PURITY - QUALITY - ECONOMY

With the increased cost of labor and materials due to war conditions, it is not reasonable to suppose that a really first class baking powder can be made and sold at the old prices. Rather than sacrifice the quality of

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

we found it necessary to make slight increases in price during the war period. Even though Magic Baking Powder may cost a few cents more than the ordinary kinds it is still by far the most economical baking powder on the market to-day when purity, strength and leavening qualities are taken into consideration.

CHAPTER XXX

"JUST LIKE A GIRL."

"Then I wish I'd stood out," said Cecil.

And he looked half induced to snatch the pipe from Laurence's lips, but sank down upon the ground at his side and gazed thoughtfully through the open door.

There was a placid, serene, and mysteriously happy look upon his face, his eyes, deep eyes that attracted the wounded man's attention and set him thinking.

Fixing his gaze, questioning eyes upon him thoughtfully, he said, suddenly:

"Cecil, are you happy at the farm?"

Cecil turned to him with a start and a rosy flush.

"Yes, Laury," he replied. "Why do you ask?"

Laurence shrugged his torn and blood-stained shoulders.

"Why, indeed, lad?" he said, dreamily. "I was watching your face and it looked so happy and contented that I asked the question, though your looks made it unnecessary."

"I am happy here, Laury," he said, lowering his eyes. "I could be happier here with you than anywhere else if you were well and in no pain. Poor Laury!"

There was a world of pity in the last words, and something more than pity.

"You are a strange lad," said the cattle-runner, smiling. "A strange lad and somewhat of a puzzle. I'm thinking that the world has served us both badly and driven us here rather against our wills. But that's neither here nor there—" He broke off curtly, as if he had said too much. "And you are happy at the farm? Cecil, if the settler should ask you to bind yourself to him—for a score of years, say—bind yourself to him hand and foot—what would you say?"

The youth looked round with a sharp, troubled look.

"Laury!" he exclaimed. "Bound? What do you mean—not be able to leave the farm when one would like?"

"Yes," said Laurence, curtly, and with a compression of the lips.

"Bound like a slave!" said Cecil, in low but indignant tones. "No, Laury, that would be base! Who would give up his freedom like that?"

And he turned with a look of innocent wonder upon his face.

Something in Laurence's downcast eyes made him start and turn pale.

"Laury," he said, sharply, "tell me: you have not bound yourself?"

Laurence nodded almost surlily, with still averted eyes.

"Ay, lad!" he said. "Why not? I'm happy here—at least I have no trouble and plenty of work, and I can cheat memory here better than anywhere else. Why not? What is to be said against it? Why should I not make certain of a long run of this quiet and harmless life—eh?"

Cecil breathed hard.

"Bound for—how long, Laury?" he asked, turning his dark eyes upon him wistfully.

"Seven years," replied Laurence.

"Seven years?" murmured Cecil.

"Bound like a slave—"

Laurence jerked himself up.

"A slave?" he repeated, with flashing eyes.

Cecil sank down beside him and clung to his arm with an imploring face.

"Oh, Laury, Laury!" he cried; "don't look like that—don't! I'd rather you'd kill me. You—you look so angry! I didn't mean to anger you. My wicked tongue! Oh, Laury!"

He was startled and touched by the tearful eyes and imploring voice and sank back again.

"Tut, tut, lad!" he said, grimly. "Don't be frightened nor taken aback so. The word is hard. Who calls me a slave? 'Tis but a seven-years' apprenticeship."

And he laughed grimly.

Cecil got up and crept back to the block of wood with a sad, thoughtful face.

The fierce look had cut to the heart.

"And—and that was what you were talking about when I came out of the office the morning we started, Laury?"

"Yes," he said. "The settler had often asked me to bind myself over to him for seven years, but I had refused. I, awhile ago, though of it very hardily—as you do, lad—as slavery; besides, I was uncertain and restless."

I thought I might want to dash off here and there, when the fit seized me, and did not fancy being tied to the farm. But—and he paused and looked meaningly—"the settler came in that morning, and, lad, I'm thinking it was on your account I signed!" and he laughed his short, rare laugh.

"I took a fancy to you the first time I saw you at the Bay and, while the settler was talking and wheedling, I thought: 'The lad is young and weak and helpless; he'll feel strange and lonely with the boys, if the fit seizes me to go. If I sign I can't go, and he'll have a friend here to fight his battles until the wolves or a panther pushes me off the board.' So I signed."

Cecil's face was a study during this confession—for it was little else.

At first it turned paler than before, a transient flush passed over it, then the eyes seemed to grow larger, to fill and deepen with a wondrous, marvelous tenderness, the lips quivered with some fine, unspeakable emotion; then, as the man's curt, grave voice ceased, the lad covered his face with his hands, silent and overcome.

Before Laury could express his surprise at the result Cecil seemed to have recovered himself, and, turning to him with a look upon his face that struck Laurence to the heart, said, in thrilling tones:

"So, Laury, you agreed to be a slave—hush! I will say the word—for me!"

CHAPTER XXXI

Oh, shame to men! evil with evil! Firm concord holds, men only disagree And creatures rational.—Milton.

For the remainder of the evening Cecil was particularly silent and reserved, attentive and watchful, ever ready with the handkerchief and the broth, but very quiet and thoughtful.

So much so that Laurence was puzzled, and after an ineffectual attempt at conversation, he fell to watching the lad's face with a half-dreamy contemplation, and, in a fit of speculation as to the causes that had sent the handsome-faced, soft-voiced lad into the African wilds, he fell asleep.

Cecil, who had been waiting for this, rose and covered him with the rug, replenished the fire outside the hut, and then, after shutting the door, sank down upon the floor beside his head, and gazed long and fixedly upon his weary yet placid and noble-looking face.

Gazing thus, an expression of wistful, indescribable tenderness settled like a cloud upon the youth's face, his lips quivered, his eyes filled with tears, and, as if yielding to an uncontrollable impulse, he bent his head and suddenly, swiftly, yet lingeringly, touched the hot lips of the stalwart runner with his own.

Then, as if with shame, he started back and covered his crimson face with his two trembling hands.

As the caress rested lightly on his lips Laurence moved slightly, and the weary look upon his face gave place to a smile of ineffable peace and happiness.

But Cecil's eyes were covered and did not see it.

So the night wore away: Laurence, sleeping uneasily and with fitful starts of unrest; Cecil, sitting, sometimes dozing for a few moments, but for the most part watching intently, and with the same devouring look, the face beneath him and feeling supremely and unspeakably happy.

At daybreak Laurence woke, feeling much refreshed.

The coffee was already boiling and Cecil was leaning over the fire.

He turned with a smile of greeting as he heard Laurence move.

"Good-morning, Laury. How do you feel this morning?"

"Better, lad—almost well!" replied Laurence, rising.

Cecil jumped to his feet.

"No, no, sir; you lie down again. Ingratitude is a mild name for the folly you intend. What, after all my careful nursing to undo it by using up your first bit of strength? Lie down again, Mr. Presumption, and wait till breakfast is over."

"Nonsense!" said Laurence, smiling. "I am all right. Sit you down and let me get the meal ready. It's time I took my share of the work—"

"Not a scrap—not a word! Lie down," insisted Cecil, with a touch of his old superiority. "Do as you are told, Laury, now!"

And Laurence, seeing that all remonstrance would be but waste of time, sat down on the block.

"Now, here is a cup of coffee—don't drink it all until you cook a steak for you. I suppose you feel rather hungry after all the slops you've had?"

"I do," confessed Laurence. "But speak not so contemptuously of the broth, lad. It was very good, and all the sweeter for your making," he added, gratefully.

The youth colored.

"Come, no compliments, Mr. Laury! You'll be waxing me to let you do all sorts of wild things else. Steak rather underdone? Well, it's good for you. Wait a minute for the salt. No pepper, of course. There you are."

And he set before the hungry and convalescent a tempting antelope steak, nicely browned and salted.

Laurence did not fall too, though.

"Not a scrap until I see you similarly served, my lad."

And he put the plate aside resolutely.

"Very well, Mr. Impatient," said Cecil.

And he hastily put another juicy steak on the trons for himself.

Then they sat side by side and ate them.

It was an enjoyable breakfast, with good appetites and the most glorious scenery to add a zest.

All the carefully-laid dejuners would not compare with it.

They ate slowly, talking meanwhile, and looking through the open door at the mountains and sweet flower land.

Both were happy—Laurence with a strange, mysterious happiness he could not fathom or understand.

"The fever has left me entirely," he said, as Cecil disposed of the plates and kettle. "And, saving for a little weakness and the tingling of the scratches, I might fancy these last three days a dream."

And he smiled gravely.

"A very unpleasant one," said Cecil, with a sigh. "Panther wounds and low fevers are not nice nightmares." (to be continued.)

A Corn?

Why, a touch will end it!

A corn today is needless, and millions of people know it.

Years ago nearly every woman had them. Now women who know Blue-jay never suffer corns.

Ask your own friends.

Blue-jay comes in liquid form or plaster. One applies it in a jiffy—by a touch.

The pain stops. In a little time the whole corn loosens and comes out.

The proof is everywhere. Tens of millions of corns have been ended in this simple, easy way.

This is the scientific method—the modern way of dealing with a corn. It was created by this world-famed laboratory, which every physician respects.

One test will solve all your corn problems. Make it tonight. Buy Blue-jay from your druggist.

Wellington's Statues.

On Tuesday, June 18, 1844, the anniversary of his final victory at Waterloo over the French and their emperor, Napoleon Buonaparte, in 1815, an equestrian statue of the Duke of Wellington was unveiled in front of the Royal Exchange, London. It was the work of Sir Francis Legatt Chantrey, the famous sculptor, who had, however, died in 1842, when sixty-one years of age. Frederick Augustus the Second, King of Saxony, was then visiting Queen Victoria, and though his predecessor of those names had allied with the French, and thereby for a time increased his own territories, this successor was amongst the crowd on the occasion, and joined heartily in the cheering. Another equestrian statue of the Duke was in 1846 erected opposite Apsley House, his residence at Hyde Park Corner, in London, but was taken down in 1883, and set up at Aldershot, the great military camp. It was replaced by a smaller statue in 1888 at the original site. Wellington is similarly honoured by statues at Glasgow, Edinburgh and Dublin, and a pillar was erected to him at Wellington a Somersetshire market-town, the place from which he, as Arthur Wellesley, third son of the Earl of Morington, took his title. Abroad, in British Colonies, there is Wellington, capital of New Zealand. He died on September 14, 1852, at Walmer Castle, near Deal, his residence at Lord Warden of the Cinque, or Five, Ports, or of the south-east coast of England, when eighty-three years old, but was buried in St. Paul's Cathedral with unexampled magnificence. In England his most valuable monument is Wellington College, Sandhurst, in Berkshire, erected and endowed by £159,000 subscribed originally for the support and education of orphan sons of officers, accommodating 250 boys. But now other boys also are educated there, who wish for military training as cadets.

Turks Attack British.

Nationalist Troops Fire on Indian Detachment -- Newfoundland Nurse Wins Graduating Prize -- Wireless Operators Strike Not Affecting Canadian Marconi -- Unfavorable Weather Prevents Ninth Test Race -- Belgian Assaulted Ex-Kaiser.

TURKISH TREACHERY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 17. Turkish Nationalist troops on Tuesday attacked a company of British Indian troops on Ismid front, who were withdrawing under agreement. The Turks wounded thirty and captured a British intelligence officer. Reinforcements were sent to the assistance of the Indians, while warships kept the Turks off by shelling their positions. The trouble started when British outposts, consisting of a company of Punjabis, was surrounded by a superior force of Nationalists. The British officer commanding decided to withdraw. An agreement was reached with the Nationalists, who promised not to hamper the British retreat. The British advance guard was allowed to pass unmolested, but the Nationalists fired on the main body. Although it is considered certain that Mustafa Kemal Pasha, head of the Turkish Nationalist Government at Angora, was chagrined by the fact that the British were barring the way to Scutari, opposite Constantinople, there is nothing in reports on the incident to show that he ordered the attack on the British.

EX-KAISER ASSAULTED.

DOORN, June 17. There are persistent rumors in the village that the former German Emperor has been assaulted by a Belgian, who on showing a forged pass, gained admittance to Doorn Castle. It is asserted that the former Emperor was wounded in the jaw and that the Belgian was arrested. It has been impossible thus far to ascertain whether these rumors are true.

MONTREAL GENERAL GRADUATE.

MONTREAL, June 17. At a graduating exercises of Montreal general hospital training school for nurses, forty-two members of the graduating class received diplomas today. The prize winners of the class were Miss Helen Peters, of St. John's, Nfld., and Miss Beatrice Wells, of Montreal.

WASHERS SOFT COAL PROFITEERS.

WASHINGTON, June 17. A drive on profiteers in bituminous coal was ordered today by Attorney General Palmer. All Federal District attorneys were ordered to give special attention to such charges of profiteering and to seek indictment where investigation was warranted.

VETERANS AND DOMINION GOVT.

VANCOUVER, June 17. After hearing an address last night by Henry Flynn of the Grand Army of ### Veterans, denouncing the Federal Administration in connection with its policy toward returned soldiers—two thousand, five hundred veterans and citizens endorsed a resolution demanding the resignation of the Dominion Government.

ASCOT GOLD CUP.
ASCOT HEATH, June 17. Viscount Astor's "Buchan" won the Ascot Gold Cup Race run here today, but was disqualified for fouling and the race was awarded to Sir W. Nelson's Tangiers which finished second. Hy-Balson's Juvenator was given second place and Lord Derby's Keynote placed third. Six horses raced. The Gold Cup Race is over a course of two and a half miles for a gold cup valued at £500 and £3,500 in cash. This was the third day of the Ascot meeting, and again distinguished company was present, including King George, Queen Mary, Prince Albert and Princess Mary.

A. F. L. FOR GOVT. OWNERSHIP.

MONTREAL, June 17. Government ownership with Democratic operation of American railroads was endorsed here today by the American Federation of Labor in its annual conference, after one of the bitterest fights on record.

CANADIAN WIRELESS NOT AFFECTED.

MONTREAL, June 17. It was announced today that wireless operators employed by Canadian Wireless companies will not be affected by the walkout just ordered by the Wireless Telegraphists' Association with headquarters, England, as they are unionised separately, as division fifty-nine of the Commercial Telegraphers Union of America and not allied with British organization.

RACE POSTPONED.

NEWPORT, R.I., June 17. The ninth race in the series between the Resolute and Vantage, to determine which shall defend the America's Cup off Sandy Hook next month, was again postponed today because of weather conditions.

PREFERS PARIS.

PARIS, June 17. Dr. Mayer Von Kaufmann, German Charge d'Affaires here, has refused the offer of the German Chancellorship tendered him by Karl Trimborn, leader of the German Centre Party, who is trying to form the new German Ministry to be organized as a result of recent elections. Mayer explained his refusal today by declaring that he considered the mission he has to fulfill in Paris as too important for him to give up at this juncture.

A Plea for Improvement.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—About a year ago the City Council effected a very great improvement by lessening the width of the unsightly raised sidewalk between Government House Gate and St. Thomas's Church, giving the space thus gained to the street where it has been of much advantage. It does not, however, require a very artistic nor an utilitarian eye to perceive that a much greater measure of improvement is easily possible of attainment in that locality and no doubt had the Council had the required funds at its disposal when the race was begun it would have been carried out on a more comprehensive scale.

The embankment in question extends from Government House south gate to King's Bridge Road, past, and in too close contiguity to St. Thomas's Church, marring the appearance of the church and the approaches thereto and must be a source of inconvenience to its congregation. It is beside, an eyesore in one of our best city localities. One's mind's eye can visualise the transformation that would be incurred as a slight 'berme' removal of this embankment clear through to King's Bridge Road. The appearance of the street would be revolutionized. St. Thomas's would stand in the centre of a fairly large uniformly level plot, and a more presentable and convenient sidewalk would be available to the public—the present railing on the north side of the church could, if desired, be replaced on the lower level that would be attained. No cost for walling would be incurred as a slight 'berme' and a slope similar to that now protecting the street face of the embankment would effectually protect the Government House Grounds fence. In fact the slope could be made quite attractive by plastering its face to a depth of three inches with puddled soil, or clay and a little fertilizer, in which lawn grass seed had been mixed.

A portion of the material of the embankment could probably be utilized for street repairs, certainly much of it could be used with very great advantage in improving the cross-section curvature of many of our streets—in this respect some of our streets are especially faulty where they cross or intersect others. Better still, however, would it be if the City Council could see its way to beginning the entire remodelling of Bannerman Park—a first step in which would be the raising to a uniform gradient, as a uniform level is out of the question, of the broken surfaced central portion between the band-stand and Military Road. This would make a short haul for the excavated material from the embankment and materially lessen the cost.

Bannerman Park is such only by courtesy of title and as it is now cannot be improved or made develop a single attractive feature. Some day its remodelling will have to be undertaken, and the sooner the better and the more economically the work may be done; as each year the few trees already planted will be growing larger and increasingly difficult to re-align—so that additional plantings be made until an acceptable de-

Newfoundland Has No Official Flag.

(Reply to "Subscriber.")
There is no Nfld. flag. This country possesses no distinctive flag, and any citizen desiring to fly bunting has only to use the plain Union Jack. He uses any other unauthorized flag. The Governor has a distinctive flag for when he is aboard a Union Jack with the badge of the country in the centre. When he is on shore he flies the plain Union Jack. The Customs' flag is a Blue Ensign with the badge of Terra Nova in the fly. Government ships fly the same flag. Ordinary mercantile ships use the Red Ensign, with the badge in the fly. The White Ensign is strictly by a Naval flag and may not be used by anyone outside the Navy. The well known Pink, White and Green flag has no official status. It was, we believe, the flag used by some Native Society back in the early days of our history, and in that way has by some become regarded as the official flag of Newfoundland. It may not be out of place to remark, here, that even this flag is in the vast majority of cases flown incorrectly. The colors of a flag read from the mast out. The Pink, therefore, should be nearest the mast. Instead, it is more often than mast.—Editor Telegram.

Obituary.

Again we record, with deepest sympathy, a visit from the Great Reaper, who, on June 9th, gathered for his harvest an estimable young lady of St. Joseph's, Mary J. Gushue, youngest daughter of Mrs. McGrath. She was in the vigor of life, and always enjoyed good health till a few months ago, when she contracted a cold, which held her in its victim, the effects wasting her strength until she passed to her eternal home. She bore her illness with Christian fortitude, and resignation, being strengthened with all the consolation of Holy Church, and receiving every comfort and care loving friends could give. As the church bell tolled out its mournful echoes, the funeral procession wended its way to the little cemetery beyond, where the last obsequies were offered by Rev. Fr. Enright, then her mortal remains were laid to rest in mother earth, amid the tears and mournings of her relatives. Her life was exemplary of good works, and filial duty; and the many wreaths and floral tributes laid on her casket and thrown in her grave, with the many expressions of sympathy to her sorrowing friends, testified that she was a general favorite in the community. To her dear mother, to whom she is an irreparable loss, to Mr. McGrath, as well as to her brothers and sisters, we extend our heartfelt sympathy.

"We do not enjoy you, your well-earned rest Beyond the ebb and flow of mortal tide; Until, in an unchanging and immortal land We shall be reunited side by side."

Shamrock Showed Surprising Speed.

City Island, June 9.—Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock IV, challenger for the America's cup in the international yacht races off Sandy Hook next month was given a tuning up spin under "heavy weather" canvas on Long Island Sound today. Weather conditions were not ideal for such a test, however, as there was only a slight breeze and the waters of the Sound were as placid as a millpond. The weather was so light that the work-out showed absolutely nothing new in the green race. Even without her club topsail, she ghosted along in a surprising manner. There were several large yachts on the Sound which had just been put into commission for the summer. The breeze was so light that the craft found considerable difficulty in going from one to the other tack. Shamrock IV had no such difficulty, however, and spun about in the light airs so easily that she left the impression of being a dangerous craft in light weather. The 23-metre Shamrock was up on the ways today, being painted and polished after her long ocean voyage. Her underbody showed her to be a conventionally designed yacht. Her crew declared she has considerable speed and that she has been altered since she raced against Shamrock IV in 1914. They expect that the races between the two Shamrocks off the Hook will start next Tuesday.

The Food Control Board and Sugar.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—While your comment on the Sugar Situation in yesterday's issue was not made, I am sure, from any desire to misrepresent the action taken by the Food Board, yet I would ask for a little space in which to set right some grave inaccuracies in the interviews which your reporter had with some sugar dealers.

First I gather from your report of the meeting of the sugar dealers that the retailers (who are not wholesalers as well), think that the profit allowed them is too small, but at the same time think that thirty cents is high enough for the consumer. With the latter view all will agree, and it is indeed a very serious proposition to think of advancing the price further.

Regarding the opinions expressed by sugar dealers, one of whom stated that the price here would not have advanced beyond twenty-three cents up to the middle of August, I beg to state that the evidence is altogether against such a view. Two propositions came to the Board, one that the price be advanced to thirty cents immediately in order that the risk of buying thirty-five cent sugar (which would sell for thirty-eight cents) be covered, the suggestion being made that thirty cents would be kept the price for many months; and the other proposition was that sugar be permitted to advance cent by cent until it reached thirty cents.

It may not be generally known that by a mutual arrangement between the Food Board and some large sugar dealers, the price was being kept at twenty-two cents per pound, but as sugar was being sold in July at twenty-nine cents (wholesale price) and for August onwards at thirty-five cents (wholesale), the sugar dealers were getting very replete. Because supplies have been so very short, many of them did not relish selling out their stocks so quickly by reason of selling below other stores which had no cheap sugar. Thus the evidence against a continuation of sugar at twenty-three cents up to the middle of August is overwhelming.

The situation was such that one sugar dealer, at least, came to me and said he would not buy any thirty-five cent sugar if he were not permitted to advance his price, which was twenty-two cents. That being the case the Board felt that it was time to meet the situation by further action, and fortunately was able to buy one thousand tons of sugar at a much more favourable price than had been quoted to sugar dealers. And the sequel was that the Food Board was able to take over the 35 cent sugar at a price which entailed very heavy losses to the importer and was able to pool all the sugar.

Your report says that the mistake apparently made was that the Board bought heavily without consulting experienced dealers. That is absolutely in error in every particular. The Board did consult experienced dealers, and the sugar itself is here now to show that the Board made no mistake in buying. As to buying heavily, the sugar dealer who said that, could not have remembered the past six months, in which sugar has been coming along so slowly that every store has been restricting its sales and cutting down its customer's orders, when in some weeks stores were even out of such altogether. If this lot had not been bought, I estimate that a very serious shortage would have occurred this month. With the lot here there is a chance for all sugar dealers to provide against a period when shortages may develop again. Strikes, labour troubles, lack of freight space, trouble at Refiners, all these are beyond the control of Newfoundland, and these may delay any shipments to come. With the news that Canada is restricting the export of sugar, that the United States is contemplating prohibiting its export altogether, we have to recognize that the future will require very long heads to solve the problem that will arise.

In the United States and in Canada, the sugar situation is being controlled, and the Nfld. Food Board have taken over the sugar business with one object in view, the benefit of the people. Perhaps it is not now that this benefit is seen, but later on I think it will be very apparent. I thank you for the courtesy of your columns for so long a letter, but I think that it is only fair that the Board should get a square deal from the sugar dealers as well as from the public. I write in explanation only, and with no prejudice.

Yours truly, ALEX. W. MEWES, Chairman Food Control Board, June 18, 1920.

Father and Son Restored; Both Well and Happy

The Way Tanlac Helped Us Is Simply Wonderful States Weeks.

"Nobody except those who have been through it can understand what I have suffered," said Richard H. Weeks, of 13 Cabot Place, Halifax, Nova Scotia. Mr. Weeks is a carpenter by trade and has lived in Halifax for a number of years. He is very emphatic in his declaration that a better medicine than Tanlac has never been made.

"My stomach has been out of order for the past year or two," said Mr. Weeks. "My appetite got so poor that I had to force down whatever I ate. I was troubled with gnawing pains in the pit of my stomach and had sharp pains around my heart. After every meal I had a heavy feeling, like a dead weight in the pit of my stomach and felt miserable for hours. I had sick headaches, with attacks of dizziness, and had sometimes I felt to the floor. I lost weight continually and hardly had strength and energy to drag my feet after me. My condition at one time got so bad that I had to give up work entirely for over a month. I went for days at a time without eating scarcely anything and sometimes even the sight of anything to eat made me sick. I couldn't eat anything like cakes, meat or pastries, and even plain, light food gave me indigestion. "After talking with a number of people who had taken Tanlac, I decided to try it, as they all recommended it to me so earnestly. Well, sir, whether you believe it or not I began to improve before I had taken half a bottle of that medicine. I am now on my fourth bottle and from the time I began taking it I have been improving by leaps and bounds. I now eat my three square meals a day, like any other healthy man. There is no looking about the table now for something I can eat. Anything agrees with me, cakes, meats, pastry, just anything I want, and I never have a touch of indigestion. I am not bothered by constipation or dizziness; I have gained ten pounds in weight and am working every day. Tanlac had done me so much good that I decided to try it on my little boy, who has been pining for years, and the way it has helped him has been certainly wonderful. From now on, Tanlac is the medicine for me."

Bodies Recovered.

Remains of John and Thomas Wells Receive Christian Burial. (Western Star, June 16.)

On Tuesday night the S.S. George L. Capt. E. Barry, left for Port Saunders, the ship having been patched together in connection with the bodies of two men that had been picked up in that vicinity the previous day. Mr. Abner Wells, brother of the missing men Messrs. John and Thomas Wells, went by her to identify the bodies, also Mr. A. Legro, of Ayre & Sons, with whom Mr. Thomas Wells had been employed, and Mr. B. Musseau. Port Saunders was reached the following afternoon, and Mr. Wells had little or no difficulty in identifying the bodies as those of his missing brothers.

Mr. W. Garland, J.P., gave us the following details: On Monday evening, June 7, two young men—James and Eugene Rumbolt—on the way to Port Saunders from Burnt Wood Point in boat, observed something on shore which attracted their attention, and upon investigation located the bodies of two men. They proceeded to Port Saunders and reported the matter to Mr. Garland, who immediately proceeded to the place directed—about one mile west of Spirit Cove, being four miles from Port Saunders. They landed in a dory they had taken along with them. They found the two bodies about thirty yards apart lying parallel with the water, above high water mark as it had been making of late, which was much lower than at some times. Articles of clothing, also a lunch bag was picked up along the beach close by, showing that the bodies had not come far when thrown into the water. One of the men had his boots off; the other had one rubber boot on, the other was picked up on the beach close by. He also had his shirts removed and his braces over his shoulders as though he had proposed to swim to the shore. The coats and all clothing were picked up near the bodies, and an oar with a piece of rope attached was picked up about a quarter of a mile distant. Two vests that had been picked up by the people of Spirit Cove, one about the middle of the previous week, the other some days earlier, corresponded with the pattern of the coats and the pants worn by the men. Pieces of canvas were procured and the bodies wrapped therein and conveyed to Port Saunders. There arrangements were made to coffin the bodies and the matter reported to Curling. The men who so willingly assisted in making the coffin were: John House, Isaac House, George Cole, Chas. E. Pike, Jr., and Mr. Galnes.

Mr. Henry J. House, of Daniel's Hr., stated that a string of ice some six or seven miles long and about 2 miles wide, passed about 2 miles off shore on the evening of the 16th May. It was heavy Gulf ice. Himself and others saw two objects on the ice, which they thought were seals, as they did not know at that time that any men were missing. The objects appeared to be two or three hundred yards apart. The ice struck the shore in the vicinity of Spirit Cove Sunday night, 16th May, and remained until the 20th. One motor boat went off to the ice, but by that time the point upon which the objects were seen had passed down about 2 miles distant. It is now thought the objects seen on the ice were not seals, but the missing men, and that the hurricane that raged on the day that they had left Curling six days previous, had swept them out into the Gulf. The remains were taken off board the S. S. George L. and brought to Curling, the steamer calling at Bonne Bay on the way to exchange mails. She arrived here about 11 a.m. on Friday. The funeral took place upon arrival of the steamer. The remains were interred in one grave in the C. of E. Cemetery, and were followed to their last resting place by a large body of citizens.

GERMAN POLITICS. BERLIN, June 17. Contrary to reports to the effect that the German ministerial crisis had practically been solved, the Tagblatt says the situation is as obscure as ever, but it reports that Karl Trimborn, leader of the German Centre Party, is trying to obtain the help of Dr. Mayer, German Charge d'Affaires at Paris, to form a cabinet.

LUMBERMEN ON STRIKE. PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., June 17. All the employees of mills and logging camps, east of Hazelton, B.C., are on strike for an eight hour day and four dollars a day, with board, as a minimum pay rate.

SPANISH ROYALTY TO VISIT LONDON. LONDON, June 17. The King and Queen of Spain are to pay an informal visit to London arriving on July 4.

VERY INTERESTING. LONDON, June 17. Prince Mirza, the Persian Foreign Minister, had a long conference last night with Gregory Krassin, Russian Soviet Minister of Trade and Commerce.

BOLSHEVIKS REPULSED. PARIS, June 18. The repulse of the important groups of Bolsheviki on the River Teteroff, which flows into the Dnieper, north of Kiev, is reported in an official Polish communiqué received here yesterday.

AFRAID OF HIM. LONDON, June 18. General Brusilov's recent arrest was caused by fear that he would utilize the big defeat on the Polish front to overthrow the Soviet and form a new government, according to a Hel-singfors telegram to the Central News, quoting a Russian newspaper as its authority.

BUBONIC PLAGUE DECREASING. VERA CRUZ, June 17. Only one case of bubonic plague was reported Wednesday, and none yesterday. The epidemic is decreasing in intensity.

DRIVEN TO IT. NEW YORK, June 18. One hundred daily newspapers of the country "without print paper supply, and largely dependent on open market purchases," have arranged to organize a publishers' purchasing corporation for the purpose of co-operation buying of print paper and paper mills, it was announced here yesterday.

ANOTHER ANGLO-FRENCH CONFERENCE. LONDON, June 18. Premier Lloyd George goes to Boulogne on Monday morning, Premier Millerand of France, and Marshal Foch proceeding there the night before. The Premier's meeting at Boulogne bids fair to blossom into a full sized inter-allied conference.

Halifax, Also. Dust is beginning to irritate the temperaments, as well as the throat and eyes of residents on Inglis Street. The sprinkler pays its visits fairly faithfully, but its wheels have the habit of throwing up large quantities of pulverized terra firma with disastrous results to the facades of newly painted buildings. As a result an indignation meeting is being mooted to call to the attention of the City Council the necessity of oiling the thoroughfare. The work of patching up Victoria Road and North Bland Street roadways rather neglected of recent years, is progressing favorably.—Morning Chronicle.

A CORRECTION.—In Mr. Short's article yesterday, a slight error crept in. It should have read, "Hon. W. B. Grievie was Secretary of the Recruiting Committee and Chairman of the Forestry Battalion Committee." Hon. Mr. Grievie is also Trustee of the Patriotic Fund Distribution. Dr. V. P. Burke is the efficient Secretary of the Patriotic Association.

HOW TO DEAL WITH DISCOMFORTS.

A few weeks ago I had occasion to take a little trip, partly for business, partly for pleasure. In the course of it, we landed one night at a hotel at which we had not stayed for a good many years, and soon found that during those years the hotel had sadly run down. The dinner was poor; we were put into a very dingy apartment with a dark bathroom and a bedroom on the air shaft; the paint was battered; there was dust in the corners; and, final tragedy, when we came to get into bed, we found that the blankets were horribly dingy and stained in one or two places.

What One Nurse Wrote Back.
 Another friend of mine who was among those thrice blessed ones who had a nurse's training and were able to use it at the battle front, sent back this word to her mother: "It sometimes seems to me as if I could never nurse again at home because it will be so hard to stand the fretting and complaining over nothing after what I've seen over here."
 We are rapidly pushing the war back into the past and trying to get away from thoughts of it. This reaction is inevitable—but I think it can be overcome.

I Pinned Our Sheets Over Our Blankets.
 We turned the sheets down very carefully and pinned them into place, and then crept gingerly in. "Isn't it dreadful?" I wailed. "Horrible," said my companion. "Do you think we could get in anywhere else?"

THE DOCTOR.
 The doctor left my throbbing wrist, whose pulsebeats seemed to lunge; he said, "You have the hives, I wist, and I'll prescribe some dope." And when I got the doctor's bill, a painful hour was mine; a sort of raw and clammy chill went sliding down my spine. I said, "It is a sin and shame, to tax me such a sum, and I shall climb that sawbones' frame, when next I see him come." And when I thought of all the toil it took to make him wise; he studied by the midnight oil until he sprained his eyes. He had to paw old misfit bones, and listen, by the day, to lecturers, whose mummy tones would make a corpse turn gray. He had to physic pauper gents to get his hand in right, and if they paid him fifty cents he wept from pure delight. He had to travel muddy roads in midnight rain and storm, while I was writing nutty odes, serene and fat and warm. He often lacked a goose to eat when came his Christmas day; and if he's now in Easy Street, he surely fought his way. "He's charging for the skill," I said, "that long hard years have brought, and so I will not punch his head, or spoil his dome of thought."

Through Their Eyes.
 "The soldiers," she said, "and how wonderfully comfortable a place this had often seemed to them, and how they would have welcomed the chance to sleep as long as they wanted and to get even such food as had to-night."
 I joined her in thought for a minute, and then I suggested, "You mean you'd be ashamed to be so soft of so troubled by a little discomfort?"

The Destroyer of a Zeppelin.

Flight Sub-Lieutenant Warnford, V.C., who was accidentally killed in France on June 18, 1918, was born in India, and came to England on the death of his father. He was adopted by his grandfathers and educated at Stratford-on-Avon Grammar School, where Shakespeare is supposed to have been a pupil. Warnford afterwards entered the Mercantile Marine, but at the outbreak of the great war he enlisted in the Second Sportsmen's battalion and was later transferred to the Royal Naval Air Service. He was a very daring airman and possessed great presence of mind and quickness of decision. On the morning of June 7, 1918, he attacked a Zeppelin which was returning from a raid on Ramsgate, and which was flying at about a mile high between Ghent and Brussels. Warnford got above it and dropped six bombs, which caused the airship to explode and fall to the ground. The force of the explosion turned Warnford's aeroplane upside down and stopped the engine, so that he was forced to land. However, before the German troops in the vicinity were able to arrest him, he got going again and returned to his base. For this exploit he was given the V.C. and the Cross of the Legion of Honor. Ten days later he was unfortunately killed while demonstrating at a French aerodrome.

An Extraordinary Exploit.

The only prisoner made by the English reserve at Waterloo on June 18, 1815, was a French General, whose capture was due to the cool head and stout heart of a young brigade-major, anxious for adventure. During the battle several regiments of cavalry and infantry were kept in reserve, under a heavy fire from the French guns. Great was the havoc, and neither men nor horses relished the passive attitude to which they were condemned. While a group of young officers, in front of the left wing of the reserve, were discussing the situation, their attention was attracted to a French General and his staff, all on horseback, who were looking through their glasses at the Englishmen. One of the group was Captain Halkett, who was mounted on a thoroughbred. Suddenly he exclaimed: "I'll lay anyone five pounds that I will bring that French General over here, dead or alive. Who will take my bet?" "Done—done—done!" shouted several officers. The captain examined the saddle girths and his pistol; then shouting "Good-bye!" and, putting spurs to his horse, he dashed at a furious pace across the plain between the British and French lines. His comrades followed him with their eyes, speaking not a word. The Frenchmen opposite seemed puzzled, and believing that the Englishman's horse had bolted, and that the rider had lost control of him, they opened their ranks to let the runaway through. Halkett steered his steed so as to graze the mounted General on the right side. At that instant he put his arm round the Frenchman's waist, lifted him bodily out of the saddle, and throwing him over his own horse's neck, turned sharp and made for the English lines. When the General's staff realized the meaning of the bold rider, they dashed after him. But he had a good start, and not a Frenchman dared to fire, for fear of hitting the General. Half a squadron of English dragoons, seeing Halkett chased by a dozen French officers, charged them. They opened their ranks to let Halkett through, closed them up again the moment he was in the rear, and then forced the Frenchmen to turn swiftly and seek shelter under their own guns. Halkett stopped in front of the British lines, with the General half-dead, but securely clasped in his strong arms. Jumping from his horse, he apologized to his prisoner for the unceremonious way in which he had been handled, and in reply to the congratulations of his comrades, said simply: "Praise my horse, not me!" The captured General was treated with the utmost courtesy. Horses and servants were placed at his disposal, and he was sent under escort to Brussels.

Just Folks

SUCCESS.
 Success is being friendly when another needs a friend.
 It's in the cherry words you speak, and in the coins you lend;
 Success is not alone in skill and deeds of daring great,
 It's in the roses that you plant beside your garden gate.

SUCCESS is in the way you walk the path of life each day,
 It's in the little things you do and in the things you say;
 Success is in the glad hello you give your fellow men,
 It's in the laughter of your home and all the joys you plan.

SUCCESS is not in getting rich or rising high to fame,
 It's not alone in winning goals which which all men hope to claim;
 It's in the man you are each day through happiness or care,
 It's in the cheery words you speak and in the smile you wear.

SUCCESS is being big of heart and open and broad of mind,
 It's being faithful to your friends, and to the stranger, kind;
 It's in the children whom you love, and all they learn from you—
 Success depends on character and everything you do.

Household Notes.

Cheese pared thinly, smeared with butter and wrapped in a cloth will keep soft in a cool place.
 Dried peaches, raisins, walnut meats, sugar and lemon and orange juice make a delicious conserva.
 Mix left-over cooked fish with curry, place in a border of cooked rice and reheat.
 If you are short of baking powder, sift together one part of bi-carbonate of soda and two parts of cream of tartar.
 Never leave uncooked meat wrapped in paper. The paper will absorb the juice of the meat and waste it.
 Cut flowers will keep fresh much longer if an inch of the stem is slit before putting them into the water.
 If protecting ice from the air, wrap in waxed paper instead of newspaper, as the latter quickly softens to pulp.

The Official Excuse.

Could anything be more absurd than the excuse put forward by the Government that the increase in Mr. Brownrigg's estimates for the year 1920-21, is entirely due to the late Government and that 'Sir Michael Cashin as the Finance Minister of that administration is solely responsible for the additional burden which is to be piled upon an already tottering country. Such an argument is the quintessence of silliness and there will be none so devoid of intelligence as to believe it. Is the late Government responsible for the one hundred per cent. increase in ministerial salaries, included in the estimates of Mr. Squires' Minister of Finance? Is Sir Michael Cashin the cause of the abnormal raise in the seasonal allowance to members, whereby instead of two hundred dollars for city and three hundred dollars for outport members, all are to receive the handsome sum of One Thousand Dollars? But any cry will suit the present Government if it serves to turn aside, or divert, criticism from their actions, though in sheltering behind such equivocation they pay scant tribute to the intelligence of the people of Newfoundland. In increasing the expenditure the Government of Honourable R. A. Squires can offer no defence whatever. There was no earthly reason for assuming such huge outlays. No benefit has been conferred upon the people by the exaggerated estimates for current expenditure submitted by Honourable H. J. Brownrigg, the man whose war cry was "Economy, Retrenchment and Reform in the Public Services." Truly he has some idea of his triad of catch cries as his estimates illustrate, but the public have him measured up to the proper standard, and recognize that among political timeservers he is chief among equals.

It is unavailing for Government supporters through a heavily subsidized press to endeavour to obscure the issue of increased expenditure and, consequently, increased taxation, by drawing red herrings across the track. "The Truth about Salt" and the promise of high prices for fish in the fall are not convincing proof of the necessity for applying a heavier burden. That fish will be worth as much next fall as it was last is poor consolation to the man who has not yet disposed of his last year's catch, and who can only do so by accepting five dollars per quintal for his holdings. And similarly with salt. That there will be ample stocks in by and by conveys no satisfaction to the men who have been waiting around in port here for sufficient to make it worth their while to set sail for Labrador. Shoremens, of course, may find it to their advantage to go on short supplies until cargoes can be sent down to the coast, but schooners going to far northern Labrador waters need full supplies ere they can start—and those,—because of the bungling and incompetence of the Minister of Shipping, the man who is seeking re-election in the district of Bay-de-Verde—they cannot obtain. The real truth about salt—as about all other commodities that the Government has attempted to handle—is that the men undertaking the job do not know their business. They are simply and solely amateurs and have no idea whatever of the requirements of the fishery. They pay more attention to personal affairs than to those of the dominion, and therefore being absolutely incapable of performing the duties required of them in order that the fishery may be facilitated, fall back upon worn-out subterfuges to excuse their ignorance of affairs.

But when it comes to securing the personal gains of office, all of them are the real thing and no error. The Estimates already referred to give proof of this. Business capacity and acumen are virtues of the possession of the men who form the present Government. An increase of nearly TWO MILLION DOLLARS in current expenditure affords incontrovertible testimony of their ability to feather their own nests, and in that feathering they reckon on the voters of Bay-de-Verde to assist them: to stamp with the approval of their ballots the greatest steal that has ever yet been made out of the revenues of Newfoundland. Their press makes the ridiculous claim that Mr. Cave has both the power and position to help the electors of Bay-de-Verde, and that by electing the Minister of Shipping the power of the Government will be behind him. Quite so. The power of the Government will be at Mr. Cave's back to soak the fishermen by piling on extra taxation to meet the increased expenditure. But the power of the Government cannot raise the price of fish in the European markets, while Newfoundland has other competitors. The power of the Government could not furnish the fishermen with salt when they were ready to begin the Labrador voyage. All that the power of the Squires Government can do is to cause their Minister of Finance to bring in extra taxation to cover the staggering increase in expenditure. Mr. Cave had no say in this any more than he had in the conduct of the Department of Shipping, of which he was but the nominal head—the figure-head, with no more influence on the management than has the figure-head of a vessel on its sailing qualities. Cave must do as he is told, and the voters of Bay-de-Verde realize his position and his lack of influence to-day. Puddester is not subject to the whims and wiles of the Government, therefore he is independent of their patronage and can demand, and insist upon the granting of the legal and legitimate rights of the district. Cave would be but a silent, passive representative. Puddester an active, aggressive one. Which does Bay-de-Verde need? The member paid to maintain silence and do as he is told, or the member who can and will fight for all that his constituency values? There can be but the one answer.

FLAGRANT AND OTHERWISE.
In response to numerous requests the Evening Telegram, beginning to-morrow, will publish its daily column of Baseball dope. Instead of the old familiar heading, as above, it will be labelled "Diamond Dust—The Truth Without Fear or Favour," and notice is hereby served to all players that libel suits will be defended by the management of this paper. Out of the Past.

On June 18th, 1858 a bait skiff carrying a crew of six men belonging to Quidi Vidi was lost by swamping, and Edward Power, J. Coffin, Thomas Pender and Martin Cleary were drowned, James O'Neill and Thomas Power being saved.

Two members of the local Parliament in the persons of Pierce Barron, Esq. and John Casey, Esq., because of a fancied grievance in legislative life, caused great and lively interest to a crowd of spectators by indulging in a spirited set-to on a city street on the anniversary of the battle of Waterloo, in the year 1862. History does not record which of the duo came off victorious.

A story of the sea, when rope ends were considered fit implements of chastisement for insubordinate ships boys was heard in the Magistrate's Court, St. John's on June 18th, 1879, when Captain Joseph Rex was up before the bench on a charge of cruelly beating his cabin boy at sea. The Court deprecated the action of this mariner and condemned it in the strongest terms, supplementing its caustic remarks and lecture on the inhumanity of the gallant captain by allotting to him a period of forty days as the guest of Her Majesty in the penitentiary, during which term of incarceration he would have ample leisure to amend his ideas of discipline.

Scout Movement.

Takes New Lease of Life.
At a meeting of city Scoutmasters with the Governor, yesterday afternoon, His Excellency stated that he consented to accede to the request of Imperial Headquarters and become Chief Scout for Newfoundland. The outcome of the meeting was that the newly appointed Chief Scout recommended Rev. (Scoutmaster) E. W. Forbes to be Chief Commissioner and President of the General Council; Mr. James Murdoch to be Asst. Chief Commissioner and Organizing Secretary. The District of Exploits Valley retaining its officers which were appointed by Imperial Headquarters; the District Commissioners to be appointed later. The appointment of these gentlemen will be a step in the right direction and will cause an awakening in the movement here. We feel that the public will consider these gentlemen as the right men in the right place. It is also rumored that Capt. J. J. O'Grady, O.B.E., will be District Commissioner for St. John's. We offer our congratulations to all these gentlemen on their appointments and also to the organization of their first real step toward increasing general interest in the Boy Scout Movement in this Dominion.

His Lordship the Bishop of Newfoundland was a passenger to Liverpool by S.S. Digby, which sailed last evening. Bishop White has gone to England to attend the Lambeth Conference to be held at Canterbury. In a letter received from his wife by last mail from Montreal, it was stated that Mr. John O'Reilly, the well known singer, was in hospital, where he underwent a delicate but successful operation. Mr. Phipps, Manager of the Bank of Montreal, Curling, who has been transferred to Canada, was waited upon by a number of friends and admirers on Monday of this week and presented with an address and cigarette case with his monogram engraved thereon. After the presentation and Mr. Phipps' reply, refreshments were served and a very enjoyable evening spent.

Police Court.

Two vagrants recently liberated from the Pen. were sent down again for another period of ten days.
Two householders were given 14 days' notice to move out.
Judgment by default was given against a number of young men for debt.
A truckman was summoned by a well known horse man for the return of ten dollars which the former was holding pending the decision of a bet. The money was ordered to be paid back.

Judgment in Trap Berth Case.

Justice McCarthy delivered judgment in the trap berth case of Pouch Cove. The occupiers of the berths were fined $50.00 each or one month in jail, and notice was given that the fishing gear in the water was liable to confiscation. Mr. Bradley claimed exemption from execution as the case may be appealed.

800 Patients for Hospital

There are at the present moment some 800 applicants for beds in the General Hospital—most of them being outport people. Yesterday in the House Mr. W. J. Walsh, member for Placentia and St. Mary's, drew the attention of the Government to the fact, stating that it would be better if, instead of giving Dr. Campbell $40,000 with which to experiment, the authorities would do something to remedy the bad state of affairs relative to the Hospital.

McMurdo's Store News.

FRIDAY, June 18, '20.
We have some Jayne's Dandruff Remedy, the well known prescription of the Riker Laboratories of New York and Boston, a remedy used for the relief of dandruff and for promoting the health of the scalp and growth of the hair. Wedding Bells.

BANBRICK—TUCKER.
On Wednesday night, at St. Patrick's Church, by the Rev. H. Renouf, Miss Rita M. Bambrick was united in the holy bonds of wedlock to Mr. John Tucker, driver with the R. N. Co. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. J. Tucker, while the bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Bessie Squires. After the ceremony the party enjoyed a merry drive around Bowring Park and back to the residence of the bride's father, where a reception was held; music, recitations and toasts enlivened the occasion. Amongst the toasts which were in rhyme, was the following:
"Here's a toast to the bride and the groom,
May long years of gladness attend them—
May Health and Prosperity vie
In their efforts to aid and befriended them.
As over the rails of long life
In Wedlock's grand Special they're gliding,
I'll bet that Jack Tucker will see
That she never gets stalled on a siding,
All level and straight be their road,
Thro' brighter and fairer fields heading,
Until they arrive full of years,
At the Station of their Golden Wedding."

Last Night's Concert.
The concert given by the C.C.G. Band in St. Joseph's Hall last night was thoroughly enjoyed by a large and appreciative audience. The recitations rendered by the band received merited applause. The numbers by Misses Ryan, Howlett, Brophy and Brown; Messrs. Trappell and Hutton, were beautifully rendered and with the horn solo by Mr. A. Bulley, completed a very pleasing programme. Mr. Gordon Christian acted as the accompanist in a talented manner.

Consumers' League Committee Appointed
A meeting of the Executive of the Consumers' League was held in the Board of Trade Rooms last night. The committee was appointed to wait on the Food Control Board and discuss the matter of profiteering. The future meetings of the League will be open to citizens, and any who feel they have been overcharged, or have knowledge that profiteering is going on, will be able to make complaint to the members who will take the matter before the Control Board and demand an investigation.

Boulder Crashed on Sagona's Steward.
Mr. Harvey Parsons, chief steward of the s.s. Sagona, was rather badly injured about the back when, at Marystown, he was ashore picking dandelion. A loosened boulder fell from a cliff at whose base he was kneeling and crashed down on top of him. He had to be carried aboard ship and placed in his berth. He was attended yesterday on arrival in port by Dr. MacDonald.

Detectives Make Big Liquor Capture
Sixteen packages, containing considerably over 100 gallons of liquor were seized yesterday afternoon by Detectives Byrne and Tobin, who have been along the Southern-Easter Shore for some time past. A motor boat, arriving at Cape Broyle from Shore's Cove, aroused the detectives' suspicion and the seizure was made. The liquor left there to-day for here.

B. I. S. and Britons Draw

The B. I. S. and Briton football teams met last night, and in the presence of a large and enthusiastic gathering of spectators, contested bravely for the honor of winning. The game for some reason did not start until some minutes after the time set, the Britons being first on the field. Mr. Ernest Churchill refereed. In the first half the B. I. S. boys notched up a goal in very short time, being almost immediately followed by a winner for the Britons, one goal being all the latter scored in the period. Two others were shot by the B. I. S. before the half time whistle blew, the score standing 3 to 1 in favor of the Green and Gold.

In the second half the Britons were on their mettle and after some skillful play found the B. I. S. goal twice, the latter failing to record a score. When time was called the Britons had evened matters up, the final score standing 3 goals all. A feature of the game was the extraordinary number of corner kicks. To-night, weather permitting, the Stars and C. E. I. will try conclusions.

"The Fleur-de-Lis."

The June number of "The Fleur-de-Lis," official organ of the Boy Scout Association of Newfoundland, is well up to the excellent standard set since publication began. The departments are very interesting, as usual, and contain much of value and importance to Scouts. A serial story, "Southward Bound," by a local writer, has its initial chapter in this issue, while there is a short story, "The Haunted Cave," by "Scot," a local poet, deals with the great Transatlantic Flight. It possesses some merit. The issue is a very good one, indeed.

These Features in This Phonograph

are what make the Columbia Grafonola the one incomparable instrument for the reproduction of music

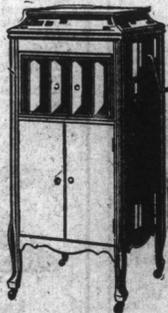

The upright tone leaves give the Columbia Grafonola an absolutely flexible, exclusive system of tone control.

The scientifically correct construction of the Columbia Grafonola gives it exquisite clearness and purity of tone.

The artistically correct design of their cabinets makes all Columbia Grafonolas harmonize with any furniture.

The individual record ejector facilitating the handling of records is a feature found in Columbia Grafonolas exclusively.

THE Columbia Grafonola is in a class by itself. Tone is, after all, the test of any phonograph, and tone is a test for the ear alone. It cannot be argued in type. Come in and hear the Columbia tone. Your own ears will quickly tell you that its quality is unequalled.

Household Notes.

Coffee will be better if one or two cups are poured off and back again, just before serving.
Spread the meringue on pie in quarters and it won't have to be cut through so many times.

If a few cloves are inserted in the ham when boiling, the meat will have a most delicious flavor.
When packing pictures, place a bit of cork at the corners of the frames between each two.

When packing a freshly frosted cake, insert five or six toothpicks in the top and the waxed paper will not stick to the frosting.

Great Britain's Secret Alliance With Bolsheviki.

WASHINGTON, June 8. — Great Britain is knifing the interests of her allies in Europe and is in secret touch with the Bolsheviki. Her object primarily is to stop the advance of the Bolsheviki upon her East Indian territories. The Russian-Anglo pact appears to be already effective.

This was revealed to-day in an analysis of the European situation by a diplomat in such close touch with affairs, overseas that his statements may be accepted as authoritative.

In the light of his statement the negotiations in London with the Bolsheviki, Krassin, became clear.

Crafty Plan of British.

The subtlety of the British plan revolves around the policy of an "exchange of goods" with Russia. Inasmuch as Russia has no wheat, linen or other products to exchange, the English plan is patently one of selling English goods to Russia for Russian gold which, as it has been frequently pointed out, does not belong exclusively to Russia.

It was shown to-day that the plan of exchange is all to the benefit of Great Britain's trade. France is up in arms, diplomatically, against the new strange alliance. Her protest is based on the meritorious position that Russia's debt to France is greater than that of probably all the other nations combined and no reservations are set forth in the plan of Great Britain to indemnify French investors.

An Anglo-Russian entente commercially means also, it was shown, that under the circumstances the British merchant marine would control the Black Sea Russian ports against Italy, Greece and all neutrals.

To Further Her Interests.

It is now capable of proof that Great Britain, while opposing communications diplomatically by other nations with Russia, was a party to the peace between Estonia and Russia, whereby Russia got a valuable port, at Reval. It is also an almost inevitable conclusion from the performance of the British cabinet with Krassin that the British Foreign Office will use its whole influence to force Finland to make peace with Russia and thereby open more ports for an "exchange of goods" in the furtherance of the plan now practically agreed on between Great Britain and Russia.

It is said to be certain that the trade relations now proposed and possibly in effect with Russia are virtually predicted on the recognition of the Soviet government by Great Britain. It is asserted here on authority that trade relations between these two countries could not be otherwise established.

The whole motive of the policy of the British government is stated to be:

First: To stop the military movement of the Bolsheviki armies toward India, where they are now bound after overrunning Armenia. The success of the Bolsheviki, which Great Britain apparently could not prevent, would mean an upset of the British-Turkey treaty.

Second: To be in position to control the Russian crops when they are of value, and in the meanwhile accept Russian money for the so-called exchange of goods, which termed an "absurdity." Russia has none to offer in exchange.

U. S. Without Power.

The United States, even if it were a member of the League of Nations, has no power to resist or to checkmate the British-Russian alliance.

Great Britain, is however, according to governmental trade bodies here, reckoning without her host. These bodies and merchants throughout the United States know that the commercial plan of Great Britain to furnish rolling stock and all other kinds of machinery which Russia must have under the exchange of goods plan, takes for granted that the British trade will exploit the American market for that purpose. It may be stated that the situation has been discussed, and that the United States will not "fall for" the scheme.

Sandy's Discovery.

(From The Bits.)

One of Sir Thomas Lipton's favorite stories concerns an old Scotchman, who went to a horse race for the first time and was induced to stake a sixpence in the third race on a forty to one shot. By some miracle this horse won, and when the book-maker handed the old man his winnings he could hardly believe his eyes.

"Dae ye mean to tell me I get all this for ma sixpence?" he exclaimed. "You do," replied the book-maker. "Ma conscience!" muttered the Scotchman. "Tell me, mon, how long has this thing been goin' on?"

House of Assembly.

THURSDAY, June 17.
 The House opened at 3.30 p.m. Presentation of petitions and second reading of Legislative Council's amendments to various Bills.

The Minister of Finance moved the House in Committee on Supply. Mr. Higgins asked the Minister of Finance if it was the intention to table interim reports of the commission appointed to enquire into the salaries of civil servants.

The Prime Minister replied that the reports were in the possession of the Government and could not be tabled as they were of a private nature and publicity might be harmful to certain officials. A digest would be prepared for tabling and publishing.

Mr. Higgins ridiculed the position taken by the Government. The Prime Minister had stated the previous day that the increases had been made as a result of the recommendations of the commission, yet in the face of that the Government now asked the House to pass the Estimates without the knowledge of that report. The Premier's statement that the reports were private was assailed by Mr. Higgins. The commission was appointed by, and paid for by, the people, to enquire into a matter concerning them and their reports were no more the property of the Government than the Estimates were. If there was anything in them that would injure any civil servant the Opposition had no desire to make it public. But he thought it too much to expect the Opposition to agree to the Estimates being proceeded with without knowing what the report of that commission contained.

The following order of the day was taken up:

Second Reading of Legislative Council's amendments to Master's and Mat's Act.

Committee of the Whole on Supply. Committee of the Whole on Bill entitled "An Act to confirm a Contract on the subject of the Manufacture of Paper Pulp and Wood products."

Committee of the Whole on Bill entitled "An Act to amend Chapter 127 of the Consolidated Statutes (Third Series) entitled 'Of Companies.'"

Second Reading of Bill entitled "An Act respecting certain concessions to the Dominion Co-operative Building Association, Ltd."

Mr. Walsh drew attention to the fact that there were 800 people awaiting admission to the General Hospital, and asked if it was the intention of the Government to provide extra accommodation either in the city or the outports.

Sir Michael Cashin referred to the salt situation, and Mr. McDonnell asked where the provision was made for the $50,000 referred to in the 'Star' for salt. He was told that provision was made in the additional estimates. Mr. Jennings also referred to salt.

The House then adjourned until this afternoon.

City Firemen in Rags.

Citizens of St. John's who take much pride, but apparently little interest in matters concerning our fire-fighting force, will be surprised to know that through the bungling of those in authority the men who comprise the three fire brigades, East, Central and West End, have not been supplied with two suits of uniforms, one overcoat and one pair of long rubbers that have been due them for the past year. Surely if there is any one class of civil servants deserving of the best the country can give, the fire-fighters should be in that class. Day and night, week in, week out, and through the whole three hundred and sixty-five days of the year the firemen have to stick to their post and are not even granted the customary week or ten days' holiday during the summer months that all other Government officials enjoy, but should he require a few days' leave of absence to visit his mother-in-law or some other member of the family who may happen to reside in a nearby outport he can do so, providing he can find a suitable man to take his place,

(Western Star.)

At Bonne Bay there is good cod-fishing.

At Port Saunders lobster packers have been doing well with lobsters.

At Lark Harbor, trap fishermen have been doing well with codfish and hook-and-line men doing fairly well.

There is a scarcity of lobster cages and packers along the coast are much concerned over conditions.

At Trout River the cod-fishery is brisk. One crew having over three hundred quintals, and others have catches.

Common Farm and "Scrub Stock" Poultry.

(By a member of the Nfld. Poultry Association.)

It is most unfortunate that much of our farm poultry is still of the mongrel and dung-hill type. There never will be anything much doing along the lines of increased winter (or summer) egg production with this kind of poultry. The original cost of starting or stocking-up with pure breeds, in so small as compared with the increase in results that no one can afford to keep or work with any other kind. If the average number of eggs in the farm per year is about eighty, then it is because there is yet comparatively few representatives there of pure breeds that will lay from one hundred to one hundred and fifty eggs per year. If village and town people on the average get a great many more winter eggs than farmers, it is because a great many of these, comparatively, have pure breeds. It is freely admitted that among mongrel and nondescript flocks in which no one can or does take any particular interest or pride, there may be sometimes a good individual layer. But if such does occur, the hen is merely a freak and usually cannot or will not perpetuate herself. A mixed mongrel flock is no credit to any farm, and at once, in these days, stamps the owner either as careless or unprogressive. Working with poor poultry is working with poor tools indeed. There is considerable prejudice against fancy poultry, some of it unfortunately well founded, and working for a continuation of nondescript farm poultry. But for the popular mind to continue to class Barred-P-Rocks or Rhode I Reds or Leghorns or similar breeds and types as "Fancy Poultry," is both wrong and ridiculous. They are not fancy poultry, but "pure breed" poultry.

"Grades and Cross-Breeding."

A compromise or partial solution is offered by "grades," viz., grading up a flock by an annual or bi-annual introduction of pure-bred males from laying strains of one particular variety is an easy and cheap way of improving a flock. In poultry breeding we are fortunate in having a new generation every year, and it may require a great many generations to thus grade a flock so that in appearance and performance, it would closely rival pure-breeds. Cross-breeding or breeding two pure bred varieties together, should never be thought of or practiced. The only exception might be, if the object were to produce some speciality meat chicken, like capons or soft roasters. And then it should not be practiced unless with a considerable working knowledge of the ancestral make-up of the variety proposed to be used. For instance, Dark Cornish Crossed or Dorkings or Wyandottes for capons will mix splendidly, or for soft roasters Light Brahamas and Plymouth Rocks.

The Question of Type—Egg Type.

Is there an egg type? There is, but we are not as well acquainted with it or have it to the extent that we should or will have after a few more years of the trap nest and of pedigree breeding. "Type" means a breed,—color a variety. More attention has hitherto been paid to standard type or to show type than to egg type or utility type. For instance, thousands of poultrymen have very definite and positive knowledge as to what constitutes Wyandotte Type or Orpington Type, but few have as definite an idea as to a laying type. We have no written standard for a laying type. Even the Leghorn Type, as fixed by the standard of show-room excellence, does not particularly exemplify the laying type or egg type in several sections.

Trap Nest and Pedigree Breeding.

When A. J. Silberstein first prominently brought to the attention of the American public the Trap Nest, he did the Poultry Breeding world an inestimable service. Without the Trap Nest, poultry breeding was mostly part guess work. With it poultry breeding approaches a science. Trap Nests might be described as nests that trap the hen. In other words, a hen entering a Trap Nest is trapped by some automatic device attached to, or part of, the nest, and is not released until the owner comes along, gets the leg band number or description, and gives this hen credit on an egg record sheet or memorandum for the egg found in the nest with her. These nests must be looked to several times during the day and the hens released; but as eggs should be gathered several times a day, at most seasons, this will prove no great hardship. There are a score or more of patented Trap Nests, in fact all the good ones are so protected. Some are very simple and some very complicated. The best ones are in the former class, and are usually advertised in the poultry papers and in some farm papers. Every farm should have its Trap Nest, and these could be used at least in the winter time if at no other season. It is very interesting and profitable to know which hens are laying and which are not. What hens are laying heavily and what sparingly, which lay large and saleable eggs, which small misshapen unsaleable ones. There is a whole volume to be learned after knowing which hens of the flock are the heavy layers. In closely observing these, as to how they go to roost, when they leave the roost, when they moult, how often they go broody? the size color and texture of comb, the shape of the body, the size of the egg basket, etc., etc.

For Winter Egg Production.

But the one thing the Trap Nest brings us over all else in value is the ability thereby to certainly and positively identify the eggs of one or all of our hens, and thereby making straight pedigree and live breeding possible. Suppose our winter's use of the Trap Nest has shown us that we have a small percentage of hens that laid the bulk of the winter eggs, then those are the hens we want to set eggs from, the following spring, in the hope that we may thereby make a start towards perpetuating winter egg production as a family trait of our line of chickens. To do this we must also find hens that are prepotent or that can perpetuate this laying quality in their offspring. We must use males only from hens that are proved heavy layers, and these in turn from a line of heavy layers. Then again the male must be prepotent or have it in him to perpetuate the laying quality. Now suppose further that these were mongrel chickens, with no breeding lines whatever established, and we have some inkling of the difference between this kind and representatives from a bred-to-lay variety of pure-breeds. Or the difference between the low level of the mongrel hens average of 80 eggs per hen per year, and the high level of the bred-to-lay pure-bred hens average from 150 to 200 eggs per year.

Get Rid of the Mongrels.

It is time to remove mongrel hens from the farms. On most of our farms no one knows which hens were the winter layers, so when spring comes eggs are set from all the hens on the farm. The term "all" is used advisedly, for in the springtime every old stump of a hen is laying some eggs. No matter if they lay at no other time of the year all hens lay in the spring. Why? Because they can't help it. Because spring is Nature's season for the hen to lay eggs, and in response to Nature's call to reproduce at this season even decrepit, tubercular and otherwise sick or low-vitality hens will lay some eggs. Setting eggs thus promiscuously gathered, or from such stock is sheer folly. On the other hand, supposing there should be some particular feature or quality of one of our hens that we might wish to perpetuate; like the one for instance, mentioned in a previous paragraph. We would get her eggs by the Trap Nest method and set them separately. Thus we might fix the particular thing we are after.

Just Hens.

Do you keep "just a few hens," and do they roam at large laying eggs in nests of their own selecting? Or do you "keep hens"—bred-to-lay hens—And are you realizing the maximum in egg production from them? Once in a while we find a farm flock where there is no effort made to select hens for egg production. True the owner believes in giving the flock good and abundant food; but puts no faith in the study of laying types and the keeping of Trap Nest records. Soon, very soon, only enough breeds are kept to supply the home, and so long as the flock produces sufficient eggs for breakfast every morning, he is satisfied. Look at the daily industry in other places; see how it is advancing because of the great improvement in breeding stock. If good cows will produce large quantities of milk, doesn't it sound reasonable that high-producing hens should also produce a large percentage of their offspring with the ability stamped upon them. Of course, not all of the progeny may be up to the standard of the mother; but we do know that they are more apt to be quality stock than the offspring of a scrub with a poor record. It seems sometimes like a joke to study laying types and try to estimate a hen's egg production. But it is not so funny to be using expensive poultry feed and not to be receiving eggs to sell. And it certainly is a great satisfaction to keep hens that pay their board and leave a profit to their owner after the board bill is paid. Dairy men know what testing has meant to them. Now, Poultrymen are finding what the test means in determining poultry profits.

People Injured in Auto Collision.

Two Families Had Narrow Escape When Car Struck.

A very serious disaster was nearly the result, at 5.30 p.m. yesterday, when, on Thorburn Road, two automobiles collided and some of their occupants were thrown to the ground. The cars were owned by Mr. H. D. Carter and contained six people, and by Mr. J. A. McKenzie, in whose there were ten, mostly children. Five people were injured, while the remaining eleven received a bad shaking up and shock. The autos, moving at a fair rate of speed in opposite directions, on the same road struck just at the turn of Thorburn Road, at the head of Windsor Lake. Mr. Carter and his daughter and three McKenzie children and a Mrs. Fitzpatrick were thrown from the cars. Mr. Carter was injured about the back and left shoulder, while Mrs. Carter received a few slight injuries. The McKenzie children escaped with a few scratches; no bones were broken. Both cars were damaged to the value of some hundreds of dollars.

SALT CHARTER CANCELLED.

Masonic Grand Lodge Officers

Yarmouth, June 10.—The Masonic Grand Lodge of Nova Scotia completed its deliberations this afternoon with the election of officers. Those chosen were later installed by the R.W. Rev. William Driffield, who acted as installing officer, assisted by R.W. Bro. Allan H. Hill, of Yarmouth. The officers are as follows:

Most Worthy Grand Master, Geo. D. MacDougall, New Glasgow.
 Deputy Grand Master, D. A. Thompson, Halifax.
 Senior Grand Warden, J. L. Alexander, New Glasgow.
 Junior Grand Warden, F. J. Fuller, New Glasgow.
 Grand Treasurer, John MacAloney, Halifax.
 Grand Secretary, James C. Jones, Halifax.
 Grand Lecturer, Don F. Fraser, New Glasgow.
 Grand Historian, James P. Edwards, Halifax.
 Grand Chaplain, Clare H. Worrell, Archbishop of Nova Scotia.
 Senior Grand Deacon, Thomas F. Cummings, Sydney Mines.
 Junior Grand Deacon, Rufus C. Ford, Milton, N.S.
 Grand Supt. of Works, Plus J. Otto, Dartmouth.
 Grand Director of Ceremonies, A. K. Van Horn, Yarmouth.
 Grand Sword Bearer, S. S. Aymer, Digby.
 Grand Organist, G. C. Dexter, Liverpool.
 Grand Pursuivant, G. H. Emery, Halifax.
 Grand Stewards, F. L. Cross, Mahone; J. L. MacDonal, Halifax; Norman J. Avar, Amherst; Albert Urquhart, Stellarton; W. M. Caldwell, Yarmouth; James B. Grant, Westville, N.S.
 Grand Tyler, J. Webster, Halifax.

This session of the Grand Lodge has been one of the most interesting in the history of Free Masonry in Nova Scotia. There has been a very large attendance at the meetings of all branches of the Order, and reports from all sources show it to be in a most prosperous condition. During the past year the membership has been increased by ten per cent, making a net gain of eight hundred over the previous year.

The brethren have been highly entertained during the week and are delighted with the reception which the local lodges have tendered them. This afternoon many of those who came to Yarmouth by auto left for their homes, and those who remained were given an auto ride to many beauty spots in this county. This evening a grand Masonic Ball was given at the Grand Hotel.

Notes From Brigus.

What might have been a serious accident, but for his presence of mind in applying the brakes, happened Mr. Jas. Lamb while proceeding to the railway station in his Ford on the 10th inst. When nearing the R. U. Church the motor started towards the wall and was only brought up within a few feet of same. Considerable damage to the steering gear resulted.

On Saturday, the 12th inst., Mr. Bernard Hedderson, of Maryvale, and Miss Bride Hayes, of Mill Pond, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by the Rev. Dr. Murphy. After the ceremony the party returned by motor to the groom's residence, where a sumptuous repast was partaken of; after which a reception and dance was held at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hayes.

The schr. Clarence B. left for St. John's on the 16th inst. to load supplies for C. A. Jerrett.

The Bank of Nova Scotia is conducting minor branches at Cupids and Clarke's Beach respectively. The Cupids branch was opened last fall and this season sees the extension of this efficient service to Clarke's Beach. Both branches are being managed by Mr. Gus Murphy, with Brigus as headquarters.

Capt. Harold Bartlett's schooner sailed yesterday for Sydney to bring another load of coal.

With enactment of the Prohibition law a goodly share of the "pleasure" derived from card parties became obsolete. With a favored few, however, the "pleasure" remains—as witness the "doins" of some respectable citizens of late.

We would like to draw the attention of your readers to the fact that the Rev. Antle referred to by Captain Lanning in his scathing denunciation of Dr. Grenfell's work is Rev. John Antle, a native of Brigus—not of Twillingate, as stated by the writer. The rev. gentleman (who is a son of the late Captain Stephen Antle) has been doing excellent work in British Columbia for some years past.

The Rev. W. J. R. and Mrs. Higgin came on a visit to the Rev. E. K. H. Caldwell this week. From here the Rev. Mr. Higgin proceeded to Montreal to consult eye specialists. During his absence Mrs. Higgin will be the guest of Mrs. (Rev.) Caldwell.

NEMO.

Upon the recommendation of the Food Control Board, and under the provisions of the Food Control Act, 1917, and the War Measures Act, 1914-1916, His Excellency the Governor in Council has been pleased to approve the following Regulations regarding the sale of Sugar:

1. The wholesale price of sugar when sold by the importer shall not exceed Twenty-seven and one-quarter cents per pound, when it is a cash transaction.

2. When sugar is sold by Jobbers, the price shall not be in excess of Twenty-eight and one-quarter cents per pound, when it is a cash transaction.

3. For the purpose of this Regulation, Twenty-five barrels or over shall constitute and be deemed a wholesale transaction, and must be taken delivery of at one time. Any less quantity than the above, sold in original package, shall constitute a jobbing transaction. A barrel shall be held to contain not less than three hundred pounds.

4. From and after this date the retail price of white granulated sugar within the Municipal limits of the Town of St. John's shall not exceed thirty cents per pound, and in the outports thirty cents per pound, plus transportation, insurance and other regular charges.

5. Any person who shall offer for sale, or shall sell any sugar at a greater price than that fixed in above Regulations, shall be guilty of a breach thereof.

6. All foregoing prices are for cash sales.

7. No dealer shall refuse a tender of cash when a purchase is made.

8. Any person violating any of the provisions of these Regulations shall be guilty of an offence and liable upon summary conviction before a Magistrate or Justice of the Peace to a penalty not exceeding one thousand dollars, or to imprisonment for a period not exceeding three months, or to both fine and imprisonment. (One half of the fine shall be paid to the informer and the balance to the Food Control Board, for the benefit of the Dominion).

9. No Sugar shall be imported into Newfoundland unless a permit to do so shall have been obtained beforehand from the Food Control Board.

10. These Regulations shall be, and come into effect on the First day of June, 1920.

11. The Regulations respecting Sugar, Flour and Molasses, published in the Royal Gazette on the eight of October, 1918, are hereby cancelled.
