Rheumatism for Several Years— Now as well as Ever

647 Main St., St. John, N. B., Nov. 27, 1908.

Father Morrissey Medicine Co., Ltd.
I am writing to tell you I have been a victim to Rheumatism for several years, and have been treated by seven doctors without finding any permanent relief until I got Father Morrissey's medicine. It has cured me so I am able to do my work and find I am as well as ever in my life.

Yours truly,
JOHN CRAWFORD.

Father Morrissey's "No. 7" Tablets

Rheumatism cannot exist when the kidneys are in perfect working order for then they take out of the blood all the Uric Acid, which alone causes the Rheumatism.

act directly on the kidneys, toning them up and helping them to clear the blood of the Uric Acid. If the Rheumatism is of long standing it may take some time to clear out all the poison, but almost from the first "No. 7" Tablets relieve the pain, and if used faithfully they rarely fail to cure.

Even if other remedies have done you no good, do not give up till you have tried Father Morrissey's "No. 7" Tablets.

THE ANGEL UNAWARES

Hanson sat looking absently at the soft green hills and the motionless trees living in the July sun. He was sitting on an upturned pail, in the shadow of the big empty tent. The afternoon performance was over.

And now, as he sat on the upturned bucket in the shade, alone, he was thinking over all the old college days. And it had ended that he was riding as Signor Colon de Thorne—on the bills—with one of the big circuses, for he had to do something for a living.

His thoughts reverted to the girl, woman now, whose face had shown him an astonished and yet quiet recognition. She was a town girl whom he had once known well. He decided suddenly to go and see her before his night's work began. She would make allowance for the untimely call, as she knew how he came to be there.

So he started into the dressing tent to change his clothes, and as he reached the flap door, a girl with a small neat figure, appeared in it and said to him—

"I say, Carl, if you want any supper you'd better hurry up."

She was one of the trapeze performers. I guess I don't want any supper tonight. I'm going for a walk answered Carl shortly, and passed in. He nestly put on his quiet suit of blue, brushed his hair and arranged his tie with extra care, and walked quickly from the ground.

When he came to Miss Nelson's it occurred to him as it had never before, strangely enough, that however good friends they had been Miss Nelson might not be pleased to receive a circus performer, and at the idea he stood still and scowled as he thought it over. Then, with a grim determination, he quickened his steps.

It seemed a long time before the door was opened, and by Miss Nelson herself. Neither knew just what to say. Everything he had thought of saying flew from his head, until she somewhat nervously held out her hand and said—

"Carl!"

Hanson gave a sigh of relief as he entered, to find that she had not turned him away.

Before they realized how late it was. They saw a stream of people going towards the circus grounds, and this brought Hanson back to the hard reality that he was under contract to appear elsewhere. He jumped to his feet as he looked at his watch.

It may be a long time before we meet again, he said. Do you know you have done me a great deal of good this evening. You have waked me up.

Ah, but your ambition does not last long, she answered sadly. Will you really try, I wonder?

Hanson winced.

What are you going to do? she persisted relentlessly. Hanson said nothing for a minute.

"I—I don't know."

"Something better than this?"

"Yes—yes, Kathleen, I will, I swear I will. I promise you, he said, taking her hand.

Then, auf weidersehen, Carl, I shall believe in you.

God bless you, Kathleen. I must go now. And after shaking her hand he dashed down the street, and Miss Nelson watched him until she could no longer see him. There were tears in her eyes as she turned from the window. But this Hanson never knew.

As he came to the door of the dressing room tent, he met the trapeze girl again, and wondered, as he often did, how she came to be there. It never occurred to him that she might wonder the same about him. She was utterly different from the rest of the women, who were many of them coarse and harsh voiced, with painted-out faces and red hands. He had come to be on friendly terms with the trapeze girl, though she was peculiarly proud and reserved.

Hanson had just time to change his clothes before he had to appear in the ring. Tonight a wild, buoyant recklessness filled him, the reaction from his previous earnestness. He hotted himself more than he ever had before, and he had fits of self scorn that were drety bad, but he put on his gayest exterior, and rode magnificently, heedless of danger.

It was a relief when he had to leave town this morning. On the train he wrote a long letter to Miss Nelson, but on re-reading it, he tore it up and took twice the time writing another a page long. He still had a month to stay with the circus, under his contract, and what he should do after that, he still did not know.

He was watching the trapeze girl one night about a week after this, and as she swung in mid air he became quite annoyed to see the man on the opposite trapeze catch her hands in his and swing both to and fro. Hanson had always disliked that man for he was a bad character, and he remembered now that Francesca, the trapeze girl, disliked him too; but Hanson had never cared about the matter before. He was looking at them when his horse jumped a high hurdle, and was thrown heavily and the next horse was upon him before he could regain his feet. Some women in the audience screamed, and the horses pranced, but the ringmaster hurried up and calmly ordered two 'supes' to carry his still body out of the ring. The blood trickled down his face from a gash on his forehead, and dripped along the sawdust as they took him out and laid him on a mat in the dressing tents, with his unsteady lights. As he came to they saw he was not badly hurt, and after having his wound dressed, he asked them to leave him alone.

But the trapeze girl, coming in regard of his order, sat down beside him, and with her cool fingers on his forehead, said—

"Home Companion."

Rather clumsy of you, was all the sympathy she gave.

I was watching you, he answered meekly, as if that were a reasonable and sufficient excuse. His next remark was seemingly irrelevant.

"Who are you?" he asked. "I mean, what is your real name, and how did you come to be here?"

She looked at him curiously. "Have I never told you? All I know is that I was lost when I was quite small, and Mme. Garzon, who used to be one of the riders, found me, and red for me, and brought me up the best she knew how. She never could find out anything about my family. She died about two years ago, she was very kind and good to me, and when she died I had nowhere to go, nothing to do but stay here, Francesca is the only name I know.

"And you must be about how old?" "Twenty I think."

You don't know your last name, Francesca? Will you let it be Hanson? And we will go away from all this.

"Oh Carl," she said. Looking into her eyes, he rose on one elbow and kissed her. So he knew without her telling him.

In a certain western university town there is among the small boys there an annual craze for giving a circus. The ringleader is a boy about eight years old, whose erect figure and flashing eyes commanded obedience from the other boys. Timmie Brown, a very good natured fat boy dressed in some of his sisters clothes, makes a very presentable fat lady, and for nothing old Petel Schlack, who acoers the boys, is usually called upon to assist them, and no difficulty is too great to be surmounted by the energetic young leader, who does the "feats" of daring" on old Molly! His mother smiles patiently as she binds up the annual bruises of the whole troupe. Both she and her husband, the respected Prof. Hanson or the university let this bent of the boy's take its own course, knowing that he will outgrow it, indeed, they both make the most valuable suggestions for the whole performance, and the boy thinks the mother and father wonderfully keen and observing to remember, and does not see how they notice so much just at the occasional circuses which come to town. But some day they will tell him, lest he be distressed by the remarks of gossips.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Catarrh of the Lungs

The cause of Catarrh is a germ. It multiplies in the lining of the nose and throat, spreads to the bronchial tubes and finally reaches the lungs. Cough syrup can't follow to the lungs—it goes to the stomach—and fails to cure. Catarrh is inhaled. It goes everywhere—gets right after the germs, kills them, heals the soreness, stops discharge and lack of energy. It cures every trace of Catarrh, throat irritation, colds or bronchitis, if you use Catarrhazone. 25c. and $1.00 sizes sold every where.

The Care of the Eyes

Whatever promotes general hygiene is beneficial to the eyes. One should avoid reading while lying down or when exhausted, and sudden changes from the dark to brilliant light. Reading in trains is bad for the eyes by reason of the oscillating movements, requiring the paper to be held too near, causing overwork of the muscles of accommodation. One should carry the head erect and avoid tight neckwear, which causes passive congestion of the head and eyes. The first symptoms of falling sight are hyper-secretion of tears, burning of eyelids, loss of eyelashes and congestion of the mucosa.

A Painless Corn Cure

Easily applied—costs but a quarter—that's Putnam's Corn Extractor, fifty years in use. Insist on Putnam's only.

A Lottery for Dolly

Margie was industriously sewing for her doll, when she suddenly stopped work and turned to her mother. "Oh, mamma, what do you think?" she exclaimed. "What is the trouble, dearie?" asked the mother. "I started to make my doll a bonnet," explained Margie, "and I do believe it's going to be an apron!"—Woman's Home Companion.

Brides Who Can't Cook

A girl who deliberately marries without understanding the art of cooking is committing a—well, the law of the land doesn't call it a crime, but the unwritten law of the home certainly does constitute it a crime.

Especially is this true of those in modest circumstances who cannot employ efficient cooks. Burnt fingers, sour bread, scorched roasts, leathery steaks, wishy-washy coffee, and disordered stomachs are not conducive to the happiness that one imagines the honeymoon should be filled with.

Good cooking is the basis of happiness, health, and success in the home life. One may thoroughly understand art, music, architecture, science and philosophy, be familiar with astronomy, mythology, the mysteries of evolution, politics, and literature, yet if the chemistry of a loaf of bread has been neglected, the education is sadly incomplete, so far as the "house mother" is concerned.

MINISTERS PRAISE

Catarrhozone

Rev. D. K. Smith of White Head, N. S. was cured of catarrh by Catarrhozone

The following statement coming from one of Nova Scotia's prominent churchmen carries conviction of the fact that Catarrhozone is all right.

"For years I tried all the advertised remedies for Catarrh, but was unable to get relief until I used Catarrhozone. Before I had used the inhaler half an hour my nostrils became free and clear so that I could breathe easily through them. In one day Catarrhozone helped me immensely, stopped my coughing and hawking and cured a dull pain that was continually over my eyes. I have great pleasure in recommending Catarrhozone. I have proved it the best remedy for Catarrh and diseases of the throat, lungs and bronchial tubes."

There is certainly no remedy that is so well spoken of by the clergy as Catarrhozone and this can be accounted for by the fact that it gives perfect satisfaction. It is the only remedy that reaches all diseased parts and gives quick relief without bad after effects. Catarrhozone contains no cocaine nor morphine. It is nature's own remedy, soothing and healing, and pleases everybody that uses it. Catarrhozone is a local and constitutional treatment. The inhaler clears the air passages, stops the headache, and Ferrozone Tablets that are included in every complete Catarrhozone outfit never fail to drive impurities from the blood. This builds up and strengthens the system so that Catarrhal conditions cannot exist.

The speediest cure for Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Bronchitis and Asthma is Catarrhozone. Two months' treatment, price $1.00, medium size 50c. trial size 25c. at druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Still Susceptible

He was a nervous, fidgety young man, and he looked with considerable apprehension at the woman next him, who held a baby, its face covered with a thick veil. The baby gave now and then a sharp cry, which the woman evidently tried to suppress. At last, after many anxious glances, the young man spoke.

"Has—has that baby anything contagious?" he asked.

The woman looked at him with a mixture of scorn and pity.

"'Twouldn't be for most folks," she said, in a clear, carrying tone; "but maybe 'twould for von. He's teething!"

COBALT

Twenty years ago the mineral production of Canada was about ten millions a year. Most of us would confess to a too uncomfortable feeling that we knew what Canada was like for a long time before that. The year 1889 was only the other day. Yet since that year the mineral production of Canada has gone up from the ten millions to eighty six millions. That is a good deal of a growth, is it not? It is steady, wide-spread, and it includes permanent development in the production of all commodities between coal and gold. There is a lot of coal coming out, on the shores of both oceans. There is iron being mined. There are many gold mines, with the Yukon at the base of that industry. And there is Cobalt, which from a sensation has grown into an institution. Most of us still think of Cobalt as a sensation, and yet in its brief existence it has turned out twenty million dollars worth of silver and this year will turn out a good ten millions more. Canada is now fourth amongst the world's producers of silver. How few of us suspected it. We have just passed Germany in the race, and are hard after Australia. What is even more important is that in the Cobalt district the ore is rich, easily and cheaply mined, and can maintain the competition long after other areas, where there is but a small margin over cost of production, have dropped out of the business as prices are forced down. Better yet, all signs point to Cobalt being one great field that will repay the effort at development just as certainly as the Witwatersrand did. We must try to get accustomed to the idea that Cobalt is here to stay, and to see what had better be done in the light of the returns it is bringing in, and will bring in—Montreal Herald.

THE JOURNEY TO SPRING

According to the old saying, Candlemas Day, stands midway between the time when the cattle are taken from the pastures in the autumn and when they are returned to the pastures in the spring. We have managed to get through half the winter, and the second half should fly most rapidly.

According to old tradition, Candlemas Day, if it does not regulate the character of the last half of the winter, at least foretells what its character will be. A fine, bright Candlemas, according to the ancient tradition, portends severe weather. In Scotland the prognostication is expressed in the following rhyme:

"If Candlemas is fair and clear,
There'll be twa winters in the year."

In Canada the same idea was expressed even more picturesquely by the quaint tradition respecting the bears, which shows that this habit of folk lore had its origin at a time when the country was largely in a state of wilderness, and bears were more plentiful than they are to-day.

On Candlemas Day the bears were said to break their winter's sleep and come forth from their dens. If the day was bright and fair they saw their shadows, and for some unaccountable reason, frightened thereby, hurried back to their beds, where they slept forty days longer. That, of course, meant a late spring. On the contrary, if the sky was overcast the bears saw no shadows. There was nothing to frighten them, they remained abroad, and spring came on apace.

When a town does not support its local daily and weekly papers properly, you need not look for any great progress in that locality. Local newspapers are the sign-boards that tell the stranger who the people are, and the class of business in which they are engaged. Take a business man who never patronizes his local newspaper, and you can scrape up enough sense off his back to pad a sofa. His ideas have more than enough room in a tea cup, and he can not keep far enough ahead of a funeral procession to keep the corpse from running over him—Sharpshoot.

In the course of his "Sunday morning announcements" a "Wabunness" County minister said: "Brethren, the janitor and I will hold our weekly wryer meeting next Wednesday evening as usual."—Kansas City Journal.

"When a fair skater sits unexpectedly upon the ice and makes a star upon its surface with the back of her cranium it is advisable to first assist the lady to her feet and then withdraw to some distance until she has fully recovered her temper and dignity."—

The superintendent of schools in Marinette, Wis., who has been using the probe, finds that pupils who use cigarettes don't stand as high in their classes as the boys who abjure the coffin nails do. Here's a case where statistics coincide with common sense.—New York Sun.

With the home merchant the farmer finds a ready market for his butter, eggs, potatoes and apples. The department stores take only his money. The home merchants, not for profit, but for accommodation and to assist the farmers, buy his produce. They sell it in some cases at a loss, yet some farmers do not appreciate this and take this very same money and send it to a department store, when they could get better bargains right here at home.

"Remember that every immigrant who comes to Canada brings with him the thousand years behind him. Breed and racial history will tell on his citizenship in this country. I would rather have a poor looking horse of good stock than a good looking horse of poor stock. Pick your immigrants and remember British history and British traditions."—Rudyard Kipling.

"Hey! yelled the stevedore, 'handle that gunpowder carefully.'"

"What's wrong with it?" demanded Finnegan, who had hold of it.

"Don't you know," replied the stevedore, "that some of that same powder exploded last year an' 'blowed up ten men?"

"Shure, that couldn't happen now," replied Finnegan, "for there's only two of us here."

A town that never has anything to do in a public way, is on the way to the cemetery. Any citizen who will do nothing for its town is helping to dig the grave. A man that curses the town furnishes the coffin. The man who is so selfish as to have no time from his business in driving the hearse. The man who is always pulling back from any public enterprise throws bouquets on the grave. The man who is so stingy as to be howling hard times, preaches the funeral, sings the doxology, and thus the town lies buried from all sorrow and care.—Ex.

The hero of a story which has been told of Archbishop Ireland is really that witty churchman, Bishop Talbot, "the Cowboy Bishop," whose powers of repartee and whose churchly devotion made him famous among those people of whom he has so delightfully written in his reminiscence volume, "My people of the Plains."

Where in h—have I seen you?" demanded a rough-looking man, meeting Bishop Talbot one evening in the crowded single street of a mining town.

To which the Bishop suavely retorted, to the shouting delight of the by-standers:

"What part of h—do you come from, sir."

THE GRANITE TOWN GREETINGS

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

Do you receive Greetings? Let us send you a sample copy.

The meetings of the Debating Club are very interesting, and are well attended.

It is reported that several small weirs are to be built in the river, as soon as the ice leaves.

A new temperance paper is to be issued in Fredericton. It will be a four page paper known as the Temperance Times.

E. A. Shaw, New River Mills, has a gasoline boat to sell. The boat is in good order and will be sold cheap. Write him.

Rapid progress has been made the past few days with the public wharf. Being quite near the top the work is carried on easier.

We are grateful to our friends in outside districts for items of news sent us, and we trust we shall hear from them frequently. We would like to have news each week from Second Falls and Utopia.

In the St. Stephen town election R. W. Gristmer was re-elected Mayor. The new Council will be composed of J. W. Scovil, Thos. Casey, J. F. Whitlock, Edw. Keyes, J. B. Polley and W. H. Dinsmore. The fight was a hot one, and the voting very close.

Telephone subscribers complain, with good reason, that the company has not carried out the agreement made when the system was installed here. The point of dispute is the Bonny River connection. In all probability the matter will be settled to the satisfaction of all concerned, as efforts are being made in that direction.

The total immigration into Canada for December last was 4,960; of this number 2,096 came in by ocean ports, and 2,862 from the United States. The total immigration into Canada during the last calendar year was 148,700, of which number 92,576 came in by ocean ports and 57,124 from the United States.

We are in receipt of a letter from "Taxpayer," in which some members of certain departments of town government are criticized pretty severely. We will be glad to publish anything that will advance the interests of the town, but we feel that no good will result from personal attacks of this nature, and we will have to decline this communication.

The entertainment on Tuesday evening, given by the Dramatic Club, was a decided success. The hall was packed, by an audience from town and out of town. "Broken Fetters" was put on, and everything went smoothly. The different parts were well taken, the specialties were good, and the young people have reason to be proud of their success. The music furnished by the orchestra was excellent.

The American consul at Nantes, France reports the use of the telephone in fishing in Norway. A special form of microphone is used, which is enclosed in a thin water-tight steel box, kept in communication with a telephone receiver on the fishing boat. By means of this apparatus, the fisherman is informed of the approach of fish by the peculiar sound produced in the instrument. A whistling sound indicates the approach of herring, while a sort of grunting sound announces the arrival of codfish in the neighborhood.

The Standard Publishing Co. Ltd., held their organization meeting yesterday, when the following shareholders were elected directors: J. B. M. Baxter, J. H. Crockett, G. W. Jones, B. R. Armstrong and Dr. J. W. Daniel. M. P. Later in the afternoon the directors held a meeting and elected the following officers: President, Dr. J. W. Daniel, M. P.; vice-president, J. B. M. Baxter; secretary-treasurer, B. R. Armstrong.

The matter of purchasing a plant was left with the directors, and it is expected that something definite will be announced before the end of the week.—Sun.

From a letter received in this city last week by a prominent engineer from an official of the Canadian Northern Railway, it is learned that McKenzie and Mann have decided upon connecting with an Atlantic port their great system of transcontinental railways.

Failing the taking over of the Intercolonial, which is generally considered unlikely, the C. N. R. will extend their lines to the east. The announcement of the decision, although not coming in the way of a surprise to those conversant with existing conditions, will be regarded significantly as the first public statement of the railway's policy.—Sun.

M. McGrattan & Sons are taking advantage of the fine hauling, to get some large blocks of granite in from their quarry.

The pulp mill is running to its full capacity, and grinding more pulp than ever before. The addition of new machinery has greatly increased the output.

The death occurred on Sunday of Rebecca Garnett, aged 68 years. Deceased was well known and lived here all her life. Funeral was held Wednesday from her late residence.

Rumors on the streets today are that the Conservative paper will make its appearance before the end of February. It is generally understood that negotiations are pending for the purchase of the plant of the Sun and it will not be surprising if these are successfully terminated within a very few days. If so it will not take the new proprietors long to complete other arrangements and to begin the publication of their paper.—Saturday's Globe.

The debating club met Monday evening and discussed the old question of War and Intemperance, or that war is the greater evil. That interest in the club is growing was evident by the discussion of the important question, every speech was good, and the debate was one of the best of the series. Messrs. A. C. Toy and Hector McKenzie acted as judges and in rendering the decision Mr. McKenzie took occasion to warmly congratulate the speakers of both sides for the arguments advanced and the able manner in which the question was handled. The decision was that intemperance was the greater evil. The decision was received with much applause and the conquered side took their defeat very gracefully. Leo McGrattan, K. B. Wathen, S. L. Lynott, H. R. Lawrence and Thos. Kent were the winning combination, and their worthy opponents were Edward McGrattan, Dr. Taylor, Hazen McGee, Dr. Alexander and R. T. Wetmore.

Thursday was public opening night at the rink. The St. George Cornet Band rendered music for the skaters. The ice was in splendid condition and a large number skated. Friday evening the weather and ice being ideal, about one hundred and fifty rink patrons enjoyed the best skates of the season. A nice little building has been erected at the rink and furnished with heat and light, so that all who skate may adjust and remove skates in a well heated room, and may rest between bands.

The second game of the Utopia Hockey League series was played off Thursday afternoon between the Greeks and Nemoes, and a splendid exhibition of clean manly hockey was displayed. Capt. Donell had his men early on the ice and they were in good condition when the game was called. During the early part of the first half-Cawley secured the puck near the Greeks goal, carried it down the ice, through the Nemoes defence and scored. Later A. Johnson by some smart checking blocked a second attempt of the same nature. However just before the half-closed Cawley made a long shot and doubled the score.

The second half was most exciting. The Nemoes were determined to score, and made three successive shots through the Greeks defence but were blocked at the goal. During this excitement Stewart got the rubber, rushed it up the open field and scored with a long put by Parks. Score was 3-0 in favor of Greeks.

Line up:
Greeks: Nemoes
Goal: Wathen Franley
Point: Watt Dunbar
C. P. G. Cawley E. Johnson
Center: Stewart Parks
R. Wing P. Doidis McCallum
L. Wing: R. Doidis A. Johnson
Rover: Donell Sherman
Referee: O'Neill

The third game was scheduled for Friday afternoon, but as one team was not ready it was postponed till Saturday. The teams met Saturday but the Beavers were three men short so the game was played under protest, and protest was later sustained at a meeting of the committee. At this game two brilliant scores were counted, one made by McCallum, the other by A. Johnson. Score was 2-0 favor of Nemoes. Referee Donell. This game will be played again.

The Utopia Hockey Club extends a hearty vote of thanks to the St. George Cornet Band for the genial manner in which they furnished the music on Thursday night.

Seemed to Vary
A country schoolmaster was coaching his pupils for the yearly examination by the clergymen of the district. He had before him the junior geography class.
"Can any little boy or girl tell me what is the shape of the earth?"
"To this there was no answer."
"I will give you something to remind you. What is the shape of this snuff-box in my hand 3-8?"
"Square sir," replied all.
"Yes, but on Sunday, when I change my clothes, I change my snuffbox and carry a round one. Will you remember that?"
"Oh, yes," was the reply.
Examination day came and the junior geography class was called.
"Fine class," said one of the clergymen. "Can any one of the little boys or girls tell me the shape of the earth?"
"Round on Sunday and square all the rest of the week," was the reply by one of the boys.—Exchange.

One in Seven Called by Consumption
A dreadful plague indeed when you consider that in incipient stages it can be cured. Take care of the little cold before it becomes a big one. When the throat is sore and it hurts to expand your chest, rub in Nerviline and immediately apply one of Polson's Nerviline Porous Plasters. Pain and tightness are at once relieved. Inflammation and soreness gradually disappear and fatal illness is thus avoided. Nerviline Plasters act as a counter irritant over the seat of pain, and as an exterior application in curing colds in the muscles, in pleurisy and headaches they have no equal. Keep these remedies right in your home.

Cough Caution
Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold—you should always take, soon, and use the irritant bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some cough finally comes about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—late though—Congress says "Put it on the label. If poisons are in your Cough Mixture, Good! Very good! Hereafter for this very reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's label—and none in the medicine, else it must be law to be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop packages with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

The Scientific Aspect of Earthquakes and Volcanoes
BY W. J. MURRAY

The dreadful fatal tragedy enacted at the extreme south of Italy and the eastern coast of Sicily cannot fail to awaken the heartfelt sympathy of the whole world for the ill-fated victims of probably one of, if not the most appallingly destructive earthquakes in the annals of seismic disturbances throughout the world. The latest accounts estimate the loss of life at 170,000 to 200,000 people, and it is much to be feared that the total number when fully ascertained may turn out in excess of these figures.

We surely have here the evidence that in the play of cosmic forces nature recks little of consequences. The terrible catastrophe on the shores of the straits of Messina has as little interest for the universe at large as the destruction of a microscopic infusorium or of the smallest bacillus. Both events happen through the operation of a mechanical necessity which throughout nature takes no cognizance of sentient beings, their feelings and their interests.

That from the human point of view earthquakes are an evil, goes without saying; and the worst of it is that it is quite impossible to prevent them, and almost equally impossible to avoid them.

Earthquakes and volcanoes, while different in their localities and modes of manifestation, are undoubtedly due more or less to a common natural cause, viz., the gradual cooling, and consequent shrinking or contracting, of the earth's crust, taken together with the fact of the great body of intense heat in the interior of the earth. A very high temperature must exist at a depth of even a small fraction of the earth's radius. At the depth of say twenty miles, the heat is so great that the most refractory solids whether minerals or metals, would at once yield if they could be subjected to such temperatures in our laboratories. But none of our experiments can tell us whether, under pressure of thousands of tons on the square inch, the application of any heat whatever would be adequate to convert solids into liquids. It is, therefore, doubtful whether the terms solids and liquids are at all applicable, as we understand them, to materials forming the interior of the earth. As to the immediate cause of earthquakes, there is considerable difference of opinion, as is always the case where a natural problem presents itself for solution outside the domain of what are termed the exact sciences. In all probability, an earthquake is one of the necessary consequences of the gradual cooling of the earth. As the terrestrial heat is gradually declining through its radiation out into space, it follows that the bulk of the earth must be gradually shrinking.

No doubt the diminution of the earth's diameter from this cause must be small, even in a long period of time. But the shrinking is nevertheless continually in operation, and accordingly the crust of the earth has from time to time to accommodate itself to the fact that the whole globe is slowly but surely getting smaller. It follows from these considerations that the rocks forming the earth's crust over the surface of continents, islands, and under the beds of the ocean, must have a declining acreage year after year. So that of necessity the rocks must compress either continuously or occasionally; and their yielding will usually take place in regions where the earth's crust happens to have least power of resistance.

The acts of compression may be and usually are irregular, with small successive shifts; and though the displacement of the rocks in these shifts may be actually small, yet the pressures which the rocks are subjected to are so great that a very small shift may correspond with a very great terrestrial disturbance.

Suppose that there is a slight shift in the rocks in each side of a crack or fissure at, say, a depth of ten miles, where the pressure would be about thirty-five tons to the square inch. Even a slight displacement of one extensive surface over another, the sides being pressed together with a force of thirty-five tons to the square inch, would be an operation accompanied by violence greatly exceeding that which we might expect from so small a displacement, if the forces concerned had been only of more ordinary magnitude. It can be readily understood that these violent movements under the surface of the earth must cause great changes and commotion over-ground, resulting in the wholesale destruction of houses, villages, and even large cities, and infrequently great sacrifice of human life.

When an earthquake occurs under the floor of the sea, at a great distance from land, it does little harm; but when it happens near the shore, as it did a few days ago, on the coast of Southern Italy, it causes great damage and loss of life. When the disturbance occurs under the bed of the sea, the waters above it become uplifted, and the shock spreads outwardly. As the waves approach the shore, the friction or drag on the sea bottom decreases their speed, but greatly increases their height. On a low-lying coast such waves (usually mis-called "tidal waves") are generally very destructive which is unfortunately verified in the Italian disasters. Both earthquakes and volcanoes are more frequently found near the sea coast than inland. In the United States, earthquakes are most common in California. There appears to be a seismic zone encircling the world in which earthquakes are more numerous than elsewhere. It includes Central America, West Indies, Azores, Italy, Persia, Afghanistan, Tibet, Japan, and Hawaii. Earthquakes are common in volcanic regions.

Volcanoes are caused in the main by the same conditions and influences that give rise to earthquakes. But they are different in their manifestation. Volcano eruptions are caused by leakage or percolation of water through cracks or crevices of the earth or rocks in varying quantities—sometimes in large quantities. As it comes in contact with the great heat in the lower part of the earth's crust, the water is converted into steam. The steam finds violent vent in an explosion that removes the pressure from the lava, which in turn is forced up through the vent.

This internal heat causes evolution of a great body of elastic vapour, which expanding and seeking an outlet where there is less resistance, shows itself in upheavals and explosive eruptions. The body of vapour supposed to be derived from superficial masses of earth becomes hydrated, or combined with water. Such action, as well as the presence of molten rock known as lava, is accounted for by vast internal displacements, bringing the inner crust with its high temperature nearer the surface. A great portion of the material thus upheaved is lava.

Lava is largely composed of silica and silicates, those containing a relatively small percentage of silica being called basic, and those containing considerable silica, acid. The acid variety of lava is lighter. Sometimes it does not move from the lava vent, and when it does it generally proceeds a short distance only, solidifying into a thick mass. The basic is much more liquid, and covers the slopes of the mountains or forms a lake on the adjacent plains. At the surface the lava is torn apart by the steam, the fragments being hurled high in the air. The fragments are known as cinders, and when finer as ashes. There are also numerous accessory phenomena, such as earthquakes, electric and magnetic disturbances, and acoustic manifestations, accompanying a volcanic eruption.

Both earthquakes and volcanoes have been inseparably bound up with the evolution of our planet for countless ages past, but their duration must have its limit, although that limit may be tens and even hundreds of thousands of years hence.

The present inherent and dead condition of our satellite—the moon—once the center of great volcanic activity, points unmistakably to a fate that sooner or later awaits earth of ours.

PHYSICIAN GIVES ADVICE

Tell Why So Many Suffer from Gout and Rheumatism.

A distinguished physician, famous for his successful treatment of catarrh and rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles, states as follows:—
"Our climate being more or less damp and changeable, is bad for catarrh and rheumatism, and care must be taken not to let these troubles gain headway. In addition, he states that a great many Canadians are careless in their habits, and to this as much as climatic conditions is due a great deal of the trouble. Inadequate clothing and improper eating will cause rheumatic and catarrhal troubles in any climate.

This eminent authority gives the following as the simplest and best treatment known to science, and to it he gives credit largely for his success: Fluid Extract, Cascara, ½ oz.; Fluid Extract Carriana Compound, 1 oz.; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, 6 oz. Directions: One teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

The ingredients are all vegetable, and have a direct and specific action on the liver, kidneys and bowels, eliminating all poisonous matter from the system. Any druggist can dispense this, or you can buy the ingredients separately and mix at home by shaking in a bottle.

Many of our readers should benefit by this article. Save the recipe.

Change Your Clothes

There is one little trick which the tired woman should learn, be she society woman or working girl. She should learn to change her clothing. Nothing rears one like that does. Take off the shoes you have been wearing all day, and put on other shoes. The pinch will come in a different place.

Take off the blouse you have worn all day and the collar which has been round your throat since morning, and put on a different blouse and a different collar. You have no idea how a fresh blouse rests one, and especially a fresh piece of neck gear. The pinch goes on a different set of muscles.

Do You Lack Self-Control?

If you are constantly keyed up, nervous, perhaps depressed—look to your over-worked nerves for the cause. They are starving for the nourishment that Ferronine so quickly supplies. Besides its tonic action on the nervous system, Ferronine has marvelous blood-forming properties. It thus supplies strengthening materials to every nook and corner of the system and brings the system to a condition of health. To be strong, to eat, to work long without fatigue, use Ferronine; it is the best nerve system known. At all dealers in 50c. box.

Don't Believe Your Looking-Glass

"Every girl who is dissatisfied with herself should remember that she is better-looking than the most kind of looking-glasses bids her believe, said a writer recently.

"A mirror, it is contended, cannot flatter a face that is in its natural state, that is, not made up. Even the very best plate glass has a pale green tinge, which reflects a color a trifle less clear than the original; hair also has always a more glossy sheen than the glass shows. If it is wavy, the glass never shows the best of the waves, and if it is straight, the glass accentuates the straightness.

More important, and still better to be remembered, and carefully treasured, no one ever looks at the face so closely or so critically as the owner of its looks at the reflection in the glass.

Dr. Hamilton Follows Nature's Plan

No physician was more successful in treating stomach and liver troubles than Dr. Hamilton. He avoided harsh medicines and produced a wonderful pill of vegetable composition that always cures. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are noted for promptly curing biliousness, sick headaches, constipation and stomach trouble disorder. They work like a charm, very mild, yet searching and health-giving. No where can a better tonic laxative be found than in Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Try them and be convinced, 25c. at all dealers.

Inviting Delinquents

A certain apartment house dweller had been somewhat slow in paying his rent and the agent finally called in person to see him.

"I'll make it hot for you if you don't pay that rent immediately," the agent said, threateningly.

"I say," remarked the shivering tenant, "if I let that remark get out among other tenants in this flat, you won't get another cent of rent from me."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Undertaker and Embalmer

I wish to announce to the people of Charlotte County that I am prepared to do all business in this line Cheaper and Better than ever

Besides carrying a complete stock of First Class Caskets, Robes and all other funeral supplies, which I am prepared to sell 20 per cent. less than any competitor, I have lately added to my stock a good line of Cloth-covered caskets, which I will sell from Fourteen to Twenty Dollars. I also have a good line of Coffins which I will sell at from Ten to Fourteen Dollars.

Anyone requiring anything in this line, will do well to examine my stock and get prices for themselves. Pay no attention to the Middleman or hired agent but satisfy yourself with me personally.

At The Station

A. J. Cassatt, the late president of the Pennsylvania R. R., recently told this at a luncheon at the Philadelphia Country club: "A western broker," he said, "moved from the city out into the country. He moved far out, and, since the railroad was small and the train service poor, he travelled to and from by carriage or automobile, exclusively.

"Deciding after a time to keep chickens, he ordered a patent chicken coop, and on the day it was expected set out in a dray to fetch it home from the freight office.

"He reached the railroad station, which he had never seen before, after an hour's drive. No one was in sight, but there was his chicken coop.

"A hundred yards or so down the road he met a chap in a blue uniform, with the title 'station-master' on his blue cap.

"'Hey, there,' exclaimed this chap, excitedly, 'what the dickens have you got on that dray?'

"'My new chicken coop,' the broker calmly answered.

"'Chicken coop be hanged!' shouted the station master. 'That's Muddy Junction.'—Exchange.

Group positively stopped in 20 minutes, with Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. One test alone will surely prove this truth. No vomiting, no distress. A safe and pleasing syrup—50c. Sold by all Dealers.

A National Missionary Congress

In many respects the National Congress of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, next spring will be the most remarkable gathering ever held in Canada.

The Churches of the entire Dominion without regard to denominational lines have never before come together with such hearty unanimity in behalf of any cause and strong Denominational Conference will be held every forenoon during the Congress, but in the great Sessions in Massey Hall lines of division will be entirely obscured.

In no nation have the churches ever been called upon to formulate a national policy in regard to their missionary undertakings; and possibly the most remarkable feature is the fact that so large an undertaking is entirely in the leadership of laymen rather than the clergy.

The clergy however will be present in large numbers and the first session Wednesday afternoon, March 31st will be of special interest to them. The Congress Program is planned with this in view so that many of the pastors who attend will be able to get away Saturday April 3rd and yet not miss any of the features planned especially for them. The closing day Sunday April 4th will be marked by the strongest possible addresses to different groups of laymen and college students.

In connection with the Congress there will be special Conferences for ministers, students and Sunday School workers. The women's societies of several communities are planning great meetings at the same time and the denominational Conferences promise to be of great profit.

In addition to the British and Canadian speakers invitations to address the Congress have already been accepted by Mr. Robert E. Spear, of New York; Bishop J. M. Thoburn, from India; Dr. J. W. Zwemer, formerly of Arabia; Hon. S. B. Capen of Boston; Mr. J. Campbell White, of New York; Mr. Silas McBee of New York.

It is expected that there will be 2000 regular Commissioners in addition to the group of Honorary Commissioners composed of clergymen, theological students and visiting Americans. Special rates will be given by the railroad companies and the action of Canada in her effort to meet the nation's share of responsibility in the world problem of missions will be watched by all Christian nations.

The Theme of the Conference will be "Canada's National Missionary Policy," with such sub-divisions as follows:—

The relation of the Ministry to a Missionary Church.

The Victorious Progress of Missions.

The place of the Church in the making of the Nation

The Stewardship of Life.

How to Lend the Church to its highest Missionary Efficiency.

The Congress has been described as unique, broad, far-reaching and epoch marking.

Two Sorts of People

Two sorts of people are met with at every turn in one's daily life—persons who are looking out for themselves, and persons who are looking out for others.

It is true that every person has regard both for himself and for others; but one man gives the first place to himself, his own rights, his own comfort, his own pleasure while another man gives the first place in all these lines to others.

And it is a noteworthy fact that, by the divine law of compensation, the man who is always looking out for himself is likely to have no one else look out for him, while the man who is always looking out for others is likely to have others looking out for him.

He who thinks he must fight his way through the world is pretty sure to find the need of fighting his way through the world, but he who is ready to give place to others is quite sure to find others ready to give place to him.

There is no surer way of setting everybody against one's self than by setting one's self against everybody. There is no surer way of having everybody's help than by trying to help everybody. He who seeks the first place shall lose it; he who is unselfishly willing to be last may in the end be first.

Even selfish considerations, therefore, should prompt a man to bear himself unselfishly.

Who wouldn't give 25 cents to stop a pain 20 times? Just one little "Pink Pain Tablet"—Dr. Shoop's—will stop any pain in 20 minutes, sure! Read the formula on the box. Doctors say it can't be bettered. Checks womanly pains, head pains, any pain. 20 tablets 25c. Sold by all Dealers.

Modern Philosophy

One should fear that ambition be a veil of conceit; but one should fear also that modesty be a pretext for laziness.

The avoidance of worry is very largely a question of self-control. The man who can prevent thought crowding on thought and can take one at a time, is safe. Do not take anything for a sense of worry except rest, plenty of food and fresh air to put you into good condition, and a resolution not to think in a general apprehensive way about your work, but do with concentrated attention, bit by bit, as it is wanted.

The more one's knowledge of human nature expands, the more convinced does one become of the value of self-satisfaction. Indeed, on making a mental survey of one's friends and acquaintances, one is forced to the conclusion that to be thoroughly pleased with one's self is one of the greatest of all factors to success in life. For a woman certainly nothing is quite so invaluable as thorough conviction of her own charm and fascination especially in the event of her possessing neither. Provided her imagination is sufficiently great, she has only to endow herself with all the attributes of a charmer to be acclaimed as such by a world which usually takes everybody at his or her own valuation.

Cambridge University admits 326 new students a year.

A kangaroo can jump from sixty feet to seventy feet in length, and fourteen feet in height.

The ordinary steel pen has to go through some sixteen processes before the steel of which it is formed is ready for use in writing.

The German Emperor has been known to change his costume twelve times in eighteen hours. His wardrobe contains more than 1,000 suits.

Kindness is one of the purest traits that finds a place in the human heart.

It gives us friends wherever we may chance to wander. To show kindness it is not necessary to give large sums of money or to perform some wonderful deed that will immortalize your name. It is the word of sympathy to the discouraged and disheartened. Kindness makes sunshine wherever it goes; it is the real law of life; the link that connects earth with heaven. Would you live in the remembrance of others after you are gone? Write your name on the tablets of their hearts by acts of kindness and love. The noblest revenge we can make upon our enemies is to do them a kindness.

Colds on the Chest

Ask your doctor the medical name for a cold on the chest. He will say, "Bronchitis." Ask him if it is ever serious. Lastly, ask him if he prescribes Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for this disease. Keep in close touch with your family physician.

We publish our formulae. We want to show you the reason why we are so successful. We urge you to try it.

Ayer's
When you tell your doctor about the bad taste in your mouth, loss of appetite for breakfast, and frequent headaches, he will say, "You are bilious." Ayer's Pills work well in such cases.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing insular nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all Dealers.

"Father Morrice's No. 10" will stop the Cough and Cure the Cold

Are you one of those who say, "O, it's only a little cough", and let the cough hang on, doing nothing for it?

If you are, just think a minute.

It is true that most colds, if left to themselves, will leave you after a while--but they leave you with the delicate lining of throat and lungs weakened--an easy prey to the next cold. Every cold you neglect makes it easier to catch the next one, and harder to get rid of it, and it doesn't take many such colds to give you Catarrh or some serious lung trouble.

"Father Morrice's No. 10"--Cough Cure and Lung Tonic--is a preparation of roots, herbs and Balsams that will prevent all this. It promptly clears away the mucus, removes the irritation and inflammation that causes the coughing, and heals and strengthens the delicate membranes. Besides, it tones up the whole system and gives you strength to resist the next attack.

Try a bottle, etc. Regular size, 50c. At your druggist's, or from Father Morrice Medicine Co., Ltd., Chatham, N.B.
