I'm the Cream of the West Miller, and I'll tell you what I'll do—I'll guarantee your next batch of bread

I WILL guarantee it to rise away up out of the pans, and make as delicious bread as you ever tasted. The loaves will be the biggest and most wholesome you ever baked with the same amount of flour. I'll guarantee it or you get back the money you paid for the flour! Now see:

Go to your grocer and buy a barrel of Cream of the West Flour. Take it home and bake it up.

Give it a trial. Your oven or yeast might not be just right the first time.

Now when you give it a fair trial, if you honestly feel that you have not had splendid satisfaction with Cream of the West Flour, return the unused portion of barrel and get your money back.

Just tell the store man your bread didn't come out right and you want your money back as guaranteed.

It's not the grocery man who loses. It doesn't come out of his pocket. It is the Campbell Milling Company, Limited, of Toronto, who pay, and they are satisfied to pay if you'll be satisfied to try Cream of the West Flour.

Ask your store-keeper about this guarantee. He knows. He will tell you. Try a barrel.

Cream of the West Flour

The hard wheat flour that is guaranteed for bread

Guarantee

WE hereby affirm and declare that Cream of the West Flour is a superior bread flour, and as such is subject to our absolute guarantee of money back if not satisfactory after a fair trial. Any dealer is hereby authorized to return price paid by customer on return of unused portion of barrel if flour is not as represented.

CHAPTER XIX.
"GOOD-BY—NOT SWEETHEART."
"It is rather rum," assented Northam, twisting his cigarette between his lips, "but I think I know what you mean. Seems to me, though, you haven't much consideration for me, Frayne. Don't want to talk sentiment, but you know how I feel toward her; and I think I know what you don't only want to tell me that the course is open, but to chuck me into a position in which—dash it all!" he exclaimed, after a pause; "do you think I'm a block of wood? You're proposing that I should act as a kind of guardian of hers. D'you think I haven't any feeling?—d'you think—" that I am going away, that the odds are that I may not come back, and that I am leaving her without a friend—for I don't call Lady Westlake a true friend—and that I am anxious about Cynthia. Look here, Northam, there are two or three kinds of love. I don't want to talk highfalutin, but the kind I feel for Cynthia is the sort which would rather see her happy even if I can't have her myself. I'm nervous about her. As I said, she's so young, so innocent, so unworried. Lady Westlake is a griffin, as they call her; she will force her to marry some fellow who isn't worthy of her—"

"And you think I am, eh?" said Northam dryly.

Darrel choked something down,

WOMEN CURED AT HOME
Women's disorders always yield from the very beginning of the treatment to the mild but effective action of Orange Lily. Within two or three days after commencing its use the improvement becomes noticeable, and this improvement continues until the patient is completely cured. Orange Lily is an applied or local treatment, and acts directly on the woman's organs, removing the congestion, cooling and strengthening the nerves, and restoring perfect circulation to the diseased parts. In order to convince all suffering women of the value of this remedy, I will send a 25-cent box, enough for one day's treatment, absolutely FREE to each lady sending me her address. MRS. FRANCES E. ry on with. You're very good, Northam."
"Good be blowed!" granted Northam.

They went into the drawing room; Lady Alicia was at the piano, striking the notes softly. She came forward and gave them their coffee. They talked in a perfunctory way; nothing was said of Darrel's exchange. Presently Northam said: "I'll go and see if my man has packed my bag," and he left the room. Darrel saying as he did so, "I'll go down to the station with you."

Lady Alicia stood by the mantelpiece, leaning her arm on the shelf. She looked round at Darrel for a moment, then she said, in a low voice, "You have quite made up your mind?" "Oh, yes, quite," he said, with a slight start, for he had been thinking of his talk with Northam.

"Is there no other way?" she asked, in a still monotone. "It seems such—such a pity. There are so many other ways—I mean."

She had a handkerchief in her hand, and she dropped the dainty square of cambric and lace.

Darrel picked it up and held it out to her. She took it, their hands met; hers closed on his, a tremor shook her, her lips parted as if she were breathing with difficulty; her eyes were fixed on his pleadingly, a dull despair in hers.

"Don't go!" she murmured. "Ah, don't go!"

She leaned toward him invitingly, the faint perfume which she affected stole out toward him. Darrel was touched, deeply moved; a flush rose to his face, his hand closed on hers.

"I must go," he said, rather hoarsely; "there is nothing else for me to do."

"There is—"

"The door opened; Northam came in. "The cab's outside," he said.

"Right!" said Darrel. "I'm ready." He pressed Lady Alicia's fingers; they clung to his in a last appeal. Confused, embarrassed, conscious of the electric emotion which emanated from her, he stammered:

"Good-by, Lady Alicia."
They went out; she stood listening to the departing cab. Then she threw herself down on the couch, her hands clasped, her whole body writhing with misery.

CHAPTER XX.

"THE COCKNEY'S PARADISE."
The beauties of Lucerne have often been drawn, photographed, and sung—perhaps, in the opinion of some persons, rather too liberally. And these same persons have conferred upon the beautiful place the uncomplimentary title of The Cockney Tourists' Paradise. But even the mobs which pour down upon its lake's side from the excursion trains and steam-

RECORD OF A GREAT MEDICINE

Doctors Could Not Help Mrs. Templeton—Regained Health through Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Hooper, Nebraska.—"I am very glad to tell how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped me. For five years I suffered from female troubles so I was scarcely able to do my work. I took doctors' medicines and used local treatments but was not helped. I had such awful bearing down pains and my back was so weak I could hardly walk and could not ride. I often had to sit up nights to sleep and my friends thought I could not live long. At my request my husband got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I commenced to take it. By the time I had taken the seventh bottle my health had returned and I began doing my washing and was a well woman. At one time for three weeks I did all the work for eighteen boarders with no signs of my old trouble returning. Many have taken your medicine after seeing what it did for me. I would not take $100 and be where I was. You have my permission to use my name if it will aid anyone."—Mrs. STEIE TEMPLETON, Hooper, Nebraska.

The Pinkham record is a proud and peerless one. It is a record of constant victory over the obstinate ills of woman—ills that deal out despair. It is an established fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored health to thousands of such suffering women. Why don't you try it if you seek such a medicine?

Eczema Cured Three Years Ago

Best City Doctors Failed, But Cure Was Effected by Use of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mrs. A. T. Smith.

"You apply Dr. Chase's Ointment for eczema and feel the benefit as if by magic. It may take some days to get the sores cleaned out and the healing process fully established, but from day to day you can see the old trouble gradually disappearing and know that you are getting rid of it."

Mrs. A. T. Smith, 1 Mt. Charles St., Montreal, Que., writes:—"I had eczema on my leg for four years, and tried many remedies and doctors in Montreal and Boston, without a benefit. I used three boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment and was cured completely. This was three years ago since then I used Dr. Chase's Ointment for irritations and eruptions of the skin, and easily got rid of them with two or three applications. Dr. Chase's Ointment is a wonderful preparation."

ers cannot spoil the charm of one of the most beautiful places in Europe. And, of course, there are periods when the exquisite lake is not troubled by the tourist, and the quiet of the mountains is not broken by his chattering shout and cockney accent.

Fortunately for them, Lady Westlake and Cynthia arrived at Lucerne in one of these quiet periods.

In other circumstances, Cynthia would have been delighted and enraptured by the magnificent scenery and the historic and picturesque old town; but, alas! she was incapable of admiring anything or thinking of anything but Darrel.

It had been a long and wearisome journey, and the Griffin had slept, or appeared to sleep, during most of its course, so that Cynthia was free to indulge in her grief almost without interruption.

She shed no tears, her eyes were not red and swollen as they had been on the memorable journey from Summerleigh to Belgrave Square; for her sorrow was too deep for tears. It seemed to her that her life was ended, that nothing again could ever matter now that Darrel had gone out of that life.

There had not been time to hear from him, to get any response to her letter; but her vivid imagination could picture the misery it must have inflicted upon him.

Would he write? Much as she longed for a line from him, a single word, she hoped that he would not write; for he could send her nothing but reproaches, appeals, which could have no other result than to intensify her anguish.

They stayed at Paris for a day to enable Lady Westlake to do some shopping, and in her relief at what she called Cynthia's narrow escape, the Griffin would willingly have bought Cynthia anything; but Cynthia displayed a complete lack of interest in Parisian novelties, and quietly begged to be excused the shopping expeditions.

The Griffin displayed an amount of patience remarkable in her—and left the girl alone. She had seen several cases like that of Cynthia, and had always found that the sufferer had come round in time; so would Cynthia, the worldly-wise old woman told herself.

A Sense of Perspective.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

There are a great many people in this world who never seem to have more than one idea or one feeling at a time. I once knew a young girl who was so devoted to her mother that she was held up as an example to all other girls in the town; but when she fell in love and married as girls will do, she seemed to transfer all her devotion to her husband. The little mother was left out in the cold and was given only the barest crusts of love and affection left over from the feast. This phase lasted for two years. Then the baby came and immediately all the devotion was transferred to him. She became as indifferent toward her husband as she had been toward her mother. Even when a competent nurse had been secured, she was unwilling to go out with her husband; when he talked with her of his interests which she had once delighted in sharing, she listened with vacant eyes—she was wondering if she had sterilized the bottles properly, or if she had not better put another blanket on the baby. Needless to say, while her husband had condoned the indifference and neglect with which his wife treated her mother, he was astonished and indignant at this second change. Now the world is a big place and our lives are complex things, and the normal human being ought to have room for a great many interests and affections at once. To concentrate on a single interest and affection is narrow and short-sighted. Unless that woman learns to take an interest in something besides her child she is storing up misery for herself and her family. Besides the people who can have but one affection at a time, there are those who are capable of only one idea. In this class are the enthusiasts who believe that some single change in our way of living would make us all perfectly well. One is absolutely sure that we would all live to be a hundred if we would only chew each mouthful of food forty or fifty times. Another is just as positive that the only thing necessary for perfect health is to sleep out doors. Still another goes about proving to his own satisfaction that all human ills are caused by wearing tight clothes. And then there are the reformers who think the social ill health can be cured by one or two laws. If we could only have the minimum wage or the single tax, they tell us, the millennium would come at once. If you hold a penny close enough to your eye you can shut out the sun, but that does not mean that the penny is bigger than the sun. If you hold some one idea or affection very close to your heart you can shut out a whole world of other ideas and affections, but that does not mean that the one idea or affection, however good, is more important than all the rest together. A sense of perspective is a thing a great many people seem to need.

Ruth Cameron

For The Nervous Woman,

Or the woman who experiences hot flashes nothing is so good to soothe, quiet and calm the nervous system as a pure glyceric extract of native medical plants, and made without alcohol, which has been sold by druggists for the past forty years, and most favorably known as Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. In younger years some women suffer from dizziness, or fainting spells, hysteria, headache, bearing-down feelings and pain. All these symptoms of irritability and female disturbance are relieved by the use of this famous "Prescription" of Doctor Pierce. As a powerful, invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system, and in particular to the organs distinctly feminine. For over-worked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, it is an excellent appetizing cordial and restorative tonic. "My disease was called 'neurosis,'" writes Mrs. LYDIA McDONALD, of Montreal, "and I was very weak. Then I had inflammation and the doctor said I had a floating kidney. I doctored seven months with our family physician. He said I would have to have an operation. Then I stopped taking his medicine. After taking three bottles of Dr. Pierce's medicine I have not had any nervous spells, I am better than for years. My daughter is now taking the 'Prescription' and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, also the 'Pellars' for nervousness and weak, tired feelings. These remedies have made me much in a short time. We have great faith in your medicines for female troubles."

Engineering War Scares to Get Business.

Berlin, April 26.—Dr. Carl L. Liebknecht, the German Socialist leader, continued in the Reichstag to-day his revelations in connection with the method of armament concerns, which he said, though living on international hostility, were run on internationalized capital. He cited a contract existing between certain leading small arms and ammunition factories—two in Germany, one in Austria and one in Belgium—principally backed by French money, by the terms of which, the Deputy alleged, an agreement had been reached to eliminate competition and to guarantee mutual profits. Publish False News. Dr. Liebknecht pointed out that German companies were selling arms to Russia, and that another concern largely capitalized with French money was furnishing armour plate to Germany, and, he asserted, all these companies were engineering war scares in order to insure contracts. The Socialist leader to-day introduced the names of Emperor William and the German Crown Prince, mentioning that although the Vorwaerts printed in 1910 a letter showing that an attempt had been made by a German arms syndicate to secure the publication in French newspapers of false news regarding the strengthening of the French army, with the object of causing a reflex action of German opinion, the Emperor did not hesitate to appoint Herr Von Gontard, director of the syndicate, a life member in the Prussian House of Lords. Her Von Gontard is a son-in-law of Adolphus Busch, of St. Louis. The Krupp Incident. Referring to the Crown Prince, Dr. Liebknecht recalled that the heir had been demonstratively applauded in the Reichstag in 1911 during the campaign of a war clique against the German War Minister. General Von Herringen, the Minister of War, replied briefly to Dr. Liebknecht. The Minister ignored the charges launched by the Socialist deputy, and declined further comment upon the Krupp incident, in which a representative of the gun firm was alleged to have bribed certain officials of the German War Office in order to obtain information as to pending military contracts.

Delay in Distribution of Scott Fund.

London, April 26.—Although the Scott antarctic fund for the dependents of Captain Scott and his heroic companions had passed $25,000 early in March, Mrs. Evans, the widow of Seaman Evans, and her three children, have been living the past three months on $3.24 a week, according to the Daily Express. Beyond this pension, awarded by the Admiralty and a few pounds from the Daily Telegraph fund, she has received nothing. The Daily Express, which describes the delay in distribution of the funds as "one of the most extraordinary instances of official inaptitude on record," has interviewed Sir William Soulsby, secretary to the Lord Mayor, who started the national fund. He said: "We are waiting for the Government to move in regard to provision for the relatives of the South Pole victims." He added that if Mrs. Evans had only applied for help, he would willingly have given aid. When young children grow restless, let them string things—beads or cut straws or short lengths of macaroni. Flower holders of bronze or copper in the shape of lizards or dragons insure a graceful arrangement of the stems.

MR. CLAPP'S STAND

FOR THE POORLY PAID POSTMASTERS.

Speech in the House.

MR. CLAPP.—I would like to ask the Hon. Colonial Secretary if any provision has been made for the payment of rent for Outpost Post Offices. This may appear to be a small matter, but it is a large matter to these people. I know of several post offices in my own district which are all in private houses or stores where fuel is provided and where the postmaster or mistress receives an annual sum of ten to fifteen dollars, whereas in large places post offices have been erected at the expense of the Government. I consider this unfair. Communications have been sent to the Postmaster General, and I presume submitted to the Colonial Secretary, asking for rent and asking to be reimbursed for fuel consumed, and nothing has been done. Now, I say again this is unfair. If a post office is provided by the Government, we will say in Bonaventure Bay, or in any other place, I don't care what district you name, then the man or woman who gets aside a room in his or her house or store for an office should certainly be paid rent—$10, $20, $30 or $40, according to the size of the room, and not have to go on writing the Postmaster General time and again asking for reimbursement and receiving no answer. I have letters in my possession now dealing with this same matter, and I have not been able to get any satisfaction; and I consider this is the opportune time to bring it before the House and find out whether anything is to be done or whether these people are going to be robbed—that is the proper word for it. The explanation of the Colonial Secretary does not satisfy my mind. I don't see why fish should be made of one and flesh of another. I know of one case in my own district where a room is allotted absolutely and solely for the purposes of a post office, and why should not that postmaster, who receives $10.00 a year,—think of it, $10.00 a year,—be paid rent for that room when in other cases parties receive probably $40.00 or $50.00 a year? That is my contention. It is no use for the Colonial Secretary to ask me to write him a private letter, because I am tired of that sort of thing—tired of it. The Colonial Secretary should look into those matters and give satisfactory redress and not allow them to go on. I think it is the duty of the Postmaster-General's Department to at once arrange to pay these people the hire of their rooms. I quite agree with what the Premier has said. My reference was solely to the use of these rooms without rent being paid for them. I think that in the Postmaster-General's report reference is made to this very matter, and I think it is the duty of the Government to consider it, not a session hence but at the present time, and deal with those people fairly and squarely. That is all I wish.

Pay of the Small Outport Postmasters.

In this issue appears some remarks made by Mr. Clapp, the member for St. Barbe, on the little consideration extended to the small outport postmasters.

We are all prone to be most exacting in regard to the postal service. If there is any delay, or if anything goes wrong no one hesitates to complain promptly about the service. No one escapes. It is all the same whether it is the more highly paid heads at St. John's, the bigger Postmaster in the outports, the train and steamer mail contractors, the poor couriers, or the small outport postmasters. This is right enough in its way and is the only way to keep in anything like efficient order the working of a service which comes more nearly home to every person in the country than any other public service.

The hardships faced by some of the couriers in the more sparsely populated districts, and the extraordinary devotion shown by many of them have merited the encomiums of the Postmaster General in his reports; but men cannot live on kindly words, nor feed, clothe and educate children on sentiments of appreciation.

Then again there is the extraordinary small pay which is given to many outport postmasters whose work is most exacting and who in many cases not only do the work but provide room accommodation for the mail and the transaction of business.

Mr. Clapp instances one case in his district where a postmaster provides one room for the exclusive use of the mail, and for this and his services as postmaster receives the magnificent sum of ten dollars yearly all told.

Mr. Kent, in commenting on the matter said:—

"Mr. Chairman, I am glad that the Prime Minister realizes that these outport post office keepers have a grievance. There is no doubt about the fact that the grievance is one of some standing, but at the same time I think it ought to be borne in mind that under the conditions of the country at the present time that grievance is becoming more and more accentuated every year, and that from two points of view: First, from the point of view that the work that these postmasters are called upon to do is increasing; and secondly, from the point of view that the country has been having very large revenues and very large surpluses from year to year, and in spite of that the grievance continues becoming worse and worse. The total amount that would level up these outport post offices to an extent that while not removing, would greatly lessen the grievance complained of by the member for St. Barbe would not be very large at all; and if the matter were worked out post office by post office, giving a percentage increase to each, I think it would be found that it would require but a very small portion of the surpluses that have been in existence for the past few years. The time has come when this work of levelling up these outport post offices should be undertaken.

When a rich man dies we are prone to think on the folly of human greed; he toiled and worried to get more than a mortal could ever need. For years and years he had no repose, no rest from the beastly grind; and now when down to the tomb he goes, he leaves all his junk behind. He leaves his bonds and he leaves his stocks, and deeds that he prized so high; and he leaves his gems and his shining rocks—all junk when the rich man dies! Of no use then to the plutocrat are the markets weak or strong; for a suit of clothes and a white cravat are all that he takes along. Like Lazarus, to an open ditch, he goes, with his wreath of flowers, and then he's mourned by the idle rich for seven and twenty hours. Not long, not long shall the teardrops flow, or the dead be kept in mind, for the plutocrats, when at last they go, leave all of such things behind. Few earnest mourners shall weep above the graves that the rich men hold; they never wanted such stuff as love—their efforts were all for gold; they had no faith in such things as hearts, no knowledge of human souls; they spent themselves in the busy marts, increasing their bulging rolls. They bear no wealth to the golden isle where the angels sing their song, for a white cravat and a wintry smile are all that they take along.

The Bolinders Engines hold the highest position in the Oil Engine World. They have been used to drive passenger boats of high speed for several years as well as in Tug Boats and ocean going Barges, and have been adopted by one of the large steamship companies doing the carrying trade round the British Islands, they recently having built the motor coaster "Isleford," of 480 tons deadweight capacity, fitted with a 320 H. P. BOLINDERS MOTOR. This motor coaster proved such an unqualified success that it is only a question of a short time when the steam coasters will be entirely superseded by the motor driven vessel.

One fact regarding the BOLINDERS ENGINE worth bearing in mind is "That the larger the installation the simpler it is."

In confirmation of the absolute success of the "Isleford," we have just received information that she has been purchased by the Royal Naval Ordnance Department of the British Admiralty. When such a critical body of marine experts incorporate the BOLINDERS ENGINES in their naval ordnance vessels it is proof beyond contradiction that our engines hold the highest position in the oil engine world.

A CONTEST FOR SUPREMACY IN SPEED.

By H. F. SHORTIS.

Those of us who lived in the sixties of the past century have had the privilege of witnessing our great fleet of sailing vessels at its zenith. Not alone were scores of the sailing vessels employed in prosecuting the great industry of the sealfishery, but our own fleet of foreign-going vessels could be counted by the score also, and could hold their own with regard to sailing qualities, strength and durability in the class of workmanship, as well as the capabilities and seamanship of the crews. In fact, the Newfoundland seaman would take precedence to any other nationality in the mercantile marine of the United States or British ports. Besides their agility and thorough knowledge of their avocation, the majority of them could repair sails as well as the sailmaker himself, and in emergency could perform the work usually allotted to carpenters, in such a manner as to meet all requirements. It was no unusual occurrence for some of the crews to remain six or eight years with the one master in the same ship. I often look back to those days with pleasure, though not without regret that I did not take down and preserve many of those interesting adventures, deeds of daring and hair-breadth escapes as they were recounted by the weather-beaten mariners over the time-honored dog-trons in the glorious days of the misty past. It is true, for the past thirty-five years or more, I have endeavored to subject of conversation was on the table, it would generally veer round to the sailing qualities of the ships—the capabilities of the captains, or the experience and agility of the crews. Perhaps nothing formed such an important subject in the social circle as an ocean race between two or more famous ships in our mercantile marine, and the greatest interest was manifested by old and young, rich and poor, until the result was known, and upon the return to port the captain and crew of the winning ship received quite an ovation, which generally wound up in a hot supper, supplemented with choice spirituous cordials in which the health of the winning crew—the losers—the builders—the owners and every other individual connected with the event was drunk amidst rounds of applause and great rhetorical effusions. It is just such an event that I am now about to describe. Although the same interest is not manifested in our mercantile marine, as was some thirty or forty years ago, yet, I find a very large portion of our people take the greatest delight in listening to and reading about these events of the long ago, when our great fleet of vessels could compare favorably with that of any other on this side of the Atlantic, and when our sea-faring men obtained and maintained the reputation of being the most competent, hardy and fearless mariners in the world.

On a beautiful evening in the summer of 1861, two clipper brigs passed out of the Narrows side by side, oil laden, on a voyage across the Atlantic. Both ships were of a class, now unknown; and were as fine specimens of marine architecture as could be found on either side of the Atlantic. The Balclutha, owned by the firm of Messrs. J. & W. Stewart, was a noted flyer and had many a record run to her credit. The other brig, the Mercury, was owned by W. & H. Thomas & Co., and was not less successful than her noted rival. The anchors were soon cast; every stitch of sail, from skysails down, spread to the breeze; courses given, and away for the Old Head or Kinsale in Old Ireland. As the long July evening closed in, the bold coast of our native land appeared as a bank of clouds in the distant west. At eight bells the watches were set, and everything was going along as well as could be expected on a ship just after leaving port.

The ships were almost side by side, gliding through the water which was smooth and by log were running seven knots per hour. The mate's watch on the Mercury went below at eight o'clock, and was called again at midnight. As my informant stated: "I was on deck first, having to relieve the wheel, and never shall I forget the sight I witnessed. The wind had hauled round about W.S.W., freshened, and the Mercury was running about nine knots through the sea which was one blaze of phosphorescent splendour and luminosity. The Balclutha, with everything still on her, was a little in advance and looked a thing of beauty. The moon shining on her snow-white canvas had a beautiful effect, and as she rose and fell in the sea, ten millions of jewels flashed from under her bows, along her sides and beneath her counter. Her copper gleamed like burnished gold and her wake was a revelation. The Mercury was in it evidently to stay, and was holding her own proudly, and not going to give up the race without a strong kick. The next day it was almost calm, and the ships were in sight of each other. Thus day after day passed. The captain of the Mercury left orders for a man to be sent aloft to the royal yard every morning to try and sight the Balclutha. On the eleventh day out the wind changed and blew lightly from the eastward. That night the crew of the Mercury lost sight of the Balclutha. On the thirteenth day the ship was beating in to make Cape Clear amidst a large fleet of vessels of all nations, bound to English ports. Here was the stately Indianman—the tea ship from China—the Dutch galleon—the Melbourne clipper—the Black Ball Liner—the loyal West Indianman with the bluff bows and heavy counters, and the tidy little Newfoundland brig the Mercury, last, though not least, when it came to a test of speed.

When night fell, it was dangerous sailing, and orders were given to tack ship every two hours, and the captain had to be very careful, as the nights were now dark and no moon visible, and hundreds of lights were passing and re-passing. All hands had to be on the qui vive. One night, just after four bells, a light was seen approaching on the opposite tack, and the captain shouted to the man at the wheel, "Luff, my lad, and give him a berth." Just after a black brig passed close aboard, and the captain of the Mercury sang out, "Is that you Captain Hart?" "Aye, aye," said Hart, "didn't you get in yet?" "No," said Captain Boyce, "did you?"

The ships did not meet again, but the captain and crew of the Mercury were satisfied with the result of the race, as they were the victors, having passed the Old Head of Kinsale four hours and eleven minutes ahead of the Balclutha, which was not so bad on a seventeen hundred mile race across the Atlantic.

At one time St. John's had twenty-one barques and one full-rigged ship (the Hermione) belonging to Bowring Brothers, The Fleetwing, Oberon, Tasso, Emily, Midas, Prospero, Miranda, Olinda, Meteor, and the Rothesay of Harbor Grace were the principal flyers. The clipper brigs were the James Stewart, Titania, Balclutha, Mercury, and the dandy of the lot, the Seamew, belonging to R. Alsup & Co. The crews in those days were larger than at present, as no vessel carried less than eight hands, and some of the larger barques had fifteen men, all told. There were as many as eight or nine hundred men who manned the foreign fleet, which is a sad contrast to the present day, when not more than, probably, two hundred and fifty men sail on foreign voyages. Many of the fore-and-aft schooners now crossing the Atlantic in all seasons do not carry more than six men, and I have known some of them to sail with four hands.

To some cause or other our foreign fleet has been dwindling down and growing less for the past ten or fifteen years, and as the vessels are lost they are not replaced. A few years ago we had a fleet of fifty vessels, to-day, probably, we have not more than twenty-five.

One More Grand Cure Is Reported.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS ADD TO THEIR RECORD IN NEW BRUNSWICK.

Mr. M. G. Wilson, After Suffering for Five Years, Finds Quick Relief and Complete Health.

N.B., May 2. (Special)—Another grand cure has been added to the splendid record Dodd's Kidney Pills have made in New Brunswick. Mr. M. G. Wilson, a well-known resident of this place, suffered for five years from a severe form of kidney disease. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him.

"I suffered for five years with a terrible pain in the small of my back and shoulders," Mr. Wilson says, in an interview.

"My trouble started in a cold, and though I was treated by doctors and tried all kinds of medicine, it continued to grow worse.

"My joints were stiff, my sleep at times was broken and unrefreshing and I had a dragging sensation across the loins. My skin itched and burned, and I had lapse of memory, while occasional sharp pains in the top of my head added to my discomfort.

"I was a sick man when I started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills; but they soon gave me relief, and five boxes cured me completely. They are the best pills I ever used."

If the disease is of the kidneys, or from the kidneys, Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it.

Church and Theatre.

"What do people mean when they say that the drama is unchristian?" asks "J. B.," writing in the Christian World on "Church and Theatre." "They might as well say that literature is unchristian. Are there not bad books, worse in their suggestions, in their immoral tendency, than anything that has been produced on the stage? And yet does anybody propose to lay an embargo on reading?"

Have You Been Stung?

Some people have recently been badly "stung" by getting substitutes for Zam-Buk. When they have asked for a box of Zam-Buk, the dealer has produced some line on which he makes more profit, and talked about "Just as good and cheaper," or "One of my own, and I know what's in it," or "Really, the same thing at half the price," etc., etc. When tested, this cheap substitute has, of course, failed to do anything like what Zam-Buk does, but the buyer has, nevertheless, parted with his money! You will have to get Zam-Buk eventually! Don't waste money on useless substitutes. The name "Zam-Buk" is protected by law. See it on every package before paying. If your dealer should be out of stock, write "Zam-Buk, St. John's, Newfoundland." We will mail it by return.

Household Notes.

Bamboo furniture is best cleaned with a damp cloth.

Dry cake may be used for bread pudding in place of the bread.

Wild flowers will not wilt if put in a paper bag as soon as picked.

Moths will rarely bother woollens which are aired and perfectly clean.

In choosing table china the simplest designs are always the safest.

The water rice is cooked in makes an excellent foundation for soup.

A stiff paint brush will get dust out of cracks better than a duster will.

If a year-old baby refuses milk, try giving it broths, eggs and cereals.

Rew a small brass ring on garden gloves and hang them up when not in use.

Beets can be baked for table just as potatoes are, and they are delicious.

Keep a box on the back porch for rubbish, and the yard will be much cleaner.

Sleepy pillows can be filled with clover and hops, as well as with pine needles.

In laying a table the sharp edges of all knives should be turned toward the plate.

For cleaning windows a new dish mop, kept for the purpose, will be found useful.

A new medicine dropper should be used for measuring extracts in the kitchen.

Windows and bureau drawers that open stiffly should be rubbed with dry soap.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey because of its great remedial qualities. These friends who have been made strong and vigorous by its use are glad to proclaim its tonic stimulating virtues and recommend it to their friends and neighbors.

At 69—Feels Like 50
"Eight years ago, when sick, I lost my appetite. I could not eat solid foods. My family physician advised taking Duffy's before meals. Now I feel more like 50 than 69. My appetite is splendid. Duffy's is very invigorating. A dealer tried to sell me a substitute, but the doctor told me to insist on the genuine."—Mrs. A. Campbell, 1111 West Ninth St., Spokane.

Hale and Hearty at 76
"For twenty years I have taken Duffy's and for the last four years I have never been without it. I have used it for malaria and dysentery and found it the best medicine I ever took, and I have been living 76 years. It puts new life in me, and I thank the company for so grand a tonic."—James S. Relieved Stomach Trouble      Stopped My Cough

"My husband suffered with stomach trouble for 12 years. Three doctors gave him no relief, but after taking three bottles of Duffy's he was entirely cured. He now looks fine and weighs 180 pounds. We would never be without it."—Mrs. Fred F. Zink, 2225 Saratoga St., New Orleans, La.

"I sincerely believe Duffy's is the grandest medicine ever made. It relieved me of a cough that my doctor could not stop. I had been in poor health 3 years, but nothing did me any good till I took 3 bottles of Duffy's. Now I tell all how it helped me."—Mrs. Ila Benjamin, Woodhull, N. Y.

To-Day's News.

MONTREAL, To-day.
Two patients who received injections of Friedmann's turtle serum eight weeks ago, refused to accept a second injection of the tuberculosis cure. Dr. Adams stated that he accompanied Dr. Friedmann to the Hotel Dieu and that two patients previously treated were unwilling to undergo a second injection. Beyond the statement he hoped the treatment would prove successful, Dr. Adams said that his position was a delicate one, that he was not at liberty to say what he thought regarding Friedmann's treatment, in view of the fact that he was one of five doctors of the committee, named at the last annual meeting of the National Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, to investigate and report on the conditions of patients treated by Friedmann, not only in Montreal, but in other cities of Canada. As yet no date has been set for the submission of the report of the physicians to the Association.

LONDON, To-day.
Austria has not yet moved against Montenegro, and in Vienna it is believed that she will not do so until after Monday's conference of the Ambassadors in London. Instead of the Crown Council which was to have met in Vienna, there was a meeting of the principal ministers, at the close of which it was stated that the situation was unchanged. Every day brings a better chance of the difficulties being arranged, and European feeling, except in Vienna, is becoming almost optimistic.

NEW YORK, To-day.
A strike by vote of 100,000 conductors and trainmen of the railroads in the Eastern territory, was ordered by the men's representatives who have been in conference with railroad managers here over the demands of increased wages, recently submitted by the employees. The vote yesterday denied the men's demands, and refused the proposition to submit the dispute to arbitration.

PARIS, To-day.
Telegraphing from Cetinje, the correspondent of the Temps says King Nicholas declares Montenegro will be beaten if Austria attacks her, but the victory will be a terribly costly one. The correspondent quotes the King as saying, "It will cost Austria dearer than Algeria cost France, than Caucasus cost Russia, or Transvaal cost Britain."

LONDON, To-day.
The Telegraph's Melbourne correspondent says, a Provisional reciprocity treaty agreement has been concluded by Hon. Mr. Fisher, of New Zealand, and Hon. Mr. Tudded, Australian Minister of Trade, subject to the approval of the respective parliaments, which it is fully anticipated will be readily obtained.

The Police Court.

Three young men of the West End arrested under warrant by Constable Nugent yesterday charged with assault on one Christopher Power on the 1st inst. They will come up for hearing on Monday. Mr. Gibbs appears for the defendants and Morine, K.C., for the plaintiff.

A young man charged with being drunk and disorderly on Water Street was fined $2 or 7 days.

A drunk was discharged.

A loose and disorderly person was ordered to give sureties or go down for four months.

Three men summoned by Sergeant Savage for not having their carts named were ordered to pay costs; and five others for not having pritchetts on their carts were also ordered to pay costs.

An assault committed on a member of the Loughshoremen's Union on Wednesday night last at their hall was tried to-day and was dismissed.

Another assault case and an abusive language case was postponed until Monday.

The Placentia Bridge Again.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—It is rumored that if the Placentia Bridge is placed across the ferry, it will be a double-track bridge for railway and general traffic. On the town side from Ferry Slip to Block House along Back of Beach there may be placed a railway track so built as to serve as an embankment or breakwater against flood thus serving a double purpose. Such a railway to be continued along South East or Point Verte roads to Cape Shore. If these plans are ever carried out they will give the Cape Shore farmers a good railway and prove a protection to Placentia town against tides, besides the utility of the bridge. This, however, may be only election year talk.

Yours,
Placentia, May 2, 1913. VOTER.

Rossley's Cowboys and Indians.

Once again standing room only at Rossley's theatre, the best act of its kind ever seen at the above theatre. To-night is the last chance of seeing this great comedy. There will be a matinee to-day for the children when special numbers will be introduced for their benefit. It is a show they all can understand and enjoy, besides four finest pictures. Mrs. Rossley has been asked repeatedly to again present the beautiful Butterfly dance, that had the town talking, and she has decided to have the six tiny tots appear Monday night, with new steps, additions to costumes and spectacular electrical effects. There is also in preparation another big act, and it promises to be a dandy.

Casino Crowded.

A Fisherman's Luck was repeated at the Casino last night to two large audiences who were delighted with the interesting comedy drama. Each member of the company was at home in their character, and gave excellent portrayal. It will be seen to-night for the last time. On Monday there is another very clever comedy, entitled "Rooms to Rent."

Train Notes.

The express which left here Thursday arrived at Port aux Basques at 2 p.m. to-day.

The incoming express which left Port aux Basques yesterday is due here at 10 to-night.

The express which left Port aux Basques this morning is due here tomorrow night.

A LANDSLIDE—Tuesday night past, there was a fall of snow on the Gaff Topsails of about 4 inches. Of the same afternoon there was a landslide from Mount Moriah when tons of rock and ice fell on the tracks there and the express coming this way was held up while the trainmen and others removed the obstacle.

but the condition of the patient still causes anxiety.

LONDON, May 2.
An agricultural laborer at St.
Osyth, near Clacton-on-Sea, earning $4 a week, has been left $100,000 by an old schoolfellow in the United States.

LONDON, May 2.
At a dinner given to the King and Queen this week by Earl and Countess Granard, Queen Mary gave evidence of having changed her ideas about social customs. She appeared in a fashionable costume, and when cigarettes passed around said she had no wish to prevent others from enjoying what she herself did not care for.

BERLIN, May 2.
Political circles here are very relent to-day, apparently awaiting the result of the Council of Ministers at Vienna. On the stock exchange, however, activity indicated that the crisis had been passed. Speculators seemed to have reached the conclusion that the Powers would stick together and that Montenegro was preparing to be let down.

LONDON, May 2.
Sidney Drew, who printed yesterday's issue of the suffragette organ, was arrested, and with the five women and Clayton the chemist, appeared at the Bow Street police station this morning. The court was crowded.
Mrs. Pankhurst has gone to a nursing home, under supervision of the police. Several Scotland Yard detectives followed the motor ambulance, to prevent her escape.

ROME, May 2.
The Pope is most impatient to resume work, and has decided to begin a reception of Cardinals to-morrow, commencing with Cardinal De Lai Secretary of the Consistorial congregation, and Cardinal Pompili. The Pontiff wishes to discuss with Cardinal De Lai several questions concerning America, whilst he has not seen Cardinal Pompili since his appointment as Vicar General of Rome.

NEW YORK, May 2.
Suffragists hold a platform meeting to-night. Roosevelt and Dr. Anna Shaw are the speakers. To-morrow afternoon there will be a parade up Fifth Avenue. It is claimed 30,000 will march.

LONDON, May 2.
Another new serum is announced by Dr. Frederick Michonzo, a young German bacteriologist, who worked with Dr. Koch in the African Sleeping Sickness investigation, and thereafter continued his researches alone in Africa and other tropical countries.
He reached South Africa in 1911, and claimed that while in the Belgian Congo, he had discovered a serum to cure consumption and leprosy. For the first part of 1912 his experiments were conducted at Camps Bay Laboratory, under the supervision of Dr.
Jolly, Professor of Physiology in a South African College. He was advised to go to England to convince the British Medical Profession of the importance of his discovery. They agreed to investigate and provide patients for testing the serum. All these are for tuberculosis, but since their commencement, the serum is being tried in cases of malaria, lep-rosy, pernicious anaemia, myphilia, and other disorders of the blood. The report of this investigation, based on a month's experiments, must be beyond cavil, and it would be understanding the case by merely saying that the treatment has been successful, as the results have been surprising. Patients whose deaths had been expected at any moment, are now on the high road to recovery. Others have been cured entirely; while others whose tuberculosis was of long standing and extreme virulence, have so recovered that neither sputum nor blood, on bacteriological examination, shows any sign of virulent bacillus.

Do We Want Good Music?

The reproduction of the Messiah next Tuesday night, without reference to the real object of the performance, amounts to an opportunity for all to say whether we are to have good music or rather a fairly continuous succession of great musical works or are we to meander along the same old way and only get out of the rut every five years or so to get up a concert worth while.

The first performance of the Messiah brought a splendid house, almost every chair filled. All classes were represented there, from those who could afford a dollar seat to those who were satisfied with a twenty-five cent seat. It was encouraging, very, to the Conductor and the performers, and we have every reason for believing that the production pleased the audience. Now any continuation of such effort depends to some extent and are to a great extent on the sympathy and support of the public, and as the Messiah seems to be a starting point for future Oratorio work, let this Benefit Performance for Mr. Allen be an earnest of the public's wishes on the question. We wish those who occupied the seats at the first performance to answer 'yes' to the question at the top of this note, by filling the front seats again next Tuesday night.
Even more fervently we ask those who could not afford front seats to say 'yes' by doing their part in filling the College Hall next Tuesday night.

Weights and Measures!

The following sections of the Act Respecting Weights and Measures are published for general information—

"Any person who shall use a beam, scale, weight, or measure, in the sale or exchange of any commodity, not assayed and stamped, or who shall alter the same after being so assayed and stamped, or who shall use steel-yards, except for the purpose of weighing hay or straw, or who shall use a beam made of wood, shall forfeit a sum not exceeding twenty dollars."

"Salt may be sold by measure, or by weight; if sold by measure, there shall be eighteen gallons to a tub (liquid measurement), and three tubs to a hoghead. Any person who shall sell or dispose of salt by measure otherwise than according to the standard hereby established, shall forfeit a sum not exceeding twenty dollars."

"The Chief Inspector, and Inspectors shall, when required, inspect and adjust all beams, scales, weights and measures, brought to the office of either of them, according to the said standard, and they shall stamp or mark thereon the initials of the reigning Sovereign, and their own proper initials."

Latest From The Wreck.

The accompanying messages were received this forenoon: To Minister of Marine and Fisheries from Cape Race.—"Steamer 'Glace Bay' from Sydney for Wabana ran ashore near Freshwater Point 4 p.m. yesterday; crew safe; full of water to engine room." To Deputy Collector of Customs from Trepassey: "S.S. 'Glace Bay' bound to Bell Island from Sydney, ballast laden, ran ashore in dense fog last evening in vicinity of Freshwater Point, Trepassey Bay; crew safe." So far as is known at present the s.s. 'Glace Bay' is a total loss. The s.s. Baleine left port at 11 o'clock to-day for the scene of the wreck, taking Messrs. Eric Downing and Tasker Cook who will look after salvage. Although in ballast the 'Glace Bay' being a new vessel, will have a quantity of deck gear and fittings salvaged. The Baleine will likely bring the wrecked crew to St. John's.

Morris Crushes the Painters.

It is very unfair to our city painters, who have done very little in their line of work since September last, to see the firemen of the Central Fire Hall painting the Fire Alarm boxes. What have our mechanics to say on this matter, or are they going to allow it to continue? The least Premier Morris, who frequently has received favors from our mechanics, should do was to issue tenders for the work. It is said that the uniformed men will perform a similar work soon for the Government, painting pillar boxes. The Tory gang, as in the past, say to Hades with our city mechanics.—Com.

ALLAN LINE.—The R. M. S. Carthaginian leaves Liverpool to-day for this port.

Oratory.

BY H. L. RANK. Oratory is the art of stringing ornate words together in long festoons and throwing them about a large room. An orator is a person who can do this three nights out of four without breaking down in the middle of a sentence and groping blindly for some thought which he supposed he brought with him. As used nowadays oratory is a sure passport to fame. It doesn't make any difference whether a man pays his grocery bills or wears a necktie or mistakes the finger bowl for a button. If he can orate at the drop of the hat without having to steal a shy look at his manuscript his place in society is secure. There is a greater demand for ready-to-wear orators than there is for hired girls who will not want to entertain their gentlemen friends in the parlor. The simplest method of getting into Congress is to practice oratory in the attic and then make a series of stump speeches in behalf of reform. Congress is running over with men who would still be putting price figures on baby-carts and premium hams if nature had not endowed them with a six inch flow of red-corpused oratory. Whenever the constituents of one of these congressmen complain that a little less talk and a few more questions would be acceptable, all he has to do is to return home and under reports the loss of his ship at Freshwater Point, but was fortunate enough to get ashore himself and all hands. The 'Glace Bay' is from Sydney, N.S.W., and went ashore on the Freshwater Point. The man in charge of the ship was a perfectly new ship of about 8,500 tons, and was launched a few months ago to ply to and from Bell Island in the Gulf. Only a few days ago the Telegram referred to her as being the first ship to take a large cargo from the island. She was built at Sydney, N.S.W., and was evidently sent ashore in the thick fog of last evening. It is likely more particulars will be received to-day.

There is quite a good deal of oratory in the pulp, and as a rule the more oratory there is the less religion people get out of it. Eloquence is a good thing so long as it doesn't choke plenty to death. It isn't necessary to be a college graduate in order to be able to orate at break-neck speed. Some of the greatest orators the world has ever produced have had to have their language cauterized and cauterized by the city editor before it was fit to mingle with the copy book. Oratory is an excellent thing to have, but a knowledge of the rotation of crops and the proper temperature of a 200-egg incubator will yield large dividends.

Steamer Glace Bay Ashore.

Shortly before midnight, Mr. R. C. Smith of the American Telegraph and Cable Company, had the following wire from Cape Race: "Captain of the s.s. 'Glace Bay' just arrived here and reports the loss of his ship at Freshwater Point, but was fortunate enough to get ashore himself and all hands. The 'Glace Bay' is from Sydney, N.S.W., and went ashore on the Freshwater Point. The man in charge of the ship was a perfectly new ship of about 8,500 tons, and was launched a few months ago to ply to and from Bell Island in the Gulf. WORKMAN HURT.

While a man named David England, employed discharging the Stephano, was at work near the skids at Harvey & Co's., last night, he was pretty severely hurt about the back and legs by a sling of lumber falling on him. He escaped, however, without broken bones and after a while, though he suffered much pain, was able to walk home assisted by another workman.

To Fly Across the Atlantic.

Special to Evening Telegram. MEREDITH, N. H., To-day. Ruth Law and her brother from Boston, are starting for Newfoundland to fly together across the ocean.

Another Sealer Arrives Home.

S. S. DIANA HAS FAIR TRIP. The s.s. Diana, Capt. B. Barbour, arrived from the northern sealfishery shortly after last midnight, reporting for 10,000 seals, the weight of 15,000. Capt. Barbour did not join in the slaughter of young harps early in the spring. She was jammed for over a week in heavy ice and when cut out by the Nascope, the young seals had disappeared. Capt. Barbour managed to get 4,000 young harps. After that the Diana went in search of old seals. Capt. Barbour never saw them so plentifully previously but they were wild and the work of killing them was not an easy matter. The Diana succeeded in getting 6,000 old seals. The crew on the Diana, Capt. Barbour spoke to Capt. Job Kean in the s.s. Erik three days ago. The latter ship was then about a hundred and fifty miles from St. John's. It is likely that the Erik will reach port to-night. She has 4,000 seals. This catch will not make any money for her crew nor her owner, men in view almost a probability that the s.s. Lloydsen, operating in the Gulf, will close the gates of the icefields for 1913.

Steamer Glace Bay Ashore.

Shortly before midnight, Mr. R. C. Smith of the American Telegraph and Cable Company, had the following wire from Cape Race: "Captain of the s.s. 'Glace Bay' just arrived here and reports the loss of his ship at Freshwater Point, but was fortunate enough to get ashore himself and all hands. The 'Glace Bay' is from Sydney, N.S.W., and went ashore on the Freshwater Point. The man in charge of the ship was a perfectly new ship of about 8,500 tons, and was launched a few months ago to ply to and from Bell Island in the Gulf. Only a few days ago the Telegram referred to her as being the first ship to take a large cargo from the island. She was built at Sydney, N.S.W., and was evidently sent ashore in the thick fog of last evening. It is likely more particulars will be received to-day.

At the City Hall.

Capt. Strong and N. J. Cousins asked if sewerage pipes will be laid on the South Side when water service is installed. The work will be started when conditions permit. W. Snow called attention to some houses on the street line at South Side. Referred to Engineer for report. The Lighting Committee will enquire into a complaint from Capt. Strong about the lack of light from the Long Bridge to Browning's Bridge. McMurdo & Co. asked to install electric lighting at Quiddi Vidi Swimming Pool was made by E. Kelly. Deferred.

Persons interested in the Bolinders Marine Motor Engine will find the application of Alex. McDougall, McBride's Cove, supplied with a card to go on board Messrs. Job Bros., Barq. "Earlsball" now in port, to view the 120 H. P. ENGINE installed on that vessel. may 3, 11

ROYAL STORES' DINNER.

At Wood's West End candy store, last night, the Royal Stores Wholesale Department held their annual dinner. Mr. J. W. Penney presiding. After an excellent menu had been discussed a comprehensive toast list was taken up. The speeches made, though brief, were humorous. The best of good fellowship prevailed throughout and a pleasant time was spent.

As the Telegram recently exclusively reported there is a great likelihood of the Western Union people transferring their cable business from Canso to Bay Roberts, Nfld. Mr. Sutch of the Western Union, analyzed here a couple of days ago and it is likely will make arrangements for the erection of a large station there, the architect being the same gentleman who planned the great Woolworth sky scraper in New York.

Presentation of Coronation Prizes

AT THE C. L. B. ARMOURY. In the spacious armoury of the C. L. B. last night took place the distribution of prizes of the Coronation Sports and the presentation of the Coronation Cup won by a sister Brigade—the Catholic Cadet Corps. At 8 p.m. the C.L.B., C.C.C. and Newfoundland Highlanders' Battalions formed up in the Armoury under command of Major Warren (C.L.B.) numbering in all a thousand strong. An enthusiastic gathering of onlookers was present. Punctually at 8.30 His Excellency the Governor and Mrs. Davidson arrived, accompanied by Capt. Beech, A.D.C. On entering, the C.L.B. and C.C.C. Bands played "God Save the King," whilst the brigades presented arms. The Vice-Royal party were escorted to seats in the Gymnasium, after which they proceeded to the centre of the Armoury and ascended a platform, provided for the occasion, and on which was a table containing the Coronation trophies. On the platform with His Excellency and suite were the commanding officers of the three Brigades. Lieut.-Col. Conroy (C.C.C.) addressed the assembly, explained the object of the joint meeting of the brigades and asked their Excellencies to present the prizes to the winners. As their names were announced the victors in the different competitions came forward and medals were pinned on them by Mrs. Davidson, who in graceful terms complimented the winners and wished them future success. The list of events and winners were:—Hurdle Race (Seniors)—1st, Lieut. Summers (C.C.C. Juniors)—1st, Corp. Duchemin (C.C.C.). 100 Yards (Seniors)—1st, Sergt. Knight (C.C.C.); 2nd, Sergt. Campbell (C.C.C.). Pole Vault—1st, Corp. N. Duchemin (C.C.C.); 2nd, Corp. A. Edwards (C.L.B.). 220 Yards—1st, Sergt. Knight (C.C.C.); 2nd, Sergt. Campbell (C.C.C.). High Jump (Juniors)—1st, Pte. Jackman (C.C.C.); 2nd, Pte. Jerrett (C.L.B.). Quarter Mile (Seniors)—1st, Sergt. Knight (C.C.C.); 2nd, Sergt. Campbell (C.C.C. Juniors)—1st, Pte. Dobbin (C.C.C.); 2nd, Pte. Watts (Highlanders.). Cricket Ball Throw—1st, Sergt. Parsons (Highlanders); 2nd, Corp. McNeil (Highlanders.). One Mile Walk—1st, Sergt. Strong (C.L.B.); 2nd, Pte. Coffield (Highlanders.). One Mile Run—1st, Sergt. Marshall (C.L.B.); 2nd, Pte. Brown (C.C.C.). Hammer Throw—1st, Corp. Olgive (Highlanders); 2nd, Pte. Coffield (Highlanders.). High Jump (Seniors)—1st, Sergt. Edwards (C.L.B.); 2nd, L. C. Dick (Highlanders.). Tug o' War—Won by C.C.C. Relay Race—Won by C.C.C. Winners: Messrs. Knight, Campbell, Cullen and Kavanagh. Coronation Cup—Won by C.C.C. for the greatest number of points. Note.—This trophy must be won three consecutive years before it becomes the absolute property of any one brigade. The Cadets have won it two years and will compete for it again this summer. The medals presented are made of bronze. They are of neat design and handsomely embellished. The cups given as well as medals for the tug o' war and relay race, are of splendid design. After the presentation, Lieut. Col. Paterson (Nfld. Highlanders), made a brief address thanking their Excellencies for their presence. He was followed by Governor Davidson, who spoke encouragingly to the lads. He congratulated them on their smart address, military appearance and athletic prowess. His Excellency intimated his desire to present a prize for competition in the near future for the best average in shooting among the three Brigades. This announcement was hailed with delight. The close of his speech hearty cheers were given for Governor and Mrs. Davidson. Following an inspection by His Excellency of the battalions, the rendering of the National Anthem brought the gathering to a close and the brigades returned to their armouries.

Wire Lobster Pots.

The fact that the old style lobster trap made of laths gives incessant trouble and is often utterly demolished after rough weather, last year impelled dealers here to try some other material in the making of them. Wire pots are strong and cheap and of a fair size mesh was selected and a few lobster catchers in St. Mary's Bay made the experiment with the new style pot. Most, however, laughed at the idea but when they saw after the summer their durability, the ease with which they are handled and their immunity from breaking, they felt differently about them, and this year they will be used around the whole bay and possibly in other places while their universal employment will only be a question of a short time. For less than 20 cents one can buy wire enough to make a pot. The sea may bend them but it cannot destroy them and if the trap is a little bit indented or bent up it can be straightened out with the minimum of trouble and no expense. Nor is there any danger of losing lobsters from it once they are caught.

Some Morgan Anecdotes.

Since the death of the great financier, J. Pierpont Morgan, many anecdotes have been related about him, and the New York Evening Post, a journal with which he was closely in touch, recently published a number which throw light on the character of the man.

A firm of jewellers who had received a fine pearl decided to send it down to Mr. Morgan and let him have first bid on it. The price was placed at $5,000. The jewel was carefully sealed in a leather-covered box. Mr. Morgan read the firm's communication, opened the box, was delighted with the pearl, and thrust it into his pocket. Calling his cashier, he instructed him to draw two cheques to the firm of jewellers—one for $4,000 and the other for $5,000. The $5,000 cheque Mr. Morgan placed in the box that had contained the pearl. He had the package carefully tied and sealed.

The $4,000 cheque he enclosed in a letter to the jewellers, in which he wrote that if the firm was willing to accept that amount for the pearl, the box might be returned to him at once and the transaction considered closed. In the event, however, that the firm was unwilling to accept less than $5,000 for the pearl the $4,000 cheque was to be returned without delay.

Mr. Morgan, with the pearl in his pocket, sent the messenger back, bearing his letter and the box. In less than an hour the messenger returned, fetching the box in which was the $5,000 cheque. The jewellers had decided to accept the $4,000 offer.

Mr. Morgan met one of the members of the jewellery firm at a dinner later, and told him the story of the two cheques. The jeweller averred that his firm had lost money by the transaction.

"If you were losing money," asked Mr. Morgan, "why didn't you keep the box, with my $5,000 cheque?"

The jeweller answered: "I can understand now, how it is that you have earned your place as the leading financier."

The way he dealt with a certain owner of coal lands in Pennsylvania who knew that Mr. Morgan must have his property was characteristic. The owner had come prepared to exact a good price. Mr. Morgan kept him waiting for a long time, and then allowed him to come forward. "I'll give you $— for your property." And there the bargain was closed. His habit was to deal in ultimatum; he would say: "I'll do this," or "I'll do that." He seldom asked advice, even of his partners. No doubt, his confidence in himself inspired confidence in others.

Probably no one who was present will ever forget the meeting between the late John Bigelow and Mr. Morgan on the occasion of Mr. Bigelow's 93rd birthday.

"I don't want to hurt your feelings, Morgan," chuckled Mr. Bigelow, "but I'll have to tell you what I told Carnegie. I'm old enough to be your father. But you're a promising young man, and you'll make your mark yet."

And John Pierpont Morgan, himself three score and ten, bowed in smiling acquiescence.

A year or two ago, when there were rumors of Mr. Morgan's approaching retirement, somebody asked Thomas F. Ryan who would make a good successor to the great financier.

"In my opinion, there will be none," replied Mr. Ryan. "There has been only one Morgan, and there cannot be a second."

Mr. Morgan had many admirers, among them Bishop Potter. In one of his last books, "The East of Today and To-morrow," the Bishop inscribed this dedication:

"To John Pierpont Morgan, Financier, Philanthropist, Friend, to whose munificence these opportunities for observation were owing, and whose constructive genius, which upbuilds and never pulls down, has indicated the tasks which await Western civilization in Eastern fields."

This may be partly explained by the fact that the financier took an active interest in Episcopal Church affairs. He often attended gatherings of the New York diocese. At one of the annual church conventions in San Francisco he was guarded throughout his stay in that city by a force of detectives, who remained close to him on all occasions.

A saloon-keeper on Lower Sixth Avenue once bought an oil painting of Mr. Morgan at a public auction for $35. The portrait was the work of a struggling Swedish artist, who had it sent to America, hoping that the banker would be flattered by the likeness and buy it. He asked $25 for it, but Mr. Morgan did not offer to buy.

When the news that the canvas had fallen into the hands of a saloon-keeper, who had placed it alongside of a stuffed monkey just above his bar, reached Wall Street, there was much excitement among Mr. Morgan's friends.

But the portrait had not hung there an hour when the saloonkeeper received a visit from a stranger who came in a cab.

"Nice picture," said the caller.

"Art with a big A," replied the proud owner.

"Sell it?" queried the customer.

"He's had his chance."

"Who has?"

"Your friend down town."

"You're up the wrong wall," said the stranger.

"No, your friend's picture is," said the owner, "but your friend can't buy himself off with a railroad."

"Never mind about that," said the stranger, and they repaired to a back room.

The stranger and the picture left in half an hour. The saloonkeeper did not get a railroad, but he made a handsome profit on the transaction.

Pie-eating was one of Mr. Morgan's failings—possibly because he came from that part of New England which is known as the "Pie Belt." At any rate, he was not one of that group of Wall Street financiers who ate sparingly at lunch time. A large wedge of pumpkin or apple pie was often the mainstay of his midday meal. He explained once that this was a habit contracted in his boyhood. He could never shake it off.

He had a private dining-room fitted up in his banking house at Broad and Wall streets, and he went there with his partners at one o'clock each afternoon. They sat around a small table, and during the meal discussed the events of the day. In this way no time was wasted from business. Mr. Morgan frequently took a small cup of bouillon first, then a chop or piece of steak, and always a piece of pie.

Upon one occasion he rushed into the luncheon room, seized a piece of pie, and at the same time held up a quotation of ticker tapes, containing a quotation for a well-known railroad stock.

"Look at that quotation!" he cried, joyously. "If all the people who bought stock in that railroad at the time we first took hold of it had kept it until to-day they would have regained all of the depreciation and about 25 per cent. more."

In 1903, according to an officer of the British Museum, quoted in the London "Daily Mail," Mr. Morgan "cleaned out the entire lot of both real and fictitious antiquities." I don't think," said the officer, "there are any really good forgeries in the market at the present time. Mr. Morgan has practically cleaned up the big output. He has been induced to pay small fortunes for forged works of art."

On his frequent trips abroad, Mr. Morgan seldom left for home without bringing with him some art treasure of the Old World. For this, many a European felt none too kindly disposed towards him. In Italy, however, he won many friends through his purchase of the famous Ascoli cope, which he returned to the Italian government. This he did in 1904. The cope had been stolen from the Cathedral of Ascoli, and the Italian authorities had searched for it in vain until one day an expert in textiles saw it at the South Kensington Museum, London, to which it had been lent by Mr. Morgan. When the owner learned of its history he gladly relinquished his claim to the relic and presented the cope to Italy.

There was great rejoicing in the municipality of Ascoli when the cope was returned to its place, and the people of the town voted to confer honorary citizenship upon Mr. Morgan in the City Palace, together with a marble tablet recording his generous action, and to bestow his name upon one of the principal streets of the city.

Nor did the Italian government allow his generosity to go unrewarded. King Victor Emmanuel conferred upon him the great cordon of Saint Maurice and Lazarus, a decoration which gave Mr. Morgan the rank of "cousin to his Majesty." It was the second highest honour in the King's power to confer.

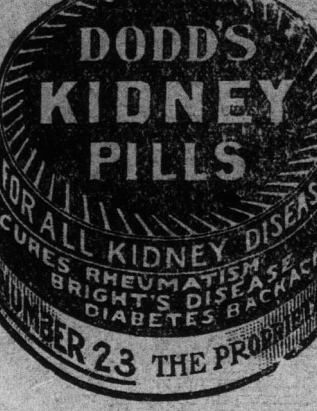

An incident worth relating occurred two years ago on one of Mr. Morgan's visits in Rome. Lloyd G. Griscom was then ambassador, and through him Mr. Morgan sought an audience with the Pope and also with Queen Helena. There was some misunderstanding about the hour for these meetings, and the result was that both were scheduled for about the same time. Mr. Morgan, not to be beaten, decided to go to both audiences with the aid of his swift automobile.

The difficulty of this task will be better realized when it is considered that etiquette prescribed that for the Queen's audience Mr. Morgan should appear in a frock coat with a fancy tie, and Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee, his daughter, who was to accompany him, should appear in a light colored walking gown with an appropriate hat, while the etiquette of the Vatican prescribed for Mr. Morgan evening dress and a white tie, and for Mrs. Satterlee a black gown and a black lace veil over her hair, both to the ungloried and unjewelled.

The audience with the Queen lasted twenty minutes. The clothing of both was changed in another five minutes, and they then motored to the Vatican, arriving there ten minutes late, which was excusable owing to a general strike in Rome, which impeded traffic.

Conversation with the Pope was carried on through an interpreter. The Pontiff ended by giving to Mr. Morgan for his autograph album several lines in Italian written with Mr. Morgan's fountain pen. They read: "We hope God will impart every prosperity to J. P. Morgan and his family."

Mr. Morgan was a man of few words. It was a lucky interviewer who found the financier in a mood to talk—even when he was about to sail for Europe. Nor did he take kindly to the camera "sharp shooter," who invariably followed him to the steamship pier. There were several snapshot experts waiting for him at the pier one year when he sailed. As he stepped from his motor, Mr. Morgan struck out with his heavy cane and succeeded in scattering them. On another occasion he remarked that he would gladly give $500 to any man who smashed any camera that held a snapshot of him. But he was not always found in this mood. Just before his ship pulled out a year ago, some one mustered up courage to ask Mr. Morgan if it was true that he was going to corner the pyramids.

"Pyramids haven't any corners," was his reply. Then an afterthought added with a smile, "Besides, I never corner anything."

DEAR SIR,—Photography is now being recognized as a method in Education too valuable to overlook.
More and more are we turning to Nature, because we recognize for the first time in the history of the world that we are a part of Nature. We are Nature. And the more we love Nature, the more we understand her, the stronger, the healthier, the happier, the wiser we are.
The Camera brings us very close to Nature. It makes us feel our kinship with the Infinite.
The Camera habit isn't a passing fad. More and more it is becoming fixed in the heart of the race.
Yours faithfully,
