High Cost of Living

Sydney Business Man Claims That Retailer is not Responsible. Makes Comparison of Former Prices. Blames Combines for Increased Price of Goods

Says the Sydney Record:—Among all the problems that are before the people today there is perhaps none that receives so much attention as the high cost of living. One portion of the public blames the retail dealer for the high prices, another blames the combines. Few are disposed to blame the public itself. The wonder is if the public is being so unjustly dealt with as a large section of it, at least, would have us believe, that there has not been long ago an eruption which would sweep the combines, or retailers, or both, out of existence. The fact that the public has not got beyond the grumbling stage yet would seem to indicate that it realizes, no matter what it chances to say, that some of the blame can be laid at its own door. This at least is the opinion of a prominent business man in Sydney, who conducts one of the largest and most successful provision stores in the city, in an interview with a Record reporter.

"In the first place," the gentleman said, "the term 'high cost of living' is misleading. I claim that living is not really higher than it was years ago. Comparatively speaking it is lower. Many articles of course, have gone up in price, as, for instance, meat, milk, eggs and butter, but the prices of a great many other staple articles are lower, in some cases by as much as one hundred per cent. For instance, I saw lately books kept by a Cape Breton merchant about twenty-five years ago. Flour was put down at between ten and twelve cents a gallon, and tea fifty to sixty cents a pound. Now all these are staple articles of food, and the lower prices are paid for them today should offset the higher prices paid for such staples as meat and eggs.

RETAILERS PROFIT IS SMALL

"The retail dealer's profits are small. In proof of this I refer to Dun's record, where you can see that there have been more failures among retail dealers, especially retail grocers, during the past year, than in any other line of business. It was not an all-round bad season, for few manufacturers failed. Moreover, the hotel business was good. This goes to show that a good deal of travelling was done, from which we can infer that money was not practically scarce. Moreover, the prices of a great many articles, package meats and teas, for example, are not set by the retail grocer, but by the manufacturer. The retailer does not control the prices of these goods at all. Lately for example, the manufacturers have been putting up molasses in small tins, to sell at a fixed price, and beyond this price the retailer cannot go.

REAL CAUSE OF HIGH LIVING

"Admitting even that the cost of living is high, the blame of it cannot certainly be laid at the door of the retail dealer. Living, as most people live, is high, but not altogether because of high prices.

"In the first place, most buyers, especially women, do not exercise good judgment in buying. Many women will come into a store and buy a five-pound package of rolled oats for twenty-five cents. They buy the package because it contains a cheap dish, worth three or four cents. For the same price they could buy seven pounds of the same article in bulk. In other words they are paying five cents a pound for rolled oat-meal which they could buy for three and a half. They will buy cream of wheat in packages at a cost of thirty per cent over the article in bulk, and puffed wheat, puffed rice, grape-nuts, and other package groceries, many of which are almost worthless as articles of food. People are too much inclined to buy foods of which they know nothing, because they are widely advertised and put up in fancy packages. A general return to old-fashioned oat meal porridge would mean a great saving of money. Grocers, of course, must handle these lines of goods, because customers ask for them. The dealers could advise them, but customers are chary about accepting advice. If a clerk advises a customer to buy any particular life in preference to another the question almost invariably is, "How much are you getting for pushing this line?" So the grocer learns to keep his advice, which only tends to bring suspicion on him, to himself, and the customer suffers in consequence.

ANOTHER REASON

"Another explanation for the (supposed) increased cost of living may be found in the steady influx of country men to the cities and towns. The women are responsible for a great deal of this. The solid advantages of country life are lost sight of in the more showy attractions of the city. The people who are not satisfied with the quiet comfort of the country can hardly be expected to live economically in the city. They are extravagant, and when they find that they are not making ends meet, they lay the blame on the high cost of living. For instance, one of our collectors called on a woman lately to collect a grocery bill. The lady made a part payment which the collector thought was less than she should have been able to make. The woman explained that she was keeping a dollar or so to enable herself and children to attend the nickel. Now, it is all right to go to theatres if one can afford it, but people with unpaid grocery bills should not think of it, or if they do, should grumble less at the high cost of living.

COMBINES PARTLY RESPONSIBLE

The combines, of course, are responsible for the increased price of some lines of groceries. Canned goods particularly have gone up in price under the combine. But canned goods are not among the necessities, and people could force down the prices by buying less. The prices of canned goods would certainly go down with the decreased demand for them.

The Late John Whitman Almost a Centenarian

It Was His Desire to Reach the Century Mark—Was born in Nova Scotia in 1814.

Passaic, N. J., November 14.—John Whitman, Passaic's grand old man, died last evening at his home, 104 Passaic Ave., in his ninety-eighth year of his age.

Mr. Whitman, who was the father of Mrs. Frederick P. Fairbanks, of 120 Paulson Ave., was undoubtedly Passaic's oldest citizen in age, though not in residence, for he had lived here only about ten years. He was hale and hearty, only two years ago, making the journey to the summer home of his son, Clarence Whitman, at Katonah, N.Y., to attend the celebration of his ninety-fifth birthday, which was attended by nearly all his living five children, thirty-three grand-children, and twenty-three great grand-children.

Mr. Whitman had determined that he would live until he reached the century mark. While he was perfectly well, he was afraid he might fall, and for the past few years he kept indoors most of the time. Up to five years ago he was a familiar figure about the streets and a devoted attendant upon the services of St. John's church. He was always an enthusiastic churchman, having been senior warden of his parish church at Halifax. He was taken ill last week and it was seen that he was falling. But only last Saturday he was up to greet his daughter who came on from Boston. He was able to enjoy his pipe on the day of his death and the year came peacefully, while he slept, near midnight last evening. He was in full enjoyment of all his faculties and in his presence, a man of great physique, he was splendid.

Mr. Whitman was born on June 3rd, 1814, in a small village named Rosette, situated near Annapolis, Nova Scotia, in the land of Evangeline. He was a descendant of John Whitman, who came to the new world in 1638, and he was of a long-lived family, for while his father died at the age of eighty-three years, his father's grand-mother, Mr. Whitman's great-grandmother, died at the age of one hundred and eleven years. A brother, now living in Annapolis, is eighty-eight years of age.

Mr. Whitman remained in Nova until 1856. For many years he was in business in Halifax and also in St. John. On coming to the United States, he first lived at Cambridge, Mass., and later in New York city. Ten years ago he came to Passaic, where he has since resided.

Mr. Whitman's wife died some thirty-six years ago and five children are dead. The other children, three sons and two daughters are now living. One son, Clarence Whitman, formerly president of the Merchants' Association of New York, is one of the largest cotton manufacturers in New York state. The other sons are Jas. Whitman, connected with the New York dry goods firm of Harding, Whitman & Co., and William Whitman.

Sad Fatality at Sherbrooke Village

Five-year-old daughter of C. W. Anderson Burned to Death, and Mother Also Badly Burned.

Sherbrooke, N. S., Nov. 27.—Two fatalities, which occurred early today have cast a gloom over the village. On Saturday evening Margaret, the five-year-old daughter of C. W. Anderson, so generally known as Warden of the Municipality, and President of the Scotia Lumber and Shipping Company, while playing near a table on which was a lighted lamp, upset the table and fell upon it and the overturned lamp. In an instant the child's clothing was a mass of flames. The mother, with a baby in her lap was in the same room and as soon as she could, the infant down ran to the assistance of the poor little girl who was rolling on the floor and being roasted alive. Mrs. Anderson rolled the child in a mat and held it around her while Laurie and another little daughter with admirable presence of mind procured a bucket of water and finally extinguished the flames, but too late to save little Margaret's life.

Drs. Ellis and Denmore were on the scene in a few minutes and did everything to relieve the child's suffering but she passed away in convulsions at midnight on Sunday. Mrs. Anderson was dreadfully burned on the hands and arms in her brave effort to save her child, and the child's death following so soon after, the mother's condition is now very serious.

Fire!

J. W. Beckwith's Store Narrowly Escapes Destruction by Fire.—Back of Shop Gutted and Stock Damaged by Fire and Water.

The store of J. W. Beckwith was almost gutted by fire early this morning. Shortly after one o'clock the fire broke out around the furnace pipe in the back shop and broke through the south wall. The ascending flames were seen coming over the roof by Mr. Beckwith from the windows of his house adjoining on the north. He is not in the habit of retiring early and fortunately was not asleep, otherwise, if the fire had not been discovered at this stage, nothing could have saved the building, and probably the disaster to the town would have been wide spread as there was a strong wind blowing from the south.

Almost at the same time the fire was discovered by the Captain of the fire department, M. McLeod, who lives a few doors to the south. Mr. Fred Beckwith was quickly aroused and ran to pull in the general alarm and at the same time aroused fireman McLean. In the meantime Mr. Beckwith and Mr. H. Banks had turned on the garden hose, but the small stream had little effect. In a short time however, all the fire company were on the spot with the hose reel, and the great stream of water quickly checked the flames which had been up to this time confined principally to the two stories in the back of the shop. The stock in the front of the shop, though not reached by the flames, is of course badly damaged by smoke and water, and the loss will be heavy. The insurance on the stock is $6,000, representing probably about one-third of its value. The insurance on the building is $2,000, the company represented being the Aetna.

Mr. Beckwith and his clerks were in the store quite late last evening marking Christmas goods. Fortunately a portion of his latest shipment of goods was still at the D. A. R. station awaiting delivery.

The warmest sympathy is expressed by our townsmen for Mr. Beckwith in his loss, the disaster being greater in that it comes just at the end of what promised to be an exceptional season's trade.

Praise is given the fire company which so quickly responded to the alarm and rendered their services so promptly and successfully. To this fact and the splendid water supply which the town possesses is due the escape of Bridgetown from the fate of Middleton a year ago.

A. DeW. Foster Makes His Maiden Speech

An Ottawa despatch is as follows:—Arthur DeWitt Foster, the brilliant young Conservative member from Kings, who defeated Sir Frederick Borden at the last election, delivered his maiden speech in the house of commons today upon the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne. Mr. Foster has a powerful voice and pleasing address and the ability which he displayed in the house may account in part for his notable victory, though he declared that his triumph over the minister of militia had not been a personal one but had represented the opposition of his constituents to the Taff-Fielding agreement.

Upper Granville

Upper Granville, Nov. 25.—Mrs. Edwin Dodge has been spending a week or more with her brother, Mr. Charles Dodge. Mrs. Dodge will spend the coming winter with her sister, Mrs. Henry Troop of Belleisle.

Mr. Edmund Clarke is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Penwick Balcom, near Annapolis.

Miss C. E. Longley is the guest of Mrs. Albert FitzRandolph.

November days are passing quickly, and have given us many changes in temperature. A broken winter at present seems apparent.

It is reported that Mr. Roy Fash, son of Mr. L. D. Fash, will remove shortly from Sydney, C.B., to Prince Edward Island.

Miss Jennie Fellows, who has been teaching with success in the far West, is expected home and will spend Christmas with her parents.

The Fruit Prices in London Down to Rock Bottom

London Telegraph Reviews the Conditions in the Fruit Market and Points out the Advantages and Disadvantages of our Great Crop in the Annapolis Valley.

(From London Telegraph)

Seldom has the supply of apples been so enormous. Every week there arrives from Nova Scotia a cargo consisting of anything from 25,000 to 35,000 barrels. Each barrel contains one hundred and twenty pounds of fruit, and those who are fond of simple calculations can by the facts stated, estimate the weight of apples sent into London from that fertile district. As usual, under such circumstances, the result is that very low prices are being obtained, not only at Covent garden but also at important sale rooms on the other side of the Thames. For the great market celebrated for choice fruits does not enjoy a monopoly of the colonial apple trade. Large consignments are sold in other parts of London.

APPLES AT TWO PENCE PER POUND

To give an idea of the remarkable cheapness of this good, sound fruit, it is necessary to explain that apples of large size, and almost perfect appearance are classed as number one, smaller samples being described as number two. It is not a distinction of quality, but of size, and the authorities in Nova Scotia are exacting in their demands that strict attention shall be paid to the grading and selecting of the fruit. During the week ending today thousands of barrels of ribston or ribston pippins, have been sold wholesale at Covent-garden and elsewhere at 9s. to 10s. per barrel for number ones, and 8s. to 9s. for number twos. This means that considerably less than 1d. per pound has weight of edible apples, including samples of first-rate size, appearance, and quality. Now is the opportunity for retailers to give the public the benefit of their wonderfully cheap purchases. There is no reason why best Nova Scotia apples should not be offered to the public at 2d. per pound. Some tradesmen are wise enough to take a reasonable profit, and thereby please their patrons and ensure a continuance of satisfactory business. Others prefer to sell less fruit at a greater remuneration on their outlay. It is for the public to decide whom they will support.

BLINHEIMS AND KINGS ALSO CHEAP.

Two other good varieties of the Nova Scotian apples, the Blenheim and King, are also very cheap, and can with advantage be retailed at 2d., or at the most 2½ per pound. It is worthy of note that at the present time London is by far the cheapest market for apples in the British Isles. This may be due to its proximity to Kent, whence come so many good home-grown varieties. Still, whatever may be the cause, there is no denying the fact there is a great slump in apples, which will probably continue for some little while, as there are huge quantities to come.

HOME GRIEVANCES NOT A FEW.

True friends are said to share the joys and sorrows of others. Now is the opportunity for Colonial apple growers to sympathize with those of England, because the complaint of cheap apples is likewise prevalent in Kent. Even the famous Cox's orange pippin is changing hands at 3s. to 5s. per half basket Covent-garden, whilst King pippins and Blenheims are still lower in price. The crop in England is large, and the quality good all round, and, as already intimated, ruling rates are very moderate.

Remarkable Religious Gathering

Missionary Convention at Halifax Brought Together Immense Audience to Hear Addresses From World-Renowned Religious Leaders

The second day of the great Missionary Convention treated the City's visitors to altogether beautiful weather, says the Halifax Chronicle, and the smile of the bright blue sky seemed to be reflected in their happy faces. The atmosphere, too, had the thrill of a strong tonic in it, the kind of air that makes a man throw out his chest and lift his head sunward. The animated scenes about the convention church and the thronging rooms and pews prepared one for the announcement of the evening that the enrollment had passed the 500 mark. And there were many present unregistered. That means fully a thousand men have been gathered about the great programme of the Halifax Convention. The morning meeting was superb. In the afternoon one had his choice of good things. There was the meeting of the men in the Convention church and also a mass meeting of the women in Grafton Street church.

A GREAT MEETING.

There was a special note of enthusiasm and triumph in the crowded pews and galleries of St. Matthew's church last night. The audience was even larger than the night before. It was truly magnificent. The Convention temperature as well as roll-call is rapidly rising. It reached well nigh fever heat last night. It would be difficult to assemble a trio of speakers so fitted to arrest and arouse the closest attention of one of the finest congregations that ever assembled in St. Matthew's church. Was ever that grand old hymn, "The Church's One Foundation," sung in Halifax with such thunderous melody.

The venerable Archdeacon Renison, of the Diocese of Moosomin, was the first speaker, and he is a real orator. He rose grandly to a grand theme, "The Canada of today and tomorrow." It was impossible to convey in print an adequate idea of the impression his address made on the audience. The 18th Century saw the imperial rise of Britain; the 19th the meteoric rise of the United States. But Canada has the eye of the 20th century. We have the best part of the Continent on our side of the line. We have agricultural land for 48,000,000 of people and everything else in the proposition. No nation of 7,000,000 ever had such an opportunity; no nation of like population ever boasted more of its resources; and there is a spiritual side to materialistic growth. The Christian people of the country should get in on the ground floor, and in the name of God take possession of this our loved land. Let us not bow down to a God or worship pleasure.

What do Christian churches of our land stand for? Nine-tenths of the contents of christianity we hold in common.

Berkeley was inspired when he said: "Westward the star of Empire holds its way." The Atlantic was the theatre of great scenes in the 19th century. The Pacific is bound to play a big part in the 20th. We must not do as a town council in Ireland that had decided to build a workhouse. They met and adopted three rules. 1st. A new workhouse must be built 2nd. It must be built from the old materials.

3rd. The old one must not be pulled down till the new one is built. Some seem to want to adopt such a plan in the building up of our country.

Other nations have fallen because they lapsed into selfishness, our crown in Canada will not come from what we get but from what we give. The orator closed with a quotation from Kipling's poem, "Let us forget."

SIR ANDREW FRASER.

Much interest was centered in the appearance for the first time in the men's convention in Halifax of Sir Andrew Fraser. His is a truly heroic figure. Of stocky and soldierly bearing, but with all the consummate charm of a cultured Scottish nobleman, he captured his audience at once. It does one good to see his gracious smile and hear the soft and cultured accents of his musical voice. He wears his years as lightly as his learning. The Empire as well as the church have a right to be proud of him.

He was the recipient of an ovation as he ascended the pulpit stairs. His theme was "Experiences of Missionary work in India." It is needless to say he is an enthusiast in Christian Missions. He administered a severe castigation to the sceptical globe trotter who looks in upon a country and reports unfavorably about missions. If one wants to learn astronomy he does not go to a geologist.

Statistics do not tell us all that christian missions are doing in India and the world. And Sir Andrew proceeded to give out of his thirty-seven years contact with the work of missionaries many illustrations of the efficacy of missionary work. At the close of his address there was a remarkable demonstration, the audience rising as one man in respect and admiration of his noble words.

THE CALL TO SERVICE.

Mr. J. Campbell White had a hard task to follow such a speaker, but those who know him at his best will believe that in his own grand way he led the meeting to its climax. His theme was "The call to service." He pointed out the wonderful unity among Korean Christian churches in their work. In a certain mission,

Nova Scotia Fruit in the West

W. H. Chase Declares Our Apple Growers Have Advantage Over American

Montreal Star: That Nova Scotia can supply the west with better fruit than the United States and that therefore inter-provincial trade should be advocated above other policies, is the opinion of Mr. W. H. Chase, of Wolfville, N. S., one of the biggest fruit shippers in that part of the country. At the Windsor Hotel last night, he stated that the apple crop in Nova Scotia this year would reach about 1,500,000 barrels, which would net the farmer over two million dollars. The export of apples from his Province had been tripled in the last few years, and Mr. Chase is of the opinion that it will double itself again within a few years. Halifax is the shipping point said Mr. Chase and will remain so, especially since the C.P.R. has come into possession of the Dominion Atlantic system. The Canadian Pacific spied out the land and knew what it was producing qualities of the counties of Hants, Kings and Annapolis amounted to. As a matter of fact, they are now carrying some times twenty thousand barrels daily over the road to Halifax, and the quantity reaches frequently as much as sixty thousand barrels. Speaking of possible competition, Mr. Chase said that there was no place in sight, as the particular climate found in the valley flanked by the north and south mountains rendered any serious competition out of the question. England and Scotland take the larger quantity of Nova Scotia apples, although there have been five shipments direct from Halifax to Hamburg, during the present fall, and it looked as if the apple export business to Germany would in a few years reach very considerable proportions.

GIFT OF A DYING TOT

Savings of a Little Child Dying of Tubercular Trouble Goes to Help the Consumptive Poor

How true it is in many different walks of life that "a little child shall lead them." We have been shown a copy of a letter written by a lady of St. John, N.B., who only a month ago lost her little child, a girl of nine years, of tubercular trouble. The mother's own words tell the story better than it can be told in any other way. She writes to the Secretary of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives at Gravenhurst in these words: "While my loved one was ill, I one night opened some literature from you at her bedside. She asked me what it was. I told her it was a paper asking for subscriptions to the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, and showed her the pictures in the pamphlet. She asked if she could not give what she had in her little savings bank. I told her 'Yes' - to give it to the doctor and he would send it. But she was too sick when he came again, so I am enclosing an express order for the amount I found in the bank, viz. $1.79, a small subscription, but trust you will receive it in the spirit in which it was given."

The letter is typical of many that are being constantly received at the head office of the Muskoka Hospital, 347 King St. W., Toronto. These come from all parts of Canada, for patients are received from anywhere in the Dominion. At the present time there are 150 patients in residence in the Muskoka Free Hospital, 128 of whom are unable to pay a single cent, and the other 22 only nominal sums - much less than actual cost of maintenance. During the nine years that the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives has been opened, not a single patient has ever been refused admission because unable to pay.

The Courage to Be Happy

"The courage to be happy" is what, according to a recent writer on Germany, characterizes an ever-increasing number of young men and women in the Vaterland. Modelling themselves on Goethe - the serene, self-centred philosopher - they yearn primarily after self-expression and self-development as the principal means of producing happiness. This self-same spirit is becoming widespread here also. The virtues of self-sacrifices and self-control are repudiated as barriers in the way of complete enjoyment of life.

This is all very praiseworthy, perhaps, if happiness is to be regarded as the highest height to which we can attain. But there is something to be said for the opinion of Lesbia, George Bernard Shaw's heroine, when she said: "I'm afraid I think this rage for happiness is vulgar." It must be admitted that what are called "vulgar" people are very often happy. Their wants are easily satisfied. One recalls the plowboy's ideal of bliss: "To swing on a gate all day long and eat fat bacon." So long as one's wants are limited to the physical there is a greater chance of happiness. A holiday crowd is more easily made joyful than, say, a cultivated man who has been everywhere and seen everything.

The awakening of the soul brings a new standard of desires, and it is generally through suffering that the soul awakens. Nietzsche declared that a man's spiritual rank might be estimated by the amount of suffering he had undergone. Suffering, rightly understood, brings insight, sympathy and understanding, but when undergone rebelliously, it hardens and embitters the soul.

The courage to be happy consists not so much in tramping on the rights and feelings of others as in accepting with a brave and joyful spirit whatever fate may be meted out to one. Sydney Smith once gave a recipe for happiness. "A bright fire, to remember all the pleasant things said to and of one, to keep a box of snuff-puffs on the mantelpiece and a kettle simmering on the hob," which interpreted, means, of course, that happiness is to be found in grateful appreciation of the ordinary and simple pleasures of life.

To live whole-heartedly in the present is undoubtedly a great promoter of happiness. So many people spend their time in anxious fears or vain regrets. Part of their consciousness lies behind in the past, and part is projected into the future. They are not "all there."

People can train themselves to be happy just as they can train themselves to be healthy. "Look within" said Marcus Aurelius. "Within is a fountain of happiness, and it will ever bubble up if thou wilt ever dig."

Sawdust Bread

Queer Product of German Bakery is Equaled Elsewhere.

Bread made out of sawdust. Sounds queer, but it is a fact. That ancient anecdote about the Frenchman losing his horse just as he had succeeded through the aid of green goggles in teaching the animal to eat sawdust; instead of grain should now be revived and sent out to make the rounds of the press. But to return to the bread, it is a fact that there is a large bakery in Berlin where they are turning out 20,000 loaves of sawdust bread each day. Interesting if not attractive, surely.

In making this peculiar bread the sawdust is first subjected to a process of fermentation and various chemical manipulations. Then it is mixed with one-third part of rye flour, formed into loaves and baked in ovens like any other bread. Although it is meant for consumption by horses only, the manufacturers claim that in case of famine it would furnish a nutritious and highly satisfactory food for human beings.

Sawdust bread may not taste so bad as it sounds. In various parts of the world bread is obtained from trees. For example, in the Molucca Islands the starchy pith of the sago palm furnishes a white, floury meal, which is made into flat, oblong loaves and baked in curious little ovens divided into small oblong cells just big enough to receive the loaves. In Lapland the inner bark of pine trees, well ground and mixed with oat flour, is made into cakes, which are cooked in a pan over the fire. In Kamchatka pine bark and birch bark are used for bread without the addition of any other substance, being reduced to powder by pounding, made into loaves and baked.

Along the Columbia River bread is made from a kind of moss that grows on a species of fir trees. After being dried it is sprinkled with water, allowed to ferment, rolled into balls as big as a man's head and baked in pits, with the help of hot stones. Travellers who have tasted it say that it is by no means unpalatable. The Californian Indians collect the pollen of rattails in large quantities by heating it on the plants and catching it on blankets. They make bread of it. But as a delicacy they prefer bread of grasshopper flour.

ARE YOUR HANDS CHAPPED

Zam-Buk Will Cure Them

The particular danger of chapped hands and cold cracks (apart altogether from the pain) is that the cold is likely to penetrate and set up inflammation, festering, or blood-poison. Directly the skin is broken by a cut, grazed, or scratched, or chafed and cracked by the action of the cold winds and water, the one necessary precaution is to apply Zam-Buk freely.

The pure herbal juices from which Zam-Buk is prepared are so perfectly combined and refined that the immediate effect of these Zam-Buk dressings is soothing, antiseptic, and healing. Pain and inflammation are allayed, disease germs expelled from the wound or sore, and the latter is quickly healed.

Zam-Buk is not only a powerful healer and skin purifier; it is strongly antiseptic and germicidal, and so forms the ideal protection for the skin against disease germs.

It quickly heals cold cracks, chaps, chilblains, cold sores, etc.

Mrs. O. M. Phoenix, Newcastle, Alta., writes: "I must tell you how pleased I am with Zam-Buk. My husband had an old frostbite on his foot for many years, and had tried almost every known remedy without any effect, but the first application of Zam-Buk seemed to help him so much that he persevered and the sore is now cured. We would not be without Zam-Buk in the house."

Zam-Buk is also a pure cure for piles, eczema, ulcers, abscesses, scabs, sores, blood-poison, bad leg, eruptions, etc. Its purely herbal composition makes it the ideal for babies and young children. All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk 50c. box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Try also Zam-Buk Soap, 25c. tablet.

USE FOR ROSES.

Several months ago a fad for making rosaries out of rose leaves was started in Los Angeles. The poetic idea has been commercialized and on a limited scale the business of making necklaces of beads from rose leaves has been launched here. The success of the enterprise is due to the fact that the East is willing to pay handsome prices for the trinkets. Florists are finding a ready market for roses left on their hands by selling them at a discount to the maker of this peculiar jewelry. It is too bad that all of these rare leaves might not first be distilled before being worked into paste so that none of their fragrance would be lost.

Be Fair. Buy a sack or barrel before judging PURITY FLOUR

SOME people have attempted to judge PURITY FLOUR before knowing the facts about it - before using it. So we ask you to be fair and to buy a sack or barrel of PURITY FLOUR and give it a thorough try-out before attempting to arrive at a judgment.

Look at the beauty and loftiness of the golden-crust, snowy-crumbed loaves, fit for a king. Count them and see how many more of them PURITY yields to the barrel than ordinary flour does.

Taste the creamy, flaky pie crust, and the deliciously light cakes PURITY FLOUR rewards you with. My!

How they make your mouth water!

Such high-class results can only be obtained when using a flour consisting exclusively of the high-grade portions of the best Western hard wheat berries.

And remember, that, on account of its extra strength and extra quality, PURITY FLOUR requires more water when making bread and more shortening when making pastry, than you are accustomed to use with ordinary flour.

PURITY FLOUR

"More bread and better bread"

Buy a bag or barrel of PURITY FLOUR. Test it for a week. Then pass judgment.

Add PURITY FLOUR to the grocery list right now.

Jack-in-the-Box

He Makes a Hit as Santa Claus' Assistant.

At a Christmas party for children last year they had a big box on a platform covered with red cambric, to which sprays of holly were pinned. At just the right moment Santa Claus appeared, saying he had an assistant this year who was so popular he just had to keep him shut up. He said all children loved him so that he was sure he would be recognized at once. Then he unhooked the box, and "Jack" leaped out with a spring, his arms full of parcels. "Jack" was pushed down into the box with a great deal of difficulty, and Santa told him to look for more presents and hooked the box, in a moment unhooking when Jack sprang up with more parcels. This act was repeated several times, and the children went wild with glee.

SURGICAL POSSIBILITIES

Vistas of infinite and almost incredible magnitude are opened up for the healing of the many ills that flesh is heir to by the extraordinary surgical operation lately reported from the Methodist Episcopal Hospital at Philadelphia. It is alleged that Dr. Hammond has just removed a diseased kidney from a patient and replaced it with a perfectly healthy one taken from the body of an unfortunate pedestrian killed by a speeding automobile. The operation, as technically described, included an anastomosis of blood vessels and a connecting of veins, arteries and other ducts and glands, but the crowning feature of the performance is the promised recovery of the patient.

Truly, every flesh achievement in this remarkable century reveals wonderful possibilities whose end the most daring prophet can hardly predict. Surgical science is advancing by leaps and bounds.

Marys' Gift to the Queen

Donated to Seaside Home for London Working Girls.—To open in the Spring.

It was announced last week that the Queen had decided to devote the Coronation gift to her from the Marys of the Empire to a holiday home for working girls.

For this purpose Barn House, Whitstable Kent, has been acquired by the trustees, and will be opened in the spring.

When the amount collected from the Marys of the Empire for a Coronation gift was presented to the Queen, it was Her Majesty's earnest desire that the whole of it should be applied to some charitable purpose.

The Investiture of the Prince of Wales as a knight of the Garter was then just approaching, and the committee decided, with the Queen's approval, to present to her, on behalf of the subscribers, the insignia of that noble order set in diamonds.

Messrs. Garrard, the court jewellers, were commissioned to carry out the work, and Her Majesty wore the jewelled insignia on the occasion of the Investiture at Windsor, which was one of the most notable ceremonies of Coronation year.

Portraits of the King and the Prince of Wales formed the other part of the personal offering, and it was authoritatively stated that the Queen would apply the balance of the fund to "an object very dear to her heart."

The Queen, in thanking the deputation who presented the gift of the Marys of the Empire, assured them that the beautiful insignia and pictures would be treasured through life, and handed down as precious heirlooms to those who came after.

A cheque was handed to the Queen for £12,500, but many other sums have come to hand since, including £700 from Canada, and it is probable that the amount destined for the holiday home at Whitstable will amount to about £15,000.

The total is made up of subscriptions from every portion of the British Empire as well as from British Marys living in foreign countries.

Dr. Cook Sure He Convinced Copenhagen

His illustrated Lecture Was Well Received, He Says, on Return Here to Talk Some More in the West.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook, of Brooklyn and also of colder regions, has returned from Europe on board the George Washington. He had many stories to deny and many assertions to make in favor of his contention that he really did carve his initials on the North Pole.

He denied that in his search for truth he had become a passenger on a steamship named for him, the father of his country, who had never told a lie.

"I booked on the George Washington simply because I felt it was a good boat," said he. "You think I was brave to go to Copenhagen. Why? The way to win is to go to the place most hostile and talk things over. I'm glad I went, too, despite the reports that I was rotten egged."

"When I arrived in Copenhagen there was a crowd, but there was no demonstration, either for or against me. The trouble was with Norman-Hansen, who had been denouncing me in the papers. I had invited him to speak from my platform."

"There was a demonstration against him. He was jeered and hooted and the audience asked that he be expelled from the hall, and he was expelled. When I began to lecture with pictures they listened and in the end cheered me, although I must note that there was some whistling, and whistling in Copenhagen denoted dissatisfaction."

"I have placed my records with different geological societies in Europe. In Brussels the Royal Geographical Society of Belgium held a meeting of representatives of Paris and Antwerp. At that conference of about one hundred scientific men, Dr. Loicote of the Royal Observatory of Belgium, and secretary of the International Bureau of Polar Research, in a long address gave it as his opinion that I reached the pole and had produced as much data as any man."

Dr. Cook declared he was going to Chicago almost immediately and lecture there and in the north-west.

Yarmouth Teacher Will Have Devotional Exercises in Her School

Mr. Editor:—Kindly allow me space to explain to parties concerned, why I am conducting devotional exercises in my school room.

On Tuesday morning I endeavored to carry out the late instruction of the School Board, but found that the noise and confusion in the halls and play-room distracted the attention of my pupils, and that conducting devotional exercises under those conditions would only tend to irreverence.

Therefore with due respect for the powers that be, I wish to state that while I hold my present position, I purpose to open my school at nine o'clock, with the repetition of the Lord's Prayer, and appropriate Scripture texts, such as: "A soft answer turneth away wrath," "Be ye kind one to another," "Children obey your parents," "Do unto others as ye would that they should do to you."

I do this, feeling my accountability to One above all earthly potentates, and with no intention of turning a child from the faith of its fathers.

During twenty-seven years of service, my object has been to direct the feet of my pupils into the "Paths of Righteousness," and I felt I had the confidence and sympathy of the parents of my pupils.

I consider this excluding devotional exercises from regular school sessions is assuming serious responsibility, which cannot be fully realized until the great reckoning day.

Yours respectfully, JESSIE H. CROSBY, Yarmouth Times.

Good Money in Well-Bred Stock

Farmers may heed with profit what the Dartmouth Patriot has to say on the subject of raising pure-bred stock. It costs no more to raise a thoroughbred than a scrub, yet many farmers go on wasting their substance in breeding the latter.

The rearing of black foxes may be profitable where possible, and no doubt is, but well-bred horses, cattle and sheep and swine can always be profitably bred. There is good money in well-bred animals when there is loss in the common scrub variety.

By giving care to breeding the dairy cow the Danes increased the average production of butter per cow three hundred per cent, and it did not cost the Danish farmers one cent more in the way of keep, or care, or shelter. That is the way the Danes took to make money. That is just what they did in the hog business too.

The Canadian government is testing herds of cows in every province, but doing blessed little of it in this one, nevertheless the results show a considerable number of well bred cows which produce between four hundred and five hundred pounds of butter annually while the average for the Nova Scotian cow is between fifty and sixty pounds. That is, one of these well bred carefully selected animals will produce as much butter as eight of the average.

In the face of these facts it seems amazing that any farmer can be so stupid or regardless of his own interests as to keep a scrub cow on his premises a moment longer than is necessary to prepare it for slaughter. Still thousands do it. Why?

Why will a farmer care for, shelter and feed eight cows, when one good one will equal them all? Can any of our readers answer that? The only reason that seems to solve the mystery is the farmers that do it have got into a rut so deep that they cannot get out. Well, they will have to if they hope to succeed.

The same things applies to the rearing of horses. The prices paid for the best stock is away up in the four figures. This paper told a few issues ago of a pair of Clydesdales, not thoroughbreds either, which sold in Vancouver for $1500. That is just about as much as the farmers of this country could get for ten average horses.

Fancy the pride a farmer and his whole family can have in a herd of beautiful high grade cows producing a pound and a half of butter a day on the average the whole year round and think for a moment what the value of the off spring of such cows would be worth in even the most stolid community.

There is certainly good money in well bred stock. That has been proved in every land. It applies just the same to Nova Scotia as to England, where half the world goes to buy pure bred animals at tremendous prices. Without the pure bred proved animals the farmer cannot get the highly remunerative grade animal.

Electric Beans Are a Natural Remedy for Nerve, Stomach and Liver Disorders.

Perhaps This Means You

There is a little matter that some of our subscribers seem to have forgotten,—we have sent little reminders that appear to have been overlooked. Please remember that we depend upon your assistance in our business,—it is a matter of necessity to us.

—Elsewhere Mr. R. J. Messenger,
president of the Nova Scotia Fruit Growers' Association, calls the attention of the citizens of Bridgetown to the matter of securing the Horticultural Exhibition for Bridgetown for the coming year. His suggestion should not be disregarded as Bridgetown is well adapted to carry out successfully such an affair,
and should not miss the opportunity and advantages it brings, through inertia on the part of its citizens.

—It is unfortunate that the glut of apples in the London markets has pulled down the prices below normal.
It is expected that the holiday season will see a clearing up of the early apples, opening up a demand for the harder varieties. The latest prices reported are as follows:—

Canadian apples now available are:
Greenings, 16s. per barrel for No. 1, 14s. for No. 2, Ben Davis, 15s., to 16s., for No. 1, 14s. for No. 2; Golden Russets, 19s. to 20s. for No. 1, and 16 to 18 s. for No. 2 per barrel.

At Liverpool, Canadian Baldwins
are 12s. to 20s.; Greenings, 12s. 9d. to 20s. 6d.; Ben Davis, 12s. to 15s. 9d.; Russets 12s. to 22s., 6d.

—The Monitor commends to the consideration of the citizens of Bridgetown the following editorial
from the Maritime Merchant, concerning the subject of increasing population. Bridgetown was disappointed on the return of the last census to find so small an increase in its population, and the following suggestions if heeded, might have far-reaching results:

There is one thing we are all agreed upon, in the Maritime Provinces, which is that we want more people. As a matter of provincial pride we cannot afford to have two constituencies made into one (as has already happened) for purposes of representation in the Federal House.
Besides, a very important side to the question is its bearing on business.
The more people we have the more business there will be. As it seems to be important in these days of continually increasing expenses for the merchant to do more business
each year than he did the preceding one, if he would have any profit, the question of population has an important bearing on the success of everyone in the Maritime Provinces who conducts a store.

Now, we have talked about this immigration question a great deal and everyone is agreed that it is most important. The next thing is, what practical movement can we make to help it along? Resolutions by boards of trade are all right in an advocate way, but are not sufficient to bring the desired results. The provincial government of Nova Scotia is spending a small amount of money and getting a fair return. No doubt they should spend more than they do and we believe that the people of the Province would approve time Provinces have been completely overshadowed. We want a vigorous immigration campaign at the expense of the Federal Government. But this and the other policy mentioned are still not enough. We must have individual effort by communities. These communities must co-operate with provincial and federal authorities, and this brings us to a point in the discussion where we might very well ask ourselves the question: Who in these communities is to do the work?

Who will feel that it is his duty to do it? And who will feel that there is anything in it for him?

Let us take an imaginary illustration. Let us call it the district of Blankville. It is a fruit growing section, let us suppose, and over ninety per cent. of its population is agricultural—fruit growers—the balance being storekeepers and others who make a living by serving the people in various ways. Now, most of these farmers are fruit growers with small holdings. They have no more land than they hope to develop themselves. So perhaps with few exceptions there is no chance to find enough accommodation for another family by splitting the farm up. The only thing one of these men could do would be to tell out his farm if the new man came in, and go elsewhere. This, of course, is not what we want to do. The policy of the country should be to hold the people we have rather than send them away.

Another difficulty in the way of interesting a community in work of this kind would be that the Province of Nova Scotia has reached a point where our export of apples is very large. There is therefore a natural feeling on the part of the individual producer to say that the greater the supply the smaller the price and every man coming in is going to endanger the chance of a good price for what he produces. We can see, therefore, that except in the case of a farmer who had land to sell, we could not expect to arouse much interest in encouraging immigration among farmers. In each community therefore the task seems naturally to fall
upon the shoulders of a very few people.

There is no doubt about the benefit of new people to the storekeeper, because people are his daily bread; he is like the giant in "Jack and the Beanstalk"—he lives on people. Every new family that has sufficient money to pay its bills in welcome to come and trade at his store. You can't bring along too many who have the wherewithal to satisfy his appetite for sales. We all know that, and we know too that the storekeepers of the country are busy men. They work longer hours than any other class of men in the country. One of them told us recently that for fifteen years he had been working from six o'clock in the morning until nine o'clock at night for five days in the week, and on Saturdays until eleven o'clock at night. It sounds like darkest Russia, doesn't it? But nevertheless it is true.

It is an imposition to ask the country storekeeper to take on any new duties, but as we have observed that it is always the busiest people who seem to have the time to take on extra jobs, so it is not unusual that we should turn to him for this extra service.

Now, what shall be his mode of procedure? And what can be hope to accomplish? Let us take the aforementioned village of Blankville in the fruit growing section. Assuming that the most enterprising merchant in that community will take the initiative, his first piece of work would be to make up a list of the people who would reap some advantage
from an increased population; it would include all the tradesmen of one kind and another, the hotels, the livery stables, and, not to waste words, practically everyone in the country who lives by trading. When his list was completed he would call them together and ask their co-operation, both in contributing to the funds for carrying on the work, and a personal interest in the work. A committee would probably be appointed whose duty it would be to make an investigation of the assets of the country in the form of land cultivated but not for sale, and lands uncultivated and "cultivated" that would be purchasable at a fair price.
We cannot go into the details of making such a report, but one of its strongest features should be its storing of successful farmers in the surrounding district. With all this information gathered, the committee would be ready to go to the provincial government and say, "Mr. Premier, here is our copy. We want it printed with illustrations and distributed where it will bring us returns." Some of our readers may smile and say, "Oh it is all very well for the editor of the "Merchant"
to loll back in his chair and dream of such schemes as these, but his suggestions are not practicable." We believe they are practicable and we will undertake to say that in our mind's eye we can see half a dozen communities in which a plan such as this would be worked out to great advantage. Of course, the difficulty is that every fellow usually waits for the other fellow to make a start. We only wish we were not so busy doing other things or we should live to go to some country community and have a crack at the scheme ourselves.

Potatoes Bringing High Price

R. B. Humphrey Brings Word of Maine and New Brunswick
Prices.

Robt. B. Humphrey returned on the C. P. R. express last evening after a trip to St. Leonards, Edmundston, Caribou, Presque Isle and other points in Northern Maine, in the interest of the International Railway.
Mr. Humphrey says he noted with great surprise, the mild autumn conditions which prevail here at St.
John in such marked contrast to the stern winter weather in northern New Brunswick and throughout Aroostook county. In fact, all the way west until some distance below
Fredericton Junction, the whole face of the country is covered with snow
making faultless sleighing and lumber hauling.

When the snow first came it was believed it was premature to have winter shut down so early and many of the lumbermen were hopeful that a thaw would follow and "fall freer"
would ensue that would release the jam of logs which has been hung up at Grand Falls since last spring, but this hope is not at all likely to be realized, and the great gorge will,
in all probability, remain choked
with the mass of logs comprising some millions of feet until the freshest next spring. During the last summer several attempts to release the log jam at Grand Falls, with the aid of dynamite, were made but without success.

It will be of considerable interest to many readers to learn for a positive fact, regarding potatoes, that most important crop of Aroostook, Maine, and of almost equal relative importance in Carleton county, N.B., that on Tuesday last the selling or market price of "Green Mountain" tubers in Presque Isle and at other Aroostook points was $2.42 a barrel,
on Wednesday, to be exact, about date as well as price, the market
price of the same variety of potatoes and doubtless of equal quality in Florenceville and Woodstock, N.B., was $1.60 a barrel.

High Cost of Living

COMPARATIVE PRICES IN SYD-NEY AND OTHER CITIES.

I have a word to add about the comparative prices of farm products in Sydney and other Canadian cities.
To get an intelligent idea of the matter one needs only to look up the Labour Gazette, which gives a report of prices in every Canadian city of over ten thousand population. It shows that prices vary little throughout Canada. Living, as a matter of fact, is cheaper in Sydney than in Halifax, as cheap as in St. John and almost as cheap as in Charlottetown.

The Post some time ago gave quotations of prices in Sydney and Prince Edward Island. These prices are misleading. For instance, hay is quoted in Charlottetown at eight to ten dollars a ton, while here it sells for sixteen and seventeen. The eight to ten dollars per ton quoted is for loose hay, on trucks in open market. The pressing costs two dollars a ton
more, freight, two dollars, truckage fifty cents, and wharfage twenty.
Pressed hay sells in Charlottetown
for twelve dollars and fifty cents per ton.

Oats have been quoted at fifty cents
the bushel, I will show you an invoice from a P.E.I. dealer where you will see that oats is selling for fifty-two cents, which means that it cannot be handled in Sydney under sixty or sixty-five cents.

This, of course, is rather, by the way, and I mention it to show how people may be misled with regard to prices. To come back to the main subject I maintain that the cost of living is not exorbitantly high, unless people make it so by extravagance and injurious buying. Of course, among the very poor, the workmen whose daily wage is of the smallest, the problem of existence is serious, as it always has been. But for the middle class, the larger wage earners, it need not be so. It looks like the height of inconsistency for people who are able to govern frequent whist parties, buying expensive dainties for the delectation of guests and furnishing prizes ranging in value from one to five dollars, to talk of the price of food. Right economy and good management will solve the problem and it is the lack of these that is at the bottom of most of the grumbling about the high cost of living.

CORRESPONDENCE

Dear Monitor:—
The Valley District Horticultural Exhibition should naturally come to Bridgetown next year. It has been held in Hants and Kings for four years, while both Middleton and Annapolis Royal have had it since it was held in Bridgetown. Our town is rapidly becoming a fruit centre of importance and for many reasons is well calculated to hold a successful exhibition.

I would suggest that the Town Council or Board of Trade take the matter up at once with a view of making preliminary arrangements, as other towns in the valley will probably be after the matter soon.
R. J. MESSENGER.

The Way of Agents

A friend of the Berwick Register
writes from Alberta:

"An incident in connection with Nova Scotia apples was brought to my notice recently. Thinking it may be of interest to you I will relate the same to show the Nova Scotia fruit growers that their apples are sometimes put to a use not originally intended.

"In a real estate office for British Columbia fruit lands, in the city of Lethbridge, there was to be seen recently, two plates of fruit. One plate contained about half a dozen of the most bruised and wretched looking small sized Gravensteins imaginable.
By the plate a placard read, "Nova Scotia Gravensteins" grown in the famous Annapolis Valley." The other plate was heaped up with the most perfect fruit, of largest size, of the same variety, and the attached card
read, "B. C. Gravensteins."

"When the above was related to me
I wondered what some of our Nova Scotia fruit growers would think.
For myself I felt quite indignant, as I have yet to either see or taste anything in the way of fruit coming from British Columbia that can compare with the Nova Scotia fruit.
Most of the fruit we get here is either from British Columbia or Washin-
ton, U. S."

The Nova Scotia Agricultural college now has seventy-two regularly enrolled students which is fifty per cent. in advance of the corresponding enrollment at this time of year. They expect quite a large influx of students yet and, when the short course begins in January, they hope to have at the college altogether anywhere from three hundred to five hundred.

On Monday next, December 4th the Maritime Winter Fair will open at Amherst. While all the classes are up to the average, those of the Dairy Cows are far larger than any previous year. As in the past, lectures will be delivered each evening by expert judges on all subjects pertaining to Agriculture and Live Stock. Our farmers would do well to visit this fair.

No less than four weddings of general interest to Monitor readers are taking place today. Besides the marriage of Miss Mersereau to Mr. Hayward, referred to elsewhere, Miss Maude Dargie is to be married to Mr. Howard Marshall, both of Bridgetown. Miss Annie Young, of Lawrence town, is to marry Mr. Settle, of Dartmouth, and Miss Edie Durling, of Ingleville, is to marry Mr. Wilbur Eanks, of Lawrence town.

Upon their return they will reside in Spaskatoon, where Mr. Copp will take charge of a branch office which his firm is opening in the near future.

The November meeting of the Clarence W. M. A. S. was held at Mrs. Lorenzo Elliott's and was one of unusual interest and enthusiasm. A large number of the members and friends were present and the sum of eleven dollars was contributed, a portion of which by the unanimous vote of the society is to be sent as a Christmas gift to Miss Cora Elliott, Hayagada, India. The next meeting of the society will be held at the home of one of the new members, Miss Hattie Banks, on Monday evening, Dec. 4th. An interesting program is expected.

WILL RESIDE IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

Capt. and Mrs. L. D. Morton left Digby Tuesday, says the Courier, via St. John, for in future to reside. Capt. Morton, began going to sea when thirteen years of age. After serving his time in the forecastle, and in the various offices from third mate up to master, he took charge of the bark Transit, owned by S.W.W. Fickup, ex-M. P. for Annapolis. This vessel he sailed successfully for many years until she foundered in the North Pacific ocean after which he with Mrs. Morton, the officers and crew were in the ship's boats seven days until rescued by a passing vessel. In fact, Mrs. Morton sailed with the captain fourteen years. He was twice shipwrecked, the latter time on the Florida coast in the bark which was especially built for him at Centreville, or Trout Cove, Digby Neck.

Fourteen years ago he retired from the sea and purchased a property from the Stalling estate on which he erected a modern residence known as Morton Lodge. He also had the best stables in western Nova Scotia, and owned at one time some very fast horses, including the celebrated King Forough.

HURRICANE SWEEPS COAST.

Newfoundland Railway Service is Tied up and Disasters at Sea.

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 27—(Canadian Press)—Railway service in nearly every section of Newfoundland is stalled and coast steamers have been compelled to seek harbours of refuge as the result of a hurricane, which has been raging since Saturday. It is feared that the toll of the previous storm, which wrecked six vessels with a loss of a number of men, will be equalled. At least one victim of the storm among the coasting vessels was indicated when an unidentified vessel was sighted late last night off the northern coast with all sails gone and drifting to seaward. There were no signs of the crew and it is believed that they had been washed overboard.

GOVERNMENT TO PROBE THE CEMENT MERGER.

Ottawa, Nov. 23—One of the most interesting matters which the Government will take up within a short time is that of the Canada Cement merger. It is learned that Sir Sanford Fleming has placed before the Government a complete statement of his charges in reference to the promotion of the now famous merger, and the alleged watering of stock in that connection, and has demanded that the whole transaction be subjected in the public interest to a searching investigation. Sir Sanford first preferred his charges to the old Government and at that time there was a sensation caused as the name of Sir Max Aitken, M.P., was prominently identified with the whole affair.

Anthracite Find in British Columbia Declared Big One

Victoria Paper—Says Mines Will Become as Well-known as Philadelphia Collieries.

(Victoria Colonist)
Considering the magnitude of the discovery comparative little publicity has been given to the recent great find of anthracite coal in northern British Columbia near the headwaters of the Skeena. Locations were made in the district as far back as eight years ago, but the extent of the body was apparently not known at the time. It is said that some four hundred square miles have been staked out, while it is known that good seams underlie over 2,100 square miles of territory and that the capacity of the field is 43,000,000 tons per square mile.

The find is undoubtedly one of the most important in the history of western Canada. With the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific transportation will have been provided, and it is possible to foresee that in the years to come the new coal measures will command the markets of the orient as well as of the entire Pacific coast of America, if not still further afield on this continent.

Truro Will Soon Boast of Model Up-to-date Fox Farm

Preparations are being made and Company Will Raise Black Foxes and Also Silver Greys and "Reds"

(Truro Sun)
Truro will soon boast of a model and up-to-date fox farm. Preparations are going on rapidly just now and soon everything will be in readiness to stock the farm, and the raising of foxes will begin. The place selected is on the old Harmony road near the Elias Nelson property and fences are being erected and everything put in first-class order.

The company consists of T. G. McMullin, C. B. McMullin, Edward McMullin and H. S. Cruikshanks. The company at present own three pairs of foxes of the silver gray and black variety, as well as some red foxes. The runs are about 225 feet long, entirely fenced in and providing splendid accommodations for the purpose.

Mr. Cruikshanks will be manager and he is said to be the right man being thoroughly conversant with the business in hand. Such institution as the above have proved very paying investments in other places, and one farm in Prince Edward Island is valued at over half a million dollars.

REMARKABLE SURGERY.

Surgery has taken another advance step at the Johns Hopkins Hospital, where recently two or three patients suffering from tuberculosis of the knee have been cured after the infected joints were cut away and substituted by the same parts of a body of a patient in normal health who died from an accident a few hours before.

A WISE WOMAN.

We learned the other day of a lady making a tour through the country, not with an automobile, but with her own horse and carriage, who, when she put her horse up at a livery or hotel stable always took pains to drop around at feeding time to make sure that her horse was neither neglected nor robbed of the grain he should have by some careless or dishonest proprietor or attendant. She also had an automobile horn attached to her carriage, and in approaching corners or dangerous turnings in the road availed herself of its warning tones as protection against some reckless automobile driver coming in the opposite direction. As to looking after the feeding of her horse she is an example to be followed. As to the horn on her carriage, why isn't that a most sensible idea?—F.H.R.

QUICK RELIEF FROM THAT PERSISTENT, HACKING COUGH

We mean the kind of cough it gives one a cold shiver just to hear—the dry, deep-seated hack—hack—hack—that seems as if it were tearing the very vitals. That's the kind of cough that means business.

Fortunately, though, that is also one of the kinds of cough for which Na-Dr- Co Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chlorodyne was first prescribed, and which it has been relieving with great promptness and regularity ever since. Na-Dr- Co Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chlorodyne is absolutely free from harmful drugs of any kind, and is safe even for children. It is pleasant to take, and acts quickly, relieving the irritation, loosening the phlegm, promoting expectoration, and so stopping the cough. Thousands declare it to be the best cough syrup they have ever tried.

Christmas Giving

Already the Christmas time seems to be upon us—earlier than ever before, we would say. Several clocks chime the hour of its arrival. First there are the reddening blossoms of the poinsettia; then there are the store windows crowded with toys and pretty things for gifts for young and old; and then there is the "Christmas feeling," which creeps into the hearts of even the busiest, a short time before the great holiday.

Here is rather an amusing letter, regarding Christmas gifts:
"It is none too soon to begin to agree about the elimination of Christmas gifts," she writes. "Let us confine the giving to the very nearest and dearest of relatives, and make those gifts inexpensive and practical. Above all practical, say I, for I am still moving from drawer to drawer and from closet to storeroom the collection of useless stuff, wrapped in layers of tissue paper, gifts which I have received from time to time from well-meaning friends. This may seem unappreciative, but I often think of what might be bought for some one with the money wasted in foolish gifts."

CHILDREN INJURED

Ordinary Cathartics and Pills and Harsh Physic Cause Distressing Complaints

You cannot be over-careful in the selection of medicine for children. Only the very gentlest bowel medicine should ever be given, except in emergency cases. Ordinary pills, cathartics and purgatives are apt to do more harm than good. They may cause griping, nausea and other distressing after effects that are frequently health-destroying.

We personally recommend and guarantee Rexall Orderlies as the safest and most dependable remedy, which we know, for constipation and associate bowel disorders. We have such absolute faith in the virtues of this remedy that we sell it on our guarantee of money back in every instance where it fails to give entire satisfaction, and we urge all in need of such medicine to try it at our risk. Rexall Orderlies are eaten just like candy, are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night, do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness, or other undesirable effects. They have a very mild but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel, thus overcoming weakness, aiding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity. Rexall Orderlies commonly completely relieve constipation, except of course, when of a surgical character. They also tend to overcome the necessity of constantly taking laxatives to keep the bowels in normal condition. Three sizes of packages, 10 cents, 25 cents, and 50 cents. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Orderlies in Bridgetown only at our store—The Rexall Store, Royal Pharmacy, W. A. Warren.

REDUCING THE COAL BILL

When adding fuel to a good bed of live coal in the furnace cover one side only; the next time put coal on the other side. In this way the heat from the live coal tends to make coks of the fresh fuel by consuming the gas and smoke. Less draft is needed too, and less of the fuel goes to waste in gas and smoke, so that there is less gas and dirt in the cellar or furnace room and in the house by way of the registers. If large lumps of coal are used a good way is to scatter what is known as "slack" over them. The slack tends to hold the fire longer, and the lump coal will tend to prevent the slack from forming clinkers.

Digby Schooner Landed Big Fares

Digby, Nov. 23—The Digby fishing schooner Dorothy M. Smart, launched at Shelburne a little more than a year ago, commanded by Capt. Harry Ross, and owned by the Maritime Fish Corporation, is no doubt high line for Nova Scotia, and it is doubtful if any 95-ton fishing schooner ever landed as many fish during the first thirteen months of her career. The exact totals of her fares landed at Digby from Oct. 24, 1910, to Nov. 21, 1911, is as follows:—Haddock, 733,239 lbs.; hake, 381,678 lbs.; cod, 238,55 lbs.; cusk, 20,118 lbs.; halibut 20,418 lbs. making a total of 1,676,915 pounds mixed fish.

Capt. Ross is one of the youngest skippers out of this port, and his many friends congratulate him on his success. The crew is also an excellent one. The Dorothy M. Smart, which was designed by McManus, of Boston, and built by Joseph McGill, at Shelburne, is an excellent sailer. She was the winner of the schooner race during the fishermen's regatta at Digby last August.

TO ECZEMA SUFFERERS

If you are suffering from skin troubles of any kind you should be very careful not to let them grow worse. Some of the most dreadful and disfiguring diseases bear with a simple rash which might have been cured very easily. The best recommended cure for all skin troubles is a wash made of oil of wintergreen, thymol, and other ingredients, according to the prescription of Dr. D.D. Dennis, the famous skin specialist. This D.D.D. Prescription is scientifically compounded, and will not harm the most delicate skin.

If you want instant relief from that torturing, itching Eczema or would like to have your face freed from unsightly pimples or blotches, write the D.D.D. Co., Dept. B. M., 49 Colborne St., Toronto, and get a free trial bottle. It will relieve you.

Montreal, Nov. 22—Mrs. J. Taðema, a steerage passenger on board the S.S. Montrose, of the C.P.R. gave birth to a son when the Montrose was six days out from London. The child, however, lived only five days and died as the ship was nearing Anticosti.

"It was an impressive and sad scene," said an officer of the Montrose, "when we buried the little fellow. The mother seemed to have gone mad with grief and wanted to come out on deck when she heard that we were about to give the little corpse a seaman's burial. She shrieked, and cried alternately imploring us not to throw her baby into the sea."

THE GIRL WHO LAUGHS

The girl who knows when and how to laugh has acquired one of the best weapons with which to fight her way in the world. There was a time when the tearful woman was fashionable, but that day is happily passed. The woman of laughter has supplanted the weeping sister. Tears are the weapon of the weak; the strong woman smiles and turns life's rebuffs with skillful mirth.

Chines: Queen Mother Elopes

Princess Lai Leaves Baby Emperor and Flees With an Actor.

(Canadian Press)
San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 20—Princess Lai, mother of the baby emperor of China and wife of the prince regent, has eloped with an actor, Yung Shu Lu, according to Chinese newspapers published in China refer to the "disgrace that has come to the Royal family," but only one, the Min Lu Po, the largest newspaper published in China, gives the princess' name and an account of the elopement.

The mother of the emperor, the princess, fell in love with the actor and corresponded with him for some time before the rebellion began. The paper draws the conclusion that the princess believed that the Manchu cause was lost and decided to flee. The princess is said to have taken a fortune in jewels with her and to be living with Yung in Mukden.

THE FOWL'S PRAYER

A Few Pointers as to How to Feed Hens.

A prayer of the domestic fowl to its owner, is printed in the Smallholder. The following are some of its clauses:—

For breakfast, on cold days, I like warm mash with a little mustard; some good corn will do when it is warmer.

Flint and shell grit hung in boxes within my reach.

At noon sprinkle a little corn between the straws in my covered scratching shed; I am fond of exercise.

I have also a weakness for anything green; give it to me in plenty. Place a sunken box filled with ashes in my run; this is my bath.

Ere the sun sets give me as much corn as I can eat, so that I may sleep peacefully.

Dynamite as Toy Kills Three Boys

Lads Find Explosive at Rochester, N. Y., and a Terrific Blast Results From Their Sport.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 15—Three small boys, John Maguire, aged fourteen of 270 Reynolds street; Archie Clark, aged twelve, of 1 Wooden St., and William Perry, of 270 Reynolds street, were blown to pieces by an explosion of dynamite late this afternoon in Whittelsey alley, in the southwestern part of the city. The body of one of the boys was blown one hundred and fifty feet and landed in a tree, where it caught and hung until removed by the coroner.

William F. McGill was the only witness of the explosion. He was passing the corner of the alley in Reynolds street and was stunned by the blast. It is believed the boys found a quantity of dynamite and attempted to explode it by hammering it with rocks. Coroner Kleinienst will try to find where the boys got the dynamite.

There is little danger from a cold or from an attack of the grip except when followed by pneumonia, and this never happens when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. This remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds and grip and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. For sale by all dealers.

Weds in Bermuda

The Royal Gazette, Hamilton, Bermuda, of November 18th contains the following:—

On Wednesday afternoon last at 3.30 p.m. St. Paul's Church Paget, West, was the scene of a very pretty wedding when Mr. C. Goring Gilbert son of the late Mr. Henry Gilbert M.C.P., and Mrs. Gilbert, of Bermuda, was married to Miss Edith Alice Katherine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Johnston, of Dartmouth, N. S. The bride beautifully attired in a gown of duchesse satin trimmed with lace and bearing a bouquet of white roses and fern looked exceedingly charming and sweet. She was attended by Miss E. Gilbert, sister of the bridegroom and Miss Ethel Tucker. Miss Gwendoline Gilbert officiated as flower girl and Master Eugene Harvey as page. The bridesmaids carried bouquets of pink shell roses and fern. The bridegroom was supported by Mr. T. Butterfield as best man and the bride was given away by her father. After the ceremony the happy couple received their numerous friends at Paget West at the residence of Miss Hunt, cousin of the bride. A large collection of handsome and useful presents testified to the popularity of both bride and bridegroom. Amongst them was a beautiful gold watch and chain the gift of the Bank of Bermuda of whose branch at Somerset the bridegroom is manager. Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Johnston of Dartmouth were present at the wedding.

Concrete Sidewalks are Safe, Sightly and Everlasting

LUMBER used in damp places and on wet ground—as, for instance, in walks—has a very short life. It requires almost constant repairing and, in a few years, needs replacing. Concrete, on the other hand, improves with age, and the very dampness which destroys lumber calls out the best qualities of the cement by making it harder and harder—until neither time nor traffic can affect it.

The best of wooden walks keep getting out of repair, and are a continual menace to life and limb. They are also a frequent source of expensive doctor bills and lost time. Then, again, they are likely to eat up the original cost in repairs before they are replaced. Concrete walks are sightly, everlasting and safe. They cost less to build and need no repairing nor painting.

Write for our free book, "What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete." It tells in plain, simple language, how you can save money on farm construction by using cement for Barns, Dairies, Foundations, Fence Posts, Troughs, Feeding Floors, Hitching Posts, Stalls, Silos, Stairs, and so forth. The Book is well illustrated with photographs, plans and diagrams. Fill out the coupon or send a postal to-day.

CREAMED CELERY.

This is a nice way to cook celery for an invalid or a person with no appetite. Take a pint of fresh crisp celery and cut into inch lengths. Wash well in cold water and let it stand an hour in ice water. If there is time, as this will make it more tender and crisp. Cook in boiling water until tender, which will take about an hour. Make a sauce by heating two level tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan, without allowing it to color; then stir in two level tablespoonfuls of flour, and when smooth and bubbling add a cup of rich milk, or use part milk and part thin cream, or if you have some good chicken broth or jelly, take half a cup each of milk and chicken stock. Stir and cook until smooth and thick, then season to taste with salt and pepper, and for variety a suspicion of onion juice and a teaspoonful of minced parsley, or a little grated nutmeg or mace. Heat thoroughly and serve poured over the hot well-drained celery. For a luncheon dish the celery should be heated in the cream sauce then heated on nicely toasted rounds of bread. A grating of cheese on the top and garnish of the tender celery tips or parsley makes an attractive dish and quite substantial enough to take the place of meat.

As birds sing oftener on lowly roofs than palace domes, and roses love best to climb o'er lowly window sills and cottage eaves, so to the poor God's blessings come, freighted with dearest wealth, and to the humble heart His love is sweetest. They who have oftentimes bowed to earth with deep afflictions are nearest heaven; and as the rose never gives forth all its sweetness until it is crushed, so human hearts need the good Father's hand to press the blossoms of purity, and love and faith, that He may not have imparted to them their fragrance in vain.

There is no sterilizing agent more powerful than heat. The simple act of boiling any sheet or pillow case, towel or underwear renders it perfectly sterile. I would suggest, however, that you procure a pair of rubber gloves, such as many housekeepers use while washing dishes, and always wear these gloves while handling any bedding or other clothing that is at all suspicious. Wash the gloves thoroughly with soap in warm not hot water before taking them off after handling the soiled linen.

Mustard is the nearest approach to a universal cure-all. Few pains will not give way before a mustard plaster, and a wide range of internal inflammation from colds and other causes may be stopped by this time ly application. It is the first and best resort for threatened pneumonia, congestion of the lungs, or determined colds on the chest.

If you have a dull, uninvolved complexion the Turkish towel will help to bring the blood into action and its use, if persevered in, will result in a vivid clearness and transparency which no outward application of emollients will produce. The rubbing with the rough towel must be done carefully at first and gradually increased in severity.

Fears Expressed For Missionary and Family

Nothing Heard From Rev. P. R. Bakeman and Rev. Ashley Lindsay.

St. John, Nov. 23—Many friends in the Province are greatly concerned for the safety of Rev. P. R. Bakeman, Missionary in China, who formerly held a pastorate in Nova Scotia and his family. Rev. Dr. Flanders said tonight that no further word had been received today. He had received a letter from R. B. Lindsay, in Quebec, however, expressing grave fears for the safety of Mr. Lindsay's son, Dr. Ashley Lindsay, and his wife, both of whom were former pupils of Dr. Flanders, and who were not mentioned among the safe arrivals at Shanghai.

GETHESEMANE.

In golden youth when seems the earth A summer-land of surging mirth, When souls are glad and hearts are light, And not a shadow lurks in sight, We do not know it, but there lies Somewhere veiled under evening skies A garden which we all must see— The garden of Gethsemane.

With joyous steps we go our ways, Love lends a halo to our days; Light sorrows sail like cloud afar, We laugh, and say how strong we are, We hurry on; and hurrying go Close to the bordland of woe That waits for you, and waits for me Forever waits Gethsemane.

Down shadowy lanes, across strange streams, Bridged over by our broken dreams! Behind the misty caps of years, Beyond the great salt fount of tears, The garden lies. Strive as you may, You cannot miss it in your way. All paths that have been, or shall be Pass somewhere through Gethsemane.

All those who journey soon or late, Must pass within the garden's gate; Must kneel alone in darkness there, And battle with some fierce despair. God pity those who cannot say, "Not mine, but thine," who only pray,

"Let this cup pass," and cannot see The purpose in Gethsemane.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

BY AND BY

There's a little mischief maker That is stealing half our bliss, Sketching pictures of a dream land, Which are never seen in this; Dashing from our lips the pleasure of the present, while we sigh: We may know this mischief maker, For his name is "By and By."

He is sitting by our hearthstones, With his sly bewitching glance, Whispering of the coming morrow, As the social hours advance; Leitering 'mid our calm reflections, Hiding forms of beauty nigh— He's a smooth deceitful fellow, This enchanter, "By and By."

You may know him by his mincing, By his careless sportive air, By his sly, obtrusive presence That is straying everywhere; By the trophies which he gathers, Where his cheated victims lie; For a bold, determined fellow Is the conqueror, "By and By."

When the calls of duty haunt us, And the present seems to be All of time that ever mortals snatch from all eternity, Then a fairy hand seems painting Pictures on the distant sky, For the cunning little artist Is the fairy, "By and By."

"By and By," the wind is singing "By and By," the heart replies; But the phantom, just before us, Ere we grasp it ever flies; List not to the idle charmer; Scorn the ever specious lie; Only in the fancy liveth This deceiver "By and By."

Miss Pauline E. Johnson, well-known all over Canada and in this town for her poems and readings, is suffering from serious heart trouble and is in want. The Canadian Women's Club of Vancouver, where Miss Johnson lives, is establishing a trust fund for the publishing of a de luxe edition of Miss Johnson's works, in order to raise a sum that will relieve the brilliant Indian authoress from poverty.

"I am pleased to recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as the best thing I know of and safest remedy for coughs, colds and bronchial trouble," writes Mrs. L. B. Arnold of Denver, Colo. "We have used it repeatedly and it has never failed to give relief." For sale by all dealers.

"If I have faltered more or less, If I have moved among my race, And shown no glorious whirling face, If beams from happy human eyes Have moved me not, if morning skies Knocked on my sullen heart in vain, Lord, Thy most pointed pleasure talks And stabs my spirit broad awake." —Robert Louis Stevenson.

MADMOISELLE'S VEIL.

This Adjunct of the Toilet Completes a Charming Hat Effect. Of course she wears a veil if she wishes to be in the fashion and also if she likes to keep her well curled head in trim, orderly style. Black and white lace veils which hang straight from the brim of the hat are very smart fringed. They add a bit of charm to a charming hat or face, and nowadays that is a point not overlooked by the up to date woman or girl. Fancy mesh veils to match one's chapeau are also in vogue, and one sees numbers of brown, blue and green veillings. But the black veil will, always have its admirers, and there are many smartly groomed women who stick to black veils of various styles despite the whims and vagaries of that whimsical dame, Fashion.

The peasant blouse in its many variations will continue to be popular this fall and winter. The model pictured is quite new, the yoke being cut in points. This waist is made of messaline with trimming portions of all over lace, piping and buttons of velvet.

FASHION VAGARIES.

What is Doing in Hand Bag Fashions. Revived Fabrics. Illuminated leather in Austrian designs, rich in gold tracery, is going to be a leader among the materials for hand bags this year. This leather is by no means inexpensive, so there need be little fear of its becoming common, and cheap imitations, even if they appear, are easily detected. Corsetlet waist belts are worn again, but no bones are used to stiffen them. They are merely shaped to the figure and must be quite soft and pliable. This means that the corset beneath the dress must be a perfect fit.

In line with the revival of quaint old styles have come along some old time favorites in fabrics. One of these, which enjoyed some vogue as an alternative with velvet last winter, is corduroy. This year the wale is wider. Challie is another material that will be popular this winter in the all wool varieties. It comes in quaint little figured patterns and in many bordered designs.

The corset cover with the straight upper edge that may be cut from embroidery is one that is well liked. In the illustration the cover is cut with seams at the center back and under the arms; consequently there is little fullness at the waist line.

WHAT IS WORN.

The Skyscraper Hat is Here For Fall. Overskirt Effects Modish. The skyscraper hat with even higher feather decoration is a favorite note in fall millinery.

Overskirt effects are used on many of the skirts of afternoon dresses, the petticoat being of some contrasting color or of the material, which is also employed for the trimming.

The Peter Pan collar is far too pretty to be abandoned, for it fits well around the neck and in its latest developments is carried out in white linen, embroidered in colored silk or woolen thread.

The willow plume has had its day, and there is every reason to believe that the ostrich plume of olden fancy will take its place. A scrap of real lace these days is worth twice its weight in gold, for the merest touch of good lace raises a costume that is quite ordinary to the plane of an aristocratic one. A small collar and cuffs of real Bruges or other effective lace adds greatly to almost any kind of gown or coat.

The dress pictured is a wonderfully good looking model, and to make it means scarcely any trouble. The only real work is represented in the buttoned scallops and French dots. These decorations may easily be left out and embroidery substituted.

DECREES OF LA MODE.

Buttons of the Season Are Large and Beautiful.

Buttons this season are going to be large and very beautiful. On coats and wraps where only several are employed they measure as much as two or three inches across.

Three-quarters is the length of the regulation tailored coats. Fringe is widely worn. All of the tailored suits and all other gowns that will permit of its use are thus trimmed.

The narabou fan is one of the present novelties. The ones with pearl gray feathers and sticks are the most popular.

Side frills will be one of the important items in fall neckwear and are made in two effects—those for wear with tailored suits and those of a more dressy character.

Little bonnets of silver lace with ruffles of fine lace falling over the hip are very dainty and attractive. Pretty belts are made of gold ribbon worked with ribbon embroidery.

NEW CIRCULAR SKIRT.

High stiff collars are numerous despite the popularity of the Dutch or low neck.

The circular skirt is always a graceful one. Here is a model that is made with a double box plait at the back that may be treated in several ways. Fancy silk makes the combination shown in the cut.

Young Stowaway is Cast Adrift

Inhuman Captain Lands Boy on Bleak San Juan Island.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 22.—On the bleak, shore of San Juan Island, miles from the nearest habitation, without food or shelter, a boy fifteen years old, a stowaway aboard the steamship Alameda, was put ashore by Capt. John Johnson. The boy was found in the steerage soon after the vessel left Valdez, and was put to work by the members of the crew. All went well until Capt. Johnson learned that he was aboard and determined to put him ashore before Seattle was reached. Several of the passengers who had learned of the boy's plight appealed to the vessel's master, offering to give double the amount of his passage if allowed to continue the voyage, but Capt. Johnson was deaf to their entreaties.

In a lifeboat in charge of the third mate and two sailors, the boy was landed on the beach, despite the protests of the passengers, and left to walk without food or money to the nearest ranch. Soon after the return of the lifeboat and when the passengers learned that the little fellow was thinly clad and did not even have a cent, a meeting was called and after Capt. Johnson had been criticized resolutely, the little fellow was adopted.

A wireless message was also sent to officials of the Alaska Steamship Company, advising them of the action of their employe.

The resolution adopted by the passengers follows:—
"We, the undersigned passengers of the steamship Alameda wish to bring to your attention and protest against the inhuman action and conduct unworthy of a gentleman, namely that of Capt. J. Johnson, as follows:—
"A boy at the age of fifteen years was discovered as a stowaway, first put to work scaping a steam pipe, hoisted in a boatwain's chair on the deck in the bitter cold weather, then without our knowledge, while abreast of San Juan Island, a lifeboat was lowered and the boy was put ashore on the bleak island without food and without a coat.
"As soon as it became known the passengers on masse indignantly protested against this outrage and offer-

Remarkable Religious Gathering

three bodies of Christians are working, eq. pua "assiduo" up the "metropo" up Friends. A native was describing all the difference between them: "The Baptists have a big wash; the Methodists a little wash; the Friends no wash at all."

The co-operation evidenced by the present convention in Canada spells the speedy triumph of the Kingdom of God. He asked the question, "How can I help to evangelize the world?"

I. I can pray. (1st) for more laborers; (2nd) for laborers now at work; (3rd) for an awakened church.

II. I can study. (1st) God's promises and plans' (2nd) the facts of missions; (3rd) successful missionary methods.

III. I can plan (1st) to influence individuals; (2nd) to enlist my church; (3rd) to arouse my community.

IV. I can give (1st) one-tenth or more of my income; (2nd) as a faithful steward; (3rd) also time, leadership, friends and life.

V. I can work (1st) for individuals; (2nd) for the church; (3rd) for mankind; (4th) for Christ.

AND I WILL.

Mr. White's closing words were delivered in that tense silence which betokened intense interest and profound conviction of the winged truths of his splendid address. Last evening will tell tremendously upon the Province in the years that are to come.

THE WOMEN'S MEETING.

It is said that there is a mythical country in the east filled with women. Grafton Street church yesterday afternoon looked like that mythical country. The church was literally packed with the Christian womanhood of Halifax. The meeting began at three o'clock, with Mrs. Wm. McNab, of Halifax, in the chair. The only male beings in sight were those who were to address the meeting: Lieut.-Governor MacGregor, Sir Andrew Fraser, Mr. J. Campbell White, and Rev. G. J. Bond, pastor of the church. It was certainly a rare and, as will readily be believed, a beautiful sight as one looked out upon that audience. Mrs. MacNab introduced the speakers in a very charming and graceful fashion.

The first speaker was Mr. J. Campbell White. The first part of his address traversed the same ground as he did on Wednesday night in St. Matthew's church. Many new thoughts and facts were thrown in, however, in the course of his most interesting and stirring address.
