On Sunday morning last the death cocurred at his home in Elgin of Hiram C. Chisholm, son of the Rev. F. Chisholm. He was considered to be seriously ill when he was removed from Athens to his home a few days ago, so his demise was not unexpected. Possessed of a genial, pleasant disposition, deceased was widely known throughout the county, and his society was always welcomed. His death

DEATH OF MASIE DERBYSHIRE

The death of little Mary Ella Derbyshire (Masie), aged ten years, second daughter of Mrs. George Derbyshire, occurred on Sunday last, after a week of intense suffering from an affection of the kidneys.

Masie was an exceptionally bright child, the idel of her little sisters and brothers, for whom she seemed con-stantly to feel and exercise a loving care beyond her years. Many outside the family circle had learned to love the little girl, and those to whom she was especially near and dear have the heartfelt sympathy of all in the great loss they have sustained.

Her death was sincerely mourned by the children of the village, and they sent many floral tributes of their love for her. She was remembered in this way by children of the Baptist and Methodist Sunday schools and by other friends. The funeral took place on Tuesday, the procession to the methodist church being headed by her little classmates in the Sunday so There was a large attendance at the service, which was conducted by the pastor, Rey. W. E. Reynolds, assisted by Rev. G. N. Simmons and Rev. R. F. Oliver, of Frankville, at the close of thick the service of the servi of which the remains were interred in the cemetery.

THE 12TH IN ATHENS

The Orangemen of Athens and vicinity commemorated the 213th anniversary of the Bettle of the Boyne by attending divine service in the Methodist church. Over fifty members were in line, and they presented a fine appearance. There was a large congregation at the service, and all heard with pleasure the fine historical discourse of the pastor. The funda-mental principles of the order and all that Orangeism stands for was made plain, and the brethren were exhorted have come down to them through so many years.

An especially pleasing feature of the fine choral service was a solo by Miss Cora Wiltse.

At the conclusion of the service the members of the order again formed in procession and marched to their lodge

Rich Mines Recently Discovered in Germany's Possessions — Kimberley Diggings First Known Through an Accident

(Brooklyn Eagle.) Heretofore Great Britain has had the monopoly of the diamond business of Africa, which is practically that of the world. There have been no other mines that approached those of the famous Kimberley district in richness. But Germany hopes to be able soon to dispute John Bull's title as the world's diamond merchant. Rich fields are said to have been discovered in German Southwest Africa, which it is hoped will rival the wonderful De Beers mines. Some capitalists of Bremen, headed by Senator Achelis, have orneaded by Senator Achelis, have dr-ganized a syndicate to work these new-formed mines, and the German newspapers are already prophesying the coming end of the British monopoly of the diamond business.

It has been understood for some time past that Kimberley was not the only rich diamond field in Africa, that there were diamonds for the mining in other parts of the dark continent And the various powers have been meaning to look into the matter within their respectthe spheres of influence as soon as they could get around to it. Ger-many appears to be the first one that has found the time and money to do this. Kimberley has known that it could not permanently mon-opolize the diamond trade, though for some years it has supplied most of the diamonds in the market.

Many Promising Fields. Beside other South African fields that promised well as soon as anyone took the trouble to develop them there are Australian diamond mines in New South Wales which promise rich returns and the Brazilian fields, at one time the great source of supply, are, it is generally admitted, certain to be richly productive just as soon as abundant capital introduces modern mining methods.

Taking it all in all, however, Africa will probably remain the centre of the world's diamond trade. It has undeveloped wealth in this direction, and the boroad the control of the world the second the control of the c which is in very truth beyond the wildest dreams of avasice. Diamonds were first discovered there along the banks of the Vaal river in 1867. For two years the mines here were worked and yielded abundantly, but when in 1869 the marvelously rich Kimberley beds were discovered the Vaal river fields were almost deserted and since then little or nothing has been done for their development.

As a river the Vaal doesn't amount to much it wouldn't float anything worth floating in the boat line. And it probably for untold centuries carelessly rolled untold wealth along its bed toward the sea before the unsuspecting Boer farmers discovered what it was up to, and the whole civilized world took a hand in rescuing the treasure, and incidentally discovered that the whole of South Africa was planted thick with diamonds. The Boer farmers had often observed the sparkling stones ch. It wouldn't float anything monds. The Boer farmers had often observed the sparkling stones — "mool klippe," as they called them —along the banks of the Vaal. It never occurred to them that they were diamonds. They were good playthings for the children, who liked to see their sparkle.

The sharp burning pains low down in my side were terrible. My physi-cian said there was no help for me unless I would go to the hospital and be operated on. I thought before that I would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which, fortunately, I did, and it has made me a stout, healthy woman. My advice to all women who suffer with any kind of female trouble is commence taking Lydia E. and it was pronounced a diamond. This, the first recognized diamond ever found in South Africa, was bought by Sir Philip Wodehouse, Governor of Cape Colony, for $2,500. Thus was the discovery made of Africa's greatest wealth. How great it is no one really knows, for the extent of the African diamond fields has never been determined. Far north of

of the African diamond fields has never been determined. Far north of the Vaal River, along the banks of the Limpopo, or Crocodile River, the boundary between the Transvaal and Mashonaland, diamonds have been found So far nothing at all has been done to exploit or develop this field, though for all anyone knows the region along this river may be as rich in diamonds as the Vaal. In the western part of the Orange River Colony two diamond centres have been found, one of which, Jager's Fontein, eighty miles from Kimberley, has yielded $250,000 a year, including many fine diamonds, and among the mountains of the Transvaal and at two points in Cape Colony, at Duboitspan, only two miles ony, at Duboitspan, only two miles southeast of Kimberley, and at Bloemfontein.

The diggings are less than a quar-ter of a mile apart. Most of these regions are entirely undeveloped, be-cause the whole interest centred in cause the whole interest centred in Kimberley after its richness was discovered. The time is coming, however, when these other districts will receive the attention they deserve. Perhaps the Kimberley mines will never be equalled, but it is quite certain that they will not continue to monopolize the industry. The entire product of this field up to the present year for a period of about thirty-five years is a little over fifteen tons of diamonds, having a value in excess of $500,009,000. The life of the mines cannot be determined as yet, nines cannot be determined as yet, but diamond mining will undoubtedly continue in Kimberley for many continue in Kimberley for many years to come.

As to the size of the stones—the largest diamond ever discovered is still in the hands of the De Beers Company. As yet no bidders have been found for this white elephant. It was found on July 2, 1893. It weighs nearly 1,000 carats in the rough, or about half a pound avoir-dupois, and is three and one-half inches long, about as large as at average goose egg.

It is impossible to determine the value of a diamond of this size. It is of good color, but would not cut well. Diamonds lose from 40 to 60 per cent. of their size in cutting.

Some idea of the value of this great stone may be suggested by jarger stone is supposed to be larger stone is supposed to be worth several times that sum. Per-haps the prize will some day fall into the hands of one of the Indian or other oriental nabobs, who, as is well known, have many of the fin-est diamonds in their collections. Another famous South African diamond is the great Star of South Africa, now in the possession of the Countes of Parkley 1 Countess of Dudley. It was obtained from a Kaffir corcerer, two years after the first discovery of diamonds in Africa. This wise man had used it as one of his adornments. Uncut it weighed 83 carats and sold for 855,000.

Finally, one of them, Schalk Van Niekerk, calling at a friend's house, saw the children playing with a pretty stone, which particularly struck his fancy. Their mother gave tt to him, thinking him a simple fellow to be pleased with childish toys. He showed it to an Irish trader, one John O'Reilly, who thought that possible Schalk was not so simple as he looked. But he was; the worthy the showed it to be contracted with the last minute or his contract time expired, and three hours later the new syndicate which succeeded him w syndicate which succeeded in the work found the largest dia-mond ever discovered.

And yet there is a tremendous amount of mining done for what seems to be very small, if infinitely precious results. In a lecture be-fore Harvard and Yale not long ago John Hays Hammond, the famous mining engineer and expert, said of the Kimberley mines, that a box about eight inches square would contain the net result of mining over 100,000,000 tons of rock beside the millions of tons of earth moved in exploratory and "dead" work. Such is diamond mining in South Africa—and yet it pays.

JUST WHY IT WAS DONE.

n Ancient Egyptian Custom at Last Fully Understood and Explained. More than 1,000 years ago Herodotus observed a remarkable custom n Egypt, says Prof. Drummond. At a certain season of the year the Egyptians went into the desert, cut off branches from the wild palm, and, bringing them back to their garden, bringing them back to their garden, waved them over the flowers of the date palm. Why they performed this ceremony they did not know, but they knew that if they neglected it the date crop would be poor or whol-the date crop would be poor or wholly lost.

Herodotus offers the quaint explanation that along with these branches there came from the desert certain files possessed of a "vivific virtue," which somehow lent an exuberant fertility to the dates. But the true rationale to the incantation is now explained. Palm trees, like human beings, are male and female. The garden plants, the date bearers, were females, the desert plants, were females, the desort plants were males, and the waving of the branches over the females meant the transference of the fer-tilizing pollen from the one to the other.

New Theory of Wages.

A shopkeeper engaged a clerk and paid him $1 for the first week, says the London Chronicle. At the end of the second week the clerk was surprised when he only received $3, and asked the reason of the deficit, "Why," responded his employer, "you know more about the business now, and the work must come easier to you." The clerk thought he had learned enough of the business and resigned, el's Farewell Address.-1 Sam. 12: 13-2

Commentary — Connecting Links. "The fact that Saul was permit-ted to return again to private life shows that there was considerable disappointment over his election. There may have been a feeling that he was too obscure a person and of insufficient age and experience to be suddenly advanced to the inead of the nation." It was no easy matter to establish a monarchy over a people that had never hitherto been subject to a human king; and it seemed necessary for Saul to go out before them and show his prowess and daring in order to gain their confidence. hows that there was considerable idence.

1. Samuel's integrity (vs. 1-5). Samuel, though he was still to retain his influence and authority as prophet, now decides that the time has come for the public surrender of his office as judge, or ruler. "There must have been a mighty struggle in his bosom when he uttered this valedictory to the peostruggle in his bosom when he uttered this valedictory to the people whose interests had been the burden of his heart and prayers for so many years. The nation had now reached a new era in its development, and its future weak or woe depended on the people's obedience to the commandments of God. This impressive truth the venerable prophet seeks throughvenerable prophet seeks, throughout his entire address, to fasten indelibly upon their minds."

"Jehovah is jealous of His glory; and all its sublime manifestations in deall its sublime manifestations in de-fense of His people He could not well forget." Gor forbid that I—The con-duct of Samuel in this whole affair of the king's appointment shows him to have been a great and good man who sank all private and personal considerations in disinterested zeal considerations in disinterested zeal for his country's good; and whose last words in public were to warn the people and their king of the danger of apostasy in disobedience to God,—J., F. & B. Teachings — True followers of Christ are those who serve and obey Him. Such do not rebel against the Lord—the spirit of rebellion has been taken out of their hearts. God has many ways of convincing His people that He has all power and authority.

PRACTICAL SURVEY. Two striking and important events confront us in the study of this lesson. The closing of a long, upright and splendidly efficient public career, and the transition from an established and divinely appointed form of government to another, popular but untried, and uncanctioned by the Su-antied, and uncanctioned by the Su-preme Authority.

A righteous administration. Sam-uel forms the connecting link be-tween the judgeship and the mon-archy. Ke stands peerless in the long list of judges which for more than four hundred years had gov-erned Israel. To the force of his

II. Israel's Ingratitude (vs. 6-12). In these verses Samuel "recalls Je hovah's past mercies and upbraids hovah's past mercies and upbraids them with unbelief and ingratitude for demanding a king."—Whedon's Com. After referring to the manner in which God had delivered them from Egyptian bondage, Samuel calls attention to the "three chief oppressors of Israel during the period of the judges: 1. The Cananites who were led by Siserathe general of the army of King Jabin. 2. The Philistines. 3. The Moabites under Eglon. He then mentions four deliverers of the na-Moabites under Eglon. He then mentions four deliverers of the na-tion: 1. Jerubbaal, or Gideon. 2. Bedan—Probably Barak is meant, 3. Jephthah, the Gileadite. 4. Samuel.-Cam. Bib. III. Samuel's words confirmed (vs.

A wonderful history. The Jewish nation is the standing miracle of history. In the record of no people history. In the record of no people of the past or present are there such pronounced and permanent evidences of divine interposition both to protect and punish. Of old they had been a "stiff-necked and rebellious reople," and nothing but a supreme self-forgetfulness on the part of their great leader, together with a persistent pleading, had saved them from utter destruction. Miraculously led and divinely guarded, they were led and divinely guarded, they were still fickle, uncertain and ever prone to discontent and disobedience. Punished with severity, they "cried unto the Lord." confessed their sins, prayed and promised and received mercy.

An unapproved choice. God always plans the best for persons or peo-ples. His ideals embrace the high-est possibilities within the scope of either. Not only are His purposes the highest, but His methods are the easiest and most efficient. God the easiest and most efficient. God sometimes consents to what He does not approve. There is often a second choice for those who will not have God's best, but it always means a lower level of existence, an increase of perplexities and a lessening of achievement. God consented to but did not approve of the establishment of the monarchy, and many were the conversions and strifes were the oppressions and strifes which followed; though the "Lord did not forsake His people for His great name's sake."

Promises and threaten. The first incentive to duty is "the mercy of God." Only when His mercies fail does divine love assume more severe measures, as a loving parent makes the rod the last resort in securing the rod the last resort in securing obedience. Persons or peoples are never suffered to go wrong unwarned. God hangs out danger signals at the entrance and along the progress of every path to ruin. He will not prevent a perverse choice, but will not suffer it to be in ignor-

Bradstreet's on Trade. Trade at Montreal has been fairly active the past week, considering the not weather and the fact that this is the holiday season, and about the dullost of the year for business. The factories and mills are very busy working on goods for the fall and winter. Labor is well employed at good wages. In Toronto there has been a very fair movement in mer-cantile trade this week, for this seacanthe trade this week, for this season. Travelers are sending in numerosu and well distributed orders. Reports received at Winnipeg are to the effect that the condition of the crops throughout the Province, generally speaking, is good, and that in the Territories the growth has been satisfactory. The outlook is for a cropfully as large as last year, although the yield in some sections may not be as large. Business at Hamilton, according to reports to Bradstreet's, is active. The wholesale trade are still busy making large shipments to their customers. The sorting trade has been stimulated by the hot weather, and retailers are reporting large sales of seasonable goods. The wholesale trade are receiving large quantities of goods for the fall, and stocks in that department will soon be complete. The outlook for business is encouraging. son. CHINESE NOT REAL MASONS

But Their Ancient Secret Societies Have Rites Resemblin Masonic.

The recent installation of a Grand Master of the Chinese secret orders in the United States, popularly known as the "Chinese Freemasons," has aroused laterest in the question of the connection between the Chin-ese secret societies and the Masonic body. Allusions to "Chinese Freemasonry" appear periodically in the newspapers, though according to the Cyclopaedia of Fraternities there is no such thing as Freemaconry among the Chinese.

The only Masonic lodges in China are in the foreign concessions at the scaports. Their membership is composed exclusively of others than Chinese, and they are condusted under foreign warrants. The rites of the Chinese secret societies bear some resemblance to those of the Freemasons, which accounts for the receiver expressions of a connection. popular supposition of a connection between the two. The similarity, though more apparent than real, is remarkable, in view of the antiquity of both, and the impossibility of ei-ther to have been patterned after China is filled with secret societies, most of which have for their object the overthrow of the Tsing dynasty, with a pretended benevolent purpose to veil the political significance of the organization. The most powerful of these societies, the Kolao Hui, numbers more than 1,000,000. The marquis stood as motionless as a statue.

"She has taken one of the ladies with her May, I should say."

"Yes," assented Luigi, but at that moment the tones of a man's voice reached their ears.

The marquis storied, and his arm abstainer and a temperature of the physician called, and, seeing little change, asked the wife of this patient:

"Does your husband take four glasses of wine regularly?"

"Oh, yes, doctor, he is very strict about it. Indeed, he is four weeks ahead, so earnest is he over 1t."

COULD NOT SLEEP

On Account of Headaches and Pains in the Sides

The Sad Condition of a Bright Little Girl Until Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Came to Her Rescue.

Many young girls, seemingly in the sest of health, suddenly grow list-ess and lose strength. The color best of health, suddenly grow listless and lose strength. The color leaves their cheeks; they become thin, have little or no appetite, and suffer from headaches and other bodly pain. Such was the case of Bessie, youngest daughter of Mr. Charles Cobleigh, Eaton Corner, Que. Speaking of his daughter's illness and subsequent cure, Mr. Cobleigh says:
"Up to the age of eleven, Bessie had always enjoyed the best of health and took great pleasure in out-of-door play. Suddenly, however, she seemed to lose her energy; her appetite failed her; she grew her appetite failed her; she grew thin and pale; slept badly at night, and complained of distressing head-aches in the morning. We thought that rest would be beneficial to her. that rest would be beneficial to her, and so kept her from school, but instead of regaining her strength, she grew weaker and weaker. To make matters worse, she began to suffer from pains in the side, which were almost past endurance. At this stage we decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After a couple of weeks the good effect of the medicine was decidedly apparent. Bessie became more cheerful, her step quicker, her eyes were brighter and she seemed more like her former self. We continued giving her the pills for several weeks longer, until we felt that she had fully recovered her health and strength. I honestly believe had it not been for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills our daughter would not have recovered. our daughter would not have recov ered her health and strength, and health always have a good word to shall always have a good word to eay for this medicine."

"You don't think I am jealous? What does it matter to me who is with my darling? I will join them. Will you come? Yes, come! She is always glad to see you."
Luig! Zanti drew back.
"No," he said, "I will not go. I am not in the mood for Mr. Bannister's persiliage. I will wait here. There is a seat near, isn't there?"
"Yes," said the marquis, and he drew him to a bench under an old elm. "Wait here," he said; "I shall not be long. It is time she was in. not be long. It is time she was in The air is chilly, and she might catch cold."

Last year the summer and autumn were wet and many growers of fruit failed to give their or-points out, the cool, moist weather is peculiarly favorable to the devolopment of fungous growths, and it is only by seizing every opportunity and spraying whenever a be secured. Wet weather should be an incentive to greater diligence in leaves, and is reported as having been discovered in nearly all pear growing The "King" Apple.

Wet weather should be an incentive to greater diligence in spraying, rather than an excuse for not spraying, Eternal vigilance is the price of safety in fruit growmuch more prolific.

The Fruit Division, Ottawa, invited correspondence upon this subject, and has received some valuable information. Mr. C. L. Stephens, of Orillia, has the "King" topgrafted on "Duchess," and finds that its bearing qualities are quite satisfactory. Mr. Wm. Read, of Jarrat's Corners, has twelve "King" trees grafted on "Duchess" and reports equally good results. Orchid Cultivation. There is a danger on account of the wet weather, orchards will not receive their usual cultivation, which is urgently needed to destroy weeds, aerate the soil, and con-serve soil moisture for future use. If the ground is not stirred it bakes, cracks open and evaporation goes on rapidly. By stirring the soil through frequent cultivation, thus keeping a loose mulch on the surface, capillarity is broken up and moisture retained. As soon as it is possible, therefore, to get on the ground after a rain, the cultivator should be started in the orchard, and kept going as steadily as time and weather will permit.

The experience of these growers and many others goes to show that it would be a very profitable piece of business to topgraft at least some of the early apples to be found all over Ortario, with Kings. The King is an apple that exactly fills the bill as a fancy market variety, as it is of excellent quality, color and size, and well known in the English Pear Leaf Blister Mite. The Fruit Division, Ottawa, wender the following information with reference to this pest, to Mr. R. Bray, Walkerton, Ont.: The pear leaves shown at the Farmers' Institute meeting at Teeswater are infected with the Pear Leaf Blister Mite (Phy-toptus pyri). This insect is sometimes quite prevalent, and although it-spreads slowly from tree to tree, is likely to do much harm. Dr. Fletcher, Dominion Entomologist, treats of this insect in his report for 1805, page 160. He recommends as the most practical remedy the use of the kero-

His Last Hope Realized

In the first opening of Oklahoma settlers in 1889, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made the hig race one fine day in April. During his travel ling about and afterwards his camping upon his claim, be encountered much bad water, which, together with the severe heat, gave him a severe diarrhoes which it seemed almost imposs ible to check, and along in June the case became so bad he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a last rope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great sgony, and in a few dose was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was soon noticed and within an bour the parient was taking his tirst sound sleep for a fortnight. That one little bottle worked a complete cure and he cannot help but feel grateful. The season for bowel disorders suggests this item. For sale by J. P. Lamb & Son.

ADDISON S. S. CONVENTION

The township Sunday-school convention held at Addison on July 7, is sidered a decided succ The afternoon session opened by devotional excercises conducted by Rev. Mr. Burke, of Lyn, after which Mr. Burke gave an excellent paper on "The Christian home a school of character.' He showed that the home was the most powerful influence in the formation of character and that parent failed in their duty to their children by leaving their work too much to strangers, such as ministers and Sun day-school teachers. He strongly recommended a closer unity between nembers of families and especially between parents and children.

Miss Jones, of Athens, fol owed with a paper on "Tie S.S. teacher as a soulwinner and character-builder," in which she clearly pointed out the duties of a teacher. A teacher must give time and patience to his work, a prough study to the lesson, and above all must possess a true, loving, christian character before he can be successful in winning others to the

Mr. J. A. Jackson, provincial secretary, then conducted a round table conference at which questions were asked and answered by the delegates. This proved very instructive, as it brought the meeting in direct touch The evening session opened with prayer led by Rev. R. F. Oliver, of Frankville, after which the following report of the nominating committee was adopted :—

President, O. P. Arnold, Addison.

Vice-Pres., J. Latimer, Glen Buell. Sec.-Treas., C. J. Gilroy, Glen Buell. All ministers in the township to be work, began Mr. Simmons, we are simply tollowing the injunction of Paul to Timothy, that of teaching others. Sunday-school teaching is of paramount importance; it is one of the greatest opportunities—a very bigh and noble calling of God. The home does not cope with the evil of the day; parents do not seem to feel their responsibility, convequently the S. S. teacher has not only a greater task but a greater responsibility and must in some measure at least counteract the negligence in the home.

In comparing time spent in preparation for S. S. teaching with that of day school teachers, doctors, lawyers and mechanics, he pointed out that all had to serve a long period of training. What a contrast to the preparation of Sunday-school teachers! In the face of the tremendous evil, and the indiffer ence or inability of the home to do in duty, this ought not to be. Although it is impossible for S. S. teachers to get the thorough training our day school teachers get, yet should we not improve upon our methods? If the children could be interested in the school until they were twenty-one years ot age they would stay and grow up a great power in the church. Day school children are so crowded with work that Bible study is completely shut out. In England, Bible study is a part of their regular day school work. In conclusion, Mr. Simmons said:— "It is of the highest importance that the teacher's heart should be right and his life an example for others; a careful study should be made, not of the coming lesson only, but of the whole quarter, and prepare a plan for teaching. The great need of compe-tent teachers, the sad result of incompetent teachers, is very marked in our schools of to day."

Mr. Claud Marshall, of Toledo, fav. ored the audience with a solo, "My God and Father While I Stray." He was accompanied by Miss Pratt, of

Mr. Arnold, the president, asked for a five-dollar collection towards expenses, and when the offering was counted there was $5.12.

As Mr. McLean, of Brockville, was not present to take his part in the pro-gramme, Miss Giles, of Brockville, told of the very successful home de-partment work. This work is doing a great deal in the way of bringing the me into closer touch with the school this is the real object of the department. The workers of this branch visit homes, enlisting the parents and others as members. They study the lesson at home, lesson slips and and helps are left with them. Many work ers who are not sdapted to teaching can be very helpful here. If parents show an interest in the S.S. the scholars will be helped.

Mr. Eyre, of Athens, spoke briefly on the history of the home depart-

Mr. J. A. Jackson emphasized the home department as a factor in binding the home and school together. Pointing out the needs of the work he said too much stress cannot be laid upon the training of teachers. The ormal course was within the reach of all; any average person could easily take the course doing the work in their own homes, thus fitting them selves for better usefulness for the Master. One hour a week was all that was necessary to take the first

A DEADLY DISCHARGE

An accidental death at Char Lake one night last week filled the home of "O!" Whitefish Joe" full of surprise, sorrow, savory ordors, and goosenest. It happened in this way. Messra James Denby and Israel Slack, two of Charleston's most skilled and popular carsmen, returned home at the close of the day, the latter rather fagged out by his effort to combine case, story-telling, rowing, an occasion-al salmon and a swell dinner into a mixture that would suit the taste of the angler he was piloting. They were taking their ease, gazing out on the moonlit bay near the house, when the moonlit bay near the house, when Jim espied a crane. He said it was a crane, and as he is a mighty hunter with an eye like an eagle, no one thought of disputing him. Moreover, he is a dead shot; so that when he took the femily are administrative. he is a dead shot; so that when he took the family gun and aimed it at the crane the expected happened. Three or four yelps and a howl of pain followed the discharge, proving conclusively that he had hit semething. And he had; for on going down to the shore they saw Uncle Israel's old gander singing its death song among gander singing its death song among the reeds and rushes, and later found that Ol' Whitefish Joe's dog had suffered the loss of one of its eyes. Israel didn't say a thung, but recogniz ed that a very comprehensive shot had been fired, so he took the precaution of calling the roll of the household, inspecting the cat and counting the chickens in the barn before settling down to assist Jim in plucking the feathers from the defunct wa-wa.

Ottawa, July 6.—After five hours' discussion in the House on the estimates of the Postoffice Department, these items were passed: Salaries and allowances, $1,373,866; mail service, $2,322,580; miscellaneous, $275,000. A number of questions asked were answered by Ministers.

answered by Ministers.

Ottawa, July 7.—Most of the day was speat in discussing clauses of the Railway Commission bill, principally about municipal rights in connection with the operation of electric railways. In Committee of Supply Sir William Mulock said it was not his intention to inaugurate a rural mail delivery, as the satisfactory results in the United States, reported in the newspapers, was not a correct statement of the facts.

Ottawa, July 8.—Hon. Mr. Fielding gave notice of a resolution to authorise payment of steel and iron bounties under certain conditions. Also of the payment of a bounty on binder twine. Appropriations were binder twine. Appropriations were passed aggregating over $19,000,-000, and the House again went into committee on the Railway Commis-sion bill, adjourning at 12.40.

Ottawa, July 9.—After fully a month's consideration in Committee of the House, the last of the 310 clauses of the railway bill was disposed of to-night, and the bill new awaits the third reading. The long hours spent in discussion, at times tedious and occasionally bitter, have borne fruit, and in its amended form the country gets better protection than at first thought possible. The bill, as amended in committee, will be reprinted before the third reading. -- Ends His Visit-- Escerted to the Train by King Edward. London, July 10.—President Lou-bet's visit to London was brought to a close at 8.60 o'clock yesterday, when he left the Victoria Station for Doyer. The scenes and incidents of his departure testified to how the Republican President had captured all classes and won the popular good will. As M. Loubet's carriage drew up at the station, King Edward advanced with outstretched hand, and, taking the President familiarly by the arm, led him through the waiting-room to the royal car. His Majesty stood chatting with him until the train pulled out, amid cheers, mingled with the strains of "The Marseillaise."

Chatham, July 11.—Wm. Baxter, an old Chatham boy, but now of New York city, met a shocking death here yesterday. He came here a week ago to spend his vacation at the home of his brother-in-law, P. S. Coate, when he was seized with typhoid and removed to the public general hospital. Yesterday he asked his nurse for a glass of water; and in her momentary absence left his bed and got out of the window, two stories up, and fell to the ground. His skull was fractured and he died in two hours. He was a son of the late Col. Baxter, once chief of police of this city.

Ottawa, July 18.—Last February, J. W. Campion, a barkeeper in the Wellington Hotel, disappeared on the eve of his marriage. Yesterday his body was found floating on the Ottawa River, about six miles below Ottawa. It was identified by the clothing, and by the inscription on a locket presented by frieods. There is no doubt but he committed suicide. The body naturally was badly decomposed, having been in the water was months.

A POPULAR WEDDING

On Monday, July the 6th, a very pretty wedding ceremony was performed in St. James' church, Trevelyan, when Lev. Father Crawley united in holy bonds of matrimony Mr. Frederick McDonald, of Lansdowne, and Miss Johanna Shea, youngest daughter of Mr. N. Shea, of Sheatown. The bride was attired in a pretty blue contume trimmed with white silk, and the bridesmaid, Miss Teress Murphy, of Bockport, looked very attractive in a costume of similar color. Mr. Bert Ivy supported the groom during the ceremony.

In the evening a grand reception was given the happy couple at the home of the bride's father. A sumphome of the bride's father. A sumptuous repast awaited the guests, and before doing justice to the good things preptred, Rev. Fr. Crawley made a very appropriate speech, in which he spoke highly of the young lady, who had been a resident of his parish, and joined with the assembled guests in wishing the young couple a long and happy life. About 100 then sat down to a richly prepared table, and when to a richly prepared table, and when ample justice had been done and every one had complimented the newly married couple, all retired to the lawn where a spacious platform had been erected for those who enjoyed the amusement of dancing. A full orchestra furnished music for this entertainment, and the lawn with its crowded platform and brilliant lights presented platform and brilliant lights presented a very pretty spectacle. Amusements were kept up until early in the morning, when all departed much pleased with the pleasant time spent. To learn the exteem in which the bride was held it was simply necessary to re-tire to a room which held the many and costly presents which were given by her friends and and acquaintances. TOTAL NETWOOD OF THE SHY

We are told that a man is as old as he feels, and a woman as old as she looks If that rule were reversed, I imagine that Miss Lena Werner, aged 20, of Hammonton, N. J., must have felt about five years old the other evening, to judge by the following story, published in the New York World of yesterday:

New York World of yesterday:
How inte may a young woman of 20 sit up with her beau, and may a young woman of that age be spanked by her stepmother if she declines to go to bed at the hour set by the pusehold rules?

household rules?
These are grave questions which the Atlantic County Court will be called on to decide in the case of Miss Lena Werner, who has caused the arrest of her stepmother, Mrs. Frederick Werner, on a charge of assault and battery. The case was heard by Justice of the Peace Gar-ton, at Hammonton, N. J., and when the accused woman learned that she must furnish $200 ball, she cried: 'I will not furnish bail. When I once.

"I will go to bed when I get ready," Miss Lena replied.
There were heavy footfalls on the than 200 pounds, and in another moment Miss Lena was across the knee of her stepmother, and the sounds of spanking were heard throughout the house. The terrified beau fled.

Miss Werner consulted Justice the Peace Garton, and he decided to interview Mrs. Werner. He says that while he tried to argue with her she grabbed her stepdaughter and finished the spanking then and there. The justice had sufficient evidence and issued the warrant.

and issued the warrant.

I remember an old recitation of my schoolboy days, which was a favorite among those girls who imagined themselves big enough to be permitted to "sit up" evenings with their "beaux." It began this way: The clock has struck ten, Willie dear, and you know.

Papa has said that at ten you must

Each verse ended with, "Quick, kiss me good-night, dear, kiss me good-night," and as there were several varses, each one covering an hour of time, it is evident that Willie, in spite of papa's injunction, did not go at

Down in New Jersey, where I passed my boyhood days, it was—and st.ll is, for all I know to the contrary— the custom for one "chap" to try to "out-sit" the other, when two hap-pened to call on the same girl at the same time. This was pretty hard or same time. Tais was pretty hard on the grit, as the rustic swains thought nothing of sitting grimly un-til the crowling cocks and lowing eat-the reminded them that daylight was at hand, Still, the girls never seemed to mind it very much; they rather took delight in favoring first one, then the other of their rural admir-ers, much after the fashiom, albeit a little more crude, of their urban

The case in point, however, involved The case in point, however, involves more than the right to "sit (ip) past midnight. Which of us is there who, having once enjoyed that incomparable privilege in the heyday of youth, would refuse it to the young folks of to-day? Young people can go without sleep a great deal better than old people, and as long as no harm is meant or done, why deprive them of the pleasure of yawning in each other's face, and murmuring soft nothings by the light of the moon or the gas—turned low, of course? But that a step-mother should be

There are, doubtless, many persons who will decry the courage of Lena's "beau," which inspired him to flee, instead of gallantly rescuing her from the ronderous embrace of her step-ma. I don't know, though, that he is to be blamed for beating a precipitate retreat. Discretion, you know, is oft the better part of valor, while

It's bad enough for a man to disagree with his really, truly, mother-in-law. To do so when she is only a prospective mother-in-buw, and a step-one at that, would be the height of folly. And then, too, one must remer'en that it would be difficult for an interest of find the object of his: atton in a less romantic atti-tude than the one into which Miss Lena was forced by her obdurate step-parentess. A man might be moved to tears in such a case, but hardly to heroics.

The trascible Man An irracible man is a nuisance at bome. His wife is afraid to call her soul her own, lest she should stir up his anger. His children shrink from his presence in dread at a growl or a blow. He is like a skeleton at a feast or a cloud surcharged with storm. He is a persence to his with storm. He is a penance to his with storm. He is a penaltee to his children. He ought to take his temper and put a curb on it. Is this paragraph for you?—Catholic Union and Times.

Unique celebrations were recently held here, when the family of Brigham Young was gathered for the observance of his birthday as well as to hear reports of the work done by an association that has been formed by the descendants of the Mormon prophet and his brothers. The celebration has become to be one of the events of the year in tuah. It is estimated that at the party given here on June 1st more than 500 of the descendants of the second Mormon prophet were gathered. His sons and daughters—who numbered 56—have generally reared large families, and many of these were gathered from far and near to meet and take up the work that the family is to do according to the Mormon creed. Some came from the Mormon settlements in Canada, Sta-Mormon estetlements in Canada, Sta-ers from Mexico, and still others from the region between Several of the widows of the prophet were also present, although most of these surpresent, although most of these survivors are becoming feeble with age. The interesting feature of the annual meeting, however, lies in the purpose of the family organization, which is to do baptismal work for the ancestors of Brigham Young. It is a cardinal doctrine of the Mornon Church that no person can reach the highest of the kingdoms in the after life unless he or she is reach the highest of the kingdoms in the after life unless he or she is baptized by one of the priests of the church. In prefer to provide for the time existing between the withdrawal of the true gospel from the earth—according to the Mormon theology in about 400 A. D.—and its return through Joseph Smith in the early part of the last century, it was "revealed" to Smith that a descendant of any person who was dead could be baptized in his or her naue, and so make the record complete. and so make the record complete.

It is the Mormon belief that the spirit of unbaptized persons are held in the "celestial or terrestrial" kingdoms-the lower kingdoms in the other world—awaiting the ac-tion of their descendants to per-mit them to ascend into the "celes-tlal" kingdom, which is reserved for the elect. Consequently the leaders of the Young family, several years ago, undertook to trace back their ancestry as far as they could go, and provide for all whose relationship could be shown an en-try into the highest of the other worlds.

They have gone to the early part of the eighteenth century already learning that the first ancestor of Brigham Young, who came to America, was a resident of the Providence Plantations, being one of the early settlers. Other ancestors dence Plantations, being one of the early settlers. Other ancestors served in the Indian wars, and one fought with distinction in the War of the Revolution. Efforts are now being made to trace the relation-ship across the Atlantic and carry the family records as for as possible the family records as far as possible into England, the plan being to go back to 400 A. D., if any records can be found, which, of course, is out of the question, in view of the State of England about that time.

Whenever a new angestor is found.

Whenever a new ancestor is found one of the members of the family, who is engaged in what is known as who is engaged in what is known as the "temple work," goes to the big temple in this city and passes through various peculiar ceremo-nies akin to those of the "endow-ment," so called, by which a novice is initiated into the mysteries of the church. It's only a boy, but as he is the cutest, sweetest, smartest, prettiest thing that ever happened, we have made up our mind to keep him. In our present excited condition it is impossible for us to give an extended description of this remarkable child this week. We have changed our mind on the boy question, however, and begin to feel a deep sympathy for the poor, good-for-nothing fellows who have nothing but girls and are trying to delude themselves, as we did for so many years, with the idea that they are satisfied and happy. Our experience and example should give them renewed hope and encouragement. The kid has not learned to smoke yet, although he seems to have no end of friends who do. Once the ice-cream pedlers sold their ware on a slip of paper which, when the cream was eaten was thrown away. Then the ice-cream sandwich, as we know it now, came into being. Now, however, we will have a combination of the two, for the new sandwich is a cracker cup filled with cream. The English process, which bakes the cracker in the form of a cup, also imparts various flavors to it, and the happy street urchin can eat his delicacy without having to throw the receptacle away, as he used to do, and without losing any of the cream by leakage, as is now the ううらうううこう A WOMAN'S IDEA ON MANAGING WIVES.

With great interest i read a recent report of the conversation of two women in a cafe anent their flirta-report of the conversation of two women in a cafe anent their flirtations.

The only thing that amazes me is that any woman who knows the world should be surprised at such a conversation. You have only to open your ears and you will hear this sort of talk everywhere. As a rule whenever two or three fashionably gowned and beautifully groomed women are gathered together you will hear nothing but such stuff talked.

Long ago I discovered that my sex are not angels. They are human quite as much as men. Their failings are much the same as are those of the stronger sex. Men get deadly tired of their husbands. Men amuse themselves with their mistresses; women amuse themselves with their flirtations.

Oh Lirow, this is not wretty talk.

Oh. I know this is not pretty talk; it is the plain, bold truth that many people cannot bear to hear. But you have only to pick up any daily newspaper in any city in the land and read over the spread heads and you will readily see the force of my state-

Most divorce cases begin with a flirtation. Sometimes it is only a harmless affair in itself, but develops compromising phases; oftener the flirtation merges into a serious complication. Their comes an expose, a scandal, a divorce.

Many charming your married women think it enhances their distinction to be a serious correct behind tion to have a train of carpet knights dangling after them. They love, on their entrance into a ballroom or cepra box, to be instantly surrounded by a knot of admirers, for they per-ceive that it adds to their social success. Then, too, it makes other women black in the face.

There are many young husbands who love to see their wives thus admired. They consider it an indirect compliment to themselves. They enjoy the distinction of being pointed cut as the husbands of famous society beauties. They think it part of the game. They do not realize until too late that the game is one of playing with fire.

A woman loves to talk over her A woman loves to talk over her conquests with her dearest woman friend. She might, I admit, take a more appropriate place for her gushing and soul outpouring than a public cafe. It is a curious thing that what is considered as absolutely dis honorable in a man is accepted as matter of course in a woman.

A man who boasts of his affaires du couer to his friend is set down as an unmitigated cad, but a woman who brandishes her conquests is deemed very entertaining and rather clever

There are many flirtatious women There are many flirtatious women who really and actually enjoy making a man wretched. I once knew a girl of this sort. "I love to devil them," she was wont to say, with a positive relish. She has developed into a coid, calculating, scheming woman, with glittering steel points in her eyes and a mania for stocks. her eyes and a mania for stocks

The woman in the restaurant said: "I don't mind in the least dragging him along. When I know he's getting bruised I say, 'Oh, well, he'll get over it'."

This sort of thing is damnable in a This sort of thing is damnable in a man, but in a woman it's considered mighty smart. There are many women who love to go to the very abyss of danger and look over. They never take the plunge, however. And they think themselves very good women, much better than those who have stumbled end released. have stumbled and plunged over the

I'll tell you what I think about the flirtations of young married women. The young wife who has an adoring ab! indulgent husband, and who carries on silly intrigues with Thom, Dick and Harry of her social set, deserves a good beating at the hands of someone. I do not as a rule approve of husbands pounding their wives, but it seems to me there are exceptions to every rule.

"Now, on the other hand, has the husband no moral responsibility in the matter? It seems to me that when a man promises to love, cherish and protect a woman he should take ing contracts for long periods it upon herself to protect her mor-ally as well as physically. I do not thusk it right for a hustand to be-come careless as to his wife's asso-ciates. He should know with whom she is dancing or sitting out a dance. He should know, with whom the second she is dancing or sitting out a dance. He should know with whom she goes driving or automobiling. He should exercise something of a father's care over his young wife. Too many husbands take everything as a matter of fact. The average husband assumes because he is married to a woman that of course she loves him. That is her business.

That is her business. He should never be too sure. The best safeguard for love is alertness. This both for men and women. Be always on the lookout for the thief in the night; always on guard for the wolf prowling about the fold.

If I were a young husband I would not leave my wife alone in a ball-room while I spent the evening in the card-room.

If I saw my wife dancing or sitting out a dance with a fascinating lady-killer I should immediately ask her for the next dance and as I held her to my heart I should whisper in her ear that she was the sweetest and prettiest thing on the floor; that she did not look a day older than when I first courted her and a lot of other divine nonsense. a lot of other divine nonsense a lot of other divine nonsense.

I should not permit her to go about too much with other men. Neither would I be a jealous bear. But I would know where she was and who was with her.

I should never forget to make love to her. Ah! that is where many husbands fail. Many a wife has turned from a cold husband to the arms of a fervid lover, even when she loved the husband better. She had been repulsed and in pique sought consolation.

I have never forgotten a scene I sought consolation.

I have never forgotten a scene I once witnessed. Ways of Eating Lettuce.

N. Y. Press. There has been an unwritten law among epicires that lettuce should never be cut with a knife. Indeed, it should not be touched with a knife, they say. Now, the common records have heard this and it is people have heard this, and it is with a fork, sop it in the dressing and pack it in their mouths as one and pack it in their mouths as one used to wad a muzzle-loading gun with a bit of newspaper. Once in a while you will see a dainty eater pick up leaves in the fingers, horrified at the thought of touching the lettuce even with a silver fork. It has not occurred to most lettuce eaters that the epicures who established these propositions are stablished these propositions. tablished these unwritten laws ate only the heart of the vegetable, which does not require cutting, packing or wadding, but may be taken on the tip of a fork and conrysed decently to the buccal cavity.

Ritchle, wer-also present, but the latter left be-tore Mr. Champel lain entered.

The Colonial Secretary said, among other things: "I delight to welcome you personally and officially, because you represent modern ideas in university life. I am Chancelor of England's most modern university, Br mingham. We do not desire to com note with older Oxford and Cam pridge; but I at least would multiply universities so that every employer and every foreman of the future will be equipped tecnnically. You as direc-tors of the growing best minds in the colonies can add a stone to the Imperial edifice. We must cement it Imperial edifiee. We must cement it with splendid sentiment to-day, and with mutual interests to-morrow.

Regarding Murder Suspects.

Collingwood ,despatch—Chief Wikle received a letter to-day from a prominent farmer on the tenth line of Osprey, confirming his suspicions that two tramps, possibly the slayers of Glory Whalen, are still in hiding in the 200 acres of bush in that township.

The chief's correspondent writes that the two men had been seen to scamper in and out of the bush recently. Chickens, geese and lambs have been stolen from farmers, and the tramps are blamed.

Other residents of the township confirm this report. It is just possible that Chief Wilde will institute a search by himself shortly.

sonally Received by His Majesty.

London, July 13.—King Edward signally honored the officers of the American squadron to-night at the State ball given at Buckingham Palace. His Majesty formally received Admiral Cotton, the captains of the American ships and 25 of the junior officers, and Queen Alexandra later gave them the same distinction. The ball—the first since the accession of King Edward—was a brilliant function, 2,200 guests being present, including President Loubet and his suite, practically all the Ambassadors and sident Loubet and his suite, practically all the Ambassadors and Ministers in London, the majority of the members of the royal family, prominent representatives of nobility, and the officers of the American can and French squadrons now is

He only es-caped some rough handling through the watchful efforts of two constables of the Mounted Police, who showed the nerve for which their corps is famous, and stood the crowd off. The reverend gentleman ar-rived in the city from Saskatoon at 6 o'clock in the evening, and was booked to catch the regular express later in the night. That he was expecting a demonstration of an uncomplimentary character was made patent by the fact that he was accompanied by two policemen during all the time he spent in the city. He did not make any great display of himself, but this did not help him to any very great extent, as he had not been in the city long before he was recognized by one of his ex-followers, who imagined that he had good cause to remember his former o'clock in the evening, and was good cause to remember his former leader. This man hustled around the leader. This man hustled around the town, and it was not long before he had under his orders a good crowd of men, all of whom thought that they had some good and just cause to get after Mr. Barr.

Eggs in the Air! Getting hold of a first-class supply of second or third class eggs they proceeded to the station, where Mr. Barr was discovered taking the air on the platform. The crowd opened the proceedings with three hearty groans, and proceeded to speak of and at Mr. Barr in tones which showed that they had little respondence with the cloth.
