Love in a Flour Mill,
OR,
The Romance of Two Loyal Hearts!

CHAPTER VIII.

"Well, you'd 'ave took it if you'd been there," said Smithers with emphatic conviction. "The one who did must 'ave been your twin sister—by another mother."

"You're full of your chaff," she retorted, but with a still wider smile.

"That's what the donkey said to the easy chair," remarked Smithers, a little absently, for he saw that Ronald was growing impatient. "Well, I must be on the move—get back to my job."

"And what may that be?" she asked, with a yawn which only partially hid her curiosity.

"I'm engaged at present in keepin' a gent awake—he's a clerk in a Government office. Well, so long! Meet you at the same place and time next Sunday evenin'! My love to muvver and brother Teddy."

Dodging a slap with the cloth, he went out. Ronald, impatient, but not laughing, followed him. Smithers was elaborately unconscious of his pursuer until they had reached a cross street, up which Smithers turned, and, pausing presently, waited for Ronald to join him.

"It's all right, sir," he said. "I've clean put him off the scent."

"How on earth did you manage it?" asked Ronald laughingly.

"Oh, it warn't difficult, sir," said Smithers, with a little air of self-satisfaction which was quite excusable. "I walked straight upstairs to the flat and knocked at the door, and presently up comes my gentleman."

"Hullo," says he, 'what do you want, my man?' 'I don't know what it has to do with you,' says I, eyin' 'im up and down, 'but I've come to call on a gentleman by the name of Desbro', Ronald Desbro'. 'Oh,' he says, 'what do you want with 'im?' I looked 'im up an' down again. 'You've got a bad attack of curiosity,' I says, 'it's flown to yer 'ead,' I says. 'If I was you, I should see a doctor, a good one; but, if it will do you any good an' relieve your pain, I don't mind tellin' yer that

ONLY SIXTEEN, GIRL VERY SICK

Tells How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

New Orleans, La.—"I take pleasure in writing these lines to express my gratitude to you. I am only 16 years old and work in a tobacco factory. I have been a very sick girl but I have improved wonderfully since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now looking fine and feeling a thousand times better."

—Miss AMELIA JAQUILLARD, 8961 Tebouitoulas St., New Orleans, La.

St. Clair, Pa.—"My mother was alarmed because I was troubled with suppression and had pains in my back and side, and severe headaches. I had pimples on my face, my complexion was sallow, my sleep was disturbed, I had nervous spells, was very tired and had no ambition. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has worked like a charm in my case and has regulated me. I worked in a mill among hundreds of girls and have recommended your medicine to many of them."—Miss ESTELLA MAGUIRE, 110 Thwing St., St. Clair, Pa.

There is nothing that teaches more than experience. Therefore, such letters from girls who have suffered and were restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be a lesson to others. The same remedy is within reach of all.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

the gentleman, Mr. Desbro', employed my valuable assistance to get 'is luggage aboard a ship at the Victoria Docks this mornin', an' 'e, bein' in a 'urry, give me a sixpence, thinkin' it was 'alf a sov. He didn't find out 'is mistake till he was on board, then he calls out to me to come to these rooms of 'is an' ask 'is man to make it up to me."

Smithers paused here, and eyed the pavement with dissatisfaction.

"It was a precious thin kind of a story, sir; but it was the best, I could make up in the time; an' in an ordinary way the 'tee would 'ave been on me like a terrier on a rat; but he was caught by the words 'Victoria Dock'; an' though he thought I was on a plant, he was too keen on gettin' a clue to you to drop on an insignificant cove like me; so he says, says he, quite indifferent like—'Oh, so Mr. Desbro's gone abroad? Do you 'appen to remember the name of the ship?' 'Why, of course, I says; 'it was the Hairy Sonny.'"

"The what?" asked the puzzled Ronald. "Ah, yes; the Arizona."

"That's what I said, sir," observed Smithers, continuing. "'Oh, it was, was it?' says he. 'I was wantin' to see Mr. Desbro'; but there ain't any one 'ere. His man's gone—got a 'oliday, I suppose; so both of us is done, my man.' He winks at me, as if he knew I was tryin' on a swindle, but that it weren't worth 'is while to trouble about a sprat like me. I grumbles and grouses a bit all the way down the stairs; an', knowin' that he was watchin' me, I set off up the street instead o' down, an' makes my way by a kind o' round to the public 'ouse. An' now, what's to be done, sir?"

"I don't quite know," said Ronald. "But the first thing I have to do is to thank you, Smithers, for the clever way in which you've come to my assistance. You're the sharpest fellow I've ever met; and a plucky one, too. You might have got into trouble with that detective. Look here, you must take this, or I shall be cut up."

He tried to press a five-pound note into Smithers' hand; but Smithers respectfully pushed the hand away.

"Not me, sir," he said firmly, pleadingly. "As I said afore, I don't want to take any money from you. If I've done anything to help you through your trouble, why, I'm more than satisfied." He hesitated a moment, then, with his head averted, said falteringly: "I don't want any money; but, if you think of doin' me a favour by way o' payin' me back, I'd ask you, sir—"

"Go on," said Ronald. "What is it? Of course, I shall be glad to do it, if I can."

"Do yer mean it, sir?" said Smithers, an eager light in his blue eyes, his flexible lips quivering slightly. "Then take me into yer service, sir!"

"But, my good fellow!" said Ronald, laughing, but with some regret, "how can I? I'm going to make a bolt of it—going abroad; I must."

"That's what I guessed, sir," said Smithers eagerly. "Take me with you, sir; I'm a useful kind o' animal, and I'll serve you faithfully. Don't hesitate, sir! Just say the word! I can be of use to you; and I'll stand by you through thick and thin. I'm only a common sort o' cove; but I'm fair took by you; it's yer way o' speakin', it's yer way o' treatin' a man as if he was a fellow 'uman bein' and a brother. Take me with you, sir!"

Ronald looked down at the earnest face, the pleading eyes. It was all ways hard for him to refuse any one anything; it was simply impossible for him to refuse this man, who was actually quivering with imploration. His hesitation lasted for scarcely more than a moment; then, with his careless, reckless laugh—it shook a little—he said:

"Come on, then! But where you are to come I really don't know, seeing that I don't know myself!"

"'Lor' bless you, sir, there's nothing in that!" cried Smithers joyously. "All the world's before us, as the gentleman said when he fell out o' the balloon. We shall manage all right! And there ain't no call to go to furrin' parts, unless you've set yer mind on it. There's plenty o' places to hide in good ole England. But wherever you go, even if it's to a suffragette meetin', I'm with you, sir."

Ronald laughed as he asked: "Did you ever hear of Mark Tapley, Smithers?"

"Can't say I have, sir. Was he in the public-house line? Name seems to smell o' beer."

"He was a character in a book, a fellow who was always cheerful under all circumstances."

"Was he really, sir?" Ah, then most like he'd got a deaf mute for a mother-in-law."

"Well, anyway, you put me in mind of him," said Ronald.

"Glad to hear it, sir; perhaps he was a relation o' mine. Anyway, I'm of his way o' thinkin'. Nothin's so bad as that it can't be worse, as the man said when they told 'im that 'is wife 'ad got twins. What's the use o' complainin' if it's wet to-day, it'll be fine to-morrow—unless it snows. Why, bless you, sir, the sight o' your face an' the sound o' your voice would make an oyster want to get up an' dance! How would it be, sir, if we was to take a stroll in the park while you was a-thinkin' things out a bit?"

"As well there as anywhere else," said Ronald; "but I imagine you will have to do the thinking, Smithers, for I haven't an idea what to do or where to go."

CHAPTER IX.

When Dexter Reece went down to the breakfast-room of Thorden Hall next morning, he found Evelyn standing by the window; and, as she turned and gave him her hand with a smile, he saw that she was pale, and he guessed that she had spent a sleepless night. He himself had slept but little, for his mind had been excited by the story of the giant ruby and the scene he had witnessed in the wood between Miss Desborough and her reckless brother.

"You are early," she said. "I am glad; it will give us more time. My father always breakfasts in his own room, so you will please excuse him; and Mr. Lexham is always late. We will begin at once."

As a rule, Dexter Reece preferred to listen rather than talk; but this morning he exerted himself and proved a very agreeable companion; and, after a time, the harassed look disappeared from Evelyn's face, and he won a laugh or two from her. Just as they were finishing, Mr. Lexham entered, with profuse apologies for his belated appearance.

"But you must really lay the blame on your wonderful air, Miss Evelyn," he said. "It is so strong that it always acts with me as a narcotic. Now you must really let me look after myself," he added, as he went to the sideboard and critically and approvingly inspected the various dishes displayed there. "You two young people are going for a drive, I hear? How I wish I could join you!—I haven't been invited, by the way—but I have a hard morning's work in the library. Some day, in forty years' time, I shall refuse to work any more, and retire on my ill-gotten gains; then I shall ask you to drive me about—or walk beside—my bath-chair."

"I, too, shall want one by that time," retorted Evelyn, with a laugh. "I ordered the carriage to come round directly after breakfast; so that I had better get my things on. By the way, Mr. Reece, you may want an overcoat, if we drive over the moor; it is always cold there," she added, as she left the room.

Mr. Lexham opened the 'Western Morning News,' stuck it up against the coffee-pot, and prepared to enjoy his breakfast in the satisfactory and old-fashioned way dear to the heart of men of his age and habits. The younger man went to the window and looked out, his eyes resting thoughtfully on the belt of trees through which Miss Desborough had disappeared the preceding night. Suddenly an exclamation from Mr. Lexham roused Reece from his reverie.

Ends Dry, Hoarse or Painful Coughs Quickly

A Simple, Home-Made Remedy, Inexpensive but Unequaled

The prompt and positive results given by this pleasant-tasting, home-made cough syrup has caused it to be used in more homes than any other remedy. It gives almost instant relief and will usually overcome the average cough in 24 hours.

Get 2½ ounces Pinex (50 cents worth) from any drug store, pour it into a 16-ounce bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. This makes 16 ounces—a family supply—of the most effective cough remedy at a cost of only 54 cents or less. You couldn't buy as much ready-made cough medicine for $2.50. Easily prepared and never spoils. Full directions with Pinex.

The promptness, certainty and ease with which this Pinex Syrup overcomes a bad cough, chest or throat cold is truly remarkable. It quickly loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals and soothes a painful cough in a hurry. With a persistent, loose cough it stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the annoying hacking.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in quinine, and is famous the world over for its splendid effect in bronchitis, whooping cough, bronchial asthma and winter coughs.

To avoid disappointment in making this, ask your druggist for "2½ ounce Pinex" and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

"Dear me!" exclaimed Mr. Lexham. "What's this!" He read from the paper before him: "Lord Lydstone is lying dangerously ill at his residence in Eaton Square. The cause of his illness is attributed to an accident he met with on Wednesday night; though no details are forthcoming, it is rumoured that his Lordship was injured in a fracas which took place at a card-party at which he was present; indeed, the name of his assailant is freely mentioned in the circle to which Lord Lydstone belongs. His Lordship is the second baron of that name, has considerable estates in Wexfordshire, and is a prominent member of the fashionable world."

Mr. Lexham shook his head gravely. "Fashionable world" means the Smart Set, I suppose. I'm not surprised at anything happening to a person belonging to that crew. I knew this Lydstone's father very well—in fact, I acted for him once or twice; but this young man gave me the go-by. I suppose I wasn't up-to-date enough for him; and I can't say that I'm sorry, for I don't like doing business with men of his kind. Judging by what this paragraph says, I imagine he got into some sort of row or other and got the worst of it. Yes! I am glad I am not his solicitor."

"You are fortunate in being able to choose your clients," remarked Dexter suavely.

Mr. Lexham shrugged his shoulders; and Dexter Reece watched him, without appearing to do so; and when, presently, the old lawyer tossed the newspaper aside and took up his letters, Dexter Reece sauntered to the table, and, in an aimless way, picked up the paper. He sauntered back to the window and out to the terrace; a large deerhound was stretched there in the sun, and Dexter Reece began playing with it, at first, cautiously; and presently exclaimed, "You bad dog, you've torn the paper!" he went to the window and held up the fragments. "The dog and I between us have wrecked the 'Western Morning News!' Does it matter?"

Mr. Lexham looked up absently. "Oh, no! there is another copy; it is always taken up to Sir Reginald's room."

"Oh, that's all right," said Reece, with an air of relief, as he folded up the remains of the paper and placed them on a side table. The page containing the paragraph he had thrust in his pocket.

A mail-phæton came round, and a moment or two afterwards Evelyn appeared in a light coat and skirt, and a simple but charming hat. Dexter Reece was by no means a susceptible man, and the blood in his veins ran coldly enough; but even he could not be insensible to the beauty and grace of the young girl as she stood before him, pulling on her gauntlet driving-gloves.

The War Premeditated by Germany.

From the 'Journal de Geneve' (29th of September): "Europe had already learned through M. Giolitti, that in July, 1913, then again, in October, 1913, several months before the Serebovoje crime, the Vienna cabinet was on the eve of making war on Serbia and had solicited the help of the Italian Government in the prevision that a European conflagration would be the result.

"M. Salandra afterwards gave greater precision to these facts in his speech at the Capitol.

"Finally, last Sunday, at Naples, M. Barzilai, furnished an indication of the price for convincing those who still doubted in spite of so many accumulated proofs, and who might not clearly see that Germany has prepared, wanted and unchained the enormous butchery.

"The Italian ambassador at Constantinople, M. the senator Garoni, on the 15th of July, 1914, received from the German ambassador at Constantinople, Baron Wangenheim, the following declaration:

"The German ambassador told him, eight days before the note (of Austria-Hungary) to Serbia was communicated to him, that this declaration would be of such a nature as to make war inevitable.

"Now we know that Germany has not ceased to declare to all the diplomats of neutral States, that she was ignorant of the contents of the Austrian note to Serbia; we know that she has pretended (without, be it noted, ever having furnished the least beginning of written proof) that she had applied herself to moderating Austria!

"And, (in this declaration of the German diplomatist to the Italian diplomatist) of what war was it a question?"

"Of a war by Austria against Serbia only? Who would believe it?"

"M. Barzilai opportunely recalls this sentence from the German White Book, distributed in the Reichstag in the famous sitting of the 4th of August:

"We were well aware that an eventual military action by Austria-Hungary against Serbia would concern Russia and might implicate us in a war by reason of our obligations as allies."

What can we ask for more conclusive? "These two very short texts illumine each other."

Which did not prevent Emperor William, hardly ten days ago, to speak of "the war which has been forced on Germany!" (Letter to M. Helfferich).

In commenting upon this fresh proof of criminal premeditation, the Giornale d'Italia for the 27th of September observes that, on that occasion, "the governments of Vienna and of Berlin did not breathe a word of their conspiracy to their ally of Rome." And it adds: "The method was not bad, the third ally was thus kept in a state of perpetual vassalage."

Bishop Gore's Disappointment.

The Bishop of Oxford, speaking at Reading, said he had been bitterly disappointed at the way in which people had followed the lead given by the King in the matter of total abstinence during the war. It had been a failure of public spirit and a failure of loyalty which was profoundly distressing and hard to explain in the eyes of the world. It was a real dishonour, and they could not recover their self-respect until, with widespread unanimity, the King's challenge had been accepted.

Heroism Shown All on Board Hospital Ship

New York, Nov. 18.—A New York Times cable to-day says:

"The Daily Mail's Dover correspondent sends the following:
"Vivid narratives are told by the crew of the coiler Lusitania, which, in rendering aid to the Anglia, was herself sunk.

"After the explosion the bows of the hospital ship seemed to melt away until the sea lapped her rails and splashed up on the decks. Mortally wounded as she was, the Anglia surged forward in a vain attempt to reach shore before she sank. Her siren roused every vessel near, and from every quarter came boats to the rescue.

"Those watching from the wreck of the Lusitania saw soldiers coming up from below and assembling on the deck, calmly waiting the order to pass into the boats.

"Every moment their footing became more precarious as gradually the Anglia settled by the bows.

"But by now the rescuers were near. A vessel braving all danger from the Anglia's sudden foundering ran right under the stern and in a moment the crew were working like Trojans to transfer the wounded to safety.

"The difficulties were terrible, every moment the stern of the Anglia rose higher and higher, and as it rose the vessel veered sideways as if about to turn turtle.

"Nothing daunted, the men of the Anglia, their officers, and the men of other ships kept at the work of rescue and rapidly, though even then all too slowly, the wounded were transferred to boats. Some of the wounded, unable to retain their precarious footing, slipped into the sea, from which they were snatched in the nick of time by sailors, many of whom plunged overboard, the better to help in the rescue.

"Others on the Anglia jumped overboard, but all the while the nurses worked with splendid devotion with the crew to transfer their patients to the boats.

"Soon the Anglia had settled so far by the head that one of her propellers was clear of the water. The other, still revolving, gave a circular motion to the doomed vessel, adding ten-fold to the difficulties of the rescuers. But nothing discouraged them and the sailors kept on, their hopes running high that all would be saved.

"The end came with dramatic suddenness. With wounded, nurses, doctors and sailors still clinging to the stern, the Anglia seemed for one brief second to stand on her bows, and then she disappeared.

"But even now the Red Cross on her mainmast flaunts six feet clear above the troubled waters of the Channel, marking the spot where many brave men and women, too, it is feared, sleep in their last sleep."

Discussing the loss of the Anglia the Daily Mail says:

"The mine may have been laid by one of the German submarines or by some suborned neutral vessel.

"It was no doubt to prepare the world for such an episode that last Friday the German wireless published a report that British hospital ships were being used for the conveyance of troops and munitions of war.

"The tale was entirely false, but the circulation of such a falsehood usually indicates a German intention to attempt a new variety of foul play. It would not be the first time that such an outrage had been committed. So far back as February a German submarine deliberately fired a torpedo at the British hospital ship Asturias."

The Accustomed Thing.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

A man who once lived in the heart of a desert told me that the most delicious drink he ever tasted was the lukewarm, rather brackish water that had to be brought a hundred and forty miles on horseback. "It wasn't especially good water in the beginning," he said, "and of course it was lukewarm when we finally got it, but I can tell you it tasted just about right. I never realized before what a wonderful thing water was. In fact I don't suppose I ever gave it a thought. I had to go a hundred and forty miles into the desert to find out that good, fresh water, a thing I'd always taken for granted before, was really something to be pretty thankful for."

You've Got to Take Some Things For Granted.

Of course it is inevitable that we should take things for granted most of the time.

You can't be thankful for all the good things of life all the time.

But can't we stop once in a while and remember to be thankful for some of the accustomed things of life?

This man's experience in the desert threw him forcibly into a new relationship with one of the accustomed things and he saw it from a new angle.

Such experience do not often come, but one can accomplish much the same result by an effort of the mind. And to-day is a good day to make it. Suppose We Paid to Look at Sunset. "If we were charged so much a head for sunsets," says Stevenson, "or if God sent round a drum before the hawthorn came to flower, what a work we should make about their beauty."

And again: "The attention which a wood fire demands," says Charles Dudley Warner, "is one of its best recommendations. We value little that which costs us no trouble to maintain. If we had to keep the sun kindled up and going by private corporate action or by act of Congress, and to be taxed for the support of customs officers of solar heat, we should prize it more than we do."

Be Thankful For Your Mother's Love And Tell Her So.

The accustomed things of life—sunshine, flowers, sunsets, a mother's love, friends, books appetite, the zest for work, sleep—what wonderful, beautiful things they are!

Daily bread, if you savor it thoroughly, is very sweet. And so is daily life.

God give us this day the vision to be thankful for some of the accustomed things of life.

"LOOKED THE PART."

Men must look right and be right to command success. Clear eyes, clear skin and clear brain mean money to the man who possesses them. Dull eyes, sluggish brain and a pimply, blotchy skin are a serious handicap. O'Mara's Hypophosphites will remove pimples and blotches, brighten the eye and increase vital power by giving you pure blood and good circulation. Price $1.00.

We recommend it because we know what it contains.

Change of Captains.

The steamers Bellaventure and Adventure which have been bought by the Russian Government, will be leaving here to-morrow en route to Archangel, Russia. From here they will proceed to Sydney where they will take coal cargoes and then likely go to New York. Capt. Chas. Cross, goes in command of the Bellaventure, replacing Capt. Taylor, who was to the Par North in the ship all last summer. Capt. Wilson continues in charge of the Adventure. Captain Couch, who received severe bodily injuries when the Bonaventure was knocked about in the storm of a week ago, will not be able to go back in the ship this trip. The work of restoring her fish cargo is finished and she resumes her voyage to the Mediterranean this evening. Capt. Randall, who recently returned from Scotland, where he had business with the steamer Iceland, which has since been sold to the Russian Government for ice-breaking purposes, assumes command of the Bonaventure.

Crafts Still Missing.

The whaler Cabot and tug D. P. Ingraham, which were sent from here on Saturday last to search for the missing schooners Swallow, Blanche M. Rose and Annie, returned to port last night. The last mentioned craft has already been accounted for, she having been abandoned 35 miles South East of Cape Race. The crew were taken off by the passing steamer Monedrock, bound to London from New York, and were put on board the Cabot, which happened to be in the vicinity at the time, and brought to Fermeuse after a thrilling experience. But there are no tidings of the missing schooners Swallow and Blanche M. Rose, having on board 35 souls, all told, nor are they let reported anywhere. The Cabot and Ingraham gave up the search for them, after scouring a considerable area, north and south, between here

Wesley Sale Of Work.

The annual sale of work under the auspices of the ladies of Wesley Church was formally opened by Rev. H. Royle, yesterday afternoon, and was largely attended. The various stalls were well patronized, and a particular feature of the event was a Soup Supper, served in excellent style. The sale will be continued to-night when another Soup Supper will be served.

Anniversaries of Notable Events.

NOVEMBER 25th.

This date 1855, the following streets were named in St. John's: "Victoria, Cathedral, Darling and Chapel."

The organ first played in St. Thomas's Church, 1860.

The "William Donnelly" was lost in Trepassay Bay, 1878.

In 1885 Edward P. Morris (the present Premier) was admitted to the Bar.

In 1895 the Supreme Court quashed smuggling convictions against a number of publicans.

In 1887 Michael Whalen, who was spending a life term of imprisonment, escaped from the Penitentiary; it was said he arrived in the United States.

The incandescent gas light was first used here on this date, 1893.

In 1896 the steamer Assyrian arrived here from England with 800 troops on board, en route for British Columbia.

Congregational Sale.

The annual sale of work by the Ladies' Aid of the Congregational Church, was held in the Lecture Room yesterday afternoon and last night and proved highly successful. The attendance was large, particularly at tea hour. Many of those employed in the stores going there for tea. The plain and fancy work tables and candy stalls were well patronized.

After tea an enjoyable concert was given, Rev. Mr. Thomas acting as Chairman. The programme was as follows: "God Save the King; Piano Duet, Misses L. Ladley and M. Whiteley; Song, Mr. P. J. King; Recitation, Song, Miss M. Mitchell; Recitation, Miss Curtis; Violin Selection Miss S. Johnson; Piano Duet, Misses B. Stowe and E. Barnes; Dialogue. (The Cricket match), Misses E. Barnes, R. Carmichael, O. Hutchings, P. Snow, L. Knight, P. Channey, J. Russell and V. Thomas.

The several items were pleasingly rendered, many of the performers having to respond to encore. Following the concert refreshments were served after which the sale closed. The proceeds were quite up to expectations, and the Ladies' Aid are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts.

Personal.

Mr. F. A. Mews left by last evening's train to attend the Circuit Court at St. John's.

The many friends of Miss Woodman, daughter of Mr. P. Woodman, New Hr., T.B., will be pleased to learn of her success in the United States. Miss Woodman is a graduate of the General Hospital, this city, and after leaving here was engaged at private nursing in New York for three years. She is now at Atlanta City, where she is meeting with much success in her chosen profession.

Mr. A. M. Wilson, of Trinity, who was in the city on business, left by train yesterday to connect with the Argyle at Placentia for Flat Island, visiting his father Rev. Mr. Wilson, before returning to Trinity.

Killed on His Birthday.

Yesterday the Telegram announced that David E. Walsh, belonging to the 49th Battalion, Canadian Expeditionary Force, had been killed in action on France in November 11th or exactly a fortnight ago to-day. A sad coincidence in connection with the death of this brave young Newfoundland-lander, is that it occurred on the anniversary of his birthday, having just attained his twenty-sixth year.

The W.P.A. at Brigus.

After the summer vacation, the members were eager to resume work, and on October 12th a meeting was called by the President to discuss the best means of raising funds. A house to house canvass was at once suggested and met with approval. Volunteers were asked for and Mrs. Fred J. Hallett, Miss Blanche Bartlett, Mrs. John Rabbitts, Miss Caldwell, Mrs. S. Chafe and Miss Thompson, Mrs. S. Chafe and Miss Caldwell offered their services and reported for $80.55 in contributions, Miss Yetman having collected $3 of the amount at George Town. A donation of $50 from Mrs. R. A. Snowball, Chatham, N.B., and $5 from Mrs. Tom Makinson were received, for which they have our thanks. Miss Curtis kindly came over and gave a Recital which was much enjoyed and appreciated. The sum of $40 was realized, making our total amount $175.55. To-day we are forwarding our first shipment—32 pairs mittens, and with an increasing membership we hope to send a second very soon.

The Accustomed Thing.

By RUTH CAMERON.

A man who once lived in the heart of a desert told me that the most delicious drink he ever tasted was the lukewarm, rather brackish water that had to be brought a hundred and forty miles on horseback. "It wasn't especially good water in the beginning," he said, "and of course it was lukewarm when we finally got it, but I can tell you it tasted just about right. I never realized before what a wonderful thing water was. In fact I don't suppose I ever gave it a thought. I had to go a hundred and forty miles into the desert to find out that good, fresh water, a thing I'd always taken for granted before, was really something to be pretty thankful for."

You've Got to Take Some Things For Granted.

Of course it is inevitable that we should take things for granted most of the time.

You can't be thankful for all the good things of life all the time.

But can't we stop once in a while and remember to be thankful for some of the accustomed things of life?

This man's experience in the desert threw him forcibly into a new relationship with one of the accustomed things and he saw it from a new angle.

Such experience do not often come, but one can accomplish much the same result by an effort of the mind. And to-day is a good day to make it. Suppose We Paid to Look at Sunset. "If we were charged so much a head for sunsets," says Stevenson, "or if God sent round a drum before the hawthorn came to flower, what a work we should make about their beauty."

And again: "The attention which a wood fire demands," says Charles Dudley Warner, "is one of its best recommendations. We value little that which costs us no trouble to maintain. If we had to keep the sun kindled up and going by private corporate action or by act of Congress, and to be taxed for the support of customs officers of solar heat, we should prize it more than we do."

Be Thankful For Your Mother's Love And Tell Her So.

The accustomed things of life—sunshine, flowers, sunsets, a mother's love, friends, books appetite, the zest for work, sleep—what wonderful, beautiful things they are!

Daily bread, if you savor it thoughtfully, is very sweet. And so is daily life.

God give us this day the vision to be thankful for some of the accustomed things of life.

Change of Captains.

The steamers Bellaventure and Adventure which have been bought by the Russian Government, will be leaving here to-morrow en route to Archangel, Russia. From here they will proceed to Sydney where they will take coal cargoes and then likely go to New York. Capt. Chas. Cross, who is in command of the Bellaventure, replacing Capt. Taylor, who was to the Far North in the ship all last summer. Capt. Wilson continues in charge of the Adventure. Captain Couch, who received severe bodily injuries when the Bonaventure was knocked about in the storm of a week ago, will not be able to go back in the ship this trip. The work of restoring her fish cargo is finished and she resumes her voyage to the Mediterranean this evening. Capt. Randall, who recently returned from Scotland, where he had business with the steamer Iceland, which has since been sold to the Russian Government for ice-breaking purposes, assumes command of the Bonaventure.

Crafts Still Missing.

The whaler Cabot and tug D. P. Ingraham, which were sent here on Saturday last to search for the missing schooners Swallow, Blanche M. Rose and Annie, returned to port last night. The last mentioned craft has already been accounted for, she having been abandoned 35 miles South East of Cape Race. The crew were taken off by the passing steamer Monedrock, bound to London from New York, and were put on board the Cabot, which happened to be in the vicinity at the time, and brought to Fermanous after a thrilling experience. But there are no tidings of the missing schooners Swallow and Blanche M. Rose, having on board 35 souls, all told, nor are they reported anywhere. The Cabot and Ingraham gave up the search for them, after scouring a considerable area, north and south, between here

Wesley Sale Of Work.

The annual sale of work under the auspices of the ladies of Wesley Church was formally opened by Rev. H. Royle, yesterday afternoon, and was largely attended. The various stalls were well patronized, and a particular feature of the event was a Soup Supper, served in excellent style. The sale will be continued to-night when another Soup Supper will be served.

Anniversaries of Notable Events.

NOVEMBER 25th.
This date 1855, the following streets were named in St. John's: "Victoria, Cathedral, Darling and Chapel."

The organ first played in St. Thomas's Church, 1860.
The "William Donnelly" was lost in Trepassey Bay, 1878.

In 1885 Edward P. Morris (the present Premier) was admitted to the Bar.

In 1895 the Supreme Court quashed smuggling convictions against a number of publicans.

In 1887 Michael Whalen, who was spending a life term of imprisonment, escaped from the Penitentiary; it was said he arrived in the United States. The incandescent gas light was first used here on this date, 1893.

In 1896 the steamer Assyrian arrived here from England with 800 troops on board, en route for British Columbia.

Congregational Sale.

The annual sale of work by the Ladies' Aid of the Congregational Church, was held in the Lecture Room yesterday afternoon and last night and proved highly successful. The attendance was large, particularly at tea hour. Many of those employed in the stores going there for tea. The plain and fancy work tables and candy stalls were well patronized. After tea an enjoyable concert was given. Rev. Mr. Thomas acting as Chairman. The programme was as follows: God Save the King; Piano Duet, Misses L. Ladley and M. Whiteley; Song, Mr. P. J. King; Recitation, Miss M. Mitchell; Violin Selection, Miss S. Johnson; Piano Duet, Misses B. Stowe and E. Barnes; Dialogue, (The Cricket match), Misses E. Barnes, H. Carmichael, O. Hutchings, P. Snow, L. Knight, F. Chancey, J. Russell and V. Thomas.

The several items were pleasingly rendered, many of the performers having to respond to encores. Following the concert refreshments were served after which the sale closed. The proceeds were quite up to expectations, and the Ladies' Aid are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts.

Killed on His Birthday.

Yesterday the Telegram announced that David E. Walsh, belonging to the 49th Battalion, Canadian Expeditionary Force, had been killed in action on France in November 11th or exactly a fortnight ago to-day. A sad coincidence in connection with the death of this brave young Newfoundlander, is that it occurred on the anniversary of his birthday, having just attained his twenty-sixth year.

The W.P.A. at Brigus.

After the summer vacation, the members were eager to resume work, and on October 12th a meeting was called by the President to discuss the best means of raising funds. A house to house canvass was at once suggested and met with approval. Volunteers were asked for and Mrs. Fred Jerritt, Miss Blanche Bartlett, Mrs. John Rabbitts, Miss Thompson, Mrs. S. Chate and Miss Caldwell offered their services and reported for $80.55 in contributions, Miss Yetman having collected $3 of the amount at George Town. A donation of $50 from Mrs. R. A. Snowball, Chatham, N.B., and $5 from Mrs. Tom Makinson were received, for which they have our thanks. Miss Curtis kindly came over and gave a Recital which was much enjoyed and appreciated. The sum of $40 was realized, making our total amount $175.55. To-day we are forwarding our first shipment—82 pairs mittens, and with an increasing membership we hope to send a second very soon.

The Higher Form of Dress!

Instead of wearing a blanket like an Indian, civilization prescribes a certain style of clothes—it's a higher form of dress. Society by the same token won't tolerate a man with shabby, untidy garments.
We are ready to help you meet the demands of society. Our Dry Cleaning process keeps your apparel immaculate.

TO-DAY'S Messages.

11.30 A.M.

SHORT HOURS FOR SALOONS RAISE TROUBLE.

LONDON To-day. No work before dinner is the cry of London trade unions who are organizing to resist the new regulations of shortening hours during which saloons may be kept open. Meetings were held in different parts of the city this evening to protest against the new regulations. Delegates have been appointed to attend the conference to be held on Saturday to decide what action the unions will take to defeat the regulations which come into effect next Monday. The workmen employed in Smithfield markets sent telegrams to all the Labor Members of Parliament demanding they save London from total tyranny.

IMPROVEMENT IN SERBIANS STRATEGIC SITUATION.

PARIS, To-day. The Serbian Legation said to-day there had been a great improvement in the strategic situation of the Serbian forces. The following note referring the announcement of a Serbian victory west of Nish was issued to-day by the Legation. The situation of the Serbian army is improving slightly, following the Bulgarian defeat in the northwestern part of Kosovo plain near Lebas. The enemy, according to news from Prirenal, sustained another repulse west of Gilam on the Gemovatch mountain and at Velik Plana. The Serbians are reported to have captured five mountain cannons. The Serbian army, after having avoided several efforts to be surrounded in its retreat to-day finds itself pressed from the west and north by the Austro-German army, from northeast and east by the Bulgarian army. A junction with General Sarrail's French army has not yet been effected. The Serbians while not seeing a complete salvation find at least a great improvement in their strategic situation. For the moment the Serbians have only one way out, namely, retreat towards the Albanian and Montenegrin mountains. The endeavour to pierce the Bulgarian front near Uskup appears to be succeeding, judging from the latest despatches from Prirenal. If the Allied forces, increased by the debarkation of British troops, can make their advance north of Coroneed, a junction with the Serbian troops would be realized and would necessarily cause the retreat of the Bulgarian troops which are pushing towards Tovo, Prilep and Monastir, and the western part of New Serbia would thus be freed of enemy forces and the Serbians grouped with the Allied contingents would be able to stop the advance of their enemies' armies.

ST. DAVID'S BACK DOWN.

LONDON, To-day. Stung by the vitriolic criticism of his recent attack in the Lords on the British headquarters staff at the front, Lord St. David told the peers to-day a wrong construction had been placed upon his words, when he spoke of the visits of women to headquarters. He only had in mind a single visit at the beginning of the war, he said.

MUST HAVE PASSPORTS.

LONDON, To-day. Alien sailors in ships which touch at British ports must have passports, if they attempt to land. The U.S. Embassy was notified to-day by Home Office. The notification followed a recent arrest of a number of Americans, members of the crew of the American Line Steamship, New York, who came ashore without passports. The Home Office notification stated they must remain on board ship while their vessel is in port.

A FINANCIAL PROJECT.

LONDON, To-day. The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Reginald McKenna, gave in Commons to-day the first official confirmation of the reports that the Government had begun negotiations with large holders of American securities for the purpose of obtaining control of those holdings. Negotiations, McKenna said, were confidential for the present, but he promised to make a full statement of the project before the general public were invited to join the movement.

PRISONERS TREATED BETTER.

LONDON, To-day. Replying to the question of the reported suffering of British prisoners in Germany, Tennant, Parliamentary Under Secretary of War, said in the Commons to-day that conditions had materially improved of late, owing to unremitting exertions of the U.S. Embassy at Berlin. Tennant said, he had no knowledge of the reciprocal measures by the French, which as a questioner stated had excellent results in securing proper treatment for French prisoners in Germany. The expressed sympathy with British prisoners, who were, he said, forced to endure hardships, but he did not propose to alter the treatment accorded to prisoners of war in this country.

BUELOW AND PEACE.

ZURICH, To-day. The reports of a movement for peace was revived to-day by a conference here between Prince Von Buelow, former German Chancellor with Cardinal Archbishop of Cologne and Dr. Von Heuberg, Prussian Minister at the Vatican. Prince Von Buelow whose presence in Switzerland for several weeks has given rise to various peace rumors, arrived in Zurich from Lucerne this morning.

GREEK GIVES WAY TO ALLIES.

LONDON, To-day. According to news received here, it is understood the reply agrees not to disarm the Allies' forces, gives them liberty of action on Greek territory for their own security, accords railway and telegraphic facilities. The Government only makes reservations regarding the further examination of certain details of the Allies' declaration that any part of Greek territory occupied by the Allies will be restored in due course and any justifiable indemnities paid, favorably impressed the Greek Government. The situation is developing so well that Greek steamers held up at Malta have been released. Difficulties are no longer placed on the transmission of Commercial cables.

SITUATION MORE FAVORABLE.

PARIS, To-day. An Athens despatch to the Havas Agency, dated Tuesday, says after a meeting of the Greek Cabinet which considered the joint note of the Allies demanding Greece's attitude toward the Allied troops, it was said the situation has been cleared by the demands of the Entente Powers, having been more moderate than was looked for in Greece. It is understood the Allies ask simply that Greece assure the safety of the Allied troops in Macedonia. The public have been officially informed that the situation is developing normally.

ROUMANIA MAY INTERVENE.

GENEVA, via Paris, To-day. The Bucharest correspondent of the Geneva Tribune sends the despatch in which M. Jonescu, former member of the Roumanian Cabinet, and leader of the Liberal party in Roumania, is quoted as expressing the belief that Roumania Government is desirous of following a national policy and will soon intervene in the war on the side of the Entente Powers. M. Jonescu, according to this despatch, also said he had learned from Petrograd that a strong Russian force is ready near the Roumanian frontier to aid Roumania against Austria and Bulgaria. The Roumanian Premier, M. Bratianu, in conversation regarding the relations between Roumania and Russia is also quoted as saying, they are better than ever before.

INVITED TO MONTENEGRO.

BERLIN, To-day. A despatch from Sofia says it is reported that King Peter of Serbia, has accepted the invitation from Montenegro to rule his country from the Montenegrin Capital. The report adds the Serbian Ministers will accompany King Peter from Saloniki.

THE WISH FATHER TO THE TROUGHT.

BERLIN, To-day. Luciano Magrini, a widely known Italian war correspondent telegraphing from Monastir, recommends the quadruple alliance to give up its Balkan campaign as lost, says the Overseas News Agency to-day. The Serbian tragedy, he declares, is nearing its end amid the universal indignation of Serbians against the Entente Powers.

STILL WAITING GREEK GUARANTEES.

PARIS, To-day. The collective note of the Allies to the Greek Government expressed a friendly spirit. The general character of the requests to the Greek Government, according to Athens despatch to Havas Agency, to confirm the assurance already given relating to the position of the Allies' forces on Greek soil. The note asks for the earliest reply possible under circumstances. Prior to the presentation of this note, and the questions it deals with were discussed at a luncheon given by King Constantine in honor of Denys Cochlin, member of the French Cabinet. M. Cochlin's views were favorably received by the King, and no doubt appears to exist, the despatch adds, that the Greek Government will supply all the guarantees requested.

IMPORTANT ITALIAN VICTORY.

ROME, To-day. An important victory for the Italians was scored yesterday when Austrian trenches between the fourth summit of Monte San Micrael and the church of San Martino were taken by storm and held in spite of desperate counter-attacks.

GERMANY'S DESPERATE EFFORTS.

LONDON, To-day. The Germans are still making desperate efforts to advance in direction of the Dvina. A Petrograd despatch to the Times says: "They have built a new road for the transport of ammunition and heavy guns. Huge quantities of ammunition have recently been forwarded to the region of Ikuil. The Friedrichstadt and Jacobstadt position of the Russian armies have been enormously strengthened, however, by the abundance of ammunition, the correspondent says."

MEAN TO STAY AT SALONIKI.

LONDON, To-day. The Reuter correspondent at Zurich says that, according to reports received there from Vienna, the Allies are preparing to remain at Saloniki for an indefinite period, as they are finding machinery for an electric

MORE ARMENIAN MASSACRES.

LONDON, To-day. News of further Armenian massacres has reached those in charge of the Lord Mayor's Armenian Refugee Fund. It tells of the massacre of 500 refugees by the Kurds. The refugees succeeded in reaching Russian Trans-Caucasia, but nearly two hundred thousand refugees were already there. The 500 tried to return to that part of Armenia in Russian occupation but were massacred on the road to Van.

TAKEN TO MOUNTAINS.

RUSSIA, To-day. Major O'Connor, British Consul at Phiras, and five other Englishmen and ten Sepoys have been taken by the gendarmes into the mountains. The Turks and Germans are continuing their intrigues and announce the departure of the Shah with diplomats of the Central Powers from Teheran.

GREEK CRISIS OVER.

ATHENS, To-day. Official announcement is made that the reply to the collective note by the Entente Ministers, has been delivered to them. The announcement says the reply is couched in very friendly terms and involves satisfaction to the demands of the Entente Powers, and all the guarantees is considered essential.

STARVING POLAND.

LONDON, To-day. A despatch from Amsterdam says food riots are frequent in Poland. The shortage of supplies is so great in the towns around Warsaw that even the wealthy people are unable to obtain sufficient food. As a consequence outbreaks are of almost daily occurrence and involve fighting between civilians and German troops.

GERMANS IN SOUTH SERBIA.

GENEVA, To-day. The arrival of seven regiments of German troops at Prilep, Serbia, is announced by newspapers in what purports to be despatches received from Bucharest.

SERBIAN WAR MINISTERS' VIEWS.

ATHENS, To-day. The newspaper Hestia publishes an interview with the Serbian War Minister who is at Salonika, in which the minister said: "Although we have lost 35,000 killed or wounded and 20,000 taken prisoners, the operations are anything but ended. Our forces now numbering two hundred thousand are still intact. We are only deficient in heavy artillery. The morale of the troops is unimpaired. The Commissariat is working splendidly, thanks to French organizers. Nevertheless, the situation is difficult though not hopeless from a strategic point, and as regards munitions. We shall remain on the defensive, holding the passes and wearing the enemy until the Anglo-French forces are sufficiently strong to enable us to resume the offensive. The participation of Italy meets with difficulties owing to the divergence of views regarding Albanian. Russian intervention will be effected after a concentration of the Allied armies in the Balkans, and it is expected this will produce a change in the Roumanian attitude. I can assure you France and England are preparing surprises in the Balkans."

Brave Little Priest

Of the Rev. John Gwynn, S.J., Chaplain to the Irish Guards, whose death at the front we chronicled two weeks ago (it was not the result of an old wound, as we at that time supposed), the following account is going the rounds of the secular press:

"Father Gwynn was known among the boys as 'the brave little priest.' Early in the war he was seriously wounded, but refused to return to England. During the terrible fighting recently Father Gwynn was again at his post. I saw him just before he died. Shrapnel and bullets were being showered upon us in all directions. Hundreds of our lads dropped. Father Gwynn was undismayed. He seemed to be all over the place trying to give the last Sacraments to the dying. Once I thought he was buried alive, for a shell exploded within a few yards of where he was, and the next moment I saw nothing but a great heap of earth. The plight of a wounded concealed beneath was horrifying. Out of the ground came cries of 'Father, Father, Father,' from those who were in their death agonies. Then, as if by a miracle, Father Gwynn was seen to fight his way through the earth. He must have been severely wounded, but he went on blessing the wounded and hearing their confessions. The last I saw of him was kneeling beside a German soldier. It was a scene to make you cry. The shells continued to explode about the wounded, but they could not stop a little English priest from doing his duty even to a dying German."

Recruiting.

Considering the heavy losses in life and limb sustained by Newfoundland at the seafishery last year, and also the absence of a continued and sustained campaign for recruiting, the response in the way of recruits has been very good. The medical examiners have been struck with the repeated efforts of some of the rejected to try and pass the medical examination. We heard yesterday of one young enthusiast, who has presented himself five times for examination, and who has so far tried in vain to convince the examiner that he is old enough and strong enough to stand the hardships of trench life. At present his youth and light weight are against him, but the spirit and grit are there, and example will no doubt stimulate other young men, whose bodily development and age fit them for campaigning. We heard too of another young fellow of seventeen, who has not been accepted for service on account of being underweight, but he is determined to drill with the accepted volunteers, and who has volunteered to go through the training with them without pay, in the hope of being accepted some time next year. His example should also tend to spur on young men of maturer age. Throughout the Empire a special effort is being made in the way of recruiting. The South Africans, after conquering German South West Africa, are preparing a special expedition against German East Africa. For some months past, a special campaign has been carried on throughout the Dominion of Canada, the success of which met with the high commendation of Archbishop MacNeil. A despatch from Melbourne conveys the news that the Australian Government has decided to add 50,000 additional men to the quarter of a million already ready with the colours. This determination enhances a performance, already notable in the raising of soldiers in the colonies. The response from New Zealand has also been excellent. At home the response has been great, but the demand is even greater. At home the Manchester district holds a proud record. In addition to the large number of Manchester men in the army, reservists and territorials at the outbreak of the war, this district has supplied 100,000 recruits to the army, and between 2,500 and 3,000 to the navy.

GEORGE M. BARR.

Blanche M. Rose

ABANDONED OFF CAPE BRETON COAST — CREW OF NINETEEN ARE RESCUED.

News reached the city to-day that the schooner Blanche M. Rose, owned by Clements Bros., of St. John's, had been abandoned at sea but that the nineteen persons on board, comprising men, women and children, all Newfoundlanders, were safe, having been rescued by a passing vessel. At 11 a.m. the following message was received by the Minister of Marine and Fisheries from Mr. Duff at Carbonear: "Schooner Mary Duff arrived at North Sydney with 6 women, 4 children and 9 men who were taken off the schooner Blanche M. Rose; instruct C. & W. Hackett, Sydney, re forwarding destination."

On receipt of the message Minister Piccott informed the Premier and arrangements are being made to have the crew of the ill-fated craft sent to their homes.

The Blanche M. Rose and crew left Groasis Islands on Monday, the 9th instant, for St. John's, having their summer's voyage of fish on board, consisting of 700 casks of cod and carried 30 casks of oil on deck. The following Monday, or a week after leaving, she encountered a heavy storm which lasted for two days. The next day, which was Tuesday, the 16th inst., the craft while anchored just outside of Carbonear, dragged her moorings and drifted out to sea. That was the last heard of her; she was given up as lost until the foregoing message was received.

On Saturday last the Cabot and Ingraham left here to search for the missing craft and returned last night after an unsuccessful mission. The Cabot picked up S.S.E. of Cape Race an oil cask, and a man named Clements, a relative of the captain and owner, and others concluded that the craft had foundered and that the crew had been drowned. This intensified the anxiety of other relatives here. However, all anxiety and uneasiness of mind has been removed now by the fact that those on board the craft are alive, even though it is a hard blow on Capt. Clements and associates to lose their vessel and the results of their summer's earnings as well, and the news of the safe arrival of the Blanche M. Rose's crew will be gladly welcomed by the whole country.

The Mary Duff, which took off the crew of the ill-fated craft, was bound to Sydney from Carbonear for a cargo of coal. Capt. Clements and brothers reside at York Street, St. John's East.

Wedding Bells.

LESTER-GREENE.
 A very pretty wedding took place at the residence of Mr. Karl Trappnell, Power Street, last evening, when Miss Violet Greene, daughter of Mr. Robert Green, chief engineer of the s.s. Harmony, was united in matrimony to Mr. Augustus Lester, son of Mr. C. F. Lester, this city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. N. M. Guy to the presence of a large circle of friends. The bride, who was beautifully gowned, was attended by Miss Lester, sister of the groom, who was supported by his brother, Hubert Lester. Following the ceremony a reception was held, after which the happy couple drove to Williams Hotel, Forest Road, where the honeymoon will be spent. On their return to the city Mr. and Mrs. Lester will take up residence on Hamilton Street. The Telegram joins in the congratulations extended to Mr. and Mrs. Lester many happy years of wedded life.

In all probability we shall have some figures before 6 o'clock this evening.

Poultry Show Another Big Success.

Opened by His Excellency the Governor, Yesterday Afternoon.

The fourth annual national Poultry Exhibition, held under the auspices of the Newfoundland Poultry Association was formally opened by His Excellency the Governor, in the Prince of Wales Rink, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Amongst those present were Sir Walter and Lady Davidson and children, Rt. Hon. Sir E. P. Morris, Sir Joseph Outerbridge, Hon. G. Knowling, Messrs. J. Browning, W. G. Goeling, H. Macpherson, F. J. Morris, H. W. LeMessurier, Percie Johnson, besides Messrs. G. Gushue and J. Calver, President and Secretary, respectively, and several other officers and members of the Association.

His Excellency the Governor in a brief, though encouraging speech, intimated that the show would do credit to more pretentious cities than ours and that the promoters and organizers merited the highest commendation on the results of their earnest efforts. Continuing, he said, anything done in Newfoundland to increase the resources for the self support of our own country deserved the greatest co-operation and support of the whole people and in no other branch had there been such success achieved than towards encouraging the growth and bettering the conditions of our food supply. He hoped to see the day when Newfoundland will be able to hold its own in Agriculture. In conclusion he expressed the great pleasure it gave him to be present, and after wishing it every success declared the show open.

The show is the best ever witnessed here, the number of exhibits of birds of all descriptions and breeds being greater than ever before and a visit to the Rink is well worth while. Last night upwards of a thousand people altogether attended the show. On exhibition are special displays of pigeons, canaries, tamed rabbits and eggs. Up to 11 o'clock last night Professor Landy, of Truro, official judge, made the following awards:—

Job's Office was the scene of a pleasing presentation this forenoon, when Miss May Sinnott, stenographer of that department and who severs her connection with the firm, shortly after the presentation of a handsome travelling case, as an appreciation of the esteem in which she was held.

Miss J. Gamberg made the presentation and read the following address, signed by the entire office staff:—

"The office staff of Messrs. Job Bros. & Co. Ltd., beg of you to accept the accompanying gift as a slight token of our esteem for you, and that every success and prosperity attend you in your new field of labor, is the sincere wish of all."

Miss Sinnott was stenographer for 3 years and was deservedly popular with and well liked by employers and employees. She leaves by the s.s. Stephano next week for New York.

War News.

Messages Received Previous to 9 A.M.

OFFICIAL.

LONDON, Nov. 24. The Governor, Newfoundland, has received from the Turkish position at Ctesiphon, eighteen miles from Bagdad, was captured with 800 prisoners on the 22nd. Our casualties were two thousand. Heavy counter attacks were repulsed, but want of water to-day, caused retirement to the river, three miles below the captured position.

France reports mining and air duels.

Russia—An enemy trench was captured on the Dvina. Local successes at other points.

Italy—A strong entrenchment was carried on the Carso.

Serbia—Enemy reports continue to claim large captures.

Persian gendarmes revolted at Shiraz, and the British Consul was imprisoned.

BONAR LAW.

NOT CONSIDERED ADVISABLE.

LONDON, Nov. 24. Premier Asquith told the House of Commons to-day it had not been considered advisable to place all the land forces on the Western front under one commander. The Premier's statement was in reply to a question by Sir George Scott Robertson.

AUSTRALIA'S ADDITIONAL ARMY.

MELBOURNE, Nov. 24. The Commonwealth Government has decided to raise an additional 50,000 men. This will bring up the Australian contingent for the war to three hundred thousand.

PROHIBITING OF EXPORTS.

LONDON, Nov. 24. The exportation of cotton wadding, cotton wool, and iron ore of all descriptions, is prohibited to all destinations by an Order-in-Council passed to-night.

THE TROUBLE IN PERSIA.

LONDON, Nov. 24. A Foreign Office statement issued to-day on the subject of the arrest of the British Consul at Shiraz, in Persia, by revolting gendarmes, acting without the knowledge of the Persian Government, as announced yesterday, says that the prisoners have now been removed to the neighborhood of Ohran, where they are apparently in charge of Hans Wassmuss. The gendarmes in Persia are in open revolt against their Swedish officers. The statement adds that they hold Kum in the interest of the Germans. After declaring that further outrages have been committed by these gen-darmerie, giving instances, the statement concludes: These acts of rapine and outrage were done in defiance of the Persian Government, and are instances of the way in which German agents instigate violence or criminal action in neutral countries.

FRENCH CONSCRIPTS.

PARIS, Nov. 24. After hearing General Gallieni, Minister of War, to-day, the Army Committee of the Chamber of Deputies decided upon the call to the colors in December, 1915, of the young conscripts class of 1917. These will be sent to garrisons, then trained, and incorporated in various regiments of the services.

FRENCH WAR OFFICE STATEMENT.

PARIS, Nov. 24. The War Office made the following announcement this afternoon: Nothing of importance occurred last night outside of the usual cannonading, except in the Argonne, where fighting with mines resulted to our advantage. In the section of Bolanti our aviators blew up a small German position. In the Vosges an effort to capture one of our positions on the plain to the northeast of Celles was repulsed completely.

SURPRISES FOR THE BALKANS.

PARIS, Nov. 24. The reports are in circulation in Greece that Great Britain and France are preparing for important new efforts in the Balkans. The Salonika correspondent of the Petit Journal says he has learned from a member of the Serbian Government that Premier Asquith sent a telegram on Monday to the Serbian Government giving a firm assurance that Great Britain will carry through the expedition. Asquith is quoted as having said: "I can assure you, France and England are preparing surprises in the Balkans; you will shortly have corroboration thereof."

THE GREEK SITUATION.

LONDON, Nov. 24. A Reuter message from Athens says the Entente Ministers presented a collective note to Premier Skoulooudis demanding that Greece define her attitude. The Cabinet was immediately called together. After the Cabinet meeting the Greek Ministers said the situation had been cleared by the presentation of the note which gave the Government information in regard to what was expected by the Allies. These demands were less exacting than had been expected. Their Ministers added that Greece never had refused requests for the assurance of the security of Allied troops in Macedonia.

THE SERBIAN ARMY.

PARIS, Nov. 24. There appears to be confirmation of the report that the Serbian army of General Bokovitch is now opposing only a thin screen to the Austro-German advance, says a Salonika despatch dated Monday. The main force have been concentrated on Kossovo Plain, and General Bokovitch will hurl ninety thousand against one hundred and twenty thousand Bulgarians guarding the defiles of Katoehnik and Kertcho. The Serbians may even attempt the supreme effort of dash- ing into Uskub and then on to Veles, there to join hands with the French. But in order that the battle shall end in anything but sublime suicide the operation must be carried out energetically and success must be achieved promptly. There is good reason to believe the Bulgarians will not occupy Monastir until the arrival of the first detachments of the Austro-German troops.

LOOKING BRIGHTER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24. The London correspondent of the New York Herald cables the following: That the Serbians are still a long way from being annihilated is evident from the fighting which has taken place during the last few days to the northward of Uskub. While the main Serbian army remains in the trenches on Kossovo Plain, a detached body, whose presence has been concealed by the Censor, succeeded in passing Heleb and has held the territory along the Vardar River in the vicinity of Veles. It is this force of Serbians which has served as the objective of the Bulgarian troops operating from the northward and eastward from the original position at Veles whence the Serbians were pushed back. It now develops toward Prilep. Reports have credited the Bulgarians with the capture of Prilep and further forcing of Serbians back towards Monastir. The situation has now suddenly changed by the hasty retreat of the Bulgarians to the north of Prilep and the following up of this retrograde movement by the Serbians to the south of them. The immediate objective of the Serbian southern army is to reach Babuna Pass. This pass lies across a divide in the Babuna range, a few miles to the southwest of Veles and offers means for the Serbians to pass to the westward of Uskub.

PREMIER SKOLOUDIS.

PARIS, Nov. 24. Premier Skoulooudis, of Greece, is quoted by the Petit Parisien, to-day, as saying that if the Allied forces in Macedonia retreat across the border Greece may disarm them, although the Greek Government has not committed itself to this point. This statement is forwarded from Athens by G. de Maziere, correspondent of the Petit Parisien. He quotes Skoulooudis as follows: Greece is neutral, and will remain neutral, despite pressure, no matter from what quarter it is applied. Her neutrality, as it affects the Allies and France in particular, will be of such a benevolent character that Greece will never lift a finger against the Allied troops. Our friendly attitude toward the Allies is shown by the fact that we have permitted them to pass freely through our territory, which, in itself, is an infringement of strictest neutrality. To-day we are asked to give engagement that we will permit the Allied forces operating in Serbia, to regress our frontier and also Greek territory, as a base and for field operations. This would constitute active cooperation in the war on our part. I was obliged to answer that such an event would raise the question of the application of the Convention adopted at the Hague, which permits neutrals to prevent, by disarming, belligerent armies from converting their territory into a battlefield. I added that "I broached this point in only a theoretical manner, and from the legal aspect, without in any way intending to commit myself as to the future, for circumstances often are more convincing than the most approved legal principles. This observation, which I was obliged to make, has caused uneasiness to the Allies, who answered with a sort of blockade."

NEW QUARTERS.

PARIS, Nov. 24. The Serbian Legation announced to-day that the Serbian Government which had been located at Pristina, is departing to-day to Scutari, Albania.

GERMAN CRUISER SUNK.

LONDON, Nov. 24. A despatch to the Daily Telegraph from Petrograd says: The German guardship sunk by a Russian destroyer near Libau, is semi-officially stated to be a cruiser armed with three and one half and four inch guns, and having a crew of two hundred, twenty of whom were saved. The fight was only a short one.

WASHINGTON UNEASY.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24. The watchfulness of the guards about all the principal government buildings in the capital, is redoubled by special orders.

HENRY FORD AGAIN.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24. Henry Ford announced to-day that he would take a peace expedition to Europe to attempt to end the war. Ford will invite leading American pacifists to join the expedition, as well as peace advocates from other neutral countries. Negotiations have been opened with the Scandinavian-American Line for the charter of the liner Oscar II. If the boat is secured it is proposed to start from New York on Dec. 4th.

SALMON FISHING.

Salmon are fairly plentiful along the Southern shore, and to many of the fishermen at Cape Broyle, Witless Bay and Bay Bulls the industry is proving to be quite a profitable one. Yesterday one man brought ten large fish to the city and disposed of them at fancy prices.

What Tobacco Are You Smoking?

I guess it's V. C. Smoking Mixture, it smells so delightfully sweet and cool you can't mistake it. There's no tobacco to equal it if you want a smoke that's both mild and mellow, fragrant and full-flavored, cool and comforting.

It's fine in a pipe and it's just as fine in a cigarette. If you "roll your own" try V. C. Smoking Mixture, it weighs lighter, smokes sweeter, and lasts longer than most smoking mixtures, and gives perfect satisfaction right up to the last draw.

V. C. Smoking Mixture is on sale at all dealers.

BRITISH THEATRE.

Mrs. Ayre's songs at the above Theatre to-night will be (a) "For You Alone," (b) "Three Fishers Went Sailing." Mrs. Ayre's repertoire is large enough to keep going for months and at each appearance she gives entirely new numbers. A really good subject was that two-reel picture shown last night entitled "For the People," portraying the pit falls which are spread for the average politician. This picture exemplifies the sterling honesty of a Senator from Ohio, who really worked "for the people," and the subject is quite refreshing in those days of political chicanery. The "Trey O' Hearts" was shown in addition to the regular bill. This together with other pictures of a serio-comic nature, made up a well balanced show. Monday night see "The Heart of the Matter."

SPLENDID PROGRAMME AT THE NICKEL THEATRE.

The programme at the Nickel Theatre attracted large audiences, the theatre being well filled both afternoon and evening. The pictures were splendid; "The Exploits of Elaine" and the "Return of Maurice Donnelly" being about the finest ever shown in a local theatre. All were delighted with the entire bill. To-day it will be repeated and we strongly advise all who were unable to be present to attend. The pictures are swell and everyone should make an effort to see them.

THE YANKEE SCHOOL MARM.

Carroll and Ellor, the Irish singing and dancing act at Rossley's Theatre has a funny act to-night. Carroll as the Yankee School Mistress will be a scream. Carroll is a mountain of good nature and good humour. He will make a big change, and in one of his magnificent costumes give a refined prima donna act. The pictures are delightful; there are none better. The contest on Friday night promises to be a real dandy; wait till you see and hear some who will appear this week. The pantomime rehearsals are going ahead, and it's safe to say Rossleys need not take a back seat, when it comes to a production meant to please.

CRESCENT PICTURE PALACE.

If you did not attend the Crescent Picture Palace yesterday to hear Mr. Dehmar sing "I didn't know 'till Afterwards," go hear him to-day, its a fine comic song. The picture programme is a great one, including a two-act Kalem mining drama "The Tragedy of Bear Mountain" and Edison's feature "For the Man She Loved," with Mabel Trunnelle, is a gripping domestic drama. "The Mission of Mr. Foo" is a strong Chinese story, and "The Capitulation of the Major" is a laughable vitagraph comedy with Lillian Walker. Don't miss seeing this big mid-week show.

RAMBLING NOTES for 1915.

(L. C. MORRIS.)

CHAPTER IV.

In the height of our holiday and when we thought that we had reached the very climax of recreation, we found a still greater pleasure awaiting us, and it all came about as a reward of kindness. Kindness is never lost, and in due time it brings rich returns. Would that there were more kindness in our lives, and that our methods of business admitted of more consideration of our fellow's feelings. But modern business does not admit of this, and the result is that we are the victims of our own harshness; and in the race for dollars we forfeit many of the higher ideals of life. It is truly said of us that we are commercialized; and many of us live as if the getting of dollars were the chief end of life. What folly! what a mistake.

But to our story. The work of a nurse in our General Hospital creates many kindly feelings, and very often in after years the gratitude of the patients find practical expression. And so with our party. On the scene appeared a young man who had been a patient in the hospital for some time, and who had just then heard of the nurse being in the place; and as an expression of gratitude to them for their kindness to him, when a patient, he offered the use of his horse and carriage, and his own services as driver, for the whole afternoon and evening. The offer was of course gratefully accepted, and the evening hour found us at Holyrood.

The driver proved affable, the horse a beauty, and the carriage comfortable; while the scenery of the bay looked its best. The homesteads of Holyrood all presented a spirit of independence and thrift, and told their own tale of rural comfort. To visit a place by carriage or on foot, affords a much better opportunity of seeing its real condition, than does a passing glance from a train window. Among the few people whom we met, we noticed two young men, who were hard at work drilling holes in a boulder which lay embedded not far from the entry of their cottage. Their object was to blast the rock and thus remove the boulder from their property, and thereby improve its beauty and enhance its value.

These young men were doing exactly what I have thought that many others would do in other places, for there are some of our outport homesteads, where the big protruding stones, and the high boulders, are too much in evidence. I know a few places where the members of the family for a generation or more, have stepped over, and clambered around such rocks in going to and from their homes. One or two days' work for the men or lads of the family during the leisure season would remove those obstacles, but strange to say it has not been done. If the toil and exertion of getting around those stones for one year were computed, it would be found that in one month, there is more energy expended than would be necessary to remove the hindrances. But we don't see these things, and therefore a lot of us exhaust our strength for that which is not necessary; and in the role of life we seem to be the victims of blind force, instead of being intelligent, observant creatures.

Nor is this feature of boulders seen only near our homesteads; it is also prominent in some of our school property, and near some of our halls. There is one particular place where we happened to wander some time ago, and where much independence exists; but the grounds around the schools presented anything but an uninviting appearance. The site was quite level and spacious, but the boulders projected in such numbers as to remind one of so many bedlamer seals on a large sheet of ice. What struck us chiefly was the fact that not even a walk or avenue had ever been made to the school; but for all generations, the scholars and teachers had passed along seemingly oblivious of these obstructions.

Where lies the fault? Surely with our school boards, or with our leaders. The lads attending these schools, could by united effort, and with the use of a drill and some dynamite, under the guidance of their teacher, remove in the short space of three or four Saturday forenoons, sufficient of these boulders, to clear a roadway, or avenue, leading from the street to the school. But somehow we don't do these sort of things, and therefore we fail in reaching our higher ideals. We boast of our nineteenth and twentieth century civilization, and of our Western progress, with all these to our credit, we can still afford to learn a lesson from the monks of the middle ages, who surrounded their monasteries with foliage, and planted their grounds with flowers. They did have an eye for the beautiful, but we have not fostered such a taste. But as I have already stated, we are commercialized, and in the game of dollars and cents, we lose much of the truer end of life.

In the meantime our kind friend had landed us at Kelligrews station, but before we left him, we enquired of him where he had purchased, or if he had raised his horse. He replied that she was bought at Paradise. This of course settled it, as only such a place could produce such a horse.

Select Medicine Carefully.

Purgatives are dangerous. They gripe, cause burning pains and make the constipated condition worse. Physicians say the most ideal laxative is Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut; they are exceedingly mild, composed only of health-giving vegetable extracts. Dr. Hamilton's Pills restore activity to the bowels, strengthen the stomach, and purify the blood. For constipation, sick headache, biliousness and disordered digestion no medicine on earth makes such remarkable cures as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Try a 25c. box yourself.

Evening dresses are made with foundation of net and trimmed with bands of ribbon. The upper part of the skirt and the bodice may be ribbon trimmed.

Sergt. Marshall Writes to Mrs. England

Mrs. John England, Long's Hill, is in receipt of the following communication from Sergt. Fred Marshall, at the London Record Office, telling about her son Fred, a member of the Newfoundland Regiment, who was wounded at the Dardanelles recently:

London, Oct. 21st, 1915.

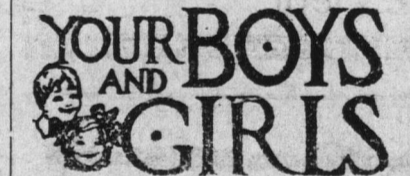

Dear Mrs. England, You will probably be surprised to know that the writer acting in the capacity of representative of the Newfoundland Regiment Pay and Record Office, had the opportunity of visiting your son, Fred, in Wandsworth No. 3 General Hospital (London) yesterday. Immediately we were notified that he had arrived there from the Dardanelles, steps were taken to ascertain the extent of his injuries, this could best be done by one of our staff visiting the hospital as previously arranged, and I was requested to perform the duty, much to my satisfaction, knowing your son personally. I found his wounds were, as previously reported through the press, "bullet wound in right knee and shrapnel wounds on left hand, which although of a severe nature did not require him to remain in bed. I discovered him after a prolonged search through seemingly endless corridors and passages, (the hospital is a very large one and has been considerably extended since the war started), calmly enjoying a cigarette, just outside the door of the ward and chatting cheerfully to other wounded soldiers belonging to one of the English Regiments. He was looking extremely well, and judging from this there is not the slightest cause for anxiety. While there I had the pleasure of meeting Mrs. Poweys Keck, sister of Lieut. Gerald Harvey, who is also a patient, and she signified her intention of visiting your son the next day. On my arrival back at the office I gave the War Contingent Association particulars of his condition and I understand that they will look after his comfort and see that he is supplied with anything that he may require. I can assure you that he will have plenty of visitors, as the Regiment is not lacking for friends in London. You will probably get further reports of his progress from the War Contingent Association, so that anything more that I may say would be superfluous. Trusting that this letter may allay any fears that you may have regarding your son's condition, I am,

Yours faithfully,
F. W. MARSHALL, Sergt.

"Cascarets" for a Cold, Bad Breath or Sick Headache

Best for liver and bowels, for biliousness, sour stomach and constipation.

Get a 10-cent box now. Furred Tongue, Bad Colds, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental tears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret to-night will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

Children who suffer with swollen gums will be greatly refreshed with fruit juice or scraped fruit. They should also be given plenty of pure cold water. A child's digestion is much more rapid than an adult's, so it is necessary that they be fed oftener and in small quantities.

At fifteen to eighteen months a child will need some such diet as to food and time as follows: At seven or eight a breakfast of a cereal, bread or toast and a cup of milk, at noon an egg, potato and one other vegetable and some scraped fruit or juice. At five or six they should have milk from a cup and some bread, and at ten a bottle or cup of milk. The child gets the right kind and all the sweets that are good for him in the fruit he eats at this age.

A public sale of cold stored cured herrings was held at Leith, near Edinburgh, Scotland, in September, which was attended by a number of American dealers. The condition of the herrings caused some surprise among those curers who had not before been favorably impressed with the value of refrigeration, it is said by refrigeration men, none of the fish in the barrels opened for inspection showed indifferent quality.

START RIGHT NOW and select your piece of Overcoating for the winter. We have just opened a splendid range of Blue Naps and nifty patterns in Tweed, with other big selections to arrive. SPURRELL BROS., 365 Water Street, "The Young Man's Tailor."—sep11, eod, tf

Submarine-Gun.

It is known that airmen can render good service in the tracing of submarines in anything like a calm sea, but even when a submarine has been thus discovered, it is still far from being a defenceless prey for the bomb-thrower, as the guns are also equipped for slanting fire. Nevertheless, it had been a great objection that in order to serve the guns when they have been brought outside the boat and set on deck, the vessel had to come entirely to the surface of the sea, thus offering a fairly large target.

The newer submarines of the Germans are, therefore, provided with a contrivance to enable them to fire even when remaining under water. This is a double advantage; they are less visible, and, owing to the layer of water which breaks the force of a bomb, fairly well protected.

The gun goes through the conning-tower by means of a bullet-proof, water-tight deck, and is then served from inside the boat. Within certain limits it can be turned in all directions, so that a circular zone above the conning-tower becomes dangerous for airmen.

A periscope, which is connected with the barrel of the gun, is got outside in the same way by means of a bullet-proof compartment. The gun can also, of course, be placed in another chamber specially built out from the boat, instead of in the conning-tower. The gun alone comes to the upper surface, whilst the gunner himself remains below and fires from under the water.

The Turkey.

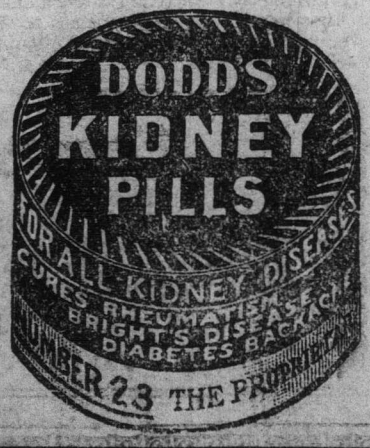

By GEORGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Sivas."
The turkey is the national bird of thankfulness. He reigns not upon coins or in our poetry, but upon our bills of fare and in our dreams.

The turkey is a large bird with pompous ways like a new-laid millionaire. He does not fly, but about the chicken yard and converses in a loud hobble-gobble which might easily be mistaken for a political speech by a contented conservative candidate. The turkey is hatched in the spring and arrives at his jullest perfection about the middle of November, about which time he becomes almost entirely extinct each year. He is made valuable and useful by the simple process of laying him on a log and removing his gobble with an axe. Why this method has never been tried on aldermen and ward politicians is an exasperating mystery. We are indeed a careless nation.

The turkey originally inhabited America in a wild state and was discovered by the Pilgrim fathers in the fall of 1630. The Pilgrim fathers already knew how to make mashed potatoes and pumpkin pies and when they discovered the turkey, they knew that the time was now ripe for a Thanksgiving celebration. The turkey has been the central figure of Thanksgiving ever since. Thanksgivings vary in fervency and good cheer with the varying price of turkey and its continual ascent during the past few years has sent a wave of pessimism over the land. Of late it has almost seemed as if no one but millionaires and inmates of prisons could afford to be truly thankful with oyster dressing on Thanksgiving Day.

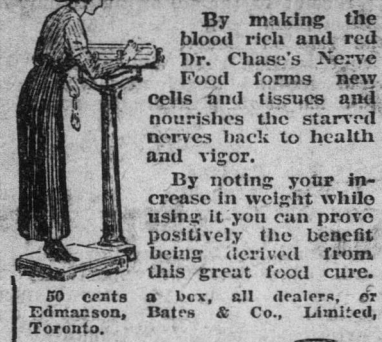

The turkey himself is partly to blame for this. He is a most capriciously unhealthy bird. Knowing that the appetite of the nation will be whetted for him in November, he takes a positive pleasure in dying in June. A young turkey is the most versatile and expert dyer on record. He will die of heat, chill, thirst, damp feet, thunder, dust and indigestion, and will sometimes die of all of them at once. Ten young turkeys can drown under a burdock leaf in a heavy dew and the man who counts his turkeys before he has ungobbed them is indeed foolish.

The patriotic turkey dies for his country on Thanksgiving Day, but unlike other patriots he comes back and insists on repeating the performance. There might properly be two Thanksgivings Days—the one on which he finally disappears from the bill of fare.

Amazing Ruses of Women Spies.

Austrian Authorities Find it Necessary to Make Them Disrobe.
Paris, November 18.—The amazing ruses by female spies attempting to cross the Austro-Swiss frontier are revealed in a despatch from Geneva to-day. The Austrian military authorities force all women travellers to disrobe, since it was discovered that military documents had been concealed beneath a porous plaster on the back of one spy. Another woman, who bore her arm in a sling, was found to be carrying a message in a small tube inserted in a wound on her arm.

All women travellers are led by female attendants into a bathroom, where they are stripped and scrubbed with hot water. Frequently this reveals very small pieces of very thin tissue paper, upon which are written military secrets. Often thin strips of tissue paper have been found stuck to women's bodies or hidden beneath cosmetics.

In M-lady's Boudoir!

It is not necessary to diet to reduce the weight. If enough oxygen is taken into the system regularly fat cannot accumulate. Relaxation is a question of controlled breathing. The nearest approach to real rest is to lie flat upon the back, on the floor or other unyielding surface, and breathe rhythmically. The exhalation must be controlled and be equal in time to the inhalation. Spread arms and legs to a comfortable angle and turn the head to one side to relieve the tension on the neck muscles.

You should then concentrate which becomes realization through repetition. Following are some of the exercises which, practised five minutes a day, will keep a woman young and lovely until four score and ten years at least:

Stand erect. Slowly extend the arms, hold them tense until a warmth is felt in the palms and tips of the fingers. Lie flat on a hard surface and stretch the arms above the head. This may be done on a couch or in bed by invalids and is especially useful for arousing the circulation.

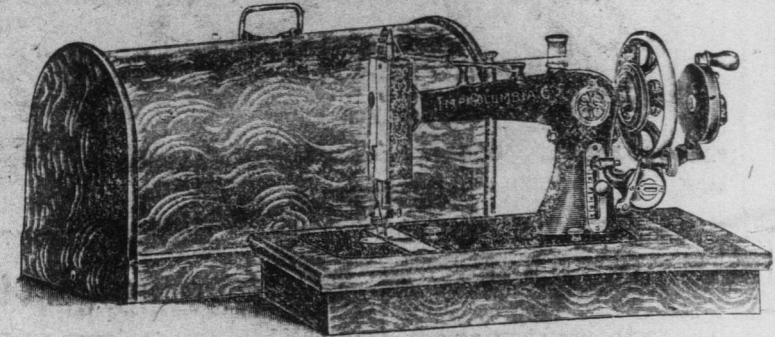

Lie flat on the back with one arm at the side and the other across the body to control rhythmic breathing and quiet the nerves, after which deep breathing becomes automatic in any position.

Stand erect with one arm outstretched, the other raised to the head. Have the mental impulse of starting to walk. This flattens the abdomen, strengthens the torso and spinal columns without conscious effort, and controls the breath. Throw the weight on the left foot, the right stretched backward, the left arm extended in front and the right extended back. In this position the whole body may be energized through breath control without muscular effort.

Control the breath; raise one knee, bend over and touch it with the chin. This is excellent for reducing thick waist lines.

Why We Live Longer.

"When Goodyear discovered the vulcanizing process of treating rubber, he started, incidentally, to the world's health. About fifty million pairs of rubber shoes and rubbers are made, sold and worn in the United States every year. When you reflect that the most fruitful cause of colds—and all the dangerous and fatal diseases that colds lead to—is a pair of wet feet, it is easy to see that this enormous use of rubber footwear must have a very marked influence on the general standard of health. When Goodyear discovered how to make rubber, human longevity took a great bound forward."—Popular Science.

THANKSGIVING.

The sun of peace serenely shines upon our fig trees and our vines, the justly famous dove that blood-tired climes are sighing for, its pinions all unstained by war, is fluttering above. Your home, perhaps, is plain and poor, but in it you may dwell secure, and rest when evening comes; no howling foes approach your door, no death to sound of drums. You milk the cow and gather eggs, and no one shoots you in the legs, or prods you with a spear; war racks in old Europe's weary strand, war stalks in almost every land, but Peace abideth here. All other pensions and boons seem cheaper than a dish of prunes, besides this mighty fact, that we have peace while other slay, and find upon our right of way no grisly dead men stacked. The groaning barns, and bursting cows, abundant crops and fertile cows, for which we render thanks, the rolls of butter we have churned, the mortgage that we lately burned, the money in the banks—all these are sordid things for which to send up anthems grand and rich, in ecstasy of praise; the dove of peace, the milk-white dove, that flutters this fair land above, 'tis that enchants our days.

Household Notes.

Keep clothing that is not being worn well dusted before it is put away, and see that it is protected from dust while it hangs in the closet.
Lemon syrup is very good for hoarseness. To make it bake a lemon for twenty minutes and then squeeze out the juice into half a cup of sugar. Both woollens and flannels require specially careful washing when they are first new; if they once become thick and harsh, they are spoiled forever.
Do not set a task for the child as soon as he comes from school. Allow him to relax, to run in the fresh air and have his freedom for an hour at least.
Keep a watchful eye on the children's school lunch; if they have good, nourishing lunches, they will be better able to stand the strain of school work.
Save all the tissue paper that comes into the house. It is excellent for drying and polishing lamp chimneys and mirrors when they are washed.
You can produce a brilliant polish on your glassware by adding a little turpentine to the washing water, about a couple of teaspoonsful to the gallon.
If potatoes are kept in a place where the light strikes them, they will turn green. If they must be in a light place, cover them with newspapers.
Sow grass seed over the bare spots in the lawn now, the winter snows will nourish the seed and it will be ready to sprout immediately with the spring.
It is a good idea to have two sets of extra strings for babies' cape; attach them by safety pins, and it is an easy matter to freshen up his majesty's bonnet.
Before putting a roast of beef in the oven, be sure that the oven is very hot; so hot that it will sear the meat quickly, else the juice will be drawn out of the meat.
Tomatoes scalloped, using macaroni instead of breadcrumbs, make a good hot dish for the winter dinner.
When difficulty is found in removing a ring from the finger, make a little cold soap, hold the finger in for a few seconds, and the ring will slip off with ease.
To facilitate the washing of pots and pans, fill each with warm water immediately after use, and when you come to empty it you will find that no scraping is required.
If a vessel of hot water has been standing on a polished wood table it will have left a white mark; to remove this, rub over with a flannel dipped in a little ammonia.
When a preserve jar doesn't open easily, set it under the hot water faucet, allowing a small stream of water to run over it, and in a few minutes the lid will unscrew with ease.
When the hands are particularly dirty it is better to use a potato for cleansing them instead of soap; this releases the dirt more quickly and softens the skin at the same time.
The best way to wash lace is to squeeze it first in hot water, then in cold. To stiffen dip it in milk. It should be pressed on a well-padded board, on the wrong side, with with a fairly hot iron.
If mats are lined with carpet they will not slip about on the polished surface of linoleum. The carpet should be cut the same size as the mats; this also prevents the corners from curling.

We Know Just How You Feel!

You need an engine for your boat and you are worried almost to death trying to decide which is the best one to buy. One fellow tells you to buy his machine because it is cheaper than others. Another firm advises you that they have been in the engine business longer than anyone else and therefore their machines are the best. Then along comes another chap with an engine which he claims is entirely new and better than anything else on the market.

NOW LISTEN.

DON'T buy an engine or any other piece of machinery because it is cheap; probably it has been made cheap.

DON'T experiment with new designs, let the other fellow do that.

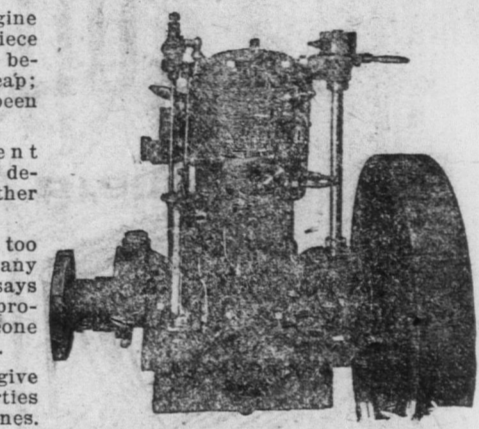

DON'T depend too much on what any manufacturer says about his own product. Ask someone who has used it.

We would like to give you names of parties using FERRO Engines.

Write for catalogue with prices and terms, also ask for list of prominent men throughout Newfoundland who are using FERRO Engines. Ask them what they think about the FERRO.

Gas and Hospitality.

The sound of motor wheels heralding the arrival of unexpected guests has no terrors for the housewife whose menage is run on up-to-date lines. While the visitors are removing the traces of travel with the hot water which a gas water-heater keeps always "on tap," a match to the gas fire makes the drawing room a place of warmth and pleasantness for their reception; and the children love to "help mother" by toasting the crumpets before the clear and smokeless glow.

The gas cooker (or the modern gas trivet by the drawing rooms gas fire) boils a kettle of water in no time, and within a quarter of an hour after their arrival the guests are enjoying a cosy chat over the cup that cheers. Should they be persuaded to stay, the invaluable cooker makes it possible, even at such short notice, for the experienced housewife, after a raid upon her emergency store cupboard, to set before them a dainty dinner of which no hostess need be ashamed. Gas means ever-ready hospitality.
