POETRY.
The Under Dog in the Fight.
I know that the world—the great big world—
From the peasant up to the king,
Has a different tale from the tale I tell,
And a different song to sing.
But for me, and I care not a single fig,
If they say I am wrong or am right,
I shall always go in for the weaker dog,
For the under dog in the fight.
I know that the world—that the great big world—
Will never a moment stop
To see which dog may be in the fault,
But will shout for the dog on top.
But for me—I never shall pause to ask,
Which dog may be in the right—
For my heart will beat, while it beats at all—
For the under dog in the fight.
Perchance what I've said I had better
not say,
Or 'twere better I had said I incorrect.
But with heart and with glass filled
check to the brim—
Here is luck to the bottom dog.

SELECT STORY.
A Life for a Love.
BY L. T. MEADE.
CHAPTER XXII.—Continued.
Mr. Paget felt his heart beat a trifle too fast. Would that stall be full or empty when the curtain dropped at the close of the first act? Would his heart's desire, his wicked and treacherous heart's desire be torn from him in the very moment of apparent fruition.
Suppose Gerald did not put in an appearance at the Gaity? Suppose at the eleventh hour he changed his mind and resolved to leave Esther Helps to her fate? Suppose—phew!—where was the use of supposing? To leave a girl to her fate would not be his chival-rous fool of a son-in-law's way. No, it was all right; even now he could dimly discern a faint communion in the neighborhood of Esther Helps—the kind of communion incident on the arrival of a fresh person, the gentle little movement made by the other occupants of the stalls to let the new comer, who was both late and tiresome,
take his reserved seat in comfort. Mr Paget sank back in his seat with a sensation of relief; he had not listened for nothing behind an artfully concealed curtain that morning.

The play proceeded. Much as he had said about it beforehand, it had no interest for Mr. Paget. He scarcely troubled to look at the stage. There was no room in his heart, that moment for haughty; he was too busily engaged over his own terrible life's drama.
On the result of this night more or less depended all his future happiness.

"If she turns back to me after what she sees to-night then I can endure," he said to himself. "I can go on to the bitter end—if not well, there are more expedients than one for a ruined man to throw up the sponge."
The curtain fell, the theatre was in a blaze of light; Valentine and Lillias sank back in their seats and began to fan themselves. They had been pleased and amused. Lillias, indeed, had laughed so heartily that the tears came to her eyes.

"I hate to cry when I laugh," she said, taking out her handkerchief to wipe them away. "It's a tiresome trick we all have in our family, Gerald and all."
She had a habit of bringing in Gerald's name whenever she spoke of her family, as if he were the topmost
stone, the crowning pride and delight.
Mr. Paget had his back slightly turned to the girls. Once more he was devouring the stalls with his eager bright eyes. Yes, Gerald Wyndham was in his stall. He was leaning back, not his usual. He was leaning back, not exerting himself much; he looked nonchalant and strikingly handsome. Mr Paget did not wish him to appear too conspicuous when Valentine first caught sight of him. No—ah, that was better.
Esther was turning to speak to him.
By Jove, what a face the girl had!

Mr. Paget had often seen Helps' only daughter, for he found it convenient occasionally to call to see Helpes at Acadia Villa. But he had never before seen her dress becomingly, and he was positively startled at the pure, high type of her beauty. At this distance her common accent, her poor uneducated words, could not grate. All her gestures were graceful; she looked up at Gerald, said something, smiled, then lowered her heavy black lashes.

CHAPTER XXIII.
Gerald had found his task most uncongenial. In the first place he was disappointed at not spending the evening with Valentine and Lillias. In the second the close proximity of such a girl as Esther Helps could not but be reptugnant to him. Still she was a woman, a woman in danger, and her father had appealed to him to save her.

Had he been ordained for the Church,
such work—ah, no, he must not think of what his life would have been then.
After all, it was good of the distracted father to trust him, and he must not betray the trust.

He went to the theatre and acquitted himself with extreme tact and diplomacy. When Gerald chose to exert himself his manner had a gleaming effect, a compelling, and almost a commanding effect on women. Esther became quiet and gentle; she talked to Captain Herriot, but not noisily; she laughed, but her laugh was low and almost musical. Now and then her quick eyes glanced at Wyndham; she felt thirsty for even his faintest approval—he bestowed it by neither word nor movement.

As they were leaving the theatre,
however, and the gallant captain, who inwardly cursed that insufferable prig who happened to have a slight acquaintance with his beautiful Esther,
grew cheerful under the impression that now his time for enjoyment was come, Gerald said in a low, grave voice:—
"Your father has given me a letter for you. Pray be quiet, don't excite yourself. It is necessary that you should go to your father directly.
Allow me to see you into a cab. Your father is waiting for you—it is urgent that you should join him at once."
Scarcely knowing why she did it, Esther obeyed. She murmured some eager agitated words to Captain Herriot; as Gerald helped her into a cab he felt her slim fingers tremble in his. He took his seat upon the box beside the driver, and ten minutes later had delivered Esther safely to her father. His task was done, he did not wait to hear a word of Helps' professions. He drew a sigh of relief as he hurried home. Soon he would be with his wife—the wife whom he indulged—the wife who was beginning to return his love. Suppose her passion went on and deepened? Suppose a day came when to part from him would be a severer trial than poverty or disability! Oh, if such a day came—he might—ah, he must not think in that direction. He pushed his hand through his thick hair, leant back in his cab, and shut his eyes.

"I am in a desperate earnest.
Will you promise?"
"Yes, yes, you silly child, if you set such store on an utterly ridiculous promise you shall have it. Only if I were you, Valentine, I wouldn't begin even to have such tiny little secrets as that from my husband. I wouldn't, Val; it isn't wise—it isn't really."
Valentine neither heard nor heeded these last words. She gave Lillias a hasty, frantic kiss, and rushed back to her own room.
"Now," she said to herself, "now—
now—now—if he tells me everything, every single thing, all a question; but if he won't ask him any more; but if he tells, tells of his own accord, all may be quite well yet. Oh, how my heart beats! It is good I have not learned to love him any better."
Gerald rose up at her entrance and went to meet her eagerly.
"Ah, here's my bright little wife,"
he said. "Give me a kiss, Valentine."
She gave it, and allowed him to fold her in his arms. She was almost passive, but her heart beat hard—she was so eagerly waiting for him to speak.
"Sit down by the fire, darling. I don't like long evenings spent away from you, Val. How did you enjoy Captain Swift?"
"We didn't go to the Haymarket;
no, we are going to-morrow. Father thought it a pity you should miss such a good play."
"Then where did you go? You and Lil did not stay at home the whole evening?"
"No, father took us to another theatre. I can't tell you the name;
don't ask me. I hate theatres—I detest them. I never want to go inside one again as long as I live!"
"How strongly you talk, my dear little Val. Perhaps you found it dull to-night because your husband was not with you?"
She moved away with a slight little petulant gesture. When would he begin to speak?

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., MAY 17, 1895.

Our Deaf and Dumb.

The meeting held on Monday evening in the interest of the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb was presided over by Rev. D. J. Fraser, who performed his duties with tact and ability. Prof. Keirstead and Rev. O. Greenland spoke during the evening in favor of the Institution. Prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. Boggs. Principal Fearon delivered an interesting address on the history of educational work for the "children of silence." He gave many facts of an encouraging nature and discussed the different methods of teaching. It is about 40 years since this work was begun in Nova Scotia. He then gave illustrations of what the children could do by talking to two pupils who were present. On motion of Professor Higgins, seconded by Inspector Roscoe, a vote of thanks was passed to Principal Fearon for his valuable address and commending the appeal for money to the favor of the people. Mrs. Keupston, Mrs. Murray, and a lady to be named by Rev. Mr. Greenland, were appointed a committee to secure subscriptions in aid of the New Building. It is hoped, therefore, a considerable sum will be raised. Mr. J. W. Baras and Mr. C. R. Burgess have already contributed. Prof. Caldwell and others asked questions about the work and received very satisfactory answers. The meeting was instructive and interesting. Several educationalists spoke with praise of the help being given the unfortunate. While so much is being spent for the education of the young in High Schools and Colleges it is reasonable that something should be done for those who need enlightenment so much more.

Wolfville Town Improvement Association.

A number of our citizens met at the office of Mr. P. P. Rockwell on Tuesday evening and organized under the above name. The object is to get in conjunction with the town council in the improvement of the appearance and condition of our town. Committees were appointed to draw up rules for government and to canvass for membership. Another meeting will be held at an early date, when the organization will be completed and matters of work definitely arranged for.

We are glad to see the move made. It is one that has been often advocated by the ACADIAN, and we believe it to be in the right direction. We trust our citizens generally will give the new organization their hearty support, and that all may cooperate in the very commendable work. Our town needs such an organization. Favored as we have been by nature it becomes our citizens to do their part in helping make Wolfville what it is intended to be—the gem of the Province. The ACADIAN will be glad to help along the work, and to record advancement made from time to time.

A Chance for Literateurs.

The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., of Brockville, which does nothing by halves, is out with a scheme which is not only praiseworthy in its inception, but which is liberal in its terms. In order to develop the latent literary ability of Canada, and at the same time afford ample encouragement for the efforts of those who may successfully participate in the competition, the proprietors of the celebrated Pink Pills have decided to offer $200, divided into five prizes, for the best five original stories, of not more than 3000 words. The amount is a liberal one, and will be divided into sums of $100, $75, $50, $40 and $25, according to the merit of the story. The competition will be open to all who have never won a prize in a competition of the kind, and the results will no doubt prove the recklessness of those who assert that Canada has no literature of the higher type.

A preserving factory has been started in Dartmouth. It is not a canning establishment, as stated in some papers, but the lobsters are simply boiled and then packed in crates, and are kept in a state of preservation by being placed in a cold storage room where the temperature is kept at the freezing point. They are afterwards transferred to a similar place on board the steamers and conveyed to the old country in a perfectly fresh condition. Not only lobsters, but various kinds of fish, meats and fowl will be treated in the same manner.

The town meeting called by Mayor Bigelow for last Friday evening was not a success. Only about forty persons were present, and of these only fifteen were in favor of assuming part of the responsibility of the proposed exhibition. A special meeting of the town council was held on Tuesday evening when it was decided by resolution, "that this council refuse to become a part of the country for the purpose of holding an industrial and agricultural exhibition at Kentville in the autumn of 1895."

The street authorities began Wednesday to clear up the streets and get them into better condition. Many of our streets need considerable attention, and there is a grand opportunity now for the committee to distinguish itself. We are glad to see the improvement of our streets undertaken and trust that substantial advancement along this line may be made.

Acadia Villa School, Horton Landing, closes for its summer vacation Wednesday, May 22nd, and public exercises will be held throughout the day. Oral exercises will be held on Monday, from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m., when a literary and musical entertainment will be given by the students. The public are cordially invited to attend these exercises.

Concert in the evening under the auspices of the graduating class, the net receipts to be used for the improvement of the Athenaeum building.

Acadia Seminary.

On Friday last, the seminary gave an exhibition of the training in gymnastic and calisthenics. The performance was in the gymnasium of the seminary. The faculty and a number of invited visitors were present. The instruction in this department has for some time been in charge of Miss E. K. Patton, whose ability as a teacher is evident in all the movements of the exhibition: 1, chess, weights; 2, military drill; 3, dumb-bells; 4, marching and calisthenics; 5, wands; 6, Indian clubs; 7, fancy marching, running maze. About 30 young ladies took part. They moved in harmony and showed by their ease and order an intelligent apprehension of the work and its purpose. Misses Miller, Reynolds, Giffin and Banks were especially praised for their share in the exercises. The club drill was the best number on the programme and very good indeed. The visitors were much pleased with what they saw of the work of the young ladies.

Horton Landing Items.

S. Lent McMullen has moved into the Jas. Dill house now owned by Clarence Fuller.

Miss McMullen entertained a few of her young friends on Wednesday evening.

Miss McGill, of Acadia Villa school, spent Sabbath with friends in Wolfville.

Miss Annie Patterson went on Monday to spend a week at the Spa Springs, Wilmot, for her health.

Mr. A. McN. Patterson came very nearly losing his Melbourne colt, "Mismac," from a severe attack of colic Monday night. Dr. Jones, veterinary, of Wolfville, however, was summoned and succeeded in saving the animal's life. A strange yet fortunate circumstance occurred in getting the doctor, which was done by telephone. Mr. Patterson tried to ring up "central," but could not; continuing to ring, however, he succeeded in calling up the owner of the nearest telephone to Dr. Jones.

Schr. Trader, Capt. Merriam, brought a cargo of lime from St. John last week, all of which was used on the dyke as a fertilizer.

P. G. Curry also received a small cargo of Springhill coal a few days ago. The much needed rain has come at last and trees and fields alike are rapidly donning their spring attire of green. The plum and cherry trees are also in blossom.

The St. John Horticultural Association will hold an exhibition of Flowers and Plants Aug. 27-29, and of Chrysantheums Nov. 13-14. The objects of the Association are to cultivate and improve the taste for flowers, plants and trees; to assist the citizens in beautifying the public park and gardens for the free use of the people. A catalogue of exhibits with prizes is issued. No doubt these exhibitions will be a credit to St. John.

The Arena Publishing company, of Boston, is about to issue for the summer trade a new novel by a Canadian writer, with the unique title of "Kerchiefs to Hunt Souls." This novel has been highly commended, and Halifax citizens will look forward with interest to its appearance, as the author, Miss M. Fitch, is a daughter of the well-known resident of our city, Dr. Simon Fitch.—Chronicle.

The England football season has ended and the Westminster Gazette publishes its annual mortality list and shows that during the season there were twenty deaths from injuries received on the football field, and that over a hundred and fifty legs, arms and collar bones were broken, besides many cases of concussion of the brain, of spine, paralysis, knock-knee, split peritonitis and hundreds of minor casualties.

The following N. S. militia corps are ordered out for drill in regimental camps commencing June 25th. King's Canadian Infantry, 721, 78th, 92nd and 94th battalions. In P. E. Island: 23rd battalion. This training is on account of the fiscal year just closing.

Kentville, Aug. 24th, '94.

Halifax Letter.

Our City Council are just now discussing the advisability of widening Lockman street, at a cost of $150,000 or building a parallel street from Cornwallis to North St., costing $100,000. Money so expended would be simply wasted. In a short time we shall probably have a new freight station for I. C. R. and D. A. R. traffic at foot of Cornwallis street. This will at once relieve Lockman street of much of its present traffic; making its widening entirely unnecessary. As to a parallel roadway, should the Dominion Government require the upper side of Water street for terminal purposes, they will no doubt provide a roadway alongside their property, and we would hand them over a portion of Water street as an offset, which meanwhile continues available for city traffic.

This summer will probably witness the introduction of electric tram cars on our streets.

The Farness line of steamers which carry the bulk of your apples across the Atlantic are reported as establishing an office of their own here. Pickford & Black have always had the agency.

ARXZ.

Halifax, May 14th,

On Monday evening last, a well known specimen of the tough family, who was well primed with the ardent, startled the citizens of Wolfville out of their customary quietude by a series of howls which we have never heard surpassed, not excepting the siren. Policeman Toye attempted to arrest the lungs "Jayk" but in some manner he managed to squirm from the clutches of the law, and when last seen was bound east, followed by an admiring mob. Having a strong wind in his favor, he no doubt soon regained his native beach.

Mr James Craig, of Cambridge, had his hand badly injured about ten days ago while blocking a wheel of a loaded wagon with a shocking manner but no bones were broken.

Mr R. E. Harris is having the dwelling recently purchased by him from Mr Fred Brown put in thorough repair preparatory to removing into it. This property is a most desirable one; and we congratulate Mr Harris on his purchase.

It was expected that Hon. J. W. Longley, attorney-general, would deliver the annual address before the senate of Acadia in June. As public business calls him to England a substitute has been found in Rev. Dr. Strong, of Rochester Theological seminary.

Chocolate Creams 15c. lb. at the Evangeline Kandy Kitchen, next to Book Store.

Fish stories of all dimensions are now being exchanged among our local anglers. One gentleman whose veracity is unquestionable, this week informed us that he had landed a trout weighing eight pounds and two ounces. The color of this fish when cooked, was a beautiful shade of that "new blue" formerly called pink. Ye gods and little fishes! where art thou now?

Rev. W. T. Stackhouse, who was graduated at Acadia in 1892, was in Wolfville on Wednesday. Mr Stackhouse has been pastor of the Baptist church of New Glasgow for three years. He is now on his way to Vancouver, B. C., to take charge of a large church there. Mrs Stackhouse, nee MacKen, of Perseus, was formerly a student at Acadia Seminary.

CALDER & CO.,

Wolfville, May 6th, 1895.

Address read before the Wolfville Woman's Christian Temperance Union, by the retiring President, Mrs. Tufts.

(CONCLUDED.) Those of us who are either gifted by nature or trained by custom for public work in this direction—let us rejoice that alike with those who are, we have the more important realm of home in which this work must not be left to another.

The department for the distribution of literature was also among the earliest formed in this Union—as was also Press work. Both these methods have chiefly to do with the sowing of seed.

The Flower Mission was also begun during the first three months of our existence as a Union. Each year this beautiful work has been carried on, and through its ministry we have helped in diffusing the sweetness of our green fields and fragrant gardens among the tenement houses, the hospitals, and the prisons of our neighboring city.

Some of us well remember with what anxious questioning as to what we could do, the Social Purity work was begun. Though we saw no plain path before us, and it may be we have not discovered it, we felt that it was something to arouse ourselves in this matter, and make sure that we as mothers were properly training our children along this line, and that as women we were doing all we could individually to lift up a standard of purity for our brothers equally high to that which we with them have fixed for ourselves.

The interest of this Union has been separately aroused on this subject by original papers from our own members, and by stirring appeals from those in the thick of the fight out of the great centers of population. We have been made acquainted with the wonderful work of Mrs. Andrew and Dr. Kate Bushnell among the British regiment in India and have learned to revere the name of Mrs. Josephine Butler and others whose labors for the fallen our hearts have shared if not our hands.

In Benevolent Work we have not time at our disposal to enumerate what has been done. The fingers of some of our sisters are kept busy in trying to clothe with remade garments the neglected bodies of little children, more pitiful victims of the liquor traffic than the straitened father himself.

In Narcotics we find again difficult ground to work. For some time yet public sentiment must be better educated as to the harm wrought on brain and nerve and muscle by the use of narcotic in any form. The mother must be impressed by a deeper sense of danger to her boy, and some effort put forth to enforce the existing law which forbids the sale of tobacco to minors or of issue by them.

In Franchise much hard and trying work has already been accomplished, and with excellent results. Our community stands in a more interested and enlightened position as regards this subject than ever before. The recent defeat of the Bill in our local legislature gives us no concern whatever. A measure so restricted was not what the petitioners asked for. If passed, it would have hindered rather than have helped our cause.

Not here alone have we found opposition to face and ridicule to surmount. Verily we have been spared the war pronounced upon those disciples of whom all men speak well. In the words of Lady Somerset: "It is easier to bear the sneers of critics, the arrows of relentless criticism, and the cheap wit of the thoughtless and the crude, than it is to face the stern fact that the world's people, as they are called, will not deal more severely with those who in every day life would follow Christ in theory and in practice, than will many of those who to our time are in His are called 'chief priests and rulers.'"

We may assure ourselves that when Christ lived he too was called a fanatic, and the principles of his teaching if applied to a city would indeed have produced its overthrow.

Let us make ourselves so familiar with His teachings, as they fell from his lips, unstained by man's interpretation or comment, that we shall have His spirit of helpfulness, of hopefulness and of love.

The highest ideal of life that Christ worked out for us was that of ministry to others, giving it special emphasis when under the shadow of the coming cross toward-girt he knelt to wash his disciples feet.

Where we find suffering let us seek its alleviation; where we find weakness let us support; where there is prejudice to overcome, let us be patient and persistent but Christ-like in our methods of attack; where there is sin and wrong, let us take the case to Jesus, that the evil spirit may be cast out, ourselves exercising toward the fallen that charity that "suffereth long and is kind."

The platform of principles and the methods of work laid down for us by the founders of this organization are in accord with the eternal fitness of things. Let us look well to the sources of our power and make no provision for failure.

God's ways seem dark, but soon or late, they will dawn in the light of day; The good can wait their hour, Give earnest knaves their hour of crime, We have the future grand and great, The safe appeal of Truth to Time!

LITERARY COMPETITION. Three Hundred Dollars Offered in Prizes.

By the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., of Brockville, Ont.

The Above Amount will be Divided Among the Writers of the Best Five Original Stories—The Competition Open to All Bona Fide Residents of Canada.

With a view to assisting in the development of literary talent in Canada, the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., of Brockville, Ont., will award prizes amounting to $300 among the writers of the best five short original stories submitted in the competition as follows:

For the story pronounced the best $100 will be given. For the second best $75. For the third best $60. For the fourth best $40. For the fifth best $25.

The competition is open to residents of the Dominion of Canada, who have never won a cash prize in a story competition, and is subject to the following rules:

Each story to contain not more than three thousand words. The writer of the story shall affix a pen name, initials or motto to his or her manuscript, and shall send with the manuscript, a sealed envelope bearing on the outside the pen name, initials or motto attached to the story, and containing inside it the full name and address of the writer thereof.

We impose no limitations whatever as to the nature of topic written upon, and the scope of the story need not necessarily be laid in Canada, although competitors must be residents of Canada, as above stated.

Stories entered in the competition must be written on one side of the paper only, and when possible should be typewritten.

Manuscripts to be sent flat or folded—not rolled. All stories for competition must reach the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., on or before the first day of July, 1895, and should be marked "For Literary Competition."

Decision will be made as follows:—All stories submitted will be referred to a competent committee who will decide which are the best five stories. These stories will then be published in pamphlet form, which pamphlets will be distributed throughout the Dominion, and each will contain a voting paper upon which readers will be invited to express their preference. The story obtaining the highest number of votes will be awarded the first prize. The one obtaining the second highest number will be awarded second prize, and so on until the five prizes are awarded.

The voting will close on the first day of December, 1895, and the committee will then publish the names of the successful competitors and the order of merit.

Unsuccessful manuscripts will be returned when stamps are sent for postage. The five stories selected are to become the absolute property of the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., with their copyright in perpetuity.

The decision of the committee and the counting of votes to be absolute and final, and all persons entering the competition agree, by doing so, to accept the decisions of the committee and the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. as final on all points whatsoever.

Correspondence in regard to unsuccessful MSS. declined, even when stamped envelopes are sent; any stamps so sent (for any other purpose than the return of the MSS. at the time of first sending) will be put in the poor box.

The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. will take all precautions to safeguard MSS. entrusted to their care, but in no case do they assume any responsibility for fire, accident or loss of unsuccessful MSS. Authors are therefore advised to keep copies.

The stories must be original. Anyone sending copied matter will be liable to punishment for fraud, and a prize of $25 is offered to the first person who points out the fact that any story passed by the committee is otherwise than original, in the unlikely event of such an oversight occurring.

All stories entered in the competition must be addressed to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and marked on the envelope "For Literary Competition."

Check your indignation with K. D. C. the Great Checker.

Scrap for Odd Moments. "Don't you think the man who marries for money is a fool?" "Ho, unless he gets it in advance."

"I don't think your arguments against Wagner are sound." "Well, if they are not, that's where they differ from Wagner's music."

Cherokee Vermifuge kills worms every time. Blobs: "What's the difference between gloves and policemen?" Blobs: "Give it up." Blobs: "Well, gloves are usually on hand."

Mr. Kelly: "Oh, Jan, dear, don't you hear? How delightfully the baby crows! Kidney-Crows? Humph! I'd crew myself if I were home of the house."

MINARDS FAMILY PILLS are pure vegetable. Jagers (weakly facetious):—"Think I was a burglar m' dear!" Mis Jagers: "No! A burglar wouldn't have taken half the time to get in!"

Mrs. Jackson: "Do you call this sponge cake?" "Yes, it is as hard as stone." Cook: "Yes, mum; that's the way a sponge is before it is wet. Soak it in your tea."

MINARDS HONEY BALSAM is a sure cure. What perfect sympathy there is between Mrs. Plainface and her daughter. I should like to see how she could help sympathizing with a daughter who looked like her.

MINARD HONEY BALSAM, once tried, always used. Mabel:—"But papa, dear, I know he must have money—why he's a silver chaser."

Papa:—"That doesn't prove anything; what I want to know does he catch it?"

If you do not know how good a remedy Gardol Tea really is for constipation and sick headache, send a postal card to D. Denmore & Co., 271 Queen Street.

Why do you look so unhappy, George? Don't you know we are one now? George:—"Yes, darling, I know that; but judging from the betel bill I've just had handed me, the manager doesn't seem to think so."

The King of D. C. Rev. T. Leishman, Angus, Ont., writes, "It gives me much pleasure to testify to the excellency of K. D. C. as a cure for Dyspepsia. I have recommended it here widely, and in every case it has proved successful. It is the very best remedy for that trifling trouble that I know of, and never fails to help or cure when used as you direct. It deserves the name 'King of Dyspepsia Cures.'"

Free sample, K. D. C., sent FREE. K. D. C., Ltd., New Glasgow, N. S., and 127 State street, Boston, Mass.

Professor:—"To what did Xenophon owe his reputation?" Student:—"Principally to the fact that his name commenced with an X and came in so handy for headlines in Alphabetical copy books."

Teacher:—"Do you understand the meaning of terms Capital and Labor?" Small Boy:—"Yes'm. If a boy has a sled, that's capital. If another boy rides down with him, and then pulls the sled up, that's labor."

Sunday School Teacher:—"Do you read your Bible regularly?" Little Miss de Style:—"No; I don't read that book any more."

"Horrors! Why not?" "It says 'supper' instead of 'tea.'"

A Possible Candidate. A Patron Nomination may Possibly be Offered to Mr. Coley, of Somerset, Man.

Somerset, Man, May 13.—The item which appeared in several Eastern papers to the effect that Mr. Arthur Coley, a well-known farmer of this place, was asked to accept the Patron nomination for the coming elections, but was forced to decline through ill health, is without foundation. It is true that early in 1894 Mr. Coley was severely afflicted with Bright's disease, but was enabled to restore himself to health by a course of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and is equal to any amount of hard work, even to the extent of lighting the constituency should the nomination be offered him. He speaks in the highest terms of the remedy which cured him.

"Excuse me, ma'am, said the paying teller, but you have not endorsed this cheque. If you will write your name on the back of it, it will be all right."

"Oh, of course, said the little woman. I had forgotten. Then she endorsed the cheque. Sincerely yours, Janet Hickenbury."

A young provincial, newly arrived in Paris, got into a dispute with a boulevardier who prided himself on his fine manners. The Parisian, wishing to carry off the thing with a high hand, pulled a glove out of his pocket, and threw it at the stranger. The latter, so confused, inquired the meaning of the action. When it was explained to him that throwing a glove was equivalent to a slap in the face, the young provincial sat down, gravely drew out one of his boots and threw it at the back of his opponent.
