Big Insurance Building
(Toronto Globe)
New York, April 4.—The Mutual Life Insurance Company of this city has practically decided to build offices in Toronto as the company's headquarters for Canada in the near future. Two of the directors were recently in that city looking over the ground. There are at least three sites in view, and one of them will be selected on an early date, and buildings which, with the site, will cost about $1,500,000, will, it is understood, be erected. It is probable that, in view of the necessary notices to tenants, the time required for preparing plans and the completion of other details, all of which mean considerable delay, there will be no building done this year.

Mr. A. E. Donovan, the manager of the company in Toronto, declined to discuss the subject when questioned by a representative of The Globe.

DR. DRUMMOND DEAD

GREEN-PIERCE
A very quiet wedding took place on Wednesday, April 3rd, at Brockville Trinity Church of two popular young people of Oak Leaf, when Miss Ena, daughter of the late Francis Pierce was married to Bismark Green, Rev. F. D. Woodcock officiating. The bride was unattended and was becomingly attired in a pretty silk costume with hat and gloves to match. Immediately after the ceremony the young couple left for Elbe where the groom had a beautiful home previously prepared for them. The Reporter joins with their many friends in extending congratulations.

H. B. Knapp's Auction Sale
Farmers desiring to add to their stock will do well to attend H. B. Knapp's auction sale, Plum Hollow, on the afternoon of April 17th, at which sixteen high grade milch cows and a quantity of hay will be sold. D. C. Healy, Auctioneer. For particulars see bills.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOL LIBRARY
(LUKE XXI, 13)
The library, brother, hail with joy
A boon it may be to some sad heart
May save, if not your own, your neighbor's boy
From straying nightly the fireside apart
May save him from many paths of sin
Which God says His child must not enter in.
Some mother's heart may leap with joy,
As, seated around the bright fireside,
On her cherished hope, her darling boy,
She looks once more with secret pride;
Won back he has been by some noble book
Into whose pure life he chanced to look.
Then lay aside every stumbling weight;
All should help; if you will you can;
Let us enter the fray ere it be too late
And strive to lift up fallen man;
Heed the words of our Master and none other,
"How can ye love me and hate your brother?"
On earth we may not see eye to eye,
Yet each may gather gold sheaves;
The veil will be lifted by and by
When its earthly shell the spirit leaves;
May our Master's words inspire our breast,
While souls are perishing, know no rest.

To Whom It May Concern
I had great pleasure some time ago in listening to the Royal Scots Concert Company at their first appearance in Athens, and in order that more may have the same pleasure at their next appearance here, April 12th; I cheerfully testify to the excellence of their work. The programme was varied and each number was of high merit. Ventriloquial numbers were happily rendered and altogether the concert was such as none should miss. The splendid repertoire of the company (which may be seen on the advertising sheets) leads me to expect on their second appearance here as great a treat as I enjoyed before.
Yours truly,
W. C. Dowaley.

New Baseball Rules
If any player other than the pitcher soils a new ball, either by moistening it or rubbing it in the dirt, he will be fined $5.
If a pitched ball strikes the ground before it crosses the plate, it counts as a ball in every case.
The batsman will be declared out if he changes from one box to the other after the pitcher has taken the pitcher's box.
In games where two umpires officiate it shall be agreed on and announced before the game on which particular plays each shall rule.
If a catcher interferes with a batsman while striking at a pitched ball, the batsman becomes a base-runner.
If there are two base runners and one passes another in an endeavor to make a run while the first base runner is being "tagged," the base-runner who passes shall be declared out.
The last two rules held in the American League last year, but not in the National League.

Points for Poultry Men
Hens will lay rich fresh eggs if they are provided with wholesome and nutritious food.
New nests should be provided for the hens after each laying season.
The axe is the best cure for poultry diseases you do not understand.
After the second year the hen's value begins to lessen as a winter layer.
 Lice and vermin may be destroyed by burning a pound of sulphur in the poultry house.
 If brought in the fall breeding stock will be found in better condition for duty in the spring.
 Do not market the eggs found in a hidden nest. They are not always fresh.
 One good breed of chickens on a farm properly attended to is worth a dozen different breeds.
 Keep your early hatched pullets unless you are raising them especially for sale in the fall.
 A good insecticide can be made by putting a quart of kerosene in a gallon of whitewash.
 When you next select eggs for hatching remember that sick or overed hens do not lay very fertile eggs, and if an egg is allowed to get thoroughly chilled it may not hatch.

The Great North Country
Nimrod was a mighty hunter, but had he hunted in the "Temagami" region he would have been a mightier one. Nimrod hunted for glory, but Temagami hunters hunt for game. Those Indians who made the first canoe of birch bark long ago were our greatest benefactors. The children of these Indians know the canoe, and they know how to use it, and if you go to Temagami this summer they will paddle your canoe in their own superb way. They will be the best guides you ever had. Students who camp in summer along the Temagami lakes are able to do two years' work in one. Finest of fishing and hunting. Easy of access by the Grand Trunk Railway System. For information and beautiful descriptive publication sent free apply to J. Quinlan, Bonaventure Station, Montreal, Que.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON VI.—MAY 19, 1907.

Joseph Forgives His Brothers.—Gen. xiv. 1-20, 1. 15-21.

Commentary.—I. Joseph makes himself known to his brothers (vs. 1-15).

Joseph is now thirty-nine years old; he had been in Egypt twenty-two years, and had been governor of Egypt nine years. He could not refrain from weeping very emphatically and signifies to force one's self, to do something against nature. Joseph could no longer constrain himself. The severity of the inflexible magistrate gives way to the natural feelings of the man and the brother. To go out—That is, all of the Egyptians. This was, in order that he might give free and full scope to his feelings. 2. It was the part of prudence to prevent the sins of his brethren from becoming known to the man and the brother. To go out—That is, all of the Egyptians. This was, in order that he might give free and full scope to his feelings. 2. It was the part of prudence to prevent the sins of his brethren from becoming known to the man and the brother.

2. Wept aloud.—From the fullness of highly excited emotions. "This is the usual way in which Orientals express excited feelings."—Pulpit Com. Heard.—This may mean the servants who may have been within the sound of his voice, or the words may only signify that the report was brought to Pharaoh's house (v. 16). 3. I am Joseph.—The natural voice, the native tongue, the long remembered features, would all at once strike the apprehension of the brothers, and tender charity.—Pulpit Com. 4. Being not grieved.—He spoke of their having sold him—not to wound their feelings, but to convince them of his identity; and then to reassure their minds, he traced the agencies of an overruling providence in his evil and present honor. Did send me.—God used their evil to accomplish his purpose. He did not need their evil; he has a thousand ways of accomplishing his ends. To preserve life.—Not only your lives, but the Egyptians and the people of the neighboring countries. The principles laid down by Joseph are: 1. "That while sinners are encouraged to hope in God's mercy, they are left without excuse for their sin." 2. That God is able to make use of the wicked actions of wicked men for the advancement of his work.

6. Neither be caring.—"Shall be neither sowing nor harvest."—R. V. "Ear" is an old English word meaning to plow. 7. Great deliverance.—That is, that you, who are now but a handful, escaping this danger, might grow into a vast multitude.—Benson. 8. His principal counselor of state, and to have the authority, respect and power of a father with him. 9. Go up to my father.—He assures that his father might be made glad with the tidings of his life and end. 10. Land of Goshen.—Probably this district had been allotted to Joseph by the king of Egypt, else we can scarcely think he could have promised it so positively, without first obtaining Pharaoh's consent.—Clarke. 11. Well-watered of Egypt, east of Goshen was a part of the Nile, and fit for cattle, and therefore, most proper for the Israelites, not only for present use, but also that in God's time they might with the least disadvantage return to Canaan. 12. Very fertile, for it was watered by the Nile, well-watered of Egypt. 13. Nourish thee.—It is the duty of children, if the necessity of their parents does at any time require it, to support and supply them to the utmost of their ability. 14. Henry, and thy household.—The household of Joseph, consisting of his wife, his children, and his servants. 15. Joseph, and thy household.—The household of Joseph, consisting of his wife, his children, and his servants. 16. Kissed all his brethren.—As a token of love and forgiveness. Talked with him.—They were now at rest, the past forgiven, the great futurity of hope and they could now tell the thousand things Joseph wished to know about them, and learn his history from him—as to repeat the narrative to their father. 17. Intervene.—Joseph's father sent for his father (chap. 45, 17-28). Great prayers were made. At first Jacob's heart failed, but when he saw the "wagons" and the "good things of Egypt," his spirit revived and he believed what his sons said. So Christ makes ample provisions for us in the gospel. 2. The journey to Egypt (96, 1-27). The whole family with their flocks and movable property made the journey (about 250 miles) to Egypt. 3. The meeting of Jacob and Joseph (16, 28-34). 4. The meeting of Jacob and Pharaoh (47, 1-10). Joseph shows his boldness of character by not being ashamed of his aged father. 5. Joseph's sons (chap. 48, 49). Jacob takes Joseph's sons, Ephraim and Manasse, as his own sons (48, 5) and makes them heads of tribes, and makes Simeon the leading tribe from which the "Simeon" was to spring. 6. Jacob's death and burial (49, 29 to 50, 14). Jacob was 147 years of age when he died. He was buried in the cave where Abraham and Isaac were buried.

11. Forgive tenderly.—Joseph could not refrain from weeping. "He wept aloud" (v. 2). "He kissed all his brethren and wept" (v. 15). When Joseph's brethren with awakened conscience, said one to another, "We are very guilty concerning our brother," Joseph "turned himself about from them and wept" (Gen. xlii. 21-24). When after long years of separation Joseph again looked into the face of Benjamin, "he sought where to weep, and he entered into his chamber and wept there" (Gen. xliii. 30). When once more he was clasped in the arms of his fond father, he "went on his neck a good while" (Gen. 46, 26). When after the death of Jacob his brethren doubted his love and prayed to "forgive" them, "Joseph wept when they spake unto him" (Gen. 50, 17). Joseph's tears indicate how all through the years his heart held only tenderness for those who had wronged him. Sorrow had not made him bitter. The memory of his wrongs had not rankled. How like him who "came unto his own, and his own received him not" (John 1, 11), yet whose life was one long compassion, Jesus wept over Jerusalem (Luke 19, 41); he wept at the grave of Lazarus (John 11, 35); he wept in the garden (John 11, 35). And today he is the same good Samaritan of compassion (Luke 10, 33). To-day, welcoming the prositral, he has compassion (Luke 15, 20); seeing the hungry, shepherd-like multitudes, he has compassion (Matt. 20, 34).

11. Forgive privately.—"Cause every man to go out from me" (v. 1). I was Joseph's command. Neither Pharaoh nor any of his servants were told that a brother's cruelty brought him into Egypt (Gen. 40, 15). Faithfully he dealt with them in private; all our rebuke of children should be when we are absolutely alone with them; our forgiveness should be extended when all others but those who have offended us are gone "out from us".

11. Forgive and seek reconciliation.—"Joseph made himself known unto his brethren" (v. 1). There is no record that the people of the neighborhood were told that a brother's cruelty brought him into Egypt (Gen. 40, 15). Faithfully he dealt with them in private; all our rebuke of children should be when we are absolutely alone with them; our forgiveness should be extended when all others but those who have offended us are gone "out from us".

11. Kissed all his brethren.—As a token of love and forgiveness. Talked with him.—They were now at rest, the past forgiven, the great futurity of hope and they could now tell the thousand things Joseph wished to know about them, and learn his history from him—as to repeat the narrative to their father. 17. Jacob's death and burial (49, 29 to 50, 14). Jacob was 147 years of age when he died. He was buried in the cave where Abraham and Isaac were buried.

11. Joseph forgives his brothers (50, 15-21). After Jacob's death Joseph's brothers, fearing that now Joseph would hate them, again plead for forgiveness. They said that their father before he died had told them to ask Joseph to forgive them. They had probably asked their father to help them in their trouble. Jacob must have advised them to humble themselves before their brother, and obtain a free assurance of forgiveness. 17. Forgive, etc.—These words were spoken in a way to appeal in the most forcible manner to Joseph's piety and filial affection. Joseph wept.—He wept out of sympathy with their deep sorrow of many years.

18. Fell down.—This again and again

do we see the fulfillment of Joseph's dreams in a remarkable manner (chap. 37, 38). 10. Am I in the place of God.—I have forgiven you and the matter is now between you and God. I am not your judge to punish you. 20. Ye must will (R. V.).—And what they did was just as wicked as though the results had been disastrous.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS.

SENATORS WANTED BOODLE BEFORE CASTING THEIR VOTES.

Wanted to Know if "the Money Had Come Down on the Beer Bill."

Little Rock, Ark., April 8.—In one of the most dramatic scenes ever witnessed in the Circuit Court of Putaski county, former State Senator John A. Hinkle yesterday while on the witness stand at the trial of former State Senator Webb Covington on a charge of perjury, told of alleged "boodling" in the last Legislature. Asked by the attorney for Covington as to whether he had testified before the grand jury receiving from a local liquor dealer $3,000 in one package and $2,500 in another as payment for action that had been taken in the Fuller Beer Inspection Bill, Hinkle admitted that he received $7,500 at the liquor dealer's office. Asked with whom he had divided the money, he declined to answer. Members of the alleged "boodle combination" Hinkle alleged, stood about the State House inquiring if "the money had come down on the beer bill" before they voted to kill the measure. D. P. Cook also testified. He admitted receiving $12,000 from the contractor for the State Capital, and said he gave Covington the money for distribution. The names of several members of the Legislature who are under indictment were frequently mentioned in connection with the alleged grafting. Ex-Senator Butt, alleged to have been a member of the boodle combination, was convicted of "boodling."

WANTED FOR MURDER. LEO C. GOULD ARRESTED AT VANCOUVER FOR FORGERY.

Identified by Detective as Leo C. Thurman, Alleged to Have Murdered His Room-mate at Norfolk, Virginia. Vancouver, April 8.—F. C. Gould, the young man arrested here on Saturday night while trying to pass forged cheques, and who was found to have passed four false cheques on Brown's store, was identified this morning by Sergeant of Detective Muthern, as Leo C. Thurman, wanted in Norfolk, Virginia, for the brutal murder of his room-mate, U. P. DeLone, on the morning of February 1, 1906. Thurman killed his fellow-lodger by crushing in his skull while he was asleep. The body was doubled in a trunk, which was tagged for shipment. A reward of $300 was offered by the Oddfellows' Lodge of Norfolk, and $100 by the Governor of Virginia for the arrest and conviction of the murderer.

SWETTENHAM'S RESIGNATION. Imperial Government Demanded an Apology.

London, April 8.—The Standard publishes what it claims to be the true reason for the resignation of Governor Swettenham, of Jamaica. An intimate friend, says the Standard, has just received a letter from Sir Alexander Swettenham, explaining his attitude and revealing the steps taken by the Government to mollify public opinion in America. In his letter Sir Alexander emphatically denies that there was any dispute between himself and Admiral Davis. He says: "The Rear-Admiral and I were the best of friends, and during the whole time he was here he had the use of one of my carriages and drove round with my private secretary." The letter which pleased the stir, says the Standard, was written privately to an old friend of Swettenham's, and in a spirit of pleasantry, as one friend might write another without fear of offence. The letter came in the hands of a colored newspaper correspondent, but Sir Alexander says he has not yet been able to find how he got it. He does not imagine for a moment that it was through any design of Rear-Admiral Davis, whose sense of honor and etiquette would prohibit any such action. When the publication of what Sir Alexander regarded as a harmless private letter caused a sensation in the two countries, the Government called him, asking if he were willing to apologize to Rear Admiral Davis. He promptly replied that if such a course were necessary he would do so with pleasure, but a compulsory apology would carry with it his resignation of the Governorship. The Colonial Office replied that an apology was necessary. The apology was consequently made, and Sir Alexander asked to be relieved of the Governorship. The day after the King's speech, with reference to Sir Alexander's courage and devotion, the Earl of Elgin, Colonial Secretary, cabled, asking Sir Alexander to reconsider his resignation. The Governor replied that he would withhold his actual resignation until such time as the Government saw fit to send him all the papers relating to the matter. These were sent, and, having perused them, Sir Alexander informed the Colonial Office that his resignation was final and irrevocable.

OHIO TROOPS GETTING READY TO SHOOT DOWN STRIKERS. RAPID FIRE DRILL.

Loraine, Ohio, April 8.—There are ominous preparations for trouble in the shipyard strike. Company B, Fifth Infantry, O. N. G., is assembled in the armory, and the company is being put through a rapid fire drill by Capt. Gove, with rifles. The captain has been notified to be in readiness to go out at a moment's notice. There have been no further disorders on the part of the strikers to-day. They are in a sullen mood, however, and the authorities fear that trouble will occur when about 200 strike breakers arrive on a special train during the day. Mayor King made an address to the strikers to-day. He told them that he would tolerate no more violence; that necessary force will be used henceforth to quell any riot. Soldiers in uniform were at the railway station to-day to assist the special deputies in case of trouble.

A SERIOUS CASE. YOUNG MARRIED MAN ARRESTED ON GRAVE CHARGE.

London, Ont., despatch: Wilfrid Telfer, a young man of about 25, was brought in last night by High Constable Hughes, on a charge of seduction. He was arrested some distance north of Granton yesterday. The complaint was lodged by a London township farmer, named Gatecliffe, on behalf of his daughter, a thirteen year old child. The crime is alleged to have taken place last July. Telfer was married a short time ago. He will receive his hearing before Squire Chittick Monday afternoon.

SNOW STORM. MONTREAL ENJOYING SOME WINTER WEATHER.

Montreal, Que., despatch: The Montrealers to-day woke to find themselves in the midst of a snowstorm. A rain-storm set in through the night, during the progress of which the temperature dropped to a sufficient extent to change the rain into snow. The storm still continues, but the beautiful is promptly transformed into slush on reaching the ground. Spring here promises to be one of the most backward in several years. Dr. Drummond died at Cobalt on Friday.

PEEPS INTO WOMEN'S LETTERS.

If our readers could spend one morning looking through the letters received from all over Canada by the Zambuk Co., it would bring home to them with irresistible force the healing virtues of this great household balm. Old women, young women, wives, mothers and even young girls have something to say about how Zam-Buk did this or that good office in their home. Many of these writers give permission to make extracts from their grateful testimony. From these the following were taken at random: "I was troubled for some weeks with salt rheum in hands and arms and was using a salve which did me little good. On receiving a supply of Zam-Buk I applied it, and it really seemed to net like magic. The itching and burning ceased, and in a few days the skin was cleared and healthy." So writes Miss E. A. Butcher, of North Keppel. "Three boxes of Zam-Buk cured me of Eczema, from which I had suffered a long time," says Mrs. Gladden, of Mansville, Que. "Zam-Buk cured a case of blood poison in my family, and I wish to thank you for the great blessing it has proved." Is the effect of a letter from Mrs. Webb, of Dovercourt. And so one could go on quoting extracts after extract, showing how Zam-Buk cures chronic sores, ulcers, abscesses, bad leg, itch, and blood poison; takes the soreness out of cuts and burns, and grows new, healthy skin over injured or diseased places. All stores and druggists sell at fifty cents a box, or the Zambuk Company, Toronto, will mail for price.

KILLED HIS CHILDREN.

NO RAILROAD STRIKE. The Difficulties on Western Lines Are Finally Adjusted.

Chicago, April 8.—The differences between the western railroads and the members of the Order of Conductors and of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen were finally settled to-day. The men conceded the demand for a nine-hour workday, and the railroads promised an advance over their previous proposal as to the pay of baggage-men, flagmen and brakemen of $1.50 a month.

KILLED BY CAR.

Winnipeg, April 8.—J. W. Wrixon was run over and killed by a street car at the top of the subway last night. He and two others were crossing the street and stopped on the track to argue, when the car struck the three of them, his companions were only slightly injured, but Wrixon was horribly mangled and the car had to be jacked up to release him from under the trucks. He died shortly after removal to the hospital. It is said the three men were all under the influence of liquor.

They regard it as their best physician and friend. THOSE WHO use it are being quickly and permanently cured of all forms of throat, chest, lung and stomach troubles. It is a scientific preparation, destroying all disease germs in the blood and system. It is a wonderful tonic and system-building remedy, and is a certain cure for COUGHS, LA GRIPPE, Colds, Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Weak Voice, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Malaria, Anaemia, Bronchial Coughs, Chills and Fever, Difficult Breathing, General Weakness, Female Troubles, Fickle Appetite, Hemorrhages, Night Sweats, Consumption, Catarrh of the Stomach.

All these diseases are serious in themselves and if not promptly cured in the early stages are the certain forerunners of Consumption in its most terrible forms. Psychine conquers and cures Consumption, but it is much easier and safer to prevent its development by using Psychine. Here is a sample of thousands of voluntary and unsolicited statements from all over Canada: Dr. T. A. Slocum, Limited: "I feel a duty to my duty to advise you of the remarkable cure effected by your Psychine and Oxomulion, which have come under my personal observation. Three men, well known to me, Albert Townsend, Hazel Hipson and John McEwen, all of Shelburne County, were pronounced by the best medical men to have consumption, and to be incurable and beyond the reach of medical aid. They used Psychine and Oxomulion and they are now in good health. I feel a duty to advise you of this fact for the benefit of other sufferers from this terrible disease. Yours very truly, LEANDER MCKENZIE, J.P., Green Harbor, N.S.

Psychine, pronounced Si-keen, is for sale at all up-to-date dealers. If your druggist or general store cannot supply you, write Dr. T. A. Slocum, Limited, 179 King Street West, Toronto.

MILITARY LEAGUE. Dates for Shooting Fixed important Changes Made.

Ottawa, April 8.—The Canadian Military Rifle League matches will be shot this year on the following Saturdays: June 1, 8, 29, and July 4. Last year, there will be four series, including one for cadets. In the latter some very important changes have been made, which will be announced next week. The first series is for teams of ten men from city corps of garrison artillery and infantry; the second for teams of ten men other than city corps, including depots of permanent corps, R. N. W.-M. Police and R. M. C. Cadets; third, civilians from rifle associations. A most important decision sanctions the use of movable wind gauges, hitherto expressly ruled out. The usual regulations and entry fees will be maintained, but all entries must be in by May 20.

TRIAL FOR LIFE

"Oh heaven and earth, the old story—it is the old story," groaned the duke. "He loaned me books, he gave me instruction, he cultivated my taste in art and literature, he sought and won my love—no, do not start and frown—he won my love—no more."

"Go on, go on."

"You know the story of the ex-Baroness Etheridge, and know how I, unworthy that I was, arose upon that noble lady's fall."

"Yes, yes, dearest, I know the particulars of that event; proceed, proceed."

"It was whilst this noble lady was still called the Baroness Etheridge, and upon the day preceding that fixed for her wedding with Mr. Albert Hastings, that William Lovell came down to our village. He sought an interview with me, and persuaded me, weak girl that I was, to consent to a private marriage."

"And you consented? Unhappy girl!"

"Yes, I consented—weakly and wickedly consented—to marry him clandestinely that same evening."

"Unfortunate child! Oh, Rose, Rose!"

"Bear with me, I consented, but I was providentially saved from the consummation of that folly, and at the same time forever cured of my dangerous infatuation."

"Thank heaven for that. Go on—go on!"

"That same afternoon upon which I foster-mother with her last message to promised to meet him at a later hour to be married, I was sent by my poor Lady Etheridge, at Swinburne Castle. I was shown up into the library, where the lady sat, with the title deeds of the Swinburne estates before her, waiting for the arrival of her betrothed husband, Albert Hastings, that she might put them in his hands, and endow him with the whole property. While I was still with the lady, the expected visitor entered, and in Albert Hastings, the betrothed husband of Lady Etheridge, I recognized William Lovell, my lover."

"Good heaven!"

"I was saved! My misplaced love died hard, but it did die. The man who could at the same time deceive the noble lady who endowed him with her princely fortune, and the humble maiden who gave him her whole heart—the man who could deliberately plan the destruction of that confiding maiden upon the very eve of his marriage with that high-souled lady, was unworthy of regret, unworthy of remembrance, unworthy of everything except total oblivion," said Rose, with a beautiful and majestic expression.

"Give me your dear hand! Rose, you are an angel!"

Rose shook her head with a sad smile, and said:

"There never was a woman with more antecedents to acknowledge than I. There is yet another event that I must make known to you—an event connected with my earlier youth."

"What! another secret, dear Rose! a third secret?"

"I will not hear it! Only assure me that your hand and heart are now perfectly free, and that you are willing to bestow them upon my unworthy self, and I shall be happy."

"My hand and heart are free, and they are yours, if you want them; yet you should know this third secret of my life."

"I will not hear it! Dear Rose, you are mine as I am yours, let it not say."

"For all answer she placed her hand in his."

"And yet I would that you would hear what I have yet to tell you," she said, very earnestly.

"No more, dear girl, no more! Thus to pry into the confessional were unpardonably and ungenerous. What you have already told me is enough to prove the candor and purity of your heart. Say only that you are mine. Say it, dear Rose!"

"I am yours."

"The same day the Duchess of Beresleigh was informed of the engagement, and a few days after, the betrothal of the Duke of Beresleigh to the Baroness was announced to the world."

case can in any way affect the one or the other," replied Rose, in so haughty a tone that the old gentleman lost some measure of his temper and self-control, as he said:

"We shall see that, madam. Your ladyship has heard of me, perhaps, as the lifelong, intimate friend of the late baron?"

Rose bowed haughtily.

"You are also aware that I was left guardian of the person and property of the young lady who was brought up as his heiress?"

"Yes, I have heard so," said Rose, coldly.

"You have also heard, perhaps, that upon the last day and night of the late baron's life, when he refused to see either physician or clergyman, he summoned me to his bedside, where I remained until he died?"

"I have heard so," said Rose, coldly.

"On that last day and night of his life, the late Baron Etheridge of Swinburne confided to me a secret," said Colonel Hastings, pausing.

"Well, sir?"

"That secret, that fact, of which I am the only custodian, of which only I possess the proofs, would, if proclaimed, cast you down from your present high position to your former penury and obscurity," said the colonel, slowly, woe-begone the face of Rose to see the effect which his words produced.

"She turned a shade paler, but made no comment."

"You now know whether this secret concerns you or not," said the colonel, sarcastically.

"Pray go on, sir; play the play out," replied Rose.

"That secret, that fact, with all its proofs, which, once divulged, would cast you down from wealth and rank to poverty and obscurity, is mine alone! and whether it shall ever be divulged rests with me and you alone! I only have the power of dashing the coronet of Swinburne from your brow; you only have the choice of hiding me close my lips forever or open them upon this subject."

"Pray proceed, sir; tell me what is in your power to divulge, and the terms of your silence," said Rose, sarcastically.

"I will. The secret confided to me on the deathbed of the late Baron Etheridge of Swinburne, together with the proofs for establishing the fact, was the existence of another, the only true heir of the barony of Swinburne, before whose claims all others must shrivel up as stubble before the flame," said the colonel, solemnly.

"I am not surprised. It is just what my heart prophesied," thought Rose, within herself.

"You believe what I state, Lady Etheridge?"

"Yes, I believe it; I thoroughly believe it. Now, then, tell me the name of this rightful heir," said Rose, coldly.

"Nay, Lady Etheridge; the name of that heir is a secret and I dare not confide, even to yourself, as yet."

"Very well; then tell me the terms upon which you will forever close your lips upon the subject of this supposed heir," said Rose, with a sneering smile.

"I will not divulge the name of that heir until you have proved to me the existence of the person of the Duke of Beresleigh."

"I will suppress the existence of the real heir of Swinburne, and leave you in possession of your fictitious rank and wealth upon the grounds upon which you will at once break off your impending marriage with the Duke of Beresleigh, and contract your hand to your first lover, my son, Mr. Albert Hastings," said the old gentleman, firmly.

"Never!" exclaimed Rose, with impassioned emphasis. "Better any suffering than the sin of keeping the right from you out of the estate. Better any fate than that of a doubly-dyed traitor as Albert Hastings has proved himself to be. To let this lie upon my conscience would make me a traitor to the Duke of Beresleigh here, and you shall repeat in his presence all that you have related to me," said Rose, pulling the bell-rope.

"Lady Etheridge, you are excited; calm yourself, please, reflect," exclaimed Colonel Hastings, anxiously.

The door opened and a footman appeared.

"Take my compliments to the Duke of Beresleigh, and say that I request his grace to join us here."

"Lady Etheridge, you are mad! Command your order before it is too late," exclaimed the colonel, in an excited whisper.

But the servant had already bowed and withdrawn from the room, while the face of Lady Etheridge betrayed no signs of relenting.

"Nay, then, if you will be so frantic, I shall withdraw; yet I beseech you be careful; take time to reflect; do not commit yourself rashly; take time to weigh consequences, and, if you should come to a different decision, a note directed to my town house will always find me. Be cautious not to betray your own interests, and I on my part, shall be careful to guard this secret for yet a few days longer."

Footsteps were now heard approaching, and the colonel, bowing deeply, hastily withdrew.

He had scarcely made his escape when the Duke of Beresleigh entered, and Rose was walking excitedly up and down the floor.

The duke entered, looking around, and saying:

"I thought to have found Colonel Hastings here."

"No, he has run away. He came hither to intimidate a woman, not to face a man," said Rose, excitedly.

The duke stood still and looked at her in amazement, for a moment, and then leading her to a seat he said:

A SPRING DANGER.

Many People Weaken Their Systems by Dosing With Purgative Medicines.

A spring medicine is a necessity. Nature demands it as an aid to enriching the blood and carrying off the impurities that have accumulated during the indoor life of the winter months. Thousands of people recognizing the necessity for a spring medicine, dose themselves with harsh gripping purgatives. This is a mistake. Ask any doctor and he will tell you that the use of purgative medicines weakens the system and cannot possibly cure disease. In the spring the system needs building up—purgatives weaken. The blood should be made rich, red and pure—purgatives cannot do this. What is needed is a tonic, and the best tonic medicinal science has yet devised is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Every dose of this medicine actually makes new, rich blood, and this new blood strengthens every organ and every fibre of the body. That is why these pills banish pimples and unsightly skin eruptions. That is why they cure headaches, backaches, rheumatism, neuralgia, and a host of other troubles that come from poor watery blood. That is why the men and women who use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills eat well and sleep well and feel active and strong. Miss Mabel Synnot, Lisle, Ont., says: "I was pale and weak and suffered greatly from headaches, and I found nothing to help me until I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These have completely restored my health and I bless the day I began taking them."

But be sure you get the genuine Pills, with the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" plainly on the wrapper around each box—all other so-called pink pills are fraudulent imitations. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MEXICO LIKES PHONOGRAPHS.

"Greaser" Peon is as Fond of Music as His Master.

The Mexican is a lover of music. It is nothing strange to hear a "greaser" peon whistling selections from the latest operas. Music to be popular in Mexico must be such as is or can be understood by the people, whose taste in this direction is the direct result of Spanish teachings. Mexico boasts of a number of good composers and the so-called folk songs are very numerous and in many instances pleasing even to foreigners. Dance music is preferred by the masses and this is almost universal, if the national dances peculiar to the different sections of this country are accepted.

Consul W. W. Canada, of Vera Cruz, writes concerning the sale of musical and other instruments in Mexico as follows:

"There are two music dealers in Vera Cruz. In all the larger towns throughout the interior musical instruments may be purchased, but there are few who make this a special business; it is generally conducted in combination with other goods. Mexico City is the central point in this country for music dealers. This consular district offers a splendid field for the sale of talking machines, having a population of not less than 3,000,000, which number is increasing daily. It must not be supposed that the machines are unknown, but they have never been put before the public systematically. It is extremely doubtful if an old established business house here could be induced to send in an order, pay for the same at the place of shipment, take all shipping and packing risks, pay duties and take its chances on wrong declarations of merchandise on consular manifest, usually resulting in fines and double duties, and finally spend from four to seven days in clearing the goods from the custom house, on the unsupported statement of the manufacturer in his circulars."

"It has repeatedly been said that the American manufacturer who desires to cultivate trade with this country must do so in a systematic and thorough manner with a representative. After the manufacturer has established the business at this port he could proceed to another town, and so the entire field could be covered, and it is a large one."

BIRDS HAVE A HARD TIME.

Always Dodging Death and Have a Severe Struggle for a Living.

"I was sitting at my window the other day," said a bird lover, "while half a dozen sparrows were picking furiously and savagely crowding one another round a bit of bread about the size of a boy's marble. They were hungry, I knew by the way they pushed and shoved and elbowed one another around the bread and by the disputes and side fights that were constantly taking place."

"A carriage rolled by in the streets. In an instant every bird took wing and flew up to the branches of a tree overhead. After the carriage had gone by they came back, but had hardly got a bite of bread when a boy appeared, and away they flew again. Then a man, next a dog, a delivery wagon, and a horse, so that ere the crumbs disappeared the birds at least a dozen times were frightened up into the tree, to come back and be scared off again."

"The incident set me to musing over the vicissitudes of nature's life and the comforts men enjoy, but do not appreciate. Suppose that all the boarders of a first class house had to rush away from the table and run into the third storey half a dozen times during the dinner, to keep from being taken off by a dog, a delivery wagon, a horse, and all their lives, from real or imaginary danger, for the one is as bad as the other."

"Suppose when we got up in the morning in a room without a fire we had to go out and look for our breakfast before we got any, then find another job to pay for dinner and a third before we could eat supper; suppose that all our victuals were cold, that after hustling all day and not getting enough to eat we had to roost under the eaves of a house or under somebody's porch, and watch for cats all night long—wouldn't men go and jump in the river rather than worry with such a life? Yet that is the bird's life in winter. In summer food is abundant, the temperature is pleasant and the birds seem happy in spite of their constant danger from boys and stones and guns by day and from cats and owls at night. Maybe birds have no memory for dangers past. If a man runs the risk of being killed by falling off a street car or his acquaintance says he will listen to the story at intervals for weeks, but a bird dreads death every ten minutes through the day, then mounts a twig and sings as cheerily as though there were not a stone nor a gun in the street car or a regret for the past, no foreboding for the future, no worry about rent or taxes or coal bills; no pantry and no fear that anything will spoil in keeping—who wouldn't like to be a bird?"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

HELPERS THE BLIND.

Portable Printing Outfit for the Benefit of Sightless People.

An apparatus of widespread importance to the blind has been invented by Mr. Ernest Vaughan, wherein the blind can correspond freely, either among themselves or with their friends who are not so afflicted. The device has been described by the Scientific American, and is a portable printing apparatus. There is a small box about 1 1/2 inches in length, 3/4 inches wide and 2 inches deep divided into two compartments, one containing a rack containing the type, and the other a small empty space.

The type is of special design, having the Braille character at one end and the corresponding Roman letter at the other. At the other end of the rack is a small notch, by means of which the blind operator can ascertain the meaning of the characters as arranged. This notch fits into grooves provided in the small rack, so that the characters may be stood vertically in the rack in form words, one by one from left to right.

When the rack has been thus filled, owing to its working upon a hinge, and by slightly raising it, the sheet of paper can be inserted in position between guides beneath. The rack is then dropped down into position, and by slight pressure the characters are embossed upon the paper beneath. If a copy of the communication is desired, a sheet of paper is placed upon the uppermost composition of letters, and by a slight pressure the duplicate or copy is thus produced.

The operator can correct his composition line by line, and effect any revisions that may be required. In this instance, the type having the Braille letter uppermost, the resultant printing is in Roman characters, so that the ordinary person can easily read the communication.

In corresponding with a blind friend the operator sets the characters with Braille letters downward. In the case of an ordinary person desiring to write to a blind friend, the characters are set with the Roman letters uppermost, so that they can be seen by the operator. The resultant impression below is of course in Braille, and the recipient can readily read the message from left to right by the touch.

Local Option at the South.

(Washington Herald.)

The temperance movement at the south is characterized by such persistence and intelligence that it cannot be placed in that category of spasmodic reforms which at times stir the mercantile people. In every state on the other side of the Potomac has been perceptibly influenced by the movement. In Kentucky the only counties that have not adopted local option are those in which large cities are situated and in them the light is being kept up in a most determined fashion. In Texas quite as large a proportion of counties has swung into the local option movement as in Kentucky. About the same conditions exist in Alabama, South Carolina and Mississippi, but not on the side of the opponents of temperance. Tennessee is just now the theater of determined activity against the easy public drinking place.

What Makes the Sky Blue.

It is the atmosphere that makes the sky look blue and the moon yellow. If we could ascend to an elevation of forty miles above the earth's surface we should see that the moon is a brilliant white, while the sky would be black, with the stars shining as brightly in the day-time as at night. Furthermore, as a most picturesque feature of the spectacle, we should take notice that some of the stars are red, others blue, yet others violet, and still others green in color. Of course all of the stars (if we bar the planets of our system) are burning suns and the hues they wear depend upon their temperature.—Reader.

Our Girls With Voices

Numerous ambitious girls throughout the country will be alternately chilled and thrilled by an article on studying singing in New York which appears in the May number of the New Idea Woman's Magazine. The writer plainly states that in the artistic metropolis of our country the profession of voice teacher is "beset by conscienceless mountebanks," quotes the opinion of Director Hinrichs of the Metropolitan School of Opera that "ex stars make the poorest teacher. They have a natural gift of song. They don't know how they sing. Having no method, how can they teach one?" and affirms that to get really to the top of the singing world "a European d-but is essential." All this is disheartening to the girl with a voice to train, but there is another side to the story. This tells of a school of opera in connection with the leading New York opera house itself, the pupils of which are given admission to all the operas, the promising ones even being allowed to "tread the boards, as members of the chorus, as flower girls in Parsifal and even in small parts." Note is made of "Madame Lappoid, the Brooklyn nightingale, who burst into fame" without the European debut, and, for the girl dramatically inclined, of the excellent fields for voices in concert, oratorio and church work.

HACKNEY, CARRIAGE ROADSTERS, GENERAL PURPOSE AND DRAFT

Your order left at the Reporter office will receive prompt and satisfactory attention.

The Athens Reporter

On common fences the continuous wire stays are sure to bend and the locks to lose their grip under continual pressure of your horses or cattle. And once they do, the top wire, soon followed by those below, will sag and destroy the efficiency of your fence.

Nothing like that can happen to our Dillon Hinge-Stay Fence. The short, stiff hard steel wire in our hinge-stays cannot bend when the lateral wires are weighted down, owing to their being so short and jointed at each strand wire. Pressure of a horse on the top wire brings the "hinges" in the stays into action and prevents them from bending, and when pressure is relieved the fence springs back into place again.

The lateral wires are High-Carbon Hard Steel and coated to provide for expansion and contraction by heat and cold, and are also crimped at the intersection of the stays and strands to prevent the stays from slipping sideways—therefore no locks are needed. Buy the Dillon Hinge-Stay Fence. It's "twice as strong." Twice as good an investment. Catalogue free.

BIG CARNATIONS.

They Were Cultivated in England in Shakespeare's Time.
A florist says that we pride ourselves nowadays on the size of our carnations, but the florists of 300 years ago grew carnations three to four inches across, as large as any that we see, and thought nothing of it.

"All through Spain, southern France and Italy the carnation is the favorite flower and has been for hundreds of years, but along the Mediterranean there are few glass houses, for in protected situations and on southern slopes of hills even delicate flowers grow outdoors all winter long and bloom as freely at Christmas as in July.

"The big carnations, however, were not grown in Spain or Italy, but in England outdoors during the summer time and before glass houses were known. They may have grown just as large carnation flowers in Spain as in England at that time, but in England there was record of the fact and also of the size, while in Spain there was not. Shakespeare mentions carnations and gillyflowers, or July flowers, together as blooming at the same season, which shows that the carnation was then a summer flower, whereas in our greenhouses it is now a winter bloomer. How the florists of those days treated the plants to obtain blooms of such size nobody knows, for old time florists grew flowers instead of writing books about them. So all we know is that they had very large carnations in Queen Elizabeth's time without knowing how they were grown."

HIDDEN TREASURE.

New Zealanders Dig For Kauri Gum in the Ground.

Many New Zealanders find it profitable to dig for hidden treasure. That is not to say that they dig for gold, but for kauri gum, which is a resinous substance which is the product of the kauri pine tree. The gum can be secured from the trunks of trees while they are alive, for it protrudes in lumps, but it is especially profitable to dig for it in the soil about the stumps remaining after the trees have been cut down. Sometimes chunks weighing as much as 100 pounds are taken up from the ground.

Digging for kauri gum is profitable, for the gum is used in the manufacture of varnish, and apparently it is one of those products of nature whose place cannot be filled by anything else which has yet been discovered. It has been found that it can be used in certain enamel paints, and this has had the effect of bringing the demand up to a point above the supply.

The kauri pine is a magnificent tree. It rises as straight as a needle to a height of from 150 to 200 feet and attains at times a diameter of fifteen feet. It is noted for its dark, dense foliage and is much used for masts for vessels constructed for the British navy.

Chewing and Dyspepsia.
The lean dyspeptic, taking a mouthful of chop, chewed it interminably. "Forty chews," he paused to say, "for every bite." And his jaws began to grind again.

"You make me laugh," his companion, a physiologist, returned. "Meat requires little, if any, chewing. You must have wasted a lot of chews in your time."
"Go on!"
"It's true. Vegetables require chewing, for they are digested largely by the alkaline mouth juices, but meat is digested by the acid stomach juices, and to chew it more than enough to make it go down easily does harm instead of good. The mouth alkalia, admixing with it, hinders the stomach acid's work."

"Chew vegetables indefatigably, my friend, but let your meat slip down unground."

The Word "Idiot."

"Idiot" is a word with a curious history. In Greek "idiotēs" began by meaning a private individual, as opposed to the state or to a state official; then it meant a non-expert or layman and finally an ignorant man or an awkward fellow. It was left for English to carry the meaning further to mental deficiency. In "Piers Plowman" an "idiot" is an ignorant person, and as late as 1693 it could mean a person who knew only one language. Wyclif and Jeremy Taylor used it in the sense of "layman," and the latter also in that of "private person." And a professional "fool" or jester was at one time an "idiot" too.

Where Her Father Was.

The daughter of the house had just returned from boarding school. Her finishing branches had made her a little sensitive.
"Is your father out in the wood shed splitting wood?" the caller asked her.
"No," replied the haughty girl; "papa is at the town-meeting splitting infinitives."

Liquid Spirits.

"I don't do you for a living," stamps. What do you do for a living?
"Please, mum, I work for the Society of Psychological Research."
"Indeed! And what work do you do for the society, pray?"
"I help in the investigation of material spirits."

Hard Knocks often help to make the man, but he will encounter plenty of them without purposely getting in the way of the rock as it comes rolling down the hill.

TURNED THE JOKE.

The Way a Bridegroom Got the Laugh on His "Funny" Chum.

Under the thin disguise of harmless fun many an unpardonable rude prank is played upon newly married couples. It is refreshing to hear of an occasional instance in which the "joker" reacts on the joker. A young man and his bride, who had just been married in a western town, were starting on their wedding journey. They had managed to reach the train in safety despite the showers of rice and old shoes.

Just as they had taken their seats in the car one of the bridegroom's chums came hastily in to bid him goodby. As the young husband extended his hand the friend snatched a handkerchief round his wrist.

The groom had been suspecting a trick of some kind, and before the practical joker could play a similar trick on the bride he found the other handkerchief snatched round his own wrist. He was chastised to the happy bridegroom himself.

"That's a good one on me, Harry," he said, with a sticky kind of smile, "but I'll have to ask you to come to the door with me and get the key to these things from the fellow outside that's got it. Hold on, conductor, just a minute!"

But the conductor, whose quick eye had taken in the situation, refused to wait. He gave the order for starting, and the train pulled out. It was a through train and made no stop for the next fifty miles. Before it stopped, however, the brakeman, with the aid of a sharp file and a hammer, succeeded in releasing Harry. The practical joker meanwhile had had to pay full fare for the fifty miles and still had his fare home to pay.

FRENCH SENTIMENT.

The Way It Classifies the Greatest Men of the Nation.

The Petit Parisien in 1906 conducted a very interesting plebiscite, the object of which was to ascertain who, in the opinion of its readers, were the ten greatest Frenchmen of the nineteenth century. More than 15,000,000 votes were given, and the result was that Pasteur came out at the top of the poll with 1,235,425 votes. The next were Victor Hugo, who received 1,227,103 votes; Gambetta 1,155,572; Napoleon 1,118,034; Thiers 1,039,463; Leszarski 960,772; Curie 851,307; A. Dumas pere 850,802; Dr. Roux 803,941 and Parmentier 496,863. Immediately following were Ampere, the electrician; Braza, the explorer; Zola, Lamartine and Arago.

It will be observed with interest how large is the proportion of scientific men in the number of those who, in the opinion of Frenchmen, occupy the highest places in the records of the country. Napoleon is only fourth, though Pasteur heads the list, and Curie, Roux and Parmentier, the chemist who introduced the culture of the potato into France, are also honored, while Ampere and Braza are not far behind. Literary men and statesmen dispute with the scientists for the highest distinctions, and the national sentiment of France is evidently eclectic.

Animals That Are Trained.

The animal trainer paused in his midnight supper.
"It is strange," he said, "how training increases an animal's value. I can buy a young lion for $100, train it and sell it for $500 afterward. Take the group I performed with tonight—three lions, three tigers, two leopards, four bears and four boarhounds. They are all young adults in the peak of condition, but unless trained they would be worth no more than $1,500 or $2,000 at the outside. Yet the boss was offered $90,000 for them last week. The training sets the price, and no wonder. It took four years to train this group of mine, and, though there are only sixteen animals in it now, no less than seventy had to be tried and discarded before we got together the sixteen we wanted."

Short Stay Neighborhoods.

A man who contemplated going into business for himself looked around for a good location. He rejected the advice of two friends who had suggested neighborhoods which they thought desirable.
"I don't like either of the places," he said. "Business can't be good around there. I have passed through those streets many times, and always I have been struck with the frequency with which the names on the shops are changed. That doesn't look promising. Wherever a man finds trade profitable he stays; contrarily, he moves. None of the short stay neighborhoods for me."

Causes of Headache.

People get headache because they do not take sufficient active exercise to keep the blood circulating actively, become excited and often about things that do not concern them at all, neglect daily action of bowels, bathe in cold water without wetting the head, sleep on a low pillow, take too much alcohol, allow the feet to get cold, take iron and quinine when these drugs do not agree with the system.

The Return.

"I believe," said the cheery philosopher, "that for every single thing you give away two come back to you."
"That's my experience," said Phamley. "Last June I gave away my daughter, and she and her husband came back to us in August."

It often takes a lot of common sense to get a man out of trouble a little nonsense got him into.—Beaver (Okla.) Herald.

DESPERATE BRAVERY OF ROUMANIAN PEASANTS.

Ten Thousand Insurgents, Accompanied by Their Wives and Children, Attacked the Troops.

Bucharest, April 8.—The determined bravery of the insurgent peasantry in some of the recent fighting is illustrated by a story of the battle of Belanesti, near the Craiova, published in a local newspaper. The insurgents, who numbered 10,000, armed with guns, axes, knives and scythes, accompanied by their wives and children, made a desperate attack on a body of Roumanian infantry and artillery. The latter opened fire, killing large numbers of the peasants, who, after an unequal combat, retreated to a village, carrying their dead and dying. Half an hour later a long funeral procession, headed by a priest, issued from the village, the coffin being followed by thousands of weeping peasants. As they approached the troops, the commandant ordered the mothers to halt, but the latter pressed on, and were met by a volley, which killed or wounded a number of them. After further fighting the remainder of the peasants fled, leaving the coffin, which, when the soldiers examined it, was found to be empty. A few minutes later the peasants again attacked the troops, meeting the same fate. Artillery was then brought into action, and the insurgents were summoned to evacuate the village within three hours. The peasants utilized the interval to unite their forces and delivered a fourth desperate assault on the troops, advancing in the face of the artillery fire and rifle volleys and getting into hand-to-hand conflicts with the soldiers. The peasants, however, were defeated in the end and the houses of the village were razed to the ground by the fire of the field guns.

TWENTY-EIGHT EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS.

Eight People Killed and Three Hundred Homes Destroyed at Bitlis, Turkey.

Constantinople, April 8.—The following despatch was received here to-day from the Rev. Royal M. Cole, head of the American mission at Bitlis: "Bitlis, Turkey Armenia, April 3.—At 10 o'clock in the forenoon of March 29 there burst upon us unannounced the worst earthquake witnessed in forty years in these or the Erzertum volcanic regions. Such was its force that other cities seemed to be in the jaws of some monster who would shake us into shreds, as a mastiff does his game. Down came plastering, the furniture was overturned, cracks were opened in strong walls, roofs were shattered and rain poured in. During the first day there were fourteen shocks and they still continue. There have altogether been 28 shocks. Of the 4,000 houses here over three hundred have fallen, and half the remainder have been seriously damaged, about fifty dollars to five hundred dollars being needed to repair each house. The officials report that eight persons were killed by falling walls, but they are all unknown in Bitlis. Many persons were wounded and many churches, mosques and Government buildings were damaged. The surrounding villages sustained heavy shocks, but it was in the day time, and so there was no great loss of life. "Famine prices prevail, and there is great poverty and extreme suffering."

THAW MAY LIE LONG IN JAIL.

Jerome to Appeal From Fitzgerald's Finding That He Cannot Inspect Minutes of Commission And He May Stop the Trial for Weeks or Months.

New York, April 8.—Harry K. Thaw was declared sane to-day in the unanimous report of the commission in lunacy appointed some two weeks ago to inquire into his present mental condition. The moment the decision was handed down Justice Fitzgerald's desk, District Attorney Jerome was on his feet vigorously protesting against its confirmation by the court. He charged that he had been excluded from the last session of the commission and demanded access to the minutes and the stenographic notes of what immediately preceded the final mental and physical examination of the defendant. When Justice Fitzgerald declined to turn the minutes over to him, Mr. Jerome declared he would carry the case to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, and ask that a writ of prohibition or mandamus be granted to prevent a continuance of the Thaw trial until the higher court had ruled upon the legality of the commission's course. It is expected that unless Mr. Jerome succeeds in obtaining a writ of prohibition by Monday Justice Fitzgerald will confirm the continuation of the trial without delay. In giving reasons for their finding, the commissioners say: In the frequent and in some cases daily intercourse during the several months last past had by the defendant with the Touhy physicians, chaplains, keepers, other attendants and the probation officers, these persons failed to discover anything irrational in his conduct or speech. The defendant has taken an active part in the conduct of the trial, and has made numerous suggestions orally in court and by letter as to the selection of jurors and the examination of witnesses. Many of these suggestions were deemed valuable and were adopted by his counsel, and examination of the letters referred to shows that generally the suggestions contained in them were material, sensible, and apparently the product of a sane mind. While the testimony of numerous experts called by the District Attorney and the defendant's counsel is irreconcilable, that given by certain experts who personally examined the defendant during the trial and since the appointment of the commission, and who of all the alienists examined had the greatest opportunity of observation, disclosed the fact that no indication of insanity at the present time could be found in his speech, conduct or physical condition. The direct oral and physical examination of the defendant by the commissioners themselves disclosed no insanity in the defendant at the present time. Upon all these facts they have their opinion that the prisoner is sane and able to conduct his case in a rational manner.

THE TEACHERS' TRADES UNION.

WILL HAVE NOTHING TO DO WITH PICKETS OR STRIKES. But Will Try to Keep Everybody Out It Does Not Want In—To Make the Teaching Profession a Close Corporation—Will the Government Approve of It?

A Toronto despatch: Within the past three days the teachers of Ontario have taken the decisive step of forming themselves into a Teachers' Union. The new organization has been formed not by the Ontario Educational Association, but by the teachers acting independently of the association, although it was in the association and in some of its sections that previous discussions have taken place. Nor is it to be a trade union or affiliated with the labor unions. The word union, as Dr. Embree pointed out in the General Association meeting Wednesday night, must be dissociated from the ideas of spies, pickets, strikes, etc. The object is mutual benefit, counsel and protection. The main purpose seems to be to raise the standard of the teaching profession by securing influence with the Government, and through it controlling to a large extent the admission of persons into the profession and shutting out the immature and incompetent ones who now get in. Dr. Embree was unanimously voted for as President, but, owing to his having been chosen President of the Ontario Educational Association, declined to accept, as it might be misunderstood. He nominated Mr. David Young, of Guelph, a former President of the A. A. E., as representing the largest body of teachers in the Province. Mr. Young was, therefore, chosen by acclamation, and took the chair. The other officers are: First Vice-President, Dr. Embree; Second Vice-President, Miss L. A. Caruthers, Toronto; Secretary, Mr. E. T. Young, Toronto; Treasurer, T. J. Moore, Guelph. Executive Committee—E. S. Hogarth, Hamilton (Collegiate Institute); C. G. Fraser, Toronto (Public School); Inspector, Galbraith, Mount Forest; C. E. Moore, Guelph. The Ontario Educational Association has been placed in an awkward position to conduct its case in a rational manner.

KNOX HONORS HER GRADUATES.

FORMER STUDENTS GIVEN DEGREES BY THE COLLEGE.

Two Former Pastors of Erskine Church, Hamilton, Receive Degrees—Rev. Dr. Lyle and Rev. Dr. Fletcher Take Part in the Ceremony.

A Toronto despatch: Men known throughout Canada, on whom honorary degrees were conferred, mingled with the graduating class of 1907, who received their diplomas at the convocation of Knox College in St. James' Square Presbyterian Church last night, and a large audience manifested considerable interest in the proceedings. Rev. Principal McLaren presided. Rev. A. Gandier, pastor of the church, and Rev. Dr. Lyle, of Hamilton, assisted in the devotional services. Rev. Robert Martin, Stratford, formerly pastor of Erskine Church, Hamilton, and Rev. Murray C. Taylor, B. A., Claremont, were presented by Rev. Dr. Turnbull for the degree of Bachelor of Divinity. The conferring of this degree by the Principal was followed by the conferring of the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity on Rev. Hugh McKay, Round Lake, Sask.; Rev. John H. Ratcliffe, St. Catharines; Rev. John G. Shearer, B. A., Secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance of Canada, and Rev. Robert E. Welsh, M. A., General Secretary of the British and Foreign Bible Society in Canada. Rev. Dr. Neill announced that Rev. Hugh McKay was unable to be present. He spoke of Mr. McKay's splendid services to the country in inducing the Indians to remain friendly to the Crown during the Northwest rebellion. Rev. Dr. Fletcher, Hamilton, presented Rev. John H. Ratcliffe for his degree. Mr. John A. Patterson, K. C., presented Rev. J. G. Shearer, who had "found his work" in the Lord's Day Alliance. Mr. Shearer, he said, was a great organizer, a fearless and eloquent platform speaker and a tireless worker. He had in the Lord's Day Act of Canada preached a great sermon. Professor Kilpatrick presented Rev. Mr. Welsh, a graduate of the University of Glasgow, who had done missionary work in Japan, besides having had charges in London, England. Brief and modest addresses were given by Revs. Dr. J. H. Ratcliffe, Dr. J. G. Shearer and Dr. R. E. Welsh, who expressed pleasure and gratitude at having been made doctors of divinity by Knox College.

NO OVER-CROWDING.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT TO GIVE RELIEF TO STRAP HANGERS.

London, April 8.—The Liberal Government has started a campaign against the overcrowding of railroad cars. The subject was forcefully brought to the Government's notice during a recent session of the House of Commons by complaints of its democratic followers who utilized the underground and suburban railroads to reach their residences in distant suburbs. A bill will be introduced at the reassembling of parliament giving the Board of Trade and the Railway Commissioners power to order the companies to run more frequent or longer trains, and to impose penalties in order to prevent overcrowding. The President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Lloyd George, declares that the strap-hanging nuisance and danger must go.

Chicago, April 8.—Howard Nicholas, who with Leonard Leopold, alias Lipold, is now on trial for his life charged with the sensational murder of Margaret Leslie, the actress, to-day made admissions in Judge Ball's court which his attorney declared would hang him. The accused man, desperate, believing the noose is dangling but a few inches above his head, defied his attorney and went upon the witness stand. He made the sensational statement that the diamonds identified as those belonging to the strangled actress were his own. "Tell that story and you are doomed," Attorney Robert A. Cantwell had warned the prisoner. Nicholas gave the names and addresses of women who, he claimed had

The races will be held over the Chippewa Bay course and the starts will be at 2 o'clock each day. In addition to the usual entries the committee expects that at least two foreign yacht clubs will be represented in the cup races and that one club will enter a boat using steam power. The selection of early dates was for the purpose of allowing contesting boats to enter the races at the Jamestown Exposition during the week of September 3.

That Tired Feeling

That comes to you every spring is a sign that your blood is wanting in vitality, just as pimples and other eruptions are signs that your blood is impure.

One of the great facts of experience and observation is that Hood's Sarsaparilla always removes That Tired Feeling, gives new life, new courage, strength and animation; cleanses the blood, clears the complexion, builds up the whole system.

This is one of the reasons why Hood's Sarsaparilla is the Best Spring Medicine. Accept no substitute for

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Insist on having Hood's. Get it today of your druggist. 100 doses one dollar.
