

A POLITE OLD GENERAL.

RIEL'S RECEPTION BY THE COM. MAJORITY IN CHIEF.

"You Must be Tired, Mr. Riel, Pray be Seated"—The Rebel Leader's Humane Reception by the Committee.

WINNIPEG, May 28.—Armstrong, the scout who arrested Riel, reports the following incident as having occurred after Riel was brought into the presence of Gen. Middleton. "Here is Riel," Armstrong said. The general arose suddenly, and looking at Riel, said: "You must be tired, Mr. Riel, please take a seat; be seated, Mr. Riel."

Riel travelled from the camp at Batouche to Regina in a black coat given him by Gen. Middleton. Gen. Middleton, it is now stated, will return from Batouche by way of Edmonton. Upon the return of the Winnipeg field battery it will be disbanded from active duty and a school of instruction will be formed and suitable barracks will be constructed. One portion of the school will be mounted and that will be conducted in a similar manner to those at Toronto, Fredericton and Quebec.

The remains of Capt. Brown of Peterboro, who was killed and buried at Batouche, are to be exhumed and forwarded to Peterboro for final interment.

S. L. Dodson has forwarded a copy of the first lock gun to Hon. Mr. Norquay. They were used by the rebels at the battle of Batouche. Mr. Dodson picked them out on the field after the fighting was over. The arms are of a very old type, and must have been manufactured 150 or 200 years ago.

A man named Anderson, who was made common by Riel before the battle of Duck Lake, is now at Regina. He says Riel was twice in Major Crozier's company to see his dead, but the major refused to do so. Finally, exasperated at such conduct on the part of Crozier, Riel told Anderson to take a team and convey the bodies into Prince Albert and then return to camp. Anderson did as directed, whereupon Riel gave him his liberty, saying that he had done a good thing in the cause of humanity.

Riel in His Barracks Cell. WINNIPEG, May 28.—A Sun correspondent tried to interview Riel at Regina. He was allowed to see but not to converse with him. He gives the following description of the rebel leader: "Riel was walking to and fro on a small grass plot in the guard house. He looked up nervously at the intruder, betraying great fear. He was dressed in a white shirt and trousers of a brown color and dilapidated. His head was covered by a grey slouch hat, which he touched with his right hand. He is a man of about five feet ten or eleven inches and has a kindly and impressive face. He has a long white beard and mustache, and his eyes are blue. He wears at present a mourning suit of black cloth. His hair is dark, but his mustache and whiskers are light. He does not look like a half-breed. His legs were fastened together by means of a chain, and his hands are manacled with an immense weight, pendant from the connecting chain. He is confined in a cell in the guard house. This is an ordinary looking building on the southern side of the square. There are over 100 police in barracks. An addition is being built which will afford 24 more cells for the accommodation of other prisoners who are being rolled down. Riel enjoys good health. The police ridicule the idea of his being insane."

The Montreal Gazette, which has arrived at Regina on Garrison day. Riel's family are greatly cast down, but depend upon Archbishop Tache, a factor in the case, to get Riel out. The rebel's brother is coming to his assistance. F. A. Pot has been indulging in a Sunday despatch from Calgary states that No. 5 company of the 9th battalion of Quebec leave Edmonton tomorrow with 175 teams conveying supplies.

Col. Irvine's conduct. WINNIPEG, May 28.—Capt. Young and the members of Riel's escort have been generally questioned regarding Col. Irvine's conduct in shutting himself up in Prince Albert and making no effort to get out or to help Gen. Middleton. Capt. Young says Riel Irvine is an officer who knows no fear and simply waited, as was his duty, for orders from Gen. Middleton. His was a sacred trust and he could have acted in no other way than he did. The police claim that Col. Irvine first received messages from the general to come to Batouche, and that he set out with his force, but that having gone eighteen miles he was handed a second message countermanding the first. If any subsequent orders were sent he never got it, and could not do otherwise than remain at Prince Albert. It was Irvine who rode into Stirling Bull's camp, after the Custer massacre, with only half a dozen men.

The Wounded at Moosejaw. MOOSEJAW, May 28.—The wounded removed here are as follows: Teach Royal Grenadiers—Private Cook, P. G. Rogin, Sergt. S. Billingham, Pte. G. Kane, Pte. Scoville, Drummer Ganah. Ninethth Rifles—Pte. L. Erickson, Pte. Wainwright, Pte. F. Barron, Pte. Blackwood, Pte. Miles Garvis, Pte. Wm. Mathews. A Battery—Sergt. Major Mahoney, Bombardier Taylor, Gunner Woodman, Gunner Aetling, Gunner E. Moir, Gunner W. Thoy, Driver Wilson. C Company Infantry School—Color Sergt. Cummins, Private Robert Dunn, Private N. Jones, Private R. Jones, Private Martin. The Halifax battalion have changed their camping grounds at the suburbs and moved into Moosejaw yesterday.

Notes from Batouche. BATOUCHE, May 28.—The Tenth Royal C Infantry and half of A battery arrived here yesterday. The mounted police have brought in a hundred cattle stolen by Poundmaker, with mere horses and carts. Five half-breeds have been looked up on a charge of inciting the Indians to rise. The evidence against them is complete. These men claim to be Poundmaker's prisoners, but one of them, Louis Caplette, who came in with a flag of truce the other day, has been recognized by English soldiers. The man who wounded him at Cut Knife. Scout Bird also identified him as the person

WANT THEIR PAY WEEKLY.

The Reasonable Demands of Workmen Engaged in the Building Trade.

Some time ago the unions representing the building trade asked the bosses to pay their workmen weekly instead of fortnightly. The unions have now secured the bricklayers, the masons, the plasterers, the stonemasons, plasterers, plasterers' laborers, amalgamated carpenters, American brotherhood of carpenters and painters. Each union appointed four delegates to the joint committee. The committee also appointed a joint committee. Correspondence has passed between the committee, the result being as follows: TORONTO, May 4, 1885.

F. Powell, Secretary Joint Masters' Association. Dear Sir: I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of April 27, and in reply I am directed by the joint trade committee to request that your joint association and you will please inform us on what grounds you refuse to pay weekly wages, and that the joint trade associations will elect a committee to meet representatives from the trade associations here and there can be freely discussed by both sides and a thorough understanding arrived at. The matter most beneficial to all parties interested. Yours, etc. W. Donson, Sec.

The reply to this was: TORONTO, May 28. Secretary Joint Trades' Committee. Sir: In answer to your communication of May 4, I am directed to state that the reply, contained in mine of April 27, was a decision made by the joint trade committee, which had the matter under consideration at that time. It is not possible to alter the result of a decision so made, and it is not possible to alter the result of a decision so made, and it is not possible to alter the result of a decision so made.

Private Watson's funeral. ST. CATHARINES, May 28.—The body of the late Private Watson, 90th battalion, who died from wounds received at the battle of Batouche, arrived last evening and was interred in the cemetery at 7 o'clock. The funeral was attended by a large number of citizens. His parents have consented to a public funeral, which will take place tomorrow afternoon. The 19th battalion, Welland Canal field battery, fire department, and the different organizations of the city will attend.

An American Opinion. From the New York Times. The attitude of the French Canadian press and of the Catholics of the dominion toward Riel cannot be too strongly condemned. Nothing could be more absurd than an attempt to make this man a religious martyr, but religious controversies have so blinded the people who are supporting him that they are apparently incapable of treating in a reasonable manner any other subject connected with the connection with which it is possible to make an appeal to their religious prejudices. Riel's followers were not fairly treated, but their treatment did not warrant them in arousing a rebellion in the Northwest that has cost many lives. It is in vain for these fanatics to support this ruffian whose followers have slain so many of the Canadian youth. It is brutal for them to defend this outlaw who incited to rebellion the savages whose horrible treatment of captured women has made decent people shudder. Riel shares the guilt of the brutes who tortured those women, and this should not be forgotten at his trial.

A Toronto Man Murdered in Texas. The Texas Tribune prints the story of the murder of Prof. J. W. Youmans at a boarding house in that place. The murder is alleged by the Tribune to be the act of a jealous husband named S. P. Homes, who was separated from his wife and was jealous of Youmans. Homes also stabbed his sister fatally and wounded his wife at the same time. Prof. Youmans was 65 years old and was a native of Toronto, and was a clever musician. For a number of years he lived in Belleville, and Mr. Plut of that city told a reporter yesterday that Youmans was a born in Prince Edward county, Ont.

The Grand. Last night the McDowell company produced Mr. Uncle's Will and Snowball. The first place is too well known to require comment. THE SERRINITY OF THE SENATE.

Mr. Alexander Once More Proves a Disturbing Element.

OTTAWA, May 28.—In the senate the bill in relation to canal goods, the bill to amend the act relating to weights and measures, and the bill in relation to the administration of justice in the Northwest were each read a third time and passed. Senator Alexander made his motion yesterday, that his economy report be placed on the order of the day. He proposed to cause to be laid before the house a copy of Lieut.-Governor Dewdney's report on the representations made by his archbishop in regard to the alleged grievances of the half-breeds in and around Prince Albert during the summer and autumn of 1884. The hon. mover made strong personal allusions in the course of a lengthy speech to the hon. minister of the interior, for the alleged grievances of the half-breeds in and around Prince Albert during the summer and autumn of 1884. THE SERRINITY OF THE SENATE.

Mr. Alexander Once More Proves a Disturbing Element.

OTTAWA, May 28.—In the senate the bill in relation to canal goods, the bill to amend the act relating to weights and measures, and the bill in relation to the administration of justice in the Northwest were each read a third time and passed. Senator Alexander made his motion yesterday, that his economy report be placed on the order of the day. He proposed to cause to be laid before the house a copy of Lieut.-Governor Dewdney's report on the representations made by his archbishop in regard to the alleged grievances of the half-breeds in and around Prince Albert during the summer and autumn of 1884. The hon. mover made strong personal allusions in the course of a lengthy speech to the hon. minister of the interior, for the alleged grievances of the half-breeds in and around Prince Albert during the summer and autumn of 1884. FROM THE ANTIPODES.

EX-CHAMPION HANLAN EXPECTED IN A FEW DAYS.

Notes on His Race with Beach—The Lucky One in the Montreal Series—Race in the States and Elsewhere.

Hanlan is expected home on Friday or Monday next. He left San Francisco on Tuesday last.

The ex-champion deserves a hearty welcome, if not that he had done in Australia, at least for what he did here.

He showed his grit by going to the antipodes, or anywhere else for that matter where a world-beating champion sprang up, and should be honored accordingly.

Beach, the new champion, does not fit on any rick and will stick to his own runaway puddle.

Hanlan, on the contrary, met all comers, here, there and everywhere.

It mattered not to him, they challenged his supremacy, and that was enough.

They wouldn't come to him and so he went to them, met them on their native waters, with everything that climate and knowledge could give him.

Let us, therefore, honor Edward Hanlan, the World's unsung champion.

Who thought he had a chance in order to give them an opportunity.

Any man in this world who goes to work to give his adversary every imaginable advantage must in the long run be a loser.

Every man who came against him, not only rowed them, but went to their own waters and gave them as many chances as they wished.

At last he met a man who held four of a kind against his full and was left.

That is speaking in a language that people like to ignore and yet know very well.

It describes the situation and for that reason used. Hanlan was bound to be beaten in this.

His course all through may not have been the wisest, and we ourselves think if he had shrewdly, cautious David W. at his back he would never have acted as he has.

Bygone, bygone must be bygone, and it is no use regretting what might have been.

Let us honor the man as he is, always remembering what he has done, and that defeat did not hurt him, but that he courted it.

The World was made for him, he was firmly persuaded by that on neutral waters or on his own bay that the man that beat Hanlan in a racing boat is not yet sitting in a boat.

He is but thirty years old—that is nearly—while his conqueror is 35, and, therefore, with judicious care and management, should have years of supremacy before him yet.

Hanlan and Beach. The following notes are from the Sydney Morning Herald of March 30.

Leaving aside, however, abstract speculation, the practical result of the race may be stated as follows: He cleared $5000 out of the race.

Half the net profit ($2000) also goes to him, and one gentleman has stated his intention of handing over to him by way of an annuity to some hundreds of pounds.

In addition to this, Beach has received a testimonial from the day and the race, and although he himself says he has backed out of the race, he will probably receive a testimonial of a very high order.

The little incident of the race on the river a week ago which will show how general was the excitement, and how much the public interest in the event, and going down to a following public house, to drink his health and to congratulate him.

On the 29th, it should be mentioned, was raised and presented to Hanlan.

After the race Hanlan appeared to be cheerful, if not in high spirits. He stated that he did not expect to win the race, and that he was not in the contest from the start.

When asked what he thought of Beach, he stated that he was not surprised at the best sculler in the world, and a man of whom Australians might well be proud.

Hanlan, who had been a crew of bystanders, "I have been beaten, boys, and beaten fairly. I will say any man in the world, but Beach is a sculler, and I cannot beat him. I am thoroughly satisfied, and now back Beach to any man in the world, and he will say any man of his own kind."

When asked what he had lost on the race, he replied, "I have lost nothing. One bystander remarked, "Well, Hanlan, if you haven't lost money on the race, you have lost something more valuable."

meaning, of course, the championship. "I lost to the Canadian representative, but not to the race, because it was not mine to lose; I tried to win it, but I was over-matched."

Hanlan while in training suffered much from the heat and had to take most of his exercises before breakfast. He consequently failed to get in as much work as he would have liked.

He was also handicapped in the matter of boats. He used a Huddock of Boston, Mass., which arrived only two days before the race.

It had tubular outriggers and Davis' steel beams. Its length was 31 ft. 6 inches; beam, 10 1/2 inches; depth in center, 24 inches; forward, 23 inches; aft, 22 inches; weight all told, 39 lb.
