Ross Government Take this Course on a Straight Party Vote in the Legislature—A Whitewashing Commission Planned.

MESSRS. PARDO AND LEE BOTH VOTED FOR THE MOTION

Mr. Gamey Definitely Charges Conspiracy on the Part of the Members of the Government and is Prepared to Prove It.

Toronto, March 28. — The Gamey charges auginst Hon. J. R. Stratton will be investigated by the Royal Commission promised by Premier Ross. Thisn definite stage was reached late last evening, when, after a day of stubborn debating, the Government defeated two amendments and ment defeated two amendments, and carried their own motion by 50 to 45, every member of the House being 45, every member of the House being present. Mr. Gamey and Mr. Stratton both voted. Mr. Gamey read a statement before the division, criticizing the commission, declaring that if his charge was altered he would repudiate the whole business. He was prepared to prove the charge before a committee of the House. Whether this means a refusal to go before the commission can only be conjectured, for beyond the statement Mr. Gamey will say nothing.

The day's debate was a battle of the two leaders. In anticipation, every possible foot of space in the chamber and galleries to which the public could, by favor or otherwise, gain access was crowded. Even the foot of the throne was graced by sired fem-

But if persons against whom my charge has been made alter it and vary it so that it ceases to be my charge, and put something in it place which limits it and makes it as accusation against the Hon. Mr. Straton alone, then I repudiate such action. Surely the position I take is definite, and cannot be mi-understood, and I leave it to finis House to deal with. When Mr. Gamey sat down there was a pause, and then the Speaker read the main motion to refer the sharges to a Royal Commission, followed by Mr. Foy's amendment to refer to the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

Premier Ross said he had hinted that that amendment was irregular, as it had contained a presumble, but as it had Premier Ross said he had hinted that that amendment was irregular, as it toontained a preamble, but as it had been debated for several days he would not press his objection. He thought to prevent its being quoted as a precedent the objection should be recorded.

Mr. Whitney thought it absurd that the rule should apply to amendments,

The Man From Manitoulin.

Just before the vote in the Legislature last night Mr. Robert R. Gamey, the member for Manitoulin, rose and made the following

The statement which I made on the floor of the House was that of a layman who desired to present, in his own words, and on his own responsibility as a member of this House, a question of privileges, I made my statement. This statement involved a charge of conspiracy on the part of members of the Government-a conspiracy on the part of those gentlemen with the other persons referred to in my statement, and others, to get me to leave my party and throw in my lot with the Liberals. That is my charge. It so stands before this House, and some of the accused now desire to alter my charge and to present it as being made against the Hon. Mr. Stratton alone. This is not my charge, and I do not propose that men against whom my charge has been made shall alter it and put into my mouth a charge different from that I made to this House. The charge that I made. I made upon my responsibility as a member of the House I have weighed and realized fully what that responsibility is, and I am willing to accept it. I am prepared to prove this charge before a committee of the House.

I charge a conspiracy on the part of members of the Government with other persons mentioned in my former statement, and others. I am prepared to substantiate this. But if the persons against whom my charge has been made alter it and vary it, so that it ceases to be my charge, and put something in its place which limits and makes an accusation against the Honorable Mr. Stratton alone, then I repudiate this action. Surely this position I take is definite, and cannot be misunderstood, and I leave it for the House

Mr. Car-negie moved a want of confidence mo-tion, which met the same fate, and the Opposition insisted on a division the Opposition insisted on a division on the main motion, which was carried without any change. Mr. Whitney wanted time to consider the evidence bill, and the question of adjournment, and promised to conclude on Monday if the members are there to vote. It seems quite probable that the commission will meet early next.

An adjourned meeting of the Kent Bar Association was held yesterday afternoon in Harrison Hall at three o'clock with President M. Houston and Messrs. Edwin Bell, W. E. Gundy, J. W. White, W. Frank Smith, and Secretary S. B. Arnold present.

A letter was read from Christopher Robinson, K. C., stating his appreciation of the address sent him by the Kent Bar Association in consideration of his donation to the Library of a number of valuable law books. President Houston and Messrs. Wilson, Bell and S. B. Arnold were appointed as a committee to look after son, Bell and S. B. Arnold were appointed as a committee to look after the changes to the proposed rules, motion of Messrs. White and Smith. Edwin Bell said that, as he was leaving the city shortly, he had decided to offer as a donation to the Library of the Association an almost complete set of statutes, both Canadian and of Ontario, from the first. He said he thought it was the only set in the city. W. E. Gundy-I have great pleasure

W. E. Gundy—I have great pleasure indeed in moving the acceptance of Mr. Bell's generous offer, as it will be quite an acquisition to the Library.

J. W. White seconded the motion. The report of the auditors showed that there was an utter lack of space for the Library in present quarters. It was decided to write the County Clerk, informing him of the fact of the inadequate quarters and asking him to notify the Property committee at first opportunity.

Meeting adjourned.

Regarded in Different Ways.

That one can obtain more favors by "jollying" than by being brusque is just as true as "one can catch more flies with molasses than with vinegar." The New York "Tribune" cites a case in point:

Two young men employed by the New York Life Insurance Company have lived in a boarding-house in West Twenty-third street for some time, and one has the reputation of being a "jollier," while the other is quick speken and of a bearish disposition. The young men are friends and usually breakfast together. Their respective standings in the estimation of the dining-room maid may be judged from the way in which that damsel shouted their orders—both had requested stelks—down the dumb-waiter that recently:

The Planat has been the fortunate recipient of cores of congratulatory letters and elephone messages from all parts of the district commending its course hroughout the entire matter, both in its record of facts regarding the oil operations from the inception of the yield and its exposure of the false and misleading reports published else that the fabrications published from time to time in a local paper, were being used extensively for procuring he sale of stock in various companies throughout Canada and the United States, but even these countries evidently did not compass the operations of the concerns

Dear Sir (or Madam):

We desire to call your attention to the DOMINION OIL COMPANY, EIM<sup>2</sup>
ITED, with a capitalization of $650, 000 (£170,000), which has been formed for the purpose of acquiring an interest in the RICHEST OIL TERRITORY EVER DISCOVERED IN THE DOMINION OF CANADA. The property lies nine miles south of Chatham, Ontarie, and comprises about 1,530 acres, including and surrounding the famous Gurd Gusber, which is flowing at the Gurd Gusher, which is flowing at the rate of sixty barrels an hour, yielding rate of sixty barrels an hour, yielding the very best quality of crude petroleum, for which the Standard Oil Company is paying $1.93 (about eight shillings) per barrel at the well. In fact, so anxious are they to obtain the output of this field, that they have constructed a pipe line at their own expense direct to the well.

ONE WELL ON THIS PROPERTY, PRODUCING SIXTY BARRELS AN HOUR, WILL YIELD A PROFIT OF ONE MILLION DOLLARS A YEAR.

The above statement seems incredible, but the facts can be easily verified. The Oil produced is crude pertoleum of the very highest grade, from which illuminating oils are re-crease the daily output to FIVE THOUSAND BARRELS A DAY, which is all that can be handled by the refineries now bult. The present output, without regard to any increase, insures enormous profits on the capital invested, and there is not the lightest doubt that this Company will prove a tremendous success.

The Company has a remarkably strong Board of Directors, the President, Mr. M. J. Woodward, being well known in London, from his connection with the Shell Fransportation Company. We regard this as an exceptionally strong Company, and commend the shares to you as a MOST DESIRABLE PURCHASE, combining as they do, absolute safety for the capital invested with a practical CERTAINTY OF ENORMOUS DIVIDENDS. We enclose you application form, and strongly advise you to remit for the number of shares desired by return of post.

Your faithfully.

So far as our local contemporary is oncerned, The Planet would earnestly ecommend the Banner to clessiself f all further complicity in the affer by a prompt and full statement of he facts, which would do much to tone for the past and assist in restoring that newspaper to public confidence again.

The people, feel quite keenly upon the subject in view of the stock-selling schemes being perpetrated, and the Banner's name has been used and is being used very generally to forward these fakes. Knowing the facts, as that paper does, it is surely its duty to its subscribers, as well as its obligation to the ethics of Canadian journalism, to make a prompt and full statement and repudiate further connection with the schemes.

Brockville, March 28. - James Hutton, the Queen's University student charged with grave-robbery at Lansdowne on the night of March 18, was brought before Judge McDonald for trial on Friday, and was sentenced to two months in the common jail. The prisoner's counsel requested the charge to be a base of the charge of the common jati. The prisoner's counsel requested the charge to be altered to "attempted" grave-robbery, which was consented to. Hutton pleaded guilty to this charge.

A number of testimonials from prominent clergymen and others were presented, showing the goo, character of the accused. This no doubt had a tendency to mittgate his sentence. Mr. H. M. Brewn represented the Crown, Mr. J. A. Hutcheson the relatives of deceased, and Mr. John McIntyre and Mr. H. A. Steward appeared for the accused.

KENT'S REPRESENTATIVES.

The good people of Kent County are following with keen interest and close attention the events connected with the legislative crisis in the Provincial House at Toronto. And, quite naturally, their interest chiefly centres in the members for the two constituencies into which this county is divided -the two men who represent themand the course they pursue on this paramount issue, embracing the integrity of parliament and the morality of

From Mr. T. L. Pardo, the representative of West Kent, nothing is heard. This is not new. For some nine long years Mr. Pardo has occupied his back bench in parliament and not once, during all that time, has he addressed the house-not once has he spoken. He has sat there, oblivious, apparently, to all the important issues discussed; never once has he advanced his views on any matter, never once has he said a word for his constituency and its people. He has proved merely a voting automaton a machine member. On the present vital issue—a matter of stupendous import to the good name of our Pro vince-it was to have been hoped that Mr. Pardo would have had something to say, that he would, at least, have risen and given voice to his convic tions regarding the disposal of the most serious charge's that have soiled the annals of Canadian parliamentary history. But Mr. Pardo still shirksstill maintains a silence that is not creditable to himself or his constitu-

Mr. John Lee, representative of East Kent, is even less fortunate. The fact has been disclosed that it was he who was hawking the speakership as a bribe to Dr Reanme to desert the policy and party his constituents had elected him to endorse and sup port. Mr. Lee made a clean breast of it in the House, True, Dr. Reaume says Mr. Lee's statement to the leg islature was not an accurate or strict ly truthful one, but, be that as it may do so, and did it "only as a joke." It really must have been almost pa thetic to have seen the representative for East Kent, an adult in physica proportions, tender this schoolboy ex-"I did it-but only as a joke."

Mr. Lee was not allowed to escape even at the hands of his friends. Mr John Auld, Liberal member for South Essex, was careful to explain to the House and to the whole Province that down this way-in South-Western Ontario-Mr. Lee was looked upon only as a huge joke, anyway; that his doings and sayings were not regarded seriously by the people who knew him. This was cruel from a colleague, but the Globe stabbed deeper still when it editorially said yesterday that Mr. Lee was "the last man likely to be entrusted with or to undertake any diplomatic negotiations.'

What do the people of Kent think of their two representatives, any

"FIGHTING MAC.."

The death, by suicide, of General Sir Hector Macdonald marks the melancholy ending to a brilliant career as an ideal soldier. He started at the very bottom, and raised himself up by his own efforts. After the battle of Omdurman he was worshipped as only military heroes are worshipped, and he was one of the few, of the very few, who stood the ordeal of the South African war without stain or loss. But no man is stronger than his weakest point, and even military heroes sometimes show traces of the common clay.

Of the last sad chapter in the story of Macdonald's life, it is impossibl to speak. Little is known beyond the fact that he was to be court-mar tialed for immorality. The nature of the charges against him are not known, nor is there any information as to the immediate causes which in duced him to end his life.

Perhaps no other explanation is needed than a soldier's idea of honor which, it might be remarked in pass ing, seems to be vastly different from a politician's. The politician seems to fatten on exposures and to hang on all the more firmly the more the reasons multiply why he should give up. But with a soldier it is dif-ferent; honor, as he conceives it, is the breath of his life, and when it goes, all is gone.

It is impossible to fairly judge Macdonald because nobody can tell his temptations, his struggles, his motives; but many a silent tear will be dropped for the Highland lad who ought his way to honor and dis-inction, and whose life went out in

"It was one of the hottest nights last season," he said. "The missus and children were at the seashore, and I was alone in the house. To gain a little coolness I opened the doors through all the rooms on the second story and dragged up my bed to the front window. Just as I was feeling the relief, and was dropping off into a most delicious slumber, a prolonged and melancholy yowl awoke me. Again and again it was repeated. I recognized the sound only too well—it was a dog serenading the moon, which was at its full, and I knew by experience that such concerts the moon, which was at its full, and I knew by experience that such concerts usually lasted hours. Rising on my albow, I could see across the street, and there in a patch of silvery light on a balcony sat a small white fox terrier, with nose uplifted, enjoying a very eestasy of woe. 'Florat' called a coaxing voice from the window. 'Come here.' Flora paid no attention, whereupon a white form appeared, and, leaning out, made a grab at the small offender, who retreated to the other end of the balcony out of reach and renewed her music, unheeding the dulcet endearments of her mistress, who tried to induce her to re-enter the house. A second window was opposite Flora, and the white form reappeared at that and cautiously was opposite Flora, and the white form reappeared at that and cautiously reached out an arm to seize the dog, who, however, gained the other point of vantage and continued to bay to the moon. This puss in the corner business was continued several minutes, Flora scampering from end to end of the balcony, evidently enjoying her triumph, while still continuing her music. By this time heads appeared at the windows of several other houses, and the situation became desperate. Dear Flora! Pretty Flora! Here's a nice biscuit for Flora! Called the soft voice, but Flora would not be cajoled. Finally, to the relief of everyone, Nemesis appeared. When Flora made her last skip from her mistress a tall figure in pink pajamas appeared at the other window, stretched out a long masculine arm and seized the peared at the other window, stretched out a long masculine arm and seized the wicked Flora by the scruff of her neck. 'Ki-yi!' yelped the little animal; but the master of the house, incensed at teing aroused from his slumber to catch a pet dog, had no compassion. A funny story is going around in New York concerning a very sportily-inclined debutante who is extremely fond of a tete-a-tete. At a recent reception she and one of her men friends, not finding a more convenient place, ensonced themselves in a big mahogany wardrobe in one of the halls, where she was finally discovered by her chaperon, who was looking for her wraps. Not in the least disconcerted, the girl said: "Isn't this a nice quiet place? Won't you come in and join us?"

and join us?"

According to "Truth," a delightful method of dealing summarily with female kleptomaniacs of gentle birth prevails in certain West End shops. Every lady detected in the act is given the option of being prosecuted in a court of law or birched by the manageress, a person specially selected for her biceps. The birch is a formidable one. In a shop alone, it is said, 20 ladies have accepted the ordeal of the birch, in addition to two young girls of foreign nationality, who, in consideration of their tender years, were treated to a milder form of chastisement.

Eva Hamilton Young.

Eva Hamilton Young, the Canadian author and writer, who is at present at Los Angeles, sends the following oright description of a piece of sunny California to a friend in Chatham "If you will come with me I will terest which I have lately seen. We will take the last place first, perhaps there will not be time for more than a glimpse at it. San Gabriel! very picturesque it looks as we approach it by the long narrow winding road that trends through vineyards and orange groves. On the orange trees are clusters of golden fruit and white blossoms; the roses are in full bloom; the grass is green. It is indeed a place with more sentiment than gaiety in it; more that is truly romantic than will ever be possible again in this progressive that is truly romantic than will ever be possible again in this progressive country.

The mission building is half hidden behind a belt of pepper trees. The walls and ardres of the quadrangle are entirely gone. Of cloisters where the holy men did penance for faults avowed there is no trace.

At the right of the great iron clamped door, and outside, is a flight of steep stone stairs that lead to a railed balcony above. Tradition has it that this balcony was built to overlook the bull ring for bull fighters were a feature of the public when it was the headquarters of the Spanish governors of California. Be that as it may for some reason it evidently was a favorite place; the steps are hollowed by the tread of many feet that have passed up and down the steep staircase.

San Gabriel Archangel is located about six miles east of the city of Los Angeles. It was founded in 1777. The valley at that time was covered with a dense forest consisting principally of oak, sycamore and elder trees, thousands of which were cut down to make an opening space around the mission.

From 1771 down to 1831, when the last report of the father Superior was made, there were baptized at San Gabriel 7,709 persons, 5,494 burials

From 1771 down to 1831, when the last report of the father Superior was made, there were baptized at San Gabriel 7,709 persons, 5,494 burials and 1,877 couples married. The floor is worn in great hollows around the old baptismal font of hammered copper of unique design.

Father Joquin Bot, the present father Superior, told me that it was brought from Spain long before the founding of the first California mission. It has been in its present place ever since the church was built.

In the Sacristy beside several old statutes there are censors and other vessels, also of copper, and apparently of the same age and workman. The alter is very old and quaint. It is adorned with a number of lifesized statues. In the centre are those of the angel Gabriel, to whom the church is dedicated, and the blessed virgin.

In front of the church under the organ loft is a very old confessional, indeed it is said to be antedate the church building. I can easily believe it. It reminded me of a very old man just sitting around executing dissolution.

The interior walls are ornamented with a number of lifesized and the proper of lifesized and the proper of lifesized around executing dissolution.

The interior walls are ornamented with a number of life-sized paintings of the apostles. One, St. Francis of Assisi, is a copy of a murillo. other of special interest is the portrait of St. Vibiane the patron saint of the diocese of Los Angeles. She was a beautiful Roman maiden who was martyred in the third century. Her grave was discovered in the catacombs. Her relies were presented by Pino IX to the late Bishop Amat in 1854. The Los Angeles cathedral is dedicated under her invocation and her remains are preserved cation and her remains are preserve cation and her remains are preserved in a niche over the high altar there. But we have wandered far afield and must return to the San Gabriel valley, where it is said is located the largest winery in the world. Grapes of every kind, grape fruit, olives, figs, of every kind, grape fruit, olives, figs, pomegranates, bananas, pine apples, oranges, lemons, citrons, all of the small fruits are found growing here. It is indeed a delightful place.

Think of this! You here, we could take an electric car and go to the top of Mt. Lowe, have a sleigh ride and return to Los Angeles and pick roses or go to Santá Monica and take a dip in the ocean.

The World's Best Age.

Most people have no doubt asked themselves at some time or other what part of the world's history would have been best worth living in; it is a favorite topic, on which the superlative degree is often exercised. Mr. Justin McCarthy, the eminent Irish historian, has been heard to vote for the period of Dr. Johnson and Mrs. Thesie. Years ago, when Mr. Gladstone was slive, the Grand Old Man and a group of friends were discussing this same question at Hawarden Castle. Mr. Gladstone, without any hesitation, decided from the intellectual point of view, and expressed the opinion that he would describe as the greatest day in the world's history a day in ancient Greece, when Athens was at the summit of its glory. Another member of the group chose the day of Pentecost. The effect on Mr. Gladstone is still remembered vividly by those who were present. The intellectual gave way at once to the spiritual, and the aged statesman, "seeming rather ashamed of himself," according to one who was present, asked leave to withdraw his former choice, and to say, "A day with the Lord."—'Lealie's Weekly."

FREE MEDICAL ADVICE TO WOMEN.

great satisfaction to feel that one woman can write to another telling her the most private and confidential details about her illness, and know that her letter will be seen by a woman only, — a woman full of sympathy for her sick sisters, and with a knowledge of woman's ills greater than that possessed by any other person.

Mrs. Pinkham never violates the confidence thus entrusted to her, and although she publishes thousands of testimonials from women who have been benefited by her advice and medicine, never in all her experience has she published such a letter without the full consent, and often by received request of the writer.

The reason Mrs. Pinkham is so amply qualified to give advice in cases of female ills is for the rethat ever one hundred thousand cases come before her each year,—some personally, others by mail, and this has been going on for twenty years, day after day, and day after day. Twenty years of constant success,—think of the knowledge thus gained. Surely, women are wise in seeking advice from a woman of such experience, especially when it is absolutely free.

As an illustration of the good coming from such advice we herewith publish two letters and pertrait of Miss Hattie DeGroat, the reading of which should give every sick woman confidence in Mrs. Pinkham's ability to help them. This is only one of thousands of the same kind of letters which Mrs. Pinkham has on file.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I have read with interest your advice to others so much that I thought I would write to you, for I have been suffering for a long time. I have such bearing-down pains, and such shooting pains go through me. I have headache, backache, and feel tired. Menstruation is very painful, sometimes have to stop work and lie down. My stomach bloats terribly, and I am troubled with whites. Hoping to hear from you MISS HATTIE DEGROAT, Succasuma, N. J.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham: — I can hardly find words to thank you for your advice and wonderful Vegetable Compound. I was in a terrible state, every part of my body ached, was very nervous, had hysterical spells. I think I would have become insane had it not been for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Your letter told me just what to do, and your medicine cured me, and I cannot express my thanks."

March 8th, 1901.

Miss Hattie Degroat, Succasuma, N. J."

No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of that any other medicine is just as good. Any dealer who suggests something clise has no interest in your case. He is seeking a larger profit. Follow the record of this medicine, and remember that the thousands of cures of women whose letters are constantly printed in this paper were not brought about by "something else," but by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The other afternoon, says the New York "Tribune," when President Roosevelt reached Dupont Circle, a "seeing Washington" electric car hove in sight, and the guide continued his lecture through a megaphone in this way: "On the left we see the elegant residence of Mr. George Westinghouse, the millionaire inventor and electrician, formerly the home of the late James G. Blaine; a little to the left of front we perceive the palatial mansion of Mr. L. Z. Leiter, the Chicago millionaire, and father of the famous beauty, Miss Mary Leiter, now Lady Curzon, the wife of the Governor-General of India; in the park in front we are confronted by the statue of Admiral Dupont, and also in front we see we are confronted by the statue of Admiral Dupont, and also in front we see the President of the United States on horseback." The crowd looked, and one woman said, "Whose statue is it, McKinley's?" "It's Roosevelt," the guide responded. "He ain't a statue yet."

DO YOU EAT TO LIVE?

Sensible people of all classes "eat to live." It should be borne in mind to live." It should be borne in mind that the ordinary prepared breakfast foods contain to much insoluble starch and blood irritating ingredients. Oatmeal and other cereal foods produce skin troubles and dangerous stomach difficulties.

Matt Breakfast Food keeps the blood pure and clean and always at proper temperature; it builds up solid, clean flesh, strengthens the nerves and clears the brain. Those who "eat to live" should always use health-giving Malt Breakfast Food at the morning meal. It gives to young and old a sustaining energy and vim that no other food can bestow. Ask your Grocer for it.

"Chums" tells of a certain wild beast tamer who had been on had terms for some time with one of his neighbors, and the other day, as the result of a violent quarrel, the latter, with a friend, attacked the former just before he was timed to give his performance. The tamer, unwilling to make a scene, took refuge in the lion's den. Judge of the amusement of the spectators when they beheld the two men standing in front of the cage and shouting through the bars at regular intervals: "Come out of that, you big coward; come out of that."

Miss Edna Hicklin and Frank Snyder brightened the program with clever recitations. Miss Hicklin's encore number was a very clever bit of elocution. Daisy Colville and Ethel Leake played an instrumental duet. The two little girls are pupils of Miss Margaret Houston and give promise of becoming exceptionally talented musicians.

Two especially pleasing numbers on the program were the recitation of little Gladys Millon and the vocal solo of little Lottie Wagenheim. Bothere little tots of the Mission Band and wonderfully clever for their years.

The chorus by a number of the funior members of the Band was much enjoyed. The dialogue by four goung ladies and the representation of the seasons by an equal number of young ladies kept the audience in termsted.

A $10,000 Blaze.

Ingersoll, March 28.—Fire laid low several buildings on the farm of Mr. Wm. Butler, Dereham Township, on Thursday afternoon, and the damage will aggregate over $10,000. The fire was the most destructive that has visited the township im years. Two barns, one 120 by 42, and the other 34 by 56, a large silo, granary with grain, creamery, implements building and tenement house, were reduced to ashes, and 56 head of horses and cattle perished. The fire is supposed to have originated from a spark from an engine that was being used to operate a chopped in the barn. The flames broke out in the upper part of the large barn, and were first observed from the barn were unable to cope with them, owing to the intense heat and smoke, and they were conselled to stand idly by and see one after the other of the buildings [6] a prey to the fire. The first barn was doomed when the flames were discovered, and they quickly communicated to the adjoining buildings. By hetere efforts six horses were rescred. There was a small insurance on the buildings. Mr. Butler is one of the best known farmets of the township.

The waters of the famous well is saline, and its prototype in Europe is the celebrated Kreutzmach Spring in Prussia, and are a great specific for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, liver troubles, skin diseases and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic, pure and simple.

"The Welland," remodelled and enlarged, is the principal building in which these waters are used, and most comfortable accommodation can be had there at reasonable rates.

SUCH WOMEN NEEDED

THOSE OF GOOD WORKS WHO RE-LIEVE THE AFFLICTED.

CHEER FOR TRAINED NURSES.

the Neblest and Best to Which the Sex Can Aspire-Noble Women Wh Go Forth to Battle With the World's Fell Diseases-Dr. Talmage's Sermon Intered according to Act of Parliament of Can-ada, in the year 1903, by William Baily, of To-ronto, at the Dep't of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Chicago, March 22.—In this ser-mon Dr. Talmage gives cheer and encouragement to the trained nurse, encouragement to the trained nurse, whose self sacrificing vocation he describes as one of the highest and noblest to which her sex can aspire. The text is I Timothy v, 10, "Well reported of for mod works " * if she have relieved the afflicted."

Well, indeed as a woman be reported of for works in such a world as out the have relieved the afflicted. See women are sorely needed. There is suffering everythe afflicted. Women are soro-ly needed. There is suffering every-where—in the rich man's palace and the poor man's tenement. If any wo-man desires to be well reported of for good works, she can attain her ambition in no surer, better way than in relieving the afflicted. It is glorious mission that has been chos-en by these noble women, who are graduating as trained nurses and are graduating as trained nurses and are going forth in their striped uniforms, like valiant soldiers, to contend with fell disease. I want to present to you my conception of what a woman should be, whether she stands by the operating table or bends over the invalid's bed or walks through the wards of a hospital for contagious diseases or sterilizes the surgeor's knives just be-titizes the surgeon's knives just before the limb is to be amputated.

The scope of my theme can best be realized if the hearer is led into the humble home of the most beloved humble home of the most beloved and internationally honored of all women living at the present time. Who is she? I will answer that question by relating an incident which happened about the year 1858. Lord Stratford was entertaining at a London banquet many of the prominent military officers of the British army, who had led to victory the Queen's soldiers in the Crimean conflict. As a matter of victory the Queen's soldiers in the Crimean conflict. As a matter of curiosity, the noble lord asked them, one and all, this question, "Who do you think, of all the participants of the late war, will be the most honored and revered by the coming generations?" He asked his guests to write the names of their choice upon slip of paper and he would read the the and announce the result of the ballot. When the slips were collected the vote was unanimous. Wonderful to state, the name which Lord Stratford announced was not that of a general. name which Lord Stratford announced was not that of a general. It belonged to an untitled woman. Her name was Florence Nightingale. Who was Florence Nightingale? She was not a Joan of Arc or Maria Theresa, who achieved victories by the sword. She won her universal fame by the way she bound together the bleeding lips of the wounds which the surgeon's knife had opened. She carried in her hand not the ed. She carried in her hand not the battle torn Unior Jack, but the white bandage. She ignited no flame which burst forth from the cannon's mouth. She simply lighted a little candle, with which she went from ward to ward in the field hos-pitals, long after the tired men were who was Florence Nightingale? I will tell you. She was the heroic nurse who did not want the British people to rear for her a monument of cold marble, but instead she took the $250,000, which was a free will offering given by her countrymen, and with it built and endowed, only a short distance from Westminster abbey, the famous training school for nurses which now bears her name. This school, established in name. This school, established in 1860, is the foster mother of all the modern training schools for nurses. When a woman so honored by church and state as Florence Nightingale thinks the development of the trained nurse a work so important that she devotes to it her fortune and her consecrated energies, we need make no apology for taking as our theme this morning the qualities which are needed in the ideal nurse.

The trained nurse, in the first place, must be intelligent. She is the right arm of the physician. By that we do not mean that the trained we do not mean that the trained nurse is to be a mere automatic machine and that when the physician pulls the string she is to move and when he stops pulling she is to stand still. Oh, no! She is to be far more. We find that to-day the intelligent trained nurse is more than the mere physical right arm of the physician. She is his eyes, his hands, his constant belier. than the mere physical right arm of the physician. She is his eyes, his hands, his constant helper. What the intelligent trained nurse is able to report in reference to the progress of the patient to a great extent decides the physician's diagnosis. He sees the patient but once in twenty-four hours, while she is by the invalid's bed practically all the time. She can record the progress of the disease by the flight of minutes. He can only study it by the morning and the evening call. The value of the intelligent nurse is to be found in what she sees, as well as in what she is willing to do; her usefulness is to be enhanced by what she can tell, as well as by her willingness to obey orders.

"It is high time," Florence Nightingale once wrote, "that the fallacy thould be exploded that every woman is able to become a competent nurse." It is high time that the tent decides the physician's diagnosis. He sees the patient but once in twenty-four hours, while she is by the invalid's bed practically all the time. She can record the progress of the disease by the flight of minutes. He can only study it by the morning and the evening call. The value of the intelligent nurse is to be found in what she sees, as well as in what she is willing to do, her usefulness is to be enhanced by what she can tell, as well as by her willingness to obey orders.

"It is high time," Florence Nightingale once wrote, "that the fallacy should be exploded that every woman is able to become a competent nurse." It is high time that the standard of our training schools for nurses should be raised, that unworthy institutions should be crushed out and that the question of a trained nurse's efficiency should not be decided by her ability to buy a gingham dress and to read a thermometer. Incompetent nursing has involved the loss of many a life and caused many an agonizing pain. Some time ago a dear friend of mine, a brother minister, had his little five-year-old son nearly burned to death. The only way to save the child's life was by grafting human skin upon the little one's stomach and chest. The father and the child's true brothers reluntared to child's two brothers volunteered to let the doctor peel the skin from their bodies to save the baby's life. After one of the brothers—a noble After one of the brothers—a noble lad about ten years of age—had had the skin cut off his arms and shoulders and chest the surgeon turned to the nurse and said, "Nurse, where did you get that knife?" "Out of the alcohol," she answered. "Did you then place the blade in sterile water before you gave it to me?" "No," she answered; "I did not know you wanted me to do it." "Then," said the surgeon, "we have cut all the skin off from this boy's body for nothing. Your criminal ignorance is to blame for this useless suffering. You should have known enough to place that knife in sterile suffering. You should have known enough to place that knife in sterile water. You profess to be a trained surgical nurse and a graduate of a nurses' college."

Thus, you women about to become trained nurses, it is of vital importance that you are intelligent and efficient. It is of vital importance that you should know the value of fresh air and of proper dietetos. It is of vital importance that you obey the laws of cleanliness and not allow your patient to become infected The ignorance of incompetent nurse has sent many a patient to the grave. If you voluntarily enter your noble profession intellectually unqualified, you are committing a sin against the human race just as sureby as is the ignorant switchman who throws open the wrong switch and sends the passenger train crashing into the freight train which has been sidetracked.

The ideal nurse should be a Christian woman. During the dark night, when the black winged death angel is hovering, wing and wing, beside the white winged birth angel or when in the crisis of pneumonia or typhoid the life seems to be hanging Popular Ideas Regarding Catarrh.

It is the common belief that what It is the common belief that what is popularly known as catarrh is simply a chronic cold in the head. This is true as far as it goes, but as a matter of fact catarrh is by no means confined to the nasal passages, but extends wherever the mucous membrane extends, which means nearly every part of the body.

membrane is the inside skin of the body and is nearly as extensive as the outside skin, and as extensive as the outside skin, and any inflammation of this membrane causing an extra secretion of fluid is really catarrh.

Catarrh is, therefore, an old enemy disguised by many confusing names, for instance, Rhinitis is nasal catarrh; laryngitis and pharyngitis throat catarrh; gastritis, stomach catarrh; cystitis and nephritis, catarrh of the bladder and kidneys.

Therefore, although the location of the trouble gives it various names, in reality the sum total is catarrh and nothing else.

Do not make the mistake of thinking you have no catarrh because the

Do not make the mistake of thinking you have no catarrh because the head and nose appear to be clear. If there is a cough, tickling in the throat and hoarseness you have throat catarrh, if there is no appetite, but nausea, gagging and disgust for food especially in the morning, you have catarrh of the stomach.

by a signeer thread, no intelligent nurse is so competent to bend over the bed as the one who believes in God and prayer and the one who can ask for the divice blessing when she pours out the medicine or places the ice bag on the severed brow. A great deal of Florence Nightingale's power her parisaris was due to the deal of Florence Nightingale's power over her patients was due to the fact that she could tell the physically helpless and the dying about the Good Physician, who was able to cure the sufferer's soul as well as his body. The Crimean soldiers had a better chance for getting well in this world when Florence Nightingale's mere presence made these rough men stop their swearing and influenced many of them to turn their lips toward heaven with a beseeching prayer. We know that one of the beneficient tasks of a nurse is to inspire patients with peace of to inspire patients with peace of mind and of heart. Therefore, is not the ideal nurse doubly fitted for her work when she can impart to the sufferer's soul a knowledge of the peace that passeth understanding?

But there is another reason why the nurse should be a Christian wo-man. No young girl who enters this noble profession is morally and spiritually safe unless she enters it with the divine arm of protection encirc-ling her. We talk about the temp-tations which confront an average actor and actress. Mary Anderson, once the uncrowned queen of the American theatre, has warned young girls against the temptations. Actors like Edwin Booth would never the state of the st Actors like Edwin Booth would never allow their daughters to follow in their footsteps. Some of us would rather see our daughters dead than hear that they were going upon the stage. But the temptations of the stage have their counterpart in the perils, more subtle and no less menacing, of the nurse's career. The breaking of the home ties, the silence of the sickroom, the evils of the hospital, the unprincipled lives of many physicians principled lives of many physicians and the perils which must necessar-ily arise in the discussion of certain cases—ali conspire to overthrow the spiritual life of one who may have entered the nurse's profession with the highest and noblest of purposes. Ah, nurse, you realize only too well that the words of warning which I speak have a far-reaching and over the case where th that the words of warning which I speak have a far-reaching and over-powering meaning; therefore, if you are going to enter this profession in your own strength I beg of you to stop before it is too late. Better scrub in the kitchen, stand behind the counter. be a chambermaid or anything that is honorable, however humble, rather than attempt to be a trained nurse without Christ by your side. As a noble, Christian woman a trained nurse has the grandest opportunities for usefulness; as one who is not divinely protected as one who is not divinely protected she is in weekly and daily—aye, per-haps in hourly—danger of spiritual overthrow.

The ideal nurse should be a brave woman. The battlefield, with its storm of shot and shell, shows no greater percentage of loss of life than that found among the trained nurses in our contagious hospitals. The soldier who charges the enemy's breastworks is looking death in the face with no braver eye than the uniformed nurse who times the pulse of the smallpox patient or the young girl who offers to go with the physicians into the quarantined city affected with yellow fever. Then there are the dangers which may affect the patients as well as the nurse, which result from delirium. The other day I read an eccount of a case er day I read an account of a case in which the quick witted bravery of a nurse saved the life of a raving patient committed to her charge. Having stepped out of the room for a little, when she returned she found the next stepped out of the little with the little with the little with the little with the next stepped out of the little with the littl a little, when she returned she found the patient standing by his bed with a knife in his hand, ready to cut his throat. Instead of screaming or running away, she fixed her eye calmly upon his as she said: "I would not cut my throat with soch a dull knife as that if I were you. Let me have it; I know where to get a sharper one." The delirious patient hesitated a moment. Then he handed it to her. Then she calmly turned and threw it out of the open window as the ceit. window as she said, "Now go back to bed or else I will call for help to put you there." Ah, that was brav-

But there is another way in which the ideal trained nurse must prove her bravery. That is when she has the moral courage to refuse to work for an incompetent physician. Some for nurses gave this question in an examination paper: "Supposing you positively knew that if you obeyed the doctor's orders to give to your patient a certain medicine that act would kill the patient, would you give it?" Most of the students averaged "No." Soon the students answered "No." Some answered "Yes." I myself believe that neither answer fully covered the duty in the case. If there should come a time-and that time will come-when a competent nurse knows that her patient is being cared for by come—when a competent nurse knows that her patient is being cared for by an incompetent physician, then that nurse should go to that doctor and tell him plainly what she knows and then and there refuse to work any longer under his orders. She should do as an officer in the United States army ought to do. As an officer in the army I must obey my commander's orders. If I do not, then I am punished, but if I know that my commander is a druhken incompetent or is following a fatally wrong policy then I should have the moral courage to hand in my resignation or to protest to the higher authorities. A trained nurse has no moral right to work under an incompetent physician. By doing so she becomes a party to his malpractice. She should not disobey his orders. Two wrongs never make a right. She should refuse to work for him at all.

should refuse to work for him at all.

The ideal nurse should be a happy woman. Happy! Why? Because, as King Solomon wrote, "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine." Happy! Why? Because good cheer is contagious as well as infectious. The nurse's smile in the sickroom has the same curative qualities as the the same curative qualities as the sun bath or an alcoholic rub. And sun bath or an alcoholic rub. And yet there are some nurses who go about their tasks with the soured visage of an undertaker's assistant rather than with the radiant face of

It is a life which has in it a sweet con-sciousness that she is trying to help her fellow men. It is not a life of mere money making, as many sup-pose. After the trained nurse has pose. After the trained nurse has taken out her legitimate expenses she has little money to save. It is a life of sweet and noble self sacrifice.
Oh, the transcendant joy of the Christian nurse's sacrifice for others!

Voung women who are about to enter the nurse's profession, if you are to become ideal nurses, this is to be your joy. You will be happy because you will know that your sacrifice and devotion and faithfulness will save other lives. You will have the sweet consciousness that you have been able to lead a sufferer back from the dark valley of the shadow of death, or, if you have to close the eyelids of the dead, you will know that you have been able will know that you have been able to place their hands in the saving hand of Jesus. Christian women about to enter the noble profession of trained nurses, I congratulate you. I give to you a gospel salutation. I wish you godspeed.

I have chosen this subject of the 'Ideal Nurse' for two reasons: First, I want to remove the prejudice which is harbored in many minds against hospitals and trained nurses. Some leople think that an hospital is only an adjunct to/a cemetery and that ieople think that an hospital is only an adjunct to a cemetery and that a trained nurse in a hospital is not nearly as competent or faithful as the average mother carling for her sick child. The simple fact is many a life would have been saved if the patient had been sent to a hespital instead of being kept at home under the parents' charge. Some time ago I was called to see a young girl sick with pneumonia. The patient lay in a room that was damp and cold. The mother's every action proved she was incompetent to care for the invalid. I gently told her so and suggested that she send her daughter to a hospital, where she could be properly pital, where she could be properly cared for. She answered that that cared for. She answered that that was what the doctor wanted her to do, but she could not and would not let her daughter be under any other care but her own. Within a few days the young girl died. I officiated at the funeral. They had a Feautiful casket and plenty of flowers, but the whole service seemed to me a mockery. I do not say that mother killed her child, but I do say that if she had been taken to the hospi-

Second, I have preached this sermon because I want to throw wide open a door of usefulness for Christian women. Nursing is essentially woman's work. It is as much a woman's work. It is as much a woman's work as caring for a baby is a mother's work. Therefore I want to show to young women a field in which they can not only make an honorable living, but in which they can do an infinite amount of good. Sisters and daughters, which they can do an infinite amount of good. Sisters and daughters, Christian girls, it is time for some of you to stop learning to play upon the piano when you have no musical talent and trying to paint upon china when you have no artistic talent and learn to do something practical in the higher training schools for nurses. You will therefind a womanly vocation. You will find here a course of study which will fit you to become better wives

RHEUMATISM AND KIDNEY TROUBLE

Mrs. Alex. Armstrong, of Fox P.O., Man., Suffered to Such an Extent She Had to Take Laudanum to Relieve the Pain.

Would Lie For Days in a Stupid and Helpless Condition -- Could Not Walk Without Assistance and Became a Physical Wreck.

A Friend Advised Powley's Liquified Ozone--Less Than Three Bottles Cured Her Completely--She Is Free From Aches and Pains and Is in Perfect Health.

"For more than two years I have been a terrible sufferer from Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble Many times the pains were so terrible and my suffering so great that I could not endure them, and was obliged to take laudanum to the extent of three teaspoonfuls at a time, and I would lie in a stupid and helpless condition for two or three days. I became a physical wreck and thought I would never recover. I got so weak I could not walk without assistance, and I could only get relief from my suffering by taking laudanum. I took doctor's medicine but got no relief. A friend of minadvised me to try Powley's Liquified Ozone. I purchased a bottle and began taking it. I had taken onlak half the bottle when I began to feel thatit was doing me good and I began to get better. I continued the use of Ozone until I had taken over two large bottles, and I am now completely cured. My general health is better than it has been for years. I am entirely free from rheumatic pains and no longer suffer from kidney trouble. In fact I am in perfect health. I am free from aches and pains, and blessed be your Ozone, for it has done it all. I attribute my complete recovery and restoration to perfect health to the use of Ozone alone, having taken no other remedy, and I can recommend Ozone to all sick and suffering women. MANY OTHER CURES.

The following extracts are taken from the letters of a few of the many persons who have been cured of rheumatism and kidney troubles by Powley's Liquified Ozone:

WM. FLETCHER,
Erinvale, Ont., says: "For about two years I suffered from kidney disease and finally became so ill that my doctor advised me that if I had any business to settle that I had better have it attended to. Fully expecting to die I ness to settle that I had better have it attended to. Fully expecting to die I had him draw up my will. About this time Mr. Conover, a neighbour, recommended Powley's Liquified Ozone. I felt better after taking the second dose and after taking five bottles was entirely cured. Although 72 years of age I am so well that I can do a good amount of work and feel that I am good for at least ten years to come."

WM. GOUGH,

Danforth and Pape avenue, Toronto, says: "I had a severe attack of la grippe, which developed into rheumatic fever. I was reduced in weight to 120 pounds. I employed the services of a good physician, but derived to 120 pounds. I employed the services of a good physician, but derived to the cures advertised, but in spite of all the many advertised, but in spite of all the many examples."

MRS. MATILDA DALE,

Substand contracted a very severe case of muscular rheumatism. He soon became so bad that he had to be lifted or turned in bed, as he could not move himself. Altiquified Ozone. At first it made him very sick and he wanted to give it up.

But I had heard if Powley's Liquified Ozone caused any sickness at the stomach that this was a sign that the remedy was doing good work, and I prevailed on him to continue it. In one week after, he was able to get out of bed. He continued to take Powley's Liquified Ozone, using seven bottles, when he was entirely relieved of the rheumatism, and is now working every day."

London's Pot-Boilers.

London's Pot-Boilers.

There are men in London to-day, says an English paper, who, in preference to starving, are glad enough to turn out oil paintings at the ridiculous remuneration of fourpence each, for which work they find a steady demand. The work, of course, has to be executed with extreme dexterity, or the artist would realize but a poor living but some smart men, aided by one or two deft assistants, can complete from 200 to 300 of these "pictures" in a week, though they have to toil early and late to accomplish their arduous task. When a big order comes in for a gross of oil paintings, to be finished within a specified period for a wholesale firm, the method of work is usually as follows: Along the walls of the apartment wherein the artists work are stretched so many yards of canvas, which is marked into lengths, according to the size of the pictures ordered. Then the work is equally divided among the artist and his colleagues, each man being responsible for one part of every picture. One will paint the trees, another the sky, a third will put in a bit of sea or lake, and a fourth will add a few figures to impart animation to the scene. Each man selects the particular line in which he can do his best and quickest work, and all labor with a strict eye to time and business. In one studio devoted to the fourpenny oil paintings, there are half a dozen girls who work eighty hours a week, and these earn only from twelve to fifteen shillings each. They work for a big wholesale house on the Continent, and their specialty is the showy little landscape or marine paintings so familiar to those who patronize the itinerant auctioneer or the cheap house furnisher. Incerdible though it may seem, there are some sweating firms who expect the artist to find his or her own canvas and colors, and then to turn out oil paintings adealers provide the materials or make an allowance for the extra cost.

Measuring Sleep.

Few phenomena in human experience are at the same time so common and so mysterious as sleep. For hours at a time the physical senses and mental faculties remain functive, and then rather abruptly acquire their wonted keenness. It has long been known that age, sex, occupation, state f health and other influences affect the period during which this suspension of consciousness lasts, and also the soundness of one's sleep. There is reason to think. sciousness lasts, and also the soundness of one's sleep. There is reason to think, too, that the latter is variable through the night with every individual, even though his slumber may remain practically unbroken. This phase of the subject, however, has not been studied much until recently. Hence few people realize how greatly the depth of sleep fluctuates.

until recently. Hence few people realize how greatly the depth of sleep fluctuates.

In order to get some light on the question, two investigators in the University of Rome, Dr. Sante de Sanctis and D. U. Neyroz, conducted a series of experiments which extended through six months. Nine different persons, four of whom were thoroughly healthy and five of whom had diseased nervous systems, were the subjects of these tests. The general plan of procedure was to wait until after they had fallen asleep and then employ uniform means to awaken them. For this purpose an instrument was used called an esthesiometer. It was made up of a blunt point that might be pressed against the skin, a spiral spring and a carefully graduated scale which showed the degrees of pressure used. The point was applied gently to the sleeper's left temple, and pressed until he awake, then the scale was examined and notes were made of the hour and minute and of the scale reading. The same person was not awakened more than once or twice a night, but the experiments were so timed that in the course of a few months they covered the whole eight-hour period during which sleep lasted, at intervals of ten or fifteen minutes, several times over.

These data, having been tabulated, show that the soundest sleep in the four healthy subjects occurred between an hour and a quarter and an hour and a quarter and an hour and a half after dropping off. Unconsciousness rapidly and almost steadily increased during that period, and then in the next quarter or half hour diminished greatly. Thereafter surprising oscillations were detected. On the average, though, the stages of lightest sleep occurred about four and a half nours after the beginning. A short, low, secondary maximum of intensity followed in the next hour and a half or two hours. From this point the decline was rapid to the final awakening.

In epileptics and paralytics very much the same state of things was observed, except that they sleep more profoundly

In epileptics and paralytics very much the same state of things was observed, except that they slept more profoundly than the healthy subjects, and in one person the unconsciousness at the end of lifteen minutes was almost as marked as at an hour and a half.

The Elective System in Manners.

As with every other abuse that threatens the comfort of the community, home-training is largely responsible for the numerous presence of the selfish ungrateful individual, the cormorant of society. Many parents inculcate selfishness, contends a writer in "Donahoe's Magazine," and an astute weighing of services rendered from outside. Thus their children learn early that their teacher's devoted care is "paid for." the seats they occupy in cars and for." the seats they occupy in cars and that their teacher's devoted care is "paid for," the seats they occupy in cars and must not yield to any claim of age or sex are "paid for," the houses they inhabit and wreck "are paid for," favors are rendered for ulterior motives, etc., etc. Thus the course of instruction is continued, until retribution not infrequently overtakes the instructors, they becoming in turn victims of the too commercial training they imparted. The writer has in mind the mother of three sons, who gave to her children the most unceasing care, and who in her old age subsists upon the pittance grudgingly contributed by them, forced from them by the law. Nor is the case a solitary one.

"What is there in it for me?" is the leading question of the day, and a capacity for "working" people is a passport to success. Instead of gratifude and courtesy many young people cultivate a brand of politeness that expresses itself in "Thanks awfully." "Thanks very much." "Paw donn me," and other conventional forms equally indicative of gentility of birth and breeding.

There is grave reason to fear that they gentility of birth and breeding.

There is grave reason to fear that they are taking an "elective" course in manners, carefully eliminating the essentials.

Late Frimate's matred or verposity Dr. Temple's hatred of verbosity was intense, according to the Eng-lish papers. On one occasion a clergyman sought his Grace's permission to add a second living to the one he already held. 'What is the distance between the two places?' asked the archbishop. 'Only fourteen miles as the crow flies. my lord, was the eager reply. "You aren't a crow; you can't fly. you shan't have it!" snapped Dr. Temple. Another time his chaplain was pic. Another time his chapian was surprised to receive a telegram from the archashop consisting of only the words, "Third John, 13 and 14," Mystified, the chapitan turned up his Bible and read.—"I had many things to write, but I will not with ink and pen write unto thee. #### GIVE IT A REST

That is What the Stomach Signals For—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Will Digest the Food While the Stomach Rests.

Those who are suffering from the first mild discomforts that are the forerunners of Dyspepsia little realize what the future has in store for them unless the warnings sent out by the distressed stomach are heeded. The stomach signals that it needs rest, and if it does not get it it grows more tired and less able to do its work as time wears on, and the while those discomforts grow to pains and the pains to agonies that are a terrible menace to life itself..

Take warning from those who have learned by terrible experience the pains and dangers of Dyspepsia. Mrs. John F. Sillars, of Western Bay, Newfoundland, is one of them. Here is what she says:

"For seven years," Mrs. Sillars relates, "I suffered from Dyspepsia. I could not eat without suffering intense agony. I doctored some but to no avail, and I had almost given up myself to die. The Finest Newspaper Office on Earth.

The Washington "Star" a piper almost unknown in Europe, has the glory of possessing the finest mewspaper office in North American. The "Star" is remarkable for three things. First, it has only a circulation of 35,000 a day; secondly, it publishes no Sunday edition; and thirdly, although its circulation is comparatively insignificant, it has so many advertisements as to stand among the few dailies at the top of the advertising field. Instead of a Sunday paper, it publishes a Saturday magazine supplement. Although it has so small a circulation, it has made sufficient pront to build a much finer newspaper office thas anything to be seen in New York. It is, indeed, according to a writer in "Caxton's Magazine," one of the finest public buildings on earth. It is built of smoothfaced marble in the French Renaissance style; it is nine stories high, and the only office with which he can compare it is the marble palace of the "Herald" buildings in New York. From attic to basement everything is marble. The entrance hall is a lofty marble chamber, elaborately carved, and with abundant bronze work. Round the walls are a series of seven symbolical frescoes painted by Mr. Dealman, who painted many of the frescoes in the Washington Library. Four of them symbolize the day's history, news-gathering, the editorial function, and advertising. The proprietorial consulting-room is fitted up as an old Dutch sitting-room 200 years old. In every room it is the same. Mosaic floors, marble pillars and fine bronze work, silver shower baths, explain how it is that this edifice is said to be the most costly office-building in the world. The newsboys are as carefully studied as the editors. The compositors have quarters which a merchant prince in London might envy. Every comp. has his own cupboard, and is provued with shower and other baths. Even the lavatories which a merchant prince in London is, for daintiness of detail, more like a lady's boudoir than a printing room. Yet it is a place where very solid and smart work is done. #### Historic Last Words.

At my entrance, Caxton turned from a large tome which he was reading, with a slight air of interruption.

"Sorry to interrupt you." I apologized.
"Oh, I suppose that's all right," he responded with returning cordiality. "In fact, I'm rather glad you've happened in, as I want to voice a kick which has occurred to me from reading this book."

"Just what is your author?" I asked.
"Why, it's a collection of deathbed utterances made by some ingenious hack. He's patiently ferreted out all the last words of history. And I tell you the way they all affect me. All these final speeches are shot through with egotism. It is strange that when a man is about to step out into the infinite his thought should only be of himself and his own petty part in the world drama. Words from a deathbed have weight. It is a pity that all on record should be tainted with conceit. The pronoun of the first person infects all dying utterances.

"'We have this day kindled a fre,' say the dissenting martyrs. Nathan Hale irritates us with his I regret I have only one life.'

"Roll up the map of Europe,' are Pitt's last, and the colossal conceit of them is not to be surpassed. It is strange that in the moment of supreme vision all sense of perspective should be lost. Why should all the swan songs of literature and history fecus attention on the singer?"—N. Y. "Tribune."

A Missionary Story.

missionary returned from Equatorial Africa told this story at a club the other night:

In this man's territory there was a chief who had resisted every appeal to make him a Christian. He was the higgest man in a sort of confederation of savage tribes, and the missionary knew that if the hig chief were once converted the effect would be felt by every native within fifty miles. So the missionary kept after him month in and month out, in face of every kind of indifference and rebuff.

At the end of two years the mission ary was all but ready to give up, when one day the miracle came to pass—the big chief's heart was touched by the truths of Christianity. The missionary redoubled his efforts, and in two months more the big chief offered himself for baptism.

It looked like a great victory won, until, in examining the new convert, the missionary discovered that according to the chiefly prerogative he had two wives. The missionary expressed his horror, indignation and grief to the chief.

He explained to him how the state of Le explained to him how the state of polygamy was a barrier to anyone who wished to become a Christian. Then he prayed with him, and the chief departed, weeping over his unfitness.

But a month later he came again, joyous, devout, and, throwing himself at the missionary's feet, asked for hap-

"My brother," said the missionary, "I cannot baptize you while you are the husband of two wives."

"No two wives, just one wife now," said the chief.

The missionary raised him to his feet. Here was the true penitent.

"My brother," said the missionary, "you make my heart glad. And what did you do with your second wife?"

"Um," answered the chief. "She no good; me want be Kistian; me eat her."

The song the firemen sing to the Gazoo whistle—"Just whistle and I'll come to the fire, my hearty."

Thave it on good authority that T. L. Pardo, M. P. P., is the big gun the Government is holding back to crush Gamey at the last with a penderous flow of eloquence, which will also be known as his Initial Speech in The House.

The old Scotch woman, when her The old Scotch woman, when her her incoming the spin, remarked, "it's wunerfu' the works of nature, our Tommas made a totem that wudna' burl." That's nothing. The Property committee say they have a whistle that will not whistle.

Annie Reaume was good at taking things. First she took a clock, which of course was taking time. Then, after being put in jail, she took herself off. The County Council ought to be glad she didn't take the jail with her.

They tell us that the little man who does the little work on the little work on the little "News" lives at the dnd of Victoria avenue—according to himself "no-where." This may explain the fact that if you ask where he stands on the temperance question, the trade question, the Gamey charges, in fact on any of the questions affecting the welfare of the country, you find him at home—"nowhere." There seems to no only one question on which he stands "pat"—the Raleith oil fields and on this there is a haily gushbut the public is beginning to feel, that like Mr. Stratton's hargain with Mr. Gamey, it is for a consideration.

MYSTIC 'PHONE CALLS. Some people make funny statements

The dressmakers can't abolish the shirt waist. Some wastes are matters of great expense, but the shirt waist is handy, neat and cheap.

Ah, come to think of it, I have one criticism to pass on the Football Club minstrel show. They missed John Lee, the joker, as an endman.

Annie Reaume should be able to get a job in vaudeville. She could do that vanishing stunt which she practised at the jail with great success.

The Epworth League of the Park street Methodist church have elected five vice-presidents. Evidently on the principle of fighting fire with fire, they propose to fight vice with vice.

Some people make funny statements when asking for telephone numbers. I heard a man ask the telephone girl to give him 2 not 3. The alleged proprietor, Wm. Daly, and a dozen others were arrested. The raid was a sensational one. According to the story told by the police, the place was very cunningly fortified and guarded. An elaborate system of signals had to be given by several sentries, it is alleged, before a would-be bettor could gain entrance to the room. Pocket telephones, electric buttons, "buzzers," secret sildes and a "maze" figure in the story. It is said that there were five rooms leading directly into the alleged poolroom, and that in some of the enclosures there were three or four doors, built to bewilder an invading party. Two detectives disguised themselves as truck drivers, and, it is alleged, frequently visited the place. They were there when two other detectives dropped through the celling. The latter, dressed as laborers, entered the cafe. They had sledge hammers and axes and each carried a "immy". They went at once to the rear room. They promptly arrested the outer sentifies, and while ondestective watched the prisoners, the other battered down a door. As me or one the detectives inside a corner, covered the and backets in the story of the revolvers, and cutting through doors, the raiders finally got into the alleged pool-room.
