REV. W. J. STEWART FORMER ST. GEORGE MINISTER AS- TOUNDS DOCTORS OF BOSTON

Mental Healing in Case of In- jured Girl

Boston, Mass., Aug. 24.—Co-operating in one of the most remarkable scientific experiments that has ever been tried in Boston, Rev. Dr. W. J. Stewart, who for ten years was pastor of the North End church at St. John, and until three months ago pastor of the Baptist church at Whitman, Mass., which pulpit he left to devote his attention to mental healing and Dr. William B. Hildren, a Boston physician and surgeon, believe they have succeeded in restoring to Mrs. Mary Zief of Chelsea the use of her limbs, which have been paralyzed since the great Chelsea fire.

For some weeks Rev. Dr. Stewart has been preparing Mrs. Zief for the experiment by a carefully thought out system of mental suggestion. When the minister was satisfied that Mrs. Zief's mind and body were in the condition to make quickly effective the mechanical surgical methods he proposed to adopt as the climax of the treatment, and services of Dr. Hildren were sought. Mrs. Zief was sent to sleep by the use of chloroform, but before this she was given a strong series of suggestions as to what would occur while she was unconscious. She was told that when she opened her eyes the use of her limbs would be restored to her and as the suggestions had been methodically given each day for a considerable time Mrs. Zief firmly believed she would wake up with her limbs restored that is just what occurred.

Mental suggestion was the prime factor in the experiment, and the case cured has been pronounced as hopeless by several of the most distinguished surgeons of the United States. It is asserted that yesterday's experiment constitutes the greatest step yet taken toward absolute bloodless surgery. Rev. Mr. Stewart is a native of Second Falls, and several members of the family are living there now. He was at one time pastor of the Baptist church in St. George, and was greatly esteemed by people of all denominations. He married Miss Hanson of St. George, and they have one son, Dr. Vernon C. Stewart, now practicing in Boston, where he had, among others, as a patient, the late District Attorney, John B. Moran.

(Boston Journal)

Many persons yesterday called at the home of Mrs. Mary Zief at 12 Ash street Chelsea, to investigate for themselves the scientific experiment performed upon Mrs. Zief, whereby she has recovered the use of her limbs, which have been helpless since the Chelsea fire. The details of the experiment which Rev. Dr. W. J. Stewart, a Baptist clergyman and Dr. Wm. B. Hildren, a Boston physician and surgeon, performed were given exclusively in Tuesday's Journal.

When seen by a Journal representative yesterday Mrs. Zief said that though she was not able to walk, she hoped to do so within a few days. She was able to sit up with little assistance, however, a feat not before accomplished since her misfortune in April, 1908, until the experiment in mental suggestion was tried. The family is Jewish and Mrs. Zief talks English imperfectly her little daughter acted as interpreter, Mrs. Zief said:

"Many of the people who called have smiled knowingly as though there was no truth in the cure just because I am still confined to my bed. But there is no doubt that I am much better, and even if I am never able to walk, what has been accomplished is a godsend to me. Moreover, it is still possible I shall walk, but at present I am obeying the instructions of my doctors."

THE FISHERMEN'S PICNIC A SUCCESS

AN IMMENSE CROWD PRESENT. A GOOD PROGRAM OF SPORTS. THE PRIZE WINNERS

The good people of progressive Back Bay yield to none in their efforts to entertain visitors, and on Wednesday August 25th, the occasion of the Charlotte County Weirrowers and Weirfishermen's picnic, they omitted nothing to provide a delightful time for every one present.

Excursions began to arrive early from St. Stephen, St. Andrews, St. George and the Islands. The Canada's Frontiers Band and St. George Cornet Band played particularly pleasing programs that delighted the good natured crowd.

Refreshments were provided in abundance. Dinner and supper were served by the churches of L'Etete and Back Bay and several private "stands" were in operation, all doing a thriving business. In the program of sports, the base ball game furnished the most excitement. The contestants were the Diamonds of Back Bay and Crescents of Lords Cove. Friends of both teams rooted loyally, and the excitement ran high at times. The game was conducted in a good humored way, and in spite of a few errors, the playing of both teams was highly creditable. The Crescents won by a score of 10 to 6. The winners were very modest over their victory, and the losers accepted defeat in a sportsmanlike manner. Back Bay has the nucleus of winning combination, and with more practice and knowledge of some fine points of the game, they will make some of the leading teams here.

The water sports attracted much attention, and some close contests were witnessed.

The 4 h. p. motor race won by Hugh Harris.

The 3 h. p. race won by Willard Kinney. 2nd prize to Melvin Cook.

The 5 and 6 h. p. won by Harlow Kinney. 2nd prize to Roland Lee.

The Blarney Stone

Among the old castles of Ireland none is more famous than Blarney, in County Cork. It is in the walls of this building that the Blarney stone is set, a stone that has given to English speech a name for what is otherwise sometimes known as "fluffy." The castle itself dates from the year 1446. It stands in a region which abounds in legend, tradition, and old-time belief in fairies. The author of "Shamrock Land," Mr. P. F. Jones, visited the castle and its neighborhood a short time ago, and writes entertainingly on the subject.

Blarney Castle obtained its present fame from a famous stone, still in the walls, round which clusters much of romance and superstition. Tradition says that after Cormac MacCarthy had built the castle he dined one day to give an old woman from drowning, who, to show her gratitude, offered Cormac a golden tongue which should have the power of fluent persuasiveness—a tongue that could influence men and women, friends and foes as he willed. To get this power however, Cormac must climb to the keep of the castle, let himself down in some difficult way, and kiss a certain stone in the walls situated about five feet below the gallery running round the top. It is said that he followed the old woman's directions with great minuteness, kissed the stone, and at once obtained all the persuasive eloquence which had been promised him. Soon the story was told throughout Ireland, it went also to other countries, and made

The four card boat race was won by Orben Harris, John Leavitt, Seymour Leavitt and Eben Leavitt. 2nd prize to Judson Kinney, James Leavitt, Garfield Cook, John McGee.

Dingy race, 1st prize, John Leavitt and Orben Harris. 2nd prize James Leavitt and Arthur Leavitt.

The one man dingy race was won by Seymour Leavitt, with Orben Harris second.

Harlow Kinney won the swimming race.

The 100 yds dash for boys was won by Vernon McNichol. 220 yds race won by Chester Catherine, with Eben Leavitt second.

The one mile race was won by Vernon McNichol.

Hop-step and jump won by Russell Hooper.

Potato race captured by Ernest Leavitt. Hurdle race by Owen Hinds.

A large dancing pavilion held a merry crowd all evening, who tripped the light fantastic to the music of Prof. Mooney's orchestra.

The prizes which were valuable and useful, were awarded the winners at the close of the sports. President Rydes and W. F. Todd, M. P., addressed the large crowd and were listened to with closest attention. They warmly congratulated the people on the splendid success of the picnic and were very glad to be able to meet the friends from so many sections of the country.

The crowd was very orderly, no disturbance occurring to mar the festivities of the day.

The active committees are to be congratulated on the splendid way in which the details of the affair were carried out.

The fishermen's picnic of 1909 will be remembered as a day of genuine pleasure and enjoyment.

Barney one of the best-known castles in the world.

Walking round the top of the castle walls in the warm sunshine, I began to look for the noted stone, and at last found it held in place by two iron bands suspended from the very top of the battlements above the stone to prevent foolhardy adventurers from attempting to kiss the stone by being let down over the walls by the heels, as was the custom at one time.

Now the pilgrim to this shrine of eloquence must get down on his knees, or lie flat down on the stones, bend his body at the waist and thrust his head and shoulders down about three feet through a square opening in the stones opposite the cornice, and in this position turn his neck and kiss the stone from the under side. An attendant with good muscles must be at hand to hold the heels of the one who attempts to kiss the stone, else by the law of gravitation he will topple over and go through the hole to the ground, a hundred and twenty feet below.

Miss Martha A. C. Osborne, daughter of the late James E. Osborne, and William L. Barker, Manager of the Grand Manan branch of the Bank of New Brunswick, were united in marriage at St. Stephen's Church, Milltown, N. B., Wednesday. The Nuptial Mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Doyle, assisted by Rev. Father McLaughlin. The bridesmaid was her sister, Miss Veronica Osborne, and the groom was supported by Mr. Frank L. Graham of Liverpool, N. S.

A DAY OF ENJOYMENT AT LAKE UTOPIA

Interesting Aquatic Events In Which the Young Students Excel

Saturday August 28th. was "Aquatic Day" at camp Utopia, a day that has been awaited with expectancy, to be enjoyed with all the vim of youthful enthusiasm. Lake Utopia, nestling beneath the shadows of its lofty mountains, in its quiet repose, offered inducements to the participants to enter into the different sports with all the vim and excitement that is the proud asset of youth and health. The arduous, yet pleasing task of arrangement, and carrying out of the various points of the affair, fell chiefly on the shoulders of Dr. Sexton, and the task was well performed. As the hour for the opening events approached the invited guests began to arrive, and all seemed imbued with the spirit of the occasion. Universal jubilation, cheerful salutations and joyful laughter were sights and sounds that will long be remembered. The bronzed, pleasant faced and active young men came out and the sports were on. We give the result of the different events:—

50 yds. swimming race, won by George C. Smith Jr., 2nd, E. Loenthal, 3rd, J. Hirsch, time 32-5.

Tilting contest won by G. G. Smith and E. Loenthal.

200 yds. canoe race two men, won by E. Loenthal and G. G. Smith.

100 yds. swimming race won by—R. E. Le Montagne, 2nd, A. Deschold 3rd, P. Perkins.

Tilting contest—Seniors—won by A. Berghold, C. Kuffel.

Special canoe race won by R. Back, E. Rosenkrantz, 2nd, C. Kuffer, 3rd, J. Firo.

Special Tilting contest won by Max V. Uebee, Paul Tracy Brine.

The exhibition of fancy diving was an interesting feature and was loudly applauded. Dancing in the evening in the mess hall concluded a day of thorough enjoyment. The guests who attended are loud in their praise of the entertainment and attention paid them by the young students. The party will "break camp" on the 31st, and return to their different schools, and some are already planning to come back next year to the shores of noble Utopia.

Father Morriscy's "No. 11" Cures Stomach Troubles.

When your stomach is working right you never know it is there. But when it feels as heavy as lead—when you have Heartburn, Belching of Wind, Sourness, a gnawing hunger, with distress after eating—when you feel irritable and depressed—then you may know that the digestive fluids in the stomach are not sufficient to digest what you eat.

Father Morriscy's "No. 11" Tablets supply these fluids in concentrated form. Each tablet, dissolved in the stomach, will digest 1 3/4 pounds of food, which is more than an average meal.

Read what Father Morriscy's treatment did for Mr. Goodline, of Salmon Lake. He writes Nov. 30, 1908: "I was troubled with indigestion, so severe that I really thought I had cancer of the stomach. I took much doctors' remedies, till I was forced to seek another resource, and this was the Rev. Father Morriscy. His treatments worked miracles, until I have been entirely cured, so that now I do not look to the quality of the diet but to the quantity."

THE QUEST OF THE PIRATE'S GOLD

A True Story of the Search For the Hidden Treasure Of Captain Kydd

A new company has been organized in the city of New York to renew the search for the treasury hidden so many years ago by that merciless pirate, Captain Kydd, in Chester Basin, Nova Scotia. Stock is being offered at one dollar per share, with promises of a dividend of four thousand per cent. during the coming summer. The story of Oak Island is a strange one, and has baffled the ingenuity of the man for over two centuries, and yet remains unsolved.

About two hundred years ago Captain Kydd, on one of his piratical cruises, landed at Oak Island, and there, as it is claimed, buried vast sums of treasure, consisting of gold and jewels. Thousands upon thousands of dollars have been spent in vain attempts to regain this hidden treasure, which is estimated to be over ten millions of dollars, and the story of the workings is deeply interesting.

STRANGE CONDITIONS.

About the close of the eighteenth century, this part of the country was sparsely settled, and the island in question was without an inhabitant. In 1795 three men—Smith, McGinnis and Vaughan—visited the island, and while rambling over the western part of it came to a spot of which the unusual and strange conditions at once attracted their attention. It had every appearance of having been cleared many years before. Red clover and other plants altogether foreign to the soil were growing. Near the centre stood a large oak tree with marks on the trunk. One of the lower and larger branches of this, the outer end of which has been sawed off, projected directly over the centre of a deep circular depression in the land about thirteen feet in diameter. These and other "signs" lead the three men mentioned to the commence work soon after.

THEY STARTED DIGGING.

They started digging in the spot where they had found the depression and as they got down discovered a well-defined shaft, the walls of which were hard and solid, and it is said that in some places old pick marks were to be seen, while within the shaft the earth was so soft that picks were not required. On reaching a depth of ten feet an oak plant was struck. They kept on digging until a depth of thirty feet was reached, finding oak platforms at each ten feet. At this point the earth proved to be too heavy for them. Superstitious beliefs were in force in that part of the country at that time, and on this account were unable to get any help to continue the work, and were obliged to abandon it.

ACCOUNTS OF WONDERFUL DISCOVERIES.

After an interval of six or seven years accounts of the wonderful discoveries made at Oak Island had spread all over the province and a new company was found in Truro, N. S. Work was at once resumed by this company and the shaft was excavated to a depth of ninety-five feet. Marks were found over ten feet as before, and an iron bar was frequently used in taking soundings. At the ninety-foot mark a flat stone was discovered two feet long and fourteen wide. On it were cut characters which an expert read as follows: "Ten feet below are ten million pounds buried." This gave the searchers renewed hope.

This was Saturday night. Monday morning when the men returned to work the shaft was discovered to be full of water. It was then decided to sink a new shaft and to tunnel under "the money pit" and to take the treasure out from below. The pit was sunk to a depth of one hundred and ten feet, and just as the workers thought that the treasure was theirs the water burst in on them and the men barely escaped with their lives.

ENDED THE WORKINGS.

This ended the workings of that company and it was not till 1849 that operations were resumed, but again the water forced the toilers to stop working. Another company met with a like fate.

In 1863 another effort was made to overcome the water and secure the treasure. The undertaking seemed to be most difficult, as the flow of water was very heavy. About this time the men who were engaged in underground work got the idea that shaft was in danger of caving in and refused to enter it. An examination was made of the shaft, and experts found it to be a very unsafe condition, and it was forewith condemned. The pump was withdrawn and the shaft abandoned and work suspended. The management were at their wit's end, and did not know what to do or what course to take to surmount the overwhelming difficulty. However in the meantime a company of Halifax capitalists had been organized, and a few days after the events above mentioned they entered an agreement with the old company to clear out the "money pit" and recover the treasure for a share of the amount so received. This syndicate spent a lot of money in sinking a shaft, and made heroic efforts to overcome the flow of water, but were forced to abandon it. It was at this time that a copper coin weighing an ounce and a half, dated 1317, and a stone boatwain's whistle were found in the bottom of the pit.

MARKS IN THE "MONEY PIT."

Among other signs which led to the discoverers to dig was the remains of a hoisting block such as was used on sailing craft, hanging to the limb of a tree which overcame the money pit

One of the ten-foot marks found in the money pit was a layer of putty. This was afterwards used in the glazing of the windows of a house built there shortly afterwards. Other layers were charcoal. These articles are usually found amongst the stores of sea-going craft. Among other things that go to prove that these things were put there by sea-going men is an iron ring bolt, imbedded in the rock. This can only be seen at very low tide, and can be accounted for in no other way than that it was put to moor vessels to long ago.

In 1896 a new Nova Scotia Company was organized to look for the treasure. In the autumn of that year work was again started, with two engines and steam pumps, with the intention of pumping the money pit and forming a way down the pit, which was then opened in a depth of fifty-eight feet. At 108 feet a tunnel cribbed with timber was struck. The men went into this tunnel to explore, and had gone but a short distance when they discovered a large pit about eight feet square, and open as far as they could see. The pit was opened up and at 38 feet a platform was struck.

PIT WELL CRIBBED.

The pit from this depth was opened and well cribbed down to a depth of one hundred and eight feet. The workers at once pumped the pit out and commenced digging but had a great deal of trouble in getting the water out, and it was after a great deal of work and time the one hundred and thirteen feet was at last struck. At this depth the water became very heavy, and the pumps had all they could do to keep it out. The pit was eight feet square.

At this time one of the pumps went wrong, and before it could be repaired the pit filled with water. It was then decided that pumping and sinking in the same pit was out of the question, and it was concluded to try and stop the tunnel near the shore by the use of dynamite. Many holes were bored near the shore, and a large amount of dynamite fired but with no material effect on the water.

FUNDS GETTING LOW.

Funds were getting low about this time, and a number of shareholders wanted better proof of the existence of treasure before putting up more funds. The "money pit" was full of water up to within thirty feet of the surface.

They swung in a three-inch pipe through the water to the bottom of the pit and commenced boring with the idea of striking the treasure at a depth of not greater than 125 feet.

No one dreamed of there being anything below that depth. They bored through puddle clay down to a depth of 130 feet and struck nothing but several pieces of wood from 120 to 125 feet.

They started another hole and struck iron at 126 feet. They struck this iron on the edge and it prevented them from getting the three-inch pipe deeper. They, however, got a small chisel and succeeded in passing the iron and worked down without piping the hole. At 150 feet they struck what they thought to be limestone. At 153 feet they struck wood. They put a common auger at the end of the rods and bored through the wood. When the auger went through the wood it dipped two or three inches and then struck something hard that they could not bore through. The auger was worked for some time in an attempt to get it deeper, but it would not go down, and when brought up the bore was cleaned in a basin and the dirt washed out the same as if looking for gold.

A piece of parchment with several pieces of wood was the result of this washing. After drawing the auger they put a chisel on and tried that. They worked down about two feet and then struck a metal that they could not get by. They did no boring in going down these two feet. The chisel was worked by twisting, turning and hammering.

Whatever was below the wood was shoved aside and not bored. The chisel frequently became wedged in a

Sprained Wrist and Ankle

After Being Laid up With Great Pain for Ten Days, Relief
Was Gained Instantly
By Applying
NERVINE

One of the most remarkable accidents that ever befell me is a bad sprain of my right wrist. It is the only sprain of my right wrist. I could have saved myself the enormous amount of pain, and many sleepless nights of suffering, had I known of Nervine.

TESTIMONIAL
NO. 4206
I can recommend Nervine for sprains, bruises, swellings, muscular pains and sore back. I have proved it a sure cure in such cases.

What Dreams Mean

PENNY.—To dream of pennies denotes a poor but happy marriage.
POND.—To dream that you see a pond with clear water in it denotes great success in your undertakings.
WINDMILL.—To dream that you see a windmill turning denotes a voyage or a journey on business.
HILL.—To dream you descend a hill hastily is a sign that you will overcome
all your rivals.
EARTH.—To dream you are digging in the earth signifies riches.

Tickling or dry Coughs will quickly loosen when using Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is so thoroughly harmless that Dr. Shoop tells mothers to use nothing else, even to very young babies.
The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub give the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. It calms
the cough and heals the sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Demand Dr. Shoop's. Accept no other. Sold by all Dealers.

In Brief

Faint heart ne'er escaped fair lady.
The average professional beauty is not so pretty as she is painted.
Time is money; therefore those who steal money get time.
Bridegrooms not uncommonly wear that cheapest look because everyone is convinced that he is a lamb being led to slaughter.
The yoke of honest work may sometimes be heavy, but it is never galling like the yoke of sin and wrong-doing.
The question is now how much talent we have, but how much will to use our talent. Great abilities are of but little use without industry.

Business Girl as Wife

From a woman's point of view, or from that of any disinterested observer, in fact, a working woman makes an ideal sweetheart and wife. She knows the value of money.
She knows the value—or rather the lack of value of promiscuous admiration from men. The susceptibility of the sheltered woman to flattery is the most pitiful about her, as well as the most dangerous to her love's peace. The working girl on the contrary, knows the game, and consequently she plays the game squarely when she plays it at all.
Men says that she loses a certain charm in the process. There is a whole lot of nonsense talked about "rubbing the bloom off the peach." In a fine peach the bloom goes to the core. In a good woman it goes to the soul, for beyond the reach of the superficial contacts of business life.

Living Thoughts

The best views of life come when the back is bent with earth's burden.

An enemy treated as a friend will soon become a friend.

A clean heart makes a shining face.

What we do speaks so loudly that what we say cannot be heard.

It is because so many people see wrong that so many things go wrong.

Common-sense and the Golden Rule are the foundations of good manners.

Of two evils choose neither: of two good things, choose both.

Whoever would learn how to talk well must first learn how to keep still.

About the poorest business a Christian can engage in is borrowing trouble.

Many a man who goes to church with a long face, sells goods with a measure that is too short.

It's a pity when sick men drug the stomach or stimulate the heart and kidneys. That is all wrong! A weak stomach means weak stomach nerves, always.
And this is also true of the heart and kidneys. The weak nerves are instead calling out for help. That explains why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is promptly helping Stomach, Heart and Kidney ailments. The Restorative reaches out for the actual cause of these ailments—
the falling "inside nerves". Anyway test the Restorative 48 hours. It won't cure so soon as that, but you will surely know that help is coming. Sold by all Dealers.

Household Hints

If a lamp wick sticks and will not work well, try pulling out a thread at each edge. This will often set matters right without any more trouble.

When warming up pies or any kind of pastry in the oven, a good plan is to place a sheet of moistened tissue paper on the top. This will prevent burning.

When cutting new bread, heat the knife
by dipping it into a jug of hot water.
In this way the thinnest bread and butter may be cut from a new loaf quite easily.

To clean silverware, well wipe over it with a paraffin rag before washing or scrubbing it with soap and soda and water. All dirt and grease marks are quickly and easily removed in this manner.

To take the smell out of a freshly painted room, take a large onion, peel it, and cut it across the top, place it in a pail of water in the center of the room, shut the door, and the smell will be gone in a very short time.

If a cloth is wetted in vinegar and wrung out as dry as possible, and wrapped around cheese, and the whole put in a cool place, the cheese will retain the moisture of one freshly cut, and will not mould.

Should a cake be burnt outside, scrape the black parts off very carefully, and brush over with beaten white of egg, then dust with castor sugar. Now put the cake back in the oven for five minutes, when all sign of burn will have disappeared.

If a glass stopper in a decanter gets jammed, tap it with another glass stopper, when it will loosen and come out easily. The same applies to other things that get jammed like tumblers or finger-bowls.

It is estimated that the number of immigrants going into the west this year will be one hundred thousand. Of these seventy thousand will come from the United States, bringing with them five cash, five stock and implements, seventy million dollars. The remainder of the immigrants come from Europe and Eastern Canada. One authority estimates that the total addition to the wealth of the country, in cash and property, brought in by these newcomers, will amount to one hundred million dollars.

Of the immigrants who go into the west, about forty per cent Americans, twenty-four per cent Scotch, twenty-three per cent Irish and twenty-two per cent English become actual homesteaders. Obviously, the rush of immigration is adding tremendously to the wealth of the country.

AN UNUSUAL DECISION

The supreme court of the State of Michigan handed down a somewhat unusual decision in the case of a woman who sought damages from a saloonkeeper because he sold liquor to her husband, thereby rendering him a drunkard, and well as causing the plaintiff to lose her home, her money, and the companionship of her husband. The case was originally tried by a jury and the woman got a verdict for small damages. The appeal to the supreme court resulted in judgement in her favor for something over $5,000, she having sued for $10,000. The case was a somewhat novel one, it being a new line of argument to claim that hotel men are responsible in law for the damage done by the liquor they sell. That both the lower and the supreme courts of the State have agreed that there is such responsibility, and that those who suffer as a result of the sale of liquor are entitled to damages, will give the liquor men a distinct shock. With the fear of damage actions ever before them, they will be more careful as to whom they serve and the amount of liquor they give to any one customer.

PUNCTUALITY

It is astonishing how many people there are neglect punctuality, and thousands have failed in life from this cause alone; it is not only a serious vice itself, but it is the fruitful parent of many other vices, for that he who becomes the victim of it gets involved in toils from which it is almost impossible to escape. It makes the merchant wasteful of time. It saps the business reputation of lawyers, and it injures the prospect of the mechanic, who might otherwise rise to fortune—in a word, there is not a profession, not a station of life, which is not liable to the canker of its destructive habit. It is a fact not always remembered that Napoleon's great victories were won by infusing into his subordinates the necessity of punctuality to the minute. It was his plan to manoeuvre over large spaces of country, so as to render the enemy uncertain where he was about to strike a blow, and then suddenly to concentrate his forces and then fall with irresistible power on some weak point of the extended lines of the foe. The execution of this system demanded that each division of the army should arrive at the specified time punctually; for if any part failed to come up the battle was lost. It was by imitating this plan that the allies finally succeeded in overthrowing the emperor. The whole Waterloo campaign turned on these tactics. At Mt. St. Jean, Blucher was punctual, while Grouchy was not; and the result was that Napoleon fell and Wellington triumphed.

In mercantile affairs punctuality is as important as in military. Many are the instances in which the neglect to renew an insurance punctually has led to serious loss. With sound policy do the banks insist, under the penalty of a protest, on the punctual payment of notes; for they were to do otherwise commercial transactions would fall into inextricable confusion. Many and many a time has the failure of one man to meet his obligations brought on the ruin of a score of others, just as the toppling down in a line of bricks of the master brick causes the fall of all the rest. Thousands remain poor all their lives who, if they were more faithful in their word, would secure a large run of custom, and so make their fortune. Be punctual if you would succeed.

BY THE WAY

Here's to Back Bay.
Majorities generally calculate they are about right.

To the pure all things are not wholesome.

Reduced in numbers, but playing with the old time vim, the band can still deliver the goods.

"If there's a will there's a way" has been proven by the successful manner in which the Back Bay base ball team has been organized.

C. Bruce McDougall has engaged new counsel and announced that he is going to fight to the finish. It rather looks as if he had got to.

"Practice makes perfect" in all the arts and handicrafts, it would seem, barring that of penmanship. In that, apparently, the more one practices the more imperfect becomes the result produced, and your real man of the pen writes—in seven cases out of ten—a hand that would reflect discredit on his own housemaid.—Bookman London.

Ottawa Citizen (Conservative):—Whatever may be said of Hon. Frank Oliver as a party politician, no one will deny that he has the bump of common sense well developed, that he is a clear thinker and outspoken in the expression of his opinions when untrammelled by party limitations. Moreover, he knows the Canadian West and appreciates its needs no less than its possibilities.

A good many years ago, in the State of Iowa, there was a small boy hoeing potatoes in a farm lot by the road-side. A man came along in a fine buggy and driving a fine horse. He looked over the fence, stopped and said: "Bub, what do you get for hoeing these potatoes?" "Nothin' 't I do," said the boy, "and hell 't I don't."—Saturday Post.

A certain venerable archdeacon engaged a new footman, a well recommended youth who had served as stable boy. The first duty he was called upon to perform was to accompany the archdeacon on a round of forms, and leave one at each house, Thomas and leave one at each house, Thomas ordered his master. After two hours of visiting from house to house the archdeacon's list was exhausted. "This is the last house, Thomas," he said, "leave two cards here." "Begging your pardon, sir," was the reply, "I can't. I've only the ace of spades left."—Tit Bits.

Reference was made in the Globe on Tuesday to a case of mental healing by Rev. W. J. Stewart, in Boston. Mr. Stewart was for two years pastor of the Brunsford street Baptist church, and for years also was connected with a Baptist church in the North End. According to the published despatch, he has left the pulpit to engage in mental healing. Mr. E. W. Elliott, of St. John, who has been engaged in healing through mental and magnetic influences for years past, often discussed the subject with Mr. Stewart, who was his pastor, and no doubt influenced him in the direction he has taken.—St. John Globe.

A Maiden in Calico

Over the fence where the sweet fern grew,
Just to be dried for an acorn pipe;
Only a step from the mulberry tree,
Burdened with berries luscious and ripe,
I buried my treasure—two coppers new,
Sneakily fearing the world might know
And she was my sentiment tried and true,
Sweet little maiden in calico.
Laughing, she begged in my treasure box
Room that her trinkets she might hide
Under the cover of fresh-cut sod,
Where my two coppers lay side by side,
And when I demanded a kiss as pay
For the use of my secret vaults below,
She paid me my price with a rosy cheek—
Sweet little maiden in calico.
Many a treasure I've seen since then,
Many a maiden with laughing eye,
But not one has sought out my treasure box
Where the secrets of love in its keeping lie.
And at night when I sit in my cosy chair,
Watching the spirits in the fire's glow,
The prettiest fancy the flames give forth,
Is a sweet little maiden in calico.—
Bohemian Magazine.

THE GRANITE TOWN GREETINGS

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

St. Mark's church excursion Wednesday Sept. 8th.

There are a few mild cases of scarlet fever in town.

Schooner Rhoda Holmes finished loading lumber Friday and sailed for Norwalk Ct.

Grant and Morin are receiving their fall and winter stock of stoves and hardware.

John Dewar & Sons have a complete line of school books.

Harbor Light Division of Beaver Harbor, will pay Kiel Granite Division a fraternal visit this, Wednesday, evening.

The date of St. Mark's church excursion is Wednesday Sept. 8th, and not Sept. 7th, as stated in our last issue.

The Alabama Troubadours were the attraction at the hall Wednesday evening. The entertainment was very good and quite a large audience was present.

There was a very heavy storm Wednesday evening, during which the lightning was very sharp and the frequent flashes made a very bright, and almost constant illumination.

A special meeting of R. G. Division Sons of Temperance was held on Friday evening to make arrangements for the reception of Harbor Light Division, of Beaver Harbor.

Representatives of the Boards of Trade of the maritime provinces have been in session in Charlottetown, P. E. I., and they recommend by resolution an amalgamation of the provinces of New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia under one government.

The Morlin property, which is said to have some of the very best specimens of red granite in the country on it, recently passed into the hands of Mr. Fred Baldwin a quarryman of experience. Mr. Baldwin will for the present quarry and sell stone to the trade. In the near future he may, with a cutter of experience go into the granite business, selling the finished article.

At a meeting of the automobile association held at St. John, Wednesday evening it was agreed that the attention of the government should be directed to the condition of the highway between St. John and St. Stephen. At present the road is said to be in disgraceful shape, whereas if it were properly improved there would undoubtedly be a very large increase in the number of American automobile parties visiting the province.

The schools opened on Thursday with a full attendance in the different departments. Addresses were made by the principal, Mr. Lord, James O'Brien, George Frauley, J. Sutton Clark and Dr. Alexander. The following is the list of teachers for the coming year:—Principal Mr. G. Lord grades, IX, X, XI. Miss Knight, grades, VII, VIII. Miss Moore grades, V, VI. Miss Sweetney, grades, III, IV. Miss Magowen, grades, I, II. There will be four new teachers, who have been successful in other parts of the Province, and it is expected that our school and its teachers will add to the laurels already won, and give us this coming year even better results over the past, and further increase the efficiency and honor of our schools.

Yachtmen report that schools of swordfish were seen disappearing themselves recently not far from Chester. This ferocious looking inhabitant of the sea has a substantial commercial value, especially in the United States market. Upwards of a hundred cases, each containing a sword fish have been shipped to Boston within the last fortnight. An interesting contrast could be seen this morning at Boudiller's wharf, on the deck of a newly arrived supply craft, one immense sword fish encumbering the whole deck space of the two masted skiff. This monster with his vicious looking prong weighed five hundred pounds and close by on the cuddy was a "baby" sword fish of seventy pounds. At Wilson's fish market a sword fish nearly five hundred pounds in weight, was landed early this morning.—Echo.

A mistake in the printing of the official notice of the provincial game laws led to an announcement to the effect that the shooting of wild geese, brant, teal, wood duck or black duck was legal after September first. The season does not open until Wednesday, September 15th, and all interested should govern themselves accordingly.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

The St. Mark's excursion is deserving of every encouragement.

The custom house is being repaired by Capt. Jos. Bullock.

Schooners John R. Pelland E. I. Hazard are in port taking in cargo.

Frauley Bros, make interesting announcement this week. Read their ad.

We would like to have you a subscriber to Greetings. Try it till January 1st for 25c.

The northwest want more men to harvest the crops. Another excursion will leave on the 8th.

Saturday three large schooners, two tugs and a number of motor boats made the harbor front appear lively.

The Band will accompany St. Mark's excursion on the 8th. This will be the last excursion of the season, and no doubt will be well patronized.

Messrs Tapley and Todd, engineers of the public works department, are making a survey of the river. They will go as far as Second Falls.

Labor Day is a public holiday. No special preparations have been made for its observance. There is talk of a ball game, but no definite arrangement has been made.

Send us 25 cents and we will mail Greetings to your address until January 1st, 1910.

H. McGrattan & Sons have made a decided improvement in their office. It is much larger than formerly, has good light and is convenient in every respect.

In our last issue there appeared a notice of sale of machinery at the mill of Sidney Gilmor. This sale will not take place, as the misunderstanding in connection with the affair was arranged to the satisfaction of all concerned.

During the storm Wednesday night, a horse driven by George Marshall Jr. got badly frightened and left the highway in record time. Only the skill, and cool head of the driver, prevented what looked like a serious smash-up.

Mr. H. R. Lawrence has greatly improved his splendid property by painting.

W. D. Holt, son of F. W. Holt, C. E., who is spending his vacation in St. John was in town for a day or two last week. Mr. Holt is an engineer of the C. T. P. and has been in British Columbia three years engaged in surveys. He has been in Prince Rupert a portion of the time. Mr. Holt expects to return to the west after his vacation.

The Band of Hope picnic was held on Wednesday on the beautiful grounds of Miss May Russel, and was attended by a large number of children. The day was spent very pleasantly, and the young people evidently enjoyed themselves to the limit.

Some changes have recently been made in the Telephone line between St. George and Bonny River by which this service is no longer in operation. The construction of the new line, which we mentioned a few weeks ago, would seem to be an assured fact, and work will be rapidly pushed to have the new line in working order just as soon as possible.

The construction crew on the N. E. Southern has been working at Oak Bay for some weeks, ballasting and putting a steel bridge over Doten Stream. It is expected that work will be finished there this week, when the crew will be brought to New River. Considerable work is to be done there, and new sidings put in, to be used in connection with the saw mill, that will soon be under construction.

John B. Spears, contractor, was seriously injured on Tuesday. He was completing the work on a barn at the summer residence of Mr. James Brine, Utopia, and was working inside, when he slipped and fell a distance of fourteen feet, striking a ladder in his fall, which probably saved his life. His head is very badly injured and one ear nearly severed. He was unconscious when picked up and remained so for some time. He is under the Dr.'s care, and is now out of danger, but still in a serious condition.

Maine News.
 The outlook for big game all through this region is better than it has been for years, owing to the fact that this is a "beech nut year," and with the first frosts and the opening up of the beech-nut burrs, the deer will be found in great numbers on the beech-ridges, feeding on the tender three-sided nuts of which they are exceedingly fond, says a hunter. The same reason will account for a great many bears being on the beech-ridges in the fall too.
 Sophiel Sarobi, who was injured at Campobello on Thursday last week is one of the best known members of the Passamaquoddy tribe. He holds the position of special officer at the settlement at Pleasant point. He has participated in many races of the late up to the time of his injury was training for the Marathon race. A short while ago while in Houlton he ran a three mile race in 14 minutes 3 seconds. He was a winner in the Calais Centennial, and also ran a race in Eastport on July 5.

The remarkable method which a Bangor man took to catch a train for the eastern part of the State last week has caused an investigation by the Maine Central railroad. It appears that he decided to take a trip to the East, and purchased a ticket for Eastport. He failed to take the morning train, and just before afternoon train he again appeared at the ticket window and asked for another ticket to Eastport. The Washington County express pulled out while he was getting his change. He hired a public carriage and drove mally across the bridge to Brewer, arriving there a head of the train, but was told by the gateman at the crossing it was no use to hurry as 129 doesn't stop at Brewer. "But she'll stop for me," declared the man, and before they realized what he was doing, he had lain across the track, so that the engineer was obliged to put on the emergency brakes and stop his train. The belated traveler climbed a broad bad, in his excitement, torn off all his travel coupons from his tickets and had to pay his fare for a third time.—Calais Advertiser.

Stop That Cold

To check that cold or grippe with "Preventics" means sure relief for Pneumonia. To stop a cold with Preventics is safer than to let it run and be obliged to cure it afterwards. To be sure, Preventics will cure even a deeply seated cold, but taken early—at the nose stage—they break up head of those early colds. That's surely better. That's why they are called Preventics.
 Preventics are little Candy Cold Cures. No Quinine, no physic, nothing sickening. Safe for the children—and thoroughly safe too. If you feel chilly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, think of Preventics. Promptness may also save half your usual sickness. And don't forget your child. If there is feverishness, night or day, it's probably that Preventics greatest efficiency. Sold in boxes for the pocket, also in the boxes of all druggists. Look for your druggist giving you

Sermons in Stones
 Gates, of all stones, confess most of their past history; but all crystallization goes on under, and partly records, circumstances of infinite variety, but always involving difficulty, interruptions, and change of condition at different times.
 The poor little crystals are wonderfully like human creatures—forget all that is going on if they don't see it, however, dreadful; and never think of what is to happen to-morrow. They are spiteful of lying, and indolent or painstaking, and orderly or licentious, with no thought whatever of the lava or the flood which may break over them any day, and evaporate them into air bubbles, or wash them into a solution of salts. And you may look at them, once, understanding the surrounding conditions of their fate with an endless interest.

You will see crowds of unfortunate little crystals, who have been forced to constitute themselves in a hurry, their dissolving element being fiercely scorched away, you will see them doing their best, bright and numberless, but tiny. Then you will find indulged crystals, who have had centuries to form themselves in, and have changed their mind and ways continually; and have been tired, and taken heart again; and have been sick, and have got well again; and thought they would try a different diet, and then thought better of it; and made but a poor use of their advantages after all.

And others you will see, who have begun life as wicked crystals; and then have been impressed by alarming circumstances, and have become converted crystals, and behaved amazingly for a little while, and fallen away again, and ended but discreditably, perhaps even in decomposition, so that one doesn't know what will become of them. And sometimes you will see deceitful crystals, that look as soft as velvet, and are deadly to all near them; and sometimes you will see deceitful crystals that seem flint-edge and are endlessly gentle and true wherever gentleness and truth are needed. And sometimes you will see little child-crystals put to school and made to stand in rows, and taken the greatest care of, and taught how to hold themselves up, and behave and sometimes you will see unhappy little child-crystals left to lie about in the dirt, and pick up their living and learn manners as they can; and sometimes you will see fat crystals eating up thin ones, like great capitalists and little laborers, and foolish crystals spoiling the plans of patient ones irreparably—just as things go on in the world. And sometimes you may see hypocritical crystals taking the shape of others though they are nothing like in their minds; and vampire crystals eating out the heart of others, and hermit crab crystals living on the shells of others, and parasite crystals living on the means of others, and courtier crystals glittering in attendance upon others, and all these, besides the two great companies of war and peace, who ally themselves, resolutely to attack, or resolutely to defend.

And for the close, you see the broad shadow and deadly force of the inevitable fate above all this; you see the multitudes of crystals whose time has come; not a set time, as with us, but yet a time, sooner or later, when they all must give up their crystal ghosts—when the strength by which they grew, and the strength given them to breathe, pass away from them, and they fail, and are consumed, and vanish away, and another generation is brought to life, framed out of their ashes.—Ruskin.

It was never meant that lazy people reach the top of the ladder—there would be no place for them to sit down.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proved catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Halls Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. Don't marry a man who "doesn't notice" if you are tired of carrying a heavy parcel, or doing things he might well do for you. He is a selfish brute, whose wife will inevitably become a sort of white slave.

Don't marry an "ideal lover." His perfection is almost sure to be the result of much practice, and having attained it, he will find it dreadfully difficult to exhibit his talents solely to one person.

Don't marry a mean man. It has been said that meanness is the one unforgivable sin to a woman, and in truth the mean man has so many contemptible little failings that it is small wonder if a wife's love wears thin.

Don't marry for any conceivable reason on earth except that there isn't anyone else on earth you could marry save the man who is making you think on the subject.

Women of Note

Mrs. Willie James is a popular figure in London society, where she is known as a very fine actress. Her genius for make-up is truly remarkable, and is responsible for at least one excellent story. Mr. and Mrs. Willie James happened to be the guests of the late Baron Hirsch at one of his shooting parties in Austria. One morning Mrs. James, dressed as an old fortune-teller, appeared on the lawn and proceeded to tell the fortunes of several of the guests, including that of her husband, who was astounded and not a trifle uneasy at the secrets of his past life which she divulged. An admirable hostess, Mrs. James is a great favorite with the Royal family. In spite of the fact that it is not customary for a Queen-Consort to sleep beneath the roof of a commoner, Queen Alexandra has stayed several days at West Dean Park; Mr. and Mrs. Willie James' delightful country home.

Mrs. Isaac L. Rice, a philanthropic woman who has organized in America a society for the suppression of unnecessary noises, which are hard on the nerves, especially in the large cities, has gone to Europe to organize similar societies there. She had a significant experience when she embarked on the "Mauretania" in New York harbor. It is customary to blow the big siren whistle on the steamer as the ship leaves its dock. On hearing the whistle, Mrs. Rice considered it so flagrantly in violation of the cause she represents, that she sent a protest to the captain, who promptly silenced the whistle.

A certain celebrated violinist once said of the Czarina. "She sings and plays so well that if she were in another sphere of life and became a professional she would win great fame." It is just possible that the violinist had been commanded to play before Her Majesty and received a decoration of some kind—what else could he say in return?

The English Queen Victoria of Spain is another crowned head who seeks diversion in music. Let the yellow journals that prate of domestic wrangling in Spain's royal house answer as they may this assertion: "A brilliant pianist, the Queen—who studied in her girlhood with Mme. Alma Haas—plays Lis favorite piano pieces almost nightly to King Alfonso."

Don't Marry

Don't marry a morbid man who is sunk in melancholy three days out of the seven. Melancholy heroes may make good feeding, to live with them as dreary as a fireless grate. On the other hand—

Don't marry a foolish optimist—that is, unless you have a private fortune well tied up. The optimist dwells so persistently on the cakes and ale of to-morrow that the bread-and-butter of today is apt to be lacking.

Don't marry a man who "doesn't notice" if you are tired of carrying a heavy parcel, or doing things he might well do for you. He is a selfish brute, whose wife will inevitably become a sort of white slave.

Don't marry an "ideal lover." His perfection is almost sure to be the result of much practice, and having attained it, he will find it dreadfully difficult to exhibit his talents solely to one person.

Don't marry a mean man. It has been said that meanness is the one unforgivable sin to a woman, and in truth the mean man has so many contemptible little failings that it is small wonder if a wife's love wears thin.

Don't marry for any conceivable reason on earth except that there isn't anyone else on earth you could marry save the man who is making you think on the subject.

A Bachelor Says That

When a girl gets her first proposal she has already told how she had a hundred. A woman can get a heap of happiness out of thinking how happy she could be if she were appreciated.

After eating onions a girl should immediately sit down and persue some work of fiction that is calculated to take her breath away.

Any woman can take a hint—if disguised as a "beauty hint."

Love is blind, but after marriage a man is apt to take an occasional eye-opener.

A wise man has no secrets from wife—because he hasn't any wife.

The Quest of the Pirate's Gold

crevice or crack, and it would then take the strength of two men to lift it out.

ANOTHER HOLE STARTED
Another hole was then started, and wood was struck at 120 feet, and the soft stone at 152 feet.

This time, however, they struck the box on its edge, and the chisel worked down past it to 157 feet, when soft stone was again struck. They bored through this, and found it three feet thick. Under this they found ten feet of puddle clay, and at 170 feet they struck iron, pieces of which they brought up, but they did not attempt to get through it.

After they gave up the boring they decided that the best plan was to sink another pit. A pit was accordingly started, but much farther away from the "money pit." This pit was sunk to a depth of 160 feet, and if it had not been for the ill-luck that always followed them at Oak Island the mystery would have been solved. At 160 feet, without a moment's warning and with a great rush, the water once more broke in.

A CONNECTION BETWEEN PITS

The "money pit" at once began to fall, and circumstances at once showed that there was a perfect connection between the two pits. This was just what was wanted, although not quite deep enough. They at once tore the cribbing and everything else to pieces. Upon closer examination it showed that no vent had been made for the water on the down stroke of the piston, and it took them over a week to fix this mistake and get the pumps running again.

In the meantime the pit had been standing full of water with the cribbing in a damaged condition. The water worked into the tunnel at a 95-foot level, and it caved in.

That was the end of the venture. Since that time three pits have been sunk, but they have all proved failures. The present theory is that a tunnel runs through from Smith's Cove into the "money pit" at the opposite shore. This pit is very close to the tunnel, and the water broke into the pit from it.

It is now generally believed that the tunnel running to the cove was either choked by the work done on the shore by the Halifax Syndicate, or by the dynamite used by the company working in 1896. The progress of the present operations is being watched by a large number of people in the United States and Canada, many of whom have taken sick in this renewed battle against the hand of fate and the inrush of the waters.

Government to Test Peat For Fuel Now

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—The Government has begun the erection of an experimental station for peat. This station is situated on the southern outskirts of the city, and the first experiments will be with peat blocks made at Alfred, Ont., where there is an excellent peat bog. The experimental station, which is under the care of Dr. Haanel, Dominion Superintendent of Mines, is fashioned upon the principle of those in Norway and Sweden, and will provide tests for the application of peat as a fuel.

Experts state that the supply of coal in Canada for fuel may be measured, while the supply of peat is possibly unlimited. Therefore immediate experiments with the latter are calculated to place the Dominion in possession of a lasting and wholly adequate fuel. Dr. Haanel is exceedingly optimistic as to the result of the experiments, which have proved of immense value in Scandinavia.

Steel Oven Heats Quicker—Saves Fuel

Make sure your new range has a steel oven, and "Pandora" name-plate on the door. Go at once to nearest McClary Agency and pick out size desired.

Pandora has a sheet steel oven, because steel is more sensitive to heat—absorbs it faster—than cast iron does. Pandora oven thus heats quicker—less time required to get oven ready for the baking—which also means less fuel-expense.

Education Of HORACE

He was very impressionable, inclined to be sentimental, and his name was Horace Simmons.

Horace was employed in a seed merchant's office. It was not a big business, one typist, a senior clerk, and Horace representing the whole staff. The typist was a shrewd, eminently sensible girl, absorbed in her work and strictly punctual. He liked her and—she liked him from the day of their first meeting.

They were good friends, but there was no question, on Horace's side, of falling in love. Whether such an idea occurred to the typist is another matter. She was a reticent girl, but Horace was very communicative, and told her all his affairs. His indolence and indifference to business greatly annoyed her. She thought his education had been sadly neglected.

"If you were not a nephew of old Mr. Simmons, you would get the sack," she said on more than one occasion, old Mr. Simmons being the head of the firm.

"You're right, Effie, but I shall always hate clover," he answered. They called each other Horace and Effie by mutual consent. They frequently went out cycling together. He found her a capital companion. She insisted on paying her share of the expense; she was not at all exacting; she gave him really good advice, but flattered him discreetly at the same time.

He began to improve in office work. He tried to be more punctual. In brief, Horace's education was progressing very satisfactorily when Miss Emmeline Vavasour appeared upon the scene.

Miss Vavasour called herself a practical politician and food reformer. She was handsome, earnest and considerably older than Horace. He heard her speaking at a woman's suffrage meeting, which he had been induced to attend by his aunt, and she captured him by sheer force of character.

They were introduced. Miss Vavasour talked to Horace about "the cause," and fired him with enthusiasm.

The following Sunday he did not go out cycling with Effie. He accompanied Miss Vavasour to an open-air meeting in Hyde Park, was invited to supper afterwards at her tiny flat and spent the evening addressing envelopes.

She spoke to him very seriously and sweetly about purpose in life, made him promise to study his diet and lent him a pile of pamphlets.

He told Effie all about it. Effie congratulated him warmly on his new friend. She urged him to see as much of Miss Emmeline Vavasour as possible.

Horace took her advice. He gave up meat and smoking, attended lectures and took to wearing low collars.

Miss Vavasour and her friend made him very useful. He was expected to write letters, help to keep order at meetings, run errands and cheerfully undertake all the worrying little commissions which women inflict on a willing man.

Then, just as his slavery threatened to pall, Miss Firefly Gay fluttered across his path. Horace did not talk about Miss Gay. Effie was more kind and friendly than ever, when they met at the office, and it struck Horace, for the first time, that she was quite a pretty girl—if a little dull—in her simple frocks. He found her society restful.

Miss Firefly Gay continued his education, but on very different lines from the practical politician and food reformer. She was a sparkling little girl, with the biggest hat and the smallest shoes he had ever seen.

A week after their meeting Horace sent back all the books he had borrowed from Miss Vavasour, began to smoke again, returned to high collars and took Miss Gay out to dinner.

She was capricious, childish and ignorant. He timidly gave her the pet name of Babs. Miss Gay, with equal originality, promptly called him Kiddie. They exchanged confidences during the dinner, and became engaged over the coffee.

Miss Gay was walking on in musical comedy. Horace began to haunt the stage door, and cultivated a taste, under her guidance, for dainty little luncheons and expensive suppers.

Firefly was a victim of the taxi habit—She hated walking—with a passion for choice flowers and French chocolates, and Horace gave her a diamond ring.

A month passed. Horace neglected his work, and when he went to the office, was hilarious and irritable by turns. The senior clerk frowned upon him, and old Mr. Simmons, the seed merchant, began to talk of dismissing such a fool of a nephew.

Then Horace grew morose. He was heavily in debt and furiously jealous. Firefly was neglecting him for another man.

Every day his gloom increased. At last, in a fit of despair, he confided in Effie.

Horace has forgotten Miss Emmeline Vavasour. He never speaks of Miss Firefly Gay. He has once more taken to cycling, and is devoting himself to clover.

Effie has made up her mind to continue his education very strictly and without interruptions. As they are going to be married, she will have ample opportunities to complete it.—London Leader.

EASTPORT, ME.
(Successors to E. C. Sheed & Co.)

Hon. Mr. Pugsley and the West

Mr. Pugsley has been telling the people of Winnipeg that he hopes to see the St. Andrews locks soon complete, so that there may be water navigation all the way from Winnipeg to Edmonton. We are very glad that Mr. Pugsley came west. We are not so absurd to suppose that all the things of which he spoke so favorably can be accomplished. He was pretty careful about making definite promises but he was also very decided in his advice to those whom he addressed in regard to the presentation of their claims upon the Dominion government. He did not say, "Ask and ye shall receive"; but he did say "Ask."

Now that is why we are glad he came. Another doctrine has been preached in this part of Canada. We have been told not to ask too much, to keep within bounds, to avoid embarrassing our representatives. Whenever anything was proposed to which the attention of the government ought to be directed, all possible objections were to be raised. We recall one instance.

A year ago the colonist was urging as best it could that an agitation should be set on foot for a new dry dock. It was told that there was no use in so doing, for, said one objector, Mr. Pugsley Minister of Public Works, is from St. John, and he wants a dry dock there. When the matter was brought before the minister personally, he said nothing like that but told us to make the best case we thought we had and press it upon the government with all the earnestness at our command.

When the people talked to him about railways he replied that our case looked strong, and told us that if we ourselves felt confidence in it to press it upon the government as earnestly as we knew how. When the people told the minister that they were in a hurry to send the steamer all the way to Edmonton, he did not reply that they had already had the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian Northern, and in a few weeks would have the Grand Trunk Pacific.

He told them the public benefit resulting from the necessary expenditure would be very great, and he hoped to see the object shortly accomplished. Perhaps all these things are only fair promises which will not fructify. We are not so simple as to suppose, because a politician says pleasant words about an enterprise, that the government of which he is a member if necessary going to take it up. Our point that Mr. Pugsley's western trip was substantially a personal invitation from him as a minister of the crown to the people of the west to place their claims before the government.

Substitute for Profanity

(Washington Star.)

The habit of profanity is curable. If any one who is afflicted with this unpleasant form of speech will but take a little thought into himself he may get rid of the undesirable trait and perhaps greatly add to his interest as a member of the community. The swearing man who bumps his elbow and expresses his chagrin and pain in terms of lurid speech instead of the simple and unobjectionable formulae which will probably find all the satisfaction that he now thinks he derives from such explosive expressions if he will adopt some other formulae instead of the crude expletives and outcries. Suppose, for example, in such a case instead of swearing, as the word is used, he should recite some rhyme of childhood. "Humpty-Dumpty sat on a wall, together with the rest of that veracious anecdote, would be just as intelligible and significant as a string of abjurations and far more pleasant to the average ear. "Little Bo Peep" might do when the office boy makes a mistake, and the boy would probably be more impressed than by a string of excited exclamations. Indeed, the swearing man could with even better effect than by his present indulgence in forcible phrases adopt such an innocuous but attention-compelling line of talk. Certainly he would gain his point as surely by telling some obsolete subordinate the tale of "Old King Cole" as consigning him to warmer regions, with variations on the theme. The advantage of this method of vigorous speech is that it has infinite possibilities. The vocabulary of profanity is after all extremely limited. Only rarely is swearing effective by reason of its scope. The common or garden variety of oath has a very small range. Its tiresome iteration becomes a nuisance apart from its intrinsic offensiveness. Let any man adopt the suggested system and he will find his vocabulary widened to the uttermost limits of literature. He will be an object of interest to all within hearing in stead of, as now, either of disgust or pity.

Free from Alcohol

Since May, 1908, Ayer's Sarsaparilla has been entirely free from alcohol. If you are in poor health, weak, pale, nervous, ask your doctor about taking this non-alcoholic tonic and alterative. If he has a better medicine, take his. Get the best always. This is our advice.

A sluggish liver means a coated tongue, a bad breath, and constipated bowels. The question is, "What is the best thing to do under such circumstances?" Ask your doctor if this is not a good answer: "Take laxative doses of Ayer's Pills."

Obituary

"Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." This is the message of sacred writ that is borne in upon one as one thinks of a life that had its close here at an early hour Tuesday morning. Anne Allen was born in St. Stephen, August 16, 1833, and was united in marriage with Mr. Breen, November 12th, 1876. So far as affairs of the world are concerned, these are the two events in the life just closed. But in the home circle, in the church to which she belonged, and in homes where kindly ministrations and quiet charity were needed. Much has been written in the intervening years of which the world knows not. She had been in failing health for five years, but had only been confined to her home for a few weeks, during which the care of those about her made affectionate yet sorrowful return for devotion to them extending over many years. To the aged husband, in the severance of a remarkably happy union, to the son and daughters into whose life she came so affectionally after the death of their own parents that they have known her only as their own mother the sympathy of all is extended. The children are Mrs. Frederic Rogue, whose privilege it was to minister to her in her last illness, Mrs. Charles Short of Denver Colorado, and Philip A. Breen of Butte City, Montana. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 2.30 from the Church of the Holy Rosary and the pall bearers will be D. Sullivan, D. T. Dwyer, P. F. McKenna and D. Regan.—St. Croix Courier.
