Ottawa, May 15.—(Special)—The expenses of the outfitting of the steamer Arctic were ventilated to-day to such purpose that Sir Wilfrid Laurier finally admitted the gravity of the situation and declared that IF SUCH CRIMES HAD BEEN COMMITTED THERE MUST BE AT ONCE DISCOVERY AND PUNISHMENT. He will move to-morrow for a special committee to investigate the charges made by the opposition.

An interesting piece of unwritten history also came out in the debate to-night. Some time ago the government received information that there was danger of the United States government claiming rights in the country around Hudson Bay. So serious was the situation considered, that the leader of the opposition was called into consultation, and an estimate was hurried through without debate. This formed the nucleus of the famous report of the Arctic, under Capt. Bernier. Charges of wholesale graft were hurled at the department of marine and fisheries, although no personal blame was attached to Mr. Brodeur, the newly-appointed minister.

When the house went into supply, Capt. Bernier's report was considered. R. L. Borden read an advertisement issued by the government, offering some of the supplies for sale at the price brought back by the expedition. The reading created some amusement.

Among other items was one of seven cases of cognac, which Mr. Borden wanted an explanation.

Mr. Brodeur said that the object of the expedition was to establish permanent stations in the Hudson Bay and other northern waters. The Arctic was equipped and despatched in the spring of 1904. Major Moody was in command, and Capt. Bernier was made sailing master. The captain made out a list of what was required. Some items had been criticized, but after all the Arctic expedition had cost only $180,000, although a similar expedition had cost the imperial government $600,000.

The liquor supply for the English expedition was 800 gallons, but for the Canadian expedition only 100 gallons.

To Prevent Starvation.

He insisted that in sending forty-eight men to the far north for three years' cruise, the government could not err on the side of stinginess and, perhaps, cause their death through starvation if any delay occurred.

Mr. Henderson (Halton) said that he had been in favor of a polar expedition, but the original estimate had been less than $100,000, including the cost of the boat. This ship was merely to land a few parties along Hudson Bay points and to spend one winter in this region. At the end of the year she was to be relieved, and in fact she was relieved by the "Neptune." According to Major Moody, the expedition had been recalled by authorities at Ottawa.

Mr. Brodeur replied that the opposition was opposing a plan for taking possession of the lands and waters of northern Canada. Did hon. gentlemen prefer to surrender these regions to the United States?

R. L. Borden replied that an appropriation had been made for the express purpose of securing this country for Canada. He was taken out to with the question before the house? There had been an expenditure of $200,000. It was outrageous. It was to be doubted, said Mr. Borden, whether one half of these supplies had ever been put on board the ship. He doubted whether there was any prospect of holding this enormous list of supplies.

Dr. Reid (Greenview) pointed out that if such vast quantities of supplies were purchased, they averaged $100 worth of food per annum for each member of the expedition. The stuff must have weighed 750 tons, although the Arctic was of 700 tons burden.

Reckless Extravagance.

Beginning with 1902 he pointed out a reckless growth of extravagance in the department of marine and fisheries. This was evident in the cost of running steamers along the St. Lawrence. The expense of operating the steamers Lansdowne, Minto, Stanley, and others, in 1901 and 1905 respectively had increased from $188,000 to $284,000. Year after year the same thing was bought thru a middleman, George T. Merville, who also figured under the name of F. L. Brooks. The department had financed these concerns at various banks. Mr. Fielding and Mr. Brodeur denied this, but Mr. Reid retorted that they would be called upon for examination by the public accounts committee.

The department of marine and fisheries, he declared, was disgraced in the country, and he warned the minister, that unless he gave its administration attention, it would end by disgracing him.

R. L. Borden again referred to the estimate which had been passed for the Hudson Bay expedition at $700 a month for thirty-three men.

Mr. Taylor (Leeds), assailed the monopoly enjoyed by F. L. Brooks & Co. They had sold $1,700,000 in one year without tender. One boiler had been sold

THE UGLIEST FEATURE.

Goldwin Smith in The Weekly Sun: Mr. Osler is right in saying that we are in this country the class of men with independent means which has hitherto supplied the British parliament. Reasonable indemnities must be paid, the not such salaries as to make public life a trade, adding thereby to the dangers of electoral corruption. But when members of parliament vote public money to themselves, honorably or otherwise, they are not doing their duty to their constituents. The indemnity bill was shuffled thru both houses at the tail of a session without notice to the country. That, however, was not by any means the ugliest feature of the transaction. The ugliest feature of the transaction was the concurrence of the indemnity bill with the consent of parliament to a violation of the Canadian constitution, dictated thru a Canadian prime minister by an agent of Rome. Honor to the nine, who have voted for pure government.

to the government for $975, a duplicate boiler was offered to the speaker for $250.

Premier Promises.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, replying to the charge that there had been too many changes in the marine and fisheries department, said that this was unfortunately true, but he believed that great reforms were being effected by Mr. Brodeur. As to the fitting out of the Arctic, serious charges had been made by the opposition. The government could not ignore them. If such crimes had been committed, there must be at once discovery and punishment. A committee should be at once appointed to investigate the matter.

Mr. Brodeur said that the total food purchased for the Arctic amounted to $64,000. He thought that the provisions returned and in store would amount to more than $2000. The total amount expended on the Arctic, including coal, repairs, wages and clothing, amounted to $155,000.

SEARCHLIGHT SCARES ZULUS THINK IT HEAVEN'S ANGER May Prove Effective Weapon in Subduing the Malcontents—Bambaata's Progress.

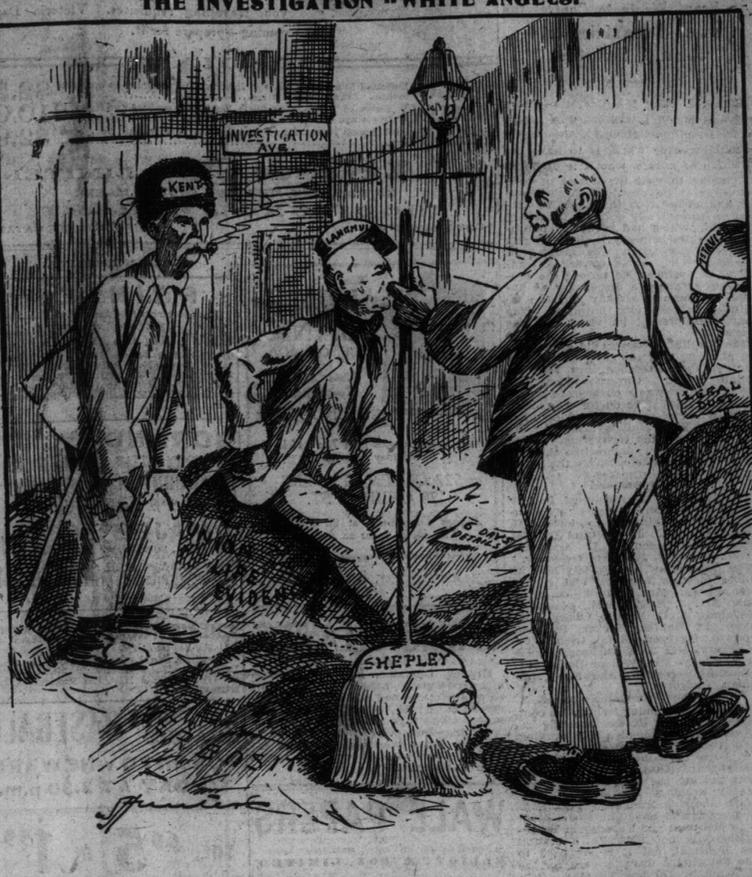

Durban, Natal, May 15.—It is reported that Bambaata, the insurgent Zulu chief, has crossed into Natal. Heavy gun firing was heard on May 13 from Nkandha, which recommenced this afternoon.

A despatch from Greytown says that serious fighting is in progress in Zululand. Heavy gun fire was heard Monday at Krantzkop.

Several native tribes on the Natal side of the Tugela River are reported to be ready to rise.

Searchlights promise to prove an effective weapon in subduing the section of the Zulus as the British runs, judging from the display given last night by a native commissioner, Mr. Saunders, before a huge gathering of Zulus at Kandaia headquarters of the punitive force.

The natives were awestruck and regarded the searchlight as the eye of the Almighty, and said that God had turned it upon them in anger. The flashing of the light on the surrounding hills, bringing in plain view the Kafir trails as far as the horizon, powerfully impressed the Zulus, who when the light was suddenly flashed in their faces, cowered and fell on the ground before what they termed the "latest witchcraft of the whites."

Mr. McTAVISH: We're mebbe not vera swift, ye ken, but loch, Kent, we can raise a graun' dust.

COLONIAL MARRIAGES BILL DISCUSSED IN THE LORDS

Viscount Halifax, in Opposing, Suggests Royal Commission to Straighten Out Laws.

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.) London, May 15.—Moving the second reading of the colonial marriages bill in the house of lords, the Earl of Elgin said the object was not to alter the marriage law in any part of the empire, but to remove an inequality which might be said to be the consequence of the difference in the marriage laws of the various portions of the empire. Lord Strathcona, in 1898, and again in 1900, had brought in a bill on similar lines. On both occasions the second reading was carried by a large majority.

There was much feeling on this subject in the colonies an dit was in the interest of good relations with the colonies that the feeling should be diminished. He believed that marriage under the conditions prescribed in the bill was legal throughout the empire, but difficulty arose in regard to the succession to real property. They had been glad to welcome in the house of lords members from the colonies, and he had been suggested that in an extension of that membership a solution might be found for many imperial problems of administration. It was not only a royal commission, but to the possibility of the sons of members of the house of lords, or descendants of past masters of the bill, dealing with the matter. He hoped the bill would be accepted by the colonies as a proof that the government was animated by a spirit of justice and sympathy.

Lord Strathcona declared that the passage of the bill would give the most satisfaction not only to Canada, but to all the colonies of the empire, by removing what was regarded as a great grievance. Hereford said our action hitherto in this matter had been an insult to the colonies, and added that Lord Lansdowne, in which company, they had been invited, had asked him to state that he had intended to be present to support the bill. The lord chancellor also spoke in its favor.

Viscount Halifax, who led the opposition to the bill, said it would introduce a fundamental change into the English law of inheritance to real property, because it would make the right of succession to real property depend on the law of the colony in which the claimant was born, instead of on the law of England, where the property was situated. The proposal was an incentive to dishonesty. The marriage laws in different parts of the empire were so inextricably confused that he suggested the only sensible course was to refer them to a royal commission.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, the Marquis of Salisbury, and the Bishop of Southwark opposed the bill, alleging it was a frank movement to carry the deceased wife's sister bill in England. The second reading was passed without a division.

GIVE THE KAISER HIS DUE A GREAT MAN IN COMMERCE

Burdon Haldane's Tribute at Banquet to German Commissioners Visiting Britain.

London, May 15.—A large number of burgomasters and councillors of the principal cities of Germany, who are visiting England to study municipal institutions in this country, began yesterday a round of entertainments.

They were banqueted Monday night, Lord Avebury (formerly Sir John Lubbock) presiding. Richard Burdon Haldane, secretary of war, speaking in German, toasted Emperor William and the Empress of Germany.

He said the outlook commercially between Great Britain and Germany was better than ever before. Germany was fortunate in having an emperor who is possessed of the real spirit of modern times. He behoved Englishmen, Mr. Haldane said, to do the emperor full justice. He was a great man and had done much for commerce. Mr. Haldane hoped the friendship between England and Germany would be lasting.

One of the visitors from Berlin, responding, said Mr. Haldane's remarks would be greatly appreciated in Germany.

During the course of the banquet a telegram was received from King Edward inviting the German visitors to Windsor Castle on Friday, when he said, it will give him great pleasure to receive them, adding that he trusted their visit to England would be in every way pleasant and successful.

In a fire which gutted the stable in the rear of 38 West Richmond-street last night twenty horses were either suffocated or burned to death. Thomas, who lives in the small cottage at the corner of the lane leading to the stable, heard the horses making a noise. Looking out of his rear window he saw flames and smoke issuing from the lower floor of the stable, giving no chance to rescue the horses.

Mr. Breaker, the expressman, informed the Adams Furniture Company, gave out the information that the horses were insured for $150 each, but he could not remember in which company. The damage to the building will be about $800, and fodder, about $50, making the total loss near $4000.

STAY OUT OF R.M.A.

New Hardware and Stove Dealers' Association Will Stand Alone.

By a vote of 24 to 1, the Retail Hardware and Stove Dealers' Association, in conference in St. George's Hall yesterday, rejected advances made by Secretary Trotter, and declared against affiliation with the Retail Merchants' Association. One delegate, S. Brubacher, who represented the hardware men of the County of Waterloo, was refused a vote because his fees were not paid.

The association was formed in April and some 60 delegates met yesterday to discuss the matter of joining hands with the Retail Merchants' Association. The discussion lasted all afternoon.

E. M. Trotter pointed out the advantages of union. The association had a prestige. For legislation alone there was a distinct advantage in affiliation. Col. J. B. McLean and staff of the Hardware and Metal Magazine, gave a banquet to the delegates at the King Edward in the evening.

T. & N. O. Railway Commissioners to Boom Townsite of Enghart.

At the meeting of the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway board of commissioners yesterday, arrangements were made for the sale of lots at Cobalt and Enghart. There are fifty lots at the former place, and 150 at the latter, which will be disposed of at auction. Enghart is thirty-five miles north of Cobalt and 137 miles north of North Bay. It is the divisional point between North Bay and the junction of the Pacific. As the country round Enghart is good farming land, the sale of the government lots will, so the commissioners believe, give the town an opportunity to grow.

The letting of the tenders for the mining of that land lying alongside the Rose section has been laid over till some day next week.

Mr. Fielding and Mr. Brodeur denied this, but Mr. Reid retorted that they would be called upon for examination by the public accounts committee.

RECKLESS EXTRAVAGANCE.

Beginning with 1902 he pointed out a reckless growth of extravagance in the department of marine and fisheries. This was evident in the cost of running steamers along the St. Lawrence. The expense of operating the steamers Lansdowne, Minto, Stanley, and others, in 1901 and 1905 respectively had increased from $188,000 to $284,000. ## SOLVENCY OF COMPANIES ENDANGERED BY RESERVES

Actuary Dawson Suggests Change in Laws to Benefit Fire Insurance in U.S.

Washington, May 15.—There is not a fire insurance company in this country knows whether it is solvent or not when it pays its San Francisco losses.

This statement was made by Miles M. Dawson, who was actuary of the New York legislative insurance investigating committee, and somewhat startled the house committee on the judiciary. Mr. Dawson was discussing the question of a model insurance regulation act for the District of Columbia. His argument previously had been confined to the life, but he made this slight digression to point out what he deemed faulty provisions in the Ames bill regarding fire companies.

The result of the Chicago fire was, he said, to put nearly all of the American companies out of business, while not one of the British companies failed, notwithstanding they paid every loss they had in that conflagration. This was because the laws of the United States required American companies to hold a reserve fund amounting to 50 per cent of their capital. The reserve of the British companies was but 30 per cent.

Mr. Dawson suggested that the bill should provide for a 50 per cent reserve, with a further provision that two-fifths of this 50 per cent might be used to meet conflagration losses.

TO OPERATE ON DR. REAUME

No Serious Results Feared in Removal of Slight Growth.

Advice, so far as can be obtained, point to the malady from which Hon. Dr. Reaume is suffering, as not being so serious in character as some reports would indicate.

The provincial minister of public works will be operated on in Detroit to-day for a growth in the nose. He is now in a hospital there. It is stated that the protrusion is only a slight one, and that the operation is not likely to prove a difficult one.

Dr. John Caven, who has been attending Hon. Dr. Reaume while the latter was in Toronto, says the growth is not malignant, and that it is to be expected that the operation will remove it permanently.

STAY OUT OF R.M.A.

New Hardware and Stove Dealers' Association Will Stand Alone.

By a vote of 24 to 1, the Retail Hardware and Stove Dealers' Association, in conference in St. George's Hall yesterday, rejected advances made by Secretary Trotter, and declared against affiliation with the Retail Merchants' Association. One delegate, S. Brubacher, who represented the hardware men of the County of Waterloo, was refused a vote because his fees were not paid.

The association was formed in April and some 60 delegates met yesterday to discuss the matter of joining hands with the Retail Merchants' Association. The discussion lasted all afternoon.

E. M. Trotter pointed out the advantages of union. The association had a prestige. For legislation alone there was a distinct advantage in affiliation. Col. J. B. McLean and staff of the Hardware and Metal Magazine, gave a banquet to the delegates at the King Edward in the evening.

COP SOLD SAFETY WHISTLES TO THE GUILTY CHINESE

Said Warning Would Bring Speedy Help in Time of Trouble —Is Fired.

At the meeting of the police commissioners yesterday, the resignation of P. C. John A. Hyland was requested. He joined the force in 1880. The charge against him was trafficking in whistles with Chinamen, who live in the city. It is claimed he was selling ten cent lead whistles to the "Chinks", and giving them to understand that blowing on the whistle would bring policemen to their aid on the "double" or "triple" in the language of Wun Lung. "Blowee like hellee, pieceee come like hellee."

The resignation of P. C. Longstreet was accepted, and P. C. Boyd convicted of theft from a comrade, was dismissed.

The request of the R. & O. Navigation Company to have one of their men made a special constable was refused. More police protection will be given the factory district in the vicinity of the subway as soon as men are available, which will not be for two months.

CRAPSEY, JUDGES DECLARE, SHOULD BE SUSPENDED

Anglican Clergyman Guilty of Teaching Doctrines Not in Conformity With Creed of Church.

Rochester, N.Y., May 15.—Rev. Algeron S. Crapsey was found guilty of heresy by the ecclesiastical court which tried him at Batavia recently. Four of the judges declared him guilty as specified in the charges under which he was tried. The fifth, Dr. Dunham, agrees with his colleagues in the main, but dissents from their judgment so far as to state that his belief is that Crapsey's errors resulted in presumption to deny what God has been pleased to reveal rather than to deny its truth.

The judges say sentence should be passed as follows:

"That the respondent should be suspended from exercising the functions of the church until such time as he shall satisfy the ecclesiastical authorities of the diocese that his belief and teaching conform to the doctrine of the Apostles Creed and the Nicene Creed. This church hath received the same. However, we express the earnest hope and desire that the respondent may see his way clear during the thirty days, must intervene before sentence can be pronounced to the full satisfaction of the ecclesiastical authorities of such content on his part."

THE ROYAL VISIT TO CANADA.

H.R.H. Prince Arthur of Connaught's trip through Canada has been a most pleasant and interesting one to this royal visitor. The vast resources of the Canadian Northwest were shown to him, as well as the great development which is taking place in Eastern Canada, and his trip over the Grand Trunk Railway System gave him an idea of the wonderful advancement of the railway of this country. While on the Grand Trunk His Royal Highness remarked several times on the perfect road-bed over which the Grand Trunk trains were operated, and the smooth running of the train on which he traveled, and the magnificent equipment that was provided for his comfort. Being the only double track railway in Canada, and the finest road-bed in the Dominion, it was natural that he would recognize these noticeable features.

Special features were demonstrated to him which had not been operated on any other train in the world, such as a telephone switchboard installed in one of the cars, and a telephone communication between each car on the train, and at each stopping place connection was made with the long-distance and local telegraph lines. Each of the rooms in the private cars which they occupied, and communication could be had with the telephone company as long-distance circuits. Another special feature was the electric lighting of the train, which was done by the operation of a steam turbine engine and fuel tank situated in the baggage car and fed by steam from the locomotive.

The consensus of opinion of all who had the opportunity of seeing the train in the world was—"the finest train in the world."

All the arrangements for the Royal party while on the Grand Trunk were carried out with a neatness and a quantity of church furnishings from the Greek colony in this city, amounting to nearly $2000, pleaded guilty to-day. He will be sentenced on Monday for the comfort he enjoyed while on the train.

Before leaving Canadian shores, the Grand Trunk presented Prince Arthur with a handsome full morocco album, containing a collection of photographs of the exterior of the Royal train, as well as interior views of the several cars which made up the train, and the group pictures which were taken at Niagara Falls and other points. This souvenir will no doubt recall many happy hours to the pleasant reminder of his visit to Canada.

Joint for Officials.

A number of C. P. R. officials and agents left in a special sleeping car on No. 6 for Montreal and Quebec, as long-distance circuits. ## NEVER CALLED FOR MONEY MAY BE MISSING MURDERER

Line of Defence in Trial of Italian, De Marco—New Testimony Offered.

Before 6 p.m. to-day Charles De Marco, on trial for the murder of John Hoban, on Sept. 4 last, will know his fate. Last fall De Marco was found guilty, but thru the efforts of Mr. Robbette, his counsel, a new trial was granted.

At 5 p.m. yesterday all the witnesses had been examined. Counsel will address the jury this morning. The jurors were locked up for the night in charge of something in the De Marco case. Some new evidence on both sides was presented, and the accused went into the box in his own behalf.

George H. Clark, who lived at 127 Edward-street, was one of the crowd in the bar the night of the killing. He saw a man named Brown, who was drunk, take hold of an Italian. De Marco slapped Brown's face. Hoban walked towards De Marco. Witness heard Hoban say: "He's done for me" and saw De Marco run down street.

John Bennett, a new witness for the crown, was with Clark. He corroborated Clark's evidence and added that he saw something shining in De Marco's hand as he ran down the street.

Catherine Slater and Mrs. Johnstone were on Chestnut-street. A tall, thin man ran past them with something shining in his hand.

For the defence, Mrs. Marks, 168 Centre-avenue, was sitting on the doorstep when an Italian approached and told her he had killed a man. She did not know him. She knew De Marco; he was not the man.

De Marco admitted being in the crowd, but denied all knowledge of the stabbing.

Michael Basso said he had collected some money for Francesco Marticelli. Marticelli never called for it, nor has he been seen since the tragedy. The defence will likely argue that Marticelli committed the deed.

Margolin, the former priest's lawyer, positively identified the body. The autopsy showed that he received a blow on the head, and the theory is that revolutionists were listening in an adjoining room and heard Gapon betray his connection with the government, and that Rutenberg, the terrorist leader, who is said to have lured Gapon to his death, rushed in, felled him to the floor and afterwards hanged him.

TO MAKE LIFE WORTH WHILE STICK TO DAILY ROUTINE

Dr. Barbour Gives Advice in Baccalaurate Sermon—McMaster Appointments.

The second day's proceedings of the 11th annual meeting of McMaster Alumni Association concluded with a powerful address last night by Rev. Clarence A. Barbour, B.D., of Rochester, Chancellor McKay presided and Castle Memorial Hall held a large audience.

Rev. Mr. Barbour emphasized throughout the need of a strong, definite and worthy purpose in life, or, in his own words, "that life is not worth while that has not behind it a great over-mastering purpose."

Another essential for the "worth while" life was steady devotion to the common place. Existence was commonly ordinary, with few red letter days, but unless one was minded to pay attention to commonplace things, he would miss his aim in life.

In the afternoon's address to the alumni Dr. Farmer gave an interesting talk on personal recollections of the orient.

At the end of the meeting of the senate, held in the morning, announcements were made of these appointments: A. L. McCrimmon, M.A., LL.D., principal of Woodstock College for the past 12 years, as professor of economics, education and sociology at McMaster.

Rev. Elmore Harris, B.A., LL.D., honorary lecturer on the English Bible for the session of 1906-7.

Rev. Francis H. Perry, B.A., D.D., lecturer in pastoral theology for session of 1906-7.

E. A. Harty, B.A., former principal Lindsay Collegiate, principal Moulton Ladies' College.

Miss Charlotte Thrall, vice-president Moulton Ladies' College.

J. L. Hogg, Ph.D., lecturer in physics.

F. H. Kirkpatrick, lecturer on public reading and speaking for 1906-7.

The board of governors will to-day consider the erection of a new science building, to cost $20,000, half the amount being already pledged.

At this evening's convocation, Rev. A. A. Cameron, pastor of First Baptist Church, Ottawa, will receive the honorary title of D.D., while Dr. Goldwin Smith and Principal L. E. Embree will have conferred on them the honorary degree of LL.D.

TERRIBLE PAINS ACROSS BACK SUFFERED EIGHT MONTHS WITH KIDNEY TROUBLE. WOULD HAVE TO STAY IN BED FOR THREE DAYS AT A TIME

Doan's Kidney Pills CURED HIM

Mr. Thomas Fitzgerald, Hazeldean, Ont., writes us as follows: "I was a great sufferer from kidney trouble for eight months. I had terrible pains across the small of my back. I would have to stay in bed for three days at a time and could not do any work. I tried several remedies but they were of no use, and also plaster but they were of no use.

One day a neighbor of mine advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I was so much discouraged I told him I was tired of trying remedies, but he urged me to try one box. I purchased one, and before I was through using it, I found a change for the better as I got five boxes more, and I have had no trouble with my kidneys since. I would not be without Doan's Pills in my house.

It is really not difficult to cure kidney trouble in its first stages. All you have to do is to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial. They are a never-failing cure for all forms of kidney trouble. They quickly relieve the congested, overworked kidneys, and gradually bring them back to health.

Doan's Kidney Pills 50 cents per box or three boxes for $1.25, all dealers or The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

THE FARM BOY.
The prominence which agriculture is assuming warrants a wider sphere of influence in national affairs of farmers in the near future. There is also a brilliant promise to the boy who chooses agriculture for a profession. Farming is no longer an occupation of drudgery and mere physical labor. Modern agriculture calls for intelligent supervision and the application of advanced knowledge of husbandry. When the farm boy is made to comprehend that farm operations and the live stock industry are dependent for their greatest achievement on the observance of fixed principles, then the farm assumes the dignity of the learned professions. The farmer to succeed must be a person of good judgment and possess a wide knowledge of the principles of soil and of animal husbandry. The farm boy learns that the same skill and energy applied to agriculture that is necessary to succeed in other professions will win success for the farm.

The farmer is a man of destiny in public affairs. As a member of the world he naturally is in touch with public affairs that relate to agriculture and is in a position to defend and promote the interests of his constituency. Raised in the calm environment of his rural home he is not a nervous wreck, but possesses a clear understanding and the physical strength to direct national legislation. The pages of history are embellished with names of distinguished statesmen who spent their boyhood on the farm. The rapid pace which has been taken in professional life in cities produces but few statesmen that can endure the strenuous life incident to public affairs. The farms of the future will be the kindergartens from which the learned professions will be replenished.

For the rural boy to succeed in agriculture he should as a young man prepare himself as he would have to become a successful lawyer or doctor. The boy must study husbandry as thoroughly as the student studies medicine to become a physician. He must understand the nature of soils to know what system of agriculture is best to follow on the home farm. He is required to know many things in animal husbandry in order to operate the most economic system of feeding and to pursue agriculture intelligently. No preparation is necessary to perform the work of a common laborer, but the man who succeeds in a profession needs special schooling for his vocation.

The boy on the farm who is dissatisfied with husbandry is a youth who does not understand the commercial importance and possibilities of agriculture. The disappointed youth on the farm needs more education on the general principles of husbandry, and if he possesses the natural ability to succeed in professional life he will make a magnificent success in agriculture.

SUCCESS ON THE FARM.
There are many standards of success as measured by the different classes of people. Some think that money is success, some prize position and name more than anything else, but success means something different with almost every man. It can rightly be defined as the attaining of that which one has set out to attain. What should be the standard of success in the farming profession? Should the man who has acquired the most land and money be considered the most successful man? It were better to consider the man who makes his home and farm life pleasant and at the same time profitable the greatest success. The successful farmer is he who makes his farm the most productive, raises the best crops, helps his neighbors and friends to do better and has a love for his profession. He it is who does not consider his work a drudge but is happy in making Mother Earth bring forth her fruits. He may not pile up dollars and add acres to his farm, but he is still a successful man. That man is the greatest success who gets the most enjoyment out of life and does the most good at the same time, and there is no better place to live a successful life than on the farm.

RAISE MORE HOGS.
The high prices paid for hogs this year will no doubt encourage the farmers of Ontario to raise more of them than ever in the past. Hogs have been making good profits for the farmer for many months, and the prospects are that good prices will continue to prevail for some time to come. Drivers report the crop of hogs this spring as being large, but in some parts of the province the mortality has been great and the present outlook is that there will be no over supply for some time to come. The home market is greater, and it takes more hogs to supply it than it did a few years ago, because the demand for hog meat is greater all the year round than formerly, and is still growing. The demand on the British markets for Canadian bacon is greater than at any time in the history of our country. We have more packing-houses and are shipping more bacon to England than ever before, and this demand is still growing, and will continue to grow as long as farmers produce the right kind of hog and packers continue to cater to the foreign demand as they hitherto have done. The supply of hogs ready to market in all parts of the province is reported by drovers to be small. Prices on the English market have been declining during the past week, and in consequence the packers are trying to get their hogs for less money. On the other hand, farmers do not seem inclined to accept lower prices, as the small receipts on yesterday's market would indicate. Farmers, knowing that they have the whiphand of the situation, are not willing to let up so long as they can keep it, feeling that the packers did the same when they were masters a little over a year ago.

A BACKWARD SEASON.
Contrary to general expectations, a late spring has developed this year. The unusually mild winter contributed to the belief that the seeding season would open up earlier, but this has not been the experience in Ontario or in the States. The United States government report issued on the 10th inst. showed that only 64 per cent. of the spring plowing was completed, compared with 72 per cent. a year ago. In Ontario little growth has yet been witnessed. Cold, raw winds and the absence of warm rains is not ideal spring weather. The foundation of the hay crop is laid in May, and up to the present time growth has scarcely started. The season altogether is not starting out auspiciously. There is still time, however, for the apparent drawbacks to be made good. A retarded season and the scarcity of farm help will make for congestion when harvest time arrives.

IN THE Poultry YARD.
Practical Suggestions for Profitable Poultry Raising.

A hen will eat a quarter of a pint of grain per day if fed no other kind of feed. Hens with scaly legs should not be set. Select only healthy hens to bring off the young brood. Bran has a tendency to loosen up the bowels, while an oversupply of middlings will cause costiveness. Sulphur is said to cause rheumatism and weakness of the legs when fed to fowls during damp weather. Dirty eggs should be washed whether they are to be set or to be sent to market. Use lukewarm water with a little sulphur. Guinea fowls should be kept away by the noise they make. It would be a good thing to keep a few just for their own sake.

When fowls are kept in confinement they should be given a variety of feeds, not forgetting to furnish a supply of green and charcoal. Don't neglect the hen house during the summer months. Keep it clean and have the inside and the nests washed with kerosene. Fowls need charcoal and it should be supplied to them so they can pick it up when they please. Corn charred on the cob makes an excellent way of giving it to them. Young chicks need green grass just as much as any other of our farm stock. They begin to pick the tender blades of grass soon after the begin to run about and it is important to keep their digestion in good shape. If your yard is bare it would be a good plan to sow rye or oats in it to supply this green matter. Sunflower seeds make good feed for chickens. They need care and attention, but if kept too warm when they are small, they will not be able to stand the exposure to cold when they grow older. An exchange in speaking of ducks says that they do not have the cholera, rot or gapes, and hawks do not bother them. They will lay as many eggs as hens and they hatch better and more uniformly. It is claimed that cornmeal make a good food for egg production, as they are highly nitrogenous and superior to corn or wheat. They can be fed whole to the older fowl, but cracked for the smaller.

To the beginner in poultry raising it is always advisable to start out in a small way, rather than to have more hens than can be cared for. Many failures are on record of men who have started on too large a scale. Sunflower seeds make good feed for chickens. They need care and attention, but if kept too warm when they are small, they will not be able to stand the exposure to cold when they grow older. An exchange in speaking of ducks says that they do not have the cholera, rot or gapes, and hawks do not bother them. They will lay as many eggs as hens and they hatch better and more uniformly. It is claimed that cornmeal make a good food for egg production, as they are highly nitrogenous and superior to corn or wheat. They can be fed whole to the older fowl, but cracked for the smaller.

The dry method of feeding is becoming popular among poultrymen. The combination of feeds is as follows: Cracked wheat 25 parts, bulled or cut oats 15 parts, milled seed 12 parts, small cracked rye 10 parts, small cracked peas 8 parts, broken rice 2 parts, rape seed 1 part, small grit 10 parts. Get rid of all the male birds as soon as you are thru setting eggs, in the advice given in The Poultry Tribune. They are a source of annoyance to the hens during the hot weather. If you do not want to keep male birds, it is not necessary to keep male birds. The hens will lay just as many eggs, and many excellent authorities declare that without the company of males feeding a number of old birds after the breeding is over is a very useless expense. Of course, if there is an unusually good bird it will pay to keep him over. Keep the sexes apart from the end of the breeding season until fertile eggs are again desired.

It is better to give a hungry world the most old-fashioned loaf than the latest thing in the bakery. The bottom would inevitably fall out of the fortunes of some church saints if the city called the lid down.

TORONTO HORSE MARKET SALES WELL MAINTAINED

For Workers and Delivery Horses the Demand Continues Exceptionally Good.

At this time of the year there is always a lull in the horse business. Farmers are busy and contractors have pretty well all their supplies made up. Still the volume is unusually well maintained, and city dealers are showing a manifest desire to improve the quality of their stock, while in the Northwest there is ever a demand for workers. In fact the majority of that class of horse is now being taken to fill orders for that part of the country. Of course, there are always a number of individual buyers, and as Toronto offers more facilities for trade in horse-flesh than any other city in the country they concentrate here. This is becoming more and more apparent. The general citizen little knows how much he owes to the enterprise of the men who are dealing in horses on a large scale.

At the Repository on Simcoe-street, the regular Tuesday sale yesterday was exceptionally largely attended for this season, and the bidding was brisk and the prices good, the best bringing well up to values. Some 150 horses were on offer, and all found buyers, except one or two rare instances. For the choice lots the bids came uncommonly fast, horses that a few years ago would have commanded less than a dollar selling for $275.00 after considerable bidding. The choice lots the bids came uncommonly fast, horses that a few years ago would have commanded less than a dollar selling for $275.00 after considerable bidding.

The following is Burns & Sheppard's weekly sale of stallions: Single roasters 15 to 16 hands, $125 to $180; single cobs and carriage horses, 15 to 16 hands, $125 to $170; matched pairs and single horses, $150 to $200; delivery horses, 13 to 14 hands, $140 to $175; general purpose and express horses, $100 to $150; single cobs and carriage horses, $150 to $175; serviceable second-hand workers, $80 to $90; serviceable second-hand drivers, $60 to $80.

At the Canadian Horse Exchange business continues to boom, this enterprise receiving enquiries every day for high-class carriages, saddles and combination horses from some of the largest cities in the Dominion and the United States. Mr. Carroll, the proprietor, states that he has received commissions this week from New York, Boston, Buffalo and Philadelphia to purchase and ship a dozen or more high-class carriage and combination horses from five to seven years old and from 15 to 15.3 hands high, chestnuts, bays or browns preferred. Monday's sale was noticeable by its superior class of draught, delivery, general purpose and driving horses which were offered, all of the thick, good kind that are hard to buy in the country, as the farmers are busy and do not care to sell. Dr. A. B. Campbell, of Berlin, Ont., was at the sale and purchased a full carload of assorted kinds, in particular worthy of mention, a grey gelding, 15.3 hands, a capital good hunter, can jump six feet and should catch a place at the local horse shows, consigned by T. Proctor of this city. At tomorrow's sale the Exchange will offer a capital good green pacer, chestnut gelding, of the kind very hard to buy in Ontario, and if fortunate enough to fall into good, experienced hands, will develop great speed. Among the other buyers at Monday's sale were J. Johnston, Orillia; L. Wilson, Churchillville, Ont.; Dr. Tweed, Wainwright; R. Newell, city; J. J. Walsh, city; A. Armstrong, city; W. Menary, city; J. McLaughlin, Limited, city; J. Wright, city; A. Butcher, city; J. Power, city; and several others.

At tomorrow's (Thursday) sale the Exchange will offer an extra choice lot of draught, delivery, express, general purpose, riding and driving horses, right from the farms, consigned by some of the best judges of these classes in the province.

This morning, starting at 10.30 o'clock, the great annual sale of brougham, general carriage and heavy horses will take place at the Repository. There are no fewer than 75 horses to be offered, including the famous prize-winning pair, Fascination and Sensation, that made quite a sensation at the recent horse show in the Armories, and several exceptionally good roadster and matinee horses. At the same time some 50 or 60 carriages of all descriptions, including victorias, runabouts, buggies and an immense amount of English and American harness and stable fixings.

Approos of that fool cablegram that appeared in the daily papers the other day, and that purported to have been sent by the Canadian Associated Press man, saying that the automobile had checked the breeding of horses and that the "enormous" supplies that in former years reached England from Canada and the United States from the approach of the automobile had practically to nothing, first, because of the advance in breeding made by other countries; secondly, because while the automobile has not yet advanced still; thirdly, because the demand in our own country has been continual on the increase, and, fourthly, because the price for ordinary horses has been quite good as in England, if, indeed, it is not better. It looks very much as if the farmers and job-masters in England had taken fright at the approach of the automobile and had surrendered without a protest. That the automobile has had considerable effect on the use of the horse is, there is certain, but the fact remains that all over America, Canada included, there was never a better demand for high-class horses, carriage, saddle and hunt, than right now, and the price for ordinary horses has been quite good as in England, if, indeed, it is not better. It looks very much as if the farmers and job-masters in England had taken fright at the approach of the automobile and had surrendered without a protest.

In confirmation of the foregoing remarks look at the prices realized at W. D. Grand's sales in New York last week. The evening Mr. Grand obtained an average of $287 for Dr. Edward Davison's consignment of ponies and cobs. On Tuesday a rather commonplace collection of coach horses, representing the last holdings of Village Farm, realized $407 each, and on Thursday evening nineteen trotting-bred carriage horses from M. T. Pichon, Westmoreland, Canada, were brought $15,845, an average of $837. Do these averages look as if there was no demand for the horse?

It looks as if the same sort of weather had backed the spring in England and here, the people of Canada, have been having and are still having. According to the London Live Stock Market the early morning of May 25th saw the ground covered with hoar frost over a great portion of England, conditions under which forage crops are not making headway, especially after a very dry and cold April, which is a more or less sharp frost almost every night that month. It is not surprising, therefore, that horse-owners are late and turning out animals which have been housed, and that hay is advancing in value owing to the lengthened fall of a mild winter. It is to be hoped that genial showers will soon fall to improve the outlook for keep.

Chicago advises state that trade has been of increased proportions on both local and outside account and that driving and business classes have sold readily at the top prices of the year. The open market for the early demand offerings attracted many buyers to the market and competition for drivers ruled keen and values were high. ## HAY CROP UNPROMISING.

Reports Thus Far in the Season Are Unfavorable.

What is the outlook through the Province of Ontario for the grass crop? If we may judge from the reports which are from time to time being received, not alone through the County of York but similarly from almost the extreme east to west, prospects are not such as to encourage the hope that the season will rank as big one in the output of hay. A variety of causes have conspired to this end. Over wide districts the spring sowing of clover and timothy seeds last year was only partially successful, much of the crop failing to become properly established, thereby reducing the prospective supply. Again much damage was undoubtedly inflicted on the young seeds by the open winter. In the early spring this was not so apparent, the crop generally coming green and fresh, but later results have not borne out the good promise. But the one feature which militates against the growth of the grass crop is the continued cold weather.

From ten days to a fortnight later than other years is the general consensus of opinion with respect to the backward condition of the crop, which normally slow, with the result that a number of farmers are practically without hay or straw.

William McCann of the McCann Milling Company, The World yesterday, said that his supplies were drawn from Ontario in the west to Quebec, and that undoubtedly the outlook was not a promising one. Continued cold weather was largely responsible for the backward condition of the crop, which favorable weather would, however, do much to improve.

Mr. McIntosh of the firm of P. McIntosh & Sons, one of the largest firms in the Province of Ontario, and in close touch with the situation through the Dominion, stated yesterday that the outlook was not so bright as it was not promising. "We draw our supplies from Quebec in the east to Sarnia in the west, and the outlook is not good there is no cause for alarm."

No man in the City of Toronto is more closely in touch with the local situation than the city weighmaster, Mr. Dunn, who yesterday stated that the outlook was not so bright as it was not promising. "We draw our supplies from Quebec in the east to Sarnia in the west, and the outlook is not good there is no cause for alarm."

The "DILLON" HINGE-STAY.

It is not the DILLON, so much as the HINGE-STAY that should interest you if you need a wire fence for farm or yard purposes.

No broken nor twisted up stays in the DILLON fence after a heavy winter's snow. Every stay is jointed and works just like a door hinge. This is what saves it from breaking when weighted down. No extra price, either.

The bill also provides for a contract from Port Perry to Uxbridge and from Toronto Junction to Edgewater. The branches asked for in the present bill are projected from Goderich to Perry to Oshawa or Whitby, and from Goderich to Sarnia and Windsor.

BOOK GOSSIP OF LONDON.
Mrs. Humphrey Ward Denies George Romney Was Hero of Her Novel.

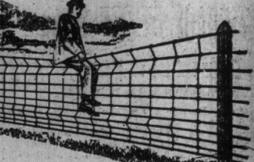

It is a strange thing that there should have been any suggestion of plagiarism in connection with Mrs. Humphrey Ward's recent novel, "Beauty Book," which "Beauty Book" is the description which may fairly be applied to a volume that is to be published in a week or two. Its subject, indeed, is the life of a woman, the reigns of Charles II. and George III. The author is Mrs. J. Fordyce, who has written a number of novels, and her husband, Mr. Craven and is the literary adviser of one of London's publishers. The novel is a story of a woman's life, and is a study of character and an account of the fact that so many cities have dated on it, and because Mrs. Ward herself is at pains to refute the charge of plagiarism.

BUFFALO HAS PROHIBITED SALE OF THE "DIME NOVEL."
Buffalo, N. Y., May 15.—Complaints well-nigh innumerable, by letter, telephone and personal visits of parents, have been received week after week by Mayor Adam concerning the selling of dime novels. Mothers, especially, have had the matter in hand. Delegations of women have called on the mayor to see what could be done. Accordingly, the mayor took up the matter first with the corporation council, transmitting sample copies of dime novels discovered by parents in the possession of their boys. One mother found three dime novels under the mattress in her boy's bedroom. Another mother found a dime novel hidden behind the mirror in her boy's bedroom. Another mother found a dime novel pinned with a hatpin to the bottom of a wooden chair, and another mother found one hidden in a chimney hole.

PUNISHED FOR HIS OATH.
Chalabran Tells of His Escape—File Nearly Worn Away.
Kingston, May 15.—Chalabran, the escaped murderer, is again in the penitentiary. He was away just a week. The prison gates opened for him at two o'clock this morning. No punishment beyond close confinement will be given him, as his sentence is already for life. He is quite satisfied to be back. He says his escape was of his own invention; not a soul aided him. In the warden's office this morning, on his arrival, he told the story of his flight. A small file, not two inches long, given him by a prisoner whose time was expired, was the force that caused months of planning and work. The bars were filed at odd times when the guard was not around, and filled with dirt and grease. "Had I had one inch more to have taken the bars," he said, "I would have failed, for my file was worn out." Monday night last at ten o'clock, he got out, and had eight hours' start. He took the chance when the storm windows were removed. His scaling of the walls was easy, and as soon as possible he cleared eastward. Chalabran says that in seeking his freedom he desired to teach the Bible to his people. He had read the Bible in prison, and had been helped. He believed God aided him in escaping, and his denial of His mercy caused his undoing. He said on Saturday he wet his foot in a creek and an oath sprang to his lips. This was the offence that led to his recapture.
