ROYAL YEAST CAKES

At the Mouth of the Treacherous Pit
STORY OF LOVE, INTRIGUE AND REVENGE

CHAPTER IV.

"Yes, she looks more like a white rose than ever. But, do you know, Sir Karl, I have more than a suspicion that the white rose is won already."

"Was it the changing light of the chandelier, or did his face really grow pale as she spoke? She could not tell."

"Yes," she continued, "the wars of the roses—so far as Dolores and I are concerned—are, I believe, ended."

"You speak in riddles, Miss de Ferras," he said, "and I detest riddles. What do you mean?" There was some little emotion in his voice.

"You must promise me not to tell," she replied. "I have perhaps no right to speak, and, mind, Miss Clifden herself has not told me, but I know—I am sure—I—"

"You know that I shall respect your confidence," he said. "Why should I not?"

"I believe," she went on, "and I have every reason for my belief, that there is something understanding or promise between Lord Rhysworth and Dolores Clifden."

"Lord Rhysworth!" he cried in horror. "Why, he is old enough to be her father!"

"Better to be an old man's darling than a young man's slave," she quoted.

But he did not heed her. He was muttering something under his moustache—words of anger and annoyance, which pierced her to the heart. Why should he care? What could it possibly matter to him?

"I wish you would speak a little more plainly," he said, impatiently. "Do you mean that they are engaged?"

"I must not say so in so many words," she replied; but I believe such to be the case."

Sir Karl felt he had lost the only treasure life held for him, for a sudden conviction had come to him that he loved Dolores Clifden as he should never love any one else in the world.

It was with something like wonder that Lola watched the handsome face of her companion. There could be no mistake as to the agitation and annoyance expressed there. She asked herself if she had been blinded, mistaken, misled. Was it possible that he cared for Dolores after all.

PUTS HEALTH AND VIM INTO WOMEN

So Says Mrs. MacPherson of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brantford, Ontario.—"I was always tired and the least exertion would put me out for a day or two. I had a pressing pain on the top of my head, pain in the nape of my neck, and when I stooped over I could not get up without help, because of pain in my back. I did not sleep well and was nervous at the least noise. I keep house, but I was such a wreck that I could not sweep the floor nor wash the dishes without lying down afterwards. A friend living near me told me what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for her so I began to take it. With the first bottle I felt brighter and got so I could wash dishes and sweep without having to lie down. Later I became regular again in my monthly terms. I have taken ten bottles all told and am now all better. I can truly say that your wonderful medicine cannot be beaten for putting health and vim into a woman."—Mrs. JAMES H. MACPHERSON, 309 Greenwich St., Brantford, Ont.

A Rubber-Running Romance

HOW A GREAT INDUSTRY WAS FOUNDED.

"The first actual seeds of the rubber tree to be brought to Britain from South America were loaded by stealth in a small steamer under the nose of a gunboat which would have blown us out of the water had her commander suspected what we were doing!"

"Sir Henry Wickham, the veteran explorer and pioneer of the rubber-planting industry, who celebrates his birthday this year, thus summarized the climax in a series of hazardous adventures which ended in the establishment of one of the greatest and most important industries in the world—the rubber industry, without which present-day motoring would be impossible."

Not one person in ten realizes today that rubber trees were unknown and unthought of fifty years ago—that in 1770 rubber (itself was regarded as such a curiosity that a square half-inch was sold for 8s.

Though rubber, one of the staple industries of the world, was discovered more than four hundred years ago, Sir Henry Wickham was the first man to bring back from the virgin forests the actual seeds of the rubber tree.

Rubber had previously been secured from tapping trees haphazardly in the depths of the jungle. Sir Henry Wickham made it possible to cultivate it like so many rows of cabbages. But for his enterprise rubber trees, and in consequence motorcars, would never have been possible.

Sir Henry Wickham, with flowing white cavalry moustaches and huge, square shoulders, is a most picturesque figure. "My working acquaintance with the tropical American rubber forest trees stretches back into the 'sixties," he said, "but I was, at that time, as one before my time—as one crying in the wilderness. Deprived of inertia, not to say optimism, prevailed. The idea of cultivating a 'jungle forest tree' was looked on as not less than visionary. Fortunately Sir Joseph Hooker, of Kew, had for some time been trying to introduce the tree to the Government of India.

"A commission was then granted to me by the Indian Government for the introduction of the tree which produced the true rubber of commerce. I had meantime, however, turned to planting on my own account near Santarem.

"Then occurred one of those chances which a man has to take at top tide or lose for ever. The startling news came that the Amazon, the first of the new line of steamships from Liverpool, had been abandoned and left on the captain's hands without a stick of cargo for the return journey.

A Race Against Time.

"I determined to plunge for it. I had no cash on hand, but the seed was even then ripening on the trees in the high forest. I knew, however, that the captain was in a fix, so I wrote to him boldly chartering the ship on behalf of the Government.

"There was no time to lose. Hardly I took an Indian canoe, and

Two Dollar Sugar
Sugar at two dollars a pound, rather than ten cents, makes that article sound more like a luxury than a food; but such was the average price of this commodity one hundred years ago, says a writer in the current issue of "The Progressive Grocer."

Not until the last century did sugar come into general use and the price begin to go down. It is comparatively new as a food. Previously it was valued as medicine.

then, leaving it, made for the high forest. Working with as many Indians as I could assemble, I daily ranged the forest, packing on our backs as heavy baskets of seed as we could carry. I was working against time, and the rendezvous with the steamship Amazon was almost on top of me. But finally we started away down stream and met the steamer.

"June, 1876, was a time of commotion at Kew. A fortnight later the glasshouse showed 7,000 rows of young plants. Discussion followed at the India Office about their disposal. First Burma was suggested, but finally the seedlings were sent to Ceylon. And that is how it began."

English Vicar's Daughter
HELD SIX OF HIS PARISH OFFICES.

PETERBOROUGH, England, May 23 (A.P.)—Rev. John H. Trott, 76 years old, really cannot continue to manage his vicarage and village of Newborough now that his daughter has married. He will have to resign and has told the Bishop so.

Dr. Trott's daughter was organist, choir-master, district visitor, Sunday-school superintendent, deputy sexton and churchwarden, and the prospect of all these duties falling on his own shoulders is too much for the aged vicar.

Action of Mexican Government a Breach of International Courtesies

U.S. Officials Make a Big Seizure of Drugs

—Military Demonstration on the Occasion of Unveiling Potsdam Memorial.

BREACH OF INTERNATIONAL COURTESIES.
LONDON, June 16. Prime Minister MacDonald stated in the House of Commons to-day that the British Government regard the action of the Mexican Government, against Herbert Cummins, British Agent in Mexico, as a grave breach of international courtesies. The Premier said he had informed the Mexican Government that in the event of its taking steps against Mr. Cummins, in which Great Britain did not concur, the mission of Sir Thomas Horler to Mexico would not be proceeded with.

EX CROWN PRINCE TAKES SALUTE
BERLIN, June 16. The unveiling at Potsdam yesterday of a memorial to the 6,000 officers and men of the first regiment of Foot Guards, who fell in the War, was made the occasion for a striking demonstration. It was attended by the former German Crown Prince, Frederick William, and Prince Eitel Frederick, and numerous other princes and generals and officers of the regiment.

Maritime Co. Production Huge Success

DRAWS LARGE AUDIENCE TO MAJESTIC THEATRE.
"The Stranger of the North," is an interesting picture because it is an unusual one. There are several reasons for this. One is that the story transpires in a locale of rare beauty seldom if ever seen on the screen—Cape Breton, Nova Scotia where every scene was actually photographed. Another reason is that the story itself is sufficiently out of the ordinary to hold the attention of the audience, yet it is always within the bounds of plausibility; and again we have that favorite player in the leading role—Richard C. Travers.

The story concerns several interesting characters. There is Donald MacGregor of MacGregor Castle, a Scot of the old school, whose forests a powerful syndicate aims to wrest from his control. His daughter Mary is the apple of his eye and is shielded from the world to such an extent that every man in the employ of her father is forbidden to speak to her. Needless to say that no girl of spirit would let this order go unchallenged, so Mary finds a way of her own to speak to the one man she finds interesting. As often happens, he is the wrong one and proves himself her father's enemy as well as her own.

But before this comes Laddie Ferguson, from Scotland, intent on making a fresh start in the New World, and expecting that MacGregor will help him do it. He too is told not to speak to Mary, and gives his word as a former soldier not to do so.

How he becomes MacGregor's mainstay and how he saves Mary of her folly—this is the story.

Misses Habel and McShane added much to the pleasure of the programme by their excellent violin and vocal renditions.

Midnight Prayers

LAND WORSHIPPERS IN COURT.
Dublin, May 23.—Ulster still has its curfew regulations, and they appear to be strictly and impartially applied. The police patrol recently found a religious service under way in a private house at Ballintagart at 3 a.m. and prosecuted those present in the court at Portadown. The members of the congregation said they were praying to the Lord and that it was customary for them to pray all night at week ends.

They were told they could not have these night prayers without a permit, and were let off on payment of the cost of prosecution.

Mephisto in French

OFFENDS GERMAN NATIONALIST CRITICS.
Berlin, May 27.—Nationalistic musical critics are incensed over the fact that Georges Baklanoff, who is starring as guest in the German Opera House, dared sing the part of Mephisto in French. One critic calls this an unheard of affront to the German people. "If Baklanoff could not sing the part in German, the management ought to have insisted upon producing an entirely different opera. In fact, why produce a work of Gounod at all?"

Thrills and Romance in Harry Carey Film

"CRASHING THRU" DELIGHTS CRESCENT PATRONS.
Harry Carey as seen in all his glory in his latest film, entitled "Crashing Thru," which was seen at the Crescent Theatre last evening. In this wonderful film there is a tremendous stampede of horses that is indeed very realistic in its entirety. There is a thrill that gets the chills running up and down your spine, and besides there is that ever present sprinkling of genuine humour that is always noticeable in Harry Carey's pictures. Viola Vale, the heroine plays a very fascinating character and the supporting cast is all that could possibly be desired.

The film entitled "Memories" embodying the old familiar songs were taken up by the whole audience, and all sang them again with distinct enthusiasm. The baseball comedy "The Preparations are being made for the usual big Amateur Contest on Friday night. Watch this paper for further particulars.

Ghostly Whiskers
In the Black Museum at Scotland Yard is a remarkable collection of gruesome exhibits.
There is a decorative tizoo of murderers' heads—plaster casts taken from famous criminals after execution.

One of these pieces of sculpture upsets the stolid nerves of the police custodians of the Museum. From the plaster cast of this particular murderer's face has spouted long thin whiskers, resembling those of the original before he shaved them off!

When the cast was placed in its niche in the collection it was clean-shaven. Now the sinister whiskers have put in an appearance.

M. Paul Cambon

M. Paul Cambon, eminent French statesman and diplomatist and formerly French Ambassador to England, who died in Paris on May 28, won international fame in the early days of the present century for his efforts in behalf of the agreement between Great Britain and France, concluded on April 8, 1904, when the powerful and far-reaching Entente Cordiale was brought into existence.

Pierre Paul Cambon was one of the three brothers, all of whom were conspicuous in French diplomatic affairs at the same time. Jules Cambon, later the best known of the three, was Ambassador to Washington, and the third brother was in a similar post to Constantinople.

M. Paul Cambon was born January 20, 1843. He was called to the Parisian Bar some 20 years later, and after 10 years of administrative work in various Government departments in the French capital, was transferred to the diplomatic service and appointed Minister Plenipotentiary at Tunis. In 1886 he became French Ambassador to Madrid, and two years later went to Constantinople in the same capacity. In 1899 he presented his credentials as Ambassador to the Court of St. James.

He was still in London when, six years later, the relations between Great Britain and France had reached a critical stage over the Fashoda incident in Egypt. King Edward VII, working carefully and secretly, had launched his programme to readjust Europe's equilibrium, and bring Great Britain, France and Russia together as a means of offsetting the powerful Triple Alliance between Germany, Austria and Italy. The late Theophile Delcasse represented France in the treaty negotiations while the British interests were looked after by the Marquis of Lansdowne.

Paul Cambon acted as intermediary during the negotiations, and it was largely through him that the many difficulties were ironed out. The public announcement that an agreement had been reached came suddenly late in 1904, and astounded the entire world.

The basis of the treaty provided for the French surrender to Great Britain of certain long-standing rights in Egypt, while Great Britain conceded that France occupied a privileged position in Morocco. Aside from settling these cardinal points, the treaty also wound up many other matters of controversy between the two nations. The treaty was hailed as the "Entente Cordiale" or the vehicle by which France and Great Britain were brought together into closer political alliance. Hardly less important to Europe was the fact that Russia came indirectly into the agreement through her previously existing alliance with France, hence King Edward's original purpose of uniting the three countries through such a treaty was accomplished.

M. Cambon negotiated and signed the final draft after M. Delcasse and Lord Lansdowne had agreed upon the essential terms. While its importance was not under-estimated, even at that time, there were perhaps none who foresaw the tremendous effect the Entente Cordiale would have ten years later, when the World War swept over Europe.

M. Cambon came prominently to the front in 1914, and played an important part in frustrating the efforts of Germany to separate France and Great Britain on the eve of the great struggle. He resigned his post in November, 1920. At a farewell luncheon given in London by the Foreign Press Association at that time in honor of the retiring Ambassador, the following telegram was received from Lord Camfordham, acting for King George:

"I am commanded to express the thanks of the King for the message received by His Majesty to-day from the Foreign Press Association in London on the occasion of their farewell to M. Cambon. The King realizes that this testimony of esteem for their distinguished guest cannot but be accompanied with feelings of deep regret that it marks the termination of a great career, including unique service as French Ambassador at the Court of St. James during the reigns of three successive Sovereigns, in which period of nearly a quarter of a century His Excellency has gained the confidence and affection of the British nation."

Hostile to every form of dogmatism, M. Cambon's mind and feelings were essentially liberal. So far as he was concerned, every political problem could be resolved, in the last analysis, into a few simple elements, the greater number of which contained the possibilities of a solution. To search for these solutions in the mutual interests of the two parties, and to search for them with frankness and the best of goodwill, was always the purpose he set before himself, and which he nearly always achieved. In the case of politicians the first quality he appreciated was force of character, and he was swift in discerning those presuppositions of a personal nature, or too great a regard for their parliamentary situation, which risked the clouding of their judgment. On one occasion he was strongly urged to accept the portfolio of Foreign Affairs, but declined, with the remark: "To be Minister of Foreign Affairs is an attractive proposition. But, after six, or twelve, or eighteen months, to be relegated to the crowd of ex-Foreign Ministers, who, when asked what they have done, can only say what they have failed to do. No, no, that would be really dreadful!"

M. Cambon looked upon the denunciation of the German spirit, whether in the political, scientific, or social form, as nothing more or less than the subordination of the human person to the state. And the state, the more its role was enlarged, inspired in him, despite the results obtained by Prussia, nothing but doubt and distrust. He reproached Berlin with having always listened to the voice of the tempter on the mountain and having sold the soul of Germany to gain all the kingdoms of the world. A power, however formidable it might be, but which lost every day a little more of the idea of the good and the true for the sake of the son of the serpent of utility and force, seemed to him to be capable of the most desperate adventures. To reduce the government of a nation to the calculation of probabilities and to the most daring of political speculations was in the eyes of M. Cambon a criminal paradox. Beneath the rapidity of Germanic development his taste for moderation and his sense for proportion enabled him to discern causes of weakness which permitted the hope of the return to France of her two dear lost provinces.

Just after the funeral of Queen Victoria the Emperor William II, passing through the diplomatic salon at Windsor, approached M. Cambon and said, "We love France, and will not let anybody touch her." This declaration, in such a place and at such a time, surprised the Ambassador, who simply replied, "France is a great nation, and strong enough to defend herself against anybody who may dare to attack her." Commenting later upon this scene, M. Cambon added, "What confidence can one have in such a man and one of such bad taste?" For him bad taste signified all the dangers which the heart and mind are made to run by the lack of scruple and sincerity. And thus he was not surprised, just before the armistice, to see the man who for more than twenty years had been spoken of as the arbiter of the world seek safety in flight and present himself at the Dutch frontier without having, in the words of Louis XIV, placed himself at the head of his army to save the state or perish with it.

M. Cambon received many honors in his lifetime. Oxford, Cambridge and Edinburgh universities gave him honorary degrees, while Great Britain created him a Knight Grand Cross of the Royal Victorian Order in 1903, and a Knight Grand Cross of the Bath in 1917. From his own country he received the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor.

Girl, By 'Phone, Lures Man Here at Police Order

Upon request of police of Lansdowne, Pa., detectives arrested Frank J. Evans, twenty-seven years old, of No. 5620 Ridgewood Avenue, Philadelphia, on a charge of abduction after an interview of several hours with Miss Dorothy Finley, nineteen years old, of Lansdowne, Pa. Miss Finley had been living alone in a furnished room at No. 330 West 85th Street, Manhattan, for the last month.

Information by a Wall Street brokerage house that references given by Miss Finley on May 14, when she applied for employment as a typist, were fictitious, police say, led to an investigation.

According to the police Miss Finley said she came to New York about a month ago in the company of Evans and that she engaged the room on West 85th Street where she has been living while in New York. She said Evans had come here from Philadelphia on several occasions to visit her.

The detectives induced Miss Finley to get into communication over the telephone with Evans at Philadelphia and request him to come here immediately. Miss Finley called Evans and when he came to the Wall Street address after a hurried trip he was arrested and locked up at Police Headquarters. Evans is said to be a business man in Philadelphia.

The arrest was made after the detectives had communicated with the police of Lansdowne, and were asked by Chief of Police Tims of that place to arrest Evans upon sight.

The girl told the detectives she had left her home in Lansdowne because of the attitude of her stepmother. She spoke respectfully of Evans who, the police say, is married.

Dux-Bak ROOFING

'Sheds Water Like a Duck's Back'

A roll of DUX-BAK Roofing costs only $3.50 complete with a supply of nails and cement.

A roll of DUX-BAK Roofing contains 108 square feet of roofing, weighs 55 pounds, and will cover 100 square feet of roof surface, i.e., a roll of DUX-BAK is same size as a roll of 3-ply felt.

Roofs covered with DUX-BAK Roofing pay lower insurance premiums than roofs covered with felt and tar.

DUX-BAK Roofing is heavy weight (3-ply quality) and needs no coating until the second year in use.

A DUX-BAK roof will give 15 years of service if coated every 3 years with suitable paint, tar or asphalt.

DUX-BAK will last longer than ordinary felt and the saving effected by lower insurance premiums will pay for the total cost of covering your roof.

When you buy felt you must also buy nails and tins and coating. You save these expenses when you buy DUX-BAK ROOFING.

M.G.C.A. SPORTS

Big Field Day To-Morrow.
 An enthusiastic meeting of the M.G.C.A. Sports Committee was held in their rooms last night, with Mr. S. A. Yre in the chair. The various committees reported the arrangements were well in hand, and there is every reason to believe that the sports will be well conducted and great success will crown their efforts. The big meet will be held at St. George's Field to-morrow (Wednesday) afternoon commencing at 2.30, and will be under the distinguished patronage of the Prime Minister, Hon. R. S. Monroe and Mrs. Monroe, amongst the prominent guests invited, and who have signified their intention of attending are: His Worship Mayor Cook and Mrs. Cook; the Methodist Clergy, officers commanding the City Brigades; whilst the Guards Band will also be in attendance to perform a select programme of musical airs. Up to last night 40 of our best crack runners and sprinters had signed for the various events. They were keyed up with enthusiasm, because of the fact that it is the first sports event of the year, while the other hand each athlete is bent on striving to do his utmost to copy or more of the beautiful prizes offered. Hard fought races are predicted and many a surprise will be in store. The committee wish it to be understood that all the athletes must be garbed in the regular running costume. The competitors must be on time, as the first event will be started promptly at 2.30. A feature of the evening's sport will be the costume comic football match, and an exhibition of Javelin and Discus throwing by Mr. Wm. Coffield. To avoid crowding and a possible collision in the 100 yards dash, the tapes will be used. This will be the means of giving a "Square Deal To All." Similar has been left undone by the committee to make the day an unprecedented success. All the championships will be in action, and the programme of 15 events has been so arranged that every moment will be of interest and all wearisome delays between events obliterated. Hon. J. Higgins, K.C., the Field Captain, and an excellent committee behind him is sufficient. In case records should be shattered, the A.A.A. have selected Mr. Stan Cullen, as starter, and Messrs. J. M. Tobin, C. J. Ellis, and Claude Hall, official time-keepers. It is thought that a record crowd will be present. Mrs. W. S. Monroe, the wife of the Prime Minister, has very generously consented to present the prizes to the winners after each event.

A Reminder.

After the sports the gathering will be invited to wend their way to the Belvedere Garden Party, to partake of tea, and patronage the various amusements and side shows which will be in full vogue during the evening.

ANNUAL MEETING REGATTA COMMITTEE.

Annual Derby Takes Place August 6th.
 The annual meeting of the Regatta Committee was held last night at the T. A. Armoury, when it was decided that the annual Derby will take place on Wednesday, the 6th of August. In opening the meeting President Hiscock thanked the members for their support and co-operation last year, all of which had helped to make the day the success which it proved to be. He referred to the loss sustained by the death of Dr. Scully, who had always been an energetic member of the committee, and he moved a resolution of condolence to be sent to Mrs. Scully, which was unanimously passed. Mr. T. J. Foran moved a resolution of condolence to be sent to the family of the late J. P. Moakler, who although a member of the committee for only one year had rendered valuable service. This was also carried. The officers then vacated their seats and C. W. Ryan was moved to the chair to conduct the election of officers which resulted in last year's executive being unanimously reinstated.

President—A. Hiscock.
 Vice-President—Hon. W. J. Higgins.
 Treasurer—R. W. Jeans.
 Secretary—C. J. Ellis.

President Hiscock thanked the committee for electing him to the position of President for the thirteenth time and he asked for the hearty cooperation of all members. He was not able to do as much as he could some years ago, but he felt that the committee would be energetic and he will be of whatever service possible. A committee of thirty-seven was then appointed and the following honorary members were again elected:—His Honor Mayor Cook, His Honor Judge Morris, Sir Edgar Bowring, Hon. W. J. Ellis, Hon. J. B. Bennett, W. J. Martin, R. B. Job, Gerald Harvey, Lt. Col. W. F. Rendell, C.L.E., Lt. Col. C. O'N. Conroy, O.B.E., C.C.C., Lt. Col. W. H. Herder, Nid. Highlanders.

It was decided that the medals be again ordered from Mr. A. McNamara, a committee, consisting of Messrs. J. P. Crotty, A. Williams, J. M. Tobin and J. M. Spears was appointed to select the design. It was announced that the Haig Regatta will not in any way clash with the annual event, and for the former no public subscriptions will be asked. Arrangements will also be made with the Haig Committee to leave the wharves, etc., standing.

The meeting adjourned about ten o'clock until the 26th inst., when collectors will be appointed to solicit the usual contributions.

It was announced that the cup promised by His Excellency the Governor last year had arrived, and is now in the possession of the Secretary. The race for which this will be awarded has not yet been decided.

M.G.C.A. POSTPONED SIXES TO-NIGHT.

The preliminary football sixes for the M.G.C.A. Sports Day, scheduled to take place at St. George's Field last night were postponed owing to the inclement weather, but will be played this Tuesday night, before and after the regular League football match. The participating teams will be as follows:—
 7 p.m.—(c) Star vs. C.L.B.
 7.15—(d) Guards vs. C.E.I.
 8.45—(a) Feildians vs. B.I.S.
 8.50—(b) Saints vs. Cadets.

The winners of (a) vs. winners of (c); winners of (b) vs. winners of (d); will play off for the medals at to-morrow's sports.

The respective teams taking the field before the League game are asked to be on time, thus avoiding any delay or interference with the match.

PRIZES ON EXHIBITION.

In the window of Ayr & Sons Ltd., Dry Goods Department, is a very attractive and splendid exhibition of prizes for the Guards Sports to-morrow afternoon on St. George's Field; composing of cups and medals and other prizes for the lucky winners in the different events.

GEORGES AND FUNNEY TO MEET.

NEW YORK, June 17.
 Gen. Tunney and Georges Carpentier were matched to-day to meet in a 15 round bout for the United States light-heavyweight championship at the Polo Grounds during the week of July 20. The agreement was signed this afternoon by Francois Deschamps and Billy Gibson, managers for the two fighters.

FRANCE LATEST ASPIRANT.

PARIS, June 9.—Paolino, a new star of the French boxing firmament, who hopes some day to meet Dempsey, yesterday gave Parisiens an exhibition of the strength of his arms by cutting with an axe through a green beech-wood log of a circumference of four feet in a little less than a minute and a half.

Paolino, whose full name is Paolino Escudun, and who is a Spanish bush-wood cutter from the Pyrenees by profession, was discovered only six months ago by a French manager. He was completely unknown to the public until he knocked out, last week, in a few seconds, the English heavy-weight, Arthur Towley, who went four rounds against Carpentier in Vienna. Paolino is phenomenally powerful, and possesses an abnormally long reach. His arms are described by Parisien writers as "those of a gorilla." He always ends his training by cutting through a huge tree trunk with an axe.

BASEBALL RACES ARE TIGHTENING UP.

More and more as the days go by it becomes apparent that there will be no runaways in the big league races this year—none of the sixteen game Margins which signalized the triumph of the Yankees in 1923. The Yankees are having their troubles at home, the Giants have found the going hard in the Western section of the National League. Most marked in the developments of the campaigns so far have been the performances of the weak players of last season. The Boston Braves and the Boston Red Sox have aroused new enthusiasm in Boston, while the Chicago Cubs have been playing in most sensational form. Even the Phillies have shown unexpected strength since leaving home.

BROWNS MUST BE WATCHED.

The return of George Sisler to the game, apparently as able to play good baseball as ever, has transformed the St. Louis Browns second division prospect to a pennant possibility. In addition to his known qualities as a star player, Sisler apparently has in him some known quality of leadership which makes his men fight for him. In their three games here the Browns showed a spirited, almost savage attack, entirely unlike the Brown team of the past. After a bad start they won twelve out fifteen games, sweeping aside both the strong and the weak. The Browns must be watched. Where the Cleveland Indians and the Detroit Tigers alone seemed dangerous at the start of the race, there is a threat now from the Mound City.

WARD'S LONG STREAK OF 575 GAMES BROKEN.

Aron Ward, brilliant second baseman of the Yankees, has been forced out of the lineup after having a streak of playing in 575 straight games. He started on his long journey in 1920, but was forced to break it the other day due to illness.

Everett Scott of the Yanks is the only player who has a longer streak than Wardie. Bill Pinckney of Brooklyn once played in 646 consecutive games.

OLYMPIC ATHLETES WILL TAKE OATH FOR GAMES.

The oath to which the 6,000 athletes commencing for thirty-five countries at the Olympic games in Paris this year will subscribe is as follows:—"We swear that we are taking part in the Olympic games as loyal competitors, observing the rules governing the game and eager to show a spirit of chivalry, for the honor of our countries and for the glory of sport."

MANDELL BEATS DUNDEE.

CHICAGO, June 10.—Sammy Mandell, of Rockford, Ill., defeated Johnny Dundee, of New York, Junior light-weight and featherweight champion of the world, in a ten round contest at East Chicago, last night. Mandell is the opinion of the newspaper experts won by a wide margin.

LACKED THE PUNCH.

NEW YORK, June 9.—The championship aspirations of Harry Wills sustained a set-back to-night when he failed to knock out Bartley Madden in a fifteen round match at the Queensboro Stadium.

Wills won the judges' decision, and gained it by a decisive margin, but Madden stood up under the negro's most terrific attacks. Wills employed his great advantage in reach and 38 pounds margin in weight, battering Madden all over the ring, opened up nasty cuts about his opponent's ears, mouth and eyes but the hardest punches of the negro failed to more than shake the tough west sizer.

Nigerian Natives

PROSPER UNDER RULE OF BRIT.

LONDON, May 29 (A.P.)—An example of the benefits of rule by a larger power over an indigent people is found in the case of the British dominion in Nigeria, says Sir Hugh Clifford, the Nigerian governor, who is in England on leave.

The natives of Nigeria for the most part are peaceful and contented and living on a scale of life they have never known before. Sir Hugh says the British rule has destroyed the slave trade and stopped tribal warfare, with the result that the people are expending their energies in other and more beneficial directions. They have become good farmers or industrial workmen and are capable of operating farms without governmental supervision.

H. Drysdale of Cleveland, in an address Thursday, before the American Medical Association.

Big Profits Revive Whaling Industry

Whaling as an industry has been so profitable in Spain that several new companies are being formed to carry on whaling expeditions. The first station at Algeciras, established and maintained by British capital, has been such a success in the past that the same operators will establish another base in the north of Spain. Other companies under Spanish control have already selected operating bases and are purchasing equipment.

Meanwhile the sardine fishing industry is in a precarious condition owing to the distance from the shore at which the fish are caught, and the Galician fishermen who have hitherto been engaged in it are turning their attention to cod. A Spanish commis-

Tuesday, June 17, 1924. A New City Directory

The new City Directory which has just been issued reflects great credit on the compilers, Messrs. Geo. H. Andrews and E. A. Smith, and furnishes to the public, and particularly to the business and professional sections a long felt need.

The Directory contain the names of about 13,000 persons residing or engaged within the city limits and in the nearby suburbs. There are approximately 4,600 more names in this issue than appeared in the last Directory published.

In the first section of the book the streets are arranged in alphabetical order and the second section contains the names of citizens with their occupations, etc. Considerable space is given to advertisements, and the Advertiser's Index in the front pages makes it a valuable book of reference for outport business firms.

Money Sent on a Wild Goose Chase

In connection with appeals that are being made in Canada for funds to save the children of Germany from starvation, Saturday Night makes the following comments:

Without imputing any evil motives one may be sufficiently curious to ask who is the head and front of this movement, now so general in Canada, to collect funds for German children. We still remember a former movement that had to do with the collecting of funds for the starving Russians, and that in between someone were a party of "graters" who in the excitement forgot the starving Russians to the point where they lined their own pockets. As we recall one secretary of a Russian fund that was functioning in England took a rake off of something like £30,000 as his share of the swag, and as we remember he did not get in jail either as it was alleged he had earned this sum through his personal endeavors.

In respect to the alleged starving condition of these German children there is some ground for suspicion that the Germanic people can take care of all their needy if they will. From all quarters travellers are writing of the manner in which German citizens by the hundreds and thousands are throwing their money about. This is taking place at all the resorts and all the capitals of Europe, and from the evidence at hand it would appear that they are spending far more money than even the rich Americans at these various places.

In this connection it is interesting to note what Professor C. T. Curry, curator of the Royal Ontario Museum, had to say on this subject, he having just returned to Canada from a trip abroad where he was in connection with adding to the treasures of the museum of which he has charge. In an interview he said: "Of late Germans have been simply ferocious buyers of objects of art, of rare and expensive books in particular, as if they wanted to own everything in the art world in a short time. One big dealer in very expensive books, books selling at up to $10,000 a piece, told me that the issuing of a thousand catalogues in England would possibly produce ten buyers. The bulk of the stuff would be bought by Germans."

If charity begins at home, as the old saw tells us it does, surely we can find sufficient numbers of needy people right here in Canada, without pressing our dollars and our quarters into service in such a questionable venture in far off Germany.

A plea on behalf of the children is one which seldom fails on deaf ears, and for this reason it is well to make certain of the claims put forward and the method of disposal of such funds before the philanthropically disposed part with their money.

The reports of extravagant spending on the part of the German public have been so frequently brought back by visitors, that it is quite reasonable to believe that they are not without foundation. It must also be remembered that so far as Germany's domestic affairs were concerned they were not affected by the war to any extent. In France and Belgium, the country was devastated, whereas Germany's agricultural lands remained intact. It has even been said that by cool calculation the Germans have ascertained that by limiting the distribution of milk and using it in the manufacture of butter, its value from a commercial standpoint is considerably enhanced. If such is the case, and unless it can be clearly shown that relief is necessary, we would be well advised to study our own needs first, for they are great and pressing, particularly will regard to the children.

Last Night's Rehearsal

At the C.L.B. Armoury last night there was a rehearsal by the massed bands, consisting of the members of the four city bands. In all there were about ninety instruments and the rehearsal was very successful. Marches, Hymns and National Airs were played in preparation for the War Memorial ceremonies. There will be another practice on Thursday night when the Brigades will again have a joint parade in preparation for the visit of Earl Haig.

Ordinations at All Hallows

At All Hallows, on Trinity Sunday, three Newfoundland young men were ordained to the Priesthood of the Roman Catholic Church. They are Father Ronald Murphy, son of the late Joseph Murphy, formerly Hotel proprietor of Whitbourne, and Mrs. Agnes Murphy, of Prescott St., and a nephew of the late Dr. Scully. Father George Bartlett, St. John's, these young men studied philosophy at St. Augustine's Seminary, at Toronto, passed most successfully, and then proceeded to All Hallows, for their final course in Theology. All have prepared for the Priesthood for the Archdiocese of St. John's and will be home and assigned to work in the different parishes during the months of July or August.

Belvedere Garden Party

It is the province of all garden party promoters to continually plan new means of attracting patrons to their entertainments, but we believe the plan must be awarded to the originator of the Mystery Bower which will be in evidence to-morrow afternoon at the Belvedere Garden Party. "Come and See" tickets will be sold on the grounds for ten cents each, and the Bower of Mystery is denoted by a "Come and See" flag. Miss Kathleen Keegan and her talented oriental aides will act as hostess, and no person will be admitted more than once. We understand that none under sixteen or over sixty can buy a ticket, but further information was impossible to obtain and our readers must possess their souls in patience until to-morrow afternoon.

We have also been informed that the "Anglers" at Mrs. O'Keefe's Fish Pond have a chance of something unusual, and from what we can learn all the rods will be in constant demand. We are at liberty to say that of the 2047 "fish" in the pond over four hundred are of an unknown species and cannot be duplicated in Newfoundland.

The crowning finish will be Mrs. Harry Peddigrav's big dance in the Recreation Hall with the C.C.C. Orchestra in attendance where, we understand, the four management have a special and attractive programme to offer.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES.

June 16th.—This morning it rained so hard, though it was late last night, that it waked me betimes. So to the office, and on the way, meeting Mr. Ayre, to the meeting of the Importers' Association with him. Mr. P. Knawling in the chair, but no Secretary being present. I am made to act, and in but another instance of honors being thrust upon me so that soon, it will surprise me not at all if the Prime Minister do resign in my favour. Indeed, if I did believe my wife, I should by now have attained honours higher even than those which did come to the great Samuel. The meeting considers a letter of Col. Nangle, asking for the Wednesday of Halg Week to be a whole holiday instead of a half day, and this request acceded to. Reading to-day in the journal, which another Pepsy do write for the "City News" sheet of Manchester. But Lord this fellow is too wise to be compared with me. Albeit he do maintain the literary standard, which the great Samuel did set that his descendants might follow. By despatches out of England R. MacDonald mightily angry with the Mexicans, and gives them a warning to forbear from harming the British Agent. Indeed, it do seem how the Mexicans, now that they have no revolutions for their amusement, will resort to even so dangerous a game as tweaking the lion's tail for their entertainment.

Dr. Grenfell Given Leave of Absence

Owing to his health not being good Dr. Grenfell will not resume his activities on Labrador this year. Arrangements have been made by the International Board, which looks after the various Grenfell Hospitals, to give the Doctor a year's leave of absence. If his health improves he and Mrs. Grenfell may put in part of the time in foreign travel, but in any case he will not return to St. Anthony until June of next year, when it is hoped the Doctor's health may be completely restored.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

PREMIER MACDONALD FURNISHES INFORMATION RE CUMMINS CASE. LONDON, June 17. Premier Ramsay MacDonald in the House of Commons this afternoon reviewed the case of Cummins, British Charge d'Affaires in Mexico whose expulsion had been ordered by the Mexican Government. This was in reply to a question by Arthur M. Samuel who asked whether the Mexican Government had attempted to expel Cummins, whether Cummins had refused to leave and shut himself up in the British Legation, and whether the British Government regarded the action of the Mexican Government as a breach of International Courtesy, and if so what step the Government proposed to take. Premier MacDonald said that for some time there had been friction between the Mexican Government and Cummins and the British Government had been unable to agree that the complaints made against Cummins by the Mexican Authorities were justified. On May 13 last the Premier said he was informed if Cummins was not withdrawn from Mexico he would be expelled on June 1. The Premier said he had been desirous of regulating Great Britain's relations with Mexico for some time, and had decided that Sir Thomas Holter who had previously done good work in that country should go immediately on a special mission and report to him. The plan was Mr. MacDonald explained, that upon the arrival of Sir Thomas in Mexico Cummins was to leave. This information it was stated was sent officially to the Mexican Government, and Premier MacDonald said he had trusted that matters would be allowed to rest there. The Premier declared that the Mexican Government, however, had not only declined to withdraw the notice of expulsion against Cummins but was apparently according to reports in the press proceeding to carry it out. He said the British Government regarded the action of the Mexican Government as a great breach of International Courtesy, but he was still waiting for further information as to the result of communications to the Government of Mexico. Asked what were the charges made against Cummins and the reasons given for his expulsion, Premier MacDonald said that the allegations were briefly that Cummins had made a rude communication to the Mexican Government.

LIVELY TIME ANTICIPATED IN DEBATE ON IMPERIAL CONFERENCE RESOLUTIONS.

LONDON, June 17. Notwithstanding the Government reverse in an unimportant division to-night the members of the House were in a listless frame of mind and are apparently saving up their energies for the full debate on the Imperial Conference Resolution on Tuesday and Wednesday. The Opposition is looking forward to the contest with particular keenness and have put down many actions covering all phases of the question, but in order to simplify the business it is expected that divisions will not be taken until Wednesday night, and only on three or four representative resolutions.

LORDS AMENDMENTS TO BILL REJECTED.

LONDON, June 17. The House of Commons last night after debating the Government Bill for prevention of eviction of tenants who do not pay rent because of unemployment, rejected all amendments proposed by the House of Lords. The Government was aided by the Liberal votes and the Bill thus restored to its original condition will go back to the Lords which may either persist in amendments or accept the decision of the Commons.

No Liberty Bonds were included.

Youthful Offenders Imprisoned

Two juvenile offenders named Walsh and Smith were assigned before Judge Morris this morning charged with an attempted series of larcenies and burglaries which constitute a record in local police circles. The daring thieves have been under close surveillance of the detectives for sometime past, but last night about the hour of 11.30 the youths were caught red-handed by Sgt. Long and Constables Russell and Morgan, in the act of forcing an entrance in the store of Messrs. Nicholls and Inkpen. Before they had a chance to get through a window which had already been broken, the officers made good their capture and brought them to the lockup. Upon being searched at the police station, it was found that they had in their possession, several sharp instruments, skeleton keys, and four corking irons, already been broken, and a burglar's full equipment. Upon being placed on trial they were charged with the following offences:—(1) Mark Chaplin, (2) Ellis & Co., (3) Nicholls and Inkpen, (4) larceny of four corking irons valued at $2.50 the property of some previous owner, (5) larceny of the sum of $25.00 in cash, tobacco, and cigarettes from the store of Bishop & Sons, (6) larceny of bunch of keys and twenty cents in cash property of F. Banakhin, (7) making a fire in the store of the Franklin Agencies with intent to destroy the building, (8) attempting to steal from the store of R. O. Rendell.

Both lads confessed their guilt to all of the above charges, and after receiving a sound lecture from Judge Morris they were each sentenced to six months imprisonment, besides five lashes on going in and five additional lashes upon coming out. Smith, a lad of 13 years, has appeared before court on five different occasions and convicted on similar offences, while Walsh, aged 16 years, appeared twice before.

Mining Boom On West Coast

ST. GEORGE'S TO BE A SHIPPING PORT OF GREAT IMPORTANCE

Reports from the West Coast indicate that great activity in the coal fields, gypsum and iron deposits, situate near St. George's is about to begin. All these minerals will be shipped from St. George's and the harbor is destined to become one of great importance. The coal fields are but 20 miles away, the gypsum deposits are only 4 1/2 miles inland, whilst eight miles distant are valuable iron deposits, which need only capital to develop. Already a survey for a line of tram or railway from the gypsum deposits to St. George's has been completed and the work of quarrying the mineral will begin shortly. The company interested propose erecting plants for converting the raw material into the different gypsum products. A number of men are now engaged in preliminary work and when the plant is completed permanent employment will be found for about 350 men. The company hold 23 mining claims or 11 1/2 square miles and an inexhaustible supply of gypsum can be obtained by surface mining. The plant is being erected with a view to a 1600 ton per day output. A survey of St. George's Harbor is now being made to ascertain the cost of dredging to permit of vessels of 25 feet draught entering, as the bar across the channel permits at present only vessels drawing 15 feet to pass. As the whole bottom is of sand no serious difficulty is anticipated in this connection.

Preliminary Enquiry

It is understood that the enquiry into the charges against Sir Richard Squires will proceed next week. At the previous session Mr. Meaney refused to give evidence fearing that it might incriminate himself, and since then the Crown Counsel has been engaged in looking up other witnesses. Hon. F. Gordon Bradley has been retained by the Crown to prosecute in the charge of defamatory libel preferred against Hon. Dr. Meadell by Sir John Crosbie. The enquiry will probably begin next week.

Doctors Who Give Drinks Scored By Colleague

CHICAGO, June 12 (A.P.)—Measures against unscrupulous physicians who make illegal prescriptions of alcohol, were urged by Dr. Joseph A. Capps of Chicago, chairman of the section on practice of medicine of the American Medical Association, in an address before its convention here recently.

"One of the most flagrant instances of irrational therapeutics is the abuse of the physician's license to prescribe alcohol," the speaker asserted. "It is well known that most of the liquor dispensed on physicians' prescriptions is not intended for the treatment of the sick. Whatever as individuals we may think of the 'Volstead law,' we are morally bound to restrict prescriptions to medicinal purposes. Selling one's prescription blanks to the druggist is worse than fee-splitting, and should be cause for exclusion from membership in this association."

Other unscientific tendencies in the practice of medicine cited by Dr. Capps were the promiscuous use of vaccines for disease in which they give no help, the growing use of gland extracts for treating various body functions, and the injecting of medicine into the blood, which is a dangerous practice, even in emergencies. All of these practices owe their being to the fact that in each field there has been limited work done by true scientists.

"A horde of therapeutic promoters and speculators have followed the productive wells drilled by scientists," Dr. Capps declared. "New methods should be tried out by research workers and approved by the association. In much of our so-called specific therapy of to-day, the general practitioner assumes the role of experimentalist without the clinical facilities, the training, or the experience, to enable him to pass judgment on their worth."

CARRY EGGS OF FISH TO INLAND RESERVOIRS.

PITTSBURGH, June 13—A popular belief that fish are placed in reservoirs for purification purposes is discredited by E. E. Lanpher, superintendent of the distribution division of the Pittsburgh water bureau.

"It is an old notion that fish serve to keep down bacteria in water," Lanpher said, "but our bacteriologist says this idea cannot be substantiated. On the other hand, fish do no harm."

"Although many persons think the fish are put in the reservoirs to purify the water in the form of eggs that have lodged in the bills and feet of ducks. The ducks pause on the surface of the water in their flights in the spring and fall and the eggs, which are washed off while the ducks are swimming, soon hatch out."

One Smile for Ed. is Gungirl's Plea

Bobbed-Hair Bandit Wants to Cheer Up Her Husband Before They Part.

"I'm satisfied. The Judge gave me what I deserve."

So declared Mrs. Cecelia Cooney, the "bobbed-hair bandit," in her cell in Raymond Street Jail, Brooklyn. She referred to the sentence of ten to twenty years in prison imposed upon her by Judge Martin. Then, with a smile that was not wholly natural: "I'm feeling wonderful. All I want now is a chance to see Ed. (Edward Cooney, her husband, also under sentence) to cheer him up. He'll feel better when he sees me smile."

Despite this "front," it was evident Mrs. Cooney was afraid of what awaits her at Auburn Prison, whence she is awaiting transportation and where she will long be separated from her husband.

This was corroborated by Warden Honeck, who said Mrs. Cooney is extremely nervous and under a high tension. Her husband will be given a chance to see her smile before she is sent away, the Warden said.

Asked if she had anything to say for the people of Brooklyn before she said goodby, the girl answered: "No, nothing."

Judge Martin has signed the necessary papers crediting the couple with thirteen days in jail. These days will be deducted from their stay in prison. Mr. and Mrs. Michael Roth, the girl's parents, and her sister, May Roth visited her.

My Twenty Years of Police Adventure

(By EX-INSPECTOR JOSEPH SANDERCOCK.)

"From the time you took me into custody on Easter Sunday, and again took me to the Tower on Easter Tuesday, you showed me the best side of an Englishman's character—his native good heart."

These words are from a letter sent to me by Sir Roger Casement, who was hanged for high treason. I received him into custody at Ruston Station, and he was perhaps the most important political prisoner who passed through my hands during the twenty years I spent in the Special Branch of Scotland Yard.

On a Traitor's Track.

On Easter Sunday of 1915 I received instructions to proceed to Willesden Junction and there take over Sir Roger Casement from some Irish Soldiers. Casement was travelling third class. He was sitting between two soldiers, looking very cold and woe-begone. And he was wearing the same clothes as those he had on at four o'clock on the morning of the previous Good Friday. Then, as the life was rising on the west coast of Ireland, off Curraneah, County Kerry, John McCarthy, a farmer, who was walking along the shore, saw a boat and four oars floating in.

He found a dagger in the boat, and half buried in the sand he came upon a tin box tied with cord. The footprints of three men were visible. On his journey home the farmer saw his small children playing with revolvers, so he sent for the police.

A little later Casement was discovered in an old fort. He had been landed from a submarine, and the clothes he wore were soaked. In one of his pockets was found a railway ticket showing that he had recently travelled in Germany.

Thus did the notorious Roger Casement come into custody. When I saw him in the train he seemed absolutely down and out, a sharp contrast to the dominating man who, a short time previously, had been seeking to undermine the loyalty of British and Irish soldiers and turn their sympathies in favour of his employers, Germany.

Prepared for Emergencies.

It was desirable to keep news of Casement's arrest secret. I instructed him to walk quietly by my side to where I had a taxicab waiting. We strolled to the vehicle arm-in-arm like two old friends. So quietly was the affair managed that Casement had been in custody in England a week before his presence was even known to the public.

Before undergoing his final trial, which took place at the Royal Courts of Justice in the Strand, London, Sir Roger made several appearances at Bow Street Police Court. Each night he was taken to Brixton Prison, and I was the officer solely responsible for his safe conduct to and from the court.

The whole business was surrounded by a network of intrigue. Casement had friends everywhere. At any moment the unexpected might have happened.

One of my superior officers suggested I should have a private motor car for my journeys to and from Brixton. But I pointed out that we could not effectually close the mouth of the chameleon. In all probability he would tell his mates that he was ordered for Brixton Prison to fetch Casement, and I had to bear in mind that there were many people who would mock heaven and earth to prevent Casement's coming to trial. I accordingly

NEW YORK, June 9.—Both Wall Street and the cotton trade were taken by surprise last week when, after a Government cotton report even more unfavorable than the pessimistic estimates of the trade had indicated, the price of cotton, instead hit upon the very simple ruse of riding by tram to Brixton Hill, near where the prison is situated, and there picking up the first taxi I came across.

One morning my prisoner begged me to have him driven over Westminster Bridge so that he could look once again, perhaps for the last time, upon the House of Parliament and Westminster Abbey.

Although I could not afford to take any risks, I could not bring myself to believe that this was a "job." I therefore conceded his point to the extent of allowing him to be driven, not over Westminster Bridge, but over Waterloo Bridge and along the Thames Embankment, so that his desire could be fulfilled. If there was any trap on Westminster Bridge, I had dodged it by going over Waterloo. But all ended well.

A Silent Tribute.

Another time he begged to be driven past a certain house some distance off on a rural route. And once again I suspected a trap. When we passed the house Casement reverently raised his hat and tears came into his eyes. It was the house of a woman of brilliant intellect to which this complex man was devotedly attached, and that was the last look he had at the habitation which sheltered her.

The last time I drove with Casement he was very sad and depressed. "I expect this will be the last time I shall see you," he said, "and I have not slept all night, but have passed the time in writing. Here is a letter of thanks for all you have done for me. I can't trust myself to put it in words, so I have put it on paper."

Dear Superintendent Sandercock:—

"Before I have the misfortune (as I will term it in truth) to be taken out of your custody on my journeys to and from this prison to Bow St. I want to thank you very warmly and most sincerely for your unfailing courtesy, manliness and kindness to me. From the time you took me in custody at Ruston on Easter Sunday and again took me to the Tower on Easter Tuesday, you showed me the best side of an Englishman's character, his native good heart. Whatever you may think of my attitude towards your Government and the Realm, I would only ask you to keep one thing in that good heart of yours and that is that a man may fight his country and its policy and yet hate any individual of that country."

An extract from a letter received by Superintendent Sandercock from Sir Roger Casement.

Thus I saw the last of Roger Casement. I am told that he went to his doom at Pentonville Prison, at the hands of Ellis, the executioner, without a tremor. I still treasure the original of the letter he wrote me, and an extract from it is published for the first time on this page.

"Robert Louis Stevenson once said, 'An Irishman's hatred of England is natural, right, and sincere—it is against a Rule and Government, and is not based on any personal end. It is impersonal and may be most unselfish.' I hope my feelings in something of that kind—at any rate, I feel for you (and for so many others who have had charge of me since my arrest) that you have treated me in a wholly chivalrous and high-minded way, and I can only tell you that I thank you from the bottom of my heart. He ended by writing: 'I hope your life may be happy and prosperous, and that you will gain speedy promotion, and so be able often again to help some other man in great trouble.'"

With ordinary criminals such as civil murderers, blackmailers, jewel thieves, and so forth the Special Branch does not deal. It has to guard the great—kings, queens, statesmen, ambassadors, and other eminent people whose lives are of great value to their country. It tracks down undesirable aliens, foreign anarchists, keeps track of suspects, and, during the war, it dealt with the greatest of all its baffling problems—the German spy menace.

German agents were very busy in this country before the war. Vividly does my mind go back to one case as early as February, 1912. I was instructed by my superior officer to proceed to Ostend and obtain information about a man, a German, who was known to be meeting a compatriot in Ostend with important naval information obtained in England.

I was successful in my quest, and upon my information being given to Scotland Yard I had to follow up my case, which resulted in my tracking my man, whose name was Goudie, to a hotel in Rochester. I had a pleasant evening with this man, with whom I made good friends. But I found he was a German spy, and was later sentenced to seven years' penal servitude. His main channels of information were the unsuspecting sailors of British ships, who came to the public-house at Rochester, where they were entertained by the spy.

Saving Britain's Gold.

Part of my duties during the war consisted in preventing gold leaving England and finding its way into the hands of the Germans. I have no hesitation in saying that I saved many thousands of pounds in British gold leaving these shores, and in my preventive work I had some remarkable experiences.

There are, of course, many things upon which my lips are sealed in connection with the Special Branch, but, as fully as possible, without betraying official confidence, I shall from week to week, deal with the romance, the tragedy, the drama, the humour, and indeed, everything of interest connected with the department in which I spent so many years.—T.H.Bits.

Scott to Go on Trial June 11th

FORMER MONTREAL MAGNATE FACES CHICAGO JUDGE ON MURDER CHARGE.

Montreal, June 7.—Penitentiary and without a friend in the world, Russell Scott, one time millionaire promoter of Toronto, Ont., faced a charge of murder before Judge Walter Sellen at Chicago. The former head of A. T. Scott & Co., Ltd., a concern which had eighty branch offices in the United States and in Canada, faces the possibility of hanging for the cold-blooded murder of Joseph Maurer, a twenty-year-old clerk, shot to death on the night of April 21 in one of the most daring downtown robberies in years.

His attorney, W. T. Stanton, made a vigorous plea for the waiving of the death charge on the ground that there was no evidence to show that Scott had fired the fatal shots. It was indicated that the defence would admit that Scott was one of the three who held up the drug store, but would plead that Scott's brother Robert emptied the contents of his gun into Laurer when the latter refused to open his employer's safe. In other words, Scott hopes to save himself from the gallows by flatly charging his brother with murder.

When the prosecution refused to waive the murder charge, Attorney Stanton appealed for a change of venue on the ground that the court was prejudiced. The case was then transferred for trial by Chief Justice Calverly to Judge W. J. Lindsay and a remand was granted to June 11, when Stanton pleaded further that he was not ready to proceed.

Boy Awarded $2,000 for Two Sound Teeth

One thousand dollars each was the value placed upon a seven-year-old boy's two teeth by Supreme Court Justice Tompkins at White Plains recently in awarding $2,000 to Adolf G. Bannemer of Mount Vernon, against Dr. Louis E. Lattier, New York dentist. Dr. Lattier lost the suit by default, the Court fixing the award without a jury.

Mrs. Emma Bannemer, who brought the action in her son's behalf, alleged that a year ago he went to Dr. Lattier to have two baby teeth extracted. By error, it was testified, the dentist drew two of his permanent teeth.

All at Sea

A girl at a public library inquired if "The Red Book" was in.

"I don't think we have the book," she was told.

"Oh, excuse me," said the girl. "I made a mistake. The title is 'The Scarlet Launch.'"

After a search, the library assistant reported that no book with that title was in the catalogue.

"But I am sure you have the book," the girl insisted. Suddenly she opened her handbag and produced a slip of paper on which something was written. Then she blushed. "Oh, I beg your pardon," she said. "It's 'The Ruby Yacht,' by a man named Omar. I want."

WHERE DOES HE GET THAT WEATHER?

Where do you think weather men get their weather? I don't mean just the weather they tell us we are going to have and that never materializes. But also the weather they tell us we've had, and that doesn't in the least resemble the weather that we think we think is a very cold spring. We are sure there never was such a cold slow spring before in our history. And then the weather man comes out in an interview telling us we fatter ourselves if we think any such thing. That year before last was just as cold and that the temperature has only run half a degree a day colder than the normal to be expected at this time of year in this climate.

Ready To Fly Out Of Our Skins. Or we know we never saw so many rainy days in a single month. The sound of rain drops on the roof, such pleasant music now and then, has become the maddening kind of iteration that makes one feel ready to fly out of one's skin, as our grandmothers used to put it. And then the weather man comes along and punctures our feeling of righteous grievance with the weather by exploding some such statistical bombshell in the morning paper as: "The precipitation for the month has been only five per cent.

Weathermen As Husbands. I always wondered if traffic policemen made unusually dictatorial husbands, expecting to say "do this" and have it done without question, as they do when they are on duty. To that wonder I add the query if weather men are ever more maddeningly right than other husbands. If they are as clever in proving everyone wrong about other things as they are in regard to the weather, then they must be. But who knows, perhaps they are just the reverse in their own homes.

Women Far Outnumber Men ON REMOTE BABUYAN ISLANDS. MANILA, May 30 (A.P.)—The recent earthquakes and volcanic eruptions in the Babuyan Islands have brought forth statements from mariners who recently have been in that region, that a large portion of the population is composed of women. It is said this situation is due to the fact that so many of the men have perished their lives at sea. The male population of the islands is almost entirely in fishing as a means of livelihood, and the frequent typhoons which sweep over that region play havoc with their frail fishing craft. It is stated that on one island of the group, with a population of about 200, there are 15 women to one man. The constabulary of Cagayan province have been ordered to ascertain the condition of the people of the Babuyans, and to furnish them supplies. If your own dealer does not keep Ivory Soap, he is not doing his best to please you. He can get stocks of Ivory at a moment's notice from any jobber or direct from the agents.

Medical men strongly advise wives and mothers not to forego nourishing midday meals in the absence of their husbands. It is to this foolish habit that many of the diseases so common among women may be attributed. Keep yourself nourished by taking Bovril with the midday meal.

Wedding Bells.

The R. C. Church, Grand Falls, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday, June 12th, when Gertrude Mary, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edwards, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Leo, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hennessey. The bride looked charming as she entered the Church with her father, who gave her away. She wore a dress of silk crepe with pearl trimmings; with veil and wreath of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was Lilies, Carnations and maiden hair fern; the bridesmaids being Miss Nellie Edwards, sister of the bride, and Miss Rita O'Brien. The flower girl, little Miss Conway, looked very pretty in a dress of pale pink satin. Mr. J. Hennessey, brother of the groom, acted as best man. The Wedding March was played by Miss G. Joy. The groom's present to the bride was a platinum bracelet; to the bridesmaids gold bracelets; to the flower girl, a gold ring, and to the best man cuff links. The presents received were numerous and costly. Mr. and Mrs. Hennessey are spending their honeymoon at Placentia, from where they will return to their future home, Grand Falls, where Mr. Hennessey holds a position as paper maker with the A.N.D. Company.

SHE ROBS ILLINOIS BANK OF $1,500.

WOMAN HOLDS UP CASHIER, FLEES IN AUTO, BUT IS CAPTURED.

PEORIA, Ill., May 28.—Hanna City police have arrested Norma Anderson, a good looking woman, eighteen years old, with a baby in her arms, who held up and robbed the A. G. Steenburg bank at Farmington, getting $1,500 in cash. The girl covered Clyde Steenburg, the cashier, with a shotgun, seized the money, which was near the teller's window, and escaped by forcing a taxicab driver to speed her away. During the hold-up she clasped the baby in her arms. The woman first appeared at a coal mine near Farmington, about 10 a. m., telephoned for David Fettes of Farmington, and had him drive her to the bank. There she had him sound the horn until Clyde Steenburg, son of the owner of the bank and cashier, stepped out to see what she wanted. She explained that she wanted money and he invited her into the bank. When he turned after getting inside the bank she had a white cloth mask over the lower portion of her face and a blue-barreled shotgun in her hand. Adopting the strategy of politeness, Steenburg told her to be quiet and she could have what she wanted. Two other men and a woman employee in the bank followed her command to put up their hands while Steenburg took a sack which she pulled from her pocket, telling him to fill that up.

He opened the money drawer and filled the sack with money, principally one dollar bills. As he handed the sack to her she said: "Is that all?" and he answered: "Here, take this; I overlooked it," and handed her a dollar bill which had fallen to the counter. She warned every one to keep still, walked back to the taxi, put her gun on Fettes's shoulder and told him to "drive like the devil." At Hanna City she dismissed the taxi and entered the home of Joe Manuel, with whom she was acquainted. There she was found soon afterward by City Marshal Bettels, Policeman Lane and Steenburg, who were not in pursuit. They were met and directed to the house by the taxicab driver, who had telephoned to Farmington. She was searched and $1,158 was recovered. She is now in the Farmington Jail.

A Recipe for Old Age It has long been expected of the aged that they should give us their recipes for long life. Sir Harry Bedkin Poland, the veteran English lawyer, who is ninety-four years old, says that he has worked hard and lived plainly, but he then makes the startling remark "and—thank heaven—I am a confirmed bachelor." He has never accepted the dictum that marriage tends to prolong life. Today he is a bachelor of ninety-four, and thus the talk ran between him and his recording friend:— "And to that condition you attribute some of your happiness?" "Certainly, a great deal. If I had married, I might have been bothered by children, and perhaps even disgraced by them. As far as I can see, married life is so much worry. I am sure if I had married I should not now be on the point of celebrating my ninety-fourth birthday. I should have been dead long since."

"I have heard that as a rule," I remarked, "barristers, commercial travellers and sailors are fairly happy in married life. The husband and wife see so little of each other—and perhaps you yourself?" "No," he said, "I can only repeat that I consider myself fortunate in being a bachelor."

Very Itchy. Caused Eruptions. Could Not Sleep. Cuticura Healed.

"I was troubled with eczema on my face. It broke out in a rash on my chin and was very itchy. Scratching caused eruptions and in a few weeks it spread all over my face. I purchased more, and after using two cakes of Soap and one box of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Kathleen Rothenbusch, Box 40, Duff, Sask. HUSBANDS, IF THEY'RE LUCKY, SOMETIMES BECOME LEADERS OF THE OUTLAWS.

PEKING, May 27.—A lot of "rough country ladies" turned bandits, says the Asiatic News Agency, having raided towns along the Peking-Hankow Railway and have carried off many young men of rich families whom they are holding for ransom. Peking soldiers have been sent to suppress the outlaws, said to be "armed with modern pistols and iron clubs," and who are more heartless in treatment of their captives than the men in the interior districts. Some of the captives, the report continues, have been forced to marry the "lady" bandits and thereafter have become leaders.

DIET.

"It is hyper-acidity," said Dr. Placid. "Something you're eating is changing to acid— A chemical trouble that's easily cured. I'll give you a diet, the rest is assured." Just cut out your coffee, your pork chops and eggs. For these are the foods which are causing your grief.

"The juice of an orange is poison to you! And grapefruit's a menace—these things are taboo!" "How about strawberries, Doctor?" said I. "Never a strawberry!" came his reply. "You may have prunes, if they're thoroughly stewed. But never a bite of your favorite food."

"Mark what I tell you and make no mistake. Hyper-acidity lurks in all cake! Candies and jellies and jams are denied— When they are served you must put them aside; If at the root of this trouble you'd strike, Eat what I tell you and not what you like."

"This is your diet; eat all that you wish. Providing it's chicken, providing it's fish; Nothing to drink at your meals, save it be A cup of warm water just flavored with tea." "Do this and be happy!" said I. "Holy smoke! Can a fish eating animal merrily joke?"

Climate Changing

CALGARY, June 17.—Weather observers as well as old settlers in the west entertain the belief that the climate of this country is changing. A weather authority, formerly of the United States, maintains positively that this change has been slowly but surely taking place for the past thirty years.

The bitter winters of several decades ago are not experienced by the present-day settler. The blizzards that raged continually in parts of the prairie provinces are now comparatively rare. In those days the dread silence which preceded a storm held nature in a deadly grip until the onrush of the maelstrom of snow and wind with its destruction engulfed all things in its wake.

The weather has perceptibly changed for the better. Strawberries can be raised anywhere in the prairie provinces together with other varieties of fruits, the growth of which was regarded as impossible several years ago. Men connected with Lestry work in these provinces say that in time horticulturalists will be able to supply the people of western Canada with every kind of fruit demanded, outside the tropical varieties.

Discussing the causes of this weather transition, weather prophets advance several logical theories. Some claim that the weather merely moves in cycles—first warm, then hot. They inspect records of years back by taking the weather averages over periods of ten years each, and the average temperature of these cycles has never varied to any great extent since the first observations were made. Others are supporting the viewpoint of those who believe that a change is taking place.

Some attribute the climatic transition to irrigation projects of the west. There are now about 19 million acres under irrigation and through this means a tremendous amount of moisture is brought into what was formerly a dry country. Evaporation and consequent precipitation has also been largely instrumental in changing an arid plain into a fertile grain producing country.

The theory is also often advanced that the climate has been affected by the destruction of forests. These forests, it is claimed, formerly conserved moisture and kept the snow from melting too quickly, so that the action of the sun on earth was slower. In Ontario, where the forests formerly sheltered the country, there are now fierce storms both summer and winter. When a blizzard was an unknown quantity in years gone by, there are now storms that rival the early storms of the western prairies.

Golf Increasing

WINNIPEG, June 16.—A survey of the progress of the "Royal and Ancient" game of golf has revealed the fact that there are twice as many golf courses in Canada at the present time, than there were before the war. It is estimated by authorities closely connected with the sport that more than $25,000,000 has been invested in land and buildings and that the amount spent each year on playing golf in Canada easily exceeds that figure.

There are now nearly 350 golf clubs in the Dominion. On the first of May, 1923 a census was taken by the officials of the Canadian Golfer and figures showed that 315 clubs were then listed. But many new clubs were opened during the present season and the end of last year.

Ontario has more golf links than any other part of Canada. The province had 104 courses last year. Strangely enough Alberta comes second with 51; Quebec has 44 and Saskatchewan 41. The golf bug seems to have bitten a larger proportion of the people of Western Canada than elsewhere in the country. The other provinces rank as follows: Manitoba, 29; British Columbia, 25; Nova Scotia, 12; New Brunswick, 8; and Prince Edward Island, 1.

The city of Toronto leads with the number of clubs, showing a total of 31. Winnipeg comes next with 10. Montreal has 13, while western cities, such as Calgary, Edmonton and Vancouver are well up in the list.

There is a movement to make golf cheaper. In addition to municipal golf clubs, courses are being opened in connection with real estate subdivisions. One such club in Western Canada leases a large acreage at the nominal rental of one dollar a year. This enables the promoters to offer memberships in the club at a low figure, while the owners of the property also benefit inasmuch as the proximity of the links adds to the purchasing value of the land.

Masons Congregate

WILL ERECT MONUMENT.

TORONTO, June 16.—(By Canadian Press)—One of the largest Masonic gatherings ever held in Canada will assemble at the city of Belleville, Ontario, on June 17th, when the Grand Lodge of Canada in Ontario will lay the Corner Stone of a monument which is being erected to the United Empire Loyalists from Canada and from Rochester, N.Y., and other American cities will participate in the ceremony.

It is 140 years since the U.E. Loyalists settled in the native forest of what is now Ontario. They brought Freemasonry over from the New Republic and not withstanding their struggles for a livelihood in their new home, they kept Freemasonry alive. In some instances members walked 60 miles to attend Lodge held in a private room of a tavern. In 1801 a committee of three walked from Meyers Creek (now the city of Belleville) to Kingston, 80 miles away, to present a petition for a dispensation to form a Lodge and that Lodge has been in existence ever since.

The monument will be of a simple inexpensive character to typify the humble beginnings of the U.E. Loyalists, and will consist of a representation of a log cabin mounted on a solid expansive pedestal with four seats underneath. It will be constructed of cement made from stone and clay of a farm originally settled by one of the pioneer settlers.

Strange Beetle Found

OAKLAND, CAL., June 13 (A.P.)—E. L. Knowlin, a rancher at Hayward Heath, has found a weird beetle that resembles a human skull. Local experts have been unable to classify the beetle and it has been sent to the University of California for further study. It is the size of a man's thumb-nail and in shape as well as in general appearance is like a skull.

Hero of Kut Dead

General Townshend's Two Sieges—Tale of Victory and Failure in Mesopotamia.

With the same iron courage which was the dominating feature of his life, Major-General Sir Charles Townshend, the defender of Kut-el-Amara, faced his death in a Paris nursing home. He had been recuperating on the Riviera during the winter after suffering from an infection of the spine, and the news of his death was unexpected, as his health lately appeared much improved. Just after setting off for his usual drive, he had to return home owing to a paralytic seizure of the throat, and his condition became rapidly worse, until the end supervened. He and his wife had planned to return to England on June 1st, and the General had never lost hope of one day re-entering Parliament. General Townshend, who was 63, may be said to have taken part in every military operation undertaken by the British Army since he entered it, as a subaltern of Royal Marines, in 1881. He served in the Camel Corps which attempted to relieve Gordon by a forced march across the Bayuda Desert; he was present at the fights at Abu Klea and Gubat, and it was his banjo and cheery voice which kept the Desert Column, weary and thirsty, in good heart. As a forerunner of what was to come at Kut, he was the hero of the defence of Chifral. Detached from his regiment, the Central Indian Horse, he joined the troops in Gilgit on the edge of the Pamirs, and found himself second in command of the little garrison besieged in a fort. His commanding officer was wounded during the siege, and the command devolved upon him. For many weeks he held the fort against hordes who attacked it, and was nearly starved into submission before the relieving force could get up. He is best remembered, however, for his defence of Kut-el-Amara. His Mesopotamian campaign in 1915 was at first a great success, but after the victory at Ctesiphon, the heavy British losses compelled a withdrawal in December to Kut, where Townshend's force was invested. The siege lasted 143 days, the defence being accounted one of the greatest feats of the Indian Army. In the end the troops were compelled to surrender to the Turks. Desperate efforts were made in vain by following forces, food and other necessities being sent to the garrison by aeroplane during the later stages of the siege. As a contrast to his men, who suffered bravely, General Townshend was well treated by the Turks in his two years' captivity, and eventually took an important part in the negotiations leading to Turkey's surrender to the Allies. No appointment was offered him after his release, and he resigned his commission in 1920. He sat as Independent M.P. for the Wrekin division for a year.

The siege lasted 143 days, the defence being accounted one of the greatest feats of the Indian Army. In the end the troops were compelled to surrender to the Turks. Desperate efforts were made in vain by following forces, food and other necessities being sent to the garrison by aeroplane during the later stages of the siege. As a contrast to his men, who suffered bravely, General Townshend was well treated by the Turks in his two years' captivity, and eventually took an important part in the negotiations leading to Turkey's surrender to the Allies. No appointment was offered him after his release, and he resigned his commission in 1920. He sat as Independent M.P. for the Wrekin division for a year.

the dodder, are so tiny that it is almost impossible to detect them except under a strong magnifying glass. Seeds vary in their powers of retaining life. While those of peas and beans will retain vitality for many years, others, such as those of the parsnip, are useless if kept over one season. Seeds of the willow and poplar are so short-lived that unless they land at once in a moist place, they die in a few days.

The March Past

(Be Prepared)
I heard the sound of music,
And thronged to the tunes
So straightway to my window
I hastened—such a treat!
For here were beds and baskets,
And on those earnest faces,
"There wasn't any gloom."
For each had found a something,
A something quite worth while,
A promise and a service,
To do something with a smile.

There are many forms of service,
In the world as you all know,
And if we all do something,
The world will better grow.

So let us love each other,
As God has meant us to,
And we'll find a "four-leaved clover"
In everything we do.

Livestock in Japan

EDMONTON, June 17.—A firm of Japanese livestock dealers, headed by a wealthy Japanese of considerable prominence in Yokohama, known as the Japanese Butchers' Association, is already preparing to handle livestock shipments into Japan on a large scale. If a recent shipment of livestock to that country proves satisfactory and providing reasonable freight rates can be secured, it will be Canadian cattle that this big firm will handle. The Company is now engaged in the erection of livestock yards and corrals at Yokohama capable of handling at least 200 head of cattle each month.

The fact of the matter is that the Japanese are beginning to eat more meat, and this fact has prompted the Japanese Butchers' Association to the action they have taken.

The Seed Swindler

In the past there were perhaps no other trades in which swindling was so rampant as in that of the sale of seeds. The artless dealer of half a century ago adulterated his goods by adding a considerable portion of soil seeds.

The Seed Adulteration Act put a stop to that practice, but not to the sale of dirty and old seeds. Most of the seeds are dirty when fresh gathered—that is, they contain a considerable percentage of weed seed, and all the great seed houses possess elaborate and costly machinery for cleaning.

Clover seed has to be carefully cleaned. If this is not done the result will be a crop of all kinds of pernicious weeds in the clover field. Some weed seeds, such as those of

Prohibition Plebiscite

WILL SASKATCHEWAN GO DRY?

REGINA, Sask., June 16.—(By Canadian Press)—Wednesday, July 16, the people of Saskatchewan will decide by popular vote whether they desire to remain bone dry or will permit liquor to be sold for beverage purposes under a system of government control.

The decision to submit the question to a vote of the people was reached at the last session of the legislature, following the receipt of a petition containing more than 3,000 signatures asking for a plebiscite.

Two questions, one of them subdivided, will appear in the referendum ballot paper. To make the ballot valid every voter must answer "yes" or "no" to the first question which reads "Are you in favor of prohibition in Saskatchewan?" Those who answer this question in the negative will be expected to subscribe their opinions to the second question, which is as follows:

"If a liquor system under Government control be established, which of the following do you favor? A. Sale by Government vendors in sealed packages of all spirits and malt liquors, or B. Sale by Government vendors in sealed packages of all sealed packages and all spirits and malt liquors and also sale of beer in licensed premises."

On the two previous occasions that the liquor question has been submitted to popular vote in the province, women were entitled to vote and they will, of course, vote again on July 16.

From 1892 to 1908, Saskatchewan had a system of wide open bars to which everyone had access in cities, towns and villages, and what were called rural localities, from early morning until 11.30 at night. Local option, according to municipalities, was introduced in 1908 and at the same time the hours of the opening and closing of the bars were shortened, the number of licensed places was reduced and various other restrictive measures were passed.

This system continued until 1915 when Hon. Walter Scott, then Premier, announced in a speech at Oxbow that the time had arrived when the bars and wholesale liquor houses had to go. The legislature subsequently passed the necessary legislation to implement the announcement and at the same time provided for the establishment of government liquor stores and importation from outside the province. In December, 1915, which was the first time the women exercised the franchise, the people voted the government liquor stores out of business by four to one, the record vote being: Against—95,246; For—23,666.

As a result of the vote the legislature enacted the Saskatchewan Temperance Act, which prohibited the sale of liquor in the province except for medicinal, scientific, manufacturing and sacramental purposes. With the ban on importation by Federal orders-in-council, under the War Measures Act, Saskatchewan was for a time bone dry, but this order was rescinded and from January 1, 1920, until Feb. 1, 1921, it was again possible for individuals to import into the province from other provinces or from outside Canada, liquor for beverage purposes.

Following a decision of the legislature in the 1919-20 session and subsequently the Federal Government, another plebiscite was submitted to the people of the province on Oct. 26, 1920, to decide for or against the importation of intoxicating liquor. The result of the vote was: Dry—36,949; Wet—55,259. As a result of this vote a Federal order-in-council was passed prohibiting importation into Saskatchewan after February 1, 1921, and the province became legislatively bone dry once again.

In the meantime a commission of three with R. E. A. Leach of Regina as chairman, was set up to administer the Saskatchewan Temperance Act, to provide for the distribution of liquor for legitimate purposes and to see that the Act was not violated. This commission is still operating.

There still existed in the province however, a number of export liquor houses and it was contended by the dry forces that these institutions were responsible for liquor leaking into illegal channels within the province. Following representation by the Saskatchewan legislature, federal legislation was invoked to abolish these places and the last was closed in December 1922.

Since that time two efforts have been made by the Moderation League of Saskatchewan to bring into operation a system of government control. In the winter of 1922-23 backed by substantial petition they asked for the establishment of such a system. Their representations were met by the Government with the statement that this question could only be determined by popular vote, so far as the government was concerned. Last winter the League officials returned with a still larger petition asking for the submission of a plebiscite to the people. This was opposed by the prohibitionists on the ground that prohibition should have at least three years' trial from the date of the closing of the export warehouses. But the legislature granted the request of the petitioners and the vote is to be taken the last week of next month.

Scientists Assemble

ASSOCIATION MEETS IN TORONTO.

TORONTO, Ont., June 16.—(By Canadian Press)—Arrangements have been completed for the entertainment in Quebec and Montreal of the party of 500 or more European scientists attending the meetings of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, August 9-13 in Toronto, according to the report of Dr. J. C. McLennan, chairman of the local executive committee of the association here.

Prof. McLennan has just completed a trip to the eastern provinces in connection with details of the convention. Preparations comparing favorably with the elaborate scheme planned in Toronto are under way in Montreal under the chairmanship of Sir Arthur Currie as head of McGill University, which is the official host. In Quebec, plans are in charge of Hon. Cyrille Delage.

The majority of the distinguished guests will sail for Quebec on July 26 and on their arrival they will be welcomed by representatives of the government of Quebec and by the Rector and officers of Laval University.

They will continue to Montreal by boat, where on August 4 they will inspect McGill University and the gardens and farm buildings of Macdonald College. One section of the delegates will inspect Montreal harbor on August 5 and they will be entertained at luncheon by the Montreal Harbor Commission. A second party will make an excursion to Cedar Rapids.

The trip through the province of Quebec has been extended to three days at the suggestion of D. H. Hanna, chairman of the transportation committee, in order to eliminate night travelling and permit full enjoyment of the scenic beauties of the St. Lawrence route. This will also enable many of the savants to deliver public addresses in Quebec and Montreal.

A party of English engineers who are particularly interested in hydro-electric power will inspect the development along the St. Lawrence river, as the guests of R. S. Lee, Montreal engineer, with whom the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission is co-operating. They will reach Canada in advance of the main party and will examine all points along the route to Lake Ontario where there are power stations and where hydro-electric development is proposed. Shawinigan Falls will come in for special consideration, likewise the proposed deep waterway to the sea.

Conditions in Denmark

MONTREAL, Que., June 17 (Can. Press)—J. E. Bogild, Consul-General for Denmark here, furnishes the following summary of economic conditions in that country for the month of April:

Compared with March 1923 the Danish Trade balance for the month of March 1924 shows a decided improvement, exports amounting to $29,000,000 against imports to the amount of $33,000,000. Excess of imports over exports amount thus to $4,000,000 whereas for the month of March 1923 excess of imports over exports amounted to over $5,000,000. For the first three months of 1924 excess of imports over exports was $6,600,000, whereas during the same period in 1923 imports exceeded exports by $17,000,000.

In March 1924 the agricultural exports from Denmark had the following approximate value:

Cattle	$3,000,000
Bacon and meat	2,000,000
Butter, milk, cheese	9,000,000
Eggs, fats, etc.	3,000,000

The average agricultural export from Denmark in April amounted per week to:

Butter	2,444.6 tons
Eggs	11,900,000 dozens
Bacon and hogs	4,246.3 tons
Cattle and meat	1,291.5 tons

The increase in quantity of the agricultural export from Denmark during April has, however, been accompanied by such decrease in prices as is usual at this time of the year, and further the fall in the sterling value in Denmark has lowered the net profits to the Danish farmers.

During the month of April there has been a decided improvement in the employment market in Denmark, the percentage of unemployed at the end of April being only 9.3% against 11% at the end of April, 1923.

Owing to the increase in the value of the Danish Kroner, the Danish wholesale price index fell during the month of April from 228 to 225.

The improvement in the Danish exchange during April, when dollars fell from 6.05 Kroner to 5.34 Kroner, is due partly to the efforts of the Government exchange commission, which has successfully stopped speculations in foreign exchange, and partly to credit restrictions imposed by the Danish Banks, as well as to the endeavors of the Government to stabilize the value of the Danish Kroner and slowly increase same.
