BRITISH SUBMARINE WITH ENTIRE CREW IS LOST AT ENTRANCE TO CHANNEL

Undersea Craft K-5 Was in Command of John A. Gaines—Fifty Men and Six Officers Go Down With the Vessel—Belonged to Type Known as "Fleet" Submarines, Which Were Used for Cruising With Big Squadrons.

London, Jan. 22.—British submarine K-5, commander John A. Gaines, was lost with all the crew aboard on Thursday at the approaches to the English Channel, the admiralty announced this afternoon.

The complement of the lost submarine was not given, but vessels of this class carry approximately six officers and 50 men. The disaster, the admiralty announcement states, occurred 100 miles off Land's End. The submarine, it is added, had a full complement of officers and men on board.

The cause of the disaster is not known. Available naval manuals do not reveal the tonnage or dimensions of the K-class of submarines. They are, however, what is known as "fleet" submarines, displacing some 1,700 tons when on the surface, with a length of probably 300 to 350 feet. They were built especially for cruising at sea with the grand fleet.

W. U. LECTURE ON "TROUBADOUR LAND"

Large Audience Hears Dr. C. U. Clarke in Normal School Auditorium.

"In Troubadour Land" was the title of an interesting address given in the Normal School last night by Dr. C. U. Clarke, formerly professor of Latin in Yale University, and director of the American Academy in Rome.

Dr. Clarke explained that "Troubadour Land" took in the region of the Rhone Valley in the south of France, and was a part of the world which was of old renowned for its singers of love songs in the ancient Provençal language and was, generally speaking, a land of romance and chivalry.

The lantern slides with which the lecture was illustrated gave a vivid impression of these scenes of bygone days, including the palace of the popes at Avignon.

A more modern touch was imparted by views of Monaco, "the only place under heaven where no taxes are paid," the ruler of that principality deriving his revenue from the famous casino at Monte Carlo.

Dr. Clarke also referred to the famous winter resort of Mentone as an ideal place to live in during this season, and incidentally to acquire the knowledge of the French language.

ACCESSORIES EVER APPEAL TO VISITOR TO AUTOMOBILE SHOW

Visitors attend an automobile show for the most part with one thought in mind, that is of seeing distinctive, or, perhaps, the latest model in cars or accessories. It is with this idea in mind that the automobile show directors have laid their plans, said Wilfred Hodgins, president of the big 1921 London Motor Show.

"To place for a display that will attract public curiosity and yet show merchandise within the means of a moderate pocketbook, is no easy task. Probably the most interesting feature of such a show, at any rate to the average motorist, is a display whereby dollars he may make his machine better looking, better riding and safer. With this thought in mind they planned our space at the automobile show. Some of the accessories which are sure to attract favorable comment are inside and outside windshield, auto robes, mirrors, spotlights and such innumerable other items as are desired by every motorist."

LEAGUE OF NATIONS
ALL EXPECTED OF
IT, SAYS ROWELL

Former President of the Privy Council Speaks in New York.

OUTLINES PRINCIPLES.—Urges Co-operation of Anglo-Saxon People to Meet Problems.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(By Canadian Press).—Hon. N. W. Rowell, former President of the privy council of Canada and one of the Canadian delegates to the assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva, was the guest of honor tonight at the dinner of the Canadian Club of New York at the Hotel Biltmore.

In the course of his address Mr. Rowell said he had come back from Geneva convinced that the League of Nations is a "most hopeful and practical experiment, the most hopeful and practical experiment, the most hopeful and practical experiment."

Some newspapers manifested a certain skepticism in the League of Nations, one of the most influential pro-League organs, declaring: "What the League finds to be attainable, it will help us to obtain in order that they should be obliged to negotiate cease-fire agreements."

He urged the whole-hearted co-operation of the Anglo-Saxon people to meet the need of the present critical situation.

Cardinal Principle.—"I believe it is a cardinal principle of our Canadian policy that Canada, in her relations with Great Britain and geographically with the United States, should assist in interpreting the League of Nations."

WOTE OF CONFIDENCE
INTENDED FOR BRIAND
NOT FOR MINISTRY

Paris Newspapers Awaiting Results of Premier's Conference.

Paris, Jan. 22.—Newspapers of this city today expressed satisfaction with the vote of confidence given the Briand ministry in the Chamber of Deputies, but there was a noticeable lack of enthusiasm.

Yesterday's long speech by M. Briand, said the Echo de Paris, "does not appear to give any more light than the ministry's declaration, except on one point—payment of a lump sum by Briand is not my thesis. A large credit of provisions, confidence is opened for M. Briand, and none desires to use it for the interests of the country."

VITAMINS IN FOOD. Vitamins are just ten years old this year, so far as human recognition of them is concerned, but, of course, they are as old as life in reality, and have been doing business at the same old stand since life began. A man named Funk stumbled on them in 1911; and we have learned enough about them since to appreciate their importance and to use the knowledge practically for the great improvement of the diet and for the prevention of certain diseases due to improper diet. We know at least five definite diet diseases, and many indefinite ones, perhaps early obstructive stages and variations of the five definite ones.

But I think, however, that vitamins are something you can buy down to the store, grocer or butcher or druggist, and buy in powder form, all separated out, analyzed and guaranteed. They come in the food itself—or, rather, in some food. The proper way to secure vitamins in sufficient quantity is to use in proper proportions the foods that contain them.

THREE CHIEF VITAMINS. Up to date we know three vitamins—outstanding, important ones, without which no amount of food is of any value to the body. One may eat proteins, carbohydrates, fats, salts and water, and get along without the vitamins starvation follows as well as disease. We have never seen or handled or analyzed a vitamin yet, but they are as definite substances, all the same, as the ferments that make peptones out of beef—the ferments of our stomachs and intestines, without which we would be helpless because we could not digest our foods. These ferments have never been isolated, analyzed and examined, but we know they are there because of their effects. So with the vitamins.

ACT IN THE BLOOD. Vitamins do not act in the stomach or intestines, but apparently in the blood or lymph, or even the cell itself. Their particular business seems to be to act as a link between the food and the body-cells. Picture to yourself the food taken from the intestine into the blood and passing in the blood to the brain-cells, liver-cells, muscle-cells and all the different kinds of cells in the body, all waiting hungrily to get their regular supplies of protein, fats, carbohydrates (sugar) and salts. All this richness flows right by the doorstep of the cells, as delivery wagons pass by our own rear houses on our city streets. The hungry cell picks out from the blood stream what it particularly needs at that minute—and its needs vary from minute to minute, doubtless, just as in our own homes we want meat, bread, vegetables and so on more or less all the time, but more one day, more bread another, according to how our supplies are holding out.

MUST DRAW IT IN. But the cells can't get the food from the blood stream by merely wishing for it. There is something needed to actually take hold of the food as it passes and draw it into the cell. It is as if the cell were fishing for a living in the river of blood passing it, so continuously night and day. The cell (this is only a parable, of course) may be compared to a fisherman in the banks of a stream—a fisherman who must starve if he cannot catch fish enough for himself. Now, our cell-fisherman has the rod and line to do his fishing with, but he can't make his own hooks. The vitamins appear to be a sort of chemical hook, brought to the cell-fisherman by the blood stream itself, if they are in the food taken by the body. If they are not in the food taken by the body, the cell-fisherman starves because he has no hooks to catch his fish with.

SEVERAL KINDS OF HOOKS. The three vitamins we know of seem to constitute three different kinds of hooks, to catch three different kinds of fish. The cell-fisherman needs all three kinds of fish to make him happy and well. Perhaps this sounds rather fanciful, but we know that if one vitamin is lacking, the other two will do their duty just the same, yet sickness will result from the absence of that one; and a different kind of sickness, according to which vitamin is lacking.

NAMES OF THE VITAMINS. One of these vitamins, for instance, is named "water-soluble C." If this one is lacking in the food, scurvy results. Scurvy was a terrible thing in the old days for sailors on long voyages, garrisons besieged in besieged towns, exiles plorers far from home, and so on. When Jacques Cartier landed at Quebec his crew were nearly dead with scurvy. No mild little indigestion or slight emaciation, this disease, but a ghastly combination of ulcerated mouth, the gums hanging in shreds, the teeth loose, bleeding from the nose and mouth, into the skin, etc., swollen joints; death often.

WORKED WONDERS. Raw potato juice, raw cabbage, orange juice, lemon juice, fresh vegetables in general given to such poor wretches worked miracles with them. Why? It is assumed that an exclusive diet of cooked, dried, canned and otherwise preserved

"Song of the Prairie Land and Other Poems," by Wilson Macdonald. (McClelland & Stewart, Toronto). Firmly resist any inclination to read the Preface. Shut your eyes to the remarks upon the cover; and reserve yourself, unblinded, to be touched and stirred by some of the poems in this little book.

Super-superlatives are almost always in bad taste, and usually set one's teeth upon edge. They savour too much of the Angelino, who, not content to let you discover the penetrating personality of his Big Country for yourself, rushes you about the noisy streets of his Metropolis, dining into your ears that Something—EVERYTHING—is the largest—longest—loudest IN THE WORLD; till you can't see the wood for the trees!

Likewise (too often) the Canadian admirers of Canadian authors, their voices in a Fine (particularly Patriotic) frenzy, are apt to make such a noise about our Singers, that they fairly drown the sweetness of their Songs. Poetry, of course, can be defined into write fine poems; and many more feet what "Frederick Maclean" has expressed for them with all the poignancy of unfulfilled power, in "The Cry of the Song Children"; and other "canned" Poetry in the University manner; but when they meet a certain blending of Thought, Feeling, and Words—they take that suddenly to their hearts. Whatever else is Poor—Commonplace—or Grandiose—THAT is Poetry!

"THAT" is to be met with more than once, in these pages.

$2,000,000 FOR RELIEF OF IDLE

Biggs Lets Road Contracts To Western Ontario Firms.

TORONTO, Jan. 21.—Contractors for roads and culverts in various parts of Ontario, amounting to more than $2,000,000, were announced today by Hon. F. C. Biggs, minister of public works, at the earliest possible date, in order to furnish employment to many.

Among the successful tenderers for 84 culverts, it is proposed to build at a cost of $22,000, are the following: Doran & Denton, Ottawa; Grant Bros., Ottawa; Thomas Sandy, Goderich; R. Moore, Warford; Campbell & Doughton, London; Morrison, Vinger Company, Hastingsville; McConnell & Hickson, Cayuga; J. C. Gibson, Kingsville; John Dillon, Sealey's Bay.

For macadam surfacing, paving and road work generally, some $1,000,000 will be spent, and among others under contract will be: McConnell & Hickson, Cayuga; McGinnis Contracting Company, Kingston; Grant Bros., Ottawa; Colville & Harrison, Col. Head; Johnston, Brantford.

START RECRUITING FOR NEW REGIMENT

GUELPH, Jan. 21.—Major S. J. D. Doughty and D. A. Mitchell have received orders from militia headquarters in London to go ahead with recruiting for the 30th Wellington Regiment, which is to be reorganized at once. The officers are making arrangements to open a recruiting campaign next week, so that the unit may get down to winter training without delay. Two companies will be formed in Guelph, one under the command of Mitchell in command, while the other two companies will be organized at Cayuga and Harrison. Col. Head of Rockwood will have command of the battalion.

REDUCTION IN WAGES. FREDERICTON, Jan. 21.—Employees at the Canadian Cottons, Limited, at Marysville, have been notified that their wages will be reduced. January 24, there will be a decrease of 12 1/2 per cent in wages. The reduction, it is understood, is being made general at all of the company's mills from St. John to Hamilton, Ont., affecting some 3,500 employees.

There is also a neat note to aspiring Poets, on the courtesy of the "Postage Stamp" habit. They (why pick on Poets?) are especially requested to send stamps for the return of their poems. "We do feel entitled to insist upon the provision of sufficient stamps to get the poem returned to its Birth-place."

Why SHOULD the A. P.'s necessarily provide for the return of their "Too-less Children" (Isn't Shakespeare who remarks "How sharper than a Serpent's tooth" possibly the Crocodile Regrets of the Declining Editor?—It is to have a "Toothless Child,"—or words to that effect?) Who WANTS to meet their own Mailed Fist in a head-on collision like that? Stamp—especially when accentuated by an addressed envelope, and merely a temptation to the harassed editor. How difficult to read some poems: How much easier to slip the whole thing into that empty envelope, and reposit it. I know—I've been there. Then, too, if of an economical turn of mind, he will hate to waste those stamps—and unless he has infinite leisure, he won't stop to suck them off for his personal use.

Anyway, most Poets have a "First Impression"—usually hand-written—of their poems that will probably be worth hundreds some day (You saw what Kipling got recently?)—from which you can make fresh copies. If they have not.

I respectfully suggest that instead of returning the proffered copies (which soon become post-dated and travel-stained anyway), the Editor has his sentiments inscribed on Postcard. That will save an extra stamp all round. And as a passing comment: let us hope that the "Bookman"—which is beautifully printed on delightful paper—may soon think it worth while to employ a Proof-reader.

A Rinehart Tale. The nicest thing about Mary Roberts Rinehart is that when she tells you a story, you always feel that she has "Been there." There is such an impression of spontaneity—this is less apparent in her later, longer novels. "Dangerous Days" lacked that convincing touch. But lately I came on a reprint of tiny "The Story of the Stories" (McClelland & Stewart), and the only really small thing about them is the number of printed pages that is occupied by each one.

There is a particularly delightful story about a delirious "Isolation" who overpersuaded the Nurse to marry him—a dying man—on account of a reprint of tiny "The Story of the Stories" (Secret Spite (of which she knew nothing) towards people of whom she had never heard.

And then he got well! After that—touch in that tale—where everyone was scrubbed and sterilized within an inch of their lives—is the mention of how the kindly old Parson, yanked in at some unearthly hour of the morning to marry this ill-assorted couple, made his exit undisturbed, and after his return home,

AWARDED $200, COUNTER-CLAIM

Agent Brands as False Woman's Story of Indecent Assault.

WINDSOR, Jan. 21.—Adolph Fulmer, a real estate salesman, was awarded $200 by the county court at Sandwich on a counter-claim in the action brought against him by Mrs. Bertha Lafontaine of Windsor. Mrs. Lafontaine claimed $500 damages from Fulmer for alleged indecent assault. She said that defendant, who was nearly blind, came to her home on the pretext of using the telephone, threw his arms about her and tried to kiss her. Since that day Mrs. Lafontaine has said that she had suffered from neurasthenia.

Fulmer branded her story as false, and said plaintiff had spread the story, and therefore, put in a counter-claim for $500 against Mrs. Lafontaine for slander. Fulmer said that since the story had become public he had broken down in health and had since been unable to work.

MAY RESULT FATALLY. DURHAM, Jan. 21.—While working in McArthur Bros. sawmill on second concession, E. G. R. Gleason, on the Reay farm, Neil Black received a deep cut on the head by a saw, which, it is feared, may end fatally. He was taking an edge off the belt when he raised his head, unthinkingly, against a rapidly-revolving saw, cutting it open from ear to ear about two inches in depth. The cut penetrated the brain, and though still living, little hope is entertained for his recovery. He is 30 years old and unmarried.

GRANT SALARY INCREASES. INGERSOLL, Jan. 21.—Salary increases in accordance with the request of six teachers of the collegiate, including Principal W. E. Shales, were recommended in the report of the teachers' committee at a special meeting of the board of education. They are, however, for a period of six months terminating June 30. The report was adopted. Recently the teachers stated that if the increases were not granted their resignations could be considered to take effect March 1.

TO DISCUSS MEMORIAL. BRANTFORD, Jan. 21.—Mayor Wedlake has called a conference for January 27, when the matter of a Brantford war memorial will be discussed by all organizations interested. Some of the suggestions include a memorial arch at Lorne Bridge, a new wing for the general hospital, a new wing for the educational scholarships and various forms of monuments. Mayor Wedlake has promised to contribute the first $500 to the memorial fund.

CONDITION CRITICAL FROM ASPHYXIATION

Two Aged South London Women Unconscious When Rescued.

Mrs. P. Griffith, aged 94, and Miss Adeline Jarvis, aged 82, are in a critical condition at their home, 61 Askin street, as a result of being asphyxiated on Thursday morning. They were found in an unconscious condition by Mrs. William H. Hatfield, 57 Askin street. Apparently they had been in that state for some time, as the lights, which were probably lit the previous evening, were still burning. The fumes were escaping from three open burners on the stove.

When Mrs. Hatfield found them she notified neighbors and called in medical aid. At first it was thought that they would not recover, but their condition improved slightly.

FIAT TRACTORS Do the Most Work At the Least Cost

THE WORK TEST. In a two days' test against 34 competing tractors, the Fiat Tractor came FIRST in point of work done, as it worked almost nine-tenths of an acre per hour on heavy land, while on the same test some other well-known tractors only worked three-quarters of an acre per hour, some one-half an acre, and some only one-third of an acre per hour. The Fiat Tractor has the power and the mechanical perfection which keeps going even when the work is heavy.

THE ECONOMY TEST. In test for economy on the light ground plowing competition, Fiat again came first in a field of 37 competitors, with a fuel cost of 2s 5d, which was 4d lower than the next best record. Fiat Tractors combine great work capacity, economy, excellence of mechanical construction and general efficiency.

PRICE—The price of the FIAT tractor is LESS than some, but the work is superior to all. Farmers and Dealers—Examine this Tractor on Exhibition at London Motor Show.

THE CEMENT OF CIVILIZATION.

Having in mind its immense and varied structural uses, the present period might be called the cement age, or, as some have styled it, "the new stone age." From early times, builders learned the necessity of a material to bind surfaces together, or to unite particles of other substances in a common and durable mass. It has become one of the tragic ironies of history that the lifeless matter devised to give strength and endurance to roads or buildings seems to have outlasted the civilizations that produced them. "Time's effacing fingers" have left substantial evidences of skill in tombs, pyramids and temples, but where is Babylon, Assyria, Egypt, Ancient Greece or Imperial Rome? By civilization is understood the accumulating achievements of human progress. The true test of it, Emerson said, was not the census, nor the size of the cities and crops, but the kind of men produced. There is yet a more final test. Civilization measures the condition of the individual, and also presumes a power to influence others. Hence, it requires a cement to conserve and perpetuate. Lacking this essential, civilizations in the past have lapsed into decay and extinction. To cite a few outstanding cases: In richness of natural resources, technical skill, wealth, perfection in the art of war, and civic magnificence, Babylonia probably surpassed all the other nations of that old period; but giving material things and the flesh supremacy, and possessing no high, cohesive principle and purpose, her opulent national life perished. Only lately we have seen modern armies battling there with the outposts of another Colossus even more mercilessly efficient than Nebuchadnezzar. When the rest of the Western world was sunk in barbarism, Egypt enjoyed a high degree of culture and prosperity, erecting monuments still the wonder of moderns. In museums, her mummified potentates are yet on exhibition, but their civilization vanished, and now she exists as a protectorate of Britain. Ancient Greece won imperishable fame by the achievements of her great men in literature, art, architecture and philosophy; but the elements that gave her national distinction disappeared, and today she does little more than shine in the reflected glories of beyond twenty centuries ago, and by reason of the spread of the Christian Gospel through the Greek language. The failure of fifty centuries is the record of military bloodshed as the cement of civilization. Have individuals and nations learned the lesson, or are they still slow to believe what the prophets teach? Hamarck's formula was blood and iron. It was applied with such apparent success to France and other nationalities that in 1914 the ghastly attempt was precipitated of fusing the world in a German concrete. Under the tutelage of William II. and his war lords, all the resources of the empire, its scholarship, science and industrial efficiency, and even the modern brand of German Teutonic Kultur upon dependent nations. A thousand years will not exhaust the tale of all its horror. The iron and the blood have curdled in the very heart of that people whose civilization, having disclosed its innate human barbarity, collapsed. The spectacle has been witnessed of German towns "occupied" and "regulated" by African infantry from Algeria! Sic transit gloria mundi.

Plainly, then, human devices and expedients are unequal to the task of perpetuating a desirable civilization. At a world congress in Berlin, July, 1910, Professor Troeltsch declared: "We can be sure that European culture without a foundation in the religious power of Christianity can scarcely endure." He little dreamed of the frightful fulfillment of his words. More than half a century ago Balzac, the French novelist, expressly pointed to Christianity as the true and sole preservative. Looking over the nations of the world today possessing a worth-while civilization one hardly need inquire which of them seem to manifest the most hopeful elements of endurance. By reason of the calamities of war, incompetence, or natural disaster, millions of persons this very winter are at death-grips with hunger and disease. Who is responding to the cry of woe to feed and nurture them? What nations possess the resources, the capacity, and the will for the great task? Are they not those who have most generally accepted and done most to propagate the Christian Gospel? And it is within their borders that the best efforts are exerted to improve the conditions of life. To be more particular, what organizations in Canada are leading the way in relief campaigns? The victims who are being fed and restored by American and other aid include multitudes in Central Europe whose rulers made war upon their neighbors and the world. It was the logical St. Paul who set down for the guidance of the church and humanity: Therefore, if thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink; and be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good. A greater than St. Paul had promulgated the revolutionary doctrine: Love your enemies; bless them that curse you; do good to them that despitefully use you. He proclaimed the real bond of society, the coherent of the Christian Gospel, and insures its efficacy through regenerated individuals. He alone can make democracy safe; and he disarms anarchy by establishing the fact that all we are members one of another, bound under His leadership by the cement of redeeming love.

WORK-STUDY-PLAY PLAN.

An official publication just off the press, entitled, "A School-Building Program for Gloucester, Mass.," contains some proposals that might be of interest to Londoners at the present time. That city needs a high school capable of meeting the needs of about 1,700 pupils. The estimate is that a building on the traditional plan of all pupils in the classrooms pursuing studies at the same time would require 58 units, at a cost of $928,000; whereas a building of 34 units on the work-study-play plan, at a total cost of $544,000, would quite adequately meet the needs. The bulletin gives a number of reasons why the latter plan is not only more economical to build and maintain, but for present and still more for probable future conditions is likely to be more efficient. Under the work-study-play plan classes use rooms in relays, some being in the workshop or at games, while others are at study. Moreover, school commonly opens at 8 a.m., and runs till 5, some lots of children from homes where they get up early coming in at 8, others later at 9. Various adjustments are made to the needs of various pupils. In these days of high costs of specialization the plan being considered in Gloucester may well engage the attention of London.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The public expects the fullest investigation of the proposed grant of a vast pulp limit without publicity made by the Hearst Government shortly before the general election. The Swiss are protesting against the new Canadian Marine flag, claiming it resembles too closely the flag of Switzerland. They probably fear that the ships of Canada will be confused with the Swiss navy. Eighteen days before the election in West Peterboro the Government has awarded a contract for a dam on the Otonebas River a few miles from Peterboro. Perhaps the premier believes a dam will stem the tide of defeat. Imaginary interview with G. Howard Ferguson: "I am indeed delighted to hear that Drury and Morrison have patched up their differences. The Government will now be able to carry on its fine program of popular policies started last year, without the handicap of internecine strife, which I so greatly feared."

THE FAMILY LAUNDRESS.
 George Luke, the well-known artist, said at a reception in New York: "Servants are paid such high wages nowadays the only labor unions and captains of industry can afford to keep them. As for us painters—"
 Mr. Luke made a helpless gesture and went on:
 "A promising young painter said to me the other day in a complacent voice:
 "My work is now hung on the line."
 "Then a bitter thought struck him and he added:
 "So's my wife's."

LETTERS

THE COLLEGIATE PROBLEM.

The Collegiate Institute problems has needlessly been belogged. The will of the people ought to prevail. But what is the will of the people? We all try to be loyal to London. But the people of Canada have a prior claim upon our loyalty. So do the people of Ontario command our allegiance, in particular just now with respect to the local Collegiate question. As Canadians, many years ago, Londoners helped to decide that our educational requirements were not a proper subject for Dominion politics. On the other hand, the people also decided that the question of education was too important to allow our children to run the risk of being deprived of it by action by the Dominion government. The education of young Canadians was, accordingly, made a matter of provincial jurisdiction. And thereafter the people of London were empowered to choose trustees to carry out the will of the people of Ontario in the administration of our local schools. But very wisely, the people of Ontario denied London ratepayers the right to withhold from London children any buildings or equipment which the experts of the provincial department, together with our local board, might determine to be necessary. London ratepayers, therefore, are required to maintain provincial standards, as they have always been proud to do. No reflection can attach to our local trustees who have conducted a vigorous and a loyal opposition to provincial expert advice. Peremptory decisions by Toronto officials are not to be encouraged. Indorsement by the board must not be given without just such investigation and discussion as has taken place. But our trustees are not expected to be scientific educationalists. The law wisely requires them to co-operate with educational experts, and in other cases carrying out provincial regulations. In their business administration, our trustees render admirable service to the people of London and to the provincial government. But in curricula, in the practical application of pedagogy, and in other matters, they are not to be bound to a degree to conform, not to the momentary mood of local ratepayers, but to the will of the people of Ontario as their mandate finds expression through the technical experts who, acting under the will of the provincial department is conclusive. London will not be able to educate a sufficient number of her children up to the standard demanded by the people of Ontario if the board decide to build but not to operate the Collegiate Institute. And the board is in duty bound to defer discussion of immediate economy until that policy be adopted which shall insure our keeping abreast of the best provincial standards, together with the greatest efficiency and continuous economy throughout the many years to come. In five or ten years the inefficiency of one building will be notorious. New provincial legislation aims to enforce increased attendance from all parts of the city. And as London grows, the extravagance from year to year of now erecting and chattering schools will be sorely felt. It is believed that trustees who advocate such a policy are coming to a different point of view. And they may be willing to adopt the three-school policy if the first one shall be erected on the old collegiate site, where, remote from London north, it will be permanently expected to serve the populous section. Such a location would seem to be the most suitable one to adequately serve the north part of the city, like as London South and London North will be served by the collegiates there proposed. The former rapid growth of London North will inevitably be renewed before long, and a Richmond or Wellington street collegiate in that section would serve a good part of London East equally well. And against a north-end collegiate no objection can be urged which did not unwisely oppose locating the Collegiate Institute in the north end of South London, where it has greatly encouraged the growth of that section and has long since had its capacity overtaxed. Provision for the best education for the greatest number of our children, and of their children, is the paramount loyalty required of London ratepayers. If we provide for the complete equipment proposed, our sacrifice will be trifling compared with that our forefathers made for us.

EVERYTHING

A RAP.
 Ellery Sedgwick, the Boston editor, detests the best-seller type of novelist and avails himself of every opportunity to rap best sellers over the knuckles. Mr. Sedgwick, at a Cambridge tea, was approached by a best-seller novelist from the west. "Say, old man," the best-seller began, "I'm sending you a thing or two of mine one of these days. I suppose you'll like to see the success of my last year? No? Well, by gosh, she's been translated into French, German, Spanish and Chinese." "Why don't you get somebody to translate her into English?" said Mr. Sedgwick, drily.

TEMPLES.

[Baltimore Sun.]
 What use to build our temples, so we say: They fall around us, crashing day by day; Blows, bubbles, dreams that burst upon the air— What use to build our temples, use to care. Some finished temples shine with morning light Upon the roads of effort, charming sight. But those unfinished, think what sacred sense they breathe into the air! Of having tried the builders' recompense! Perhaps the most unfinished temple here To eyes of heaven seems lovelier than the rest; Each topping stone a tribute to some dear. Unfinished dream that withered in the breast. ON MAN'S FAITH IN HIS WORK. [Chicago Tribune.] There is a business lesson in the appraisers' list of items in the estate of Frank W. Woolworth. This great merchant owned about $600,000 in bank stocks and about $150,000 in railroad stocks. The remainder of his business investments, amounting to more than $25,000,000, was in his own enterprises. It was not that he lacked confidence in other men's judgment, but that he had a consuming passion for his own business. He built it up from nothing. As it grew he returned the profits to the community. He had faith in his own business and was content to have practically all his wealth tied up in enterprises which he himself directed. On thinking that this country needs just now is a spread of the Woolworth attitude among businessmen. Some of them lost a genuine fighting interest in their own enterprises when the war made them too easy for them. Some of them, believing that their plants could run without their constant attention, began to play other men's business in the stock market. The businessmen of the United States have got to mind their own businesses and in the way that Woolworth pinched his.

OTHERS' VIEWS

THRIFT AND INDUSTRY.
 [St. John Telegraph.] Canada is likely to suffer from after the war depression much less than most other countries. Though we are in the middle of a period of readjustment, sharp enough in some respects, basis conditions taking the long view are sound, and the industrial depression cannot be more than temporary. As during the war, Canadians must think constantly of the need for both thrift and industry. The real path back to the conditions to be found chiefly in hard work. Those who are already suggesting sharp retaliatory measures with respect to the United States have some excuse for their attitude, undoubtedly, but these matters should be looked at from the standpoint of Canada as a whole—what is best for Canada is the thing to ascertain and to pursue. The Canadian tariff should be fair to all classes of our population, and in framing it the needs and requirements of all should be given due weight.

LIGHT ON THE HARDINGS.
 [Detroit Free Press.] The glare of publicity is beginning to shine in the remote nooks and corners of the Harding household. One learns, for instance, that when Mr. Harding is president he will return to the Roosevelt policy of encouraging laws tennis. The court which goes with the White House is undergoing changes which will restore it after eight years of Wilsonian neglect, but a more intimate glimpse of the Hardings is to be obtained from an interview with a man who played in the orchestra on the boat which took the president-elect to Panama. Senator Harding does not like ragtime, and he never asks any orchestra to jazz. Quite the other way: he demands the Barcarolle from the "Tales of Hoffman" frequently, and when it is not being played his soul yearns for "La Paloma."

OF BRITISH ORIGIN.
 [Toronto Star.] Of the 95,000,000 white people in the United States over 55,000,000 are of British origin. "The fact is," says World's Work, "that these 55,000,000 constitute the largest single British population in the world today. There are more people of British origin in the United States at present than in Great Britain itself. The actual figures are 55,000,000 as against 37,000,000 in England, Scotland, and Wales. For every two representatives of the British race found in Great Britain there are three found in the United States."

THOUGHTS IN SEPARATION.

(Alice Meynell.)
 We never meet; yet we meet day by day
 Upon those hills of life, dim and immense—
 The good we love, and sleep, our innocence,
 O hills of life, high hills! And, higher than they:
 Our guardian spirits meet at prayer and play,
 Beyond pain, joy, and hope, and long suspense,
 Above the summit of our souls, far hence,
 Our angel meets an angel on the way.
 Beyond all good I ever believed of the
 Or thou of me, these always, love and live,
 And though I fail of thy ideal of me,
 My angel falls not short. They greet each other,
 Who knows, they may exchange the kisses we give,
 Thou to thy crucifix, I to my mother.

CRICKET IN AUSTRALIA.

Cricket is tremendously popular in Australia, and at some of the recent test matches against the visiting English eleven twenty thousand spectators were usually present. But "barren" internal bathing relieves the cause. Mr. A. N. A leading doctor in Regina told me that the main cause was badly ulcerated. I gradually became worse, until one day when purchasing a threatening outfit from Mr. Russell of Regina, Mr. Russell noticed my condition and said: 'I can cure you. Get a J. B. L. Cascade. Well, I did so, and the first night I used it, I slept all night for the first time in weeks, and in a short time felt quite myself again. It also cured my piles, which had troubled me for years. If you are troubled with constipation, don't drug yourself. Internal bathing with the J. B. L. Cascade is the only permanent way. This wonderful appliance is the invention of Dr. Chas. A. Cracking occurred to such an extent as almost to destroy the games and called for police reinforcements. The of the game, and cricketers here and crowds shouted offensive and insulting remarks at the players, much after the manner of "rooters" at professional baseball matches, when they try to rattle the pitcher, or intimidate the umpire. In cricket, however, this sort of thing is foreign to every tradition in England seem to be at a loss to account for what has been happening in Australia. If cricket crowds go back on the spirit of cricket, what crowd is there left that one can depend on?

MUTT AND JEFF—Just for That Jeff'll Look for Another Manager.

Ha! The Missing Bond! Let the Fight Proceed!

The "Scrap of Paper" Which Nearly Caused No Scrap Found in Kearns' Safe.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The mystery of the missing bond drawn by Jack Dempsey as a forfeit deposit for his match with Georges Carpentier next summer was solved here today, when the document was found in the safe of Dempsey's manager, Jack Kearns. According to the explanation advanced by Dan McKittrick, local representative for Kearns, the bond was filed by the latter with other papers pertaining to the match, in a private compartment of the safe under the impression that the paper was a copy of the original bond and that the original bond had been deposited with the Central Union Trust Company of this city. Announcement yesterday by the trust company that the bond had not been posted with them led to the search for "Text" Rickard for deposit, and the promoter accepted it with the statement that the good faith and legal obligations of Dempsey had been fulfilled. Among other papers found today was a letter from a local banking firm, stating that Carpentier had deposited the sum of 750,000 francs with a Paris firm as his forfeit, and certifying that this was equivalent to $50,000 at the rate of exchange prevailing on the date the deposit was made.

L. C. I. Teams Win Three Games in Girls' League

Teams Getting Standardized and Close Games Result. Last night's game in the Girls' City Basketball League witnessed three wins for teams from the London Collegiate in three rattling good games. In an A section game Crackerjacks won from Silverettes 19 to 13. The other two were B section games. Crackerjacks put a thin 4-3 win over Northern Lights, and Crickets made it a little thicker against Smallman & Ingram, with a 17 to 8 verdict. The teams are evening up in both sections, and the rest of the schedule should witness even better basketball than has been put up in the past.

GANUK CURLERS RESUME THEIR VICTORIOUS TOUR

EDINBURGH, Jan. 21.—(Canadian Associated Press).—Canadian curlers today resumed their victorious tour of Scotland with a win over East Fifeshire by 123 to 55. Individual scores were: Robert Hicks, Peterboro, 16; E. D. Currier, Rainy River, 30; W. F. Payne, Strathcona Club, Winnipeg, 22; John E. Fulton, Thistle Club, Montreal, 15; W. H. THE MCKAY CUP

The Eddie McKay memorial trophy, donated to the Public School Hockey League last year by Mr. William Haddon, and which was won by River-view school team, may stay another year at that school, unless better weather comes along to permit the league schedule this year being played out. Games were scheduled for last Monday, but with the exception of two or three games played all the 80 odd games still remain to be contested.

Fondon Five-Pinners Show St. Thomas Trundlers the Art

A Picked Team Rolled 3,006 Total Against Railway City. Thursday night two prominent local bowlers journeyed to St. Thomas to play a special match series of five games. Their object was probably to bring the five-pin game more in the limelight, as the McCullum Cup ten-pin games were receiving too much of the public's attention. The following scores show that the strange alloys hold no terrors for these pin-getters: Forbes ... 209 202 187 246 187—1041 Griesman ... 182 184 270 192 168—998 To show St. Thomas that London boasts of more than two good five-pin bowlers, L. E. Barrie took a team of five-pin shooters down with him, and they bowled the remarkable total of 3,006. St. Thomas will be welcomed for a return game any time. PROSPECTS FOR BIG ST. THOMAS SPIEL NONE TOO ROSY

Curlers Optimistic That Few Days Will Bring Back Ice.

Prospects over the week end look very bad for the big St. Thomas spiel, billed to open on Tuesday in the railway city. Reports from there yesterday, proved that there was no water famine in the vicinity of the curling rink. Postponement of the spiel now would mean that it would have to be held over until after the Ingersoll tankard play had been put on. Curlers are at heart any way, and among the local entries there is confidence that the weatherman let them down, chiefly around Bobby Burns' anniversary.

WOODSTOCK JUNIORS PUT OUT PAN DRIEDS

Tillsonburg Leads For Two Periods—A Ding-Dong Battle.

WOODSTOCK, Jan. 21.—The Tillsonburg juniors were tonight eliminated from the O. H. A. race, when the local juniors defeated the Pan Drieds by a score of 2-2 in one of the most stubbornly contested games of the season so far. The ice was in wretched condition, and combination hockey was out of the question. The teams were evenly matched, although the visitors outweighed the locals. A large crowd witnessed the contest, and the closeness of the score throughout kept the fans on tip-toe from beginning to end. The visitors started out strong and after several individual efforts Conn, the clever left wing of the Pan Drieds, took a long shot from the side that bulged the nets in the top corner. In seven minutes Joe Sadine found an opening and hit drive from the side and away out. It was a sizzler, and Barker was completely fooled. Before the first period ended the visitors went in the lead on a lucky dribble, Barrett shot one from the side and the Pan Drieds glanced off the two local defence men's skates it skidded by Dunlop. The period ended with the score 2-2. The third period was ding-dong hockey from start to finish, and in the final minutes of the period the visitors brought the entire team up but try as they would they could not get one by Dunlop. No score was made in this period, and the game ended 2-2, with Woodstock winner of the group and entitled to play Blenheim in the second half of the group. The line-up: Woodstock—Goal, Dunlop; defence, Lynch and Harrington; centre, Morelle; left wing, Sadine; right wing, Bright; subs, Pullin and Collins. Tillsonburg—Goal, Parker; defence, Crossett and Cowell; centre, Russell; left wing, Conn; right wing, Barrett; subs, McQueen and Wright. Referee—Tom Munro, London.

New White Sox First Sacker Has 'Homer' as Second Name

Has Also Impressive Homer Record in Three Years on Pacific Coast.

The parents of Earl Sheely certainly knew what they were about when they picked a middle name for him. They christened the man who will play first base for the White Sox this year Earl Homer Sheely, homers being a specialty of Earl's. In two of the three leagues he has played in Earl Homer, who was born in Bushnell, Ill., on February 2, 1895, has been a Home Run King and for two consecutive seasons he has emitted more four-baggers in the Pacific Coast League than anyone else, making 12 in 1919 (Arthur Griggs of San Francisco had the same number), 23 in 1920 and 23 in 1921. In the first year in the coast organization Sheely acquired 19 belt-line homers, having a total of 20, having been for a four-year stay in a class AA League. Earl Homer Sheely knew the formula for manufacturing four-baggers before he went to the Pacific Coast League being able to set the pace in circuit runs, harvesting 14 George B. Wally, of the Western Tri-State League, in 1914. Third Year. That was Sheely's third year in O. B., his first engagement having been with Vancouver of the Northwestern League in 1912. What he did then the record books do not show, records being furnished for all men who were in more than ten games, but Sheely had 14 of these men. In 1913 and 1914 the new Sox first baseman was employed by the Wally team of the Western Tri-State League, making a dozen round-trip hits for this connection and leading all his rivals in this respect in 1914. Sheely's 1913 average was .221. Last year he averaged .237. In the last named year he caught as well as first baser. He had 16 three baggers in his mail at Spokane, which was in the Northwestern League. His hitting was 100 per cent. In the first year he was unable to top the batters in home runs, harvesting 11. George Kelly of the Giants was with Victoria the first year Sheely played with Spokane, having been the player who there Earl Homer had as team mates Walter Henry Ruetter of the Superbas and Kenneth Roy Williams of the Browns.

TRAPSHOOTERS AT BLENHEIM IN KEEN COMPETITION

BLENHEIM, Jan. 20.—When James Marshall and his men were defeated at the last shoot by the old-timer with the gun, Samuel Hartford and his men, he declared he could trim them in another event, and this afternoon he had the pleasure of seeing his picked line put it over Sam's by a tidy number for 20 to the good. The consequence is that tonight they are having an oyster supper which the other fellows had to put up for. Some good shooting was done, as will be seen by the scores. The day was an ideal one. A good crowd witnessed the competition. First event, 10 sparrows; losers to provide an oyster supper for the winners—James Marshall, Captain, 5; Art Cox, 7; G. Faust, 4; W. CHATHAM FIVE BEATEN 20 TO 15 BY SARNIA C. I.

SARNIA, Jan. 21.—Sarnia C. I. five met Chatham here tonight in the annual game here and carried a 20-15 decision over the visitors. The game was fast throughout. Blackburn and Lynch were the best of Chatham. Simpson and Currie did most of Sarnia's scoring, both doing great work on the shooting end. Mr. Southcombe, Sarnia, refereed.

BROADWAY BRIGHT LIGHTS WIN AGAIN

Broadway is an undefeated champion. Every country has its Broadway, and its long list of victims. As an old-timer remarked once: "You can fight the bright lights for a while, but your eyes can't hold out. It'll get you in the long run." The latest victim of the "great white way" is little Jack Sharkey. With a stone's throw away America's most noted playground he began his career and within a stone's throw of that long winding trail he had been ended. His Big Chance. Sharkey's first fight until he broke through in that characteristic way of the ring and beat Jimmy Wilde, world's flyweight champion, and one of the greatest little men in the history of the ring. Fortune smiled on him. The value of his services in the ring rose to thousands of dollars. He fought his way through the heavyweight ranks until he was chosen for a fling at the championship rested between himself and Joe Lynch. Garden went down with one of the greatest bouts of all times. It ended in a fair draw. Little Sharkey that night looked like a sure champion. He got $10,000 for that fight. Raised in poverty, deprived of an education in the struggle for a livelihood, he found the door open to everything that had been lacking in his life. Flattered by his "hangers on" he sought with a free purse to acquire that empty name of a "good fellow." He was told he was so good he didn't have to train. And he didn't. Then came his second meeting with Lynch, a boy who lived within earshot of the noise of Broadway, but who was too wise to get any closer. He May Come Back. Sharkey was knocked out and lost the opportunity for the championship which Lynch took advantage of and made good.

DAVIS CUP PAIR STILL ON A RUN OF VICTORIES

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Jan. 21.—In the second match of the Davis Cup the United States Davis Cup team today beat the Australians three matches to nothing. In the singles W. W. Washburn beat J. B. Hawke 6-4, 6-4, and William M. Johnston defeated R. W. Heath 6-3, 6-3. In the doubles William T. Tilden II. and Johnston won from Norman E. Brookes and Patrick H. Henshaw Wood, 10-8, 2-5, 2-5 and 6-2. Without exception, big leaguers who have played against Sheely predict his success. They say that he is usually they don't expect him to duplicate in the American his home run record in the Pacific Coast League.

Seasonable Printers For Farmers

Good Healthy Chicks Got By Artificial Incubation

A Good Deal Depends On the Choosing and Operating of the Incubator—Good Healthy Breeding Stock is More Than Half a Successful Hatch.

As the hatching season approaches the following notes on artificial incubation, by F. C. Elford, Dominion poultry husbandman, will be of timely interest.

BUYING AN INCUBATOR.

If more than 100 chicks are wanted, an incubator, as a rule, will be found more satisfactory and more profitable than sitting hens. Better not buy an incubator, however, if you are not prepared to give it proper care and attention, and when you buy do not get the cheapest incubator you can get simply because it is cheap. The best is none too good, and cheap machines are usually dear at any price. The cost is nothing compared with the expense of keeping a poor machine supplied with eggs. Buy also from a reliable firm, and as near home as possible.

HOW TO TELL A GOOD MACHINE.

Nothing but results is an absolute guarantee that a machine is good, but there are certain marks that indicate the probable value of a machine for hatching. The first of these is the general appearance. It should be well made, good workmanship and good material entering into its construction. The doors should hang true and fit without friction, the glass large and not nearly broken or fastened by strap or stain applied evenly, and the machine should present the appearance of a finished piece of furniture. Good insulation is absolutely necessary. See that the walls are double, and likely to maintain a comparatively even temperature. There are, besides the above, many other points to be noted or less important. The lamp should have a large enough bowl to last at least 20 hours, convenient to fill, easy to take out and replace, good wick, burner, chimney, the mica opening so placed that the whole of the flame is readily seen when the observer is standing, the heater well insulated, burner and chimney well cleaned, a reliable thermometer and thermostat, egg trays that slide in and out without catching, and the height of the machine should be convenient for working.

THE SIZE TO BUY.

As a rule not more than three batches can be taken off in one season, and usually two batches are better, therefore get an incubator large enough to hatch in two settings all the chicks desired. With an ordinary farm flock a 25-egg capacity is a very desirable one to buy. If more accommodation is wanted another incubator can be purchased. A new system of hatching has lately been introduced, and consists of that of custom or co-operative hatching. Usually mammoth incubators are used for this purpose, and those who would rather pay a little more for their own egg bring them to these machines and call for the chicks when incubated. This custom is being tried out in some sections and apparently is proving satisfactory.

A WELL-VENTILATED CELLAR.

A well-ventilated cellar, with a fairly even temperature, makes a suitable location for the incubator. If one is not available, a room in which a moderately even temperature can be maintained without artificial heat will answer. Fresh air is necessary, but not admitting it, draughts should be avoided.

OPERATING THE INCUBATOR.

The operation of the machine will be considered, but it must be borne in mind that, as a rule, the general directions given by the manufacturer should be followed fairly closely, at least until they have proven unsatisfactory for local conditions, and any general changes should be made only after several tests, though these tests may be in a small way only. One of the reasons why first hatches often are not successful is because the operator is not closely adhered to, but by the time the operator has run off two or three hatches he begins to think he knows more than the manufacturer, and makes rules of his own, which are sometimes followed by disastrous results. Therefore, whatever may be said about the manufacturer's directions, in a general way, and not to replace direct instructions intended for any

Middlesex Leads Ontario in Poultry and Cattle Raising

The County Contained 565,846 Poultry Last Year and 146,168 Head of Cattle—There Were Also 32,455 Horses and 30,456 Sheep and Lambs on the Farms.

The importance of the county of Middlesex as a farming district is not sufficiently recognized, even by the people who live in it, but it is nevertheless a fact that in the number of its live stock and the quantity of its produce it more than holds its own with the rest of Ontario. For example, the quantity of fall wheat grown in this county last year was 1,574,538 bushels, the largest of any county in the province. The quantity of spring wheat came to 2,153,393 bushels, 13,051 bushels were grown, and of oats 5,392,386 bushels. Rye came to 26,462 bushels, buckwheat to 3,155, peat to 21,670, and beans to 3,814. The cultivation of flax is also receiving increased attention, and last year the yield in this county was 13,700 bushels, while 717,669 bushels of mixed grains were produced. Of corn for husking there was grown 797,302 bushels, in the ear, and of grain fodder 321,751 tons.

In the growing of potatoes Middlesex was the third highest in Ontario, the quantity being 1,046,678 bushels, to 1,737,721 grown in Simcoe, the largest in the province. Middlesex also produced 483,353 bushels of mangels, 334,648 of sugar beets, and 8,000 of carrots. The county likewise yielded 13,171 tons of alfalfa, and 162,321 tons of hay and clover. Of cleared pastures there were 234,943 acres in this county last year, 26,428 acres in the county before last year, the number of stallions being 147, mares 15,168 geldings, 11,778, colts and fillies, making the total number of horses 22,465.

The total number of bulls was 2,646—297 milch cows, 30,697 calves, 51,071 calves and 43,557 calves. The total number of sheep and lambs was 30,456. The number of pigs was 146,168, the largest number of any county in Ontario. There were also last year 30,456 sheep and lambs.

In the raising of poultry the county stands at the top, the number last year being 565,846. Huron County coming next with 533,053. These figures, we venture to think, will afford to city dwellers some idea of the important part the Middlesex farmer plays in furnishing the food of the country.

THE WORK OF AGRICULTURAL REPRESENTATIVES

The work of agricultural representatives in the various counties is gradually growing in volume and comprehensiveness, and the resources of the different centres are sometimes taxed to their utmost in order to cover the numerous activities in which the department of agriculture is engaged. The county of Middlesex, both from its size and its importance as a farming and producing section of the province, is not an easy one to cover, but, nevertheless, it contains only one agricultural representative, with an office located in London.

A glance at the map will show that the area to be covered by the activities of this office is a very large one, and the provision of a second office, say, at Stratford, is a matter which is well worth consideration.

Thinking of the northern part of the county, there are various places comparatively remote from the city, Alsea, Craig, although not exactly on the confines of the district, is perhaps the furthest. It is of considerable importance as a farming and producing section of the province, and is not an easy one to cover, but, nevertheless, it contains only one agricultural representative, with an office located in London.

THE MICHIGAN HONEY MARKET.

The market for extracted honey in Michigan continues poor. There has been no particular change in price since the last report, and the demand does not appear to be any greater. The buyers and bottlers of honey seem to feel that soon the market will improve considerably. Michigan is in worse shape as a market than any other state, because the slow-down in the automobile industry has affected a high percentage of the population.

THE "WHY" IN MEAT AND CATTLE PRICES.

When the packer buys a steer he buys two separate things. It is not the simple beef he has to look to. He has to take account of the counter-balance which occurs. This is the so-called by-products. They are almost as important in deciding the price of the steer as the carcass itself.

OUR DISAPPEARING FORESTS.

The inexhaustibility of Canada's forest resources is a myth which is rapidly losing credit, according to a statement issued by the Commission of Conservation. The symptoms of an actual timber shortage in Eastern Canada are already being felt in the form of high prices. White pine is disappearing rapidly from our forests, and for the most part, is not being replaced by new growth. Spruce, our most valuable pulpwood species, is steadily giving way to less valuable species, such as balsam and the hardwoods. Each year preventable forest fires still levy

Common Calving Troubles And How to Prevent Them

It is Highly Important That the Mother Receive Every Attention—Much Serious Loss is Caused Owing to the Careless Handling of Cows Prior to Calving.

(Experimental Farms Note.) The most common calving troubles are (a) retention of the afterbirth; (b) congestion of the udder with its attendant possibilities, inflammation and garget; (c) milk fever; (d) milk let-down of the udder, all of which can be prevented to a greater or lesser extent. It is the intention of the writer to deal with the preventive measures only, treatment of cases coming within the province of the veterinarian.

The cow, of all our domestic animals, is especially subject to retained afterbirth, and this is due to the fact that the afterbirth is retained in the uterus, all of which can be prevented to a greater or lesser extent. Merchant, What of Your Stock?

How fine it looked when you bought it. How pleased you were at the thought of the trade you would attract with it. And you did. But, stay! Was the trade as good as you expected? No! Then what was the reason? Conditions against it? Maybe, but the reason goes deeper than that. You used good judgment when you bought and your selling prices were right. The reason was the public—that is, sufficient numbers of "him" or "her"—did not know it. Your stock had no more attraction to them than that of any other merchant. So they did not come to you to buy. That's all. No more, no less. You know very well that if you could have attracted a sufficient number of people into your store, and an average proportion of them had become purchasers, you would have sold all of your season's goods. "Very well," you say, "but how am I to get the public into my store in the sufficient numbers that you speak of?" Advertise! "But," you answer, "I do advertise."

True enough, but do you put the same quality of brain into your advertising that you do into your buying? This is not meant to be impertinent. It is said in all seriousness, in the desire by newspaper publishers to have their newspapers be of the greatest possible service to you. In other words, the more care and the less thought you give to your local newspaper advertising the less care and the less thought you need to give to the selling of merchandise after season. Not to use your local newspapers with all the skill and judgment that you can command is to deny yourself the services of the greatest trade promoter within the use of man. The publisher of this paper will give you the benefit of his advice on all matters pertaining to the typographical arrangement of your copy and, whenever possible, assist you in the preparation of it.

It is not difficult for a farmer to care for his vegetables in winter, as he has, as a rule, a good, cool cellar, but in cities cellars are usually too warm for most vegetables; hence, where the main cellar is too warm, wherever possible a part of it where cool air can be admitted should be partitioned off for the rest for a vegetable room.—W. MOTOR POWER HAS LARGELY INVADDED THE province of the horse, but the animal still lives and strives and still has its widespread usefulness. The great war had its devastating influence on the horse, and also developed the value of machinery in its place. But experience has proven that there are still uses to which the horse can be better applied than motor or steam power. Whips and reins are still used, and the horse is still a part of the public service. When the bicycle became a furore the horse became an object for scorn. When the automobile and, later, the tractor appeared, the horse was to vanish, but he maintained his ground. Many fear that the price will not run more than 15 or 20 cents when the market opens, and this will mean a heavy loss in many cases. An effort has been made to sell in the British market, but this has failed. It is a new market, but the outlook is not very encouraging in the section. The soil ideal for tobacco growing here and the quality of the weed is said to be equal to any grown in the southern States. Finding a market is the problem. If the market goes flat this year, there will be very little if any tobacco grown here this season. As farmers may turn their attention to other branches. Tobacco growing also has its drawbacks even in the best of weather. Several fields were entirely destroyed during the past year by the cut-worm. There is always danger of frost and late frosts. One accompanying picture was taken on the farm of Reeve N. A. Roszell, and the patch of tobacco is said to be almost perfect; in fact, it was pronounced the finest in the district so far.

An enormous toll upon our forest wealth. One symptom of the timber shortage is the increasing pressure for the modification of the regulations which forbid the cutting of small trees in many cases. Good returns are obtained from keeping bees in Canada, the conditions in many parts of the country being particularly favorable for honey production. While all means exist, and misconceptions have arisen as to the returns to be expected. One sometimes hears that a colony of bees has produced a pound of honey, and sometimes that a colony has produced a pound of honey. Knowing that honey is worth 20 to 30 cents a pound, and that one man can easily look after a hundred colonies, one is apt to form the conclusion that money is very easily made by keeping bees. Such yields, however, are exceptional, and are the result of a combination of fortunate circumstances, abundant flowers, and the importance of good management. Other important honey plants, a particularly industrious colony, a well-trained and experienced beekeeper, and a very dry summer, are sometimes not to be obtained from every hive, nor can they be repeated year after year. Sometimes a year of failure follows a year of success. To get reliable figures, it is necessary to average the returns from the colonies in the apiary for a number of years. This has been done since 1912 on all the Dominion experiments, and the results throughout Canada that keep bees, now numbering seventeen. The latest figures show that the average annual yield of honey has varied from 18 pounds per colony in the least profitable apiary to 133 pounds per colony in the most profitable apiary. The average annual production for all the apiaries was 63 pounds per colony, which is high enough to make a very satisfactory profit. These figures indicate the importance of good management, the return of only 18 pounds having been due to inexperience. They also point out the importance of local conditions, and the fact that there are many places where double the average honey crop can be obtained, and these places are not confined to the well settled or southern regions of the Dominion. The following are some of the best apiaries in the Dominion.—E. W. L. Sladen, Dominion Apiarist.

A free motion of the bowels, once or twice a day, should be the rule of everyone, as half the ills of life are caused by allowing the bowels to get into a constipated condition. When the bowels are allowed to become constipated, the stomach acts out of order, and the liver does not do its work properly on account of holding back the bile, so that it does not pass through the bowels; it is allowed to get into the blood, thus causing a poisoning of the whole system. If you would escape constipation, sick and bilious headaches, heartburn, floating specks before the eyes, coated tongue, foul breath; the nasty irritations, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, you should keep your liver stirred up by the use of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. These pills, being purely vegetable, keep your liver working actively, helping it to resume its proper functions, and thereby preventing the bile that is circulating in the blood and poisoning the whole system. Mrs. H. Barrows, Enfield, N. S., writes: "I was troubled with such headaches and constipation. One day a friend told me of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I got two vials, and found they did me a world of good. I therefore have faith in them." Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are the only pills, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T.
