the Sacrament patiently picked out in a pattern by shot after shot. The other saw a rocking horse and the wooden toys in a nursery laboriously hacked to pieces. Those two facts together will be enough to satisfy some of us of the name of the Spirit that had passed."

Something Singular. "The wonder of that 'strange thing which happened' in a chapter on the Battle of the Marne.

"Day after day this living death endured. And day after day a certain dark truth began to be revealed, bit by bit, certainly to the incredulous wonder of the Prussians, quite possibly to the surprise of the French, and quite as possibly to the surprise of themselves; that there was something singular about the British soldiers.

"That singular thing may be expressed in a variety of ways; but it would be almost certainly expressed ineffectively by anyone who had not had the moral courage to face the facts about this country in the last decades before the war. It may perhaps be best expressed by saying that some thousands of Englishmen were dead; and that England was not.

Then the English went forward through the wood that is called Crecy, and stamped it with their seal for the second time, in the highest moment of all the secular history of man.

Christendom Was Delivered. "But it was not now the Crecy in which English and French knights had met in a more coloured age, in a battle that was rather a tournament. It was a league of all knights for the remains of all knighthood, of all brotherhood in arms or in arts, against that which is and has been radically unknighly and radically unbrotherly from the beginning.

"Much was to happen after—murder and flaming folly and madness in earth and sea and sky; but all men knew in their hearts that the third Prussian thrust had failed, and Christendom was delivered once more. The empire of blood and iron rolled slowly back towards the darkness of the northern forests; and the great nations of the West went forward; where, side by side, as after long lover's quarrel, went the ensigns of St. Denis and St. George."

The Eastern Trust Company.

A few reasons why an estate can be better administered by the Eastern Trust Company than by a personal executor or administrator:— 1. The Company affords the estate absolute security; it has a paid-up capital of $331,000.00, and a reserve fund of $229,300.00. 2. It has a long experience in the work of administering estates; it is incorporated for this business of acting as a trustee, and, unlike many other trust companies, it does no other. 3. Its existence is perpetual. Your estate, in the event of the death of a personal executor or administrator, must look around for a substitute, and the work of administration is impeded during that time, and the new executor is unfamiliar with the policy of his predecessor, and confusion results. This company's existence is perpetual, and there is a continuity of policy in its administration that the death of its officers does not break. 4. It possesses the confidence of governments, universities and prominent charities and administers their funds. 5. A number of other advantages which will appear in due course.

ESSENCE OF GINGER WINE.

Having had considerable correspondence with parties in the Old Country, I have at last succeeded in obtaining the genuine and original recipe for the "Essence of Ginger Wine," which I now offer at 15 cents per bottle. This recipe has been safely guarded for a great many years. It was originally prepared by an old Squire in Lancashire, A.D. 1575. It is made from the purest ingredients, and is strictly non-alcoholic. It makes an ideal Christmas drink for the young and the old. The contents of one fifteen-cent bottle, mixed with three quarts of hot water, in which there has been previously dissolved one and a quarter pounds of sugar, makes the Ginger Wine ready for use. I have much pleasure in introducing this old (but still new) preparation.

The Goat Thieves.

No arrest has yet been made in connection with the robbery of goats from the house of the Widow White-way, on the Battery Road, as exclusively reported in yesterday's Telegram, though the authorities are holding a strict investigation in the hope of rounding up the guilty parties.

The busy mother who must spend part of her day at least in the kitchen, and many hours at her sewing machine, is often puzzled to know what to do with the little one who has just begun to creep. Turning her back for an instant he may make a dash for the top of the stairs or pull down upon his head a whole dresserful of bottles and ornaments by catching hold of the fringe of the scarf that dangles within his reach.

You can make a pen from a small inexpensive kitchen table placed top-side down on the floor. The four legs are round about with small clothes-line rope wrapped with strips of cotton flannel. These are tacked to the posts, likewise wrapped, about half a foot apart. In the bottom of the pen is placed a thick quilt, drawn well over the sides to protect the baby's head from a bump against the boards should he topple over.

A pillow is placed at one side, ready for his occasional nap or his long, after-lunch snooze. His tops are put in the pen within easy reach, but he cannot well fling them about.

Household Notes.

Any bits of left-over jam or jelly added to the filling for pumpkin pie will improve the flavor.
Doily luncheon napkins are made of squares of linen, finished with a crocheted picot edge.
Carbolic acid is a good disinfectant, but useless unless diluted with at least twenty times its bulk of cold water.
If a little ammonia is mixed with the beeswax and turpentine used for floor polishing, the wax will dissolve quickly.
Prevent the frying eggs from sputtering and flying by adding a generous pinch of flour to the fat, and stirring it.
If the closet where you hang tins and cooking utensils is badly lighted, try painting the hooks and nails white.
Chamois leathers should be washed in tepid water and dried with the soap in them; they will then be nice and soft.
Camphor will remove fruit stains from table linen. Before the linen goes into the wash go over the spots with camphor.
If the hair is dry and brittle, give it a good application of vaseline or pure olive oil on the scalp the night before shampooing.
A wringer that is strained from wringing colored cloths can be cleaned by rubbing the rollers with an excellent saturated in paraffin.
Every growing child should rest one hour each day. If this rule is followed it is not so apt to take colds or any infectious disease.
Unightly cracks on furniture can easily be filled with beeswax. Soften the beeswax until pliable, then press it firmly into the cracks.
If a tablecloth is beyond repair, cut it up into various sized pieces, hem them around and they will be found most useful in the kitchen.
Pickles and vinegar should be kept in glass jars or bottles. When kept in glazed ware the vinegar acts on the glaze and forms a poison.
Cardboard boxes cut into convenient sizes will provide you with excellent scrapers with which to clean trash out of the kitchen sink.
Always start the rice pudding on top of the stove, allow it to boil, stirring it frequently, until the rice is done, then set it in the oven to brown.
When making pancakes, put one rounded tablespoonful of lard into the mixture and you will not have to grease the pan and the cakes will not stick.
A palatable way to serve cold, boiled potatoes is to put them through the sieve. Season them well with butter and salt; form into cones and brown in the oven.
Do not water window plants, unless the soil looks dry. Put enough water on the plant to moisten the soil all through. Too frequent watering will sour the soil.
When fish comes into the house a few hours before it is cooked, it should be cleaned, wiped dry and put into a closely covered vessel, not tin, and put as near the ice as possible.
Most cereals should be thoroughly washed before they are cooked. After putting the dry cereal in the vessel, fill it to the top with water and see how much trash will float off.
When a garment has become grimy with dirt, do not wear it out with rubbing, but put it on to boil in water to which a little kerosene has been added. This will loosen grime as nothing else will.

We heartily thank our friends for the very liberal patronage they have accorded us during the year 1915. We feel all the more gratified that while the proprietor is in Europe fighting the battles of Empire, of Freedom and of Right, those at home have so generously supported us in his absence. Assuring our patrons that we will do our utmost in the coming year, as in the past, to give them the best possible service, we wish them all a HAPPY AND PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR.
