Do You Perspire Freely?

Many people are acutely sensitive to the odors arising from excessive perspiration, and yet under no circumstances is it wise to completely check perspiration for it is essential to health—many of the impurities of the body are gotten rid of by perspiration.

O'MARA'S PERSPIRATION DEODORANT

does not unduly check perspiration, but when properly applied it keeps the body comfortable and sweet—it counteracts body odors. 75c. a Jar. PETER O'MARA, The Druggist, 46-48 WATER ST. W.

Happiness Secured At A Heavy Cost!

CHAPTER II.
OFF TO DEEPDENE.

"Suppose we go and talk it over with Len?" Addie suggests, evidently becoming as deeply bitten with the Deepdene mania as I am myself. "The scheme certainly does seem to have a good many advantages; but the question is, how Len would like it? Fancy that dear, town-loving, thorough-paced old bohemian existing in his summer without a chance to quarrel over a London fog," she adds, with a laugh, as she follows me up to the little painting room Len calls his "den," and in which, looking very handsome and picturesque in his shabby, old velvet painting coat and scarlet fez, he is just now at work amid a grand chaos of dirty cans, palettes, brushes, sponges, soiled cloths, and miscellaneous odds and ends, that go to make up an artist's paraphernalia.

Bursting with excitement, I proceed, without waiting for Addie to speak, to unfold my plans. "Well, yes; it certainly would be a capital thing if we could manage to turn the old property into some small account at last," Len admits, with a reflective sigh as I pause, more for the want of breath than anything. "If we were living here we shouldn't be paying rent here; but what is to compensate me for the loss of the studios and picture galleries? Country life may be all very well for people who like it, but it strikes me that some of us would be developing a tendency toward softening of the brain before we had been there a month," he adds, taking up a fresh supply of paint on his brush, and touching up the nose of the St. Oestlin on the easel before him with a redemptive pucker on his white forehead, that shows his thoughts are not of the pleasantest. "Still, the suggestion is worth consideration; and if Doctor Fuller approves of Devonshire air and all that sort of thing, I don't know but we might do worse than carry it out. I'll talk to him about it when he comes in presently."

Twenty-four hours later it is a settled thing. To my satisfaction the doctor emphatically approves of the Deepdene project; and by that gentleman's advice it is also arranged that Len is to stay on for another week in London, while Addie and I set out for Devco at once, in order to get the old house a little aired and prepared for the reception of our invalid.

"But don't you think I had better write to Warden, and get him to send a woman or somebody over to the old place just to light fires and let in a little air and daylight before you get there, girls?" Len inquires, in a high state of edginess at the bare idea of allowing us to undertake a journey without his protection.

"Not for worlds!" I reply, negating the proposal as soon as started. "I very much prefer exploring it myself, like a second Stanley or Livingstone. One never knows what one may come upon in a ghostly, romantic old house that has been shut up for ten of fifteen years."

"Bats and mildew, most likely," as the grim reply.

But so far as the woman is concerned, Len gives in to my wishes, though he writes off to Mr. Warden immediately, informing him of our intention of coming to stay at Deepdene for a time.

Allie and I, who have never been out of London for more than a few hours together in the whole course of our lives, are in positive raptures at the idea of spending a whole summer in the country. The thought of living in a great, rambling, picturesque old house, where we can do as we please from morning till night, with no one to find fault with or object to us in any way, strikes me as such a delightful prospect that I am in a positive fever of excitement to be off.

But the best of it all is the garden! Only think of our having a really good old-fashioned garden, with quaint borders, shady walks, and tall, ivied walls! I exclaim, quoting from Len's oft-repeated description of Deepdene, as Addie and I sit drinking in the pleasant glimpses of ferny dell and primrose-covered banks revealed through the openings of the trees as the train whirrs us along with such speed toward the little Devonshire station at which we are to alight, that the rattle of the brakes and the cry, "Hanbury: change here for Colton and Gadsmead!" comes upon me as a positive surprise.

"And now, Lesley, the first thing we have to do is to find some one who can direct us to the Red Lion," says Allie, referring to Leonard's parting injunction about taking up our quarters for a few days, while Deepdene is being cleaned and aired, at the quiet hotel which claims that sanguinary and ferocious animal as its distinguishing sign. "I dare say we shall not have much difficulty about finding it," she adds, gathering up our wraps and parcels in a little flutter of excitement as the train pulls up at a dreary little country station, on the platform of which one solitary mortal besides the station master—a gentleman with his hands in the pockets of a careless but well-cut coat, and a handsome beard on his splendid dark face—strolls leisurely up and down.

"There is a porter coming this way; now, I dare say he can tell us all about it," I reply, as the uniformed official comes leisurely up.

"The Red Lion? Oh! yes, miss; turn to the right, and five minutes' walk will bring you straight up to it," is the reply, as I spring lightly out onto the platform just in time to meet the eyes of the stranger, who, cigar in mouth, strolls calmly back, bestowing upon us a half-curious, half-wondering glance that brightens into sudden and unmistakable admiration as he passes.

CHAPTER III. THE LANGUAGE OF THE EYES.

LOADED with shawls and parcels, Addie stands on the step ready to follow me, when, with a pleasant "Pray allow me," the stranger advances and politely assists her to alight.

A courtesy that is accepted as easily and pleasantly as it is offered; though I cannot quite make out whether she is conscious of the intense admiration with which she is being regarded as she rests her hand for a moment on the strong arm put up to receive it.

What is it I read in that glance—admiration, interest, or the beginning of something stronger and deeper than either?

I wonder, as I stand passively by, while the gray and dark eyes meet, speaking together in a language more eloquent than words—a language that brings a swift, bright glow to the face that droops so shyly under the dark eyes of the stranger, who looks as if he could never take them off it any more.

Love at first sight! A modern Romeo and Juliet, I think, with a smile, as I remember all I have ever heard or read of the swiftness with which that mighty passion which rules the world sometimes springs into existence; and the next moment the stranger, who looks to my admiring eyes like a very king among men, has lifted his hat as respectfully as if we were a couple to meet again.

We set out, as directed, down the broad, white, breezy road that leads to the little town of Hanbury, the tall spires and twisted chimney stacks of which are peeping prettily up through the trees in the bright spring sunshine, and quite on the outskirts of which we come upon the Red Lion—one of those quaint, old country hotels, the glory and prestige of which has long since departed, together with the post chaises and mail coaches of our grandfathers' day.

A victim to innovation and the march of progress, the old house stands as lonely and deserted to-day once was full of life and bustle; and just inside of the entrance we are met by the landlady, a portly, red-faced woman in a violet dress, every seam of which is evidently sustaining as great a strain as it can possibly bear, and a cap that is a mere garland of scarlet poppies and pink roses.

"I've a couple of nice rooms that will suit you exactly," she declares, in answer to our inquiries; "everything comfortable and quite private, you see," she adds, ushering us into a low-ceilinged, queerly shaped room, which, rather scant as to furniture, is scrupulously clean and redolent of dried lavender and spring violets.

"While you take off your wraps, I'll send the servant up to light the fire. It is the end of April, but I always notice that London people are inclined to be chilly," she adds, bustling off toward the kitchen in quest of something wherewith to satisfy the demands of the very excellent appetite our journey has produced. "A chop, with a good strong cup of tea, my dears," she suggests, with a cheery good nature, that makes me feel as much at home as if I had been here a year.

"Did you notice that gentleman who spoke to us at the railway station, Lesley?" Addie inquires, as the door closes behind our attendant, who has just brought us in a tray with the tea and chops. "What a splendid-looking man he was! Such a singular fascination in that careless manner of his!"

"Yes, he was nice looking," I admit, in an absent tone, more interested for the moment in the subject of tea than the appearance of the stranger. "But, for all that, I don't think he need have stared at us quite so hard, though. Ah, talk about nectar and ambrosia!" I add, a little irrelevantly, cutting rather deeply into a nice, crisp, home-baked tart as I speak. "Do you suppose that it ever came up to chops and tea, with Devonshire butter and cream?"

Instant Relief From Eczema

You can stop that awful itch from eczema and other skin troubles in two seconds. Seems too good to be true—but it is true, and we vouch for it. Just a few drops of the simple, cooling wash, the D. D. D. Prescription for eczema, a new remedy that is attracting widespread attention and the itch stops instantly. The first bottle will prove it.

Eczema, Bad Leg, Ring-worm, Salt Rheum, Barber's Itch, Psoriasis, Open Sores and Itching Rash and other skin troubles are caused by myriads of germs at work in the skin. Unless these germs are promptly destroyed they rapidly multiply, gnawing their way deep into the sensitive tissue. This is what causes that awful itch, and what seemed a mere rash may grow and develop into a loathsome and torturing skin disease with its years and years of misery.

Don't take any chances! Destroy the germs at the beginning of the trouble with that soothing and cleansing wash, the D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema.

If you have skin trouble of any kind, get a bottle of D. D. D. Prescription to-day. Sold Everywhere. Recommended by T. M. Richards & Co., A. W. Kennedy, M. Connors, Peter O'Mara.

of dabbesses—or, rather, as if Addie were a duchess.

For me I instinctively feel he has neither eyes nor thoughts; and with a few of thanks we have parted, never in all human probability, I imagine, to meet again.

It is the end of April, but I always notice that London people are inclined to be chilly," she adds, bustling off toward the kitchen in quest of something wherewith to satisfy the demands of the very excellent appetite our journey has produced. ### WAR REVIEW.

The Germans apparently are on the eve of trying to end their retreat from the Soissons-Rheims salient and turning and offering frontal battle in France to the Allied armies. The day of rearguard action seems to be drawing to a close. Violent counter-measures against their antagonists already are in progress by the Germans over most of the front, and seemingly for the present at least the Allied advance has been materially slowed down. Further gains have been made by the Allies, but only after the bitterest kind of fighting, and these gains have been considerably less in extent than those of previous days when the Germans stiffened the retiring armies by rushing numerous fresh divisions to their aid and adding greatly to the aggregate strength of their fighting forces within the fast disappearing pocket between Soissons and Rheims. As a result of violent counter attacks delivered with huge effectiveness, the Germans have been able to force the falling back by the "Americans and French on several positions, but nowhere were they able to find a spot weak enough through which they could penetrate the Allied line. Standing firmly and giving ground only under absolute necessity the Allied troops everywhere have exacted a huge toll in men killed, wounded or made prisoners from the Germans in their every effort, partly to retrieve their losses of ground. Particularly heavy has been fighting in the center of the salient and on the right and left anchor points of the salient resting respectively southwest of Rheims and south of Soissons. It is still on the two anchor points that the enemy is keeping a watchful eye, fearful that the Allied troops may yet press back the line and threaten the armies of the German Crown Prince with the pincer manoeuvre, for the enemy is not yet far enough out of the pocket to have passed the danger of such a contingency. In the centre of the pocket north of the Ourcq river the Germans, in a counter attack, drove the Americans out of Clerges, but this slight gain was thereafter overcome later by the penetration of the Americans north from Serzy. Bougnere, lying on the west side of the pocket, northwest of Fere-en-Tardenois, also was taken by the Germans but later the Franco-American troops recaptured it, and with Grand Rozier in their possession they still hold vantage points for a small turning movement towards Fere, which, if successful, would give them a goodly number of prisoners. Southwest of Rheims the enemy delivered violent attacks against the French from both sides of St. Euphrase. Their effort to capture the village, however, was futile, although they pushed their line slightly forward on the west side of it. Southwest of Ypres the Australian troops are keeping up their attacks against the Germans, and have captured the town of Merris and 169 prisoners and a number of trench mortars and machine guns. The Germans at last reports were heavily bombarding the new positions of the British American troops fighting north of the Ourcq in the Soissons-Rheims salient have enlarged their victory of Monday at Serzy, where they defeated divisions of Germany's picked troops and took and held the village against counter attacks. Notwithstanding continued heavy opposition by guns, machine guns and large numbers of the enemy, soldiers from the Middle West and East States drove their line north from Serzy on Tuesday for a distance of about two miles, and were resting at night on the slopes approaching the woods beyond the town of Nesles, where they stood at last reports. The Americans formed the apex of the line there, the French were going on between the Americans and Germans, the French on both sides of the battle front also moved forward for goodly gains northeast of Fere-en-Tardenois and east of Serzy. In the Nesles forest the Germans are holding strong positions, from which they are shelling, but thus far ineffectively, the remaining Allied lines before them. Prussian Guards and Bavarians were in the thick of the fighting throughout Tuesday, but again they were outmanoeuvred and outfought and again suffered heavy casualties.

A Real Tire Saving

NO man, who can afford to drive a car, is going to substitute another make of tire for Dunlop Traction Tread with the purpose of saving money. He really saves money, in the first place, by buying "Traction," because with "The Master Tire" quality makes the friends and consistency retains them. Then what about all those punctures and that skidding—Avoided Through Using "Traction?"

The splendid record of Dunlop "Special" anti-skid can also be rightfully emphasized. Introduced in 1915, "SPECIAL" has come right into the front ranks of tread.

And Dunlop "PLAIN"—the original tire of the industry—has countless supporters wherever autos are used.

WAR REVIEW.

The Germans apparently are on the eve of trying to enter retreat from the Soissons-Rheims salient and turning and offering frontal battle in France to the Allied armies. The day of rearguard action seems to be drawing to a close. Violent counter measures against their antagonists already are in progress by the Germans over most of the front, and seemingly for the present at least the Allied advance has been materially slowed down. Further gains have been made by the Allies, but only after the bitterest kind of fighting, and these gains have been considerably less in extent than those of previous days before the Germans stiffened the retiring armies by rushing numerous fresh divisions to their aid and adding greatly to the aggregate strength of their fighting forces within the fast disappearing pocket between Soissons and Rheims. As a result of violent counter attacks delivered with huge effectives, the Germans have been able to force the falling back by the Americans and French on several positions, but nowhere were they able to find a spot weak enough through which they could penetrate the Allied line. Standing firmly and giving ground only under absolute necessity, the Allied troops everywhere have exacted a huge toll in men killed, wounded or made prisoners from the Germans in their every effort, partly to retrieve their losses of ground. Particularly heavy has been the fighting in the center of the salient and on the right and left anchor points of the salient resting respectively southwest of Rheims and south of Soissons. It is still on the two anchor points that the enemy is keeping a watchful eye, fearful that the Allied troops may yet press back the line and threaten the armies of the German Crown Prince with the pincer manoeuvre, for the enemy is not yet far enough out of the pocket to have passed the danger of such a contingency. In the center of the pocket north of the Ourcq river the Germans, in a counter attack, drove the Americans out of Clerges, but this slight gain was more than overthrown later by the penetration of the Americans north from Serzy, Deugnoux, lying on the west side of the pocket, northwest of Fere-en-Tardenois, also was taken by the Germans but later the Franco-American troops recaptured it, and with Grand Rosier in their possession they still hold vantage points for a small turning movement towards Fere, which, if successful, would give them a goodly number of prisoners. Southwest of Rheims the enemy delivered violent attacks against the French from both sides of St. Euphrasie. Their effort to capture the village, however, was futile, although they pushed their line slightly forward on the west side of it. Southwest of Ypres the Australian troops are keeping up their attacks against the Germans, and have captured the town of Merris and 169 prisoners and a number of trench mortars and machine guns. The Germans at last reports were heavily bombarding the new positions of the British, American troops fighting north of the Ourcq in the Soissons-Rheims salient have enlarged their victory of Monday at Serzy, where they defeated divisions of Germany's picked troops and took and held the village against counter attacks. Notwithstanding continued heavy opposition by guns, machine guns and large numbers of the enemy, soldiers from the Middle West and East States drove their line north from Serzy on Tuesday for a distance of about two miles, and were resting at night on the slopes approaching the woods beyond the town of Nesles, where they stood at last reports. The Americans formed the apex of the long line running across the salient. While the fierce fighting was going on between the Americans and Germans, the French on both sides of the battle front also moved forward for goodly gains, westward of Fere-en-Tardenois and east of Serzy. In the Nesles forest the Germans are holding strong positions, from which they are shelling, but thus far ineffectively, the menacing Allied lines before them. Prussian Guards and Bavarians were in the thick of the fighting throughout Tuesday, but again they were outmanoeuvred and outfought and again suffered heavy casualties.

A FABULOUS SUM.

LONDON, July 30. The biggest appropriation demanded since the beginning of the war will be submitted to the House of Commons Thursday, says the Daily Telegraph. The vote of credit to be asked will be for £700,000,000; the previous highest was £650,000,000 voted a year ago. The new appropriation is required to finance the war until the end of October.

INTER-ALLIED FOOD CONTROL.

LONDON, July 30. The Conference in London between the Food Controllers of the United Kingdom, United States, France and Italy is continuing its labours, and meetings are being held almost daily, and it is expected that the controllers will conclude their discussions by the end of the week. Satisfactory progress has been made and the establishment of an Inter-Allied Food Council, composed of the controllers, is now an accomplished fact. A resolution adopted to-day emphasized the need for economy and the elimination of waste, as well as increased production. In order to build up the stocks as an assurance against all possibilities, it concludes, "We cannot administer the food problem on the basis of one year's wants but we must prepare for long continuance if we are to insure absolute victory."

IN THE FAR NORTH.

LONDON, July 30. A conflict between Entente forces, in the Murmann region, and combined Finnish and German troops is imminent near Enerejaesen, according to passengers on the first steamer to arrive at Varde, Norway, from Archangel since the autumn of 1917, says a Christiania despatch to the Daily Express. The Germans are reported to be moving toward Petchengina on the coast from Enerejaesen, and are repairing a road built some years ago by the Russo-Finnish Government. It is believed the Entente forces are constructing a road from Petchengina to Salljaervi to meet the foe half way.

AUSTRALIANS AGAIN.

LONDON, July 30. German positions in the Ferris region on the Flanders front were entered last night by Australian troops, who took forty prisoners, the War Office announced to-day.

JAPO-SIBERIAN AGREEMENT.

STOCKHOLM, July 30. (British Admiralty per Wireless Press).—The official order of the Siberian Government, published at Omsk, stated on July 12th that Japan had granted to the Siberian Government £5,000,000 sterling, for the formation of a strong army. In return, Siberia undertakes to supply Japanese troops which arrive there with provisions. It was also announced that the Serberian Government is carrying on negotiations with America.

RIOTING IN GERMANY.

AMSTERDAM, July 30. (Bulletin).—A new strike has broken out at Kalk, Rhenish Prussia, near Cologne, according to the Echo Belge. Machine guns were used to repress the movement and the leaders were arrested, the paper declares. The police, it is added, were still busy when the troops were sent dispersing the crowds which continued to gather in the streets.

A HUN SEASM.

LONDON, July 29. (Bulletin) By the A.P.—The Germans began counter attacking very heavily along the battle front, according to news that reached London shortly after noon to-day. There was an especially heavy one in the American sector, resulting in driving the Americans out of the village of Clerges, about five and a half miles southwest of Fere-en-Tardenois. Another thrust drove the Americans back from Bougneux near Grand Rosier, northwest of Fere-en-Tardenois.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

LONDON, July 30. Thomas Francis Anson, third Earl of Lichfield, Director of the National Provincial Bank of England, and of the Bank of Australasia, was found dead to-day at Shughborough Park, Stafford, with a gun shot wound in the head. Lord Lichfield was born in 1856.

INDEPENDENTLY OF GERMANY.

AMSTERDAM, July 30. Turkey is going to handle the situation in the Caucasus, according to her own ideas. This is indicated in a telegram from Constantinople dated July 28th, which quotes an article in the newspaper "Wasfir Ektjar" presenting the Turkish viewpoint. "We have nothing to say against the principle laid down in the Brest-Litovsk Treaty," says the newspaper, "but when the Caucasus, newly re-organized, turned to us, and master of its own destinies, refused to be bound by the Treaty, what was more natural for us than to take into consideration the necessities of this new situation created on one important eastern front. Could we close our ears to the appeal of the Government of a people largely of the same race and same creed as ourselves? We are aware of the action, and its present progress to place under German control, Thrace and Bursa, is a logical consequence of the application of the Brest-Litovsk Treaty. How could this treaty be taken into consideration in the affairs of the Caucasus seeing that the Bolshevik Government has not even been able to return to us in accordance with the treaty, our eastern frontier, and that in the Caucasus influences, freely independent of the Bolshevik Government, have arisen." 3 am.—This reported attitude on the part of Turkey accounts in part for the report received through Copenhagen, that Turkey and Germany had severed relations.

In Old Age

Health and comfort in old age depends largely on keeping the liver and kidneys in healthful action. Pains and aches, stiffness of the joints, lumbago and rheumatism tell of poisons left in the blood by sluggishness of the liver and kidneys. People in advanced years hold Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in high esteem because of the promptness and certainty with which they awaken the action of kidneys, liver and bowels.

Telegraph. The vote of credit to be asked will be for £700,000,000; the previous highest was £650,000,000 voted a year ago. The new appropriation is required to finance the war until the end of October.

TRUTH WILL OUT.

AMSTERDAM, July 30. A memorandum demanding ruthless action against the men at the helm of the German Government in 1914, as guilty criminals, has been issued by former Capt. Von Boerfelde, says a Berlin telegram, quoting the Cologne Volks Zeitung. The memorandum is entitled: "A necessary correction of the German white book," and was sent to the members of the Reichstag last week by the Captain, who was prominent in connection with the Prince Lichnowky affair, brought about by the Prince who was German Ambassador to London in 1914, declaring that Germany was responsible for deactivating the war. Capt. Von Boerfelde's memorandum says that the German leaders at the beginning of the war were guilty of appalling deeds, and acted on the service of traitors. He demands the immediate arrest of former Chancellor Von Bethmann Hollweg, and declares that if the Reichstag does not fulfill his demand, the curse of this and all succeeding generations will fall upon it for cowardly neglect of duty. In case of the Reichstag refusal Capt. Von Boerfelde declares he will immediately request passes for himself and family to Switzerland, because he will no longer share Germany's shame and dishonor.

SEVERE FIGHTING ON THE OURQC.

WASHINGTON, July 30. Severe fighting resulting from heavy counter attacks by fresh enemy troops beyond the line of the Ourcq, was reported in General Pershing's communication for yesterday received to-day at the War Department.

DELUDING THE PEOPLE.

AMSTERDAM, July 29. Admiral Von Holtendorff, Chief of the German Admiralty staff, interviewed the Cologne Gazette on a statement attributed to Sir John Jellicoe, the former British Sea Lord, that the U-boat war was a failure, and that more U-boats were being destroyed than were being built, said the statement is incorrect, and its credit would prove a fatal error for our opponents. The fact is that merely by appropriating neutral tonnage the situation has undergone a temporary amelioration especially regarding military supplies for America. Admiral Von Holtendorff asserted that the German policy in attacking every ship sailing in the enemy service, resulted apart from the destruction of large quantities of war material and supplies the infliction of enormous economical damage upon the enemy. The enemy losses in ships and cargoes alone to July 1st, 1918, are estimated to fully surpass fifty billion marks. Asked the reason why few American transports were sunk, the Admiral replied the Americans have at their disposal for disembarkation the coastal region from the northern point of Scotland to the French Mediterranean ports. With dozens of embarkation places we must put our boats to lurk off these harbours on the chance of getting a shot at the strongly guarded convoy of fast American transports. If one remembers all that must be realized, and what little progress we have made, it is clear that we are still far from winning.

WORK OF BRITISH AIRMEN.

LONDON, July 30. (Official). On July 29th ground mist and low visibility interfered with artillery observation, but our bombing and fighting machines carried out the usual work. Eleven tons of bombs were dropped on enemy dumps and billets, and 14 hostile planes were destroyed, with the loss of two of ours. During the night, in spite of unfavorable weather, bombs were dropped by us on Bray and Bapaume. All our machines returned.

AUSTRIAN PREMIER'S PEACE TALK.

AMSTERDAM, July 30. We are ready to conclude an honorable peace as soon as our opponents renounce their hostile plans aiming at our destruction or repression, said Baron von Hussarak, Austrian Premier, in presenting his Cabinet to the Upper House of the Austrian Parliament, according to Vienna advices, according to Vienna advices, that so far as the Central Powers are concerned, the war is a defensive one. So long as our opponents take the standpoint of one-sided dictation, he continued, there is nothing for us to do but to continue the war and carry it on so vigorously that it will be shortened. In war as in peace, Austria will not be alone, he added. Our alliance with Germany is a real affair of the heart and will deepen under the influence of peace. There is nothing menacing in this alliance, the war-like contents of which were forced upon the Central Powers by their opponents will cease as soon as they extend the hand of peace. (Continued on 5th page.)

Enemy's Withdrawal Ordered

LONDON, July 30. There has been heavy fighting near the Buzant railway, five miles south of Soissons, and also in Flessier Wood about five miles further south. In this latter locality 45 prisoners were taken belonging to three divisions of the enemy. Now engaged in the Marne salient there are 71 divisions of which ten belong to the northern army of Crown Prince Rupprecht. The enemy's withdrawal is reported still orderly and military opinion in London discounts the possibility of rounding up of Germans in the salient.

INTERESTING STATEMENT OF SIR ERIC GEDDES.

LONDON, July 30. Sir E. Geddes, 1st Lord of the British Admiralty gave the House of Commons to-day a review of the naval situation, and particularly defended the policy of starting national shipbuilding yards. In discussing the shipbuilding programme in connection with the navy estimate he compared the situation to-day regarding tonnage with that of a year ago. Then the net loss in tonnage was 550,000 gross tons monthly. Submarines then were not being destroyed as fast as the Germans were building them, while the merchant shippers were short of men and material. Four hundred thousand tons net loss monthly was the British deficit. Every yard that could take naval work has been put on naval building. Gradually during the year Sir Eric continued the position had changed in many directions. Instead of losing tonnage the world's net result loss in the last quarter had been a gain roughly of 100,000 tons a month. The Allied and neutral world was as well off on June 30, as on Jan. 1, 1918. This result, he said, had been obtained by reduced sinkings and increased buildups. The reduced sinkings had been arrived at said the First Lord by a greater productive effort devoted to warships and small craft of anti-sub character. Nothing was included of commandeered or acquired tonnage in this result. The problem of a year ago was considered by many almost inconceivable and insoluble, Sir Eric Geddes continued mercantile carrying power was being sunk at a rate which soon would have meant an inability to continue the war and there was no tried recognized means of combatting the campaign. It was necessary to provide a building programme of anti-sub, craft, mines and other appliances and merchant ships on a greatly increased scale. The total increase in Labor last year in shipbuilding yards and marine engineering was 65,000. The original demand of a year ago was for 80,000 additional part of them skilled. Owing to events on the west front and the great demands for technical men for the force and army, it was impossible to get the proper quota of skilled men by the withdrawal from the army. Unskilled men were offered freely, but couldn't be absorbed because of the lack of skilled men.

WHY THE GERMANS ARE FIGHTING DESPERATELY.

LONDON, July 30. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—The capture of the formidable Butte Chalmont, which it was once expected the Germans would be able to hold, shows that the German retreat has by no means ended, and it is doubtful if the enemy will be able to hold the Vesle line for the Allied pressure on the two pivots of defence south of Soissons and south of Rheims is increasing. In that connection the communique's mention of the Scots at Buzanq, south of Soissons, is interesting, showing that the British now are engaged on the western as well as the eastern side of the salient. Should these pivotal positions go in, there is still the possibility of the re-treating becoming a disaster. Therefore the Germans are desperately defending the triangular bastion between Soissons, Culchy and the Aisne, which General Mangin is hammering from the west, while General Degoutte is advancing northward from Fere endeavoring to turn it.

The Plot That Failed.

For some time past it has been evident, even to the casual observer, that the Government Press has concentrated its efforts upon the person of the Hon. M. P. Gibbs for the purpose of destroying him politically.

While the Herald did not state the name of the lawyer involved, pains were nevertheless taken to disseminate as widely as possible, on the public street and elsewhere, the impression that Mr. Gibbs was in the question.

It is difficult to imagine anyone other than a man of the type and calibre of P. T. McGrath who would venture to publish a story of this character without first attempting to ascertain the real facts.

Partridge Berries.

Now that the time is getting late, we would call the attention of the proper authorities to a very important subject. As everybody knows, hundreds, if not thousands of gallons of partridge berries are picked every year before they are ripe.

There is now another aspect to this matter, and this is the dimension of sugar for sweetening. As everybody knows much more sugar is needed for unripe berries, and as the sugar supply just now is short.

Czechs Will Fight Austria Forever.

AMSTERDAM, July 26.—The Czechs declare they will hate and fight Austria forever, and God willing, they will in the end destroy her completely, because Austria embodies a century of crime against the liberty of mankind, said Deputy Stransky, a Czech Socialist, in moving in the Austrian Lower House an indictment of the ministers for their decree ordering the partition of Bohemia.

"The highest national duty of the Czechs is to harm Austria wherever and whenever possible," continued Stransky. "This we owe to the Czech people and to our loyalty to the Bohemian Crown, which loyalty can only be put in practice by betraying Austria. Therefore, we are determined to betray her whenever we can."

BRITISH OFFICIAL.

LONDON, July 30. (Official.)—During the latter part of the night patrols of the Australian division who had entered German positions about Merris successfully established themselves east of the village which they surrounded and captured. One hundred and sixty-nine prisoners and a number of trench mortars and machine guns were taken by us in the course of this enterprise. Our casualties were light. A few additional prisoners were taken by our patrols during the day in Nippe forest. The hostile artillery showed great activity to-day against our new positions at Merris.

GAS ARTILLERY ACTIVE.

LONDON, July 30.—The enemy artillery was active in the region northwest of Albert throwing in gas shells. It also displayed activity between La Bassee Canal and Ypres. The text of the statement reads: We captured a few prisoners last night in a successful raid in the neighborhood of Ayeette. Shortly after the enemy's positions about Merris. Forty prisoners have been taken by our troops in this locality. The hostile artillery has been active with gas shells northwest of Albert, and has also shown activity at a number of points between La Bassee Canal and Ypres.

Czechs Will Fight Austria Forever.

AMSTERDAM, July 26.—The Czechs declare they will fight Austria forever, and God willing, they will in the end destroy her completely, because Austria embodies a century of crime against the liberty of mankind, said Deputy Stransky, a Czech Socialist, in moving in the Austrian Lower House an indictment of the ministers for their decree ordering the partition of Bohemia. "The highest national duty of the Czechs is to harm Austria wherever and whenever possible," continued Stransky. "This we owe to the Czech people and to our loyalty to the Bohemian Crown, which loyalty can only be put in practice by betraying Austria. Therefore, we are determined to betray her whenever we can."

VICTORY FOR CZECH-SLOVAKS. WASHINGTON, July 30. The capture by Czech-Slovak forces of several cities in the Caucasus and a Black Sea port where two Russian warships were seized and a steamer sunk, is reported in the Austrian semi-official newspaper Reichspost, according to information received by the Czech-Slovak National Council here to-day. The warship guns were turned against the port of Nororok where they were seized, the newspaper said, but no details as to the damage done were given. Cities captured include Statorper, Strjbration and Michelovka while it was said that the Czech-Slovaks operating with the Russian White Guards, had occupied Syran.

WANTS MORE AIRPLANES. WASHINGTON, July 30. Secretary Baker announced to-night that General Pershing had requested the immediate shipment of a large number of airplanes and bombing planes for the use of the American forces, and that the order has been placed on the department's priority list insuring prompt transportation.

To-Day's Messages.

9.30 A. M. CORPORATION RAISES WAGES. NEW YORK, To-day. The present is the seventh raise in wages, which the United States Steel operatives generally have received since January of 1916. The seven increases aggregated 75 per cent. Six of them were for ten per cent, each and one granted for last March was for 15 per cent. The seven advances increase the corporations payroll by about three million dollars monthly, as compared with the latter part of 1916. Approximately 300,000 men will benefit.

CORNSTALKS SUCCESS. LONDON, To-day. Australian troops have captured the village of Morris southwest of Ypres, according to Field Marshal Haig's report from British headquarters to-night.

BIG LINER ASHORE. VICTORIA, B. C. To-day. While feeling her way through a dense fog, early this p.m., on O. P. K. Liner drove ashore at the entrance to the Straits of Juan De Fuca, on the American side. The exact location where the liner struck was one mile south of Cape Flattery. The big ship piled on the reefs with considerable force, and is taking water in number 1 and 2 holds.

ALLIES ADVANCE LINE. PARIS, To-day. North East of Fere-en-Tardenois the Allied troops in local fighting to-day, advanced their line and also, retained the ground taken in the region of Serzy, notwithstanding many German counter attacks. Attempts by the Germans to retake the village of St. Euphrasie, southwest of Rheims, failed, although the enemy advanced slightly south of the village. The statement reads: On the right bank of the Ourcq some local fighting enabled us to advance to the heights northeast of Tardenois, in the region of Serzy. We retained our gains in spite of many reactions by the enemy. Southwest of Rheims the enemy attacked on both sides of St. Euphrasie but failed, although they advanced slightly south of the village. There is nothing important to report from the rest of the front.

Rope of Pearls.

UNIQUE GIFTS IN AID OF BRITISH RED CROSS. A golden book which will be presented to the Imperial War Museum and which will bear the imprint of the name of every woman who has made a gift will be the reward of subscribers to the great Red Cross pearl necklace, the feature of the auction sale in London for the benefit of this organization. From all over the world pearls or checks for the purchase of pearls are being received, at the headquarters of the British Red Cross Society. Women of Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa are vying with the women of the United States and Brazil, Argentina and other South American republics. Communications received in a single day concerning this project bear postmarks as remote as Bloomfontein, Bushire, Canton, the Marquesas Isles, Karachi and Buenos Ayres. One letter was addressed from Sibkoku.

There is a pathos about some of these unconventional scrolls. One enclosed a cheque for $500 "to go to the purchase of a pearl in memory of my beloved son, who fell in action Nov. 10, 1915." Another is from a war widow, who forwarded three magnificent specimens, "as I feel my dear husband would have wished had he lived." "Anything to help the dear, brave boys who have given so much in this dreadful war," is a single line on a blank sheet of paper which accompanied a further gift of $2,500.

The rope when completed will be the most handsome of its kind in the world. And it is estimated that the special sale, which will take place soon at Christie's auction rooms, the bidding will be of such an order that each single pearl will be sufficient to allay a whole year's suffering to many wounded men. Apart from the necklace the Red Cross is receiving all kinds of priceless relics and curios. Aristocratic chateaux throughout the country have been overhauling their collections of family heirlooms, with the result that many articles of great antique value and historic association are making their appearance from the most unexpected quarters.

PLAGIARISED AND OTHERWISE.

CUBS DEFEAT WANDERERS. Last evening's game between the Cubs and Wanderers was attended by quite a large gathering of fans. The game went into eight innings; Murphy's hit in the eighth scored Philadelphia and ended the game by a score of 7 to 6. Hall pitching for the Cubs had fifteen strike-outs, and allowed but one walk. It seems that Claude gets better as he goes along. McIsaac also pitched an excellent game, having nine strike-outs to his credit and but one base-on-balls. There were plenty of exciting moments throughout the game and also quite a few errors. McCrindle's catch in the 5th inning was a feature of the game. Good catches were also made by Brien of the Wanderers and Bell of the Cubs. Messrs. Chesman and Montgomerie were the Umpires, and Messrs. Channing and Mullings, scorers. The score by innings was as follows:— Wanderers... 0 2 0 0 0 4 0 0 6 Cubs... 0 1 1 1 2 0 0 1 7

STANDING OF THE CLUBS. The result of last night's game puts the Cubs in first place, with the Wanderers second, and the B.I.S. and Red Lions tied for third place.

MOUNT CASHEL. The B.I.S. and Cubs will play off for the H. D. Reid Cup at Mount Cashel this afternoon. The following will be the lineups:— B.I.S.—Carew, pitcher; Brazio, catcher; French, 1st base; Williams, 2nd base; Power, 3rd base; McGrath, short-stop; Doyle, left field; Grace, centre field; O'Reilly, right field; Burke.

Cubs.—Hall, pitcher; Clouston, catcher; Murphy, 1st base; Duggan, 2nd base; Canning, 3rd base; Lehr, short-stop; Channing, left field; Phelan, centre field; Bell, right field; Thomas.

JUNIOR GAME. Just prior to the League game two junior teams will compete for a bat and ball offered by Vice-President Hawvernick. We urge the fans to get in on the grounds early as this junior game is well worth lamping, and the managers of the League teams might very likely hook some promising recruits. We have not the line-ups of the teams, but hope to publish same to-morrow, together with the result.

SCHEDULE OF GAMES. (Second Round.) Tuesday, July 30th—Cubs vs. Wanderers. Thursday, August 1st—B. I. S. vs. Red Lions. Tuesday, August 6th—Red Lions vs. Wanderers. Thursday, August 8th—B. I. S. vs. Wanderers. Tuesday, August 13th—B. I. S. vs. Wanderers. Thursday, August 15th—Red Lions vs. Cubs.

WHAT ABOUT YOU? When other scribes in future times, of the Baseball game will tell of how Dike Rolls hit out home runs, and how old Harvey fell for that high one above his head that scattered stars pell mell. Then you'll remember. That all the proceeds of the games were devoted to patriotic purposes and you'll say,—"Well, I did my duty by the boys and took in all the game". If you didn't—but of course you did.

"DICK". Mine eyes have seen the B. I. S. go down before the Cubs. And routed by the Wanderers whom they deemed as only dubs. But Manager McGrath's will used to Porten's adverse rubs. And goes blithely marching on—towards the Championship.

Well Done, Girls. As the result of a Bazaar held at 169 Gower Street, three little girls, Trixie Nosworthy, Florence Freeman and Emma Martin, the sum of $10.50 was realized. We have had much pleasure in forwarding this amount to the Treasurer of the Cot Fund.

New Peace Offer Made by Germany. Amsterdam, July 24.—Germany has made suggestions for a peace conference to the Spanish Government, says the Socialist Vorwaerts of Berlin. The suggestions are: First, Germany wants no annexations or indemnities in the west. Second, the peace treaties with Russia and Roumania may not be questioned. Third, the principle of self-determination of peoples has not been discussed, but may be settled at the peace conference, where the fate of Belgium also is to be settled. Fourth, the Balkan question is to be settled around the conference table. Fifth, the freedom of the seas, the dismantling of Gibraltar and the Suez Canal and the right for Germany to use coaling stations. Sixth, the colonial question is to be settled on the basis of the status quo. The Vorwaerts considers this as a very reasonable peace program.

Gasoline Accident. Yesterday afternoon a fisherman named Burt, from the Battery, was in his fishing boat, in Deadman's Bay. While he was in the engine room a can of gasoline tipped over and the spirit caught fire. Burt's face and hands were badly burned, and the engine house was all but destroyed. Burt's companions brought him in to port, and the ambulance took him to hospital to have his wounds attended to.

Rationing in Peace Times. Westminster Gazette: Unhappily with the war without thought of what is to happen after the war, the first difficulties we shall have to deal with are concrete realities. When peace is proclaimed and the markets of the world are again open, the demand for food stuffs may drive prices up 300 per cent. It will be much the same with raw material for manufacturers. Supplies are being steadily exhausted, and the demand immediately after peace will be far in excess of the possible production. That is one of the problems which will require far-sighted statesmanship to solve, and the carrying over into peace of much of that organization for purchase and distribution that has been created during the war, it would be idle to suppose that we have done with rationing in every form immediately the terms of peace are signed. The feeding of the world and the provision for the factories may well demand for a time a closer rather than a slackened regulation. Otherwise we shall have a confused, scramble among all the nations on the principle of "the devil take the hindmost." How the depleted tonnage of the world shall be used is a side issue of this same question of a world shortage.

Apology. I, Isabel Mills, hereby apologize to Catherine Walsh for having accused her of stealing money belonging to me. I had no foundation for such report and absolutely promise that I will not in the future say anything further against her character whatsoever. (Signed) ISABEL MILLS. Witness: A. J. O'Brien. adv.11

How to Make a Service Flag. Perhaps it is due to the familiar picture of Betsy Ross with the first American flag spread out upon her lap and George Washington and two of his friends looking on that gives us such a bias to the hand-made flag, but nevertheless, a sentiment attaches to it that belongs to no machine-made production. Very properly, we should feel about our service flag in this way. A 12 x 12 inch service flag may be made from one and a third yards of four-inch wide red ribbon. Ten inches of white ribbon and enough blue to form the stars to which you are entitled. Cut the red ribbon into four pieces, two of 18 inches length and the other two so that they finish off four and a half inches, allowing for seams. Sew these strips together, inserting the white pieces for the field. Then applique a blue star, of substance if according to desire. The white field will be varied in size in accordance with the number of stars used.

Household Notes. After a hot day sponge the baby in tepid water. This will cool the blood and insure better sleep. Bake in two square pans and ice each cake individually with different icings. It is a great saving to everybody for housewives to buy their supplies from the grocers nearest them. It is a nice idea to bake a layer. Sew a shield-shaped piece of material under the arms of corset covers and they will last much longer.

PERSONAL.—Messrs. Clarke and Crochett, Inspectors of the Royal Bank of Canada, are at present in the city.

Trampers are still getting a little cockish, when they can haul, and we hear that hook and line men are beginning to do a little with ash now. A few squid were to be had yesterday.

We have not heard yet what we in this town will do on Sunday next, the anniversary of the declaration of war. We would like to see all our people, of all denominations gather in Shannon Park in the afternoon and there pass resolutions showing their determination to have the war continued to a victorious end. To our mind this could be easily arranged. We mentioned this in the presence of some children when one thoughtfully explained: "Oh, the grass is not cut on the Park yet." That is so, and how unfortunate. The grass on the Park seems to more than children to be very important.

That reminds us to once more ask the Trustees of the Park to give the public a statement of park affairs, or if not, have the manliness to resign and give place to men who will make an effort to make that beautiful place a recreation ground for our young people, as was intended by the donor, the late John Shannon Munn, and not a hay field as the present Trustees insist on keeping it. Come, gentlemen, the park is not your private property to do with as you wish. It is the property of the young people of this town, and they are anxious to have it made as pleasant as possible.

Aged Trees. (Hartford Courant.) The Providence Journal says that a sawmill at Burrillville (R. I.) is cutting half a million feet of white oak lumber for the wooden ships which are being built in New London county between Stonington and New London. It says further that the first from forty to sixty feet from the ground and is of the opinion that some of them must be over 200 years old. The estimate is conservative bearing in mind the slow growth of the white oak, for the trees may have been in Rhode Island before Roger Williams was and, for that matter, before Adrian Block navigated in the adjacent waters. There may be found trees as venerable in this State, but one may doubt if a single tract of white oak timber could be found large enough to furnish half a million feet of lumber.

A Retribution in Paper. (From the St. Paul Pioneer Press.) Germany has come upon the paper age. A recent advertisement in the Berlin Voessische Zeitung appeared in this form: PAPER STUFF for Dresses and Aprons. PAPER STUFF for Business Suits. PAPER STUFF for Manufacture of Shoes. PAPER STUFF for Upholstery and Tapestries. PAPER STUFF for Bags, Pillow-cases and Mattresses. PAPER STUFF for Trunks and Bags. Splendidly assorted lot for sale. ### Married and Unmarried.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

An unmarried woman of thirty-five was speaking of a woman about her age and formerly in the same business as she, — public stenography. "Yes," she said, in a tone in which pity and scorn were blended. "I am sorry to say she has gone and tied herself down. Too bad. She was referring to the other woman's marriage to a good man, — a man who is making not a large but a perfectly comfortable income, a man whom she unquestionably loves deeply. She talked of her as if she were dead.

I think one often hears the married woman of a certain (or uncertain age) speak in this tone of marriage and her married friends. And I think it is quite as much "too bad" as the "ragged" she deploras. Of course she may be extremely sincere in her attitude toward sex love and its most perfect flower we yet know—the home—but inevitably one remembers the fox who didn't like grapes.

Don't Tie Your Shoe in a Melon-Patch. That memory may be entirely unjust but, as the Chinese put it, one should not stop to tie one's shoe when one is in a neighbor's melon patch nor straighten one's hat as one goes through his peach orchard.

For her own sake she would do much better to refrain from expressing such feelings even if they are (or she thinks they are) entirely sincere. And now, lest some indignant bachelor girl call it to my attention, I hasten to point out that the married woman, for her part, is not without fault in her attitude towards her unmarried friends state.

Nothing could be more exasperating than the way some of the secret society of married women are without the pale because they tried vainly to get an invitation to join and couldn't.

What the Married Woman Forgets. The unmarried woman may have had ten chances to marry to the married woman's one but since it is not considered good breeding to advertise ones bids, as it were, she can't place that fact on record.

And then there is the case of the woman who may in good sooth never have received an offer of marriage because she never met the man whom she felt she could love, and was too honourable to encourage the others who would have asked her if she had led them on.

The whole business of marriage is a funny thing. There is happiness in it and happiness outside of it and unhappiness outside of it. Some people have a genius for it and some are perfect duffers at it, and often the geniuses don't marry and the duffers do. One sometimes feels that the man who said that marriage was the only lottery permitted by our government was not very far from the truth.

Milady's Boudoir. CARING FOR THE EYES. A woman is old as her eyes. They are indisputable evidence of the years she has lived and the experiences she has passed through. The complexion may be massaged and tinted to look like a baby's but also for the utter sophistication in the eyes under the babyish, flower trimmed hat.

You should take two courses of treatment, one for the physical strabismus of the eyes and another for their spiritual aspect. Kind thoughts, tolerance, high ideals, unselfish deeds, devotion to the beautiful in art, literature and music, and most of all, sympathy for every living thing. All these give a constant habit of mind will give the eye the beauty that charms and draws young and old who come within their radius.

Now for the physical treatment. The eyes must be kept bright and lustrous for only so will they suggest youth. They must be kept from sinking, for sunken eyes suggest ill health and old age. Their lids must not be permitted to become red rimmed, nor may their lashes be allowed to thin out, as lashes will, after twenty five, with most people.

If there is the slightest tendency toward swelling of the lids, particularly of the skin under the eyes, consult a physician, for this condition is usually the outward symptom of more or less serious internal disarrangement.

Friends who've journey long and far Liking us for what we are, Friends who seem to be a part Of our spirit and our heart, Sharing every care we know, Suffering when we suffer woe, Smiling with their words of praise When success has crowned our days.

Friends devoted, tried and true! Oh the number's very few Unto whom a man will turn When hope's embers faintly burn! And how great his loss the day One of them is called away! Seldom new friends take the place Of the absent, smiling face.

When the winds of trial blow And the heart is sick with woe, When no longer we can keep Locked in secret chambers deep All life's heavy freight of care, In confession's hour we snare Every burden, as we must With the friend that we can trust.

Rich is he whose tolling ends In the love of faithful friends, 'Tis a sign of how much he's given, 'Tis in proof of how he's striven, If in failure's hour, a few Wish to help him safely through, Friends are God's reward to man If he does the best he can.

COMING BACK. The gray haired men are coming back, for duty they're enrolled, the men who one time got the sack because they were too old. The younger men have gone to fight and shake the tyrants' thrones, and there is need for every right who is a ten finger bones.

And now the gent with wintry locks may vindicate his claim that Oiler's much exploited talks were but a sin and shame. "Young blood" for years has been the cry, in every busy mart; the gray haired man might go and die, he will and break his heart. The gray haired man has made his roar, for justice he has called; they shooed him off from every door, because his head was bald. And now he has the wish for chance to show he's good as wheat; now he may conquer circumstance and get there with both feet. Old prejudice he'll trample flat, and show he's good as new, and he will prove that Oiler's hat was used for talking through. The old boy leaves his easy chair, his slippers and his books; his coatalls flapping in the air, he's doing things, gadzooks!

Where We Are Superior. Here is a candid criticism and appreciation of our national character in this time of crisis from the New York New Republic.

"The British Empire," it says, "has been able in a few years to turn its citizens into soldiers and mould its ploughshares into cannon, but it could not improvise a scientifically competent General Staff. The inability to do so seems to be indirectly responsible for the failure of the British Army during the past year to measure up to the size of its job and to the expectations of the British nation."

Standing the Strain. "Put the significance of the partial failure should not be exaggerated. During the last four years the war has subjected the stamina of the chief belligerent nations to a succession of unforeseen and pitiless tests. In the case of several of them the very fabric of their national lives is being pulled to pieces, and in the case of all of them many parts of the national organization are proving more or less inadequate and untrustworthy. Great Britain has suffered with the rest. One after another of the faults which the dominant public opinion had allowed to remain in the national structure have caused serious anxiety, but on the whole the fabric of British nationalism is standing the strain better than is that of any of her enemies or any of her Allies."

"The British nation has not shown any superiority over France or Germany in its moral endurance, in its ability to take and inflict punishment, or in its courage and sang-froid. It has not shown itself the equal of its chief friend and its chief enemy in the mastery of military technique. But what it has done is to demonstrate once again its superiority to other nations in political good sense. The British still keep and still display the political gifts which made of them the originators of parliamentary government, the most successful exemplars of opportunist liberalism, and the builders of the first empire which has not proved to be the enemy of civil and political liberty."

"The political good sense of the British people has been expressed chiefly in their ability to recognize and to repair even during the pre-occupation of war some of the gravest faults in their national organization. They have not made of war the excuse for shirking every responsibility except that of military preparation and the organization of victory. On the contrary, they have bestowed far more candid, painstaking consideration upon the fulfilment of their collective social responsibilities than they did during peace; and they have been able almost to agree upon many immediate and future measures of industrial, educational and social reconstruction."

"The British have recognized the indispensable contribution which industrial and social reorganization could furnish to the enduring moral unity of the nation; and the recognition has its remoter spiritual as well as its immediate practical significance. They have gained enormously in intellectual alertness and open-mindedness. They are mutually adjusting themselves to the certainty of radical alterations in the balance of social forces, and many of them are assiduously studying how these changes can be controlled and guided for the benefit of the British nation."

Prefers Life in Prison TO GOING INTO THE ARMY. Niagara Camp, Ont., July 19.—A Sinn Feiner has been uncovered in camp in the person of J. Torris, 1st Battalion, 2nd C. O. R., who is now awaiting court martial on a charge of refusing to put on the uniform when ordered to do so. Torris says he will go to prison for life rather than fight for the British Empire. Two brothers of his are fighting with the British in France and one was won his commission at the front. The accused says two more relatives of his were killed by the British during the Sinn Fein rebellion at Dublin in Easter 1916, and this is why he will not fight. He is a native of County Tyrone. He finished his first year in medicine at Dublin University before coming to Canada. He was picked up as a deserter a few days ago and brought to Niagara Camp.

This is to certify that fourteen years ago I got the cord of my left wrist nearly severed, and was for about nine months that I had no use of my hand, and tried other liniments, also doctors, and was receiving no benefit. By a persuasion from a friend I got MINARD'S LINIMENT and used one bottle which completely cured me, and have been using MINARD'S LINIMENT in my family ever since, and find it the same as when I first used it, and would never be without it.

Siamese Fighting Fish.

Never heard of fish-fighting? Well, you have heard of bull fights, and cock fights, and cock fights—this is surely a different twist to the game here it is fish that do the combats. So says an author in "Every Week," and he places the locale of this sport in Siam. It is said to be the national sport of that far-away country, and the Siamese find it just as attractive as the West Indians find cock-fighting. We are told:

The men of that country will stake a fish fight, not only all the money they have but even their wives and children.

It is no uncommon thing in Siam to see a man sinking along the street with a peculiar bulge distending some part of his clothing. The bulge represents a small glass bowl of water containing a fighting fish which the winner is anxious to match against somebody else's funny champion. The reason for the concealment is that fish-fighting is a government gaming monopoly in Siam. Licenses to exhibit fish fights are sold, bringing considerable annual revenue to the coffers of the King. The unlicensed fish fight is like a cock fight in the United States; the managers and spectators are liable to be arrested and jailed.

Just as the cocks are bred for fighting, so are these fishes in Siam, where a special race of game fighting fish has been developed. They are so many that they are commonly kept in numbers of water, and fed with mosquito-wrigglers and other aquatic insects.

Despite their small size, no living creatures are more fiercely pugnacious. It is the males that do the fighting, always in the manner of a duel. The object sought by each of the combatants is to maim and mutilate its adversary. They go at each other in rough-and-tumble fashion, like two roosters, trying, with their strong jaws and sharp teeth, to inflict disabling injuries by biting the fins.

The fins and tails of these fighting fish are huge relatively to the size of the little creatures. In the breeding season the males enhance their brilliant markings with a lustrous olive green hue, overlaid by fleeting prismatic tints.

Siamese Fighting Fish.

Never heard of fish-fighting? Well, you have heard of bull fights, and bear fights, and cock fights—this is merely a different twist to the game where it is fish that do the combat. So says an author in "Every Week," and he places the locale of this sport in Siam. The object sought by each of the combatants is to maim and mutilate its adversary. They go at each other in rough-and-tumble fashion, like two roosters, trying with their strong jaws and sharp teeth to inflict disabling injuries by biting off fins.

The fins and tails of these fighting fish are huge relatively to the size of the little creatures. In the breeding season the males enhance their brilliant markings with a lustrous olive-green hue, overlaid by fleeting prismatic color flashes, which seem to be controlled by the fish, the tail and fins outlined in brilliant red and yellow.

If this seems an odd accomplishment for a fish, consider then, this one. These fighting fish differ from the ordinary species in that they do not depend for air, as others do, on the oxygen in the water, liberated by plants or held with the liquid in microscopic quantities. They breathe air quite as land animals and frogs do. And the account adds:

Hence they will thrive and reproduce their species under conditions that for other fish would be impossible. No other kind of fish is so easy to breed in captivity. These Siamese fighting fish have been bred for centuries in small glass bowls and other such receptacles, being fed with earthworms and chopped raw meat when house-flies, mosquito larvae, or other insects were scarce. It is necessary, however, to separate the female from the male, except in the breeding season, because the latter will attack even his mate when offspring are not in prospect.

Most interesting of all, perhaps, is the nest-building habit of this funny species. It makes a veritable fairy nest of his bubbles, which, extruded from the mouth of the male, are coated with a gelatinous matter that gives them permanency, like soap-bubbles blown from a prepared fluid. The female lays her eggs in the mass of bubbles thus prepared, and her mate guards them until they hatch. Indeed, after they are hatched, he will not allow her to approach the young until they are big enough to take care of themselves.—N. Y. Fishing Gazette.

Another Bolsheviki Crime.

The execution of the former Czar of Russia, officially confirmed, is one of the blackest crimes committed by the Bolsheviki. Nicholas Romanoff was more to be pitied than blamed. From the earliest days of his reign he was handicapped by the scheming, strong-willed Hessian princess who was his wife, and the rascally Rasputin who was at all times her advisor. But he was a man of generous heart, although a weak, vacillating ruler quite incapable of fulfilling the duties which were thrust upon him.

The former Czar was known to be strongly in favor of the Allied cause. His wife, thanks to Rasputin, was as strongly against it. She was not able even to speak the Russian language and made no effort to conceal her sympathies with her former country.

Germany had no more enthusiastic agent in all Russia, and it was plain that her activities went far to alienate the sympathy of sensible and patriotic Russians from her court. This was the real cause of the revolution, for in attempting to check the intrigues which ultimately led to his downfall the Czar leaned first one way and then another until finally he was faced by a revolution. Then, it must be said, he acted with dignity and courage.

The sympathy of the world went out to Nicholas during the period of his captivity. His trials and those of his family were keenly regretted by all who were interested in his case. No one could help feeling profoundly sorry for his innocent daughters and his sickly young son, whose death has been recently reported. Through no fault of their own they were placed in the most unfortunate circumstances and even now the future of the young family is dark enough.

German Pastor Jailed.

DISLOYAL AND DISHONEST. SAYS JUDGE IN IMPOSING TEN-YEAR SENTENCE.

Hartford, Conn., July 18.—Rev. Theodore Bussell, pastor of the German Lutheran Church at Bristol, found guilty of seditious utterances, was sentenced to-day to ten years, on each of three counts, in Atlanta Penitentiary, by Judge H. B. Howe, of the United States Court. The terms run concurrently.

The defendant, before sentence was imposed, was asked if he cared to say anything. In reply he said he had been under terrible strain, and had felt as if he would go insane. He also felt that he would be unable to undergo a severe sentence. He had tried to do his duty as a loyal American citizen, he said.

"I only ask you to give me another chance," he added. "Send me to France, anywhere. I will lay down my life for my country. Take this stain of prison from me."

In reply to the defendant's plea, Judge Howe said that the trouble was with the evidence which was convincing, while the defendant's testimony was not true. Bussell, in making his statement, had been interrupted by the Court several times. Once the clergyman had asked to be sent to an asylum.

"No," replied the Court, "you are not crazy; you are disloyal and dishonest." In passing sentence, the Court said that severe punishment was the only suitable sentence to impose upon a counterfeit citizen.

Round the Larder.

Food keeps for weeks in a sanitary larder which would otherwise spoil in a few days.

As a larder, to be sanitary, must be scrupulously clean, for on them depends the virtue of our food stores, especially during the warmer days.

Make a point of limewashing your larder this season. The solution is easy to make. Mix some quicklime in an old bucket with a handful of size and stir in hot water until the consistency of cream.

Another good tip is to enamel your shelves white, instead of using paper. A damp cloth will remove dirt and dust.

Sometimes one finds odds-and-ends of food when "turning-out" time arrives.

Never throw away the vinegar from old pickle-jars. Use the liquid to flavor soups, broths, etc.

Anchovy, or other fish-paste, which has hardened through disuse can be turned into good fish-cakes. Take equal parts of boiled rice and mashed potatoes. Bind them together with a beaten egg. Stir in sufficient anchovy paste to impart the "fishy" flavour, add pepper, but no salt, form into small cakes and fry.

Soup should not be discarded if the cook has been too generous with the salt. The secret is to slice a raw potato up and pour into the liquid. Leave it for a short time, and you'll never notice the salty flavour afterwards.

Fruit liquid, beaten up with rice or other milk pudding, makes a good sweet. Stand the mixture in custard cups, pour a little fresh custard on top and a dab or two of jam.

Don't re-bolt haricot beans. Moisten your pan, drop in three finely chopped onions, and heat. Add the haricots and serve with a good stock.

Odds and ends often make good lunch sandwiches. A sprinkling of vinegar or lemon juice helps to keep fresh those which journey to town.

American's V. C.

One of the most sparingly granted of war decorations is the Congressional Medal of Honour, America's V.C. It is conferred by Special Act of Congress.

In the Spanish War less than twenty of these medals were awarded altogether. In the Philippines campaign, which lasted off and on for several years, still fewer were gained.

The Medal of Honour is of bronze, and its shape is that of a five-pointed star, with, in the centre, the head of Minerva, the Roman Goddess of War, surrounded by the words, "United States of America." It is encircled by a laurel wreath, and is worn suspended by a ribbon from a bar, the latter inscribed with the single word "Valor."

Like our V.C., the C.M.H. recognises no rank. General or private, admiral or ordinary seaman is equally eligible to wear it.

Questionings for Germany.

Berlin has again and again assured the German people that there is only an insignificant number of United States troops in France and that the few thousand in the line are of very inferior fighting quality. The Germans are welcome to all the comfort of a desperate struggle in the light of the events of the past week. The German troops have met with one of the worst defeats of all the war, and if the people accept the Berlin assurance as to the number of American soldiers in Europe and the soldiers' fighting quality they must then accept the fact that after four years of desperate struggle the European Allies are able to drive the Huns in retreat. If there is any encouragement for the German people in that state of affairs they are of even more peculiar quality than had been supposed. If, on the other hand, they realize now that American troops took an effective part in winning the Allies' victory they must see how they have been deceived and misled by Berlin and see, too, how ineffective the vaunted submarine campaign has been as an instrument to prevent transport of American soldiers. They must be depressed also by the knowledge that the submarines which have already failed to prevent the movement of United States divisions across the Atlantic are not likely to be more successful in the future in stopping the transport of further great numbers of reinforcements from the republic. The awakening may not have sudden effect in Germany but there are bound to be many questionings among the people in coming weeks, especially if success so far won by the Allies should be followed by the greater success now quite probable in the Alsace-Marne region. The morale of the German civilians is near its testing time.—Sydney Record.

Concrete and indisputable instances of their work can be given. Yesterday morning a German bomber, in the moonlight, swung down to a height of 300 meters and dropped a large-sized bomb into an American evacuation hospital twenty miles behind the lines at Joux.

Map Helps Germany To Bomb Hospitals.

(By Edwin L. James.)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE MARNE, July 17.—Turning their keenest brand of hate against the Americans, the Germans have begun a systematic bombing of our hospitals.

Since the start of this drive several days ago five of our hospitals have been special targets for German bombers, who, in two instances, were successful.

Doubts are often expressed in America about the stories of bombing hospitals of the British and French Armies. These doubts should now vanish, together with all belief in German decency.

Our own hospitals, filled with German wounded, have been bombed by German airmen instructed expressly to do this work.

The Germans are now bombing all the areas behind the allied lines, as well as sending shells from long-range guns. But to forestall any statements that hitting the hospitals might have been accidental it can be stated that part of the records of the American Army that a captured German Captain aviator had a map with all our hospitals marked.

When an American officer demanded what use was to be made of the map, the German officer said: "Our airmen have instructions not to bomb American hospitals, but to bomb all around them."

Concrete and indisputable instances of their work can be given. Yesterday morning a German bomber, in the moonlight, swung down to a height of 300 meters and dropped a large-sized bomb into an American evacuation hospital twenty miles behind the lines at Joux.

This hospital was in an isolated chateau with an enormous Red Cross on the roof and another in the yard. German observers had been many times over the spot and knew just what use was being made of the chateau.

The bomb struck part of the hospital not used for wards. It killed two orderlies and wounded one doctor and one nurse.

Repeated Attacks Made.

Another hospital in a town even further behind the lines had four bombs dropped about it, none hitting.

Still another hospital, several kilometers distant, at Comoumiers, and isolated, was also attacked in vain.

On Monday one of our hospitals in the Champagne, plainly marked, was bombed, and several casualties resulted.

On Monday night a large hospital just turned over to our use had six bombs dropped near it, one falling in the yard.

Yesterday afternoon I went into one of the hospitals where a bomb had fallen into the yard in the night, one piece wounding an American soldier lying in the courtyard on a stretcher. Here a kindly American woman was going about feeding and caring for German wounded. In a nearby operating room a captured German army surgeon had every facility to help care for his own wounded.

Thus Americans give every care to German wounded and unwounded prisoners. On the other hand, the directions of the German high command are to kill all of the helpless American boys whom their bombs can reach.

Do You Perspire Freely?

Many people are acutely sensitive to the odors arising from excessive perspiration, and yet under no circumstances is it wise to completely check perspiration for it is essential to health—many of the impurities of the body are gotten rid of by perspiration.

O'MARA'S
PERSPIRATION DEODORANT does not unduly check perspiration, but when properly applied it keeps the body comfortable and sweet—it counteracts body odors.

See a Jar.
