CHAPTER LIII
THE SECRETARY'S SECRET.

"This is a difficult matter. Requiring much brains and much courage."

When the secretary descended to the little sitting-room he was received by the neat old lady with many profound courtesies, and requested by her to take a seat for a few minutes until the good man came in.

The youth declined the chair, however, and stood by the window watching the forest of masts to all appearance—in reality looking far, far beyond them, going over with a full heart the scenes of some past time.

Presently Mr. Tovey came in, accompanied by his "partner" Joe.

There visitor's liberality had evidently been communicated to him, for he was literally overwhelmed with gratitude and awe, and stood turning his shiny cap about, unable to speak.

The secretary seemed quite calm now with a bright flush upon his face that would have made it really handsome if it had not been for the red hair and blue spectacles.

Could Not Sleep

Mr. Earnest Clark, Police Officer, 338 King St., Kingston, Ont., writes:

"For three years I suffered from nervousness and sleeplessness. I believe my condition was brought about by overwork. I had frequent headaches, neuralgic pains and twitching of nerves and muscles. I had indigestion, was short of breath and easily tired. I commenced a treatment of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and seven boxes of this medicine cured me of all my symptoms. I am now feeling one hundred per cent. better than I was, and have to thank Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for the good health I am now enjoying."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, $ for 2.75, all dealers, or Edman, Sales & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

GERALD S. DOYLE,
Water St., St. John's.

And he took from the table-drawer a small pouch made of leopard-skin and sewn with dried grass.

The secretary took it and flushed a bright crimson for one instant only.

"There are but a few shillings here," he said.

"Then there's his pay. No, though, I was forgetting. He worked his passage home. Well, that's all he's got there, sir—leastways, that I know of."

"I think I see a way to keep him with you," mused the young gentleman. "First, have you a good doctor?"

"The best that can be had at this end of the town," replied Mr. Tovey. "We sent for him d'reckly Joe brought the gentleman here. You said as we was to spare no expense."

"Quite right," replied the secretary, eagerly. "Spare none still. Tell me what the doctor says."

"That he is very weak, and regular knocked out with short rations, but that he has a splendid constitution—splendid was the word, sir—and that, if care is taken, he will pull through. These were the very words, sir, for I took notice of them; got 'em off by heart, thinking you'd like to know exactly. He said, too, that he'd never seen so fine a built young chap, and that—beggin' your pardon, sir—he looked a perfect gentleman, too."

The youth turned his head away.

"You will take care of him, will you not?" he asked, eagerly. "I—I will not be ungrateful. Oh, pray take care of him!"

"He shall be as much took care of as if he were a king," replied Mr. Tovey, enthusiastically.

"Thank you—thank you!" breathed the young gentleman. "And how long did the doctor think it would be before he would be able to be up?"

"A week, he said, if it all went right."

"A week—I must have three weeks," murmured the secretary, pondering. "When he recovers sufficiently he will most likely, nay, he will be certain to ask you how he came here and why you kept him."

"Just so," responded Joe, shaking his head with a troubled look. "That's only natural."

"Tell him," went on the youth, as if he had suddenly found his way out of the difficulty—"tell him that you saw him on board the ship, knew that a crowd of people wanted to bother him and make a fuss about him, and that you took him off quietly. That he fell ill as soon as he arrived here, and had been ill ever since. You must not breathe a syllable concerning me or this visit. If he ask if any inquiries had been made, tell him that there has been some, such as you have told me about, but do not—oh, be careful that you do not—let him know that you ever saw me. I know his character well enough to be certain that he will want to leave here directly he is strong enough. But you must not let him. If you want an excuse, tell him that you have been to a very great expense, and that you had looked forward to his repaying you by helping you here in the docks. Tell him that," added the youth, with a look of ineffable pride, "and he would rather die than leave you until he had worked off the sum you named."

The two men's faces cleared.

"Of course, sir; of course," they assented, joyfully. "Capital—the very thing! It's all right, sir; you've no cause to be anxious. I'll keep my eye upon him," said Joe.

The secretary inclined his head.

"Do this for me, and I will not leave you unrewarded."

"S'pos he should write," hazarded Mr. Tovey.

"Then," said the secretary, with heightened color, "the letters must be sent to the address I gave you, notwithstanding any other direction they may have."

Joe nodded.

"I see, sir; we'll manage it."

The young gentleman rose.

"I don't think of anything else," he said. "I will call at several places on my way and order grapes and such things to be sent in every morning. You will give the doctor his full fee, two guineas at each visit, and tell him to spare no attention nor effort. I—I would stay and nurse him myself," he added, looking toward the old lady, who was preparing a basin of broth, with a wistful envy. "But I fear that he would recognize me, and that would be fatal."

Then he walked to the door, wished them good-morning, and stepped out. But, after a moment, he came back and caught the old woman's hand, saying, while the tears that he had so bravely kept back streamed down his face:

"Oh, take care of him—take care of him!"

"I will, Heaven bless you, sir!" replied the old lady, fervently. "I'll mind him as if he were my own son."

She came to the door as she said it; then, on the threshold, looking back at the men to see if they were out of hearing, whispered:

"Your name's John, sir, ain't it?"

The youth nodded.

"Ah, then, it ain't you the gentleman calls for in his sleep!"

"What—what name does he speak?" asked the youth, turning his face away.

"Well, it's a queer, new-fangled sort of name, sir—Cecil. Ah, if he said that name once while he was so bad he said it a hundred times!"

The youth turned, and with a half-smothered cry caught her in his arms and kissed her; then, as if half-ashamed or half-frightened, ran hurriedly away.

Leaving the docks, Captain Dartmouth's secretary walked up the main street, eagerly searching for a newspaper shop.

He found one at last, and, entering, purchased a paper containing the account of the ship "Sciaevonia."

Possessed of this, he hailed a passing cab, entered it, and, nestling up to one of the corners, read eagerly and with mingled smiles and tears the story of Laurence Harman's heroism.

When he had finished it, that is to say, read it over and over again, until he nearly knew it by heart, he sat with the paper on his knees, his hands before his eyes, not indulging in dreams of love or asleep, but thinking, and thinking hard.

There was much to do in a short time; there was a great fight to be fought out, and the quiet secretary was marshaling his forces without one moment's doubting, without a hair's breadth of shrinking from the conflict.

From this reverie he opened his eyes, and, glancing at the paper on his knees, was suddenly arrested by an advertisement therein.

It ran thus:

LIFE WAS A MISERY TO HER

Says this Woman Until Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Owen Sound, Ont.—"I suffered for ten years with female organic trouble, neuralgia and indigestion, and was weak and had such bad pains I could hardly walk or stand up at times. When I would sweep I would have to go and lie down. I could not sleep at night, and would wander around the house half the time. Frighted everything but nothing did me any good, and the last doctor I had told me he never expected me to be on my feet again or able to do a day's work. One day one of your little books was left at my door and my husband said I should try a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I thank God I did, for it cured me, and I am now well and strong. I think there is no remedy like the Vegetable Compound for anyone who has my troubles, and have recommended it to my neighbors. You can publish my letter for the benefit of those I can't reach."

—Mrs. HENRY A. MITCHELL, 1767 7th Ave., East, Owen Sound, Ont.

If you have any symptom about which you would like to know write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for a leaflet.

A SALE

That will not disappoint.

The reason of this Sale is the turning of a lot of this season's goods of passing fashion and some of which we have an overstock into

Hard Cash.

YOU WANT GOODS AT LOW PRICES WE WANT HARD CASH. THIS IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY.

We are not going to give you a line of talk that as philanthropists we are out merely to reduce the height of the H. C. of L. and going to cut prices in halves; we figure you are too intelligent to believe stuff like that, or would think we had certainly been jewing you on previous prices. First we start with

LADIES' & CHILDREN'S STRAW HATS.

Off these we are taking

25 Per Cent. Discount.

Our prices for Hats are notoriously low, and with this discount and the styles considered we know greatly increased buying will make a busy department basier.

We next consider

LADIES' BLOUSES.

We find a very classy lot of Ladies' Canadian made White Voile Blouses have not moved fast enough. They range in price from $5.50 to $7.50. Though the market was high and we did not like buying at these prices, we thought style and cut worth consideration. Now we think you will find them most tempting by our allowance of

We have also picked upon a lot of

LADIES' GEORGETTE CREPE BLOUSES

in beautiful designs and shades, and have marked them down from $17.50 to $12.50 each. This represents less than cost price.

LADIES' SILK DRESSES.

We have some priced very reasonably at $30.00, $33.00 and $35.00 each, but we are making a reduction in these prices of 25 Per Cent.

We do this as we are informed that with some of them the skirts are a bit tight.

LADIES' WHITE COSTUME SKIRTS.

Canadian styles, English materials. Sale Prices only

$3.00, $4.00, $4.50 and $5.00.

This summer is certainly a fine one, so you had better secure a couple of these beautiful Washable Skirts and get in accord with it.

LADIES' ENVELOPE CHEMISES (or TEDDIES).

We have quite a stock of these in White and Pink Lawns and Imitation Silks. They are big sellers in America but have not yet started to sell so largely here. We think taking

25 Per Cent. off may help.

In order to make things more interesting we are making

A Reduction of Ten Per Cent. on Some Staple Lines of Ladies' Ready-to-wear.

This includes all our large and cheaply priced stocks of Ladies' Cambric and Lawn Underskirts, Knickers, Camisoles and Nightdresses.

Ladies' Costumes and Costume Skirts.

Ladies' Raglans, Shower Coats and Navy-Spring Coats

Ladies' Cotton, Poplin and Serge, etc., Dresses.

Ladies' Kimonos, Wrappers and Cotton House Dresses.

Ladies' Blouses of all kinds—not previously mentioned.

Ladies' Silk and Wool Sweater Coats.

LADIES' COTTON and LISLE SUMMER GLOVES.

We are in a position to offer these at prices no higher than those of 1918-1919. We quote Ladies' White and Grey Gloves, with dome fasteners, at price only 40c. pair.

LADIES' WHITE and BLACK COTTON HOSE, only 29c. pair.

You will also find we have some other extra good values in Ladies' White and Black Cotton and Lisle Hose, while they last.

We Know Our Prices on Goods Advertised Are the Lowest You Can Procure,

FRENCH MOVEMENTS IN SYRIA.

BEIRUT, Syria, July 24. French troops have resumed their march on Damascus as the result of an attack on a French detachment between Homs and Tripoli by troops of Prince Feisal, head of the Syrian state, after he had accepted the ultimatum of General Gouraud. To prevent further attacks the French cleaned out Feisal's forces between El Bekka and Damascus. The Damascus authorities later sent word that the French would not be opposed and they expected to enter Damascus this morning.

FIGHTING THE MOB.

LONDON, July 24. Following an attempt by a mob to set fire to a convent the police last night clubbed the crowd and the soldiers fired four volleys, according to a despatch to the Central News from Belfast.

LIPTON STILL HOPEFUL.

NEW YORK, July 24. Sir Thomas Lipton expressed himself as still being very hopeful that the Shamrock would lift the cup.

HARDLY CREDIBLE.

LONDON, July 24. Kielmallock, 19 miles south of America, was wrecked by police last night and several persons injured, according to a Cork despatch to the Evening News.

WHAT A TRAGEDY!

TORONTO, July 24. Arnell Love, aged twenty-two, a young farmer of Crifon, Ontario, is in custody here following the confession that he murdered his mother for which time his father, Henry Love, was convicted and hanged at Owen Sound about seven years ago. The officials of the Provincial Attorney General's Department have not decided what action will be taken. The father was convicted on what appeared good circumstantial evidence.

REFERENDUM AS AWARD ORDERED.

MONTREAL, July 24. The shareholders of the Canada Steamship Lines Ltd., to-day, ratified unanimously the proposed merger with the British Empire Steel Corporation.

GOVERNMENT MEMBERS ENTERAINED AT LIBERAL CLUB.

LONDON, July 24. Four members of the Government, Sir Hamar Greenwood, Dr. McNamara, Food Controller McCurdy, and Sir William Sutherland, were entertained at the National Liberal Club Friday night to celebrate the retention of their seats at bye-elections. The gathering attracted unusual attention by reason of the hostility of the Liberals who dominate the Club's Committee towards the gathering, which they only permitted to be reported in the newspapers at the last moment.

ARMISTICE NEGOTIATIONS GOING ON.

WARSAW, July 24. The Armistice negotiations between representatives of Poland and Soviet Russia probably will be held at Brest Litovsk, according to diet circles here yesterday. Negotiations to bring about the initial meeting of the military commanders to arrange for a conference between deputations of both sides already are under way somewhere on the front line.

NAVY AT LOWEST LIMIT CONSISTENT WITH PRUDENCE.

LONDON, July 24. Earl Beatty, receiving the freedom of Sheffield, said that with the disappearance of the German fleet they were released from the intolerable burden of competitive building, but they must bear in mind that the day would come when very little would cost a great deal. The Navy, he said, was now reduced to the lowest limits consistent with prudence.

HEAVY ELECTRICAL STORM IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, July 24. Thousands of dollars worth of property was damaged in New York and vicinity Saturday when one of the worst rain, wind and electrical storms in years swept across the district. Subways were flooded,rolley rails in suburban districts were washed away, cellars of many residences and public buildings inundated, and scores of gardens were ruined by the rushing waters. While there was no loss of life the police report several persons injured during the storm.

IN THE TRAIL OF A CYCLONE.

REGINA, Sask., July 24. At least two persons were killed, a score injured and property damaged to the extent of two hundred thousand dollars by a cyclone striking Southern Saskatchewan Thursday.

ELECTRICAL STORM CAUSES HEAVY DAMAGE.

NIAGARA FALLS, July 24. A terrific electrical storm has raged here and many buildings have been destroyed by lightning. It is feared the damage will amount to seven hundred thousand dollars.

AT THE PARTING OF THE WAYS.

LONDON, July 24. Sir Horace Plunkett, founder of the Irish Dominion League and leader of moderate Irish Nationalist opinion, told a Newcastle audience yesterday that the situation in Ireland is more gravely alarming than it has been within his knowledge of sixty years. A similar view is reflected by the newspapers of both England and Ireland of all shades of politics. It found expression in all speeches of Thursday's discussions in the House of Commons, even Sir Edward Carson declaring he had never known anything like the state of anarchy prevailing and that "In three-quarters of Ireland the British Government has been entirely beaten." Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, warned the country to brace itself against a bitter period in Irish history. Rising in Belfast subdued yesterday, but there are plenty of signs that the lull is only temporary. Both from Lloyd George's statement to the Labor Delegates on Thursday, and from Sir Hamar's speech it is considered apparent that the Government regards the parting of the ways as having been reached. One road leads towards negotiation with the Sinn Fein on a basis of dominion form of Government, while the other apparently leads towards the bitter period which Sir Hamar foresees, with more soldiers and stricter laws for repression, foremost among them being one of the trial of criminals by summary courts and giving up of attempts to induce juries to answer summons.

CARSON'S INTENTIONS.

LONDON, July 24. Sir Edward Carson, Unionist leader, is credited with the intention of attacking the Government with the idea of turning it out of office if the suggestion by the Labor leader providing for the establishment of Dominion Home Rule in Ireland through a conference between the Premier and the Sinn Feiners is adopted, according to the Daily Mail.

IRISH PRESS ON GREENWOOD.

DUBLIN, July 24. Commenting upon Hamar Greenwood's speech in the Commons predicting a bitter period for Ireland and calling for corrective legislation to meet the situation, the Freeman's Journal says, "No coercion secretary ever outlined such a program." The Irish Independent states the Chief Secretary proved himself a worthy successor to "the worst and most cynical of the other birds of passage." The Belfast papers in commenting on the speech are influenced largely by existing local conditions. The Unionist papers, Telegraph, News and North Whig, demand that the Government come to closer grips with Sinn Fein and immediately establish martial law.

BOLSHEVIKI REACHING TOWARDS EAST PRUSSIA.

WARSAW, July 24. Bearing down upon Skolka from the north the Bolshevik have sent patrols toward East Prussia meeting little resistance.

RUSSIANS FALLING BACK.

PARIS, July 24. A wireless message from Moscow, says the Havas Agency announces that the Russian Soviet army is falling back on order of the Soviet commander.

CANADA RESERVING ITS GOLD.

OTTAWA, July 24. The export from Canada of gold coin, fine gold bars and bullion have been prohibited except under license until July, 1921.

THE VICIOUS CIRCLE.

WINNIPEG, July 24. It was forecasted by members of the Winnipeg Board of Trade Transportation Bureau that an increase of fifty-three per cent. over the present rate of Canadian railroads would be made.

NOFTALL-TUFF.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on July 15th, at George Street Church, by the Rev. D. B. Hemmelen, the contracting parties being Miss Maud Tuff and Mr. George Noftall, both of this city. The bride, who was given away by Mr. W. R. Smith, was charmingly attired in a gown of Dove Grey Tricoline with Georgette overskirt trimmed with pearls and picture hat to match, and carried a bouquet of white carnations and maiden hair fern. She was attended by Miss Annie King and Miss Anna Cook, who wore gowns of blue and brown silk, with georgette hats to match. The groomsmen were Mr. Ronalds. The groom's present to the bride was a beautiful gold wrist watch and to the bridesmaids birthstones. The presents received by the bride were numerous, consisting mostly of silverware, amongst which was a cake and fork basket from the employees at Baird's, and from the Mission Circle a portable electric water heater. After the ceremony the bridal party motored to Donovans, where about 50 couples partook of a sumptuous repast, the toast of the evening being proposed by Mr. Ronalds, to which the groom heartily responded.

"No," said the old man, sternly, "I will not do it. Never have I sold anything by false representation, and I will not begin now."

For a moment he was silent, and the clerk who stood before him could see that the better nature of his employer was fighting strongly for the right.

"No," said the old man, again. "I will not do it. It is an inferior grade of shoe, and I will never pass it off as anything better. Mark it, 'A Shoe Fit for a Queen,' and put it in the window. A queen does not have to do much walking."

Shamrock IV's Exciting Win.

Beat Resolute by 2 Min., 24 Seconds.

Sandy Hook, July 20.—There were cheers on Sir Thomas Lipton's steam yacht Victoria when Shamrock sailed first across the line to-day, but there was a hush when her crew worked feverishly to free a jib topsail that fouled within the first few seconds of the contest. This fouling permitted the Resolute to glide into the lead.

For part of the first leg, Resolute kept to the fore, but when she hit a soft spot, the Irish craft slipped again into first place, edging along until she was half a mile ahead. To the surprise of yachting experts, a fancy little staysail rigged on the challenger served her better than Resolute's big balloon.

Warm Greeting for Shamrock.

Spectator craft grouped at the first turn, greeted Shamrock with tooting whistles, as she rounded six hundred yards in the lead. Away on the second leg she sped, with the challenger catching every catspaw and Resolute rolling in the doldrums. Capt. Wm. P. Burton, who, it was reported might be removed from command of Shamrock because of his showing in other races, was evidently making every effort to stage a come-back.

Resolute made a brave showing at the beginning of the third leg, and picking up at the turn, fought her way home under the guidance of Capt. Charles Francis Adams 2nd, disputing every second. But it was no use and by the time Shamrock crossed the line, it was certain that she had won by a safe though narrow margin.

The yachts expect to race again tomorrow.

Time:
Shamrock—Start 12:15:48; finish 5:38:06; elapsed time, 5:22:18; corrected time, 5:22:18.
Resolute—Start, 12:16:26; finish, 5:45:11; elapsed time, 5:31:45; corrected time, 5:24:46.
Shamrock won by nine minutes, 27 seconds elapsed time, 2 minutes, 26 seconds, corrected time.

of seven minutes and one second allowed the Resolute, but it seemed evident that to decide the winner would require close figuring.

At 5:27 the wind hauled and Resolute gybed, her boom going to the starboard side.

A few seconds later Shamrock also gybed.

Resolute's chances of winning began to fade as the wind showed signs of giving way. Shamrock was within three miles of the lights when going easy, with Resolute more than a mile astern and far off the course in a long tack to leeward.

Shamrock took in her spinnaker and also reached for the finish under two head sails.

The Shamrock then crossed the line, winning the race.

Sir Thomas Hopeful.

ABOARD THE STEAM YACHT VICTORIA, July 20.—(By Wireless to the Associated Press.)—Sir Thomas Lipton declared at the end of to-day's race that he believed the showing Shamrock IV had made had justified him in the hope that he would lift the cup this time.

"I started out this morning, as I usually do, hoping to be fortunate enough to win," said Sir Thomas, "but in yachting, as in every other sport, there is no certainty. If there was, there would be no pleasure in it for me.

"The great ambition and pleasure in my life is for the best boat to win. I am under hopes this time that I will lift the cup. I feel after to-day's sailing that I am justified in hoping."

Triumph For Burton.

To-day's race was a triumph for the sailing qualities of the Shamrock and the sea craft of Capt. Burton, whose skilful handling of the challenger was admired by experts aboard the Victoria. His prowess was especially admired on two specific occasions, firstly, when by a bold stroke he succeeded simultaneously in sailing closer to the wind and nearer his course, and secondly, by setting the small forestaysail below the jib topsail, a combination unexpected by experts. This gave the Shamrock a much stronger drive in the light breeze than the Resolute which was still using a balloon.

Hereto it may be said that Burton did splendidly. Sir Thomas Lipton was in the best of spirits while the guests aboard sent up a great cheer, and most every steam whistle in the vicinity, as the challenger majestically rounded the first mark nearly five minutes in the lead, greeted her.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

HE EXPECTS TOO MUCH.

The higher cost of living is a fact. I cannot imagine that anyone in the world would deny that (except the people who write the magazine articles to prove it is all the cost of high living.) And yet there are many people who do not face this fact in any

Does she manage it? Yes—because she is a wonderful woman, she gets along somehow. She has a garden, she puts immense amounts of time and energy into making cheaper cuts of meat taste like good ones, she puts up hundreds of jars of preserves, she stints herself on spending money to the last penny, and clothes herself from gift money.

"I don't suppose my husband can help not giving me more," she said. "He doesn't get but a little more than he did."

He might at least give her most of that raise since she has the hardest department to manage.

Has He Changed His Brand?

They know the fact exists, but when they are brought up against certain instances of it, they rave and come or try to shut their eyes as if they could ostrich-wise get rid of the facts that way.

His Poor Wife!

One of the most noteworthy examples of this type is the man who expects his wife to work the miracle of running the house in approximately the same way she used to on approximately the same amount of money, when the cost of everything she uses in her business of house-keeping has gone up from 50 to 100 per cent.

He knows perfectly well that she cannot do it. And yet whenever she gives him poorer food, or tells him she must have more money, instead of talking the thing over and deciding between them where they must let down, he rages and scolds about how hard he works and how little he can save and how he doesn't see what is going to become of them all. Poorer, I don't blame them for feeling that way sometimes. It is terrible to strain every nerve and find oneself not making any progress, and perhaps slipping back. But I do blame them for going on at their wives if they were to blame, when they are not.

And I do blame them for accepting the state of affairs with more or less philosophy so long as it applies to their expenditures and resenting it bitterly when it applies to those of their wives.

She is a Muscle Worker.

I know a woman whose husband has her exactly what he gave her years ago to run the house on.

And here's another thing—the brand of cigars he used to smoke has gone up 50 per cent. Has he changed his brand? Certainly not.

Has he given up his lodge? No.

Does he walk to work (he might)? No.

The high cost of living is putting a grievous burden upon that big class of plain people who are neither capitalists nor organized laborers. They are being almost unendurably crushed between the upper and nether mill stones of forces in the struggle.

But the burden becomes even more grievous if it is not fairly carried on the shoulders of all. And this means wives as well as husbands, for the wife who does not want to do her share is far from an unknown quantity. The only thing to do is talk the whole matter over, just as any business matter would be talked over between partners, making a budget—and then do the best that fallible human beings can in a difficult situation.

This is to certify that fourteen years ago I got the cords of my left wrist nearly severed, and was for about nine months that I had no use of my hand, and tried other Liniments, also doctors, and was receiving no benefit. By a persuasion from a friend I got MINARD'S LINIMENT and used one bottle which completely relieved me, and have been using MINARD'S LINIMENT in my family ever since and find it the same as when I first used it, and would never be without it.

The Cradle of the Eel.

The eel has been tracked to his cradle.

It has taken us two thousand years to learn that eels, living in ponds and rivers, climb out when full-grown, crawl over the land, find a river running to the ocean, go out to sea, and lay eggs which produce offspring that come back in billions up the rivers from which their parents descended.

A scientist has now tracked down these elusive marvels to their spawning grounds. It is the Sargasso Sea, that enormous sea-garden through which Columbus first sailed, to the terror of his crews, from September to October, 1492. Of course that is not the only nursery.

Upon hatching, the eel larvae drift with the current, undergo a marvelous transformation, reach Europe, swarm up the rivers, climb the banks, cross dusty ditches and parched meadows to inland ponds and ditches, and then settle there for the next seven or eight years, when they swim back to the Sargasso to lay their eggs, and die.

Is not that a crowning marvel of the migratory instinct? Across the Atlantic in infancy, to fatten in a wayside English pond, and back again, grownup, across the wide ocean.

OUR LITTLE JOBS.

Some jobs are worse than writing verse, and some are more enchanting; I'd rather play a harp all day than be a statesman ranting. For office high some men will fry, in beastly summer weather; and I'd rather be a king, or corner, or sheriff. Let others rise, 'neath burning skies, our sacred bulwarks guarding; I've no desire to soak my lyre, to be a Warren Harding. The statesman scrap and fuss and yap, and Gilbert jumps on Billy, while in the shade I drink limeade, and knock the timber silly. My record sleeps and no one weeps o'er crimes I have committed; the country grins when statesmen's sins are to news columns fitted. Some jobs are slick and span and spick, compared with writing sonnets, but oh, the woes that statesmen know when bees are in their bonnets! I do not sigh for office high, I wish no White House laurel; I'd rather write my rhyme to-night, and spring an ancient moral.

THE DREAM OF YOUTH.
Those glorious days of long ago, when youth and strength were once to know.
When all our dreams were far ahead and we were strange to care, Then splendor crowned the hills afar, I wonder now if still they are As mystical to those who stand to gaze upon them there.
Oh, do the youngsters of to-day still seek the land of far-away, And paint their pictures over there of pride and pomp and fame? And do they think that they shall find The real delights and happiness of life they'll quickly claim?

Those golden days of long ago, when we were all too young to know The bitter side of life or see the well of failure's sting, We dreamed our dreams of strength and age, of deeds we'd do and wars we'd wage, And from the distance thought success was such an easy thing. I wonder now if those who sigh to reach the glorious by-and-by Still fancy, as we used to do, that duty's tasks are light? And do they think that they shall find the world and all its people kind And never know a care by day or heavy heart by night?

Now we have left that long-ago the distant hills, we've come to know, We've sought our dreams afar and near, and many a path we've turned, We've felt the whip and spar of life, we've had to bear our share of strife, And many a truth in grief and woe and bitterness we've learned, Success is not the easy thing it seemed to be in dreams of spring, There's much to bear and much to face and many a cruel test, But still, despite the lines of care which weary men and women wear, Youth cherishes its splendid dreams and thinks that Age is best.

Manuel Estrada Cabrera who has just been driven from power, was for 22 years ruler of Guatemala. He was born in 1857. He has been a czar who outdid czarism, was absolute and complete master of details. He amassed a tremendous fortune, principally by confiscation. The land-owning class have always hated him. Assassins have tried to get him more than once. He was a tyrant, who stood for the people against the masters.

Wanted--Hotels.

While the beauties of Newfoundland scenery, the equability of its climate during the summer months, and the unusual attractions the dominion offers in sporting, fishing, bathing and yachting (sail or motor), have been freely and widely advertised abroad, in the hope of attracting tourists to our hospitable shores, it has seemed very strange to the few who have been persuaded, by reading these advertisements, to pay a visit to the tenth island, that no effort has been made on an adequate scale to provide hotel accommodation for even the one or two hundred who do venture the trip. This is so true of St. John's that most of the boat passengers from Canada and the United States prefer to do the round trip only, remaining on the steamer during her short stay in port, and not therefore having wide opportunities of seeing all that we have to offer in the way of scenic attractions, and thus depart with but a faint and sometimes erroneous idea of the natural beauties, which time forbids them from viewing. Thus they are disappointed and discouraged from revisiting, because there is no place at which they can put up for a longer stay than the few hours their ship has at the dock. As a summer resort the part of the country around and about St. John's offers exceptional attractions, but the lack of hotel room has the effect of keeping thousands of would-be summer visitors away, and thus there is lost to the trade a most potential source of revenue, the spending of which would be of great benefit to every class of our people.

For years past much talk has been of erecting hotels, but it has ended where it began—in talk. Our shortsightedness in failing to provide accommodation for those induced by the well written articles contained in steamboat and railway folders, as well as in the advertisements directing attention to Newfoundland as the Sportsmen's Paradise, has been much commented upon, and it seems strange to those who make the run from New York, Halifax and other points on the neighboring continent that there should be such a paucity of comfortable hotels. St. John's is away behind the West Coast in thus catering to foreign visitors. Recognizing the value of providing ample accommodation for tourists, and the filip, their presence in numbers, gives to a popular resort, the people of the West Coast realised that to get the traffic, the first thing to be done was to put up a suitable building, and then advertise. And those who foresaw the possibilities did so, and when they were ready to cater to the wants of the prospective visitors, they announced it through the press. And the result has been more than a success, for year after year a steady stream of tourists flow in through Port aux Basques and take rail to points wherever an hotel is situated—and that is usually wherever the best inland fishing offers. At Little River (Afton) Doyles, The Branches, St. George's, Spruce Brook, Curling and Humbermouth, all great fishing centres, the hotels are never without guests, during the summer months, and so much has the patronage increased, that the energetic proprietors of these houses of hospitality and comfort, have been compelled, more than once, to enlarge their premises, in order to meet the growing demand for accommodation. If this can be done in a part of the country where there are no highways beyond the local roads, surely in St. John's with its network of mainroads, reaching out in every direction, and tapping all the principal points, where tourists would love to spend a month or so, should have sufficient go and enterprise to erect a commodious and up-to-date hostelry. Such should have been built years ago. But it's never too late to mend and if the announcement made in a contemporary on Saturday that the movement to put up a large hotel here in the capital is now under way, be correct, then one of the factors—the chief one—which militated so much against the tourist traffic to the city, will be entirely obviated, and next season we may hope to see a rush of people to our shores, which may mean the rediscovery of Newfoundland.

Nfld. Press Representatives.

By yesterday's express Sir Patrick McGrath left for Sydney, where he will connect with the British delegates en route to the Empire Press Conference at Ottawa. It is understood that he was joined along the line by the Hon. A. W. Mews, Editor of the Advocate, who is the other representative from the press of this country. To Sir Patrick, apart from the attending conference, the occasion will mean a visit to familiar scenes and the renewing of friendships and acquaintances of many years' standing. To most of the British representatives he is personally known, while his name is familiar to the delegates from the dominions. To Hon. Mr. Mews the experience will be entirely new in every way, and one which we are sure will be fully appreciated. He is offered an opportunity not only of meeting men from all portions of the Empire, which in itself is a great privilege, but he will come in touch with some of the brightest minds in journalism. Many of the delegates it has been our good fortune to have met, and in congratulating our brother journalists on their good luck, we can do so with the assurance that they are in for a real good time. As they will not be subject to such censorship regulations as will prevent them from writing fully of their trip, we look forward with a great deal of interest to their reports of their experiences and doings at the Conference.

(Dr. H. M. Mosdell, Editor of the Daily Star, leaves by s.s. Sable I. tomorrow morning for Sydney and will join the Press delegates either at New Glasgow or Truro, the party having to spend a day at Sydney, and from thence through Nova Scotia to Halifax. Newfoundland will thus have three representatives, whose journalistic experience will be augmented by association with the most brilliant minds of the British newspaper world. With a trinity of local editors, to write up the tour, the daily press here will not be behind in supplying all that is of interest to its readers, and we are sure that their written matter will bear favorable comparison with that of the United Kingdom and Dominion press articles—Ed. Telegram.)

At Gower St. Church.

Rev. Alfred Woods, brother of Mr. Sydney Woods, was the preacher at Gower Street Church last evening. He delivered an eloquent and convincing sermon from the text, "What then shall I do with Jesus?" that made a marked impression on his hearers, and deepened their sense of the claims of Christ upon the devotion of their hearts and the service of their lives.

Requiem Mass.

At all the Masses in the R. C. Cathedral and St. Patrick's Church, yesterday, it was announced that the annual Requiem Mass would be celebrated at Balvidere on Tuesday morning, August 3rd.

The Wonders Of Wireless.

Yesterday at Signal Hill—Prime Minister 'Phones Official Welcome.

"If wireless telegraphy is a thing for wonder," says the leading article in My Magazine for August, what can we say of the wireless telephone, the reproduction of the human voice or of music hundreds of miles from the speaker or the instrument—all in clear perfect tones, without any of the blemishes we hear on the ordinary telephone, and needing no wires for their guidance. In the big wireless telephone devices of to-day are noticed the glass bulbs that have been called our modern Aladdin's lamps, the magic bottles with a sort of genie in them, the chief secret of our wireless miracles. They are only big electric lamps, provided with a little piece of wire netting, and a little sheet of metal in addition to the glowing filament; yet with their aid wireless signals can be made so loud that they can be heard by a half of people. These lamps glow like the ordinary electric light bulb that everybody knows, and present exactly the same appearance when they are producing huge electric waves as when they are silent. "So powerful are they to magnify wireless signals that they have been the means of doing away with the huge wireless masts and long stretches of wire—at least for receiving messages."

Talking With Victorian. The above does not at all give an adequate idea of the complicated apparatus to be seen in the operating room of a wireless telephone station, and those who were privileged to be admitted to the Cabot Tower on Signal Hill yesterday were filled with wonder and admiration, not unmingled with awe, as they viewed the various instruments installed for the purpose of communicating with R.M.S. Victorian, bringing the Imperial Press Delegates across the Atlantic to Canada.

In the forenoon the Prime Minister, Sir P. T. McGrath, Hon. Sir Edgar R. Bowring, Chief Civil Commissioner, W. G. Gosling and other prominent citizens were present to witness the first demonstration of long distance wireless, the Press delegates on the ship being officially welcomed by Hon. R. A. Squires, who is the first Newfoundland Premier to have received the honor of using the wireless phone. Some little difficulty was had at the beginning in getting the apparatus in good working condition, owing to the kam shaft being out of order. Finally adjustments were made and at 11 o'clock the Victorian was picked up 650 miles off St. John's. The first demonstration was the playing of a gramophone record, "Beautiful Ohio," which could be distinctly heard at the station. The Prime Minister was then connected with Lord Burnham, and on behalf of Newfoundland welcomed the press men to this side of the Atlantic. He regretted that they could not call at Newfoundland on the outward trip, but hoped they would visit here before they returned to England. In the course of his conversation the Premier referred to the fact that Newfoundland had already witnessed many epoch making events, having first picked up the wireless from the other side, and was the starting point of the airship trans-Atlantic flight and now the wireless telephone. Lord Burnham in reply heartily thanked the Premier for the courteous welcome accorded. Sir P. T. McGrath was next at the phone and also expressed regret that the press men were not visiting here on the outward trip. He informed Lord Burnham that the Newfoundland delegates would be leaving by express within an hour or so and would join them at North Sydney. Sir Patrick also got in touch with Sir Roderick Jones, of the Daily Mail, who with Lady Jones is combining his honeymoon trip with the press tour. He felicitated Sir Roderick on his marriage and expressed the wish that himself and bride were enjoying the trip. Colonel Parkinson, D.S.O., also spoke to Sir Patrick and repeated a press message which he wished to be sent to the Canadian press. Every word of the message was heard distinctly and is given below:

From Colonel E. H. Parkinson, D.S.O., Abard Victorian to Canadian Press, Ltd., for Distribution To Press of Canada. "It is peculiarly fitting that the initial outstandingly successful demonstration of the wireless telephone as a medium of communication between water and land should have been operated on the C.P.O.S. Victorian, which is carrying to Canada the Imperial Press, an organization so vitally interested in promoting greater facilities for the free exchange of news and views of the widely remote dominions of the British Empire. With a keen sense of pride, as official representative of the Canadian newspapers, I desire to avail myself of the first opportunity that was accorded of communicating a message by wireless telephony from a ship at sea to the Press of Canada, also to pay a tribute to the eminently satisfactory working results of this practical test of the newest achievement of the distinguished Marconi, an accomplishment great in potentiality in promoting the common interests of the British Empire."

After receiving the press message, Captain Waite of the Victorian rang up Sir M. P. Cashin, who unfortunately was not present. Capt. Waite is a friend of Sir Michael's and was Second Officer on the S.S. Scottish King when that steamer went ashore at Broad Cove. Capt. Waite is also a personal friend of Mr. D. Balby, whose guest he was while in the city, following the wreck of the Scottish King.

Another demonstration was arranged for the afternoon at 4.30, those present being Hon. Warren Brownrigg, Hailyard, J. D. Ryan, Browning, Sir M. P. Cashin, Mr. W. J. Higgins, the city press representatives and some others. Unfortunately owing to atmospheric conditions and the cutting in of some steamers in port the Victorian could not be heard very distinctly, though the ship could hear the station plainly. After several unsuccessful attempts by the Victorian, Engineer Mogridge decided to abandon the afternoon demonstration and invited those present to visit the station at 11 o'clock this morning, when the Victorian will be picked up again.

Successful Demonstration. At 10.30 this morning, city press representatives were in attendance at the Signal Hill Station, in the persons of Mr. R. Hibbs (Advocate), and Mr. J. T. Meaney (Daily Star). Other visitors were Sir Michael Cashin and W. A. Munn, Esq. Both Advocate and Star sent a message of welcome to the Pressmen on the Victorian to which they received replies. Mr. R. B. Herder (Telegram), also had the pleasure of speaking with the steamer, which was at the time about 300 miles off the coast, making good time toward Sydney though weather at the time was thick. The party will land at Sydney and visit all the principal towns of the Maritime and Upper Provinces, proceeding to Ottawa, where the Conference proper will be held.

The Telegram sent the following message of welcome to the journalists on board the Victorian: "The Evening Telegram welcomes the members of the Imperial Press Conference to this side of the Atlantic and hopes that they will have the pleasure of talking over the wireless telephone again and that this will be another step in linking up Newfoundland with the mother country."

A reply was received from the delegates thanking the Telegram for the good wishes expressed, and that the Conference hoped their meetings in Canada would be the means of uniting more closely the Imperial Press. Enthusiasm on board ship is wonderful, and if weather were only a bit more clear, not a dull moment would be experienced. The party are much pleased with the trip and arrangements, no expense being spared to make the voyage pleasant and comfortable. It has been a novel experience for many and one which will not soon be forgotten.

In Touch. The wireless telephone station at Cabot Tower, Signal Hill, has been off and on in communication with C.P.O.S. Victorian, since this morning, and at 2 o'clock phoned the Sandy Hook dispatch published elsewhere. Two extra demonstrations will be given this afternoon, and conversation with Victorian may be carried out by visitors to the station at 3 o'clock and 5 o'clock.

Mount Cashel Sports. The sports programme for the Mount Cashel Garden Party is arranged to take place in the following order: Baseball Match, Junior Teams. Boys' Race, Preliminary Heats. Football Fives (First Round) Collegians vs. Highlanders; Saints vs. C.C.C.; B.I.S. vs. Briton; Felladians vs. Star; C.E.L. bye. Baseball Final for H. D. Reid Cup. Cubs vs. Wanderers. Football Fives (Second Round); Winners of (5) vs. Winners of (3); Winners of (1) vs. Winners of (4); Winners of (2) Bye. Pony Race, Preliminary Heats. Boys' Race, Final Heat. Football Fives, semi-finals. Winners of (6) vs. Winners of (a); Winners of (b) Bye. Pony Race, Final Heat. Football Fives, Final. (Winners of (e) vs. Winners of (f)).

From Cape Race. Special to Evening Telegram. CAPE RACE To-day. Wind West, light, dense fog and raining; nothing heard passing; Bar, 29.27; Ther, 60.

To-day's Messages.

FINAL TUNING UP.

SANDY HOOK, July 25. Resolute and Shamrock IV. took sail stretching spars this afternoon, in the Horsehoe, preparatory to what promises to be the final race for America's Cup to-morrow. Resolute bent a brand new mainsail, and after it was hoisted set an outer jib and went for a twenty minutes sail in the bay. A nice eight knot breeze was blowing from the northwest, which would have been an ideal day for the racing machines. Shamrock got underway late this afternoon, and worked in and about the Horsehoe for some time. Once at their moorings the mainsails of the two crews were put under covers, and the crews were permitted to rest for to-morrow's race, which is to be fought over a course fifteen miles to windward or leeward and return.

GREEKS TAKE ADRIANOPE.

LONDON, July 25. Greeks have occupied Adrianople, according to an announcement made in Athens newspapers on Saturday, and forwarded to the Exchange Telegraph Company. King Alexander entered Adrianople on Sunday.

GERMANY'S PROHIBITION.

BERLIN, July 25. The German Government to-day proclaimed an ordinance, prohibiting the exportation and transit of arms, munitions, explosives or other war materials to Poland or Russia. The proclamation adds that Germany exercises this right, which she enjoys in accordance with the law of nations, which remains untouched by the provisions of the Peace Treaty.

REDS WANT WRANGLER.

LONDON, July 25. The Russian Soviet Government has notified Great Britain that it is willing to meet the leading Allies for a Peace Conference in London, but as a preliminary to such a conference, it demands the surrender of General Wrangel, anti-Bolshevik commander in the South, under a guarantee of personal safety, according to the Daily Mail.

TENSE SITUATION.

BELFAST, July 25. There was no firing here last night or this morning, and the worst disturbance was a sole window smashing. The death list, as the result of the recent fighting between Unionists and Sinn Féin factions, reached seventeen to-day, when two women, who were injured on Friday in an attack on St. Matthews Convent, and a man who was shot Thursday, died. The military which is being steadily reinforced, not only by men but by armoured cars which are being kept in barracks, was the busiest body in Belfast to-day, for although a steady downpour of rain gave hope that the enthusiasm of the rioters would dampen, the authorities were taking no chances. Barricades in all of the disturbed sections were strengthened with further sand bags; more wire was erected and more men were added to the pickets, including more seasoned soldiers. The precautions were not ill timed, for this afternoon a saloon in the Falls Road district was wrecked, and the premises of certain hardware merchants met a similar fate. Police charges are ineffective, and soldiers have been brought out to restore order. Newtonards Road and the neighborhood, which have been so badly wrecked, presented a dismal appearance to-day. Bersagled Union Jacks hung limply on their staffs and saloons and pawnshops, which have thus far escaped the looters, are closed and boarded. The rival faction stood in groups ready at any signal for a renewal of the strife, having apparently ignored the appeals made from pulpits of all sections to-day to avoid a provocative attitude.

FAVORABLE CONDITIONS.

SANDY HOOK, July 25. A twelve-knot breeze from the northwest and a smooth sea were favorable prospects to-day for the final contest of Shamrock and Resolute. Betting to-day on final race, three to one on Resolute, with few takers.

PILING ON THE AGONY.

MONTREAL, July 26. The Express Traffic Association has appealed for an increase of not less than forty per cent. over the present tolls in an application forwarded to the Board of Railway Commissioners.

SHAKEN UP ONLY.

QUAYQUAIL, July 26. Many buildings were damaged in a severe earthquake here yesterday, but no casualties are reported. (Quayquail is the chief commercial city of Ecuador, South America.—Ed.)

NOTHING DOING.

DUBLIN, July 26. Arthur Griffith, Sinn Féin leader, describes as an invention, the reports that authoritative attempts have been made to negotiate with Stan Feinners for settlement.

IN RETALIATION.

DUBLIN, July 26. At Newport, Tipperary, on Saturday night, a gang of men sheared the hair from a girl who kept company with a policeman. Enraptured soldiers and police burned the houses of all the principal Sinn Féiners, who fled for their lives.

IS THIS PROFITTEERING?

MONTREAL, July 26. The action of the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Company in advancing all grades of sugar three dollars a hundred pounds to-day, puts all refiners on the same level, granulated sugar selling at twenty-four dollars per hundred pounds, in bags.

SEEKING ASYLUM.

MONTREAL, July 26. A number of Belgian Priests and Sisters, among the latter being one from Munich, Germany, landed from the Grampian yesterday.

GOOD NEWS.

WINNIPEG, July 26. Recent rains have assured very good crops, according to the Secretary of Canadian Agriculture.

The Commission.

At this forenoon's session of the Commission of Enquiry into the Woodford charges, Mr. Howley solicitor for Mr. Woodford made an application to represent the latter in the cross examination of Hon. Mr. Gibbs. The commission held a session for some time in private audience returning to the Tower Room for the application on the grounds that the enquiry was not a judicial one. Mr. Woodford here asked permission to cross examine Mr. Gibbs, and upon being refused the request, said "Gibbs, Mr. Gibbs in his evidence has perjured himself and neither myself nor my solicitor is allowed to question him. I have no redress and therefore withdraw."

Hon. J. D. Ryan replied "we can't help that Mr. Woodford." Mr. Gibbs continued his statement in relation to the affidavits as made by his partner Mr. Barron. In cross examination by the commission Mr. Gibbs said he received notice of Woodford's resignation 10 minutes before Court opened on the 19th March. He had absolutely no information of Carters interview with Woodford regarding the latter's resignation. Mr. Gibbs claimed that from his evidence and personal knowledge that Woodford had a definite intention of resigning in spite of the evidence which had against Woodford.

Mr. Gibbs on further questioning denied personal knowledge of a definite agreement about salary and position being made with Woodford. He also stated that he was never authorized by Mr. Squires to get Woodford to resign.

He, being present, did not hear Premier Squires welcome Woodford to the Civil Service. Woodford's statement in this connection was incorrect.

Mr. Howley gave further evidence and stated that at a conversation held in the Court House Mr. Gibbs stated that if they filed the affidavits it would ruin him professionally. He asked that the commission should inquire as to what took place at Woodford's house on the night of the 19th March, when Mr. Gibbs and his solicitor Mr. Barron visited there. Mr. Gibbs had not withdrawn from the enquiry volunteered the information that he went there for the purpose of finding out if Woodford intended to resign the district of Harbour Main. Mr. Gibbs should then open it. He stated that the house was all illuminated when they went there and he requested Mr. Woodford to draw the curtains so that nothing could be seen from the outside. Mr. Ryan asked what were the illuminations for, and were they not unusual, to which Mr. Gibbs replied "No, not altogether unusual." The enquiry then adjourned till 11 a.m. to-morrow.

Wednesday Next, Mt. Cashel Day.

For the past twenty years the Mt. Cashel Garden Party has been the great event of the year and the thousands who annually patronize the fête come away with the feeling that more could not have been done to make the day thoroughly enjoyable. The conveniences, comfort and pleasure of the immense throng attending have always been carefully considered and the general impression is that the party has only the success it deserves. This year's gathering bids fair to be the largest on record. Bro. Ennis and his army of lady aides from long experience have reduced their preparations to a science and no detail affecting the enjoyment of visitors has been omitted. For six thousand guests a hundred table holders and experts in the art—have made ready in out-door hotel fashion a feast which most satisfy the most exacting. In the past the sports side of the day was thoroughly enjoyable, however, Wednesday's programme is arranged by the indefatigable and magnanimous Messrs. Higgins and Ellis, promises to outdistance all their previous efforts. The best city teams of our football and baseball leagues will contest for beautiful gold and silver medals for first and second place respectively, and the baseballers will be put to the limit of their skill in capturing the H. D. Reid cup. The pony race, which originated at Mount Cashel, will be an exceedingly interesting event as fifteen ponies, including Kelly's, Gosse's, Marshall's and other favourites have been trained for some time on the grand new M. C. track which has been specially made for this year's race. Spectators may expect an exciting contest. Other events such as dancing by the M. C. boys, the junior baseball game, and boys' race will add much to the programme. Whilst the C.L.E. and C.C.G. bands, which have so often lent their aid, will contribute to the "perfect day". The beautiful Mount Cashel grounds form an ideal rendezvous for a fête de well as for the various games. The lovely green fields, sheltered by still more verdant trees of great variety of shade, appeal to all lovers of the beauties of nature. The imposing new pile of buildings, worth at least $750,000, and built by Brother Ennis, assisted by one tradesman, is truly an object of wonder. Experts at concrete work pronounce it one of the best, if not the best built, constructions in our city. Citizens by your patronage on Wednesday, without any sacrifice on your part, aid Bro. Conway and his community carry out their plans for the sole benefit of their 150 orphan boys, who must look to them alone in all their wants.

If you have a cold in the head get a tube of O.E.M. Its early and judicious application will avert or cure the worst cold in the head. Price 70c a tube.

No Taxes There!

Can you imagine a country with no taxes? Think what a Utopia we should live in if we were free from Income Tax and all other similar burdens! One can hardly help being envious of a state with no taxes, even though it is, in point of size, the smallest republic in the world. San Marino is the oldest, as well as the smallest, republic, and it only covers an area of twenty-three square miles. This tiny republic is to be found in Central Italy, on the Adriatic, and at no great distance from Rimini. It differs from all other republics in another point, which, while finding favour in the eyes of a certain section of the public, would hardly do so in the eyes of the majority. Not only has it no taxes, but it has no crime. The heart of this little State is as big as itself, for it took its part in the Great War by declaring war on Germany in 1915.

'Bus Meets Accident.

The Bowring Park motor bus received a smashing up yesterday afternoon, by colliding with a telephone pole while trying to avoid a Victoria waggon. The bus was filled with passengers proceeding to the park, and when near the G. P. Cemetery met a Victoria which, in avoiding, caused the accident. One of the doors of the car was ripped off and about half the length of the vehicle, was battered. The shade and curtains were also badly torn and the top ripped away. Messrs. S. Gibbons and J. Coody who were in the bus received injuries, and had their clothes torn by the bus roof crushing in on them. On arrival at the park they were taken by Mr. Canning to the asylum where medical aid was given them. The point at which the accident occurred is very narrow and should be widened at once so as to give vehicles room to pass each other.

Died Suddenly.

At 9.15 p.m. Saturday, Henry Walsh, age 63, and belonging to the Guilds was found dead by his son in the barn of Mr. A. Williams. Shortly after two o'clock the deceased hitched up his horse and started for Petty Harbor to procure a load of fish offal for manure, and it is assumed that on reaching William's farm he became ill and went to the barn to rest. His horse started for home and was found by Mr. A. Williams who immediately acquainted Mr. Walsh's son, who organized a party and made a search finding the body in an express wagon in the barn in a sitting posture. Drs. Tait and Deacon were notified and upon examination pronounced death due to heart affection.

THE "GRUB" PEST.

To prevent damage to plants and shrubs a simple remedy is a weak solution of Sulphate of Ammonia. Use 1/4 oz. of Sulphate to one gallon of water. On no account use a stronger solution or you may "burn" the plants.

We have a limited quantity of Sulphate of Ammonia at our Showroom, Oke Building. Full instructions given with each package.

Mainly About People.

Dr. Adolph Koester, now minister of foreign affairs for Germany, is considered one of the country's foremost editors and political scientists. His parents were German-Danish fisher and sea folk. He holds degrees from Heidelberg, Halle, Marburg and Zurich and has travelled in Asia, Africa and America. He is an author of standing.

Former King Constantine of Greece shocks the quiet Swiss by his zest for boisterous amusements. Women who have played the hostess to him have been rewarded with a snub. "His Majesty" dines in the public dining room half an hour before the crowd comes in. Several hundred thousand dollars has been raised for the exiled group, 20 in number.

The wife of Prince Christopher of Greece, formerly Mrs. William Balesman Leeds of New York, heiress to $17,000,000, intends to bring her royal husband to Newport. She has a beautiful villa at the famous Rhode Island resort. The prince is a grandson of the late King Christian IX, of Denmark, and a cousin of King George of England.

Lieutenant Flora Landes is an English heroine, who fought in the Serbian army throughout the war. She won her Serbian commission through her bravery. She dresses identically as men of her army rank dress. At first glance she looks like a man, and has affected a man's stride. She is now visiting London, and her mannerism makes her conspicuous on the streets of the English capital.

Whenever the opportunity permits itself, David Lloyd George, England's prime minister, spends a few days among the scenes of his boyhood at Criccieth, Wales. He takes his son Gwilym Lloyd George, and his daughter, Miss Megan Lloyd George, with him, and with every visit there is sure to be told some new anecdotes of his boyhood days in his beloved Wales.

Eitel Friedrich, the former Kaiser's second son, wants to become a movie star. He is not alone in this desire, for Germany has a score of counts, barons, dukes and princes who are with him. Their purses are empty. Eitel wants to go to California and lead in cowboy and wild west pictures. He started in the automobile business, but it doesn't pay enough.

Miss Adeline Gehig, a stenographer in a New York railroad office, is the feminine fencing champion of the United States. She goes in for boxing, baseball, tennis, swimming, dancing, jumping and walking. She is a handsome young woman of the brunette type, 5 feet, 6 inches and weighs 147 pounds. She never tires, and has never been ill a day in her life. A walk of 10 miles is nothing to her. She lectures working girls on exercise and diet. She is planning to walk to California.

Marie Conway Oemler, whose writings have made her famous, had a Tipperary grandmother who had the folklore of Ireland at her finger ends, said her prayers in Gaelic and knew all the seditions songs. The authoress was taught Irish. Her grandfather was one of the pioneer orange growers of Florida. Marie was born in Savannah, her father was a Confederate and after the war joined the Ku Klux Klan. She wrote verses that brought her the commendation of Sir Charles Gavan Duffy. She is the mother of two children. She has three fondnesses—the Bible, butterflies and black cats.

Austen Chamberlain is the only British cabinet minister known to have climbed a lamp post after attaining that dignity. It seems a pity that no photograph is available of the Chancellor of the Exchequer hanging to the lamp. Mr. F. R. Coudert, the well known American lawyer, who was in London during the Zeppelin raid of September 8th, 1915, returned to New York and told a newspaper, "There was a crowd of people," Mr. Coudert said, "watching the spectacle. I therefore climbed up a lamp post to get a better view. Suddenly I heard a greeting from below me, looked down, and saw Austen Chamberlain. After I had got a good look I climbed down and let him get up there."

Flattering.

Young Musician—"Now, professor, how do my compositions please you?" Professor—"Why, I think that they may perhaps be played when Mozart, Haydn, Mendelssohn, and Meyerbeer have been forgotten." Young Musician—"Really?" Professor—"Certainly; but not until then."

A Royalist Victory.

The town of Bristol played a very prominent part in the Civil War of the seventeenth century. At the beginning of the Rebellion the town declared for the Parliament, and received a garrison under the command of Nathaniel Fiennes. In July, 1643, the Royalist successes in the West of England made the possession of Bristol much to be desired by the Cavaliers, for it commanded the whole valley of the Severn, so Prince Rupert was sent to besiege it. The governor of the town was a better debater in the House than a military commander, and after three days he determined to capitulate, Rupert offering exceedingly good terms to the "Roundheads." Accordingly, on July 26, 1643, the gates of Bristol were opened to the Royalists, who were joined on their entrance by a good many of the Parliamentary troops, who were thoroughly disheartened at the repeated defeats which their side had sustained at the hands of the Cavaliers, who were fighting for a king whom they blindly believed worthy of their devotion. At this time things were looking very black for the Parliament, and after the capture of Bristol, Gloucester was the only strong place in the west that held out against the seemingly victorious Royalists. But subsequent events gave Cromwell the victory.

No Need to Despair.

Harry Vardon, the golf champion, lately celebrated his fiftieth birthday. The fact calls to mind a story once told about a caddie who was out with an old gentleman, who, by the time the twelfth hole was reached, had been in most of the bunkers en route, and had succeeded in breaking a club. "I think I shall give up at this hole," he remarked at last to his indignant caddie. "No, no," retorted the old worthy. "Peeish the course, sir, feenish the course; ye've got four clubs to smash yet, an' nine bunkers to dae it in!"

A Better Rate.

Excited Second—"Pull yourself together, old thing. Don't let that Yank lick you!" Boxer (who is getting the worst of it)—"Fraid he'll do it—seems to have a better rate of exchange than me!"

The Port of Manchester.

ROMANTIC STORY OF THE SHIP CANAL.

Few people in the South of England realize that Manchester, which is thirty-five miles from the sea, is, thanks to the Ship Canal, the third greatest port in the United Kingdom. The canal was opened in 1894. In the first year the total outward and inward traffic was less than a million tons. In 1913 it was nearly six million tons. The traffic was, of course, affected by the war, but this figure of six million tons will soon be left far behind.

Ships sail regularly from Manchester to the United States, Canada, Australia, India, and to practically all the Continental ports.

Look at the map and you will see that Manchester is situated at the centre of a great network of manufacturing cities and towns. She is within a short distance of the Lancashire coalfields. The group of Yorkshire woolen cities is next door. But despite her long commercial history, her situation, and the energy of her people, Manchester discovered some forty years ago that her prosperity was departing from her.

Manchester men met and discussed the position, and they agreed that, if Manchester were to recover and add to her prosperity, Manchester must be taken to the sea.

Liverpool Alarmed!

The idea was not new. So long ago as 1708, one Thomas Steers, who built the first wet dock at Liverpool (then a town of only 8,000 inhabitants), worked out a plan for making the Irwell, Manchester's river, navigable. And in 1720 an Act of Parliament was passed with this object. A scheme for a Ship Canal was submitted to Parliament in 1825, and, although it was rejected, it attracted a large amount of local interest.

Liverpool naturally viewed the project with some alarm, and in 1825 the 'Liverpool Mercury' printed some verses which were called the "Humble Petition of the Liverpool Corporation to the Manchester Projectors of the Grand Ship Canal!":—

Oh, ye lords of the loom,
Pray avert our sad doom,
We humbly beseech on our knees;
We do not complain
That you drink your champagne,
But leave us our port if you please.

Liverpool had her way for sixty years. But in 1882, moved by economic necessity, Manchester moved in real earnest. The construction of the canal began in 1885.

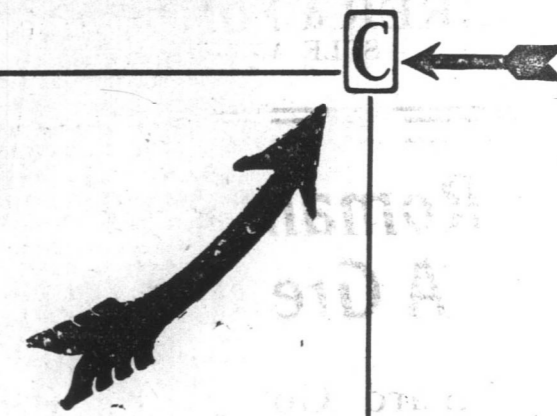

The Duke of Bridgewater prepared the way for the Manchester Ship Canal by constructing the Bridgewater Canal, which crosses the Irwell at Barton Bridge, in 1761. In order to find the money for this enterprise, the Duke kept his personal expenses down to four hundred pounds a year for many years.

The Ship Canal is thirty-five and a half miles long. The total amount of excavation required for the canal and its docks was 51,563,747 cubic yards—half the quantity that was taken out for the Suez Canal.

The canal enters the Mersey at Eastham, nineteen miles from the mouth of the river. There are three tidal locks at Eastham and eight others along the canal's course. The rise and fall of these locks may be reckoned from the fact that the difference in level between Manchester and Runcorn, one of the towns through which the canal runs, is over sixty feet.

Perhaps the most remarkable engineering feature of the canal is the Barton Aqueduct, by means of which the old Bridgewater Canal is both carried over the Ship Canal and its course stopped and swung round at right angles during the passing of large ships. The capital expended in constructing the canal and building docks and warehouses was over seventeen million pounds, and it was not until 1915 that the first dividend payments were made.

The Romance of A Great Business

The Cunard Company's Humble Beginning.

Up to the year 1838 the Royal mails were carried across the Atlantic from England to America in sailing ships, old naval vessels which were so slow, so shockingly unseaworthy, that they became commonly known as "coffin ships."

Trade with America was rapidly increasing, and the popular outcry against these wretched old ships became so strong that the British Government was forced to take some steps towards improvement. In October, 1838, tenders were invited to carry the American mails by steam vessels.

Circulars were distributed broadcast, and by chance one found its way into the hands of Samuel Cunard, a merchant of Halifax, Nova Scotia.

As early as 1830, Mr. Cunard had begun to agitate for a trans-Atlantic steam service, and in 1833 had actually become director of a company formed for this purpose. This company purchased the Royal William, a steamer built by James Goudie, at Quebec, and meant for the Quebec and Halifax Steam Navigation Company. She was a vessel of 830 tons, with engines of 180 horse-power, and was the first ship to cross the Atlantic from west to east under steam. Leaving Quebec on August 4th, 1833, she arrived quite safely at Gravesend on September 11th.

A Doubtful Honour.

The venture, however, was not a success from a commercial point of view, and the Royal William was eventually sold to the Spanish Government, who used her as a warship. As such, she had the doubtful honour of being the first steam vessel to fire a gun in war.

To return to Mr. Cunard, after reading the offer of the British Government, he went all around Halifax endeavouring to raise money to start the new line. But steamers in those days were looked upon very much as dirigibles are now. It was granted that they could steam, but it was considered impossible that they could pay.

No one would put up a penny, so Mr. Cunard left Halifax and sailed for London. For days he visited various firms and financiers, but without the slightest success.

However, Samuel Cunard, in spite of his fifty-one years, was not the sort to be daunted. He found himself in possession of a letter of introduction from the secretary of the East India Company to Mr. Robert Napier, then the foremost steamship builder on the Clyde.

A Government Contract.

Mr. Napier received the Canadian visitor cordially, and introduced him to Mr. John Burns, of Glasgow, who was already running coast steamers. Burns was interested at once, and in his turn introduced Cunard to his partner, David MacIver, a Liverpool man.

Burns and MacIver listened to Cunard's scheme, and promptly agreed to back him for all they were worth. Within a few weeks £270,000 was raised, and a tender put in for the mail contract.

The Government accepted the Cunard tender, a seven years' contract was signed, and it was stipulated that four steamers should be built and that the payment should be £50,000 a year. The steamers were ready within two years.

In the "Liverpool Mercury" of July 3rd, 1840, appeared the following advertisement: "The S.S. Britannia will sail for Boston on the 4th July next. Passage, including provisions and wine, thirty-eight guineas. Steward's fee one guinea."

The Britannia was a wooden paddle steamer of twelve hundred tons burden. To-day we should call her a midget. Eighty years ago she and her three stout little sisters, the Acadia, Columbia, and Caledonia, were the finest steam vessels afloat.

The Britannia's first trip to Boston was made in fourteen and a half days. The service worked as regularly as clock-work, and this at a time when other lines were losing ships and suffering all kinds of disasters.

These early steamers were all driven by paddles, and it was not until more than twenty years later, in 1862, that the last of the Cunard's paddle steamers, the Scotia, was launched. She was of nearly four thousand tons, and built of iron. She could steam thirteen knots against the Britannia's eight and a half, and cut the crossing to less than nine days. The Scotia was followed by the China, the first of the screw-propelled Cunarders. She, of course, had only one screw. It was not until the year 1900 that the twin screw was introduced. In the Ivernit and Saxonia, fine vessels, each of fourteen thousand tons. The first all-steel ship was the Servia, a ten-thousand-ton ship built in 1882, which was capable of steaming seventeen knots.

Between 1840 and 1873 the Cunard Company built no fewer than one hundred and twenty steamers, but the whole lot put together would hardly equal either in tonnage or cost the three latest leviathans which have been constructed by the company.

Queen of the Seas.

The original Britannia was two hundred and seven feet in length, thirty-four feet wide, and twenty-two and a half feet deep. The Lusitania and Mauretania were each seven hundred and ninety feet long, eighty-eight wide, and thirty deep. Their tonnage was thirty-three thousand, and their speed twenty-five knots. The Mauretania, the survivor of the sisters, is to-day the world's fastest merchant ship.

But the Mauretania, vast as she is, is dwarfed by the enormous Aquitania. Nine hundred and one feet in length, with a breadth of ninety-seven feet, you could pack the Britannia inside her and lose her.

Put the Aquitania in Cheapside, and she would blot out the street completely. Her vast double bottom is wider than the whole thoroughfare, and her sides would tower above the tallest houses.

Most people know the Thames at Tower Bridge. If the Aquitania were placed across the river alongside the bridge, her stern would be on one bank and her bow on the other.—T.H.Bits.

Farthing Newspapers.

Do you know how we first came to have our daily newspapers?

We are said to be indebted to the Italians for their introduction.

The first newspaper was written and published in Venice, and was called the "Gazetta," the name of a farthing of that country, and the price of the paper!

Some saw, however, that the name "Gazetta" from which we get our "Gazette," was derived from the word "Gazzera," meaning a magpie, or chatterer. Still, the world's first newspaper was a Venetian one, was monthly, and under Government control.

It has been commonly supposed that the first English newspaper made its appearance in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and that its publication took place in order to convey to the people the tidings of the approaching Armada from Spain.

"The English Mercurie," published by "Authoritie," was printed at London, by her Highness's printer, 1588. Its mission was to contradict false reports, and although it is preserved in the British Museum, this newspaper is said by one authority to be a forgery of the eighteenth century. No genuine newspaper, it is added, has been preserved of the sixteenth century, excepting for some pamphlets under the title of "News from Spain."

At one time an attempt was made to crush the newspaper press of this country, and in 1713 a tax, or stamp duty, was imposed—a halfpenny on a single sheet, or a penny on a double sheet, and a penny on papers of a single and above half a sheet.

Lenine Trying to Wreck Britain.

London, July 14.—The Russian Soviet government, through Lenine seeks "to start the British nation off on that same career of revolutionary violence which has made Russia such a jolly place to live in." Winston Churchill, Minister of War, declared in an article published in The Evening News, answering a report by a British labor delegation which visited Russia and a letter directed to the British people by Lenine.

Should the Soviet system be established in England the War Minister believes that not only would freedom of the press and freedom of thought be swept away but the English labor leaders themselves would "share the fate of Kerenky, the Mensheviks and social revolutionaries in Russia."

The War Minister charged Lenine with having ruined his own country and said it was natural he should wish "to have all other nations reduced to the same level of misery, in order that his own carnage may be covered in the general chaos."

"Russia was on the threshold of victory," wrote Mr. Churchill. "After all her struggles she was within reach of the goal. The Germans sent in Lenine, as poison gas is sent sealed in a cylinder and he robbed her of the victory she had all but won and which she might have shared with us."

"A million Germans, released by this act of treachery, were let loose on the French and British fronts and nearly that number of British and French soldiers are dead or mutilated in consequence. Instead of victory he gave Russia shame and immeasurable disaster."

"Lenine destroyed the Russian Republic. He dissolved the Russian parliament. He had the bulk of its members hunted down and killed. He has robbed his country of victory, peace and freedom, and what has he given them in exchange?"

Russia, the great food producing center of the world, wracked with famine; the towns depopulated to half their numbers; the workmen scattered, destroyed and the rest cowed or demoralized; hundreds of thousands of people drive, to the woods and mountains to form "Green Guards" like Robin Hood in the Middle Ages; the railways on which the whole economic civilization of these great regions depend, sinking hopelessly into absolute stagnation.

"Only the peasant with his rifle in his village guards the hard-won produce of his individual toil, refuses to sell the fruits of his labor for worthless paper money and keeps alive the old Russian love of hearth and home. 'The egoism of the present,' says Lenine, 'must be broken.'"

"This, then, is the man whom the crazy portion of the Socialist party has been worshipping. He has now revealed his measure and his mentality to the British public and he appeals to them to create in Britain that enslaved, infected, starving and venomous Bedlam to which he has reduced the noble and mighty Russian state and nation."

To Kiss or Not to Kiss.

Cranks and faddists have for years tried to stop people from kissing by uttering grave warnings to the effect that colds, influenza, and many other infectious diseases are spread by the habit.

The latest discovery is that kissing is likely to cause tooth infection. Dr. Cotton, of New Jersey, who makes this statement, goes on to say that bad teeth are often the cause of mental disorders, and that careless dental treatment is likely to have very serious results in this respect.

It is, of course, a well-known fact that bad teeth affect the stomach, and consequently the whole of the body, and it was by following this line of reasoning that the discovery was made.

Dr. Cotton was not satisfied with finding out these facts. He went further, and has now announced that some cases of insanity can be cured by drawing those of the patient's teeth which are infected.

The Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Consuelo Vanderbilt, after she gets her divorce decree intends to return to New York and live with her parents. The final details may delay her home coming till Christmas. Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster leader, is one of her attorneys. All efforts to get the duke to return to his American wife have failed.

A Broomstick Bicycle.

A man in Birmingham recently made a bicycle out of old broomsticks. The latest means of locomotion, by cycle, however, is on a machine with only one wheel. The wheel is about the size of that used on an ordinary bicycle, and the seat is about the height of the pedals. The pedals are not fixed on a gear wheel, but to the axle of the only wheel that composes the machine.

Another cycle of a peculiar pattern, and one which is certainly not built for speed, resembles at first sight the children's scooters now seen in the streets.

The wheels are about the same size as those used on a good-sized scooter, and the handles are in the same position. Instead, however, of being forced along by the aid of the ground and one foot, this cycle has pedals, by means of which it is propelled. It has also a seat. The pedals of this machine are fixed to a large gear wheel, much bigger than the wheels of the cycle itself. This curious cycle is used by adults, and, on account of its peculiar shape and light weight, is quite easy to carry. It may easily be lifted over obstructions, and even carried for a considerable distance, if the nature of the ground makes this necessary.

 Ready, fellas, for the medals—the first ever presented here for baseball.

In view of the exhibitions handed out by the Juniors, we think it's up to the League to part with some of their receipts and award a suitable prize to them.
 Grand Falls have a crack Junior nine which they propose bringing in here this season when the Seniors are coming for the Inter-Town series. So, kids, on your toes and get plenty of practice.

WHAT THE FAN SAYS.
 I do not care to question why The ball is hit so far and high; I love to find some sunny spot, I do not worry if it's hot, And there I sit and have a thrill Each time a player hits the pill.

I like to see the home team lag Then in the eighth fill every bag. With bases choked and two men out; Some slugger get a home-run clout; A three-base swat I love to see, Bounce off the well-known hickory, Two-baggers, too, delight my eyes And singles I do not despise.

Baseball to me is never dull Provided hits are plentiful, That's why I never question why The sphere is hit so far and high, I simply sit and have a thrill Each time some athlete swats the pill.

As a rule, a pitcher is not a good hitter. But the case is different with Claude. He makes a hit nearly every time he goes in the box. Ask Lug French.

Harvey's got the bye in the C. of E. series. It's only natural that he should like to officiate there the day of the Gardea Party.

The Cubs have a trying week ahead of them. To-morrow night they battle with the Wanderers for the Bowling Cup, and on Wednesday afternoon at Mount Cashel for the H. D. Reid trophy. And all this right on the heels of the drubbing Donnelly gave them in the League fixtures last week.

INCREASING THE VOCAB.
 Baseball's vocabulary has received accredited additions in the last years, though the game has been tried in slang by experts. Ball players—especially those in the major league—are quick to adopt trike phrases, but they do not speak by the book.

A few years ago a manager, discussing a lame excuse made by a pitcher for losing a game, described the explanation as an "alibi." A baseball scribe picked up this expression, and it soon became a word to cover spoken or implied apologies for failure.

For instance, an infielder who fumbles a ball and then picks up an imaginary pebble "alibies" himself for the error.

The slang expression "bean" was derived from descriptions of pitchers throwing the ball at the heads of batsmen. This was originally described as a "bean ball," and from that the word "bean" became synonymous with "head."

The most modern phrase is "bear down." It has come into general use only in the last year. We do not know who originated it. Next time you go to a ball game you probably will hear it. The infielder urges a pitcher to "bear down hard" when a dangerous hitter is up in a pinch, or a coach advises the batter to "bear down," meaning to put on the pressure.

 A fan wants to know what's the longest walk in baseball? Some say the pitcher going back to the bench after being batted out of the box. Others there are who contend it is the batter returning to the roost after a strike out.
 We don't agree with this, for we opine that the longest walk is that of a player caught off his base when his team is staging a rally. Ask Claude Hall—He knows!
 Still we might hedge on the above statement to the extent of saying that the "longest walk" we've seen this year on the diamond is Josh O'Driscoll.

WHEN THE CUBS HAD A TEAM.
 We sigh for the days that are no more. The golden age of splendid sport; Each game a page of baseball lore, Each played a pleasure to report. We turned our eyes from tennis court And links where men would stroll and dream. To watch the ones who held the fort When the Cubs had a team.

Murphy edging back to the front. To take the good or "rotten throw." The lifting cheer that soon would burst When Laird Orr nalled the bouncer. With Canning up we cried "Let's go." And hours would but minutes seem, While pulses leapt from motions slow. When the Cubs had a team.

Machinists double outs were played Before our rapid expectant eyes. What cared we then for meals delayed. The fall in bonds and stocks or rice. That this would end we could surmise. But mid our grief we mar the gleam; We have the memories that we prize, When the College Cubs were a team.

Don't forget the Orphans to-morrow night.

Regatta Jingles.
 Put money in thy purse!

The medals this year are said to be very beautiful and will cost over $800.
 Bologna Sailors will have a chance to shine at the Regatta this year.

A fine day is now all that is required to make the Regatta the biggest success on record.

Thirty Centuries Old.
 The oldest work of fiction is the "Tale of Two Brothers," written three thousand years ago by the librarian to King Merenptah, the supposed Pharaoh of the Exodus.
 The story was written for amusement of the King's son, who afterwards reigned as Seti the Second. He has signed his name in two places on the manuscript, and these are probably the only surviving autographs of a King of Egypt.
 The "Tale of Two Brothers" is written on nineteen sheets of papyrus in a bold hieratic hand. It was purchased in 1857 by the British Museum from a Mme. d'Orbigny.

Forty-One Years in the Public Service—The Evening Telegram.

Dr. Jones and Physicians' Fees.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—The secret of success in advertising is to keep "everlastingly at it." In an effort to secure adequate compensation for the medical men of the outports who are doing the Govt. medical work, I wrote to the Great Newfoundland Public through the Press a short while ago. As I there related I had tried to secure justice through the Colonial Secretary's department on several occasions without success, so I then by demonstration from the Government accounts, called attention to the fact that in my own district last year over fourteen hundred dollars were wasted. I showed that over one thousand dollars were paid for motor drives, that 88 drives were paid for while the doctor only charged for 42 visits. I showed that there was an absolutely unnecessary waste of public money because some one will not accept the recommendation of the Medical Health Officer that a reasonable fee be paid the local practitioner. If in the face of such an exposure of official stupidity the PUBLIC WHO PAY THE BILLS, are not interested, then the Newfoundland people are as Barnum, the great show man said of the American people, "they love to be fooled." They love to be fooled out of fourteen hundred dollars for joy-riding? They love to be fooled by a pretense of anxiety for the "public health"? This I do not believe, and while I am sure that nothing will be done by officialdom unless forced by public opinion, I am confident that it is only necessary to let the public know how we are being treated in order to secure its support, and until this is done I intend to keep "everlastingly at it."

Some of the greatest reforms in history have been brought about through ridicule, so besides showing the wastefulness of the present system of payment, I will demonstrate in a few words the ridiculousness of it. The fee paid me by the Government for a visit to Conception Harbor, which is three miles from me, is one dollar and twenty-five cents, or 50 cents a visit and twenty-five cents a mile, going only. Out of this sum of $1.25, I must pay the cabman who drives me, $1.50. A visit to Middle Arm, which is two (2) miles from here, is worth (in the Government's eyes) 75c, for I must not begin accumulating wealth through mileage till I have first gone a mile. A trip to Colliers is paid $1.75, as it is five miles from home, and the Government is generous on long trips, and we are not expected to take off the first mile as we would for nearby calls. Out of this $1.75 I must pay the cabman $2.00, so it is not necessary to ask me where I got my money during the last 26 years. During all that time, I like all the other practitioners in the island, have been working under a sense of injustice, and adequate fees in the future will not compensate for the injustices of the past, and in trying to force a readjustment of fees at this late date, I am not acting in my own interests but in that of my brother sufferers now practicing and those who will follow after me.

During my attendance at the House this Spring, a case of smallpox occurred here and another doctor was called. He was notified by the local official that if he were working for Dr. Jones he should look to me for his fee, but if not he would be paid at the rate of $15 a day and expenses. In other words if he were working for me I should pay him $8 or $10 for coming, and the Government would give me 50 cents for the work. A little later in the Spring, I visited a house in Conception Harbor for which I was paid $1.25 by the Government, out of which I paid my cabman, while on the same day the next house was visited by another doctor under engagement, at a rate of $15 a day and the motor drive paid by the Government also. IS THAT FAIR AND JUST?

As a climax to a ridiculous condition all around, I will give below verbatim, with of course names only left out, copy of an order received to-day, which shows that the Government is growing more generous in its treatment of the poor, as the official so regarding the Public Funds is a recent appointee of this Government:

Conception Hr.,
July 21st, 1920.

Dr. W. E. Jones,
Dear Sir.—Would you give medical treatment to the amount of ONE DOLLAR. It is emergency case.

Sir, I remain,
Yours, etc., R.O.

Just imagine my friend Mr. Mews, B.L., receiving a request from the Poor Commission to give a poor person LEGAL ADVICE to amount of ONE DOLLAR. (It would be unnecessary to add in forma pauperis). Even Leo Carter would consider it a JOKE.

Yours truly,
W. E. JONES,
Avondale, July 23, 1920.

He Feels Better Than For Twenty Years, He States.

Longstanding Case of Dyspepsia Overcome By Taniae, Says Robert Cowan.

"Yes, sir, I have last found the medicine that hits the spot and that's Taniae, but it took me twenty years to find it," said Robert Cowan, Brookfield, Topsail Road, St. John's, N.F., a few days ago. Mr. Cowan, or "Bob," as he is called by his many friends, is a well-to-do farmer and is highly respected for his honesty and integrity by all who know him. "I am forty-eight years old," he continued, "and for nearly half that time I had a case of dyspepsia that kept pulling me down until it finally broke my health all up. I didn't know what I was doing or what it was to ever feel good. I had a heavy feeling like a hot lump of lead in my stomach all the time and I would fill all up with articles of trouble. Those headaches and dizzy spells have all disappeared and I sleep like a log every night. I haven't felt so well and strong in twenty years and I can't eat anything on the level without a particle of trouble. This for a man is something that can be depended on."

Taniae is sold in St. John's by M. Connors; by Reg. Sullivan, Pouch Cove; Sound Island Store, Sound Island; Dennis Ryan, Avondale; J. J. O'Brien, Cape Broyle; J. W. Smith, Baine Harbor; W. A. Burdock, Belleoram; John Morey, Fernalse; Mrs. Jos. Quinn, Renewa.—adv.

Fast Sailing.

(From the St. John Telegraph.)
A Boston reporter once declared that he had seen the racing yacht Volunteer "rushing into Boston harbor at the astounding rate of seventeen knots an hour." If he did, Volunteer travelled faster that day than she ever did on any other occasion. She never came anywhere near seventeen knots an hour in her contests with Thistle, although she left that speedy challenger a long way behind on every point of sailing. In connection with the America's Cup races, yachting enthusiasts are recalling the Boston man's statement and discussing the conditions under which yachts sail faster. Naturally, all agree that a racing yacht seems to be going fastest when she is sailing alone; when a speedy competitor is nearby the experience is somewhat different. The Sun and New York Herald's expert recalls the fact that on July 20, 1908, when Shamrock III. shattered the record for a night of fifteen miles to windward and returned to Sandy Hook she covered the distance in two hours, fifty-nine seconds. Her elapsed time on the beat to the windward was one hour, fifteen minutes and twelve seconds. The approximate distance covered in such a beat is twenty-one miles and the speed was a mile in 5.8 minutes, which is a little better than ten miles an hour. As all sailors know, that is fast travelling by the wind. On the run home Shamrock III. struck a thirteen knot gale, covered the distance in one hour, nine minutes and eight seconds. "If ever a yacht had an opportunity to show seventeen knots speed," says the Sun's expert, "Shamrock III. had it that day up till the moment when, nearing the finish, she parted her balloon jib topsail sheet. The figures, however, go to show what a smart yacht really does when helped along by a good breeze and smooth sea." The clipped ships of more than one which established an international reputation—some times logged thirteen knots an hour. This is much faster than the average freight steamer, can do under the most favorable conditions. But it must be remembered that this speed was attained by a square-rigged ship of sharp model more than twice as long as Shamrock IV, running almost before a gale of wind and carrying an enormous spread of canvas. At such a time a large vessel is helped tremendously by the sea. But it was a very fast merchantman which made from nine to twelve knots even when wind and sea were most favorable.

League Football.

To-night's and Friday's football match should prove interesting as the contesting teams are in the running for championship honors. The game to-night will be between the Star and Pelicans while on Friday night the Castles and B.L.S. will try conclusions.
