A Mysterious Disappearance

By Gordon Holmes

A Great Detective Story

Mr. White was actually inclined to preserve silence while they walked to Victoria street. The events of the preceding hour had not exactly conducted to the maintenance in the eyes of his brother officer, of this pre-arranged acquiescence which he invariably claimed.

His companion rubbed in this phase of the matter, by saying: "I should think, Jim, you will give Raleigh Mansions wide berth for some time to come, after making two bad breaks there."

But it was no part of Bruce's scheme that the detective should be rendered despondent by repeated failures. "It is not Mr. White's fault," he said, "that these errors have occurred. They are rather the result of his persistency in leaving no stone unturned, which promises to lead to success. When the case comes, if ever it does, I feel sure he will admit that he has never before encountered so much difficulty in unravelling the most complex problems within his experience."

"That is so," chimed in the senior detective. "The thing that bothers me in this affair is the want of a beginning, so to speak. One would imagine that the work of a homicide if Lady Dyke herself had contributed so enormously to the mystery of her disappearance."

"These you are wrong, that is the true reason. Find the motive and we find the murderer, if Lady Dyke was wilfully put to death."

"If she was, Mr. Bruce? Have you any doubt about it?"

"There cannot be a doubt, when we are groping in the dark. But the gloom is passing; we are on the eve of a discovery."

At Bruce's recitation White's colleague left him. Soon the barrister and the policeman were sitting snugly before a good fire.

"There Claude took his step by step through each branch of his inquiry, as it is known to the writer."

He omitted nothing. The discovery of Jane Harding and of Memmore, the latter's transactions with Dodge & Co., his dramatic coup at Monte Carlo and its attendant loss episode—all these were exhaustively described. He enlarged upon Mrs. Hillman's anxiety when the tragedy became known to her, and did not forget Sir Charles Dyke's amazement at the suggestion that his old playmate might prove to be responsible for the death of his wife.

He produced the waxen moulds of the piece of iron found on the body at Putney, and the ornamental scroll from which it had been taken.

At this point of evidence Mr. White's companion looked him. Thus far he had expounded a feeling of resentment against Bruce for having concealed from him so much that was material to their investigation.

But when he realized that a powerful link in the chain of events had all along been placidly resting before his eyes his distress was evident, and the barrister came to his rescue.

"You are not to blame, White," he said, "for having failed to note many things which I have now told you. You are the slave of a system; your method works admirably for the detection of commonplace crime, but so soon as the high region of romance is reached it is as much out of place as a steam-roller in a baby's hour. Look at the remarkable series of crimes the English police have failed to solve of late, merely because some brilliant element had intruded itself at the outset. Have you ever read any of the works of Edgar Allan Poe?"

The detective answered in the affirmative. "The Murders of the Rue Morgue" and "The Mystery of Marie Roget" were familiar to him.

"Well, went on Bruce, "there you have the accurate samples of my meaning. You would not have been puzzled for an hour by the vagaries of Jack the Ripper. He would have said at once—most certainly after the third or fourth in the series of murders—this is the work of an athletic lunatic, with a morbid love of anatomy and a morbid hatred of a certain class of women. Seek for him among young men who have pestered doctors with outrageous theories, and who possess weak-minded or imbecile relatives. Then, again, take the murder on the South-Western Railway. Do you think Poe would have gone questioning bystanders or inquiring into abortive love affairs? Not he! Jealous swains do not carry pistols about with them to slay their sweethearts, nor do they choose a four-minute interval be-

COUNCIL FAVORS THE TRANSFER TO C. P. R.

Aldermen Yesterday Stood Ten to Seven for the Exchange of West Side Properties

Mayor Bullock Appoints a Committee of Seven Members to Carry on the Work of the Transfer—Ald. Baxter Sincerely Opposes Plan and Proposes a Plebiscite, but Afterward Withdraws It

The opposition in the council failed at the adjourned meeting yesterday afternoon to prevent the adoption of the report of the harbor facilities committee which recommended the exchange of property on the west side between the city and the C. P. R. As forecast in the Telegraph report was adopted by ten votes to seven.

Ald. Baxter offered an amendment to refer the question to a plebiscite at the next civic election, but subsequently withdrew it. The only other speaker in opposition to the proposal was Ald. Kelley. The mayor and Ald. Frink spoke strongly in favor of the report. It was subsequently decided that a committee of seven should be appointed by the mayor to arrange the details of the transfer as recommended in the report. The mayor presided and the full council was present with the common clerk.

The mayor, after calling the meeting to order, asked the common clerk to read a resolution received from the board of trade.

Ald. Baxter objected on the ground that under the standing order all communications had to be in the hands of the common clerk two days before a council meeting.

The matter was dropped.

As the previous meeting broke up for want of a quorum and did not formally adjourn Ald. Frink again moved and Ald. Kelley seconded the adoption of the report of the harbor facilities committee as follows:

"Your committee, after hearing the report of the delegates appointed to interview the honorable the minister of public works of Canada, with reference to his communications to his worship the mayor under date of the 14th and 26th of January last respectively, and which communications are attached hereto, would recommend that the council do favorably consider the transfer by the city to the crown of the portion of land asked for by the C. P. R. company as shown on the plan hereto attached upon the C. P. R. company at the same time conveying to the crown the 1,600 feet of property on the harbor front acquired by it with the Carleton Branch Railroad and the crown transferring to the city the wharf property of the C. P. R., which lies to the southward of the No. 1; also that the details of the proposed arrangement be referred to a committee to make further report upon."

Ald. Kelley said in order to discuss the matter he would move an amendment that the council go into a committee of the whole. Ald. Holder seconded the amendment.

Ald. Frink said from past experience the same order did not prevail in general committee. There was a tendency to vote in the affirmative in common council. He did not think any one would be deprived of a full opportunity to discuss the report.

The amendment was lost.

Ald. Baxter moved an amendment that the action of the council be deferred until a vote of the people on the question of the proposed transfer be taken by plebiscite at the next election. He said, he disjunctly proposed and the subject was of immense importance and owing to the way it had been placed before the public by the press he thought such a course would be in the public interest. He did not know whether it would be better to carry the proposition through. He could not be narrow minded as to say that, but he did not intend to be held up to obloquy by future generations. The danger was too great for him to accept the responsibility.

The agreement was that the C. P. R. in 1902 was considered for three years and it was now proposed to rush this thing through when the council were hardly the same safeguards as formerly. A government ought to be able to grapple with the C. P. R., but everyone knew that the private interests of a great corporation were interwoven with the party in power, no matter what the politics of that party might be. It was one of the drawbacks of government by party. The C. P. R. would do practically as they pleased before they would leave it to the citizens to decide. If they concurred in the report he would have nothing to say.

Ald. Holder seconded the amendment.

The mayor said the amendment was in order but personally he objected to the proposal. He thought it would mean further delay and placed the responsibility upon the people. The aldermen should vote as representatives of the people, who had entrusted them with the management of the city's affairs and whom the people could trust. He doubted if he could measure up to the reasons behind such a resolution as moved by Ald. Baxter at the present time. Their decision meant either progress in the development of the port or allowing everything to remain at a standstill. The city had done something in the past in bringing the C. P. R. to St. John but no one could say there had been a dollar in return.

To hear some remarks which had been made it would appear as if the C. P. R. had been thrown away to the C. P. R. but for all the money spent the city retained an asset in the wharves on the west side. It was true they had given the C. P. R. the Carleton branch railway and assisted with the elevator but the question of regaining the possession of the 1,600 foot strip on the Beacon bar was outside monetary considerations. Of what value was the Beacon bar to anyone unless development was on?

DR. CARMAN CRITICISED BY THE TORONTO NEWS

And Rev. George Jackson Warmly Defended—The Workman Case Recalled—Says Dr. Carman is "Something of a Clerical Bully"

(Toronto News.)

It was certain that Rev. Dr. Carman would attack Rev. Geo. Jackson. It is surprising that the General Superintendent held his hand so long. There is a touch of the spirit of the Inquisition in Dr. Carman. His flavor is in many of his utterances. He has been encouraged to persist in ecclesiastical abuse and denunciation by the curious timidity with which the church has submitted to his methods.

Dr. Workman was one of the victims of the Carman spirit. A scholar of ripe attainments and of fine intellectual courage, his life has some of the aspects of a tragedy. It is well known that there are leaders in the Methodist Church equal in intellectual strength and in Christian service to Dr. Carman, and far more than his equal in Christian charity, who have sympathized throughout with Dr. Workman as they now sympathize with Rev. George Jackson. But for the sake of peace they have kept silence and have allowed Dr. Carman to put the mark of narrowness and illiberality upon the church of which he is the official head.

With all his gifts, with all his long services to the church, with all his devotion to religious and humanitarian objects, Dr. Carman is something of a clerical bully. He writes to Mr. Jackson showing a mere utter want of charity and suggests a mere wanton desire to wound Mr. Jackson's feeling and to hold a great scholar to a simple, sincere Christian up to the contempt of the community.

Of clerical buccannery, we imagine, has gone far enough, and it is to be expected that those who hold Mr. Jackson's opinion will unite, as they should have united long ago, to resist such attacks and to allow the air of freedom to blow freely through the Methodist church.

The truth is that Dr. Carman is living out of his time. He would have fitted conditions of fifty or one hundred years ago. Few scholars now believe in the absolute, literal, verbal inspiration of every word of the Bible. Few think that in order to be Christians it is necessary to believe the story of the creation, exactly as it is told, as they maintain a similar attitude towards certain other features of the Scripture. What Mr. Jackson teaches is the faith of the world's best Christian scholars and of a vast number of worshippers who sit in the pews of the churches. Most clergymen in the freedom of personal intercourse admit that they have gone as far as the pew and yet Sabbath after Sabbath and week after week they practically conceal the fact from their congregations.

In this very want of candor is lack of power and danger to religion. Men never were so little affected by the denunciations of dogma, they never were so little store by the considerations which accompanied with Rev. Dr. Carman. Fortunately it is equally true that the influ-

Don't Diet for Fat

You have no appetite for food, have you? By the same token, if you scale in excess of 150 pounds, I know you have no great liking for sympathetic stunts. As a rule fat folks are neither athletic nor ascetic, except under compulsion, and nowadays they are not under compulsion to be either, no matter how necessary it be for them to reduce. There is a third, better, and surer way of getting rid of superfluous flesh.

The trouble with both dieting and exercise is, first, the trouble; second, the danger (fatly heart); third, frictions; and, fourth, stomachic distress. You are able to all four if you exercise or diet. On the other hand, you can sidestep all four, and still reduce so much or little as you please, even up to losing a pound a day if you see fit, by taking a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtimes of the following simple home recipe: One-half ounce, Marmolite, 3-ounce Fluid-Extract Casarea Aromatic, and 4-34 ounces Peppermint Water. Any druggist will fill this prescription for you cheaply, and so may take it with perfect confidence that it will do no member of harm. Instead it almost invariably improves the health and, likewise, the complexion.

The social life of the people was also well illustrated and described. Rev. Mr. Hamilton was closely followed and at the conclusion a hearty vote of thanks was tendered.

THROUGHOUT Canada the terrible forest fires, which raged last summer, carried great sorrow and suffering. Hundreds of people lost all they possessed, and not a few, still more unfortunate, lost their lives.

Scores of people, running for dear life from the all-devouring flames, had their clothes burned, their limbs scorched, and sustained bruises more or less serious from the falling and burning timber. Zam-Buk in hundreds of cases eased the pain of severe burns, cuts, lacerations, &c.
Mrs. E. A. Simmonds, who now resides at 131, Niagara Street, Victoria, B.C., writes as follows:— I am sending you an unsolicited testimonial, because I want people to know how wonderful a healer of burns is your great salve, Zam-Buk.

There are not many women who are burned in forest fires, but there are scores who sustain burns in their own houses, and I want all to know how they can get ease and cure for such burns however serious, by using Zam-Buk.

WHAT MOTHERS SAY OF ZAM-BUK.

MRS. B. SWITZER of Westfield (Alta.), says:—Zam-Buk is the handiest balm possible for a woman to have in the house. It cures, in fine form, cuts, bruises, burns, and cold-sores. I have tried it for all these, and in every case it cured rapidly. I always keep it handy, and use it in emergencies. It is such an effective remedy that I would advise all women to keep it in the house.

THE WISE COURSE The city council yesterday adopted a vote of ten to seven the resolution to transfer certain inshore lots on the west side to the C. P. R. for yard-room purposes; in return for the 1,600 foot strip on the harbor front. The exchange is a good one. It ensures the construction of the proposed comprehensive series of new steamship berths as required, and gives the railway company the necessary space behind the enlargement of its facilities to handle the traffic which must steadily increase from year to year until even the space now allotted will prove too small for its requirements.

The aldermen who opposed it will be convinced in time that they were wrong, and that the action now taken is in the best interests of the port. Ald. Frink stated the case very clearly when he pointed out that another city would be glad to offer much to the C. P. R., and that the people of St. John would not delay the day when the federal government is willing to pay for the equipment at once. In times past it was the government which was blamed for delay, and the city should not now reject what is freely offered, and which is in the interests of the trade of the whole country.

TAFT IN THE SADDLE President Taft will carry out the Roosevelt policy. In his inaugural address he outlines the course he will pursue. "I promise to be true to myself, to my program and to the declaration of the party platform," he says, "if I did not make the maintenance and enforcement of these reforms a most important feature of my administration."

The campaign to unite and co-ordinate all efforts for the conservation of natural resources in the United States is scheduled to begin today when the joint committee on co-operation, which was authorized by the governor's conference, will prepare a plan for united action by all organizations concerned with the conservation of natural resources. It will hold its first session.

Mr. Borden, reviewing the causes which led to Conservative defeat in the last general elections, omits mention of one important cause. It is the fact that the people preferred Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his policy. Mr. Borden, however, finds some ground for comfort in his defeat, and in this he is at one with the country at large.

The Dominion Alliance has declared war on the Whitney government of Ontario. Relying like Mr. Hazen on the belief that when it comes to a vote the temperance people will choose party before principle, Premier Whitney has declined to accede to the wishes of the Alliance, and that body has adopted a series of drastic resolutions which will be the basis of its campaign.

There were ten steamships at the wharves in St. John yesterday discharging or loading cargo. Of course this is exceptional, but it will not be so again for years hence, when the growth of Canadian trade makes greater demands upon the facilities of the winter port.

The Cape Breton mother who locked her two children in the house and returned to find both dead from suffocation resulting from a fire does not need public censure to bring home to her the enormity of her sin. Will parents never learn the lesson that is taught so often by tragedies like this one?

PROVINCIAL NEWS New Brunswick Mrs. E. M. Gillies, St. John, is spending a few weeks in the States. Her husband, Dr. Burnett and Mrs. Burnett, at Sussex. George W. Fowler has in contemplation the erection of a large addition to his stables on Court Street, Sussex. The premises will be fitted up in first-class style and will be equipped for handling horses. The Bank of New Brunswick, which has been reaching out during the past year or so in various directions, has opened a sub-branch at Petticoat, which will be in charge of Herbert Bain, formerly accountant at Sussex. Mr. Bain commenced business last Monday. Stephen Taylor, mail driver, had a narrow escape from a runaway one day last week. He was driving the mail from Sussex to Clover Hill. He had a passenger in the mail, and he was driving into a ditch. He was rescued by the timely assistance of Mr. Cassidy's lumber crew, who heard their shouts and came to their rescue. They would have been drowned. With the aid of a rope the men succeeded in getting them out of the water. The grocery and provision store of Captain James A. Calder, located at Deer Point, Campbellville, was broken into one day last week, between the hours of six and seven o'clock, and the money drawer rifled of its contents, between nineteen and twenty dollars. The entrance was made by breaking one of the large back windows. No arrests have been made. It is said the officers are investigating a clue which may lead to the apprehension of the guilty party.

NOVA SCOTIA It is rumored that the Halifax and South Western Railway Company is interested in the proposition of the Canadian Iron Corporation to export iron ore to Europe, via Port Wade. If the scheme materializes, Port Wade may soon become a port of importance. The printing office of Finlay Fraser, New Glasgow, was destroyed by fire on Tuesday morning, causing a loss to the amount of $2,500, on which he had $800 insurance. An adjoining store, occupied by J. A. MacDonald & Co., dealer in musical supplies, also was ruined by the blaze, and much of their stock destroyed. His Lordship, the Bishop of Nova Scotia, has returned from an extended visit to Boston and New York. Several of the American bishops have expressed to him their intention of coming to Halifax at the formal opening, next year, of the new Cathedral of All Saints.

Important to All Women Readers of This Paper Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they will cause the other organs to become diseased. You may suffer a great deal with pain in the back, bearing-down feelings, headache and loss of appetite. Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be dependent; it makes any one so. But thousands of irritable, nervous, tired and broken-down women have restored their health and strength by the use of Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy. Swamp-Root brings new life and activity to the kidneys, the cause of such troubles. Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root will do for them. Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy will do for them. Every reader of this paper who has not already tried it, may address Dr. Kline & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and receive sample bottle free by mail. You can purchase the regular 75c. and $1.25 size bottles at all drug stores in Canada.

WOULD ELECT THE SENATORS Hon. R. W. Scott Would Have Two Thirds of Them Elected and Remainder Appointed. Ottawa, March 4.—In the senate today Hon. R. W. Scott moved his resolution for a change in the manner of returning members of the upper house so that a third of them only would be appointed and two-thirds would be elected for a term of years from large constituencies. He held that the majority of the Conservatives when the present government came into power and the majority of the Liberals in the senate when the next government came to power would be so large that there was embarrassment in carrying on the work of legislation in the face of a hostile upper chamber. His plan included compulsory voting for senators, as was the case in Belgium, and he thought it no hardship for every voter to be compelled to cast his vote once in seven years for the men who were to make the laws. He said that the proposed changes in the status of the house of lords gave the Canadian government an example which could not be ignored with safety. The senate had to be reformed in the manner he suggested or the people would abolish it. The government would experience relief no longer compelled to appoint the whole body of senators. The result would be a more independent and a more efficient chamber. The motion was seconded by Senator Perley and the adjournment of the debate until Tuesday was moved by Senator Hon. G. W. Ross.

SAFE EVEN FOR CHILDREN There is not a Trace of Opium or Morphine in "Father Morriory's No. 10" (Lung Tonic). A cough is merely a symptom of an irritated, inflamed or diseased condition of the air passages or the lungs themselves. Many cough mixtures are simply preparations containing enough Opium, Morphine or similar drugs to deaden the irritation. They relieve the cough but they do not remove the unhealthy condition that caused it. Moreover any medicine containing morphine or opium is unsafe unless prescribed by a competent physician. "Father Morriory's No. 10" (Lung Tonic) contains absolutely no drugs of this character. It relieves a cough by removing the cause. Made of Roots, Barks and Balsams, Nature's own remedies, it clears the mucus from the passages, soothes and heals the inflamed membrane, and strengthens the lungs and whole system so that they can throw off the disease entirely. Thousands have proved it. Trial bottle 5c. Regular size 50c. At your dealer's, or from Father Morriory Medicine Co., Ltd., Chatham, N.B.

EX-MAYOR SEARS ADDRESSES MEN For nearly three-quarters of an hour last evening Ex-mayor Sears held the attention of nearly 100 men in the Every Day Club while he talked to them in an off-hand way of the qualities and the conditions which make for manhood, and those habits by which manhood is weakened and destroyed. He gave some illustrations from history of what had been accomplished by men who began in a humble way,

TAFT WILL FOLLOW OUT ROOSEVELT'S POLICIES

New President in His Inaugural Address Declares Himself in Favor of Tariff Reduction and for the Protection of Combinations Doing a Lawful Business.

Washington, D. C., March 4.—The first chief executive to take the oath of office in the chamber of the senate in seventy-six years, William Howard Taft, became president of the United States today. Accompanied to the capital by President Roosevelt and a guard of honor through a blinding snow, Mr. Taft reached the White House just as the sun became visible to force its way through the blinding clouds of gray. A sudden blizzard sweeping in from the northwest last night, to set awry the weather bureau's optimistic promise of a "fair and somewhat cooler," caused an abandonment of the outdoor ceremonies on the famous east front of the capitol, much to Mr. Taft's chagrin, and threatened for a time to stop altogether the brilliant pageant of the afternoon. By great efforts a passageway was cleared along the centre of Pennsylvania avenue however, and for nearly three hours President Taft and Vice-President Sherman reviewed passing columns, replete with martial splendor and picturesque with civic display. After a brilliant and impressive ceremony in the senate, during which both president and vice-president took the oath of office, President Roosevelt, again a private citizen, made an affectionate adieu to his successor, while all in the historic chamber looked on in silence, and then hurried away through a side door to take a train for New York. As he passed out of the chamber he was given an ovation quite the same as that rendered the new president. Outside the capitol the retiring chief executive was met by the New York county committee and under their escort was driven to the Union station, a short three blocks away. A band at the head of the column playing "Add Lagin Sine" told the story of the march and Mr. Roosevelt was compelled time and time again to acknowledge the cheers from the throng which lined his way. Mr. Taft's day was one of steady cheer and plaudits from the moment he first appeared on the White House porch to his inauguration, until he returned late tonight reluctantly from the inaugural ball. Mr. and Mrs. Taft were the guests of the Roosevelt family at the White House last night setting a new precedent in the courtesy of the executive mansion as they did again today when Mrs. Taft accompanied the newly-made president and Mr. Sherman, the new vice-president, to the capitol as the head of the imposing parade to the White House. The presidential carriage, drawn by four bay horses, was closed against the storm as President Roosevelt and Mr. Taft made their way to the capitol, was thrown open as the return journey was begun and President Taft quickly recognized by the crowds which

PINE KNOTS MACERATED IN WHISKY

The shavings of a pine knot macerated or soaked in Whisky is the remedy of the old mountaineer and backwoodsman for rheumatism and pain in the joints and limbs. From time immemorial the medicinal properties of Pine have been valued highly. Whenever possible, physicians recommended that consumptive patients camp out in the Pine forests, where, asleep or awake, they must constantly inhale the pine laden atmosphere, bathing the lungs with the healing, health-giving and invigorating air. Unfortunately, there are but few whose circumstances will permit them to leave home and work to live in the open. Those who must stay at home will find in the genuine Virgin Oil of Pine that therapeutic virtue for which the Pines are famous. It is a combination of the active principles of the Pine and Santalwood, carefully compounded to retain the well-known healing properties of these trees. A half-ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine, mixed with two ounces of Glycerine and a half-pint of good Whisky will break up a cold in twenty-four hours, and cure any cough that is curable. Take a teaspoonful every four hours. It is better to purchase the ingredients separately and prepare the mixture at home. Be sure to use only the genuine Virgin Oil of Pine, prepared by the Leach Chemical Co., Windsor, Ont.

TO URGE FOR VOTE ON LOCAL OPTION HERE NEXT MONTH

An important meeting to consider the question of local option in the four wards in which petitions were circulated in December will be held next Tuesday evening in the lecture room of the Portland Methodist church. This was decided upon yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the executive of the ward workers who circulated the petition. It is felt that since the government is pledged to amend Sec. 21 of the license act, so that a fair expression of public opinion in the wards will be practicable, the vote should be taken this year, at the same time as the civic elections, in Dulce Victoria and at a meeting of the executive of the ward workers who circulated the petition. It is expected that Tuesday night's meeting will endorse this course, and the electors of the four wards named are invited to attend, especially, all those who signed the petitions. It is felt by the executive that the work already done in these wards should not be wasted. Water (whose attention has been called to a gross error in addition—very sorry, sir, but even if you had's sent out the arm would have been different; not me.") "Then you have no excuse" punch.

AROSHA DENIES HIS GUILT

Italian Declares He Knows Nothing of the Murder of Edward Green

He Declares He met Sippel in the Shack Where They Were Arrested—Also Says He and Sippel Sold Their Guns to Men Whom He Does Not Know—Some Damaging Evidence

Perth, N. B., March 4.—Batting desperately to stem the tide that threatens to engulf him and Leon Sippel and carry both to the gallows, Arosha strove to convince the twelve men in the jury box this afternoon that he is innocent of the murder of Edward Green. With the intensity of emotion in his countenance the constant interlocking of his hands, and the drops of perspiration coming from his face, yet without losing a desirable self-control throughout the ordeal, the young and rosy Italian endeavored to furnish a plausible retrospection of his whereabouts on Sunday, Dec. 20th, the following Monday and the preceding Saturday and Friday afternoons. "Was he successful? That is for the jury to determine. His inability to name the men or their location who he saw purchased his shot gun and Sippel's rifle. His unfamiliarity with the camp, or the perfect knowledge of the situation is much too complicated for the majority of ignorant foreign natives to comprehend. Arosha strenuously denied that he owned the shot gun exhibited by the crown, nor did he, or the rifle, or the air rifle, or the air found by trackers in the woods, and, in fact, declared that he never saw them. One of his evidences incriminated Sippel openly, as according to Arosha the man who fired the shot on the morning of the murder when he awoke and Arosha presumed that he was procuring the rifle. He also stated that he met Sippel again on Monday afternoon, when both were arrested. Over 1,500 persons, the sexes being equally divided, witnessed the proceedings and when Arosha was testifying the crowd surged forward, surrounding the dock and in the crush that ensued several women fainted. The trial of Arosha and Sippel will be jotted down in history as the sensational sensation in Victoria county annals. William McGinnis resumed his testimony after the intermission. He said the two men had evidently laid down a bundle and proceeded to the right of way, returning to the right of way of the residence the two men crossed the right-of-way. The spot where the rifle was found was on the right of the murder. Their tracks indicated that twice did they turn to the right of way and return to the tracks. He thought not more than fifteen minutes elapsed from his first appearance at the Amiel Johnson camp when the old Italian was sewing until his return with Albin Foster, when the old man was sleeping in a bunk. He threw a bough on his fire to keep it burning and a party was on the man hunt. The man that was guarding the camp with a rifle was from Ontario and was employed by the N. B. Construction Company. He considered that the mark in the snow was of a squirrel not the body of a man. Sippel, in the camp, has his feet in the box of the stove. He said he saw them before on the spur line entering Johnson's, a camp at 6 a. m. on Saturday. In the camp both men appeared as if they had only emerged from the woods and were almost unshod. When he perceived the two on Saturday they were walking westward toward the Tobique. The night was bitterly cold and Monday was also very frigid. Each carried a gun on Saturday, one was a Mauser rifle. They had no baggage. Donald Fraser, Jr., said he aided in organizing the party starting from Plaster Rock. He did not enumerate the watches found, Steele discovered them under a tree on the bank of the Wapske. Albert Ridgeway indicated on the map the spot where the watches were unearthed. Seymour Traflet, an Indian, said he was a prisoner in the camp, and resided in the woods. He saw a camp on East Brook, a tributary of the Wapske. He saw the prisoners frantically firing at birds and squirrels in the yard of Amiel Johnson camp when he first encountered them. The initial day of their sojourn in the camp. He and McGinnis noticed the trail of two men, one foot print was flat and the other depicted a shoe without a very high heel. One shoe showed that only one lft was on the heel. He and McGinnis followed the trail in its various courses and discovered the Amiel Johnson camp, where an old Italian was sitting by the stove and the little boy was collecting wood on the exterior of the structure. The old man was fully dressed, but apparently not doing anything. They saw a man on the right-of-way armed with a rifle. Nobody could come along the right-of-way to the camp from the Tobique without being detected by them. They met Foster and Pearson and returned to the camp ten or fifteen minutes after they first saw the men. They were in the camp and old Hatch was in a berth. He enveloped their coats. Hatch resembled a man awakened abruptly from slumber. He and McGinnis refaced their steps and he corroborated his companion's testimony regarding the presence of embers indicating a fire on the return to the trail. Twenty or thirty rods away they found evidences of another fire and an empty sack. Traflet said he saw both men with firearms once at Perth. Altes McEae, a constable, of Victoria county, heard of the murder on Sunday, Dec. 20, from the sheriff. Under instructions he organized a searching party from the residence. He thought the fugitives were striking for the Wapske river and stationed pickets along the right of way around Johnson's No. 2. At No. 2 he assigned two more men for guard duty. He searched the camps and forbade the men to leave that night. Another man kept a surveillance of the trains. Italian camps across the river were also searched.
