Natives On Northwestern Frontier Refused To Comply With Ultimatum Issued by British Government—Declined To Discontinue Attacks On British Posts and Convoys — British Fliers Given Orders To Attack Three Villages.

London, Nov. 19.—Opening of aerial warfare against the Mahsud tribesmen on the northwestern frontier of India has been ordered, it is stated in advices from India today. The order was given out November 12, after the Mahsud had refused to comply with the terms laid down in the British ultimatum late in October, in which the tribesmen were informed that unless they discontinued their continual attacks on British posts and convoys and their raids into British territory, they would be subjected to an intense aerial bombardment. The British airmen now have been instructed to bombard the villages of Kanigurun, Makin and Marobi.

The Waziri tribesmen in the same district who were similarly notified in the ultimatum had been given until today to reply, and this morning the notification was still unanswered.

The effects of their air bombardment have not yet been reported.

Jellicoe Declares He Did Not Come to Advocate Militarism

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 19.—In addressing the Canadian Club here yesterday Admiral Viscount Jellicoe, referring to his present mission, said it was to advise the people of Canada only on subjects on which his advice is asked. It was probably feared, he said, that he was going to suggest too much militarism and the spending of too much money. Such was not the case. He was only here, he said, in an advisory capacity. Admiral Jellicoe emphasized the necessity of British sea-power if the empire is to live, and the necessity of being prepared for any emergency. It was not necessary, he declared, to build up a spirit of militarism.

CITIZENS WILL BE ASKED TO VOTE ON MONEY BYLAWS TOTALLING OVER $1,000,000 ON JANUARY 1

Plebiscites May Be Taken On Questions Involving Even More Than This—Opinion Divided On How Vote Will Be Affected.

FORECAST OF MUNICIPAL VOTING.

Money Bylaws.

Are you in favor of issuing:

$300,000 debentures for extension of Fair Grounds.

$250,000 debentures for extension of storm sewer system.

Plebiscites.

Are you in favor of:

Allowing the street railway to increase its fares.

Disposing of the federal square property.

Grants.

Are you in favor of $600 grant to the Victorian Order of Nurses?

More Than Million.

Present indications are that money bylaws for more than a million dollars will be submitted to the citizens in the January elections.

Opinions differ as to just what will be the result. Such an enormous amount will be turned down completely, say some aldermen, while others say that the city, in general with the remainder of the country, is in a spending mood, and readily will grant money for purposes which the voters are assured are necessary.

The largest debenture issue which thus far is certain to come before the people is $300,000 for extending the Western Fair grounds. The Western Fair Board proposes to purchase land east of the present grounds. Opposition has been manifested to this, but at the last council meeting a delegation appeared favoring the plan and stating the people were ready to sell their homes. The general opinion is that the vote will be close. Interest in this matter will likely be much keener in London East than in other sections of the city, which it affects only indirectly.

Storm Sewers.

The next largest amount definitely prepared for submission to the people is $250,000 for extension of the storm sewer system. The board of works unanimously approved this last night, pointing out that the work is necessary before the paving programs can be continued on the main streets. As there has been no opposition manifested toward this it is quite likely that it will carry, although the vote may be an indifferent one. The general experience has been that only citizens directly interested trouble to

BITUMINOUS COAL SEIZED ON BORDER

Local Fuel Controllers Take Supply in Storage.

Windsor, Nov. 19.—All bituminous coal in storage at Windsor and the adjoining border municipalities was seized Monday afternoon by local fuel controllers, acting under orders from H. A. Harrington, fuel controller for Ontario.

Reports received from officials of municipalities, where surveys of the local fuel needs were made, shows an alarming shortage of soft coal, Fuel Controller Harrington said Monday. Because of this condition, exportation of soft coal from the dominion has been ordered stopped.

DORPAT CONFERENCE IS LIKELY TO RESULT IN EARLY UNDERSTANDING

Bolsheviki and Baltic States Representatives Agree On Many Points.

Dorpat, Tuesday, Nov. 18.—It was announced today that the meeting between the Bolshevik delegation and representatives of the Baltic states here was marked by a readiness on both sides to work for a speedy understanding and that an agreement was quickly reached in principle regarding the exchange of hostages. It was stated that nothing else was officially discussed by the conferees. The status of the Bolshevik delegation was made clear in a statement by Foreign Minister Piip of Esthonia that the only accredited delegate was M. Litvinoff, former soviet ambassador to Great Britain. The other members of the delegation were only secretaries, the foreign minister said.

SWITZERLAND VOTES IN FAVOR OF JOINING UP WITH WORLD LEAGUE

Berne, Nov. 18.—Switzerland's adhesion to the League of Nations was voted by the Swiss National Council today. The vote came after eight days of debate, the count being 124 in favor of this country joining the league to 45 against.

GERMANY AGREES TO PAY FRANCE INDEMNITY FOR INTERNING ALSATIANS

Strasbourg, Tuesday, Nov. 18.—Five thousand Alsatians were arrested and interned by German authorities, during the war, and announcement is made that the German Government has pledged itself to pay to France an indemnity of 25,000,000 francs in reparation.

ATTEMPT MADE TO KILL HEAD OF OMSK GOVT.

Hand Grenades Thrown At Admiral Kolchak Miss Mark.

KILL SIX SOLDIERS

London, Nov. 19.—An attempt to assassinate Admiral Kolchak, head of the all-Russian Government, which up until recently maintained its capital at Omsk, is reported in a wireless dispatch received here from Moscow. Hand grenades were thrown at Kolchak, six soldiers being killed and twelve wounded.

The capture of Kursk, south of Orel, is reported in the dispatch, the Bolshevik troops entering the city on Tuesday.

In the course of operations resulting in the capture of Tobolsk, Ishim, Zukalinsk, Petropavlovsk, Koktzhetoff and Omsk, the dispatch asserts the Bolsheviki took 1,000 officers and 27,000 men as prisoners.

20,000 OF YUDENITCH'S TROOPS REPORTED TO HAVE JOINED REDS

Helsingfors, Finland, Monday, Nov. 17.—Via London, Nov. 19.—It is reported here tonight that 20,000 troops of General Yudenitch's Northwestern Russian army have gone over to the Bolsheviki.

TEACHERS ORGANIZE UNION; COMMITTEES WORK OUT DETAILS

Nearly All in City Have Become Members.

Organization of the School Teachers' Union of this city was completed at a meeting of the committee, apointed for that purpose at the general meeting of the teachers some time ago, held in the Collegiate Institute last evening. Plans were drawn for the federation of the local union with the teachers' unions of other cities, and sub-committees were appointed to work out the details of the organization.

The committee that is to draft the constitution of the union is composed of J. W. McWilliams, J. A. Dickenson, J. Kirkwood, W. J. Snelgrove, Miss E. Johnston and Miss H. Tolhurst.

The rules and regulations will be drawn up by J. Calvert, W. J. Judd, and Misses S. Brenton, J. Weir and M. Upshall.

A committee composed of J. Cameron, W. H. Liddicoatt, S. R. White, F. Galpin, Miss F. Yeates and Miss Minhinnick will report the bylaws.

The union is to consist of all the teachers of the public schools, the Collegiate Institute, Technical School, manual training and domestic science and the kindergartens. Nearly all the teachers of these staffs have already joined, according to a report issued last night.

REPORTS OF GIPSY SMITH'S MEETINGS ON PAGE TWO

GIPSY SMITH'S VISIT TO VICTORIA COUNTED HEAVILY

Rev. R. G. Peever has received the following night lettergram from Victoria, B. C.: Victoria ministers and Christian workers greet London. Great meetings here, crowding Drill Hall nightly. Afternoon meetings inspiring. Multitudes quickened; hundreds of decisions for Christ. The whole city stirred greatly. Gipsy Smith worthy of all confidence and love. May his coming to London mean as much as it has meant to Victoria.

R. M. THOMPSON, Secretary of Mission.

WESTERN "U" STUDENT WINNER OF FIRST PRIZE IN CONTEST; OUTSIDERS GET A GOOD SHARE

With a difference of only two points between the first and second winners, The Advertiser announces today the result of the closest puzzle contest which the residents of Ontario have ever participated in. By not following the conditions of the contest, a number of solutions were disqualified. The best answer received (sent in by a Toronto lady) was unfortunately invalidated on account of an error in addition. Many others were disqualified by crossing the chart several times instead of once across and back. Others were thrown out on account of backing up when crossing from one side to the other.

Several requests were received by telegraph, telephone and letter asking that the original answer sent in be changed. These requests were in direct violation of the conditions of the contest, and were invariably refused.

The winners are led by a young Clinton man attending Western University, followed closely by a London man.

An examination of the figures presented today will show that as difficult as many thought the second puzzle to be it was not so intricate but that those who submitted the best solutions were within a hair's-breath of each other. However, the ties on the first puzzle have been disposed of, and within the next few days those who have won will reap the reward of their efforts.

The chart submitted by Mr. L. Churchill is reproduced for the benefit of those who might wish to check up his work in order to see not only wherein he achieved the best result, but also to enable them to ascertain where they themselves fell down. The chart will be found on another page of this issue. The prize-winners are as follows:

PRINCE OF WALES IS MAKING SIGHT-SEEING TOUR OF NEW YORK

PRINCE WELL GUARDED

Every Measure Is Taken To See That Utmost Safety Is Provided.

New York, Nov. 19.—The Prince of Wales was up bright and early today "to see the sights." Pleased by the warmth of his welcome here yesterday when he was made a free man by Mayor Hylan, the prince displayed a boyish eagerness to become acquainted with the city. His morning program included a trip to the top of the fifty-four story Woolworth Building, an automobile ride through thoroughfares, visits to the stock exchange, the United States sub-treasury building, historic Trinity Church and the Chamber of Commerce. The afternoon will be taken up with visits to the academy of music and the annual horse show at Madison Square Garden. Tonight he will attend a dinner of New York societies, and later will be the guest of honor at a ball in the home of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid. By his democratic bearing, the prince has captured the heart of New York. He was greeted with unusual warmth everywhere he went. The crowds, showing a democratic disregard for royal dignity, saluted him with such remarks as: "Hello, Prince!" and "He's a regular guy."

The prince is guarded by a detachment of 2,100 police, and federal secret service agents, but there has been little for them to do.

The police arrangements for the protection of the prince upon his arrival and during his trip through the city were second only to those usually ac-

EGYPTIAN MINISTRY RESIGNS, DISPLEASED WITH INVESTIGATION

Rioting Again Occurs in City of Alexandria.

London, Nov. 19.—The Egyptian ministry has resigned because of dissatisfaction with the mission appointed by Lord Milner, secretary of the colonies, for the investigation of the unrest in Egypt, according to official dispatches from Cairo today.

Rioting occurred yesterday in Alexandria, the trouble lasting throughout the day, until the military restored order.

FIRST PRIZE WINNER

LAVERN CHURCHILL, Clinton, The Advertiser puzzle contest winner, is a student at Western University, studying law, and only last year won "Political Science" honors, donated by the board of governors. Mr. Churchill received congratulations from his many friends when it was known that he was the lucky contestant.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE MAY NOT WAIT FOR U. S. RATIFICATION OF VERSAILLES PEACE TREATY

Pact May Be Put Into Operation—Questions Arising Under Treaty Require Immediate Attention — American Senate's Reservations Will Not Be Acceptable to the Other Powers.

London, Nov. 19.—Great Britain and France are considering whether they are not compelled to proceed with the carrying out of the German peace treaty and the operation of the league of nations independently of the United States, pending the decision of the American Government on its course. It is pointed out that matters are continually arising under the treaty which need immediate attention, such as the operation of the various plebiscite commissions, and it is considered that, because of this fact, it is no longer possible to delay making the pact operative.

The opinion strongly prevails here that Great Britain will not accept any reservations made by the United States Senate which would necessiate the negotiation of a new treaty, as the British Government, it is declared, has every present intention of abiding by the decisions of the peace conference. The belief still exists in this capital that the American Government will ultimately take its place with the Allies. Meanwhile there appears to be a possibility that Great Britain and the others will proceed without the United States.

Germany Adopted Unrestricted Submarine Warfare Knowing It Would Bring U. S. Into Conflict

Field Marshal von Hindenburg and General Ludendorff Give Evidence Before Special Investigating Committee of the National Assembly—Both Launch a Bitter Attack On Bernstorff.

Berlin, Nov. 19.—Germany decided upon unrestricted submarine warfare in spite of warnings that such a step would bring the United States into the war as a decisive factor. This was proved today by reports read at the inquiry into war responsibility, being conducted by a sub-committee of the national assembly.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg was the leading witness of the day, but his testimony was scarcely more interesting than that of General Ludendorff, and seemed even less important than the reading of reports to Berlin by Dr. Heinrich F. Albert, under-secretary of state and former commercial attache at the German embassy in Washington.

A report which Dr. Albert made in 1916 to the German Government, read today, gave clear warning of the feeling in the United States of America's efficiency, of her financial powers, and of her intense leanings toward the entente, and declared that, in case of America's participation, "neutral nations would side with America; the psychological effect would be felt at once; it would be a national misfortune, and Germany would be defeated."

Germany Was Warned.

Dr. Albert asserted then that America could raise several army corps, and that she would energetically support the Allies with huge loans. Field Marshal von Hindenburg declared today that Germany did not desire war, and entered the struggle with her defensive strength impaired. He charged there was a lack of co-operation between the army and "interests at home," and asserted this had a vital effect upon the final issue of the conflict. Relations between the German high command and Count von Bernstorff, former German ambassador to the United States, were not cordial, it was developed, and it seemed an effort was made to treat him as a scapegoat by von Hindenburg and Ludendorff, who bitterly attacked him while giving their evidence. When von Hindenburg and Ludendorff declined to appear at the afternoon session of the sub-committee, an indefinite adjournment was taken, but it was indicated the former would be recalled to give testimony at the next sitting. Wednesday is a religious holiday and the national assembly will not meet until Thursday.

Australia Is Now Suffering Worst Drought in Years

Stock and Crops Are Being Destroyed On Account of No Rain.

London, Nov. 19.—Australia, especially New South Wales, is suffering the most devastating drought since white men have resided in that country, even the drought of 1902 being surpassed, according to a Sydney dispatch to the Daily Mail. Stock and crops have been destroyed, and it is doubtful whether there will be enough seed wheat for next season's sowing. Hundreds, and perhaps thousands, of settlers have been ruined. Northwestern New South Wales is described as a desert, being stripped of everything green. Paddocks are littered with the skeletons of cattle, and even rabbits are dying in vast numbers.

CONSTITUTIONALISTS WIN 300 SEATS IN ITALIAN ELECTIONS

Socialists Elect But Twelve of Their Candidates.

Rome, Nov. 19.—Latest election reports indicate that the constitutionalists secured 300 seats in the chamber of deputies in the recent election. The Socialists elected 12 and the Catholics 90. Official reports from the districts in this city show the election of four Catholics, four Ministerialists, four Socialists and one each by the Nationalist, Republican and Independent Liberal parties.

Among those who were successful at the polls were: Prof. Luigi Luzzatti, former minister of agriculture; Ferdinando Martini, former governor of Erythrea; Leonida Bissolatti-Bergamaschi, former minister of military aid and war pensions; Carlo Ferraris, minister of industry, commerce, labor and food; Signor Daneo, former minister of finance; Signor Facta, former minister of justice and Signor De Nava, minister for liberated provinces. Those who were not elected include Signor Bucoma, minister of military assistance and pensions; Pietro Bertolini, former minister of public works; Ettere Sacchi, former minister of public works; Luigi Rava, former minister of finance; Guiseppi Vivone, editor of the Turin Stampa, and Signor Foscari, former under-secretary of colonies.

Daughter of General Yudenitch in Hiding From Russian Reds

London, Nov. 19.—Somewhere in Russian territory, held by the Bolsheviki, the daughter of General Yudenitch, who led his army in an attempt to capture Petrograd, is or was, hiding for fear of being shot by the men whom her father is fighting. This fact has been made known here by General Doobjansky, representative of General Yudenitch in London.

General Yudenitch does not know what fate has befallen his daughter. Her husband was killed in battle with the Germans shortly after her marriage.

HUSHED THOUSANDS LISTEN TO MESSAGE GIPSY SMITH BEARS

Hearty Singing a Feature of Mission — Preacher Intensely Emotional, But Not Sensational; Impresses, Instead, by Sincerity and Earnestness—Urges To Prayer and Fasting and Old-Fashioned Biblical Faith.

(By Isabel C. Armstrong.)

Three thousand five hundred people are seated in the great auditorium of the armories in the hushed silence of intense interest, forgetting to stir or even to cough, as they listen to the musical voice and drink in the heart-searching message of the speaker who has cast a spell over them.

It's the first night of the great Gipsy Smith mission, which is to continue for two weeks, and from east, west, north and south, interested people, devoutly religious people, and merely curious people have gathered by hundreds upon hundreds to see what manner of man the gipsy boy can be who was called from his tent to become a world-famous evangelist.

Before half-past seven o'clock 500 choristers are seated on the platform, the sweet-voiced singers from many church choirs, the accompanist of the Gipsy Smith band is at the piano, and Gladstone Brown, the musical conductor, ready for the signal to start the service of song.

Moving about, interested, alert, radiating kindness and goodwill, is Gipsy Smith himself.

Though the crowds press into the auditorium in great groups, the most absolute order prevails, so perfect have been the arrangements of the local committee for ushering and seating.

Conductor Raises Hand.

A chord is struck on the piano, the conductor raises his hand and the hall is flooded with the melody of an evangelistic campaign hymn. One follows another in leisurely succession, the "Glory Song," "Trust and Obey" and "God Will Take Care of You."

On the minute of eight, Rev. D. C. McGregor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church steps forward to conduct the formal opening exercises. After prayer by Major (Rev.) A. Graham, Mayor C. R. Somerville is called upon to welcome Gipsy Smith on behalf of the city and council and introduce him. What's in a name. The polite reference to the evangelist as "Mr. Smith" two or three times in the course of the mayor's appropriate welcome speech causes a smile to ripple over the faces of the score or more of ministers of several denominations who have a place on the platform, a look of amusement to flit across many faces. It requires some mental adjustment to recognize Gipsy Smith in just "Mr. Smith."

Evangelist Running.

With the last words of the cordial greeting the evangelist is almost running, rather than walking, forward in his friendly eagerness, bowing, smiling, acknowledging the storm of applause which breaks like a great wave.

He expresses his thanks for his reception. He has felt immediately at home in London. One thing especially has had this effect upon him, the provision of the finest choir that has come to his support on his trip.

There is an outburst of laughter as he turns swiftly to the choir and warns: "Mark you, you can't go back on me now. Rain or shine, whatever the weather, it is you and I together."

Though this is his fourteenth visit to the American continent, it is the first time he has held missions in Canada, with the exception of Toronto. How many in the audience have heard him elsewhere? In the old land?

Here Hands Go Up.

Here and there hands go up all over the audience. In the newer cities of the west, he states, practically two-thirds of the audiences were his "old friends" of former missions in the old land. London is an older, more settled city. Are the people here glad to see him?

The evangelist is playing his little trick.

"Then show it by the way you give," he says. "As soon as there is enough money to pay expenses, the committee will stop holding collections." "Let your giving be just as religious as your praying or singing."

Leader Brown is called upon for a solo, Gipsy Smith announcing that he himself will join in the chorus. The voice of the conductor is baritone and mellow. With it blends in rare harmony in the chorus the pure, clear, sweet tenor of Gipsy Smith, a voice unstrained, fresh and youthful in either speaking or singing, after forty-two years of hard public service.

Then Gipsy Smith announced his text, the story of the casting out by Jesus of the dumb spirit from the lad who was brought to Him just as He came down from the Mount of Transfiguration.

Why had the disciples left behind been unable to perform this miracle of healing?

The answer of Jesus to those who questioned was the burden of the evangelist's message to his audience on the opening night of his mission, last night, "This kind can come forth with nothing but prayer and fasting." Associated with it was the promise, "If thou canst, all thing are possible to him that believeth."

Dramatically, yet simply, the story was told, the setting sketched strikingly, each point sent home with unerring accuracy of aim.

Jesus with three of His disciples was up on the mountain, where He was transfigured as He talked with God. Down at the foot remained the others, the good people of high standards, to carry on in His absence.

Seeing them, the father of the stricken lad, brought to them his son for healing. He could not disturb Jesus in His hour of devotion. The disciples failed in their test because of their lack of faith and power.

What of the Ministers.

What of the ministers, leaders in Christian work, professing Christians in the audience? What did Jesus Christ think of their religion, and what were the fruits thereof?

"Why did you need to send for a gipsy boy, who never had your chances to come to the city for this mission?" was a question he raised, and "Why did you need to call a heathen from his tent?"

"If your boy and girl won't come to you first to speak to you about religion, why is it?" was another heart-searching question addressed to parents.

His own father, who is now 89 years old, was the very first one to whom he went to talk about religion and the things of God, to his father, a man of prayer.

Before he could read his Bible, Gipsy Smith owned one, his first gift book. He used to steal through the hedge with it from the lane in which his father's tents were lined up, to a plowed field, where he placed his precious treasure open before him, and prayed that even if he didn't know how to read, he might know God.

Stand Up To Pray.

"When I hear a man stand up to pray," he continued, "the finger of my soul goes out to the pulse of his prayer, and I can tell whether or not he knows God intimately, whether or not he is accustomed to talk to God alone in prayer.

The evangelist declared that much of prayer is too much talk; that many people imagine that prayer is much speaking. "yet prayer may be locked in the silver cell of a tear-drop which will penetrate heaven," he said.

"If you want pentecostal, arresting, commanding, glorifying results of this mission," he concluded, "don't leave all the prayer to me. I can't do it. It will break my heart. Gipsy Smith can't do it. He is only a man with a man's weaknesses and mistakes. Pray to God that this mission will leave a mark on London which will stand the test of time. This kind can only come forth with prayer and fasting."

Scarcely Raised Voice.

Throughout the whole of his address, Gipsy Smith scarcely raised his voice above a conversational tone, yet it carried distinctly to the farthest end of the building. His manner was rather that of holding a heart-searching conversation with one individual than speaking to a group of 3,500 people. His message was individual, direct from the shoulder, yet tempered with a yearning tenderness.

As he spoke, the expression of his face was now glad, buoyant, boyish, again anxious and drawn as if his heart were bearing the burden of all the souls before him. Frequently the tears glistened in his eyes. In his first big meeting, Gipsy Smith revealed himself as a preacher of intense earnestness and sincerity, emotion, yet at the same time restraint, temperament and the gift of vivid narrative and colorful speech. Of the spectacular and sensational there was entire absence.

He spoke with the simplicity, sincerity and directness of the man "taught of God."

An evidence of the interest in the Gipsy Smith mission aroused in the surrounding district lies in the fact that a request has come from St. Thomas for a reservation of space on Friday evening. A conference of ministers and Y. M. C. A. workers will be held with Gipsy Smith Thursday morning.

STATES SAINTS ARE NOT GROWN; THEY ARE MADE

NOT A PULPIT-THUMPER

Brings Each Truth Home Quietly and Forcefully—Comes To Help.

Gipsy Smith opened his two-week's evangelistic campaign in London yesterday afternoon in St. Andrew's Church. The meeting was a large one and made up for the most part of women and elderly men, who listened with marked attention to Mr. Smith's address.

Those who came with the expectation of seeing a man with long flowing locks, who pounded madly on the pulpit and talked in loud, hoarse tones, were disappointed. The evangelist's manner was quiet and forceful as he brought each truth home. Although speaking to a large audience, one got the impression that Mr. Smith's message was directed to him alone.

After the opening prayer and hymns, Rev. D. C. McGregor, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, called on Rev. F. A. Robinson, secretary of the Presbyterian General Assembly, Board of Evangelism, to introduce Mr. Smith.

"Many have met him, all know something about him, and tens of thousands of people thank God that he has come to Canada," said Mr. Robinson, referring to Mr. Smith. "London is one of the four cities that he will speak in, and London can consider herself honored."

The first thing the famous evangelist did was to invite all the ministers in the audience to take their place in the choir seats.

Come to Help in Work.

"I've come to help you in your work, and you must stand by me," he told the ministers. "There is a man in the gallery who stood up and then sat down again when I asked the ministers to stand up. Will someone please put a pin in him. I always like the people to get as close to me as possible, so I can see them and they can see me."

"I can't see you for hats," came one voice.

"I'm sorry. Will all the men in the audience who have hats on please remove them," requested Mr. Smith, who went on to tell the people that if they wanted a blessing they would have to concentrate their minds on God, not him.

"No preacher can help any congregation if it refuses to sing the praises of God," continued the speaker. "You get out of the service as much as you put in it, and no more. This is your mission and the mission of every godly person in this city trying to do the work of Jesus Christ. It belongs to you to make it successful.

"If spiritual London is at a low ebb, it is because somebody is not living up. I ask the people not to miss this opportunity to take part in their own mission. When I say 'amen!' here two weeks from now I want to see you co-operate with the pastors of your churches."

Rev. G. A. Leichliter Speaks.

A short address was then given by Rev. G. A. Leichliter of the Adelaide Street Baptist Church, who took as his text, "Consider the Lilies of the Field, How They Grow."

"Yes, a lily is a lily, and a rose is a rose," declared Mr. Smith, springing to his feet before the former speaker had a chance to sit down, "and they never change unless a miracle is wrought. In the natural world you reap what you sow. You can't get a Christian out of the natural heart until there is a miracle. There must be the work of the Holy Ghost. Take a child of moral parents, give him the best education that money can buy, but without God you have only a magnificent sinner. Saints are not grown; they are made, and you can't build up a saint unless God builds the foundation.

"The church of today is talking about education, while Jesus Christ says regeneration. The Germans were strong on education. They spelled culture with a "k," and they did it, I suppose, because Britain had charge of all the "c's."

"How is it that some of us are so unlovely, and yet profess to be Christians?" asked the evangelist. When I see some sour faces before me I wonder how ministers can preach to them. However, when the Lord measures people for their heavenly clothes, he doesn't measure faces; he measures the soul. If the New Testament means anything, it means to make us like Jesus.

Living Up to Profession.

"If the people of London who go to church were living up to their profession of faith in Jesus Christ, you would not need me; the fields would be white waiting for the sickle. I pause because I want you to think of this. If the spirit that raised Christ from the dead is in you, it will come to the surface. It is God's morning in the soul. Oh Master, give us more of it. I would rather see your church members flooded with the spirit of God than have 5,000 converts because your attitude would soon be reflected throughout the whole city.

Mr. Smith told his audience that books could not teach everything. "If you want to know Nature, you must sleep with her. It is the only way," he said. "If God has changed your heart, if you'll only bring that life into the proper atmosphere, it will be as the bulb brings forth beautiful flowers. If you are a professing Christian, don't disappoint God. What do the people around you think of you? I often wonder what they think of me. I know what some of them say, but what do they really think? If we are professing Christians, and the people around us don't want to be like us, then we are walking frauds. We've got to grow like the lily, and God help us to do it.

Who Lives With You?

"Who lives with you? Can you say like that old Southern mammy, 'Just me and Jesus'?"

Mr. Smith then went on to describe a trip he took through the red light district of Washington eleven years ago; how as he and his friends passed down one street handkerchiefs were waved from windows.

"From one darkened window came the plea, 'Please sing my mother's favorite hymn Jesus, Lover of My Soul'," said Mr. Smith. We sang it, and from another came the request 'Nearer My God to Thee.' We passed on to a theatre for a midnight meeting, and the leading actor asked me how many there were in my company. 'Father, Son and Holy Ghost, that's all,' I replied.

"Are you on as good terms with Jesus, mother, daughter, sister and society woman? Think of what good you could do for Him in your strategic position in the home. Think what you could do for Jesus Christ."

SPARKS FROM GIPSY SMITH'S ANVIL

"This is the best choir we have had on our trip."

"What I have seen of Canada makes me long for more."

"Glad to see me?" (Clap, clap, clap.) "Don't be too enthusiastic. Put your hand in your pocket, and put $5 on the collection plate, and show the committee how glad you are for the campaign."

"Let your giving be as religious as your praying or singing. Let it be an act of worship."

"Let us make the most of every day for God and the city."

"You can only see the glory of God when you are awake."

"The reason some faces change so little is because the people haven't accustomed themselves to talk with God."

"You couldn't get a 'Hallelujah' out of some people if you put them through a wringing-machine."

"I know the boys who were over in France. I was with them in the trenches. After being in France 3½ years, they admire reality, but they hate cant and humbug."

"If you want to win the boys to Jesus Christ, you must come back to the simple, beautiful things of the gospel. It never fails."

"I wonder what the Son of God thinks of the poor, powerless, fruitless lives of some of you ministers and me?"

"Some people go to church to have a mutual congratulation service, to coax, fondle, congratulate and flatter themselves, while the outside world is broken-hearted, hungering and thirsting for the real thing."

"I wonder if Jesus is pleased with the thing you and I call religion when He thinks of Calvary and Pentecost?"

"You take your boy about whom you are anxious to the preacher, to the evangelist, to this quack and that. Why don't you bring him to Jesus?"

"There are more fads to the square inch on this continent than any other continent in the world."

"Thank God I am not a faddist, but an old-fashioned preacher, who believes in the old-fashioned gospel, the things that abide.

"The man who doesn't have his quiet moments with God isn't any use to me when I am in trouble. When the billows of life sweep over me, I want somebody who is intimate with God."

"You are glorying in the fact that Gipsy Smith has been invited to London. Why not say, instead, 'Oh God, why can't we do it ourselves? Why can't we make religion tell?'"

"You have had your churches, your homes, your education, your position. Why did you need to send for a gipsy boy, who never had your chances? Why did you need to bring a heathen from his tent?"

"Press hard on that 'WHY'."

"If I were in a church where the people didn't come to pray, I should get out, or burn the roll and start all over again.

"There is no religion without prayer."

"You pray——and something will happen."

"Glory to God," Cries Woman to Gipsy Smith

Says Methodists Have Forgotten How To Call "Hallelujah."

During the course of his address at the first big evening meeting of his mission in London last night, Gipsy Smith referred to the enthusiasm of Peter aroused on the mount of transfiguration, and his statement that it was good to be there.

"I'm not surprised that Peter got so gloriously happy," he commented, "and some of you will be doing the same thing before the end of this mission, saying, 'Lord, it is good to be here.' There used to be a time when people weren't afraid to shout right out. You Methodists used to do it, but you have forgotten how to call 'Hallelujah' any more."

A protesting voice from the audience interrupted, "No we haven't, Glory be to God."

Amid the laughter which followed, Gipsy Smith commented "Praise the Lord for that. You couldn't get that out of some people if you put them through a wringing-machine."

ARMY AND NAVY VETERANS WILL STAY CLEAR OF POLITICS

Appoint Committee to Attend Labor Representation Committee Meeting.

Although the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada at their meeting on Tuesday night decided that they would remain clear of party politics, they elected five of their members to attend the labor representation committee, which is meeting this month. The men are to go as visitors only, however, and are to report back to the association the doings there. This step was taken on the invitation of J. F. local labor men. Those elected were: Fred Young (president), C. F. White, J. Rawlings, A. P. Alford and B. F. Lavender.

J. Glennie, J. Rawlings, C. F. White, B. F. Lavender and Fred Young were elected as a committee to meet committees from other soldiers' organizations of the city, with a view to forming a council which would deal with matters pertaining to the returned men as a whole.

Charles Watt, a South African veteran, who has been in hospital for two years with a broken back, was made a member of the association. He was removed to Victoria Hospital from Toronto some months ago. It is said that he has no relatives. Talk of medical students, to the effect that he would be taken over by the school when he died, caused the veterans to take this action.

INGERSOLL RAISED OVER THREE TIMES ITS LOAN OBJECTIVE

Remarkable South Oxford Record—Machinists To Organize.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

INGERSOLL, Nov. 18.—That all totals were augmented to a marked degree on the closing day is a feature in connection with the final figures of the Victory Loan campaign in South Oxford. According to the final statement, given out this afternoon, Ingersoll's grand total is $1,569,100, or a percentage of objective raised of 313.82.

On the closing day the subscriptions for the town reached the magnificent sum of $691,400. The totals for the other municipalities in the South Oxford district are as follows: Tillsonburg, $388,700, percentage of objective 194.35; East Nissouri $372,750, percentage of objective 282.91; North Oxford $169,000, percentage of objective, 225.33; West Oxford $106,400, percentage of objective 177; Dereham $265,650, percentage of objective 147.58; North Norwich $224,650, percentage of objective 180.31; South Norwich $129,305, percentage of objective 172.40.

The returns from South Norwich for the closing day of the campaign were greater than the previous total. The applications in the riding numbered 3,941, of which 1,452 were in Ingersoll as compared with about 1,400 last year. Those at the head of the organization, C. H. Summer, chairman; W. J. Elliott, secretary, and D. A. Reid and W. P. Scott, organizers, have been complimented from many sources today on the distinction won by South Oxford.

LONG ILLNESS FATAL.

A long illness terminated in the death of Mary Teresa Stephenson, wife of Thomas Stephenson, at the family home in North Oxford. She was in her 45th year, and had been confined to her bed for a long period. Besides her husband, she is survived by three sons. She was a member of the Church of the Sacred Heart, and the funeral will be held here Thursday morning.

ORGANIZE MACHINISTS.

Many machinists have declared themselves in favor of organization, and this course, it is believed, will be followed at an early date. Harry Mee, secretary of the Citizens' Liberty League, presided at a large labor meeting held in the town hall, when the situation was fully gone into. The speakers were J. A. Flett, in the interests of the American Federation of Labor; H. H. Harper of Toronto, who addressed the machinists, and J. G. Marsh of Niagara Falls, who spoke directly to woodworkers.

ELEVEN ACTIONS IN SUPREME COURT FOR TRIAL NOVEMBER 24

SOME ESTATE DISPUTES

Non-Jury Sittings Promise To Be Kept Busy Here.

Eleven actions have been entered for trial at the Middlesex non-jury sittings of the Supreme Court on November 24. The majority of the actions were entered and placed upon the court list in the course of a very few hours yesterday afternoon and this morning.

The first action upon the list is that of Thomas Pierce, of Caradoc Township vs. Abraham Goldsmith of Detroit, in which a claim for $3,540.85 is made. The amount is claimed under the terms of an agreement concerning the sale and delivery of 21 car loads of vegetables. In one of the action documents, it is stated that during the trial of the suit on May 15, 1917, the defendant failed to appear in court, so it was "adjudged that the plaintiff recover against the defendant, $2,540.85 and costs of the court, and that he may proceed to trial for the balance of his claim—$1,000." J. M. McEvoy will act for the plaintiff and Bartlett & Bartlett for the defendant.

Claim and Counter-Claim.

Clarcy Gallinger of East Nissouri Township vs. Zenus Gallinger of the same district are the principals concerned in the second action. The plaintiff is the administrator, and the widow of James A. Gallinger, while the defendant is a son of the late Mr. Gallinger. The possession of certain lands which were previously the property of the late James Gallinger, and the amount of $175 for profits, are the claims made by the administrator, the lands having been in the hands of the son, Zenus, since the owner's death. As a counter-claim, the son asks for a conveyance of the lands so that they will be free from dower and all other claims. A. E. Parkinson will represent the administrator, and Meredith & Meredith the defendant.

Administrators Sue.

The Canada Trust Company, administrators of the estate of the late Elizabeth E. Frank, claim for the recovery of all money, bonds, debentures, securities for money, documents of title and all other property of any description belonging to the estate from the defendants, Thomas Knowles, of the city, and the Royal Bank of Canada. Knowles, a machinist, is said to have secured the documents and placed them in a safety box in the Royal Bank. He claims that he had taken care of the business of the deceased for a considerable time before her death, and further claims that he had not been paid for the services rendered. So he intends to keep the documents until the service pay is credited to his account. In the statement of defence Knowles also states that the deceased had instructed him not to give up the documents or property intrusted to his care. J. B. McKillop will act for the Canada Trust Company, and C. St. Clair Leitch for the defendant.

Asks $2,075.

Claiming $2,075, balance of the principal and interest due under a certain agreement, A. E. Davidson of the town of Harriston, Wellington County, has entered the fourth action on the court list through his solicitors, Cronyn, Betts & Coleridge. The defendant in the case is Morris Goldenberg of London Township, who will be represented by E. T. Essery.

The sixth action is an estate dispute, in which James Johnston of this city claims from John Johnston, also of London, the conveyance of certain lands by Charlotte Johnston to the defendant be declared void. It is alleged that Charlotte Johnston was feeble of mind and body at the time the agreement was made. James Johnston also asks for $1,500 damages, or as an alternative, that the defendant's title be declared void. Meredith & Meredith are acting for James Johnston and E. T. Essery for the defendant.

A. W. Davidson of Harriston, vs. William Goldenberg of London Township, is an action for the amount of $2,173.90, which is alleged due under an agreement made in 1915. Cronyn, Betts & Coleridge are acting for the plaintiff, and E. T. Essery for the defendant.

Walter H. Bice of the city, claims from Flora C. Hewer and Robert Hewer of Windsor, and Alfretta Bice, Ola Bice and C. B. Chapman of this city, for the specific performance of an agreement dated September 11, 1913, which was assigned to the plaintiff by an agreement of June 5, 1917. An alternative claim for damages is made. J. W. G. Winnett for the plaintiff, and J. B. McKillop for the defendants.

For Return of Properties.

In the action of George Hardy of London vs. Dr. Robert W. Shaw and the Vulcan Company, Limited, claim is made for the return of properties transferred to Dr. Shaw and an accounting of all profits made in the foundry business; also the payment to the plaintiff with interest upon all amounts of his share of the profits. J. M. McEvoy will act for the plaintiff, and Meredith & Fisher for the defendants.

Alimony and interim alimony are the claims entered in the action between Adelah Veschler of Montreal and Moses Veschler of this city. Alimony is claimed from the year 1913. Meredith & Meredith will act for the plaintiff, and J. W. G. Winnett for the defendant.

The last case is that of John Wood of London vs. David and William Tazzman for the amount of $1,000 for the alleged failure of the defendants to keep the terms of a lease upon a farm in London Township. Meredith & Meredith for plaintiff, and E. W. M. Flock for the defendant.

VALUATORS ARE RUSHING WORK ON STREET RAILWAY

Likely to Finish In Time for January Vote.

Hydro valuators are rushing their work on the London street railway. It is expected that it will be known Saturday whether they can finish their work in time for a vote to be taken on the question in January.

Under the hydro valuation system, a valuator is placed in charge of the work on each part of the system; one deals with the wires, another with the rails, a third with the rolling stock, and so forth, so that there is a fair prospect of the work being complete.

It's yours, it's mine, it's everybody's. Walt.

CLAIMS $135.—Arnold Louis Christiani of 18 Emery street, is the claimant for $135, which is alleged due as the rent of a farm, in a writ issued from the county court office this morning against William Bowron of Westminster Township.

ADVERTISERS' MEETING. — On Thursday and Friday of this week the Association of Canadian Advertisers is holding its annual session in Toronto, and its annual dinner will be held in the King Edward Hotel on Thursday evening, when Lloyd Harris, chairman of the Canadian Trade Mission, and Mr. MacDonald, secretary of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, will be the principal speakers.

DELEGATES GO TO CONVENTION. —Delegates from the Y.M.C.A. left today to attend the international convention of the association to be held in Detroit during the latter part of this week. The conventions are held every three years, and are attended by men from all parts of the world. The men who will represent London are: James Gray, W. R. Yendall, R. D. McDonald and L. M. Houlding.

A.O.F. CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY. Court Forest City, No. 5744, Ancient Order of Foresters, celebrated its 47th anniversary on Tuesday night with an oyster supper in its hall, at the corner of Dundas and English streets. The attendance was large and the speeches much enjoyed. The feature of the evening was the warm greetings extended to the hero members from overseas. The warmness of the welcome was not all on the side of those who received, however.

LECTURE THURSDAY.—The first of the series of Thursday evening lectures at Western University will be given tomorrow evening at the university buildings, when Dr. J. Davis Barnett, curator of the Barnett library, will speak on "The Making of Books Before the Invention of Printing," illustrating his talk with specimens of manuscripts, etc. The public are invited to attend these Thursday evening public lectures, no charge being made for admission.

TO DISCUSS SCHOOL EXTENSION. —Representatives of the Victoria School Mothers' Club and a number of other South London citizens who are interested in the enlarging and improvement of the building and grounds of the Victoria School are holding a meeting on Thursday night to talk over the matter. It is felt that if the school is to be enlarged that some effort should be made to have the addition of real architectural merit. There is also a feeling in South London that some effort should be made to enlarge the school grounds, perhaps by securing the property on Askin street, west of the school grounds.

OPENING CONCERT.—The opening concert of the London Institute of Musical Art will be given in the Masonic Hall on Thursday, November 27, by pupils of A. D. Jordan. The Musical Art Society Symphony Orchestra of 60 players will assist in the program, playing the accompaniments and orchestra parts to the Beethoven "C" minor concerto for the piano, the Andante Capriccio, Mendelssohn, the Hiller "F" Sharp minor concerto for piano, the sextet from Lucia, the Rigoletto quartet, the march and chorus from Carmen and the Cavatina from the Barber of Seville. Thirty of Mr. Jordan's advanced pupils will appear in solo or ensemble numbers.

WOULD MAKE HUCKSTERS GUARANTEE GOODS TO BE GROWN BY THEMSELVES

A bylaw requiring hucksters on the city market to produce a certificate that their offerings were grown by themselves will be considered by No. 1 committee of the city council Thursday. The question has been raised by Ald. E. R. Seabrook, who states that this is the plan followed on the Toronto market to eliminate the middleman.

This plan, he claims, would prevent hucksters buying up produce throughout the country and retailing to the citizens. The grower would have to make the sale directly to the people. The market clerk would be given authority to ask for a certificate from a county councillor or some person in authority that the huckster's produce was grown by himself and not purchased.

New Building Objective of City For Year Is $2,500,000 Mark

London's new building objective for 1919 is two and a half million dollars. Building Inspector A. M. Piper says there is a possibility of the figures reaching that level.

The two-million-dollar mark was passed Tuesday and a good start was made on the remaining half million.

The new medical school will cost about $300,000, and this will bring up the total to within a short distance of the mark. With houses which the housing commission has under way, together with other building projects, the figures may reach this immense total. Already every record for the city has been outdistanced.

Scribe Finds Scene Deserted, Not One Prisoner On Hand.

"One—two—three—four—five—six—seven—eight—nine—ten!" It was the police court reporter counting the strokes of the customs house clock. That hour above all others was the important one in the life of the scribe, for when it came things began to hum in the Carling street mill of justice.

Two blocks away from the place, and even now the daily dramas, comedies and tragedies are in full swing—what if one of the prisoners should collapse while on the witness stand, or what if a mother or a sweetheart should burst into tears? Good night! There's no time to lose. Thus mused the scribe as he hastened his steps.

Deserted!

At last he reached the entrance to the institution. Up the stairs he hurried, and taking off his cap, rushed breathless into the courtroom. His eyes fixed only on his desk near the magistrate's bench, the reporter went to his allotted place. Then to his surprise he noticed that the scene was very different from those of other mornings.

Not a prisoner's head showed above the inclosure about the part of the room set apart for those who were to have justice meted out to them. Not a policeman was in attendance. Nor was there a magistrate or even a police court clerk in sight. To make a long story short, the room was deserted except for the bewildered newspaperman.

Nothing the Matter.

What was the matter? Had John Barleycorn's passing brought about a crimeless city or had the world entered upon that happy era known as the milleanium? Maybe the court had started at 9 o'clock, as it had on one occasion a few months ago.

To clear up the mystery the scribe began to search for a fellow human being. His search soon brought results, for in the police court clerk's office was the genial clerk himself.

"What's the matter, Mr. Moule? Where's everybody this morning?" was the scribe's greeting.

"Oh, there was no court this morning. One man who was arrested for being drunk paid his fine before 10 o'clock," said the clerk.

LOCAL DROP IN HOGS IS SMALL

Less Than Half That in Toronto.

Although Toronto's hog market weakened considerably yesterday and the quotations dropped $1.00 on a hundred pounds, the local price fell off only 25 cents to 50 cents. Today's shipment brought $16.00

Only three loads of hay were sold this morning. The low price of the past few days is given as the cause of the small offering. Two loads brought $26 a ton, and one of excellent quality sold for $27.

MUNICIPAL DEPOT WOULD COST ABOUT $85,000

Citizens to Vote On Advisability of Establishing One.

A favorable vote in January will result in the establishing of a municipal depot next year. Citizens must decide at the next election whether they favor this plan and are willing to spend $85,000 to establish it.

At present, the watering carts, garbage wagons, road cleaning equipment and other material are left in the open when not in use. They are subject to all the bad effects of the elements.

Proper repair shops are lacking, as well as buildings for storage of material.

By spending $85,000 a central depot to remedy these defects can be established at Bathurst and Adelaide streets, adjoining the municipal paving plant. City Engineer Brazier, who has prepared the estimates, is of the opinion that the saving effected by having the city equipment and material properly protected and cared for will in time equal the expenditure.

With the citizens' approval it is planned to provide stables to accommodate at least 40 horses; one month's supply of feed; oil storage not less than 50,000 gallons, either above or below ground; coal storage for at least three cars or 120 tons; cement storage for five cars or 1,000 barrels; limestone dust storage for five cars or 1,000 barrels; a blacksmith's shop; wheelright's shop; paint shop, general repair shop, store room including weigh scales and gasoline pump; storage for six road rollers; store room for two flushers and at least six 3½-ton trucks, together with automobile repair shop; building for concrete mixers, scarifiers; lean-to sheds for 20 water wagons, 20 dump wagons, 10 garbage wagons, 4 oil distributors, 4 sweepers and 3 graders.

The blacksmith's shop would be equipped with forges, anvils, high and low-speed drills, lathe, forge hammer, tire-setting outfit, shears, cutters, bender, planer and sow, grindstone and emery wheel.

Chairman Writes To Thank Local Officials.

George M. Reid, president of the Victory Loan executive, received the following letter from the chairman of the Ontario executive, G. H. Wood of Toronto, this morning:

"Dear Mr. Reid,—With a grand total of $354,624,500, Ontario closes the third great Victory Loan campaign in a blaze of glory. Eclipsing the triumph of last year, the people of this province and the men of our wonderful organization are alike to be congratulated upon the overwhelming success of this last great war effort.

"In spite of elections, referendum, strikes, bad roads and absence of war sentiment, our organization has gone right ahead, until our citizens were made to appreciate the national necessity, and the investment opportunity involved in the loan, and have more than equaled the record of last year, which we all thought impossible of being repeated.

"To you for your unselfish leadership as chairman of your executive, and through you to every one of your committeemen, including your hard-working secretary, as well as your faithful and efficient canvassers, our Ontario executive tenders in no perfunctory manner our whole-hearted and unbounded thanks and appreciation.

"London has the proud distinction of having made a very real contribution to yesterday's brilliant success, and you and your men can retire from the labor and strain of this long campaign with satisfaction to yourselves because a huge task has been well and thoroughly done. All honor to the men and women of Ontario who have been making history during the past three weeks.

"On behalf of the Ontario executive, yours faithfully,

"(Signed). G. H. WOOD,
"Chairman."

GOVERNMENT YACHT TIPPERARY WRECKED

Vessel Was Assisting in Patrol of Port Weller Harbor.

St. Catharines, Nov. 19.—During the heavy storm last night, the Government yacht Tipperary was swept from her moorings in Port Weller Harbor and driven on the beach, where she lies a total wreck. The Tipperary was a three-ton yacht, which had been employed for several weeks sweeping the harbor.

G. W. V. A. TO VOTE ON IMPORTANT QUESTIONS

Preparations are being made in all branches of the G. W. V. A. throughout Canada to take a vote on what is said to be the two most important questions the members of the organization have been requested to decide. Circular letters have been sent out from headquarters in Ottawa bearing instructions for the voting, and ballot forms have been received by the local branch.

The ballots resemble closely those used in governmental elections, and have printed upon them the two questions:

"Are you in favor of amending the constitution so as to permit political action?"

"Are you in favor of amending the constitution to permit any who has served honorably in the forces of Great Britain and her allies to become members of the G. W. V. A.?"

The voting will take place in the near future, although a definite date has not been announced. Headquarters of each branch will be used as a polling booth and any member who does not live near one will be allowed to vote through the mails. Scrutineers are to be appointed and the voting will be conducted as carefully as a public election.

OPPOSE CONTRACT GOING TO TORONTO PLUMBERS

Local Firms Protest, But Medical School Authorities Explain.

Local plumbers are opposed strongly to letting the plumbing and heating contract for the new medical school to Bennett & Wright of Toronto, according to William Lyons, a prominent local plumber. One firm of this city offered to fill the contract for the very same price as the Toronto firm, he said.

University authorities say that the Toronto firm tendered for the plumbing, heating and electric wiring, and that a cheaper price on the three could be secured by giving this firm the contract than by any combination of other tenders.

CITIZENS WILL

vote on these matters. Citizens in those sections of the city which are already supplied with storm sewers and pavements are apt to be somewhat blind to the needs of other sections. So long as this is not carried to the extent of opposition it does no harm.

L. and P. S. Debentures.

The debenture issue for the L. and P. S., which the railway commission says is necessary, is the next largest issue on which the citizens will be asked to vote. This involves $218,000. This bylaw will likely face a heavy adverse vote. The council refused to submit the matter directly to the people, and insisted that the finance committee should go over the estimates in detail. Until this is done, it is impossible to say just in what form the bylaw will be submitted.

Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the railway commission, said it would be content with $200,000, and would provide the remaining $18,000 from earnings. Mayor Somerville maintained, however, that the full amount should be submitted.

Two one-hundred-thousand-dollar bylaws will be voted on. The first is more in the nature of a plebiscite than authorization of debenture issue. The citizens will be asked to authorize the 1920 council to spend $100,000 on a hall as a soldiers' memorial as soon as definite plans are formulated. There is no doubt that this will carry, as the council was unanimous in passing it. An effort will be made to make the vote of the citizens a unanimous one also.

For Reservoir.

The public utilities commission will ask for a debenture issue of $100,000 to build an additional reservoir at Springbank. The reservoir, when complete, will cost $200,000, and will hold two million gallons. It will be built in two sections, each to contain one million gallons, and to cost $100,000. Only the money for the first section will be requested this year.

With a $600 grant for the Victorian Order of Nurses and grants for other organizations, this makes more than a million dollars on which a vote must be taken.

These are the only ones which are almost certain to come to the people, but there may be others.

For instance it is quite probable that a vote may be taken on the purchase of the street railway, involving a large amount of money. Then it is possible the question of a west end sewage disposal works may be raised. Judging from the cost of the east end disposal plant, this would involve about $200,000.

The board of education is considering an extensive building program and has engaged an architect. Its plans will call for something like $350,000, according to one estimate.

No Estimate Submitted.

The board of education, with other bodies, was asked to submit an estimate of the debenture issue it would require. The request was received with laughter and filed. No estimate has been submitted. If the council follows the course it did last year and refuses to pass the board's estimates, there may be another laugh coming.

Minor extensions in the electrical and waterworks department may involve some $50,000.

Then there is the question of a new city hall. No one knows what this would cost.

The troubles of the voter will not be ended when he gets through with the money bylaws. He will be asked whether he favors guaranteeing the bonds of the London Industrial Association to the extent of $100,000. This is important, although it does not involve the expenditure of money.

His next problem will be to state whether he favors increased fares for the street railway. Interest is likely to centre on this plebiscite, and the vote is expected to be heavy.

Another plebiscite will be on the expenditure of half a mill for playgrounds purposes and another for increasing the appropriation of the parks department 1 one mill. There may also be plebiscite on what should be done with the Federal Square.

Municipal politics are showing indications of being quite as topsy-turvy as were the provincial. This will mean a large number of candidates in the field. The indications are that the average voter will require most of New Year's Day to figure out his ballots.

PRINCE OF WALES

2,500 Police Guard Prince.

More than 2,500 policemen, detectives and federal secret service men lined the streets traversed by the royal visitor yesterday.

Large numbers of plainclothes men were stationed on the roofs of the smaller structures downtown. They were particularly noticeable on the old Astor House and the postoffice, opposite city hall. Similar measures have been adopted only on President Wilson's last two visits here.

The moment the Prince of Wales landed at the Battery he was surrounded by swarms of department of justice agents and local detectives, while hundreds of uniformed men kept the crowds at a distance. As the party moved up Broadway, toward city hall, five agents of the department of justice rode immediately behind the prince in an open car, scanning the faces of the crowds. At the same time hundreds of operatives mingled with the throngs.

STOCK EXCHANGE IS VISITED BY PRINCE, CHEERED BY CROWDS

[By F. G. ALDHAM, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.]

New York, Nov. 19.—Wall street was invaded today by a laughing, determined throng, which gave the policemen a feverish hour in its anxiety to see and cheer the Prince of Wales. The occasion was the latter's visit to the heart of America's commercial world, down the narrow streets of which he came through crowds which left scarcely enough space for his car to pass. The prince was due at Trinity Church at 11 o'clock, and long before that hour the neighborhood was filled with eager people. The chimes of Trinity played "God Save the King" at intervals.

Overhead on many floors of the skyscrapers the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes floated side by side, and when presently the looked-for visitor came down the way paper streamers shot from a thousand windows, directed at the prince's head as if the marksmen would fain establish a link between themselves and him. Business was demoralized when office staffs joined the crowds. Men even left the trading floors to watch and serious-minded businessmen rubbed the street dust from the windows to get a better glimpse.

Nominally the prince was visiting the stock exchange and sub-treasury on Wall street. Actually his reception came from thousands of business people of all ranks, whose business prevents them from attending functions elsewhere, and their reception had the same note of cordiality which distinguished the great society gathering in the opera house last evening when dignity was forgotten and fashionable New York rocked the great building with its welcome. It is significant that today's crowd, composed of workers in the midst of their daily round, was, if anything, more cordial and spontaneous than the one which came out to meet the prince yesterday in holiday mood. The prince's popularity increases hourly, and those who come merely to gaze remain to cheer.

WESTERN "U'S" BULLETIN FILLED WITH INTERESTING AND TIMELY ARTICLES

Advantages of Summer School Courses Are Made Apparent.

The November Bulletin issued by the Western University Summer School Association is filled with interesting material. First of all, it has a leading article on "Higher Standards in Teaching," by Miss H. B. Mitchell, a teacher of the Watford High School, who availed herself of the opportunity afforded by Western last summer, and successfully completed a summer course of study. In this article Miss Mitchell points to the fact that the department of education has raised the standard of teachers in continuation and high schools, so that in the near future none will be eligible save university graduates, and urges the members of the teaching profession in Western Ontario who have not acquired a degree to do so, by means of a summer course.

Will Teach Spanish.

She also points to the fact that Spanish will be on next summer's curriculum at Western, a great opportunity for teachers in high school commercial departments, as the subject was introduced into that department by the department of education in 1918.

The honorary vice-president of the school, Dr. J. D. Barnett, and curator of the Barnett library, also contributes an interesting little article on "Bookshelf Browsing," of this he says:

"It is not so common an offence as to provoke active philistine condemnation, but when it appears it gets discouragement because there is no money in it. The teacher sees no help in it for his pupils to make a higher average in examinations, and to the father it looks like idleness and nothing more; so under such outside pressure it is not surprising that it often seems to the conscience of the youthful student, a waste of time.

Real Value.

"Its good results are not readily statable in any terms of arithmetic, and that which cannot be weighed, measured or counted is not valuable today in the field of science, but, in reality, is potentially much more so."

"College Spirit as a Factor in Building Up a University" is the title of another article written by Dean Sherwood Fox, in which he sounds the modern businessman's slogan, "It pays to advertise," in connection with the university.

Dr. Louis Wood pays tribute in an article to J. A. Morton, police magistrate of Wingham, who has lately turned over his great botanical collection of 3,200 specimens to the Western University.

The bulletin is issued with a view to close contact with each other during the year, and contains an interesting section of personals. The directors of the school include Dr. K. P. R. Neville, honorary president; Dr. J. D. Barnett, honorary vice-president; Rev. S. McDonell, Stratford, president; Mother Ambrose, Chatham, vice-president, and Miss M. McKee, secretary-treasurer.

The Successful.

The successful students at last summer's school are as follows: M. M. Ambrose, English, French and history; Miss Bodkin, biology and physics; Miss Braithwaite, biology; M. M. Dolores, English, Latin and French; S. M. St. Dominic, English, mathematics and physics; Sr. M. Inez, mathematics, French and physics; Miss Logan, biology and French; Miss McKee, biology and physics; Sr. M. Mercedes, mathematics, physics and French; Miss Mitchell, history and French.

WOULD PROHIBIT NIGHT WORK FOR WOMEN IN INDUSTRIAL PLANTS

Special Committee of International Labor Conference to Make Recommendation.

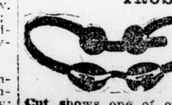

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19. — The children's charter will be followed by proposals to limit the employment of women. A special committee of the International Labor Conference has decided to recommend a new international convention, which will extend the provisions of the Berne convention of 1906, prohibiting night work of women employed in industrial establishments. The new convention follows the terms of the Berne convention in defining night rest as a period of at least eleven consecutive hours, and within these eleven hours shall be comprised the interval between 10 in the evening and 5 in the morning, but in other respects the new convention goes beyond the Berne convention. The Berne convention, for instance, applied only to industrial undertakings in which more than ten people are employed; the new convention applies to all industrial undertakings except those in which only members of the family are employed. In the words of the special committee the new convention "gets rid of the arbitrary distinction by which any woman employed in a factory employing less than ten persons, has been hitherto deprived of the protection of Berne. Such a distinction is at variance with the trend of all modern factory legislation."

PEOPLE WILL ALSO VOTE ON QUESTION OF PAVING STREETS

Approximately $250,000 Is Needed if Storm Sewer Program Carried Out.

FOUR PLANS FOR BRIDGE

Special Committee Reports Incinerator Pay Sheets Satisfactory.

No. 2 committee of the city council, the board of works, last night recommended to the council

That a vote of the people be taken on the issue of $250,000 to extend the storm-sewer systems in preparation for paving;

That a vote of the people be taken on the establishment of a municipal depot for storage of all the city's material at Bathurst and Adelaide streets at a cost of $85,000;

That the new plumbing bylaw be adopted;

That the bylaw for the gravel road on Waterloo street, from Hervard street to Grosvenor street be repealed, and a two-thirds vote of the council be taken on laying of an asphalt pavement.

A special committee was appointed to consider a bonus for Building Inspector A. M. Piper for his work in connection with the housing commission.

Four plans for a new Ridout street bridge were considered, three by City Engineer Brazier, and one by F. G. Engholm of Toronto. This matter will be discussed next Tuesday.

The report of a special committee that incinerator pay sheets are satisfactory was adopted.

Still another debenture issue on which the citizens will be required to vote was recommend to the city council by No. 2 committee last night. Arrangements for paving a number of principal streets have been made, and storm sewers and other such work must be completed first. To do this $250,000 will be required in addition to the remainder of $100,000 which was voted for the work some time ago.

The sections included are Wellington road and High street, $61,600; London South, $51,841; London West, $50,000; William street, $32,560; Maitland street, $25,500; Colborne street north, $44,900; Hamilton road, $44,250; Dundas street, $23,760.

The committee also recommended that the citizens vote on the establishment of a municipal depot adjoining the municipal paving plant at Bathurst and Adelaide streets. Engineer H. A. Brazier estimates this will cost $85,000. The members of the committee were unanimously agreed that this should be established.

At present all the city's watering carts, street cleaning equipment and other material is left exposed to the elements in a vacant lot. There are no proper repair shops or buildings for the storage of construction material. If this plan is adopted brick buildings will be erected for these purposes.

"We ought to spend more on things like this in the city and not so much on the railroad," said Ald. Keene.

"I agree with you," said Ald. Moorhead.

The new plumbing bylaw was considered clause by clause and recommended to the council for adoption.

Preliminary steps were taken to build a new bridge on Ridout street, now known as the Victoria Bridge. Engineer Brazier submitted three estimates. The first, with an 18-foot roadway and a 6-foot sidewalk, was $44,500; the second, with a 24-foot roadway and an 8-foot sidewalk, was $60,000, and the third estimate for a 32-foot roadway with two 6-foot sidewalks was $115,000.

"That is the one we want," said Ald. Drake.

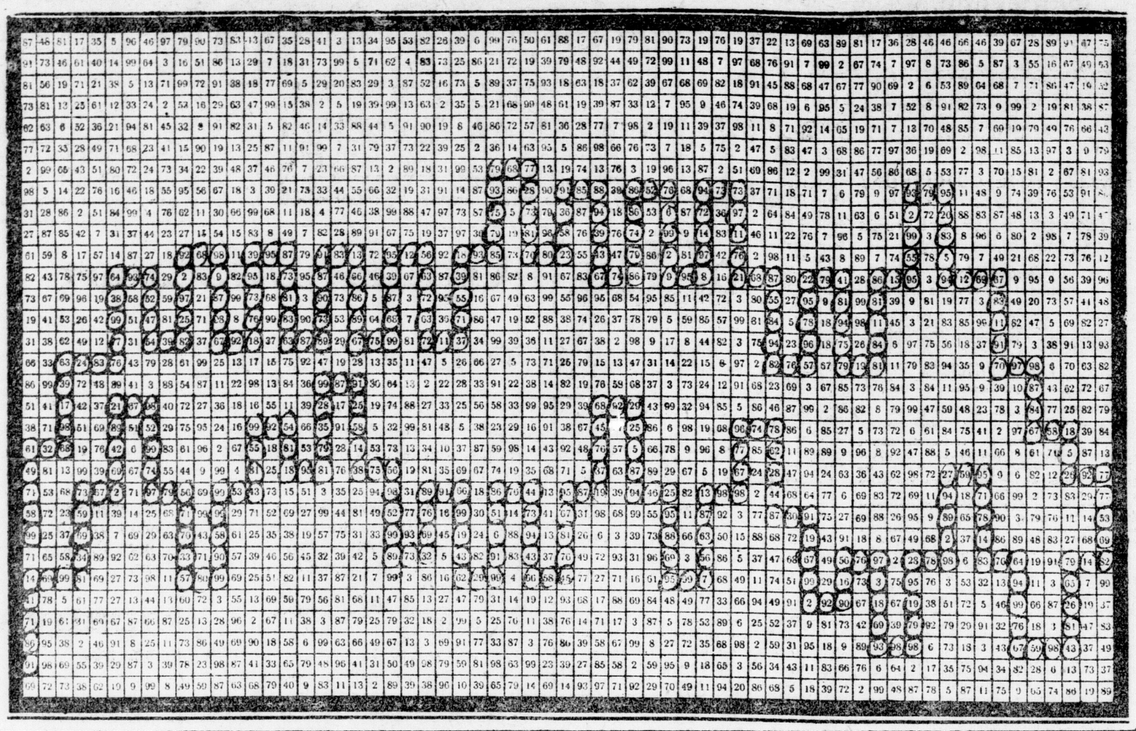

In addition to the bridge a retaining wall for part of the bank connecting with a private breakwater would cost $16,000, it is estimated.

F. G. Engholm of Toronto presented plans of a concrete bridge which he estimated roughly would cost $125,000. He will present definite figures at the next meeting. At last night's meeting he showed the committee colored drawings of the suggested bridge.

A special committee which investigated incinerator pay sheets reported that it was satisfied with conditions. J. Daly, a former employee, claimed he had been discharged by William Lee, a foreman, without any reason being given, and that he had received pay for five hours which he did not work.

It was charged that Mr. Lee could neither read nor write, and reported the hours of labor verbally to another foreman. It was found that the overpayment was for three hours, and not five hours. This has been recovered from three men, and the foreman has promised to refund the remainder. Hereafter all employees will be hired or discharged by the head of the garbage department in person and not through a foreman.

A Woman's Trouble

Stratford, Ont.:—"I do think Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription one of the best medicines I have ever known for the ailments of women. I had for quite a long time been having woman's trouble which caused me to become all run-down, weak and nervous. I doctored but nothing seemed to give me relief until I began taking 'Favorite Prescription.' This medicine gave me such wonderful relief that I am glad to recommend it to others."—MRS. A. A friend who was being helped by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery advised me to try it, too. It helped me from the very start and eventually restored me to perfect health. I feel in a position to praise the 'Golden Medical Discovery' very highly and take pleasure in recommending it to all those who are at all nervous, weak or run-down."—MRS. ESTHER PEATSON.

Dr. Pierce's medicines are made of vegetable growths that nature surely intended for backache, headache, pains, irregularities, and for the many disorders common to women in all ages of life. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is made of lady's slipper root, black cohosh root, unicorn root, blue cohosh root, Oregon grape root and Viburnum. Women who take this standard remedy know that in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription they are getting a safe woman's tonic so good that druggists everywhere sell it in liquid or tablets. It is without alcohol.

HOW THIN PEOPLE CAN INCREASE WEIGHT

With 10 to 30 Pounds of Solid, Healthy Flesh—A New Discovery.

Thin men and women—that big, hearty, filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an open grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation, are sadly out of gear and need reconstruction.

Cut out the foolish foods and funny sawdust diets. Omit the flesh cream rub-ons. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating now and eat with every one of those a single Saltogyn tablet. In two weeks note the difference. Five to eight good, solid pounds of healthy, "stay there" fat should be the net result. Saltogyn charges your weak, stagnant blood with millions of fresh, new, red blood corpuscles—gives the blood the carrying power to deliver every ounce of fat-making material in your food to every part of your body. Saltogyn, too, mixes with your food and prepares it for the blood in easily-assimilated form. Thin people gain all the way from 10 to 25 pounds a month while taking Saltogyn and the new flesh stays put. Saltogyn tablets are a scientific combination of the best flesh-producing elements known to chemistry. They come 40 tablets to a package, are pleasant, harmless and inexpensive, and all druggists sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back.—Advt.

MEN OF WEST FIND S. C. R. ASSISTANCE OF GREATEST VALUE

Hundreds of Veterans Placed in Suitable Positions.

[By Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment Department.]

If any there be who cast doubt upon the value of Western Canada's contribution in manpower to the great war, a glance at the number of veterans who have returned for placement and of those who wear the badge of service throughout every province must bring speedy reassurance.

As conductors on the trains; in the offices of hotels; on the station platforms; in the stores—everywhere, one meets the men who helped finish the war, and following closely along by the steady stream of men back to the west, are the activities of the department of soldiers' civil re-establishment.

A Real Help.

Where the men penetrate, offices of the department are set up to look after their needs, and a very present help in time of such need they have often proved, as one man told.

He enlisted from the middle west, knowing nothing of opportunities farther on, but in returning the fancy struck him to move westward and get into some outdoor industry other than farming. "I had not any notion of applying at an employment office," he said, "in fact I just thought I would strike out on my own.

Found Friends.

"However, I happened to hit a little place a few miles east of Nelson and things were pretty quiet there. I did manage to land an odd job, but nothing steady, and then someone told me that the department of soldiers' civil re-establishment had an office for information and employment at Nelson. Say! I was glad to hear that. I went on, and within a few hours after arrival got placed in a mining centre."

This story is typical of what is being done all along the route, from Halifax to Vancouver, and the spirit of optimism in the western towns and cities, particularly in those districts where the harvest has failed, is an inspiration.

At Medicine Hat 217 men have been placed in employment. Seventeen are training in industries.

Co-operation.

At Lethbridge a good spirit of co-operation exists between local employers and the office of the department of soldiers' civil re-establishment. Through the activities of the official in charge, the civic authorities have pledged themselves to give preference to returned men. In one civic department alone, 14 veterans have been placed. During the first six weeks this office was in operation 22 men were placed for training in industries. Three are taking courses at business college. Two have gone to high school, five are learning vulcanizing, two oxy-acetylene welding, one shoe repairing, one in power house of a local coal mine, one plumbing, one learning bakery and one linotype operating.

PURSE OF GOLD FOR MRS. W. W. HARRISON

Parents of Pupils Express Regret at Her Departure.

An interesting gathering took place in Cronyn Hall yesterday, when the parents of the pupils attending Mrs. W. W. Harrison's school met and presented her with a purse of gold in token of their appreciation of her services. The address was read by Mrs. S. W. Farncomb, which expressed regret at Mrs. Harrison's departure for California. This afternoon the teachers and pupils of the school were entertained at the tea hour by Mrs. A. D. Jordan, "The Grange," South London, Mrs. Harrison again being the guest of honor.

DIES FROM INJURIES.

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 19.—The second death as a result of the slide on the Canadian Pacific Railway at North Bend Sunday afternoon occurred Monday, when Mike Stoke, a sectionman, died at Kamloops Hospital.

CASH REGISTER SALES BREAK ALL RECORDS

All sale records of The National Cash Register Company were broken in October, according to information received by Julius Maddi, local representative of that company.

For the first time cash register sales in the United States and Canada passed the $2,500,000 mark for one month's business.

The remarkable record of last month was not confined to this continent, however. All foreign sales records were completely smashed and a new high mark established that is nearly one-third greater than the best previous month in the history of the company.

Great Britain led all foreign countries in October. The business secured there was more than 500 per cent of what it averaged before the war.

This wonderful business is said to be due to the awakening of merchants in all parts of the world to their need for modern methods and machinery. A great percentage of the sales made were for the latest model machines.

LONDON INSTITUTE OF MUSICAL ART WILL BE OPENED ON WEDNESDAY

The London Institute of Musical Art will be formally opened Wednesday evening, November 26, by Sir Edmund Walker, C. V. O., president of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, and of the Mendelssonn Choir.

The alterations that are being made to the building are well under way, and the school will be opened for registration by next Monday. A large staff of teachers has been engaged to give instruction in the following departments: Pianoforte, organ, vocal, violin, theoretical, dramatic expression, public school music, orchestral instruments, band instruments, choir training, piano pedagogy, vocal normal, string quartet and ensemble, modern languages, classical, national and folk dancing, and the Myers and Fletcher methods for junior students.

In addition to the departments already named, Mr. Jordan is taking over the school for young ladies conducted for so many years by Mrs. W. W. Harrison, which will now be under the management of the London Institute of Musical Art and will be known as the Oakhurst School for Young Ladies. Full courses will be given in the work preparatory to the entrance and matriculation examinations. Students may also take a special commercial course if desired. The school term will commence on Monday, December 1. Pupils may register at any time.

BAPTISTS YET MAY GET BUSY ON BIG MOVEMENT

"Many people have been considering the Baptists out of the game in connection with the big forward movement of the churches in Canada," said Rev. A. C. Bingham to The Advertiser this morning. "But now they seem to be falling into line and forging toward the front. And they may equal or surpass the other denominations in their achievements before the game is over."

Mr. Bingham made this statement to The Advertiser just after he along with the rest of the Baptist ministers in the city had received a communication to attend a meeting in Toronto on Monday and Tuesday of next week, to consider the question of the forward movement.

LAURETTA HAMEL AGAIN UNDER EXAMINATION IN TRAIN ROBBERY CASE

Quebec, Nov. 19.—The inquiry into the case of Lauretta Hamel, who was re-arrested on Monday charged with having received stolen money in connection with the Harlaka train holdup, was begun yesterday afternoon before Mr. Justice Langelier in police court. Lauretta Hamel has already admitted friendly relations with J. Bernardin Proteau, one of the accused bandits, committed for trial, and at the inquiry yesterday, a cabman who drove her and her brother to Lake Beauport some time ago, testified that they had stopped at a point on the road and leaving him waiting, had gone into the woods. When they returned the brother appeared to be carrying a parcel concealed under his coat. Two other cabmen whom the girl had hired, swore she had been spending money lavishly for the past month.

Bill Is Really Mad Because Woman Has Given Him Bad Call

Takes Him To Task For Talk and Leaves No Chance To Reply.

Everyone in The Advertiser office has spent the day ducking. The Poet Bill is in an outrageous humor. Oh, not against The Advertiser, but when Bill is in a temper, everyone suffers. And it's all about a letter arraigning him for one of his innocent little talks which appear every once and a while in this paper. It doesn't matter what the letter was about. Suffice it to say that Bill is mad. He sits around with head bowed into his chest without saying a word, then suddenly at intervals, timed by Bill's own sense of ire, he rises in indignation, and then everyone runs for cover.

"Why couldn't she put her name and address at the end, so that I could have a little confidential talk with her!" he exploded. "Believe me, I'd tell her what I thought! I'm sore enough to eat a rattlesnake or a raw dog and never turn a hair. She says she's going out West. Let me tell you, she may pull off dope like that around here, but she won't be able to pull it off out West or some red skin will get after her. What right has she to walk all over a person's carcass and then light out for the West. She'd better watch out. Lot's of people got drowned once upon a time, just for that very thing. First thing she knows she'll be way up the creek without any paddles.

"And the worst of it is, I'll have to show the 'Old Girl' when I get home," said Bill, relapsing into a melancholy tone again. "Tell you what! I'll give it to her at the back door, so I'll have the whole yard to run around in, and then there won't be any broken furniture. Oh, there'll be a weeping, and wailing and gnashing of teeth when I get home tonight," and he walked disconsolately out of the office.

ONTARIO CROP REPORT

The following is a summary of reports made by agricultural representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

The new fall wheat has a vigorous appearance, although there are a few complaints of injury from the Hessian fly. The acreage is decidedly larger than that of last year. Rye also looks promising.

Roots are nearly all up and sheltered. Middlesex states that turnips are being marketed at prices ranging from 25 cents to 40 cents a bushel, the lower prices being those paid under contract rates. Middlesex reports potatoes being shipped to United States points at $2.15 to $2.25 a bag.

Grey reports that sweet clover seed is selling at from $14 to $15 a bushel, but that sales are slower than they have been.

Live stock are nearly all stabled, and are in fair general condition owing to good fall pastures. Carleton reports many steers having been recently marketed off the grass. A dealer in Prince Edward is sending weekly shipments to Buffalo. The milk supply all over the province has kept up remarkably well for the season. Milch cows are in good demand at from $120 to $200.

Hogs are being steadily marketed, but too many brood sows are going. Prices for bacon hogs at local points have ranged from $15.50 to $16.75 a cwt. Little pigs are selling in Brant at from $8 to $10 a pair.

The marketing of grain has been slow, as much of it will be kept to feed on the farm. Hay and forage is more than sufficient for carrying stock over, but straw stacks are fewer than for years. Hay is selling at from $20 to $30 a ton.

Threshing is practically completed. More fall plowing has been done than for years, although the frost of last week checked the work in some quarters.

Labor on the whole has been sufficient for the demand, but Peel reports that good men are being offered as high as $720 a year with house and garden.

Policemen Are Suspended For Arresting Woman Who Was Ill, Not Drunk

Commission Will Recommend Certain Changes In Department.

Ottawa, Nov. 19.—Sergt.-Major J. Berigan and Sergeant J. Barlow of the Ottawa police force were suspended last evening by Chief Ross, acting upon instructions of the board of police commissioners, at the close of the investigation into the circumstances surrounding the arrest and subsequent detention of the late Mrs. Sarah Maria Shipman, held at the police station yesterday. Mrs. Shipman was taken from a street car and locked up at the police station, the belief being that she was intoxicated. Next morning she was discovered to be seriously ill, and was removed to a hospital, where she died.

It is understood also that the commission will strongly recommend certain changes with regard to the present police station, particularly with regard to the accommodation and treatment of female prisoners.

BOYS' NATURE CLUB HEARS FINE PAPERS

The Boys' Nature Club of the London Public Library met on Tuesday afternoon under the supervision of Miss Hazel Tanner, who organized the club two years ago. The club is composed of boys ranging in years from 9 to 13. Each week the lads in turn give interesting papers or make little speeches on different animals or birds.

To make the club more interesting, the boys all have Indian names by which they are called at these meetings. The meetings are conducted in parliamentary manner.

At yesterday afternoon's meeting, Arthur Hill, known as "Che' geegee Lokh Sis," gave a short paper. Stirling Dundas (Unkwunk) spoke on the woodmouse, and Kenneth Northey (Matwock) read a paper on the barn swallow. McClure Jones gave an interesting description of the fox.

Next Tuesday an opening meeting will be held at 4:30 o'clock, to which the parents are invited. Many of them, will, no doubt be amazed at the clever little speeches which the boys will give.

STOMACH ON A STRIKE

"Pape's Diapepsin" puts Sour, Gassy, Acid Stomachs in order at once!

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sick, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented and turned sour; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food—just eat a tablet or two of Pape's Diapepsin to help neutralize acidity and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless antacid is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs so little at drug stores.

Don't Lose Your Teeth From Riggs Disease

Make Sore, Inflamed, Bleeding Gums Healthy and Teeth Tight With This New Prescription—Instant Relief.

If you have Pyorrhoea or Riggs Disease and your teeth are loosening or if your gums are receding or are sore and tender, inflamed or bleeding, spongy or flabby, or if they discharge pus, do not give up in despair and decide that you must have your teeth pulled and wear a set of false teeth all your life.

A prominent New York dentist has discovered a new prescription—Epithol—which works wonders in just such cases and it is sold here in one-ounce jars by Standard Drug Company, Taylor Drug Company, and other leading druggists on an absolute guarantee that unless it corrects your trouble and makes your gums sound and healthy and teeth tight, the money you paid for it will be refunded.

People who have used Epithol say its action is wonderful. Glen Stiner says: "My gums were sore and badly inflamed. I used Epithol a short time and all soreness has disappeared and my gums are healthy and well." Epithol works quickly. Its promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming diseases of the gums are a revelation to those who try it.—Advt.

NEW YORK EXTENDS TYPICAL AMERICAN WELCOME TO PRINCE

Dense Crowds Cheer Heir To British Throne.

ENTERED AT BATTERY

PRINCE ATTENDS OPERA.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—One of the most brilliant scenes that the Metropolitan Opera House has witnessed was presented tonight at the gala performance given in honor of the Prince of Wales. The great audience, which filled the house, overflowed into the aisles until every available bit of standing room was occupied.

When the prince, accompanied by Viscount Grey, the British ambassador, entered his box in the centre of the horseshoe at 10:15, he received a remarkable ovation. The vast audience rose to its feet, and, turning its back to the stage, applauded for three minutes. The young prince seemed almost embarrassed by the warmth of his reception, but the applause continued until the voice of Caruso, singing a selection from "I Pagliacci," rose above it.

The program consisted of selections from various operas and concluded with a ballet. As the prince left the house he was the recipient of another enthusiastic ovation, which was continued in Broadway, where, in spite of the fact that it was nearly midnight, a large crowd had gathered for a glimpse of the British prince.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(By F. G. Aldham, Canadian Press Staff correspondent.)—In the friendly, eager crowd which lined the streets of New York today for miles to greet the Prince of Wales there must have been several million souls, showing in characteristic American fashion their cordiality toward the heir to the British throne. From the sidewalks a million cheers went up in the course of the long drive, while at every window along the route people hung out to add their note of welcome, throw confetti and wave flags.

The prince's visit to Washington was without demonstration from any but official circles. It remained for New York to show the prince how highly Britain and the British reigning house is held in the esteem of the American people.

Entered by Water.

Coming into New Jersey at the Hudson terminal, the royal party was able to step at once from H. M. S. Renown into the barges, in which the crossing was made to the Battery. Thus the prince came into New York by water, and he was greeted at the Battery by officials of New York, accompanied by soldiers and a guard of honor of marines and bluejackets.

The official welcome over, the prince started uptown through the eager crowd which filled Broadway. The prince was guarded only by motorcycle policeman, who rode beside his car. The orderly throng on the sidewalks left a lane, and the procession of cars traveled slowly uptown, the prince saluting incessantly. Here and there bands were playing the British National Anthem, men in the vicinity bareing their heads in recognition. A hundred feet in the air men and women threw confetti from the windows of skyscrapers, while far up in the sky parachutes released from aerial bombs floated aimlessly, carrying the British and American flags.

Crowds Were Orderly.

In the business district of lower Broadway the crowds were dense, but very orderly. The curb policemen had little to da, and were able to grin goodhumoredly when the paper streamers twined about their feet and shoulders, while uptown on Fifth avenue only the traffic policemen were needed to watch the crowds, which gathered in the shopping district.

Perhaps the biggest crowd of all was the one which gathered and watched the prince put out across the North River to embark on his ship, H. M. S. Renown. It is just three months since he left Halifax, and there was an eager light in the prince's eye as he stepped into the motor barge, which was to carry him a few hundred yards to where the British warship waited, her decks filled with officers and bluejackets drawn up to welcome him home.

MEMBER OF NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE HELD ON A LARCENY CHARGE

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—David W. Sullivan, a member of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, was arrested here today on a charge of larceny. The American Surety Company, which has been working on the case with the district attorney's office, declared in a statement tonight that it believed the arrest would "reveal a number of messenger thefts among downtown brokerage offices totalling at least $500,000."

WHEAT RECEIPTS FROM FARMS SHOW DECREASE

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Wheat receipts from farms for the week ending Nov. 7 amounted to 15,460,000 bushels, a decrease of 3,359,000 from the previous week, the United States Grain Corporation announced here tonight. In the corresponding week in 1918 the receipts were 13,673,000 bushels.

Production of flour for the week totalled 3,209,000 barrels, a decrease from the previous week of 131,000 barrels, but an increase over the corresponding week of last year of 1,015,000.

BULGARIAN TREATY TO BE SIGNED ON NOV. 27

PARIS, Nov. 18.—(Havas).—The Bulgarian peace treaty will be signed on Thursday, Nov. 27, the supreme council decided today. The signing will take place in the city hall at Neuilly.

PARTY LEADERS IN U. S. SENATE TO COMPROMISE

FINAL VOTE THURSDAY

Friends of Treaty Believe It Has an Even Chance For Life.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 18.—At 10:15 o'clock tonight the vice-president declared the treaty closed to further reservation or amendments and the Senate adjourned until noon tomorrow, when the ratification resolution will be taken up.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 18. — Compromise moves to rescue the peace treaty from a threatened deadlock made such progress today that its friends declared it had more than an even chance for life.

So far as it had taken definite form tonight the program called for a final vote Thursday and pointed toward acceptance of reservations of the foreign relations committee without the requirement that they must be assented to affirmatively by the other powers.

The way to compromise was opened by the group of mild reservation Republicans, who served notice on the Republican and Democratic leaders that they would not put up the bars entirely to modification of the committee reservations, but would stand out against and defeat the administration's parliamentary program.

Cards on Table.

With this final announcement of how their deciding strength would be used in the closing stages of the treaty contest, the mild reservationists retired to the background. The result was that Republican Leader Lodge and Democratic Leader Hitchcock faced each other and laid all their cards on the table.

The conference between the two leaders brought no final decision as to the language of a compromise ratification, but it did develop an agreement that the Democrats would have the opportunity for which they had fought to secure a showdown vote on the question of unreserved ratification.

This vote, Mr. Lodge said, would be permitted before the roll call on the committee resolution.

Lodge Insistent.

Another result of the conference was submission to Mr. Lodge tonight of a group of proposed compromise reservations with a view to making enough modification in the committee program already approved by the Senate majority to enable the Democrats to support the committee resolution on ratification. On this point Senator Lodge was said to be insistent, as he desired all compromise efforts to be made before the vote came on the committee measure.

Meantime in the Senate two more reservations were added to the thirteen already adopted. The mild reservationists supported them as the final qualifications which they would help to write into the treaty, but the Senate extended its session far into the evening, voting down numerous other proposals in an effort to clear the way before adjournment for work tomorrow on the ratification resolution itself.

The two reservations adopted today related to the labor provision in Part Thirteen of the treaty and to voting equality in the league of nations. They follow:

The Reservations.

"The United States withholds its assent to Part XIII (Articles 387 to 427 inclusive) of said treaty unless Congress, by act or joint resolution, shall hereafter make provision for representation in the organization established by said Part XIII., and in such event the participation of the United States will be governed and conditioned by the provisions of such act or joint resolution.

"The United States assumes no obligation to be bound by any election, decision, report or finding of the council or assembly in which any member of the league and its self-governing dominions, colonies or parts of empire, in the aggregate, have cast more than one vote, and assumes no obligation to be bound by any decision, report or finding of the council or assembly arising out of any dispute between the United States and any member of the league if such member, or any self-governing dominion, colony, empire or part of empire united with it politically has voted."

Substitute Rejected.

The labor qualification was offered by Senator McCumber, Republican of North Dakota, and was accepted, 54 to 35, with nine Democrats supporting it. A proposed substitute by Senator King, Democrat of Utah, which would have excluded the United States unconditionally from the labor provisions, was rejected 48 to 43, the mild Republicans joining the administration senators to override the votes of the irreconcilables and nine Democrats. The proposal relating to voting equality, presented by Senator Lenroot, Republican of Wisconsin, won by 55 to 38, on a motion to substitute it for a less sweeping proposal by Senator McCumber. It then was formally adopted without a roll call.

Previously a reservation on the same subject by Senator Johnson, Republican of California, had been rejected, 46 to 43, with eight Democrats voting for it and the mild reservationists lining up solidly in opposition.

How It Started.

The wheels of compromise were started revolving by the mild reservation Republicans early in the day when they held a conference and decided on these propositions:

That if the Democrats voted down the committee resolution of ratification they would support a motion to reconsider, thus bringing the resolution back before the Senate for changes;

That they would not support a motion to sustain the chair in any ruling bearing out the administration's plan for a separate resolution of ratification after the committee proposal had been defeated;

That they were willing to see some modification of the preamble reservation requiring the affirmative assent of other nations to the Senate's qualifications;

That any further compromise negotiations by the Democrats must be conducted, not with them, but with the Republican leaders.

Informed Leaders.

Of these decisions they informed Senators Hitchcock and Lodge, with the added advice to the former to move today for any compromise he hoped to secure. The conference between the Democratic and Republican leaders, at which an earnest effort at compromise was understood to have been made, followed almost immediately.

Senator Lodge was said to have pressed for quick action and to have been particularly insistent that the Democratic leader's counter-proposals be in his hands tonight, so that a compromise could be worked out before the committee resolution came to a vote. The exact nature of these proposals was not revealed, but they were understood to have been aimed particularly at the preamble requirement, to which President Wilson objected vigorously at his White House conference Monday with Senator Hitchcock.

Wilson's Letter.

How the president would regard the committee reservations with the preamble stricken out also was uncertain, but it was learned that he had written a letter to Senator Hitchcock which the latter will lay before a conference of Democratic senators tomorrow morning. Time for such a meeting was granted by Senator Lodge, who assented to Mr. Hitchcock's request that the Senate should not meet until noon.

The modification plan of the Democrats is understood to make it possible for the other powers to accept the reservations by mere "acquiescence," rather than by a specific exchange of notes. The practical result would be, it was said, to provide for tacit acceptance which could be taken for granted unless the other nations protested.

Formally Reported.

At 9 o'clock tonight, after the Senate had been in continuous session for eleven hours, consideration of amendments in committee of the whole was completed and the treaty was formally reported to the Senate.

The question of approving the fifteen reservations adopted in committee of the whole then was taken up, each reservation being considered separately. An effort by Senator Hitchcock to strike out the preamble requirement for acceptances by other nations was voted down, 45 to 36, the Republicans opposing it solidly except for Senator McCumber of North Dakota.

The Senate without a roll call then agreed to all of the fifteen reservations except those relating to mandatory domestic questions and the economic boycott. Separate votes were taken on these three reservations.

The domestic questions and boycott reservations were agreed to without a roll call after the Senate had eliminated from the former an amendment offered by Senator Hale (Republican, Maine), and adopted in committee of the whole, declaring that the United States reserved exclusive jurisdiction over the question of its boundaries. The amendment was stricken out on motion of Senator Lodge, who said that after mature consideration he believed it went too far.

SENTENCE OF DEATH IS COMMUTED BY GOV.-GEN. TO LIFE IMPRISONMENT

EDMONTON, Nov. 18. — Frank Sweenidowsky, convicted of murder at Grand Prairie and sentenced to death by Mr. Justice Walsh last August, will not expiate his crime upon the gallows. The sentence has been commuted to one of life inprisonment by the governor-general of Canada, according to a telegram received by Sheriff Rae from the department of justice at Ottawa. The trial took place at Grand Prairie last August, when Sweenidowsky was convicted of the murder of a man named Winnie Chuck. The case aroused unusual interest at the time inasmuch as it was the first case in the west, and one of the first in Canada, in which the police secured a conviction without producing the body of the victim.

After a close examination by Chief Detective Nicholson, Sweenidowsky confessed to the killing, and declared that he had thrown the corpse into the river. The body of Winnie Chuck was never recovered.

ST. MARYS MEMORIAL BYLAW IS PASSED

ST. MARYS, Nov. 18.—At the meeting of the town council Monday evening a written request was presented by the clerk from the Municipal Hydro-Electric Radial Railway Association to pass a resolution to appoint Sir Adam Beck permanent chairman of the hydro-electric power commission. Mayor Dale stated that, as the new U. F. O. Government had not yet declared its policy regarding hydro power, the resolution should be filed.

The council confirmed the passing of the soldiers' memorial bylaw to borrow $6,000 to procure and erect the same. Several applications were received for the contract for the monument. Some surrounding townships wish to join with St. Marys in the project. They would get something more substantial than a $6,000 memorial monument. The several committees reported an expenditure of $6,651.52.

Victory bond sales have reached over the half-million mark and are more than double the first objective, $250,000. St. Mary's record has beaten many towns and cities, not only in Ontario but all over the Dominion of Canada.

Any Starr Is a Starr Worth Having---

When you visit our salesrooms and hear the wonderful effect produced from records when played on our phonographs, you will say, "I must get a Starr, and get that 'TONE'."

Don't be satisfied with any phonograph, even though it LOOKS like a Starr, because—unless it's really a Starr—you cannot possibly get that TONE. There is none to compare with the sweet, mellow tone produced through the sole use of silver-grained spruce for the singing throat, tone chamber and sound horn.

$5000 to your family

Desperate financial straits need not overwhelm you while you have a Canada Life policy because—

The policy provides a fund for emergencies. It also means independence in old age.

Accident or disease which may totally and permanently disable you need not mean that your income ceases because—

The Canada Life will pay you a monthly indemnity while you live.

Special Indemnity Policy

This policy, issued by the Canada Life will pay you

$50.00 a Month

or more during your lifetime, if before you reach age 60 you should become totally and permanently disabled, and will also pay or more to your family at your death, without any deduction whatever on account of the monthly payments made to you.

Five Thousand Dollars

Consider This :

Total disability would be worse for your family and your business financially than loss of life because, while your income would be reduced or stopped altogether, your expenses would go on just the same.

That is when a Special Indemnity Policy comes to your assistance.

If totally disabled you cannot earn premiums, so the premiums will be waived.

The policy will give you financial aid through a Monthly Indemnity which will continue as long as you live.

The policy will continue in force, paying the monthly cheque, earning dividends, increasing in cash value, and providing insurance of $5,000 for protection of your home.

A BUMP FOR DE VALERA.

The people of the United States are growing weary of De Valera, the long-distance champion of the "Irish Republic." Probably a major part of the American people long since realized the grotesqueness in a leader of a rebel organization that during the war entered into a conspiracy with Germany, seeking financial and moral assistance from a nation that was fighting the Huns, but it remained for the Pacific coast American to bring this feeling to a head by publicly expressing disapproval. At Portland, Ore., returned American soldiers compelled De Valera to remove the rebel flag from his automobile, and the mayor announced that he would not recognize De Valera as the representative of the "Irish Republic."

The real friends of Ireland in this country and the United States will never throw in with an organization guilty of such outrages as the Sinn Fein. That is the lesson in the Portland incident. If there are any level-headed members of the "Republic" executive left, they had better recall De Valera, abandon their foolish methods, and seek a solution of the Irish question along constitutional lines. They will never have hearty or substantial support from this side of the Atlantic until they do.

L. AND P. S. EXPENDITURE.

Sir Adam Beck's request for $218,000 for what he considers necessary work on the London and Port Stanley road, has been sent to the finance committee of the city council for consideration. The public expects that the matter will be given the closest thought by No. 1 committee before submitting a report to the council. This heavy expenditure is not a matter to be lightly disposed of. Just now it is well to go slow. Economy should be the ruling motive in matters such as this at any time, but especially at the present hour should prudence prevail, and there does not appear to be any necessity for piling this large sum on the already heavy debt the people's road is carrying. Even Sir Adam's organ in this city, which usually performs according as he orders, wants to know why the improvements cannot be made out of the company's boasted "surpluses." Furthermore, as the mayor points out, this city gets nothing directly out of the expenditure, if it is approved by the people. Sir Adam promises a real station when the Grand Trunk is electrified, it is true, but that is too remote a possibility to satisfy. It may be a decade before we get around to that.

The taxpayer is carrying heavy burdens just now, and will not approve this expenditure unless a better case can be made for it than that presented by Sir Adam. There can be no objection to any expenditure that would add to the road's safety, but the other purposes for which the money is asked are not vitally necessary. This, we think, will be the opinion reached by the committee.

LABOR IN POLITICS.

A Red advocating "direct action" was thrown out of a Labor meeting in Toronto the other day. Evidently Labor grows impatient of Bolshevistic nonsense. The success of the U. F. O. in the late elections and the measure of success achieved by the Labor party itself must be convincing thoughtful workingmen of the possibilities in political effort. "Nothing succeeds like success." The ballot is seen to be a better way than either the bullet or the bolt.

Fundamentally, what Labor is after these days is a fairer distribution of production and a fairer incidence of taxation. It is a question whether the cry for shorter hours does not really mean a drive for more pay via the overtime extras. The worker has been inclined to regard the strike, of late a large or even general strike, as the quickest means of securing the fairer distribution desired. But he has begun to see that it does not work out. Organized capital pushes up the scale of prices and there you are. Some few of the hotter heads began to agitate for the O. B. U., the seizing of government through pressure of huge general strikes, or even a bloody revolution. But the weight of Canadian and American common sense has made itself felt of late, the crushing costliness of huge strikes to all concerned and their failure to bring us nearer the goal of fairer distribution and more equal opportunity have been realized, and in Ontario the election has suddenly opened up to Labor a share in directly governing the province. If in Great Britain large income taxes and death duties on the rich may be laid partly to the active strength of the Labor party, how much more then may be expected of an at least partly Labor government?

With the reins of power in their hands at Toronto, and still more at Ottawa, if it so comes about, what strides may not the Farmer-Labor combination take towards the regulation of cost of living, the equalization of conditions and a modern system of taxation? Labor opens its eyes to the new line of advance and wonders that it did not sooner imitate the shrewd political course of Labor in Great Britain, but waited for the U. F. O. to show the true way of self-help.

There is in the very exercise of political power a training in discipline and prudence that will have an educative influence on the whole body of workingmen behind their representatives. In Great Britain participation in politics has stimulated the workingman's desire for education, and the Workmen's Educational Association was the important and magnificent result. Advance in general education then reacted in its turn on the calibre of Labor's politics, producing the dignity that goes with solid information. The leaders of Labor's party in Great Britain are masters of politics and diplomacy, and many of them effective orators. Doing begets knowing and knowing makes perfect doing. Canadian Labor is going right past the pit of Bolshevism to try the highway of political power along constitutional lines, and the unions instead of being the ganglia of conspiracy and insurrection, as some agitators were hoping, will be the machinery of political organization.

A FINE ACHIEVEMENT.

The Victory Loan has gone over the objective set by the Government to a total of 673 millions. This is an over-subscription of more than 100 per cent, and is a splendid achievement. It demonstrates that Canada intends to hold her head high amongst the nations in matters of industry and commerce, just as she did when being tried in the crucible of the war. By the success of the loan trade should be greatly stimulated, finance generally become more stabilized, and industrial affairs given a great impetus. It will clean off the slate stupendous obligations incurred by demobilization, and will enable the country to secure by credits a great export trade.

A good deal will, of course, depend on how the Government disburses the money. The present Government has been grossly extravagant along many lines, and it is certain the people will not tolerate reckless, ill-considered spending of the loan. The nation has turned over to the Government an enormous sum of money to be utilized in meeting the country's honorable debts, and in re-establishing trade that was dislocated by the war, and it will insist upon the most rigid economy by the present administration or its successor.

THE UNION OF RACES.

[Edmonton Journal.]

The hope expressed by the Prince of Wales at Montreal that there would be a steady growth of a "mutual understanding between the English-speaking and the French-speaking sections of the Canadian nation," is one that has been long entertained by all who love this country and wish to see it realize its immense possibilities. The lesson which the prince drew from British history cannot be too often impressed. The British nation is the result of a union of those of most varied racial antecedents. The unifying process which is going on in Canada is no new thing; it has been repeated over and over again in past centuries over the sea. British national life owes its strength very largely to it. If in the old days, when communications between groups of a country's population were so imperfect as compared with what they are at present, this process could go on steadily to completion, what reason is there for being pessimistic as to the outcome here and now?

DOGS IN THE WAR.

[Boston Herald.]

From Aesop to La Fontaine and onward the fabulist has found it easy to make animals talk. It is a far greater achievement to train they into behavior so nearly human that the story of it reads as if men were being described. This feat is accomplished by Lieut.-Col. Richardson in his absorbing account of the contribution made by British dogs to the winning of the war. The work began with a gathering-in, literally a mobilization, of animals from all parts of England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales. Once on the western front the recruits went into camp, and were initiated into conditions closly resembling those which would have to be met.

The dogs had to cross streams, find their way through acres of barbed wire, brave smoke barrages and face the most tremendous rifle and gun fire without flinching. Prepared at last, they were distributed to various stations for service and put under the care of keepers. The average time shown by these four-footed runners was found to be from half to one-third of that taken by a man, and at night still less. The human messengers often returned cut and bleeding from barbed wire and other obstacles; the dogs, with few exceptions, came through safely and without delay.

There was a standing rule against holding up a dog on the way, for most of the animals liked to be called and patted. But the training brought out a growing sense of right and wrong such as increased the dog's unwillingness to stop in his run; even when he did linger he would generally make good by increasing his pace after starting again. "It is amusing," says Col. Richardson, "to come across two or three dogs at a point some distance from home. They are going back with their messages, and are keeping up a steady lope, generally led by the best dog. Suddenly something will attract one of them, and they may even all stop for a minute. But the dog that knows its work best will not long tolerate delay, and it soon trots off, and now sets the pace at a gallop, which the others are bound to follow." One dog, known as Boxer, who had been tempted to linger over a carcase, showed on reaching his kennel all the evidences of wrong-doing, but after that experience "rose quickly above the temptations of the flesh." "Released at 5 p.m., with an important message," says his keeper, "he jumped at me at 5:25. A tip-top performance of about four miles. A great dog!"

A few of the animals were caught by shrapnel, but no dog left his route merely because he was hit; a few came in with their messages only to die of their wounds. Dick, a black retriever, was hurt severely in back and shoulder, yet "through all his sufferings he carried out his duties cheerfully and most faithfully until overtaken by death." The collie Nell "developed wonderful intelligence and saved hundreds of lives." When the 18th Division was cut off, Tweed, a Highland sheep dog, was sent with a message for reinforcements and ammunition; he came through a boche barrage three kilometres in ten minutes, and saved Amiens from falling into the hands of the Germans. Jim, a cross-bred retriever, covering distances up to 4½ miles three or four times faster than a man, carried dispatches under terrific and heavy shell fire, which no human runner could have survived.

Creamy, a cross-bred lurcher, saved the Third Londoners from being cut off in front of Villers Bretonneux. When Paddy delivered his message it was found that he had been badly gassed and was totally blind, but in three hours he "had his eyes open and was as lively as ever." And what a keeper said of Joe was practically true of all the dogs: "He is worth his weight in gold. The dog can always be relied on." These are only samples taken from scores of cases. The animals showed all the qualities of the trained soldier—amenableness to discipline, devotion to duty, courage of the highest kind, patience in suffering, and the will to "carry on," even when wounded. If we can admire such qualities in dogs, we should admire them all the more in men.

THE TOTEM-POLES.

[Minna Irving, in the New York Times.]

Far in the frozen north where glow
Auroral lights upon the snow,
Carven with picture-tales of beast
And bird and beast and vanquished foe,
Before the council-houses old,
Beneath the bleak and stormy skies,
Crude, faithful records of the race,
The warriors' totem-poles arise.

Where cornflowers imitate the blue
Of cloudless noons, and poppies burn,
And larks like singing spirits soar,
And crickets pipe in beds of fern,
The crosses of the Allied dead,
Like phantom soldiers gaunt and pale,
Stand at attention on the hill
And sentinel the lonely vale.

Bearing initials rudely cut,
Topped with a helmet or a tag,
They mark the dust of those who died
For God and country and the flag.
Rough, humble monuments of wood,
But bare the head and bend the knee—
Lo! they are epics of the war,
The totem-poles of Liberty.

A SOLAR TITAN.

Canopus, the giant of the solar system, is, according to a recent calculation, 49,000 times as bright as the sun. Its diameter is 134 times that of the sun; it is 18,000 times larger in surface, and 2,420,000 times larger in volume. The distance of it from the earth, according to this calculation, is 489 light years.

"Suppose," says another authority, "that instead of being at this enormous distance it were placed in the centre of the solar system, in lieu of the sun. It would then occupy .85 of the space lying within the orbit of Venus, and as seen from the earth would subtend an angle of about 70 degrees of arc. Thus, when its lower limb was on our horizon, its upper would be within 20 degrees of the zenith. Needless to say, no life could exist on earth with such a neighbor."

OCTOBER IN LONDON.

[Manchester Guardian.]

Spring, perhaps, for the country, but October is the time for London. This October has been peculiarly kind, and some of the mornings have given to the city tones of wistful beauty that let the ordinary man into some of the secrets of its greatest lovers. It is strange, before the sun has become strong enough to turn the mists away, to see the traffic of waking life throbbing through streets that belong to dreams. Down long, straight streets are vistas close in tones of melting purple, above which towers and domes and pinnacles float like unsubstantial things touched to a misty whiteness. On the river in the hours when London is flooding across the bridges to its work, the boats and barges, mysterious shapes on a mysterious tide, might belong to any age or any country. They have no definition or intent, but give one the satisfaction of believing that for a fleeting moment one has seen what Whistler found it always so easy to see.

FIRST MACHINE INVENTED.

The first of all inventions, according to the mechanicians, is the potter's wheel, that revolving disk upon which the clay is placed to be molded by the skillful fingers of the potter, instead of turning and twisting the pot in his hands.

The first man set down as a great inventor is Archimedes, that wise old Greek mathematician who lived in Syracuse (not New York) after 287 B. C. He was more or less ashamed of his inventions, calling them amusements of leisure hours, unworthy of the philosopher and pure mathematician. Yet it is stated that he made some forty mechanical inventions, of enormous practical value to humanity. Among these are the endless screw, combinations of pulleys, an hydraulic organ, a machine called the helix, or screw for launching ships, and a machine called loculus, which appears to have consisted of forty pieces, which was used by the boys of his time for remembering what they should.

The story of how Archimedes discovered a way to prove the difference between the specific gravity of metals is well known, for it will be remembered that when taking a bath he noticed how the water rose in the tub when he stepped into it. Remembering that gold occupied less space than silver, weight for weight, he was then able to demonstrate to Hiero, Prince of Syracuse, how a goldsmith had cheated him by putting alloy into the gold of which a crown had been made, and thereby gained the patronage of the prince. This was the occasion when in the enthusiasm of his discovery, and absent-minded of scholarship, he rushed from the bath-house to his home, crying as he ran unclothed through the streets, "Eureka, Eureka," the Greek for "I have found it out."

The endless screw is still called after Archimedes, for he invented it to pump the water from the holds of vessels, and has not been improved upon since. It is a long spiral, the lower extremity running down into the water, and as it is turned the water is lifted, flowing out at the top. It is really a development of this Archimedean screw, reversed in action, which is seen in the propellers of modern steamships.

WINNING THE LAST BATTLE.

[Vancouver Sun.]

When all is said and done, Admiral Jellicoe, who will be in Burrard Inlet, on board the New Zealand, in a few days, won the greatest sea battle in the world's history. The Battle of Jutland and its strategy, for which Jellicoe was responsible, has been much criticised, chiefly because the whole German navy had not been destroyed or captured according to strict Nelsonian traditions. Nevertheless, it was the decisive battle on water, which proved not only Great Britain's invincibility, but it was also the final sea battle which broke the heart of German sea power.

There were many minor encounters between British and German naval forces during the course of the war. But there were three sea fights between the fleets of the two countries which were, in their peculiar way, decisive actions. These were the battles between Cradock's fleet and Von Spee's, when the Germans won; the subsequent encounter between Von Spee's fleet and Admiral Sturdee's, when the British were conquerors; and the Battle of Jutland, when Admiral Jellicoe (with Admiral Beatty) won the decisive sea battle of the war.

Win the Last Battle.

It was once said by a noted Frenchman that the British always lose the first battle and win the last. He was referring then, chiefly, to the Napoleonic wars. And he had in his mind's eye, particularly, Wellington's battles and retreats in the Peninsular campaign, culminating as they eventually did in the British victory at Waterloo.

The whole course of the great war proved the soundness of that thesis. Not only on the battle front on land, but also on the sea front, from the beginning to the end of the war, British endurance triumphed.

In the first of these sea fights referred to, the British fleet, outnumbered and outgunned, went down to defeat. In the two subsequent sea encounters Britannia won at the finish, and completely cleared the seven seas from above-water craft, and in time, the undersea pirates were held and conquered.

When Sir Christopher Cradock's fleet of one battleship, three cruisers and one armed merchantman were defeated off Coronel, on the coast of Chile, he was met by newer, faster and better-armed German vessels. Instead of taking the German vessels by surprise, he was out-manoeuvred and out-gunned by the heavier armored German cruisers.

Clearing the Seas.

But Von Spee's victory was short-lived, for a couple of months later, Admiral Sturdee's British fleet met Von Spee's ships off the Falkland Islands and sank the whole "bag of tricks," four of the German cruisers going down to Davy's locker.

From that time onward, until the final Battle of Jutland, the German vessels disappeared from the face of the waters, preferring to wage a submarine warfare against defenceless cargo and passenger boats. And when the Germans did make a final effort to retrieve their naval fortunes, it was Admiral Jellicoe who beat them and drove them back to their harbor holes and lairs on the German coast.

We should not forget that, after all, it was the British fleet, with its Jellicoes, Beattys, Sturdees and all the seamen who fought with them, who "paved the way" to final victory.

By R. Ray Baker.

Gary Hazard, dramatic critic of the Morning Star, scowled into the cloud of tobacco smoke for which his long curve-stemmed pipe was responsible.

"No use," he sighed, as he tore a sheet from his typewriter and cast it into the waste basket. "I simply can't make that girl out a good vaudevillist. She's wonderful to look at, but when they put her on the vaudeville stage they spoiled a fine wife."

His face took on a little smile as he sat there at his desk in the editorial room. He was in a hurry to finish his criticism, or rather the printers were in a hurry to get it so they could close up the theatrical page. But somehow he just couldn't seem to go on with his work.

All about him was noise. Typewriters vied with telegraph instruments in a contest of sound, and every now and then the linotypes would chip in with their musical tinkle-tinkle whenever someone opened the door to the composing-room.

The city editor was roaring into a telephone, repeating for the fifth time the words: "I didn't get that last name, will you please spell it?" The state editor was howling into another phone and the telegraph and news editors were arguing rather loudly over the size of a head for the League of Nations story.

In the midst of this apparent confusion Gary sat at his machine and dreamed about the girl he had seen an hour and a half ago on the Empress vaudeville stage.

Gary did not try to delude himself. He realized he was in love with the girl; had renounced possession of his heart the moment she skipped onto the stage, and the worse her act became as it progressed the more deeply Gary became enmeshed in her charms. The girl fitted the mental picture of his ideal in features, height, gesture and voice. And yet her act was absolutely impossible.

That was why Gary's hands lingered on the keys of his typewriter. He could not bear to give his honest opinion as to Mildred Harrison's act—"Mildred Harrison in a Whirlwind of Song, Dance and Merriment." Twice he started to write complimentary words, and once he thought seriously of omitting mention of her in his review, but quickly changed his mind when he realized the omission would be more noticeable than a few words of adverse criticism. As to the compliments that he wanted to write and which he knew her act did not deserve—well, he simply couldn't write a lie. He knew, and everybody else at the theatre that evening knew, that Mildred Harrison was a failure on the vaudeville stage, as was evidenced by the tittering heard during the would-be serious moments of her program and the silence or forced "haw, haw, haw" when she endeavored to be witty.

"How did they ever let her on the stage?" he asked himself. "Surely she must have had a big pull with the powers that be."

Well, it was inevitable. He was paid money to give his honest opinion as to the acts on the bill and he owed it to his paper and also to the theatregoing public to do just that. Besides, he would be doing the girl a favor by telling her in print that she was a failure behind the footlights. So finally he wrote:

"Miss Mildred Harrison is a very attractive girl, with an entrancing personality, but when it comes to vaudeville—Dear Miss Harrison, may it not be suggested that you try some other means of earning a living? As a vaudevillist, Miss Harrison, you are not—well, you would make some young man a wonderful wife."

Gary finished his criticism and handed it to the city editor, through whose hands it must pass. Then he went back to his machine.

"I've killed that girl as far as her stage career is concerned," he sighed. "Her job expires tomorrow morning—there's no doubt of that, because vaudeville fans take the Star as their Bible."

He inserted a sheet of paper in the typewriter.

"And it also ends my job. After this I'm through. People may think it's fun slamming stage folk, but it isn't. It's better to be one."

He wrote his resignation, to take effect in two weeks, and went home to bed. The next evening he went to the office early, and was greeted by the managing editor, who informed him coldly that his resignation was to take immediate effect as his position already had been filled.

Now Gary was a vaudevillist himself. Two years before he had been popular on the stage, and had quit the game only because he had grown tired of the constant hopping from one town to another. There was a standing offer for his services right now, however, and he at once wired to the booking office—and received a favorable reply.

Gary was a good newspaper man, but he was a better stage performer, and within a year he had recaptured the old halo of popularity that once had adorned his head. His was a single act, with songs, monologue and sleight-of-hand, and the house was sure to shake with applause every time he appeared.

A year after severing his connection with the newspaper world, Gary came back to the old town to be featured as the headliners at the Empress. The papers acclaimed him as a "local boy who has made good," and the Star even went so far as to speak of him as a "product of this office," and run a full page with pictures of him, along with photographs of his old desk and the machine on which he used to pound out criticisms of other actors.

The evening subsequent to his first appearance at the Empress he went to the Star office to renew acquaintanceships. The managing editor greeted him affably and an impromptu reception was held in the editorial room.

"By the way," he remarked to the city editor, "I'd like to meet your dramatic critic. He certainly did give me a bang up write up in this morning's Star, and I want to thank him. I remember the last criticism I wrote. It was not so complimentary to some members of the bill."

The city editor filled his pipe, gave out assignments to two reporters, answered three phone calls, borrowed a match and said:

"It happens that the 'he' you speak of is a girl. The funny part of it is that she's a former actress, the same as you're a former critic. She's not here just now, but she'll be on hand soon."

Presently the young lady arrived and was introduced to the Empress headliner. Gary had the shock of his life when he saw her, for she was none other than Mildred Harrison, the girl he had loved and had criticized—the cause of his cutting loose from the newspaper world.

"I'm glad to meet you," she told him, her eyes sparkling with more than sincerity. "You know, I was once on the stage myself. I tried to make an actress of myself, but it was useless, and it remained for the dramatic critic on this very paper in this very town to show me the error of my ways. I owe that critic untold gratitude, especially since he was kind enough to resign and leave open the only job I could fill on a newspaper. My stage experience was a fizzle, but it fitted me to be a critic of others."

"I am very glad to meet you, too," he replied just as sincerely; "so glad that I am going to ask if may not see you after the show tonight. My act is near the last, and I presume you will be attending some other performance. If I may call for you there——"

He did, and they made their way to a quiet little restaurant, where they engaged in some serious conversation over a light lunch.

They talked in subdued tones, but they were desperately in earnest, as any one with half an eye could have seen. Let us eavesdrop just a moment. We will drop into a chair at a nearby table just as he remarks:

"Is'nt it strange that I should fall in love with you the moment I saw you on the stage, and that you——"

"And that I," she flushed, "should fall in love with you the moment I saw you on the stage, in the same theatre a year later?"

He sipped his coffee.

"Well, it simply shows that I am a prophet. Didn't I tell you a year ago that you would make a wonderful wife"

To Look Young Quickly For Special Occasions

How often have you fussed and puttered with your face on the eve of some important social event when you wanted to look your prettiest, and try what you would you just couldn't get the desired result! Next time your face becomes unruly, exhibiting a careworn and saggy appearance, and criss-crossed with fine lines, here's something that will quickly transform it into one of youthful freshness.

Just get an ounce of powdered saxolite at your druggist's, mix this with about a half-pint of witch hazel, and bathe your face in the solution for two or three minutes. Immediately after you feel a "firming up" of the skin and underlying tissue, which naturally irons out the little wrinkles, worry marks and flabbiness. The contour and general appearance of your face are so improved, you will be glad you heard of this simple and harmless method.—Advt.

Supreme in open competition

Gold Medals at Quebec Provincial Fair are both awarded to Gerhard Heintzman for piano excellence and phonograph tone

THE year 1919 sees The Gerhard Heintzman piano still stamped by the critics as Canada's Greatest Piano.

As far back as 1881 The Gerhard Heintzman was awarded the two medals granted by the Canadian National Exhibition for "superior quality of tone," and for "excellent design and finish."

Then again in 1882 this nationally-famous piano was given the medal for quality of tone in the National Exhibition, in open competition with every maker of piano.

This was the last time a medal was offered at the Canadian National Exhibition. Thirty-seven years have rolled by and along comes the Quebec Provincial Fair. Practically every well known make of piano is represented.

The Gold Medal for all round excellence again goes to The Gerhard Heintzman!

But, more convincing still—like its predecessor—the Gerhard Heintzman phonograph was awarded the Gold Medal for excellence of design and TONE!

The same men whose skill and study for over half-a-century made the Gerhard Heintzman Piano one of the few great pianos of the world, also make the Gerhard Heintzman phonograph.

And by that same token make a better phonograph.

Piano-craftsmanship is stamped on this supreme phonograph at every point. The tone-throat is of piano sounding-board spruce, cushioned to prevent loss of vibration. The design and lustrous finish of the cabinets is such that only piano-case artisans could attain.

And, just as the Gerhard Heintzman piano has many exclusive features, so has this wonderful phonograph.

In this tribute we find a peculiar satisfaction. Judges of high standing to-day agree with the judges of a generation ago that The Gerhard Heintzman offers the utmost in quality—superior tone, beauty of design, durable finish.

We look upon these awards as we look upon the fact that over 40,000 Gerhard Heintzman instruments have won pride of place in Canadian homes—as public approval of our manufacturing ideals.

For over half-a-century we have unceasingly striven to produce the best that our experience, equipment and ability made possible.

In this half-a-century's record, in these diplomas and awards, there is a significance that no one intending to purchase a piano or phonograph can afford to overlook.

PAGE OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

MARRIAGE INSURANCE MIGHT SOLVE QUESTION OF WOMEN'S WAGES.

Women, what are you going to do about it? You are being gradually admitted into the workshops, and professions of men and you are proving that your work can be of as great value as that of men, yet there is still a hesitancy to pay you on an equal basis with men. And the excuse for such hesitancy is said to be because men have families to support, while you have not. If that is the reason, then it is a good one. It points to the fact that his old world has not yet become so materialistic that it will pay merely for services rendered and not give a cent, because it is right to do so.

There are very few women who will not grant that it is unfair for some individuals to go through the world without the responsibility of family claims, while others take upon themselves this burden and yet receive no more financially to "carry on." What they do object to, however, is that women should be singled out as the only ones who have no family responsibility, and be penalized as to salaries. There are men who likewise live unto themselves, and yet they retain the same status as a married man, when it comes to a question of remuneration. And in contrast there are unmarried women who are actually supporting members of their family who have become helpless or orphaned.

The whole question comes down to this. Is the matter of considering the married individual over the unmarried individual (not woman), a matter which should come under the authority of the state? Does it really matter to any concern, whether its employees are married or unmarried, women or men, so long as they accomplish their work efficiency? And does it not matter infinitely to the state that its men and women take upon them the responsibility of raising a family? And should not the state see that nothing is allowed to interfere with this being accomplished in the most efficient way possible? Surely it is the duty of the state, not the employer, to see that men and women with families should secure a greater income than those who have not this added responsibility.

How is this to be accomplished? It might be done in some such fashion as this. To being with, employees no matter what their family status or sex might receive wages, according as they are useful to the firm which employs them. The state might do the rest by placing a very heavy percentage tax on the incomes of all individuals who are unmarried. This tax should not, however, be turned into the regular revenue of the Government but held as a trust fund or a sort of marriage insurance, to be released to the individual on his or her marriage, or should he not marry, when he is no longer able to support himself on account of prolonged sickness or old age.

Should the unmarried man or woman continue to be prosperous and able to support himself, the fund at his death, might pass into the state coffers. Some provision might also be made whereby unmarried persons, who by the force of circumstances had others dependent on them for support, might draw from this fund.

Such a system would be fair, and surely it is not impracticable. It would induce men and women to marry, and would not leave a man to support his family on the same amount of money as his wife spent on herself before they were married. Of course, the tax to be just, should be exempted on anything below a fair living wage.

Women would not object to such a system. What they object to now, is the fact that they may be as efficient workers as men, but receive less merely because they are women. They feel that the unmarried man has the same right to be penalized as they.

WINIFRED BLACK

Writes About The Unromantic Husband.

Copyright, 1919, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

He's ambitious, intelligent, honest, upright, considerate, prosperous and absolutely true in every way. But he is not romantic.

He does not dote upon ruins and towers, nor love to hear the blast blow. Neither is he acquainted in the least degree with the language of flowers, and he never says darling and he won't say sweetheart, and he wouldn't read a poem aloud to save his life, not if it was a love poem, and he doesn't even hold hands. He says he is too busy.

And besides, he thinks it is foolish for married people to "mush."

Yes, that's what he calls it, and furthermore, he tells his wife that she'll soon be the same as he is. And she thinks she never will be, and she is miserable and heart-hungry and soul-thirsty and generally most unhappy.

And there is a little boy a year old, a pretty home and bright prospects for the future. But, oh, dear me, what do they all amount to when husband will not hold hands? And furthermore, when he never even notices the way she does her hair or what kind of a dress she has on, even if he has just paid a nice big bill for that same dress.

How She Does Suffer.

No, he isn't stingy. He likes her to have everything nice. No, he isn't cross or stupid, nor jealous, nor tyrannical. He lets her have all the friends she wants, and she can give parties whenever she feels like it, and have her sisters for long visits and take people out in her machine. He simply adores the little son, but oh her heart aches and she looks at the moon and sighs and sometimes a crystal tear steals down her cheek. Poor thing! How she does suffer.

No, I am not laughing at her. I am just smiling a little, that's all. Just the way we smile when the little girl cries because her dolly has the headache or because Fido ran out of the gate and wouldn't come back the minute she called.

Why, you poor, little, foolish, sentimental creature, don't you know that no man in the world is perfect and more than you are perfect? It's nice to have a sweetheart or a husband who knows how to make love. Oh, yes, it's very nice indeed, but whisper, little sister, I've observed that the men who make love so charmingly have had a great deal of practice, and as a general rule they never stop practicing till they are in their coffins.

Love Not All Romance.

The born Romeo is never contented with Juliet. When he gets up on that balcony his eyes begin to rove, and the first thing you know he's making love to somebody in a boat or in a touring car, or anywhere in the world but on the balcony where poor Juliet sits waiting for the moon to rise.

Look out for the man who knows just exactly what to say when you wanted him to say it. He's been there before and he's pretty sure to be there again too, be very sure of that.

Born lovers are entrancing things—as lovers. They write such delicious notes, they send such wonderful telegrams, they always ring up at exactly the right moment, and they never miss a full moon or a starlit night or the perfume of a rose garden. They know all about locks of hair, rings, lockets, poems, little secrets, deep looks, long silences, sweet little quarrels about nothing and rapturous makings up. But oh, how they do hate to pay rent, and the very idea of being tied up to one woman for life is a horror to them.

Be thankful for your good, honest, truthful husband, Juliet. You've had your little balcony scene. Come on now, climb down, come in out of the moonlight and set to work and plan a new pair of rompers for the baby or what you're going to have for dinner tomorrow.

Love your husband with all your heart and with all your strength, and with all your soul, but don't bore him about it.

Some day, when one of your friends marries a romantic Romeo, and Romeo comes over some morning and tries to hold hands with you, while his wife is washing the breakfast dishes, and your husband is getting the machine out of the garage, you'll be glad Romeo belongs to some other woman and not you.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

Who Can Help?

Dear Miss Grey,—I have a little boy 4 years and little girl 1 year, and could any of the readers help me out for winter by sending me some second-hand clothing. Now, I don't want anything new, but stuff to make little suits and coats for them. We have a large family that has to have clothing for school, and it leaves but little for the wee ones. MOTHER D. M. H.

Ans.—I'm sorry you did not inclose me your address, D. M. H., for I feel sure there will be a response to your plea. No doubt many of our motherhearts will take a delight in helping to provide some warm clothing for these wee ones—Bobby's last winter's trousers, and baby's dresses, now outgrown, will be just the thing. However, folks, please don't send anything until I hear again from D. M. H. as to where she lives, and how parcels could best be sent to her. Please let us know soon, D. M. H.

Some of Her "Specials."

Dear Miss Grey.—I saw in your column where a young lady wants some cookie recipes. I haven't seen any appearing so I thought a few of my "Specials" could do no harm. And, Miss Grey, could you please print some candy recipes? The peanut fudge printed a while ago sounded promising. MARGUERITE.

Ans.—The Mail Box is a bit overflowing just now, so I hope you'll forgive me if I hold out those "Specials" for a few days. But just to keep you in a good humor, here's a candy recipe or two, so look sweet, please!

Potato Candy.—Take one small potato boil until it is done, drain and mash with a little butter, add one cupful of chopped nuts, and one teaspoonful of vanilla. Take it on the molding board and add confectioner's sugar, kneading it until it will take no more sugar. Cut in squares and lay on waxed paper.

Crackerjack.—One cup of molasses (sugar cane), two cups yellow sugar, one tablespoon butter, two tablespoons vinegar; boil until it cracks in water, then take from the fire, add half a teaspoon soda, beat briskly, and pour over corn.

Divinity Fudge.—Two cups white sugar, half cup corn syrup, half cup water; boil until it threads much; beat whites of two eggs stiff; pour boiling syrup on to eggs, and beat until real thick; then put in dates, cut figs, candied cherries or chopped nuts; pour on buttered dish and cut in squares.

Sea Foam Candy.—Three cups light brown sugar, one cup boiling water, whites of two eggs beaten stiff, one teaspoon of vanilla, a few grains salt, one cup English walnuts; boil sugar and water to a soft ball stage, pour slowly into whites, beating constantly; beat until stiff, add nuts and vanilla; drop on buttered paper.

Now for the Pies.

Cynthia, Dear,—Will you kindly print a recipe for canning citron, one with raisins and one without if you have them, also a way of canning pumpkin for making pies? I seem to have an emppty head today and can think of nothing to write that would be of any benefit to anybody. Perhaps I may be more help the next time. I remain with thanks, BETSY.

Ans.—Here they are—both readers' recipes, so you may feel you can trust 'em!

Citron Preserve—To three large citrons use four lemons. Squeeze juice of lemons and set aside in a closed dish; cut rinds in as small pieces as possible, put in a dish and add one pint of water (cold). Let stand 24 or 36 hours. Peel citrons and cut in pieces size of large hickory nuts, cover with, say, three pounds of sugar, and let stand over night. Pour in the sliced lemon rind and water and let cook until nearly tender, then add the rest of the sugar. When done add the juice of lemons and stir thoroughly; put into sealers and you have citrons fit for a king.

2. Peel citron cut in dice about one inch square, weigh it, and to every pound add three-quarters of a pound of white sugar. Let stand over night; allow one lemon and one-half pound of raisins to every two pounds of the mixture. Cut the lemon, rind and all, in thin slices; boil until it is thick like jam.

(3)—A mail-box housewife says:

"When the cans are empty from other fruit, I fill them with pumpkin. I peel and cut into pieces an inch square, add salt enough to make it taste salty, two cups of sugar to nine quarts of pumpkin, and just water enough to cook and keep from burning. Cover tightly with a lid, and stir often. When cooked, fill up your cans as hot as you can handle, but be sure your cans are scalded well with washing ammonia powder. This is the best way I have found."

A Sunshine Girl.

Dear Miss Grey,—I noticed where "Robina" requested a recitation. I am inclosing one, also a tried and true oatmeal cookie recipe.

"Summer School Girl." I received that lovely photo and certainly was pleased. Miss Grey, when you remarked on the neatness of S. S. G.'s letter, I join in with you as she has written to me.

I have had the pleasure of visiting "Mrs. Homebird" and the "Sunshine Baby." She certainly is a Sunshine Girl. Now, don't you all envy me?

How any of the pageites tried for the big Advertiser puzzle? I entered the contest and happened to be one of the number who counted the correct number of circles. As there were over fifty who counted correctly, I am waiting anxiously for the solution of the second puzzle. Winter is now coming and all the Mail Box birds and flowers will be crowding inside for shelter. Can you make room for a wee one? PUSSY WILLOW.

Oatmeal cookie recipe—1 cup lard, ½ cup sugar, 1 cup maple syrup, 1 teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 heaping teaspoons ginger, 2 cups oatmeal. Flour enough to make a soft dough.

Ans.—Sure, there's plenty of room for you, Pussy Willow. Somehow I rather think you're something of a "sunshine girl" yourself. I have sent your inclosure on to Robina.

A Sad Mishap.

Dear Miss Grey.—I have a new dark blue crepe de chene waist, the left sleeve of which recently got splattered with gravy, leaving brown stains all over it. Could you please suggest a sure cure for this. Would it be better to take it direct to the cleaners? JUDITH.

Ans.—What a misfortune! I'm really and truly sorry, Judith, for crepe blouses are not obtained for nothing. Personally, I'd feel inclined to take the blouse to a cleaner, and if he made a poor job of it I would not need to blame myself. However, in case you'd prefer to try home methods, here is what a good authority has to say: First use a suds of white soap and water to take out the salts and vegetable matter, then turpentine or benzine to remove the grease. If the gloss is destroyed, sponge with gum arabic water and allow to nearly dry before pressing on the wrong side.

HOW TO MAKE REALLY BEAUTIFYING LOTIONS

By Lucrezia Bori, the Famous Spanish Prima Donna.

HOW TO MAKE etaoiknkn

There is nothing more conducive to promoting the clear loveliness of skin you desire than massage. Instructions for the various massage movements are understood by many women. The movement must always be in an upward line from the chin, and, in most cases, circular. To massage your face you will need a variety of creams, regardless of whether your skin is dry or oily.

An excellent tonic emollient for strengthening relaxed tissues, which is also very whitening and softening to your skin, and which will be found a delightful massage cream, is made of these ingredients:

Oil of sweet almonds	3 ounces
Oil of bitter almonds	10 grammes
Balsam of tolu	2 grammes
Benzoin	2 grammes
Essence of lemon	2 drops
Essence of cajeput	2 drops

The resins should be powdered and mixed with the oils. Keep at a gentle heat for 24 hours, then pour off from the sediment and add the essential oils.

A good cleansing cream which may be applied after the hot steaming and before you begin your massage manipulation contains these ingredients:

Rosewater	4 ounces
Almond oil	4 ounces
Spermaceti	1 ounce
White wax	1 ounce

Orange flower, lilac or violet water may be substituted for the rosewater. The addition of one drachm of tincture of benzion or a half-drachm of salicylic acid will insure the cream from becoming rancid. It should always be put in small open-mouth jars that can be tightly closed to exclude the air.

A lotion which is adapted to oily skin may be used in the water with which you steam your face before mas saging. A spoonful of this lotio softens a basin of water, and has a de lightfully pleasant effect:

Tincture of benzoin	1 ounce
Tincture of musk	2 drachms
Tincture of ambergris	4 drachms
Rectified spirits	5 ounces
Orange flower water	1¾ pints

For a sensitive skin or a dry ski there's no better cosmetic than put glycerine in diluted form. Glycerine h a wonderfully beautifying effect, whit ning it and softening it and making supple. It possesses a solvent pow over coloring matter, and is one of th most effective agents for bleaching sun-browned or freckled skin.

Glycerine must never, of course, b used in a concentrated form, because extracts so much water from the ski that it appears to burn. There a many skins with which it does not seem to agree, but sometimes that is becaus it is used in too concentrated a form

For the average skin glycerine shou be diluted about one-half with som perfumed water. Lavender, rose, vio let, orange flower and elder flow water are all good combinations fo glycerine. For an overly sensitive ski or a very dry skin a solution of on fourth or one-third of glycerine aromatic water will probably have happy effect.

In using any of these lotions in con junction with massage you should re member the virtue of perseverance, an should not say to yourself: "Oh, to night doesn't matter. I'll do it tomo row night." Procrastination is fatal complexion. You should take care your complexion every night befor retiring.

DEPENDABLE

The thousands of women who daily ask their grocers for Dominion Crystal Sugar, stipulate this brand because they can depend upon the uniformity of its quality. If that quality ever varied, we could not expect the particular housewives to give our product that continuous support upon which we depend for the success of our business. To deviate, for one single day's operations in our refineries, from the high standard we have set, would be to "break faith" with those who have come to rely on the "Dominion Crystal" trade-mark as a guarantee of excellence.

We consider, moreover, that there is another duty involved in this matter of "keeping faith with the public"—the important obligation of maintaining our output at the fullest possible capacity of our 3 large plants. To deplete the supply of Dominion Crystal sugar available for consumption in Canadian homes, would be just as much a "breach of faith" as to deliberately slacken up on quality. To take from our output a few tons for export purposes might not involve any loss of prestige—because it might never be known to the Canadian consumers whom we would be depriving. We would probably face no necessity of squaring ourselves with the public—but we would have to square ourselves with ourselves. And that would be difficult.

So we pass up the tempting opportunity of export business, in order to first place every available pound of Dominion Crystal Sugar at the disposal of Canadian grocers and Canadian homes.

Our whole-hearted effort is directed toward the equitable distribution of our product to the thousands of Canadian grocers who are our customers—in order that their customers may have, in their kitchens and on their tables, this sugar they like so well—DOMINION CRYSTAL.

This is the only sugar that may be rightly termed "Canadian from the ground up." We do import the finest of raw cane sugar and refine it—but our pride is in the product we make from Canadian sugar beets.

London Will Have Intermediate O.H.A. Hockey This Winter

London will have an intermediate O.H.A. team this winter. A matter which has been agitating the fans of the city for the past month was practically settled at a meeting in the Hermitage Club rooms yesterday afternoon when Messrs. Ashplant and Jones of the London Curlers were also present and helped pave a way to the solution of the problem of rink accommodation.

For a few minutes before the meeting got under way the prospects of an intermediate team this winter hung in the balance. The hockeyists had decided that Friday night games, two practices each week and an increased percentage of receipts for the semi-finals were necessary before they could entertain the idea of starting out a team, and how far the curlers were prepared to go in meeting these requirements seemed to be an open question.

Club's Position.

President Ashplant, however, in a very fair explanation of the Curling Club's attitude, swept some of the uncertainties away, and, with the exception of the question of increased percentages, the two parties came to an agreement on every point. Neither of the curlers were prepared to make a definite arrangement regarding this question until the executive had been notified, but will do so today.

There seemed to be a general desire on the part of both parties to give and take some in the considerations, and this augurs well for a good hockey season. Last year's difficulties were practically not touched upon. Both the hockey club and the curlers, owing to weather conditions, were forced to contend which appeared to indicate differences, but all was harmony at last night's meeting.

Practice Arrangements.

A suggestion that the intermediates use Tuesday night, the juniors' playing night, for one practice, with the latter reversing the practice, put one of the demands of the hockeyists in the "finished business" class. A number of alternative practice possibilities were suggested for the second weekly practice. Here, again, the curlers were not able to make any definite promises. But the attitude taken was that it was as much to their interests to see that the team got in sufficient practices as it was to the team, and no trouble will come from this source, the matter only being one of agreement and weather conditions.

Once the final arrangements are completed it will include provisions for the holding of practices as soon as ice can be made, and several exhibition games are also on the program, so that even with a late start the local crew should get well away.

Some of those at the meeting were: Tim Ferguson, Harry Leckie, Jack Greer, Eric Reid, B. Croden, Ernie Shaw and Tommy Munro.

Hockey Training Likely To Begin Next Week

Material For a Real Team Is in City and Once Club Is Organized an Active Program Will Be Put On.

Providing definite arrangements are completed between the London Curling Club, and the London Amateur Hockey Association today, and at the latest tomorrow, and there seems nothing more certain than that this will happen, the officers of the club will be elected before the end of the week, and the candidates for the team will be ushered right into training season the beginning of next week.

While nothing has been decided upon yet, it is altogether likely that Manager Ferguson's last year's team will again be on the job. He made a good impression last year, and appears to be the most likely looking prospect on the horizon at present.

Also the new club have not made any announcements about the material they have in view for this winter's sextette, but Harry Leckie was confident enough yesterday to state that this present winter's crop would be a 100 per cent improvement over last year's, and the confidence apparent in making preparations for a journey into the semi-finals, conversationally at least, was one of the best things happening at yesterday's meeting.

The Intermediate and Juniors, while running under two different organizations should be able to reach an agreement between themselves for the season that will result in harmony, and a support of each other, when it is necessary, and in the best hockey interests of the city.

A return of the good old days, when it was necessary to stand in line for a couple of hours to get standing room out at the east end rink, looks entirely within reason this season, after several years of more or less sporadic hockey and support.

Just what grouping the local will find themselves in is open to some speculation, but with Sarnia back on the hockey map strong a group comprising possibly that city, Woodstock and Ingersoll, would made a tidy little western mix and assure the fans of the best of hockey.

GEORGE STARKS HIGH AT LONDON CURLERS' EUCHRE

George Starks was high man at the London Curlers' euchre last night at the Lyle Street Club Rooms, with Jack Banks second. The evening's play was market by some good games. The bi-weekly affairs are taking up more interest than they have ever done in the past, and are stop-gapping splendidly until the ice gets here.

GOES TO WEST END "Y"

Tommy Mascari, who leaves this week for the Queen City, is one of the best basketballers ever developed in the city. He played for two years on the Y. Junior O. B. A. five.

As You Were

If McGill and M. A. A. A. game comes off, and the proposed Varsity-T. E. A. A. clash happens, the championship of Canada can be decided on paper providing the latter don't upset the Blue and White, and all the dope. Even at that, they'd have to overwhelm the Big T. before anyone would believe they'd have a chance with either of the Montreal teams. It's to be hoped that both fixtures come off for the sake of seeing just what kind of rugby the three organizations play.

They are trying to boost aviation as a new winter sport in Switzerland. The dispatch says fur coats and electrically-heated clothes are supplied, but don't say anything about uniformed keepers.

Bob Dibble is the latest of Canada's athletes to be tempted away to the United States, and it is not impossible that Canada's premier sculler may give up the chances of going to the Olympiad next summer and join the professional ranks. The offer came from the Chicago Leaside Club, a new organization and probably includes the equivalent of several pork factories if it tempts the Canuck sculler away from his amateur standing. The younger Durnan is the only other Olympic prospect that would carry the maple leaf to victory if Dibble decides to accept the offer.

Judging from American comment on the factor the forward-pass has been this season in the rugby of the other side, whatever changes enter into the Canadian during the coming winter, and it appears inevitable the changes will come, this style of play will be perhaps one of the most drastic introduced. It has been favored in a good many quarters in Canada by leading rugby enthusiasts, and it must come with any changes that happen along. The New York Times says:

A glance at some of the more important games of recent Saturdays shows just what a vital factor the forward-pass has been. Such headlines as "Wins by Aerial Attack," and "Forward Pass Decide Issue," have been increasingly conspicuous over the reports of games between the leading college elevens. Last Saturday for instance, the forward-pass was responsible for both Syracuse's touchdowns against Colgate, while West Virginia defeated Rutgers, and Penn State Cornell by the same play.

Princeton and Harvard both scored their touchdowns in the 10—10 game at Princeton by the air route, and Princeton's long march for a touchdown in that contest was made possible by continuous recourse to the pass. Pennsylvania has developed this department of its attack more perfectly, perhaps, than any other eastern team, and it was the pass that gave Penn two of its three touchdowns against Dartmouth. Colgate made its touchdowns against Dartmouth and Princeton on the same play, which likewise played a principal part in both of Yale's scores against Brown, and paved the way for all of West Virginia's touchdowns against Princeton. Notre Dame defeated the Army by the air route, and the count might go on through many others of the leading games of the season.

One of the principal uses of the forward pass has been to keep the opposing team in constant fear of it, so that it will play its secondary defence well back and thus weaken its power of opposing running plays through the line. This year, however, many of the teams have shown a tendency to play their secondary defence closer to the line, and perhaps it is this fact that has made the use of the forward pass so successful in many games. A team that knows how to use the play effectively on the attack and that, at the same time, can diagnose and spill it when used by the opposition without weakening its defence against a running attack is still a good deal of a rarity. Yet that is the goal toward which every coach must point at this stage in the progress of the gridiron game.

The forthcoming battle between Jimmy Wilde and either Pete Herman, the present champ, or Joe Lynch or Pal Moore, is causing the greatest stir in New York fistic circles, of any event for some years. Aside from the fact that it marks a new era in boxing with the opening of the International Sporting Club, no foreign boxer has engaged the attention of the American fighting public as has the little Briton. His bouts with Pal Moore overseas is probably the cause of this widespread interest in the Union, and returning Americans have special to speak lightly of for the "greatest little fighting machine on earth." Wilde will give pounds of weight away to either of his three prospective opponents, with Lynch coming nearest to the real flyweight poundage.

The opening bout, which was originally pushed for February 3, has been postponed now until the 22nd of the same month.

The action taken at Springfield during the last week on the draft question was something in the nature of a backdown by the little fellows of baseball. Who had demanded one year ago that the major leaguers grant what were regarded by them as "concessions." The majors obliged and remained aloof while the minors proceeded to work out their own salvation independently. Now the smaller leagues admit their mistake and seek to return to the conditions which prevailed up to a year ago.

The following of the advice of short-sighted leaders plunged the smaller of the minor leagues into a condition which spelled ruin in a short time, but happily the danger is now past. The Class B, and D organizations drew themselves free of the so-called leadership at the Springfield meeting, and did their own leading, compelling their larger brothers to follow. The larger leagues of the minor group were the leaders in the plan to remove the draft, and now the smaller members have forced its return.

The idea that the major leagues can get along without the minors is absurd, as is the counter-proposition that the minors are able to go along independently of the majors. Each needs the other to survive. The big leagues need the minors as developing fields, while the minors cannot live unless they get financial aid from the majors in the commerce of baseball talent. Gate receipts support the majors, and the sale of players supports the minors.

The removal of the draft and the breaking away on other points of relationship with the big leagues was a sad mistake a year ago, but the minors, at least a great part of them, could not see it that way. They had visions of untold wealth by forcing the big leagues to buy players instead of drafting them, the buying entailing the payment of much more money. The majors declined to enter into any spirited bidding against one another for talent, as the visionaries of the smaller leagues had led so many others to believe. As a result the minors lost thousands of dollars which annually flowed into their coffers for drafted players, and there was less juggling than usual, this taking away more thousands. Many a club which lost money under the prevailing system would have been saved the loss if the major league club owners were drafting.

It was a mistake on the part of the minors from the start, now happily rectified, and the lesson learned by the small leagues may be worth to baseball what it cost the minors. Furthermore, if the minors again decide to break from the majors, they should first learn to be fair with one another. One part of the big break was that the minors would refuse to take players from the majors under option, and it was violated far and wide. The majors were wise enough to give the minors all the rope they demanded, and the result has been no surprise.

Jack Dempsey, on a visit to his mother in Salt Lake City, announces that right now he is as fit as a fiddle. Also that he did sign a contract with Dominick Torterich, the New Orleans promoter, for $175,000, to meet either Beckett or Carpentier in the Mardi Gras city. Jawn next enters the movies for four months, after which he will start training.

There are a couple of comedy companies, which, if he could get work with, would save him the trouble of putting off his training for four months, at least while the pies lasted.

Next year will, for a certainty, see a still greater revival of the steeplechasing events on the big tracks. As the most picturesque of races, and the most valuable from a breeding standpoint, this branch of the sport has always been recognized at its true worth, but for the last few years of war stress has suffered somewhat. The women owners have been the leaders in its re-establishment, and Mrs. Payne Whitney, Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark and Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords have all three, very likely three-year-olds in the process of schooling.

Mayor Tommy Church of Toronto, is all in favor of the erection of three stadiums to accommodate the athletic programs of Toronto citizens. That will mean three prayers instead of one for wallopings for Queen City teams, from a whole province.

WESTERN U. BASKETBALL TEAM MAY TOUR STATES

Arrangements are being made for a tour of a basketball team from Western University through the States during the Christmas vacation, pending Western's grouping in the intercollegiate senior series, a matter which is still in doubt.

Thus far, application to the C.A.A.U. for permission for the American tour has not been granted, but it is expected will be, providing guarantees are made by the tourists that they will play only with registered teams.

Fourflushing Promoters Disgust Dempsey's Boss

Kearns Says These Publicity Chasers Never Show Evidence of a Healthy Bank Roll in Their Offers — Fabulous Purses Myths.

(Written for The Advertiser by Frank G. Menke.)

"Why?"

"It is all because of a lot of four flushing promoters who were trying to get some heap publicity for themselves —at the expense of Jack Dempsey," declared Kearns. "Just about every promoter in the country—and every other spotlight seeker—has been rushing to newspaper offices recently and circulating stories concerning fabulous offers they are making to Dempsey for his battling services.

"This has the tendency to get the writers all steamed up. After a little while they notice that there is no acceptance of the alleged offer by the promoter. And then the writers begin to pan Dempsey or to pan me, claiming Dempsey doesn't want to fight—or that I won't let him fight.

"Those spotlight grabbers, you'll notice, have been making a condition with their fake offers. It's that Dempsey must fight before March 1. They known that Jack is tied up in circus and theatrical contracts until then—and, of course, he can't do any fighting until he is through with that work.

Promoters Talk.

"Since Dempsey became champion a score of promoters have gathered in plenty of cheap publicity by reciting to the newspaper men concerning their offers. But not one of the whole bunch ever has offered to put up any certified check as a guarantee; not one has flashed any real money.

"All that's been done is to toot a lot of big money talk—and that about ends it. If any promoter in this country—or in Europe—wants to stage a fight with Dempsey as one of the principals, all he needs to do is to make a reasonable offer—and show the cash. He'll be accommodated.

"Two months ago Redmond Barry came to this country from England. He told me that a fight between Dempsey and either Beckett or Carpentier staged in London would draw anywhere from $750,000 more than any other heavy-normal house for a heavyweight battle in England would be only in the neighborhood of $100,000.

"In other words, Barry admitted that Dempsey alone would draw at least $750,000 more than any other heavyweight.

"'What is your best offer?' I asked him.

"'I will give Dempsey $100,000 and $15,000 for expenses,' he answered.

"Can you beat it? After admitting that Dempsey would draw at least three-fourths of a million, Barry wanted to give me $115,000 for his services. Naturally I refused. I told Barry that I would accept a guarantee of $150,000 and $15,000 for expenses, with the privilege of one-third of the gross receipts. That was fair enough, wasn't it, in view of the fact that Barry figured that Dempsey would draw at least $750,000. But Barry turned it down.

Fabulous Purses Myths.

"Even since Dempsey has become champion, I have read in the papers about this promoter and that promoter offering fabulous sums for his services. Half of those offers never were made to me in an official way. As to the rest of them—well, the real offer was half or one-third that which the promoters announced to the newspapers. And not one promoter has as yet spoken with the cash in his hand.

"I reiterate now that Dempsey will fight anyone, at any time after March 1—if the inducements are reasonable. But I'll pay no attention to any more of those phoney offers made by a flock of promoters—or near-promoters—who don't mean business and merely are hurting Dempsey and prestige with their fourflush offers."

DETROIT TIGERS MAY YET GET THAT THIRD PLACE SERIES MONEY

Special Meeting of American Directors Called For Today To Decide on National Commission's Failure.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18. — A special meeting of the directors of the American League to consider the failure of the National Commission to award third place world series money to the New York Americans has been called to meet here at noon tomorrow by the majority directors. These are Jacob Ruppert of New York, Harry Frazee of Boston and Charles Comiskey of Chicago.

The Detroit club had protested against New York's third place position, claiming that the games Carl Mays pitched should not be counted. New York was officially awarded the place at a special meeting of the directors, who adopted a resolution authorizing the national commission to pay the Yankee players their share of the world series money.

Ruppert said that August Herrmann, chairman of the national commission, formally acknowledged receipt of the resolution to Frazee, secretary of the meeting, but made no comment upon it.

LARGE FLASHLIGHT PLACED NEAR RONDEAU

BLENHEIM, Nov. 18.—An up-to-date automatic flashlight has been installed by the department of marine of Ottawa on the shore of Lake Erie about four miles east of the Rondeau lighthouse, South Harwich, in the Government park. The light is now in working order, and will be of great assistance to the big coal ferries which cross to Erieau from Conneaut. It will assist them in preventing getting into an undesirable location in that vicinity. The light is placed twenty-five feet above the water level. It is under the care of the lighthouse keeper, James Claus, of Rondeau Harbor.

$100,000 PAID FOR RACING STALLION

New York, Nov. 19.—A record price for an American bred race horse today was paid by Gifford A. Cochran of New York, for Major August Belmont's stallion Fair Play, sire of Man o' War and Mad Hatter. The animal was sold for $100,000 in cash and the privilege of breeding ten mares to him each year for three years.

The son of Hastings and Fairy Gold, therefore, was disposed of for the equivalent of $130,000, it was estimated. The previous highest price paid for a horse bred in America was $70,000, which the late William C. Whitney gave for Hamburg. The imported racer Rock Sand was sold by Major Belmont in 1912 for $150,000.

TO GROW HAIR ON BALD HEADS

Specialist Gives Simple Recipe That Works Fine.

Thousands of people suffer from baldness and failing hair who, having tried nearly every advertised hair-tonic and hair-grower without results, have resigned themselves to baldness and its attendant discomfort. Yet their case is not hopeless; the following simple home prescription has made hair grow after years of baldness, and is also unequalled for restoring grey hair to its original color, stopping hair from falling out and destroying the dandruff germ. It will not make the hair greasy, and can be put up by any druggist: Bay Rum, 6 ounces; Lavona de Composee, 2 ounces; Menthol Crystals, one-half drachm. If you wish it perfumed, add 1 drachm of your favorite perfume. This preparation is highly recommended by physicians and specialists and is absolutely harmless, as it contains none of the poisonous wood alcohol so frequently found in hair tonics. Ladies using this prescription should be careful not to get it on the face or where hair is not desired.—Advt.

Insure Better Belt Traction

The adhesion of a belt on a Dodge Wood-Split Pulley is greater than the adhesion on a metal pulley at equal belt tension. The reason is that there is less belt slippage over the wooden surface than over the metal surface.

Then there also is less weight friction because the Dodge Wood-Split Pulley is so much lighter and so much better balanced. It may be run at high speeds without bursting.

The interchangeable bushing system makes it adaptable to any standard shafting.

It is a mighty good all-round standard service pulley that will meet the demands of all ordinary—and most extraordinary—shop practice. In addition to which it costs less to buy.

Try a few Dodge Wood-Split Pulleys in your plant. They will justify your investment.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS

HINDENBURG BLAMES LACK OF UNITY FOR GERMANY'S FAILURE

BERLIN, Nov. 18.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg declared before the subcommittee of the National Assembly investigating the war responsibility:

"I know with absolute certainty that neither the people, the kaiser nor the Government desired war, for the Government knew better than others Germany's tremendously difficult position in a war against the entente."

Germany's defensive strength, said the field marshal, was as unfavorable as possible from the start. It might be left to history to decide why Germany's peace policy had failed.

"If the military authorities prepared for the possibility of an unavoidable war," continued von Hindenburg, "that was only their duty towards the nation. If there had been solid, united co-operation between army and homeland we could have attained victory.

"While with the enemy, notwithstanding his superiority, all parties were united ever more firmly in the determination to be victorious. With us, although we were numerically inferior, interests at home made their influence felt, and this state of affairs led to the breaking off of the will to victory."

HOW MANY WOMEN DO YOU KNOW

Who can say they are perfectly well? "I am tired all the time." "I am so nervous it seems as though I should fly," "I can hardly drag around today," and all such expressions are characteristic of women who have overtaxed their strength until headaches, backache, nervousness, dragging-down pains, irregularities and the blues, symptoms of a female weakness, have developed. Women who are in this condition may rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore them to health

PARIS PAPERS HAIL ELECTION RESULT AS TRIUMPH OF ORDER

Socialist Papers Alone Are Sullen and Bitter.

BOLSHEVISM CRUSHED

Most Determined Enemies of Peace Ratification Were Defeated.

PARIS, Nov. 18.—All the newspapers hail the result of the elections as a triumph of law and order over Bolshevism, excepting the Socialist papers, which adopt a sullen and bitter tone.

Henry Franklin-Bouillon, Jean Louguet, Charles Chaumet and Pierre Renaudel, the most determined enemies of M. Clemenceau and ratification of peace, have been defeated.

L'Homme Libre, commenting on the elections, says:

"Now let us go to work."

L'Echo de Paris says:

"An admirable, glorious day for law and order."

The Figaro says:

"Bolshevism is crushed."

Gaulois says:

"A triumph of order as against anarchy."

L'Action Francaise says:

Barthou Elected.

Louis Barthou, former premier, was elected, as was also the Marquis de Chambrun.

The Catholics sent two priests to the Chamber to keep company with Abbe Gayraud. They are Abbe Wetterle, Upper Rhine, and Abbe Muller, Lower Rhine. The Protestant pastor Altorffer was returned in the Lower Rhine.

All the aviators were brought down, except Captain Heuteaux and Captain Rene Fonck, both of whom were elected, the latter by a narrow margin.

The Results.

The Republican Left gained 36 seats, 37 seats, Radicals lost 7, and the Radical-Socialists lost 13. The Republican Socialists lost 7; the Unified Socialists lost 37; the Dissident Socialists gained 6; the Progressives gained 76; the L'Action Liberal group gained 42; the Conservatives neither gained nor lost. Of those elected, 350 have not before held seats in the chamber.

STOMACH AND LIVER TROUBLE

Once the liver fails to filter the poisonous bile from the blood, there is a clogging up and poisoning of the whole system which causes many troubles to arise. Therefore, upon the liver, more than any other organ of the body, depends the general health.

Carelessness and neglect, and oftentimes wilful disregard of nature's laws will put the system out of sorts. The bowels become constipated, the liver inactive and the stomach upset. To bring the system back to its normal state, you should take Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. They liven up the liver, get the bowels back to their proper condition and tone up the stomach.

Mrs. G. L. Cackett, Enchant, Alta., writes: "I have used Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and have found them good for both stomach and liver troubles. I have told others about your valuable medicine and they have used them with good results.

CAPTAIN ADAMS WAS TAKEN BY SURPRISE

Improvement So Remarkable After Taking Tanlac He Hardly Knows Himself.

"For one whole year before I took Tanlac there was hardly a day that I didn't have a severe headache and hardly a night that I got over an hour or two of sleep," said S. S. Adams, when he called at the Owl Drug Store in Vancouver, B. C. Mr. Adams served as captain in the English army, and at the time he made this statement he was registered at the St. Frances Hotel, 600 Cordova west, Vancouver. Mr. Adams further stated that he would leave for the Orient in a few days to accept a managing position with an English firm in Japan.

"For the past year," continued Mr. Adams, "I had gastritis in its very worst form, and gas would press against my heart and make it palpitate so bad that I would get dizzy and sometimes while I was eating I would get to feeling so dizzy that I would have to get up and leave the table without finishing. My appetite was almost completely gone and even the smell of food would sometimes turn my stomach, and I had to be extremely careful about what I ate, so as not to suffer from gas. My nerves were shattered and the least little noise out of the ordinary would upset me completely.

"I tried medicine after medicine, but nothing would do me any good, and I was about to give up trying to find anything else when my attention was called to a testimonial in the paper about Tanlac. I decided to try it, and I want to say right here that it took me by surprise, and that it is simply remarkable how I have been restored to health. I have a splendid appetite, and no matter what or how much I eat I never suffer from stomach trouble in any form. My nerves are quiet and steady, and I can sleep all night long. I am not troubled with headaches or dizzy spells any longer, and I feel so different in every way that I hardly know myself. I am leaving for the Orient in a few days and before I go I feel that it is my duty to make this statement and let the people know that Tanlac is a great thing, and that it will do every bit of what they say it will."

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and by an established agency in every town.

U. S. GOVERNMENT DECIDES TO COMPEL WORKING OF MINES

CONFERENCE TODAY

Fuel Administrator Will Submit Ultimatum To Both Sides.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—The Government stepped to the front today to force miners and operators to negotiate a new wage agreement and resume work in the bituminous fields before the country should be caught in the grip of a coal famine.

Clothed with all of his war-time powers as fuel administrator, and acting by direct authority of the president and the cabinet, Dr. Harry A. Garfield called a joint meeting of scale committees, at which he was expected to give formal notice that the time had come to resume mining operations on a normal scale.

While the joint conference was set for this afternoon, Dr. Garfield found that a full attendance could not be obtained, so it went over until tomorrow. Meanwhile word was passed that the strike situation had reached the point where action was regarded by federal authorities as absolutely imperative.

No Headway.

There was no evidence, as presented to the cabinet, that the scale committees called here last week to negotiate a new wage agreement had made the least headway. Reports from the central competitive fields, embracing the states of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and western Pennsylvania, the stronghold of the United Miners of America, showed all mines shut down and not enough coal coming from non-union plants in other states to meet the normal demand by several million tons.

Other reports from widely-separated sections brought the same story of a rapidly-vanishing coal supply, with indications that hundreds of industrial plants would be forced to close shortly unless coal production was put back at normal. In the view of many officials the situation was critical enough to demand drastic action.

Refuses Statement.

Although he would not discuss the nature of the statement he was prepared to lay before the operators and miners, it was said on high authority that Dr. Garfield was prepared to present the situation forcibly to the chief representatives of the mine owners and mine workers. There was no intimation as to what direction governmental action would take in case the deadlock continued.

Steps taken by Kansas to operate the mines under Government authority, and fear by both sides that other states would do likewise, were urged as a strong reason for quick settlement of all wage disputes.

NEW LIQUIDATION MOVEMENT IN WALL STREET CAUSES DROP

SENSATIONAL DECLINES

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Wall Street, as represented by the stock exchange, engaged in further house-cleaning today. The reaction at times was no less drastic than that which attended last week's sensational liquidating movement.

The decline today derived much of its momentum from the maintenance of high money rates, the complete collapse of foreign exchange and indications that the safety of the financial situation demanded further readjustment of speculative conditions.

Local brokers were less active in the selling than the commission houses. This confirmed the impression prevalent in many quarters that the accounts of many out-of-town traders with reduced margins were being liquidated.

Unsettlement centered in Crucible Steel, one of the famous "war brides," and later popular as a "peace" industrial. Crucible not so long ago sold up to $261 a share, more than three and one-half times its high price in 1918, and almost two and one-half times higher than its maximum in the boom of 1915. Recently new interests have come into control of the property, and the stock has been subjected to considerable bear pressure. Its extreme decline today was 31½ points to 178½, from which it rallied 7½ points.

Other steels of the so-called "independent group" reacted 5 to almost 15 points with kindred equipments, motors, oils and tobaccos, the movement as a whole being strongly suggestive of the enforced closing out of "pools" and similar professional cliques.

WINNIPEG JURY FINDS TRUE BILL AGAINST THE STRIKE LEADERS

[Special to The Advertiser.]

WINNIPEG, Nov. 18. — The grand jury, sitting at the courthouse this afternoon, returned a true bill against the eight strike leaders charged with seditious conspiracy. In addition to returning a true bill, the grand jury declared in their report that the men were a public nuisance. They will come up for trial toward the end of the week.

The accused are: R. B. Russell, Rev. William Ivens, Richard Johns, George Armstrong, Ald. A. A. Heaps, Ald. John Queen, William Pritchard and R. E. Bray.

A fund of $50,000 has been raised by labor men to defend the strike leaders.

Steamer Reported Lost in Big Storm Docks at Toledo

TOLEDO, Ohio., Nov. 18. — The freighter Griffin, which cleared from Ashland, Wis., on November 10, with cargo of ore for Toledo, and which was reported lost in a storm on the lakes on Sunday, docked here today. The storm, which is believed to have sunk the steamer John Owen of Cleveland, with a crew of 22 men, struck the Griffin 100 miles out of Ashland.

Captain J. H. Gallagher probably saved the Griffine by turning back and heading for Apostle Islands, where he anchored for two days during the storm.

Rumanian Queen After the Consolidation of Austria and Rumania

VIENNA, Nov. 18. — A dispatch from Rumania is printed with reservations by a local newspaper to the effect that Queen Marie recently visited former Emperor Charles of Austria at his residence in Switzerland, and asked him to renounce all claims to the Hungarian throne i norder to accomplish consolidation of the two countries under the Rumanian crown. The queen is said to have offered Charles a large sum of money in return.

Majority of Aliens Interned in Canada Already Deported

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, Nov. 18.—The deportation, or as it is euphemistically termed by the authorities, the "repatriation," of enemy aliens held prisoned of war in Canadian camps during the past few years, is now almost complete. More than two thousand Germans and Austrians have already been sent home via Holland and other neutral countries.

About 250 men still remain to be sent to their fatherlands. These are for the most part at Kapuskasing. Most of them will take away a comfortable sum, since they were entitled to 25 cents a day while employed in the camps. They will leave behind several well cleared and highly cultivated acres of land in New Ontario and elsewhere, which will be used for experimental farm purposes, and as a nucleus for further settlement in these regions.

MOTHERS! NEVER NEGLECT WHOOPING COUGH

Many mothers make the mistake of thinking that whooping cough is not of serious importance, but unfortunately this mistake often leads to the neglect of this dangerous child's disease.

Never neglect whooping cough, for it may be followed by some serious lung trouble.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is highly recommended by mothers everywhere for the relief of this trouble. It will clear the clogged-up air passage of the mucous and phlegm that has collected, and in this way bring on the "whoop" which brings the so-much-sought-for relief.

Mrs. Francis Burlingham, New Gate, B.C., writes: "This spring three of my children took the whooping cough, and they had it so bad I thought they would choke. I was getting pretty worried when my sister wrote me, telling me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I sent for some right away, and, believe me, I will never forget how it worked. I will always have it in my house."

There are many imitations of Dr. Wood's on the market. Get the genuine when you ask for it. It will pay in the end. Put up in a yellow wrapper; 3 pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. Manufactured only by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

LIFT OFF CORNS!

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD, TAKE SALTS

Says Backache Is Sign You Have Been Eating Too Much Meat.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

CIGARETTE SMOKING LISTED FOR W. C. T. U. ONTARIO CONVENTION

Delegates at Guelph To Discuss It—President Wants "Bone-Dry" Canada.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

GUELPH, Nov. 18.—With delegates present from all parts of the province and others continually arriving, the 42nd annual convention of the Ontario Women's Christian Temperance Union opened this morning in Norfolk Street Methodist Church with Mrs. Hattie A. Stevens of Toronto, president of the union, presiding.

Matters of the utmost importance are to come before the convention, the delegates of which are in a jubilant frame of mind, owing to the overwhelming success of the recent prohibition referendum in Ontario. One of the subjects for discussion during the week is that of cigarette smoking, and it is likely that some action will be decided upon to start a campaign against this practice, which the delegates do not hesitate to say is one of the great questions in the country today.

Reports were presented from every department of the work showing that splendid progress had been made during the year. The treasurer's report showed total receipts of $21,882.70, with a balance on hand of $5,116 02.

At the afternoon session, Mrs. Stevens, the president, delivered her address, a lengthy one, dealing with all phases of the work, and urging the women to continue to fight the liquor traffic until Canada was "bone dry."

The corresponding secretary's report showed that there were 14,462 members, 1,094 honorary members.

GIRLS! DRAW A MOIST CLOTH THROUGH HAIR

Let "Danderine" save your hair and double its beauty

Oh, girls, such an abundance of thick, heavy, invigorated hair; a perfect mass of wavy, silky hair, gloriously fluffy, bright and so easy to manage.

Just moisten a cloth with a little "Danderine" and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; this magically removes all dirt, excess oil and grease, but your hair is not left brittle, dry, stringy or faded, but charmingly soft, with glossy, golden gleams and tender lights. The youthful glints, tints and color are again in your hair.

"Danderine" is a tonic-beautifier. Besides doubling the beauty of the hair at once, it checks dandruff and stops falling hair. Get delightful Danderine for a few cents at any drug or toilet counter and use it as a dressing and invigorator as told on bottle.

Easy to Make This Pine Cough Remedy

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) in a 16-oz. bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make 16 ounces—more than you can buy ready-made for $2.50. It is pure, good, and very pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Why Science Leans to Belief That Cancers Are "Catching"

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG, A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University).

DR. HIRSHBERG

Discoveries made in recent years, ignored or passed over lightly, seem conclusively to prove that warts, tumors and malignant growths such as cancer, owe their origin to a microbe-virus. The irritation, picking, burning and frequent X-ray exposure which seems to be productive to these growths merely makes way for them.

Dr. Peyton Rons and other investigators at the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research, announced some time ago that the juices and fluids of cancers or sarcomata, when filtered under pressure, retained the power to infect healthy tissues with malignant tumor growths. Despite this and other undisputed facts of like nature, many continue to pronounce cancers as non-infectious. They blame it, or at least try to do so by inference, upon heredity—a scapegoat almost as uncanny as "nervousness" and imagination.

Experiments With Warts.

Two research workers, Drs. U. J. Wile and L. B. Kingery of the University of Michigan, have evidence to show that warts injected into healthy flesh are capable of infecting it with their kind. Moreover, the moisture and juice of warts pressed out, filtered and sterilized, will produce new warts if inoculated into the skin.

The first sign is a flat wart, which in no way differs from the common garden variety of warts in their beginning. On cleanly persons these tiny flat warts often occur, but the frequent scrubbings and cleansing of the hands keeps them so or rubs them off before they become multiple warts. Children and others with much soiled hands are the ones who most often have warts.

Drs. Wile and Kingery find that injuries, picking and other oft-repeated irritations merely open the deeper epidermis to the virus of warts and in themselves without these filterable, ultra-small, unsterilized microbes cannot produce warts or tumors.

Better "Play Safe."

The apparently exciting cause merely represents the point of entrance of the cancer or wart virus. The infectious agent kept away ordinarily from skin, stomach or other structures finds entrance when frequent X-ray handling or picking weakens the fabric.

Professor Irwin Smith of the United States department of agriculture brought to light the fact that tumors and cancers of plants are due to these micro-parasites.

Despite the ever-spreading numbers of facts which convince sane senses that cancers and warts are infectious, many persons still take chances of infecting themselves by wearing the garments of an individual thus afflicted.

Play safe by disinfecting everything possible which comes in contact with a wart, tumor or cancer. Never mind smiles, jeers or scoffing. The grave danger of a virus very infectious, so small that it cannot be detected by the microscope, so resistant that it cannot be disinfected or sterilized, so insidious that it filters through bricks and mortar, is too plain to be ignored.

Answers To Health Queries.

M. R.: Q.—What can I do for enlarged pores?

2. What do you advise for pimples?

A.—Once the blackheads and pimples are gone, large pores may remain for a time. These are annoying, but not serious troubles. Massage, vibration and the use of some harmless paste, such as lycopodium powder and glycerine, or borated cocoa butter, helps to fill them out.

Pulverized camphora..15 grains
Liquid albolene ..... 1 ounce

C. T.: Q.—What can I do for a rash?

A.—A rash may be caused by berries, fish, tomatoes, beer, fruits, drugs, odors, clams and oysters. The remedy depends upon the thing that is responsible for the trouble, and then to eliminate it from the diet.

L. W. R.: Q.—What can I do for tapeworms?

A.—Take one tablespoonful of Epsom salts, followed six hours later by a dose of mal fern, one dram, followed again six hours later by another tablespoonful of Epsom salts. Eat nothing but a little thin milk or coffee while taking the medicine.

E. M.: Q.—What can I do for an acid stomach?

A.—All stomachs are acid. The gastric juice is 2 per cent muriatic acid, or food would not be digested.

Dr. Hirshberg will answer questions for readers of this paper on medical, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. He cannot always undertake to prescribe or offer advice for individual cases. Where the subject is not of general interest letters will be answered personally if a stamped and addressed envelope is inclosed. Address all inquiries to Dr. L. K. Hirshberg, in care of this paper.

MENTAL WORK NEEDS A STOMACH

Great Mistake To Imagine You Can Work Better and Faster on the Starvation Plan—Eat What You Like But Follow With Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Mental work uses up energy fast. And energy comes from food. To eat little or nothing in order to do more work is a fallacy that has created an army of dyspeptics. A better plan is to eat the regular portions of food such as make up the average meal and follow each meal with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

You will then get a double benefit—energy from food and sociability with meals, for as a rule, the light eater, or those who skip meals, get into a bad habit, a rut, of hermitlike isolation. Do not be afraid of gassiness, sour stomach, heartburn, heavy feeling or coated tongue after meals. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets arouse the stomach to secrete the juices necessary to relieve these troubles that so frequently distress the mental worker. They contain harmless ingredients which act with an alkaline effect, so you may eat the rich things of the banquet or the savory sausage for breakfast with utmost freedom.

Get a 50-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store, eat freely of what you like and you will do more and better work than on a skimpy diet. Try this plan.

MY HEART AND MY HUSBAND

ADELE GARRISON'S NEW PHASE OF

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

How Mother Graham "Disposed of" Major Grantland.

I have always prided myself upon my self-control; but every iota of it was shredded from me by the increasing pain, different from anything I had ever before experienced, which tore at my side after Major Grantland had put me down upon my bed.

"Don't be frightened," he said. "I do not think it is dangerous, but I am afraid you have fractured a rib. The physician, of course, will be able to ascertain this point definitely when he arrives. But just now there is nothing for you except to be your intrepid, natural self."

My mother-in-law, who had busied herself with putting in order the trifles scattered upon my dressing table, gave one of her characteristic snorts.

"Major Grantland," she said crisply, "if you have quite finished reassuring my daughter-in-law, perhaps you will be so kind as to let me attend to her. I must undress her and put her to bed. Please send the maid up as you go down stairs."

Madge Protests.

"Oh!" I exclaimed in a frenzy of humiliation at the insulting tone and words. "I am so sorry. It is shameful."

"Don't give it another thought," he said in a low tone, pressing my hands slightly and laying them down upon the bed. Then he turned to my mother-in-law, and his words were as measured and cold as the dripping of an icicle.

"Mrs. Graham must be moved as little as possible before the physician arrives. Movement is torture to her. Remove her shoes, cut her clothing wherever it is impossible to remove it without movement upon her part. Above everything keep her quiet until the physician comes."

His voice had the ring of one accustomed to command instant obedience and respectful attention. But those under his authority had been soldiers, not an irascible old woman.

A Puzzle.

"You will perhaps pardon me, Major Grantland, if I remind you that I am the mother-in-law of Dr. Braithwaite, whose work in Paris attracted a good deal of favorable comment during the war. I was a member of the household for years, and I do not need your advice or that of any other procedure to follow with a possible fractured rib preceding the arrival of a physician."

She was magnificent. I had to admit it, despite my resentment at her unjustified rudeness to Major Grantland. But I was startled to hear the officer laugh boyishly, for it was so odd and curious a transition from his ordinarily grave moods. But evidently he was sportsman enough to recognize the point she had scored against him.

"Madam, I acknowledge with admiration your Parthian shot," he said, bowing in his awkward yet dignified manner. "I will await your pleasure as to the questions you wish to ask me downstairs. Good afternoon."

He strode to the door, closed it behind him and I heard his footsteps going down the stairs. I kept my eyes closed and waited in almost a nervous frenzy of apprehension for what Mother Graham would say. I was sure that she would make some caustic remark about the officer's carrying me upstairs, yet she had effectually thwarted my own protest. Usually I can follow her mental processes pretty accurately, but this was one of the times when she completely baffled me as to what her brain concepts might be.

My absolute astonishment may be imagined when her voice came to my ears with a softness and a gentleness that would make the traditional cooing dove hide her head in hopeless envy.

"Is the pain so bad, child? But I know it must be. I had one once myself. Now if that jackanapes of an officer had gone about his business when he got you up here, instead of palavering around I would have had Katie up here and we would have had you as comfortable as you could be. Of course I couldn't stop the pain, but I could have gotten all these bothersome things off."

"Drat the men, anyway. There's not one of 'em has the sense of a grasshopper. And where in creation is that ape of a girl? He certainly must have told her to come up here, unless he's gone completely out of his seven senses, as I more than half believe."

And I wondered, worriedly, if there was a deeper meaning to her running diatribe against the officer than appeared on the surface.

JERRY THE JAY AND MR. GROUNDHOG.

Tinker Bob was anxious concerning Mr. Ground Hog. It might be he would go away and be lost just because Major Pole Cat and O. Possum had been too much interested in the other fellow's business and had scared him off. The great forest King knew this could easily happen. So he went out into the forest to find Mr. Ground Hog.

Mr. Ground Hog was wise. He did not intend that even the forest creatures should outwit him. When he ran out the front door of Chief Porky's home he went at once to the edge of the forest, where he was close to the river and the meadow, and here he started to dig a hole in the earth at the base of a great tree. He worked and worked until the sun came up, and the first one to spy him was Jerry the Jay bird.

"What is your name?" asked Jerry in his saucy manner.

"I don't know as that matters to you," replied Mr. Ground Hog.

"But if I should tell you I was sent here by the forest King to find out your name, then what would you say?"

"I would say you were not telling the truth."

This statement made Jerry very angry. "You make me very angry when you talk that way. Don't you know that I am commissioned by the King to report all strangers found within his kingdom?"

"No," replied Mr. Ground Hog. "I didn't know that you were ever appointed for anything but to meddle with other folks' business."

"You talk very strange for one coming into our forest without permission. And I shall report you to the King.

Jerry did not know that Tinker Bob stood nearby and heard every word that he said. The King was wise and had guessed where Mr. Ground Hog would go to make his home.

"Now, Mr. Jay, that will do for you this time. Mr. Ground Hog came to see me before you even knew he was in the forest," said Tinker Bob.

Jerry the Jay bird and Mr. Ground Hog both looked surprised to see Tinker Bob standing before them.

"It would be better, Jerry, for you," continued Tinker Bob, "if you would always tell the truth, then when some one happened along and overheard what you said they would be happy because they had found an honest creature."

Jerry's tail feathers dropped and Mr. Ground Hog noticed that the rebuke of the King made him feel bad. To be happy, we should be worthy of kind words rather than a rebuke.

Tomorrow—Mr. Ground Hog's Winter Home.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 20.

The planetary aspects for this day may be considered as most negligible in their purport. There are but two semi-squares—which is always to be interpreted as of minor significance, as they simply admonish calm and serene conditions, with a bit upon the tongue and temper, and a measure of discretion wherever activity of any nature is imperative. This warning applies particularly to the signing of papers, contracts or other writings, as Mercury—the planet governing these—is under a slight Lunar affliction. Changes of any nature are advised against. The mutual aspect of Venus semi-sextile Saturn has a tendency to elevate the feelings and emotions, and to enlarge the sympathies and exalt the mind.

Those whose birthday it is have the prospect of a quiet and uneventful year. A child born on this day while being high-minded and idealistic, will be wayward and erratic. It should not aspire to any phase of public life.

QUALITY Rolled Oats

With the Delicious Flavor that Comes of Perfect Freshness

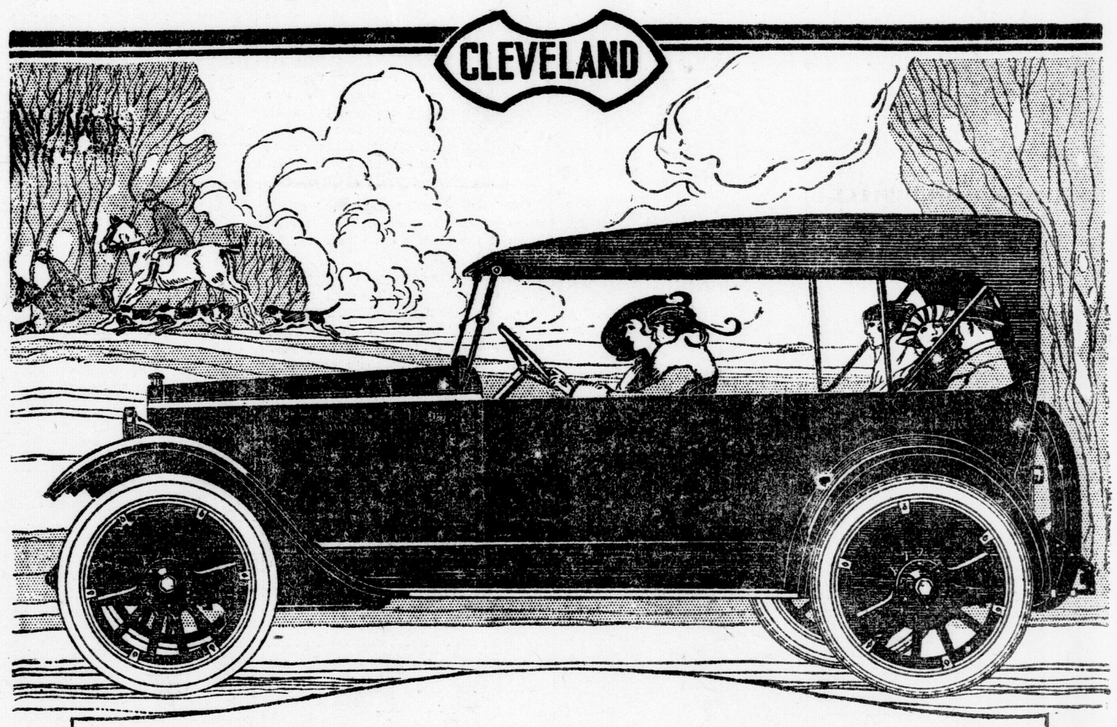

QUALITY Rolled Oats are made fresh every day—for each day's needs. Never stored. Never made up ahead of the day's demand. And they are shipped direct from the famous Tillsonburg Mill.

Your grocer now sells QUALITY Rolled Oats in air-tight packages—the kind he has bought for years by the pound for his discriminating customers.

NO DISSENTING VOTE ON SOLDIERS' HALL, IS GENERAL DESIRE

Let the $100,000 Bylaw Be Passed Unanimously.

POSSIBLE, MAYOR THINKS

And Would Make City's Name Stand Out With Prominence.

Is it possible for a city of 60,000 people to poll a unanimous vote on any question?

Mayor Somerville and the city council think that it is possible, particularly when the question is to commence a memorial hall for the city's soldiers by authorizing the issue of $100,000 debentures.

A plebiscite is to be taken on this matter, and the hope is that the "No" column will be an absolute blank, while the "Yes" column will be filled in by every voter who goes to the polls.

Would Belong To City.

For some time there has been an agitation for a memorial to the city's soldiers, and it has been generally agreed that this should take the form of a hall where all the returned soldiers' organizations could be accommodated. While definite plans are not made, it is likely that there would be an auditorium with a seating capacity of several thousand, which would be surrounded by smaller rooms for the accomodation of the different organizations. The building would be the property of the city, and in time would revert to it, when the generation from which the soldiers were recruited passes away. In the meantime the auditorium could be used for large conventions and gatherings of all kinds.

Taking Time.

The city council will not spend the $100,000 until definite plans have been made. It is realized that this is not nearly a sufficient amount, but this will get the work under way, and further money will be forthcoming, both from the city and by private subscription, so that London can erect a memorial worthy of the men who represented her in the Great War.

So certain was the city council that the people favored the plan, that it was intended to issue the debentures without taking the vote. It was decided to submit it to the people. This was not done with the belief that there would be any people who did not favor the project, but merely give every citizen the chance to show his approval of this memorail to the fighting men.

"There is not the slightest reason why this bylaw should not go through without a single contrary vote," said Mayor Somerville today. "I think every voter in the city favors erecting a memorial of this kind to the soldiers, and I do not think that anyone will vote against it.

"If London were to pass a plebiscite without a dissenting vote it would be something unique in municipal history, and would make the city's name stand out as never before."

JACK FROST STARTS HIS OFFENSIVE; KING SOL FIGHTS BRAVELY

Snow Captured City At Night, But Is Losing Ground.

Last night, for the first time in nine months, London was mantled in a robe of purest white. Bit by bit, Mother Goose augmented the supply of dress goods, and when at midnight she had finally succeeded in plucking all the geese that were to lose their coverings that day, the city was completely clothed.

Old Jack Frost, knowing that this was the day on which he hoped to take the reins of Government from Old Sol, decorated the window panes and the trees for the occasion. Throughout the night, he consolidated his gains and by morning was firmly entrenched in his new position.

Early this morning as a result of his activities, a number of horses fell on the ice-coated pavements. By noon, however, Old Sol had dislodged King Frost on almost every front. At the Cove ponds the winter monarch is holding his own. Here he has such a firm grip, that boys have been playing on the ice, and a few of the adventurous ones attempted to rush the season by skating. Most of these, however, soon were in the same condition that Ontario was before September, 1916.

At the time of going to press the fight was still on between the forces of General Frost and General Sol. Although the latter may hold out for some time, it is not expected that he will accomplish much unil many weeks after December 22, the day on which he begins to receive reinforcements.

TAMPICO IS RAVAGED BY MALARIAL PLAGUE

El Paso, Texas, Nov. 18.—Hundreds of Mexican federal soldiers have died of hemorrhage malaria in the Tampico oil district recently, according to Excelsior of Mexico City. The Mexican secretary of war has ordered the dispatch of two additional military sanitation brigades to Tampico to take vigorous measures toward the control of the disease.

POPE PLANS TO HELP DESTITUTE CHILDREN

Rome, Nov, 18.—A document is about to be issued by the pope calling the attention of the world to the necessity for aiding destitute children of all the nations recently engaged in the war. It is expected the pope will contribute a considerable sum of money for starting the work. The pope has already organized at Monte Mario, near Rome, a home for tubercular children.

EXPECTS HEAVY IMMIGRATION TO CANADA IN NEAR FUTURE

London, Nov. 18.—Herbert Samuel, former British postmaster-general, believes that a great immigration to Canada will take place in the near future. High prices will give an impetus to the movement towards food-producing countries. Emigration from Eastern Europe was growing steadily before the war, and a big movement from this quarter might present one of the most formidable problems for Canada in the future, he said.

AUSTRALIAN CABINET MINISTER IN CANADA TO STUDY CONDITIONS

Hon. Robert Hunter Surprised at What Dominion Has Done for Returned Soldiers.

Montreal, Nov. 19.—"I am simply astounded at what is being done in this country for returned soldiers."

This was the verdict of the Hon. Robert Hunter of Queensland, Australia, a minister in the Hughes cabinet, who is in charge of the land settlement and re-established work in that country. Mr. Hurter is in Canada, studying its system of dealing with returned soldier problems. Mr. Hunter stated that so far as Australia is concerned, she had no organization, which can compare with Canada's department of soldiers' re-establishment. He came to Montreal from Ottawa, where he had been in conference with Sir James Lougheed, head of the department, studying the organization and the administration of its many ramifications. Upon his visit here he was conducted through the various branches of department by Major W. F. Buckley, the local director of the D. S. C. R., visiting the Prince Edward Hospital, the Orthopedic factory, the limb foundry, the technical training schools, and the administration offices.

Coalition Governments Are Strongly Advocated By British Statesman

Bonar Law Declares French Elections Are Really a Victory for Union Parties.

London, Nov. 19.—Addressing Unionists in London last night, Andrew Bonar Law, the government leader in the House of Commons, emphasized the importance of a coalition government in developing the strength of nations. He said that Great Britain, France and Italy in the war realized that the life of the nations was in danger, and formed coalitions to save them. The United States, being further away, did not form a coalition.

New danger was seen, and, said Mr. Bonar Law, it would be terrible if it became a reality that a great nation might not play a part in reconstruction after the war because there had been no coalition, and party spirit was as rampant as though there had been no war.

The result of the elections in France, he declared, was really a victory for coalition.

GERMAN DELEGATION ABANDONS TRIP TO LABOR CONFERENCE

Gothenburg, Sweden, Nov. 18.—The German delegation to the Washington labor conference has abandoned its trip on the eve of sailing and will return to Germany. It is announced the Government considers the journey useless in view of the impending close of the conference.

FOURTEEN YEARS AS MINIMUM AGE FOR CHILDREN TO WORK

Washington, Nov. 19.—The international labor conference had before it today the report of the child labor committee. The report recommends an international agreement to fix fourteen years as the minimum age for the employment of children to industrial enterprises and to prohibit the employment of workers between 14 and 18 years of age in industries where conditions are considered bad for women workers.

SINN FEINERS WOULD BAR GENERAL FROM HUNTING GROUNDS

Belfast, Nov. 19.—Sinn Feiners in Northeast Ulster have sent an ultimatum with 200 signatures to the executive of the County Down Staghounds refusing access to hunting grounds in the district if General Hacket-Pain is permitted to take part in its hunts.

General Hacket-Pain, prior to the war, was chief of staff of the Ulster volunteer forces. Being on the reserve list of the British army at the outbreak of the war he took command of a brigade in the Ulster division. Until recently the general was in charge of the Belfast district. Last August Nationalist and Sinn Fein Lady Day demonstration and procession was forbidden by General Hacket-Pain.

TWO THOUSAND QUARTS OF LIQUOR SEIZED BY ST. JOHN INSPECTORS

St. John, N. B., Nov. 19.—More than 2,000 quarts of assorted liquors and a plant supposed to have been used for manufacture of liquor were seized yesterday when liquor inspectors raided the residence of William Webber, in an exclusive residential district. This is said to be the largest single seizure of liquor in the province since the prohibition act came into effect.

KING ALBERT TO NAME NEW BELGIAN PREMIER

Cabinet Will Not Be Fully Constituted for Some Time Yet.

Brussels, Nov. 19.—Complete election returns are not yet available, but according to present indications, the Chamber will probably include eighty Catholics, sixty-five Socialists and thirty-five Liberals. It is expected King Albert will appoint a new premier on Thursday, but it is considered unlikely a cabinet to take the place of the one which tendered its resignation last week will be definitely constituted before the end of the month, owing to the uncertain attitude of he Socialists.

PEACE CONFERENCE MUST SETTLE DANZIG QUESTION

Warsaw, Tuesday, Nov. 18.—Conferences between Polish delegates and representatives of the German Government in Berlin relative to the administration of the free town of Danzig have not reached a definite phase as yet. It seems the question involved must be settled by the peace conference in Paris.

LAUNCHES CAMPAIGN AGAINST ALL LABOR CANDIDATES IN CITY

Winnipeg Citizens Committee Issues Appeal to Electors.

CLEAR CUT ISSUES

Radical Labor Candidate For Mayor Declares Strikers Will Be Rewarded.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 19.—In a full-page advertisement in a local paper, the citizens' committee today formally launched its campaign in an appeal to citizens to defeat Labor candidates in the civic elections.

It reads, in part:

"There is this measure of satisfaction in the civic contest—the issue is clear. The radical labor candidates stand for class rule in the administration of the affairs of the city. The citizens' candidates say the people shall rule, regardless of class. Between these two theories of civic government there is no possibility of compromise. These candidates of the radical labor element, and their supporters proclaim that 'this contest is the second chapter of the strike' that their supporters must 'vote as you struck.' The same forces are behind them that stood behind the O. B. U. with their red followers in the strike last summer. They glory in the turmoil their efforts provoked in June. That is the issue they have again raised. They want no other and the citizens accept the challenge.

Will Reward Strikers.

"Mr. S. J. Farmer, the radical labor candidate for mayor, is on record as having stated in a public address that 'this civic election is the second round of the strike which took place last May and June.' Saturday night, at the Labor Church, F. J. Dixon, speaking with others in support of Mr. Farmer, asked, in a speech supporting that candidate, that the people give a verdict of "not guilty' for the labor leaders at the polls.

"These candidates and their supporters propose as a definite policy that all civic employees who lost their positions as a result of the strike shall be reinstated. Loyal civil servants are to be punished by loss of their jobs while those who obeyed the strike order, rather than their oath of loyalty to the city, are to be rewarded."

LABOR ORGAN SAYS EFFORTS BEING MADE TO BECLOUD ISSUES

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 19.—The Labor News says editorially: Every attempt is being made to confuse and becloud the issues of the present municipal campaign. In particular it is asserted that the industrial issues of the Winnipeg strike are being re fought in the civic campaign.

"The right to organize and the right of collective bargaining are not being re fought in the civic campaign. They could not be re fought in any civic campaign. What is being fought for by labor is the recognition by the civic government of the right to recognize and the right of collective bargaining. If labor wins, these rights will be recognized by the city of Winnipeg. If labor loses those rights will be disputed by the city government of Winnipeg.

"x x x x so far as the conduct of the strike itself comes under review in the campaign the issue is the repudiation by a spirited and free democratic community of the illegal and arbitrary methods used by the authorities at the instigation of selfish interest to crush organized, yes, and unorganized labor.

"x x x x The opponents of labor have no program; labor has one of advance and reform in municipal government."

MEETS DEATH IN FALL FROM EIGHTH STORY OF A NEW YORK HOTEL

Canadian Representative of Paint and Oil Is Instantly Killed.

Montreal, Nov. 19.—Charles L. Schainwald of New York, 65 years of age, Canadian representative of the Standard Paint and Oil Company, fell from the window of his suite in the Ritz Carlton Hotel here, yesterday, at a height of eight stories from the ground, struck on a projection on the second story and was instantly killed. Mr. Schainwald, who was suffering from asthma, is supposed to have opened the window to get air when he was attacked with a fit of coughing, overbalanced himself and fell through the window.

Mr. Schainwald, who is said to have been a well-known philanthropist, had occupied the suite at the Ritz Carlton for the past three or four years.

The body was taken to an undertaker's and an inquest will be held today.

WOULD LEVY HIGH TAXES TO PAY OFF BELGIUM'S DEBT IN A FEW YEARS

Belgian Socialist Leader Prefers This Method to Liquidate War Expenses.

Antwerp, Nov. 18.—Belgian Socialists are in agreement with the government on the economic question, according to an interview with Camille Huysmans, the Belgian Socialist leader, printed in Neptune.

M. Huysmans said he considered the financial question as the most important at the present time. Belgium's debt being 18,000,000,000 francs. It was useless to promise labor high pensions, he declared, as no money was available. To pay off the war debt in fifty years, as proposed by Premier Lloyd George, means to pay it twice, the Socialist leader added. It was better to extinguish it by one levy rather than by a series of taxes, he contended.

"If Germany pays to Belgium the sums necessary to rebuild the railways and channel ports," M. Huysmans said, "that is all we can expect."

"The intellectual classes who so far have constituted the proletariat and aristocracy," M. Huysmans concluded, "must descend from their throne. We can do for intellectual classes what we did for manual labor."

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

THE LOCAL MARKET

Potatoes are scarce on the local market. They are quoted at $2.25 to $2.40, with a few asking as high as $2.50 a bag.

Up to a late hour this morning only one load of hay was offered, and difficulty was experienced in finding a buyer, although the price hovered from $23 to $26 a ton. Fifty loads of hay were sold locally during the first two days of this week, easing the demand.

The quotations for today's shipment of hogs could not be secured, but it is almost certain that the price will range from $16 to $16.25 a cwt.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—Open:
Corn—December, $1.33; May, $1.25⅝.
Oats—December, 72½c; May, 75⅛c.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—Corn prices underwent a drop today as a result of authoritative denials that a sweeping embargo on railway freight had been considered owing to the coal shortage. Nevertheless, traders were by no means fully reassured, and their fears that the crop movement might be seriously interfered with led soon to a new upturn in values. The December delivery in particular showed a tendency to ascend. Opening prices, which ranged from the same as yesterday's finish to 2c lower, with December at $1 32½@1 33½; May, $1 25½@1 25¾, were followed by a rally that in some cases went well above the preceding close.

Oats lacked support. After opening ⅛c to ¼c to ⅝c lower, including May at 75⅛@75¼c, the market recovered a little, but then sagged again.

PROVISIONS.

Liverpool, Nov. 19.—Hams—Short cut, 190s.

Bacon—Cumberland cut, 184s 6d; Wiltshire cut, 187s; clear bellies, 191s; long clear middles, light and heavy, 202s; short clear backs, 191s; shoulders, square, 157s.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—Provisions were governed mainly by the action of the hog market. After a steady start there were some signs of weakness.

OILS.

Turpentine Spirits—128s.

London, Nov. 19.—Calcutta Linseed—November and December, £46 10s.

Linseed Oil—93s.

Sperm Oil—£54.

Turpentine Spirits—127s.

Rosin—American strained, 50s; type G, 54s.

Tallow—Australian, 112s 6d.

COTTON.

Liverpool, Nov. 19.—Cotton—Futures closed steady: November, 23.12d; December, 22.38d; January, 22.15d; February, 21.61d; March, 21.08d; April, 20.71d; May, 20.34d; June, 20.08d; July, 19.81d; August, 19.27d; September, 18.55d; October, 17.95d.

WALL STREET.

New York, Nov. 19.—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Liquidation of high-priced specialties was promptly resumed at the opening of today's stock market. Further losses of 2 to 10 points were sustained by the issues which led last week's sweeping reactions. General Motors declined seven points at the outset, this soon being extended to ten points. Crucible Steel, which contributed mainly to yesterday's setback, broke 8 points. Other issues of these divisions, also oils, motor specialties, shippings, leathers and miscellaneous specialties were 2 to 3 points lower. In a few issues, notably General Motors and Mexican Petroleum, full recoveries were made within the first half-hour. In other quarters moderate rallies were in progress.

Noon.—The early rally was of brief duration, renewed selling and feeble buying power soon forcing the entire list downward. Further collapse of exchange on London and Continental Europe, and reports that the Federal Reserve Board, sitting in Washington today, may recommend additional restrictive market measures, gave impetus to the steady but orderly liquidation. Unsettled industrial conditions were again reflected in the announcement of further curtailment of western train service. The money market offered little encouragement, call loans opened at yesterday's fixed rate of 12 per cent.

1:30 p.m.—Still lower prices attended the further outpourings at midday, losses in stocks recently favored by bull pools ranging from five to thirty-three points. Temporary rallies of two to ten points followed the decision of the Federal Reserve Bank not to increase the present rediscount rates.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE LOWER.

New York, Nov. 19.—Foreign exchange again dropped to new low levels today. The pound sterling brought only $4.03¾, which is ¾ of a cent lower than the lowest rate reported yesterday. France centime below yesterday's quotations, the previous low record.

Lire cables were quoted at 12.40 for the dollar, 35 centimes below yesterday's closing prices, and the German mark brought only 2 2-5 cents as compared with 23 and 24 cents before the war.

Steady offerings during the first hour forced sterling down to $4 03⅛ to the pound. Lires broke 10 centimes to 12.50 for the dollar, and marks dropped to 2.12c.

GOLD CENTRE

TERMS—Are Cash, or Half Cash; Balance in 30 Days.

DON'T LET THIS CHANCE SLIP

The Gold Centre property consists of four claims of 160 acres, entirely surrounded by some of the greatest producing gold mines in the world, such as Hollinger, McIntyre, Dome Extension and Dome. The location of the property, the record of the mines around it, and the geology of the district, all point to the possibility of Gold Centre developing into equally as great a mine as any surrounding it.
The T. & N. O. Railway passes directly through the property as well as the electric power lines of the Northern Ontario Light and Power Company.

DEVELOPMENT BEGINS AT ONCE.

All that is needed to make the mine a leader is intelligent and honest development work. Every dollar received from this offering will immediately go into the treasury for the carrying-on of such work, which first will consist of diamond drilling to cut the veins at a depth of about 500 feet at a number of different points. This work will be under the direct supervision of Mr. P. M. Walton, M.E., A.I.M.E.
If you feel that you would like to join with the practical Business and Mining Men of years of experience in this field, in the development of gold properties of exceptional promise and where the funds will be expended in a conscientious and intelligent effort to make the enterprise a real success in a short time, fill in the subscription form below and mail at once.

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE

YOUR GILT-EDGED OPPORTUNITY

Six years ago a Dundas street store with 40 feet frontage sold for $6,000.

FORTY-ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS will purchase today that most desirable three-story and basement solid brick business block, 70 feet on Dundas street, 4 stores, fitted up at the present time for store and office buildings.

FORTY-ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS will give you 147 feet frontage and 10 feet right-of-way in a most ideal business location, right in the heart of the city.

If a $6,000 downtown property could increase $14,000 in value during four and a half years of war, and one of reconstruction, figure out what your return will be at the end of six years on a $41,000 investment, made at the beginning of London's after-the-war years of rapid growth and prosperity.

BANK OF NOVA SCOTIA CHAMBERS
422 RICHMOND STREET.
Phone 420. Night 1066.

List your properties with me quickly. Purchasers, buy one of the following choice homes and avoid paying high rents. Reasonably priced homes in London will increase in value, as London is destined to become a great manufacturing and wholesale distributing centre and should reach 200,000 people within 20 years and 100,000 within 5 years. These are the figures set by those interested in building up and boosting our banner city.

4 beautiful bungalows, every appointment in the homes, all modern, ideal locations, ranging from $4,500 to $8,000. These are simply beautiful.

6 story-and-half to two-story new, thoroughly up-to-date, modern brick homes, on splendid lots and in splendid locations, prices range from $3,200 to $6,800.

6 charming 7 to 10-room large brick homes of the finest interior design and charming locations, from $6,500 to $15,000.

4 modern brick and frame, centrally located, can be bought at a price as an investment and some of them turned into duplex homes which would net fine dividends to the purchaser, who, if desired, could live in the same home and rent the other part of it. 10 to 15 per cent on the investment. Some of the above homes have garages.

6 modern cottages in all four corners of the city from $2,200 to $4,500.

4 of practically the best building lots in the City of London at reduced prices for a short time. Other large and small attractive homes in all parts of the city. A few choice small acreage properties joining the city.

60 acres joining the city. Would make a fine subdivision or small market garden plots. This, if taken quickly, is going to be a money-maker for the purchaser. The price is low.

Splendid grocery and butcher stand, choice location, can be bought below cost if taken quickly. Owner leaving city. Two large business blocks now bringing fine revenue for sale. Don't delay as these are attractive. Call and get particulars of whatever class of properties you are interested in and you will receive prompt attention.

Owners, list your properties with me. I have many inquiries and have placed many Toronto, Hamilton, Chatham and other centre's people in London within the last short period. London is growing. Houses are getting scarce and you need your coal in, as the winter is at hand.

Insurance, bond, loan, estate broker. Money to loan at 6 and 6½ per cent. Automobile at your service. b

LEAGUE WILL FIGHT TO SAVE TOBACCO

"Liberty" Organization Plans Opposition for W. C. T. U.

Windsor, Nov. 19.—Reorganization of the Canadian Citizens' Liberty League to fight the Women's Christian Temperance Union and other such organizations in their campaign against the use of tobacco is contemplated, according to officers of the Windsor and district branch of the league.

Word received from Toronto that the temperance union is secretly organizing to induce the farmers' government to either enact legislation prohibiting the growth and sale of tobacco, or authorize a referendum on the question, has caused the league, officers said, to prepare to put its organization on a permanent basis.

Roy J. Tanner, secretary of one of the Toronto branches of the league, issued a statement Monday, in which he declared the temperance union has "many million dollars' worth of literature for its anti-smoking campaign."

Assistance of Essex County farmers in combating the union will be sought as more than $5,000,000 worth of tobacco was grown this year in South Essex.

REFORMATORY USED 'COLD WATER DASH'

MADE TO STAND ON TOES

Superintendent Testifies That Water Treatment Was to Reduce Congestion in Head.

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 19.—In the trial today of Ruth Carter, 21 years old, an inmate of Bedford Reformatory, indicted for assaulting a keeper at the institution, before County Judge Frank L. Young and a jury at White Plains, five girl inmates and several guards testified that among the correctional ideas carried out at Bedford were the "cold water dash" and the handcuffing of girls to cell doors so that they had to stand on their toes, and solitary confinement with bread and water.

The woman is specifically charged with having knocked down a woman guard and blackened her eye when she tried to take her to the disciplinary building on August 25. Through her counsel, Humphrey J. Lynch, the girl's defence is that she is of a very nervous disposition and that if she did assault the guard she was insane at the time. The Carter girl said that she was kept in solitary confinement for two months and that she was fed on bread and water during that time.

Assistant District Attorney Thomas F. McKennell brought out from Miss Cobb, the superintendent of the reformatory, that during the past three years there had been 1,000 inmates in the institution and that only fifteen of them had been given the cold water treatment or had been handcuffed to the cell doors.

Inmates at the institution testified that a pail of water was thrown on a girl's head for punishment or else her head was forced in a bucket of cold water.

"What was the purpose of this treatment?" McKennell asked Miss Cobb.

"It was done to reduce blood congestion in the head of the girl," she said, and added that this treatment was carried out because of the behavior of girls who suffered from overwrought nerves. Those who had been smashing window panes, having violent temper, or using bad language. The witness said it was more for a correctional measure than for punishment and that if it was of no benefit the idea was stopped.

The superintendent was asked by Lawyer Lynch how the girls were handcuffed, and she said their hands were placed behind their back, handcuffs adjusted, and then another pair of handcuffs were attached and these were fastened to the cell door. Witnesses testified that the stringing up process was in conjunction with the cold water process to quiet the girls and make them tractable.

BOOKMAKING IN LONDON SUBJECT OF HISTORICAL ADDRESS

Dr. Barnett Reviews Bookmaking and Printing Trade in London.

The London and Middlesex Historical Society held its meeting last night at the Barnett Library of Western University, 313 Cheapside street, when Dr. Barnett spoke on "Books Made in London," illustrating his talk with a large number of specimens of the bookmaking and printing trade of London during the last 75 years. The evening was enjoyed by all present, not the least interest being in the surroundings under which the meeting was held.

The earliest printed book having London as its birthplace was one that H. Taylor wrote and Wm. Sutherland printed, bearing the title "The Present Condition of United Canada," selling at 3s 1½d. In 1856 there was issued the first directory of London, with a folding map, Sutherland again being the printer. Seven years later the second directory was issued, without a map this time, but having a good short history of London written by W. G. Moncrieff. Dawson, in 1866 printed the poems of R. E. Mat, while in the same year an author, bearing the initials F. C. T. had printed for her by the Cameron, "Sketches for Life," dedicated to the scholars of Christ Church Sunday school. Imprints of this same year are "The Ultimatum," by Lieut.-Col. Blackford of Komoka, and "Poems" by Jacob D. Allen, rather poor stuff.

Cars Moved Fast in 1874.

Entered in 1869 by Robert McBride of Oil Springs, Lambton County, are "Poems Satirical, etc." rubbing it into the law administration and the bad behavior of the Canada Land Company. This was printed by Dawsons. Alec Glendinning, from Aberlock, near Galt, writes in 1871, "Rhymes," chiefly devotional. He had 550 subscribers before having his book printed by the Free Press. "Maple Leaves," by "Susie D.," although entered by Susan Drury in 1871 as a second edition, are poems that the late C. C. James said were anonymous.

In 1874 Vivian prints and F. Swire writes "Short Poems, etc." Included is a prose picture of London, which shows it as a small but flourishing city situated "on the outskirts of Carling's Brewery." The Thames is described as six yards wide in some of its broader parts, and the street cars, he says, dash by with meteoric swiftness at a velocity varying from two to two and a half miles a month." Its police force, he says, patrols the streets by day and peacefully slumbers therein by night. It also has a burlesque story of the struggle for a position on the police force, probably chief.

Ostensibly of London make, but almost certain to be from some Toronto press, is the privately issued "Memoir of Thomas Scatcherd," in 1878, rich in local matter. An album with inserted photos made in 1881 by O'Connor and Lancaster is, with its two maps, interesting.

A tour of the Thames, illustrated by Prof. Blot, who really is W. L. Judson, the art teacher of Paul Peel, it would on its literary merits, head this list. This is from The Advertiser press.

The volume that touches elderly Londoners most feelingly is Robert Elliot's Poems, 1904, printed by Lawson & Jones. It is now rare, the copy shown belonging to the public library.

The other items shown last night were pamphlets of a kind that the university curator desires to add to its local historical section, such as church and society reports, sermons, souvenirs, etc. Gifts of these will be kept in shape for easy reference at the university library.

DOROTHY GISH, the delightful little star in the new peace version of Griffith's masterpiece, "Hearts of the World," which is showing at the Majestic for the last time today. The same wonderful musical score accompanies the production. Showing on this program will be the picture of the Prince of Wales' visit to London and Western Ontario. A Chester Outing Picture of mountain goat hunting in Alaska is presented, besides a Harry Pollard Comedy.

WOULD KEEP BECK AT HEAD OF HYDRO ANOTHER 10 YEARS

Hydro Commissioners Would Remain in Office Four Years.

"That the hydro-electric power commission act be amended so that the appointment of the commission shall be for a term of years along the lines of the federal act, respecting the appointment of the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada: the chairman for a term of ten years and the other members for a term of four years, the first election of the municipal representatives to provide for four and two years respectively. The municipal representative securing the largest number of votes for a term of four years and the one securing the next highest number of votes for a term of two years.

"That Sir Adam Beck, the present chairman of the commission, be appointed to be the permanent chairman, and that the number of commissioners to be increased to five and that the municipalities using the hydro power be accorded the right to elect two members of the said commission."

The foregoing resolution was carried by an unanimous vote at the special meeting of the Hydro-Electric Association held yesterday afternoon in the Tecumseh House, and which was attended by a large number of representatives of hydro-electric municipalities. The meeting was to have been held in the Masonic Temple, but because of the length of the luncheon ceremony at the Tecumseh, it was decided not to leave the hotel. After this business session, the party left for St. Thomas on the London and Port Stanley Railway.

Amended to Ten Years.

The original motion, when read by the secretary, recommended that Sir Adam be appointed for a term of six years, but it was quickly amended, and the words "ten years" substituted, because of many protestations from the members that a six-year term was not long enough. R. F. Elliott of Kingston, Mayor Buchanan of Ingersoll, and several other delegates expressed themselves as warmly in favor of the extension of the period.

"No matter what party is in power at Queen's Park, Toronto, I am strongly in favor of the appointment of Sir Adam Beck as permanent chairman of the hydro-electric commission," said Mr. Elliott. "He should be given the office for at least ten years, so that he will not be pulled out of that office through the whims and fancies of those who gain entrance to the Legislature in the future. Also, I heartily agree that assistance be given to Sir Adam during that period, for if he were allowed to do the work alone, his strength could not uphold the strain. We all know how hard he has worked in the past, and the long hours and extra labor would be bound to break his nerves in time. Then, too, he should have capable assistants around him, so that he may educate them to carry on the splendid, mighty work of the commission, if he were to be called away."

Opposes Long Terms.

Mayor Buchanan of Ingersoll did not agree with the wording of the original motion, which stated that the chairman and assistants should be elected to office for a period of six years. "In the case of Sir Adam's assistants, I do not think that they should remain in a position beyond recall for such a long term," he said. "Municipalities have learned, in the past, the indiscretion of appointing officials for long periods. I suggest that the men be elected for a term of three years; then, at the end of that time, if they had proved their worth they could be reappointed for a similar period." After further discussion, the motion was amended and changed to its present form.

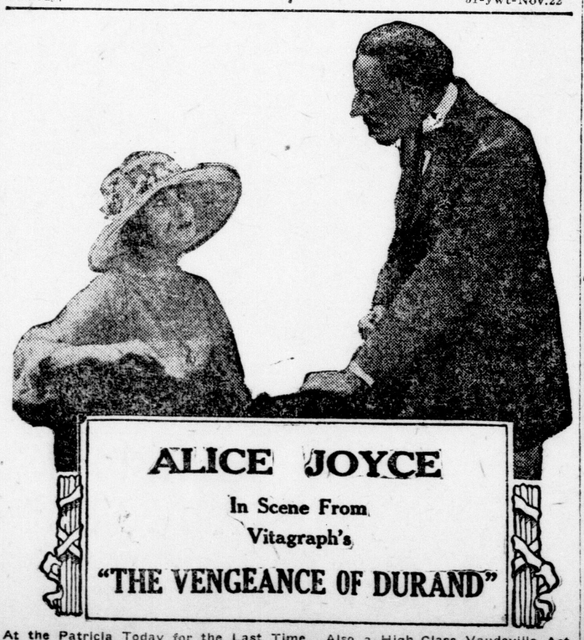

A suggestion was made that the sale of hydro-electric commission bonds be made in the province through the municipalities in the same manner in which the Victory bonds have been sold. A resolution recommending the plan was read and carried.

The reduction of the meter inspection fee by the Engineers' Association of Ontario was discussed by the members who felt that the matter should be placed before parliamentary representatives, so that it could be brought to the attention of the House. A resolution which was passed without comment instructed the secretary to take the matter up with the various Dominion representatives who will place it before the House for consideration. The name of D. C. Wilson of North Wentworth riding was mentioned as a hydro representative.

W. K. Sanderson of St. Thomas and the chairman of the Hydro-Electric Association, presided at the meeting.

ALICE JOYCE
In Scene From Vitagraph's
"THE VENGEANCE OF DURAND"
At the Patricia Today for the Last Time. Also a High-Class Vaudeville Act, a Two-Reel Comedy, and a News Weekly Film.

"Mickey" at Grand Opera House Today

After showing to capacity audiences the first two days of its second engagement at the Grand, "Mickey," the big super-production, will be again shown today.

Owing to the unusual demand for seats, which caused many Londoners to miss seeing "Mickey," this photoplay is being held over, and will be shown here Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. As a character study it is a real work of art. The story is vivid with action, much of which is laid in that wonderful twilight zone of comedy where half the laughs are wet with tears. The picture itself, to say nothing of the musical score which accompanies it, is the biggest thing in silent drama that has ever been attempted. Miss Madge Wescott will sing "Micky" at both performances today. Remember, "Mickey" will be shown once only at the evening performance, commencing at 9:20 sharp.

McKAY'S SCOTCH REVUE HEADLING IN VAUDEVILLE

McKay's Scotch Revue is the headline vaudeville feature of today's bill. There are seven people in the offering, six girls and one man. They have appearance and ability, and for a finish play several ragtime numbers on the bagpipes.

Charles A. Loder and Company present a farce-comedy in which several screaming situations afford an admirable vehicle for the well-known comedian.

Shelton Brooks, song writer and colored comedian, assisted by Horace George, the jazz clarionetist, present a pleasing musical and comedy offering.

Le Rue and Dupre, Parisian sand artists, and the Innes Brothers, the eccentricities of genius, are the other features of this excellent bill.

Hana Shimozumi, the young Japanese prima donna of the Gallo English Opera Company, which comes to the Grand tomorrow, Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:15, and Saturday matinee at 2:30, has been the subject of great curiosity on the part of the women patrons at all performances given by the company. They marvel at her excellent command of the English language, overlooking the fact that twenty of her twenty-three years have been passed in what was once termed "the Land of the Free." Miss Shimozumi rather runs to athletics, having held the California amateur tennis championship three years in succession.

For the local engagement the Gallo English Opera Company will offer on Thursday and Saturday nights "The Mikado"; on Friday evening "The Chimes of Normandy," and at the Saturday matinee, "H. M. S. Pinafore." Seats now on sale.

TO ADDRESS CONVENTION.

"Live Wire Wenige of London, Canada, the man who sells bicycles every day in the year," is the way they have G. A. Wenige of the Bicycle and Motor Sales Company of this city, down on the program for the convention of National bicycle and motorcycle dealers, which opens in Chicago, November 19. Mr. Wenige left for Chicago last night, and will tell the Americans, who are supposed to be foremost in the world in the art of advertising, just how he sells hundreds of bicycles every year through newspaper space in a city the size of London.

CHARITY BALL

in the Winter Garden will be a great success, and all arrangements are completed. A record attendance is assured. All that remains for you to do is wear that better class of jewelry sold by John A. Nash, My Jeweler. His store is 206 Dundas street, "where you will eventually buy." b

Society Brand
AND MEN WHO STAY YOUNG
MADE IN CANADA

Style Is Harder to Get Than All-Wool

There would be no distinction for Society Brand Clothes if their only virtue was all-wool. Any maker could give you this if he wished. But style is a matter of creative designing and careful, costly workmanship.

Because Society Brand tailoring excels in originality of designing and methods of hand-workmanship, they are the criterion of correct style—style that is inbuilt to last as long as the fabric.

With the varied grades of clothing flooding the market, look for this label as your guide. Go to Style Headquarters.
