"The Cloud With a Silver Lining"

CHAPTER XVI.

"Yes, very angry," she said, wearily. "He has never cared for me since." She added, pitiously, the great tears beginning to rain down her white cheeks; "and he forbade me to do anything to help you, Frank."

"Ay," he remarked bitterly, "he has his own reasons for wanting you to think me guilty, and the world also!"

Sidney did not heed the bitter words, when Stephen had almost accused her of treachery, and had forbidden her, in strongest words, to hold any communication with the man who now stood beside her, looking at her with eyes so full of compassion, of the sorrow for her which filled his heart—sorrow to the exclusion of his own self.

"He said I had married him only for the means of helping you," she said, with a childish simplicity, a pathetic pain in her broken voice.

"I did not contradict him; how could I? It was in part true, and I was tired—so tired—but not so tired as I am now."

The intense weariness and sadness higher voice caused him to look at her pitifully, and a groan broke from him as he hid his face upon his hands. Hard as his own life was, hers was almost as bitter, poor child; he would have compassion upon her! She loved her husband, and—The rest of the thought died away as she turned to him, and put her hand upon his arm.

"Frank," she said, more calmly, "I dare not stay longer. Tell me where I can see you to-morrow."

He uncovered his face slowly.

"Do not trouble," he answered, gently; "obey your husband, Sidney. Do not run any more risks for my sake; I will not clear myself at such a cost to you."

"I must help you," she said, passionately.

tionately, "at any cost to myself! Tell me some place where we can meet, or I must find out one myself, Frank."

"Can you come to Lynmouth," he asked, hurriedly—"alone? It must be alone, Sidney."

"I will drive there to-morrow," she answered firmly. "Will two o'clock do? I think I can manage it then."

"If not to-morrow, the next day," he said, "I shall expect you."

"I will come to-morrow," she answered, hurriedly. "How could you wait until the next day?"

"It would not be my first long fast," he replied, bitterly. "And physical hunger is not the worst pain I have had to bear, Sidney."

"Oh, Frank, poor fellow!" she said, breaking into sobs. "If I could only help you! See!" she added hurriedly, taking off one of her rings and holding it out to him; but he put it back with a faint smile.

"My dear child," he said, gently, "it would be useless. How could I dispose of such a gem? They would think I had stolen it. I can wait until to-morrow, Sidney, and—and—if you find you cannot come," he added unsteadily, "do not grieve or fret; it will be all for the best."

"I will come," she answered steadily. "And now, Frank, good-bye."

She put out her hands to him, and he caught them in his and pressed them to his lips and to his heart, and the next minute he was alone in the rustic summer-house, and Sidney was gone.

"Would she care—would she care?" he muttered brokenly, as he made his way carefully through the pretty, tastefully-laid-out grounds. "If he were in my place, would she care? And, if we all got our deserts, he would be the hunted, outlawed culprit, not I!"

CHAPTER XVII.

The morning of the next day was gray and mild, and rather misty. Sidney Daunt, coming down to breakfast in a soft cashmere robe of a rich ruby color, paused a moment at one of the windows of the gallery which ran round the second floor of Easthorpe, and stood looking out at the grounds which surrounded the pretty house. Autumn as the season was, they still retained much of their beauty. The foliage was still luxuriant; but its color had changed. Green was the exception, not the rule now; the leaves were red and yellow and brown, the Virginia creeper was showing its flaming hue, flashing out brilliantly on the dull gray morning, and the dahlias were in full bloom in the flower-garden before the drawing-room windows.

With wistful eyes Sidney stood contemplating the scene; it looked so calm and peaceful, and so fair, notwithstanding the gray leaden sky overhead and the lack of sunshine.

Nothing could have been more out of harmony with the girl's feverish unrest and anxiety than the still gray calm which hung brooding over all things. All the night she had lain wide-eyed and sleepless on her pillows, feverishly longing for, yet dreading the coming of day, her thoughts following Frank Greville on his lonely way, as he toiled along the deserted country roads, or recalling the misery she endured while listening to his account of the sufferings of the past two years. All night long she had been haunted by a terrible fear lest he should be recognized—he had been so well known in the neighborhood—and arrested; and in the stillness and solitude of the long night hours she had lived over again that scene of her wedding-day which seemed to have erected an insurmountable barrier between herself and Stephen.

Ah, how terribly angry he would be if it ever came to his knowledge that, in spite of the formal prohibition he had given her, she had met Frank Greville and promised to help him! And yet how could she help it? Frank had been so much to her in the past; he was associated with all that was brightest and best in her young life; he had been such a kind tender brother to her; he had even loved her until Sibyl Neil's fatal beauty had crossed his path. How could she desert him? How could she withhold the assistance he so much needed? Ah, if only Stephen loved her, if only she could go to him and rest her aching tired head on his shoulder and tell him that Frank was innocent, and ask him to give her old friend the help he—Stephen—was so much better able to give than she was! But that was impossible; he did not love her; he married her out of pity, or for her pretty looks perhaps, or because he wanted a wife, and, since the woman he loved—for that he as well as Frank had loved Sibyl Neil, Sidney did not doubt—was not for him, he had married the one nearest to his hand. He was very good to her, of course—it was not his nature to be anything but good to any living thing with which he had to do—very generous and very indulgent; but that confidence and mutual faith and love which form the only true basis of wedded happiness did not exist—would never exist between them.

Glancing out at the tranquil, peaceful scene before her, Sidney wondered if the last night's meeting had really taken place. Had she dreamed it? Was it possible that she had met Frank there in the pretty quiet summer-house at the other end of the lawn? It had been moonlight then, and the wind had been blowing furiously round the house. Had it all been a dream, that stolen meeting, her dread, her anxiety, her hurried return, her noiseless entrance? Ah, no, no, it was no dream; it had all taken place; the calm and peace and tranquillity were all a delusion and a snare! There could be no calm, no peace, no tranquillity for her until Frank was cleared.

EXPERT ADVICE.

When Doodle came to paint my shack, I told him, "Paint it yellow, with purple stripes up front and back—such hues are rich and mellow." The carpenter might be painted pink, with red upon the steeples; this blend of noble hues, I think, will please the passing people. "I'll do it thus, if you insist," said Doodle, darkly scowling, "but such a job, I ween and wist, will cause a lot of howling. For forty years I've painted homes and barns and sheds and fences, and I have found that screaming chromes offend the people's senses. Take my advice, oh wistful wight," I heard this Doodle bellow; "let's paint it gray, with trim of white—forget the red and yellow." I'm sometimes wiser than I look; I think, with much beseeching, a painter, carpenter or cook, should know what he is doing. The artisan who ably serves for season after season, should learn in time some useful curves, all based on sense and reason. So to this Doodle then I said, "Your words sound harsh and hollow, but take your brush and go ahead—your counsel I will follow. I'd set my heart on gaudy tints, such as blue and heckon, but I accept your helpful hints—you've learned your trade, I reckon." Now people come and say, "Oodish, and also donnegutter, that job is all a mah could wish, 'no colors could be better." They all declare the house looks fine, the job was worth the boodle; and I pretend the scheme was mine, and do not mention Doodle.

The Domination of Women

A Pessimist waits that there are no signs of a male revival in Great Britain. We are given to understand that the he-man exists only in fiction, and that the live male is really a poor fish. We are warned that it will be years and years before we can hope to correct the two marked evils of the present day, which are physical degeneration common to both sexes, and the domination of men by women. There is the usual attack in the serious war men has always led to the downfall of great empires. It is a depressing picture, but we must endeavor to get the right focus. The charge of physical degeneracy is untrue. Despite the ravages of the war men and women are healthier, and are living longer than their ancestors. It may be that hefty specimens are rarer, but a race of champion weight-lifters is not required; and though there may be less brawn, we are adapting ourselves better to our environment, which is the great test.

As for the domination of men by women, this is much as it has always been. Man still rules the roost in public, but on the domestic hearth woman has always been the dominant partner. Man may have deluded himself at times that he ruled even in the home, but women knew better. No doubt in former days women were more discreet and did not boast of their power. Nowadays they powder in public, and tell the world the power they yield. Some of them overdo the vocal exercises, but in the relationship of the sexes the ideal to which the modern man and woman strives is not domination but partnership. This is a higher ideal than domination, but there are some men who have not yet rounded Cape Turk, and they regard partnership between the sexes as a sign of degeneracy. But we must leave them to their sorrows and pessimism, for they really belong to an age that is dead.—Liverpool Post.

Rescuers Fail to Recover Sailors

ATTEMPT MAY BE MADE TO LIFT SCHOONER INEZ G.

NORTH SYDNEY, Sept. 30.—All day yesterday friends of Capt. Vatcher and other members of the crew of the Inez G., as well as those of James Wheeler, were out searching for tidings of the men who went down in Friday night's gale, but were still unsuccessful. Last night the revenue cutter Stumble in which was doing preventive service, made an attempt to get close to the wreck of the schooner Inez G., but the sea was so rough, and the wind so high, that it was impossible for Capt. Ryan to get within good distance of the submerged craft. Where the schooner lies submerged there is about eight or nine feet of water, this much as it has always been. Man still rules the roost in public, but on the domestic hearth woman has always been the dominant partner. Man may have deluded himself at times that he ruled even in the home, but women knew better. No doubt in former days women were more discreet and did not boast of their power. Nowadays they powder in public, and tell the world the power they yield. Some of them overdo the vocal exercises, but in the relationship of the sexes the ideal to which the modern man and woman strives is not domination but partnership. This is a higher ideal than domination, but there are some men who have not yet rounded Cape Turk, and they regard partnership between the sexes as a sign of degeneracy. But we must leave them to their sorrows and pessimism, for they really belong to an age that is dead.—Liverpool Post.

You Can Get Strong and Well Just as I Did by Using Dr. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD the dead men are strongly of the opinion that some of the bodies still lie in the rigging of the vessel and if an effort was made at once, or as soon as the occasion required, they could be brought to the surface and given a decent burial.

It is understood, however, that some of Capt. Vatcher's relatives in Cape Breton have interested themselves and have brought to bear on the naval authorities pressure whereby one of the divers on board some of the vessels of the fleet now at Sydney will go out and investigate conditions at the wreck. Should none of the bodies be discovered on the submerged vessel, then it is said the Crown will hold a thorough investigation of the whole affair, as it is the general belief the Inez G's commander made an effort to beach the vessel, when she sank about half a mile from the shore at the place where she now lies submerged. Both Bungay and Brazg, the two survivors, say the vessel sank about two and a half miles from shore. —Sydney Post, Oct. 1

Expert British Airmen on Way to United States

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Asserting that they "have something up their sleeves" to be shown in the races for the Schneider Seaplane Cup, which will be flown at Baltimore, October 24, the British aviators who will compete in this contest left for the United States on the steamer Minnewaska. The British team is said to be the best equipped flying expedition that ever left England. Its captain is Captain C. B. Wilson, and the pilots are Captain Henri Riard, Hubert Broad and Bert Hinkler. With them are the designers of the machines and a party of engineers and riggers.

YESTERDAY'S LATE MESSAGES

CHAIRMAN OF COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE N.S. COAL INDUSTRY.

HALIFAX, Oct. 3. The Government of Nova Scotia announced today that the British Government has designated Sir Andrew Rae Duncan, formerly coal controller for the British Government and now Chairman of the Advisory Committee of the British Mines Department, to be Chairman of the Commission on inquiry into the coal industry of Nova Scotia. The Commission will be composed of a chairman and two associate members and will have the assistance of experts upon various phases of the enquiry. Sir Andrew Duncan will sail from England about the middle of October and the commission will meet towards the end of the month. The names of the two associate members will be made public later.

RUSSO-GERMAN AGREEMENT MAY BE FLY IN THE OINTMENT.

LOCARNO, Switzerland, Oct. 4. Soviet Russia and her relations with Germany appear as an important factor on the eve of the security convention opening here to-morrow morning in the presence of representatives of France, Great Britain, Belgium and Germany. Right Hon. Austen Chamberlain, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, will take the chair for the organization of the conference.

C. N. R. PROPERTY DAMAGED BY FIRE.

OXFORD JUNCTION, N.S., Oct. 4. Damage in excess of eighty thousand dollars was caused here yesterday afternoon when fire destroyed the Canadian National property, including a wooden round house, a $65,000 locomotive van and ash cat. The fire is believed to have been caused by a spark from a passing train.

CAPT. BERNIER DUE AT QUEBEC.

OTTAWA, Oct. 4. The steamer Arctic, under command of Capt. Joseph Bernier, entered the Strait of Belle Isle Saturday morning and is due at Quebec this week, according to word received here by the Department of the Interior.

BACK TO STANDARD TIME.

PARIS, Oct. 4. France and Great Britain set their clocks back one hour at midnight last night.

POSTPONEMENT OF RACES CONFIRMED.

HALIFAX, Oct. 4. There would be no International Fishermen's Race this year, according to a statement issued here to-night on behalf of the trustees of the International Trophy. The champion, Blueshoe, it was stated, had completed her season and had been laid up, and the Haligonian, a likely contender, has gone to the Banks and will not be back until November or December.

Former Premier Herriot ill. LYONS, France, Oct. 3. Former Premier Herriot, whose ministry preceded the present Painleve Government, is seriously ill at his home here, suffering from congestion of the lungs.

NOT A CHANCE.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Oct. 3. The lives of the men who went down on submarine S-51 were snuffed out almost immediately after she was rammed and sunk by the steamer City of Rome, off Block Island, a week ago last night. The death toll stands at 33. This was established when the divers found the motor and torpedo rooms, in which it had been hoped there might have been air, filled with water. Not one of the crew who went down had a chance for his life.

FRENCH-U.S.A. DEBT SETTLEMENT CAUSES IRRITATION.

LONDON, Oct. 3. London newspapers are irritated over the temporary debt settlement reached between France and the United States. They express the fear that it will react most unfavorably on France's debt to Great Britain.

Now let me think a minute or three. How did we end the last story? Oh, yes, now I remember. Uncle Lucky and Little Jack Rabbit were making a call on Old Mr. Dog. They had just arrived in the Luckymobile. So they had. To be sure, and he had risen from the doorway to say howdy.

"Did you like my Cross Word Puzzle in the Bunnybridge Bugle?" he asked, with a wistful look in his big brown eyes and a wiggle waggle of his tail.

"Yes, indeed," answered the bunny boy, cuddling up close to the old dog. "I'm so glad you put mother's name on the top line."

"Got anything special to do?" asked kind Uncle Lucky.

"No, nothing at all," answered Old Mr. Dog sadly. "You see, I'm getting old and gray, and sleep four hours every day. At night I often bay the moon, or listen to the treetoad's tune."

"Jump into the Luckymobile. We'll all go for a ride," suggested the kind old gentleman rabbit. "Put on your straw hat, for the sun is hot."

It took the old dog but a few minutes to get his hat and coat. Then jumping up on the back seat, he smiled at Uncle Lucky, who gave the horn a squeeze or two or three, and away they went like two sixty! Mighty fast clip, Little Reader. I'm glad there was no traffic cop about to hand the nice old gentleman bunny a ticket.

"Have you met the editor of the Bugle?" asked the old gentleman rabbit, as they neared Reddyville. "He was tickled to death to publish your Cross Word Puzzle."

"Maybe he'll give old Mr. Dog a dollar if we step in to see him," suggested the little bunny boy. In a few minutes dear Uncle Lucky drew up before the office of the Bugle. On the sidewalk stood Reddy Comb, the little rooster newsboy. "Will you kindly show us the way to the editor?" asked nice Uncle Lucky, politely lifting his precious old wedding stovepipe hat.

Newfoundlander Relieved of Large Amount

JOSEPH FEWER ROBBED OF HIS SAVINGS, OVER $200. NORTH SYDNEY, Sept. 30.—Last Saturday a former resident of North

Sydney named Joseph Fewer, who at one time conducted a clothes pressing and cleaning establishment on Commercial Street, and later was employed as chef in the Albert hotel, arrived in town from the States, where he holds a good position. He was on his way to Newfoundland, to which place he went last night.

During the intervening time since Saturday, Fewer met many old friends, and unfortunately some new ones. While he was enjoying the company of one of the latter, so he claims, he was relieved of a roll of some two hundred dollars. Venting his suspicions on policeman Clark, who seemed to keep the matter from the rest of the force, the suspected woman was brought before Stipendiary Archibald, where a private investigation was held. While this was going on the Post asked another officer if he heard about the alleged robbery, but the officer in question was surprised to hear of it, as he was kept in ignorance of the whole affair.

The woman accused of the theft of the money disavowed any connection with the affair, which seemed to bear weight with His Honor, but strong suspicion is held against a certain man in town, who is reported to have been rather flush ever since the time he was in company with his stranger friend. At any rate Fewer left Newfoundland less some two hundred dollars, the third victim of light fingered persons in town in a few months, who was done out of their money and the guilty parties allowed to go free.—Sydney Post, Oct. 1.

Goodness me, that little rooster was so tickled that he crowed right out loud.

"Cock-a-doodle-do, I'll show the way to you. If Mr. Dog had on his muzzle he'd look just like a Cross Word Puzzle."

"Ha, ha," laughed the old dog. "You're a clever little rooster," and he climbed up the stairs with Uncle Lucky and the little rabbit.

"Glad to meet you," said the editor of the Bugle, stretching out his right foreleg. "We billy goat editors don't often have the pleasure of meeting authors of Cross Word Puzzles!"

"Dear me, the old dog was so happy that he could say nothing, only wag his tail. And when the Billy Goat Editor stroked his little goatie and made out an order on the cashier for a lettuce leaf dollar bill, which he handed to Old Mr. Dog, that poor old fellow almost cried he was so happy. Then with a "Thank you," he trotted downstairs to collect the money. Happy old dog! That Lettuce Leaf Dollar Bill made him feel like a millionaire!

And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

TRAINING FOR HALIFAX RACE.

A team of runners selected for the pole vault with 13 feet 9 3/4 inches, made in Copenhagen in 1923.

MR. CULLEN AND THE HALIFAX RUNNERS.

Sporting Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—As several trainers and managers have been sent to Halifax with our athletes during the past three years, it is fair to ask any manager I must admit that I am the shameless one who let Ron O'Toole develop bolts as mentioned in Mr. Geo. W. B. Ayre's letter published in your paper on Saturday last. I have no excuse to offer for this bad management or bad training, for I am guilty under both headings if Mr. Ayre's theory be right, for I not only trained O'Toole during my stay in Halifax, but also helped him train for three years previous to his making this trip, so I can't even pass the blame back to his former trainer.

If Mr. Ayre will read the Diary of the Newfoundland Track Team published in the Evening Telegram on September 19th, and September 21st, 1923, (I would be very pleased to show him copies) he will get the history of those bolts. I would ask him to please bear in mind when reading this Diary that most of it was written and mailed to the secretary of the Newfoundland Amateur Athletic Association before the sports took place. After Mr. Ayre reads this diary I would like him to tell me, (and I know others are interested in the question of a quick cure for bolts) how he would have prevented or cured the bolt on O'Toole's leg? He had bolts for two months after returning from Halifax, although undergoing treatment by one of our Doctors.

I believe it would be much kinder and of far more benefit to our athletes who are leaving for Halifax next Saturday, if Mr. Ayre would pass on any information or helpful hints he may have to give, to Mr. E. Robertson, who is the present manager and trainer of the team; than to criticize his management or condemn his training methods if our boys don't win, or perhaps tell him as he has told me, he ought to be ashamed of himself. Personally I do not feel the least bit ashamed. I gave my time and energy, and did my level best, no man can do more.

Whilst I agree with Mr. Ayre when he says our men should be sent a good time ahead, but we must not forget that every man on our team is a working man, and we must ask him or his employer to donate two, three or four weeks wages towards the trip. How many of us are prepared to put up from thirty to sixty dollars towards the trip, besides paying another man to do the work of the team? One thing sport is supposed to teach us is to play fair. Is it fair to ask any employer to let a man off under full pay for four or five weeks during the busy season and brand him as being "No Sport" if he does not?

The Newfoundland Amateur Athletic Association are not sending the Team leaving on Saturday, this team is being sent by the Halifax-Marathon Sweep Committee, who are standing all expenses.

Thanking you for space and promising not to come back, I am

Yours very truly,

S. P. CULLEN.

Sagona Arrives From Labrador

S.S. Sagona, Capt. Day, returned from Spotted Island at 4 o'clock this morning, after a splendid trip of 7 days. The Sagona brought up over 300 passengers, the greater number of whom have been fishing on the coast all season. They were landed at various ports in Conception Bay. The Sagona sails again at 8 o'clock tonight for Battle Hr. to replace S.S. Home. The latter steamer will then come direct from Battle Hr. to Lewisporte to take up the French Shore service, from Lewisporte to Cook's Hr. Passengers leaving town by tomorrow's express can connect with the Home at Lewisporte.

Fishermen Want Six Dollars

FOR LABRADOR FISH.

A message was received in town on Saturday, stating that some of the Labrador fishermen on the north side of Bonavista Bay held a meeting on the previous night and decided not to sell their fish at less than $6 per qtl. There are about sixty schooners on the north shore from Flat Islands to Newtown, laden with fish and ready to proceed to St. John's when some satisfactory arrangement is made regarding price.

PATIENT FOR HOSPITAL—Mr. J. Spenser, an aged resident of Bay Roberts, arrived by the shore train this morning to receive treatment at the General Hospital. He was conveyed to the institution in the ambulance.

GRAND JURY TO CONSIDER INDICTMENT—The case of Blanche Vokoy who is charged with bigamy, will be considered before the Grand Jury, when they assemble to-morrow at 11 a.m.

STEAMER SUSTAINS DAMAGE IN THE STRAITS

A message was received to-day stating that the S.S. Lerdale, 3700 tons, went ashore at Bradore Bay, on the Canadian side of the Straits of Belle Isle, Saturday night. A later report received stated that she had come off under her own steam. It is not known what damage was sustained, except that the ship has 2 feet of water in her forepeak and 8 feet of water in No. 1 hold. The Lerdale left Montreal on Sept. 15th, bound to London. It is presumed she was making the return trip when the accident occurred. Her local agent is Bowring Bros.

TRAIN NOTES

Yesterday's express is making good time across country and is due at Port aux Basques at 8 p.m.

The local train arrived on schedule. The express with Kyle's mail and passengers arrived on time.

MINARD'S LINIMENT USED BY PHYSICIANS.

PEPPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

Oct. 3rd.—The day fine, yett lay long, being mighty tired from the walking I did yesterday, and having a great ache of my muscles from the unwonted exercise. Anon, being up, to the office of the Telegram sheet do find a letter from Grand Falls that do praise my journal so highly that I needs must reproduce it.

"Mr. Peppy, Sir—I have been confined to my bed for two years and during that time I have enjoyed your journal immensely. My sweetheart visiting me, from New York City, says she never saw such writings—no, not in all New York, and now that she is returning, the "wretch" do insist that I send clippings every week.

My humble thanks,

Yours sincerely,

Indeed, it do warm my heart to know that my poor writings may give so much pleasure.

Do learn this day how in the case of the Minister of Finance against Sir R. Squires, about the matter of income tax, the matter will go to the Supreme Court for a ruling on the Jurisdiction of the Judge of the Central District Court, and the further hearing postponed till the 1st day of November, that this matter may be argued.

I am told this night, how the house to house collection for the Child Welfare realizes the mighty handsome amount of more than three thousand dollars, which indeed, is far better than was ever expected and will be a great help to this organization in their valuable work. That 'tis a great necessity is proven by the vital statistics for last month, which do show a great increase in infant mortality. This night, to the club, where I do pass a pleasant hour at Bridge.

Oct. 4th (Lord's Day)—Lay lone all this day. Anon up and to the country, and do venture to bathe in the sea, which do give me much to the marrow and needs must drink a full glass of brandy, neat, to revive myself. Yet feeling more warmth in my body, do feel mighty light in the head, and so rest all the afternoon and night. This night, the day-light saving ends for this year, which I am sorry for and do hope how next year will be extended to November, since from now on it will be dark by five of the clock.

DRUGGISTS' Association Formed

At a meeting of city Druggists, held last week, the following were elected officers of a recently formed Druggists' Association:

President—M. Connors.

Vice-President—R. G. Rendell.

Secretary—Stian Cullen.

Members of the directorate are Messrs. A. W. Kennedy, P. O'Mara, B. E. Stafford and L. O'Mara. The Company is capitalized at $20,000 and its organization is along the same lines as the Druggists Trading Association of Canada.

PROCLAMATION.

By His Excellency Sir William Leonard Allardye, Knight Commander of the Most Distinguished Order of St. John, Michael and Saint George, Governor and Commander-in-Chief in and over the Colony of Newfoundland.

Whereas it is desirable that occasion should be afforded the people of this Colony to render thanks to Almighty God for the mercies He has been pleased to bestow upon this Colony during the past year, and to rejoice because of our National Blessings;

I do, therefore, by this my Proclamation, order and direct that Sunday, the Fifteenth day of November, next, shall be observed, throughout this Colony, as a Day of Thanksgiving, as aforesaid.

And I do further order and direct that Wednesday, the Eleventh day of November, next, being Armistice Day, shall be set apart and observed, throughout the Colony, as a Day of Rejoicing and a Public and Bank Holiday, of which all persons concerned are hereby required to take due notice and govern themselves accordingly.

Given under my Hand and Seal, at the Government House, St. John's, this 22nd day of September, A.D. 1925.

By His Excellency's Command.

The Public Despatch

The foreign news despatch today says that an important factor on the eve of the security conference between Great Britain, France, Belgium and Germany is the agreement between the latter country and Russia, to which a meagre reference was made on Saturday.

On several occasions recently messages have been somewhat unintelligible owing to the condensed form in which they are received. This is due, we understand, to an attempt on the part of the authorities to curtail expense in this direction, and while we are in full accord with the idea so far as it applies to matters of little or no importance, we cannot but feel that the object is defeated when the curtailment renders a message meaningless.

The general public look to the daily despatch as the only means of keeping in touch with affairs in the outside world, and it is through the medium of the press that the news is disseminated. To define exactly what is required both by the public and the press is impossible owing to the wide range of subjects covered, and from our point of view, the nearest approach to a definition is live wire news which contains the salient facts.

We fully appreciate the difficulties of the Press Service in attempting to comply with the wishes of the Government in this matter, but if the news is to be of any value, the compilers must be permitted to exercise their discretion, at least so far as the length of the messages referring to public events is concerned, as it is impossible to be lucid in an abbreviated account of some complicated question.

Daily News Appointment

The Telegram extends a hearty welcome to Mr. W. B. Temple, who has joined the editorial staff of the Daily News. For a considerable time editor of the Twillingate Sun, Mr. Temple has been engaged in journalistic work in Canada during the past five years, and he therefore undertakes his new duties with a wide experience both of local affairs and of those in the Sister Dominion.

In wishing Editor Temple every success, we congratulate the Daily News upon having made such a valuable addition to its staff.

The Flour Mills

It is highly probable that the W. I. Bishop Co. will get the contract for the erection of the Flour Mills on the Southside. On Saturday Mr. Bishop visited the site to get an idea of the excavating conditions as the contract will be let either in Montreal or New York. Mr. Palmer, promoter of the Flour Mills project, accompanied Mr. Bishop. As the season has far advanced it is possible that only the excavation work will be done this year.

Civic Week in Liverpool

To-day Liverpool "Civic Week" celebrations begin, and the following communication, with copies of the messages exchanged, have been received for publication.

St. John's, Nfld., October 5th, 1925. The Editor of The Evening Telegram, Water Street, City.

Dear Sir:—I have the honour to enclose you copies of cables passed between the Lord Mayor of Liverpool, and the Mayor of St. John's, Nfld., on the occasion of Civic Week at Liverpool, England.

Yours sincerely, TASKER COOK, Mayor.

(Copy) Liverpool, Noon, October 5, 1925. Hon. Tasker Cook, Mayor St. John's, Nfld.

Greetings to you and your fellow citizens on the occasion of Civic Week celebrations in Liverpool. May the future strengthen the happy relations existing between our ports.

THOMAS DOWD, Lord Mayor.

(Copy) October 5th, 1925. Honorable Thomas Dowd, Lord Mayor of Liverpool.

"My Fellow Citizens and I unite in most cordially reciprocating your kind greetings and wishes on this happy occasion."

TASKER COOK, Mayor of St. John's, Nfld.

Man Seeking Free Passage

LANDS IN TOILS. A man named Howell arrived by the express at 1 o'clock to-day, and was taken in custody by the police and brought to the Police station. Howell, it is claimed, travelled across country with the intention of going to North St. John's, but after his arrival at Port aux Basques it was found that he had neither ticket or money to pay for his passage across. He was then ordered to be sent back to the city. Shortly after the train passed Bishop's Falls last night the man caused quite a disturbance with those on board, with the result that the train crew had to tie him down. Later a constable boarded the train and kept guard until the city was reached. The man, who is said to be slightly demented, will be examined by a doctor this afternoon.

Government Boats

Argyle arrived at Argentea 11:30 p.m. yesterday. Clyde arrived Lewisporte 2:45 p.m. yesterday. Glencoe left Hr. Breton 6 p.m. Saturday, going west. Home left Port aux Basques 3:30 p.m. Saturday, going north. Kyle arrived Port aux Basques 5:25 a.m. yesterday. Malakoff left Port Bradford 6:20 a.m. Holton left Holton 10:30 a.m. Saturday, going north. Portia left Bay L'Argent 11:30 a.m. yesterday, coming east. Prospero left Conche 5:15 p.m. Friday, coming south. Saona arrived St. John's 4 a.m. Leaving 8 o'clock to-night for Battle Hill, direct.

Industrial Home Association

Come and take tea at the Synod Hall and help establish the Laundry so badly needed by the Industrial Home Association to keep their girls happy whilst busily employed. At the sale opening at 3:30 p.m. you will find a variety table, a pantry stall, a candy booth, vegetables of many kinds and delicious afternoon teas. At 6:45 Lady Allardice will speak of the aims of the Association, and a short concert by some of our best city talent as well as a speech by a lady worker will be given at 8 p.m. Admission to sale, 10 cts. Afternoon teas, 40 cts. Meat Tea and Concert, 80 cts.

Ore Steamer in Distress

This morning Messrs. Furness Withy & Co., Ltd., received a wireless message via Cape Race, stating that the Norwegian steamer Sticksstad was in distress 300 miles off St. John's with her tall shaft broken. On receipt of the message the Furness Withy Co. got in touch with the Government to arrange sending a steamer to her assistance. If the terms are acceptable it is probable that the Sagona or Fortia will be dispatched. The Sticksstad was bound from Rotterdam to Wabana in ballast to load ore. Her position was not given in the message. She is said to be a vessel of about 7,000 tons.

His Excellency Inspects Work at New Hotel

Yesterday His Excellency the Governor and Lady Allardice visited the site of the new hotel at Fort William and were received by Messrs. F. X. Ahearn of T. E. Rousseau, Ltd., and P. Condon, Superintendent of works, who showed them over the building and explained the different operations. A visit to the contractors office was then made and the plans of the building were explained. His Excellency and Lady Allardice were highly pleased with the layout and expressed the opinion that this modern up-to-date hotel would fill a long-felt want and that it would be of the greatest advantage socially and commercially to St. John's and Newfoundland in general.

Magistrate's Court

A drunk and disorderly was fined $2.00 or 7 against a 17 year old domestic, charged with being a loose and disorderly person, was held over pending investigation by Inspector Noseworthy. A case for non-support was withdrawn. A motorist, charged with a breach of the Traffic Regulations, was postponed until to-morrow.

Oporto Stocks

Messrs. Lind and Coufo, fish dealers, Oporto, writing to the Secretary of the Board of Trade under date Sept. 26th say that there are large stocks of old fish still in second hands. A considerable portion of fish discharging and recently discharged is somewhat underdried, which means that the fish will not keep and sales will be forced. No hardening of prices can be expected until inferior qualities go into consumption. An active general demand is anticipated towards the end of the month and during October. Norwegian prices at origin still rule high and dealers here are making no purchases of any account. The general position of the market for fish stocks are such that adequate present requirements, and it is hoped that arrivals will slacken off and allow for a necessary reduction in stocks and a consequent rise in price. Stocks for the week were estimated at 55,850 and sales at 8,250. This includes British, Norwegian and other cures.

The handsome sum of $3325.68 has been handed in and several contributions are still outstanding. Through the courtesy of the editors of the Daily News and Evening Telegram the collection was brought to the notice of the public, and to them also the Association tenders its sincere thanks.

Schr. Lost Returning From Labrador

The loss of the schooner Coronation at Horse Island, while returning from Labrador was reported in a message to the Minister of Marine and Fisheries yesterday from Mr. Duggan, Collector of Customs at Lunenburg. The message reads as follows:—"Schr. Coronation, of Carbonear, 40 tons, Stan Kennedy, master, in ballast, returning from Labrador, was wrecked on western Horse Island Saturday night. Ship reported a total loss. Captain and crew landed safely."

Further Evidence

Last Monday week we expressed optimistic feelings with regard to the Trade of the coming season. We did so from information given us by S. Richard Steele of The China and Glass Store, opposite Court House. We are now pleased to be able to confirm this, having just learnt from this firm that their combined Wholesale and Retail Sales during September was 94 per cent ahead of September, 1924. This is certainly a remarkable showing, and one which is placing them, although only in their third year of business, in a position as the Leading China and Glass Store in the City. oct5,11 MINARD'S LINIMENT FOR ACRES AND PAINS.

FINNISH GUNBOAT SUNK AND 47 MEN DROWNED.

LONDON, Oct. 5. The Copenhagen correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph sends a report received from Stockholm that a Finnish gunboat, name not given, was sunk during manoeuvres in the Gulf of Bothnia between Herms and Haskmen. Two officers and 45 men are said to have been drowned.

PROTEST AGAINST FOREIGN FILMS.

VIENNA, Oct. 5. Three thousand film actors paraded the streets yesterday as a protest against the importation of foreign films shouting "we want Government protection of our industry," and other similar demands.

THE COMMUNIST VIEW.

LONDON, Oct. 5. The central executive committee of the Communist party of Great Britain has issued a long statement on the conference of the Labor party at Liverpool which asserts that the Conference was not a defeat for Communists but a blow for the working class. "The purely liberal resolutions adopted," runs the statement, "is the result of the failure of the party against imperialism and the Dawes plan which is degrading our fellow workers abroad, thereby striking at British conditions. The failure to face the capitalist attack on wages and hours were intended to please the capitalists. The Trades Union Congress at Scarborough has frightened them." The decisions of the conference at Liverpool has reassured them.

CONFERENCE ON SECURITY PACT OPENS.

LOCARNO, Switzerland, Oct. 5. The Conference of the Allied and German statesmen called to consider conclusion of security pact was opened here to-day.

At St. Michael's

The Parish of St. Michael and All Angels is observing its Patronal Festival, and yesterday was a landmark in the history of this church. Not only did the various services exhibit the Festival note, but they were attended by persons in authority who lent distinction to the Feast. In the morning the Rural Dean of Avalon, Rev. A. E. Taik, visited the church in his official capacity and preached at the 11 o'clock Eucharist. Before his sermon the rev. gentleman expressed his joy at being present at such a beautiful service, and congratulated the Parish on having a Rector who has laboured so well, and the Priest on having such a devoted congregation to assist his labours. He then preached an appropriate and eloquent sermon on the words of the Lord's Prayer, "Thy Will be Done in Earth as it is in Heaven," dealing with the ministry of the Angels.

In the evening the Lord Bishop of Newfoundland attended the church and preached after Evensong. His Lordship's text was from Psalm CXXII: "I was glad when they said unto me, 'We will go into the House of the Lord,'" and he lucidly explained the meaning of the Church, as the House of Prayer and the place where the majesty of God is realized. He urged the people of St. Michael's to make such use of their church that men may take "note of them that they have been with Jesus." All the services of yesterday were celebrated with the reverence and dignity of Catholic ceremonial custom at this church and were attended by large congregations. The offerings of the day exceeded the expectations of the officials. The Festival will close on Tuesday night with a social re-union in the Parish Hall for which a special programme is being prepared. At the close of the service last night the Bishop announced that the forthcoming Mission to be held in January next has/his approval and blessing.

Secure Big Contract

FARQUHAR BROS., LTD., OF THIS CITY, WILL DO THE PLUMBING, ETC., ON BIG N.F.L.D. HOTEL.

One of the biggest plumbing contracts ever secured by a local firm has been awarded to the firm of Farquhar Bros., Ltd., local heating contractors, who successfully tendered for the plumbing, heating and sheet metal work to be installed in the Newfoundland Royal Hotel, St. John's, Newfoundland.

When the project of erecting the Newfoundland Royal Hotel, to cost $1,000,000, was talked about, Farquhar Bros., Ltd., immediately got in touch with the company handling the scheme and, in competition with other plumbing heating contractors throughout Canada and Newfoundland, were awarded the contract.

Securing this contract which is the largest of its kind ever received by a Halifax firm, means that a large number of plumbers and steamfitters of Halifax will be employed, as those who at present constitute the permanent staff of Farquhar Bros., will be sent to St. John's immediately to start work on this big undertaking. Mr. James Farquhar, president of the firm, says he believes that wherever possible, Canadian materials will be used in the big contract.

Work on this new $1,000,000 hotel will be started right away, as the hotel must be finished by the 1st of May next year.—Halifax Morning Chronicle.

The Price of Milk

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—I notice in the papers lately there have been several references to the price of milk. Everything has gone down in price since the close of the war except milk. If anyone called the milkmen unscrupulous profiteers they would be offended, yet that seems to be the only term to describe them. Milk is selling in Canada and U.S. for 10 and 12 cents per quart. Why is it that we have to pay 18 and 20 cents? Do you know what the women of the Bronx, N.Y., did under similar circumstances? They refused to take milk for three or four mornings and left it on the hands of the profiteers who were very glad to reduce the price to a reasonable rate. Now here is a job for the Woman's Franchise League. We want better milk at cheaper prices. Is there a sufficient number of women interested in milk prices to effect a reform? People who can not do without milk can get prepared milk cheaper and better than much of the local brand.

If any milkman decent enough to announce a reduction in price? If so the others will follow. Anyhow the milkmen are keeping up the price notwithstanding the fact that feeds have fallen over fifty per cent. in price. Let us make some effort to get out of the clutches of the petty profiteer. Who will lead the way?

Yours truly, AN UNWILLING VICTIM.

Newfoundland Delegates

DINED BY NEWFOUNDLANDERS IN BOSTON.

(Nfld. Weekly.)

The banquet tendered by the Newfoundland residents of Boston and Greater Boston to the delegation from Newfoundland to the Inter-Parliamentary Union at Washington, D.C., was held at Young's Hotel on Wednesday night.

Owing to the shortness of time at the disposal of the sponsors, very hurried arrangements had to be made and programme could not be finalized. However, if the success of a gathering of the kind is measured by the enthusiasm, patriotic fervor and camaraderie in evidence, then the banquet in question was an unqualified success.

It was a delightful evening, it was an enjoyable evening, it was a momentous evening. Not a dull moment marred the proceedings and it was impossible not to detect a strong feeling of love and affection for the old homeland surging through her exiled sons as old memories were awakened, old associations reborn, and newer contacts made.

Promptly at 8 p.m., the chairman took his seat and some seventy persons, including six non-Newfoundland born guests, sat down to partake of the excellent menu for which Young's Hotel is justly famed.

From the outset a real Newfoundland atmosphere pervaded the banquet room and the feeling of kinship soon began to manifest itself in the hum and buzz of conversation.

When the inner man had been satisfied, the following toast list was proceeded with:

TOAST LIST.

- Chairman, Robert H. Tait.
- The King.
- The President.
- Prop., Hon. W. J. Higgins, K.C.
- Our Guests—Prop., the Chairman; resp., Hon. W. J. Higgins, K.C.
- Newfoundland—Prop., J. J. Fitzhenry; resp., Hon. Sir P. T. McGrath.
- The Commonwealth and Massachusetts and the City of Boston—Prop., Geo. F. C. Taylor; resp., Capt. Winslow, Fire Commissioner T. Glynn.
- The Newfoundland Legislature—Prop., Arch. G. Gibb; resp., Hon. C. J. Fox, and William Taylor, Esq.
- God Save the King.
- The Star Spangled Banner.

After the toast in honor of the King and the President respectively had been duly observed, the chairman on behalf of the Newfoundlanders in Boston expressed his pleasure in welcoming all those who were invited as guests and in particular the guests of honor of the evening. He regretted that the other members of the party, namely, the Prime Minister, Hon. W. S. Monroe, and Hon. A. B. Morine and R. K. Bishop, and Mr. A. E. Hickman could not be present in person, and he assured them that they, too, shared in the welcome extended to the representatives of the homeland by their countrymen in the Hub. He wished, also, to record his appreciation of the presence of His Excellency the Governor of the State by proxy, on such short notice one of his personal staff, Capt. Winslow, representing him for the occasion, and also to Fire Commissioner Glynn who represented the City of Boston.

He expressed the great pleasure it afforded to the Boston Newfoundlanders to have them as their honored guests, for in honoring them they were paying tribute to their native land. They were welcomed not only in their official capacities and as Newfoundlanders of distinction, but also as fellow countrymen bearing a message direct from home.

The Chairman then introduced Sir P. T. McGrath, Hon. W. J. Higgins and Hon. C. J. Fox to the gathering, and the toast was enthusiastically and feelingly honored.

Hon. W. J. Higgins replied on behalf of the guests and in a happy and appreciative vein ("Billy" Higgins at his best) thanked his countrymen on behalf of his colleagues, present and absent, for the generous welcome extended. He told of the important and near-at-home position which Boston occupies in the hearts of all Newfoundlanders and how through her hospitality and attractive influences so many of our countrymen for many years past had found here a ready haven for settlement under the Stars and Stripes. He was proud to see that prosperity and happiness had followed in their wake in the land of their adoption and trusted that they would all at some time be able to renew direct contact with the old home by a visit, at least. He gave a brief review of conditions in Newfoundland and told his hearers that the depression of late years was at an end and an era of prosperity in sight. He spoke of the programme of development in operation and sounded a most optimistic note for the future welfare of the country.

The next toast—"Newfoundland"—was proposed by Mr. J. J. Fitzhenry, a Newfoundland resident of some 20 years' residence in this country, whose eloquent speech breathed the love of the exile for his native land. His words brought back many memories to the older Newfoundlanders present and were spoken from the heart of one who holds his old associations dear. He was glad to hear of Newfoundland's rehabilitation and wished every prosperity to be hers.

The banquet was a most successful one and was a fitting tribute to the old homeland. It was a most enjoyable evening and a most successful one. It was a most enjoyable evening and a most successful one. It was a most enjoyable evening and a most successful one.

the pianist struck up the old familiar strains of "The Banks of Newfoundland."

To Sir P. T. McGrath fell the duty of responding to the toast and he fully upheld his just reputation as a veritable encyclopaedia of information on matters pertaining to Newfoundland. Sir Patrick reviewed the growth of the various industries of the Colony and pointed out the present day developments. Though the fishery was still the staple industry, yet the introduction of the newer industries and their development were providing an outlet for labor during the non-fishing season and a means of employment all the year round for other classes. He referred in particular to the recent opening of the paper and pulp plant at Corner Brook, the largest in the world, which with its ally at Grand Falls provides employment for a large number of men, the two paper centres having a capacity output of 700 tons daily. The Gander enterprise of the Field Newfoundland Co. was being actively developed and no doubt would soon take concrete shape.

The Corner Brook Mill had already started exporting its product, a large shipment having been despatched to New Orleans, and the prospects look favorable for a large trade in this commodity with the United States.

Sir Patrick then told of the Bell Island situation and how the mines were now working at full strength, some 2500 men being employed on full time. He explained the questions affecting the marketing abroad of the iron ore and how negotiations were in progress for larger importations into England through the remodelling of the English blast furnaces and speedier facilities for unloading. If the policies suggested by the Newfoundland Government are acted upon, the Bell Island output will be considerably increased and the working force at the mines augmented so that 5000 men can be employed.

He also dwelt upon the developments that were taking place at home with regard to public utilities—the re-railing of the railway, the new street car system, the building of new roads under the supervision of the Highways Commission, the erection of a new hotel in St. John's, and the development of a tourist traffic policy.

Sir Patrick's speech was listened to with great interest by all present and coming from such a source, it bore a very welcome message.

Mr. Geo. F. C. Taylor, a Newfoundland alderman of the municipality of Chelsea, in a fitting speech proposed the toast to the "Commonwealth of Massachusetts" and showed marked resemblances in the historical character of this State and Newfoundland. He described the close connection between the two countries and brought to light the deep-rooted associations that exist on account of the large number of Newfoundlanders domiciled throughout the State. He referred also to the work of the "Weekly" in keeping together the bonds of kinship with the homeland.

Capt. Winslow, of the Governor's Staff, replied to the toast honoured, and expressed the genuine regret of Governor Fuller that he could not be present in person at the banquet. He had been instructed to convey from the Governor a warm message of welcome to the visiting delegates from Newfoundland.

His Excellency had delegated him for the duty from New Bedford as he was anxious to have a representative present on the occasion. Speaking on his own behalf, Capt. Winslow was glad of the opportunity to be present at and meet with a gathering of Newfoundlanders, and to find the love of country so strong amongst them. Capt. Winslow's demeanor and interest in the proceedings and the tenor of his remarks bore out the attitude which the Newfoundland residents of Massachusetts feel the executive authority of the State bears towards the sons of Terra Nova.

Fire Commissioner T. Glynn, who has ever proved to be a friend of the Newfoundlanders in Boston, despite other pressing engagements in the midst of his mayoral campaign, found time to be present for a short while and on behalf of the City of Boston to extend a hearty welcome to the distinguished members of the representation from Newfoundland. Commissioner Glynn paid a great tribute to the Newfoundlanders in Boston, and stated how the city regarded them as valuable assets to the community. Though Newfoundland owed a lot to Boston yet Boston, in turn, owed a lot to Newfoundland.

The toast to the Newfoundland Legislature was then proposed by A. G. Gibb, who in welcoming the distinguished delegates, said he was proud to be present at such a notable gathering from the Ancient Colony and from Massachusetts to do honour to the representation of the Newfoundland Government.

Continuing, the speaker said that although he was not Newfoundland born, he had made his home there for over forty years, three-fourths of his own children, and half of his grandchildren, were born there, so that most of his life and interest was centered in old Terra Nova.

Mr. Gibb also spoke of the erroneous ideas that many people in the U. S. had of the status of Newfoundland, many referring to it as part of Canada, and others under the impression that it was a Crown Colony.

Mr. Gibb finished his remarks by reading a poem on Newfoundland written by W. J. Williams, which recently appeared in the "Weekly," and which found a responsive echo in the hearts of the audience.

Hon. C. J. Fox, Speaker of the House of Assembly, replied on behalf of the Newfoundland Legislature and rose to the occasion in a manner that bore out his reputation as an orator which had preceded his arrival. Mr. Fox, with an eloquence and grace of speech that are naturally his, prefaced his remarks with an acknowledgement of appreciation of the welcome that had been extended to him and to his colleagues, and supplemented the story of the progress of events in the homeland. He emphasized Newfoundland's position as a self-governing unit and her proud boast of being England's oldest colony, that when the suggestion was offered to raise the status of Newfoundland from a Colony to a Dominion how she respectfully declined and preferred to be known as Britain's Oldest Colony than as Britain's Newest Dominion.

He described the main issues of three important Acts passed at the last session of the Legislature, affecting the internal interests of the Colony—the Redistribution Act, the Women's Suffrage Bill, and the Alcoholic Liquors Act.

Before taking his seat, Mr. Fox very kindly referred to the work of the "Weekly" as a link between the U.S. and Newfoundland, and of its value to the Newfoundlanders domiciled abroad.

He felt that the efforts of the publishers of the paper and their activities for the furtherance of Newfoundland matters generally would gain the appreciation of the Colony, so that the "Weekly" and its work would be assured of a permanent official place in Newfoundland external affairs.

The Chairman then asked Ex-Senator William Taylor of the Boston Post to address the gathering, and again a discourse of eloquence and feeling was the reward. Mr. Taylor felt that he had a just right to address the gathering as his countrymen, for though born in Boston he was the son of Newfoundland parents and ever had intimate association with the Old Colony. His father, the late lamented Senator Taylor, was the first President of the Newfoundlanders' Mutual Benefit Association, and had ever shown proof of his love for and loyalty to the old homeland.

Mr. Taylor felt that Newfoundland's so-called isolation was its greatest strength, that history bears this out, as witness England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland, that it produced a race who must of necessity become self-reliant, self-assertive, and self-progressive.

He told of the privilege afforded him to take part in the raising of funds in Boston in aid of the sufferers from the sealing disaster, and of the part played by the Boston Post in the purchasing of $1,000,000 worth of paper from the mills at Grand Falls at the time during the war when the paper could not be shipped over to England on account of lack of transportation.

He considered it a great pleasure to attend a gathering of Newfoundlanders, especially on such an occasion as the present one.

During the interval between the various toasts, popular songs from the song sheet were sung, and the piano was presided over by Dr. H. S. Tait, who performed in his well-known style.

The following were present:—Sir P. T. McGrath, Hon. W. J. Higgins, Hon. C. J. Fox, Wm. Taylor, H. Y. Mott, A. Hiscok, Dr. H. S. Tait, T. Mott, Capt. Winslow, representing the Governor, Fire Commissioner T. Thames Midnight Boarding Party

WOMAN OWNER DEFIED.

A woman, accompanied by three legal advisers and river police, attempted to board a vessel moored alongside Hay's Wharf, in the Thames, at midnight on Monday, and was ordered away by a man who said he was captain of the vessel.

The woman was Mme. de Casares, the managing director of the company owning the vessel, the General Serret, a five-masted schooner carrying a cargo of whisky.

The prohibitionist agents of the United States Government have been making elaborate inquiries into the vessel's plans, and the London Evening News understands that they have discovered a big whisky-running plan, in which the General Serret was to make several voyages to the American seaboard with cargoes.

The General Serret was chartered in London in July to take a cargo of general merchandise from Antwerp to Halifax, Nova Scotia, but, having put into Dover more than three weeks ago owing, it is said, to engine trouble, her consular pass expired automatically, and on the instructions of the owners, the Gloria Steamship Company, she was brought to London to undergo a Board of Trade survey, obtain British registration, and continue her voyage to America.

PLANS INTERRUPTED.

These plans were interrupted by one of the strangest developments in the recent history of the Thames.

Throughout Monday the owners' legal representatives attempted to board the vessel, but the man in charge refused to parley with them.

Just before midnight Mme. de Casares, the managing director of the owner company, accompanied by her legal advisers and by river police, made a final effort to get on board and, according to an eye-witness, the party withdrew only when personal violence was feared.

A member of the crew of the collier Stanton, which was moored alongside the General Serret during the night and from which the boarding attempt was made, told the following story of the adventure:—

TRIP IN THE DARK.

When the party had crossed in the darkness to the General Serret there was a sudden show of life on board and the side of the vessel was quickly lined by members of the crew. "Captain Whitburn!" shouted one of the boarding party.

An electric torch flashed at the stern.

"Who wants Captain Whitburn?" called back the holder of the torch.

"Mme. de Casares, owner of the General Serret," was the answer. The flashlight disappeared and a moment later a short, grey, bristled-headed man came out of a cabin carrying a hurricane lamp.

"GO AWAY."

"I'm the captain," he said. "No one is allowed in this ship. Go away."

"Not come in my own ship? You're not the captain," cried Mme. Casares. "You're Joyce, the super-cargo, the steward. How dare you! Fetch my captain."

In the meantime a police officer had gone on board and began a long conversation with the "captain" who showed him a piece of green paper, which he read by the hurricane lamp. One of the party then sprang aboard, but when the "captain" ordered him off he jumped back.

The "captain" then resumed his exchanges with Mme. Casares. "You 'I am," she retorted. "Then why don't you pay your men?"

"I have paid them." The "captain" (turning to the crew) "Have you ever had any money from this woman?" Shakes of heads conveyed the men's answer.

SOLICITOR'S ORDER.

"I've paid the money over," retorted Mme. Casares, "and if the men have not received it I'm not to blame."

The "captain" abandoned the argument and threatened to jump on to the Stanton and clear the boarding party off if they persisted.

The solicitor with the party then ordered the "captain" not to land the cargo and formally dismissed him.

Yesterday the cargo—there was 7,600 cases and 200 casks of whisky, worth in all £13,000 even before payment of duty—was being unloaded by dockers under the supervision of Custom House officials.

A detective guarded the ship's gangway and told all comers that he had orders to "let nobody on board under any pretext whatever." Another detective patrolled the wharf.

It is understood that application will be made in the Vacation Court to-day for an order to enable the owners of the General Serret to regain possession of the ship.

CONFEDERATION LIFE.

Two Best Women Golfers IN GREAT BRITAIN RETIRE.

London, Sept. 28.—Joyce Wethered and Cecil Lettich, the two best women golfers in Great Britain, have decided to retire from competition. Neither has entered the English ladies' championship to be played in October at Westward Ho. The behavior of the crowds, which seem to grow in size become worse-mannered with every successive tournament is probably to blame for the retirement of both women.

Neither has explained why she is giving up tournament play, but the general assumption is that they have had too much of a good thing. They were mobbed and even maltreated last May by the overzealous swarms of men, women and children who watched their 37 hole battle for the British women's championship. It was the largest crowd that ever looked upon a woman's match, and perhaps the most ill-behaved. Miss Wethered's hand was hurt when several people plunged into a bunker the moment she had hoisted her ball from it, and when the match ended she seemed faint. Being women, both of these great golfers are expected to change their minds and re-enter competitive play next year.

Where else would you find the comedy possibilities of such a firm as Kelly and Ginsberg? Here's the story of a 10-year-old Irish-American kid burned out of an orphanage who becomes the partner of an old Jewish junk dealer. It's the funniest and yet the most human of Jackie's pictures; a story out of the heart.

The Kid Himself

AN orphan waif on the sidewalks of New York... a friendless boy in a great metropolis. What a story for this brilliant juvenile star! A story of tears and sunshine. The drama of a lad who matched his wits against Fate. You'll call this picture the greatest human drama ever flashed on the screen.

JACKIE COOGAN says: "I am proud of my new picture, because it's the story of a real boy who faced life with a smile. All the world loves that kind of a boy."

DON'T TRY TO COLLECT.

"One of the biggest lessons I have learned in my charity work," says a woman who has devoted much of her spare time for years to various philanthropies, "is that you'll never get the most out of this kind of work until you stop expecting gratitude. At first, when you see the wonderful things that are done for people, you expect them to be grateful and when they aren't you feel resentful and disappointed. You've just got to stop caring about their gratitude before you can get any real satisfaction out of the work."

I suppose there isn't anyone who has done philanthropic work of any kind who hasn't learned that lesson. That is, if they kept at the work long enough and not dropped it before they had time to learn this fact.

The More Fun You Get. And it's a lesson that isn't necessarily confined to philanthropic work either.

You can substitute "life" for "work" if you want to and it will be pretty near true.

The more you learn to dispense with gratitude, the more fun you get out of life.

And, incidentally, the more gratitude you will probably get.

For gratitude is a plant that doesn't take kindly to forcing. Forcing kills it. It flourishes best for those who don't try to cultivate it.

When People Exact Gratitude. You know how it is yourself—if people who do favors for you expect a whole lot of gratitude, your gratitude just seems to shrivel up and die. You feel as if you would like to give their favors back to them. Some people even go further than this and when they find themselves saddled with a debt of gratitude that they can't pay, they try to cancel the debt by picking flaws in the person's conduct toward them.

It is a wonderful thing not to ask too much of life either of happiness or of gratitude or of love. He who asketh love again finds the barter

WHY SUFFER

When CHIROPRACTIC has such a remarkable record for getting sick people well? If you are complaining of any ailment and cannot get relief by your present method of treatment, do not hesitate to employ CHIROPRACTIC as your salvation. Throw all prejudice to the winds, you are the one that is suffering, not your supposed friends who may try to influence you away from the blessings that you will find in CHIROPRACTIC. For once use a little COMMON SENSE; you were given a mind to think in logic terms, so when you find that your ailment is not responding to your efforts to get well, have CHIROPRACTIC to lift you out of the rut. Get your spine examined by a COMPETENT CHIROPRACTOR, he will locate and adjust the displaced vertebrae (one of the 24 bones of the spine) that is pressing on the nerves, stopping the flow of MENTAL IMPULSES (life force) from the BRAIN over the nerves to the part of the body affected. Then NATURE, LIFE, FORCE, the only healer of human ills, will have a chance to rebuild your body back to normal health, of which all mankind is entitled to. My slogan is: YOU CAN GET WELL and I CAN HELP YOU. If there is one spark of life within your body there is hope. So NOW, not to-morrow, embrace CHIROPRACTIC as your method to regain your health, and always KEEP SMILING, health will do it. Consultation free.

LADY BENN GIVES HER VIEWS ON WOMEN.

Lady Benn, London, Eng., widow of Sir John Benn, for many years member of the British House of Commons, was a guest at the Mount Royal Hotel lately and in an interview spoke on the duties of women in politics and other matters. "Women can do far more at election time by persuasion, in a womanly way, than they can by shouting at people from the platform." She has been engaged in politics for over 30 years, and she has found the quiet way the better.

Lady Benn, whose interests have also been in women's club activities, said, in speaking of the modern woman: "God didn't intend us to come out and take over men's work, and make ourselves look and act like men. I believe in a woman being a woman."

What is to become of the children, if their mothers spend their time sitting about, smoking and expressing their views? It seems as though the old-fashioned type of woman is passing out of the world. If it wasn't a woman's nature to be beautiful, why should she sit and decorate herself when sitting beside a gentleman, even in a first-class carriage? I think it's terrible that we can't go into a restaurant over in England, but what we don't and ourselves sitting down beside some woman who is puffing away at her cigarette. Whatever you say about my visit to Montreal, you can't put it too strongly, that I object to the idea of women smoking."

SEEM TO FAVOR WOMEN IN POLITICS.

Under the heading of "Women and the Vote," the La Patrie says: Canadian women have obtained the Federal vote without having to work for it; if they do not allow themselves to be influenced by their fathers, husbands, brothers or other representatives of the sterner sex who are in a position to mould their opinion, obviously it is within their power to exercise a decisive influence in the coming general election. In any event, until the votes have been counted they will constitute an unknown element, and one susceptible of all conjectures as to the outcome of the voting. The participation of women in the election ought to engage their attention in the discussion of public matters; and they may reasonably claim the right to be consulted on the choice of the official candidates. They have been invited to attend certain party conventions. It is surprising that a place has not been reserved for them at all such gatherings. In order that they may register an intelligent vote it will be well to give them, as an opportunity to attend all meetings where their presence is bound to exercise a moderating influence alike on the speakers and the audience.

NO CHARGE FOR BOARD AT THE JAIL.

"You'll find the board cheaper there than at the Mount Royal Hotel!" sympathized Chief Justice Decarie, in sentencing M. Marinelli to fifteen days in Bordeaux, for securing accommodation at the hotel under false pretences. Marinelli has already served eight days in jail, having been arrested for the offense on September 17.

The accused man told the court that he owed the hotel for room rental for two weeks amounting to $24.40. He was willing to go to work and pay the amount, he declared, but accepted the verdict of the court complacently. "Thank you, very much, your honor," he returned politely when the sentence was delivered to him.

FORGOTTEN IN THEIR OLD AGE.

The fond mother and the good father, who labored and toiled for their children, educated them and spent their lives to make them happy and successful in life are soon forgotten, and even abandoned, by such children, when the hand of old age comes upon the parents. We have in the city a large number of charitable institutions where hundreds of the poor, maimed and the blind are to be found. Many of those raised large families, but when the evening of life approaches, instead of allowing them to pass the few remaining years at home, they become a burden to them and place them in the Little Sisters of the Poor or some other charitable institution, where they will not be obliged to pay anything for them.

An old French Canadian, 82 years of age, an inmate of the Hospice Ste. Cuneoide, brooding over his children not visiting him, slashed his throat and died at the Notre Dame Hospital.

John Quinn, night watchman of the institution, testified that the old man had been much worried of late and very melancholy because none of his children came to see him or brought him anything. Quinn stated that there was no especial reason why Moyer should have picked out Saturday, as nothing unusual had occurred on that day.

EVERY OPPORTUNITY FOR A GOOD EDUCATION.

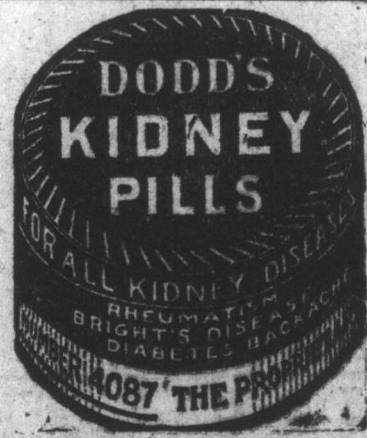

The Protestant and Catholic Schools of the city offer every opportunity to a boy or girl for a good education. In the elementary schools, several grades have been added. Formerly the sixth year grade was the graduating class; now the seventh, eighth and ninth, and even a tenth grade have been opened in several of the Catholic schools. Those extra higher grades form practically high school work, but it gives a chance to the poorer children to receive the extra years free, instead of being obliged to pay at the high schools, or at college. Another great advantage which the pupils have is that they learn French, and without the knowledge of that language, an English-speaking boy is seriously handicapped in business and commercial walks of life, especially in the Province of Quebec. The same applies to the French boy not knowing English. The knowledge of the two languages has made many of the members of the Federal House from the Province of Quebec win honor and fame by their speeches, notably Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Speaker of the House; Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice; Hon. J. A. Cardin, Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

THE WEATHER COLD AND DREARY.

The weather of late has been cold and dreary with lots of rain. In the Laurentian Mountains, snow has fallen in several places and the thermometer is near the freezing point.

A PATHETIC CASE IN COURT.

He was old and infirm, a man of 80 years. He was nearly blind. When his name was called, he groped his way forward and was placed in the witness box. The charge was read to him. The policeman swore that he found him begging in the East end of the City. He pleaded guilty to the charge. He said that he was a musician, but that times became bad and old age laid its heavy hand on him, and he was obliged to beg to keep himself and his wife alive. The judge heard his tale and then said, "Do you wish me to send you to prison?" "Oh no, Judge," said the old man as the tears coursed down his cheeks, "My poor wife would die broken-hearted if I were sent to prison." "You are discharged," said the Judge, and the old Italian musician went on his way rejoicing.

DEATH OF A VETERAN TEACHER.

The death of Professor Patrick John Fitzpatrick, veteran teacher under the Catholic School-Commissioners for 51 years, took place suddenly on Saturday 19th. He was teaching the previous day and was apparently in good health. Last year towards the end of the term he suffered from heart trouble and was supposed to retire on a pension, but his desire and love for the classroom, prompted him to return to active service again. "Pitz" as he was familiarly called by his colleagues was one of the leading teachers in his profession. He taught at St. Mary's Sarsfield and St. Thomas Aquinas Schools, and many of his former pupils are holding good positions in the city. Several of his pupils were the sons of former Newfoundlanders who had settled in good old Point St. Charles. Prof. Fitzpatrick was born at Chatham, N.B., 72 years ago, and was educated at St. Michael's College. He married Miss Margaret Thomey, formerly of St. Grace, Newfoundland. His widow and several grown-up sons and daughters survive him. The funeral took place Tuesday morning, Sept. 22nd, and was largely attended by pupils of the different schools, teachers, school directors and commissioners, and friends and relations. The funeral was under the direction of Thomas Kane, the leading Catholic undertaker of Park Avenue. Two automobiles filled with beautiful floral offerings preceded the motor hearse. The Solemn Requiem Service was held at St. Led's Church, Westmount, Rev. Father Martin P. Reid, formerly school visitor, now Pastor of St. Thomas Aquinas Church, and at whose school the deceased was last employed, sang the service, assisted by deacon and sub-deacon. Interment was at Cote des Neiges.

USING THE GATES OF OPPORTUNITY.

Dear Readers.—We are not here to dream, to play, to drift. We have work to do, and it must be well done. The gates of opportunity are open to us all and we must use them.

Why go through life exhibiting the traits of an underling? If you are a real man, don't go around looking like a beggar, talking like a beggar, acting like a beggar.

Only by thinking prosperity and abundance can you realize the abundant, prosperous life.

Fixing limitation upon ourselves is one of the cardinal sins of mankind. Prosperity flows only through channels that are wide open to receive it. Doubt, fear and lack of confidence close these channels.

A pinched mind means a pinched, limited supply.

Everything we get in life comes through the gateway of our thoughts. If that is pinched, stingy, mean, what flows to us will correspond.

"Weavers all on life's loom are we. Weaving a pattern we may not see. The threads we use, some dark, some gay."

Are made of the life of every day; Sorrow, and joy, and peace and strife. We weave them all in the web of life.

"Sometimes there comes a tangled skein That hinders the loom, but it goes again For the Master Weaver understands. And the tangle straightens in His hands. And when at even the bell shall toll, The pattern will be a perfect whole." R. J. LOUIS CUDDIHY.

Coast to Coast by Canadian Highways

With a view to disseminating information concerning Canada's manifold appeal to tourists throughout the world, the Ford Motor Company of Canada is sending one of the improved touring cars across the continent in order to obtain first hand facts concerning the roads and highways.

This car, accompanied by a motion picture photographer and a far travelled newspaper man, will drive under its own power every inch of the way from Halifax to Vancouver, the man taking motion and still pictures and charting the route. It is the first time that an automobile has attempted to drive from coast to coast under its own power and without entering the United States at any point, and by doing so it is hoped to attract further attention to the possibility of a Trans-Canada highway.

Dr. P. E. Beolittle, president of the Canadian Automobile Association and noted authority on Canadian Good Roads, has given the Ford company assistance in routing the car and has expressed his enthusiasm for the scheme. He has enlisted the support of automobile clubs throughout the country and has obtained the cooperation of government highway officials.

While it is known that roads do not exist in many places which will have to be traversed, those driving the car have been given implicit instructions that they are not to take the railroad tracks unless there is no road. The Canadian Pacific Railway has granted the company the use of the permanent way in impassable parts and when these are reached hanged wheels will be substituted for the ordinary car wheels and the Ford will drive along the tracks until such time as a road is reached.

A complete motion picture of the entire journey will be taken and it is thus hoped to show just where roads should be improved or created in order to complete the Trans-Canada Highway.

Just Folks.
By EDGAR GUEST.
ON BLUNDERS OF THE HEART.
Lord, let my blunders be the thoughtless kind,
The swift, impulsive deeds of eager hands,
Let me be one who greed misunderstands
And to men's selfish motives oft is blind;
Let me be guilty of a faulty mind
And take the scorn which lack of sense commands.
But in my blunders, countless as the sands,
May no man either hate or cunning find.

May none give oath I wronged him seeking gain
Or cry my failure heavier made his pain.
If I must err, then let the loss and pain
Be mine alone to suffer and to bear,
Grant my unwisdom this one touch of grace:
I did not wrong for profit or for place.

Motor Accident on Freshwater Road

Only one of five passengers of a sedan motor car owned by Mr. N. Snow, escaped unscratched, when the car capsized yesterday afternoon, on Freshwater Road. The top portion of the car had to be demolished in order to extricate the occupants, but otherwise the car was not damaged, and was able to proceed under its own power when upright. The accident happened as the car, which was proceeding from the west, was taking a curve to the east of Atwell's Bridge, and is said to be due to striking a rut at right angles to the direction in which it was travelling, and threw it over on its side. The driver, Mr. N. Snow, had his head and hand cut with broken glass. His wife appeared to be more seriously hurt and was semi-conscious when removed from the wreck. Later she was examined by a doctor and it was found her condition was due to shock. Mr. Snow's daughter escaped unscratched. Two other occupants of the car, Mr. Frank Jones and his wife, were also injured. Mr. Jones received a cut on the forehead from glass and his wife was shaken up.

Largely Attended Funeral

The funeral of the late Capt. W. C. Strong took place yesterday afternoon from his daughter's residence, "Clayton House," Waterford Bridge Road, and was attended by a large number of mourners, including members of the Masonic and Sons of England fraternities. The services at the graveside were conducted by Rev. Mr. Goodland, assisted by Revs. Pike and Facey. Interment was at the C. of E. Cemetery.

Presentation at City Hall

At the City Hall, on Wednesday afternoon last, a very pleasing presentation was made to Miss Kathleen O'Connell, who recently severed her connection with the Municipal office staff, and who is shortly to be married to Mr. J. "Dulcy"

AT THE CASINO THEATRE TO-NIGHT

Admirers of the Harkins' Play have a rare treat in store for this week as three great plays will be presented. Those who missed "So This is London" and "Spring Cleaning," will have an opportunity doing so. Under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency the Governor, Sir Wm. L. Allardice as suite, "So this is London" will be put on Thursday and Friday night and at the ladies' matinee, Saturday. "Spring Cleaning." To-night's play "Dulcy," is one of the neatest and funniest comedies ever put on the stage and some beautiful gowns are worn by the ladies of the Harkins' Play. On its recent presentation at the Majestic Theatre, Halifax, the Acadia Recorder speaks of the play as follows:—

When W. S. Harkins heads a Company in Halifax, people are expecting something good in the theatrical line, and he and his players variably meet expectations in that respect. That is the secret of Harkins' popularity here, and "Dulcy" production which is the Players' offering the Majestic this week, is a further evidence of it.

"Dulcy" is a delightful three-act comedy—just a little different from anything else within the comedy line and is artistically staged and presented. The title role, that of a young bride, which in the original production was played by that promising English comedienne, Lynn Fontaine, is being done at the Majestic theatre by another clever little English actress, Violet Deane, who has a delightful conception of the "Dulcy" role, and is scoring strongly in it, being splendidly supported by the whole Company. Reserved seats for all performances now on sale at P. V. Chesman's.

At the Star Movie

Here is another gorgeous DeMille romance of married life which dies deep to the very bottom of human emotion. The amazing story of a girl who goes from parties and petting at eighteen to marriage and responsibilities at twenty-one.

DeMille, supreme master of contrast, shows you the top and bottom of life—from opulent scenes in a millionaire's resort and aboard the world's largest and most magnificent yacht to scenes in a cheap New York apartment and situations that tug at the heart-strings.

A picture, poignant, powerful, tremendous in its scope, superb in its artistry—dressed in all the glowing color and luxury that DeMille can weave like a cloth of gold.

adapted by Beulah Marie Dix from the gripping novel of the same name by Margaret Tuttle, but vastly amplified and colored to make it marvelous film entertainment.

You'll see twenty young goddesses of the sea, ridar speed-churned water on leaping boards behind speed-motor boats.

You'll see jousting matches between beauties mounted on "sea horses."

You'll see an exciting shark-attack that will make you gasp.

And hundreds of other scenes thrillingly realistic and more sumptuously staged than any you have ever before seen on the screen.

You'll never forget "Feet of Clay"

Obituary

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—Please allow me space in your paper to report the death of William Diamond of Glovertown, B.B., who passed suddenly away on the night of the 24th of August at Indian Pt., Labrador.

Mr. Diamond came from Catalina as a young married man and settled at Glovertown where he made his home and brought up his family. He was a fisherman from his earliest days, and continued right up till this present summer. He was nearly 71 years old and though very, very crippled, he still felt inclined to go along with his son another summer.

Wedding Bells

BROPHY-CRAWLEY. Holy Redeemer Church, Sydney, C. B., was the scene of a very pretty but quiet wedding on Tuesday morning, Sept. 22nd, when Miss Bridie Brophy, daughter of Mr. Nicholas Brophy of Sydney, became the bride of Patrick Crawley. The bride entered the church to the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Anna Mae MacDonald, and was becomingly attired in a gown of fawn crepe-de-chine with high lace collar, over which she wore, for travelling, a peachy velvet coat trimmed with fish. She was attended by Miss Mamie Gillis, who was attired in fawn georgette with hat to match, over which she wore, for travelling, a peachy velvet coat trimmed with fish.

Child Badly Burned

Badly burned through her clothes catching fire Mary, the 7 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. O'Keefe, Brazil's Square, was rushed to the Hospital on Saturday afternoon, by order of Dr. L. Sharpe, who attended the little one shortly after the accident. It appears that while her mother was upstairs, the child picked a stick in the fire and with it set fire to her clothing. Mr. O'Keefe was attracted by her cries and succeeded in tearing off the burning clothing before the flames reached the child's head, otherwise she would have been burned to death. As it was she was badly scorched about the neck and body.

A Protest

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—During the last few weeks the street line has been altered on LeMarchant Road west by the removal of a private boundary fence about 12 to 15 feet into the street. This was done by the Council to compensate the owner of the land for a narrow strip taken on the north side of the street. It was also done in spite of the fact that the northern property was considerably improved by the removal of the hovels and the new street line.

I am yours truly, RICHARD TALMADGE, CITIZEN. St. John's, Oct. 4th, 1925.

"In Fast Company" at the Majestic

Richard Talmadge and Mildred Harris in Classy Photoplay.

Something of the speedy action in "In Fast Company," which comes to the Majestic Theatre to-night can be imagined from the fact that persons who have seen it call it "a serial in feature length." That is a true description, although it contains none of the hokum which usually prevails in chapter pictures. Every stunt performed by Richard Talmadge, star of the Truett production, is possible in real life. In other words, the situations are not forced but legitimate. But if it is the speed with which the plot moves, and the fact that Talmadge performs so many daring stunts, that caused those who witnessed it to credit being a feature picture with serial value. But unlike a serial picture, it is crammed full of comedy. Its fast thrills and comedy are so interwoven that absorbing interest starts with the first scene and keeps up to the very finish. All this makes for entertainment of exceptional merit, and entertainment is what the public goes to picture houses to see.

Sheldon Lewis, who plays the part of scheming lawyer, created lasting fame for himself a few years ago when he appeared on the vaudeville stage in a tabloid version of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." Critics praised it as the outstanding vaudeville act of the year and Lewis' performance one of the best of any actor who has appeared in the role. Everywhere everyone is talking about the Majestic Theatre Sletland Pony Contest, and there is no end to the amount of excitement already created in the Balcon and Puzzle competitions, particulars of which are published daily in the Evening Telegram. At 8.50 p.m. Wednesday a number of these balloons will be released from the roof of the Majestic Theatre; one will contain at $10.00 bill and 50 others will bear a $1.00 each. The question is who will win the Sletland Pony.

Jackie Coogan Goes Back To Rags In "The Rag Man."

For his fourth picture on his Metro-Goldwyn contract, Jackie Coogan has a contrasting story as different from "Little Robinson Crusoe" as "A Boy of Flanders" was from Jackie's "Long Live the King." Instead of the glitter of the South Seas and the palm and jungle-clothed islands of the equatorial zone, the East Side of New York is the locale of "The Ragman," which is now at the Nickel Theatre and the episodes are those characteristically metropolitan. The appeal of the narrative is intimate, and grows out of the singular association of little Tim Kelly (Jackie Coogan), and Max Ginsberg, the latter a dealer in rags, sacks, bottles and old iron.

Into the life of this submerged merchant comes little Tim Kelly, who quickly proves his business shrewdness and the partnership of Ginsberg and Kelly results. How the little fellow not only rehabilitates the spirit of the junk dealer but his finances also, is the plot material of what promises to be Jackie's most human and beguiling picture. The nature of the story is such as to lend itself to comedy, a fact which Edward F. Cline, the director, has been highly competent to develop hilariously.

Jack Coogan, Sr., supervised the production, and the story was written by Willard Mack.

SUSU ARRIVES.—S.S. Susu, Capt. Jacob Keen, returned from the Fogo Mail Service route yesterday afternoon, bringing a full general cargo and ten passengers in saloon. Capt. Keen reports the fishery as far as Change Islands is now practically over for the season, although there is a sign of cod at a few places. Operations are greatly hampered by boisterous weather.
