DUKE OF ARGYLL PASSED AWAY AT COWES

Son-in-Law of Queen Victoria and Former Governor-General of Canada, Succumbed on Saturday Night After Brief Illness — His Career Distinguished.

Canadian Press Despatch. COWES, Isle of Wight, May 2.—The Duke of Argyll, son-in-law of the late Queen Victoria, and former governor-general of Canada, died tonight at East Cowes, aged 69. He had been critically ill for the past week with pneumonia.

HIS CAREER.
John Douglas Sutherland Campbell, ninth Duke of Argyll, was descended from one of the oldest of Scottish families. One of his titles, Baron Campbell, came into the family in 1445, and another, Baron of Lorne, was created in 1467. He was also twenty-ninth Baron Lochow.

As head of the Clan Campbell, the Duke of Argyll was the descendant of a long line of chieftains, one of whom, Colin Campbell, came into the family in 1445, and another, Baron of Lorne, was created in 1467. He was also twenty-ninth Baron Lochow. The family seat has been Inverary Castle for seven centuries. The ninth duke was born in 1845 and was therefore 69.

Education at St. Andrew's and Cambridge Universities, the duke combined in his mental make-up the traditional academic standing of the nobility of England and Scotland. In 1868 he became Marquis of Lorne and entered parliament. He was then twenty-three. He sat in the commons for three years, during four of which he was private secretary to his father, then secretary of state for India in the first administration of Gladstone.

Married Queen's Daughter.
Many Canadians still remember the duke when, as Marquis of Lorne, he came to Canada in 1878 to be governor-general of Canada. His consort was Princess Louise, Queen Victoria's daughter, and many people still have hung upon the walls of their homes pictures of the vice-regal pair. Coming after so popular a governor-general as Lord Dufferin, it was all the more to be regretted that the Marquis of Lorne was not in any way vice-regal in office. He distinguished himself in office and was of profit to his country.

Princess Louise, by her tact and gracious presence, made herself popular throughout the Dominion. On returning to England the duke joined the ranks of the Unionists, and was elected to parliament for one of the Manchester seats. He continued in parliament till 1900, when the death of his father called him to the dukedom and the house of lords.

Known as an Author.
The duke achieved considerable fame as an author, but this distinction was somewhat obscured by his prominent position as a parliamentarian and as a public man and aristocrat. His chief works are: The United States After the War, written in 1865; Imperial Federation, same year; Memories of Canada and Scotland, 1884; Canadian Pictures, 1885; Life of Palmerston; Tales and Poems; the Psalms in English Verse; Windsor Castle; Liberty, for an opera; Diamond, 1897; Life and Times of Queen Victoria; A Gift Book for the Home, 1891; Passages From the Past, 1907.

PARTY DEADLOCK OVER ONTARIO AND QUEBEC

Prospects of Putting Thru Redistribution Bill Clouded Over by Serious Differences — All Liberals Not of "Die Hard" Order Respecting C. N. R. Legislation.

By a Staff Reporter. OTTAWA, May 3.—The beginning of another week finds considerable uncertainty in parliamentary circles respecting the fate of the redistribution bill and the line of resistance to be followed by the opposition respecting the Canadian Northern legislation. As to redistribution, it is generally understood that the committee has practically agreed upon the new map for all the provinces except Ontario and Quebec. In Ontario there is some dispute as to the eastern part of the province, the Liberals being strongly opposed to the elimination of Russell County as an electoral district and the giving of the French vote in the enlarged riding of Prescott. The differences in Ontario, it is said, may be composed, but a far more serious situation exists in the Province of Quebec. Postmaster-General Pelletier and Hon. Dr. Beaudry are utterly unable to get together, and nothing has yet come of the tentative proposal to submit their differences to the prime minister and the leader of the opposition.

Graham Not "Last Ditcher."
As to the Canadian Northern legislation: In spite of the decree of the party caucus, many Liberal members profess themselves ready to agree to assistance being extended to the road under proper safeguards and conditions. Hon. Geo. P. Graham

FAMOUS GENERAL OF CIVIL WAR HAS PASSED

Gen. Daniel Sickles, Last of Great Commander at Gettysburg, Died After Reconciliation With Wife, From Whom He Had Been Long Estranged.

NEW YORK, May 3.—General Daniel E. Sickles died at his home shortly after 9 o'clock tonight. His wife was at his bedside at the end. He was 59 years old.

Mrs. Sickles, who had been estranged from her husband for more than a quarter of a century, went to the general's house yesterday when she was informed he was dying and took charge of the arrangements for his care. She remained near his side thru the night and watched him until his death.

The final reconciliation was brought about largely thru the efforts of their son, Stanton, it is understood. The general recently having made advances to his wife when assured by Stanton that they would be met half way.

General Daniel Edgar Sickles was the last of the great commanders who fought the Battle of Gettysburg, where he had one leg shot away.

Active in Politics.
He was active in politics from early youth, and after serving in minor state offices was elected to congress in 1857. It was while serving his second term as congressman, in 1859, that the national capital was stirred by the news that the young representative from New York had shot and killed Philip Barlow, the United States district attorney for the district of Columbia. Sickles declared that Key had misled Mrs. Sickles, who was Theresa Baglioli, daughter of an Italian music teacher. His trial lasted twenty days, ending in the acquittal of Sickles on the ground of the "unwritten law." He then took his erring wife home. Mrs. Sickles died of a broken heart a few years later.

In 1859 he was appointed minister to Spain by President Grant. In Spain he contracted his second marriage, which proved unhappy, and for more than twenty-five years the general had been estranged from his wife.

FELL THRU SKYLIGHT WHILE DRYING HER HAIR
Mary Derosie Dropped Three Storeys and Escaped With Broken Arm and Shake-Up.

Altho she claims to have fallen 40 feet thru a skylight on the roof of her home at 535 West King street, Mary Derosie, aged 28, lies in the General Hospital with no worse injury than a broken arm and a strained back.

According to the injured woman she was drying her hair on the roof at 5 o'clock yesterday sitting on the edge of the open skylight. She says she suddenly became faint and toppled backwards into the open shaft, falling three storeys to the bottom. She was picked up by other inmates of the house and taken to the hospital in F. W. Matthey's private ambulance.

THE WHIPPOORWILL AND STRAWBERRY LEAVES
On Saturday evening at exactly 7:40, when nightfall was further darkening one of the few secluded bushes in three miles of the city limits, a whippoorwill, of his mysterious call. At that hour, and if quiet prevail, the little song sparrow puts forth his last sweet note of farewell to the disappearing day; then two whippoorwills utter their raucous notes, and the whippoorwill, near at hand, and from the ground of a stump or log, gives his call, loud, full of whorls or rolls, and so distinct he too, fits about, for the next call is fifty yards away. Then a second bird of the same kind made his call, repeated rapidly six or eight times, a hundred yards away; then they both called "whippoorwill" almost in unison several times; then silence, when a third and then a fourth repeated, all four within a three-acre patch, rare trees hereabouts, and for ten minutes the woods were filled with their uncanny calls. Every other bird had gone silent, as suddenly the four whippoorwills went silent, the night and bush also went stiller and stiller and before 8 o'clock the movement was all over.

On Sunday, if you were in any of the thousands of patches of cultivated strawberry berries from Toronto all round the head of the lake and in the Niagara fruit country, you could see all kinds of strawberry leaves, some large and of a rusty color, others, myriads in number, most of them small, very light green and each leaf beautifully mottled and full of that peculiar distinction that pertains to this plant. And all portending the fruit and the fruitfulness of the vines six weeks hence. Bright green strawberry leaves, close to the ground as they are today, will suddenly take a lift up by leeching their stems and the blossoms will soon after come. But the bright green leaf close to the ground is what you see at the moment, and the sight of it gladdens the heart of many an industrious worker. For a strawberry plant is the little busy bee of the garden; it gets results quicker than almost anything else.

MINE MAGNATE DIED SATURDAY IN TORONTO

Duncan McMartin Began Prosperous Career With Railroad and Ended With Gold and Silver Mining—Member of Syndicate Which Bought La Rose and Hollinger Mines.

Duncan McMartin, mine owner, real estate investor, railroad contractor and millionaire, and young brother of John McMartin, died on Saturday night at the Wellesley Hospital from heart trouble, brought on by an attack of pneumonia. For a week he hovered between life and death, and it was his strong constitution which enabled him to fight off the end for so long.

Mr. McMartin, who was 44 years old, was born in 1869 at Martintown, Glengarry County, Ontario. His grandparents came to Canada from the United States as United Empire Loyalists, having come originally from Scotland. Mr. McMartin received the rudiments of his education in Glengarry County schools. His first position after leaving school was railroading, then followed railroad contracting, and subsequently gold and silver mining interests, in which he met with great success. This was followed up by investments in real estate, timber limits, lumbering, mining, farming, in the west, apartment building and other industries.

Gets Start in Mining.
When Alexander La Rose, a blacksmith, discovered the La Rose mine, Duncan McMartin, his brother John McMartin, E. A. Dunlop of Toronto, Noah Timmins and L. H. Timmins of Montreal, formed a syndicate and bought the mine. At that time McMartin was one of the contractors for the construction of the T. & N. O. Railway.

One of the principal characteristics of John and Duncan McMartin was their success in business, and good judgment in mining matters. When the Porcupine district first was opened up five or six years ago, one of the richest prospects was the Hollinger mine. This the syndicate bought. It is the biggest and best mine, and was the quickest to show results in the district. Today, Hollinger is worth from ten to thirty million dollars. The syndicate is heavily interested in the Larder Lake district and in British Columbia.

Builds Power Plant.
In addition to carrying on mining, the syndicate built the Walworth Falls power plant and the Cobalt hydraulic plant. Mr. McMartin was the youngest member of the syndicate.

Duncan McMartin's business interests kept him traveling between Montreal, Toronto, Cobalt and Porcupine and New York. He made his headquarters at Montreal. Two years ago he moved to New York to live in a large apartment house he had purchased.

Defeated in Glengarry.
In the last general election Mr. McMartin was candidate in the Conservative interests in Glengarry, but was defeated. His taste, however, never ran toward political life, and he was not a member of any club. In religion he was a Presbyterian. He attended strictly to his business and his home.

Ten days ago Mr. McMartin became seriously ill. He was a big, robust man, and the attack of pneumonia with which he was taken did not seem to have any effect for many days. In fact, he did not know that he had the disease. When his illness became serious, however, four doctors were called in consultation, Dr. Caven, Dr. McPhedran, Dr. J. E. Elliott and Dr. Anderson.

Leaves Widow and Children.
Duncan McMartin was married on Dec. 10, 1902, to Miss I. V. Alderson of Sault Ste. Marie. His widow and three small children survive. The body was taken last night to Cornwall, and the funeral services will be held at John McMartin's home there. Interment will be at Williamsburg, four miles from Lancaster.

Martin Mar-ey.
Lovers of the drama will be favored with another opportunity of seeing that sterling actor, Martin Harvey, in his two great successes, "The Bread and the Treshams" and "The Only Way," this week at the Princess Theatre. The Treshams will be given tonight.

HAMILTON MAN ELECTROCUTED

Leonard Stewart Killed Thru Seizing Electric Light Wire in Basement of Store Saturday Evening.

Special to The Toronto World. HAMILTON, May 3.—While getting some oil for a customer in the basement of his grocery store at 1153 King street east, at 8:30 Saturday evening, Leonard Stewart, 42, seized an electric wire and was electrocuted, a heavy current passing thru his body. He was thrown against the wall by the shock. An uncle, Robert Stewart, who was at work in the store above, heard a noise and hurried into the cellar, where he found the body of his nephew lying on the floor and enveloped in flames. Seizing a piece of scantling he removed the wires from the body. A physician was summoned, a pulmotor was secured, and an unsuccessful attempt was made at resuscitation. Coroner Hopkins ordered an inquest to be held. It is believed that the current sufficient to cause death resulted from a high the electric light wire.

Mr. Stewart was a widower and lived with his mother and uncle. A son and daughter survive.

GEN. PAGET'S MOTHER SUMMONED BY DEATH
Lady Paget Was Widow of a Distinguished British Soldier.

Canadian Press Despatch. LONDON, May 3.—The death occurred today of Lady Alfred Paget, widow of the late Gen. Lord Alfred Henry Paget. She was the mother of Lieut. Gen. Sir Arthur Paget, commander of the British forces in Ireland, whose wife is a daughter of the late Parson Stevens and Mrs. Marietta Stevens of New York. Another of her sons is Almeric Paget, a member of parliament, whose wife is Pauline Whitney, former secretary of the United States navy.

PURSE SNATCHER HELD AFTER A LONG CHASE
Earl Franklin Wrenched Chateau From Woman's Wrist, Was Seen by Policeman.

Earl Franklin, 22 Mutual street, age 20, was arrested by officer 372 Saturday night charged with assault and robbery, after a chase extending over half a dozen city blocks.

Standing on the corner of Bloor and Yonge streets Officer 372 saw Franklin approach Miss Hoddo Smith, 82 West Charles street, and attempt to snatch her chateau from her hand. The girl resisted, and it was not until Franklin had broken the strap on the purse that he was successful in taking it from her. The struggle drew the attention of the crowds and Franklin had barely time to take to his heels, closely followed by the officer. Down Yonge he chased and along Charles the chase continued until Franklin was finally cornered on North street.

A BILL FOR $7750.
A doctor's bill for $7750 is said to have been referred following the recent illness and recovery of Sir James Whitney, premier of Ontario. It was returned, according to information given to The World, accompanied by cheque for $5000. When a reporter for The World called upon the residence of Dr. Alexander McPhedran, 151 West Bloor street, by telephone at 10 o'clock last night, it was stated that he had retired for the night. The person who answered refused to let The World talk to Dr. McPhedran.

Rev. Silvester Horne, M.P.

Famous British Preacher and Member of Parliament for Ipswich, Succumbed to Heart Trouble While Coming to Toronto to Give a Series of Addresses.

On his way to conduct brotherhood rallies in Canada, Rev. C. Silvester Horne, M.A., M.P., president of the National Brotherhood Council of England, died suddenly of heart failure at 8:30 Saturday evening on board the "Corona," just after the vessel had entered Toronto bay.

Mr. Horne left England, accompanied by his wife, some weeks ago to give a series of lectures at Yale University, and afterwards intended to proceed to Canada to address several meetings in the interests of the Brotherhood Federation, in which he was so greatly interested.

The suddenness of his husband's death was a great shock to Mrs. Horne, who was formerly Catherine Cosens-Hardy, daughter of the Right Hon. Cosens-Hardy, master of the rolls in England, but she is bearing up wonderfully well under the terrible strain.

The body was conveyed from the wharf by A. W. Miles' private ambulance to the residence of N. W. Rowell, M.L.A., whose guest Mr. Horne was to have been during his stay in Toronto.

The ministers of Toronto held a short and impressive funeral service at Mr. Rowell's home at 9 o'clock last night, after which it was announced that the body would be conveyed to Montreal this morning on the 9 o'clock Grand Trunk train, where it would be placed on board the Royal George and taken to his late home in England. Mrs. Horne will accompany the body.

It was learned that Rev. Silvester Horne had been sick for some time in England and his doctor had advised him to give up some portion of his duties, and before sailing for America he resigned the pastorate of the Whitfield Tabernacle.

Born in Cuckfield, Sussex, England, on April 15, 1836, Rev. Charles Silvester Horne received his early education at Newport Grammar School. He subsequently studied theology at Mansfield College, Oxford, and gained his M.A. at Glasgow University.

He first entered the service of the church when he was elected minister of Kensington Chapel in 1859, but he resigned this position in 1862 to take up the duties as Congregational minister at Whitfield's Tabernacle, Tottenham Court road.

Mr. Horne entered the British Parliament in 1870, when he was successful as a radical at Ipswich. In 1892 he married Catherine, the eldest daughter of Right Hon. Cosens-Hardy, the master of the rolls. He is also survived by four sons and three daughters.

Joy Turned to Sorrow.
The first meeting which was to have been addressed by the late minister was at the Western Congregational Church, Spadina avenue, yesterday morning.

A large congregation was present in the expectation of hearing a man who was so beloved among their fellow members in England, and immediately after the service Mr. Pedley came forward it could be seen that something unexpected had happened.

"It is with great regret," said Mr. Pedley, "that this meeting, which was to have been the greatest meeting this church had known, and one which was to be a meeting of joy, should at practically the last moment be turned into one of profound sorrow. Mr. Silvester Horne, the beloved leader of the brotherhood movement in England, was to have addressed this meeting today, but instead his lips are closed in death. Mr. Horne died suddenly, as the boat on which he left Lewiston was entering into our city."

Moved to Tears.
The shock of this announcement was terrific. For some minutes the congregation appeared stunned, but when the people at last fully realized the sadness of the situation there was hardly a person in the whole church who was not moved to tears. Men and women alike gave vent to their feelings, and it was some minutes before Mr. Pedley could proceed with his address.

The speaker then gave a full account of the manner in which his friend had come by his death, and in a few simple words told his congregation what a great man the world had lost.

Rev. Alfred Hall then delivered a prayer, in which he thanked the Lord for giving unto the world so great a man as Mr. Silvester Horne.

This Week's Attractions at the Theatres

E. M. SOTHERN AT THE ALEXANDRA

Sothern at Alexandra

THE novelty of E. M. Sothern's engagement in this city this week will be "Charlemagne," which will be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday matinee, the new romantic play by Justin Huntly McCarthy, author of "I Were King" and "The Proud Prince." The author has drawn freely on history for his plot, and seems to have supplied a wholly interesting and appealing story in which war, love, warriors and ladies fair figure busily and entertainingly. The play on the occasion of its initial production in Chicago a month ago, made an immediate success. She will be seen also in the chief feminine roles in "If I Were King" tonight and tomorrow night, "Hamlet" Wednesday night, and "Lord Dunsinore" Thursday matinee.

Martin Harvey at Princess

AFTER an absence of a little more than two months, the noted English romantic actor, Mr. Martin Harvey, and his full London company returned to this city yesterday afternoon for a second engagement at the Princess Theatre, beginning tonight and continuing through the week with regular Wednesday and Saturday matinees. Since appearing here last

Shea's Hippodrome

THE bill arranged by the management of Shea's Hippodrome at Teraulay and Queen streets is headed by the Fountain Olympia, who have a repertoire of startling new diving and swimming evolutions that will turn local swimmers green with envy. Pietro, the oracular pianist, acrobat and clown, will supply a musical treat. Josie Flynn and her Merry Minstrel Solids appear in a snappy singing and dancing melange. "Direct from the Polish Factory," by Saunders and Van Kuntz is guaranteed to make everybody laugh. Niblo's Talking Birds say clever things and are absolutely novel. An excellent singing and dancing act is given by Cotter and Golden. A beautiful pastoral playlet entitled "Ruckin' the Run," introducing Frank Lynch and Co., is in itself a whole show. Elliott and West have an excellent singing and eccentric dancing number.

Four Stage at the Gaiety

THE New College Girls Company, which appears at the Gaiety Theatre this week, is one of the best burlesque shows on the Columbia Amusement Company's circuit of theatres. The name "College Girls" has become a trade-mark in the burlesque world. This season Miriam has spent money lavishly on scenery, electrical effects and costumes.

Bonstelle Players

JUDGING from the large number of mail orders received, The Bonstelle Players and Miss Catherine Proctor will receive a right royal welcome when they open their summer season at the Alexandra Theatre Monday evening. Several theatre parties have evidently been arranged, as requests have been made for seats in blocks of twenty and twenty-five. The first offering, "The Temperamental Journey," when produced in New York, was described by the critics as a comedy with a "punch." During the summer matinees will be given on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday.

Fiske O'Hara Coming

FISKE O'HARA, the popular young Irish tenor, will open an special singing engagement at the Grand Opera House next week, and the engagement he will present his three great successes, "In Old Dublin," "The Rose of Kildare" and "Love's Young Dream." During the first week he will be seen in "In Old Dublin," introducing many of his old songs, as well as several new ones.

Varnishing Day at Canadian Art Club

Sixteen Artists Represented at Seventh Annual Exhibition. Friday was varnishing day at the seventh annual exhibition of the Canadian Art Club. Ninety-four pictures, representing the work of sixteen artists, attracted the attention and criticism of the early visitors to the gallery. Perhaps the picture that drew the first sight was "The Royal Mail," a large canvas by Horatio Walker. The outstanding figure in the landscape are two horses plunging their way thru a waste of country, every muscle straining with the effort until the loonine head and foreleg of the leader seem almost strained out of proportion with the stress of endeavor. The story of the picture seems to be that time, tide and all the elements must give way to his majesty's service. The "After Glow" is a beautiful scene by William Byrmer. In the water between the banks, blue sky, foliage and trunks of trees are reflected most truthfully, and the housetops appearing just above the steep banks give a very human touch. Maurice Cullen has a painting on the North River showing the peculiar blue tints on the snow, which for some has so great an attraction. The dark trees and cold sky are most effective. Among the strong canvases is "The River Drivers," by Homer Watson. On the turbulent water between the high hills rising on either side and away in the distance are massed the floating rafts guided by the drivers, whose red shirts give just the touch of high color needed.

The fact has been established beyond all dispute that a child afflicted with adenoids and enlarged tonsils, is seriously handicapped.

Unhygienic surroundings, improper food, bad air, irregular hours are all important contributing causes to these diseases of obstructive tissue.

The child breathes thru the mouth when the obstruction in the air passages of the nose is not quite so great, there will be mouth-breathing only at night, snoring is a common symptom.

One End Is Inevitable If Principle Is Lacking

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

DEAD, by his own hand, the clever, erratic man of genius, who was too clever to be just plain good. Too clever to be just plain loyal. Too clever to be just plain decent.

The only one who came to fold his hands upon his breast and see him decently laid in the kindly, all-forgiving earth is the wife he scorned and threw aside.

The woman he left her for was too busy to be bothered.

The other woman who dragged him away from the second woman—they say she gave a party on the day of the man's funeral.

What an easy story it is to tell—the story of the man without the anchorage of principle. It always ends the same way. There's never any surprise in it.

He had the yellow streak—the man who committed suicide the other day. I wonder if he realized it and if that is why he couldn't stand it to live any longer.

Would there have been any use in trying to help him get rid of the yellow streak? Perhaps if one had begun when the man was younger. But it grows with what it feeds on—the streak of yellow.

Called it "Courage."

This man was a professor in one of the great colleges of the country. His lectures were so brilliant that his class room was always crowded to the doors, and every word he said was caught up and passed from mouth to mouth as a sort of message to the world. He was idolized—almost worshipped.

And then—he met a woman. Oh, he had a wife, a good wife and a true wife, but that didn't make any difference to the other woman—or to the brilliant professor.

He wrote a lecture about it. He believed in freedom, he said; he was a free soul and so was the woman who wanted to take him away from his wife; humanity had been crippled with shackles long enough, he would not wear them another hour. And so he broke them off—the "shackles" of principle and of honor and of fidelity—and he went away with the other woman and left his wife.

He didn't sneak away—there's that to be said for him. He didn't try to hide his "romance"; he blazoned it across the face of every blank wall in the country—he put out a placard and told all who ran to read—and if he could he would have written his story with a torch upon the open sky.

And many of those who loved him and believed in him were thrilled by his "courage." And many envied him the freedom of his soul; and many said, "So will I do when my turn comes to live."

Is the Woman Free?

But these were all young, very young. The older ones sighed and looked wistful, and said nothing at all.

And then there came the third woman—there always does seem to be a third, doesn't there, and, oh, so often, a fourth and a fifth. And the second woman was not so tolerant as the first, and there was trouble; and the man's brilliancy could no longer hold him a position of trust or honor, and he was poor; and he was sad—he whose heart had beat so high with happiness. So he died—alone—by his own hand.

And the only one to find him decent burial was the woman whom he had deserted and humiliated—so that he might be "free."

Is she free today, that woman of noble soul? I wonder. Or does her tired soul call to her from the grave of the man who broke her heart—because he thought himself too clever and too free to be honest and to be loyal and to be true.

Newest Chic Mantelets

By Madge Marvel

UNTIL the cunning little shoulder-capes were revived this spring, the present generation knew the "mantelet," as the manteau, or mantle, as the mantelet was familiarly called, only by name, or as it was shown in some old-time picture.

Thirty years ago the wardrobe was complete without the shoulder wrap of silk, velvet, cloth or lace. Sometimes it was of the same material as the gown, when it formed what is now known as the "three-piece suit."

More often it was developed in some contrasting stuff and color which made it more useful, for it could complete as

THE MAN IN THE MOON

By Michelson

GENERALLY there isn't much use looking for him unless the moon is all there. But there are times when you can see him even with a fragment of the moon in sight. It may depend on your having been with him most of the evening. In such cases the man is known to have been plainly visible when you couldn't see the moon at all—when he has been known to have wandered off distractedly to the Dipper, for example.

Such cases are very serious cases. Sometimes they are quite incurable. When you begin SEEING THINGS in this way you may know that, whether the man is in the moon or not, YOU are in LOVE. And when this malady gets started in May it is extraordinarily difficult to cure.

Aaice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

Dear Miss Laurie:

Every night when my fiance comes some of my brothers come in. He tells me children make him terribly irritable, and so he gives them money to stay outside.

Do you think I could be happy if I married him, even though he may love his own children very dearly? He offers me every worldly blessing.

ISOBEL

WELL, Isobel, I'd think a while before I married a man who says that children make him terribly irritable.

I know very nice people who do not like children—some of the finest men I know—yes, and women, too. are bored to death when they have to have children around—but I have always noticed that people of that sort are quite apt to be selfish and egotistical, and I have often wondered if that wasn't the reason they didn't like to be "bothered" with children.

I should be just the least bit afraid that that fiance of mine might some day be "bothered" with me—just because he had things of his own he wanted to think about and didn't like to have me always breaking in with my own ideas.

Such a man as that might love his own children very dearly—most egotists do love their own children. Didn't you ever notice that there are some men who think that anything belonging to them is just a little bit better than anything belonging to any one else on earth?

I used to think that no man who was kind to dumb animals could ever be unkind to human beings, and the other day a man who can't pass a dog in the street without stopping to pet him, robbed a savings bank of the money belonging to hard working men and

With the Bark On

No man can be truly rich who has never been really poor.

The boat that drifts must go with the stream.

There is much in a name. A family patronymic has given many a worthless man a standing in the community.

With all the wealth that Cresus had he never knew the comforts of a modern 40-a-month flat with steam heat, hot water, gas range—and a janitor.

The strong-minded woman who resolves not to say "This is so sudden" never gets the chance to make the remark.

The quality of the liniment does not matter when it is to be applied to a knot in a wooden leg.

The man who starts out to "see life" often sees what causes death.

The mile you walk seems longer than the one you ride.

You might as well be hoist by your own petard as by the other fellow's, and there must be some satisfaction in having one about the premises.

There are limitations even to the uses of a hairpin when handled by a clever woman. It will not serve for a snow shovel or for paying gas bills.

The way to keep a secret secret is to keep it secret.

It may not pay to be honest, but it does not always pay to be dishonest.

Beggars can be choosers to the extent of choosing from whom they shall beg.

The polish on the case may not help the tone of the piano, but it helps the salesman dispose of the instrument.

Of course, the worm may turn, but even then it hardly becomes an important factor in civilization. It makes little difference which way the worm is headed.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

What "Charley Horse" Is; More Play the Remedy

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B. M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

A GAME of baseball is both an abomination and a blessing. To those who play it, it is Ponce de Leon's Fountain of Youth. To those who idly loiter away an ill-spent afternoon looking at it, instead of playing, it is a Jonah, a hoodoo, a plague spot, a thorn in the side, a wrong undressed!

In other words, every fan, bleacherite and patron of "the great American game," who trolleys or autos to the ball park, rides up in an elevator or otherwise climbs into a seat on a beautiful balmy, sunny afternoon, there to ensconce himself for two hours, is actually adding avoirdupois and beef fat to his anatomy.

This is storing up both fat and trouble for a stormy day. Like Macbeth's ghost, every afternoon which should be spent in ball play and other sweat-making exercise, thus wasted in a grandstand or a bleacher seat, will rise up to haunt you in later years.

Tollers in the fields, pavers in the streets, muscular workers at hard labor, as well as the sick, the old and those overworked physically, are exceptions.

Baseball Very Beneficial.

One afternoon a week spent in this type of spectacular, American business may be excusable to any one. More than this is a hissing and a mocking. The merchant, financier, book-keeper, typist, secretary, stenographer or other indoor worker, who views a baseball game, instead of playing the game himself, will ultimately and inevitably pay the penalty of this encouragement of muscular degeneration.

"Quit your kidding, doctor," said my friends, Hughie Jennings, John McGraw, Joe Kelly and Wilbert Robinson, when they heard this. Yet it is absolutely the best physiological gospel. The very quartet, eternal youths that they are, bear out my teaching.

Nor are girls and women any exception to the rule. There is no doubt in the wide world but what Mary, Jane, Edna, Louise and Clara would all be the better, mentally and bodily, if they played baseball three or four times a week for two hours a day.

"Charley Horse" is the fearsome trifle which has lured many a promising girl and man candidate away from the free field and no favorites of the baseball sphere.

"Charley Horse" is the picturesque term applied to all the aches, pains, sorenesses and qualms of the flesh which ensue upon the first few trials on the bases, in the field, at the plate or in the pitcher's box.

Continue to Play.

The unusual exertion, the odd twists, turns, kicks and gyroscopic spins given to the flesh and blood so stretch and pull the parts from their ingrained, vegetative positions that a stiffness and soreness result.

This racks the body fore and aft. You must submit, now, to the tender mercies that torments thus begun.

What to do? If this be "Charley Horse," how may you make the most of it? The answer is obvious. Like a spavined or a runaway horse, if you let it alone, it remains pretty bad. If you attempt to stop it, you are just as badly off.

Evidently, only one proper course is open to the victim of "Charley Horse." This, to wit, is to continue to play. The cure is homeopathic; therapy is bound to find many things to it—namely, to work out the pain by producing

R. C. E.—What is good for weak lungs?

Everything that aids in the cure of tuberculosis will make you gain flesh and have sound lungs. Among these are sleep and exercise, good, rich, fatty, meaty foods and plenty of them, with eggs and cream, oils, butters and lots of sunlight.

ADMIRER—Am bothered with heart pains and that stuffy feeling. Also what is good for a 9-year-old child, thin and emaciated.

There is nothing wrong with your heart, but your alimentary canal needs cleansing. Take buttermilk between your meals and drink 15 glasses of water every day.

This child needs some fatty meats, candies, chocolates and fresh fruits. Give him a cod liver oil, but be sure it contains no alcohol.

Mr. R. S. de R.—(1) What is a good brain tonic, or food? (2) What is a good wash for inoperable cancer of the larynx?

(1) Good, wholesome food, new studies and muscular exercise. (2) Pressure of the palate tones up the brain.

Meanings of Odd Names

THOSE who are apt to regard with derision the Archbalds, Adolphuses, and Marmadukes of the aristocracy, real or otherwise, will learn with surprise that such high-sounding names have equally impressive meanings. The name Adolphus, for instance, means "bold-berc," that of Archibald "extremely bold," while Marmaduke can pride himself upon being "a mighty noble."

It will interest Edwin's sweetheart to learn that his name means "gainer of happiness," while Aubrey's is a "ruler of spirits," though exactly what spirits is not stated. How Giles came to be evolved from "a kid" is not quite easy to understand, but the meaning of Hillary, "cheerful, merry," is, of course, quite obvious.

Lucky is the girl who marries a Jesse or a Lambert, for they mean "wealth" and "illustrious with landed possessions," respectively, while Robert is "bright in fame" and Owen "a young warrior."

William has quite an imposing list of meanings to his name—"resolute helmet," or helmet of resolution, defence, protector.

Turning to the ladies, one finds that Bridget, whose skill in housework is proverbial, has the appropriate meaning of "shining bright," attached to her name, while Florence is "blooming and flourishing." Evangeline is "a bringer of glad news," Eulalia one of "fair speech" and Etanice "happy victory."

Beware of Myra, "she who weeps or laments," and of Ursula, a "she-bear," and cultivate instead the acquaintance of Mildred, the "mild speaker," or Winifred, "the lover of peace."

Veronica is "uncertain," and many a Priscilla belies her name, for it means "somewhat old, ancient." A youngster burdened with the name Sophronia might find consolation in the fact that she at least of the family was "of a sound mind," while Urania and Olympia will be glad to know that their names mean "heavenly."

Useful Hints for the Housewife

By Ann Marie Lloyd

RHUBARB is such an everyday commodity that scarcely any one stops to consider how it is produced so abundantly at this period of the year. Rhubarb is at its prime, in a natural, outdoor state, during the months of May, June and July.

Unlike most plants, rhubarb flourishes best in the dark. In a natural way, when the plant is growing in the open ground, it early develops enormous leaves, which completely shade the root, thus enabling the stalks to grow in comparative darkness. Certain species of this plant attain quite a large growth, some of the stalks being as much as four feet in height and five inches or seven inches in circumference at their base. The leaves of this variety often measure two feet to three feet in diameter.

If you have fear of moths being in a carpet or rug spread a wet bath towel over the place and iron dry with a hot iron. It will kill moths and eggs.

To insure the best results in coffee making, thoroughly wash and boil the coffee pot after each using, adding a bit of baking soda to the water. Rinse and dry, and air by leaving the cover up.

To heat the hot coffee may be traced to the fact that the coffee pot is not carefully washed coffee pots. Cold coffee should be strained off the grounds and never left standing in the pot.

Oily bottles are almost impossible to clean by ordinary washing. If the bottles are filled with ashes and placed in a pan of cold water which is heated gradually to the boiling point and then kept simmering half an hour and the bottles allowed to remain in the water till they are cold, the water emptied and the bottles washed in soapuds, the oil will have disappeared and the glass be perfectly clear.

EFFICIENT CITY GOVERNMENT

What was inevitable in the American system of government by commission in municipalities has come to pass, and the whole idea of commission government is in danger of gaining an "evil" reputation on account of the wrong principles on which the American system is based. The World has fought against that system for years, and has been deliberately misrepresented by some who declared we supported it. It is well to bear in mind the essential difference between what The World has been advocating, and the American system, which merely intensifies the evils it was designed to cure. We may also once again call attention to the fact that the perfection of the plan we have advocated, as demonstrated by the experience of the German municipalities, where it is generally adopted, is to the minds of some the chief objection they have to it. It eliminates the party element in executive government.

But it does not eliminate the party element in legislative and elective concerns. We base our advocacy of this form of commission government on the fact that it is impossible to elect the best officials. The best engineers, judges, architects, librarians, presidents of universities, professors in universities, managers of railways, doctors in hospitals, cannot be secured by election. They have to be appointed. The American idea is that you can elect them. The World idea is that they must be appointed. It has been found that the elected commissioners in the United States have developed the same faults as their elected predecessors, only they do so, and instead of relying on one party to support them they have intrigued with both parties to secure their continuance in office, and the perpetuation of the extravagant policies usually associated with intriguing.

Our plan is to elect the council in the usual way. The aldermen, however, would have no salaries, no administrative duties, no committees to attend, no duties whatever, except to lay down general policies, and appoint the best men available, with liberal salaries, to carry out these policies. It is the meddling and the meddling of the aldermen in matters of administration that makes government expensive and inefficient. If less time were needed for the discharge of aldermanic duties, if patronage were sterilized, as it so badly needs to be, by being removed from the aldermanic atmosphere, if no attraction for cheap men were afforded by the offer of any kind of salary, then a better class of aldermanic candidates would be available, solid and responsible business men who could give the attention necessary to the position. These men would have as their chief duty the selection of commissioners whose work would henceforth be independently performed, unsubjected to the interference of obstructive and incompetent criticism such as now delays and retards the public works of the city. Such commissioners, their whole professional reputation, and their future careers at stake, would give the city such service as the great business corporations everywhere receive. The city's business, finance, engineering, law, sanitation, transportation, would be transacted in a business-like manner. We would save a couple of millions a year by superior efficiency.

Yet those who howl loudest against the results of the present wasteful methods are, curiously enough, those who howl loudest against this, the only efficient method, as Germany has demonstrated, of obtaining elective city government.

FORD'S ENGLISH SCHEME.
Henry Ford, the automobile manufacturer of Detroit, who recently allotted $10,000,000 of his annual profits to his employees in the shape of increases in their weekly wages, has now included his English establishment in the scheme. Employees of the company at Trafford Park, Manchester, numbering about 1300, will have $250,000 divided among them, or rather among those of them who are held to be duly qualified. This amount will enable a minimum wage of 30 cents an hour to be paid to each male adult worker over the age of 22 years, but those under that age who are the sole support of families, will be included in the full benefits. The working hours are also reduced from 50 to 48 per week, for which the lowest wage paid, whatever the nature of the employment, will be $15 a week, a large wage for unskilled and even skilled labor in Britain, and comparing suggestively with the minimum of $5 a day paid in Detroit.

In connection with the English scheme a sociological department will be established for the purpose of investigating and supervising the lives and character of the employees who benefit. Mr. Ford, said his managing director in England, does not believe in sharing his profits with men who do not lead a respectable life, and to earn the full amount they must be sober, steady and industrious. It will be the duty of the sociological staff to make any enquiries necessary to guard against the extra money being spent in riotous living. This is rather a delicate trust, and will have to be performed with tact and discretion to avoid the natural resentment that is apt to follow upon close and personal supervision. Mr. Ford is, of course, enabled to impose his own conditions on the men who will so materially benefit and his object will command sympathy on the part of the public and enlist the support of the families concerned.

EDUCATION IN ENGLAND.

England has always lagged behind Scotland in the provision made for the education of the children of the masses. Its deficiencies have of late been much debated and an earnest effort will soon be made to improve the existing system. Perhaps the most glaring is the miserable pay many of the teachers receive, often, indeed, considerably less than is earned by the ordinary artisan. From an article by Mr. Chizzia Money, M.P., in The London Daily News and Leader, it appears that headmasters in England are paid salaries working out at an average rate of $17 per week and assistants $12.25, while head mistresses only receive $12 a week and women assistants $9. Uncertificated men teachers are only paid on the average $6.25 and women teachers $5. Taking England and Wales, as a whole, says Mr. Money, it is clear that tens of thousands of teachers are paid round about $5 a week.

If this is true a large revision of salaries upward appears to be the first step necessary to improve the educational system of England and Wales. In these days when Britain's commercial and industrial activities are faced with increasingly keen competition by countries like Germany and the United States, where the value of good and skilled education and technical training is fully recognized, failure to keep pace means a serious handicap in later years. England is rich enough to possess one of the finest educational systems, but it will not obtain this until a complete reform in method is accomplished and proper salaries paid. This means large additional grants from the public exchequer at a time when expenditures in other directions are also rising by leaps and bounds. But education is so vital to progress and so essential to the country's life to maintain its position in the international field that adequate provision must be made.

THE LATE DUKE OF ARGVLL

Following that of the Earl of Minto the death of the Duke of Argyll, who as Marquis of Lorne, was formerly Governor-General of Canada, removes another name from the brief list of the survivors of the office. The Duke of Argyll had a most happy marriage with Princess Louise, the failure of issue and an heir to the ancient house of Campbell being the only cloud on a felicitous union. An American press yarn, given unfortunately currency, does far less than justice to either the Duke or the Duchess. The match was a love match, and Queen Victoria would have been more inclined to oppose than to forward such an alliance. Princess Louise, who had an unusual share of the brains of her father, had her way, and it has been a happy one. The late Duke was the author of several books of graceful style and thoughtful character.

SEALED TENDERS, whole or separate, addressed to the Secretary-Treasurer of the Board will be received until the 18th of May for the several trades required in the erection of new twelve-room school buildings on Torrington avenue, Toronto.

Specifications may be seen and all information obtained at the office of the architect, Messrs. Lindsay, Brydon & Street, Toronto, 215 Bay Street and Yonge Street. Tenders must be accompanied with an accepted bank cheque for five per cent of the amount of the tender or the equivalent in cash. Tenders are to be in the hands of the secretary and treasurer, No. 1 Logan Avenue, North Toronto, not later than 5 p.m. on the day named, after which no tender will be received. The lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

(Signed) G. T. DAVIES, Chairman.
W. M. BURGESS, Sec.-Treas.
J. A. McDONALD, Trustees.

THE C.N.R. ARRANGEMENT.

Winnipeg Free Press (Liberal).

Of the arrangement reached between the Dominion Government and the Canadian Northern it can be said that, on its face, it displays a desire to safeguard the public interests that has not been apparent in the past in the bond-guaranteeing-enterprises of the various Canadian governments, provincial and Dominion.

It is probable that for this agreeable change the people have to thank themselves more than the Borden Government. There has been a marked change in public sentiment over this bond-guaranteeing business, and the Borden Government have had the good sense to realize this and to shape their course accordingly.

The safeguards and conditions imposed have the appearance, at any rate, of providing that the money to be raised on the credit of the people of Canada must be applied strictly to the business in hand, and of putting Macdonald and Mann, in the position, of having to save the enterprise from ruin, under the penalty of foreclosure in the event of failure. If public aid is necessary to save the enterprise from ruin, these conditions will meet, to some extent at least, the demand of the public that the assistance must be conditional. The value and effect of these provisions and stipulations will be fully discussed in parliament, and as the discussion proceeds it will be possible to reach an accurate judgment as to how completely the interests of the people have been safeguarded.

ONLY THREE DAYS MORE TO GET "HEART SONGS."

Our distribution of "Heart Songs" has been wide and far-reaching. We only regret that we cannot renew our contract with the publishers, whereby we have been able to distribute the contents of the work of song music among our readers at the bare cost of distribution to ourselves. Seldom has a book seemed to so completely satisfy a want among the people. This is not to be wondered at when we reflect that for more than fifty years past the greater part of the present population of this country has been practically raised on the songs that appear in "Heart Songs." The descendants of the old settlers heard their mothers, sisters and sweethearts sing the only music that was then known. The memories that extend back over a lifetime are not easily forgotten. And this may be the reason that the distribution of a book like "Heart Songs" has spread like wildfire. Certain it is that none of the more modern song music has taken the place of the old melodies that seem always new and fresh. Come operas come and go, ragtime flares up and fades away, but the songs of our fathers still abide with us. This, at any rate, is what constitutes the popularity of the book we have been distributing far and wide. Our offer is to be positively withdrawn on Saturday next, which gives only a few days more to our readers. In order that none may be disappointed, we print this notice that the coupon is published elsewhere in today's paper.

ST. JOHN HYDRO-ELECTRIC CO. REJECTED TIME EXTENSION BY PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE.

ST. JOHN, N.B., May 3.—The application of the St. John Hydro-Electric Company for an extension of time to begin work on the erection of a dam across the St. John River above Fredericton, to develop power on an enormous scale, has been rejected by the legislature. The legislature also refused to give the St. John Railway company authority to issue an additional $5,000,000 worth of bonds on the grounds that part of a previous issue of $1,000,000 had not been taken up.

TORONTO PAPER EARNINGS DROP

Directors Hopeful of Better Showing—Admit Statement is Unsatisfactory.

The Toronto Paper Company's statement for the year ended March 31 shows that profits for the year were $75,692, or only $400 more than was shown in the last statement issued, which was only for a period of seven months.

To the profit shown of $75,692.80 was added previous balance of $44,327.25, making a total of $120,020.05. Bond interest took $30,000 of this, and dividends $80,425, which, with other appropriations, left a surplus of $9,595.05 to carry forward some $18,000 of a decrease from the previous figures.

The balance sheet shows that current assets have decreased some $77,000, from $241,266 to $164,266, and current liabilities have increased from $42,000 to $69,946.

The directors admit that the showing is unsatisfactory, but state that the plant is in good condition, and they are hopeful of better business in the current year.

To Investigate Hudson Bay Fisheries.
(Special Correspondence.)

HALIFAX, N.S., May 3.—The department of marine and fisheries is to make an investigation into the fisheries of Hudson Bay. A schooner is to leave Halifax at an early date with a party of scientists as soon as navigation opens. Preliminary investigations indicate that the bay and straits are exceedingly productive of superior grades of fish.

"The Conduct of Life."

O'Keefe's SPECIAL EXTRA MILD ALE

The Beer That is Always O.K.

Is the ideal home ale. Pure, healthful and invigorating. A tonic and mild stimulant. Good for the hard worked business man and for the woman with household cares.

Brewed only from pure barley malt, choicest hops and filtered water, it contains nothing but wholesome nourishment, rich in food properties, readily assimilated.

Bright, sparkling and delicious, O'Keefe's Special Extra Mild Ale will never make you bilious. Full Bodied, Properly Aged, Rich and Creamy and yet mild in stimulating properties and a little better than any other brand.

In ordering from your dealer, do not say simply Extra Mild Ale but O'Keefe's Special Extra Mild and insist that nothing else is "just as good."

BEDFORD PARK WON FIRST CRICKET GAME

One Run Victory Over Yorkshire Society — A Presentation.

Bedford Park Cricket Club opened the season with a match with the Yorkshire C.C. on Saturday. Before the match started the Bedford Park C.C. presented to their president, Mr. W. G. Ellis, an illuminated address from the players of the club, which was heartily received. Mr. Ellis thanked the club and hoped that they would top the league. A hearty vote of thanks from the captain was then called for by Mr. Ellis. Bedford Park, winning the toss, decided to bat first. Mr. W. G. Ellis bowled the first ball, which was wide. The following were the scores:
Bedford Park C.C. 42.
Yorkshire C.C. 41.

GARIBALDI—ITALIA'S GREAT PATRIOT

In the cause of Personal and National Liberty this modern Rienzi of sunny Italy would have gladly laid down his life. It inspired him to deeds of immortal grandeur, of superb valor and of boundless suffering. Garibaldi would not have legislative tyranny of any kind enter into his own private life any more than will our millions of liberty-loving Italian citizens. His flaming soul scorned any legislation which would prohibit ALL because ONE man out of thousands imbibes in gluttonous quantities. He knew that the light wines of Italy and the barley brews of Germany are beneficial to humanity.
Upon an old Germanic basis 57 years ago Anheuser-Busch, brewers of Budweiser, established their brand. The Constitution of the United States is the sole authority upon which they launched their business in America. Every day of these 57 years has been devoted to the brewing of an honest Barley-malt and Saazer-Hop brew—the kind that spells Temperance throughout the world. Seven thousand, five hundred people are daily required to keep pace with the public demand for Budweiser. Its sales exceed any other beer by millions of bottles.

Random Notes on the Mining Stocks.

Cobalt, May 2.—Buffalo Mine's report for the month of March shows an increase in every particular, including ore milled average assay at heads and ounces of silver recovered.

The new ore house plant of the Seneca-Superior Mining Company which has a daily capacity of from 25 to 30 tons will be in operation early next week.

Peterson Lake was active again Saturday opening at 4 1/2 and selling down to 4 1/4. Profit taking was responsible for the decline.

Editor Mining World: I think that a good bit of unnecessary ado is being made over the Chambers-Perland Aladdin matter. It is hardly possible that the directors would do a wrong thing to a member of parliament.

CHICAGO, May 2.—Belief that wheat stocks here would be reduced to an impressive extent in the near future has much to do today with causing the market to rally.

Receipts of warehouse receipts on a large scale aroused misgivings among shorts in wheat. More than half a million bushels of No. 2 hard was reported as having been ordered out of Chicago elevators yesterday.

Receipts of farm produce were 6 loads of hay, about 45 loads of mixed produce, 100 loads of butter, and a moderate supply of fresh-killed poultry.

FARMING, THE STOCK, HORTICULTURE AND EVERYTHING OF FARM INTEREST

GAINED SUCCESS ON WESTERN FARM

Man Who Went West From Toronto and Took Homestead, Satisfied.

STARTED WITH NOTHING

Worked for Neighbors and Earned Enough Cash to Pay Expenses.

The experiences of every person who goes west in search of free land are not the same. Some are quite successful in establishing homesteads and making money out of them. Those who have gone to the prairie provinces in recent years appear to be as a rule convinced of the preferability of homesteading to remaining workmen in a large city. One man's experience is given below:

While the writer is speaking entirely from the gloomy side of the question I would like to give a few facts relative to the other side and put things in a different light. A. C.'s experience, I should judge by the way it reads, must have been 10 or 20 years ago, for land could not be bought within 10 miles of any town under $16 per acre. A quarter section being 160 acres, this land could not be any less than $2560, and A. C. says he could have bought it for $2000 and less nearer town. I did hear of a man buying a quarter section out of town for $2000, but that was five years ago when the nearest town was 30 miles away, but the man that bought it wants $30 per acre now, and it is worth it. It is worth it, he has made treble out of that land with the crops he has taken from it since. A. C. had 11 years' practical experience as a market gardener with $1000 capital and an annuity of agriculture whatever, in fact, I did not even know how to hitch a horse to a buggy. I do not say now that I know all about farming, for I can learn a lot yet and am willing to do it. I did not have $1000 capital to start with, either, for when I left Toronto Union Station to go west on Saturday afternoon in August, 1908, I had the sum of $5. With a determination to take whatever came I got a job with a farmer on Saturday morning when my funds were down to 10c. Then I went off threshing at $2 per day, and that was my only income for the first few days. I worked round with different farmers for two years and got a little experience, and as homesteads were pretty well picked over in that district I decided to move further on, but eventually I selected a homestead just 15 miles from a town, but I had a town of about 2000 inhabitants, since that time there have been new lines come in and I have now about eight or nine markets I will call them, with no sane man can expect the railway companies to haul tracks, lay steel and build stations in an unsettled country with only old buffalo bones one has to go in and get going, then the produce away and with the railroad comes more settlers, and homesteads near the town, but the first man in gets the pick and those that come in after, probably the same

DISCARDED COWS OFTEN MILK BEST

More Than One World's 'Champion Picked Up at Auction Sales.

Here and there one finds a dairyman who hesitates about taking up cow testing because of the initial expense of about three dollars for the necessary outfit of scales and bottles.

This would seem to be an extreme case of "penny wise and pound foolish." So many examples are constantly cropping up of distinct saving thru the small expenditure that they should be noted for the encouragement of those who still hesitate. Cows have been bought at auction time after time, cows which were discarded by owners who were either absolutely ignorant of their high value as good producers. After one or two months' rest they are often sold for $50 and $100 more than their original purchase price. In fact, many of the cows discarded at auction were picked up by thousands of dollars.

This vital fact should not be overlooked. Hundreds of poor cows are being kept today at huge expense of whose low value the owners are probably ignorant. Yet a three dollar outfit would help discover them. Then, thanks to that small expense, many dairymen are now making an additional income of three hundred dollars from twenty cows, because they would have been discarded. It will abundantly pay every dairyman to keep dairy records.

looked twice at his farm first. I do not contend that a man is going to make his fortune thru farming in a west, but an easy and comfortable living can be made, and for a man with little or no capital there is no better place than I have seen or heard of to best and another thing, you are dependent for your living, for there is no other way to get on. The wages at the end of the week and the work at his back and call what in place of for you the rest of the week and employed ranks to join looking for something to do to get bread for wife and children. Like what happens in the United States. After a man proves up his homestead, if he has a wife and children, two or three cows, together with fifty to one hundred chickens, a few pigs and a garden, he should have a very comfortable life. The man who returns from his city and with little by little to his house, stable and the extra machinery in the yard, he should be able to get on in the world, and not forgetting the wife's labor-saving devices in her work.

the wife's constant breaking down, he will have a bright, happy, healthful home when he returns from his day's labor, and instead of being a piece of furniture, there should be many who have done better than I have and others that did not. In some large town or other (I come from London, Eng.) who thought that they would like to be in town again after proving up the homestead, but in every case that I know of they have returned again and taken up a homestead, and a whole section next to me, which, by the way, is held by a Toronto man, who probably has never seen it, was advertised in our little local paper at $25 per acre on fairly easy terms, but I do not know if it was sold or not.

NEW SCIENCE ONE OF MANAGEMENT

Farmers Are at Present Little Skilled in Most Efficient Methods.

SCHOOLS ARE AT FAULT

Pupils Not Drilled Into Best System of Working Economically.

To make the assertion that most of our farmers do not know the best methods of laying out their fields and building barns is completely ignorant of the exact profits obtained from each branch of their work; to go further and say that they know how to grow crops but do not know how to raise them best to grow, and that after they have grown their crops they are ignorant as to what to do with them, is not an overstatement of the facts. It should not be assumed that farmers are unbusinesslike by nature or that they are wanting in intelligence, for the fact that they do not know the best methods of raising their crops is not their fault, but the fault of the schools and the lack of instruction in the best methods of raising their crops. The farmer who is at present little skilled in most efficient methods of raising his crops is at fault because of the failure of the schools to teach him the best methods of raising his crops.

INSUFFICIENT EDUCATION

The farmer speaking broadly, is unversed in the sciences of economics and farm management is not his fault, but his misfortune. The blame should rest on our inadequate educational methods. Beginning with our agricultural colleges, we find a vast array of subjects taught, many with direct and others with somewhat indirect bearing on agriculture, the latter being often nevertheless useful and desirable from the academic standpoint. We hear of the production per acre by the growing of better varieties, by the extermination of weeds and by the disposal of the increased amount of produce, or even of how we are to profitably sell what we already grow. It is not a word or two that are casually tossed into the air, but the farmer who also do a few hours' work at ordinary accounting.

MISTAKE IN CURRICULUM

The "powers that be" who are responsible for the framing of the college curriculum seem to imagine that the teaching of all business principles lies in the learning of the principles of the subject that can be in the limited time that he can devote to his studies. He knows his business methods and other such necessary evils of the world. To expect a scholarly and practical farmer to be a student of the principles of Political Economy as a text book, to give students an insight into the amount of labor saved and interest gained on a capital when a rectangular field eight rods wide is plowed in comparison with the plowing of a triangular field of the same width is to expect him to be a practical teamster and a mathematician. Surely the most important subject that we can teach the farmer should be taught in farm management and all other subjects should be co-ordinated with and subsidiary to that chief of them.

PREPARED SEED BED

Most Important Single Operation in Process of Getting Stand of Grass.

The preparation of the seed bed is the most important single operation in the process of getting a stand of alfalfa and keeping it.

ALFALFA DEMANDS

Preaches Level-Headed Agriculture. G. P. Warren, Ph.D., professor of farm management at New York State College, is the chief apostle of the new gospel of level-headed agriculture, and like most pioneers in many fields is looked upon even by some agricultural professors as a fanatic. When fanaticism

SHOULD NOT FEED MILK PRODUCTION

Chicks Too Soon Matter of Getting Best Results From Cows No Simple Task.

BEEF RAISERS SHOULD UNDERSTAND VALUES

Knowledge of Problem of Comparative Values Necessary to Raise Beef.

The farmer who raises beef for market ought to be as interested in the problem of comparative values as the consumer to whom the beef is sold. Unless he knows about this problem he cannot expect to raise animals which will secure the best prices in the market. It matters not if cheap cuts be made as palatable as the drier ones; the fact remains that some parts of the carcass are valued higher than other parts, and it is the value of the parts that the farmer should be raising if he expects to make a maximum profit. If he does not know what parts of the animal are cut into cheap cuts and what parts are cut for the rich man's table, he will be liable to fatten just as many animals for the poor conformation as of super-ior make-up.

FEEDING METHODS

In addition to the above, give the chicks daily a little green food such as grass, lettuce, sprouted oats, etc. Do not have the moistened bread sloppy but in a crumbly state, and dry feeds put the chicks onto fresh soil.

Fourth feed: Rolled oats. After the chicks are ten days to two weeks old, coarser foods may be allowed. The milk discontinued. Hoppers in which rolled oats may be placed where the chicks can have free access to them, as soon as they become accustomed to the hoppers all hand feeding except the mash may be discontinued. If the chicks are on range it will be found that after a time they will pick themselves out of the hoppers.

TEST RELATIVE VALUE OF FORAGE PLANTS

As has been the practice ever since the work with forage plants was undertaken by the Dominion experimental farms, the principal varieties of the different kinds of forage plants have been grown during the past year with the object of determining their relative value. During the season of 1913 the tests conducted in' applicable by the division of forage plants at the central experimental farm and the branch experimental farms and stations throughout Canada consisted of 11 different varieties of Indian corn, 19 varieties of turnips, 13 varieties of mangolds, six varieties of carrots and three varieties of sugar beets. The work with leguminous forage plants and grasses, including alfalfa and cover, consisted of breeding for increased hardiness, of breeding for increased quality, and experiments with clover, orchard grass, western rye grass and some wild grasses. In order to place the more important results of the season's work before the public in a summarized form, Bulletin No. 76 has been prepared by Dr. M. O. Malte, Dominion agronomist, and the superintendent of the branch experimental farms and stations. This bulletin of 24 pages is available to all who make application at the publication branch, department of agriculture, Ottawa.
