REMARKABLE JOURNEY OF BRANTFORD TOTS

Were Located at Montreal, Where They Went Via Grand Trunk—Girl Shows Unusual Wanderlust—England Their Destination.

Joy crept into the heart of Mrs. Ebenezer Smith, of 57 Oxford street last night when she heard from a police constable that her two little children, Violet and Victor, had been found, safe and sound in Montreal. She was overjoyed, and could hardly believe until the officer told her they had wandered into a departing train changed at Toronto and been found upon the platform of the Montreal station, and were then in the care of the Montreal police. They were dispatched back to Brantford last night and will arrive here this afternoon.

It appears that after having been sent to school on Monday morning they went to a neighbor's house where they had dinner, and then they roamed around and eventually arrived at the Grand Trunk station just before six o'clock, seizing her chance the little girl rushed the boy into the train already on the platform bound for Toronto. A young man noticed them and asked them who they were and the girl told her name and address, saying she had been sent with her brother to Toronto. The young man regarded it as somewhat suspicious, and mentioned the children to the conductor, who seems to have taken no further notice. How they got to Montreal without tickets is a mystery, however. Arriving at Toronto, a colored porter noticed them and asked them where they were going, and received the answer, "Home to Toronto." Thinking that the little ones were all right and knew their way about, he dismissed the incident from his mind, and it was only when the children were missing from Brantford, he told his story to the Chief and further investigation were failed to show any trace of the missing children. The search was kept up in the hope that some kindly disposed person had sheltered the children, but it was until last night that word from Montreal revealed the fact that the children had left the Queen City behind.

When Mrs Smith first made her report to the police and told of the missing children, they regarded it as a case of a girl who had a reputation for running away. In fact one of them said it was almost a regular occurrence with her, and they were of the opinion that, as usual, she had gone to one of the neighboring towns. She has run away and been found in Galt, Preston and Paris on different occasions, and each time she has been restored to her parents after a day's absence. No doubt her previous experience of trains taught her how to proceed, and she had taken advantage of all she knew to reach Montreal. The conductor of the train seen last night, said he did not remember the children on Monday night particularly. He did observe them, however, and saw they were sitting close to a gentleman, and as children of their age could travel in care of adults, free of charge, he naturally took it for granted that they were journeying with the man beside whom they sat. His attention was not drawn to the children at the beginning of the journey, and he thought that they would follow the majority of those travelling by the train and so transfer to the Montreal train. If they followed the same procedure in it as they did the six o'clock train, they could easily get right through to Montreal by train. What transpired when they arrived there on Tuesday morning is by no means certain, but they eventually landed in the Y. M. C. A. of that city where they were taken care of, and inquiries made. The boy lisped something about Brantford, but as the elder of the two was mute, nothing definite was done, until news of the missing Brantford children was circulated. Information to the authorities resulted in the children being immediately sent back, and they will arrive in Brantford to-night at 6.30 o'clock.

There has been some talk of sending the girl to the Children's Aid Society, but it is doubtful if the police have the authority to take her from her mother's care without the permission of the parent.

Violet has always possessed a roving spirit, and has never forgotten Old England, which she left four years ago. It was in an endeavor to get back there, the girl made her dash, and the same restless longing for the old home land is said to be accountable for her previous wanderings.

"General" Flora Drummond And Sir Edward Carson

LONDON, May 14.—"General" Mrs. Flora Drummond, leader of the militant suffragettes, this morning pitched her camp on the doorstep of Sir Edward Carson's residence in Eton Place and informed the Ulster Unionist leader that she, as a militant, had come to him as another militant to seek his protection from arrest.

Mrs. Drummond had been summoned to appear at the police court this afternoon in connection with the campaign of militancy, and as she had made up her mind not to appear before the magistrate she expected to be arrested, and declared that she would remain on Sir Edward Carson's doorstep and appeal to him for protection when the police arrived to take her into custody.

PRINCESS OF TECK AND THE PRINCE WHO WILL BE GOVERNOR GENERAL OF CANADA

PRINCE AND PRINCESS ALEXANDER OF TECK. Official word comes from London that Prince Alexander of Teck, third son of the late Duke of Teck and brother of Queen Mary, is to succeed the Duke of Connaught as Governor General of Canada. He will take up his duties in October, at the expiration of the term of the Duke of Connaught. The Prince is a keen soldier, but he has had little administrative experience. He is, however, a hard worker and a good organizer.

The Princess of Teck is a great favorite and is voted the prettiest and the best dressed of the British royal princesses.

BULLET SHOT THROUGH TICKET OFFICE WINDOW

Stray Shot Last Night Found Its Way in G. T. R. Office, Colborne Street—Went Close to Mr. Nelson—Is It a Mexican Invasion?

Whether it was an attempted assassination, or merely a stray bullet, deponent sayeth not, but President Nelson of the Brantford Hall Club is not anxious to have the performance repeated. At 7.30 last evening, in the Grand Trunk city ticket office, were assembled Mr. Nelson, Manager Deneau and Treasurer Roy Brown of the club. A conference was being held on how to avoid rainy weather, when suddenly, without a second's notice or any pretension, a bullet whizzed through the back window, and may be going yet. A piece of glass fell on the President's ear, which was sufficient evidence of something unusual happening. Further evidence was discovered in the window pane, which showed a bullet hole so accurately punched that a professional glass driller could not have done better. Casually remarking that he believed the Federals had arrived and were making an attack, Mr. Roy Brown, with Deneau, proceeded to peer out the back window in an effort to see whence came the shot. Mr. Nelson remained religiously in the background. Later Messrs. Brown and Deneau went down to Water street, but no trace of any one with a gun could be found. They returned and proceeded to search for the bullet in the office, but could not find it. In the meantime Mr. Nelson had departed. It was thought that the bullet went right through the front skylight into Colborne street. That it was a bullet there could be no mistake, but whence it came remained a mystery. It is believed that whoever fired the shot must have been on Greenwich street across the canal.

When seen this morning Mr. Nelson was absolutely at a loss to explain why any one should undertake an attempt on his life. "I'm not a Teddy Roosevelt," he declared, "and am not looking for that kind of publicity." On the other hand, Messrs. Deneau and Brown aver that the Federals have arrived and have started sniping.

A DENIAL IS ISSUED TODAY

Sir Edward Grey Will Not Take a Hand in the Mexican Crisis.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, May 14.—A denial is issued by the British foreign office today of the report published in this morning's Standard declaring that Sir Edward Grey had had under consideration a despatch from Sir Lionel Carden, British minister at Mexico City, dealing exhaustively with the whole Mexican situation. The Standard added that the despatch was to be submitted to a cabinet meeting accompanied by the foreign secretary's notes and declared that Sir Edward Grey advised that no useful purpose would be served by South American mediation and that he would indicate a line of policy which would go far to minimize the possibility of further blood shed.

All Toronto! Committee Balks

At the meeting of the fire and light committee yesterday afternoon Ald. Ryerson submitted a lengthy letter from the Hydro Department at Toronto, in which all the Brantford applicants for the position of electrical inspector were reported unfit for the job, but three Toronto men were recommended as suitable. The committee refused to be imposed upon in this manner, and it is doubtful if the Hydro people can force the city to make any appointment. In the meantime the work will be continued by the underwriters, who collect enough fees to pay the salary of the inspector.

TAMPICO HAS FALLEN—THE SITUATION

Mexican Turmoil is Augmented Today—Success of Rebels.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] WASHINGTON, May 14.—The reported capture of Tampico by Constitutionalists after a prolonged stubborn siege that ended with fierce fighting in the heart of the seaport added a new chapter to-day to the exciting history of the Mexican situation. While the South American envoys and members of the American mission prepared for the Niagara Falls conference that is to be begun next Monday, officials in diplomatic and government circles discussed the possibility of developments that might grow out of the rebel victory. It was believed the Constitutionalists immediately would move to import arms and ammunition through Tampico for use in their southern campaign. If that were permitted, some officials suggested to-day that Huerta probably would protest that the halting of shipments of arms for him at Vera Cruz was unjust.

Despite the possibility of such a development, the view was taken in many quarters that the capture of Tampico would dissipate embarrassing circumstances created by the menace to big foreign interests.

President Wilson was expected to make representations to rebel leaders aimed at resumption of operations in the oil fields. Constitutionalists agents asserted the victory on the east coast would ease immediately the international situation. They declare General Gonzales would protect all foreign property, thereby eliminating any necessity for intervention. Carranza's agents claimed Gonzales' victory gave the Constitutionalists absolute control of northern Mexico and assured the resumption of commercial relations between the cities and the markets of the world.

That General Zaragoza's Federals might attempt extreme reprisals in their reported retreat from Tampico was a fear unofficially expressed here to-day. It was suggested that as they moved back from the coast through the rich oil territory, they might ignite tanks of petroleum, directing its flow to the river and threatening a disastrous fire in Tampico. Military observers stated that such a move was not to be expected.

MURDERERS LET LOOSE BY FUNSTON

Seventy Cut-throats Released at Vera Cruz by American General.

VERA CRUZ, May 14.—A friendly Mexican army officer has informed General Funston that 70 murderers imprisoned in the prison of San Juan de Uluoa were released by mistake by the Americans, and are now in Vera Cruz, or with the bands that are plundering the country beyond the American outpost.

The information, which none direct, has been confirmed by Professor Cousachs, of the Naval Academy, Annapolis, a linguist, whom Admiral Badger and General Funston have put in charge of the investigation. The results so far are that it has been discovered that before the occupation there were 106 men charged with murder in San Juan. There were also several score political prisoners and several hundred other men who were held simply to become recruits in the federal army.

Among these murderers were many desperate bandits and professional criminals, most dangerous to any community.

When the United States opened the prison it freed these political prisoners, and as many of the "recruits" prisoners as were able to go. A great many of them, however, were too weak from their experiences to leave at all.

The 70 murderers who gained their liberty simply took the names of recruits whom they terrified into silence. It has not yet been disclosed, but it is believed that some of the Mexican keepers and guards aided them in this matter.

Senator Davis' Measure is Advanced With an Amendment.

OTTAWA, May 14.—The Senate gave the bill against tipping a long step forward yesterday by putting it through the committee stage. MONDAY, JULY 6, PROBABLE DATE OF THE VOTING

Understood That Government Will Make Announcement To-day.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] TORONTO, May 14.—The announcement of the date of the provincial election is expected from the Ontario government to-day and it is understood that Monday, July 6, has been settled upon. In that event the formal nominations would occur on June 29, one week earlier. The necessary writs are now in course of preparation and will be issued shortly. For the past two weeks the consideration of an election by the cabinet has resolved into weighing the advantages of opening the polls on the last Monday in June or first in July. Preparing Already.

The change of a week rests merely on the exigencies of preparation and already the preliminaries are under way.

The work of the enumerators has begun in the unorganized districts and the majority of the counties are at present in such shape that a short time would follow the organizations being whipped into shape. The polling date is arranged because of the interval between completion of seeding and the beginning of the hay crop. Word has been sent to the reorganized districts to start work on the voters' lists.

BETTERS LOSE QUARTER MILLION

[By Special Wire to the Courier] NEW YORK, May 14.—A London cable to the Tribune this morning says: The Tetrach, favorite for the Derby this year, was scratched yesterday, and it was estimated that more than a quarter of a million of dollars have been lost to the bettors in the winter books.

At the close of the flat racing season last fall, the report was current that the Tetrach, one of the three best horses on the English turf last year, had broken down. Later Captain McDermott McCalmont, his owner, said that the horse had been punched fired, and that he would be in trim for the racing season this year. The Tetrach during the early spring had a lot of road work and seemed to be going well.

When the winter books for the Derby opened, the Tetrach was backed from 6 to 1, to 5 to 2. Then the hopes of his backers sank when he was scratched in the Two Thousand Guineas at Newmarket a fortnight ago.

CAN MAKE THEM ALL BILINGUALISTS

Ottawa Separate School Board in Control of the French Element.

OTTAWA, May 14.—The French majority on the local separate school board last night vested Chairman Genest with full authority to dismiss whatever teachers he deems unfit and replace them with qualified teachers, in the event of the injunction which has been taken out at Toronto against the board being sustained. The injunction would restrain the board from paying unqualified teachers and from raising $275,000 by debentures for the erection of new schools.

This decision followed a heated session of the board last night, when the English trustees were voted down by the French trustees, supported by three of the English who support bilingual schools.

The Result. As a result the French majority are in a position to make every separate school in the city bilingual by the appointment of Christian brothers as teachers in the place of the present lay teachers.

Notice of reconsideration of the motion was refused by two-thirds majority.

In further defiance of the Ontario regulations, notice of motion was given by Dr. Freeland, one of the English trustees who supports bilingualism, that he would move at next meeting asking for reorganization of the separate school system in Ottawa to allow intermingling of French and English scholars.

Withdraws Support. Notice was received from Mr. M. P. Davis, the millionaire contractor, and one of the largest separate school supporters in the city, that he was withdrawing to support the public schools. Many other ratepayers have recently followed this course, and in addition to loss of grant from the Ontario Government is a result of disobedience of its regulations, the board is faced with financial stringency.

Flying Train Proves The Latest Success

[By Special Wire to the Courier] NEW YORK, May 14.—A cable to the Tribune from London says: C. M. Bachelet's flying train continues to attract attention. M. Bachelet yesterday wound up a demonstration of his invention by lifting a box into the air in his model passenger car. A boy five years old, weighing 42 pounds, sat in a wicker chair. M. Bachelet switched on the current, and car and boy rose from the coils and remained supported in the air in Mahomet coffin-like effect. The little passenger jumped when he was suddenly jerked upward, but quickly broke into smiles and obviously enjoyed his experience as the first passenger on a flying train. The model car weighs 18 pounds, so that the total weight lifted was 60 pounds.

Softball. The softball league opened last night at Recreation Park, when Ham & Notts and Good, Shapley & Muir's played an eight inning game, which was stopped by darkness with the score 4 all. It was a loose fielding and weak hitting game, both teams showing a lack of practice. Costly errors in the first inning lost the game for G. S. & M., as in the remaining sessions they had the edge on the Hams. Both pitchers handed up a good brand of ball so early in the season. Umpires Hogan and Lyle did good work, which was satisfactory to all. The batteries were: Ham & Nott, Simons and Smith; G. S. & M., McQuinn and Dowling. There will be another good game at Recreation Park when Duff and the Clerks hook up in the second scheduled game. Hetherington and Allen will be in the points for the Duffs, while the Clerks will pick their team from Hanley, Woolman, Robbins, Berry, Dowling, Slattery, Stuart, Powers, Ronan and Campbell. D. ROWELL'S PREPOSTEROUS CLAIM

Under the above heading the Hamilton Herald (Independent) says: "The real issue in the next election in this province," says Mr. Rowell, "is this: Shall the organized liquor forces of the province triumph over the organized forces of our common Christianity?"

If the opposition leader spoke these words in sincerity, he is more fanatical than the Herald has hitherto believed him to be. But it may be suspected that he spoke as a political tactician rather than as a moral reformer.

Does anybody with a spoonful of brains in his head believe that this is a fair presentation of the political situation in this province? There are many men in the province just as desirous as Mr. Rowell is for the progress of temperance reform who do not believe in his policy of prohibition.

For Mr Rowell to claim that he and his supporters are "on the side of the angels," and that all the forces of evil are massed under the Conservative banner, may in his opinion be good party tactics, but it is apt to disgust fair-minded people."

INCREASED CONSUMPTION.

In so far as Canada is concerned, there are some easily traceable factors contributing to the increased cost of living that you hear so much about. You hear about it from Grit politicians who never lifted a finger to arrest the rise in retail prices during the long period of Liberal administration, but who would like you to believe now that conditions would be relieved by the removal of duties which for 15 years they themselves maintained.

How much has the duty to do with it? Take dairy products. The Dominion Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner, Mr. J. A. Ruddick, has compiled statistics of the dairy industry showing that the per capita consumption of dairy products in Canada has enormously increased. The production has also increased, but not in the same ratio. The Canadian people individually are drinking more milk and eating more butter than they did ten years ago.

Mr. Ruddick's figures show that whereas the consumption of dairy products per capita was 800 pounds of milk, in 1912 it had risen to half a ton per head. On the other hand, the production of milk had not risen in anything like the same ratio, being 9,871,178,103 pounds in 1910, as compared with 6,866,834,000 pounds in 1900. The per capita consumption of butter in the ten years rose from 23.49 pounds to 27.88 pounds. This increase of consumption Mr. Ruddick attributes to the "great prosperity of the country and consequent increase in purchasing power and partly to the better quality of milk and its products in recent years."

HUERTA WILL FIGHT TO THE LAST.

In an interview, President Huerta made the statement that he was determined to fight to the last for the independence of Mexico. President Huerta said his government might be pulverized, but he must resist American imposition and everything which might be derogatory to the rights of Mexicans.

"We are in the lion's mouth," President Huerta is quoted as saying, "but the lion will not find it easy to eat us." Huerta went on to say that anyway he would fight for the rights of Mexico, and even if he was not successful, such a fight would have its uses. If he yielded, he said, he would be deservedly cursed as a traitor by future generations.

General Huerta predicted that there would be general and endless guerrilla warfare if the United States attempted the conquest of Mexico. The United States, he said, stood to lose much. It had already lost its reputation for political loyalty. The revolution in Mexico, he declared, was nothing but a masked American war. The United States had not provided the rebels with arms but men. Whole companies of Americans in the uniform of the United States army, had fought under General Villa at Torreon.

President Huerta declared that more than 200 American dead had been found at Gomez Palaico, Ciordo and elsewhere. The blood stained clothing and the regimental badges of the Americans, he said, had been preserved. In conclusion, President Huerta said: "I instructed the Mexican delegates to the mediation conference at Niagara Falls, Canada, to oppose decisively any American demands which would lessen our national sovereignty. I stand at my post awaiting events with a calm conscience, confident of the ultimate triumph of right."

CANADIAN NORTHERN EARNINGS.

As to the traffic future of the Canadian Northern Railway Company, it is difficult to forecast the earning power of the completed line with certainty, but Mr. D. B. Hanna, the company's third vice-president, who has had long experience in the operation of railways in Western and Eastern Canada, submits the following statement as an estimate of the results during the first three years after the system has been operating in accordance with present plans.

The estimate of gross earnings is on the very conservative basis of the percentage increases for the past five years of the lines of the system in actual operation, and inasmuch as a part of the mileage has been disconnected and confined to a local short haul business, operation as a united trunk system should result in much greater per mile revenue.

Table with 4 columns: For the Year Ending 30 June, 1916, 1917, 1918. Rows include Gross earnings, Oper. expenses, Net earnings, Fixed charges, Interest on securities, Surplus, Less-Interest on P.C. Bonds, and Debt.

BALMY PEACE.

Let dogs delight to bark and bite; they have no better sense; but man neighbors shouldn't fight across the garden fence. There are so many village rows! The husbands scrap and swear, the while their energetic fraus are busy pulling hair; and e'en the little kids are foes, and let their passions rise; and one goes home with bloody nose, and one with blackened eyes. And nearly all such wars are vain, and foolish and unjust; how shall it soothe your spirit's pain, a neighbor's head to bust? I kicked in ten of Jimpson's slats, and he bombarded me with cabbageheads and long dead cats, and eggs of '63. I lay upon a couch of pain, and there I sadly think that all such doings are insane, that warlike words are bunk. And when again I was on deck, I went to Jimpson's shack and found that he was but a wreck since I had sprained his back. And there we vowed that such things should cease, no more we'd schamp by jings; we'd give the white winged dove of peace a chance to wave its wings. And now we love each other well and mind the golden rule; I borrow water from his well, he rides my saddle mule; and every time we have a chance we do a kindly thing, and all day long we sing and dance, like Gabys gone to seed. Birthdays of Note

THURSDAY, MAY FOURTEENTH

Sir Frederick Borden, who was continuously minister of militia during the entire period of the Laurier administration, and who is the head of the Borden family in Canada, was born at Cornwallis, N.S., sixty-seven years ago to-day. His father, the late Johnathan Borden, was the paternal uncle of Premier Borden, so that Sir Frederick is a first cousin of Canada's present prime minister. Educated for his father's profession, Sir Frederick began practice as his assistant in the village of Canard afterwards removing to Canning where he has ever since resided. He early became interested in military affairs and was appointed surgeon of the local regiment of militia.

WILL FIGHT TO THE LAST, SAYS LAURIER

C. N. R. Debate is Staged in the House of Commons on Wednesday.

OTTAWA, May 14.—The terms upon which the Government proposes to accede to the request of the Canadian Northern Railway for a bond guarantee of forty-five millions were explained to the House yesterday afternoon by the Prime Minister, who moved the resolution providing for the guarantee. They were declared by Sir Wilfrid Laurier to be unacceptable to the Opposition. "It will be the duty of the Opposition," said Sir Wilfrid "to oppose them from first to last."

The introduction of the resolution brought out a number of strong speeches, Sir Wilfrid Laurier being followed by the Solicitor-General, Hon. Arthur Meighen, and he in turn by Mr. W. F. Nickle, of Kingston. The Prime Minister spoke for an hour and a half, during which he sketched the history of the Canadian Northern, from its beginning in Manitoba to the launching of the Transcontinental project. He gave the House an interesting bit of information with regard to railway development in Canada when he told of the hope of the Canadian Northern that a working arrangement could be made with the old Grand Trunk in the East. When the Grand Trunk decided to build into the West and the Canadian Northern found itself between two powerful competitors, each with an Eastern system, the Canadian Northern thereupon decided to build into the East.

The Prime Minister reviewed the suggestion that the Canadian Northern be allowed to go into liquidation for the purpose of cutting down the sum of unguaranteed securities, a suggestion which, he said, had never appeared to him, which would have injured the credit of Canada, and which would have delayed the completion of the Canadian Northern Transcontinental for a generation; a saving now would involve a tenfold loss to the country. He stated emphatically, and in this the Opposition leader agreed, that the road must be completed.

Mr. Borden emphasized a number of points covered in the document of information brought down some days ago. He quoted declarations to show that Mackenzie and Mann, as contractors, had not taken profits out of the Canadian Northern either through the firm of Mackenzie and Mann, Limited, or through the Northern Construction Co. On the other hand, they had turned over the road lands and proceeds of lands in the West held by themselves to the value of $29,000,000. Mr. Borden touched upon the consolidation of the various Canadian Northern links under a capitalization limited to one hundred millions. He explained the character of the sixfold security taken by the Government for the guarantee proposed, and expressed the belief that the forty millions of stock coming to the Government in return for the loan of the country's credit, would in the future compensate not only for the credit now given, but for all the aid obtained previously by the Canadian Northern.

WILL CELEBRATE KING'S BIRTHDAY ON JUNE 22

Official Observance of it Announced in London—Former Royal Birthdays.

It was announced that Monday, June 22, has been selected for the official celebration in London of the King's birthday. His Majesty's birthday really falls on June 3. He will then be 49. The selection of June 22 is interesting as being the same date on which, in 1897, the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria was celebrated. On June 23 next the Prince of Wales will celebrate his birthday. He was born in 1894, so that he will be 20 years of age.

It is understood that on returning from his present visit to Norway the Prince of Wales will go back to Oxford. The Duke of Portland visited Mansfield yesterday and discussed with the Mayor the details of the King's visit to the borough on Thursday, June 25, to open the new memorial wing at the hospital.

It Was a Success

MONTREAL, May 14.—"Financially, artistically and socially, the first season of the British Canadian Theatre Organization Society has been a success," said Mr. William Holles, joint manager, on his return to Montreal. "Local branches," he added, "have been established in all the cities and principal towns of Canada, with influential citizens at their head, and officers and members have worked enthusiastically because they have been convinced that the first object of our organization has been the betterment of the cause of dramatic art, and the removal of the reproach that Canada is completely dominated by the theatrical interests of the United States, to the exclusion

BRIDGIE WEBBER

Will be the Next Witness Called Against Police Lieut. Becker.

NEW YORK, May 14.—After almost six hours on the witness stand yesterday as the state's chief witness in the trial of Charles Becker, charged with having conspired for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, "Jack" Rose was prepared to-day to resume his place as the stellar attraction of the case, this time to aid District Attorney Whitman bolster up the points attacked in his testimony by Martin T. Manton, chief counsel for the accused.

Throughout his cross-examination yesterday Rose matched his replies to the questions put by Mr. Manton with a reserve and retention of self control that wielded a strange fascination on every person in the crowded court room and when he left the chair at adjournment, he appeared to have come out of the ordeal in which his hair had been laid bare, less fatigued than did any of the other principals of the trial.

Rose's statements as a witness appeared to please District Attorney Whitman, but Mr. Manton too expressed elation at several admissions his questions drew forth.

Rose's indirect examination to-day was not expected to occupy more than two hours and Bridgie Webber, the witness, will probably be reached at the afternoon session.

Calm, as usual, Rose took the stand shortly before 11 o'clock. For the first time the graft phase of the case was touched upon. When Mr. Whitman asked the witness whether or not he had been laid bare, less fatigued than did any of the other principals of the trial.

"At 124th street and 7th avenue, shortly before the murder," said Rose "I gave Becker $900 I had collected for him. The same night Becker gave me $500 back."

Mr. Whitman read from the records of this and the last trial selecting passages not dwelt upon yesterday during Rose's cross-examination, in an endeavor to show that Rose really had testified to matters at this trial which he thought he had omitted at the first trial. Martin Manton, for the defense, again took where he went last night after leaving the stand. Rose said he next to Assistant District Attorney Grobel's office to get his overcoat. He denied that anybody there had asked him any questions. When the witness was asked if he had been coached to answer the District Attorney's questions this morning, he was sustained. Rose then left the stand. He was accompanied from the court house by detectives from the district attorney's assigned to protect him.

TAMPICO HAS FALLEN

to check any such attack. However, with a few hours start it was pointed out that the retreating Huerta soldiers could do tremendous damage. Oil wells stretch for miles back from Tampico and at many points there are huge reservoirs containing thousands of barrels of extremely inflammable fluid. A small blaze once well under way, soon might grow into a conflagration.

Unofficial reports that Huerta had removed General Maas commander of the troops, who were driven out of Vera Cruz during the American occupation and named as his successor, General Pena, were received with varying interpretations here. Fear was expressed in some quarters that it might forecast an aggressive movement on Funston's troops. The opinion was suggested elsewhere, however, that the change in commanders might have been caused by military expediency, or that Maas might have incurred Huerta's displeasure. Vera Cruz reports indicate that General Funston is in fear of no serious attack.

While the military operations as the spectacular side of the international drama excited absorbing interest to-day, the South American envoys and the American mission proceeded with plans for their departure for Niagara Falls. All fear that the Huerta delegation would not arrive in time for the beginning of conference, was dispelled by the announcement that they were to proceed direct from Havana, to Key West. They should reach Florida not later than Friday. That would give them ample time to reach the Canadian border town for the beginning of the negotiations.

Paris News

PARIS, May 14.—Last evening Mr. Robert Waterland was agreeably surprised when some twenty-five young people from the Baptist church choir, met at his home and presented him with a pair of gold cuff links, it being Mr. Waterland's birthday. The members were anxious to show him how popular he was amongst the members of the choir. A pleasant evening was spent in games and music, and before leaving light refreshments were served.

At the annual business meeting of the Methodist Sunday school it was said that this year had been one of the best on record. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Supt., Mr. W. D. Daniel; assistant superintendent, Mr. E. W. Hilborn; secretary, Mr. E. Barker; treasurer, Miss I. David; superintendent Home department, Miss E. Kay; pianist, Mr. T. Stickland; assistant pianist, Miss Eunice Sudden; librarian, Mr. C. Key; assistant librarian, Mr. Roy Ridley.

The Rev. S. T. Bartlett of Toronto, general secretary of Sunday schools and Epworth Leagues, will preach anniversary services next Sunday in the Methodist church. At 2.30 a special service will be held in connection with Mother's day.

Mrs. Emily Arnold of Paris and Mr. Joseph C. Nunnick of Buford were married in Brantford on Tuesday by Rev. T. E. Richards of Riverdale Baptist church.

Mr. James Scott of Rickert's Corners is seriously ill from pneumonia. Many friends in town will be sorry to hear of his illness, and hope for a speedy recovery.

To-morrow evening professor J. C. Carter Troop, M.A., will give a Shakespearean lecture in the High school. This lecture has been put on by the Nu Omnia and High School staff. There will be no admission, and it is hoped there will be a good turnout, as Mr. Troop was at one time a lecturer in one of the Chicago universities and our towns people will be given a big treat.

The following permits were issued last week: Mr. Jas. Cook, brick house on Walter street $2,500; Mr. J. Kempthorne, a double brick house on Portland street $1,500; W. Fasken, rebuilding a barn on Grand River St. $500; an addition to be put to IMR. L. Anguish's garage on Broadway to cost $150.

On Saturday the Paris Scouts will try and get a message through the Brantford Scouts line. Those of a troop wishing to take part are asked to send in their names to E. Harold.

On Monday evening some of the Minstrel Troupe of St. James' Men's Society repeated their concert in the Congregational school room. They had a good turnout and it was much enjoyed by all present. There is some talk of the Minstrels giving it again about the end of the month in the Paris opera house, when some new songs and songs will be added.

A Pesian missionary has been speaking in the Presbyterian Church. He is asking for help to rebuild the school which was destroyed by the Mohammedan Khurds in the recent days of persecution. The congregation here gave very liberally to help his worthy cause.

This letter, which was received by the wardens of St. James' Church, will be of interest to many people in Brantford and Paris in connection with Rev. Mr. Purton having received

Business Good For These Farmers

The Hamilton road is in such bad shape below Langford that Brantford motorists are steering shy of any trips in that direction. A week ago to-day, when Hamilton ball fans came to Brantford, it is said that one farmer made $30 and another $8 for the use of their teams in pulling autos out, and the business still keeps on. The story is going the rounds that when the township council committee recently went over the road the holes were temporarily filled up, but the earth was removed later in order that the profitable auto business should continue meritorily. If the story is true, it shows that there are more ways than one of paying off the mortgage on the farm. Nevertheless, the condition of the Hamilton road at the spot in question is a disgrace to the township.

FIRE AND LIGHT

Alarm System Will be Rewired on Terrace Hill and in Ward One.

At a meeting of the fire and light committee held yesterday afternoon in the city hall it was decided to recommend to the Council that the fire alarm system on Terrace Hill and Wards 1 and 2 be rewired. The wiring in these districts is very bad, and work will be commenced immediately under the supervision of Chief D. J. Lewis.

The firemen will be furnished with 14 new rubber coats and 12 or 14 new batteries will be installed. The latter items will be recommended to the Council at their next meeting. A number of accounts were passed.

Death Came Suddenly to Paris Boy

(By Special Wire to The Courier)

PARIS, May 14.—Shortly after starting work at Penman's No. 1 mill this morning Clarence Cassidy, the 17 year old son of Francis Cassidy was found dead on the floor of the knitting room. No one saw the boy fall. He was lying near an iron pipe which carries the electric wires that operate the machine. Coroner Ashton of Brantford has ordered an inquest to determine the cause of death. It is not thought that the boy received a shock, heart failure is thought to be the cause. The inquest will be held to-morrow.

TERRIER CHEWS UP $500 SALOON LICENSE

Chicago Boniface Keeps His Place Open Despite the Loss of His Permit.

CHICAGO, May 14.—Frank Sheppard's terrier Spot chewed up his $500 saloon license.

"If that darned rascal eats his own dog license I'll murder him," said Sheppard. "I suppose he won't stop his antics until he puts us both out of business."

Sheppard spoke before he had gone down town to consult the municipal authorities. They told him he need not worry. He might go ahead and run his saloon just as if he had a license, and a duplicate would be made out for him.

Spot's nefarious work was discovered when Policeman "Tim" Allen called to inspect Sheppard's license. The saloon keeper looked about for the document and finally found a few damp pieces of it on the floor. That didn't satisfy the policeman, hence the appeal to the license clerk.

THE RETURN OF TARZAN

By EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

Copyright 1913 by W. G. Chapman.

CHAPTER VI. A Duel.

A HEAVY step sounded on the stairway. "But these newspaper men are prompt!" exclaimed Rokofo, and as a knock fell upon the door of their room, "Enter, monster."

The smile of welcome froze upon the Russian's face as he looked into the hard, gray eyes of his visitor. "Name of a name!" he shouted, springing to his feet. "What brings you here?"

"I shall give you a chance for your lives. Rokofo does not count much—he is merely a stupid, foolish little fool—and so I shall not kill him so long as I permit you to live. Before I leave you two, alive in this room you will have done two things. The first will be to write a full confession of your connection with tonight's plot—and sign it."

"The second will be to promise me upon pain of death that you will permit no word of this affair to get into the newspapers. If you do not do both neither of you will be alive when I pass next through that door. Do you understand?"

"Now write," said the ape-man. "If it is necessary to handle you again I shall not be so lenient." Rokofo picked up a pen and commenced to write.

"See that you omit no detail and that you mention every name," cautioned Tarzan. Presently there was a knock at the door. "Enter," said Tarzan.

A dapper young man came in. "I am Frank Martin," he announced. "I understand that M. Rokofo has a story for me."

"Then you are mistaken, monsieur," replied Tarzan. "You have no story for publication, have you, my dear Nikolaus?"

Canadian League Notes

Corns Reporting.

Hamilton Spectator: Harry Corns, the hard-hitting outfielder, and most popular ball player to wear a Hamilton uniform in recent years, is on his way to Hamilton. This welcome announcement was made at baseball headquarters by Business Manager Kerr, who stated that he had received a telegram this morning from Corns in which the big outfielder stated that he had left for Hamilton last evening. This means that Harry will be here in time for the opening game at Britannia park to-morrow afternoon.

The announcement that Corns has finally decided to come in out of the wet and join the local team will prove the most welcome piece of news that the local fans have been treated to this season. Corns is one of the best ballplayers in the Canadian league and was figured on as one of the regulars for this year's team. He had some trouble with two of the former owners of the club during the winter months and when the present owners took hold of the club it was found that Corns was a hold-out. An effort was made to straighten matters out, however and although everything possible was done by the directors, it was announced a few days ago that play ball this season, and Manager Yates had decided to leave him out of his calculations in shaping his team.

Naturally after all this the message received this morning is a most pleasant surprise, not only to the directors and shareholders of the club, but also to the players and the fans. The players at present with the team, that is such men as Fisher, White, Donohue and one or two others, have been eager for Corns to report right along, claiming that with Harry in the outfield alongside of Sheppard and White the club would have the strongest outfield in the league, while Corns would complete a batting array that would prove about as tough a proposition for any opposing pitchers as there is in the circuit. Corns is very popular with the local fans. A quiet, reserved chap, who has given naturally the best that was in him, for the past two seasons he has a host of friends among the enthusiasts. Corns is a grand batter, an experienced player and a good fielder. In 1912 he batted at a .317 gait for the Hams, and last year hit for .342. Naturally a batsman of this calibre would prove welcome to any squad.

They Are Hitters.

That Yates will have a strong hitting club goes without saying. In Corns, Fisher, Dolan, Dudley, White, Gilhooley and in fact every member of the team, barring the heaving corps he will have a crew of stick-wielders who are liable to break up a game at any stage. The team is mostly composed of big men, who generally hit the ball hard and often, and many a game will be won by this wracking brigade. All that was needed to make the Athletics a pennant-chasing squad was the addition of Corns, and now that he has signified his intention of coming along, bright days are ahead of the local folk.—The Herald.

"Do you love Olga de Coude?" asked D'Arnott. "Were I not positive that she does not love me I could not answer your question, Paul, but without disloyalty to her I tell you that I do not love her, nor does she love me. For an instant we were the victims of a sudden madness—it was not love—and it would have left us unharmed as suddenly as it had come upon us even though De Coude had not returned. As you know, I have had little experience of women. Olga de Coude is very beautiful, that and the dim light and the seductive surrounding and the appeal of the defenseless for protection might have been resisted by a more civilized man, but my civilization is not even skin deep—it does not go deeper than my clothes.

"Paris is no place for me, I will but continue to stumble into more and more serious pitfalls. The man-made restrictions are irksome. I feel always that I am a prisoner. I cannot endure it, my friend, and so I think that I shall go back to my own jungle and lead the life that God intended that I should lead when he put me there."

SIR THOMAS IS OPTIMISTIC

C. P. R. Head Made Trip to Pacific—Hopeful Tone All Through.

MONTREAL, May 14.—Optimism marks the tone of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, who has returned to Montreal after an extended tour of the C. P. R. lines to the Pacific Coast.

"I return more optimistic than when I started out," Sir Thomas said in the course of an interview. "There is a healthy, hopeful tone throughout the west."

"The turn for improvement is coming," Sir Thomas added, "but when one cannot answer. However, the indications are that the revival is on the way, and it may come sooner than people anticipate. Of course, business is quiet in the west, but it is quiet in the east, and it is quiet in the States, where they have a lot of disturbing influences that we are not troubled with. The present condition will have a good effect because it will show the danger of speculation. The solid business man will not suffer, but of course, he must be patient and wait like the rest of us for the better time. One thing I am certain of is that, with the return will be less speculation in town lots and people will proceed in a better, firmer way. The west will learn that the wealth is in the ground and not in land speculation."

Crop Outlook Good. "People are on an even keel. I do not look for any great recovery until the fall when, if we have a good crop, and there is every sign that the crop will be a good one, there will be a recovery of a wholesome and rational nature. There is nothing in this country fundamentally sound from the business point of view. If I thought differently, I would, with the evidences of stringency, begin to feel a little anxious. That is not the case, absolutely. The country is sound. No vital interest has been irretrievably hurt."

Poor Investment. The number of highly speculative enterprises put on the British market. Sir Thomas regards as being largely responsible for any feeling of insecurity. "We have seen in this country," he said, "a number of flamboyant enterprises, coal, lumber, fishing. Even now knows what kind and number of enterprises, which came to disaster—put on the British market and by certain presumably high class firms, which manifestly did not care what the outcome would be. The people were induced to invest their money in them, with the result that they suffered serious loss. Now, the effect of that sort of thing is to discredit, not this particular enterprise only, but all other things, which may have to offer. It is a great pity that such things should be imposed upon an unsuspecting public, which then becomes disgruntled and lumps all our enterprises together under a single denunciation and that not flattering to our credit or honor."

In silence they entered D'Arnott's great car, and in similar silence they sped over the dim road that leads to Etampes. Each man was occupied with his own thoughts. D'Arnott's were very mournful, for he was genuinely fond of Tarzan.

Tarzan of the Apes was wrapped in thoughts of the past, pleasant memories of the happier occasions of his lost jungle life. He recalled the countless boyhood hours that he had spent crossed-legged upon the table in his dead father's cabin, his little brown body bent over one of the fascinating picture books from which unaided he had gleaned the secret of the printed language long before the sounds of human speech fell upon his ears. A smile of contentment softened his strong face as he thought of that day of days that he had had alone with Jane Porter in the heart of his primeval forest.

Maude Walker of Windsor, 22 years of age, fell asleep on the 22nd of April, and after sleeping unbrokenly for twenty-two days, died yesterday without having awakened.

How Should Parents Regard Their Children?

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

"We don't mind trying to teach not only the lessons in the books—but all the lessons outside the books as well—kindness, courtesy, morality, honesty, ambition. These things are let down in the curriculum, but we're supposed to teach them just the same. We don't mind it in the least; we're used to it.

What the Parents Want.

I began to laugh, but Teacher looked at me reproachfully. "How can you laugh?" she said. "It's no joke, I can tell you. I teach in a private school and I have in my special classes 35 children, boys and girls, and I doubt if one of those children ever says one word to either father or mother beyond 'good morning' and 'good night' and 'I wish I had' or 'why can't I get'! My children come to school at 8:15—the parents insist upon that. They breakfast alone—mother and father are not up yet; they bring their luncheon, and they stay till 6 o'clock.

Can it be possible that we're all going, just the least little bit in the world, crazy—we American mothers. I met a woman the other day, and her eyes were shining and her face was like the face of a happy little child. "I'm going to see 'The Blue Bird,'" she said. "Have you seen it?—oh, no, that isn't seeing it. Come with me, I'm going with the children."

Trading Gold for What?

They weren't mortals who sat there with us in the stuffy theatre—they were Faith and Hope and Charity—and Love and Trust and Fidelity—and they laughed and they cried and they clasped their little hands and were not ashamed—and they believed it all—the beautiful, beautiful story of the search for happiness and a trading of it in the little kitchen in the little home of the humble, simple people.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

Dear Annie Laurie: I guess you are used to hearing of folks' troubles, at least I hope so at all events, because I want to tell you mine. You see I have such a dear boy cousin, but the trouble is every one thinks I am too much in love with him. I try not to show that I really care, but the more I try the more I show up the true side. Don't you think it is horrid for others to interfere with us? Do you think I should persist in acting indifferent to him or should I show him that I really care?

Why you dear little Ruth, what a character you are to be sure. You write just exactly as you talk, don't you. I can fairly see you standing right before me. "Every one" seems to be right in this affair. You really are in love with your agreeable cousin—very much indeed, too much in love, if you ask me.

INTO THE OPEN :: :: By Michelson

THEY have danced all winter and all spring under ballroom lights, in the cleared spaces of dining halls, in home impromptus, and not a few times in solitary practice. And now comes the lure of outdoors. The spell of new steps is still upon them. The bubble of music—any old music—is sufficient incentive for that other music of motion to which youth and age alike are

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

By Leona Dalrymple

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with interest.

What "Forgetting" Meant.

"Oh, Peter!" wailed Mary. "I've forgotten the fire!" "I didn't say anything," and it was considerable confidence on my part that I didn't, for Mary is always forgetting fires. They go out with systematic and frequent regularity. Mary seems to have a blighting glance with fire. Sometimes she has but to look at glowing coals and shortly after they expire. Then, of course, Peter dutifully trots about and builds them over again.

With the Bark on—By W. Bob Holland

The cyclone is a splendid example of misdirected energy. Competition may be the life of trade, but it sometimes means starvation to traders. Practise does not make perfect when following an imperfect model. One of the inconsistencies of human emotions is shown when a man deserts a wife in order to commit bigamy. Politicians should remember that political lies which have been nailed too often will not hold water. The gas jet that will not take the chill out of the room in the winter will make the apartment unbearably hot in July.

Where Common Things Originated

The father of the piano was the harpsichord, and its grandfather the spinnet. The piano was first used in a public concert on May 16, 1709, in the Covent Garden Theatre, London. The first English book on stenography, so far as known, was written by Dr. Timothy Bright in 1588. Its earlier invention is attributed to the Latin poet Seneca, Cicero and several others. The buttons on the backs and sleeves of men's coats are reminders of the time when the coat skirts and sleeves were buttoned back when walking or driving. The flaps have disappeared; the buttons have remained. Piny describes a boat he had seen which was propelled by wheels driven by a pot of hot water and some machinery which he did not understand and could not explain. It was probably the first attempt at a steamboat. Guns are said to have been used by the Chinese before the beginning of the Christian era. The oldest dated piece of European artillery bears an inscription declaring that the gun was cast in 1303. Coats of arms were first employed in England during the reign of Richard I, and became hereditary in fame in the following century. They originated from the painted banners carried by knights and nobles. Pasquinades took their name from the shop of a Roman tailor named Pasquin, the square in front of which contained a celebrated statue, on the pedestal of which all sorts of squibs and lampoons were posted.

What Hydrophobia Is; How to Treat an Attack

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B. M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

NOT every man who was mad and rabid, not every dog that fears water has hydrophobia. None the less, the bite of a dog is just as liable to originate rabies in you in the winter as it is in the summer, or in the dog days.

Often, indeed, unguarded medical men of easy disposition fall in with and agree to the patient's personal—yet wrong—diagnosis. Thus little acorn errors into mighty oak fallacies grow.

Answers to Health Questions

MOTHER—My little girl is 2 years in May. She is getting the whooping cough. Keep her away from other children. Her chest must be kept warmer than usual. Despite the usual medical advice always to keep her out of doors, do not do so in damp, raw days. In the hot sun for an hour or so in dry, mild days will be all right. The whooping cough may last three months, so be very careful that she is not exposed too much. Pneumonia is the real dangerous complication.

E. R.—I A spot in my throat burns and hurts whenever I eat or drink hot and cold water. (1) Have had gravel and now have a sharp pain on left side. Gravel has not returned.

(1) This may be an enlarged tonsil, swollen glands, or merely attention to some point in the throat. Forget it! (2) "Gravel" is another absurd name for the condition known as "uric acid" and their congeners. The sharp pain may be due to many things which might be eliminated by purgatives internally and a mustard plaster externally. "Gravel" might mean stone in the bladder and it might mean nothing but a "mask."

Costuming the Actress

By Madge Marvel

PLACE a union label on the actor and give him the same right for justice in his work that the bricklayers and other workers enjoy. Do the same for actresses and save them from nervous prostration brought on by having to worry their young lives out over going in debt for dresses only to wear them a few times in some theatrical failure. That is the system which Fola LaFollette, daughter of the actress from Wisconsin and wife of George Middleton, playwright, and ardent feminist, hopes to set up into operation through the newly formed Actors' Equity Association in which she is a lively factor. "The time has come when acting is a part of a big business," exclaims Mrs. LaFollette-Middleton to me, her blue eyes gleaming with enthusiasm, and her hair of golden hair seeming at strange variance with the seriousness of the big progressive problem she is forever tackling. "Every other trade has the protection of the union. Theatrical workers, with the exception of the actors, are beautifully organized. The time has come when the actor must be unionized. It is long and hard to become a union man, but it is necessary. It is a progressive problem so much is required of them from the standpoint of dress, and they have such dreadful struggles to keep going. "One almost any makeshift would do, but now the actress has become the demonstrator of the newest and smartest fashions. She sets the mode. No longer can she pin some cotton darning

On a piece of white cloth and call it ermine. Furs must be just as real on the stage lady as on the society woman. "And the actress pays for all this perfection of dress. She takes the chance of the play being the success the manager is always sure it will be, and sets just the right clothes for the part she has to play. Frequently she goes in debt for them. If the play is a success this is not a serious matter. But if after five nights it closes it is different. There are the dresses with their freshness intact and the bills for them to be met. They are not fit for any occasion in private life, and they will not be allowed in any other production in which she is fortunate enough to find an engagement. They are declared identified with the other play, though they may not have been seen a dozen times. There is another set of new clothes to be bought. "It's a do a bit of figuring. "The salary she receives is sufficient if one could be sure of a long season. The leading woman may receive $20 or $25 a week. She is sure in even the less important productions to get $10. "That sounds very magnificent to the girl who is struggling along on $12, but when everything is considered it is pitifully small. "It will take at least calculation every cent of four or five weeks' salary to pay for the gown. But there may be so much length of life for the play. Then what? "It is delightful to think that the stage has reached so important a place in setting the styles for the feminine world, but it sets them at a frightful cost to the actress. Worry over finances is not conducive to Art. Justice through unionization seems to me to be the solution."

A FORMER BRANT COUNTY PUPIL

Cecil Marsh Wins Third Prize in Essay Contest at Vancouver.

Cecil Marsh, 13 years old, a former Brant County public school pupil of Pinegrove, recently won third prize in an Imperial essay contest, conducted by Vancouver paper. He is the son of Mr. Sam Marsh, a well known Brant farmer. Cecil's essay was as follows:

"In speaking of the heroism of Capt. Scott one might say that no man has acquitted himself in as brave a way since 1759, when Wolfe, the greatest general of that era, said on being told that the enemy were retreating, 'Now God be praised, I shall die in peace.' Scott had to fight against great odds, greater than did Wolfe. Scott had to fight against an enemy which only the hand of God could vanquish, while Wolfe had to fight against an enemy which only required skill and numbers to conquer. Capt. Scott was a gentleman who had lived in luxury, and ease the greater part of his life. But, unlike thousands and even millions in similar circumstances, he was willing to sacrifice himself to give the world some knowledge of the Great White Waste which lies to the south of any kind of civilization. This is the first lesson for the British boy to learn, a lesson of self-denial.

In 1902 Scott made his first trip to the Antarctic. He did not reach the Pole as he had planned, but instead of sitting down and saying, 'I can't make it,' he made a second attempt in 1911 and succeeded. But at the cost of his own life and the lives of his four companions. Perseverance is a second lesson to every boy who is a Britisher to learn.

Capt. Scott and his four companions had to live in caves in the snow and in small tents, very often with but little food, when the thermometer registered many degrees below zero. If all British boys had to do this for a short time many would think it an exceedingly great hardship.

Endurance, then, is a third lesson which all British boys should learn. When Scott and his little party started on the final dash to the Pole he would neither take dogs nor ponies, because he did not like the idea of killing and eating these animals, as other explorers had done. Kindness to animals is a fourth lesson for the British boy to learn.

Then when Scott did get to the Pole he found the Norwegian flag flying, signifying that Scott had been defeated in the long race for the Pole. Instead of being jealous, discouraged and annoyed, he photographed the flag so that his countrymen would not be able to throw all the honor of discovering the Pole upon him after they had seen the picture. Modesty and generosity are two more lessons for the British boy to learn.

If every British boy would learn these character-building lessons through the example of Capt. Scott, there would be little need to fear for the future of Great Britain."

Latest developments in the Ulster situation make the British general elections appreciably nearer.

POST'S ADOPTED SON TO SHARE IN ESTATE

His Parents Helped Nurse Health Food Manufacturer—Shows Gratitude.

DENVER, Colo., May 14.—John Harvey Post, an adopted son and a student in the School of Mines at Golden, is one of the heirs to the estate of Charles W. Post, health food manufacturer, which is estimated at $25,000,000. The young man's mother is Mrs. Louise Beilhart, whose family and that of Mr. Post were closely associated years ago. When Mr. Post went to Battle Creek, Mich., to enter a hospital there Mrs. Beilhart and her husband were nurses in the institution.

Mrs. Beilhart was assigned to care for the invalid. When Mr. Beilhart died, shortly after his patient had recovered, the latter educated Mrs. Beilhart's son and daughter and adopted the young man, who was graduated from the Culver Military academy.

The manager of the Dominion Cloak Company's factory, Toronto, accused strikers or their sympathizers of breaking into the establishment and doing $5,000 damage, many garments being cut to pieces.

CIGARETTES BARRED FROM EDISON PLANT

"They Dull the Brain," Says Order Posted for Benefit of the Employees

WEST ORANGE, N. J., May 14.—When the 6,700 employees of the Edison plants here entered the shops yesterday morning they were confronted on every side with printed signs bearing this warning: "Cigarettes not tolerated. They dull the brain."

As a result of correspondence with Henry Ford, the Detroit automobile manufacturer, Thomas A. Edison became a crusader against the cigarette. Mr. Edison has always abhorred cigarettes, but he is a heavy smoker of cigars, and he likes to chew tobacco.
