Correspondence.

"NOTHING CUTS LIKE TRUTH."

"A ruffian, one forever linked and bound to guilt and infamy. Wouldst thou know more? My story is an old one."

R. Hutchison has once more attempted to prove that the verdict rendered by the Arbitrators was wrong, and in so doing has thought it prudent to assume the role of a detractor. People who have read the discussion must now arrive at the conclusion that this man "must have been mad" when he went into print, and more so to deal with the business reputations and honesty of the arbitrators or any of them. But before referring to the personal matters contained in this last letter of his, let me as Chairman of the Arbitrators' Court, and as the person who took down the testimony, have the great pleasure to point out wherein Richard lies.

1st. We obtained no information outside of the testimony given in Court, enable us to arrive at a verdict in the Donovan matter, and so in number one is killed.

2nd. R. Hutchison deliberately and coolly lies when he states "we had no courage to render an honest verdict, nor had we courage to tell the Messrs. Fish, and so Richard lies once more."

3rd. That there was evidence given, as we stated, in reference to the hemlock logs, and so Richard lies again.

4th. That the evidence did prove the indebtedness of McKay and McGraw to the Messrs. Fish, and so Richard lies once more.

Now to another matter, and like Richard I am done. He has thought it wise to challenge investigation into his honesty and business character, and has foolishly allowed himself to interfere with matters not pertaining to the discussion. If he gets singled out to let him blame himself. He seems to hate dishonesty. There is an old saying and a true one "Show me the company you keep and I'll tell you what you are," and yet another, "A man is as good as his company."

I would ask (without particularizing the honesty or dishonesty of those closer and nearer to him) what his honest friends do day and for years back, who his private confidants and spies? Not the men who are known by honest industry, not the men holding good business reputations. To such as those he never yet gave countenance. For his claims, go up to the Clerk's Court and look at the records of our Bankruptcy Court, and you will tell. Why support and give guarantee for such men if he hates dishonesty and if it's his duty to expose them? He is a man of his own kind, ready and willing to do his dirty work, and for such men he has unbounded love and veneration. He seems to glory in saying "I never demanded a shilling only that which was legally due me." God help those who were legally due him. From London to Tallinn the average of his legal due, not like the "Pawnee or broad-brimmed" hard to follow, but broad, black, deep and dark like Richard, due me?—yes, if I deserted farms, abandoned homesteads, tumbled down barn houses &c., and under the barren sky, rain, want and misery could speak it would rejoice in crying out "Legally due me." Homesteads and barnhouses destroyed and deserted, families separated and cast adrift, leaving their bitter curses for him and his, all testify to "Legally due me." Dead stricken women turned from the bed of death to the highway while the destroyer's torch set the flames, testify to "Legally due me." "Legally due me" has caused more sorrow, made more men dishonest, and made more wicked and devilish in its execution, until nothing was left but desolation and ruin to prove how "legally due me" carried out its foul work.

"Legally due me" has sacrificed more property under the knock of the Sheriff's mallet, and by the hands of Bailiffs, been sold and bought in, registered and recorded in the name, style and firm of "Legally due me." It can pile up. "Legally due me"—God pity him. His business career has been marked with few bad points, and few legal death, and yet he talks about men's honesty, their characters and reputations as if they were clean. Did I think it profitable or even enjoyable to write such a history of "Legally due me" as would make angels weep. Look at this deserted village and you'll find the evidence of "legally due me," and not unlike the famous Brigham, if he does not lie in the love of the people and not in the Councils of the Church, he is at least generous in matters of state.

A Northwest Fisherman on Bass Fishery Grievances.

North East, Nov. 30, 1877.

MESSRS. EDITORS.—I take this opportunity of thanking you for past favors, and hope you will give a small space in your valuable paper to make a few proposals which have the benefit to the fishery men of the Northwest, and which have been abused by the Northwest, if the fishery officers who try their hand at law making would comply with them. It has been shown by the last registry of bass nets that the close season begins on the first of March. We would not grumble if they had made it the fifteenth of March, as it is not profitable to slip bass after that date, and they might make it a few days later in order to stock our home markets. Our river is badly overfished by men from all parts of the country, who come on the ice and build shanties. I have stood on the ice in places and counted thirty shanties, each containing three or four men, and if one man caught a few bass, he would stop to eat them, and if he caught more he would sell them to the others. It is a pity that he cannot sell in it, and fishing was not stopped Saturday or Sunday nights, for men in these shanties evade the Wardens and fish their nets and other men's nets. I would propose that no shanties be allowed on the ice. Also that the river from the North West bridge to Redbank be divided into districts, and only a certain quantity of holes be allowed in each district, to keep them from monopolizing the ground, and the holes to be 100 feet apart in the direct run of the tide and 50 in the opposite direction. And the men opposite whose land the district is to have the choice of position. After that a small tax might be placed on each hole to help defray the additional expense of overseeing, also to keep men from running from one district to another, because a few bass were caught there, when if they had stopped on their own ground they would have had a better chance, and the fish would not be hunted and scared out of the river.

The fishery officers will find that shortening the time will not remedy the evil of overfishing, but let them make a law that will stop the fish from being chased from one ground to another by one or two hundred nets, and our fish will increase instead of decreasing, as at present. Hoping the existing evil will be remedied.

I remain yours truly, A.

Renois River, Dec. 1st, 1877.

MESSRS. EDITORS.—There is considerable excitement and discussion here, over a site for a bridge that is wanted across this river. As two sites have been proposed, and petitions in favor of each have been circulated for signatures, I will endeavor to show which site is the most suitable; and calculated to afford the greatest accommodation to us. Site No. 1, being only 14 miles above the present bridge, would be of little or no benefit to us, but would be of immense benefit to D. McLaughlin, the proposed site being on his farm. It is therefore no wonder that he is the author of the movement, and that he is anxious to get the bridge at that site. Site No. 2 is seven miles farther up the river, at the end of the road owned by Fairley's Mills. Blackwell, who is the author of the movement, has been building for the building purposes from said Mills, as well as to take all our grain there to get ground, it is easily seen what an advantage it would be to us, to have a bridge at said site. The saving in distance is eight miles over the present route via Indianwau, and six over the route via No. 1, the distance to Indianwau being fourteen miles, while the distance across is only six miles. Now as this site is only six miles from the mouth of the river, it is easily seen that a boon the bridge would be to the people of this section, and it would accommodate. We therefore hope the Government will give this site their earnest consideration, and if the finances of the Province will permit, grant us the accommodation desired, which would be of so much benefit to us, and to which we think we are justly entitled, and also adopt Site No. 2, as it is the best that can be selected for the purpose.

Yours, &c., RENOUS.

ELEVATING THE STANDARD.

We are not at all surprised to learn that Mr. Laurier has been returned for Quebec East. His majority (316) is not so large when we consider that the constituency is a stronghold of the Grits, and that until very recently no oppositionist need apply. The only point against Mr. Laurier seems to be his unfortunate association with a most corrupt and unscrupulous Government, and as the old adage reads that "the company you keep is as good as you," it is not surprising that the constituency is a stronghold of the Grits, and that until very recently no oppositionist need apply.

Can deceit and political trickery further go. Will any one believe that the recommendation was passed on the 20th of November, and that it was not until the 20th of December that it was proclaimed on a particular day. But will the people not rather justly arrive at the conclusion that these so-called Reformers descended from their high positions, to make political capital out of the clemency of the Crown, using this high power to influence the election of a Member of the House of Commons, and then to proclaim it on a particular day. What a spectacle—Ministerial dignity trailing its robes in the dust to catch the votes of men, many of them poor laborers dependent upon the Government for their daily bread, who would have voted differently had they not been tampered with. And thus the Party of "Purity" are "elevating" the standard by means of unblushing bribery and the disgraceful use of their influence as Ministers of the Crown, a "Big Push" was made in Quebec East, the result of which has been the election of Mr. Laurier, but when all the facts are known, may even yet prove more disastrous to the Government than a defeat in such a constituency.

To Fish Dealers.—Attention is directed to the advertisement of Messrs. Herbert M. Rogers & Co., who do a large fish business in New York. In addition to the trade done by this house in the Fulton Wholesale Fish Market, they also carry on an extensive business in consignments of fish from all quarters, and which they give the very best attention. We have no doubt that any of our exporters sending fish to the Messrs. Rogers on Commission, will deal with a straight forward and business-like man.

The Printer's Miscellany for October is received. Mr. Finlay has displayed considerable enterprise in filling up the gaps in the issue of this most useful publication caused by the late fire. We have formed a very high opinion of the Miscellany on account of its neat practical value, and the excellent illustrations, which they give the very best attention. We have no doubt that any of our exporters sending fish to the Messrs. Rogers on Commission, will deal with a straight forward and business-like man.

Explains.—We fully agree with the St. John Telegraph, that it would be better for all editors to deal with questions on their merits, without getting into personal controversy. For ourselves, we can say that we always endeavor to do so, and never, until provoked to resort, have we resorted to personalities, or the columns of our paper have been filled with personal attacks. But there are some men so ignorant of the duties of a respectable journalist, and so incapable of fairly discussing a question on its merits, that their logic consists of slander, and their arguments of personal abuse. We have no objection to no paper in the Dominion is so notorious for these improprieties as the Chatham Advance, and no newspaper so frequently resorts to them as the Manager. And these personalities are not confined to the paper alone, but the Manager of the sheet has done his best to injure the business of the Advocate by sending letters to those doing business with this office, in which improper and personal references have been made to at least one of the proprietors. He may have tried this "bluff" game on others, and perhaps succeeded, but we are not inclined to deal with him who will not be bluffed down either by his own or by the Advocate. Marine Matters.

DECK LOG CARRIER AVOY. The master of the barque Avoy from Chatham, N. B., Oct. 2, for Penarth Roads, reports that on the 20th, when temperature, wind S. S. W. blowing in a hurricane, ship was hoisted, when a sea struck her broadside and carried away the whole of her deck load, stove the long boat and the quarter boat, and took the port gangway away. At the same time the stanchions under the boats' galls were carried away, the foretopmasthead was sprung and the cutwater and figurehead were damaged.

GOT OFF.—The barque Euchardina, M. Carthy, before reported ashore at Redbank, and the ship Hera, Capt. Kilham, from Quebec, Greenock, also previously reported ashore have been drafted.

General Intelligence.

Week of the U.S. Steamer Huron.

The following painful particulars of the Week of the United States Steamer Huron, are condensed from American papers.

NEWARK, N.J., November 24.—Startling news was received last evening that a terrible accident had occurred on the Charlotte, Columbia and Augusta Railroad, about twenty miles from Charlotte, caused by the falling of a trestle bridge which spanned the river. The train from Columbia for Charlotte was running over it, and that all the passengers had perished. The cause of the accident is conceded to be the undermining of the piers. The engine and tender passed over it safely and the structure then fell, when the express and baggage coaches were well on it. The express car fell into comparatively shallow water, and the express messenger, Bateman, was but little hurt, and he is now in the hospital. A gentleman named Lotte, N.C., who is reported drowned, and Messrs. McClen and McClen of Charlotte, injured severely.

LATER.—The number of passengers who left Columbia was happily reduced from over 100 to about 20, in consequence of debarkation along the line of route. These twenty went down with the wrecked train. The names of the victims definitely ascertained are Messrs. William K. Orr, and John J. Baker, of N.C., who are reported drowned, and Messrs. McClen and McClen of Charlotte, injured severely.
