REVIVAL OF BOARD OF TRADE

New Officers Elected for 1911.—New Members Admitted.—Old Home Week Suggestion and Other Matters of Interest Discussed.

As advertised in the last issue of the Monitor-Sentinel a meeting of the Board of Trade was held in the Town Hall on Monday evening 13th inst. A number of citizens were aroused to the conviction that the time had arrived to reconstitute that institution, which had once had an important influence in shaping the conduct of affairs for this community but for many years had been inactive and dormant. For this purpose the meeting was called. The number of active and enterprising citizens that responded to the call was very gratifying and augured well for the future usefulness of the Board.

In the absence of the President and Vice-President, Mr. J. E. Lloyd was invited to take the chair. The following new names were then proposed and elected as members of the Board:—
E. A. Hicks, J. K. Craig, A. L. Beeler, George Laska, J. W. Peters, A. C. Charlton, Henry B. Hicks, H. L. Bentley, Dr. F. S. Anderson, J. W. Salter, W. R. Longmire, John H. Hicks, Edgar Dent.

From these new members, as well as from a number of old members present annual fees were then collected. The old members extended a warm welcome to the new members and it was felt that a good spirit of public sentiment was likely to be fostered by this combination of forces, and that important results bearing on the progress of the town might be expected to follow.

Patrolling Railways to Protect Woods From Fire

Matter Said to be Under Consideration of Dominion Railway Board
Toronto, Feb. 9.—Is the Dominion Railway Board going to put into force regulations requiring the patrolling of all railway lines in the Dominion as a protection for the forests against fire?
It is understood that the matter is receiving serious consideration at present as a result of action taken by the Government of British Columbia. The western province, anxious about the preservation of its great forests from fire said to have asked the Dominion Railway Board to take steps with regard to securing patrolling of the railway lines.

The system used in patrolling the Trans-Canada and Northern Ontario Railway, by a light three wheeled hand car, easily operated by one man, but with seating room for two, was referred to.
The board communicated with Chairman Englehart, of the Government road, and secured information concerning the method used in this north.

The election of officers for the ensuing year then took place as follows:—
President:—J. E. Lloyd
Vice-President:—J. W. Salter
Secy. Treas:—H. B. Hicks
The President then addressed the Board on the objects and aims of a Board of Trade, and prophesied that Bridgetown would benefit by this marshalling and amalgamating of the interests of her citizens. Topics of interest to the Town were discussed by John Irvin, K. C. Dr. M. E. Armstrong, John H. Hicks, J. W. Salter, F. R. Fay and others.

On motion it was resolved that the Board of Trade invite the Fruit Growers' Association to meet in Bridgetown in their next annual session.
The question of holding an "Old Home Week" this summer, as suggested by the Monitor-Sentinel a few weeks since, was then discussed and a committee, consisting of Dr. Armstrong, H. L. Bentley and J. W. Salter, was appointed to obtain information and report at next meeting. The meeting then adjourned to meet Monday evening 27th inst. in the Town Hall.

To Tax Autos for Benefit of Highways

Quebec, Feb. 8.—In the Legislature the Provincial Treasurer gave notice of a bill providing for the taxation of autos according to their rated horsepower. The revenue derived from this is to be handed over to the Department of Agriculture to be applied to the improvement of highways, in accordance with the provisions of a bill, which was also introduced by which the Government agrees to supplement the expenditure made by municipalities in the improvement of highways. The auto law contains provisions for a reciprocal agreement between Provinces of the Dominion and the United States for registration of the vehicles of non-residents. Fines collected for infractions of the law are to be given to the prosecuting Municipality.

GENERAL CRONJE DEAD
Gep. Piet A. Cronje, the noted Boer general, who was captured by the Canadian regiment at Paardeburg in 1900, died Saturday, 4th inst.

Organ Recital at Methodist Church

The Organ Recital in Providence Methodist Church on Wednesday evening last, drew a good audience, that highly appreciated every portion of the varied program.
Prof. A. Roy Williams of Yarmouth who gave the instrumental parts of the program is not a stranger to the music loving people of Bridgetown. He has on two former occasions favored us in this way and it is safe to say an audience was never more delighted than with his seven selections on this occasion and had no cores been permissible Mr. Williams would have been compelled to give a full evening for his portion of the program. The selections were particularly adapted to bring out the rich and mellow tones of the large organ. The vocal part of the program was given by the choir, who had been carefully trained by Rev. Mr. Porter, the pastor, and were assisted by Miss Beatrice Young, whose solo was rendered in good voice and with much expression. The duet by Miss Dearness and Mr. F. E. Beckwith was also most favorably received, their voices blending very nicely with the organ accompaniment. The anthems and choruses by the full choir were all well rendered and were very appropriate selections to bring out the best harmony and music of a well balanced choir. Mrs. Harlow's reading was given in good voice and expression and her clear enunciation could be heard throughout the whole church. On the whole this concert was quite in keeping with preceding ones that have been given by our town talent. Our citizens are always sure of a grand treat at these sacred concerts and at a very moderate admission fee. The following is the complete program:

Monday Night at the Rink
The Leap Year night at the rink Monday evening proved to be a very enjoyable night for the young people and the young ladies showed that when they have a chance, they know how to take the gentlemen's part fully as well as the gentlemen themselves, in fact the gentlemen have got to "go some" to get even with them for Monday night's attentions.
The One Mile return match race between Buckler and Beckwith, was won by Beckwith, this giving two wins over Buckler this year. There is considerable interest over how Beckwith will show up in Friday night's race for the two mile championship for the county, as it is the opinion of many that one mile is his limit.

Letter From Florida

The following characteristic letter has been received from Ex-Councillor John Pignott, who with his brother, Elias Pignott, is "doing" Florida. He writes from Tampa of which he says:—
"Tampa is a beautiful town of 42,900 people. About half the population is colored. Land very poor and sandy. They grow strawberries, oranges, sweet potatoes and onions. By using plenty of fertilizer they can grow their crops in one year. They boom this country up more than it is worth, in my opinion. If it wasn't for the pine timber and the sunshine a "darkey" couldn't live here, but it has a beautiful winter climate, only you mustn't come without a pocket full of money. The people here are willing to relieve you of all you have got.
"St. Petersburg is across Tampa Bay. It is a beautiful place of 5000 inhabitants and about 12,000 tourists. They have many churches and are good church goers. The town has the electric car fares of the school children. Most all kinds of fruit and vegetables are on the market. The soil is poor. They sell eight lots to acre at from $100 to $1000 each. For each lot you buy you get $1.00 worth of land and $99 worth of climate.
"I wouldn't swap any of the farms in Ward Eleven or the people either for any I have seen in Florida. Haven't seen anyone from Nova Scotia since I got to Boston, so there are only two "fools" in Florida, but we haven't been "shaved" in buying and in Florida."

Brick and Tile Industry

Works at Avonport Acquired Splendid Deposits of Clay Now Owned by the Company at Avonport, Middleton and Bridgetown-Fire Bricks, Tile and Hollow Blocks to be Made
(The Outlook)
On Monday Mr. L. E. Shaw, manager of the Middleton Clay Working Co. returned from Avonport where he completed the purchase of the brick yard of Mr. Robert Shaw.
Mr. Shaw, senior, retires from the brick making business after nearly 50 years experience. He operated yards at Hanport, Pieton and Avonport. He probably has made between 60 and 75 millions of brick. He has supplied the materials for many of the best brick buildings in Nova Scotia and following the big fires in St. John and St. Johns shipped many bricks to those cities.
We understand that the capital of the Middleton Clay Working Co. will be increased and its name changed to the Valley Brick & Tile Co. The works at both Middleton and Avonport will be operated. Special attention will be given to the manufacture of smooth bricks for facing, or veneering. Both the president, Mr. W. B. Ross and Mr. Shaw, the manager, are strong believers in the value of drainage for much of the land in the Valley and all sizes of tile will be made. Parities and foundation blocks will also be made.
The company now has splendid clay deposits at Avonport, Middleton and Bridgetown each of a different quality so that the best in almost every clay product can be made.

Farm Values and Wages in Canada
OTTAWA, February 13.—The Census Monthly for January says that values and wages in Canada make a good record for 1910. The total value of live stock on the farms is $93,768,000, which is $34,979,000 more than in 1909. The price per head of horses is $182.00 as against 130.72 in 1909, of milk cows $42.60 against $39.36, of other cattle $30.90 against $29.81 and of sheep $6. against $5.89. Swine alone show a drop in average price, being $11.30 per head against $11.80. The total value of horses is $293,398,000 for last year against $278,789,000 for 1909, of milk cows $121,013,000 against $108,691,000, of other cattle $131,741,000 against $138,328,000 and of sheep $15,819,000 against $15,735,000. The value of swine however fell from $34,378,000 in 1909 to $31,157,000 in 1910.
The highest price for horses was in Saskatchewan, of pure bred, other than in Quebec. Horses three years old and over reached the highest price in British Columbia, where the average was $225. Swine per 100 lbs. live weight ranged from $6.50 in Manitoba to $9.62 in Quebec. The price of unwashed wool was 18 cents in 1910 and 17 cents in 1909, and of washed wool 24 cents for each year.
The average value of occupied farm land in the Dominion was $38.45 per acre or 15 cents less than for the previous year. It was highest in British Columbia, where the cost of clearing is heavy and the land is largely occupied for fruit growing, the average being $74. per acre, 56 cents per acre more than in previous year, Ontario comes next $48. per acre, which is $2.22 less than in 1909.
Farm help for the summer season shows an average of $33.19 per month for males and $20.70 for females, counting board, as compared with $33.69 and $19.08 respectively in the previous year. Males have an average of $347.10 and females $209.69 per year counting board, as against $336.29 and $206.08 respectively for 1909. The highest prices per month in summer are paid in Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, where they are $40. and over for males and $25. and over for females, counting board. The average rate of board per month ranges from $8 for males and $6 for females in Prince Edward Island to $20 and $17 respectively per month in British Columbia.
The rates of wages and board are quoted for the farms, where males are employed on the land and females in the house. They are averages computed from a large number of returns by farmers to the Census Office.

An Invasion of American Farmers
Expected in Spring From United States—Will Take up Farms in Ontario
(Canadian Press Despatch)
London, Ont., Feb. 9.—One of the most remarkable real estate movements in the history of southwestern Ontario is at present in progress throughout the counties of Kent and Essex, and from the present indications the spring months will see an invasion of American farmers from Illinois and Ohio to take up acres of farms.
It is stated that the Ohio and Illinois farmers can obtain from $100 to $130 per acre for their corn lands in the United States, while they can buy land just as good in the two Canadian counties for little more than half that price, per acre.

Provincial House Meets on Feb. 23

A Halifax dispatch says the legislature is summoned to meet on Thursday, February 23. This will be the last session of the present house, though it is not expected that dissolution will take place till some time in the summer. There is much gratification over the fact that Premier Murray will be able to lead the house in person.

LOST NOVA SCOTIA BOY.
Should anyone see a boy about 15 years old, light hair, blue eyes, rather thin and pale, who weighs about 75 pounds, and whose name is Carl Ruppert, tell him that his mother, Mrs. Annie B. Lunt, of No. 35 Old street East Cambridge, is distracted and wants him to come home. The boy was stopping with some relatives at Bear River, N. S., and suddenly disappeared. It is believed that he came to Boston.—Boston American.

Conductor and Engineer Responsible

Brantford, Ont., Feb. 9.—The jury is unanimous that conductor Wm. Meacham and engineer Robert Earith in charge of engine No. 639, were responsible for the wreck in collision with the regular train No. 39, which caused the deaths of Peter McFarland, and others.
The above verdict was returned by the jury at the inquest held at Princeton yesterday afternoon touching the accident between Paris and Drumbo on the Buffalo and Goderich branch of the Grand Trunk last Saturday night.
Warrants will probably be issued for the arrest of Conductor Meacham and Earith.
Meacham was not at the inquest, it being reported he has fled to the states, but Earith was in attendance, although he had to be carried in on a stretcher. He admitted he forgot all about the passenger train into which he crashed.

Training the Horse

The farm horse of a quarter century ago was light in weight and low-bred as compared with the present-day farm horse. This light, low-bred farm horse had stumps, stones and tough sod to pull against in the field, and the tough mud when hauling loads to market.

Dropsy Given up by Doctor
"I had dropsy, and was told by my family physician that there was no chance for me. My family also gave me up. My limbs and body were swollen one-third larger than natural, water collected around my heart and I had to be propped up in bed to keep from smothering. I took Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy until I was entirely cured. This was in 1902, and I am now able to do any kind of work on my farm. My cure was certainly marvelous."

Avoid Harsh Drugs

Many Cathartics Tend to Cause Injury to the Bowels
If you are subject to constipation, you should avoid strong drugs and cathartics. They only give temporary relief and their reaction is harmful and sometimes more annoying than constipation. They in no way effect a cure and their tendency is to weaken the already weak organs with which they come in contact.

Business Consideration
The farmer who at this time of year finds himself with a snug balance on the right side will do well to look over his business to discover ways and means of investing a fair amount of his gain in his own working outfit. He must determine if he can improve his stock or his buildings or his machinery. He should study his dwelling for opportunities of making things more attractive or handier for the women. Every step he saves and every comfort that he secures or perfects in this regard will repay him over and over again.

The Risks are Great
To those who feel that they can afford to invest a portion of their savings outside their farms, a suggestion may be of value. About the best advice to such would-be investors is that given by Mr. Punch to those about to marry--Don't! Should such advice be heeded the next best thing is to consult a firm of reputable lawyers, or in some experienced business man, but even under these limitations investment outside of one's business has many snares.

Dropy
There seems to be something inherently coarsening in the continual contact with liquor. Generally where women drink there are always a coarse set of boisterous females, some of them belonging to the demimonde. It certainly deadens the finer sensibilities.

Farmers' Investments

Recent events have caused farmers to do some hard thinking about investing their funds. Farming, while it is a slow way to wealth, furnishes an almost certain source of steady income. This income, if carefully guarded, results in most cases in a competency for old age.

CRIPPLE FROM RHEUMATISM

NOW IN PERFECT HEALTH THANKS TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

VANCOUVER, B. C., Feb. 1st, 1910.
"I am well acquainted with a man, known to thousands in Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster, who for nearly a year was practically a cripple from Rheumatism. He was so troubled with the disease that he found it difficult to even turn over in bed. His heart appeared so weak that he could hardly walk up stairs.

The Power of Conscience.
The power of a guilty conscience was well illustrated in a Toronto store the other day. A customer entered, somewhat the worse of liquor, and asked the sale clerk for the loan of a dollar. Being an optimist, the clerk complied with the request. Some days later, as the borrower did not put in an appearance, the clerk began to feel that his money was gone never to return.

South Africa's First Peer.
The first peer to be created since the declaration of the Federation of South Africa is Sir John Henry de Villiers, who now becomes Baron de Villiers. He is Chief Justice of Cape Colony, and the historic task of administering the oath of office of Viscount Gladstone, the first Governor-General of South Africa. Previously he held the post of Attorney-General of Cape Colony for thirty-seven years with satisfaction to Boer and Briton alike.

THE HOME

MOTHER: AS SEEN BY HER FAMILY.

Have you ever thought that the habitual appearance and dress of a mother exerts an unconscious influence upon a father and children? It is agreed by those who have studied the question that dress plays an important part in influencing the emotions and dispositions of people. Just as harmony of color affects the eye unpleasantly, so do untidy and ill-fitting clothes.

Of course all house-keepers know that there is often work to be done that necessarily soils and dishevels the neatest of women, but in the general work about the house there is little need to wear unclean clothes. Have you ever been forced to receive a friend or a caller in a dress that you knew was unbecoming and mussed? If so, you know how it affected your mind and disposition. You felt out of sorts with your caller and yourself, and your mind refused to grasp the business at hand. Your appearance also affected your caller, making him uncomfortable, as he saw your discomfort.

What, then, can be the state of mind of a woman and her family who habitually wear untidy clothing? The woman feels cross and ill-natured, and her attitude is reflected in the faces of her husband and children, although they are only momentarily unconscious of what is causing their inward disturbance. It also usually follows that the husband and children imitate the example set by the mother, although I have known cases where the mother made herself the drudge of the family, appearing always in loose wrappers, while the husband and children had the best of clothes, both in texture and fit. But in those instances there was no reason why the mother could not also have worn becoming clothes.

Many women wear loose wrappers about the house because they wish to be comfortable, but, personally, I believe that a woman can be just as comfortable in a well-fitting calico house-dress. Other women who have the kimono sleeves dipping into food. Such women are never ready to receive a chance caller and must keep people waiting until they are dressed in a more suitable costume.

It costs very little money to be neatly dressed about the house. One woman of my acquaintance wears Dutch blue calico dressings while at work, both in winter and summer. The waists are made with a low collar and three-quarter length sleeves and joined to a plain gored skirt. Covered with an apron, she is ready for any work, and, with the apron removed, she is ready to see whoever may call. She never pays more than ten cents a yard for this material, and by doing the sewing herself the cost of one dress, which lasts about a year, is one dollar.

The woman who is particular about her appearance while at work is generally particular about her home and her family, and this woman's home is as neat as herself. I know a little woman, a business woman before her marriage, who does all her own work, including her sewing. One afternoon I saw her flying in and out on her back porch, taking down some towels that hung on a line. She waved me a greeting, and called:

"I am hurrying to get through with my work. Albert is coming home early and I must be dressed before he comes."

She has started her married life right. There is nothing more discouraging to a man than to come home from work, tired from the day's stress, to find the house disorderly, the wife uncombed and untidily dressed. To be sure, the wife may also have a hard day, but there is seldom a time when some task cannot be left or another day, thus giving her time to dress for the home-coming of her husband. And that dressing, instead of tiring, usually rests her. A refreshing bath and clean, cool clothes have a soothing effect upon the tired nerves. To the man who comes from the noise and bustle of the business world, the clean home and dairy wife seem like an oasis in a desert. The young housekeeper often makes the mistake of wearing her old party dresses about the house while at work. One cannot take a dress of silk and lace, even if it has served its purpose for party wear, and make it serve the purpose of its practical sister, the working dress.

Ruskin says of architecture in his volume called "The Stones of Venice":

"We require of any building—that it set well and do the things it was intended to do in the best way."

"That it speak well, and say the things that it was intended to say in the best words."

"That it look well and please us by its presence, whatever it has to do or say."

I think that those three rules apply to dress just as well as to architecture. One can plainly see that a fancy dress in the kitchen cannot possibly act well, because it is not doing the thing it was intended to do. It cannot speak well because one can see that it is not in a position to say what it was intended to say. It certainly cannot look well because it is out of its environment. To do its duty, dress should correspond in material and cut to the work to which it is to be put.

While I believe that it is a mother's duty to be neatly and becomingly dressed at home, as well as on the street, her clothes should not be so fine that they form a bar separating her from the carelessness of her children. All children love the "feel" of silk and velvet, and enjoy seeing mother "dressed up," but when that condition constantly prevents them from sauntering into her arms the situation changes. It is sad to hear the reiterated commands of some mothers—"Keep away from me, you'll muss my dress." Small wonder that the children take their confidences elsewhere.

It is the mother who sets the example of right living (or otherwise) to her children. Unconsciously they imitate her actions, her speech, her dress and other characteristics. Children are also acute critics. They are constantly comparing their homes with the homes of their playmates, their mothers with the mothers of their playmates, and it behooves a mother, if she wishes to retain their respect and confidence, to come out ahead in the comparison.

It is for you to choose whether the word "mother" shall call up before the minds of your children a picture of a plodding slattern, a silk-clad doll or a woman neatly and becomingly dressed ready to give encouragement or consolation, as needed.

THE CHILD'S MORAL GROWTH

Although so gradual, the task of directing the child's growth is an unceasing one; for going along at the same time with the destruction of evil influences and inheritances and the stimulation of good ones, there is usually also, the implanting of other distinct and positive characteristics as they are seen to be necessary. It ought not to be a difficult one, however, for some of the desired traits are but the reversal of those originally instilled or taught by our earliest fathers—courtesy, truth and worship and much of it is done, by letting your children see the noble qualities in your own lives and conduct.

There is a sort of creative happiness in the work in the meantime. We have seen a young mother who experienced deadly fear in a thunder-storm, her heart sinking with every flash, hold her babe to look at the lightning with smiles on her face, as if nothing were to be more admired than the blue and rosy flash and lift her finger the while, inclining her head to listen, as if the reverberations of the thunder storm, the house shaking with the concussion, were music to her ears, because she was determined the child should not be the heir of the tremors and sufferings of others.

It may have been an ordeal to her but it would have been a worse ordeal to have her son a coward; and she was but repeating the lesson the Aryan mother taught her son, far away in the abyss of past ages, and she had a joy in doing it that more

The Value of Ideals

Before the artist starting out to paint a picture applies the first touch of color to his canvas his inward eye sees as in a vision the picture complete. "Reproduce what thou seest! I have chosen these of all others to actualize art!" says the voice of the ideal to the One who sees. This is his commission to paint.

To his ideal the obedient One who sees constantly refers as he works, now proving what he created, now comparing a feature of his work with the corresponding feature of his ideal, now seeking inspiration from the ideal as a whole. Falling short of his ideal he is dissatisfied. If weary and discouraged, he stops working and the ideal summons him back to his task; nor gives him pause until he heeds. Owing to his limitations, he is seldom able to produce the perfect vision, but in proportion as he approaches it is his work meritorious.

We are all creators of one kind or another. All have the inward eye, and as we are true or false to the visions of right, truth and beauty that we see in our best moments will our work be worthy or unworthy.

The man who sees the ideal in some misapprehension. Because so many people see the good, the beautiful and the true, and talk about their visions, but never try to give form and color to them—to make them what the word "ideal" has come to have a second, inferior sense. Thus, one hears an idealist called a "visionary" and an impractical person, as if a practical person did not dream dreams and see visions. A writer of the past given an authority for the right use of the word, says: "There will always be a wide interval between practical and ideal excellences! Let us believe that we can lessen the interval not by lowering ideals, but by higher living. Thank God, realizers of ideals are not impossible people; they are people of large faith and unlimited courage. Of old they were regarded sometimes as superhuman. Later they have been called heroes and saints. Some of them have been martyrs. The Apostle Paul was one who obeyed the "heavenly vision."

It is especially in family life where the practical is so apparent and insistent, that the association of ideals with the impractical and the impossible is to be deprecated. Small danger of the artist parting with his ideal in the pursuit of the practical that ideals are not practical. He knows better. He knows that for him his ideals are the most practical thing in life, because they are just that which makes his achievements possible.

The revival and reappearance of a central trait of selfishness, fear, falsehood, cruelty, sensuality, will be the phosphenic of the child's existence, and so for what he does with his own existence, it was they who called these spirits from the vasty deep.—Exchange.

Yet it is not to be forgotten that good has been labored with the evil, the good of all the struggles against temptation, the effort toward the better and higher, the refusal to surrender in sin, till that effort, that struggle, that refusal, till, in short virtue becomes a hereditament. Hence stultify the evil, to foster the good, is the burden which the parents take up with the first-born's first breath. It is a burden they have no right to lay down for a day. They are responsible for the child's existence, and so for what he does with his own existence, it was they who called these spirits from the vasty deep.—Exchange.

DARTMOUTH S.P.C. IS OUT OF CHECKREIN

Dartmouth, Feb. 7.—The energetic workers of the recently-formed branch of the S.P.C. are at the present time confining their energies principally in an attempt to have the "overlooked" check rein abolished. Last week one of the head officers of the Society approached a man while on the street, and implored him to discard the check rein, pointing out to him at the same time the painful effect it had on horses. The man, however, refused to do so, and also avowing that they were productive of diseases, such as an impeded respiration, paralysis of the muscles of the face, apoplexy, etc. The man in question, however, did not heed the timely advice and emphatically refused to comply with the earnest request of the officer.

The question of abolishing the check rein has never before been introduced in Dartmouth, and, in view of this fact, the officers of the Society and others who are interested in the movement expect that there will be considerable opposition to it. They are willing to devote a great deal of time to this work and they ask the support of all. At the next meeting of the Society this matter may be vigorously dealt with, and some active steps adopted to prevent people from using the check rein. At a recent entertainment held by the S.P.C., the Secretary gave a brief description of the work done by the Society since its formation. In the course of her address Miss Sealey stated that over five hundred veterinary surgeons have signed a paper condemning tight check reins.

WINTER CLOTHING

For exceptionally cold weather, when the thermometer goes down a bit and below freezing point, a very thick and warm coat is permissible. And this may also be worn with a higher temperature when the cutting east and northerly winds are about.

Whatever fashion may decree the laws of hygiene would prescribe that at least the light and the moderately warm coats should come only a little below the knees, so that the wearer may be able to walk freely and briskly. And even the heaviest coat should be no longer than this, except for better safeguard against winter ills than overcoats.

However thick the material is, it should be perous and as light in weight as possible. Heavy coats cause weariness and imperious material shuts in the perspiration.

A man who, after breakfasting in a warm room, goes into a cold hall, puts on an icy coat, walks a short distance to his train, shivers on a draughty platform, invites illness. The coat should be warm, as well as the boots and gloves and hat, and put on in the warm room. If this be done, no chilliness will be felt at all by anyone who walks, and not for some considerable time by the traveler in a train.—London Mail.

M. K. PIPER

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1911.

The revival of that practically defunct organ, the Bridgetown Board of Trade, is announced elsewhere in this issue, and from the interest manifested and new blood infused the Monitor-Sentinel predicts that important results in welding public sentiment, giving an uplift and tone to the spirit of the community, will be realized.

Our people of late have fallen in to the way of depending too much upon the ancient and misleading adage, "All things come to him who waits." Add two more words "and works" and you have a motto to inspire optimism and confidence and one which might well be adopted by the Bridgetown Board of Trade as by individuals.

Having suggested that the time is propitious for Bridgetown to indulge in an "Old Home Week," as a celebration giving us opportunity to display to outsiders the natural, industrial and social advantages our town possesses, the Monitor-Sentinel has been requested to give some more definite suggestions as to carrying out such a celebration. Accordingly we submit herewith a plan which will cost comparatively a modest sum and may be expected to bring ample returns for the outlay.

Selecting the first week in August as a suitable date the week might be divided up as follows:—
Monday would be occupied in arrivals, home welcomes and in preparations.

Tuesday morning—Public welcome. Procession consisting of Mayor and Councillors, Town Officials, Board of Trade, members of Lodges and school-children to proceed to the school grounds where an address of welcome would be read by the Mayor, and speeches made by prominent visiting and local men. For the afternoon Firemen's parade with field sports.

Wednesday, the Churches' day. Tea-meetings, social gatherings in church grounds. Special mass meeting in evening, addresses by visiting preachers. A Flower Show might also be a feature of this day with such other attractions as may suggest themselves later.

Thursday, Board of Trade day. This day would be devoted to the industrial features of the town with a mammoth trades procession, fire works in the evening, etc. This should be the big day of the week.

Friday, Excursion day. Two mammoth excursions might be planned, one by steamers down the river, the other by carriage drive to the Bay Shore. These outings should be taken in hand by the Masons and the Oddfellows and made an occasion for a special gathering of the clans.

Saturday might be safely left as a balance day, in case the weather interfered with any of the fetes planned. This arrangement would make a fair division of labor, strong working committees being organized for each day. A program of field sports should be arranged for each day and probably a good stock company could be engaged to furnish evening amusement.

The merchants would make special preparations to entice the visitors and induce them to leave some of their wealth in the old home town. Church committees should organize to cater to the rural visitors daily.

The date thus far advanced should give ample time for preparation. Special envelopes and other advertising mediums should be used and every citizen should individually use his best efforts to promote the celebration and see that as far as possible every old townsman and every former resident of our rural districts be invited to be present.

MISS MARY JANE GILLIS

Again his death visited our village and carried away a much respected resident of Paradise, Miss Mary Jane Gillis, whose death took place on Friday morning Feb. 10th at the early age of forty-five years. She had been in poor health for the past three years, consumption having developed after a severe attack of gripe. About three weeks ago she seemed to sink rapidly, when it became known that the end was very near. The lady was a daughter of the late Joseph Gillis, who formerly lived at Dalhousie, where the subject of this notice was born and spent her youth, removing to Paradise some twenty-two years ago.

Miss Gillis was a devout Christian, having united with the Methodist Church some years ago. She had many friends in the community where she will be greatly missed. She leaves an aged mother, and five brothers to mourn the loss of a true and loving daughter and sister. After a short prayer service at the home on Sunday morning, the remains were conveyed to Dalhousie, and interred beside those of her father in the family lot, on Sunday afternoon, the Rev. J. A. Hart officiating.

MRS. JOHN TEMPLEMAN

After several years of suffering, borne with splendid Christian fortitude, Mrs. John Templeman of Hampton passed away to her rest on Sunday, Feb. 10th, aged 55.

She left behind to sincerely mourn their loss, her husband, two daughters who were all with her during her last sickness, and three sons, two of whom are in California while the other, Foye, who resides in Salem, Mass., arrived home in time for the funeral.

In the absence of a pastor the services were conducted, agreeably with her request, by Rev. J. H. Balcum, on Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock. After interment, the sermon was preached in the Baptist Church to an attentive and sympathetic congregation. The subject and substance of the sermon were especially pertinent to the occasion. The former being "The Spirit of a truly Noble Life," was drawn from II Kings 2:9; the latter from I Cor. 13. All feel that they have lost a faithful and consistent church member a good neighbor and a kind and worthy friend.—Con.

MISSIONARY OF LABRADOR

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., February 10.—Sir Wilfred Thomaston Grenfell, the well-known medical missionary of the Labrador coast, has been elected as the William Bolden Noble lecturer at Harvard University for 1911-12.

Dr. Grenfell, who was recently knighted by King George, has practically isolated himself from the world in order to minister to the needs of the fishermen and their families on the coast of Northern Newfoundland and Labrador.

Starved and Frozen to Death In New York

New York, Feb. 13.—In a little attic room with the windows broken and with the rafters running to the floor on either side, at 45 Bushwick avenue, Brooklyn, the police of the Stags street station yesterday found the body of Mrs. Mary Sidel. On the floor, with no covering over him, lay the woman's husband, Peter Sidel, pinched from hunger and blue from cold.

When Dr. Rumsey came from St. Catherine's hospital one look at the dead woman was sufficient. "She has starved and frozen to death," he said. Then he turned his attention to the man, who was not so far away from the fate that met his wife. It was a pitiful story told the police by Sidel. He said: "I had plenty of work till last fall," he began. We lived well then and were looking forward to the child that was to come to us. Then I lost my job. We had not saved anything and when work was not to be had we began to eat sparingly. Soon I was not in physical condition for hard work. We were dispossessed. We came here and told Mrs. Abraham Mogel we would do anything in the way of work for a roof to cover us.

"My wife tried to do the washing, but her strength was not equal to it any more than mine had been when I tried hard labor on an empty stomach. Three months ago the baby came. It was born in this room and it did not live long. When it died the doctor told us it was a case of starvation and freezing. A starving mother can't nourish a child.

"Mrs. Mogel allowed us to live in the attic. She sometimes gave us food, but she was a poor woman—only the poor help the poor, it seems to me—but we had not enough. My wife continued to fail.

"On Monday night I got a job as a porter for the night and earned $1.15. I brought it home to my wife, and yesterday she started out to buy food for us. We believed our hard times were over then. On the street she fainted from weakness, and they carried her up here to the attic. Then I got food with the money, and we ate. Maybe we ate too much for starving people. Anyway Mary is dead, and I wish I were too."

The doctors did all they could for Sidel and then took him to the hospital. They will bury his wife in Potter's field, where her starved baby was buried but two months ago.

WADE—EATON

An event of more than local interest took place on Wednesday January 11th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Weston H. Eaton, Granville Centre, when their only daughter Lennie May was united in marriage to Ernest B. Wade of Grand Falls, N. B. The wedding though quiet was a very pretty one. The rooms were handsomely decorated the color scheme being green and white. The bridal canopy was especially effective in herb-look ferns and white roses. The bride who was led to her place on the arm of her father, looked exceedingly pretty in a gown of white batiste with real lace trimmings. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Raymond. After congratulations and the serving of a delicious wedding breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Wade were driven in Blair's coach to Annapolis Royal, where they took the west-bound train for a short honeymoon trip. They will reside in Grand Falls.

The bride's travelling suit was of blue chiffon broad-cloth with hat to match. She also wore sable furs, the gift of the groom. Many other valuable gifts were received from friends far and near, also $100 in cash.

The bride is one of Granville Centre's popular teachers, and a young lady of charming personality. The groom who is worthy of his bride, is the eldest son of one of Granville's foremost men, John W. Wade, and a nephew of the late F. B. Wade, M. P. They have the good wishes of a host of friends for future happiness.—Con.

In place of the regular sermon brief addresses were made upon different phases of the subject. Rev. Dr. Jost spoke upon the question, "where our Bible came from", and Dr. Armstrong read the paper dealing with the Authorized Version of the scriptures and the record of the 300 years since its publication. Both of these addresses were gems of thought and were packed with matter as interesting and instructive as it was profitable and helpful. During the service Mr. F. Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—The province of Manitoba is suffering from a milk famine, according to United States Consul General John E. Jones, at Winnipeg.

More than 1,000 gallons of milk are imported into Winnipeg daily, though with the ad valorem duty of 17 1/2 per cent, milk has risen in price to a point where the dealer cannot profit.

The people of Manitoba, Mr. Jones reports, are hoping for the passage of the pending reciprocity agreement between Canada and the United States which admits milk free of duty.

Railway and Steamship Notes

(Yarmouth Times) Men are at work placing the wireless system on the D. A. R. steamer Boston. It is situated on the main deck just inside the grand entrance to the saloon. Arnold Dunn, of Halifax, is superintending the work which it is expected will be completed in four or five days.

The D. A. R. is taking measurements in the channel opposite to and north of Evangeline wharf. This property is owned by the company and with some dredging and filling in will prove exceedingly useful for steamship purposes.

It is stated in steamship circles that a line of steamers will be operated by the C. P. R. between Halifax and the West Indies. It is also stated that St. John will be included in the time table of the Boston-Yarmouth boats.

The Times is told that while there will probably be a double daily service between St. John and Digby there will be no steamers running between the latter place and Boston. The company's passengers from Boston for Digby will be brought to Yarmouth by steamer and forwarded to their destination by first class trains.

As previously stated in the Times the Retail Merchants' Association of Nova Scotia are planning a delightful trip to England under the guidance of experts who can show, in the shortest space of time, and with every degree of comfort, the places of most interest to the people of the maritime provinces. The party is to start from Halifax about the first week in March. The entire trip will take about five weeks and the stay in London will be about twenty-one days. The cost including everything hotels, transportation, personal care of baggage, etc. first class about $750. from any part of the province, and return. The return passage from London could be extended several weeks longer if desired. A difference of over $500.00 could be made by travelling second class on steamer from Halifax to Bristol and return, the same accommodation would be the same as first class. This trip will be made by the steamers of the Canadian Northern Steamships, Limited, which, as is known, have no superiors in the Canadian trade. This should prove an especially good time to see London while preparing for the Coronation and the business places will be showing the latest things for spring and summer. Special efforts will be made to look after families who wish to join the party.

Tuesday's Montreal Star says: Big plans for developing tourist traffic on the Dominion Atlantic Railway are now being carried out by the C. P. R., which now owns the line and its steamships plying to St. John, N. B. and Boston. It is announced that the company intends to acquire or erect four big modern hotels at Halifax, Chester, Yarmouth and Digby, and possibly a fifth at Cape Blomidon. In addition to this the company contemplates a branch line from Windsor to Chester, to bring Chester into the C. P. R. system, and also the erection of a big hotel at Halifax.

Through the Culvert

"Father, I—I—Alice you tell him!"

"No, sir!" said Alice, emphatically. "I'm ashamed it wasn't I, and—"

"Did you, Frank?" asked Mr. Ogden, eagerly.

The boy turned red, grinning. "I did once, not so far or deep, but I did earn it."

Mr. Ogden turned to his daughter. "Did you see him?"

"Yes father—he dived off the lower board. I know he was scared stiff, but he really did it."

"And you, Alice?"

Alice hung her head. "Father, I—couldn't. I will some day, but I just—couldn't!"

"Never mind, it'll come. Here," turning to Frank, "here's your dollar. I'll make it five when you swim under water a hundred feet, but don't start from the lower board. I'm serious you will get past the deadline and be swept into the culvert, this high water."

The Ogden twins had feared the water with a terrible fear since they were six, when a capsized boat had brought both so near to drowning that four doctors and over an hour's work on each of them had been necessary to revive them. Mr. Ogden, at one time a champion swimmer, had always a water-lover, had labored through their childhood to rid them of this fear, and for three years both girl and boy swam with pleasure at Alton farm, where Rock Creek offered a pleasant sheet of water for their practice. But neither would put a head under water so great was the impress left by their childhood terror. Ever since they had learned to swim, there had been a standing offer of a dollar for a dive off the bank or spring-board.

And now Frank had earned his dollar. His prompt offer to share it with Alice—she promptly refused—could not comfort her for being beaten.

"Never mind, Al," he had said. "Girls aren't expected to have courage like boys. You'll do it some day maybe."

But Alice felt the guilt.

The next day she put on her bathing suit with grim determination. No matter what it felt like she would stand on that board and go off, head-first. She walked slowly down to the bathing place with Frank, and climbed the high bank along which ran the new state road recently thrown across the little valley.

The road was sixty feet above the stream, on top of a raw earth-bank pierced in its centre with a huge brick culvert, through which the stream ran. When the creek was in flood, as it was for weeks in the spring, the culvert entrance was covered, the brick tube being not quite big enough to carry off the water as fast as it came down, so that the road-bank then acted as a dam.

The water was thus usually deeper on the up-stream than the down-stream side of the road, and so all the boys and girls spending the summer at Alton climbed the bank and crossed the road, sliding down the other side with shrieks of laughter, to walk a hundred yards up to the bathing pool and the two spring boards. The 'dead-line' beyond which parental injunctions prevented swimmers from venturing was marked by a huge willow, and the bathers willingly enough stayed above it, although it was a common boast among the boys that they would like to swim through the culvert in flood if their parents would let them. The length of the culvert was a hundred and fifty feet.

Alice was not thinking of culverts today or of sliding down the banks. It was of the dark green under-water, and the head-first plunge.

When all the rest were splashing and laughing in the water, and after Frank had taken a very gentle and shallow dive off the low spring-board to the water, now close to it because the stream was so high, Alice walked cautiously out and stood on the end of it. Below her the placid water waved and sparkled with the splashing going on around her. Heads bobbed everywhere, but she did not see them. Calls and laughter fell on deaf ears. Thrice she gathered herself to dive and thrice she lacked the courage. Frank watched her curiously from the water. Then she sighed, turned, and walked off the board, and down the path beside the stream.

Few noticed her, but Frank saw, and understanding, swam after her. Without thinking, he passed the dead-line, and swam on striving to catch sight, through the trees, of the red trimmed black bathing skirt and red-and-white kerchief Alice wore over her head.

Once or twice he caught sight of it: "Alice!" he called. "O—Al—Alice!" But Alice did not hear. Frank, with that orange affinity twins often save for each other, felt Alice's distress almost as much as if it were his own. Forgotten the dead-line, forgotten the culvert and the swimmer current running under it, forgotten all thought of parental objections until the shadow of the bank lay across his face. Then as he sighted Alice sitting miserably alone at the foot of the steep bank, and called to her, he saw the nearness of the bank and felt a movement in the water.

"Here," he said to himself, "this won't do!" and started swimming for the shore.

But even he tried the current ran stronger, and strive as he might, he was pulled toward the embankment and dangerously close to the little swirl in the surface which he knew showed the whereabouts of the covered culvert.

"Alice—Alice!" he called but this time it was a cry of terror. "Alice—Alice!"

Alice heard. She looked up in time to see her brother's white and despairing face, and the struggle he was making—looked up in time to see his head go under, end a bubble or two come to the surface, and to know that he was in the culvert.

For an instant Alice was frozen with horror. During that instant her mind was blank. Frank was exhausted. It took more than a minute and a half for anything to go through the culvert. Frank had neither breath nor strength—he would be unconscious in a few seconds. Her first impulse was to climb the steep bank and run down the other side to rescue him as he came through. But many a race to see who would first reach the top had taught her how long a scramble it usually was, with loose dirt slipping under every foot-step, and she knew—who better, who had careful lessons given her in resuscitating the drowned, and had herself been through it—how short a time it takes to drown, and how every minute in the water means a decreased chance. Besides, Frank's suit might catch on something on the culvert—maybe he would not come through?

It was this which decided her. It had taken but a second for these thoughts and reasonings to flash through her mind; it took less for her to throw herself bodily into the water and swim for the entrance.

"It's my head against his life, she said to herself. Keep cool. Mustn't swim hard—current will do it—take a big breath before I go on—"

With the thought the current took her. Down she went head first into blackness. Rough bricks scraped her head and she swam away from it. She opened her eyes as she heard her father say under-water swimmers did but could see nothing.

"No light," she thought.

There was a suffocating feeling at her heart.

"That's because I'm frightened," was her next idea.

She bumped violently into the bricks again, and found she could do less swimming than she expected. But she knew that if she could move through the water at all, the current and her own efforts would bring her to the end in time for breath. Deep breathing and holding her breath had been part of her father's special training.

But the end did not come. Alice had her eyes closed again. She had forgotten everything save Frank.

"I'll get through—I'll get through—" rang through her mind, even as her head-down breast-stroke became feeble and feeble. There was a roaring in her ears and a sudden return of a terror which had wakened through her childhood—the terror of that experience of her early days.

"Frank, Frank! No, I must help—Frank!"

It was her last conscious thought. From then until the current carried her forth, she had only a confused impression of the great weight on her breast, a tearing at her throat, and a noise like that of a thousand hammers at her ears. Then a blinding burst of light, a gulping, choking gasp of air and water, a terrible coughing spell, a wild grasp at some sun-bleached hair bobbing in the water beside her, and she pulled herself feebly to the shelving bank, in her grasp a well-loved, tousled head.

How she managed to drag the limp wet form on the bank, how she turned it over, and with both arms about its waist, held it drooping for the water to run out of the filled lungs; whence came the endurance to kneel across it and work slowly and steadily; first, hard pressure on the chest, then, wide flung arms above the head, she never knew.

She only knew that she must count slowly, four seconds to the breath, that she must press, and press hard on the chest, contracted, and fling the arms wide and stretch them well to inflate it; she knew only the hard pounding of her heart the one, two, three, four, of her count, and the blinding pains in her own head, until the flaccid body between her knees gave a convulsive twitch, gagged and coughed.

Then Alice came to herself again and uttered a glad cry.

"Frank—Frank, breathe, boy—breathe!"

She took up the steady work again. Finally a weak voice said:

"Get! Oh, I'm so sick!"

And then Alice broke down and cried, and never quite understood how a sudden crowd of pallid bathers gathered, nor why she was being petted so by the clammy-skirted girls and banged upon the back by equally clammy and greatly excited boys.

But Mr. Ogden knew the whole story before night. And grateful as were his quiet words of praise to his 'girl-fish' for her courage, it was Frank's words that she cherished most.

"Girls may not be supposed to have as much courage as boys, Alice," he said, "but my sister has more than any boy I know."

Thinking of Building a Silo ? Better Build it of Concrete

THE construction of a Silo affords an excellent example of what the farmer can do with Concrete—and of the superiority of Concrete over all other material for various structural work about the farm.

The usual wooden silo, besides being expensive, is far from satisfactory. In the first place, it does not endure; and, more important still—being far from weather-proof—its contents become water-logged—producing an unsanitary condition.

A Silo built of Concrete, on the other hand, is practically everlasting—it is proof against heat, cold and moisture—and it has the merit of comparative economy.

This economy feature is further explained in our free book—"What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete,"—which tells how to mix and use Concrete for the making of silos and other buildings on the farm.

You may send me a copy of book entitled "What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete."

The reading given by the Rev. W. B. Muir was much appreciated, and fully convinced the audience of his high ability as an eloquist. His male quartette whose voices blended in perfect unison was rendered with much feeling and the absence of any accompanying instrument added to the effect, Mrs Byers and Miss Crowe sang in their usual good form responsive to the music, while the imitable manner in which Mr. J. N. Edwards and Mr. F. W. Harris rendered their humorous selections left nothing to be desired in this line. The success of the evening was in a large measure due to Mr. Stealy and those who so kindly assisted him in the Orchestra selections.

The Monorail for Canada

The Charlottetown Guardian says—the monorail—a cheap railway with only one rail on which the cars are balanced astride—is rapidly coming into vogue in other countries and is now to be tried in Canada. The system is such that it admits of taking very sharp curves, and hence can pass around hills or other obstructions so as to reduce the cost of grading to a mere fraction of what the grading of an ordinary railway costs. The monorail is especially adapted for branch lines through a difficult country where the traffic is not heavy.

It is well adapted for the carriage of good speed and is little trouble with snow. The Canadian Monorail Company has its headquarters in Montreal, and will shortly supply the plant for a number of lines in Canada. One of the first likely to be constructed will be between Amherst and Tidnish, a distance of 17 miles. The development of the monorail in the sister Provinces across the straits will be watched with great interest, as if successful, it may solve at moderate cost the problem of railway connection for several points on the shores of Prince Edward Island to which the construction of an ordinary railway would be both very difficult and very costly.

Mrs. Lapsire Makes a Hit Handling Reins on the Snow

(Newburyport Leader)

Some excellent trotting events were witnessed on the High street speedway between the Kelly school and Park street yesterday afternoon by hundreds of spectators. The honours of the day were well divided up between Dr. Laccallade and his handsome little Goldie, Mrs. Louis Lapsire and Supt. Twombly of the City farm.

Today some fast brushes are anticipated as the snow has become packed just about hard enough to insure good shipping and the owners will be out early with their trotters.

One particularly pleasing brush was run off early in the afternoon between Dr. Laccallade and Mrs. Lapsire. The horses held together neck and neck up to within the last hundred feet when Dr. Laccallade with a good show of gentlemanly forged ahead into the lead and came out a length ahead.

Persons who have not witnessed these races do not know what they are missing, for more amusing Irishness could not be seen anywhere. All along the route are drawn up sleighs filled with spectators, the sidewalks certain places are crowded, while the windows of every house along the course is crowded with interested spectators.

Perhaps the grittiest driver is Mrs. Louis Lapsire, who won several of yesterday's events. The woman driver certainly knows how to handle her little trotter and makes the best of them sit up and take notice.

Mrs. Lapsire was formerly Miss Lizzie Fitch of Clarence, N. S., and daughter of Mrs. Phineas Banks of Port Lorne.

GOOD ROAD FOR HAULING WITHOUT SNOW.

How One N. S. Lumberman was Prepared for Emergency.

Joggins, Feb. 9.—The snow which fell last week was eagerly hailed by the lumbermen who were beginning to despair of getting their logs out of the wood. However B. B. Barnhill had taken time by the forelock and prepared for such emergency. Last summer he prepared his ponds at considerable expense by levelling etc., and constructed a huge sprinkler with which he sprinkled the road on cold days thereby making an excellent roadbed for hauling to his mill a distance of three miles.

A FORTUNE IN IT

If you could place an ad in the Moon millions of people would read it. Even then it would only be valuable a few nights each month, whereas a Want Ad in this paper while more limited in its scope will cover this particular locality every day in the year.

Immigration to Canada

"The outlook for immigration to Canada from Great Britain was never more promising," said E. Blake Robertson, assistant superintendent of immigration.

Mr. Robertson got back Saturday night from a tour of several weeks in the British Isles in the interests of his department.

The inquiries at our offices in London, Birmingham, Belfast, Dublin, Aberdeen, York and other places are much greater than ever before at this season of the year," Mr Robertson continued. "The looking agents also report that inquiries at their offices are exceedingly heavy. In some cases steamer accommodation on steamers are sold out until May. The second cabin bookings are also heavy.

"No, the coronation is working no appreciable difference in our work. It may give more labor over there but it will not affect the British influx to Canada.

"There seems to be a great interest among all classes in everything pertaining to Canada. Hundreds of lectures have been delivered by the officers of our department and the halls have always been filled to capacity. Yes, there seems to be more interest in Canada over there than ever and the people generally seem to have a more extended knowledge of the country.

"In 1910 the total immigration to Canada from the British Isles was 110,000. All indications point to a number considerably in excess of that during the present year. We expect a record number, in fact. Moreover the newcomers will be a sturdy, industrious lot."

One Year's Imprisonment For Libelling King

New York, Feb. 2.—Under the head of 'Labelling a King,' the 'World' this morning says editorially: 'A British subject has been sentenced to a year's imprisonment for circulating a libel upon King George, and the fact has numerous aspects of interest.

"That royalty should apply to the courts for redress against a commoner is not so notable a proceeding as that the commoner when found guilty of seriously damaging the character of the monarch should get off so lightly. In a day of greater royal prerogatives he would have been lucky to escape being hanged, drawn and quartered or locked up in the Tower for life, according to the usage of the time. As it is, he is punished no more severely for reflecting on a king's honor than if he had circulated the same report about John Doe or any other fellow subject. The penalty in the present case may be cited as an exhibit in the evolution of popular rights. The divine right, at least as concerns constitutional monarchs, no longer confers extraordinary privileges.

"The 'Tribune' under the caption: 'The Royal libel case,' editorially says: 'The prompt conviction and sentencing of the scribbler who had uttered a gross libel on King George will be generally regarded with satisfaction, not so much because of the well deserved punishment which is thus inflicted upon the culprit, as because of the principle which is involved in the protection and vindication of a head of a state against calumny and the warning thus given to reckless sensationalists who look for immunity if the eminence of the objects of their attacks.'
