Children's Colds

Must be Cured

These will then be less wasteful and consumption in later life. Did you ever think of it in this way? It is the neglected cough and cold that leads to the dreadful lung disease sooner or later. From repeated attacks the lungs are weakened and there comes pneumonia or consumption with their dreadfully fatal results.

Because it is prepared from linseed, turpentine and other simple, but wonderfully effective ingredients, Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is particularly suitable as a treatment for children's coughs and colds. Croup, bronchitis and even whooping cough yield to the influence of this great remedy.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine cured my little girl of whooping cough when the doctor had given her up and since then we always keep it in the house as a treatment for coughs and colds. It is the best medicine we ever used.

There is no getting round statements such as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cts. a bottle, at all dealers, or Edmonstone, Bates & Co., Toronto.

$10 REWARD!

As we are under considerable expense in repairing street lights that are maliciously broken, we offer the above reward for information that will lead to the conviction of the guilty parties.

Alone.

Alone, yet not alone am I,
In the calm and dim sky,
'Tis still as mountain solitude,
Where voice is not, nor step intrudes,
No heart throbs here, glances out no eye—
Alone, yet not alone am I.

A Presence actual as the heart
From whence my own life-motions start,
A King real though unseen,
More true than trace where form hath been—
A spirit to my soul is nigh—
Alone, yet not alone am I.

I ask no favor felt nor want,
Content with bliss nor poor nor stout;
Sorrow, subsistent, waiting still,
The motion of a power will—
Alone, yet not alone am I.

A Prophet in Babylon.

BY W. J. DAWSON.

On a certain evening Jordan had entertained at his house a number of his clerical friends, who called themselves satirically the S. P. Club, or the Club of the Superior Persons. The club met once a month, nominally for the discussion of theological questions, really for the purpose of comradeship. At the dinner table that evening Gaunt and his doings was the theme of conversation. It was soon apparent that not a single member of the club was friendly to him. He himself and his work were the subject of much humorous derision, but behind the humour there rankled an element of acerbic hostility.

"He's quite mad," said Jordan. "I saw the signs of it long ago, and warned him. He'll end where most charlatans end, in a mad-house."

"It's not only madness," said one of the party. "For my part I can't stop at that verdict. He has the disastrous sanity of the anarchist."

"Oh, he's sane enough in the ordinary sense, I suppose," retorted Jordan. "He, at least, knows how to play for popularity."

"Father, is that quite fair?" asked Olivia in a voice that trembled.

"Why, what do you know about my child?"

"I never met him, but I know that you know, father, but I am sure that Gaunt is honest."

Jordan flushed angrily.

"The worst men in history have thought themselves honest," he retorted.

"A surely the best too," she retorted in a low voice.

"There was a long silence, and then Jordan turned the conversation with a laugh.

"But it was clear that he was both angry and disconcerted.

"I think you had better go to your mother, Olivia," he said a moment later. "She may be wanting you."

Two hours later, when the meeting of the club was over, Jordan called her. He was in a good humor now, as he usually was after a club night, when he had been strengthened in his own opinions by hearing them expressed by others.

"And so my little girl has become a conversationalist," he said, with a smile. "Sit down, my dear. I want to talk to you."

Olivia obediently obeyed. Her face was pale, and she could scarcely control the nervous movement of her hands.

"I suppose, my dear, it's quite natural that you should have been impressed by Gaunt's speech in Madison Gardens. I own it was effective. But do you think it was quite nice of you to contradict me so flatly at my own table in the presence of others, my child?"

"No father, it was not nice of me at all. I am sorry that I did it, for I saw that it upset you."

"Well, my child, that's enough said. It's all expected you to say, and I was sorry less for myself than that those who heard you should have had opinion of your judgment. So

A Hair Dressing

If you wish a high-class hair dressing, we are sure Ayer's Hair Vigor, now improved formula, will greatly please you. It keeps the hair soft and smooth, makes it look rich and luxuriant, prevents splitting at the ends. And it keeps the scalp free from dandruff.

Does not change the color of the hair.

Persons with each bottle show to your doctor. Ask him about it. That is the best way.

At the same time the new Ayer's Hair Vigor is a strong hair tonic, promoting the growth of the hair, keeping all the elements of the hair and scalp in a healthy condition. The hair stops falling, dandruff disappears. A splendid dressing.

Overtaxed Nerves

A Distress Signal

The Trouble Can Only be Cured by Earling's Blood Supply. When your nervous system is exhausted the trouble makes itself evident in many ways. You feel always fatigued and unfit for work. Severe headaches distract you; your back is weak; you sleep badly; your appetite is weakened; you have nervous and irritable temper.

If the trouble is not checked your case goes from bad to worse until you feel that your condition is hopeless and that insanity is threatened.

Your nerves are calling for help. They are starved because they demand from the blood more nourishment than it can supply. New rich blood is the secret of nerve strength and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People cure nervous disorders because they feed the weak, exhausted nerves with rich red blood. The case of Mrs. Emma Hall, of Hamilton, Ont., furnishes proof that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will cure even the most stubborn cases of nerve exhaustion.

Mrs. Hall was left a widow and was forced to work in a mill to maintain herself and her two little children. She bravely faced the battle of life, though she had never had to conform to such conditions before. Notwithstanding the splendid spirit she displayed the work played havoc with a delicate constitution, and some years ago Mrs. Hall noticed signs in herself of a nervous collapse. She consulted a doctor who gave her some medicines and told her she "would be all right in a few days." But relief did not come and it was finally a daily occurrence for her to faint at her work. These fainting spells quickly developed into pronounced hysteria and chronic irritability, and Mrs. Hall says that death would have been a relief. She consulted several doctors but got no help, and she felt that she was almost bordering on insanity. In this condition she was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Grasping at even the possibility of help she decided to do so. After taking three boxes she actually found some improvement, and from that time on this improvement was steady and increasing daily until after a few months she felt the cure was complete. She says:—"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done what doctors failed to do and what I myself thought was impossible. They have freed me from the terrible trouble I suffered and my old joy in life has been renewed." When Mrs. Hall began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills she weighed only one hundred pounds while under her renewed health her weight has increased to one hundred and thirty pounds.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be had from any dealer in medicines or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"My dear," remarked a gentleman, opening the dining-room door, the girl has left the vegetables on the hall table."

"Don't be so stupid," exclaimed the wife. "That is my new hat."

The House Fly.

With the return of the warm weather, again revives the hum of the house fly, and the question of what to do with him.

There was a time when it was taught that for the proper purification of the air, it was necessary that there should be as large a number of flies around as possible. Now it is positively known that the common house fly is a rather dangerous little animal, particularly in his role as a distributor of dangerous diseases.

His habits are essentially filthy. He breeds in stables and garbage piles, and carries the filth it revels in and the tracks of it across sugar and butter and breakfast, and brings with it the possibilities of typhoid fever and cholera infantum and other maladies. It paddles its feet, grummed with the vilest rotting matter conceivable, over the snowy table cloth, the food and utensils in the kitchen, and through the baby's milk.

There is a sure and effective method of dealing with the common house fly. The remedy lies not with the screen door so much as with the clean yard.

Knitting on Steamships.

The old fashioned habit of knitting with steel needles is coming into vogue on the passenger steamships operating between Boston and European ports, and the stewardesses, mostly buxom Englishwomen, are engaged in the homely work with commendable zest.

Thick woollen socks under their busy fingers take form for some brother or sweetheart in Liverpool, or other seaport of the British Isles; for these stewardesses as a rule come from families of sea-farers. Heavy mittens and mitts are also the product of their spare moments.—Boston Herald.

Women Should Study Color.

The value of color is something that a clever dressmaker understands fully. Two dresses can be cut alike, line for line, but in different shades of the same silk, and one of them will make a woman look slender, straight and supple, and the other will give her an unaccountable dumpy, round-shouldered, square-cut figure. All women ought to make a careful study of colors whether they have a professional interest in the matter or not. It is especially important for women of mature years who have so few gowns that they must live with these of their choice very intimately. A woman who can buy twenty or thirty dresses a year can afford to make an occasional mistake when her fancy for a trying color or a too daring line carries her away for a moment. She can hang an unsuccessful dress in a closet and forget about it, and it does her no harm—helps her perhaps, in choosing more wisely in the future. She does not suffer from her folly. But a woman of small means who meets with a mishap in her choice of her one new gown must wear it whether or no—a harsh commentary on her vanity, her poor judgement or her bad taste. These mistakes are so easy to make—so cruelly hard to pay for. Yet one can only tell her to choose carefully and buy slowly.

Old Dr. Rudge possessed a fund of common sense and dry humor as valuable as his medical knowledge. One frosty morning he met a business friend who innocently remarked:

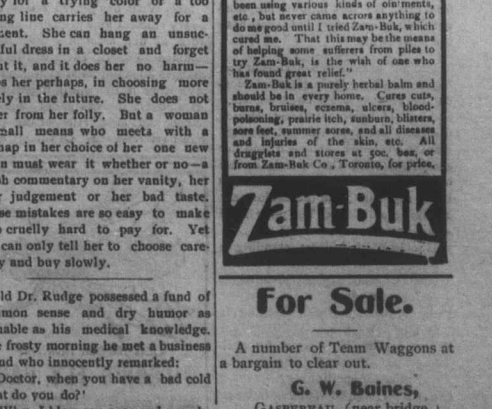

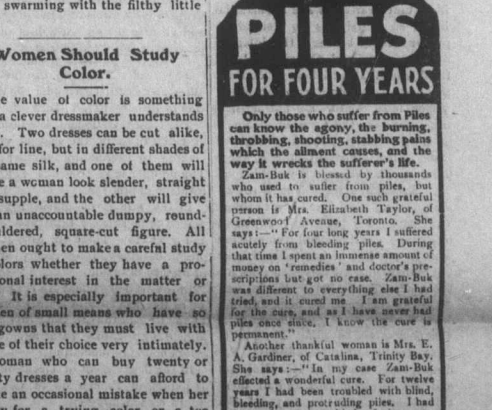

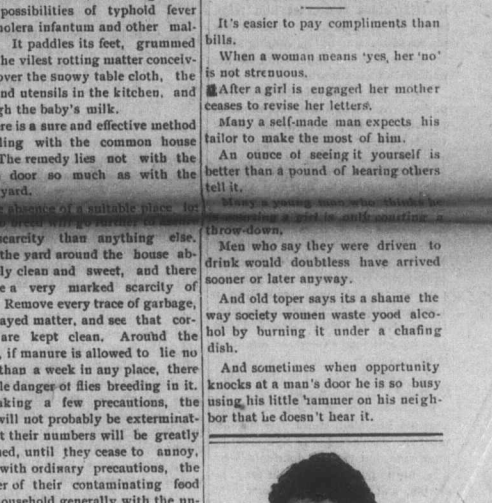

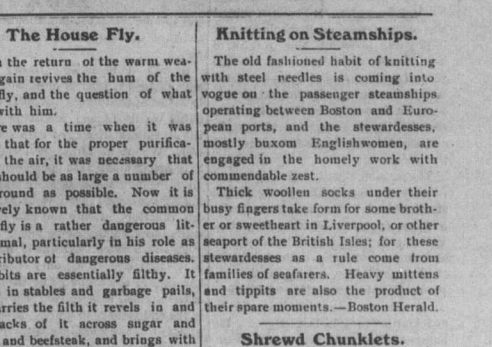

"Doctor, when you have a bad cold what do you do?"

"Why, I blow my nose and cough."

WOLFVILLE, N. S., JUN 4, 1909.

Acadia's Anniversary.

Another of Acadia's anniversary seasons has passed, and the friends of the grand old institution are congratulating themselves on the success which attended all the exercises of this week. The weather in the main was favorable, although the storm of Sunday was a disappointment to visitors and townspeople in common. Probably the number of visitors this year exceeded that of any anniversary for many years. They began to arrive on Friday and by Saturday night about all the available accommodation was taken up. The hotels were filled to overflowing, and private houses were thrown open for the entertainment of those who came to attend the closing of the college and affiliated schools.

Notwithstanding that Sunday was one of the most unpleasant days of the season, College Hall was crowded to the doors on the occasion of the preaching of the annual Baccalaureate sermon.

That Dr. Trotter continues to hold a large place in the hearts of Wolfville people and the friends of Acadia generally was apparent. President Hutchison, in a few well chosen words, introduced the speaker, who, after expressing himself as well pleased to be back again in Wolfville and to meet so many old friends, announced the subject of his sermon, "The world without Christ." The text was in John 15-22: "If I had not come, the sermon was most scholarly and impressive showing the results of much study and breadth of scholarship. The doctor's ability as an orator is well known at Acadia and on this occasion he was at his best. Flowing, restful, logical, unobtrusive, thoughtful and the deepest earnest characterized the address.

The sermon closed with a personal inquiry as to how the young people stood related to the fact that Christ had come; as to whether they had given it its true place in their scheme of thought and their outlook in life. Christ and His coming in the supreme fact of human life and history. To ignore, to minimize it would be unscientific to the last degree. He has come into your hearts and lives, let Him abide there, let Him reign there as Lord supreme and all the supposed blessing of His coming shall become a personal inheritance in life and death forevermore.

The music was furnished by a choir of sixty voices and was appropriate, pleasing and helpful to the success of the service.

Assembly Hall was again filled on Sunday evening to listen to an address before the College by Rev. A. F. Shaw, of Wolfville. Mr. Gordon C. Warren, president of the society was in charge and the Y. M. C. A. choir rendered excellent music. Mr. Shaw was a very pleasing personality, and since graduating in 1892 has held several important positions. He is a very effective platform speaker and held the close attention of his audience.

His subject was "The Life That Counts." He said in part: Every young man desires that his life shall count for the most in the world. A life may be strenuous, but yet not dominated by any high purpose. A life may be simple, and yet wholly unworthy of its opportunity. A life may be efficient, but in doing things that are of comparative unimportance. A life that truly counts must first be concerned with its quality. It is not more men we want so much as more man. Then the life that counts will have due proportion. Nothing is so difficult or so important in an age when the material bulks so largely as to maintain a proper balance between the interests of the material and the spiritual. A third word that will help to describe the life that counts is atmosphere. Vapor must appear for but a little time, but as in the form of steam, it is tremendously powerful while it lasts. Air is apparently unreal, yet it presses with tremendous weight upon us. So real and important is the atmosphere a man carries with him. The last word in direction. The most important question about a man is not what he can do, or what does he know; but rather, in what direction does his life tend. That settles all the rest. In the last analysis we must all come back to Him who said, "I am come that they might have life." For quality "Exercise thyself unto godliness." For atmosphere, "Seek first His Kingdom and His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you." For direction, "He that follows Me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life."

The public exercises of Horton College Academy took place on Monday evening, before a large audience, and were of the usual interest. During the year, under the efficient management of Principal Robinson and his competent staff, the attendance has been unusually large, the enrolment being 105, with 30 in the senior year, 26 taking a diploma. The prize list is as follows: J. Hinson West, highest standing in school—$10. Wilfred Crowell, highest standing in senior year—$10. Percy Murray, highest standing in middle year—$10. Valedictory—J. H. West.

Address to Graduates—Rev. E. D. Webber, Wolfville.

God Save the King.

Rev. Mr. Webber took for his theme "The objective of Education" and emphasized thereby the necessity of a clearly defined end toward which all educative processes should tend.

He developed his subject under two heads, which he urged as the salient elements of a true educational objective.

First—Progress. This marks the student's school days as he goes from grade to grade and from school to school, but he is in danger of forgetting that in reality he can never graduate from the learning process, for all life must be his school and every step gained must be the point of departure for a new advance. We must steadily remember that there is no point at which it is not perilous to halt. The nature of truth and the nature of the mind make this constant onward movement imperative.

Second—Personality. In our present practical temper of mind we greatly insist upon doing. In order to do deftly we divide and subdivide work till all things are tinged with specialism. We are in danger of forgetting that being must take precedence of doing, and that man is more than any highly developed aptitude or specialized function. Education fails unless it produces worthy character.

Third—Service. All life is the field of reciprocity. Not only does the lower serve the higher, but the glory of the highest is to serve. The greater the endowment of ability or opportunity, the more binding becomes the obligation to enlist in the relief of others' needs. Every age has its questions to be answered, its burdens to be borne, its hopes to be rekindled, and to aid in doing this for your own time will be a worthy investment of your education.

One of the most enjoyable features of anniversary week is the class day exercise of the College graduating class and this year was no exception to the rule. Assembly Hall was crowded to the doors on Tuesday morning as the seniors of the University took their places, the President, Miles F. McCutcheon, being in the chair, supported by the Vice-President, Eva L. Peck, and the Secretary, Annie W. Eaton.

All the numbers were extremely good with many bright sayings and witty allusions. The class history recalled the various vicissitudes they experienced in their four years progress towards the goal of a B. A. degree and some of their humorous experiences were skilfully sketched. The class prophecy gave an occasion to develop idiosyncracies and in lifting the veil of the future to show the result of certain tendencies during the college course. The fine points of this paper were received with marked enthusiasm.

The music was excellent and added much to the pleasure of the occasion. The Valedictory was a very touching address.

The class of '09 has presented to College Hall a splendid set of globes and electric fittings which is an improvement highly appreciated.

The Acadia Seminary has had another successful year under the direction of Principal H. T. DeWolf.

The total registration has been 265 of which those in the regular course leading to graduation number 119. The number in residence is 113, non-resident pupils 152.

In the school of music 103 take piano, 55 in voice, 7 take pipe organ and 9 violin. There are also 41 pupils in harmony, 19 in theory and 22 in history of music.

In the art department are 112 pupils, 35 in free hand, 17 in leather tooling, 45 in oils and the others in cast drawing, design china painting, water colors and clay modelling.

In the department of elocution are 64 pupils, in French 66, in German 30, in stenography 17.

Miss Wells has proved herself to be a very efficient vice principal and the work of her associates has highly commended itself. There will be some changes however, as Miss Merson and Miss Ring of the vocal department, Miss Bool in charge of domestic science and Miss True of the piano staff have resigned. Of the 35 members of the senior class, 13 took the collegiate course, 9 the sophomore matriculated course, 6 piano, 1 vocal, 2 in art and 1 in elocution.

The following prizes were awarded by the Principal from the G. P. Payment Prize Fund.

(a) For Efficiency in English—to Miss Mina Hubley.

(b) For Efficiency in French—to Miss Josephine Clark.

(c) For Efficiency in Instrumental Music—Miss Charlotte Layton.

MORE DEADLY THAN CANCER.

It is said on high authority, that cancer causes only 30 deaths in every thousand deaths, but Indigestion causes, directly or indirectly, fully one-half of all the deaths in this country. Indigestion starves the body, weakens the nerves, poisons the blood and in short, reduces the life-power and vigor in its victims. You need a medicine that will cleanse the system, strengthen the stomach as no other medicine can do. Mrs. Ralph Stephenson, of Yarmouth, P. E. I., Hants County, Ont., writes on Jan. 23, 1909, saying: "We have used Mother Seigel's Syrup for years and always keep it in the house. As a stomachic medicine we recommend it very highly. It always keeps us healthy and well." Price 60 cts per bottle. Sold everywhere. A. J. White & Co., Ltd., Montreal.

Their names are: Eva L. Peck, Annie S. B. Elderkin, Fred Woodworth and William Huntington, of Wolfville; Frank Woodman, of Grand Pre; and Victor Woodworth, of Church Street. One of these graduates remarked to a friend that he found it easy to make first class standing in College mathematics he had received such a good grounding in that subject when in High School. Another graduate of the Wolfville High School, W. C. Robinson, of Wolfville, captured the prize in mathematics in the Freshman class.

FOR SALE.—Beautiful River Moon Hill Shovel, Large Slideboat, Clock. Apply Mrs. Duncanson's house, Prospect street.

The chief interest in the session of the Supreme Court at Kentville this week centered in the action for criminal libel preferred by Sir Frederick Borden against Mr. Walter M. Carruthers, of Kentville, for handing out a copy of the Calgary Eye Opener containing intemperate remarks of Mrs. Maria Allison, making what was alleged to be defamatory statements concerning the minister of war, Judge Drysdale, in addressing the grand jury, read the strongest passages in Mrs. Allison's letters and said as the language used was clearly defamatory they could not fail to find a true bill allowing the defendant to go before another jury where he would have opportunity to make his defence and to prove, if he could, that what he circulated was true.

The jury accordingly found a true bill and the accused was duly indicted and pleaded justification, when the crown called of the case until the autumn term. Mrs. Allison was in court prepared to give her testimony and the defence were anxious that the case should proceed. The whole matter looks very like the Emerson fiasco and a like result is looked for.

Dr. Hutchinson in his address to the outgoing class, put before them high ideals of life and emphasized the need of courage, strength and integrity in all the pursuits of life, and a steadfast faith.

Governor Fraser being called upon responded in a highly humorous and felicitous speech. He expressed himself as honored by the degree conferred upon him, which he should cherish all his life. He had thoroughly enjoyed the essays delivered, and without being invidious wished to say how pleased he was with the essay of Miss Manning.

The excellent work done at Acadia and on behalf of the government and province of Nova Scotia, would congratulate the institution upon the great results of today's work. It was a splendid showing without expense to the government of the province.

The governor was in his happiest vein and elicited frequent applause. Dr. Trotter on rising thanked President Hutchinson for the cordial welcome given him at Wolfville and for his kind words of introduction. He was glad to be back amid familiar scenes and vividly contrasted the strenuous life of a Western city with the idyllic quietude of this Nova Scotian town. It was a good place for students, but a trying place for professors for lack of intellectual companionship and stimulus. They need to come more into contact with the outside world and all that it stands for. He congratulated the President and Governors upon so successfully completing the Forward Movement Fund and the Carnegie Building, and thought the outlook a most hopeful one.

Judge Langley, in a brief speech, commended the essays and the day's performance and expressed his deep interest in the continued progress of his Alma Mater.

The Alumni Dinner in the afternoon was well attended and some splendid after-dinner speeches made. The conversation in College Hall in the evening gave an opportunity for old friends to renew their intimacies and strengthen the central tie binding them to Acadia.

Baby's Own Tablets Cure All Minor Troubles. The stomach, the bowels, or cutting teeth is responsible for most of the ill and suffering that afflict babyhood. Baby's Own Tablets will keep your child well because it is the best medicine in the world for these troubles, and at the same time it is the safest. The mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that this medicine contains no opiate or poisonous 'soothing' stuff. Mrs. Jos. Bernard, St. Eulie, Que., says:—

"Baby's Own Tablets are really a marvellous medicine. My baby was thin, peevish and sickly until I began giving him this medicine. Since then he has thrived and grown splendidly." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Dr. and Mrs. Chute invited a number of friends to see Dr. Lewis Hunt's very fine collection of views taken during a recent trip to Spain. In an interesting manner Dr. Hunt described each picture made by the way from photos taken by the doctor as it appeared upon the screen, particularly beautiful were those of Seville. A very lovely portrait of the Queen of Spain was also shown. A pleasant hour was spent in meeting and greeting old friends and in enjoying some delicious refreshments.

Dr. Hutchinson Resigns.

At a meeting of the Board of Governors of Acadia University on Wednesday evening President Hutchinson tendered his resignation, after two years of faithful service in that position—to take effect in August next. The resignation was accepted by the Board and a committee was named to nominate a successor. President Hutchinson said, we understand, in referring to the work of the pastorate, preferring to labor in that department of service. During their stay in Wolfville Dr. and Mrs. Hutchinson have made many friends, who, while regretting their departure from our town, will follow them with best wishes to their new sphere of influence, wherever that may be.

For Women Who are Discouraged Because of lingering weakness and nervous derangements there is new hope and cure.

If your system is weak and run down, your blood thin and watery and your nervous system exhausted choose a treatment such as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which has never been equaled as a means of building up health, strength and vigor.

That Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is particularly successful in the case of ailments and derangements from which women suffer most is attested by such letters as that from Mrs. D. D. Banger, Hester, N. B., who writes:— "Mrs. Armstrong, my niece, had great weakness, heart trouble and indigestion. In fact she was run down in every way and had lost all hope of ever getting well again. She had been in poor health for over four years after the birth of her first child. The persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has proven a marvellous benefit to her. She feels real well now, is looking fine and fresh, and up so she that one would hardly believe for the same person." 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all Dealers or Hutchinson, Bates & Co., Toronto.
