BUFFALO POLICE SCOURING CITY
HOPE TO GET MOIR AND TAGGERT*District In Which They Are Supposed To Be Hiding Carefully
Guarded—Auto Used in Escape Carried False Number.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Hamilton, Aug. 17.—The theory that the auto which carried Moir and Taggert from the asylum displayed a false license number on the run to the border, was partly confirmed by an investigation made at Buffalo. The information received by the Hamilton police said that the car was supposed to belong to Fred A. Harman, of Buffalo, and the license number given as 3132. There is a Fred A. Harman in Buffalo, owner of the Alono Hotel on Pearl street, near Mohawk street. When inquiries were made at the hotel it was stated Mr. Harman had left for Cobalt. The ownership of car 3132 is not credited to Mr. Harman by the Automobile Club of Buffalo.

Scouring Buffalo.
Word was received here today that Chief Regan's detective bureau is scouring Buffalo for the fugitives. The district in which they are supposed to be hiding is being carefully guarded and if the men are still in Buffalo it is believed they will be located possibly today. The criticism delivered at the police for sending out circulars on which Moir's weight is given as 180 pounds is not justified. The circulars were got out a rush and the figures appeared 180, but were corrected personally by Detective Miller before being sent out.

Ferried Across River.
Hamilton, Aug. 17.—The scene of the investigation of the daring escape of Moir and Taggert, the insane murderers, from the Hamilton Asylum early on Monday morning, suddenly shifted today. Provincial Inspector John Miller, to whom the task of following the fugitives was assigned, is continuing on Page Eight.

UNKNOWN SLEEPING IN BARN
DIES WHEN BUILDING BURNS

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Chatham, Aug. 17.—The charred remains of an unknown man were brought to the office of Coroner Bray this morning from Dover Township, where they were found in the ruins of the barn of Mr. McKenzie, which was burned to the ground a couple of days ago. Nothing of the body is left but the charred bones. McKenzie discovered the bones in the ruins of his buildings, but they were so badly burned that he was unable to know for certain that they were human remains. He brought them to the coroner's office, where they were pronounced to be human bones. It is thought that some man was sleeping in the barn on the night of the fire, and being unable to escape, he was burned to death.

DOG SHOW WILL BE A FEATURE OF THE GREAT WESTERN FAIR

A largely attended meeting of the London Canine Association and the dog show committee of the Western Fair was held last night, and a letter read from Dr. Rutherford, veterinary director-general for Canada, stated that any dogs that are shipped to the show from points outside the restricted district can come in all right, but are liable to be held when they are to be returned to the points at which they entered.

This, however, only bars dogs from points west of the eastern boundaries of the counties of York and Simcoe.

A Good Show.
"We have the whole of Western Ontario, including Toronto, to draw from," said Secretary Hunt, "and only a few dogs from Montreal will be affected. The show, I am certain, will be bigger than ever this year, as we have numerous applications in."

It was decided to at once issue a circular and send it to all interested, and committees were appointed to see all local exhibitors and get them to enter their dogs at the show.

The following were present: Dr. Niven, president of the London Canine Association; Capt. W. J. Reid, William McNeil, R. Oke, J. H. Saunders, S. Little, E. P. Smith, Geo. Bowman, F. Westbury, Dr. F. P. Drake, Dr. Robinson, Mr. Lauder, Mr. Roberts, W. M. Scott, Wm. Fuller and Secretary A. M. Hunt, of the Western Fair board.

SOME G. T. R. MEN WILL LOSE JOBS

Officially Announced That a Number of Strikers Will Not Be Taken Back.

TROUBLE AT WINDSOR

Five Old Employees Are Said to Have Been Discharged and No Reason Given.

Local Grand Trunk men are keenly interested in the situation at Windsor, where five of the old conductors have been discharged without any reason having been given. It was stated officially to The Advertiser at the Grand Trunk offices here today that there are a number of local conductors who will not be taken back.

"How many will be let out?" an official was asked.

"That has not been decided yet," was the reply. "There are a number, though, who will not be taken back. The great majority will, however, be reinstated as soon as vacancies occur and we do not expect any trouble."

So far there are only five of the old men back at work on the passenger runs.

No Reason Given.

"There was no reason given for dismissing the men at Windsor," said one of the strikers to The Advertiser today, "and it is unlikely that any will be given those who are not taken back here. They cannot say that local men acted in a disorderly way, for there was not a more orderly place in the country."

Asked if he thought there was any chance of another strike being called, the striker said no.

Have Ninety Days.

"Most of the men expect to get their old places back in time," he said. "The company have 90 days to get rid of the men they took on. No doubt some of them will be kept on permanently to take the places of those who have been discharged. I understand that quite a number of the strikebreakers had 30-day contracts, and as fast as these run out a large percentage of the men will be let out, and we expect the old men put back."

"Most of the freight men and yardmen are back now, and it is only in the passenger service that the largest number of the old men are still out. They are all drawing strike pay, however, and will continue to do so until they go back to work. Some of them are enjoying the holiday, but most of them I think would like to get back on the road again as soon as they can."

TORONTO'S BUILDING.
Toronto, Aug. 16.—Building permits totaling in value $339,290 were issued by the city architect from Aug. 3 to Aug. 13. The list of permits included 1 dwellings.

REPAIR THE SHOPS CARRY ON WORK

Mr. W. H. Wortman Says His Firm Will Go This Far With Local Plant.

THE CITY DOES NOT CARE

Head of Wortman & Ward Manufacturing Company Says He Has a Tempting Offer to Go Elsewhere.

Mr. W. H. Wortman, of the firm of Wortman & Ward, who returned recently from Winnipeg, stated to The Advertiser today that the shops here will be repaired sufficiently to allow the firm to go on with their work through the winter.

"We have a very tempting offer to locate elsewhere," said Mr. Wortman, "and I cannot say what we will do yet. As far as the city is concerned they do not seem to care what we do."

Mr. Wortman stated that a large branch factory will be built in Winnipeg at once.

MR. JOHN MCCLARY ON DEPUTATION

London's Biggest Manufacturer to Meet the Minister of Public Works.

IMPROVEMENTS AT PORT

Mr. Pugsley Will Be Told What Is Required—St. Thomas Backs London in the Matter.

The needs of Port Stanley will be strongly impressed upon Hon. William Pugsley, minister of public works, when he arrives in London next week, when he will be met by Mr. John McClary, who has been selected from him as to the date of his probable arrival, but it will likely be Wednesday or Thursday.

In the meantime a very strong deputation will be named to meet the minister. Water Commissioner Pocock has these arrangements in hand, and is working on them with characteristic vigor.

It is quite probable that Mr. John McClary will be the foremost figure in the deputation named to meet the minister. No person in London has greater knowledge of the value of the London and Port Stanley Railway, and the importance of Port Stanley to London shipping than Mr. McClary, and it is expected that he will form one of the party to join in with the board of trade in asking for improved conditions at Port Stanley.

St. Thomas Interested.
The corporation of St. Thomas has been invited, and in addition to Mayor Guest, it is expected that a strong deputation from that board of trade will be on hand.

William Jackson, ex-M.P. for West Engin, and now reeve of Port Stanley, will also be one of the deputation. Mr. Jackson is enthusiastic over the project, and insists that the best should be done to improve conditions there. Mr. Nate Cornell will be another delegate. It is expected that Mr. David Marshall, M.P. for the East Elgin, will also join the party.

Major Beattie, M.P. will go down to the Port also to meet the Minister of Public Works.

A number of ladies, including Mrs. Pugsley, wife of the minister, are in the party, and arrangements are also being made for their entertainment.

No Harbor of Refuge.
"We will make as bold a front as we possibly can to the Minister of Public Works," said Water Commissioner Pocock, "there is not a harbor of refuge on the north shore of Lake Erie. Port Stanley is the logical place for such a harbor, and in my opinion, is about the only good place for such a harbor. If it is improved, as we think it should be, it will be a good thing for Western Ontario. We will have the strongest possible deputation ready to meet the minister, and I am confident our petitions will be listened to."

"I have not heard from Mr. Pugsley yet," said Dr. Harry T. Reesor, acting president of the board of trade, "we will get some word today, and then we will be in a position to go ahead with our arrangements."

ROBERTS AND STEADMAN STILL ENJOYING THEIR FREEDOM

Men Who Escaped From the Middlesex County Jail Are Keeping Their Whereabouts in the Dark—Police Are Still on the Hunt.

While the police of the country are searching for Pte. W. A. Moir, who escaped from Hamilton Asylum, he was confined for killing Colonel Lloyd at Wolseley Barracks, said one of the men who has been in contact with him since he escaped from the jail. He is supposed to have a number of relatives in the vicinity of Saginaw and Bay City, Mich., and he may be in hiding in that part of the country now.

The question of Moir's sanity continues to worry several men interested in his case. One man suggests that the first afternoon after his escape with friends in Ingersoll many false stories were circulated by his pals to put the police off the real trail. He is supposed to have a number of relatives in the vicinity of Saginaw and Bay City, Mich., and he may be in hiding in that part of the country now.

No. 2 committee will be held probably this week to accept the revised plans. They will then be sent on to the board of education, and tenders called for.

"We want to do as much this fall as we can," declared Chairman W. W. Gannage, "A new school there will be a decided advantage to us, and will save us money in maintenance. We want it ready in a year."

They are practically ready at this moment, however, and a meeting of

OLD-TIME LABOR DAY PARADE FOR LOCAL CELEBRATION

A meeting will be held tonight to consider the arrangements for a modern Labor Day parade and celebration.

It is expected that this year will see a revival of the old-time Labor Day parade, followed by a fine programme of sports and games at Queen's Park.

All merchants will be invited to place their wagons in the procession, and getting the prize list in shape.

and many of them have already signified their intention of having decorated vehicles in the parade.

There will be a large representation of the various unions in line, and they will march from downtown to the Queen's Park.

The committee will get busy at once arranging the programme of sports and getting the prize list in shape.

GRAND TRUNK PLANS
IMPROVED ROADBED

Main Line Between Falls and Tunnel To Have 90-Pound Rails.

Important improvements to the roadbed of the Grand Trunk through Western Ontario have been commenced, and Superintendent Bowker stated to The Advertiser this afternoon that the work of relaying the line between Windsor and Komoka with 90-pound rails, replacing the present 50-pounders, will be completed this fall. The rails are arriving at Windsor, and are being distributed as quickly as possible.

Mr. Bowker states that next year the entire line between Niagara Falls and Sarnia Tunnel will be relaid with 100-pound rails. This is made necessary by the constantly increasing size of the locomotives and the heavier trains that are being hauled. The frame over the line between Niagara Falls and Sarnia is the heaviest on the whole G. T. R. system, and the company intend making every improvement necessary to expedite the large value of business.

will be returned to Canada as an undesirable, that is if he is recaptured. Was in Ingersoll.

While there is no doubt that Roberts spent the first afternoon after his escape with friends in Ingersoll many false stories were circulated by his pals to put the police off the real trail. He is supposed to have a number of relatives in the vicinity of Saginaw and Bay City, Mich., and he may be in hiding in that part of the country now.

MOIR WILL NOT BE TAKEN ALIVE

This Is the Opinion Expressed by the Police of London Who Defend Hamilton Force.

A BAD MAN AT LARGE

Having Been Declared Insane He Can Now Shed Blood Without Fear of Death.

That Moir will never be taken alive and in all probability will never be recaptured is the opinion of a number of the members of the local police force. If Moir should be cornered local detectives think that he would undoubtedly shoot down any one who came to take him.

"I think he would shoot any officer who went to arrest him just as deliberately as he shot Color-Sergeant Lloyd at Wolseley Barracks," said one officer to The Advertiser this afternoon. "Any one who has the impression for a moment that Moir is crazy is very badly mistaken. He has made a number of attempts to break away from Hamilton and on a former occasion very nearly succeeded."

Police Defended.

"It isn't fair for people to blame the Hamilton police force for everything that happens down there," said another officer. "They have some really fine men on the force and they do their best. They have been up against some of the toughest propositions they could have had. They did their best, too, and nobody can do any more. "As far as Moir is concerned I doubt if he will ever be captured alive. He is a bad man to handle and it will only be a chance if he is discovered. As he is absolutely desperate he would shoot on sight any one who went to take him."

Having been declared insane he can now kill as often as he likes and all that can befall him is to send him back to the asylum. The police regard the escape as one of the most unusual in the history of Canadian crime.

Need For a Change.

"It seems to me there is need for a change in a system where the most dangerous class of criminals are left entirely to themselves from early in the evening until the morning," said one man. "These prisoners are not ordinary criminals. They are men of a different type. They are men who are there for some terrible crime, and they are almost without exception as reckless as only a crazy man of that class can be. They have frequently attacked their guards and have caused endless trouble in a variety of ways. In all big English or American prisons men of this type would not be left unguarded for a minute, night or day. You never hear of an escape of that kind from those prisons."

ENGINEER WRIGHT IS DOING A GOOD JOB

Richmond Street North Is To Be Torn Up, Gravelled and Rolled.

Richmond street north is now being put into good order.

Today City Engineer Wright has one of the big rollers at work, tearing up the roadway, and when it is sufficiently levelled he will put gravel and broken stone on it, later rolling it with the big roller.

The work will be one of the best in the city, and no doubt it will be relieved of the complaints so prevalent regarding it.

"We have started work on the street," said Engineer Wright. "The big roller is now doing it up, and we will gravel it and roll it. This should make it one of the best in the city."

OH, YOU STREET RAILWAY!
WAIT FOR THIS ACCOUNT

City Is Preparing an Electrolysis Bill Which Will Be Sure To Be Allowed to Ripen.

The bill for electrolysis is being prepared at the instance of the water commissioners, and the London street railway will be presented with the account in a short time.

It is now being itemized, and has already reached quite a respectable item.

"We have commenced our report on electrolysis," declared Acting-Chairman Pocock. "The bill will be quite a respectable one, but will be absolutely accurate. I am convinced, and have been for some time, that the city has been put to a considerable expenditure through electrolysis. We want mere justice in this, and when the bill is presented, as it will be shortly, I am sure that our stand will be fully justified."

The next regular meeting of the board will take this matter up.

FARMERS ARE BREEDING HORSES

High Prices Results in an Attempt to Supply the Demand.

The horse-breeding industry is certainly thriving in this part of the country at present, as only a very small percentage of the farmers of Western Ontario are neglecting this part of the business.

Nearly every farmer has a colt or two, and hundreds of young horses of all classes are being raised. The price of horses has advanced so rapidly of late that the farmers are raising their own stock, and hundreds of colts are to be seen all through the country within fifty miles of here.

THE KING'S MEMORIAL.

London, Aug. 17.—Lord Strathcona has been appointed to the committee in connection with the memorial to King Edward to be erected in London.

STREETS TORN UP FOR WESTERN FAIR

City Will Not Be Able to Complete Dundas Street Work in Two Weeks.

CONDUITS TO GO DOWN

This Will Take a Long Time—Street Railway People Are Rushing Their Part of the Work.

Dundas street will be torn up for the Western Fair!

The big show opens two weeks from Friday, and it is not at all probable that the street will be in shape by that time.

However, the street railway company will make an effort to have their steel laid on Dundas street from Richmond to Wellington street.

It is along this line that the major portion of the tracks of the fair grounds will be carried, and they consider it quite possible that they will be in a position to handle the passengers on their line without great difficulty.

City Lags Behind.

The city's portion of the work will not be completed, nor is it likely to be commenced.

The underground conduits for the distribution of power in the downtown districts must be completed before the city can commence to lay the asphalt. The contractors are already on the ground, and work has been commenced. Although they will hurry the work as rapidly as possible, it is not possible for them to finish the work.

"We will get our part done with all possible speed," said Manager King. "As for tearing the street up, I do not know that it would be any worse than it is at present. We will make every effort to handle our traffic to the very best advantage."

MEN WILL DEMAND REASON FROM COMPANY

Strikers Will Find Out Why Certain Former Employees Were Dismissed.

Grand Trunk strikers stated to The Advertiser this afternoon that in all probability the union will insist upon the company giving good reasons for the dismissal of all men who have been discharged. This explanation, it is thought, will not be asked for until the 90 days allowed the company to take back all strikers is completed. The latter are asking the dismissal of all men who have been taken back with some interest, and the official statement made to The Advertiser today that a number of local men who had been taken back was also heard with interest and concern.

"We will want to know why these men are not to be taken back," said one striker. "If there is a good reason for the company dismissing the men they will be asked to give it. If not they will be asked to live up to the terms of the agreement, and reinstatement the men."

Just who the men are who will not be taken back here is not known yet, but probably will not be for some time. There are rumors, however, that the men affected are mostly older men. As far as the younger men are concerned the majority of them are in the position of strikers who have been taken back they can easily get other jobs, and they are not worrying particularly.

NO HURRY TO NAME
CANON DANN'S SUCCESSOR

It May Be a Year Before Rector Is Decided Upon.

The congregation of St. Paul's Cathedral will be in no hurry to select a successor to the late Rev. Canon Dann, and it will probably be a year before a name is named.

However, several names have already been mentioned in connection with the appointment. Of the local men, Rev. Prof. Jenkins is spoken of as being a possibility, because of his recognized ability as a preacher. Rev. Canon Hague has also been mentioned in connection with the vacancy.

"The vestry will be in no hurry to make a choice," said a member to The Advertiser. "We want to obtain the best man we possibly can, and it may take a year to find him."

CHAPMAN'S MUST HAVE MORE ROOM AT ONCE

Big Store Will Be Remodelled and New Front on Carling Street Will Be Put In.

Extensive alterations are contemplated in the store occupied by J. H. Chapman & Co., 141 Dundas street and Carling street.

The building will be raised to three stories at the rear, and a fine front porch in Carling street.

In addition the Dundas street entrance will be remodelled, and made up to date in every way.

Work will be commenced in a very short time, and it is expected that a considerable portion will be completed by Christmas.

The details have not been completed, but the contractor will be in charge in a short time.

"We will commence alterations shortly," said Mr. Jas. T. Burgess, the manager. "We have need of more room, and this will give us the required amount."

Many dope fiends contracted the drug habit in the cradle

Certain dangerous drugs were given to them in their baby days in the form of "Soothing Syrups," "colic cures" and "infant's friends." The harmful effect of "soothers" containing opium, morphine, chloroform, chloral, etc., cannot be too strongly stated. Do not give baby a "soother" unless you positively must. Then give it and rest contented. Nyal's Soothing Syrup contains no opiates. It induces natural, healthy sleep—gives immediate relief to baby, calming the mother's tired nerves—does not put on soft, flabby flesh, making the little folks easy victims of childish diseases.

We wouldn't think of recommending Nyal's Soothing Syrup if we were not certain of its beneficial effects.

STILL ON HUNT FOR A COMMON TONGUE

Promoters of Universal Language Haven't Settled on One Yet.

London, Aug. 16.—The hunt for a common tongue goes merrily on. Volapuk, Esperanto, Ido, Universal, all have their ardent partisans. No less than 36 of these artificial languages were invented between 1880 and 1902.

"The real difficulty," says the Independent, "seems to be that a viable language cannot be invented. It must grow. More promising is the present reaction in favor of elevating some natural language to the position of universal auxiliary."

"Hermann Diehl, rector of the Berlin Academy, proposed a French-English-German triad. Critics promptly and rightly objected that this linguistic triplicity still was Babel, though reduced to its least common denominator. Least? Some thought not. It ought to be possible to reduce this number to two."

"At the International Congress for the Instruction of Living Languages Chappeller in 1899 proposed an agreement between France, England and the United States with a view to the obligatory instruction of English in France, and French in England and the United States."

"This, he maintained, would in a short time place linguistic intercourse between these nations on a bilingual basis, and, counting the population of their political dependencies, reduce 400,000,000 people to a common understanding. Of the three, German was sacrificed in this proposal because of its relative difficulty and its scanty literature."

"The project received influential support, but the congress refused to consider it. The committee on an international language would have none of it, because they were looking for a neutral, that is, artificial language."

"That the Germans would tamely consent to be left out was not to be expected. Diehl rushed into the arena with the charge that the proposed Anglo-French linguistic alliance was really a political move and had, in the interest of international comity, better be consigned to the bone pile. And to the rubbish heap it went for the time being."

"But strangely enough, now that sentiment in favor of a natural language as an international auxiliary is growing, the Germans are first on their feet with a nomination of French for this distinguished office. Moleran of Bavaria, the inventor of the much praised Universal, or Panroman, as he originally named it, feels convinced that an artificial language, no matter how perfect, can never become universalized as an international language. 'I no longer,' he writes, 'hope for the success of my language (Universal). I shall sacrifice it in favor of French.'"

"The problem as it now stands is more complicated than ever. There is abundant excuse for some one to discover that the interests of a population bigger than that of France or the German Empire have been overlooked in this inquiry. The teeming populations of Mexico, large parts of the West Indies and the Philippines and Central and South America, not to mention Spain and its dependencies, surely have some claim to consideration."

"In our own country the opening of the Panama Canal, not far distant now, is bound to enhance the commercial value of Spanish through increase of trade with Central and South American countries, for political and commercial rather than literary considerations as a rule determine the spread of a language. Therefore the choice of French as a lingua franca is sure to be questioned in many quarters, and there is likely to be another moult of opinion in regard to this much debated subject."

Windsor, Aug. 17.—Capt. James B. Lowe, of the steamer E. A. S. Clarke, has reported the striking of an obstruction in Lake Superior Aug. 1, according to Capt. Lowe's letter the steamer was bound up light, and at a location estimated to be about four miles east of Manitowish. A light struck some hidden obstruction which violently jarred the boat.

The accident occurred at 3:10 p.m. when the captain was off watch, but the shock was so great that he was immediately awakened from sleep. At the lake charts of that vicinity show depths of from 70 to 80 fathoms of water the matter is a puzzle to the lake survey men. One of the Govern-

The Goodyear Probe.

Port Huron, Mich., Aug. 16.—The inquiry into the wreck of the steamer Frank H. Goodyear, in collision with the Jas. B. Wood in Lake Huron, May 23, when 18 persons were drowned, began here today before Vessel Inspector Stewart.

First Assistant Engineer Shunk, of the steamer Wood, was the first witness called. Later Capt. Hemmings, of the Goodyear, and Capt. Gibson, of the Wood, testified. Both stated that the collision was unavoidable. The result of the investigation will be made known in about a week.

BIG IRISH BOOM THROUGH RAILWAYS

A Vice-Regal Commission to Inquire Into the Subject.

Dublin, Aug. 16.—At last something is to be done to remedy the faults of the Irish railway system. We had become almost resigned to our fate when the report of the vice-regal commission came out recommending that an Irish authority should be instituted to acquire all the lines and work them as a single system, that there should be a railway board of four nominated and six elected directors, and that the purchase be effected by the issue of state guaranteed stock.

Now we are further cheered by hearing that Chief Secretary Augustine Lambart will give effect to the proposals, or at any rate part of them, if they are too sweeping for immediate adoption. Any deficit in the net annual revenue of the lines should be met, the report suggests, by a grant from the English exchequer, and it is recommended that this sum should not be less than $1,250,000, for such an amount would develop the resources of the country and help to mitigate the pressure of poverty.

To secure these advantages to Ireland, including lower freight rates for agricultural produce, would not necessarily entail such hard party fighting as it may appear. The chief difficulty is with the treasury, which has to meet constantly growing demands. It is an open secret that both Arthur James Balfour and George Wyndham, when each of them was conservation chief secretary, formed strong opinions on the Irish railway question, so it may safely be assumed that before many months have passed the Government will have tabled a far-reaching scheme of reform.

Exports Would Increase.

There are, by the way, 3,411 miles of railway in Ireland, of which 2,741 are single track, and these are controlled by no fewer than 281 directors. The commissioners have therefore ample justification for suggesting that twenty directors would be ample for the management for all the mileage. Given such a reform there is little doubt much of the Irish grazing land would revert to cultivation and the export of farm produce of any meaning in industrial development—would soon increase.

The proposals have lent fresh interest to the details that are now available of the new transatlantic transportation scheme that is on foot. As is well known, the proposal is to run a line of big steamships from Galway to Halifax, N. S., Halifax being over 800 miles nearer Liverpool than either Boston or New York, it is estimated that two days could be cut off the trip across the Atlantic. A 26-knot steamer would complete this distance in the startling time of three days, the time it takes to go across the American continent by fast trains.

Halifax is also referred to as an important shipping port with a fine deep water harbor all the year round. Already Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, the president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has decided to make the Nova Scotia port the winter terminus of his line, crossing the Irish Sea without change, and in specially constructed boats, from Kingstown to Holyhead.

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, AUG. 17.

CANADA AND THE DREAD-NOUGHTS.

The British cruiser indefatigable, launched last year, was the largest and most powerful cruiser of the Dreadnought type designed up to that time. But she is almost dwarfed by the latest cruiser of the same class, the Lion, launched a fortnight ago at Devonport. The comparative figures are:

Length—Lion, 700 feet; Indefatigable, 556 feet.
Beam—Lion, 88.1-2 feet; Indefatigable, 80 feet.
Horsepower—Lion 70,000; Indefatigable, 45,000.

Speed—Lion, 30 knots; Indefatigable, 27 knots.
Displacement—Lion, 26,000 tons; Indefatigable, 18,750 tons.

Armament—Lion, eight 13.5-inch guns; Indefatigable, eight 12-inch.

Some Canadian quinquies ask what chance Canada's "collection of tin-pots" would have against one of these monsters. They charge the Government with throwing sixty million dollars into the sea. They talk as though a single Dreadnought could cross the Atlantic, and blow the Canadian squadron into the air as a pastime. But a Dreadnought does not travel alone. Even Britain's fleet of Dreadnoughts would not leave port in time of war unless surrounded by scouts, destroyers, and torpedo boats to protect them against the enemy's torpedo craft and submarines. In fact naval experts of high reputation say that the sea would have to be cleared of the enemy's small craft before the Dreadnoughts ventured out. The ships which will form the first Canadian fleet would be essential to a Dreadnought, so that it is folly to say that the money to be spent on them will be thrown away. They are the necessary foundation of a naval establishment. The Dreadnought superstructure will no doubt be added in time, but Canada is spending quite enough money as a beginning.

THE SOUTH AFRICAN POLITICAL STRUGGLE.

It seems to be accepted as a foregone conclusion by the people of the South African Union, that the first general election there, which takes place on the 15th of next month, will result in a parliamentary majority for the government party, led by General Louis Botha. It is taken for granted that both the Transvaal and the Cape will return a majority for the Government, while Natal will send to Parliament a solid body of seventeen members, who, if they consistently vote with the Opposition, led by Dr. Jameson, and known as "the Unionist party," instead of, as is not improbable, forming an independent party and waiting upon events, will counterbalance the sixteen government members which the Orange River province is expected to elect.

The great fight in the Transvaal, which returns 36 members, will be between General Botha and Sir Percy Fitz Patrick, in East Pretoria, where the latter a few years ago defeated Sir Richard Solomon. This time, however, Sir Percy has a far stronger opponent. The Cape province elects 51 parliamentary representatives. The Oppositionists have no aggressive leader, Mr. Merriman having retired to private life rather than serve under Botha, and will not have more than a mere handful in the House. Natal, the only province in which the English race preponderates, is a strong rival of the Cape for the Transvaal trade, and it is said to be by no means unlikely that a purely Natal party will come into existence, having in view first the interests of the province, leaving the interests of United South Africa as a secondary consideration.

The point of difference between the two parties—that of education—is of Dutch origin, and arises entirely in the Orange River province, where the Dutch are in a large majority, and are at the back of General Hetzog, whose education policy started all the trouble, culminating in the resignation of the superintendent of education, Dr. Gunn, in March last. The educational system which had prevailed throughout the Orange River province from the close of the war up to the beginning of 1908, was the same as Lord Milner established in the Transvaal. At the outset every child's education was begun in its own mother tongue, and if this was Dutch, English was gradually substituted in the higher standards. By this means any Dutch child having spent four or five years at school, passed out with a good knowledge of English, having, of course, retained its own tongue as well. This gave rise to fear on the part of the more strenuous Nationalists, and in 1908, General Hetzog introduced as a government measure a bill providing that both Dutch and English must be taught throughout the whole school course, that instruction was to be equally conveyed in both languages, and that every teacher was to be familiar with both. This system soon proved to be unworkable, and lost favor with many of the Dutch themselves. As yet, however, the old racial feeling in the province has proved too strong to be resisted, and what is really but a provincial matter has developed into an issue on which the union elections are being fought.

Meanwhile South Africa has a governor-general, prime minister, a cabinet, four administrators, and a dozen heads of departments. In addition 32 of its 40 senators have been chosen, and the remainder are still to be appointed by the Union Government. The Legislatures of each of the four colonies have elected eight. The Cape and Orange River Colony each send to the Senate six Ministerialists and two Oppositionists, the Transvaal five Ministerialists, one Laborite and two members of the Opposition, while of the Natal senators few have definitely declared themselves, but at least two may be counted as Ministerialists. The senators are chosen for ten years, so that for that period at least Botha is assured of a substantial majority in the Upper House.

LAND TAXATION AGITATION.

The memorial to the British prime minister and chancellor of the exchequer on the subject of land taxation, which is signed by 134 members of Parliament, after expressing gratitude for the budget of 1909-10, "which for the first time recognizes the principle of the separate valuation of land," urges the Government to continue and develop the policy inaugurated by the budget, making land values available for public needs; freeing industry from monopoly and undue burdens of taxation; completing the policy of free trade by securing "greater opportunities to produce in our own country," by affording greater opportunities to use the land, and abolishing the duties that remain on the food of the people.

In the opinion of the memorialists this policy may be carried into effect by (1) hastening the completion of the valuation of all land, apart from improvements, provided for in the budget of 1909-10; (2) making that valuation accessible to the public; (3) empowering local authorities to levy rates on the basis of that valuation; (4) levying a budget tax on all land values, to be applied (a) in providing a national fund to be allotted toward the cost of such services as education, poor relief, main roads, asylums and police, thereby relieving the local rates, and (b) in substitution of the duties on tea, sugar, cocoa, and other articles of food.

JOHN BURNS' ADVICE.

[John Burns, at Remford.]

Avoid street noises, get rid of the smoke nuisance before it begins, don't have ugly forecourt shops, don't have a professional football club, and if you have a golf club don't have boy caddies, who end in blind alley employment, don't encourage mechanical amusements, but give the people good, old-fashioned English games which will waste and improve all who take part in them. (Applause.)

A SAFE PLACE.

[New York Sun.]

English railroad men are proud of their record as regards the safety of passengers. Last year out of 1,354,900,000 passengers hauled, only one was killed by an accident to a train. Nineteen were killed getting on or off trains. This total of passengers does not include commuters, none of whom were killed by an accident. Of the total only 32 were injured. By accidents to trains 52 railroad employees were killed and 2,148 injured.

HIS DEFENCE.

THE RIGHT STUFF.

[Montreal Herald.]

Mrs. Clara Taylor, member of the Salvation Army, and not long out from England, is at the present moment living in Leithridge, Alberta, with her family of five, scrubbing stores and offices while her husband performs the improvement work and residence duties required by the Government on a homestead 35 miles out of town.

On Saturday nights, after the ordinary day's round of scrubbing, Mrs. Taylor walks out to the homestead, 35 miles, to take her husband a supply of groceries and spend Sunday with him to cheer his exile. The crop, which the Taylors thought would enable them to abandon the scrubbing and take up residence as a family on the farm this autumn, is like most of the Leithridge district crops, a complete failure. But as long as Mrs. Taylor can scrub there is no danger of the family becoming a "public charge."

There is no reason to suppose that they will not by next year be very successful farmers; only this year is a year of hard luck.

It is a simple little story, and probably there are plenty more like it in the crop-failure district. But these are not people at whom Canadians are likely to look askance as hardly worthy to come among us, are they?

THE FIRST SETTLEMENT.

Celebration of Landing of First Newfoundland Colonists.

St. John's, Nfld., Aug. 17.—Three hundred years ago, John Guy and a party of colonists from Bristol, England, founded the first permanent settlement in Newfoundland. To fittingly observe the occasion the celebration is being held today at Conception Bay, in which the governor, the ministers of the province, the Colonial Historical Society and others have a part. One of the chief features of the occasion is the placing of a memorial tablet, presented by the city of Bristol, England, in the monument which denotes the site of Guy's first colony at Cupids. A special delegate from Bristol will present the tablet.

The colony has issued a special series of postage stamps to mark the anniversary.

HUBREY.

Hubrey, Aug. 16.—Mr. Archibald Sinclair, of Hubrey, Westminster, a typical representative of longevity, having attained his centenarian period, hale and alert, and in full possession of his physical and mental functions with the exception of a defect in his hearing. He is a native of Kilmartin Parish, Argyllshire, Scotland, having been born there July 17, 1810. He emigrated ostensibly for Canada in 1831 after an eventful trip of seven weeks and three days. Mrs. McKellar, mother of the late Duncan McKellar, was a passenger on the Davern, and died in transit, whereupon her remains were consigned to the depths of the sea. His itinerancy was confined to Yarmouth, North Dorchester, Belmont and Westminster. Numerically his progeny aggregates: Children 4; grandchildren 22; great-grandchildren, 16; great-great-grandchild, 1. The venerable patriarch makes his home with his eldest daughter, Mrs. Neil Campbell.

Death claimed Mrs. Anne Smith, wife of Mr. John Smith, of Westminster, on Wednesday, Aug. 10, in her 45th year after a severe affliction of heart disease. Deceased was a native of Aberdeenshire, Scotland. She is survived, besides her husband, by one son, J. Ray Smith; two daughters, notably Misses Eva M. J. Smith and Ella A. Smith; also two brothers, Mr. Richard Smith, of Buffalo, N. Y. and J. M. Smith, of Dunbridge, Ohio. The interment occurred on Saturday afternoon to the Forest Mills Cemetery and was largely attended. Rev. Dr. McCrae, of Wilton Grove, conducted the funeral services impressively at the house and grave. The floral tributes

THE FIRST SETTLEMENT.

Celebration of Landing of First Newfoundland Colonists.

St. John's, Nfld., Aug. 17.—Three hundred years ago, John Guy and a party of colonists from Bristol, England, founded the first permanent settlement in Newfoundland. To fittingly observe the occasion the celebration is being held today at Conception Bay, in which the governor, the ministers of the province, the Colonial Historical Society and others have a part. One of the chief features of the occasion is the placing of a memorial tablet, presented by the city of Bristol, England, in the monument which denotes the site of Guy's first colony at Cupids. A special delegate from Bristol will present the tablet.

The colony has issued a special series of postage stamps to mark the anniversary.

HUBREY.

Hubrey, Aug. 16.—Mr. Archibald Sinclair, of Hubrey, Westminster, a typical representative of longevity, having attained his centenarian period, hale and alert, and in full possession of his physical and mental functions with the exception of a defect in his hearing. He is a native of Kilmartin Parish, Argyllshire, Scotland, having been born there July 17, 1810. He emigrated ostensibly for Canada in 1831 after an eventful trip of seven weeks and three days. Mrs. McKellar, mother of the late Duncan McKellar, was a passenger on the Davern, and died in transit, whereupon her remains were consigned to the depths of the sea. His itinerancy was confined to Yarmouth, North Dorchester, Belmont and Westminster. Numerically his progeny aggregates: Children 4; grandchildren 22; great-grandchildren, 16; great-great-grandchild, 1. The venerable patriarch makes his home with his eldest daughter, Mrs. Neil Campbell.

Death claimed Mrs. Anne Smith, wife of Mr. John Smith, of Westminster, on Wednesday, Aug. 10, in her 45th year after a severe affliction of heart disease. Deceased was a native of Aberdeenshire, Scotland. She is survived, besides her husband, by one son, J. Ray Smith; two daughters, notably Misses Eva M. J. Smith and Ella A. Smith; also two brothers, Mr. Richard Smith, of Buffalo, N. Y. and J. M. Smith, of Dunbridge, Ohio. The interment occurred on Saturday afternoon to the Forest Mills Cemetery and was largely attended. Rev. Dr. McCrae, of Wilton Grove, conducted the funeral services impressively at the house and grave. The floral tributes

THE WOMAN'S CORNER

NEW OUTING BONNET

Nightcap? No—it is, instead, the latest style in outing bonnets. Probably originated in the fertile brain of some girl who desired a headgear more becoming than the popular chiffon veil which she has shaped to fit the head by knotting over the ears.

This bonnet is usually made of liberty silk corded and shirred over a close-fitting wire frame. A little frill finishes it about the edges, and long streamers of the silk tie under the chin or under one ear.

It is most becoming and comfortable, and is easily made by the girl who is handy with sewing utensils.

FASHIONS

Novelties in white and colored crepe de chine waists are well liked, made in simple peasant styles, fastening in the back with small silk crocheted buttons to match the waist, trimmed with self-colored hand embroideries.

Guimpes are usually of the simplest order, very sheer, little trimmed, unobtrusive and very shallow.

Lace and embroidered hose are equally fashionable.

Metalized Egyptian scarfs are great favorites for the evening summer wrap.

Short skirts, well above the ankles, made on the new scant style, of tweed, serge or mohair, and with high boots to match, are modish for country wear.

Veils to match the costume are much smarter than those of contrasting color.

The cotton crepes are less used by the blouse makers than were last season, but beautiful models are made up in the fine cotton etamines. White linen embroidered in color is much liked, the touch of color echoing some one of the tones in the skirt and coat with which the blouse is worn.

Alpaca, brilliantine and silk are the best materials for bathing suits.

Tales From the Arabian Nights

The Three Beggars.

In the city of Bagdad there lived two sisters, noted for their beauty and kind-heartedness. One evening, as they sat at supper, there came a knock at the portal, and the maid led in three beggars, clad in leather. Each of them had shaved his head, his eyebrows and his lashes, and each had lost his right eye. Each was young and each was very handsome. They were given a bountiful supper, and then, in accordance with the city's regular custom, they were asked to relate the stories of their lives. Without hesitation one of the three began his tale:

My father was the king of a far country, he said, and I the heir to the crown. One day, when I came home from a visit, I was met at the palace gate by an armed guard, at whose head was my father's grand vizier. "Prince," he said, "your father is dead and I have been made sultan in his place. You are my prisoner."

When I was a very little boy, playing with the vizier's son, with a bow and arrow I had accidentally put out one of his eyes. My father gave the vizier a large sum of money, and the vizier seemed to be content. But now the vizier's son came to me as I lay in a dungeon, helpless and in chains, thrust his finger into my eye, and then stood over me, gloating upon his revenge. He commanded that I be beheaded, but I pleaded so hard with the jailer, who had been one of my father's most faithful followers, that he finally let me go alive, on condition that I never return.

There was a princess, a cousin of mine, whom I had always dearly loved, and whom I wished to have married when the king decreed that we were old enough. I did not have time to tell her before I fled the country that I would claim her some day when all the judgment had passed by. You may judge my anguish when the next day, as I was escaping I heard the sounds of a festive procession. It was a bridal party, and in the midst of it, fair and sweet as a rose, sat my betrothed on a white palfrey, a wedding veil on her brown hair. Beside her rode the vizier's son.

I had lost everything—father, home and my princess. So I put on a beggar's cloak and roamed about until I came to this city, where I hope to get aid from your kind sultan.

HILMA

William Tillinghast Eldridge.

"He's coming around," the first spoke.

"We'd better get him before he does."

It was so dark I could not see my assailants, but in a moment the bushes began to snap and two forms loomed up in the path.

One of them kicked out with his foot.

"He's not here," the other insisted.

"I could have reached out and touched them with my hand."

One move forward nearer to me, and as he leaned over to feel for my body I brought the butt of my pistol down on his head.

He fell without a word, and as he did so I sprang over him at the throat of the second.

In the darkness I missed my calculation, however, and while I struck the fellow and sent him sprawling, I failed to get my fingers on him, but fell myself.

In an instant he was upon his feet, and with an oath set off down the path toward the lake as fast as he could run.

Scrambling to my feet, I started after him, but in the darkness lost my way.

At last I gave it up, and retracing my steps, began a search for the first man I had knocked down.

I hunted high and low, but could find no trace of him. What path I had taken from the balcony I could not say, and I finally gave up the search, confident there could have been but two of them, and that by now they were well out of the way.

The sound of the water was on my left, and guided by that and the lights in the inn, I made my way to the shore.

As I stepped a light keel boat into the water a step sounded on the gravel.

Warned by my previous adventure, I crouched beside the boat, revolver in hand, to make sure who was coming.

In a minute I recognized Barnsmurk, and hailed him in a low voice.

"Did you see any one prowling about?" I asked.

"No," he answered "no one."

Suddenly, as I started to tell him of my adventure, a pistol shot rang out, followed by a cry, two or three oaths, and then Karl's voice shouted:

"Get away."

Barnsmurk sprang forward, though I called him back.

I could hear the sound of steel upon steel, and felt sure Karl was holding his own. The danger of a trap into which we all might fall held me back for an instant.

Then Karl's voice called a warning again.

"Push off, John, push off!"

"Get him quick!" I heard some one call, and then out onto the wharf, and this time Barnsmurk set up a shout for me to get away.

I cared not to desert them, yet if the three of us were knocked over the princess stood a poor chance of being released.

I hesitated, however, to leave, but stood one foot in the boat, the other on the wharf, waiting to hear what would come of the fight.

A great fuss was being made, and I trusted it would attract the people in the inn.

Then suddenly some one cried: "There!" and a great stillness came over the garden.

And then as suddenly some one came rushing toward the lake, calling "Wait! Wait, John!"

It was all that was needed to give Karl's warning confirmation, for the voice was neither his nor Barnsmurk's.

As the man came on, calling again for me to wait, I pushed off the boat, dropped into the bottom of it and waited.

Again, and seeing that the wharf, called the trick, whipped out his revolver and began firing. The bullets sang about me, and then some one else shouted:

"You fool! stop!"

Another man stood on the wharf. I raised up carefully, took aim and fired.

The fellow who had come last, and who was the taller of the two, threw up his arms with a cry I had discovered.

Then as lights sprang up in the inn and men came rushing into the garden with lanterns, I had discovered.

It was already late, and if they had a suspicion of our plans there was need of haste.

Before Heinrich could be reached of before Heinrich could be reached of

CHAPTER XXVIII.

I pulled as hard as I could for five minutes and then stood still. Over the lake a great stillness hung, and satisfied no one was following me, I bent to the oars and gave them a forward stroke.

A fear gripped my heart that it had gone ill with Karl and Barnsmurk, yet the sudden commotion in the inn might have meant they would secure help from that quarter.

The fact that Barnsmurk had come uninvited led me to hope the attack was simply an effort to get Karl and myself out of the way, in which case it bade fair to go easy with them both, even if they were not rescued, and also made it possible that Heinrich would not be wary of my coming.

Once or twice I paused to see if I had held my course with the lights of the inn astern, and then as the black outline of the castle walls loomed close ahead I slowed my stroke and rowed in carefully.

The boat's nose touched the shore, and then I listened for the running water from the pipe that led out of the moat.

It sounded above me, and with that as a guide I soon found the pipe, and stepped on the boat and stepped out upon the flat, rock.

There was just barely room for me to stand, and I had to feel with my hands to find the place in the wall. I tried it, but found it locked.

I knew I was early, as the cathedral clock had not chimed the hour, so I sat down, my back to the wall, to wait.

Several minutes passed, the only sound being the steady fall of water from the drain pipe. It sounded so loud I made up my mind the moat must be overfull, and I doubted if I would be able to hear Valtier's footsteps when he came.

As I waited, holding my breath and cursing the running water from the pipe, for it prevented my hearing any sound that might have come from within.

I tried the door again, and found it would not give way even to my shoulder.

Then I listened, holding my breath and cursing the running water from the pipe, for it prevented my hearing any sound that might have come from within.

Finding my efforts, such as they were, of no avail, I sat down again with what patience I could summon. Still the water ran noisily from the pipe, still my boat bumped and bumped against the rock, but no other sound could be heard.

At last the clock across the lake, in the cathedral chimed the half hour, and I rose, resolved to do something, though I knew not what.

If I had had an axe or a bar I might have broken in the door, but without some such tool I seemed helpless.

Then suddenly a thought came to me, and I resolved to act upon it. Certainly I was not going to spend the night outside the wall, and already valuable time was being lost.

I dropped back into the boat, and moving to the stern, swung it around until I was nearly under the overhanging pipe. I reached out in the darkness and found the pipe was a large one of iron.

How long it was I did not know. It seemed to run straight through under the wall, and certainly the other end could be but half under water, for the stream that flowed through it, while swift, only half filled the pipe.

My mind made up, I took off my coat, wrapped my pistol and extra cartridges inside of it and tied these to one of the loose seats of the boat. I then climbed back onto the rocks, tried the door again only to find it locked, listening an instant to see if Valtier were yet coming, and heard nothing, climbed over the rocks until I was on top of the pipe.

Then with some difficulty I climbed down until my feet rested on the round bottom of the pipe. The water ran with more force than I thought, and it was almost impossible to keep my footing.

one thing only: that Zergald had learned in some way of our plans.

Either Valtier had played us false, or he too was knocked in the head, as Karl and Barnsmurk had been. In such a case quick action was demanded on my part. Yet I waited patiently for five minutes more, and then began to look or feel about me.

The rock on which I stood was no larger than a table, and beyond it on both sides the shore was a mass of huge, rough boulders that afforded no sure footing.

I felt along the wall as far as I could, both sides the shore was a mass of huge, rough boulders that afforded no sure footing.

I tried the door again, and found it would not give way even to my shoulder.

Then I listened, holding my breath and cursing the running water from the pipe, for it prevented my hearing any sound that might have come from within.

Still, by clinging to the rocks and the edge of the pipe, I was able to let myself down until I was in a sitting position, my feet and legs in the pipe and covered by the water, which rushed against my body with a dull roar; my face was toward the castle. Then slowly I turned myself around, clinging to the rim, but all the time working my body farther in.

The water, thus dammed up, began to run over my back. I reached out, picked up the seat to which my coat and sword were tied, and then slowly began to back my way into the pipe.

I was able to half kneel, and while the water ran to my chin, my mouth was above the surface.

Semi-Steel Fire-Pot—Not Gray Iron

A FIRE-POT of a furnace should be able to endure tremendous heat and to repel the attacks of sulphur fumes.

The material commonly used for a fire-pot is gray iron. The Sunshine fire-pot is Semi-Steel.

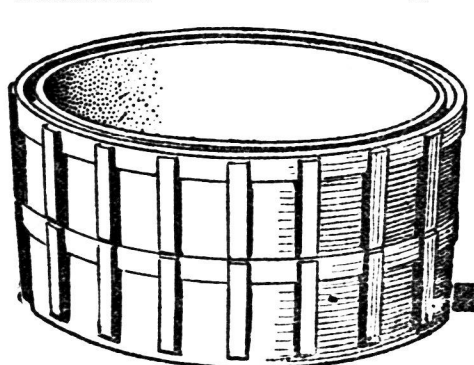

Now, avoiding technical terms, gray iron has what may be called "open" pores. Through these "open" pores the destructive sulphur fumes attack the iron and hasten disintegration.

On the other hand, Semi-Steel is a close-grained material, with a smooth-as-glass surface which practically seals or "closes" up the pores. Semi-Steel easily repels the attacks of gas fumes and thus greatly prolongs the life of the fire-pot.

A Semi-Steel fire-pot weighs 20 per cent. heavier than the same size and pattern in gray iron. It is therefore better able to endure tremendous heat.

Semi-Steel is made by an exclusive McClary process. You can only get a Semi-Steel fire-pot with a McClary furnace. That is one strong reason why you should have the Sunshine installed in your home. Our agent in your locality will tell you many other reasons. Ask him. Remember, the Sunshine is guaranteed, by the largest makers of furnaces in British Empire, to heat your home to your entire satisfaction.

Toronto's Fear of Strike Vanishes

Toronto, Aug. 16.—Toronto citizens were relieved tonight by the news that the street railway troubles are likely to end without resort to a strike or lockout. The ominous clouds which have hung over the situation up till this afternoon have lightened and on the eve of the great exhibition it is satisfactory to feel reasonably assured that the street car traffic will not be interrupted.

Judge Barron, chairman of the board of conciliation, says that in his opinion all fears of a strike have vanished. He stated tonight that negotiations had been begun afresh this morning on an entirely new basis, to which the men had agreed. He had approached the general manager of the Toronto Railway Company and, whether as a direct result of that appeal or not, he now feels that a strike was averted. The board will make an award tomorrow, which his honor expects will be satisfactory to all parties, and he says that it will be signed tomorrow night.

It was accompanied by a violent electrical disturbance, which put the power plant out of business for some time and plunged the town in darkness. The rain has quenched the numerous fires.

TEACHERS ARE NOT SCARCE IN LONDON

Unlike Rural Schools, Staffs Here Are Complete and Ready for Opening.

CITY TO LOAN TEACHERS

In This Way the County May Be Helped Out of a Very Serious Educational Difficulty.

The public schools of the city will reopen on Thursday, Sept. 1, but the Collegiate Institute will not reopen until Tuesday, Sept. 6. There will be few changes in the public school staff. As for the Collegiate, it will be identical the same as the close of the term.

None of the principals or vice-principals of the public schools have resigned. A few of the lady teachers have resigned, but their places will be filled with substitute teachers.

King street school will probably be closed, or at least the two upper rooms will be, as there are not enough pupils to keep the teachers busy. The kindergarten and first grade will be retained, however. The older pupils will be distributed among the Colborne street, Talbot street, and Simcoe street schools.

Plenty of Teachers. So far as can be learned there is no dearth of teachers.

"We have plenty of teachers," said Secretary McElheran to The Advertiser. "There will be very few vacancies in the school staff, and they will be filled from the substitute list. We find no dearth of teachers for our schools."

This condition differs from the rural sections. In the county of Middlesex there are ten schools without teachers at the present time. Inspector Thompson stated that it was almost impossible to obtain teachers to fill the positions, but temporary arrangements would be made later.

Same as Last Year. Last year the same conditions prevailed, and some teachers were loaned to the county by the city. Substitute teachers who did not wish to lose their position in the line were allowed to teach in the county, and were called upon by the board of education here when necessary.

In this way the dearth of teachers was not so badly felt, and it is expected that a similar method will be followed this year.

At the present time it is not known exactly how many teachers Inspector Edwards will have available for that purpose.

When the schools open in two weeks' time a list will be made out, and in that way the lack of teachers will be overcome to a certain extent at least.

A Makeshift. In some localities a semblance of school has been carried on, the largest pupil in the school taking charge. In others temporary certificates have been granted to former teachers who take up the work.

There has been a very great exodus of teachers to the west this year. The demand for teachers being exceptionally high, and the salaries offered very high.

WILLIAM M'KENNA AGAIN IN COURT

May Be Sent to the Farm for Inebriates.

William McKenna, who has appeared before Magistrate Love probably more times than any young man in London, was gathered in last night for being drunk.

McKenna was in hiding before court opened, but a constable named Williams, who had been in the cage like a jack in the box, and before the court had time to say anything shouted at him, "Let me go, and I will go to Detroit at noon."

The boys are forgetting the little bargain we made a few days ago," said the court. "We agreed at that time that if you came up again you were to go to the Inebriate Farm at Guelph. Besides, there is a charge of disorderly conduct against you, and I will hear the evidence."

Conductor J. B. Lawrence called stated that McKenna last night, in a Belt Line car, had made use of the most abusive language in the presence of a number of ladies.

"I will remand you for a week," said the magistrate, "and think over what I had better do with you."

Bread. A new and novel Bread Book has just been issued by the Passenger Department of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. The cover is an imitation of a bread basket. BOTHWELL MAN MADE ASSAULT ON C.P.R. MAN Appeared in Police Court and Was Remanded.

John Biggar, a young man who formerly resided in London, but of late been living in Bothwell, appeared before Magistrate Love this morning at the police court on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

Biggar, it is alleged, went into the C. P. R. pump-house near the Oxford street bridge last night, and made a vicious attack on one of the men there and made a nuisance of himself by being abusive until the police were called. He was remanded for a week.

REV. GEORGE W. DEWEY TO STAY FOUR YEARS

The Pastor of Empress Avenue Methodist Church Receives Unanimous Call.

At the regular meeting of the quarterly official board of Empress Avenue Methodist Church held last night, a unanimous call was extended to Rev. George W. Dewey to remain with the church for the fourth year.

Mr. Dewey's third year does not expire until next June, and there was reason to believe that he might receive a call to the Askin Street Methodist Church.

Mr. Dewey is very popular with the entire congregation, and the call extended to him last night was unanimous. He accepted it.

The board granted him an increase of $200 in his salary, and from now on he will receive $1,200 per year.

FATHER HAD HIS SON PLACED UNDER ARREST

Charles Baker Is Charged With Threatening the Life of His Parent.

Charles Baker, Jun., son of Charles Baker, the nurseryman on Brick street, South London, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a warrant charging him with having threatened the life of Baker, Sen. Young Baker appeared before Squire Chittick, but the case was adjourned until Friday afternoon. He was released on $400 bail in two sureties.

It is alleged that there has been considerable trouble between the father and the son for some time, and that this charge is the culmination of the difficulty.

THAT SMALL LOAF

Magistrate Calls It a Scheme to Get Around the Law.

Toronto, Aug. 16.—When the case against James Dempster, a local baker, charged with breach of the Nidder bread act, was called in the police court today, several large loaves of bread with dividing lines and cross sections stamped upon them were handed up to the police magistrate. One loaf with a dividing line across the middle weighed 19 ounces and another marked with four small portions weighed 39.2 ounces. Dempster's counsel, T. C. Robinson, argued that the loaves were "small bread," baked in batches and separable into small loaves. Col. Denison, however, would not listen to the claim.

"These are not small bread, these are whole loaves," he said. "A small loaf is a small loaf. These are big loaves. Small loaves must be small in loaf. It is just a little scheme to get around the act."

The case was adjourned.

BUFFALO POLICE

rounding up the fugitives and solving the mystery of their remarkable getaway has been entrusted, has suddenly dropped out of sight. His quiet and unexpected disappearance this morning after two days of hustling here is a puzzle to the police.

It is believed that the provincial sleuth is hot on the trail of the missing men or their confederates, and it would not be surprising if there are sensational developments at any hour.

Escape Well Planned. While it is true that the police have the number of the car which shot through Beamsville in the early hours of the morning, so carefully was the escape plotted and handled in every detail, the detectives are skeptical about the men who managed it bungling so badly as to risk being detected by displaying the number of the car's license. They are rather inclined to the belief that two acts of numbers were carried to throw pursuers off the trail, and that false numbers were displayed as far as the border. However, just how good the auto clue is will soon be known.

Ferried Across. As also expressed as to Moir and Taggart being taken into the United States in the automobile. The chances of the alarm having been spread before the frontier was reached must have occurred to the occupants of the car, and that they would risk being caught after such a successful break for liberty, does not seem plausible. The fact that the car stopped for half an hour or so in the vicinity of Bridgeburg, lends color to the theory that the men were smuggled across in a boat, and were picked up again on the other side by the car.

Searching inquiries will be made this week in the border to ascertain whether the men took the water route in crossing.

Seen Near Thorold. St. Catharines, Aug. 16.—A man believed to be R. F. Taggart, the Toronto hit-man, who escaped from the Hamilton Asylum yesterday, was seen on the town line between Merriton and Thorold early this morning by an employee of the Canada Haircloth

Ways to Save

Be systematic if you are determined to develop the saving habit. Here are several plans which may help you to save money and get ahead financially:

Make an allowance for each class of expenses, and then plan to save something on each allowance. Make it a rule to set aside a certain per cent of your income on pay day. Consider that this per cent is insurance against the future. Look upon it as a debt which must be paid. As your income increases your savings will increase.

ANALYSIS OF

St. Lawrence Sugar

THE STANDARD OF PURITY

Laboratory of Provincial Government Analyst.

MONTREAL, 22nd February, 1909.

I HEREBY CERTIFY that I have drawn by my own hand ten samples of the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Co's EXTRA STANDARD GRANULATED SUGAR, indiscriminately taken from four lots of about 150 barrels each and six lots of about 450 bags each. I have analyzed same and find them uniformly to contain 99.99/100 to 100 per cent of pure cane sugar, with no impurities whatever.

"Moir a Cate One." St. Catharines, Aug. 17.—Chief of Police Greene said this morning that he did not think there was the least possibility that the tramp seen near here yesterday morning was Taggart, the escaped lunatic. "Every tramp or stranger seen is of course taken for one of the escaped lunatics," said the chief. Why, last night somebody phoned in to headquarters that Taggart was at the Grand Trunk station. He was sure it was Taggart, but when we got out there we found it was only a harmless Pole who looked no more like Taggart than you do. I think it is quite probable that the pair of them are well across the line."

Chief Greene was to be on the London police force, and was in the chase after Moir when he committed the murder at Wolseley Barracks. "Moir's a cute one all right," said he, "and he will give them a good long chase before they get him."

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

HAY PRICES ARE VERY FIRM

No Chance of a Drop in Fodder for Some Weeks at Least.

FRUIT IS SCARCE NOW

Dairy Produce Is Dear and Will Likely Go Higher in Price—The Day's Quotations.

The market was quiet this morning. Hay was firm at $14.25 and $15 per ton, but only a couple of loads were offered for sale.

There is no probability of hay falling in price before the completion of the current harvest, and even then the price may remain high, as many farmers have already sold the greater part of their surplus crop.

An apparent scarcity of fruit was noticeable on the fruit market.

Cantaloupes are now selling for 10 and 20 cents each. Thimbleberries have fallen as low as 10 cents retail, and 8 cents wholesale, per box.

Dairy produce is still high. Honey sells readily at 12 and 12½ cents per pound.
