WEST INDIES.

BARBADOS, Jan 25.

Half past 3 p. m.—We have been obliged to stop the press till this late hour, in consequence of a general alarm which has been felt in Bridgetown since 11 o'clock this morning, occasioned by the distressing calamity of fire, which broke out in Bay street.

Several houses in the line of the fire were wisely and speedily pulled down, while large quantities of rum, and other combustible articles, were thrown into the water.—At half-past 2, it was observable that the further progress of the flames had been happily arrested. Possibly there may be twenty houses destroyed in all—some wooden ones—and occupied by persons whose situations in life are little to be envied. Several huxter women have had a quantity of articles destroyed, and one gentleman, Mr. James, is reported to have been deprived of every part of his property.—Two or three lives are also said to be lost—one negro man, who, by a fall, broke his leg and arm, which required instant amputation—and two others reported to be burnt to death.

UNITED STATES.

Baltimore, Feb. 18.

LATE FROM COLOMBIA.

The following curious and interesting account is from the Colombiano of the 1st February. Extract from the Journal of the private sch. of the Republic of Colombia, "Trinidad," commanded by Capt. Charles H. Johnston, whilst in the port of Tangiers, belonging to the Empire of Morocco.

"The Schr. "Trinidad," anchored in the bay of Tangiers on the 9th of last Nov. at three o'clock, in the afternoon. At four she was visited by the Port Captain, who saluted the Captain on behalf of the Bey, expressing his good wishes, and the pleasure he would derive from seeing him on shore. On the 10th Capt. Johnston landed, and paid a visit to the Bey, who received him with great kindness, assuring him of the pleasure it gave him to see the Colombian flag in his harbour. On the following day, the Bey gave directions, for supplying the schr. with provisions and water, in spite of the efforts of the Spanish and French Consuls to prevent it. The former threatened to strike his flag and return to Spain, if ours were admitted in the port. The Bey Mahomet replied with firmness and resolution, that he might withdraw, and tell the King his Master, that the ocean was large enough for the settlement of his differences with the Americans. He sent directions for hoisting his flag in all the batteries, in honour of Colombia, and that any salute fired by the schr. should be returned, stating that he owed to the vessels the same hospitality as to those of other nations. The English and American Consuls also hoisted their colours on the occasion, and their utmost influence to sustain the honor of their own flag; and they, as well as the French, Portuguese, and Sardinian Consuls formally declared Colombia to be a free and independent nation. On the 13th Capt. J. repeated visit to the Bey, who assured him of the assistance of his government and of the efforts he would make to induce the Emperor his Master, establish the most cordial relations with our government. The English and American Consuls de him the like assurances; with the latter of whom he had an amicable correspondence respecting the protection given by the Trinidad to Moorish property on board of Spanish vessels.—In short the Bey Mahomet, who is a man of talent, frank and liberal in his deportment, gave Captain Johnston evident proofs of his attachment to Colombia, by the most friendly assurances, of permitting no occasion to pass, without protecting and honoring to his utmost, all vessels belonging to the republic. Captain Johnston states that the Bey sent him despatches for our government, but he was obliged from stress of weather, to quit the coast before their arrival.—He states further, that a Colombian Agent is greatly desired at Tangiers, and that the Consuls of England, America and Guatimala, have communicated the foregoing occurrences to their respective governments.

Norfolk, February 14.

FROM MATANZAS.

"On the 1st February 14 negroes, that were aggressors in the revolt in March last, were publicly executed (shot)—after the execution, the head and hands of one of the principal offenders were severed and nailed to a post, on the estate to which he belonged, near Lemon, (Mrs. Peysons's.)"

"A report reached Matanzas on the 1st inst. that the pirates had captured and taken into "Bayon Crifereras," near, say 20 miles from M. two vessels, supposed to be American, and after plundering them, set fire to them and murdered all hands—some of the goods, supposed to have belonged to the above vessels, were seen on the road to Matanzas, by a respectable American.

The writer further adds—"The summer and early seasons on the coast are fast approaching; and if redoubled exertions are not used by government, and cruisers are not vigilant and industrious their knives will be again sharpened—when Blood and Plunder will be the order of the day."

BOSTON, March 2.

Ar. Brig Aurora, Coffin, Lisbon, Feb. 26, off the Seal Islands, fell in with the brig Liberator, Hall, of and from St. John, N. B. for Liverpool, in distress, having struck on the Bellona's Rock, and bilged—took off the Captain, 2d mate, and 7 men, the chief mate and two men having been washed overboard, the same morning, when she struck.

The Lib. was 220 tons, on her first voyage, and only two days out. She struck at 1 o'clock on the 26th, and at day light was discovered by the Aurora, and when the boat reached her, she was nearly full of water, stem knocked out, stern post started, keel and several of her bottom plank knocked off. The mate (Miles Follins) and two men, (Peter and Matthew —) who were lost, got into the long boat, secured on deck, soon after she struck, for safety, the sea making a fair breach over her. The second sea which struck took the long boat and men overboard, drawing the ring bolts from the deck. The rock on which she struck is three miles from land (Seal Island) which bore N. W. and the Capt. judged himself 90 miles from it. Nothing was saved from the vessel, except a stay-sail (which was wanted on board the Aurora, to replace one that had been split in pieces) and some trifling articles. She was copper fastened.

The state of the weather was such that the survivors would no doubt have perished, during the following night, on board their own vessel.

The British Ship Robert Kerr, has arrived at Charleston from Waterford, Ireland, having sailed the 11th January. It will be seen by the following letter that a violent gale of wind had been experienced on the Irish coast.—

"Dublin, Jan. 7.—It has blown a tremendous gale here to day from about E. S. E. and five or six vessels totally wrecked at Dunleary, (Bay of Dublin) and the Letitia, from Quebec, I think she is called the Marion, totally lost. One vessel from Baltimore to Liverpool, and another from Alexandria to Dublin, totally lost on the Skerries, besides a great many other renowned losses, not yet confirmed—so that I fear these winds have been very fatal in the channel."

LATEST FROM EUROPE.

Capt. Tubbs, of the brig Commodore Barry, arrived in town this morning in the steam boat, leaving his brig below at Newcastle. Capt. T. sailed from Liverpool on the 13th of January; but he unfortunately left all his papers and letters on board the brig, which will not reach the city before evening. Having stopped two days at St. Croix, he naturally supposed that all the intelligence contained in his papers would have been anticipated by the Milo, which sailed in company with him from Liverpool direct for Boston.

Owing to the prevalence of easterly winds, there had been no arrival at Liverpool for several days previous to the sailing of the Commodore Barry. The "panic" in the money market had nearly ceased, and commercial confidence was in a fair way of being fully re-established.

The winter in England was very unlike that in this country. It was unusually severe. So much snow fell, that in many parts of the country, the people had to turn out to clear a passage for the mail coach.

But intelligence of far greater moment has been brought by Capt Tubbs. It is that the Archduke Constantine has positively waived his claim to the throne in favour of his brother Nicholas, and that the latter has been crowned Emperor of Russia.—Capt. T. has a note from his consignee, stating that this news had been confirmed by despatches received by the Russian minister at London.

Whether Constantine is to be King of Poland or Emperor of Constantinople, remains to be seen.—Phil. Gaz.

DOMESTIC.

An Act to repeal an Act intitled "an Act to alter, and in addition to an Act, intitled, an Act for establishing a tender in all payments to be made in the Province," and declaring in what manner certain past debts may be paid.

[Passed 7th March, 1826.]

Whereas great inconveniences are felt in consequence of the increased value given to certain Foreign Coins, specified in an Act made and passed in the sixtieth year of His Majesty's Reign, intitled an Act to alter and in addition to an Act, intitled an Act for establishing a tender in all payments to be made in this Province, as compared with British Gold and Silver Coin.

I. Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governor, Council and Assembly, That the said recited Act, made and passed in the sixtieth year of the Reign of His late Majesty King George the Third, be and the same is hereby repealed.

II. Provided always and be it further enacted, That the several Coins mentioned in the said recited Act, shall be received in payments, and they are hereby declared to be a legal Tender at the respected values set upon them in the said Act, as far as regards any Debts, Damages, Contracts or Agreements already, incurred or made, or which may be incurred or made, previous to the time limited for this Act going into operation; and which shall actually become due or payable, and be paid or tendered for payment within one year from the said time, so limited as aforesaid.

III. Provided also and be it further enacted, That this Act shall not go into operation until the first day of May next.

An Act to repeal all the Laws now in force for the regulation of Seamen, and to make more effectual provisions for that purpose.

[Passed 7th March, 1826.]

Whereas the several Acts for the regulation of Seamen, require some alteration and amendment, and it is expedient that the said Acts should be consolidated—

I. Be it therefore enacted by the Lieutenant-Governor, Council and Assembly, That "an Act made and passed in the twenty sixth year of the Reign of His late Majesty King George the Third, intitled "An Act for the regulation of Seamen," and also another Act made and passed in the thirty-eight year of his said late Majesty's Reign, intitled, "An Act in addition to and in amendment of an Act intitled an Act for the regulation of Seamen," and also another Act made and passed in the fiftieth year of his said late Majesty's Reign, intitled, "An Act in amendment of the Acts now in force for regulating Seamen," be and the same are hereby severally repealed.

II. And be it further enacted, That if any Innholder, Shopkeeper, or any other person whatsoever, shall trust or give credit to any Mariner or Seaman belonging to any ship or vessel, without the knowledge and allowance of the Master or Commander thereof, he or she shall be liable to the arrest of the person of such Mariner or Seaman for any debt so contracted shall be issued against or served upon the person of such Mariner or Seaman until he shall have performed the voyage which he may be then entered upon, and be discharged of the same, and every such process so issued shall be deemed and adjudged utterly void in law, and any one Justice of the Court from whence such process shall issue, or Justice of the Peace, in case the debt demanded may not exceed Five Pounds, to whom it shall be made to appear that any Mariner or Seaman is committed or restrained upon process granted for any such debt or pretence of debt made whilst he was engaged and actually entered—and in pay on any voyage, shall forthwith order his release.

III. And be it further enacted, That if any Mariner or Seaman having shipped himself on board of any ship or vessel which hath been launched, or is actually preparing for sea, to proceed on any voyage, or belonging to any vessel arriving in the Province and upon pay, shall neglect his attendance or refuse to do his duty on board, or shall absent himself, without leave, from his said service, upon complaint thereof made on oath by the owner or Master or other officer of the said ship or vessel, to any Justice of the Peace within the said County, such Justice is hereby empowered to cause such Mariner or Seaman to be forthwith brought before him by warrant, and upon conviction of his neglecting his attendance to his duty on board, or absenting himself without leave as aforesaid, to commit such Mariner or Seaman to prison, that he may be secured and forthcoming to proceed on the voyage he has so agreed for, and to be delivered by the order of the Justice that committed him, or some other Justice in the same County, and all necessary charges attending his being so secured, and which have been actually paid by the said Owner or Master, may be deducted from such Mariner's or Seaman's wages, as the same became due.

IV. And be it further enacted, That if any Master or Commander of any ship or vessel, or any other person or persons, shall hire or engage, harbour or conceal any Mariner or Seaman who shall have signed any former contract or articles, knowing him to have deserted from any ship or vessel within the Province, every such Master, Commander, or other person or persons so offending, and being thereof convicted before any two of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the County where the offence is committed, upon the oath of one or more creditable witness or witnesses, or confession of the party, shall forfeit and pay such sum as the said Justices shall adjudge, not exceeding Ten Pounds, and not less than Five Pounds; to be levied by warrant of distress and sale of the offender's goods, under the seal of such Justices, and when recovered one moiety to be paid to the person so prosecuting for the same, and the other moiety to the County Treasurer where the offence is committed, for the use of such County; and if there shall be no goods or chattels of such offender, whereof the said penalty may be levied, it shall and may be lawful for such Justices, by warrant under their hands and seals, to commit such offender to the Gaol of the County where such offence shall be committed, there to remain for a space of time not exceeding Sixty Days: and not less than Thirty Days: And such Mariner or Seaman who shall desert at any time during the voyage or while he is engaged by written contract or articles, shall over and above the penalties and forfeitures to which he is now by law subject, forfeit all the wages he may have agreed for or be entitled to during the voyage from the Owner or Master of the ship or vessel on board of which he shall have entered, after such desertion to the Owner or Owners of such ship or vessel as he shall have deserted from, to be sued for and recovered by action of debt, in any Court competent to try the same.

V. And be it further enacted, That if proof be made upon oath, by the Owner, Agent, or Master of any ship or vessel, before any of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace in this Province, that any Seaman or Mariner belonging to such ship or vessel, and who may have deserted or absented himself from the same, be kept or concealed on board of any other ship or vessel within any of the Harbours of this Province, or in any Tavern, Pot-House, or other house or place within the County for which such Justice shall be appointed; or if oath be made that such Owner, Agent or Master hath good reason to suspect, and doth verily believe that such Seaman or Mariner is so concealed as aforesaid, it shall and may be lawful for such Justice to issue his warrant to any of the Constables or Peace Officers within the said County, to make search on board such ship or vessel, or in such Tavern, Pot-House, or other place, and if such Seaman shall be found in such suspected place, that such Justice shall cause such Seaman to be brought before him; and upon conviction of his having so deserted or absented himself, shall cause such Seaman to be delivered over to the Owner or Master of the ship or vessel to which such Seaman shall belong, to be carried on board such ship or vessel or to be committed to prison, as directed in the third section of this Act.

VI. And whereas the practice of enticing Seamen to desert their ships, is greatly promoted by the encouragement given to Tavernkeepers and others, by giving large sums to them for procuring Seamen;—Be it therefore enacted, That from and after the first day of April next, it shall not be lawful for any owner, Master or Agent of any ship or vessel, or other person, either directly or indirectly, to pay or give any money, hire or reward, or to promise or engage to pay or give any money, hire or reward, to any Innholder, Tavernkeeper, Shopkeeper, or other person or persons, for the procuring of any Seaman or Seamen for any ship or vessel; and that it shall not be lawful for any Innholder, Tavernkeeper, Shopkeeper, or other person or persons to receive any money, hire or reward, either directly or indirectly, for the procuring such Seaman or Seamen; and that any monies so to be paid, be considered as paid without consideration, and may be recovered back by action or suit in any Court having competent jurisdiction; and that all bonds, notes, bills, agreements, promises or engagements for paying or giving any money, hire or reward for the above-mentioned purposes, shall be absolutely null and void to all intents and purposes whatsoever; and if any suit or action is knowingly brought upon any such bonds, notes, bills, agreements or engagements; and the same shall appear to the satisfaction of the Judge who shall try the cause, he shall grant a certificate of the same immediately after the trial; and the Plaintiff in such action shall thereupon be liable to pay double costs of suit to the Defendant in such action.

VII. Provided always, and be it further enacted, that no Mariner or Seaman shall be bound by entering or shipping himself on board of any ship or vessel, unless the agreement shall be in writing, and declare what wages such Mariner or Seaman is to have for so long time as he shall ship himself for, and also shall express the voyage for which such Mariner or Seaman was shipped; any thing hereinbefore contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

VIII. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall continue and be in force until the thirty-first day of March, which will be in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and twenty-nine, and no longer.

CORRESPONDENCE.

"THE WONDER OF WONDERS."

A Hoax. "Well ***** a Citizen cried, "Have you been to see tide-walking Peter?" O, yes! I went down, I replied, To pick up a subject for metre. "Yes, do give us something in rhyme, "Twill please all the folks of the City; "Strike quick, hit the nick of the time, "And make it a quizzical ditty."

I went home without further delay, Snatch'd an old swarthy quill from the closet, Took paper, and scribbled away, In a hurry resolv'd to compose it; Here it comes smacking hot from the Press, You may call it a song, or a satire, You'll all understand it, I guess, 'Tis the wonderful walk on the water."

The Bushman had come from the woods, The Doctor had fled from the dying, The Merchant had lock'd up his goods, For this was no season for buying; The scene would have made a Monk laugh, There was infamy warm from the cradle, Old age was there bent on his staff, The Cook reeking hot from the fadle.

The wharves were all fill'd with the crowds, Each boat in the Harbour was plying, On the ships, the Boys hung in the shrouds, Like JACK's pantaloons up a drying; Carleton beach, too, presented a throng, To see the aquatic excursion, Navy Island was peopled along, Poor fellows, they miss'd the diversion,

To Carleton each optic was bent, Till the water gush'd out of it's socket, When the welkin was suddenly rent, With a noise like the crack of a rocket; When to! to the windward appear'd, Near Simonde's wharf, a strange figure, Old Nep, without trident or beard, His hand on a Blunderbuss' trigger.

Three clumsy octangular Buoys, Dispos'd about twelve feet asunder, Supported a pole of huge size, And there sat the Wonderful Wonder; Walking water astride on a spar, Just giving his trotters a lavement? As well might he sit on a car, And say he was walking the pavement,

While there with his shovels he sat, Digging over the water's soft surface, He put me in mind of poor P—, Turning over the sod for his Murphies; He was hiss'd all along by the crowd, And pelted with snow in some places, Yet the prodigy nodded and bow'd, And she w'd his fantastic grimaces.

I now left my stage, the main-top, By a rope thro' the Lubber's hole dangled, And never was thief on a drop, More dead, than my patient was strangled; I wish'd some sea-monster would bounce Up close at his feet and unsaddle him, Destroy his Machine at a founce, And leave but his scrapers to paddle him,

I wish'd with the rest of the folks, We had had a fire engine a playing, 'Twould have been tit for tat, for his hoax, Had we set this poor Peter a praying; His next feat I'm told is a flight, From Fort Hrow down to Partridge Island, If so, let us pray that the kite, May fall a few chains short of dry land, A Disappointed Spectator.

MISCELLANY.

Written on the Wainscot of a Room at an Inn in Lintlogow.

Pray, what is lighter than a feather? Dust, my friend, in driest weather. What lighter than that dust, I pray? The wind that drives it far away. Say, what is lighter than the wind? The lightness of a woman's mind. Tell me, what's lighter than this last? —Nay—now, my friend, you have me fast.

The following notice appeared lately on the door of a Roman Catholic Chapel, in the West of Ireland:—

Put away from Patrick M'Dallah!!! Whereas my wife Mrs. Bridget M'Dallah, is again walked away, with herself and left me with her four small children and her poor old blind mother, and nobody else to look after house home, and I hear has taken up with Tim Galgan the lame Fidler, the same that was put in the Stocks last Easter for stealing Barney Woody's Game-cock.—This is to give notice that I will Not pay for Bite or Sup on her or his account to man or mortal, and that she Had better never shew, the mark

MARINE INSURANCE OFFICE.

Committee of Directors for the Week.
William Black,
Hugh Johnston, Jun.
James Ewing.
Office Hours.—12 to 3.

Boston papers of the 11th have furnished us with London dates to 15th Jan. It appears that Constantine has resigned, and that a Manifesto published by Nicholas the first, the Emperor of all the Russias, was issued on the 26th Dec. at St. Petersburg. A revolt took place amongst the Guards when they were assembled to take the oath of allegiance to the new Emperor, and two companies of the Moscow Grenadiers rushed from their Barracks, with their colours, and proclaimed Constantine the 1st. They were joined by great numbers of people, by the soldiers of the Body Grenadier Regiment, and of the Moscow Guard.
The Emperor appeared without arms, and attempted in vain by persuasion, to quell the mutineers. He was forced at last to order his troops to advance; the rebels then formed themselves into a square, and fired, but were however soon dispersed, and tranquillity restored. The number of killed in this affair, is said to amount to 200.—Confidence is now restored—the Nobility had attended to congratulate the new Emperor on his accession—Te Deum was sung in all the Churches; and the Emperor had, in person, presented new Colours to all the Regiments in the Capitol.

It did not surprise us to find the Editor of the Eastport Sentinel, in his ire, venting puny vengeance, with his accustomed scurrility. We were however, not a little astonished to observe, that this watchful Sentinel had been napping at his post, and contradicting almost in the same breath, his own, and Mr. Coffin's statements. We refer to the simple fact which Mr. Folsom notices, that occurred on the visit of the Agents to our Boundaries Line.—After repeating their abominable falsehoods, viz. "that little confidence was placed in our Government Grants, that the inhabitants wish an exchange of Territory, and that they expressed satisfaction and delight at the prospect of being received into the family of Maine," we find him ill-naturally and inadvertently contradicting this statement, by calling them a "loyal rabble, who at present are incapable, and in fact, unworthy of enjoying the happy and cheering influence of the American Government!!!"

Yes, we trust our settlers are loyal and happy, and estimate so highly the benefits they at present enjoy, under the protection of the British Government, that they hold in contempt, the petty efforts and look with abhorrence at the attempts of villains who would excite them to abjure their allegiance and disregard our Laws.

We are well aware of the versatility of talent possessed by the Editor of the Sentinel, and that the extent of his Gamut is from the highest note in mock heroics, to the lowest in Billingsgate. We may sometimes laugh at the one, but we always despise the other; and beg to inform him that we are not in the habit ('tho' standing in the kennel,') of 'besmearing the decent traveller'; but we would consider it a dereliction of our public duty, were we to observe amongst us such travellers as Mr. Coffin and Gen. Irish, and not point them out to public notice.

The Inhabitants of Indian Town were alarmed at an early hour this morning, by the discovery of a serious fire in the Dwelling House of Mr. Johnston, which spread with such rapidity, that horrible to relate, a person by the name of Berry, fell a victim to its fury. The House occupied by Mr. Clarke, confectioner, and another adjoining it, we understand have been destroyed.

POET'S CORNER.

THE BANDIT'S DEATH.

And must I die, and must I die,
An outcast and alone,
With none to close my weary eye,
When I have ceas'd to moan?

And must I tread the shores of death,
The pallid flickering glare
Alone to light my dismal path,
Of silence and despair?

And must I yield this worthless breath,
And baffle me for my charge,
With not a thought to sweeten death,
Like freedom or revenge?

Where'er—where'er I turn my eye,
Chill horror strikes me dumb;
I loathe the world which now I fly,
And dread the world to come.

But 'mid this vast and midnight gloom,
What object threatens my sight?
With such a dark and darker doom,
Despair beside, looks light.

Should not I know it?—Is it then
No visionary sight—
No wild'ring witch fire of the brain,
That scorches thus my sight?

Still must I brook its tyrant spell?—
Oh God! my heart-stings burst—
Spare me this mad'ning sight, and Hell
And Death may do their worst!

'Tis past—Time sees when Roland stood
The boldest in the fight;
And scenes of havoc and of blood,
To him were stern delight.

Ambition, from his eye of Mars,
Fired upward through the skies,
And sported with the puny stars,
Like school-boy with his toys!

From all allegiance human, free;
He spurn'd all laws divine;
And grasped, in thought, eternity,
As lightning grasps the pine!

And must that Roland's eye of fire
Wax dim—that heart grow faint?
That thunder voice so proud, expire
In womanish complaint?

No, by the innocent blood I've shed,
My sworn misanthropy,
A Bandit's life since I have led,
A Bandit's death I'll die.

So welcome Death!—Thou art defied!—
Yet, Oh for one poor friend,
To tell my gallant lays I died
A Bandit to the end!

A SISTER'S LOVE.

Continued.

A careless observer would have been much surprised, had he entered the oak parlour at Tancred's Ford on a certain evening. The sisters and Jane Forester had been lingering till sun-set in the garden, and when they returned to the house, they found Sir William and Lady Forester sitting at the open window by which they entered the room. One spoke, and the calm gloom of twilight pervaded the room with the thoughts of every bosom. A moon hung but a slender crescent in the pale sky, and a few silver stars, thinly scattered over the boundless vault of Heaven, glittered and appeared as the eye gazed on them. The night breeze wafted into the room full floods of rich perfume from the honeysuckles that grew around the window; and the ear caught the distant notes of a nightingale, just so distant that their melody was rather listened for, than heard; while at times a blackbird seeming to wake, unconscious for a moment of the night, disturbed the silent garden with its loud and piping song, and then stopped at once. Constance and Sylvia were sitting in a dark corner of the room, unmindful of the sights and sounds of evening; and every now and then, Constance pressed more tenderly the hand which was clasped in hers. More than an hour passed unheeded away; at last the clock struck: every one counted the sounds, it was ten o'clock. Jane Forester started up and rang for the tea; every one started at the lateness of the hour. Constance shaded her eyes as the footman brought in the lights; she did not know how to remove her hand, for the tears were trickling down her face, and she heard them fall upon the ground; she walked to the window, and there wiped away her tears unobserved. Jane Forester called her from another reverie, to a cup of tea which had been gradually grown cold:—again Constance felt her tears starting, and she bent her head down over the tea-cup, her hair hung down then and half concealed her face, but to no purpose, a tear would escape, and it dropped audibly upon the table: another followed.—Sylvia sprang up, and, flinging her arms round her sister's neck, they both wept aloud. Sir William began to speak, but his affectionate tone was only uttering some common-place consolation; and not knowing what to say, he stopped. Lady Forester wept, and Jane examined with unusual and silent attention the tea-spoon, which she turned backwards and forwards in her cup; but Constance now recovered herself at once, she fondly kissed her sister, and turning with a smile to her uncle, said, "Dear sir, we must be up early to-morrow, had we not better have prayers immediately?" Constance, although she joined fervently in the family prayers at first, soon unknowingly relapsed into a deeper fit of abstraction, and found her lips following the words of her uncle's prayer, while her thoughts were wandering over very different subjects: she woke to shame and sorrow for her inattention, as they rose from prayers, and then she sat down displeas'd with herself for having allowed her attention to be distracted. "Constance, we must be up early, did you not tell us so yourself?" said Jane Forester; "look at that strange girl waiting for you." Constance looked up at her sister, who stood holding the door with a light in her hand; there was an expression almost comic spreading itself over her grave countenance, but as she looked down at her sister all her gravity returned. "Good night, dear Jane," said Sylvia, playfully, as she left the room; but she returned and whispered to her cousin "pray for me." The sisters began to address as soon as they entered their chamber; they read aloud to each other, and then, having remained an unusual time in prayer, Sylvia stole silently to bed—she soon awoke from a short, dreamy doze into which she had fallen: she had dreamed of her sister, and she turned round to kiss her as she slept; but Constance was not in bed; Sylvia held aside the curtain, and saw by the moonlight, her sister kneeling beside the bed; in a few minutes after, Constance rose up lightly and lay down by her sister. "Let me kiss you before you go to sleep, dearest," said Sylvia; the sisters pressed their pure lips together, and whispered blessings to each other.—The mist-like, and confused unconsciousness of sleep gradually gathered over their thoughts of love.

"The sun shines upon my wedding morning," said Sylvia, as the sisters rose the next day; and every thing was bright and joyous on that wedding day. The bridal party were all too busily engaged to be sorrowful. The whole appearance and demeanor of Sylvia seemed to have undergone a change; the laughing girl had suddenly become the timid yet dignified woman, the true delicacy of maiden purity and modesty seemed to accompany her every look and action. Rivers had also seldom appeared to such advantage before: his best feelings were called into action: he saw before him a bright prospect of happiness; and he determined to seek and preserve that happiness by his own exertions; he thought that he now loved virtue for its own sake: the idea of devoting himself for life, as he did before the Almighty God, to the young and beautiful creature who seemed now to lean on him alone for support and protection, gave him a dignity in his own eyes which he had never experienced before. And as he knelt beside her, clasping her trembling hand in his, while the priest pronounced the blessing over them, the sacred words seemed to fill his heart with grateful piety. He stole a glance at his bride, and saw her bending down her lovely face, her soft eyes filling with tears, her cheeks suffused with blushes, but her lips moving in earnest prayer; and he thought the feelings which touched his heart were those of true, heart-religion. Did he judge rightly? May feelings, without fixed principles, be depended on?—Of the seed of the sower, did not some fall on stony ground, and immediately it sprung up; but because it had no root, presently after it withered away.

Constance was happier than she expected to have been after the departure of her sister; she felt, though she scarcely knew wherefore, a greater confidence of hope that Sylvia and her husband would seek and find happiness. A large party were assembled at Tancred's Ford, and Constance was too much engaged to think of her own sorrows. It was a sorrow for such sisters, for such friends, to part; and for one of them to go forth into the world with a new name, and with new duties. It was a sorrow for her who remained behind, and it was a trial for Constance to enter, that evening, her solitary chamber, where every thing reminded her of her own beloved sister; of that sister, whom she had never been separated from, for a single night, before. That sweet familiar friend, with whom every dear recollection was entwined, had at last left her. Constance locked the door, and sat down by the window; her woman's weakness gave way, as a flood of tears gushed from her eyes.

The month that succeeded Sylvia's marriage might truly be called a honey-moon. Constance visited the young pair, at a small estate which they possessed in Devonshire; all that she witnessed promised well. The present was happiness—the future, Constance thought it wrong to give way to many fears; she thought of the future, she prayed, and hope sprang up after her prayers. After all, it may be said, what reason had Constance to fear? she only guessed that Sylvia and her husband had no deep, fixed principles; and how many go on easily enough through the world without thinking much of principles.

"My love," said Rivers to his wife at breakfast, one morning, "tell me how you like the contents of this letter?" "Oh, not at all, dear Henry," she replied, as she finished reading the letter: "I dread going to town, and making my appearance in the world." "Would you remain behind, my Sylvia? you see that I must be present at St. Stephen's Chapel very shortly."—"And you know, Henry, I must go wherever you go; so for London and the world, since it must be so," said Sylvia, sighing deeply; Constance sighed too, but Rivers laughed at them both.

TO BE PUBLISHED, OBSTETRICAL OBSERVATIONS BY ROBERT BAYARD, M. D. D. C. L. Formerly Annual Assistant at the Lying-in-Hospital of Edinburgh, and subsequently Lecturer on Midwifery and on the Diseases of Women and Children, in New York, &c. N. B. Doctor BAYARD has been induced to offer his Observations upon Obstetric Practice, from a conviction that many errors have long prevailed in it, and in the management of Diseases incident to Child-bearing women, which although sanctioned by the older Authorities, and Practitioners in Midwifery, and perpetuated by prejudice, are nevertheless repugnant to reason, and admit of refutation by later experience, by the established operations of medicine, by the laws of anatomy, economy, and by anatomical facts. But as the sale of a Medical Work would be very limited in this and the adjoining Provinces, Doctor BAYARD has forwarded a prospectus of the contemplated volume to New-York for Subscribers, and when sufficient encouragement is given to indemnify him for the expenses of publication, the Observations, which will engross a full-sized octavo will be sent to the press. March 26, 1825.

The Subscriber BEGS leave to inform his Friends and the Public, that he has removed to Nelson street in Mr. M'KEE'S Property, where he carries on CONFECTIONARY and PASTRY, in all its branches, he has on hand a Supply of good SPIRITS and WINES, with Fine and Common Cordial, at a low price. N. B. Genteel Board and Lodging. June 22. JAMES BUIST.

BLACKSMITH WORK. THE Subscriber begs to return his most sincere thanks to his Friends and the Public, for their liberal patronage, and requests the continuance of their favours. He begs to announce further, that he has on hand a quantity of STOVE PIPE, and several STOVES, made on the most approved plan, which will be Sold Cheap for CASH, at his Shop in British Street, Lower Cove. October 25. JAMES HOLMES.
