RECOGNITION.

The care of the teeth is now recognized as a necessity. In fact the large hospitals all over the world examine the patients' teeth and where it is possible put them in good condition before attempting a surgical operation. Experience has shown that the patient has a better chance for recovery with a clean healthy mouth than without it. This ought to convince the most skeptical that care of the teeth is requisite to health.

GRACIOUS ECONOMY

The folks who make use of our cleaning and pressing beginning to agree with this sentiment. We take such extreme care of garments entrusted to us and our methods are so strictly sanitary, we feel that we have a right to invite your custom. Phone 1488.

Nothing Else is Aspirin—say "Bayer"

Warning! Unless you see name "Bayer" on tablets, you are not getting Aspirin at all. Why take chances?

Accept only an unbroken "Bayer" package which contains directions worked out by physicians during 21 years and proved safe by millions for Colds, Headache, Earache, Toothache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Nerve Pains, Lumbago, and Pain. Made in Canada.

All druggists sell Bayer Tablets of Aspirin in handy tin boxes of 12 tablets, and in bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer manufacture of Monocetylacetic acid of Salicylic acid. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assist the public against imitations, the Tablets of Bayer Company will be stamped with their general trade mark, the "Bayer Cross."

MABEL HOWARD, OF THE LYRIC.

CHAPTER XVIII.
THE NEW SINGER.

Paul shrugged his shoulders. Mr. Stapleton laughed, and his shoulders shook good-humoredly.

"No great things? What does it matter? You and I, my dear Paul, are musicians, and know good from bad. But the public—bah!" and he made a gesture of supreme contempt. "The public know nothing. If a thing pleases them they are content. They come and take our stalls and fill our treasury, and the street organs put our airs on their barrels and all goes well. But music! Oh well, the least said about that the better, eh, Paul?"

"Yes, Mr. Stapleton," assented Paul. "And you like this new opera?" said Mr. Stapleton.

Paul coughed dubiously. The manager laughed. "But that wasn't what I heard you say, Miss—"

"Miss Howard," murmured Paul. "Yes, quite so—Miss Howard trying to sing?"

"No, sir," said Paul, modestly. "It was a little thing of my own."

The manager made a moue of good-natured contempt. "Oh, lor!" he said. "You fiddlers are always trying things of your own! And what comes of it?"

"Something will come of Paul Foster's," said Iris, calmly. Mr. Stapleton looked at her fixedly. The tone of her speaking voice, combined with that which he had heard of her singing voice, attracted his attention.

"Perhaps," he said. "But to that remains to be seen. But to come to the business that brought me here, Paul, [Miss Alfred's is a nuisance!"]

Paul bowed slightly. "A nuisance!" repeated Mr. Stapleton, emphatically. "You know my agreement with her—that she should sing at the Lyric and any other theatre I mention?"

"Yes, sir," said Paul. "Well, Paul, I've had an offer for her to sing at a private house—the Duke of Rosedale's, you know."

Paul bowed, though he did not know. "The Duke of Rosedale's!" repeated Mr. Stapleton, in an important voice. "And Alfreda refuses!—actually refuses! Says she has a sore throat. But you and I know what that means, Paul! It means that she has a sore temper, Paul; nothing more nor less. Now, I'm in a fix! I agreed that you and she would perform at Rosedale House; you to play the violin, she to sing; but if she declines we shall be in a hole! What do you say?"

Paul had said nothing, and Mr. Stapleton continued: "I just looked in to tell you. The party is to-morrow afternoon, and you'd better play that sonata of Beethoven's, and Gounod's 'Ave Maria'; you do them very well, you know."

Paul bowed. "I'll write to the duchess to-morrow morning, and tell her Miss Alfreda is ill, though, of course, she'll see that she plays the same night, and won't believe me! But I can't help it. Been to the Lyric, Miss Howard?"

Iris replied in the negative. "Ah, well, any time you like to look in, we shall be happy to see you. We're doing very well here now, eh, Paul's?"

"By the way, Paul, put that song down to me, will you? I'll give you the market price, you know."

Paul's face grew redder, and while he stammered his thanks, the manager drew out his pocketbook and abstracted a five-pound note.

"Here is your fee, Miss Howard. Never sung in public, I think you said?"

"Never," said Iris. "Hem! Well, I shan't go from my word, though really some ladies would give me double that sum for the permission to appear at Ormonde House; but we won't say any more about that!"

As Iris colored and almost laid the five-pound note on the table again, "Supposing now," he said, as he drew on his gloves, "supposing you should think of going on the stage—"

Iris shook her head. "I should never think of it," she said, in a low voice.

He eyed her curiously. "Hem! Ah! Well, you never can tell, you know. After all, it isn't such a bad life—when you're successful, eh, Paul? Plenty of hard work, no doubt, but plenty of money, too. We know some who make a good thing of it, don't we, Paul?"

Paul nodded. "I was telling Miss Howard, Mr. Stapleton," he said. The manager looked from one to the other with his sharp eyes.

"Well, you can believe all he says, Miss Howard, for Master Paul is as straight as an arrow, I'll say that for him! And if you should think of joining the profession, why, I suppose you'd think yourself in honor bound to come to me first, eh?"

Iris smiled and murmured something. "Right!" he exclaimed. "A word's enough between a lady and gentleman, and, if I'm any judge of people—and they say I am, eh, Paul?—you'll come to me before very long. Five o'clock to-morrow, Paul. You know the house, Grosvenor Square, you know; anybody will tell you. Here's my card to present. Don't forget to give us a look in at the Lyric, Miss Howard. Good-morning," and, with a sweep of his white beaver hat and a low stage bow, Mr. Stapleton disappeared.

Before he had got to the bottom of the stairs Iris regretted what she had done, and had half moved across the room to follow him and withdraw from her engagement, but Paul clung to her arm.

"Oh, Mabel, Mabel!" he exclaimed, his eyes dancing, his face flushed with delight and pride, "doesn't it seem like a dream? am I really awake? Just think of it! That he should come in and hear you sing the very first time you had sung to me, and that Miss Alfreda should refuse to go to-morrow. Was there ever anything so lucky? The Duchess of Rosedale's, too; why, Mabel, I dare say all the best people in London will be there—the sort of people who come to the stalls at the Lyric! And they'll hear you sing! And didn't you see how struck Mr. Stapleton was with your voice?"

"Was he, Paul?" said Iris, with a smile that was more sad than mirthful; "he did not seem to admire it very much."

"Ah! but that is his way!" said Paul, eagerly; "he always says 'hem!' when he's pleased, and when he ain't, well—he pauses significantly—he says so plainly. And he was very pleased, and no wonder. Oh, Mabel, and to think that I am going with you!"

"I was wondering whether you had forgotten yourself entirely, as usual," said Iris, affectionately.

"Oh, I am nobody," he said, flushing; "I am very glad, yes; it's a great thing for me, but I am glad because I am going with you."

"Your sister, Paul," said Iris, smiling. (To be continued.)

But to sing at the Duchess of Rosedale's! She did not know the duchess, but the party would doubtless be a large one, and would consist of the creme de la creme of London society; would she not be certain to meet some one of the people who had known her in happier days?

Paul and the manager watched her, as, pale and troubled, she stood hesitating with downcast eyes.

"Say 'Yes, Mabel!' murmured Paul, eagerly. "It will only be two songs—will it not, Mr. Stapleton?"

"Only two, yes."

"And it is not like singing at a theatre. Oh, Mabel, say yes! I shall be so proud and pleased!"

Iris laid her hand gently on his shoulder. "Thank you, sir," she said. "Yes, I will go."

"That's right," said Mr. Stapleton, approvingly. "Pon my soul, I thought you were going to be foolish enough to refuse! I don't want to blow my own trumpet, but I can tell you, Miss Howard, that I know fifty young ladies who would jump out of their shoes at the offer I've made you. It isn't the money, you know, by no means; it's the honor of the thing. It isn't everybody who gets the chance of singing at Ormonde House!"

"Thank you, I am very much obliged!" said Iris, in a low voice. "And what shall I sing?"

"Just what you like," he said. "Then I will sing Paul's song!" said Iris, at once.

Paul's face flushed gratefully. "Right!" said the manager. "And it's very pretty, too, hem!" He paused and pondered for a moment, turning the largest diamond ring on his finger.

"By the way, Paul, put that song down to me, will you? I'll give you the market price, you know."

Paul's face grew redder, and while he stammered his thanks, the manager drew out his pocketbook and abstracted a five-pound note.

"Here is your fee, Miss Howard. Never sung in public, I think you said?"

A CHIC AND CHARMING DESIGN.

3801-3798—Here is a very popular variation of the jumper dress—and a pretty gumpie to wear with it. As portrayed, wool jersey embroidered in floss was used. The gumpie is of pongee with self frills and hemstitching for trimming. In duvetyne or crepe a trimming of grosgrain ribbon would be pleasing.

The gumpie 3801 is cut in 7 Sizes: 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 inches bust measure. The Dress 3793 is cut in 3 Sizes: 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 inches bust measure. The width at the foot is about 2 yards.

This style is good for slender as well as for mature figures. The dress front is cut with fulness beneath the yoke extension of the back. To make up this style for a 38 inch size, requires 2 1/2 yards of 38 inch material for the Dress, and 3/4 yard for the Dress, of 40 inch material.

This illustration calls for TWO separate patterns which will be mailed to any address, on receipt of 15c. FOR EACH pattern in silver or stamps.

A PRACTICAL SET OF "SHORT CLOTHES."

Pattern 3244 is here portrayed. It is cut in 5 Sizes: 6 mos., 1, 2, 3 and 4 years. A 2 year size will require 3 1/2 yards of 27 inch material for the Dress, 1 1/2 yard for the Slip, and 1 yard for the Drawers.

Muslin, cambric or nainsook, would be good for slip and drawers. The Dress may be of silk, voile, lawn, batiste, dimity, cambric or gingham.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c. in silver or stamps.

A Fruit Salad That Glorifies the Dinner

Fruit Salad Supreme
 1 envelope Knox Gelatine
 1/2 cup cold water
 2 cups boiling water
 1/2 cup mild vinegar

2 tablespoonfuls lemon juice
 1/4 cup sugar
 1 teaspoonful salt
 2 cups fresh fruit cut in small pieces

Soak Gelatine in cold water five minutes and add boiling water, vinegar, lemon juice, sugar and salt. Strain and when mixture begins to stiffen add fruit, using cherries, oranges, bananas or cooked pineapple, alone or in combination. Turn into mold, first dipped in cold water and chill. Remove from mold to nest of crisp lettuce leaves, and accompany with mayonnaise or boiled salad dressing.

Note—Knox Acidulated Gelatine, which comes in a blue package, contains an envelope of lemon flavor, which takes the place of lemon juice—saving time, labor and expense.

Get a box of Knox Gelatine at your grocer's to-day, and try the above recipe. One of a thousand dishes made with

FURTHER DETAILS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.

A ten year holiday in naval construction, involving tremendous scrapping of ships now on the way or contemplated by America, Britain and Japan, was proposed to the Disarmament Conference on Saturday by Sec'y Hughes. Briefly the proposals call for immediate destruction of sixty-six capital ships, built or building, or a total of 1,878,043 tons. Within three months of making the proposed agreement the three navies of the great powers would consist of designated ships as follows: Britain 23 ships, 604,650 tons; United States 18 ships, 500,000 tons; Japan 10 ships, 280,700 tons. Replacement would be limited by an agreed maximum of capital ship tonnage as follows: America 500,000; Britain, 500,000, and Japan 300,000. Subject to the ten years' holiday capital ships could be replaced, when they are twenty years old, but a new would have a tonnage of more than 35,000. Cruiser flotilla leader and destroyer tonnage would be fixed as follows: Britain 450,000 tons; America 450,000 tons; Japan 270,000 tons. Submarine tonnage would be fixed as follows: Britain 90,000, America 90,000, Japan 54,000. Secretary Hughes said the United States did not consider it necessary to ask France or Italy to destroy any naval ships, but would propose later consideration of their position.

LOYAL TO THE LEAGUE.

PRETORIA, Nov. 13.

Premier Smuts, speaking on Saturday, deplored South Africa's apathy towards the League of Nations, whose main function should be, he said, the regulation of economic relations between the nations, which contained the principal causes of war. If Germany and Russia did not join the League voluntarily, they should be forced in, Smuts added.

NITTI'S PANACEA.

LONDON, Nov. 13.

In the book entitled "Europe Without Peace," ex-Premier Nitti of Italy declares the Treaty of Versailles and its derivative Treaties profoundly unjust, and argues their enforcement is impossible. The crisis now overwhelming Europe, he says, has alarmed even those imbued with the war spirit. Nitti's remedies are cancellation of Allied war debts, reduction of German indemnity to sixty billion marks, by her assumption of twenty per cent. of the Allied debts, restoration of Upper Silesia to Germany, guarantee of France against aggression, admission of all nations to the League of Nations, and abolition of the reparations commission.

DO ALL MY HOUSE WORK

Before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I could hardly get about.

Cobourg, Ont.—"For many years I have had trouble with my nerves and have been in a general run down condition for some time. I could not do my work half of the time because of the trouble with my monthly sickness. I was told of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by friends and advised to try it. It has done me good, and I strongly recommend it. Since I have taken it I have been able to do all my own work, and I also know friends who have found it good. You can use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. ELLEN FLATTEES, Box 761, Cobourg, Ont.

Why will women continue to suffer so long as more than we can understand when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For forty years this good old fashioned root and herb remedy, which contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

For Four Years Her Only Diet Was Milk and Bread, She Says

Malady Of Alabama Woman Was Continually Sapping Her Strength.

Mrs. H. P. Barrett, of Republic, suburb of Birmingham, Ala., gives the facts of her remarkable experience with Tanlac as follows: "During the past fourteen years I have spent more than one thousand dollars trying to get rid of a complaint that was gradually sapping my strength, but until I got hold of Tanlac nothing helped me. For the past four years I have lived almost entirely on milk and bread, and finally even that went against me. "Before I had finished the first bottle of Tanlac I got so I could eat anything, and I certainly bless the day I first got this medicine for I believe it has added years to my life. The people in my neighborhood were so surprised at the change in me that fourteen of them by actual count are now taking Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Jews in America.

There are said to be about 15,000,000 Jews in the world, and 3,000,000 of them are in and around Greater New York. The largest high school in the world—the Washington Irving—is in New York and about all its 6,000 pupils are Jews. And they intermarry with Christians. Here are some children of Christian-Jewish marriages: Bret Haric, Sir John Herschel, Francis Patgrave, Sir John Millais, Leon Gambetta, Sir Arthur Sullivan, and Mrs. Catherine Booth. The Jew has had a chequered history, yet he has left his mark on every nation where he sojourned, for the Jew knows how to work, he knows how to save, and he knows how to accommodate himself to circumstances.

If Biliary, Sick Take Cascarets For the Bowels.

Get a 10-cent box now. You're headachy! You have a bad taste in your mouth, your eyes burn, your skin is yellow, your lips parched. No wonder you feel mean. Your system is full of bile not properly off, and what you need is a cleaning up inside. Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember, that most disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels are gone by morning with gentle, thorough Cascarets—they work while you sleep. A 10-cent box will keep your liver and bowels clean; stomach sweet, and your head clear for months. Children love to take Cascarets too, because they never gripe or sicken.

Poor Argument.

(Twillingate Sun)

A correspondent to the Advocate in its issue of the 27th of October and signed "One who opposed Regulations" from N.D. Bay, endeavours to portray good recommendations for the last years Regulations, but gives some weak stuff, as it contains no real proof, nor can he show one explanation where the rules benefited Newfoundland.

Surely if such long winded and worthy paragraphs can bear such glowing headlines from the boss in the Advocate office, it can produce something tangible in its outlay, and is worth the signature in full of the composer.

We have read with interest the debate on this matter, between the Advocate and Mr. A. B. Morine, and when one reads the letters from him, and picks up the following in the Advocate all one can get is personal abuse, and a spray of conglomerated mud, that a newspaper should not indulge in. It looks as if the props under the Regulations have broken and the so-called benefactor of the fishermen has failed to help them.

Whatever Mr. Morine is, and was, we are not interested in, because perhaps if the character of the one who fires away abuse, was shown up there would be no drawing a line.

We all have our past to look over, and if Mr. Morine is backward in morals, he has not got the fishermen's money tied up so that they cannot get it back, and this we claim is where many fishermen have suffered. Why are the people at Joe Batt's Arm and around taking up goods at the F.P.U. stores and saying that as they (the Co.) got their money they will not pay a cent.

But by the big headlines and swelled words in the Advocate, one would think that the visit of Mr. Coaker to these settlements this summer was wonderful and that he had them in his hand.

Then one reads how the thousands of dollars were robbed out of fishermen by the Exporters. So they mean it is this money that the fishermen gave to the Union Trading Co. and their exporters? Who else has taken even the ready cash from men who once had a bit for a "rainy day", but who now are suffering a drawback?

Mr. Coaker has said "The price of fish is what I make it." So he is to blame for the low price to-day, and is Expenditure for War.

Ernest L. Bogart in his recently published "War Costs and Their Financing," figures that the net expenditures for both the Allies and Germany and her Allies, reach the enormous total of $186,000,000,000. Great Britain spent the most, Germany comes second, the United States third, and France fourth. The direct monetary cost of some former wars is given as follows: Napoleonic Wars $3,070,000,000; the American Civil War $7,000,000,000, and the Franco-Prussian War $3,210,000,000. If the war had not happened, Europe and America to-day would be richer not only by this $186,000,000,000 of wasted wealth, but by a very much larger amount, as we should have been adding to our wealth instead of wasting it.

Sweetening the Public.

The quotation "sweet are the uses of adversity" from Shakespeare's play "As You Like It," may very well be applied to the people of Newfoundland in the fact that they are paying through the nose for the wherewithal to add sweetening to their tea, coffee and other table beverages. And the quotation can well be carried still farther, for the present excessive duty on sugar may be likened to the "toad, which ugly and venomous wears yet a precious jewel in its head," the said toad being the Government, and the said precious jewel being the huge sum of money of which they are mulcting the people with the present tariff rate on sugar. Tongues might be found in trees, "books in the running brooks, and sermons in stones," but every tongue, every book, every sermon would be equally condemnatory of the practical action of the Government of this much-abused Colony in imposing a revenue tax on sugar equal to six cents per pound, or nearly one hundred and fifty per cent. of the invoiced cost when shipped from Canadian or American refineries. The old duty on sugar was one and a-half cents per pound, plus ten per cent. surtax, totalling one dollar and sixty-five cents per hundred pounds. This was a fair rate, and not objected to by any consumer. The present rate is four dollars per hundred pounds, plus ten per cent. surtax, twenty-five per cent. super-tax, plus five per cent. sales tax, or extra importation tax, whichever you please, bringing the actual tariff rate to a sum close to approaching six dollars per hundred pounds on a commodity which is costing not a great deal more than four dollars per hundred pounds in the foreign market.

But the quoting of these figures do not give the public any idea of the vast sum they are contributing to the revenue on this one article alone. According to the Customs Revenue the annual importations of sugar into Newfoundland ports from abroad approximates twelve million five hundred thousand pounds, (12,500,000) somewhat over an average of one million pounds per month, the duty on which annual total figures out at the current tariff rates, seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($750,000) per annum, so that every month of the year the consumers are paying into the revenue the excessive sum of sixty-two thousand, five hundred ($62,500) on sugar alone. It may be asked why the abnormal increase in the sugar tariff alone? The answer is that the difference between the original one and a half cents, plus ten per cent. duty, and the present rate of nearly six cents, when collected, goes to cover losses due to the egregious blundering of the Food Control Board, since 1920, which Board showed a heavy deficit between purchase and sales, due to ignorance of the market and inexperience in buying. This loss amounted to nearly two hundred thousand dollars, and it was contemplated that when made up by the imposition of the rate now collected, a return to the original duty of one dollar and fifty cents per one hundred pounds would be made. But we understand that this is not so. The six cent per pound tariff is to be continued, the extra revenue thus accruing being earmarked for a purpose other than that of current account expenditure. Therefore the people of Newfoundland may at once begin to realize that the Government will take from their pockets in the next twelve months a sum amounting to half a million dollars on sugar alone, this amount to be applied to meeting some pre-election promises of the Liberal-Reform Party which have so far not materialized.

Cochrane Street Centennial Church.

At Cochrane Street Methodist Centennial Church yesterday, the pastor, Rev. C. H. Johnson, M.A., preached with much acceptance at both services. "The Sabbath Day" was the subject of the morning discourse. The evening service was largely attended, the text being found in St. Luke's Gospel, the eighteenth chapter and sixteenth verse. Both sermons were short, practical and helpful, especially that of the evening which appealed to the parents as well as the grown ups. The reverend gentleman announced that next Sunday would be observed as Thanksgiving Day, when a special offering would be taken up at both services in payment of the annual interest charge and for the further reduction of the heavy debt now being carried on the Church Building. The Rev. E. J. Power, M.A., of the Presbyterian Church has kindly consented to occupy the pulpit at the morning worship.

MONDAY, Nov. 14. We have just opened a small consignment of Ladies Household Rubber Gloves, medium size, just the thing for use in the kitchen during cold weather. These gloves are made of good heavy stock, but being quite flexible are in no degree clumsy. They keep the hands dry and prevent spraying and chaps even though you are continually using them in water. The use of a pair of rubber gloves makes such operations as dishwashing much less unpleasant. For those whose hands are liable to eczematous trouble, they are simply invaluable. We sell these gloves at the very moderate price of $1.00 a pair.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir.—Sunday's Church parade of the C.L.B. Cadets went very gratifying to Lt.-Col. Godridge and all other officers and ranks under his command. The turnout can be easily termed the "finest yet." How delighted would have been the heart of our old Padre, the late Rev. S. Thompson, and the late Major Melville, could they in their days have taken part in such a splendid parade. How hard they worked for the Brigade in its infancy, and under what difficulties only those of the "Old Guard" know. The little acorn that they planted thirty years ago, has indeed grown into a sturdy oak. Fit to C.L.B.C. Yours truly, NUMBER 4. Nov. 14, 1921.

Sardine Fishery Militates Against N. F. Sales.

A letter to the Board of Trade from Lind & Couto, dated Oct. 19th, reads as follows: "Demand last week was better than it had been for some time, holders having facilitated sales by a slight reduction in price. Consignment would be better than it is were it not for the enormous catches of sardines, which are being sold very cheaply. Portuguese fishing vessels are now returning from the Banks with good catches, and curing operations are proceeding apace. Our stores have been bare of British fish since the middle of September and we feel we are not receiving the support we merit. We fear shippers are losing sight of the fact that our position here is to safeguard their interests, and we would remind them that more than once our market has been spoiled by reckless competition amongst buyers here, which resulted in needless lowering of value. Outright sales are not all they are made out to be, in our market at any rate, where there is a strong and reliable consignment house like ours whose sole object at all times is to get the most we can for shippers' fish."

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

CANADA SICK OF COALITIONS. MELVILLE, Sask. Nov. 14. Speaking here Saturday Mackenzie King, Liberal Leader, declared that if united farmers wanted to join with Liberals to secure the passage of legislative measures sought by both parties, they must seek to arrive at unity before the elections, by working with the Liberals to overthrow the Meighen Government. The country is sick of Coalitions, and the farmers should not divide the forces opposed to the Government, if they thought to co-operate with the Liberals, after elections, Mr. King added. The Liberal leader said that last year, when visiting the west, he urged co-operation between the Liberals and farmers, because he regarded the farmer movement as a Liberal movement, a movement destined to give producers a fuller expression of their needs.

PRISONERS ESCAPED. DUBLIN, Nov. 14. Fifteen Sinn Fein prisoners, under sentence, escaped from Mount Joy prison last night after a revolver fight.

ALL AGHREE. NEW YORK, Nov. 14. Newspapers of every shade of political standing gave enthusiastic support to the proposal for naval disarmament, outlined by Secretary of State Hughes. Surprises, occasioned by the scope of the plans presented, without previous indication at the initial session of the conference, in general, rivals that reported from European centres. The World says that, "in one crowded hour the conference passed from a phase of hopeful experiment to the position of an assured triumph, justly won." The Tribune predicts that events will prove Mr. Hughes' proposals a master stroke of open diplomacy. "The force of Hughes' proposal has swept civilization off its feet," says the Herald.

BORN. On Nov. 12th, a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Walsh, Mundy Pond Road. DIED. At Tregasser, on the 11th inst., Ellen, beloved wife of Matthew Kennedy, leaving a husband and two daughters to mourn their sad loss. On the 12th inst., after a short illness, John Walsh, aged 34 years, leaving a cousin and an uncle to mourn their sad loss. Funeral on Tuesday at 2.30 P.M. from the residence of Mr. Patrick Nolan, 21 Patrick St. Friends and acquaintances please accept this the only intimation.—R.F. IN LOVING REMEMBRANCE of our dear son and brother, James J. Walsh, died Nov. 12, 1918. Still fondly remembered in the home of his childhood. Sweet are the memories that cling round his name; Along with your comrades you'll be sleeping. But the hearts in the old home still love you the same. We who loved him sadly miss him. As it dawns another year; In our lonely hours of thinking, Thoughts of him are ever near. But some day we'll meet again, Beyond the toil and strife; And clasp each others hands again In Heaven that happy life. IN LOVING MEMORY of our dear son, FRANCIS, who was drowned on Oct. 21st, 1920. Days of sadness will come o'er us, Tears in silence often flow; For memory keeps you ever near us, Though you were drowned one year ago. Time will pass and years roll by, Whatever be our lot; As long as life and memory last, You will never be forgot. IN LOVING MEMORY of my dear wife, Martha Seivour, who died November 14, 1920. Rest in peace. Gone but not forgotten. MINARD'S LINIMENT FOR GARGET IN COWS. TO THE Civic Electors of St. John's LADIES AND GENTLEMEN.—After considerable deliberation on the matter, I have decided to offer myself as Candidate for Councillor in the coming Municipal Election. Despite the fact that I have not had a seat before, I am firmly convinced that I could do much to further the betterment of my native city, if I am fortunate enough to be elected by you. I intend to make a house to house canvass and endeavour to have an individual interview with one and all, as far as time permits, and failing that, please bear in mind that this must stand as my personal appeal. Should opportunity present itself in a public meeting, I shall be glad to deliver my views on matters of civic improvement. Thanking you in anticipation of your hearty support. C. F. Patriotic Stephenville Crossing.

Certain returned service men, who are conducting an education campaign throughout the country, put in a drive to Stephenville Crossing on Thursday evening last, and although the notification was of the shortest, the weather of the wettest and the knowledge of the nearest yet when the doors of the greatest yet when the door of the building where the gathering was held were opened, the good people of the "Crossing" were there in full force to do honour to the boys, who when the country called failed not in their duty.

The evening's proceedings were of an interesting character, and evident respect was shown to the patriotic fervour that distinguished this settlement all during the war. There was a goodly sprinkling of returned soldiers in the audience, Messrs. Martin, Cater, Nardini, Lucas, Madore, and others of the "Crossing" were present. The chairman of the Port was chairman of the meeting, and by the spirit displayed on this occasion, it was quite evident that the person who handed a returned soldier or sailor a crooked deal should be away from Stephenville Crossing—Com. Women and Freemasonry.

The latest craze of the moment for women is to turn Freemasons writes "Friend in Town" in the Glasgow Weekly Herald, and it is distinctly interesting to see how the movement progresses, in spite of the discouragement of Grand Lodge, who have apparently made up their minds to have nothing whatever to do with women and to excommunicate with bell, book, and candle every Mason who touches the accursed thing. But, in spite of this, the women seem to be persisting, and from the latest accounts that I have heard, the feminine Masons already number several thousands. They claim to know the secrets and to have been initiated into all the mysteries, and one woman, I see, professes to have reached the 33rd degree, which I understand, is the limit to which any mere male person can hope to progress. I had always supposed that Masonry was the one channel which women could not hope to follow, but now that all the professions are open to us, and that we are holding our own at rowing and football and tennis, I am beginning to wonder whether any outward difference will remain between the two sexes. Of course, there was once a genuine lady Mason—a Miss St. Leger, who, I think, became afterwards Mrs. Aldworth. Beset with curiosity she hid in a grandfather clock at her father's house during an initiation, and, having discovered more than an outsider should know, she was in consequence formally enrolled. The present movement began in France, but there is no doubt it has spread—and is still spreading—in this country. Whether it will end in recognition or anathema remains to be seen. But I candidly confess, from the little I know of Freemasonry, I cannot reconcile the feminine character with the tenets of the craft. We do sometimes find it hard to keep a secret don't we?

Collided With Pole.

Motor Car Comes Off Second Best. A Dorr motor car now lies in a badly damaged condition near Littledale, as a result of a collision with a telegraph pole. How the accident occurred or to whom the car belongs is unknown, but that it might have had serious consequences is very evident. The car is piled up on the embankment on the Littledale side of the road and the pole lies in front of it. The wind shield of the car escaped damage, and it was very fortunate for the occupants that the pole fell in the opposite direction.

Family Marooned for Three Weeks.

To be marooned on a tiny island in Whitefish Bay, near Sault Ste. Marie, suffering from lack of food and exposure to recent storms was the experience of Harry Murry, his wife and three children. On September 27, Murry, a cranberry picker, and his family, were landed at Iroquois Island by a man named Mills, who was buying cranberries. They had a small tent and enough food for a week, during which they expected to pick berries in the marshes. Mills was to call for them. Shortly after Mills left them his boat was seized by creditors, and when the time came to go after the Murrys he had no boat nor money to secure one.

According to the story told by Murry when he was taken to Sault Ste. Marie, the family had little to live on except fish, wild duck and cranberries for nearly two weeks. Ammunition was giving out and it was necessary to keep the camp fire going at all times because of the lack of matches. Had the fire gone out the suffering from cold would have been serious, as the temperature has been below freezing. There are no buildings on the island except the rude shack they constructed.

The Kidneys

The office man and the outdoor worker suffer alike from derangements of the kidneys.
Backaches and headaches are among the symptoms. In some cases Bright's disease, which develops, others suffer from high blood pressure until hardening of the arteries sets in.
In order to forestall painful and fatal diseases prompt action should be taken at the first sign of trouble.
Mr. A. D. MacKinnon, Kirkwood, Inverness county, N.S., writes:
"I can highly recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to all suffering from weak kidneys. I suffered from kidney disease for a long time. I may also say that for three years I was nearly always troubled with headaches, and no treatment seemed to do more than afford temporary relief. I was finally told of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and after using a few boxes was completely relieved. I have also used Dr. Chase's Ointment with the best results, and never fail to recommend these wonderful remedies."

Apples—The price of apples advanced 25 cents per barrel since last week. The imports for this week were about 500 barrels of winter-keeping apples. The stocks are now low, but some big consignments are due next week. The following are the local quotations: Stark's Kings, Wagners and Baldwins, Nos. 1 and 2, $7.50 per barrel; No. 3, $6.00; Domestic, of these brands, $6.50; Bismarck, No. 1, $6.50, No. 2, $5.50, Auction Market $4.50 to $5.50.
Hay—The imports of hay for this week amounted to 1,419 bales by s.s. Manoa and s.s. Rosalind. The local consumption is helped out greatly by the open season for grazing all the past month, cattle being kept out in the field nearly all the time. The quotations are holding favorable for the buyer still, but a stiffening in price may be looked for any day. No. 2 Timothy is quoted at $49.00 wholesale, No. 1 $50.00 per ton for lots.
Oats—Importing was brisk the past week and no less than 3,260 bags came in by s.s. Manoa and s.s. Rosalind. Heavy imports are also due next week and the week following, after which navigation will close on the St. Lawrence. The local quotations are, $3.85 per sack of four bushels for White Oats, and $4.45 for Mixed, wholesale. These are the lowest prices for six years and any change now will likely be upward. Now is a good time to lay in a winter's stock.
Potatoes—The first Fall importation of Canadian potatoes began this week when 967 barrels were brought in by s.s. Manoa. The price of potatoes at Charlottetown is so far too high to compete with local product, viz., $3.40 against $2.50. This disparity will continue much longer. As soon as the frosty weather sets in and the home-grown crop is stored away for the winter, the Newfoundland potatoes will not be available in large quantities, and the prices will level up with the imported product.

Cod Oil—Conditions rule very quiet. There are no large stocks here and we believe some fishermen are holding back their stocks for an advance. While the market is in a healthy condition at the present time we must point out to all that there is sure to be a very dull season at the end of the year, and that season is fast approaching. There is no change in price this week, and we hear that Boston buyers are leaving for home as they have secured a sufficient quantity for the present.
Codliver Oil—The offerings on our local market have been very liberal. Refiners who were supposed to dispose of some that they must have been keeping for family use. There is no improvement in price, and the future all depends upon the result of the Norwegian catch next spring.
Flour—Trade has not been quiet at this season, and unless there is a revival very soon the dealers will soon believe that people have given up using bread. The wheat market went a fraction under the dollar mark and then advanced, and it certainly looks as if we had struck rock bottom at last. The crop has been fairly good both in the United States and Canada, but there is no export demand. European countries refuse to buy, as they have no money, and it is this lack of purchasing power that has brought the price of flour down about $7.00 per barrel during the past twelve months. When European countries cannot buy flour, how can we expect them to buy fish? In the face of such conditions we should be thankful that we have sold as much fish as we have done this year.
Beef—The imports were heavy the past week totalling 1,085 barrels. The market is dull and about steady. A strong local demand for Boneless has had the effect of stiffening the price of this grade, while the other cuts have shown no change. Local distributors of Beef and Pork for Fall requirements has been disappointing to the trade to date. It is realized, however, that there are four or five busy weeks ahead. Local prices are, Boneless $21.50 and $21.25, according to quality; Box Flank $26.00, Libby's Special Family, $27.00.
Pork—The imports this week were 750 barrels. The market continues inactive and there is no change of any consequence in quotations. The cheaper grades such as Mess and Fat Back seem to be the favorites in demand this Fall. The higher priced pork such as Ham Butts and Family being neglected. There has been a persistent scarcity of Mess Pork the last two months. To-day's prices are, Short Cut Clear, $27.00; Fat Back, $28.00; Family, $34.00; Ham Butt, $38.00, and Mess, $31.00. The latter is offering much lower prices than have any, the market continues dull and quiet. The large surplus of raw sugars in Cuba is having a depressing effect, and there is no confidence in the minds of sugar dealers to warrant them in making large purchases at this present time. It must be remembered, however, that the present first cost of "raws" means poverty for the producer of sugar, and it is unreasonable to expect that prices can go much—if any—lower. To-day's quotations are, lots $10.80 per 100 lbs., single barrels $11.00.
Molasses—The price of molasses stiffened up a bit this week, owing to the fact that it is realized there is no more to be had from Barbados. A small consignment of 40 puncheons and 150 barrels arrived by s.s. Rosalind to Job's stores. Fancy is now quoted at 90 cents in puncheons and 85 cents in smaller packages. The total to St. John's is about 6,400 puncheons.

Such is Fame.

Although Mr. Thomas Hardy, the famous novelist, has lived for so long in Dorsetshire among the very scenes that he has described so graphically, he is of such a modest and retiring disposition that his great fame is unknown to a number of the quiet country folk.
An amusing story is told of an enthusiastic American admirer who, a little while back, made a pilgrimage to the Dorset village where he dwells, in order to congratulate him on having passed his eighty-first birthday.
Seeing an old dame seated outside her cottage door, the American approached her.
"Mr. Hardy lives here, doesn't he?" he inquired.
"Which Mr. Hardy?" asked the old woman.
"Why, Mr. Thomas Hardy, who writes books," replied the astonished pilgrim.
"Oh, I know nought about him!" said the countrywoman; "but there he a Hardy near by who rears grand pigs."

Saved Hogue's Flag.

Sidney Bearna, a naval stroker, of London, who saved the ensign of the Hogue when that armored cruiser was sunk with the Aboukir and Crecy by a German submarine, has been sentenced to a year's imprisonment for thefts while working as a cleaner.
When the Hogue sank Bearna seized the ensign and, gripping it in his teeth, swam two hours before he was rescued. Later he was decorated.

Placentia Notes.

Placentia was provisionally fortunate in escaping the destruction, suffered by other parts, in the recent storm, no damage of any consequence being done.
We are informed that work on the Colinet-Placentia Road is progressing splendidly, and that good work is being done, for the amount allocated, which is altogether insufficient to make this road the highway hoped for. We trust that in the spring a further sum will be voted to finish this to a first class motor road so that this section of country, the most beautiful in Newfoundland, will be more fully opened to pleasure seekers.

Japan Scolds London for Criticism of Ally.

BY WALTER WILGUS.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service)

Tokio, Nov. 4.—Lord Northcliffe's condemnation of the Anglo-Japanese alliance and his warnings to the Australians and Filipinos to be on their guard against Japan are evoking a large amount of criticism from all sections of the Japanese press. The Yomiuri in a long editorial states:

"If the Japanese people are harassed by the world wide anti-Japanese antagonism disseminated by such a powerful organ as the London Times they may alter their national policy on the far east from its foundation and unite with the Chinese, Indians, Mohammedans, Egyptians, Negroes, and even the bolsheviks in a colossal alliance. What then will be the superiority of the white race, especially the Anglo-Saxons? We are hopeful that Lord Northcliffe properly will observe the actual state of our people who patiently are bearing insults from the powers."

Want to Scrap It.

In another editorial the same paper says:

"We had supposed that Great Britain would not take sides with the United States, but would remain neutral in case a war breaks out between the United States and Japan, but now Lord Northcliffe says that Great Britain and the dominions would array themselves with the United States. Under such circumstances it would be best for us to abolish the Anglo-Japanese alliance of our own accord."

Sees Washington Deal.

According to the newspaper Jiji, the Anglo-Japanese alliance, which is regarded as an obstacle to the limitation of armaments, is likely to be brought up at the Washington conference, owing to the frequently stated British desire for a three party agreement which would include the United States. The Jiji also says that it would be impossible to imagine a naval agreement without a political agreement, which would be necessary for an understanding of the open door.

The article, which is believed to be officially inspired, goes on to say that, if this is impossible, then it is essential that there be some agreement regarding China, indicating that Japan would be willing to make concessions in this respect.

Critic of Consortium.

"The consortium," the article says, "was organized for the purpose of checking Japan's independent loan activities, but to-day its spirit is one of international and administrative control of China. Apart from the question as to whether China's finances, railways, and communications should be placed under international control definitely, international interference in China's affairs will increase as the consortium becomes more active."

"Although Japan is opposed in principle to international control, as far as practice goes, she will have to bow to this inevitable tendency. An understanding between these powers will have an important bearing on the international situation in the far east."

Hawaii Forts Scare Japs.

An inspired political article in the Asahi says: "From the standpoint of the Japanese navy the establishment of Hawaii as a base for a fleet twice as large as the Japanese navy is a menace to Japan. The reason why Japanese naval authorities have dismissed with a smile the talk of war with America was because the distance between Japan and America rendered naval operations impossible. By the bringing of a naval base 2,100 miles nearer Japan than San Francisco adds just so much to the possibilities for such a war."

"For this reason Japan's naval standard will have to be changed from one of a minimum essential to the national defense to a standard based on America as a hypothetical base. Therefore, it is proper for our delegates to bring up a proposal prohibiting the establishing of a naval base at Hawaii as well as in the islands in closer proximity to our seas."

Speculates on Future.

After citing the fact that the mandate forbids fortifying the islands of the south sea and that the Bonins have not yet been fortified, the article resumes:

"Therefore if America removes the fortifications in the Philippines and Guam, we shall be one step further in reaching an understand which will permit an agreement on the limitation of armaments. If America says she will not establish further fortifications in Hawaii, then an agreement can be reached. If America insists that fortifications in Hawaii are absolutely essential, the discussion will become heated."

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

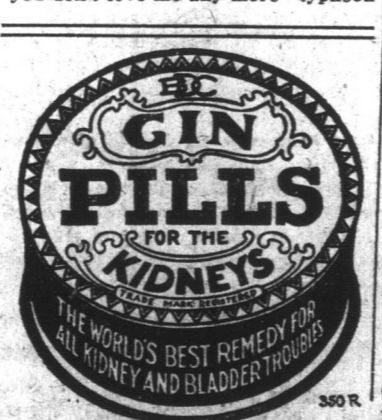

WHY DOESN'T HE TELL HER.

"Why doesn't he tell his wife how silly she looks?" I have heard several people say that about a certain woman. She is an attractive, kind-hearted, interesting, and concealing woman. She is a very unfortunate mannerism—possibly pose would be the better word.

She Will Try to be "Sorta Cute" When She is 40. I think the best way I can describe this pose is to tell you of a cartoon I saw recently that interested and deeply amused me. It was a cartoon of the different types of 15-year-old girls. One was of Sarah Maud of whom people say she is "sorta cute." Sarah Maud knows it and plays up to it. In the picture she is being "sorta cute" on the tennis court, shrieking when the ball comes too close to her, missing it in funny ways—you know the sort of thing she does. And as a windup to his caption the cartoonist tranquilly prophesies, "And the worst of it is that when Sarah Maud is 40, and someone's plump and middle-aged wife, she will keep on being 'sorta cute.'"

The woman of whom I speak above evidently was regarded as "sorta cute" in her youth, and cannot quite give up the idea. If We Could Only Have Character Mirrors! Because we do not have character as well as body mirrors she does not realize how she looks in this pose. When I read the cartoonist's caption I wondered what Sarah Maud's husband thought of it all and why he did not gently intimate to her that he would love her just as well if she would put away that pose in the lavender of memory instead of wearing it now that it is worn out and unbecoming. Possibly he does not realize that it is worn out.

More possibly (to my way of thinking) he is afraid of a temperamental "you-don't-love-me-any-more" typhoon if he made such a suggestion.

This is only one of several poses that mature women sometimes keep after their becomingness and utility have departed.

There is, for example, the coquettish pose, the plaintive, wistful pose, the naive pose, the goodfellow pose, that all sat well on the girl and do not sit so well on the woman.

But Better Not Do it at All Than Urgently.

Why would it not be kindness for the husband, who knows the fine, lovable woman under the pose and who realizes that she is hurting her attractiveness to others by it, to gently intimate as much to her? Of course it is a very delicate task. If recognize that. And if it is not done in a spirit of very real love it is sure to be a failure. If the man goes about it in a critical, fault-finding, or worse still, a ridiculous mood, he is going to make the kind of wound that festers instead of heals.

But if it is done in the right spirit, any woman who fails to meet the desire to help with a desire to be helped and a determination not to let the inevitable blow to her vanity make trouble between them, makes one of the biggest mistakes in her life.

A Poser.

The veteran T. P. O'Connor, most genial of Irishmen, tells a good story concerning a fellow-countryman of his who, together with an Englishman, was waiting for a train at a small wayside station.

Said the Irishman to his companion: "I will ask you a question, and if I cannot answer my own question I will buy the tickets. Then you ask a

The Crimean Hurricane.

The maladministration of the British Government was the cause, as is shown by the great suffering of our soldiers during the first winter of the Crimean War. But, of course, other factors co-operated, and indeed, much of the hardship endured may be ascribed to the great hurricane of Nov. 14, 1854. Not only were all the camps dispersed with their contents, over the whole of the peninsula and quantities of food and clothing were ruined, but in addition, the transports containing indispensable supplies were wrecked. In all, 1000 vessels were dashed to pieces, 1000 men were disabled. The "Prince" containing everything the most wanted—warlike stores of every description, surgical instruments, guernsey frocks, flannel drawers, woolen stockings, and soles, boots, coats—in fact all that the Government could devise for the equipment of the troops; the great ammunition-ship was also wrecked, and such of the others borne down to the bottom of the sea, a part of them upon which the Expeditionary Force depended for its existence. The "Prince" and trusses of hay, which were boats could scarcely be seen, and numbers of the bodies were washed about the bases of the cliffs outside. With the day, it began to rain, and the dire season of the winter against which the scanty British army had to contend for many months. Nor was it until far into the next year that improved conditions ruled in the British camps.

THE WORKMAN.

Under the dirt and dust and steam, he knows it will be the same, but through it all the soul must dream and try to play a many game of dust and steam and hard commands.

He may a soft hand passes by, but only thinks he understands the purpose of my task and why.

When men shudder just to see me standing at this table of mine, they know somehow they pitted me, but I have never made a whimper out of all this dirt and dust, and clang and clamor day by day, and tolls everlasting "must," and see my little ones at play.

Whispering steam would drive me mad, hissing steam was all I heard, there's a boy who calls me dad, who daily keeps my courage spurred.

There's a little girl who waits each night for all that I may bring, I'm the guardian of their fates, which makes this job a wholesome thing.

Under the dirt and dust and steam, I see a college where he'll go, when I shall follow by dream, more than his father he will know, he shall be a woman fair, for the world to love and trust—give my land a glorious pair, and of this place of dirt and dust.

When Lighting Matches Was a Tricky Job.
Although millions of matches are used every minute, the people soon forgot their original purpose.

At the end of the eighteenth century flint and steel were used to obtain fire for ordinary purposes, and the only about a hundred years ago an attempt was made to produce reliable flame from chemicals.

At that time a Frenchman, invented a device consisting of a small bottle containing asbestos saturated in sulphuric acid, with splints of wood tipped with a mixture of chlorate of potash and gunpowder.

A few years later another Englishman named John Walker invented the first practical friction match in 1827. These matches took the form of wooden splints covered with sulphur and tipped with a mixture of sulphide of antimony, chlorate of potash, and gunpowder. They were sold in boxes of eighty-four, with a piece of glass-paper and instructions on how to get a light.

A few years later another Englishman invented matches which were made of a roll of paper three inches long, with a mixture of chlorate of potash and sugar and a very small amount of sulphuric acid.

How the Prospector Discovers a Gold Mine.

There are many people who will be surprised to hear that rarely, if ever, is one of Nature's stores of gold disclosed by a glittering on the surface of soil or rock.

Take the case of South Africa. Although gold was discovered by Edward Buiton in the Sutherland Hills (Klein Letaba) during the year 1868, the famous Witwatersrand deposits were not discovered until 1885 on the Strubens farm at Langlaagte, near Johannesburg; this indicates that the process of prospecting must be slow, for though the risks attendant on this work are great, the reward may be very attractive.

A Game of Hide-and-Seek. Whether gold occurs as an alluvial deposit or in a "reef," it is traced by the prospector with the help of a gold "pan." This is a shallow pan of light sheet iron with dished sides.

When "panning" for gold the prospector places the sand, soil, or crushed rock into the pan, and adds water to wet the substance to be panned. Then, holding the pan in a tub or stream of water, he adds more water, and by a shaking motion works the heavy mineral to the bottom of the pan. By a lapping process he ejects the sand until there remain only concentrates, among which the gold may be distinguished by its colour and relative heaviness.

There are rich gold reefs which shed gold very sparingly, and sometimes the gold is locked up in pyrites or other minerals, from which it is liberated by roasting or chemical treatment.

Sometimes gold shed from reefs is obtained near the surface of river beds; at other times the gold is found near rock bottom, or again the precious metal may even occur in an old river bed now covered with lava.

In the case of the "deep leads" of California and Victoria.

The method of discovering an alluvial deposit is obvious, but if the prospector is searching for a reef he follows the gold upstream by repeated "panning" until he ceases to obtain any "colours" (particles) of gold. Then he strikes inland from either bank until he "strikes" (meets) a reef or the gold ceases.

The Value of Optimism. In the latter case the reef may be covered up, and so the prospector, by a series of "pannings," decides upon the "strike" or comes to the reef and cuts a trench at right angles down to the solid "country" (rock in its original situation), when the reef will be "cut" or exposed.

Says Statesmen Not Preventing Another War

SIR PATRICK McGRATH TELLS CANADIAN CLUB ABOUT NEWFOUNDLAND'S POSSIBILITIES.

Sir Patrick McGrath, veteran journalist and legislator of St. John's Newfoundland, addressed the Canadian Club at the Chateau Laurier on Saturday on the subject of "Newfoundland of To-day." Sir Patrick gave an interesting insight into the economic situation of the Ancient Colony and also traced its early history in so far as it directly affected conditions there. Newfoundland comprised 42,000 square miles, practically the same area as New York State. With its population of 285,000 people, the colony had half as many people as Nova Scotia and approximately one quarter of the Maritime Provinces.

In presenting the historical developments of the colony, Sir Patrick pointed out that Newfoundland had been looked upon as a summer place for fishing fleets, and early companies had conducted operations under the policy that there should be no permanent residents on the island. There were even laws which prohibited settlement on the island and that principle had remained in vogue until comparatively recent days. Not more than a century ago, it was a penal offence to grow potatoes in Newfoundland. Newfoundland was the oldest colony and the population had doubled during the last 60 years despite early hindrances. Newfoundland had had no immigration for 40 or 50 years and 99 per cent. of the people were native born. The industries included fishing, the making of boats, lumbering, pulpwood and mines.

Although 10,000 Newfoundlanders had been withdrawn from the fishing record catches had been made in 1917 and 1918, and these had helped the war supplies materially, particularly as the English fishing fleets had been hampered by naval operations. Newfoundland had contributed 6,500 officers and men for the Newfoundland overseas regiment, and 2,000 had served in the British naval service. A million tons of ore had been taken from the iron mines during the year before the war, and practically all had been shipped to Nova Scotia, England and Germany. The paper mills were owned by Lord Northcliffe and associates. Newfoundland was suffering from depression that was practically world-wide, but the people expected to outlive the situation, Sir Patrick declared.

"The belief is we could do better for ourselves than you could do for us," said Sir Patrick, referring to confederation plans with Canada. "There were no railway connections between Canada and Newfoundland and there was little farming in Newfoundland, so that it might be thought that Ottawa might not give proper consideration to fishing matters. One unfortunate result of the war was the diversion of trade to the United States. Previously Newfoundland had traded about equally with Great Britain and Canada, with some business going to the United States.

Men For The Navy. "Canadian business interests should be getting more of the business. With confederation, Canadian goods would enter Newfoundland duty free and you would get the advantage of an English-speaking province. There is only the English language in Newfoundland, and I doubt whether there is any country that has such an unbroken strain of English blood or not. Our people will fish or they will leave, but if we come in Canada could count on our men for a navy.

"It should not be said that, while the soldiers won the war, the statesmen are losing the peace. The statesmen of all countries are not doing all they can to prevent another war. Some statesmen are inclined to have one eye on the subject in hand and the other eye on their constituency. The people of countries are not asserting themselves sufficiently. The people are not exerting the influence to prevent another war. There should be some manifestation that steps will be taken to prevent the sacrifice of thousands upon the altar of war."

Among those present was Lord Blyth.

of Vimy, under whom the Newfoundland soldiers served during the war. Sir Patrick expressed the expectation of an early visit by the Governor-General of Canada to Newfoundland. President Desbarats of the Canadian Club, who is the Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries, was Chairman of the luncheon.—Ottawa Journal, Nov. 7, 1921.

Electors of the Municipality of St. John's

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN.—Having been elected by you as a Member of the Municipal Council in the year of 1910, and served you faithfully for four years until 1914, when the Government of that time appointed a Commission to take over the affairs of the City, I now offer myself as a Candidate for your suffrages in the forthcoming Municipal Election.

The four years' experience I had at the Council Board will enable me, if elected, to perform the duties satisfactorily. My interests and yours are identical, and it is only from men who have a common interest with yourselves that you can hope for satisfaction.

At the recent session of the Legislature a new Charter was enacted, investing the Municipal Council with increased powers, which will be a source of benefit to the city and people in general.

I fully recognize that the affairs of the Municipality are such as to call for the earnest endeavours and unceasing attention of those who may be selected by you to administer the City's Government during the next four years, and so far as I am concerned I shall leave nothing undone to forward the interests of the people of St. John's, and to the best of my ability I shall strive to maintain an honest, upright and capable management of its business.

The health and cleanliness of the city are matters that shall have my most earnest attention.

I trust to be able to make a personal call on you, or meet you in public, when I shall be able to lay my views more fully before you.

I have the honour to be,
Ladies and Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant
nov14,21,m,s CHARLES W. RYAN.

Civic Electors of St. John's

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN.—Having been requested by a number of influential citizens to offer myself as a Candidate in the forthcoming Municipal Election, after due consideration I have decided on doing so.

I will, if elected, co-operate to the best of my ability with the newly elected Mayor and Councilors to further the interests of the City.

The great need of a public market place is one of the necessary requirements of the city, and if elected, the procuring of such a public utility shall have my earnest consideration.

There is much to be done towards the improvement of the city, should the finances of the Council allow.

But at the present time we are all passing through a period of stringency that calls for retrenchment and economy, the raising of any new loan by the city that would further increase the burden of the taxpayer should not, in my opinion, be undertaken at the present time.

Soliciting your votes and influence in the contest and assuring you of my best efforts if elected,
DENIS J. GALWAY.

What They Died For.

Such an act of knightly homage as General Pershing performed at the tomb of the Unknown Warrior recalls the victorious comradeship of our two nations in the great war, and strengthens with new purpose our comradeship in the world peace which is yet to win. And the announcement that the King has conferred the supreme distinction of the Victoria Cross on America's Unknown Warrior reciprocates the great Republic's tribute in a spirit which both nations appreciate.

All those young lives were sacrificed to make an end of aggressions against Liberty. To that the Unknown Warrior in his silent tomb bears perpetual witness which none dare deny. If it were otherwise "nearly 1,000,000 British dead from many continents"—whom the Premier eloquently eulogised—as well as their Allied comrades, made the supreme sacrifice in vain.

That can never be. But the Disarmament Conference next month will be the acid test. The war will be won in its full purpose only when the solemn pledges which General Pershing and Mr. Lloyd George exchanged at the tomb recently are ratified by the American and British peoples in a covenant of permanent peace.—Daily Mail.

Cargo of Reindeer for Canada.

The Hudson Bay Company's steamship Nascopie has sailed from Norway with a full cargo of reindeer to initiate the reindeer culture project in Baffin Island. The animals will be bred for dairy products, meat, hides and draught purposes, and if the venture proves a success will supply the western Canadian market as well as the northern peoples' within a very few years. The company was incorporated under a Dominion charter last May, with Mr. Stefansson, the organizer of the reindeer scheme, as one of the directors. It has obtained a large grazing territory on the southern part of Baffin Island.

Filming Operations.

Furthering the interest of the medical world, a very wonderful camera has been invented which enables photographs to be taken of every phase of an operation in the operating theatre.

The device is, in fact, similar to a cinema operating-machine, and is worked by the foot of the operating surgeon.

Automatically supplying its own light, this ingenious device in no way interferes with the surgeon's performance of his duties, while the instrument can be operated at will at the surgeon's discretion, and when he deems it necessary to "close up" a certain delicate phase in the operation is easily obtained.

The value of such a device is obvious. Besides providing an excellent

Prohibition.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir—Please allow me space to make a few remarks regarding the Prohibition Law of Newfoundland, which is being so much talked about to-day.

As I said in my previous letters to the press the present law is the greatest curse that ever befell this country. Since its inception it has been disregarded, and those who were first to break it were its prime movers.

In the second place the law was made for the rich, or in other words to keep liquor away from the poor. In the third place it has killed this country's revenue, and finally it has made drunkards out of our young men.

In many cases of which I have personal knowledge it has worked greater havoc than the open saloon, I, with others of the Moderate Prohibition Committee placed the names of 20,000 voters in the hands of the Government, calling for the Act to be changed. A modification of the law is what the people want, and it was promised us that the new measure would go before the country not later than November 31st, 1921.

Why has not the promise been fulfilled? Is it that the $40,000 that would be required for the plebiscite had to be kept to relieve the destitution that we will have to face the coming winter? Any excuse will do to fool the people. To those who are now preaching prohibition I want to say "stop," and allow the voters of the country to decide what they will have. Seeing that they were fooled into voting for the present law, give them a fair chance to decide what they actually want. I do not hold sides with certain people who will spread their hands over Newfoundland and its people and tell them that they must do this or that. I would like to remind Mr. Warwick Smith, one of our Commissioners, that we have upwards of 20,000 voters who want a change, and that to get it we will have to fight.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space, I am, Yours truly, WILLIAM FRENCH, Chairman of the Moderate Prohibition Committee. Nov. 12, 1921.

A Query to Mr. Shortis.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir—The article on the "Fanny Bloomer" by my old friend Mr. Shortis in Saturday's issue must have been interesting to those who read it and especially to those who like myself remember that fine vessel. As I write, she is in my mind's eye with her flags flying, sails loose and about to be set leaving the eastern wharf of Messrs. Bowring Bros. for the seal fishery. My reason for writing this is to ask Mr. Shortis if it was not Capt. Edward White, Sr., who succeeded Capt. Bert Snelgrove in command of the steamer Hawk. Capt. Wm. Jackman taking command the next spring. Here let me state that I well remember the old Hawk and her erratic ways to engineers and captain. On several occasions her engines (of the trunk type) would not readily respond to go astern when needed as a result once, when coming from the Southside, her heavy jib-boom crashed through the end of the eastern store on Messrs. Bowring's North Side premises. At another time—in the night too—when going to the Southside her jib-boom went through the dwelling-house on the wharf, occupied by the late Mr. John Lanningan and family. Thanks Mr. Shortis for the remembrance of the happy days of youth. Alas! the youthful days are gone.

Yours truly, C. A. E. Nov. 14, 1921.

Current Business Conditions

By GEORGE E. ROBERTS (From the Monthly Letter Issued by The National City Bank of New York for November)

THE railroad problem at this time dominates the entire business situation. The burden of increased freight charges upon all kinds representing the public. It is necessary to have organization—government—in order to carry out all social aims, and to put confidence in the agencies of government and sustain them. They are not infallible, and they are answerable to the public for the manner in which they discharge their responsibilities, but criticism of them should be well-informed and directed to specific faults of administration. It is a symptom of social incompetency for people to raise a great outcry against a court or an administrative body simply because its decisions or actions run counter to what is popularly desired at the time. It is like the outcry of schoolboys against an umpire.

Two such Boards have been established to deal with the railroads and railroad employees—the Interstate Commerce Commission and the other the Railroad Labor Board.

In 1913 because of the differences of opinion existing about the actual Commission was headed by President Roosevelt, pointed by President Roosevelt. He amply demonstrated his qualifications for the position by his service on the Interstate Commerce Commission, which he held at the time the body of engineers, accountants, etc., was set up to handle the valuation of the railroads.

The opinion is often expressed that the talk of "watered stock" in connection with the railroads is unfounded. This was definitely refuted by Mr. Edgar E. Clark, then chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, before the Senate Committee on Manufactures when it had under consideration the Calder bill for the regulation of the coal industry. The report of the Interstate Commerce Commission became a subject of inquiry by members of the Committee, as follows:

Senator Reed: "How did you get at the value of the property? Is it physical assets? Is it stocks and bonds? Is it taxes?"

Mr. Clark: "Stocks and bonds were not included in the valuation. The value was ascertained by estimating and appraising the physical assets of the railroads, which were valued on the basis of the value of the products than they were before."

The necessity for fair returns upon capital and fair wages for employees can hardly be the subject of argument, but how is the public to determine the fair return and the fair wage?

(With apologies to R. W. Service.)
 And there sat Sam, looking comfy and calm,
 Whilst outside the North winds roared;
 He wore a smile, you could see a mile,
 As he said: "Never mind the door,
 It's warm in here, there's no need to fear"
 The wind, the cold, or the snow,
 For down on the floor, behind that door
 Is a WESTINGHOUSE COST GLOW.
