The advertisement announcing the dates of opening and other information concerning the Western Fair appears in this issue. The attractions at this popular exhibition will this season be greater than on any other occasion, and the attendance from all parts of Western Ontario will no doubt be proportionately great. The improvements effected in the fair grounds will greatly add to the comfort and convenience of the exhibitors and the public, as they are now the most compact and at the same time complete in the Province.

James Robinson, of R. B. Smith & Co., arrived home last week from his North-west trip. He says he had a pleasant time among old friends, and they appear to have taken good care of him. He believes that there is a good time ahead for that growing country.

We regret to learn from the Forest Free Press that Rev. C. E. Stafford, well-known in this section, is confined to his bed by illness. Mr. Stafford has been in poor health all summer, and did not benefit as much as it was hoped he would by his recent vacation. His many friends hope to see him out again in a short time.

The Rev. Dr. Davidson, Secretary of the Baptist Home Missionary Convention of Ontario, died at Tiverton, Ont., Sept. 18. For many years Dr. Davidson was most intimately connected with all the denominational interests of the Baptist body. He was a man of unusual executive ability and force of character. He was the father of Mrs. W. L. Newton, of Clinton, and was known and esteemed by many of our readers.

The Woodstock Sentinel-Review is happy, because "Mr. Seegmiller (now of Goderich) is negotiating with a capitalist from New York to enter into partnership with him for the manufacture of agricultural implements here. Should they come to an agreement they will endeavor to get another partner, a practical stove manufacturer, and run that branch of the business also. The scheme is an excellent one and it is to be hoped it will be carried out."

The Winnipeg Times has been interviewing merchants of that city regarding the condition of trade:—"H. H. Smith & Co. said to the reporter: 'We are doing an immense trade and believe it will be far greater in the winter than now. Our business is rapidly increasing and we expect it will go ahead. The tailoring trade is as good as any in the city, and as there are not as many in it as in some businesses, each has his share of work to do. There are however enough to do all the work that is to be done.' We are pleased to hear that the boom has struck Harry."

J. H. Colborne, of the enterprising firm of Colborne Bros, has just returned from a personal visit to the wholesale markets of Montreal and Toronto. He will give the public the benefit of his trip. Look out for big bargains. While some merchants quit advertising, hang down the lip, and grol about hard times, Colborne Bros. enlarge their advertisement and increase their business.

INSTITUTE CLASSES.—On Monday last a drawing class was organized under the auspices of the Mechanics' Institute, with Miss Nettie Seegmiller as teacher. The class consisted of 26 pupils, and knowing the artistic abilities of Miss Seegmiller, we are of the opinion that the work likely to be done by the class under her instruction during the next three months will be of a highly satisfactory character. Two evenings of each week will be devoted to instruction—Monday and Thursday—from 7 o'clock until 9. Those anxious to join can obtain full information regarding the class from Miss Seegmiller or the members of the evening classes committee of the institute.

land to which he was going, he hoped to continue industrious and honest, and his chief aim would be to conduct himself that no discredit would attach to his native town through any act of his. The usual loyal and patriotic toasts were duly given and responded to, and a few pleasant hours were spent, interspersed with song and sentiment. Mr. Saults takes with him the best wishes of his friends in Goderich for his future prosperity.

There is a boom in the coal delivery business just now. Capt. Dancy is running it in lively style.
Clinton girls are down on the N. P. One of them recently smuggled a full-trimmed hat across from Uncle Sam's domains, and her bustle was the place of concealment.

We learn that, on reconsideration, the Education department has awarded a second class certificate to Wm. Hackett, and a third-class certificate to Josie Morris, who were students at the Goderich high school.

Mrs. Thos. M. McLean was thrown out of a buggy by the horse running away last week, but we are pleased to learn that no serious injury resulted to her. She was driving alone at the time. The vehicle was badly broken.

When a Clinton man gets at loggerheads with a neighbor, instead of "having it out" on the spot, he waits till the neighbor has retired at night, and then stealthily opens said neighbor's garden gate, and lets in a brindled cow with crumpled, or any other kind of horn, to worry the "garden sass."

J. C. Dettlor and S. H. Dettlor returned from their European visit on Wednesday evening, and express themselves as pleased with their trip across the briny. J. C. Dettlor, with an eye to business, bought at headquarters when in England, and will doubtless soon let the people know all about it in THE SIGNAL.

Chas. Mitchell, proprietor of the Ottawa Free Press, dropped in to see us on Thursday, and discussed matters and things in general. The Free Press is one of the leading Canadian dailies, and it gives us pleasure to know that it has proved a financial as well as a journalistic success. Mr. Mitchell, his wife and son, are the guests of his brother James Mitchell, proprietor of the Goderich Star.

The Seaforth Expositor publishes the following particulars of a corn-eating match sent it by a correspondent, and asks who can beat it:—"A rather novel contest took place this week between a representative man from the township of Stanley and one from the township of Hibbert, at the residence of the latter, as to who could eat the greatest amount of green corn from the cob. The Stanley man proved the victor by leaving ten feet of bare cob, the Hibbert man leaving only nine."

TWO BODIES FOUND.

Capt. Woods and John McDonald, of the Explorer, Found, Brought Home and Buried.

A despatch was received here on Tuesday evening from Southampton stating that Capt. Causley, while entering Greenock harbor, picked up the bodies of two men, which proved to be those of Capt. Charlie Wood, of London, and John McDonald, of Goderich.

The body of John McDonald arrived in Goderich by the afternoon express yesterday (Thursday) and was interred in the cemetery. Owing to the decomposition of the body, friends were unable to take a look at the remains.

The London Advertiser says:—"The body of the late Captain Charles Wood, son of Captain Joseph Wood of this city, was brought home from Southampton last Wednesday night. It will be remembered that Captain Wood was drowned by the wreck of the yacht 'Explorer' on Greenock about a couple of weeks since. The funeral will take place from the railway depot this morning."

Up to the time of going to press nothing has been heard of the bodies of W. Crane and M. Heale.

All About the Games, Ye Ken.

The Lucknow Caledonian Society last week ordered 200 copies of THE SIGNAL containing a report of the games, for circulation among visitors, and friends of the society. The copies will be sent to every continent. It was a compliment to THE SIGNAL as a full and reliable chronicle of the events of the day. Our first edition was exhausted last week before the rube boys returned.

A Remarkable Precognition.

The drowning of Charles Woods, of the Explorer, reminds us of a strange circumstance which he related to us on a previous trip, as we ate our hard tack together in Greenock Harbor. The conversation turned on coincidence of thought, and the strange sympathy which seemed to exist between certain individuals. Woods gave a striking case in point. He said he was much attached to a brother, who about three years ago was mate of the schooner Prairie State. "One night I was at a dance," said Charlie, "and we were just having a gay time. All at once I stopped, and thinking of my brother, I said, 'He's dead.' I couldn't dunes any longer, and left the room awfully sad. In a few days I received word that my brother was drowned at the exact hour that I thought of him and quit the dance. I tell you, sir, there's something mighty strange in the power one man has over another's feelings."

HER ROYAL HIGHNESS, THE PRINCESS LOUISE.

Those desiring farm property should scan our fourth page. There are some good opportunities for a dealer in real estate offering.

Mrs. Fisher, of Detroit, who has been visiting her father Mr. R. Bissett, has left for home, accompanied by her sister, Miss Maggie Bissett.

We regret to learn that Mrs. Thos. Whitely, of the Western hotel, daughter of Elijah Martin, is very low. She has been suffering from dropsy.

A wedding procession was one of the sights of the town last week. Twelve carriages were in line, and oh, how happy all the occupants looked.

Among former residents of Goderich met in England by G. N. Davis was Thomas Yeo, who is now keeping a large hotel in "the tight little isle."

The fall show will be held in Goderich on Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 9th and 10th. Get your fall printing done at this office early, and avoid the rush.

Jordan, the druggist, is making arrangements to illuminate his store with gasolene. During the past week the fitters have been at work placing the pipes in position.

Philo Noble, the "North-street tailor," has just got into new quarters on Hamilton street, in the stand formerly occupied by George Old. Mr. Noble finds his quarters snug, and is taking the fall to-m at its flood.

The British Columbian, published in New Westminster, B. C., has been enlarged and bears many evidences of prosperity. We are glad to see it.

R. McNair, theological student, who has been filling the pulpit of Luan Presbyterian church during the summer, has returned to town, and will leave in a few days for Knox college, Toronto, to continue his studies.

Mrs. Capt. Sheppard and children have returned from their enjoyable trip east. Mrs. Sheppard accompanied her husband on his steamer the Northernner as far as Ordenburg. She visited Ottawa and other cities during her absence.

We learn with regret that Rev. Dr. McKee, who for the past eight months has assisted in conducting the services at St. Peter's, and has during that time gained the good will of all with whom he came in contact, is about to leave for Irish town, to take the place of assistant to Rev. Dean Murphy.

On Wednesday of last week John Reynolds, grandfather of Mrs. Dr. Cassidy, and one of the oldest settlers of Hullett township, died after a protracted illness. He left a wife, three sons and a daughter to mourn his loss. Deceased was well-known and highly respected throughout the township. The funeral took place on Friday last, the obsequies being performed by Rev. Fr. Watters of Goderich.

A GOOD SEND OFF.—Ben Saults, who for some time past has been manager of the Albion bar, left for Manitoba City on Wednesday last to go into business with his brother William who, is a prosperous hotel man in that place. Ben was a great favorite with the majority of the residents of the town, having been born and reared in Goderich, and had gained the good will of all with whom he had occasion to do business by his affability, integrity and general good behavior. For a number of years back he had been an honored member of the I. O. F. society in Goderich, and in his departure to the Northwest that body loses a tried and trusted member. On Tuesday evening last some of his friends met at the Ocean House to banquet Ben, and give him a "good send off" previous to his departure. There was a good attendance. The chair was occupied by Rev. Johnston, and the vice-chair by H. W. Ball. In giving the toast of the "quest of the evening," the chairman spoke feelingly of the many good qualities of Ben, whom he had known from boyhood, and predicted for him a useful and successful career in his future home.

He also presented him with a membership card, on behalf of the I. O. F. society; a valuable meerschaum pipe, the gift of John McBride, of the Albion hotel; and a handsome pocket-book donated by D. C. Strachan. The guest responded in a feeling manner, thanking his friends for the honor they had done him. He had been brought up in Goderich, and had always endeavored to do the square thing. The Poet's Corner.

Song—The M. Crimmon. Air—"Bonnie D'Inde." BY J. D. STEWART, HAMILTON.

The following lines were written for the Lucknow Caledonian games by J. D. Stewart, of Hamilton, the bard of the society.

CHORUS— Then fill up your glass, fill it up to the brim, With a ringing old cheer we'll drink it to him, Who'd ever "old fast" to the honors he's won, Enwreathed on our motto—"we're second to none"

From the peak of Ben Lomond to far John O'Connell's, The Gael cheers the heart with the pipe's thrilling notes; And proudly each clan dons the tartan and feather, Through warm sunny glades to the bras of Balquhithair.

CHORUS— Then hurrah to old Lucknow, the home of the Celt, Where the slogan is heard, but the steel never felt, Yet oft have the foe's minds the smoke and the rattle, Felt their death telling charge that ended the battle.

CHORUS— Then hurrah to old Lucknow, the home of the Celt, Where the slogan is heard, but the steel never felt, Yet oft have the foe's minds the smoke and the rattle, Felt their death telling charge that ended the battle.

CHORUS— Then hurrah to old Lucknow, the home of the Celt, Where the slogan is heard, but the steel never felt, Yet oft have the foe's minds the smoke and the rattle, Felt their death telling charge that ended the battle.

CHORUS— Then hurrah to old Lucknow, the home of the Celt, Where the slogan is heard, but the steel never felt, Yet oft have the foe's minds the smoke and the rattle, Felt their death telling charge that ended the battle.

Fashion's Fancies.

Men's Autumn Wear. Collars are worn standing and high. Silver cravats are very fashionable. Shoes are not to be pointed at the toes.

Handkerchiefs generally have fancy borders. Four-button cutaways are still the correct thing for young men.

There is a marked change in the style of hat. The fall Derby is round, with a slightly tapering crown. The brian is not so broad, and curls well to the crown.

Long redingotes and cloaks of Muscovite velvet are trimmed with dark grey and black furs.

Dark blue wool dresses will be elaborately trimmed with red braid, or combined with red wool.

The English fashion of wearing light gray or drab riding habits is being adopted in this country occasionally.

Gray cloth bonnets, trimmed with silver braid, gray velvet, and gray sea swallows accompany dressy suits of gray cloth.

It is a fancy with French dressmakers to cut the bottom of the skirt into turreted blocks, and under these to place a plaited ruffle.

Household Hints.

Stings of insects are relieved by the application of ammonia, or common table salt, or a slice of onion to the part.

To keep flies off gilt trams—boil three or four onions in a pint of water, and apply with a soft brush.

BAKED EGGS.—Break eight eggs in a well buttered dish; put in pepper, salt, and butter, and three tablespoonfuls of cream. Bake twenty minutes.

LEMEN RIND.—When using lemons for any purpose, it will be found an economical plan to grate the yellow rind off, mix it with an equal quantity of sugar, and put it up in an empty box with a tight cover.

It is frequently substituted for potatoes at the chief meal of the day, being more nutritious and much more readily digested.

Such extravagant praise as is often given to new fruits destroys confidence and creates disgust in the mind of all sensible people.

Dr. J. S. Wilson, in the Southern World, declares that to cure a fever, or act on the kidneys, no febrifuge or diuretic is superior to the juice of fresh, ripe, watermelons, which may, with a few exceptions, be taken in sickness and in health, in almost unlimited quantity, not only without injury, but with positive benefit.

A wise man of the east has found out how to get rid, in a peaceful manner, of a raiding flock of hens. He captures the attendant male bird, and rigs him up in thick brown paper leggings. His uncouth appearance and awkward movements disgust and affright his feminine companions, who leave him solitary and woe-begone.

PREACHING AND PAY.

Rev. J. C. Pomeroy, who took charge of the M. E. church of this town about the middle of last year, at a salary of $300 a year, has been refused and has accepted the position of headmaster in a high school elsewhere.

And we do not blame him if it was. The old theory that ministers can live on the east wind and preach good sermons, is happily about exploded.

Our contemporary makes a good plea for the support of the ministry, and we agree with it in much that it has said.

MEUM AND TEUM. LAST week we published a pressing invitation to our friends in arrears, to pay up.

But the point left slight of by our confere is an important one. In any agreement made as to a pastor's work and salary there are two parties—preacher and people.

The intelligent compositor who made the article on Manitoba as a growing country read "crowing" country, didn't make a very bad mistake.

have good opportunities of getting a new charge within reasonable time without resigning or incontinently departing without decent notice.

THEY have a Niagara Falls in Russia. A St. Petersburg journal says the wonderful Inmar Falls, "our Niagara Falls," are visited by hundreds of strangers every summer.

THE PRINCESS LOUISE. On the first page will be found a very fine picture of Her Royal Highness the Princess Louise.

WANTED—A POCKET ORGAN. Over in Wingham they have two newspapers, and goodness knows, that is one too many, if the size of the place and the extent of the journalistic field be considered.

THE GLOBE has shown questionable taste in attaching its splendid weekly to a lot of watches. The weekly Globe ought to have a large, paying circulation independent of the doubtful aid of a steno-writing watch, or any other meretricious device.

At a recent meeting of the Rat Portage municipal council, the advisability of getting a suitable corporation seal was discussed.

From the latest and best information received, we are in a position to state that the chances of Goderich getting in a competitive railway were never brighter than they are today.

THE LONDON newspapers are just now greatly excited over the advent of quadruplets in that city.

MASS, the Little Rideau murderer, who butchered the Cooke family, has been found guilty, and sentenced to be hanged on the 12th of Oct.

HAMILTON's pretty evening paper The Tribune, is made more attractive occasionally by the appearance of some portraits engraved specially for that journal.

The intelligent compositor who made the article on Manitoba as a growing country read "crowing" country, didn't make a very bad mistake.

POLITICAL NOTES.

It is drawn on toward another session of the Legislature, and yet Mowat does not manifest any signs of "going."

JAMES TROW, of South Perth, has virtually knocked the petitioner out in the first round. The petitioner will have to pay the costs of the court so far.

THE London Advertiser is nothing if not practical, as the following timely calculation will show:—"It is safe to say that sausages are not made of cat meat in Lennox."

James Cotton, one of the parties served with a writ for libel by John Shields, writes to an Ottawa paper to the effect that he has waited for a long time for the latter to proceed, but he does not.

Judges Patterson and Ferguson sat in the Court of Appeal on Saturday to give formal judgment in the Muskoka case, the petitioner having abandoned his claim to the seat and a scrutiny not now being sought.

THE Toronto World informs us that the hat was recently passed around among the Conservatives of the Queen City, for the Algoma election fund, but that very little money was dropped in.

THE petition against the return of Mr. Balfour for South Essex has been withdrawn by the petitioner.

The election in Algoma will soon be over. The "big trunk" brigade has been swarming the constituency for the past few weeks, and every effort has been put forth by the Copperheads to defeat R. A. Lyon, the old member.

The following bit of gossip is given by a Toronto journal:—"If reports be true the outgoing and incoming governors are not likely to meet on Canadian soil."

THE Exchange Bank has suspended operations, but it is understood that no loss will be sustained by noteholders. The suspension is attributed to the fact that the directors of the concern were almost entirely unacquainted with the method of conducting banking affairs.

"Grip" on the Boundary Dispute. Grip makes plain the situation at Rat Portage by means of a cartoon. With broadsword and shield Mowat and Nox quay contend. Nox quay being held up to the conflict by Sir John, who in turn is pushed forward by Mowat as representing the Blues.

ROYALTY AT TORONTO.

As Seen by One who was Visiting There.

A Pen-and-Ink Photograph of the Princess Louise - Her Personal Appearance - What She Wore - A Glance at Royal Fashions.

A correspondent of The Hamilton Tribune thus sketches the Marquis of Lorne, the Princess Louise and Prince George of Wales: - The most perfect day of the whole year was that on which the Governor-General of Canada opened the Industrial Exhibition at Toronto - Wednesday. It was, indeed, Queen's weather. The sky was an unbroken arch of opalescent blue, the air was pleasantly invigorating, and the sun shone brilliantly. At 2 o'clock a large company of excellent people were assembled in the grand stand, overlooking the race track. The judges' stand opposite was "set" with a red carpet that covered the steps leading up to it, and four wooden chairs. To them were added two chairs, handsomely upholstered in yellow and crimson, and three hair-cloth seats. A few carriages drew up and stood around the stand, a number of officials formed a group on the green sward, and men in scarlet hunting coats, rode prancing steeds over the field. There was not long to wait. A commotion at the farther gate, a glitter of steel helmets in the sun, the band playing "The Campbells Are Coming," and the vice-regal procession entered the grounds. The Princess bowed most graciously to the greetings of the populace, and the Marquis raised his hat continuously. As they neared the grand stand the music changed to "God Save the Queen," men lifted their hats, and amidst respectfully subdued cheering, the Governor-General and their Royal Highnesses

THE PRINCESS LOUISE and Prince George of Wales alighted. All eyes, we feel safe in saying, were fixed on the Princess. A perfect woman we saw, with a grace of figure and stateliness of carriage that was never equalled by any goddess of yore. A winsome, round, rosy face, with the expression of hauteur sufficiently modified by native kindness to give it interest and intense piquancy. It is a face to look at again and again, and ever to remember. The blue eyes have a steadfast, long-enduring look, but if the Princess had had brown eyes the circumstance might have changed her whole life. Whatever of coldness there is in the Princess' nature lies in the blue eyes. Her brown hair was in curls on her brow, not banded, and was coiled low at the back.

THE PRINCESS WORE a walking dress of golden brown satin, cut with a plain basque back, closed high at the neck and finished with ecru lace at the throat and hands. There was a pompadour trimming on the corsage and a few flowers and a white handkerchief were thrust into the fastenings. The front of the skirt was garnished with some fine frills of brown satin, there were panels of brown brocade velvet at either side, and the back was arranged in full draperies and fell over the small ruffles on the edge of the skirt behind. She wore gloves a shade lighter than the dress, a small capote bonnet of the brown satin with a bunch of pale pink tea roses on the side, and a tea black-jetted veil tied over the upper part of her face. No jewelry was noticeable but a pair of gold enameled chain bracelets. While standing on the pavilion the Princess shaded her face with a sun umbrella of hunter's green silk, with a yellow wood handle. The bouquet that was presented her shortly after alighting she carried in her hands all the afternoon. During the exercises

PRINCE GEORGE stood by the side of the Princess Louise. He received his greetings graciously. He is slight and well formed, but not quite so round in the face as he is represented by the pictorial press. He carried his silk hat in his gloved hands; and was dressed in black and white hair-striped trousers and a cutaway coat of black cloth. All this time the Marquis is listening to the address being read from an illuminated manuscript, and when it is closed and he has passed it through his hands, steps forward, leans upon his cane, and addresses the people. His voice is slightly strained as he endeavors to have it reach the people. But it gradually modulates into softer tones, and we hear distinctly every word he utters. He speaks easily and unaffectedly.

THE MARQUIS is a decided blonde, his hair is almost flaxen, as is also his drooping moustache. He held his black silk hat in his hand while he spoke, and he wore a closely-buttoned Prince Albert coat, a cravat of dark blue, and black trousers. His words were well received, but there was not the enthusiasm manifested that the Toronto Globe's frequent "cheers" would indicate. The Guards, with the glistening helmets and the natty blue uniforms, were drawn up opposite the stand during all the speech-making. At the close, the carriage stood ready for the Vice-regal party, which they entered as the band played "God Save the Queen." It was changed to "The Campbells are Coming," as amidst the shouts of the people, the cortege turned into the exhibition grounds, the Princess bowing and KISSING HER HANDS as she passed. Then commenced an afternoon of arduous work for Her Royal Highness. The Princess Louise is a famous walker, and she took the rounds of inspection bravely, but her face was flushed to weariness before her departments were inspected and the coffeehouse visited for a well-earned refreshment. The Princess always had a few words to say when the person in charge of a display was an elderly man. She never passed the whitening hairs of age without a gentle word and deferential gesture. The air was growing chill and the day late, when the royal party again took their carriage and with their attendants and the glittering guard drove from the grounds. God Save the Queen and the Princess Louise.

"Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. I have not been troubled with the Rheumatism since. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. F. F. HARRIS, Liver St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.
