THE PEACE ENVOYS. SHANGHAI, Feb. 10 .- The Chinese peace envoys have applied to the Tungli Yameni for permission to return to China, but the Government has ordered them to remain in Japan until a document clothing them with full power can reach them.

RICKARD'S CASE. LONDON, Feb. 10.—The news that the Englishman, Rickard, had been sentenced to death at Honolulu for his part in the revolution does not seem to have excited the slightest interest at the British Foreign Office. Most of the chiefs of division in the office were absent from their posts yesterday and will not return till Monday. The officials on duty this afternoon apparently had not heard that Rickard was in trouble.

VICTIMS OF THE ELBE DISASTER. LONDON, Feb. 10.-A fishing smack brought to Lowestoft to day the dead bodies of Paul Szuchy and Meri Babos, who were steerage passengers on the Elbe. The body on which were found documents designating it as that of Edward Muscovitz, a second cabin passenger on the Elbe, has been identified by the true Edward Muscovitz as that of Daniel Guttman, one of three brothers who had embezzled nearly 200,000 florins in Hungary and were fleeing to America. Guttman married Edward Muscovitz' sister and booked under his name to avoid detection. ENGLAND AND ITALY.

Jacques St. Gere cables from Paris to the New York Herald: Through entire week there have been active diplomatic negotiations in progress between Italy and England, and it is probable that some important decisions have been arrived in relation to African matters. Italy is seeking to secure the aid of England in Africa, but the British Government, by reason of the Parliamentary situation, energetically refuses to commit itself. The report about the betrothal of Princes Maud of Wales and the Prince of Naples which had its origin in the belief that England and Italy were about to form an alliance as regards Africa, has been

A POINT OVERLOOKED.

LONDON, Feb. 10.-In the general discussion of the circumstances of the sinking of the Elbe, a leading shipping journal holds that an important point has been overlooked. The Elbe was probably steaming at the rate of about sixteen miles an hour, and there is nothing to show that her steam was shut off at the moment of the collision. If her rate of speed was kept up for a quarter of an hour after the collision she must have run three of four miles from the spot where the Crathie struck The Crathie was not going in the same direction as the Elbe, and consequently at the time of the actual sinking of the Elbe the ships must have been a considerable distance apart. The paper contends that there is no evidence of a lack of discipline on board the Elbe, and argues that the event draws attention to the grave defects in the rules of the road, which have not been remedied by the conference at

ETRURIA AND ANCHORIA SAFE. QUEENSTOWN, Feb. 10. - The Cunard Line steamship Etruria, from New York for this port and Liverpool, has arrived and reports that she saw no signs of the French Line steamship La Gascogne. The Etruria sighted the Norwegian bark Hebe, which signaled that she had exhausted her stock of provisions and requested to be supplied with enough food to enable her to reach port. One of the Etruria's boats was loaded with a good supply of provisions and sent to the Hebe. The Etruria then resumed her voyage. GLASGOW, Feb. 10.—The Anchor Line steamship Anchoria, Capt. Young, from New York, Jan. 26, for this port, concerning whose safety some anxiety was felt, as she was several days over-due, was sighted off Tory Island, north of Ireland, at 8:40 o'clock yesterday morning. The Anchoria landed her passengers and the mails at Moville at 12:30 p.m. and proceeded.

GERMANY SHROUDED IN SNOW. BERLIN, Feb. 10 .- The weather has been phenomenal throughout the empire since Tuesday. The whole empire is now clothed in snow and ice. The upper reaches and great rivers are frozen over and immense quantities of drifting ice threaten navigation in the lower courses. The coming of warm weather is feared in the valley towns. Already watchmen are on duty along the Elbe, Weser and other rivers to watch for the expected floods. Business in Dantzic and Koenigsberg has been brought almost to a standstill. Memel, on the Baltic, has been closed to navigation. On the Neufohrwasser at Dantzic large vessels are kept constantly at work breaking the Now the weather is somewhat ice. Now the weather is somewhat milder, and seems to promise a thaw. The Rhine, Neckar and the Main are frozen over for long distances, and the outhern part of the Cattegat is also frozen. Heavy snowdrifts have com-pletely stopped traffic about the Eifel mountains and the Rhineland, where the snow is six feet deep. Great misery has been caused in many parts of the country and numbers of persons have been frozen in the country districts, and even near Berlin. Railroad traffic is aspecially disorganized. There have been several cases in which tires of wheels have broken on account of the extreme cold and have thus caused the cases in the caused the case in the case of the have come to the villages in order to seek food, and in other provinces the same occurrence is recorded. Steamers have experienced the greatest difficulty in forcing their way through the great helt of ice along the coast, and the mail belt of ice along the coast, and the mail service from Kiel to Kosoer, Zealand, was suspended yesterday.

WITHOUT THE SWORD. LONDON, Feb. 10.-Mr. Wm. R. Creamer, M.P., secretary to the International Arbitration League, who has just returned from the United States, said in an interview yesterday: "I am con-fident that an arbitration treaty will speedily be ratified. I found no sedi-tious opposition to it in Washington, and the best men in Congress are heartily in support of it. In England it is probable that Parliament will not be consulted in the matter. The power of consent of Parliament is not without dangers, but in this instance it would so little in sympathy with the matter that when the original resolution was passed by the American Congress it was not even presented to Parliament. If Lord Rosebery continues in power the treaty is safe. Of course, if the final form of the treaty contains any vote of public money it must be referred to

BLAZING AWAY.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—A dispatch to the Pall Mail Gazette from Hiroshima says: The official report by Admiral Ito says that the Japanese lost no boats or men during the night attack at Wei Hai Wei on Feb. 5, but on Feb. 4 the enemy struck and sunk a torpedo boat, killing all on board. Another boat in returning after having exploded a torpedo against a Chinese ship ran into some obstructions at the entrance to the harbor and was badly damaged and practically sunk under the enemy's fire. A Japanese lieutenant and two men were frozen to death.

A dispatch to the Pall Mall Gazette from Che Foo under the date of Feb. 9 says the Lin Kung Tau forts are still making some reply to the assaults of the Japanese. United States Secretary Herbert received the following cable message from Admiral Carpenter, dated Chin Kiang, Feb. 7: "The Japanese have taken possession of Wei Hai Wei today. Three vessels of the Chinese fleet were sunk in the harbor by torpedoes. The Charleston has left today to rescue distressed people beyond Pung Chow."

The Central News corespondent in Tokio has these details of the recent fighting at Wei Hai Wei: On the night of Jan. 30 the Japanese torpedo fleet entered the bay at Wei Hai Wei, but th Japanese on the western forts sup-posing that the boats were from the heavy fire and compelled them to withdraw. The second atempt upon the Chinese was deferred, therefore, until the night of Feb. 2, when an advance of the torpedoes was ordered. The Chinese were on the watch, however, and discovered the Japanese in time to give general warning. The torpedo fleet was forced to withdraw without even approaching the Chines squadron. Feb. 3 was passed in preparations for another attack. On the night of Feb. 4 the Chinese were less vigilant than formerly. The Japanes torpedo boat Ming Ling stole n upon the Chinese fleet, and while entirely unobserved launched two torpedoes at the Ting Yuen. The big ironclad began to go down almost immediately after being struck. The Ming Ling lost eight men in getting away. Fifteen other torpedo boats took part n the attack and two of them broke their propellors.

On the night of the fifth a Japanese boat aproached the Chinese fleet and launched seven torpedoes, sinking two warships and a gunboat. The correspondent in Tokio says that the Chinese still hold forts on the island of Lisa Kueng Tao.

On the sixth the Japanese made an unsuccessful attack upon the uncaptured forts. On the seventh the cruisers and gunboats aided the attacking Japanese troops with a hot cannonade, but the main forts remained in the enemy's hands. Of the forts captured by the Japanese at Wei Hai Wei the western group is useless, but the eastern group is in fine condition, and is armed throughout with excellent guns which are of great use for the Japanese guns

THE GERMANS ARE HOT. Conduct of the Officers of the Crathie

Denounced. BERLIN, Feb. 10 .- For some time past a distinct feling of animosity towards Great Britain has been evidenced by a large section of the German press and the Elbe disaster has been the occasion for quite a display of anglophobia. The Kreuz Zeitung led the onslaught with a highly prejudiced article, in which it is claimed that the catastrophe has again shown that the English have a brutal disregard for other people's rights, the blame of the collision falling, according to the Kreuz Zeitung, on the British steamer Crathie. Other newspapers followed with severe denunciations of the Crathie, embellished with a shower of abuse against England, and the statement appeared in some of the newspapers and remains uncontradicted that the Emperor, on receiving full particulars of the collision, characterized the conduct of the Crathie as ruffianly and inhuman. In the Reichstag this afternoon Baron Von Stumm Halberg introduced the subject of the loss of the Elbe by asking the Government what steps would be taken to prevent loss of life and shipwrecks. In so doing he expressed the opinion that the conduct of the captain and crew of the Elbe were irreproachable. He added that the construction of ships ought to be supervised by the state, and that the rule of the road on the high seas should be definitely regulated. The Chancellor, Prince Hohenlohe, in reply said that the Federal Governments were directing attention to the subject of insuring the seaworthiness of ships by state control, and he hoped that all the mercantile nations before next winter would give effect to the decisions arrived at by the international conference at Washington in 1869 in regard to rules of the road at sea. The Chancellor also said that the Federal Governments share in the grief of the nation at the horrible disaster which had befallen the Elbe, adding that the reproaches cast upon her officers by the foreign press were quite unfounded.

Herr Johnson, National Liberal, who is a shipowner, objected to state con-trol of the construction of ships, and proceeded to severely denounce the conduct of Capt. Gordon, master of the

Dr. Von Boetticher, Imperial Secretary of State for the Interior, in reply said that a knowledge of the regula-tions for the prevention of accidents was incumbent upon every seaman. In his opinion the Government's proposed supervision of ship construction through the insurance and maritime associations was the only practical system. However, if this system was shown tem. However, if this system was shown to be faulty, state control would be in-troduced, but in the meanwhile the present course should have a fair trial. Herr Lieber expressed the view that the main thing was to secure international regulations for navigation, as seaworthiness, he said, would not avail the crown to make treaties without the a ship when a British vessel dashed savagely into her and run her down. To this Dr. Von Boetticher answered be put to a purpose which would be truly beneficial. Still, if a general election supervenes, and Lord Salisbury is returned to power, this treaty might fall to the ground. Lord Salisbury is the international regulations would come into force in the autumn. The Crathie, he added, ought to have given way, and in Germany her master would have been deprived of his certificate. Baron Von Manteuffel, Conservative, condemned the attitude of Great Britain in the matter of the rule of the road, Engineer Rigg, of Lindsay, Killed, and Several Employes Injured-The Passengers Escape.

LINDSAY, Feb. 10.—No. 1 Grand Trunk train from Lindsay, due at Toronto at 12:25 p.m. Friday, following a snowplow, ran into the plow near Unionville. Driver Riggs is missing; two brakemen are injured. The passengers are all right.

DETAILS OF THE ACCIDENT.
Further particulars of the accident on the Midland division of the G.T.R. show that the Port Huron express, No. from the east, collided with a snowplow special one and a-half miles east of Agincourt. The special consisted of an engine, a snowplow, a scraper and a

THE CAUSE. At Milliken's Corners the special became lodged in the snowdrift and—as in the Weston accident—the engineer of the Port Hope express was prevented by the heavy storm from hearing the warning. The snowplow was manned by a crew from Lindsay, in-cluding Engineer Rigg, Fireman Jas. Culien, both of Toronto; Frank Burton, brakeman; Geo. W. Riley, conductor, Chas. Moore, brakeman, and J. Davey,

Engineer Riggs was buried under the ruins, and when his body was gotten out this morning it was mutilated beyond recognition.

Fireman Cullen had a marvelous escape, landing on the top of the ruins without a scratch. George W. Riley, the conductor, sustained injuries that were serious; both bones of the left forearm were fractured, and protruded through the The upper arm was also fractured; several ribs are broken, and his body was badly scalded. Chas. Moore, brakeman, sustained severe scalp wounds, and had his legs

Both Riley and Moore live in Linday, and are being cared for at the general hospital. Section Foreman Davey, of Stouffville, sustained severe scalp wounds, and is being cared for at his brother's nome in Toronto. Brakeman Frank Burton sustained like injury, and went home to Lind-

THE PASSENGERS ESCAPE. There were also 25 passengers on the Port Hope train, but saving one perhad his brow scratched, all escaped with a slight shaking up.
As soon as the farmers of the vicinity heard of the accident they came to the assistance of the trainmen and passengers. Hot tea and provisions were carried to the scene, and every passenger got a good meal. Late in the evening the auxiliary train which went to the wreck returned to the Union station, and the injured men were taken away in the ambulance.

MONTREAL, Feb. 10.—The Grand Trunk coal contract is about the biggest available, being for no less than 75,000 tons, representing something like $2,000,000. The contract was practically awarded yesterday afternoon, the suc-cessful tenderers being the Shipmans, the big coal dealers of Detroit, Mich., and the Erie Railway Company. The price, it is understood, is the lowest at which the contract has ever been awarded, and the Grand Trunk has secured a good bargain. The duty on the United States coal will amount to something like $300,000. The Grand Trunk has frequently endeavored to have the duty removed, as it would mean a considerable saving, but so far without success. The coal is to be delivered by the successful firms at various points along the system during the

POLITICAL POINTS.

OWEN SOUND, Feb. 10 .- The adourned Conservative convention of the North Riding of Grey met here yester-day to select a candidate for the Commons. On the second ballot Mr. Jas. Masson, the present member, was delared the choice of the convention over Mr. W. A. McLean. Mr. Masson then POSTPONED TILL SUNDAY.
MONTREAL, Feb. 10.—The Conservative meeting at St. Hyacinthe, which was to take place today, and at which several members of the Dominion Government were expected to deliver addresses, has been postponed until next Sunday.

BROTHERHOOD OF ST. ANDREW

Closing Proceedings of the Annual Convention.

Interesting Questions Discussed - Sermon by the Bishop of Huron-Election of Officers.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Feb. 10.-The Brotherhood of St. Andrew opened the session on Saturday with corporate communion, at which the Bishop of Huron was celebrant. Fully 100 men at-

At the town hall after business a conference on "The Boys' Department" was held, with Rev. Charles L. Ingles presiding. The first section, "The Need of Such an Organization," was the subject of an address by H. R. Young, of Stephen, Toronto. Rev. C. B. Kenrick, Peterboro, spoke on "How the Boys' Department Fills Such Need." In the absence of W. C. Sturgis, T. R. Clougher, of Grace, Toronto, spoke on "Its Relationship to the Brotherhood." All of the addresses emphasized the necessity of the boys' department and its possibilities. The next conference, on "Brotherhood Bible Clases," was presided over by Rev. W. J. Muckleston, Perth. W. J. Garside spoke on "The Section for Developing Brotherhood Work," and Rev. H. C. Dixon delivered a stirring address on "For Developing the Brotherhood Man." He emphasized the necessity for thorough Christian teachers with a good knowledge of the Bible.

After luncheon at the school room of St. Paul's East, the final conference was held on "Enthusiasm in the Work," Rev. J. C. Davidson, Peterboro, presiding. Rev. C. H. Rich, of Grace, Toronto, addressed the convention on "Whence It Comes." Mr. C. H. Tilley, of St. John, N. B., spoke on "What It Can Accomplish," and T. R. Clougher, on "How It Can Be." At the final business session R. V. Rogers, Q.C., Kingston, chairman of the committee on resolutions, presented the committee's report.

Among the resolutions passed was one recommending the holding of the next annual convention at Montreal in the fall of 1896, and also recommending provincial conventions for the coming aut-

Voshon Rogers, Q.C., Kingston; W. P. Sweatman, Winnipeg; O. F. Yates, Vancouver; Wm. Baker, Niagara Falls, and W. R. Robinson, Woodstock, and they were accordingly elected. At the meeting of the new council held subsequently N. Ferrar Davidson was elected president; R. Vashon Rogers, Q.C., vice-president; A. B. Wyswell, second vice-president; Spencer Waugh, secretary; R. O. Montgomery, treasurer. A resolution was passed recommending raising a fund to send out a commission to visit dormant chapters, and $150 was pledged by the delegates present.

In the evening a sample chapter meeting was held by St. Stephen's, Toronto, followed by a general discussion on "Chapter Methods."

This morning the annual sermon was preached by Bishop Baldwin. He took as his text, Romans, i., 1: "A servant of Christ Jesus." His sermon was on, first, "The Purchased Possession"; second, "Unquestioning Obedience," and third, "The Master's Care."

In the afternoon fully 1,000 men assembled in the opera house at the mass meeting for men. Rev. R. V. Rogers presided. Addresses were deilvered by Rev. John Kerr, D.D., Montreal; Rev. W. J. Muckleston, Perth, and T. R.

At the final service Rev. G. C. Mc-Kenzie, Brantford, and Rev. Z. C. Davidson delivered the closing sermons. The farewell services were conducted by the rector, Rev. J. C. Farthing, and was most solemn and impressive. Farewell addresses were given by Spencer Waugh, Judge Sinkler, Perth; W. P. Robinson, Woodstock; T. H. Baldwin, Toronto, and A. B. Wyswell, Halifax, at the close of which the delegates de-

During the afternon a message was received from John W. Ward, New York, who with Rev. A. S. Lloyd, was to have ben present, that they were snow-bound. Another message was also received announcing the death of R. Marshall, secretary of St. Luke's Chapter, Toronto.

The convention, besides being more largely attended than any other previous, was also marked by greater enthusiasm and spirituality among the delegates.

MR. JOSEPH'S REMAINS FOUND. TORONTO, Feb. 10 .- The charred remains of Frank S. Joseph, assistant law clerk of the Legislative Assembly, who was killed in the Grand Trunk wreck at Wardlaw's Cut, near Weston, on Friday afternoon, were found by the crew of the wrecking train yesterday morning. The remains were immediately placed aboard the auxiliary and taken to Weston. Coroner Charlton made an examination of the body. It was found that the limbs, head and shoulders had been consumed to ashes, not a trace of a bone remaining. The condition of the vital organs showed that Mr. Joseph's life was literally crushed out of him in the first crash. Mr. Justice Burton is recovering from his injuries. J. S. Monahan is reported to be progressing fav-orably as regards the broken limbs, but his internal injuries render his condit-

Lull in Political Matters-Talk of Confederation-Relief for the Falcon's Crew. ST. Johns, Nfld., Feb. 10 .- A lull in political matters is expected now in conequence of adjournment of the Legislature. The bye elections will occur about March 20. There will probably be no contest except in the Harbor Grace district. On the re-assembling of the Legislature resolutions especting confederation are likely to be introduced authorizing a delegation to be sent to Canada to discuss terms of union. On the return of the delegation, providing its mission has been successful the resolutions will be submitted to a plebiscite, and on the result of which vote future action will be taken. If favorable a confederation union will be brought about as speedily as possible, but if against, then a crown colony is the only apparent alternative.

The Falcon relief fund amounting to $420 in cash, besides considerable clothing, all contributed in the United States, has been distributed among the relatives of thr Falcon's crew of 15. The families received from $20 to $40 each, according to their circumstances, besides large packages of clothing.

420 Degrees Below Zero.

At the cold of 420 degrees below zero produced by Prot. Dewar the tensile strength of iron is doubled and it will stand a strain of 60 instead of 30 tons to the square inch. It is believed that the particles of iron and all other substances are in constant motion, which increases as they are heated until they liquely, and that the very low temperature increases their strength by retarding the motion of the particles and giving them a greater power of attraction for each other.

Seven People Cremated. ARDMORE, I. T., Feb. 10 .- Last Wednes day night, about eighteen miles scuth of the city, a house occupied by a farmer named Tucker caught fire, and owing to the blizzard which prevailed, it burned so quickly that Tucker, his wife and four children were cremated in the burning building. Later it was learned that suspicion of foul play existed. It was thought perhaps the family had been murdered and the house fired afterwards. The police yesterday arrested Tucker's son-in-law, between whom and Tucker bad

CRISIS COMING.

Says the Knights of Labor Leader—It Will be a Peaceful Revolution. Phuladelphia, Pa., Feb. 11.-"The crisis is surely coming," said General Master Workman of the Knights of Labor Sovereign yesterday at Labor Lyceum Hall in an address to members of the Cloth Cutters' Association. 'There will be a serious uprising in this country within twelve months. Every move on the chess board indicates it. Capitalistic tactics are forcing the issue, and organized labor will be the victor. It will be a peaceful revolution, accomplished without the aid of Winchesters and Gatling guns. After the fight is over the people will say, when they see a Knight of Labor who has been steadfast throughout the strife, 'There goes an American patriot.' We want you to enlist for the war to become an integral part of our grand organization, until there is gathered within our fold sufficient memhers and strength to say to the other fellow, 'Thus far you have gone, and by the eternal God you shall go no further.'"

With these rather forcible remarks he concluded his address. A Sad Case. WINDSOR, Feb. 10.-Chief Wills has been notified of a sad case of destitution and misery on Goyeau street, where Mrs. Lizzie Nolan had been given shelter by the Williams family. Mrs. Nolan said she had been turned out of her home in Colchester South by her husband. She walked from there to Windsor, and when she arrived she had no shoes on her feet, and her arms were bare. She was paralyzed with cold and hunger. Mayor Mason pro-vided her with a ticket for Adrian, Mich., where her mother resides. Forest Agricultural Society.

prisoned in Stalled Trains.

MINDEN, Ont., Feb. 10 .- A heavy blizzard has raged here for the past 36 hours. QUEBEC, Feb. 10 .- During Friday's blizard an old man named Bussiere, aged 70, a milkman, from Little River, was found almost frozen to death under his horse, near Lorette, six miles from this city. His horse was blinded by the blizzard and unable to proceed. The animal broke away from the sleigh, but had only proceeded a short distance when it became stuck hard and fast in a snow bank. Bussiere reached the horse and sheltered himself under it. When found the unfortunate old man was in an almost dying condition. He will probably die. HAMILTON, Feb. 10 .- The effects of the storm are disappearing in this vicinity. All the local railways are running on Schedule time.

DUNKIRK, N. Y., Feb. 10.—Reports reached here of terrible suffering by the passengers and crews of two trains that were stalled on the Dunkirk, Alleghany Valley and Pittsburg Railway seven miles south of this city. Four trains were stalled on this road between here and Sinclairsville, a distance of fourteen miles, The western division of the Erie is in the same deplorable condition, and traffic between Dunkirk, Salmanca and the northern oilfield has been abandoned. The Western New York and Pennsylvania Railroad is blocked from Brockton to Corry. CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 10.-A passenger train on the Somerset and Cambria branch of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has been snowed in for 24 hours at Milwood station. A carload of provisions was started to the starving passengers. Snow drifts on the mountains are from fifteen to twenty feet deep on the railroad tracks. CARLISLE, Pa., Feb. 10.-The Cumberland Valley and Philadelphia and Reading passenger trains which have been stuck in the snov since Friday afternoon, are still in the drifts and are likely to remain Somenville, N. J., Feb. 10.—There are ten big engines stalled in the snow drifts along the Jersey Central Railroad. Five of these are on the side tracks between the junction and Phillipsburg, and four are snowbound on the branch. The snow has drifted fifteen feet high and the cold is intense. BRADFORD, Pa., Feb. 10.-The snow blockade on all of the five railroads entering this city continues. The Erie is com-pletely snowed in and trains on other roads are stalled at several points. The snow is drifted on the tracks to the depth of six feet, and is packed so hard that it is an impossibility for a locomotive to get through it.

SIX PERISHED. Shipwrecked Sailors Drop One by One

Into the Pitiless Waves. FIRE ISLAND, Feb. 10 .- It is stated that six of the erew of the unknown schooner ashere of Lone Hill life-saving station have perished. Through a field glass some persons claimed to have seen the men in the rigging shortly after she struck, but one by one they fell into the sea from cold and exhaustion until only two remained. The vessel struck in the outer bay off Lone Hill life-saving station. The lifesaving crew made preparations for a rescue. Their life saving apparatus was brought to the beach and a life line shot over the wrecked vessel, but the unfortunate men composing her crew, who had sought refuge in the rigging, were unable to get to it. The life-savers then attempted to launch their boat, but the high sea and wind made it impossible for them to do so, and they were compelled to stand idly by and see the poor sailors perish, for an hour later the crew com-menced to drop from the rigging into the sea. Yesterday morning but two of their number remained. They were still alive, and cries of "For God's sake save us!" were heard coming from the unfortunate men, but the surf was so high that it was impossible to launch a boat. At dusk these men were still in the rigging. At 7 o'clock a wrecking tug arrived. She had to wait for high tide to reach the wreck, The schooner before reported ashore at Point of Woods life saving station proved to be the Louis V. Place, Captain Squires, from Baltimore and New York. The life saving crew rescued two of the crew, which consisted of eight men. The two men were badly frozen and had been in the rigging two days and a night. The other six men had been washed overboard and drowned or frozen to death in the rigging. The names of the saved are S. J. Nelson, of Denmark, and Wm. Stevens, of Rockland, Me. The lost are Capt. Squires, Engineer Allen and Cook Morrison; Oelson and Ward, sailors, and another man, name unknown.

THE REVENUE CRY.

"It cannot be done," cry Ministerialists. "Where is he going to get the revenue?"
That is always the way. When the liberators of British commerce took the field the same question was hurled at them. It was thought to be a poser. "Get revenue?" said W. J. Fox. "Do you suppose we can't do better than get it by 'clemming' the poor?" Mr. Laurier is not bound to produce his budget now, but he can fairly say -we shall say it for him-that it will not be difficult to improve on a system which levies $4,000,000 a year on coal and iron to the injury of the multitudinous interests in whole or in part bottomed on them, and after sixteen years has nothing in the shape of a mineral development to show for it. His plan is to fight with nature instead of against nature, to let Ontario buy her material and Nova Scotia her food on the most advantageous terms instead of handicapping both by absurd restrictions, and to make good the loss of revenue by substi-tuting honest government for boodling, and levying the taxes necessary after that in such a manner as to give every industry fair play, with special privileges to none. -[Toronto Globe.

Brakemen on the C. P. R. Having Their Eyesight Tested—Baltimore's Big Tunnel Completed.

An expert oculist is examining the eyes of conductors, engineers, firemen and brakemen on the Canadian Pacific. Illinois railways expect a bill to be introduced in the Legislature reducing the maximum passenger rate to 2 cents per On June 26 the Prince of Wales will open the International Railway Congress in London. The discussions are expected to be very interesting. A Windsor dispatch says freight business on the Michigan Central Railroad is better now than it has been for six months. A number of extra crews have been put on. The Postmaster-General of England is going back to the old way of carrying mail by means of coaches and pony express in cases where such methods are practicable. This is because the railroads have advanced the rates on mail matter.

The eastern trunk lines have given notice to the Grand Trunk that, while they quote all the advanced western rates in eastern rate sheets, the protest of that line against the Canadian Pacific differentials may be considered later on.

Work is practically finished on the Baltimore double-track tunnel. It has cost over $8,000,000, and will save sixteen minutes in the running time of trains between Washington and New York. There is no other such tunnel in existence. It is practically a belt line underground.

Although the ice in the Detroit River is very heavy the transfer steamers are not having much trouble working their way across. There is no steamer running up and down from the Grand Trunk to the Wabash this year, and the ferries are able to keep their paths pretty well broken up. With an up and down boat in commission there was always fresh hard ice to cut.

The Queen's Avenue Methodist Congregation Worship.

The Sunday School and Regular Classe All Held-Arrangements for the Future-The Opera House Moeting-Church Notes.

THE HOMELESS CONGREGATION. Yesterday was rather sad for the members and adherents of the Queen's Avenue Methodist Church. It brought Avenue Methodist Church. It brought back to them with regret the recollection that just one week previously their loved old place of worship, together with Wesley Hall, was almost completely destroyed by fire. Doubtless the older members took the loss more to heart than those of younger years for the church was the pioneer years, for the church was the pioneer Methodist structure of London, and in it they had worshiped almost entirely. The entire congregation are now looking forward to their new church, which may contain more modern improvements, but will not have a warmer place in their hearts.

The trustee board had during the week made preparations for yesterday's services. Public worship was held in St. Andrew's at 4 p.m. The union class 8c and Ioc YARD

A. parlors, Spencer block. The Sunday school assembled in Somerset Hall at 2:45p.m. and the children and teachers absent were very few indeed. At the same hour Mrs. Evans' Bible class and the Chinese class met in the Mechanics' Institute. All the classes were well atstitute. All the classes were well attended. THE PUBLIC SERVICE. Only one public service was held, the majority of the homeless congregation attending the various places of worship throughout the city in the morning. St. Andrew's Church was well filled, among the congregation being scattered the oldest members of Queen's Avenue. The services were of a very impressive nature. It was the first held since the fire, and reference was frequently made to the severe loss. Mr. J. W. Fetherston and his able choir were present, and, besides leading the singing rendered a heautiful anthem were present, and, besides leading the singing, rendered a beautiful anthem, "Radiant Morn Hath Passed Away." Rev. J. R. Gundy preached an eloquent sermon from I. Corinthians, iii., 18-17, ungles. urging, in very strong terms, loyalty to

Mr. Gundy was accompanied in the pulpit by Pastor Annis. Mr. Annis was in poor health, and at the conclusion of the sermon spoke briefly. "In the first place," said Mr. Annis, "I want, on behalf of our people, to thank the friends in St. Andrew's Church for their kind courtesy in giving us a home today. We are here in this beautiful structure with a home because of their kindness, and everyone reaches out in the heart and says, 'God bless them.' And yet— and yet we appreciate the kindness and the beauty of the structure and its conveniences, but we are

A LITTLE HOMESICK. I do not wonder that some of you old See our fine line of GRAY and young members wept as you saw the church that had been your spiritual home for many years golden. home for many years going to ashes.
You remembered the prayers that had gone up there, the many blessings that had come to you, and also the time you had knelt at the railing there and found peace; how many had gone home from the dear old church. And now we are compelled to say, 'Good bye, Queen's Avenue.' We have not lost everything, but we do mourn the loss of our church, with all its conveniences. But then we must look out at the church and say, We shall meet again. Dear friends, whose voices we have heard in the class rooms and whose messages have been benedictions to us, we shall meet again. And there, as I look out day by day it seems to be that the walls and DISMANTLED TOWERS stand looking up to heaven and saying, 'I have finished the work thou gavest And could any church say it What good object was ever better? shut out of its doors? Why, the very last voice heard within its walls was that of Gen. Booth advocating his great scheme of 'Darkest England.' Churches have their work as well as individuals. Our old church had done its work, and to me every day it whispers, 'I have finished the work thou gavest me to do.' Unfortunately, we cannot bring it back. We cannot go back to it. It is gone—we are homeless. What are we to do. The first great lesson is that which has been urged upon you-loyalty to the church. This is

THE DARKEST HOUR in the history of our congregation and our church. Let us stand together in the time of trouble, hand in hand and heart in heart. It is true that I am not in good health yet, but I will try to lead you on. Let us show our loyalty by our works. There may be a disposition on the part of many to skulk. However, not only be loyal, but make yourself an agent to look after those around you. Stand solidly for the congregation, solidly for the future. have a future, and a better future than the past has ever given us. THE ENCOURAGEMENTS.

"But let us remember some encourments. Let us remember all the greetings and good wishes and prayers that have gone out from the churches of the city. I thank God that I never was a bigot or sectarian. I never could say an unkind word about another denomination. Here are our good friends in the Presbyterian, Episcopalian, and every other church opening up their homes for us. The loving sympathy that comes from all around is enough to cheer and encourage us. God has not left us. He is closer in our sorrow than he ever was before. He holds forth the power of his hand to lead us on. Do not stop to weep, complain or sorrow, but go right on.

Mr. Annis' delivery was slow, deliberate and in a pathetic strain. During his remarks several members of the congregation shed tears.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE. Rev. S. S. Craig, of Oakville, delivered an excellent address to a small audience of men at the Grand Opera House Sunday afternoon. After a solo by Mr. E. Devlin, the chairman, Mr. Emery, introduced the speaker. He said that we should change the word Christian, striking out all the wrong meaning which has crept into it, and substitute Godly thoughts. We have a very wrong opinion of the meaning of Christian. The condition of civilization today is much more dishonoring to God than the darkest heathendom. There is indeed now for west improvement to indeed room for vast improvement in the Christian church. The grandest of all studies is the study of God as manifest in Christ. Christian knowledge is what we lack, and what we must have to be successful. What we lack most is ethical knowledge. The since the singing of "Peace on earth, goodwill toward men," and still there are ten millions of people in utter neathendom. It is not because Christ s deficient, but on account of a want of loyalty on our part.

What we lack most today is loyalty to the Heavenly King. Men will die for their sovereign, but how many Christians would die for Christ? By-and-bye all evils will be overcome and the world though they do say the will be redeemed. The essential points house of John Knox.

of a Christian's character are: Conviction, breadth of outlook on the world, and hopefulness of spirit. In conclusion, the speaker said that the present sion, the speaker said that the present condition of things can be improved, and those who follow Christ will aid most in bringing this about.

sionary to the Indians of the Northwest, was to have conducted missionary services in connection with the Methodist Church, Bryanston. But the great storm so delayed the train upon which he journeyed that he did not get to London till yesterday forenoon. He therefore could go no farther yesterday, but "what was Bryanston's loss was the gain of the Dundas Street Center congregation," explained Rev. Mr. Lanceley in introducing the reverend genceley in introducing the reverend gentleman as the preacher at the morning service in the church yesterday. Mr. Lanceley said they welcomed him because of his self-denying services in the missionary cause and for the work which his grandfather had done before him in the west. The sermon was able and scholarly. The word-painting of the magnificent scenery of the Rockies the magnificent scenery of the Rockies has rarely been excelled in this city. Mr. Macdougall is equally in love with his work and with his surroundings in the Northwest. NOTES.

Rev. S. S. Craig, of Oakville, ministered acceptably to the congregation of St. Andrew's yesterday. A splendid new library containing 400 books has just been placed in St. James' Sunday school, South London. Rev. A. G. Harris, of the Centennial, and Rev. B. Clement, of the London West Methodist Church, exchanged pulpits yesterday morning.

One week from today the district convention of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church will be held in Dundas Street Center Methodist Church. In the evening Rev. John Macdougall will deliver an address.

The Presbytery of London will meet on Feb. 19 to dispose of the calls from Knox Church, London, to Rev. J. G. Stuart, Toronto, and from St. Andrew's Church, to Rev. R. Johnston, Lindsay, Arrangements had been made between Pay D. Spanner, of St. Thomas tween Rev. D. Spencer, of St. Thomas and Rev. D. M. Mihell to exchange pulpits yesterday. At the last moment, however, it was found that the plan could not be carried out.

A revival, in which much good is being effected, is in progress at the new Methodist Mission Church in the third ward. Rev. Mr. Lanceley has been the chief speaker during recent services, but this week a number of laymen have volunteered to assist. A mission will be held in St. James Church, South London, from Feb. 24 to March 10, when the services will be chiefly conducted by Rev. F. E. How-itt, of Hamilton. A class of candidates for confirmation will also be formed in the middle of this month. Rev. W. J. Clark was to have exchanged pulpits yesterday with Rev. Colin Fletcher, of Exeter, but concluded not to run the risk of being snowbound and remained at home. He discussed "The Young Man and His Pleasures" to a large congregation in the evening. Arrangements have been made for the use of the Opera House for one month by the Queen's Avenue Methodist congregation. Next Sunday special missionary services will be held. At 11 a.m. Rev. Dr. Philp, of Hamilton, will preach, and at 7 p.m. Rev. W. F. Wilson, of Toronto.

The Rev. Taylor, of Montreal, preached in St. James' Church last night. He pleaded for the missions to the Canadian French Roman Catholics in an earnest and forcible manner. He said that for twenty years absolutely nothing had been done to convert the French-speaking people to Protestantism. Now, although there are still two millions of Roman Catholics, there are over 50,000 people who profess the Protestant faith.

WILL TEAR DOWN "AULD REEKIE."

Ancient Portions of Edinburgh Must Give

Way to Modern Improvement. "The town council have in contemplation schemes involving the removal of almost every vestige of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries" in part of Edinburgh, and, if Bailie Macpherson has his will, they intend to substitute "terraces of model working class houses." So Mr. Reid says in his "New Lights on Old Edinburgh." The sanitary reformer may rejoice, but the antiquary despairs. Old Edinburgh, says the London News, has still many picturesque and disgusting quarters; the sights partially atone for the smell, and old coats of armor, old turrets, old names cannot be abandoned without a sigh. However, it is the affair of the Edinburgh people, who have the right to decide whether they will preserve a relic or destroy a rookery. Mr. Reid has taken pains with his book, and the huge mass of manuscript material lately put in some order must, no doubt, contain things of interest amid the refuse heap. But the best of Mr. Reid's anecdotes are not very novel. We have heard a good deal of Miss Nicky Murray, the assembly rooms, Lord Braxfield, Lady Eglintoun and the rest of them before today. The clever fellow who would be "none the waur o' a hanging" is an old friend. Robert Chambers collected most of what was worth remembering. Miss Warrender, Dr. Wilson, Miss Dun-lop, Mrs. Oliphant, James Grant and others have gleaned in his track. The large historical scenes, "Clear the Causeway"; the affairs of Queen Mary, the row over the Liturgy, the signing of the Covenant, the Porteous riot, the proclaiming of King James at Edinburgh Cross without the "50,000 foot and horse," desired by the songster; the clipping of the royal bed curtains at Holyrood by a lady more fond of relics than careful of her reputation; the insult by Pauli Jones; the house of Major Weir; the high jinks of the lawyers; the arrival of Burns; the manners and customs of David Hume and the literati; the revels of Christopher North-all these are familiar to everybody. The tourist in Edinburgh, perhaps, confines himself to Holyrood, the castle and Princes street. The foolish young fellow who deceived the intelligent American had an easy victm. Being asked, "Which was Mons Meg?" at the castle he pointed to Arthur's seat. "There it is. The name is derived from Mons, a mountain, and means big." Probably few explorers dive into the unsavory closes, where peers dwelt of old, and the taverns where Jacobites "powdered their hair" before failing to take the castle, "Singing Jimmy Balfour" interests them not, nor do they love the Cowgate because it is one of Burns' least romantic love affairs. But the infrequent antiquary loves to prowl about, peopling the closes with ladies in powler. Humphrey Clinker on his travels, judges, wits, smugglers, poets and all the masquerade of many insanitary centuries. Here Effle Deans lay hidden; here Catriona peeped from the casement at David Balfour; in this house Waverley "majored before the looking-glass," wearing trews and tartans; down this wynd (in fact as in fic-tion) James Mohr McGregor was led to see Prestongrange, under the eyes of the advocate's three bonny daughters, Allan Ramsay's Goddesses Three. Not being in the secrets of the town council and Bailie Macpherson, we cannot say how much will be taken and how much will be left. John Knox's house is safe, it may be presumed, though they do say that it was not the

SWEPT BY THE SEA.

It Was a Terribly Destructive Sterm That Visited Cape Breton.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 10.—The latest information from Cape Breton indicates that the recent storm has been the most destructive experienced in 30 years. Great damage was done at South Agonish and for 30 miles along the gulf shore. The nineteen houses and three stores washed away were built on a narrow, rocky peninsula called "The Beach," which divides the sea from the harbor. There are less than 100 peo-ple in the hamlet. The beach is very narrow and low, and one side being the Atlantic and the other the harbor it is exposed to the full fury of the sea when driven in by an easterly or south easterly storm. The houses were small ones occupied by fishermen. There were three stores and boarding houses. Some of the houses were vacant, the owners occupying them in summer only. The gale was acompanied by an unusually high tide, which swept over the beach with great violence. So great was the force of the sea that large rocks were carried through the frail houses. The houses were soon undermined, wrecked and floated out to sea with thieir contents. Everything was lost, but the inhabitants escaped and no lives are re-Sixteen miles up the coast is New Haven, another cove, of some 30 families. Here the houses are built back on the shore, but the fish houses and the stores are on the beach. These buildings, with their contents valued at $10,-000, went, as did those of South Agonish being swept out to sea with all they contained. At Middlehead and other places along the coast fish houses, huts and fishing gear were destroyed. The wind blew with hurricane force, breaking up the waters of the St. Lawrence on the eastern cape from eighteen inches to two feet higher than the highest spring tides. The whole island of Cape Breton is blocked with snow and wires are almost completely prostrated. FROM DULUTH TO THE SEA.

The Feasibility of a Canal Will Be Looked Into. WASHINGTON, Feb. 10-The dream of the late Judge J. Logan Chipman, while a member of the Congress, was to establish by national authority a deep waterway from Duluth to the sea. He was the originator of the effort looking to the establishment of that great national and commercial enterprise. The attempt to bring about this much-to-bedesire culminated by the insertion by the Senate in the Sundry Civil Appro-priation Bill of the Vilas amendment authorizing the President to appoint at once three persons who should have power to meet and confer with any similar committee appointed by the Government of Great Britain or Canada, and make inquiry and report whether it is feasible to build canals to enable vessels engaged in ocean commerce to pass between the Great Lakes and the Atlantic Ocean, with an agepuate and controllable supply or water for continual use; where these canals can be conveniently located and their probable cost, with estimates in detail; and what regulations or treaty arrange-ments will be necessary between the United States and Great Britain to preserve the free use of the canal to the people of this country at all times.

-Natural gas is difficult to manage in cold weather. During the late cold spell hundreds of families in Springfield, O., and neighborhood shivered and almost starved through the supply suddenly stopping. They could not use coal or wood, as their stoves were built for gas only.

-Some idea of the tax on industry imposed by the coal duty can be gleaned from the statement that on the coal contract which the Grand Trunk Railway Company has just entered into, $300,000 will be collected by the Dominion Government. No wonder that times have been hard on the railways. The competitors of the Canadian lines do not have to pay these taxes.

-It is now announced that Mr. Patterson, Minister of Militia, will conduct his campaign armed with shotguns, revolvers, swords and bayonets. If he is as warlike as he pretended to be in Toronto the other night, the erstwhile Windsor lawyer will be a veritable military hedgehog, with murderous weapons bristling all over him.

-The Young Conservatives would fight their efforts to secure power with ballots, and, if necessary, with their bullets .- J. C. Patterson, M.P. Minister of Militia.

What a terrible fellow the rose-water warrior is, to be sure! With what a tenacious grip does this threatener of the public peace hold on to his $8,000 He must have been studying the address of the western orator, who exclaimed, with equal pertinency, "The eyes of Europe are upon us. The apple of discord has been flung in our midst, and if it be not nipped in the bud it will burst into a conflagration which will deluge the world."

-Public opinion still runs high with regard to the Elbe disaster. That there was a certain lack of discipline on board seems even at this stage of the inquiry | torn the human breast, the longings for only too apparent. Any nautical man will tell you, or, indeed, anyone that has seen life on the "ocean wave," that directly the gong sounds "boat stations" every officer in the ship, together with a certain number of the ship's hands, have their allotted boats, which they are bound at once to join and to carry out their duties. Should that boat meet "lowering away," etc., the men apare obliged to go down with the ship other boats, after their respective crews three officers, together with eleven of the crew. If these men acted wrongly, probable, they should be severely punished.

"The Khan," who has been a frequent contributor to the daily press, has started a weekly of his own, to be published has some good ideas. Here is what he says about the political future:

"The young men's movement in this country is coming to a head. The reception of Wilfrid Laurier the other night was essentially a young men's movement, and the Young Liberals are lucky in having a young man at their head. He is young in ideas, he is young in spirit, and he is old in nothing but mean, which mark the caste of the old noblesse of the ancient regime. The Young Conservatives are not so fortunate. They are led by an old man, frosty but kindly, who is tottering close to the border-land of old fogyism, and who is already beginning to babble of green fields. He is, I admit, surrounded by a few young men-but they are nineteenth century young men with 2,000 B. C. ideas. If the Conservative Gov-Liberals will have a picnic at the next sacred, their party has not done much bungling lately, they are full of fight, and they have the old man at Ottawa pretty well rattled already."

ories of the poor of London. It has been the bitterest period of many bitter years. Beginning with snow and slush, it has ended with nipping frost and fierce, piercing winds. The cold has been intense. The thermometer has marked several degrees below zero, an almost unparalleled record in this region, and the Thames is frozen over at Chelsea and other points. Londoners are rarely prepared for such frigidity. In the East End the suffering has been wide-spread and harrowing. All the shelters have been crowded nightly, and more than one of their miserable inmates have been found dead in their cots next morning. Children have been found in the streets half frozen, and visits to their wretched homes have resulted in startling revelations. Whole families have been found huddled together in one room with not a vestige of fire in the grate and not a scrap of food in the cupboard. Half-starved men have been caught stealing handfuls of fuel and loaves of bread with which to succor their perishing wives and families. Charity is doing its best to relieve the worst cases, but when the record of the week is fully written it will form one of the most heartrending pages in the annals of the London poor.

As usual with the advent of severe weather, the list of suicides has swelled to an alarming extent. Scarce a day has passed without one or more cases being reported in the newspapers. It is shown that extreme poverty has driven most of the victims to death. One or two of the case possess features of unusual interest. For instance, some weekly papers are devoting considerable space to the attempted suicide of a plumber of 25, who found the life struggle beyond his strength or cour-When before the magistrate the police produced a remarkable letter written by the man to inform society of the reasons for his act. He said in his case suicide was "neither insane, selfish nor cowardly." He had retired from the "battle of life weary of its selfishness, its cant and its shams; weary of its brute struggle for existence, its misery, poverty and degradation; the crushing of what is noble and good, the fostering of what is ignoble and bad." He told that after a trial of socialism, which at first filled him with new hopes, he was disappointed, since society still refused to allow him to exist except under conditions which were utterly intolerable to him. WONDERFUL LONGEVITY. It is refreshing to turn from the case of this pessimist to contemplate the wonderful tenacity. Mrs. Betty Webster, of Aysgarth, has just celebrated her 105th birthday. The hard winter has caused her rheumatic pains for the first time in her long life, but, as her constitution is still vigorous, she expects o conquer these aches and enjoy the breezes of several more springs. The old lady is a veritable marvel. While her hearing is somewhat defective, her sight is good, her mind strong, and she s able to walk to church and back. She remembers going to a neighboring church in Swaledale 102 years ago to be baptized. She tells of four soldiers eturning from the battle of Waterloo to their homes in the dale and calling at her father's house. She is able to repeat some of the conversation of hose warriors, and recollects that one of them came back without a leg. Mrs. Webster's family is a remarkable one. She lives with a daughter aged 76, whose husband is 86. Three of her aunts were centenarians. They lived to be 101, 102 and 104. Her father died in his 100th year. For the last 45 years Mrs. Webster has regularly indulged in a quiet pipe of tobacco, and, like many other old women in the Yorkshire dales, she is passionately fond of a cup of tea, and is not averse to an occasional drop of swindling. He advertised himself as the proprietor of the Market Street Advertiser, the manager of the World's Debt Recovery Office, and owner of "more offices than any other person in Yorkshire." He was, moreover, "Lord J. L. S. M. Rodgers, R.A.," and the "champion comedian, whistler and dancer, and winner of gold cups and medals' in the United Kingdom. The particular function which brought him within the meshes of the law was hs organization of a watch club, which raked in innumerable weekly subscriptions and proved that he had undertaken the colction of debts, amounting to a large sum, for which he rendered no account-When arrested he justified his conduct by declaring that no debt-collector could live without swindling. There were a number of charges against him, but the magistrates contented themselves by hearing young rascal to jail for three months.

It now leaks out that the Princess of Wales strongly disapproved of the Prince or Duke or Duchess going to Warwick Castle, ostensibly because in mourning for the Czar. The Prince, at the outset, insisted on attending, but finally the Princess intimated that she would indefinitely prolong her stay abroad if he carried out his intention. As a matter of fact, she did not return until he had declined the invitation. The result was that the ball, though gorgeous and picturesque, lacked the eclat which royalty would have given it, and failed to create the sensation in-

A FIVE-YEAR CENSUS.

It is reported that the Government will agree to take a census of the United Kingdom every five instead of every ten years. A beginning is to be made with London early in 1896, when the county council will arrange for the enumeration of the 5,000,000 or more people under its jurisdiction and pay the cost of the rates. Once taken the quinquennial census will be cheaper han the present imperfect system, for small permanent staff will be able to itilize the past and to carry out rapidly each enumeration. A CRISIS FOR ROSEBERY. British Parliamentary politics are once more in full swing, and at last the prospects seem good for the development of some genuine human interest. The fate of the present Government is hanging in the balance, as even the most sanguine of its members fully understands. The question is simply, When will the end come? Will it be ten days hence on the division on the address in reply to the Quetn's speech, or will it be postponed till the first contentious measure of a period of per-functory legislation? The followers of Lord Rosebery know that defeat in the House is almost inevitable, and that a Conservative triumph in the country is almost sure to follow. Their only hope is some unexpected development, which may turn the current of public opinion. Such a hope, of course, is a very forlorn

The crisis in the Irish party has reached even a more serious point than the dilemma of the Liberals. Mr. Healy has practically withdrawn from the Nationalist party. There are grave reasons to believe he is now reckless enough to assume the responsibility of wrecking the Government by default, if not by direct attack. Two of his followers absented themselves from the last critical division, reducing the Govern-ment's majority to 12. This policy, if applied to the vote on the principal Opposition amendment to the address ten days hence will overthrow the Governlost the afternoon, the twilight, the ment. It is becoming plain that Mr. Healy's desire for immediate dissolution is due to his belief that he will of thought and choice have at-ed to untie life's knot. Of the land if the election is held soon, because the Nationalist party is almost without funds for election purposes. Mr. Healy's open opposition to the Nationalist appeal for this class of funds makes his animus clear.

There was a disgraceful scene in the lobby of the House of Commons on Friday night between Messrs. Healy and Their language was most bitter, and the altercation almost ended in blows. It is even said to be Mr. Healy's intention to issue a public manifesto against what he calls the Dillon party in Irish Parliamentary representation. The only thing which makes all this wrangle less than a crime against the Irish party is the fact that even if the members were harmonious it would be possible for the present Government to do little in its present pre-

ARGYLL'S CATEGORIES.

Much regret has been expressed at the absence of the Duke of Argyll during the debate on the address. He is still liness which checked him in the outset f a vigorous attack on the Government s a Parliamentary orator of high rank. His speeches usually contain some quotable phrases which are not struck off in the white heat of debate, but are elaborated beforehand in his study People are still wondering into what category he was going to put Rosebery when he was describing three classes of British Premiers. "There are," he said, "three kinds of Prime Ministers in this country. There are three classes they belong to. There are men of original inal genius, who win their way by the force of supreme genius. William Pitt was a great example of that kind. Ther are also men who go through the whole steps of public life, who climb every step of the ladder and rise to the top Sir Robert Peel was an example of that class. There are other men who succeed to the place of Prime Minister because other men gather round them." It was at this interesting point that the Duke roke down and had to be carried from the platform.

GRAVE NEWS FROM GREECE. News from Greece continues grave and perplexing. The new Ministry has not yet had a chance to grapple with the troubles that beset the small kingdom, nor is much patience displayed by the people. On all sides there is clamor for relief from burdensome taxation. The imposts are levied in a most uneven and unfair way. It was notorious that the members of the last ministry resorted to a variety of expedients in order to escape their share of taxation, and members of the Legis-lature did the same. Not only have Cabinet Ministers and members of Parliament evaded the taxes, but they have taken care that the members of their families, and even their personal friends, should enjoy this imm nity. There is little wonder, therefore, that with the famous Eglinton tournament. rant districts, where the crops have

A BEETHOVEN CELEBRATION. A great deal is likely to be heard during the year of Beethoven, as the 125th anniversary of his birth falls in Decemand there are already many schemes afoot for a particular celebration of the occasion. In England Mr. Henschel has announced that he will commemorate the event by devoting the first part of each of his nine concerts to works by Beethoven, and will produce, as far as possible, in chronological order, all the overtures, four or five pianoforte concerts, the concerto and romances for violin, and the nine symphonies.

INTERNATIONAL MATCH.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.-News reached this city yesterday that Sir George Neunes, Bart., member of Parliament, president of the British Chess Club, has subscribed a purse for the chess match to be played at the above place, 27 Covent Garden, London, in March. The directors of the Manhattan Chess Club have been informed that the match with the British Chess Club has been fixed for March 9 and not in March 21, as stated by the London Field. HOCKEY.

The Forest City Business College junior team will play the London South hockey team tomorrow afternoon on the Cove. Game called at 4 o'clock.

The final game between the London and Stratford junior teams has to be played here on or before Feb. 13. The winners will play off with the Granites, of Toronto, on or before the following Saturday.

TONIGHT'S MATCH. London's team for tonight's match with the Chicago Hockey Club at the Princess Rink will be: Becher, goal; Southam, point; Brown, cover point; Skey (captain) and Lind, center; Beltz, left wing; Macbeth, right wing. This will be the first game of the Chicago players on Canadian ice, and will doubtless be hard fought.

PARIS VICTORIOUS. Paris, Feb. 10 .- The hockey match played here yesterday between Paris and St. Catharir's in connection with the South Ontario Hockey Association was won by Paris, 13 to 4.

WINNIPEG WON EASILY. TORONTO, Feb. 9 .- The hockey match played on the Granite Rink here Saturday night between the famous Victorias of Winnipeg and the Granite team was won with comparative ease by the Winnipegers, who outplayed their opponents at almost every point. Score: Winnipeg 11, To-

SPALDING'S TEAM AND THEIR NEW GOAL. Spaiding's Chicago hockey cracks, the champions of America, are at the Grigg. They play at the Princess Rink tonight with London's best team, and "the" game of the season may be expected. With the very moderate weather the attendance will no doubt be large. The team introduces the basket goal into Canada. It has proved to be an immense success on the other side and is acknowledged to be far ahead of the ordinary stake goal. It is semi-circular in form and made of wire netting. It is about four feet high and the same width as the distance between the goal posts as the game is now played. It is staked on the ice, and is immovable. The feature that recommends it to popular approval is that when a goal is shot there can be no dispute and no wrangling. The puck is in the basket, and speaks for itself. The Chicago team plays tonight in the following positions, with T. L. Hamilton as spare man: Forwards-A. E. Reynolds (captain), A. P. Miller, Bert Hill, Eddie Taylor; cover point, E. S. Woods; point, Robert Moore; goal, George Emerson.

FATE OF CYCLIST LENZ. The Pittsburg friends of Frank Lenz have advices that "La Vale," the leading cycling journal of France, asserts that it received a dispatch that Lenz had been murdered by Kurds, near Ezeroum, on May 7, 1894, the last time anything definite was heard from him. Frank Lenz was born in Philadelphia in 1868. While young his parents moved to Pittsburg, where he was educated for a business life. His first venture was at book-keeping, at which he proved an adept. While following this business he took to cycling as a means of health and recreation. He had not pursued it long until he became a master at long-distance riding, going as far as New Orleans on wheel during a vacation he was enjoying in his 24th year. This performance brought him into such prominence that, scarcely a year after, the publishing company engaged him to make a tour of the world on wheel in its interest. It offered such good inducements in the way of salary and the renown of what would follow from letters he would write to it, that he started on his tour from Pittsburg on May 15, 1892.

His starting point was the new Pittsburg postoffice, where nearly 100 cyclers from the Keystone, Allegheny and Mc-Keesport clubs saw him off, 50 of them going a good distance with him. The last Pittsburger to bid him farewell was Charles Petticord, who rode as far as Brownsville, Pa., with him. Lenz went clear through to San Francisco on wheel, arriving there on Nov. 1, and experiencing no difficulty at any point save in the "Bad Lands." During the first 107 days he was out he traveled 5,412 miles on his wheel. Lenz never forgot Pittsburg on his long trip, which was to be accomplished in two years, corresponding regularly with Petticord. These letters ceased last April, within one month of the time he was due in the United States. When the time of his arrival, May 15, had passed, his Pittsburg friends became anxious, and asked Outing for information concerning him. This journal answered them, assuring them that he was all right. Months followed, when news of an insurrection in Asia Minor connected Lenz among those who had been killed in it. Rescuing parties were then organized for the purpose of finding him, when Outing finally made these useless by declaring that it would send a man in search of him. Allen, who girded the globe with Schatchlein on wheel, is now said to be the interest of this paper. The news of the death of Lenz will cause sorrow in Pittsburg, says the Times of that city, but it will fall on none so heavily as his mother, who resides in the East end. She had hoped all through the ordeal which has separated her from her son that he was still alive. The case of Lenz will go down in history as the most famous in athletics, for the reason that it rose to international importance. Congressmen and envoys to barbarian countries have been interested in it in many ways.

Track Cleaners Run Down by an Express Train.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 10.-While digging out a snowbound train on the Pennsylvania road near Lucknow Friday afternoon, ten men were ran down by a section of the Pacific express. Two were killed instantly, two injured so badly that they lived but a short time, and a fifth is at the hospital with a fractured skull. The dead are: John K. Darr, Noah Nye, George M. Stroup, John Crossley. The injured is: Renjamin Otsot.

Under the direction of Supt. King the nen were releasing two engines which had been stalled by the blizzard. The snowbound train was on the eastbound passenger track with the men, armed with shovels, all around it. The air was full of snow, making it difficult to see in any direction. Suddenly one of the workmen cried: "Look out." Coming up the westbound track was one of the sections of the Pacific express, which was scheduled to arrive at 3 o'clock in the morning, but which had been belated almost twelve hours. Three Steamers Just in Saw Nothing of the Gascogne.

The Rhineland's Ropes Encased in Ten Inches of Ice.

The Steamer Patria Aground Off Sandy Hook-A Rarge With Nine Men on Board Abandoned.

New York, Feb. 10 -Three Atlantic iners arrived at this port this morning, but none of them brought any news of the overdue steamer La Gascogne, which should have reached here one week ago. The first to arrive was the Manitoba from London, which passed Sandy Hook at 2:05 a.m. She cleared from London on Jan. 26, and had moderate weather until Feb. 4, when she encountered a hurricane off Sable Island. From that time until 6 a.m. she experienced rough weather and extreme cold.

The Rhineland, which left Antwerp Jan. 26 with 9 cabin and 116 steerage pas-sengers, arrived at the bar at 7 o'clock this morning. She also encountered the hurricane of Sable Island on Feb. 4, and on the 5th and 16th was obliged to heave to for 24 hours. She saw nothing of the belated vessel. The Rhineland was a mass of ice, formed by freezing spray, and the ropes, an inch thick, were at least ten inches in diameter, and it was almost impossible to see forward from the bridge. The steamer was so weighted down with ice that she was listed to starboard at an angle of nearly 45 degrees.

The Manitoba had almost exactly (the same experiences as the Rhineland, but did not suffer so much from the ice. The next to arrive was the Cunarder Umbria from Liverpool Feb. 2, and Queens town Feb. 3, which passed Sandy Hook at 10:50 a.m. She had strong northeasterly winds to Feb. 7 at midnight, when the wind shifted to northwest and struck her. with hurricane force off Barnegat. She was compelled to heave to for 30 hours, and drifted out miles to the eastward. She also came without any news of the La Gascogne. The Umbria brought 89 saloon, 89 second cabin and 189 steerage passengers. Among her passengers were John Vevera, Charles Hoffman and Engene Schlegel, survivers of the Elbe disaster. The Umbria has brought in the crew of the French bark Jean Baptiste, consisting of 14 men, whom she picked up last Tuesday. The bark which ran between Halifax and Cork was sinking, and the men were in a pitiable condition.

SEVEN BODIES WASHED ASHORE. HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 10 .- A dispatch from Liverpoel, N. S., tonight states that ashore.

IN THE GASCOGNE'S PATH.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.-The steamer Dania, from Hamburg and Havre, was sighted south of Fire Island at 7 30 o'clock this morning. She comes pract cally over the same course as the overdue s camer La Gascogne would follow. Up to a late hour tonight the Dania had not been re ported at Sandy Hook.

HOPE EXCITED. At 12:50 o'clock this morning another steamer came in and anchored near the one supposed to be the Dania. She looked like a French liner and is probably La Normandie. LA GASCOGNE SEVENTEEN DAYS OUT.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 .- La Gascogne is now nine days overdue and she has not been seen or heard from since she left Havre seventeen days ago. In that time steamships from nearly all European ports of consequence have arrived here. While the officers of La Normandie did not make any particular search for La Gascogne, they came over the same course followed by all the steamships of the French line, and would have seen her had she been near. La Normandie had a rough voyage as did also the German steamship, Dania, from Hamburg. Both were covered with ice and presented a very wintry appearance. The Dania came from Hamburg by way of Havre, leaving that port only three days after La Gascogne. She is a much slower vessel, however, than the French liner.

Agent Terget now hopes that one of the news of La Gascogne. WILL SEARCH FOR HER.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Feb. 11.-The mail steamer Grand Lake, which will leave here comorrow for Halifax, will deviate a hundred miles or more from her regular route, in order to examine Sable Island see if the missing French liner La Gascogne is ashore there. The steamer Virginia Lake, leaving here this morning for the southern coast, runs off 50 miles from Cape Race hoping to discover something of the missing French steamer. The Windsor Lake, now coaling at Sydney, for this port, has been asked to scour the ocean on her way back here. One of these vessels is likely to obtain some information of La Gascogne.

LA GASCOGNE'S SISTER SHIP NEW YORK, Feb. 11. - The steamer Maasdam from, Rotterdam, anchored outside the bar at 3:35 a.m. A special from St. George, S. I., to the Sun says: La Normandie, the sister ship of La Gascogne, which left Havre the day La Gascogne should have arrived in New York, ran in past the Sandy Hook lightship at 1:30 this morning without tidings of the miss-ing liner. The Herald and Sun tugs, which had been cruising off the lightship since dark, had an hour before spoken the Dania, which had come from Hamburg over a different course than that of the bread. They invited the passengers over French line. She had heard nething of La to see them at their homes, and on

The Railroad Tracks Pretty Well Cleared Now.

And Commercial Men Get Home-Hard Work for the Snow Plows.

ON SUNDAY IT CLEARED. The great storm of February, 1895, spent its force on Saturday night, and with proper regard for the Sabbath, it rested. If it was not in need of a rest the average inhabitant was. For exactly 48 hours the wind blew. It was accompanied by a fine drifting snow, which packed like sand that had been vigorously pounded and trampled on. So firm was it that farmers who returned to town state that for hundreds of yards their sleighs ran along on the top of drifts as high as the fence, and so firm that the horses' feet and the an American schooner, supposed to be the sleigh runners made no impression. But Clara Friend, was totally wrecked near it was different on the railroads. The there and her entire crew drowned. Altravelers on trains did not have the ready seven bodies have been washed same opportunities as the travelers on through or stick with them. And a NINE MEN ABANDONED.

New York, Feb. 10.—Capt. Rubelli, of the steamer Maverick, belonging to the Standard Oil Company, arrived at Bayonne. this morning and reported that he was tion Sunday morning he found gangs

THE G. T. R. AND THE STORM. At 5 o'clock last evening the L. H. and B. snow plow arrived in the city yards, and the advent of the passenger train a little later announced that the road was open once more. The train was only about 36 hours late. It had been stalled at Clinton. It brought down a number of commercial men, but there had been no hardships. On the Stratford branch the company was not so lucky. The plow was worked from Stratford towards London, and yesterday when the line had been opened as far as Thorndale something went wrong with the plow. The work was of course delayed, but in all prob-ability the line will be opened up by this morning. There have been no trains either way on the Stratford branch since Friday forenoon. The trains east and west on the main line made as good time yesterday as if the storm had never happened.

PRETTY WELL CLEARED. The C. P. R. have got there road from Toronto to Detroit in pretty good shape. The west end was almost free from blockades. At Melrose a drift of considerable length and about four feet deep was too much for the trains. The beautiful was packed very hard, and took a large force of men some time to shovel it out. The express due here at 4 o'clock yesterday morning was delayed several hours in consequence. The greatest difficulty was met with at Embro. All Saturday and Sunday gangs of men, aided by snowplows, etc., battled with the drifts. The snow was as hard as though it had been beaten steamships due from Gibralter will bring in and one of the snowplows was denews of La Gascogne.

A London railed while being operated. A London gang arrived home yesterday afternoon after working at the fill-in for 24 hours They had the satisfaction of announcing that the track was cleared. The express due here at 11:25 a.m. was only a couple of hours late. The east end way freight, which left London on Friday morning, was stuck at Islington for two hours, and arrived in Toronto four hours late. Conductor Harshaw then took charge of the express due here at 8 o'clock that evening. The train was stranded at Hornby. then at Guelph Junction, and finally at Embro.

The company is now about prepared to give its usual excellent service. NOTES ON THE STORM. While the storm was in progress four stoves were taken to Springbank for use in the new pumping station to keep the question is the donation of the body of bus to the draymen as a shelter from the cold. The 'bus stands on York street behind the G. T. R. station, and two caulkers who had taken pass-age for Orange. Captain Bowick is at Bolivar Point and badly frozen The other see approaching customers through the windows. HAD A GOOD TIME.

Capt. Robson, county clerk, and Mr. John Weld were among the passengers on the C. P. R. train that got stuck Friday night in a drift three miles east of Thamesford. They report having had a good time, and deny the veracity of the Californian traveller who said the passengers had nothing to eat. On the contrary, they had plenty to eat.
Messrs, McKay and Sutherland, two considerate farmers living on either side of the track near the scene, visited the train early in the morning armed with baskets full of pies, cakes and Capt. Robson's suggestion promis get a fiddler in by Saturday night if the train was unable to proceed. Fortunately their almost boundless hospitality was not further required, as the train made a start for the west at an early hour, and got to London in safety.

THE OPEN FORUM

Trades and Labor Council and the Relief of the Poor.

To the Editor of the "Advertiser:" I notice in last Saturday's issue of the Free Press a communication criticising the Trades and Labor Council's relief bureau. I cannot understand how anyone could have been under the impression that the council's relief department was for the general poor. The Trades and Labor Council never advertised it ing his lecture last Tuesday evening, stated that he had been asked to deliver a lecture in behalf of organized labor's right when he says there are more nonunion than union men out of employment. We have found that out by the large number of applicants from the former class, and for that reason a special meeting of the Trades and Labor Council was called for Saturday evening last to consider ways and means for opening the relief department to the worthy poor of our city. It was decided to give relief to all, whether affiliated with labor organizations or not. So the complaint of the correspondent has been remedied. As to what the Trades and Labor Council intend doing with the funds already collected, allow me to state that they will be used for the purpose for which they were subscribed, viz.: to relieve the distressed. In closing his epistle, "A Constant Reader of the Free Press" insinuates that there is something crooked about the relief department of the Trades and Labor Council. I wish on behalf of the body of which I am secretary to resent such an assertion and to inform the writer of the letter in question that he can examine the accounts of the relief department at any time and publish the results of his investigations over his own sults of his investigations over his signature like a man. Is not that fair enough? By inserting the above you will confer a favor. Yours truly, FRANK PLANT,

Rec. Sec. T. and L. Council.

THE TWO POLICIES NOW BEFORE THE COUNTRY.

If I might describe it in a short and concise way I should say that the policy of the present Government-which they have announced will be their continued policy—is a policy of restriction, re-stricting the trade and the commerce of this country—(here, here)—while the policy of the Liberal party is that of greater freedom and extension of trade in this country. (Hear, here, and cheers.) That is the distinction between the two political parties. And 1 ask you that are now before me to judge which policy is the most in accord with the interests of this country. How will you test it? Whether restricted trade, hampered, confined, is better, or whether to give it as free course as you can under the circumstances is best. Why, you cannot do better than look abroad in the world and see what private enterprise and public enterprise is doing. What is private capital en-gaged in? What are your public moneys taken and voted for? Is it not to remove natural barriers and restrictions to trade? Are they not engaged in bridging rivers, tunneling under them, building ships, providing means of communication? Is not that what is being done? And shall that be done on the one hand, and tariff walls be erected on the other, in order to counteract the benefit of what is done?-Mr. Laurier at Toronto.

Fagged Out .- None but those who have become fagged out know what a depressed, mierable feeling it is. All strength gone, and despondency has taken hold of the sufferers. They feel as though there is nothing to live for. There, however, is a cure-one box of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will do wonders in restoring health and strength. Mandrake and Dandelion are two of the articles entering into the composition of Parmelee's Pills.

QUERY ANSWERED.

Hampton .- Your questions are not stated clearly, but as we understand them the answer to No. 1 is that the creditors of the husband have no legal right to seize under execution against him the property of the wife and her children. You should consult a lawyer and instruct him to notify the sheriff that he will be held responsible in damages. Full information should be given and Labor Council never advertised it in that way. Rev. Mr. Clark, in prefacing his lecture last Tuesday evening, forged notes can be recovered back if the party who received the money has unemployed. Is not that straightfor- property liable to execution. We can-ward enough? The corrrespondent is not make out from your question whether the banker or the commercial traveler received the money. Better consult a lawyer upon full information.

Press. -The Trades and Labor Council seem to have obtained more of the needful than they expected at the recent lecture in the First Presbyterian Church. While the church officer, Mr. Andrew Denholm, was preparing the edifice on Saturday for the Sunday services he discovered a collection plate containing $6 90; which amount he handed over to the proper authorities. This will increase their collection to $33 55 and will provide a few more of London's hungry with good things. The council have reason to be pleased with Mr. Denholm's honesty, and also trust that at this evening's lecture the committee will "gather up all and see that none remain-eth." It is also hoped that the collection will be as liberal tonight as at the former lecture.

-At the monthy meeting of the Convalescent Home provisional admissions were confirmed by the board, and new applications sanctioned. The visiting members of the board, Mrs. Bucke and Mrs. De La Hooke, gave in very satisfactory reports and the matron handed to the treasurer in small coins the sum of $1 20 from some quite small children of the junior branch of the Christian Eudeavor of the Methodist Centennial Church, and 25 cents self-denial money from Mabel Luscombe, as contributions towards the artificial leg for the young girl still in the home. These, with $2 collected by Miss Harris, Colborne street, have been given over to Mrs. St. John Hyttenrauch, the trustee of the fund, which will, it is hoped, little by little, continue to grow. Two members of the Danish colony at Pottersburg lingered too long at a King street hotel bar on Saturday and were raising a disturbance, when Detective Nickle arrested them. At the police station they gave their names as Martinus Kotter Larsen and Nelson Larsen. The magistrate discharged them this morning. William and Samuel Bolton, two brothers, were charged with disorderly conduct. The conduct in question was an attempt to disturb the meeting at the Salvation Army barracks last night. An officer swore that they were making an unseemly noise on the seat by means of a knife. The boys denied the imputation, and said they had no knife. The magistrate suspended sentence and gave the young men a warning.

Wm. McKenzie, a farmer residing on con. 4, East Williams, was struck by a G. T. R. train and killed on the track between Lucan Crossing and Ailsa Craig on Friday night. Deceased was in the city with his wife on Friday on business and Mr. Mc-Kenzie had received $500 from his solicitors. He left the same night for home and Mrs. McKenzie remained over with friends in this city. When Mr. McKenzie reached Lucan Crossing the train on the main line was found to be several hours late and he set out to walk to Ailsa Craig on the track. The fact that he was well muffled up around the head, and the great storm that was blowing at the time, probably accounted for the body being found next morning horribly mangled and covered with snow. The remains were taken to Ailsa Craig, and an inquest will be held. Mrs. Mc-Kenzie knew nothing about the accident until a friend told her of it at Lucan Crossing when she was on her way home on Saturday. The same train that took her to Ailsa Craig bore the body of her husband. Five children are left besides the widow.

JOLY IS WILLING

To Put On Political Harness Again-His Views on Manitoba's Schools. QUEBEC, Que., Feb. 11.-Hon. Mr. Joly

De Lotbiniere, in an interview this morning, said that he felt in his conscience that if the leaders of the Liberal party thought that his presence in the Liberal phalanx would be of utility to that party, he is ready to again enter into active politics. Speaking of the Manitoba school question, Mr. Joly said that he had made a careful inquiry into the question. He read the books used in the schools and has looked into the methods of teaching and he has come to the conclusion that the Manitoba schools are Protestant schools, and if separate schools cannot be got, he shall advocate neutral or nondenominational schools as a lesser evil.

DENTON & DEEKS

384 Richmond Street.

Very soon "young Mrs. Jardine," as he was fond of calling her, put on her wise face again, and both it and her words often had a curious wisdom—not worldly wisdom, but that wisdom which has been characterized as coming from God-first pure, and then peaceable.

"There is a saying, Roderick—you read it out of the Bible this very morning at prayers—"Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might.' That means, as it seems to me at least, do not go teating about the bush, and vexing yourself with trying after a hundred things that you cannot do I have hear thinking of you a great not do, I have been thinking of you a great deal, my husband, and one thing has occurred to me. You are very elever; you know you gave me a whole heap of MSS.—prose and poetry—which you wrote at the college."

"When I was so foolish as to think I should be an author some day."
"Well, why not? All other professions and years of labor. cost oceans of money, and years of labor. Authorship costs nothing but pen, ink and

"And a few brains; which you think I have, my wife, but—query?"

"I would give my lufe to see my husband a great man, and to help him to become one!" said she, with a suppressed passion which quite startled Roderick. Then, laughing again, as if half ashamed of her own earnestness, "Suppose since we cannot buy books, you were to set to work and

"You little Solon!" cried Roderick, and said no more. But there was a gleam in his eye, a hope in his heart. Something in his wife's words had stirred in him that ambition which every man has, or ought to have, else he is no true man at all—the wish to do something: to be something; to cease drifting aimlessly down the stream of life, in the passing pleasures of the day, but to take firm root somewhere, strike root downward, and bear fruit upward. And the woman that hinders him from doing this is no true wife, but a mere parasite that smothers and impedes the growth of the tree. Ay, even though she may garland him as gorgeously as the lianas do the trees in estern forests, with what she calls love, h is in truth the merest selfish-

She was a born mistress of a household, this young Mrs. Jardine; none the less so because of a something in her beyond it all, which made her often stop a moment in her daily labors to look at 'the blue hills far away, to listen to the singing of the burn in the gien, or the birds in the garden, and perhaps carol a ditty herself there, when she was gathering flowers, or pulling fruit out in the open air, for they had no piano, and she would not hear of buying one till the book was done and they had plenty of

"My darling, you are in one thing unlike all woman—at least, all that I ever knew. You invariably prefer what you have instead of what you have not. Suppose, now just for a change, you were to begin worryingmy life out because I can not give you half a dozen servants and a carriage and pair, or take you out into society? My wife, do you mind being poor?"

"Do you? When you are a Jardine—we are both Jardines, for that matter—and you are to be a great author, or a great man,

"Evidently my wife does not believe the two synonymous," said Roderick, laughing and coloring,

"Not quite, because the author may fail;
whereas the man who does his work—any work—as conscientiously as you are doing it, must always be, in one sense, a great man. Also the one is the world's property, the other is mine!"

She put her arms round his neck; he leaned against her, for he was in truth, a good deal tired. His book had been bother-ing him, and he was not used to being bothered, not accustomed to the endless labor, the perpetual struggle between impulse and perseverance, moods of errant fancy and deliberate, mechanical, matter-offact toil, which all professional authors understand but too well.

"It's done at last," said he, almost with the contract of the same and the sufference of th shout, as, one late autumn morning, with the scent of clematis and jasmine coming in at the open window, he finished his book writing, in his best and neatest hand, "The End" on the final page. "And yet I am half corry! I have killed them all, or married them—made them quite comfortable, any-how—and now I rather miss them. They had grown such companions; had they not

Silence smiled; but yet, as she tenderly cied up the MS., carefully counting the pages, to be sure that none were missing, a tear fell on the last one. It was so dear to her, this first work of her husband's, done in their first year of married life, and full of so many associations. She was sure, even if it came to the twentieth edition, she should never cease to remember and cherish it every line.

"Twentieth editions do not come every day, even to celebrated authors," said Roderick, sapiently. "I should be glad to sell even the first five, and get the money."

"Money—I am afraid I had forgotten the money," said Silence—as, indeed, she had. But for a good many days after when, the excirament of work over, a reaction came, ark over, a reaction came, and Roderick tooked more pale and ill than she had ever see him, she began to count over her little store, as if by counting she could double it, and to long, day by day, for the letter which was to bring the hope of that despised necessity-pounds, shillings

The last and hardest came one day when they had been rather brighter than usual. Silence had persuaded her husband to walk down with her to the obnoxious cotton mill, in which she had become much interested—having instituted, or rather carried on anew, a school for the mill girls which had been the favorite work of Miss Jardine. "You will let me do it, just because she did it?" was the entreaty which Roderick could not resist. So every Sunday while he took the long stratch across the while he took the long stretch across the country, which she had insisted upon after the labors of the week, she had gone down to an empty room at the mill and kept school there for two hours.

To-day the girls recognized her with de-light, and her husband, pleased with her pleasure, glad, too, of any relief in his monotonous life, had talked to the 'hands,' examined the machinery, and acknowledged that there might be a worst lot in life than to be master of a mill.

"At one time I wanted to be an engineer, but my mother thought the profession not 'genteel'enough. She would have put me into the house, but I loved machinery, I hated trade. You would not have wondered, had you ever known my graudfather Paterson—"Roderick stopped. "But he is dead and he was a clave, men and an dead, and he was a clever man, and an honest, in his own way."

It was one of the things which Silence most loved in her husband, part of the infinite respect deepening every day which would have made her pass over so many little faults in him, that she never heard him speak ill-naturedly or unkindly of any human being.

"I almost wish that I had been in our irm, or some other, that you might-

And siller hae to spare.

But after all, my wife, you would not have cared to see me a millionaire, and a money-grubber—Grub street seems a deal nearer my mark."
They both laughed and entered the house

-almost for the first time without looking on the hall table for the vague expectation of something. It was not till Silence had taken off her hat and began to make the tea that she saw a large carrier's parcel with the "eminent publisher's" label outside—one of these neatly done up, innocent-looking parcels which often carry with them a "Let me open it," said Silence—and her stroke of absolute doo

It was a civil note, a very civil note placed on the top of the MS., and expressing a regret that the latter was found unsuitable. In reading it Roderick's hands shook nervously and his color came and went.

"Never mind, it does not matter; it was what I should have expected," was all he "No. it does not matter," said Silence. "They only say it is 'unsuitable' to It may suit some one else. Let us

"Yes, let us try," echoed Roderick, me-chanically, his hand before his eyes. "And if we fail-

We screw our conrage to the sticking place, And we'll not fail." "My Lady Macbeth!" said he scarcely able to forbear a smile at the sweet, broken English, and the brave heart which tried so hard to keep up his own. "Then let us once more get together or 'murder sleep'—or only a publisher. Whom shall the MS.

be sent to next?" Tast very day-for Silence never let the grass grow under her feet—she repacked the MS., and sent it to another house. From whence it came back at once; unopened, as ail arrangements were made-in fact, the head of the firm was just starting for

Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Phomas' Eclectric Oil is earache. The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the bove ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, to which the young are especially subject. The sudden end of a severe run of hard luck will do more to make a man an optimist than will years of luxury.

The Cry Upon Which the High Tax Leaders Gained Power - They Have Failed Utterly to Keep Their Promises -Where Are the Good Prices for Produce and the Steady Work and Good Wages?

(Hon. David Mills at Bothwell.) I am sure in coming before you to discuss questions of great public moment, and to consider the state of the country, you will expect me to make reference to the speeches which have recently been made by Ministers and the gentlemen who accompanied them. In this, I am sure you will agree with me, that they were to the last degree disappointing—not less disappointing to their friends than to their opponents. There has prevailed a period of very great commercial and industrial distress both in Canada and the United States. Now, the leaders of the Con-servative party did not hesitate to declare to the country in 1878 that a man was unworthy the name of statesman who could not secure the national prosperity at such a period. Sir Charles Tupper declared that no credit was due to a public man for prosperity in his own country when other states were prosperous. The public man who could not secure prosperity to his own country in a period of depression was as helpless as a fly on a wheel and these gentlemen said: "Give us the reins of government and we will show you that this can be done." This country had the folly to trust them, and in 1880 there was a general revival of trade in which Canada shared. These gentlemen boasted that they were the authors of that revival. I deny it. They had as little to do with it as they had with the trade winds or with the amount of rainfall for the year. These men who boasted of superior wisdom, by which they could remove commercial depression as if by magic, have been unable to prevent its return. These men who boasted that it was their legislation that added 50 cents a bushel to the price of wheat, and half this sum to the price of barley, have not been able to prevent them from falling 50 it has been nearly stamped out. per cent. below the prices paid at the time they took office. According to their own contention, they alone are responsible for all the evils which the Canadian people at this moment are called upon to endure. Now, I don't charge them with having produced general depression in Canada; I charge them with failing to accomplish what they said they were able to perform, and I charge them with having pursued a policy which has aggravated and intensified the very great depression of trade which the country is experiencing. This is the time for those gentlemen who once PLAYED THE PART OF BRAG-

GARTS, and who estentatiously affected the posession of superior statesmanship, to have shown it. Look at the speeches which have recently been made. What hope of alleviation do they hold out to the country? What remedy is proposed for any ill of which the country complains? The public had a right to expect that Ministers should take the people into their confidence and deal seriously with the state of the nation. Did they do so? Did any Minister, did any Government supporter, say word that promised alleviation? These gentlemen seemed to think that the chief thing expected of them was to caricature and misrepresent the political opinions of the Opposition, and to glorify a fiscal policy that imposes a burden of $40,000,000, in order that one-half this sum may be paid into the treasury. I can tell them that the great majority of the Conservative party, no more than Reformers, are in no mood to brook such trifling. The public don't care a straw what Mr. Brown said in 1875, or what Mr. Blake said in 1882. What they are interested in is what the Ministers purpose doing now. They want to know what Sir Hibbert Tupper means by boasting of the future extravagance of himself and his colleagues. They want to know whether the Gov-ernment seriously contemplate enormous expenditures on worthless enterprises, and how the money is to be raised. They see there is a probable deficit for the current year of $5,000,000. How is this large deficit to be met? When are the Ministers going to admit that men are capable of making a better use of their own money than the Government can for them? Mr. Patterson talks of the trade with the mother land as if trade with the United Kingdom was a thing unheard of in Canada until it was made known by the present Administration. Canada has always been free to trade with the mother country. If she trades with the United Kingdom more than she did for merly it is because impediments which Mr. Patterson and his colleagues seem to regard as blessings have been put in the way of trade and commerce be-tween Canada and the United States. The test of the best market is shown when the conditions are equal by the volume of trade. If, in consequence of high taxation, trade which formerly

Said by a Prominent Doctor to Cause Many Kidney Diseases Now

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 11.—A prominent physician here gives it as his opinion that many of the kidney diseases so prevalent are due to the use of liquor, not necessarily in excess, but even when taken in moderation. Excessive drinking often causes Bright's disease and diabetes, and it is most probable that less serious but very painful kidney disorders are due to the use of stimulants. The approach of a kidney disease may be easily detected, and it should at once be checked by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills, the only reliable cure for all and any kidney disease.

PAPER GLOVES AND HOSIERY. This is the Latest Achievement of an Age of Invention. Paper gloves and hosiery are named as among the very latest novelties. Stockings which sell at 3 cents a pair are proposed. In fact, the experiment of making paper stockings has been going on for several months, and the party engaged therein believes that pretty mittens or gloves would possess advantages in their season. The goods are light and airy and very comfortable in summer. When finished and dyed their appearance is similar to ordinary fabric goods. The knitting is from paper yarus. The paper yarns are made pretty much after the plan of making common paper twines, except that the former are put through certain special processes. The principle is that of making a sort of a nap on the yarns. This is done automatically. Ordinary paper twine or yarns are too smooth, but a good gigging up gives the yarn a nap, and this imparts seftness. After the knitting has been done the goods are placed in a sizing bath made from potato starch and tallow, which imparts solidity and durability to the texture. With paper passenger car wheels, paper water pails, why not paper socks and stockings?
