The Countess of Landon.

CHAPTER XXIX.

"No," she said, as if it were a matter of course. "Then Landon must let me help him to look after you. He has a habit of going straight after the hounds as if he were the only man in the affair. However, he is not likely to forget you," he added, with a little bow, and he continued by her side, talking to her with that devoted attention which proclaims a man's admiration.

The crowd watched them covertly. "She is what I call right down beautiful," said a man, in a low tone, to several ladies.

"Oh, yes, she is good-looking enough," assented one of them. "But who is she? All kinds of stories are going the rounds."

"It doesn't much matter," responded the man. "She's Mrs. Landon now, and the daughter-in-law of a countess, and that and her good looks will carry her through. Besides, if Rochester is going to take her up—"

He stopped and nodded significantly. My Lord Rochester had been known to raise a woman to the rank of a professional beauty with a word.

She was going to utter that word on behalf of Mrs. Landon, they wondered. Soon, like sheep following a leader, they gathered round Madge, and before the hounds found and started their fox she had quite a little court about her. They started, and Royce whispered:

"Let her have her head, as I told you, Madge."

She nodded and settled herself in her seat, and went away with Royce on one side and Lord Rochester on the other; and presently Madge understood the charm of fox-hunting. The color came to her face, her heart beat with a delicious rapidity; she felt as if she were floating on a cloud, and as they neared the first fence and she saw it rise before her, she felt no fear, but a kind of wild excitement, which rose into exultation as the mare rose and went over it like a bird.

"Your first run, did you say?" said Lord Rochester. "Were you making fun of us, Mrs. Landon?"

Madge shook her head, and laughed as she had not done for—how long? "Oh, don't talk!" she said. "It is too beautiful!"

The two men had some difficulty in keeping up with her as the run proceeded, for the hounds were going straight, and Madge, with her light weight and thorough-bred, went at racing speed.

"Take care of your wife, Landon!" said Lord Rochester, once as Madge flew over a hedge from which many of the field had turned aside.

"She will take care of herself," said Royce, proudly.

"Where did she learn to ride like that?" said Rochester, presently, as they rode after her.

Royce flushed.

"She has ridden from a girl," he said, laconically.

Rochester glanced at him.

"Any one can see that," he said, courteously. "Hail! I thought she was thrown that time. She would have been if she hadn't the pluck of the dev—I beg your pardon."

Royce laughed, and his eyes flashed.

"Thank you, old fellow," he said. "I'll tell her. It's the biggest compliment even you ever paid."

There were others as much amazed at Lord Rochester's—those few others who were in the field at which Madge was among the first. Lord Balfarras, the master of the hounds, got off his horse as the fox was killed and came up to Madge with the brush in his hand—that trophy which is so eagerly coveted by the sportsman as is the blue ribbon by the politician.

"This belongs to you, Mrs. Landon," he said, "and it was never more honestly earned. If I were your husband, I should be the proudest man in the field to-day, as he doubtless is, and the courtly old man bowed, half in hand, half in eye, very sorry you were out the other day when she called at the Towers, but we shall have the pleasure of meeting you again at the ball, I hope."

This was a long and significant speech from the old nobleman, and those who heard it exchanged glances. It meant that this girl whom Royce Landon had married, and of whose antecedents no one knew anything, was to be received into county society.

That was a happy hour in which Madge rode home between Royce and Lord Rochester, who went out of his way to accompany them. As they entered the hall, in which Irene, the countess, and Seymour were at afternoon tea, Royce, with his face flushed with pride, said:

"Mother, Madge was in at the death, and Balfarras has given her the brush."

The countess looked up at Madge as she stood with blushing face and downcast eyes, the habit splashed with mud, the brush in her hand.

"Will you have some tea?" she said, coldly.

But Irene came to her and drew her to a chair.

"I knew you would be among the first, dear," she said. "I am so glad and proud."

"I wish you had been there," said Madge in her low voice. "It is you who should have had it—not I."

Irene shook her head.

"No, no; I do not think there is any one who can ride like you, Madge. And your first run, too. Aren't you brimful of pride?"

Seymour looked from one to the other, with a half smug on his face.

"It must have seemed so strange to her!" he murmured—fortunately, for him, too low for Royce to hear. "Olympias, as a rule, I believe, trap foxes, do not hunt them."

But, though Royce did not hear the malignant sneer, Madge did, and the color fled from her face. She put down her tea-cup, and rose.

"I think I will go straight to my room," she said.

He had destroyed all her innocent pleasure.

Irene put down her cup also, and followed her.

The countess looked at Seymour. Royce had gone through the hall to see after the horses.

"How long do you intend to torture that girl?" she asked, calmly.

He smiled.

"My dear mother, isn't torture rather an exaggeration? People of that class do not feel very keenly alas! Besides, it was a harmless pleasure. Now, if I had said that she should have had too much fellow-hunting with the fox to join in the hunt—because both foxes and cypries are partial to other people's poultry—I say, if I had uttered this little epigram, which came into my mind, our charming and really interesting grey-bride might have felt a little annoyed; but I refrained."

The countess regarded him sternly.

"Sometimes I think you have no heart!" she said, sternly.

"Oh, believe me, madame," he said, with a sneer. "And, if I may ask the question, whence this newly born consideration for Royce's wife? If there has been any torture applied to her, I should decidedly say that it has been of the soothing kind. I fancy, my dear mother, that you have stung her with your icy looks far worse than I can have done."

The countess bit her lip and looked straight before her.

"What is done, is done," she said. "Spare her for the future. I make it a request."

"My dear mother, a request from you?" he said, with a sneer.

She turned upon him with a look that startled him, so intense was its scorn and haughtiness.

"It is a command!" she said, and, rising, left the hall with stow, imperial gait.

Seymour leaned back and looked after her.

"So madame is going to side with Royce's vagabond wife, is she?" he muttered. "If so, I think I can pay you back, dear mother, in your own coin. There should be some fun to be got out of Madge at the ball, and if so, I'll see it."

When Madge got up to her room, she found Marion on her knees before a couple of huge wooden boxes.

"Oh, madame, pray do not come near until I get off your riding-habit. It is dreadful to think of such mud coming near these beautiful dresses."

"Beautiful dresses!" repeated Madge, wearily.

"The ball-dresses, madame," explained Marion. "I was just unpacking them. Lady Irene's—Irene preferred to drop her courtesy title and liked to be called 'miss,' but she was as often called one as the other—"

"Lady Irene ordered her box to be sent in here, so that you might see them together."

Irene knocked at the door at Marion was getting Madge out of her habit.

"I thought it would be a good time to try these dresses on, dear, if you are not too tired," she said.

She thought it better not to refer to Seymour's cruel sarcasm.

"Very well," said Madge, indifferently. "No, I am not too tired."

"And madame has had such a hard run," said Marion, raising at Madge with affectionate admiration and respect. "Giles told me all about it, madame, and he said that it was the finest bit of riding he had ever seen—a perfect triumph, he called it, begging your pardon, madam."

Yams, some species of which are said to be as high in food value and as palatable a white potatoes, although weighing up to eight pounds, soon may be enlarging the nation's food supply. Uncle Sam's Plant Bureau has imported a number of the species from the West Indies and is experimenting with their cultivation.

These tubers give enormous yields to the acre. The bureau's experts now believe that they can be grown in California, in the Gulf States and as far North as Charleston, S.C. They are said to taste much like white potatoes.

In tropical countries they supply much of the food of millions of persons. Yams growing 100 pounds can be grown, but from three to eight pounds seems the most desirable weight.

The yams may be boiled, or baked, and a variety of dishes approximately

SHOPKEEPERS

The surest way to annoy a customer is to ask her to buy some other Soap, when she wants Sunlight Soap.

When a woman asks for Sunlight Soap, it shows that she is an intelligent woman, who wants value for her money.

When you ask such a woman to buy some other soap, it shows that you consider she doesn't know what she wants.

When you tell a sensible woman that some other soap is as good as Sunlight, she knows you are not telling the whole truth.

Naturally when she knows you are trying to fool her, she has a poor opinion of your judgment and veracity.

You cannot fool any woman regarding Sunlight Soap. Every woman knows Sunlight Soap to be purest and best.

This is why selling Sunlight Soap is the easiest thing any shopkeeper has to do. Every wise shopkeeper knows this.

Every now and then shopkeepers are asked to buy soap,—said to be as good as Sunlight Soap.

Eventually such soap has to be sold at a loss, and the loss is always made by the shopkeeper. The soap agent gets his money, the shopkeeper is the goat.

When next you are asked to buy such a soap, ask the agent,—“Will it sell as well as Sunlight Soap?”

Soap which won't sell as well as Sunlight Soap isn't as good as Sunlight, it won't pay for its keep.

Don't let any slick soap agent load you up with soap which will stick to your shelves and lose money on you.

Domestic Heroines in Our Homes

Women who lead a domestic life seem to listen to every call of duty excepting the supreme one that tells them to guard their health. As long as they can drag themselves around women continue to work. Necessity to keep on their feet all day when over-tired, or sitting in cramped positions day in and day out often brings on ailments from which women suffer tortures. For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been strengthening women and overcoming such ailments. Sickness and pain vanish under its influence and thousands of women have been benefited by it.

"Lather Gun" Does Work of a Shaving Brush

Several handfuls of shaving lather of unusually delicate texture are worked up within 30 seconds from the time a man picks up this new sanitary "lather gun." Because it obviates cup and brush, with their danger of infection, its makers claim that it is particularly valuable for barbers.

Water is poured into a side opening of the device, which contains a soap cartridge. Just enough water for one shave is admitted. A cap on the opening is replaced. Then two easy squeezes of a bulb forces out lather through a nozzle in a thick, continuous stream.

Soap cartridges of special size and shape are used. The air from the squeezed bulb drives the water about the soap and into a chamber above. Through tiny holes it enters against curved surfaces, which give it a strong whirling motion. By a series of channels the lather, then is forced six times through two fine mesh screens. These screenings achieve the delicate texture of the lather, which is applied by the hands.

Butter Churned and Worked in 30 Minutes

Butter ready to cut in blocks in 30 minutes is the feat claimed for a new combined churn and worker. The fact that no handling is necessary during the process results in greater sanitation than the usual home process.

The new machine is a wooden drum churn with one working roll and one idle roll. The drum revolves with the cream for 15 minutes, either by hand or power. The buttermilk then is drained at the bottom, and warmed water is poured in. A few revolutions wash the butter.

The churn then is thrown into low gear and in 10 minutes the butter is thoroughly worked and ready for the market. Moisture and salt are added during this last process.

Three sizes of this churn are made, with capacities varying from 12 to 40 gallons.

THE EASY ONES.

WALY MASON

Another rascal has gone to smash, a gold brick game is plain; and suckers clamor for their cash, and clamor all in vain. The fakers have been locked in jail, and justice comes to bat, but those who lost their hard-earned kale no comfort find in that. The fakers cried to every block, "We have a wondrous scheme, and we will make you rich so quick you'll think you're in a dream!" The village banker wrung his hands until he sprained his wrist, and argued with the easy bands, and begged them to desist. "Oh, fall not for the fakers' game," the weeping banker cried; "for every gilded scheme they name is sure to be a snide." The suckers laughed his words to scorn and bade him talk no more; for when men suffer to be shorn, all wisdom seems a bore. And gayly to the fakers' den they bore the bright doubloons, the piece of eight, the mark, the yen, the great and playune. And all these coins were earned in sweat, by toil that chafed the soul, and many suckers went in debt to swell the fakers' roll. One day the morning papers told a story of despair, and suckers clamored for their gold, that wasn't any where. We hear the suckers' moans and yells, their shrieks for vanished kale; the fakers are in prison cells, but what does that avail?

Advertisement Animated by a Coilspring

For twenty-five years advertising men have been seeking a practical method of animating display advertising cards used on street cars and buses.

All kinds of mechanical devices have been tried without success, until E. E. Gregory, of Louisville, Ky., who has patented four display advertisement methods, conceived the idea of suspending on a coiled spring any portion of the advertisement that it desired to animate. The jolting of the car or bus initiates the movement.

The idea now is being used on the Fifth Avenue coaches of New York City.

RECORDS BIRTH OF EACH NEW DAY.

The world's most important time-piece is the chronometer, in the Royal Observatory, at Greenwich, England. It officially records Greenwich meridian time. There the birth of each new day is recorded for the world, for there it is midnight before it is midnight anywhere else on earth.

Henceforth, this time is to be broadcast from the observatory at regular intervals. Thus English radio enthusiasts may keep their watches and clocks precisely right, ready to hail each new day at the exact moment of its birth.

What Goes up the Chimney?

Every time a ton of coal is burned in the family furnace, 17 tons of gas go up the chimney. Of these tons 16 are gases of the atmosphere. More than 12 are of nitrogen. Nearly four tons of oxygen used in burning the coal go up as carbon dioxide, sulphur dioxide, and water vapor. Most of the coal—about 1,600 pounds or so—also goes up the chimney as carbon dioxide. Less than one part in 100 forms smoke.

THIS SHOW OF THINGS.

"For an instant, perhaps, he had caught the true proportion of things and knew at last, what was worth weeping over and what was a matter for healthy mirth. It was all mirth, perhaps, this show of things Lord God had set us in. He had hoped we should see at every turn how queer it is and yet how orderly and get our comfort out of that. He had put laughter behind every door we open to welcome us."

—Alice Brown.

Does it ever come over you in a wave how strange it is that we care so much for the things we do care about? I had been in town shopping. I was very tired. I had been hunting for just the cretonne I wanted to use for some new chair covers. I wanted them to be smart, but not too smart; easy, but not too easy; and, at the same time, that since you non of those whose furniture gets hard usage—well covered. I had looked at several hundred patterns (more or less) and finally chosen one in self-defense. You know how it is.

It Seemed Fantastic.

I was reviewing my choice as I rode home on the train and thinking probably I had done the wrong thing after all, and was starting to worry about it, when I looked out of the window and saw some trees bursting into lovely green and, beside them, a billboard advertising a furniture sale. I don't know exactly what the sight of those things did to me, but suddenly there swept over me a sense of how fantastic the preoccupations of our daily life are when you get a little way off from them. I saw in retrospect the hundreds of women that had thronged the streets, all buying something, all weighing and pondering, and fretting over matters of small detail.

What Shall It Be?

The one-piece flannel dress or the two-piece—they say that the one-piece are going to be smarter, but the two-piece are more becoming. The white dotted muslin curtains or the scrim with the drawn work—of course, dotted muslin is the rage now, but they say scrim is coming in. The white buckskin shoes or the white canvas—of course the buckskin are a little more dressy, but the canvas clean better. A new suit, and make the old coat fit, or a new coat and get along without the suit—suits are terribly smart this year, but coats are awfully useful.

How can THINGS make such a difference to us? How faintly it all seems when you get a little way off from it!

After all, what is all this bother about? Is it a striving for beauty? Can it be justified on that grounds? Or is it just the wish to create envy and admiration, in others?

Does It Really Matter So Much? And why do we want people to envy and admire us? What good does it do us if they do?

Does it really matter so much whether we ride in this make of car or that?

Isn't even our preference for some people above others, our eagerness to have this one or that care about us, a little fantastic if you stop to think of it?

Not perhaps a safe way to look at life all the time, but I do think it does us a good to catch a glimpse now and then of the unreality of the real.

Labor Government

Arthur Ponsonby, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, in a reply to a parliamentary question, denies that the British Government has any idea of ceding Jamaica or any other part of its foreign possessions to the United States in connection with a settlement of the French debt, as was alleged last week by the Paris Herald. This newspaper said the Washington Government was willing to accept the cession of the French West Indian Islands in settlement of the French debt, and would pay Great Britain the amount of the French war debt in return for the cession of Jamaica.

In his reply, Mr. Ponsonby asserts, however, that the MacDonald Government has been informed that the previous government committed itself to an agreement which might involve a certain small cession of territory. He gives no idea of the nature of this cession.

CRUDE PETROLEUM IN MARCH.

Net Pipe Line and Tank Farm Stocks Increased $,639,000 Barrels. (Boston News Bureau, April 30.) WASHINGTON—Daily average production of crude petroleum in March, according to the Geological Survey, amounted to 1,919,484 barrels, increase of 727,1 barrels over February. Average daily imports amounted to 277,159, export 49,871, delivered to domestic consumers 2,011,355 barrels. As a result of March's operations, net pipe line and tank farm stocks increased 3,639,000 barrels, increase of 1,336,000 east of California, 1,835,000 in stock of imported oil.

Principal changes in rate of production in March were continued decrease in California and Wyoming, which, however, were more than offset by increases in Texas and Arkansas. Noteworthy gains are recorded in Powell Liding and Smackover fields. Daily average production of Salt Creek pool has decreased 15 p.c. since January.

During the first quarter of 1924 the United States produced 171,413,000 barrels of crude, against 156,532,000 in the first quarter of 1923, but there is nothing in sight comparable with the phenomenal yield during 1923 and present indications are production in 1924 will be considerably less than in 1923. Domestic deliveries, plus exports of crude petroleum, in the first quarter increased 39,300,000 barrels as compared with same period, 1923.

A New Run-Running Port

St. John's, Newfoundland, is about to succeed St. Pierre as the rendezvous of the run-running industry, according to an article in the Observer. "This," the London Observer says, "may seem strange to those who remember that Newfoundland decided for prohibition of alcohol some time before Canada and the United States, and that the country is still dry." The article continues: "The explanation is a perfectly simple one, however. During the past year, on August 25, in fact, the Newfoundland Parliament passed an act amending the Customs Act of the country, making it possible for goods to be stored in bonded warehouses there and transhipped without formalities. A duty was imposed, that on intoxicant liquors being 75 cents a gallon, or approximately $1.75 a case. This act, though doubtlessly passed for other reasons not particularly specified, has succeeded in making St. John's a more profitable rendezvous to the rum-running fleet than St. Pierre, and the result is a great activity in the wine and liquor commission business at the former place.

Most of the liquor landed on the North American coast is imported from the British Isles. The duty at St. Pierre on these shipments is about $3 a case. Thus by landing at St. John's a clear saving of $1.25 a case is possible. Moreover, the agents do not have to pay for storage, as the goods are kept in the Government's warehouses. This to many agents of the smugglers has seemed a direct invitation to desert St. Pierre for St. John's and they have showed no hesitation in accepting it.

How the Newfoundland Government will meet this very natural result of its legislation is not very difficult to suggest. It will doubtless consider the very appreciable addition to its revenue over compensating for its previous prohibition, its good faith toward other countries, and the temptation to do so is a strong one. It has before its eyes the illustrious example of Nassau, another British possession, which, since it came into prominence as a rum-running rendezvous, has been enabled to pay its large public debt, and to attain prosperity beyond the dreams of the most avaricious politician—Canada West India Magazine.

Sir William Coaker Recommended

At 10.30 this morning the Hon. W. R. Warren called upon His Excellency the Governor and recommended that Sir William Coaker be asked to form a ministry.

In view of the recent pronouncement by Sir William Coaker that he had decided to withdraw altogether from public life owing to his business responsibilities and the condition of his health, it is uncertain what his reply will be, but it will be awaited with lively interest.

At 10.30 this morning the Hon. W. R. Warren called upon His Excellency the Governor and recommended that Sir William Coaker be asked to form a ministry.

In any case the future promises as interesting a series of sensations as those through we have been passing during the last few days, and it would appear that we are not yet out of the wood by any means.

Many who have drawn to the side of Mr. Hickman have not been backward in disavowing allegiance to the President of the Fishermen's Union, and have tried to make it clear that there is no connection between the one and the other.

The question which is puzzling the minds of the public at present is, who will form the Opposition? It is understood that representations have been made to the Right Hon. Sir Robert Bond to re-enter public life again but that under existing circumstances he is unable to comply with the request.

To-day the public find themselves as sheep without a shepherd, and unable to decide to whom to turn to lead them into the paths of safety. Although their position is perilous, it is gratifying to know that the greatest reliance can be placed on their free and independent spirit, and anyone who dares to attempt to drive them would be well advised to count the cost of his rashness.

The Peoples' Manifesto

In public meeting assembled this seventh day of May nineteen hundred and twenty four, we solemnly and emphatically set forth the following common and universal demands of the people of His Grace without any regard for their party affiliations:—

That the past and present state of public affairs be thoroughly investigated, cleaned up and kept clean.

That all public expenses be cut to the bone and that efficient public service be instituted and maintained on sheer merit, and that the savings effected be given to the people in the form of reduced taxation.

That a positive and persistent policy of industrial employment and development be instituted forthwith resulting in the exportation of fully manufactured fish and other products and the importation of raw materials for the manufacture in our own country of the things we need providing for the people that employment which is their birthright.

That copies of this be supplied to His Excellency the Governor, the public press and the leaders of the various political parties presenting themselves for election.

That other laws and settlements be asked to take similar steps in the interest of providing sufficient work for all our men and women so that they may not be compelled to leave their own country and homes to begin life over again in a foreign land.

H. HERMAN ARCHIBALD, Chairman. VICTOR PARSONS, Secretary. Hr. Grace, May 7th, 1924.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

CHANCELLOR STANDS EAST. LONDON, May 8. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, to-day received the industrial group of the members of Parliament, mostly Conservatives, who presented their case against the repeal of duties. The Chancellor reserved his reply for Tuesday, but there was every indication that his stand was inflexible. The deputation left his office seemingly convinced he would not budge from his determination to abolish duties.

GREATEST ENEMIES OF PEACE ARE PACIFISTS. LONDON, May 8. There was a great deal of talk about armaments and limitation of armaments in the House of Commons to-day when the Navy estimates were being considered. The Singapore base project bobbed up again in the discussion, and there were expressions of pleasure that the United States Congress had given consideration to further conference on armament limitation. The Admiralty's subsidy of ninety thousand pounds a year to the Cunard Company in respect to the Mauretania was also mentioned. Parliamentary Secretary C. M. Ammon explained that it still had some years to run, but that he had made inquiry as to the acceptance of a smaller sum by the Company. Lady Astor declared the world was not ready for peace, saying people who talk most about it are of the most quarrelsome. The worst thing in the world you could have at this moment would be a total disarmament. The greatest enemies of peace are the pacifists.

DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS ESTABLISHED. WASHINGTON, May 8. The establishment of diplomatic relations between the Republic of Panama and Columbia is announced. Official relations between the two Republics has not existed since Panama acquired its independence in 1902.

AN EXCHANGE SUGGESTED. BELFAST, May 8. Premier Craig of Ulster yesterday told the County Down Orangemen, of whom he is Grand Master, that as President Cosgrove of the Irish Free State did not want unwilling citizens in either of the Irish areas he was quite willing to swap the Catholics who wished Free State rule for Protestants in Monaghan, Cavan, and Donegal, who wanted to join with their old Ulster friends. He promised the latter his heartiest welcome.

A GHASTLY CRIME FOR 80 PIECES OF SILVER. WINNIPEG, May 8. After being bound, gagged and assaulted, Mrs. Kate Synchysyn, aged 41, was murdered at her home in the north end of this city yesterday. The body was found by her young son when he returned from school. Two men who were seen in the vicinity of the house during the afternoon have been arrested. The police announced that the house had been ransacked from cellar to attic in a search for money, of which a small sum was obtained and is said to be only $30.

PEPPYS BEHIND THE SCENES. May 8th.—A fair, warm day, but much dust, which causes me to suffer many spasms of sneezing, to my great discontent. All the news to-day of Mr. Warren, his resignation, and everywhere the greatest consternation, and no knowing what will happen. But soon comes news of Sir R. Bond, that the Governor will ask him to form a Cabinet, which, if Sir Robert will consent to do, will give the greatest joy to all the country. Mr. H. Gear that was one of Bond's first friends, is gone to Whitebourne, and expected back at noon to-morrow with Sir Robert's answer. Talking with Harris in the evening, he talks of politics, and says he will use his influence for a Woman's Government, seeing how even a Cabal of new born babies could do us no more injury than is like to be done us if things but continue as they are.

WRECKED THE NONPAREIL, HAD WONDERFUL RING COURAGE.

Wrecked Johnny Reagan in 45 Rounds on Long Island With Leg Badly Gashed by Spike in Shoe.

(By JAMES J. CORBETT)

In the matter of ring courage I think it is the entire history of the sport there was ever a more wonderful display than that of Jack Dempsey when he fought fifty-five rounds without suffering a single defeat. He was matched to meet Johnny Reagan in a finish battle for a $2,000 prize but bare knuckles. London prize rules to govern. Inasmuch as Dempsey was world middleweight champion at the time, the title was at stake.

The original idea was to put the fight on in Nevada. Police opposition on it developed and so the fight went by way to a little place called Long Island. The rings, was stretched on the seashore.

Reagan entered the ring with a vicious spike under the great toe of each shoe, instead of under the ball of the foot, as the rules permitted. Dempsey's seconds protested. Reagan refused to remove them, saying he would withdraw from the fight rather than make the change. The referee finally decided in favor of Reagan but cautioned him against use of the spikes.

Reagan Uses Spikes.

Reagan rushed at Dempsey with the full force of his weight. He landed a right hand on Dempsey's leg. Then he leaped again and landed his foot on Dempsey's leg, below the knee, and ripped a six-inch gash one inch deep—a ghastly cut. Jack caught Reagan on the head with a right hander and Reagan went down on his back. The fight was over, as in those days a fight was over as soon as one of the fighters was gushing in torrents from Dempsey's leg and covered the wound where he stood. Jack, tottering and pale as a ghost, had to be led to his corner. Dempsey's seconds demanded the fight on the grounds that Reagan had twice fouled.

The referee refused to grant Reagan's demand. The fight was continued. Reagan was in a terrible way. He tried to stop the flow of blood where it spurted out in a constant stream. His seconds wanted him to stop. But when time was called for the second round, Dempsey immediately walked to the center of the ring and resumed fighting.

Reagan continued his rushing tactics. Reagan purposely fell into Dempsey's arms, throwing all his weight on Dempsey. He roused Jack in every possible way, using every conceivable trick. But his efforts were unavailing. Jack fought on—and on—and on—until the fourth round more trouble was added to those of Dempsey. The incoming tide had flooded the beach, forcing the fighters to bathe in the icy waters up to their shoes. Soon the water was up to their knees. At the end of the eighth it was deep—and carrying with it the chill. The referee then called the fight off, and with several spectators, and another ring on dry ground.

Sublime Gamesmanship.

When the contest resumed, Reagan attempted to rush the crippled, weary Dempsey. But Jack, using his wonderful brain, and his amazing cleverness, was able to get out of the way of Reagan's terrific swings. The gamesmanship of the "Nonpareil" was sublime. In that fight Dempsey displayed courage that can never be forgotten. The "saw-die" spirit ruled him, and, although faced by disheartening odds, he fought on—and on.

In thirty-five rounds Reagan fought aggressively. Then, wearied by his own efforts, he was forced to back on the defensive. Whereupon Jack Dempsey started his remarkable rally. Jabbing, hooking, he wore down Reagan with his solid smashes to the face. The fight came in the forty-fifth round.

Reagan called for the call of time in the forty-fifth round. Reagan was met with a right hander to the face. Dempsey followed with another right to the face. Reagan clinched. Then Dempsey threw him to the ground.

More, whereupon Reagan's seconds jumped into the ring and yelled:

"The preliminary hearing into the charge of obtaining money under false pretense, preferred against W. F. O'Reilly, concluded yesterday evening before Judge Morris. The accused was committed to the Supreme Court for trial. Bail was renewed."

Sent to Supreme Court for Trial

The preliminary hearing into the charge of obtaining money under false pretense, preferred against W. F. O'Reilly, concluded yesterday evening before Judge Morris. The accused was committed to the Supreme Court for trial. Bail was renewed.

J. P. MORGAN MAINTAINS DISCREET SILENCE.

NEW YORK, May 8. Wall Street reports that J. P. Morgan was returning from Europe with the $100,000,000 German reparations loan contract in his pocket. He was neither affirmed nor denied by the financiers when he arrived to-day on the "Homer." The financiers discussed at length the subject with which his name has been prominently linked since the Dawes Committee recommended an Allied loan of $2,000,000,000 as the foundation of the reparations plan.

PADDOCK COVERS 100 YARDS IN RECORD TIME.

Beats Gun, So Mark of 6.00 % Unofficial; Defeats Rivals by 5 Yards. DES MOINES, Iowa, April 25.—(By the Associated Press)—Charlie Paddock, of Pasadena, Calif., the world's fastest sprinter, to-day convinced his admirers he is ready to uphold the honors of America in the Olympic games when, in a downpour of rain, he ran an exhibition 100 yards in the unofficial time of 0.09 6-10, equalling the world's record, as the headline attraction of the Drake relays.

The famous California athlete, competing in a race for the first time in two years, beat the gun by a fraction of a second at the start, but the form he displayed in the judgment of track experts dispelled whatever doubt might have existed concerning his speed after a two-year lay-off. Paddock wanted to run the race over, when announcement was made that he had beaten the gun, but the condition of the track, with rain still drenching it, was such that he was prevailed upon to wait until to-morrow.

Paddock covered against a trio of freshmen—Phelps and Everingham, of the University of Iowa, and Phillips, of Butler—beating them to the tape by at least five yards.

FIRPO AT LAST DISCOVERS HIS OWN LEFT HAND.

Luis Firpo was a very happy man after his victory over Farmer Lodge. All his joy did not come from that cause, but, Luis says, "I have discovered a left hand!" He recalled how he flattened Lodge with a portside slam in the first round and also again in the fifth, and, receiving the shouts of his country, declared: "Now I find I have a usable left hand, and with a left hand of that kind I can beat Jack Dempsey."

Perhaps he figures he can accomplish the feat, but we'll say for the champion he hasn't missed any meals as yet or been disturbed by bad dreams in his slumbers because of the portside weapon which the "Wild Bull" has discovered among his assets. Firpo is well aware Dempsey has a left to be reckoned with, for it was the champion's left which sunk about three inches in the midsection of the "Wild Bull" torso and made him grunt so it was audible to all those seated near the ring. That proved the finish of Firpo—darkness prevailed then and there.

GERMAN WANTS DEMPSEY FIGHT.

PARIS, April 25.—The German fight manager Wolf has offered Jack Dempsey a purse of $150,000, with $5,000 for travelling expenses to fight Georges Carpentier in Berlin, says "L'Auto." The promoter has a stadium available for the fight with a capacity of 70,000 persons.

TOP OF THE AIR—SPRING
RADIO—AUTOMOBILES

devotes a lot of attention to these days. Now that radio con- are drifting through the air for a day and modern Magellans are taking the air to circumnavigate the globe in flying machines, the importance of the atmosphere has never been so clearly demonstrated as it is today. It is in the days when it is almost exclusively for the purpose of communication. And in view of the fact that it has achieved, it is a fact that science has discovered that apparently more air surrounds the earth than ever has been known.

Two weeks ago the Abbe Moreaux, a French astronomer, announced that scientific tests seemed to indicate that the atmosphere extended to 100 miles beyond the earth's surface. This is more than five times as far as science previously had estimated the atmosphere's height. Of course, the atmosphere in its lower regions scarcely resembles the air we breathe. Up to about 10 miles, according to the Abbe Moreaux, is the air we know, composed of oxygen, nitrogen, carbon dioxide and a few rare gases, with the oxygen diminishing, as the altitude increases. Mountain-climbers have found the 10-mile point, to a height of 60 miles, nitrogen is the dominating constituent of the atmosphere. This region has no clouds nor winds. This statement is the recent discovery of a layer beyond the atmosphere.

Professor Vegard, of Norway, in this layer, extending to 100 miles, is another layer, most common, according to the French astronomer. At this point science had believed the atmosphere to be a uniform layer. But, according to the Abbe Moreaux, still another dense layer of oxygen composition stretches more than 100 miles.

The apparent existence of this upper atmospheric stratum was demonstrated by ingenious observation of aurora borealis. Simultaneous examinations of more than 600 photographs taken at different points and subsequent graphic calculation indicated that the aurora extended its electrical manifestations 540 miles above the earth. It was assumed that these aurora could not display themselves in empty space, and it was concluded in consequence that there was some sort of atmosphere 540 miles or more away.

Science and "Spring Fever." This is the time of year when you will be able to do your best work. Early enough, though, this also is the time of the year when you are likely to have a mental breakparadoxical statements were made in the American Meteorological journal recently by Dr. Frank P. Norbury reporting the results of an investigation into the relation between aurora and physical efficiency. In the spring and early summer, Doctor Norbury asserts man is stimulated activity, and consequently works under the prodding of his new energy, he is likely to work so hard, though that he'll become exhausted. Then, if he has a natural tendency to mental disorders, color will come. Man is more closely related to nature, and particularly to the weather than he ever has been, declares Doctor Norbury.

New Gasoline Substitutes. It will be a long time, American automobile engineers assert, before substitutes in the United States will be generally any fuel besides gasoline. This is because gasoline is plentiful here and because the American engine has been developed for efficiency. In other countries, where gasoline is obtained neither so cheaply nor so conveniently, and this is the activity of foreign engineers is experimenting with other fuels.

Sweden, for example, a native-born run by alcohol is said to have given remarkable performances. The reason for this is that the gasoline used in Sweden comes from America, and is expensive. In Sweden, virtually all cars there are alcohol. Therefore the alcohol-vehicle naturally aroused interest among those who had been unable to afford a car. Government restrictions probably have a time for the growth of the alcohol industry in Sweden, for Sweden has placed the manufacture and distribution of potables under strict control. Hence, the solution of the problem is through the development of a method of producing alcohol by the chemical process of carbon monoxide and hydrogen. This revolutionary process is capable of providing alcohol in quantities for little

Britain Regaining Her Holdings Abroad

The foreign investments of the people of the British Isles at the present time are estimated at around $17,000,000,000, a reduction of about $3,000,000,000 from the estimated hold-ings of the British people just before the war, according to a study of this question just completed by the re-search department of the Bankers Trust Company of New York. As the sales of foreign investments to assist in financing the war approxi-mated $5,000,000,000, this indicates a recovery of something like $2,000,000,000 in foreign holdings since the close of the war. The geographical dis-tribution of England's external in-vestments is estimated roughly by the Bankers Trust Company to be about one-half with her Dominions and one-half in foreign countries. Prior to the war their foreign invest-ments yielded the British people an income of approximately $1,000,000,000. The income from this source in 1923 was around $730,000,000.

The only one of the British Domains holding any substantial amount of foreign investments is the Domi-nion of Canada. In accordance with the accepted British policy of win-ning foreign trade by financing the buyer, at the close of 1923 Canadian banks were loaning to the residents of foreign countries in the neighbor-hood of $350,000,000. Direct foreign investments, other than bank loans, aggregated in 1921 over $40,000,000. Such investments at the present time are somewhat less than this amount.

Lumber for a Small House in One Log

Nearly enough lumber for a small bungalow—$500 board feet—is in a ponderous cut from the body of a California mountain giant. High in the Sierras, where stretch some of the world's richest timber re-serves, the great tree was felled by lumberjacks with crosscut saws, toppling at the last urge of wedges and crashing with a roar audible across the valley. Oraculous power saws bit it into sections in no more time than was required for the single falling cut. A truck is shown bearing the huge log to the mill, where sawyers on sliding platforms fashion it into re-quired sizes and shapes.

Power of Tides Used to Move Old Bridge

The slow, mighty strength of tides was employed uniquely recently when it was made to lift an old railroad bridge on San Francisco Bay and tow it nearly a mile down the bay. The structure was moved in its en-tirety in less than a day, without the slightest damage. Shortly after midnight, at low tide, several hundred men fell quickly to work. A number of barges were floated under the bridge. Toward dawn, the rising tide lifted the pon-derous structure from its concrete bulkheads and bore it down the bay.

Marine Pests Bore Into Creosoted Piling

Wood in general, and valuable pil-ing along waterfronts in particular, are the favorite delicacies of these destructive wood-boring marine pests scientifically called "Limnoria." Against them the resources of the United States Forest Service's For-est Products Laboratory are being marshalled.

Those tiny creatures, the largest never more than a quarter of an inch long, are a serious pest on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. Con-ting in contact with piling thro' the chance of tide or drift, and lodging in a crevice or on the surface, they eat away the soft wood, leaving the re-mainder in riblike ridges. After a time a pile may snap in two. Limnoria are harder to combat than are other marine pests with a taste for wood, because they will gnaw into wood impregnated with creosote.

Output of Pig-Iron in Great Britain

The British production of pig-iron during February last totalled 612,700 tons as against 538,500 in January and 543,400 tons in February 1923, accord-ing to advices received by the Bank-ers Trust Company of New York from the British Information Service. This total production included: 184,400 tons of hematite, 215,500 " " basic, 137,500 " " foundry, 33,300 " " forge pig-iron.

The output of steel ingots and castings during February also amounted to 767,500 tons as compared with 694,300 tons in January and 707,100 tons in February, 1923. There were 202 blast-furnaces in operation in Great Britain at the end of Febru-ary, as against 197 at the end of January and 204 at the beginning of the year.

dealings and conduct towards others. It was not to be put on as a cloak at meetings and thrown off when they went outside. They must be Rotarians every day and everywhere, in their homes, at business, or at play.

After a passing reference to several domestic matters, the President said that, although he had confined his address practically to the doings of their own Club, he did not wish them to think he was narrow. Nor did he wish them to lose sight of the wider view, for they were not merely a local body, they were only one of 1600 Clubs spread over almost every country of the civilized world, bringing together in close fellowship something like 100,000 men. Rotary was a world power with no politics, and no policy excepting the betterment of mankind. In conclusion, he would just say that it was a comparatively easy thing for them to give words, money, or advice, but how difficult to give time and real service. Yet the measure in which they gave these two things was the test of their Rotarianism. (Applause.)

On the call of Past President A.W. Fisher, the members gave a most cordial vote of thanks to their leader for his stimulating and practical address.—Perth Advertiser.

Don't Say— "Just a Sore Throat"

IN a few days, you know, "just a sore throat" may be something much more serious. For science has proved that the throat is not only the first spot reached by infectious germs, but also forms the ideal soil for them to multiply on.

Throat protection, therefore, means germ destruction and is a duty that you owe your health. It is easily achieved by the regular use of Formamint—the germ-killing throat tablet.

Formamint (which is endorsed by over 5,000 American physicians) is the scientific way of disinfecting the mouth and the throat. Handy to have with you—pleasing in taste—it frees an efficient germicide that mixes with the saliva and so reaches where gargles cannot go.

And a tablet taken occasionally during the day not only brings grateful and immediate relief from "sore throat"—but affords protection against even more distressing ailments that so often follow infection of the throat linings. At all druggists.

STAFFORD'S Sarsaparilla Blood Purifier

Skin Diseases, Anemia, Lack of Blood, Paleness, Impure Blood, Lack of Ambition and Vigor, Debility, Weakness, Tired Feeling, Boils, Pimples, etc.

THERE is no Remedy of more universal application than a genuine true-and-tried Blood Purifier and Blood Builder. A medicinal preparation that will truly purify, revitalize and renew the blood, restores hope and pleasure, ambition and happiness, vigor and vitality. It is of inestimable value not only as a strengthener of the system, fortifying it against invasion of disease, but also as a cure for Chronic Diseases which depend upon an impoverished condition of the blood. Diseases of this nature are usually caused by impurities in the blood deposited through the inactivity of the Liver and Kidneys.

These secretions if not removed from the circulation, gradually form poisons which deteriorate the condition of the blood and allow other diseases to obtain a more ready entrance to the system. In the effort of nature to throw off these impurities, frequently pimples, boils, carbuncles, etc., appear, and it is wise to respond promptly to the Warning of Nature.

THIS SARSAPARILLA is a genuine preparation scientifically prepared from the best and purest remedies for the purifying and rebuilding of the blood. It should be taken every spring, as at this season the blood is more apt to become impure and impoverished. Keep your blood in perfect condition and you will be prepared to fight life's battles with greater success.

One Bottle of this Blood Purifier is all that you will need to take to produce results.

Municipal Council

WEEKLY MEETING.
The regular weekly meeting of the Council was held yesterday afternoon. Mayor Cook presided and Councillors Martin, Outerbridge, Vinicombe, Coillier, Ryan and Dowden were present. The annual preliminary business being disposed of, the following matters were given attention by the Board:

The residents of Blatch Avenue called attention to the fact that the road bed in this locality badly needed attention, and also requested the placing of lights, surface drains, and other improvements. The several matters mentioned will be given consideration.

Protests were received from the residents of King's Road with regard to a stable recently erected there. They stated that the rules and regulations governing stables were not being complied with. It was decided that the Department of Public Works be asked to inquire into the matter.

Applications were read from James Billard for position of driver of the motor truck; and Messrs. Clance and T. Bann for the position of Instructor of the Swimming Pool, Long Pond. Same were ordered placed on file.

W. R. Chancey called attention to the fact that some time ago he was notified re expropriation of his land, Landscott's Lane. This will be enquired into by the Secretary and City Engineer.

Messrs. Ryan and Collingwood, residents of Barnes' Road, asked that concrete curb and gutter be placed along frontages of their respective dwellings, they being prepared to pay proportion of the cost for this improvement. The request will be accorded to.

Mr. Jos. Nugent applied for permission to install gasoline tank, on Queen's Street. The opinion of the Inspector General and City Engineer must be obtained before application can be given consideration.

It was brought to the notice of the Board that an old dwelling East of Devon Row was in a very dilapidated state and unfit for human habitation. The attention of the Medical authorities is to be called to same.

Plans submitted by the following were passed, subject to the approval of the City Engineer:—
Extensions:—D. Cohen, Springdale Street; C. A. Hubley, Hill of Chips; C. Day, Field Street; J. Mackay, Quill Vidi Road; J. Newhook, Field Street.

Plans submitted by J. Bustin to erect bungalow, Howley Avenue, was ordered to stand over, there being no water or sewerage available in the locality referred to.

The plans submitted by Mr. J. J. Duff, for improvements and alterations to Theatre, at the George Street side, was also deferred, until the Inspector General has an opportunity to place his views with regard to same before the Council.

The tender of Mr. William Brennan, to supply horses for the Sanitary Department, was accepted.

The Medical Officer of Health reported ten new cases of Scarlet Fever and two of Diphtheria in the city during the past week.

Reports of the City Engineer, Sanitary Supervisor and other departmental heads were tabled.

Matters in connection with the repairing and lining of streets were talked over, and the arrangements made for the present season's work.

The weekly accounts were presented and ordered paid. The meeting then adjourned.

Rod and Gun
The first part of an actual timber surveying trip in Northern Ontario is given in the May issue of Rod and Gun in Canada by T. A. Higgins, dealing with every phase of the work, while G. P. Sinden has a good story on a novel canoe trip in May with the snow still on the ground. "Rushed by a Grizzly" is an exciting account of a perilous adventure by John Cook, and Mark G. McElhinney gives an interesting description of his trip to beautiful Bant Park. The sneaking wildcat along the Clyde River, Nova Scotia, give Bonnycastle Dale subject matter for a well written article, while "A Wild Goose Chase in Newfoundland" by E. Gallop is an unusual and well told story. H. W. Fry continues his series on shooting from the six point rest, and F. C. Ness has a practical article on making small game and targets on the "go" easy, for shooters. The daring adventure of Captain Douder's men who went after timber wolves in the north in winter makes fascinating reading, and all the regular departments are well stocked with interest in preparation for the coming season. The May number of Rod and Gun in Canada contains some phase of practically every sportsman's interests.

Household Notes.

Trains Dispatched by Wireless and Locomotives are Nickel Plated

HENRY FORD HAS MADE THE D. T. AND I. RAILWAY A PAYING INVESTMENT—WAGES HIGHER, FREIGHTS LOWER.

DETROIT, Mich., May 8.—In the less than four years Henry Ford has run the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railroad, he has—

1. Converted a net operating loss of more than $2,000,000 in 1920 to a net operating profit in 1923 of $1,000,000.
2. Distributed dividends last month at an annual rate of 12 per cent. to employees and other investors, for the first time in the railroad's history.
3. Installed a wireless dispatching service along the line, which in a few months is expected to handle 2000 messages in an average eight-hour day.
4. Decreased the amount of personal injury claims more than half and employees' casualties to one last year.
5. More than doubled the volume of traffic over the entire road.

Mr. Ford is continuing to spend millions of dollars in his efforts to make the D. T. & I. the most efficient shore line in the country.

He has cleaned up the entire system of 465 miles from Detroit to Ironton, O., modernized the roadbed, rebuilding the structures connected with the road, making short cuts, building new bridges, renewing and polishing up the locomotives and adding thousands of freight cars and other new equipment.

Raises Pay.
Ford is encouraging his employees to invest in the road—and it's a paying proposition.

He has stopped operations on Sundays.

He has nickel plated the locomotives and furnished comfortable seats for the engineers.

He is open to all sorts of suggestions from his help.

He has raised pay and lowered freight rates.

Ford runs his road on the open shop plan, although most of the train and workers are members of the railroad brotherhood. He pays his men considerably higher than the scale, but they are compelled to work out their allotted day's time regardless of what their regular assignment might be, say railroad brotherhood officials.

"When the D. T. & I. Railroad was taken over," comments E. G. Lisle, Ford's secretary and member of the road's board of directors, "it was a discouraging financial prospect, and had behind it no less than 28 unsuccessful reorganizations."

Ford has two pet dreams, one of which has already begun to materialize. They are:

1. Double tracking.
2. Electrification.

Double Tracking Line.
The entire road was single track when Ford bought it in July, 1920. Now he has a double line running between his River Rouge plant, just outside Detroit, and Flat Rock, Mich., 13.8 miles further south. It was the first short cut he had made on the road, eliminating considerable switching of cars from one road to another and producing faster service.

On this same stretch of road, Ford plans to experiment with electric locomotives. Generators are already being built in the River Rouge plant. The water power is ready at Flat Rock. All he needs are the electric locomotives and the power lines. These he expects to have installed by May, according to latest plans.

Whether Ford will go through with both these dreams, for the entire system, is a question no one here would essay to answer. Every one shakes his head dubiously.

And Ford remains silent.

Invisible Mirrors Reveal Secrets of Nature

All about us, everywhere, are countless numbers of hidden mirrors; some are invisible to the unaided eye; others are larger than our earth, and still others are so small as to be ordinarily invisible through high-power microscopes.

All these mirrors become visible by reflected light. In an evenly illuminated room, one sees nothing in the air; but if this same room is darkened and a ray of sunlight shines across the room, a cloud of dust particles is visible in the beam of light. These dust particles act as miniature mirrors and reflect light.

The moon and the planets are visible to us only when they reflect light shining on them from our sun. Scientists use this principle in examination of the most minute particles and microorganisms, which ordinarily are invisible through the microscope. Objects are placed on a black background and illuminated from the side. Submicroscopic particles are then seen brilliantly lighted against the dark surface, because they reflect the side rays of light to the eye.

Just Folks.

By EDGAR A GUEST

ENVE
My boy, when malice starts to sneer
And envy would be worth defiance,
Look back upon that earlier year
When that was none to praise or blame.
Be not discouraged or dismayed
Because if you some shafts are thrown—
The critic never draws his blade
Against the toiler who's unknown.
The bitter tongues have naught to say
Against the man who never tries:
They keep their ridicule to slay
The form that has begun to rise.
When men you never heard of start
Belittling what you've tried to do,
Be not discouraged, but take heart!
At least you know they've heard of you.
Look back upon the silent years,
Then hear the scoldings with a smile
None draws the malice and the sneers
Except the man who is worth while.
So when the voice of envy shrieks
And malice cries your faults aloud,
Remember that the man who speaks
Has seen your head above the crowd.

Harbour Grace Notes.

The marriage of Miss Victoria Parsons, daughter of Mr. Samuel Parsons, of Hr. Grace South, and Mr. Josiah Drover, of Bishop's Cove, was solemnized at the Methodist Church on the South Side, on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Harris officiating. Mrs. Leonard Parsons acted as bridesmaid, while Mr. Allan Parsons performed the duties of best man, the Wedding March being played by Miss Bertha Parsons. The church was crowded with friends and well-wishers, and after the nuptial knot had been tied, the happy couple drove to their home at Bishop's Cove. We join with their friends in wishing Mr. & Mrs. Drover many years of happiness.

Rev. Dr. Power of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, St. John's, came to town on Thursday last and returned to the city again by the following morning's train.

Mr. Graham Parsons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Parsons, left by Tuesday's express en route to Toronto, Ont., where he will in future reside. Graham's many friends wish him the best of luck amidst his new surroundings.

To conform with the Daylight Saving's Act, the clocks here were put on one hour on Sunday night last.

Capt. Jas. Power, accompanied by Mrs. Power, who have been spending the winter months at Port Union with their daughter, Mrs. Rideout, returned to town again on Monday of last week.

Mr. Lloyd Hyrst, of the Western Union Cable Staff, Bay Roberts, spent the week-end here with friends.

The death of Mr. Denis O'Neil, son of Mr. Arthur O'Neil, of Riverhead, took place at Corner Brook on Sunday, April 27th. The deceased was about 20 years of age and had been working at Corner Brook. The remains were brought here on Thursday afternoon last, and the funeral took place on Friday and was very largely attended. Interment was made in the R.C. Cemetery, Rev. Fr. O'Mall conducting the service. We extend our sympathy to the sorrowing parents and relatives.

Mr. David Duff, B.Sc., left town last week for St. John's, and will shortly resume work with the Reid Mfd. Survey.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Parsons and daughter, Miss Violet, were passengers by Tuesday's train en route to Montreal to join their children, who have been residing there for over a year.

Mr. L. Noseworthy, of Spaniard's Bay, had his schooner "Gladstone" docked here within the last week.

Mr. Thos. Davis, who had been employed at Strapp's Pharmacy for some time past, left here on Tuesday for Sydney, N.S. He takes with him the best wishes of his many friends here.

Fresh salmon has put in its appearance during the last few days. The small quantity offering has been sold at 25 and 30c. per lb. and found ready purchasers.—COR.

New Garden Tool

PERFORMS THREE OPERATIONS.
A weeder, a mulcher, and cultivator are combined in a new hand-pushed garden implement resembling a lawnmower in appearance and operation. Its triple function and the rapidity with which it works are said to lessen labor greatly.
Eight blades, set in revolving reel heads, revolve against a stationary knife. This knife, slightly behind the blades, travels just below the surface of the soil, cutting the weeds at their roots. The revolving blades destroy
