DID BRITISH GUNTS
PERSUADE SULTAN?

Turkey Said to Have Backed Down on British Ultimatum---Constantinople
Advices Say Sultan Has Yielded Conditionally.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 12.—The Turkish government has accepted the demands of Great Britain conditionally. It is anticipated that this is only a preliminary to the complete acceptance of the British demands in regard to the Turkish boundary question.

LONDON, May 12.—The Foreign office has not yet received advices that the Porte has definitely accepted the British demands, but the latest official despatches from Constantinople intimated that the Sultan was preparing to submit. It is said at the foreign office that there can be nothing "conditional" in the acceptance as the demands of Great Britain are irreducibly minimum. CONSTANTINOPLE, May 12.—The change in the Sultan's attitude must have taken place very late last night or early today for the Grand Vizier's visit to the British ambassador, Sir Nicholas R. O'Connor, at eleven o'clock last night had no immediate result except to emphasize the fact that the attempt of Turkey to attain a compromise was useless. The Grand Vizier's proposals were as unacceptable as were those of Tewfik Pasha, the foreign minister, on the previous day, and Sir Nicholas again pointed out the futility of suggesting modifications of the British demands, which constituted the absolute minimum.

BLOOD-HOUNDS ON THE SCENT

Dogs and Indian Trailers Being Used to Track Men Who Held Up Imperial Limited.

VICTORIA, May 12.—(Special)—Indian trackers are on a hot scent after the Imperial Limited train robbers, and blood-hounds from Nelson will be put at it today. A boat in which were three men who acted suspiciously was subjected to a fusillade of shot from Indian yesterday, its occupants landing hastily on the southern bank and disappearing.

SERIOUS CHARGES

Methodist Conference Meeting in Victoria is Investigating
Two Grave Cases.

VICTORIA, May 12.—(Special)—British Columbia Methodist Conference, now meeting in this city, has under consideration two serious cases. The first is that of Rev. J. J. Baer, charged with habitual drunkenness. This case has been waiting investigation for some time. The other case is that of John Stone of New Westminster, who is charged with debauchery by his own daughter.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE

AT THE EXHIBITION

A committee from the Women's Council this morning paid a visit to the exhibition building with Manager Milligan and decided on a space for the proposed domestic science exhibit. The committee was composed of Mrs. D. McLean, Mrs. R. C. Skinner and Mrs. W. H. Purdy.

They are to report to the council meeting at 5 o'clock this afternoon. The exhibit will be situated in the gallery of the main building, just over the front entrance, and is to be 50 by 50 feet, with an area of 4,500 square feet.

The ladies propose to have different departments in the space, including domestic science, home economics, and laundry, etc.

A WOOD CUTTING WAGER

A report comes from up river that Alexander McLeath has accomplished a master stroke and won a wager. It seems that some of his friends said that he could not cut four cords of wood in a single day. Not to be outdone McLeath went into the woods at Holdenville and not only cut the four cords of firewood, which had already been felled, into regulation lengths, but piled it, in a single ten hour day, and so won the wager.

BUYING FOR INVESTMENT

(Montreal Herald.) A local broker speaking of the improvement in the market expressed the opinion that most of the buying was for investment, as money here was altogether too high to make a purchase attractive for a trader. Seven per cent. was a little too high to have to pay a broker for carrying stocks. As far as he could see the banks were not trying to get into a position to reduce the rate, but it could not possibly last very long.

Rev. Dr. Herridge will preach in St. Andrew's church on Sunday, May 20th, not tomorrow, as stated on page 7. Tomorrow Rev. Gordon Dickie, of St. Stephen and Rev. David Lang will exchange pulpits.

An odd looking craft went floating down the harbor this morning. It was about 12 or 15 feet square, built of logs with a heavy post in the centre, and from its appearance had evidently formed part of a wharf up river somewhere, and had become detached by the freshet.

Plaisant, coach of St. Mary's club, expected on the Red Cross line tonight. He will bring a shell for the and probably a single for himself. —fax Chronicle.

AMNESTY FOR PRISONERS

Russian Parliament Receives
Congratulations from Political Prisoners and Favors
Amnesty --- Demonstrative
Strike Ordered.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 12.—The feature of the second session of the lower house of parliament today was a frantic demonstration in favor of amnesty. When among a mass of congratulatory messages from all parts of the empire were read several from political prisoners in jail or in exile in Siberia, the members, except a little group on the extreme right, rose, cheering in a body, the galleries joining in the applause. A motion was presented to send replies to the messages but this was declared to be out of order.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 12.—The social democrats and other proletarian organizations have ordered a demonstrative one day strike, on Russian May Day, May 14. It will, however, be of a peaceful character and no efforts will be made to disturb the workers who are anxious to participate to leave their work.

OPENING UP WELL

Calgary Now Ranks With St.
John in Bank Clearings.

(Vancouver World.) The first report of the Calgary clearing house is surprising. Very few expected that at the outset it would take rank with St. John, N. B., London, Ont., and Victoria, B. C. All important commercial centres in Canada. Even ambitious Hamilton with its large population, now numbering nearly 60,000, does not exceed the first clearing week of Calgary by more than about a quarter of a million. In the United States there are about thirty cities that make regular clearing returns that do not average as high as the standard set by the first week of Calgary's figure.

TODAY'S NEWS FROM 'FRISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—Within the past few days it is said new records have been opened up in the case of the commercial travellers on the move over the coast. Some of them are known by reputation to banking men to be persons of large wealth. Others are supposed to be present wealthy clients in eastern money markets. The evidence points to the fact that the boys had a lively workout and for a first practice showed remarkably good form.

Kelly, formerly of the Clippers, has signed to play seven in base, and is regarded as quite an acquisition to the team. The Victoria grounds are rapidly being put into good shape. Manager Dunham has had the bleachers repaired, a new plank walk laid to the grand stand and other improvements made. The grounds will be ready for the opening of the season in first class condition for the opening.

In response to an inquiry this morning, Director Cushing said the work of retaining the block pavement on Prince William, Dock, Mill and Main streets would be started as soon as the council passed upon the tenders for the blocks.

BIG CANADIAN RUBBER MERGER

MONTREAL, May 12 (Special)—It is stated on excellent authority that the Granby Rubber Company, of Granby, P. Q., will either be consolidated with or absorbed by the Canadian Rubber Company of Montreal. Canadian Rubber officials are not prepared to make the plan public, but there is no doubt of the deal. Canadian Rubber was recently re-organized under Major Stephens, M. L. A., and D. Jones McMillan, S. H. C. Miner is president of Granby.

STOCK MARKET CONTINUES STRONG

MONTREAL, May 12 (Special)—There was considerable activity and strength on the stock market this morning. Mackay common and Dominion Coal were most conspicuous in buoyancy, jumping from 67 1/2 yesterday to 70 after the opening at 68 1/2 today. Ciel was dull but sold up from 70 1/2 yesterday to 78. Other features of trading were Twin City, 118 1/2; Montreal Street Railway, 27 1/2; Canadian Pacific, 101 1/2; Mackay, 73 1/2; Montreal Power, 92 1/2; Detroit Union, 96; Toronto Railway, 110.

The yacht Canada will make her first trip of the season up river tonight.

INTERESTING BUDGET OF NEWS FROM ALONG THE
REACHES OF THE RIVER

Indiantown Floods Have Passed Danger Point---Up River
Farmers Say Ground is Too Wet For Planting---A House
Moved By The Flood---Capturing Drift Logs.

The freshet at Indiantown has fallen somewhat, and all danger of damage to goods in warehouses situated near the water front, has passed away. Large quantities of drift-wood and chips are seen strewn along the water front. The plank ways to the river steamers will of course be in use for several days. Among the punts plying by the freshet is the removal of a building from its former position, near the Indiantown ferry boats, to a point near the wharf where the Zaine and Hampe's land their passengers and freight. Reports from along the river are to the effect that the water is just about holding its own, many of the wharves being covered, and landing from the boats in several places is rather a difficult task. The ground in most places is quite wet, making planting impossible, but farmers say that a week or ten days of good fine weather will enable them to "put down" potatoes and other vegetables. An Indian town man, who arrived from up river last night, reports having seen pass an inch and a half high, in the vicinity of Public Landing. A few drift logs are still running, but the river will probably be clear of lumber today. The Little Glacier reached Millerville early today with about 7000 joints, and will leave about Monday for Fredericton to bring a raft from Springfield for the local operators. Captain Perley said this morning the drive of drift logs caught by the tugboat crew was then about at Woodman's Point, and would probably reach Millerville by tonight. When asked as to the total number of logs brought down, he said that at a rough estimate he should say from fifty to sixty thousand pieces. He said also that the logs Lord Wolsey, Sea King, Helmut Glaser and Ada were probably at Woodman's Point at that time. There were, he said, about 2,000 more drift logs to come down. It is expected that sorting will begin at Millerville at once, under the direction of Fred D. Miles. W. H. Dunham, who returned yesterday from up river, reports that he encountered about two feet of snow in the woods in the vicinity of Public Landing.

MONTREAL HAVE AN IMPROVED POWER PLANT

MONTREAL, May 12.—The city lighting department has about completed extensive improvements to the electric lighting plant and power house, which will cost twenty thousand dollars or more. The improvements include raising the roof of the building nine or ten feet, and installing a new engine and boiler, generator and other machinery of an up-to-date character. The engine is being built by the Robt Engineering Co., of Amherst, and is 450 h. p., something like 200 h. p. more than the largest engine now in use in the station. The generator has a capacity of 300 kilowatts and is double the capacity of the present large generator. It is expected that the new machinery will have a capacity sufficient to carry the entire city load, with some to spare. The I. C. R. will shortly begin putting in a siding on the land recently acquired for the site of the new shops and industrial buildings, and the work will be utilized on the ground in preparing for the work of the construction of the new buildings.

G. H. Longhine, mechanical superintendent of the I. C. R., returned yesterday morning from Ottawa, where he has been for some days consulting with the deputy minister of railways, in regard to railway matters generally. G. H. Longhine, C. R. airbrake inspector, will leave next week with his instruction car for a trip over the Canadian Eastern section with the deputy minister of railways, in regard to railway matters generally. G. H. BOYS MUST APPEAR

James Allan Gordon Macdonald and Everett Marney, the three boys reported for throwing potatoes at David Warner on the 4th and 5th inst., did not appear to court this morning, although notified to do so. Mr. Warner appeared, and laid information against them. He stated that the potatoes did not strike him, but came dangerously near his head.

Allan is out on suspended sentence, and now they will be taken to compel the boys to appear.

The case against Harold Crawford and George Watson for setting fire-crackers off in Israel Harbour's hall-way was dropped, as the law simply deals with fire-crackers which are set off on the street.

EMPRESS OF BRITAIN

YORK COUNTY HAS
MYSTERIOUS CASE

Inquest This Afternoon on the Body of Man Found Dead on the Roadside
---Fredericton Planning for Big Horse Race Meeting.

FREDERICTON, May 12 (special)—The stockholders of the Fredericton Park Association at a meeting last evening elected the following directors for the coming year: A. A. Sterling, D. McCatharine, Hugh O'Neill, T. H. Colter, L. B. Phair, J. A. Edwards, J. H. Calder, A. B. Kitchin, and J. S. Scott. At a subsequent meeting of the directors A. A. Sterling was elected president, D. McCatharine vice president, J. H. Calder treasurer and T. S. Wilkinson secretary. A committee was appointed to visit on J. N. Seaboard of the C. P. R. and ask for a reduction of freight rates on horses being transported to and from race meetings. The clause for the big race meeting to be held here July third and fourth are fixed as follows: First day 2:20 and 2:35 class; second day, 2:24 class and free-fall. A purse of $300 will be offered for each event. In all races first, second and fourth place. Entrance will close with the secretary on June twentieth. Coroner McEwen went to Hanwell this afternoon to hold an inquest on the body of a man found on the roadside here yesterday. All efforts to locate the unfortunate man's relatives have been unsuccessful, although it seems certain that he came recently from the United States. The money found on his person consisted of four, two dollar American bills, a twenty-five cent piece and five coppers. There were also two insurance premium books on which the name of James Cochrane was written in lead pencil. The last weekly payment of a premium in the Metropolitan Life, was made on Sept. 21st, 1903, to W. T. Callahan, of Quincy, Mass. The stranger arrived at Mitchell Goodine's place, at Hanwell, on Thursday afternoon. He said he was looking for work, and finally agreed to hire as a farm hand with Mr. Goodine for twelve dollars per month. He refused to rest on a couch and about midnight he got up and left the house, taking with him a small grip in which he had an extra suit of clothes. Acting under instructions from Solicitor General Jones, Dr. G. J. McNally went to Hanwell this afternoon to ascertain the cause of death. T. B. Kidner, the director of manual training schools is at the Dufferin on his way home to Fredericton, after a trip of inspection. During the week he has inspected the equipment of a new manual training department at Roschville, Sussex, and another at Bloomfield. In these two places the trustees have taken about $100,000 of the board of education's offer to assist in establishing small manual training schools. At Roschville work commenced on May 1st, and at Bloomfield it is expected that operations will begin on Monday next. Mr. Kidner says the general outlook is bright, but he is still short of teachers, males especially being required for the work.

The funeral of the late Sterling H. SOME EXCUSE FOUND FOR PRANKS OF THE LUDLOW

The Ludlow is having her own troubles these days with spring tides and a strong freshet, and she creates considerable talk by her eccentric actions. However, the new $80,000 craft is not altogether to blame according to the talk of a man who is supposed to know something about such boats. In conversation with a Times man this morning he contended that the new beauty was no worse than her predecessors, in fact not so hard to manage in these trying times.

He pointed out that the Otago and the Win-Low could only be taken out of the east side slip on certain tides in freshet time by means of a rope attached to the end of the enticement, which was used to it taxed the ingenuity of the captain navigating the boat successfully.

right. This has not been done yet with the Ludlow but owing to the contrary tides she frequently shows a tendency to butt into one of the wharves adjacent to the boats. What is needed, this man contends, is that the entrance should be extended out into the harbor about 30 or 40 feet so that the boat on entering or leaving her dock could have a chance to come or go without fear of ramming the nearby wharves or vessels that might be lying near. He claims if the entrance had been larger the accident which occurred the other night would not have happened. This morning there was a strong tide running down the centre of the harbor and in close to the east side floats an equally strong eddy was setting up the harbor, so that it taxed the ingenuity of the captain navigating the boat successfully.

The case against J. Everett Walters was taken up in the police court this morning. E. S. Ritchie appeared for the defendant. Three witnesses were examined and the case was dismissed.

New York, May 11—The strike of 1,500 funeral drivers, ordered last night, tied up the undertaking business in New York city so completely that about 150 bodies remained unburied. Heavens and carriages were kept waiting all day in homes of the dead and in several instances non-union drivers of hearse and carriage were attacked in the streets and police protection had to be called.

The strikers declared tonight their strike for $14 a week instead of $12 is on in earnest. Their employers, the Coach Owners' Association, met tonight and decided not to grant the increase.

CHESTER MARTIN WINS HIGH HONORS

Chester A. Martin, the St. John Rhodes scholar, has won high honor at Balliol College, Oxford, where he is studying. His father, H. C. Martin, 271 Germain street, received word last evening that he has won the Gladstone Memorial Prize which is looked upon as the blue ribbon honor of the college.

This prize has a monetary value as well as being an honor coveted greatly. So much is this latter a fact that men of years standing in the university try for it because it gives to the winner a prestige.

The subject was announced last year and the competition closed in March last. Since then the judges have been determining their award and that it has fallen upon Mr. Martin is declared the winner will be of much interest and pleasure to his friends here.

His achievement is regarded as the more remarkable for several reasons. He is but a second year man at Oxford and the prize is not always won on the first trial. The competition also was practically worldwide and this in itself covered a wide range of subjects.

He read for his essay work during the Christmas vacation. The result is all the more gratifying as it is known he did not expect to prove successful at the first trial. He thought it best to make the attempt and this possibly be more fitted for a second effort.

Honored Last Year, But Said Nothing.

One of the best indications that Mr. Martin had successfully kept up his regular work, and also illustrating his modesty and unobtrusiveness is shown by the fact which has just leaked out, that the young scholar had the honor of writing an essay last year which was read before the St. John's Historical Society whose members are the dons, professors, and past graduates of the university. On that occasion Mr. Martin was highly complimented by the president who said his essay was one of the best ever read before the society and it was ordered to be printed and placed in the library.

As regards Mr. Martin's future movements he is hardly expected home this year in the long vacation but will probably, in company with other students, make a tour through parts of Europe.

Mr. Martin being only a second year man has yet an open field to add to the laurels he has already gained. It is safe to say that none will wish him greater success in the future or offer him more hearty congratulations on the past than his many friends in St. John.

Dr. Bridges Greatly Pleased.

Dr. H. C. Bridges, when told by a Telegraph reporter last night that Mr. Martin had won the prize, was very glad indeed to hear of it. "It shows what is in him," he said, "and he has worked hard. He is a very capable man, more than that, he is excellent. Mr. Martin won the Douglas gold medal at the University last year, but he did not expect to capture the Gladstone prize on his first attempt. I am very glad he has done so; he is one of the best men the U. N. B. has turned out."

CZAR AND PRESIDENT OF NATIONAL ASSEMBLY HAVE FRIENDLY TALK

St. Petersburg, May 11.—The hope of the establishment of friendly relations between the emperor and the national parliament was further strengthened today by the audience granted by Emperor Nicholas at Peterhoff to Professor Mourmoutseff, the president of the lower house.

Professor Mourmoutseff returned to St. Petersburg from the audience apparently much impressed by the emperor's earnest interest in the problems of the country. Though the Radical hot-heads had been praying that Professor Mourmoutseff would lay down the law to the emperor and make a scene, the half-hour conversation was skillfully guided by both the sovereign and the parliamentary chief so that friction was avoided. To the constitutional Democratic members of the house who waited his return from Peterhoff at the Constitutional Club, Professor Mourmoutseff spoke only briefly, laying special emphasis on the emperor's courtesy and consideration, and thorough knowledge of the sentiment in the parliament and society.

The burning subject of the reply to the speech from the throne probably will not be reached at tomorrow's session of the lower house, the time of which body will be taken up with the election of officers, the adoption of necessary rules of procedure and the appointment of a committee on credentials. A committee to investigate the agrarian problem perhaps will be appointed. Both the vice-presidents, though at first insisting that they be given one year, have been unable to agree upon one of their number. The vice-presidents probably will be Professor Grodovskoff, and Prince Peter Goukoff.

Rev. Dr. Macfarlane and Dr. Alex. W. Macfarlane returned last evening from Thorburn (N. S.), where the funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth McKinnon, Rev. Dr. Macfarlane's daughter, was held.

We have secured a lot of Shepherd Plaid Dress Materials, in black and white, and green and white colorings, that we will place on sale for Saturday and Monday selling, at 33c. a yard. They are the regular 50c. quality. These small plaids bid fair to be most popular for summer shirt waist suits.

A SPECIAL SALE OF ZEPHYR GINGHAMS AT 12 1-2c. A YARD.

We have secured a lot of these fine wash materials at unusual prices, and you can save from 5c. to 6c. a yard by buying now. They are splendid for shirt waist suits, separate waists or for children's dresses. They are in neat stripes, plaids and broken checks.

A SALE OF COTTON REMNANTS.

About one hundred and fifty pieces altogether, ranging in lengths from one and a half to ten yards. The lot consists of prints, gingham, chambray, organdie and zephyr muslin. You can buy splendid shirt waist lengths among this lot of remnants at 25c. and 30c. that would cost you 45c. or 50c. ordinarily.

LADIES' LIGHT GREY TWEED SKIRTS AT $3.70.

These are most unusual value, considering that they are made from the most popular materials, $3.00 would be their right price if we got the usual profit.

A SALE OF CURTAINS IN SINGLE PAIRS.

One curtain of each pair is soiled, they having been used as samples, but you can buy them at a great saving on this account. Only one curtain will have to be washed. The prices run from 75c. to $2.00. The regular price would be from $1.25 to $3.50.

HELPING THE CHILDREN

The duty of society to the welfare of children in cities, and around them with better influence than those of the street, is gaining more general recognition. In Chicago, for example, which is sometimes held up as an example of a very wicked city, perhaps not without some show of reason, there has in recent years been a notable progress in methods of dealing with juvenile delinquency. There is a juvenile court, and protection work for children is well organized. There has been organized a juvenile protective league, whose objects are thus stated:

1. To promote the study of child problems, and by systematic agitation through the press and otherwise to create a permanent public sentiment for the establishment of wholesome, uplifting agencies, such as parks, playgrounds, gymnasiums, free baths, reading schools, communal social centres and the like.
2. To suppress and prevent conditions, and to prosecute persons contributing to the dependency and delinquency of children.
3. To co-operate with the juvenile court, compulsory education department, police, factory inspector and all other child-helping agencies.

The league, it is explained, proposes to organize auxiliary branches in every district within the boundaries of Cook County, or to co-ordinate the agencies already engaged in work for juvenile welfare. These branches will work independently of each other in an effort to meet the peculiar conditions and needs of their localities, but they will be under the supervision of a directive board of the league and in touch with the juvenile court.

Such an organization should be able to accomplish much good, although in a great city like Chicago, where so many nationalities are represented, and where there is necessarily under present social conditions so much poverty, it will not be possible to overcome the difficulties in the way of helping all the children.

The city of Denver, which leads all other American cities in the success of its juvenile court, has gone a step farther, and is now enjoining parental responsibility. The law reads:

"In all cases where any child shall be a delinquent child or a juvenile delinquent person, as defined by the statute of this state, the parent or parents, legal guardian or person having the custody of such child or person, shall be held responsible for such delinquency, and shall be liable to be punished by the court for the delinquency of such child, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon trial and conviction thereon shall be fined to a sum not to exceed one thousand dollars ($1000), or imprisoned in the county jail for a period not exceeding one (1) year, or by both such a fine and imprisonment. The court may impose conditions upon any person found guilty under this act, and so long as such person shall comply therewith to the satisfaction of the court the sentence imposed may be suspended."

An instance is given by a writer in an American exchange, from which the substance of this article is taken, which will be very thoroughly appreciated in St. John, where coal stealing from cars by small boys is not unknown. Railway companies had complained that coal was being stolen, and officers were detailed to watch. They arrested a dozen boys and girls, whose parents were immediately summoned for contributory negligence. There was an instant cessation of coal stealing.

There is now before the Massachusetts legislature a bill providing for the penalizing of parents for juvenile delinquency. The section reads as follows:

"If a boy or girl is adjudged to be a delinquent child, as defined by this act, the parent, legal guardian or person having custody of such boy or girl, who omits to exercise due diligence in the control of such child, to prevent such delinquency, and any such parent, guardian or person, or any other person, who by act or omission causes, promotes, encourages or contributes to, or is responsible for, such delinquency, shall be punished by a fine of not more than fifty dollars, or by imprisonment in jail for not more than six months."

It would be a decided step in advance if the principle of adult responsibility were embodied in legislation affecting the city of St. John. Then there would be a less number of delinquent children.

MAY IT NOT BE?

The Globe last evening had a characteristic editorial on "Industrial development," which was a column long and a column full. It left the reader in much doubt whether the Globe favours more or less industries in St. John. There was the usual fling at "men of the board of trade," who ally show their interest in machine kind by making interesting

WALL STREET JOURNAL ON THE MARKET TREND

A Washington subscriber, commenting on the accuracy of The Wall Street Journal's forecast of the stock market movement, published on June 30, 1905, entitled "Price Rising," says for an analysis of the position at the present time. The task is one of peculiar difficulty. The market has been influenced by one of those catagories which upset all calculations. Seed-time and harvest are matters of regular recurrence. They stand of fairly close deductions over a period of years. The freighted business man can insure himself against the regular position of events, but his policy, like those of the Lloyd's marine underwriters, contains the old-fashioned provision against "the act of God and the king's enemies."

Premising that the market development since April 18 has been abnormal, it should still be possible to draw some lessons from the price movement, especially if longer periods of time are taken and a point of view a little removed from the San Francisco catastrophe. It has frequently been pointed out in these columns that there are two simultaneous movements constantly in progress in the stock market. One is the main bear or bull movement, lasting over a period of years, and the other is a temporary movement, lasting over a period of months, and which temporarily modifies the main movement. Independent of these there is always the day to day fluctuation, arising from purely technical market conditions.

In the article our correspondent refers to the essentially upward tendency of the market, then towards the climax of a great bull movement of the first class was pointed out. The serious break in this market began on Wednesday, April 18, when the average price of twenty active railroad stocks was 132.06 at the opening of the market. That point, however, was not the top of the year. On January 22, 1906, the highest point ever touched, was reached, and the downward swing therefore may fairly be said to have lasted not six months, but over one hundred days. Looked at in this point of view, the decline of eighteen points in the average may seem to conform to a change in the main movement. If, however, the moderate reaction between January 22 and April 18, amounting to 4.20 points, is disregarded, there would be a good argument for taking the decline since the earthquake as one of those quick downward movements which frequently characterize a long advance.

Either way might be held with equal tenacity. The argument that general business is still booming is, however, not as convincing as it seems. Wall street is nothing, if not previous. It is sensitive enough to detect the top of a boom six months before it shows plainly to the outsider. It sees a big business boom coming long before it shows itself in industrial earnings and railroad traffic. Everybody must judge for himself in this matter, and that is what everybody is trying to do. In a few more months it may be possible to say whether January 22 was or was not the top of the great boom this country has ever seen. The size of this year's crops may tell the story. If the oil market is to be resumed, it is a great downward movement, lasting over a period of years, there is a steady liquidation of long stock, not often urgent, but always present. Such a market does not get sold out readily, but when it does there is a bear account so important that a sharp rally on technical conditions is always in order.

(New York Journal of Commerce.)

Settlement in Wall street Tuesday much more bullishly inclined, the continued recovery in prices stimulating some outside orders, though a campaign against the suburbs about interest accumulation was in progress. At times the tone was buoyant, but at other times it was rather depressed, like Reading, Amalgamated, St. Paul, Union and the Steels. Colloidal with the nature of conditions the usual free information regarding impending movements in various issues suggested that the people thought the movement opportune to resume manipulation. Checked by a lower range of quotations from London, where the market was unsettled, the New York market was also unsettled. The New York market was also unsettled. The New York market was also unsettled.

"Not so loud! You will have the guard on us! Yes, he is to go. At first Monsieur did not tell even him, he desired to keep his secret to the king so secret. But this morning he took Vigo into his confidence, and nothing would serve the man but to go. He watches over Monsieur like a hen over a chick."

"Then it will be three to three," I said. I thought of Gervais, Xeu-gris, and Ponton, for of course I would take no part in it.

"Three to two; Lucas will not fight. Lucas must be a poltroon, indeed!"

"But Vigo and Monsieur—" I began.

"Aye, they are quick enough with their swords. Your side must be quicker, that's all. If you are sudden enough you can easily kill the duke before he can withdraw."

"Talk of words like thunderbolts! All the thunder of heaven could not have whistled me like those words. Xeu-gris and his outfit! It was the duke after all! I could not speak. I looked I know not how. But it was dusk in the arch."

"It sounds simple," he went on. "But, three of you as you are, you will have trouble with Vigo. That is all. I have told you all. I must get back before I am missed. Good luck to the enterprise."

"Still I stood like a block of wood."

"Tell me, Gervais, to remember me," he said, and opening the door, passed in. I heard him lock and bolt it after him, and his footsteps hurrying down the passageway."

"Then I came to myself and sprang to the door and beat furiously upon it. But if he heard he was afraid to respond. After a futile moment that seemed an hour I rushed out of the arch and around to the great gate."

The grilles were closed as before, but the sentry's face, luckily, was strange to me.

"Open open! I shouted, breathless. "I must see M. le Duc!"

"Who are you?" he demanded, staring.

"My name is Broux. I have news for M. le Duc. Let me in. It's a matter of life and death."

"Why, I suppose, then, I must let you in," that good fellow answered, drawing back the bolts. "But you must wait here!"

The gate was open. I took these advantages of him by sliding under his arm and shooting across the court up the steps to the house. The door stood open, and a couple of lackeys lounged on a bench in the hall.

"M. le Duc!" I cried. "I must see him!" They jumped up, the picture of bewilderment.

"Who are you? How came you here?" cried the quicker-tongued of the two.

"The entry opened for me. Where-am I? I find M. le Duc? I must see him! I have news!"

"M. le Duc seen no one today," the second lackey announced pompously.

"But I must see him, I tell you," I repeated. I had completely lost what little head I ever had; it seemed to me that if I could not see M. le Duc on the instant I should find him waiting in his room. "I must see him," I cried parrot-like. "It is a matter of life and death!"

"From whom do you come?"

"That's my affair. Enough that I come with news of the highest moment. Me, me!"

"From whom do you come?"

"That's my affair. Enough that I come with news of the highest moment. Me, me!"

when Constant appeared on the stairway—Constant and the lackey who had fetched him, and two more lackeys, and a page, all of whom had somehow scented that something was in the wind. They came flocking about us as I said this. He looked at me with a spiteful grin, and said to the men:

"He lies. I do not know him. I never saw him."

"Never saw me, Felix Broux?" I cried, completely taken aback.

"Constant, you know me as well as you know yourself. I say I must see the duke; his life is in danger!"

"Constant was paying off old scores with interest."

"An impostor," he yelled shrilly, "or else a madman—or an assassin!"

"That is the truth," said some one, laying a heavy hand on my shoulder.

I turned; two men of the guard had come up, my friend of just now and my foe of the morning. It was the latter who held me and said:

"This is the veryascal who sprang on Monsieur's coach-step in the morning. M. Lucas threw him off, else he might have stabbed Monsieur. We were fools enough to let him go free. But this time he shall not get off so easy."

"I am innocent of all thought of harm," I cried. "I am M. le Duc's loyal servant. I mean no harm this morning, and I mean none now. I am here to save Monsieur's life!"

"He is here to kill Monsieur; he is an assassin!" screamed Constant. "Flog him, men; he will own the truth then!"

"I am no assassin!" I shouted, struggling in their grasp. "Let me go, villains, let me go! I tell you, Monsieur's life is at stake—Monsieur's very life, I tell you!"

They paid me no heed. Not one of them save that lying knave Constant—knew me as other than the shabby fellow who had acted suspiciously in the morning. They were dragging me to the door in spite of my protests and struggles, when suddenly a ringing voice spoke from above:

"What is this rumpus? Who talks of Monsieur's life?"

The guards halted dead, and I cried out joyfully:

"Yes, I am Vigo," the big man answered, striding down the stairs. "Who are you?"

"I wanted to shout, 'Felix Broux, Monsieur's page,' but a sort of nightmare dread came over me last Vigo, too, should disdain me, and my voice stuck in my throat."

"Whoever you are, you will be taught not to make a racket in M. le Duc's hall. By the saints! It's the boy Felix!"

At the flash of light in his voice the guards dropped their hands from me. "M. Vigo!" I said. "I have news for Monsieur of the gravest moment. I am come on a matter of life and death. And I am stopped in the hall by lackeys."

"This is not one of your fooleries, Felix!"

"No, M. Vigo."

"Come with me."

VII.

A DIVIDED DUTY.

That was Vigo's way. The toughest character I ever came in contact with, more sense and fewer airs than any other, he saw at once that I was in earnest; and Constant's voluble protests were as so much wind. The duke did not make the man. Though Constant was Master of the Household and Vigo only Equerry, yet Vigo ruled every corner of the establishment and every man in it, save only Monsieur, who ruled him.

He said no word to me as we climbed the broad stair; neither reproved me for the fracas nor questioned me about my coming. He would not pry into Monsieur's business; and, save as I concerned Monsieur, he had no interest in me whatsoever. He led the way straight into an antechamber, where a page sprang up to bar our passage.

"No one may enter, M. Vigo, not even you. M. le Duc has ordered it. Why, Felix? You in Paris?"

"I enter," said Vigo; and, sweeping Marcel aside, he knocked loudly.

"I came last night," I found time to say under my breath to my old comrade before the door was opened.

The handsome secretary whom I had taken for the count stood in the doorway looking askance at us. He knew me at once and wondered.

"You cannot enter, Vigo. M. le Duc is occupied."

He made to shut the door, but Vigo's foot was over the sill.

"Nevertheless, I must enter," he answered unabashed and pushed his way into the room.

"Then you must answer for it," returned the secretary, with a scowl that sat ill on his delicate face.

"You shall answer for it if it turns out a mare's nest," said Vigo, in a low, menacing voice to me. But I hardly heard him. I passed him and Lucas, and flew down the long room to Monsieur.

M. le Duc was seated before a table heaped with paper. He had been watching the scene at the door in surprise and anger. He looked at me with a sharp frown, while the deerhound at his feet rose on its haunches growling.

"Roland!" I said. The dog sprang up and came to me.

"Monsieur," he exclaimed, with his quick, warm smile—a smile no man in France could match for radiance. I had no thought of kneeling, of making obeisance, of waiting permission to speak.

"Monsieur," I cried, half choked, "there is a plot—a vile plot to murder you!"

"Where? At St. Quentin?"

"No, Monsieur. Here in Paris. In the streets tonight, when you go to the king."

"They set on you on your way—three of them—to run you through before you can draw!"

"But, ventre bleu! Monsieur is not alone!"

"No, he walks between you and M. Lucas."

Not one of them spoke. They stared at me as if I were something uncanny. I, a raw country boy, disclosing a perfect knowledge of their most intimate plans!

"How know you this?" Monsieur demanded of me. But he was not looking at me. His keen glance went first to Lucas, then to Vigo, the two men who had shared his confidence. The secretary cried out:

"You cannot think, Monsieur, that I betrayed you!"

Vigo said nothing. His steady eyes never left Monsieur's face.

"No," answered Monsieur to Lucas, "I cannot think it." And to Vigo he said: "I shall accuse you when I accuse myself. But—none knew this thing save our three selves." And his gaze went back to Lucas.

"It is not likely to be he," I said, impelled to be just to him though I did not like him, "for they meant to kill him as well."

Lucas started, then instantly recovered himself.

"A comprehensive plot, Monsieur," he said, with a smile.

"Then who was it?" cried Monsieur to me. "You know. Speak."

"There is a spy in the house—an eavesdropper," I said, and then paused.

"Aye," said Monsieur. "Who?"

Now the answer to this was easy, yet I flinched before it; for I knew well enough what Monsieur would do. He feared no man, and waited on no man's advice. And if he was a good lover, he was a good hater. He would not inform the governor, and await the tardy course of justice, that would probably accomplish nothing. Nor would he consider the troubled times and the danger of his position, and ignore the affair, as many would have deemed best. He would not stop to think what the Sixteen might have to say to it. No; he would call out his guards and slay the plotters in the Rue Coujeperre like the wolves they were. It was right he should, but I owed my life to Xeu-gris.

"His name, man, his name!" Monsieur was crying.

"Monsieur," I returned, flushing hot, "Monsieur—"

"Do you know his name?"

"Yes, Monsieur, I know his name, but—"

Monsieur looked at me in surprise and frowning impatience. Quickly Lucas struck in:

"Monsieur, I have grave doubts of the boy's honesty."

"Doubt!" cried Monsieur, with a sudden laugh. "It is not a case for doubts. The boy states facts."

He seated himself in his chair, his face growing stern again. The little action seemed to make him no longer merely my questioner, but my judge.

"Now, Felix Broux, let us get to the bottom of this."

"I began, struggling to put the case clearly. 'I learned of the plot by accident. I did not guess for a long time it was you who were the victim. When I found out that I came straight here to you, Monsieur, there were four men in the plot, and one of them has stood my friend.'

"And my assassin!"

"He is a black-hearted villain!" I acknowledged. "For he swore no harm was meant to you, he swore it was only a private grudge against M. Lucas. But—"

"He is plainly in earnest. Therefore with patience I look to get some sense out of the snarl of a story. Something is there we have not yet fathomed."

"Will Monsieur let me speak?"

"I have done naught but urge you to do so for some time past," he answered dryly.

"Monsieur, you know my father would not let me leave St. Quentin with you, three months back. But at length he said I should come, and I reached Paris last night and, since it was late, lodged at the inn. This morning I came to your gate, but the guard would not let me enter. I was so mad to see you, Monsieur, that when you drove out I sprang up on your coach-step—"

"Ah," said Monsieur, a new light breaking upon him, "that was you, Felix? I did not know you! I was thinking of other matters. And Lucas took you for a miscreant. Now I am sorry."

If I had been a noble he could not have spoken franker apology. But at once he was stern again.

"And because my secretary took you in all good faith for a possible assassin and struck you to save and you turn traitor and take part in a plot to slay on him and kill him! I had believed that of some hireling, not of a Broux."

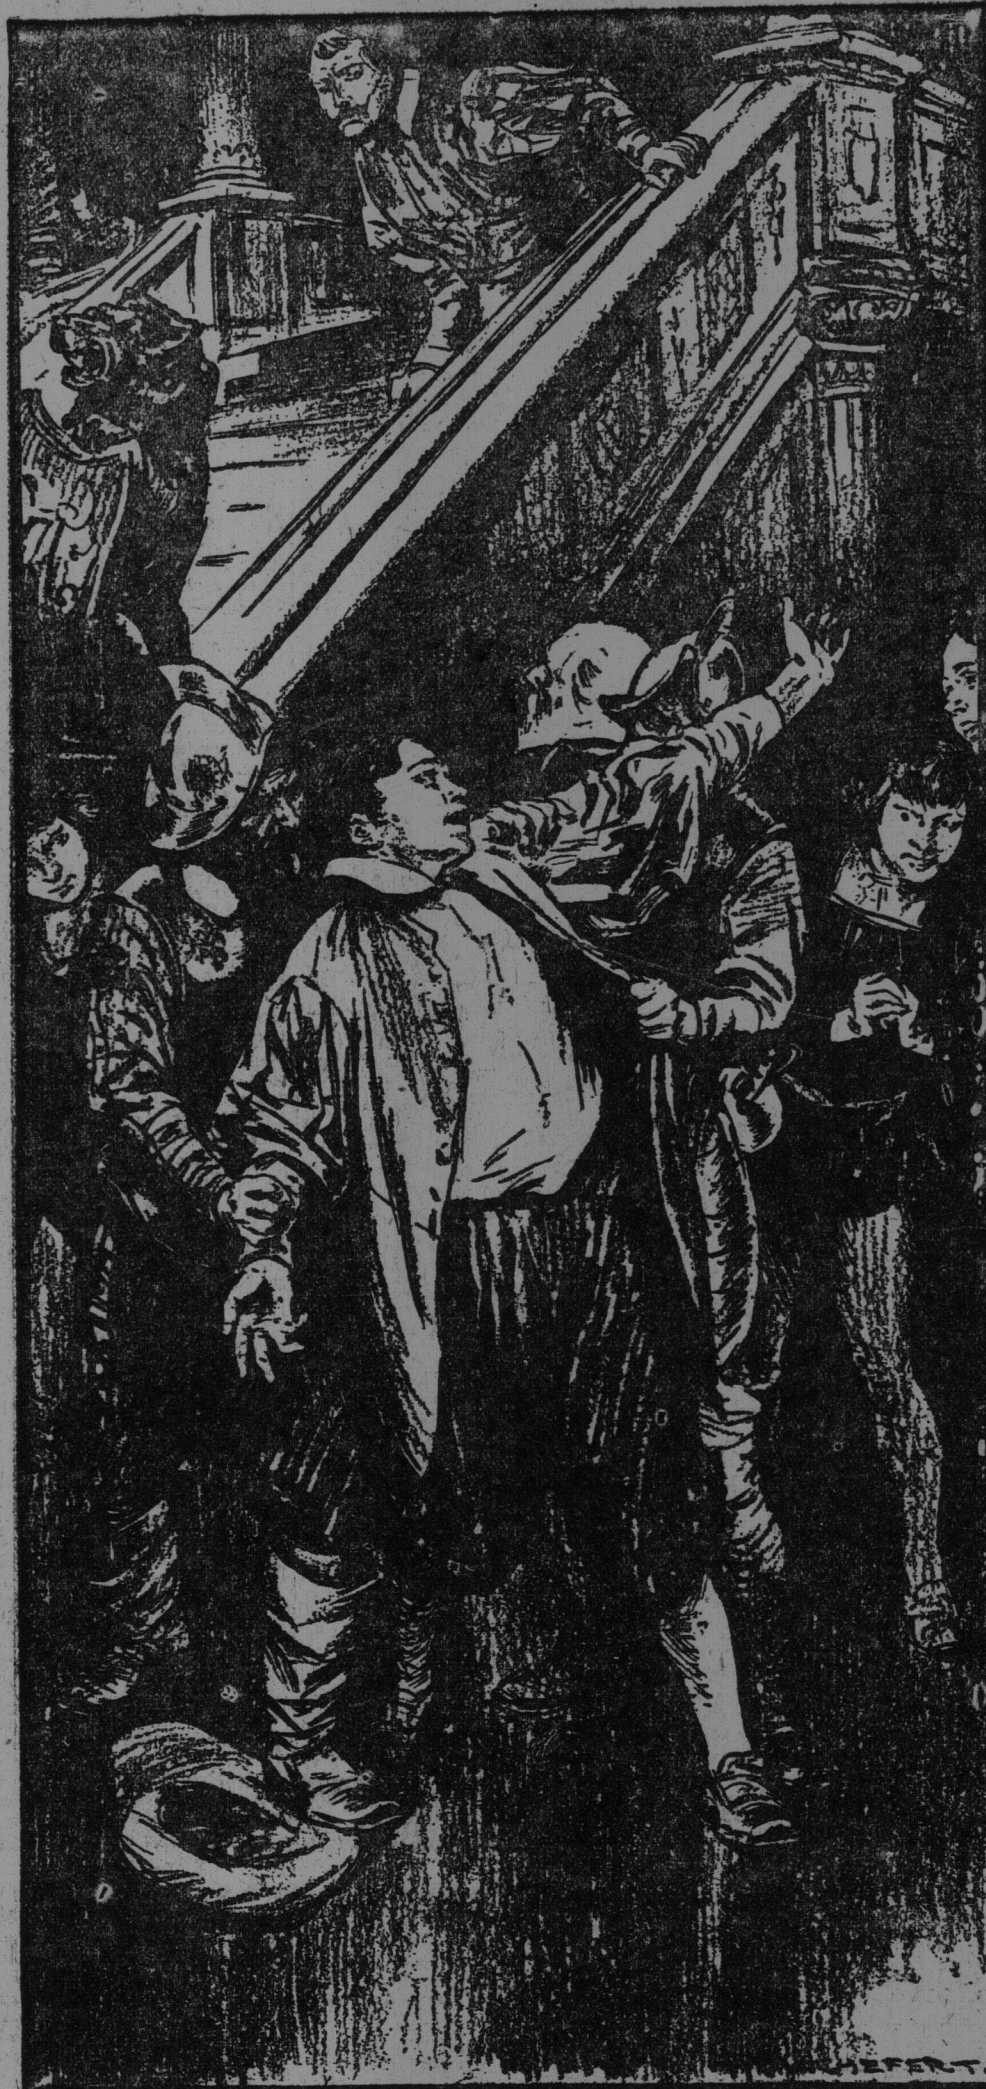

"Monsieur, I was wrong—a thousand times wrong. I knew that as soon as I had sworn. And when I found it was you they meant, I came to you, oath or no oath."

"There spoke the Broux!" cried Monsieur with his brilliant smile. "Now you are Felix. Who are my would-be-murderers?"

"We had come round in a circle to the place where we had stood before, and here we stood again."

"Monsieur, I would tell you all before you could count ten—tell you their names, their whereabouts, everything—were it not for one man who stood my friend."

(To be continued.)

"M. le Duc, let me in, it is a matter of life and death."

WEARY DAYS AND SLEEPLESS NIGHTS

Many men and women toss nights after night upon sleepless beds until near dawn. Their eyes do not close in the sweet and refreshing repose that comes to those whose heart and nerves are right. Worry or disease has so debilitated and irritated the nervous system that it cannot be quieted. Or, again, you have heart palpitation and sensation of sinking, a feeling you are going to die; or perhaps you wake up from your sleep feeling as though you were about to choke or smother, and rest leaves you for the night. Allow these conditions to continue and you will feel your health declining.

It is the nerves and heart that are not acting properly.

They can be set right by the use of

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

They soon induce healthful, refreshing sleep, not by deadening the nerves, but by restoring them to healthy action and removing all symptoms of heart trouble, which is often the cause of nervousness and sleeplessness.

Mrs. Eunice Chambers, Massey Station, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with dizziness, weak spells and fluttering of the heart. I was so bad at times I could not lie down in bed at night but would have to sit up. I doctored for a whole year and got no relief. I took three boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and was completely cured. I have not been troubled since. I cannot recommend them too highly."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50 cents per box or three boxes for $1.25 as a trial or sent direct on receipt of price to T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto.

"Monsieur," I cried, half choked, "there is a plot—a vile plot to murder you!"

FREIGHT TRAIN GOES TO SMASH NEAR SUSSEX

Sussex, N. B., May 12.—(Special)—At 2.30 o'clock this morning No. 11 train, the fast freight from Moncton for St. John, jumped the track at the military siding about half mile east of Sussex.

The train consisted of twenty-eight cars. Six cars in the middle of the train left the rails and were badly smashed. A broken journal was the cause of the accident.

The track is badly torn up. The auxiliary train was ordered at once and will likely be four or five hours before the track will be cleared. The train was in charge of Conductor W. H. Williams and Driver Frank Popart.

The engine had shut off steam and was running into Sussex slow when the accident happened. Fortunately no one was hurt.

The Halifax Express will likely be detained some hours on account of the accident.

THE SECRET OF HEALTH

Is Rich, Red Blood—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Make New Blood.

Good blood—rich, red blood—is the only cure for such complaints as anaemia, decline, heart palpitation, skin eruptions, rheumatism, kidney troubles and a host of other every day ailments. Good blood makes you less liable to disease of every kind, because it strengthens and stimulates every organ in the body to throw off any ailment that may attack it. Good blood is the secret of life, and the secret of good, rich, red blood is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. These little blood-building pills have saved lives that doctors and nurses have despaired of. They have cured thousands of others—they will cure you too. Mrs. Wm. Booth, Montrose, Ont., says: "For a couple of years my daughter Meta was in failing health. She complained of headache and distressing weakness, and seemed to be rapidly going into decline. We consulted several doctors, but they did not help her. She was apparently bloodless, and we were afraid she would not recover. She had no appetite and was greatly reduced in flesh. At the stage a friend advised me to give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and in a few weeks we noticed some improvement in her condition, that her appetite was improving. We continued the treatment for a couple of months longer, and by that time she was again in the best of health. She had gained thirty-two pounds in weight, had a good color, and was in the best of spirits. I do not think I am putting it too strongly when I say I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved her life!"

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do only one thing, but they do that well. They do not act upon the bowels; they actually make the new, rich, red blood that goes right to the root of the disease and drives it from the system. They get the genuine with the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," printed on the wrapper around every box. All medicine dealers keep these pills, or you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NOTED PREACHER HERE TOMORROW NIGHT

Rev. Dr. William T. Herridge, of Ottawa, who will preach at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church on May 20, is one of the most distinguished divines in Canada and apart from the celebrity he has attained by the literary finish of his preaching, is well known for his artistic and musical abilities. Dr. Herridge has done much essay work of a high order of merit and has published papers on Beethoven, Milton and Browning. His study of "Woman, Her Place and Work," met with a very flattering reception.

Dr. Herridge was born at Reading, England, but being brought to Canada as a lad, had all his education, up to the divinity degree, in the new world. His career at Toronto University and Montreal College was brilliant and he secured first prizes for oratory and literary skill. He is now and has been for twenty-two years minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Ottawa, and although he has received calls elsewhere they have failed to draw him from his capital and he is considered a fixture there.

DRESSY FROCKS FOR COMMENCEMENT DAY

Like the wedding gown, the commencement frock has for all girls a special significance. It means her last bow to school life, and in a way, her first to the world. As a consequence all energies are expended to achieve something elegant and charming.

June being the month for the closing of school sessions, it is by no means too early to consider these costumes. The complete toilette, frock, underling-for-dress, white materials are mainly used—sash, shoes and hair bow, require careful thought, especially if economies are to be made. Then there are charming trifles which tend much toward a perfect whole, pretty hair combs or pins, a simple necklace of some sort, a bracelet of modest simplicity, or a dainty, suitable fan.

Other graduation accessories include of ten an embroidered white ribbon for holding the sash, and a silk arm bag, also showing needlework and intended for handkerchiefs, "frocks, frocks, frocks," bottle or what not. Lastly there is the fastening for the bouquet or spray of flowers, which if a girl is very stylish, she has of silver cord with tasselled ends.

At many of the schools a single flower is used on class day, which creates a very harmonious effect. Daisies are the favorite of one great college, and a pretty fancy is to weave immense chains, which, despite their great weight, are carried lovingly about the grounds by the white-robed graduates.

After the exercises a day dance may be in order, when the black-coated young gallants, who have come to see sisters, cousins or sweethearts, hold the chain, the girls dancing with girl partners in the great ring. This, if the day is fine, is done on the grounds, so that an Arcadian prettiness envelopes the scene.

Though the sash and gown are worn at some colleges, it is really the white dress it covers without concealing which is the important thing. As some smart dressmaking establishments, which give attention to these frocks a charming preference for the simplest materials, take is observed. Plain and embroidered muslin, figured and plain Swiss, India lawn, French organdy, and chiffon cloth are the most rewarding of these. Tucks wide and narrow, shirring, ribbon bands and frills and flounces of various widths and modes of decoration. Sometimes a plain Swiss or organdy gown is merely tucked with a white sash with a delicate Dresden border to set it off. No all-colored ribbons are used, an almost bridal white being the desired thing, so that the flowering of the Dresden ribbon is almost invisible in smallness of pattern and tenderness of hue. Simple silks, such as indienne in smallness of pattern and tenderness of hue. Simple silks, such as indienne, mouseline, or tulle, have the bodies of full waist cut, which permits the charming sash arrangement, so becoming and suitable.

A number of the bodies are cut out at the neck, but the décolletage is the slightest round or square, and the elbow sleeves which go with such styles permitting the neckline and bracelet, which are so enhancing. If the gown has a high lace yoke it is unlined, the lace and tucks of the close lower part of the sleeve also transparent. Many waists, though, have short sleeves with the high neck, or at least made so that the cuffs pieces can be removed for class day, for besides being all-prevailing these short sleeved styles are very becoming. The long gloves which will be worn with them for graduation will either be of undressed suede or silk, lace gloves being thought too mature. The bracelets, closed bangles or spring hoops fastening with a big brook like a frock fastening, will be worn over them.

Desirable and modish necklaces are thin silver chains of platinum, hung with gold or turquoise or jade locket, heart-shaped or perfectly round. Sometimes the locket is a ball-like material, such as coral, or turquoise, it may have the girl's initials done in tiny pearls.

Low shoes of kid, satin or silk are worn with lace or silk stockings. At no time must canvas shoes be considered, for the ball-like material of the frocks call for elegant foot dressing.

It is a very easy matter to accomplish the black cap and gown. The various church shoes, where clerical garments are made, turn them out in proper materials at very small cost. Men's and boys' fashions also frequently make them to order the gown costing from $7 up, and the tasselled cap $1.50. A species of dull finished serge with a very clerical stamp is used for both, the girl's gown which is wideshelved and churred at the shoulders, differing only in point of length from the masculine graduate's. These garments, since they require a special stamp, it is advisable always to order of experienced persons. Home made, they rarely have the same air, and then many girls fall into the error of wanting silk instead of serge, which though allowable, never seems half so sophisticated. Lastly, a harmonious class appearance requires that all the gowns be of similar material and cut, and to insure this some principals exact a single and special maker.

To the girl who must make her own commencement frock, or at least assist, the many aids offered by the shop to home dressmaking are certainly a boon. The stock and belt frames are immensely valuable, giving the experienced dressmaker's touch when covered. Frocks and eyes come by the yard, ready to sew on in a minute, and sets of bodies Berlin and matching sleeve frills can be bought in any shop.

Some very cheap petticoats also suggest themselves as substitutes for silk underlinings, as matching materials, by the yard, can be bought for the bodies. These are made of a light weight glistening cotton, with a rattle of silk, the skirts showing besides all the lilted and ruffled flummery of the silk petticoats. White and all the delicate colors are shown, the skirt costing in simplest instances $1.08. The material by the yard is 10 cents.

And now some very charming frocks illustrated may be suggested as models for home dressmaking. All have been detached and of expensive models seen, but with the simple linings discussed, they may be reproduced without great effort.

In the smaller drawings are two representative gowns of exceeding smartness. The gown at the right, worn with a head bandeau of Vassar daisies, is of French organdy over a Princess slip of soft white lousine. The shirring which is used above the simply hemmed flounces of the skirt accomplishes the waist fitting, and the gown buttoning at the back. Here, though, the underling is gored. Perfectly unshaped breadths are used for the skirt, for Embroidered Swiss with a charming decoration of narrow Valenciennes, and plain tucked Swiss, accomplish the frock and skirt.

This is girdled high, in the short bodice way described, with a wide crush, belt of soft lousine, held at the front with long buckle of mother-of-pearl. The two styles of hair-dressing shown in this picture are copies of effects submitted by the girls of the Dufferin school. With their dainty flower garnishes they seem specially suited for graduation day.

Three white frocks and two figures with cap and gown are given in the next drawing. Silk slip underlinings are also used with these, but as the materials are more durable than those of the other frocks, they will doubtless appeal to girls who wish their commencement finery to serve for the Summer dances which are sure to follow.

Again, beginning at the right, may be seen a most beautiful gown of white handkerchief linen, lightly yet exquisitely hand embroidered. In the robe pattern which trims both bodice and skirt. Cluny insertion, which is having a very wide vogue just now, is used to inclose tucks with very handsome effect. A white sash with a Dresden border in the faint, sage green is used with this gown, the sage tied in a big bow with long ends.

On the back-turned figure a sash composed of green is used with this gown, which is exploited, for it is often much cheaper to make a sash of silk than to buy the wide ribbon. A thin glistening white tulle is here used, the sash carefully fitted over one of the boned frames and fastening under a square buckle of turquoise enamel. This gown is also of white linen embroidered in a wreath design, and with a deep hem which finishes the skirt. The waist breadth of the skirt, showing no waist shirring here, is slightly gored. The back and sides fall with immense fullness. On the little peeping figure, whose charming coiffure shows the popular Ethel Barrymore braids, is perhaps the most splendid frock of all.

This is of "old mullin," a new and precious texture in a slightly dimmed white with hand embroidery. The skirt is in two deep flounces, the intention being obviously to exploit the precious material as much as possible without cutting. The draped, slightly blousing bodice has embroidered sleeve frills and a high lace yoke, upon which, an upstanding ruff is gathered with a narrow white moire ribbon. The wide bow sash and slip lining of the dress are also of white moire, in the same softened and eminently fashionable white. The two gowns and accompanying mortar-boards are in the dull black serge discussed, coarse button-hole silk forming the cap tassel.

Lastly a word about the half made box frocks, which come in a number of materials rarely seen by the yard. Home dressmaking is made possible when these come into the question for trimmed, fastened to the last degree, and with the few number of seams to sew up, anybody can put these together. The usual model for these is a circular skirt completely finished as to the bottom and requiring only a back closing and putting on of the band. With the better models many parts of the bodies are also completed, dressy turtlenecks, sleeve fixings and even made girlish appearing. Linen, pique, duck, point d'esprit, fancy net, etc., are some recognizable materials. One dainty sort of cotton point d'esprit with satin ribbon edges for innumerable little frills, was ticketed $12.50. Other half made box gowns, of thin lawn or some one of the liquid, medicines given children contain poisonous opiates, and an overdose will kill. When a mother uses Baby's Own Tablets she has the guarantee of a government analyst that this medicine does not contain one particle of opiate, and is so safe that it cannot possibly do harm. This assurance is worth much to the mother who cares for the safety of her little ones. Mrs. Chas. McLaughlin, DeBart Station, N. S., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for colic, stomach troubles and other ailments of children, and find them so valuable that I would not be without them in the house." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Body of Unknown Man Discovered on Highway Yesterday Near Fredericton

Fredericton, N. B., May 11.—Quite a sensation was created at Hanwell this morning by the discovery of the dead body of a man lying upon the road near the residence of Mitchell Goodie, about eight miles from this city. The find was made by a young man named Goodie, who immediately drove to Fredericton and notified the coroner. The body was found near the highway, and the body was found near the highway.

The body is that of a medium sized man about sixty years of age. He wore a navy blue coat, striped trousers and light slouch hat. In his pockets were found some papers addressed to James O'Connell and a small book. There was also found $8.25 and an insurance check written on a blank of the Metropolitan Life Association and signed by W. T. Calahan, Merrill Building, Quincy (Mass.) Deceased paid a weekly premium of thirty-four cents, and receipt was dated September 24, 1905.

There were no marks of violence on the body and the coroner's theory is that death was due to an attack of apoplexy. On making enquiry among the people of the neighborhood the coroner learned that deceased called last evening at the residence of Mitchell Goodie and remained there until 12 o'clock. He said that he had walked from Hanwell and was on his way to Fredericton. He was not seen alive after leaving Goodie's house. The coroner postponed the inquest until tomorrow with the hope that in the meantime he might be able to locate friends or relatives of the deceased.

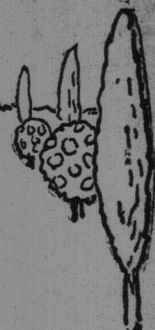

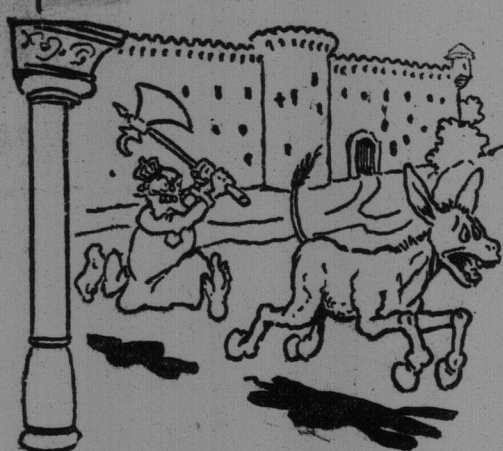

The senate of the University of New Brunswick has decided upon the honorary degree of LL.D. to be conferred at the convocation of the University of New Brunswick, which will be held on September 24, 1906.

Prince Errant HE'S ON THE ROAD ONCE MORE

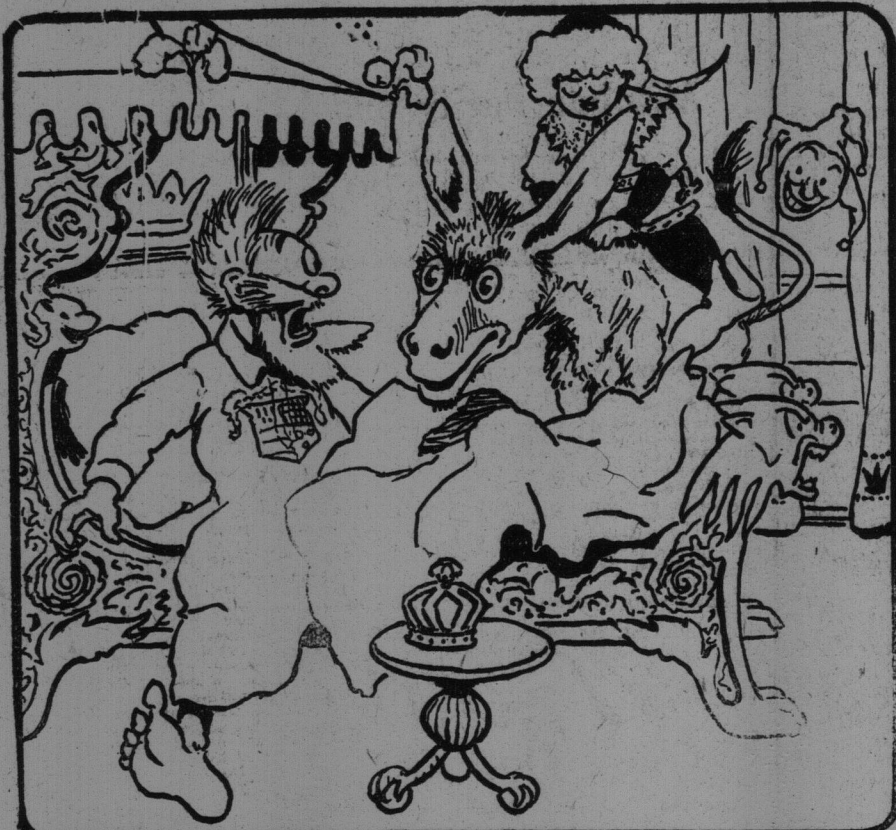

1. Halla, the Jester: I've got a nice little scheme cooked up for you, dear Prince. You're asleep now, but when this chloroform gets in its work we'll have some fun.

2. Now I'll just tie your legs under Julia here, and you can assist in a little surprise for the King, and if that don't queer you I'm no prophet.

3. Into the Royal Chamber for you! We'll give that grumpy old King the nightmare—or, to be correct, the nightmare of his life!

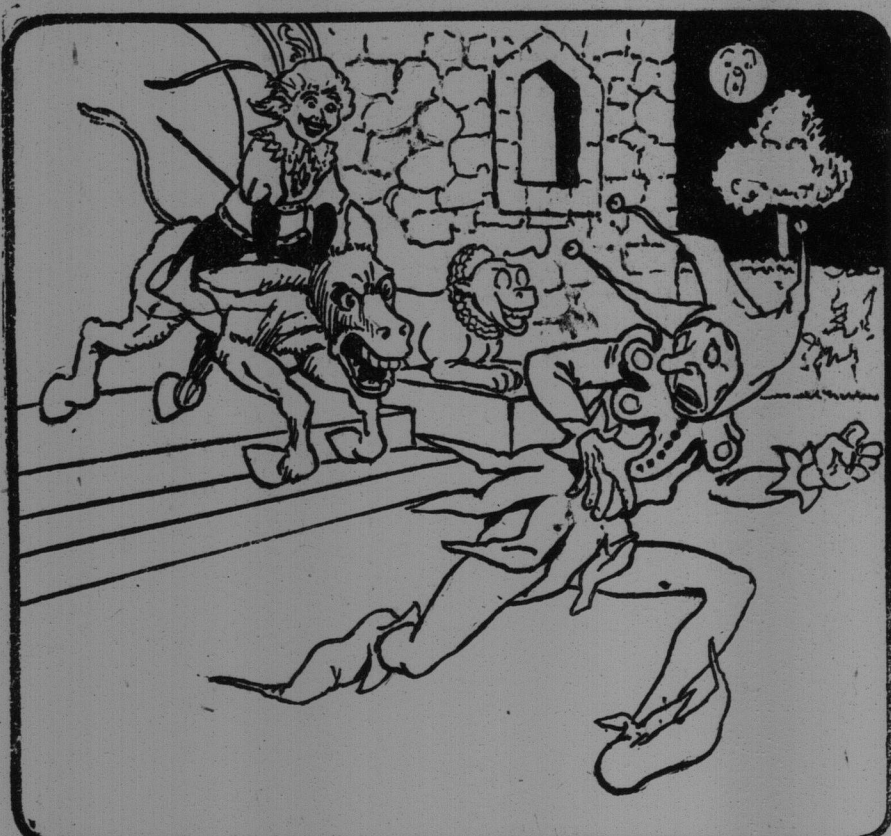

4. King: WOW! OOO! This is the worst ever! No more peached peas for me! OOOH!
Halla: No, think there will be something doing. Strike up the band!

5. Halla: My, but isn't Julia the stop-kicker! That would have been a goal at dear old Yale!

6. Prince: Where am I—What—Who—
Halla: I don't exactly like the supposition that that beast's master—
I'll vanish!

7. Halla: It's after me, and coming like spurred lightning! Don't mess me with a donkey!

8. Prince: Great, Halla! You ought to be in a circus!
Halla: Stop, stop, Prince, stop, because she must have learned this from the old song!

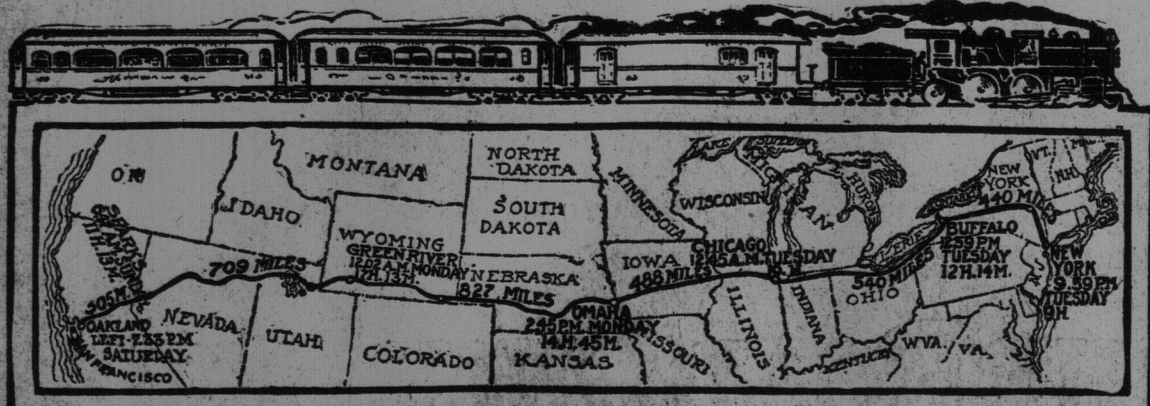

9. Prince Errant: Now see the fix your stupidity has gotten us into! And that insulting jackass brayed as plain as day. When shall we those meet again?

E. H. Harriman Flies From Coast to Coast in 71 Hours

Route of Mr. Harriman's record-breaking trip across the continent.

New York, May 11.—E. H. Harriman arrived here Tuesday night at fifty-nine minutes past nine o'clock, completing his record-breaking trip between Oakland and New York in the unprecedented time of seventy-one hours and twenty-seven minutes.

He left the Empire State Express, on which he came from Buffalo, saying unconcernedly that he knew nothing of records and was merely trying to get to this city in time to meet some important business engagements.

"Our time," he added, "was thirty-three minutes less than three days. Various railroad officials accompanied me as far as Buffalo, where the special train was left, and with my secretary I boarded the Empire State Express for this city."

This journey across the continent, recalls the effort made by Mr. Harriman last October to establish a record to New York but the train was slowed down half way across to about the usual running time and he did not proceed to the end of the journey, going to his country home in New Jersey.

Calculations made on this unfinished trip have placed the time at seventy-one hours and seven minutes between Oakland and New York City. As an actual race against time, however, the journey completed Tuesday night has established a record.

Mr. Harriman is twenty-four hours better than the speed accomplished under similar conditions. One of the best records for transcontinental railroading was made by a Jarrett-Palmer special in 1873 in eighty hours and forty-five minutes.

The Central has acquired lines practically all over the province, details of which have been given already in The Telegraph. In which it also has been told that expansion towards Montreal connection is going on.

Mr. Robinson said last night that they have invested so far $200,000 and are now making application to increase their capital to $1,000,000, that there are more than 300 stockholders, many of whom are in St. John. The officers are: Theodore H. Lambrook (St. John), president; S. H. White (Sumner), vice-president; and G. W. Genoway, M. P. (St. Stephen), and H. P. Robinson (Sumner). It is the intention to divide among different parts of the province.

Body Found Floating in River at Fredericton

Fredericton, May 11.—The body of an unknown man was found floating in the river near McGinley's ferry in that vicinity. It was that of a man in the neighborhood of 40 years of age, and was badly disfigured. The supposition is that the poor fellow lost his life at some point far up the river, probably before the ice formed last fall.

A Boon for Infants Lactated Food

Baby's Summer Protector and Mother's Comfort.

The greatest boon of science for the infant is Lactated Food, a highly nutritious form of diet containing all the principal elements of pure and healthy breast milk. Lactated Food stands first as a health-giving food. Its purity, nourishing power, its adaptability for weak digestion and its non-irritating qualities are well known to physicians who prescribe it every day. Babies regularly fed on Lactated Food are always secure from such infantile troubles as dysentery, diarrhoea and bowel consumption. In a word, Lactated Food "nurses babies" live when all other foods fail to nourish and strengthen. Try it mothers, the result will delight you. Druggists everywhere.

Bills Assented To

Ottawa, May 11.—(Special.)—Justice Bowditch, acting for the governor general, attended in the senate today and gave royal assent to all the bills that have been passed so far this session.

Asked whether the exchange would be decided upon, it was of course a matter to be decided upon, as it would be impossible to say at the present time; he would have no idea just what the rates would be until their telephone engineers went over the whole matter and reported.

DYING OF HEART DISEASE

Firmly Convinced of This Are People Who Often Have Strong Hearts.

Sometimes you wake up at night, heart throbbing like a steam engine. Your breathing is short and irregular; pain shoots through the chest and abdomen and causes horrible anxiety.

Your trouble isn't with the heart at all. These sensations are the outcome of indigestion which has caused gas to form on the stomach and press against the heart. But how long can your heart stand this? You know well enough it will soon pay out.

Then remove the cause. It can be done with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They correct digestion, disengage the tone of the liver and kidneys, guarantee you freedom from further attacks.

Is it not your plain duty to get this grand remedy today? Better you are sure to feel at once. Just read what happened to Isaac Mallock of Bella River, Ont. He used Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they made a new man of him.

"Three months ago I was a weak, sickly man. My appetite was poor, food fermented in my stomach, I had sour risings and indigestion. At night I would often wake with gas in the stomach and heart palpitation.

"I consulted my doctor, and used remedies that my friends advised. Nothing helped.

"One day I received a sample of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and my cure commenced. Today I have a vigorous appetite, strong heart action and no sign of indigestion. I feel younger and healthier than ever before.

Your dealer sells Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from N. O. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A. and Kingston, Ont.

HON. MR. EMMERSON CORRECTS REPORT

Didn't Say That Government Would Take Jurisdiction of All Railways

Ottawa, May 11.—(Special.)—Hon. H. R. Emmerson, when the house met today, said that an editorial paragraph in the Globe had stated that he had said that when the conference between the dominion and the provinces to take the jurisdiction of all railways. He (Emmerson) did not say anything of the kind. He merely stated that the railway committee that the subject would be discussed at the conference.

Mr. Bole (Winnipeg), complained of the accuracy of the charges and the minister of public works said that he had no report upon it.

The commonsense today continued the discussion of the land matters in the North-west, which was started by Mr. Ames yesterday on a motion to go into supply.

The debate was conducted by western members and was along the same lines as yesterday, the government members laying particular stress on the land and immigration policies of the government, contributing to the general prosperity of the country.

The debate was continued by Dr. Chisholm and Mr. MacDonnell, the latter claiming that Mr. Ames' note book of his western trip contained a lot of gossip and every day. Babies regularly fed on Lactated Food are always secure from such infantile troubles as dysentery, diarrhoea and bowel consumption. In a word, Lactated Food "nurses babies" live when all other foods fail to nourish and strengthen. Try it mothers, the result will delight you. Druggists everywhere.

Mr. Broderick intimated that Captain Bernier was willing to go before the public accounts committee and defend the character and extent of the supplies purchased. The committee rose and reported progress and the house adjourned at 11.45.

North Shore Woman Burned to Death

Miss Jane Betts, of Millerton, Likely Met Her Tragic End While Building Fire in a Stove.

There was a frightful tragedy at Millerton, Northumberland county, on Wednesday of the week which resulted in the death of Miss Jane Betts, a familiar figure of that place and a person who was generally respected. Miss Betts, who lived alone in a small house, had been at John Betts' for tea on Wednesday afternoon and went home at about 6 o'clock. Soon after she entered the house volumes of smoke were seen pouring out of the place. A man named Failes ran to the house but found the front door locked. Later he secured an axe and broke down the front door. The place was full of smoke and it was so dense that as often as he tried to enter he was forced back.

It was some time before the fire could be put out and the smoke cleared away enough to allow anybody to enter, but by that time Miss Betts was dead. Her body was found not far from the stove and it is supposed that while trying to light the stove her clothes caught fire and she was burned to death.

MORE DAMAGING EVIDENCE AGAINST STANDARD OIL CO.

Chicago, May 11.—Direct charges of collusion between the Standard Oil Company and the St. Louis & Iron Mountain railroad were made today at the hearing before the interstate commerce commission of the investigation of the relations between the Standard Oil Company and the common carriers of the country.

H. J. Cohen, of St. Louis, for fifteen years connected with the Standard Oil Company, declared that the agents of the railroad acted as agents of the oil company and received a commission on oil they sold.

Attorneys for the Standard Oil Company denied the charges, claiming that Maxon, an Illinois oil dealer, formerly employed by the Standard Oil Company, showed that Maxon repeatedly wrote letters to officers of the Standard Oil Company threatening to make trouble, because he did not consider himself well treated. Maxon said he wrote the letters "just for amusement."

Mr. Tucker, who resumed the stand in the afternoon, said that on September 29, 1888, the protesting oil west of Detroit was withdrawn.

H. J. Cohen, of St. Louis, declared that certain territories in Illinois were divided between the Waters-Pierce Oil Company and the Standard Oil Company for the sale of oil. The accounts of the former company were, he said, checked up by the auditors of the Standard Oil Company. Cohen said the Iron Mountain railroad had acted as an agent in securing business for the Standard Oil Company from all small towns in Southern Missouri, receiving compensation for all work done.

The last witness of the day was Secretary H. I. Hibbs, of Peoria (Ill.), who gave evidence regarding the methods of crushing independent dealers similar to that given by previous witnesses.

The hearing will be continued tomorrow.

Sid Bay Died of Hemiplegia.

Tunis, May 11.—Sid Bay, died this evening at his summer palace of crushing hemiplegia, similar to that given by previous witnesses.

SPORTING

Chicago, May 11.—The world's record high run, 16-inch ball, two in, was broken to-night by Willie Hoppe, who set the new mark at 307. The former record was held by Louis Strye, 285.

Hoppe made the record tonight in his professional tournament at Orchestra Hall.

Sutton's Wonderful Game.

Chicago, May 11.—George Sutton, of Canada, today broke all records for the present professional billiard tournament at Orchestra Hall by defeating Louis Cure, 500 to 235 in six innings, making an average of 8.24 with a high run of 201.

BASEBALL

The Society League.

Matters are assuming definite shape in the Inter-Society Amateur Base Ball League, the opening game of which will take place Monday night at 6.45 o'clock between the St. Peter's and Father Mathew Association teams. As yet the lineup of the competing teams is unannounced.

The St. Peter's will have Davey at third, Mahoney at short and Howard, all of last year's Portlanders, as a nucleus, while younger members of the society in base ball will complete the roster.

The St. Joseph's lineup will be the same last year with a few changes, and on good grounds the team should be strong.

Long, George and Burke to help matters along, while plenty of material is available to fill out.

The Father Mathew lineup is not just known but Mahoney, of last year's Victorians, will probably catch and Howe will be seen at third.

The St. Joseph's and St. Peter's will clash for the first time on Tuesday night. The St. Peter's and F. M. A. players have ordered new suits in Toronto.

D. Connolly and R. Atchison will umpire during the season, while P. Carroll will be official scorer.

The grounds are being prepared and with good weather should be in first class condition for the opening game.

Once under way, and the players enabled to secure some practice, which the recent bad weather has prevented, local players of ball should be able to see good exhibitions of the game.

A Consulting Chemist Makes a Novel Experiment. An Unsolicited Letter that Explains Itself.

"I write to state that on account of your '2 in 1' Shoe Polish being criticized, and the charge made that it injured leather, I made this test as follows: I mixed the contents of a box of '2 in 1' Shoe Polish, bought at a retail store from regular stock, with four ounces of water and into this mixture put a kid glove, and left the said glove in the mixture in a bottle from June 15th to December 15th, 1905—a full six months. I then took the glove out, washed it and examined it. The fine leather of the glove was not affected in the least. It was as pliable and soft as when new, and was not altered in condition, nor were the stitches affected in any way. This test, I consider, proves that '2 in 1' does not injure the finest leather."

I hereby state that these facts are correct and true.

TO THE NORTH POLE BY AIRSHIP AND STEEL BOAT

Walter Wellman Will Start The Latter Part of June—Description of the Airship and The Boats Which are Now Under Construction.

(Special from the Continental Press Bureau, 171 La Salle street, Chicago.)

Expedition after expedition has been sent out to solve the mystery of the North Pole, without success, yet in the face of the previous discouraging failures, Walter Wellman, internationally famous as explorer, lecturer, and newspaper correspondent, is soon to undertake for the Chicago Record-Herald a dash to the North Pole in an air ship.

On two previous occasions, in 1894 and 1899, Mr. Wellman has headed polar expeditions, and about the latter part of June, expects to start from Spitzbergen, some 600 miles north of Hammerfest, Norway, which is within 575 geographical miles of the Pole, and it is estimated that the party should be able to make the trip to the North Pole in ten or twelve days.

The trip will be made during the long daylight months of the year, and communication with the world will be maintained throughout the trip by means of three wireless telegraph stations. The first will be located at Hammerfest, where connection is had with the Atlantic cable, the second will be at Spitzbergen, the headquarters of the expedition, and the third on board of the air ship.

The air ship in which the Wellman Record-Herald expedition is to make its dash to the Pole is now being built by Engineer Louis Godard in Paris. It will be approximately 160 ft. long and its greatest diameter will be about 32 ft. It will have a lifting power of 16,000 lbs., and the weight of the air ship, with its motors and machinery complete, will be 6,000 lbs. The weight of the crew, instruments, wireless and other apparatus, and gasoline, will be 9,400 lbs. The air ship will be propelled by two motors, one 50 and the other of 25 H. P., driving two screws, and giving a speed of from ten to nineteen miles an hour. The length of the car, which is made entirely of steel tubing, is a little over 30 ft., and the engine rooms and cabin for the crew are enclosed.

Three thicknesses of fabric are being used in the construction of the gas bags of the air ship, two of cotton material and one of silk, with three coatings of pure rubber. All three are consolidated into one fabric, giving great strength.

Before starting on his trip Mr. Wellman expects to be able to manage the big air ship himself, and will make many air ship ascensions and tests in France to perfect himself in the management of the dirigible balloon. Suspended beneath the air ship will be a Mullins steel boat, weighing about 225 lbs., and with a carrying capacity of 1,000 lbs.

The boats now under construction will be about 18 feet long by 4 1/2 feet wide amidships, and will be made of pressed steel plates, with high gunwale. Both boats will be completed about May 15 and shipped to Tromsø, Norway, where the steamer which will carry the Wellman expedition and outfit to its headquarters at Spitzbergen is now lying. After the most severe tests, one of the two boats will be selected for the polar expedition.

In case of the destruction of the air ship, the steel boat will be used for crossing the long stretches of open water, and will be mounted on sleds for crossing the ice fields. In such event, the steel boat would become the most important part of the equipment, as its strength makes it practically indestructible, while its lightness enables it to be handled easily. As the Wellman expedition will take but one boat, it is presumed that Mr. Wellman made the most careful search throughout the entire world for the lightest yet strongest boat which could possibly be built, and it is not merely a coincidence that the Peary expedition, which recently sailed in search of the North Pole, should also carry a Mullins steel boat as part of its equipment.

The whole world will watch with the greatest interest the attempts of the Wellman Record-Herald and the Peary expeditions to discover the North Pole. Which will win the ship or the air ship? Should Walter Wellman succeed in reaching the Pole, and unveil its mysteries, it may be only a few years before tourists will bring back to us from the Arctic resorts glowing stories of the beauty and grandeur of the frozen north.

LATE LOCALS

There will be special services on Sunday, conducted by Adj. and Mrs. Bowring, at the Salvation Army hall, Carleton.

Mayor Sears and Director Murdoch drove out to Loch Lomond this morning. They intended looking over the water works extension and afterwards attending the funeral of the late Sterling Barker.

Spencer Williams, of Carter's Point, arrived by the Elsie yesterday and reports that there was a heavy white frost on river Friday morning. He states also that the ground is still too wet to do much planting, and says that the frost is about holding its own.

A horse driven by Dr. D. E. Berryman became frightened at the street crossing yesterday afternoon on King St. and plunged on to the sidewalk near Manchester, Robertson, Allison's door. With the exception of a few slight scratches that the horse received, there was no damage done.

KIRK BROWN COMING

Kirk Brown will appear at the head of the own company for two weeks, commencing Monday evening. Few actors have ever appeared at the Opera House better fitted to gain the admiration and support of play goers. The young actor, gifted beyond ordinary players to occupy a high plane among stage favorites, has secured some of the most attractive plays among the recent successes. His repertoire includes the highest class plays ever produced at popular prices and will be staged complete.

A feature is being made of the opening performance of Under the Red Robe.

FIRST CLASS SHOW COMING

For the past two years the Gage Stock Co. have made "The Pariah Priest" one of their leading plays. It is a play so simple, so close to nature that its charm is apparent even to one becomes familiar with the characters. It touches the heart at all times, while its humor is so clean and wholesome that laughter follows laughter in quick succession. Its story is one that young and old appreciate and delight in, the story that "True love never runs smooth." Opens in York Theatre week from Monday.

FUNERALS

The funeral of the late Miss Catherine A. Pauley, was held this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, from St. James street, and was largely attended.

The body was taken to the church of St. John the Baptist, where the burial services were conducted by very Rev. W. F. Chapman. There were no pall-bearers and interment took place in the new Catholic cemetery.
