Children have been recovered from the ruins, but it is feared there are more victims.

CHINESE CONCESSIONS. Pekin, April 26.—The contract with the Chinese Government providing for the concession of mining rights in the Province of Szechuan to Mr. William Morgan, M.P., and his American associates, by which the latter are assured equal mining rights with the British shareholders, has received the imperial consent.

ANOTHER LINK. Mr. Pirie has obtained the first place in the commons on Tuesday, May 3, for a resolution calling attention to the question of a tunnel from Scotland to Ireland, which was before the president of the board of trade by a deputation two years ago. Mr. Pirie proposes to ask the house to agree to preliminary surveys, which ought to be taken by the government, with the view of ascertaining for the public information whether such a tunnel is practicable. It is estimated that the cost of a preliminary survey would be $500 or $750, and Mr. Pirie and other members who sympathize with him maintain that the benefits which the tunnel would confer to the United Kingdom, and especially on Scotland and Ireland, would more than justify the expenditure.

REV. DR. PARKER'S STRONG LANGUAGE. The 300th anniversary of the birth of Oliver Cromwell has furnished the occasion for biographies, appreciative articles, portraits in all the papers, and the fulfilment of a sermon, and delivered an extraordinary oration to a large congregation. During the course of his remarks he attacked the Prince of Wales as a "certain card-playing prince," and the Duke of Devonshire as "a man who had no more faith in the Bible than the undertaker's bill for his wife's interment, he read the word on top of the bill, 'Unconsecrated.' 'Shame!' shouted Dr. Parker, and the congregation loudly re-echoed the word. Continuing, the preacher said: 'When I read the word it meant vitriol poured into a red, gaping wound. It is a knavish trick, a popish device, detestable blasphemy. It made me still more faithful to nonconformity, which made England possible to live in.'

ESTERHAZY'S BAD RECORD. Countess Esterhazy, who has begun proceedings for a divorce from Count Esterhazy, said that the publication of her husband's letters to M. Jules Roche had done her other harm. She would have forgiven him the ruin and disgrace he undeservedly brought upon herself and daughters, but now that he had published degrading, groundless details of her life, she could no longer refrain from taking the present step.

CABLE NOTES. Don Carlos, the pretender, is said to have sent a fresh manifesto to his adherents.

The Spanish Government has received a dispatch from Gen. Rios, Spain's principal commander in the Philippines, asserting that Maj. Gen. Otis has requested him not to withdraw the Spanish troops from the island of Mindanao until the arrival of the American force of occupation.

The following cable message has been sent to Major Harrison, of Chicago: "Local government happily established. Ireland waits your message on her march to home rule. (Signed) Editor, Irish Independent, Dublin." The only Government minister who has congratulated the triumph of Irish freedom must follow.

At Budweis, Bohemia, the strike that has been in progress for some time, culminated in collisions between the troops and rioters and several persons were injured.

A boat's crew of the British barque Clyde, which has arrived at Hong Kong, contained the mate and crew. They reported the barque lost on Pratts Shoal, in the China Sea.

REVELATIONS IN THE DREYFUS CASE. According to the Paris Temps, a member of the Dreyfus court-martial named Freystatter testified that it was the evidence given by Lieut.-Col. Henry which decided the court-martial to convict Dreyfus. Mr. Barthou, who also held the portfolio of minister of the interior, said he heard General Billot, minister of war in the Melne Cabinet, express doubts as to the guilt of Dreyfus during the trial of M. Zola, and that he (the witness) got the impression that the forgery was fabricated to dissipate these doubts.

Senor Guerin testified that when Gen. Mercier first acquainted the cabinet with the discovery of the border-eau, M. Hanotaux at once made objections, speaking of the diplomatic complications likely to ensue if Dreyfus were prosecuted.

Moderate. The German press continues to maintain a moderate tone regarding the utterances of Capt. Coghlan.

ATTACKED!

The Outer Defenses Stormed by Gen. MacArthur's Men.

Artillery Dragged Through the River, Which Was Shoulder Deep.

Some 6,000 U.S. Troops Engaged—Eight Americans Killed—The Enemy Driven Back to the Mountains.

New York, April 26.—A dispatch to the Journal and Advertiser from Manila, April 26, says: "Gen. MacArthur's division, 6,000 troops, annihilated the insurgents at Calumpit today. Aguinaldo's troops made a stubborn resistance, but were driven to the hills. Eight Americans were killed."

A Manila dispatch to the World tells of the capture of Calumpit. It says: "Manila, April 25.—The outer defenses of Calumpit were stormed by Gen. MacArthur's men at 11:30 o'clock this forenoon, and taken at 1 o'clock. These defenses were finely constructed, having emplacements along the bank of the Bagbag River and across the angle at the entrance of the Calumpit River into the Bagbag River. Gen. Hale flanked these entrenchments with the Iowa, North Dakota and Nebraska regiments, while Gen. Wheaton took them in front, advancing along the railroad.

"An armored train and three guns of the Utah Battery, with the Montana regiment and three guns, with Gen. Hale, advanced with the first line. Their work was most effective, demonstrating the advantage of having artillery, as the guns again saved the infantry a great deal.

AMERICAN LOSSES. "The loss in the advance here was 5 killed and 23 wounded. Col. Funston, having swam the Bagbag River, was the first man in the captured entrenchments. One span of the railroad bridge had been thrown down by the insurgents, and the track was torn up for a mile. The engineers are repairing the bridge so that Gen. Wheaton's force and his guns can cross.

LARGE FORTUNES ARE BEING WASTED

In Attempts to Cure Dyspepsia and Other Stomach Troubles.

If Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Were Used These Diseases Would Vanish From Canada at One-Hundredth Part of the Outlay.

"Give me the money that is paid to doctors every year, for their vain efforts to cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Wind on the Stomach, Foul Breath, Catarrh of the Stomach, and other stomach troubles, and I'll clothe every ill-clad person, feed every hungry one, build houses for the homeless, and build a church or a school-house at every cross road in the Dominion." So spoke a physician a few days ago.

He did not over-estimate the enormous waste of money in this direction. Hundreds of thousands of dollars are

IN PARLIAMENT

A Bill to Regulate Attendance at Executions.

The Plebiscite Returns—Discussion on the Franchise Act in the Senate.

Ottawa, April 26.—The following bills were introduced and read a first time in the House of Commons yesterday:

Respecting the James Bay Railway Company—Mr. McCormick.

Respecting the Huron and Erie Loan and Savings Company—Mr. Moore.

To incorporate the Canadian Permanent and Western Mortgage Corporation—Mr. Robertson.

Respecting the Dominion of Canada Guarantee and Accident Insurance Company—Mr. Clarke.

Respecting the Canadian Power Company—Mr. Bertram.

Respecting the Hamilton Powder Company—Mr. Madore.

SCENES AT EXECUTIONS.

Mr. Ethier (Lib., Two Mountains), introduced a bill to amend the criminal code so as to relieve the sheriff of discretion as to the admission of justices of the peace of the district, parents of the prisoner, clergymen and such other persons as the sheriff may deem proper to admit. For the last-named class the bill proposes to substitute the words "and journalists." Mr. Ethier instanced disgraceful scenes of the executions at St. Scholastique and Joliet, at the former the admissions by the sheriff numbering 875. The bill was read a second time.

Mr. Foster made another appeal for the production of the poll books and returns of the plebiscite in Quebec, quoted by Mr. Fisher.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier related how the man Parent has grossly deceived the minister and his colleagues in connection with the Quebec plebiscite. Every member was at liberty to go to the clerk of the crown in chancery and obtain the information used by Mr. Fisher.

The speaker gave it as his opinion that if a document was under the departmental control of a minister or his colleagues it ought to be produced, but as to whether the documents in the possession of the clerk of the crown in chancery were in that category he declined to rule.

Mr. Foster's motion to adjourn was negatived, and the house went into committee of supply.

The house discussed the militia and other estimates at some length. Mr. McMullen announced that he would bring in a bill to prevent civil service officers receiving salaries from more than one source.

THE SENATE.

In the senate yesterday Sir Mackenzie Bowell, in withdrawing his notice of motion for a return of copies of all correspondence on the subject of the proposed Pacific cable, said that he did so because the policy of the government with respect to the Pacific cable had been announced since he gave the notice of motion. He congratulated the government on the position it had taken in reference to this matter, and thought it best not to discuss it at present.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell, in moving for a return of copies of all correspondence between the government and the provincial governments relative to amendment to the franchise acts of the provinces to give voters the right of appeal to a judge, said that he had asked a question on this subject, and had been informed by the minister of justice that no correspondence had taken place, and that he could not have this information unless he moved for it in the regular way. He thought this a most extraordinary method of proceeding, as when the franchise act was under discussion in the senate last session, the minister had promised to try and induce the provincial governments to give this right of appeal to a judge, and it was because of that assurance that the majority of the senators had consented to allow the bill to pass without amendment, giving the right of appeal.

Senator Mills said that he had told inquiries made for him that he would not follow because the correspondence did not come to him that nothing had been done. When the franchise bill was under discussion last session he understood that the first minister had promised to communicate with the provinces, and he had not on the former occasion asked the first minister if he had received any answer to his communication, nor did he know now. There were two provinces concerned—Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. He would inquire and see if there was any correspondence he had been told of, which would be done unless the correspondence was private.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell protested against correspondence of this kind being regarded as private. There had been a little too much of that sort of thing. He asked the question whether the whole country they had been told that correspondence that had taken place was private.

Several other motions for returns were passed, and the senate adjourned.

DROWNING OF SIX MEN

By Breaking Through the Ice in the Gold Region—Other Casualties.

Winnipeg, Man., April 26.—The steamer Tees arrived here, reports that vague rumors have reached Skaguay of the drowning of six men at Fifty-Mile Creek through the ice. The trails are all breaking up. Several sleighs and three horses went through.

CHILD DROWNED.

St. Catharines, Ont., April 26.—Howard, the 4-year-old son of Mr. Wm. Goodlife, of the Western Hill, this city, was missing from his home yesterday morning. His body was found in the Fifty-Mile Creek. He had been playing in an old boat, and, it is supposed, he had fell off into the water.

SHOT HIMSELF.

Bellefont, Pa., April 26.—Rather than stand trial on the charge of incendiarism, Reuben Frantz, a young farmer of Worth township, shot himself just before the proceedings of the court yesterday. He will probably die. Reuben and his brother John were arrested on the charge of barn burning.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Belfonte, Iowa, April 26.—Mrs. Wm. Meyer, an aged widow, living near Boleburg, this county, was burned to death, while a large crowd of men stood helpless to rescue her from her burning home. The woman started to save as much of her property as possible. She had carried out everything of value except a trunk, in which there was considerable money, and insisted on rushing into the house. She was caught and dragged back twice, but the third time she dashed into the burning building. A moment later she was seen at the upper window with her clothes and hair afire, trying to raise the trunk to the sill to pitch it out. After several vain efforts she sank back. Her charred remains were recovered.

HAMILTON AND LONDON SYNOD

In Session at Brantford—Rev. M. Fraser Chosen Moderator.

Brantford, Ont., April 26.—The Presbyterian Synod of Hamilton and London opened Monday evening in the First Presbyterian Church. F. McQuaig, of Welland, moderator, occupied the chair. He delivered a very able sermon from Luke, xxiv, 44—"The Theology of Christ," after which the roll was called.

Rev. Mr. Fraser, Knox Church, Hamilton, was elected moderator for the ensuing year.

Yesterday morning's session opened with devotional exercises, Rev. Dr. Fletcher, of Hamilton, presiding.

Rev. Mr. Thomas gave a very interesting paper on "The Message of the Church to the Nation," after which a general and very interesting discussion was carried on.

Rev. Dr. Lyle, of Hamilton, followed with a very instructive paper on "The Sin of Adam, the Nature and Transmission," on which a very interesting discussion was continued till noon, when adjournment was made.

Rev. Dr. Radcliffe, of St. Catharines, was elected to fill the clerkship made vacant by the death of the late Rev. Dr. Cochran.

Revs. Drs. Hamilton, McMullen and Thompson were appointed a committee to frame a resolution of tribute to the late Dr. Cochran.

At the afternoon session Rev. Mr. Gordon, of Strathroy, read a paper on "The Minister God's Messenger."

Rev. Dr. Lang, of Dundas, addressed the assembly on "Public Worship."

Rev. Mr. Cockburn, of Paris, gave an address on "Prayer in Public Worship," and Rev. R. Haddow, of Watford, on "When and How to Sing."

The different subjects were discussed by ministers present, and many interesting points were brought out.

PROVE ALL THINGS.

London People Look for Proper Proof.

To win a wager, an English marquis stood on London bridge and offered British sovereigns ($5) for five shillings ($1 25). He could not find a customer. It's not to be wondered at, the public look askance at any proposition where the proposer is apparently a financial loser without any direct or indirect gain. Fraudulent schemers have often been successful, and in these days skeptics want better proof than the word of a stranger. No evidence can be stronger than the testimony of friends and neighbors of people we know. Here is a case of it:

Mrs. G. Grisman, 505 Adelaide street, praises Doan's Kidney Pills. Says she: "My daughter, now 13 years old, has had weak kidneys since infancy, and her health as a consequence has always been poor. Two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills have removed every symptom of kidney trouble, and restored her to perfect health. I am truly thankful for the great benefit they have conferred upon her."

Doan's Kidney Pills are the only never-failing remedy for backache, weak or lame back, Bright's disease, diabetes, dropsy, gravel, sediment in the urine or scalding, weakness of the kidneys in children and old people, female complaints, etc. Price, 50 cents a box, or three for $1.25, at all druggists. Ask for Doan's, and refuse all others.

But two tanneries of any magnitude are in operation throughout Japan—one in Osaka and the other in Tokio—and they are chiefly occupied in supplying the leather wants of the army and navy.

A DINNER PILL.—Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthful nutriment, it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parmlee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convey the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with indigestion.

The greatest age which any species of insect has ever been known to attain is 15 years. This feat is accomplished by an ant which has been tenderly reared for a certain naturalist for that length of time.

Glorious News

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile, of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of sorofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help, but her cure is complete and her health excellent." This shows what thousands have proved—that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It is the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, rheumatism, boils, and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion, builds up the strength. Only 50 cents. For sale by W. T. Strong & Co.

BASEBALL.

President Davis, of the Canadian League, has concluded his labors in connection with the schedule, and has sent the precious document out for approval of the various magnates. Later in the week it will be given out for publication. Mr. Davis will now take up the cases of Warner, who is claimed by Hamilton and Guelph, and La Fleur, to whose services claim is made by Guelph and Chatham. A decision in each case may be looked for some time this week.

Nearly all of the ball players signed by London for 1899 have reported for duty. W. D. Howells, center fielder, who played in the first part of 1898, arrived here on Monday afternoon from Blackington, Mass., and Charles Jones, short stop, of Erie, Pa., and Wm. Carey, of Grandville, Pa., reached the city together at 3 o'clock yesterday morning.

Hamilton Herald: The kick registered by the Guelph Herald against the Canadian League schedule as far as it was adopted at the recent annual meeting is somewhat out of order. Manager Black saw that it was useless to hold out for the Queen's Birthday games and very wisely concluded to come to Hamilton, where he would be sure of a big gate. Guelph could have had the Dominion Day games for the asking, but Mr. Black feared to go up against the C. W. A. annual race meeting, which will be held at the Royal City on that day. There was nothing underhand in the arrangement of the schedule at London. Guelph's representative is a good fighter for what he believes to be right, and the fact that he acquiesced peacefully in the allotment of home and Saturday games is the best proof in the world that he was well satisfied.

Dr. Gauthier Indorses the Statement that Mr. Major Owes His Life to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Dr. J. T. A. Gauthier, of Valleyfield, Que., writes: "I, the undersigned, certify that the contents of this letter, in regard to the cure of Mr. Isador Major, by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, is correct.

Here is Mr. Major's letter: "After twenty years of suffering from backache and kidney disease, I owe my life to Dr. A. W. Chase. I had tried an endless variety of remedies to no avail, and on the recommendation of a friend began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Two pills that night, and I continued their use until now I am completely cured. My friends are surprised and pleased to see me well again, for I spent hundreds of dollars in vain trying to get cured. Before using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills my back ached so I could not put on my shoes and couldn't lift twenty pounds. My shoulders were sore, I had headaches and a bad taste in the mouth. These troubles are now entirely gone and what I say I am ready to prove. I have told my friends of my wonderful cure, and many have been greatly benefited by using these pills."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the greatest kidney cure the world has ever known. One pill a dose, 5c a box, at all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto.

the team. He has played professional ball since 1888. Last year he played first base for Bay City in the International League. It is expected he will have his team signed and ready for business by May 1. The grounds have been leased; the suits ordered (green with maroon trimmings); George Dutton has half the money subscribed in his inside pocket, while all the baseball cranks in town wear that "happy expression." It is gratifying to note that the executive have instructed Manager Popkay that none of the aggregation that played here last season, either with or against the local team, have the ghost of a chance to be signed this season.

GROUNDERS.

Pitcher Frank Killen has been released by Manager Irwin, of the Washingtons. At Louisville, Ky., yesterday, Hans Wagner won the game for the Colonels. In the fourth inning Hans knocked last ball over the left field fence, tying the score, and in the ninth inning he drove the ball over the same fence and scored the winning run.

Pitcher Glassford will do most of the pitching for 'Varsity on its American tour. "Glass" will have a chance to distinguish himself before Holy Cross, Wesleyan, Vermont, and the other strong teams on the list.

Charley Cominsky, the manager of the old Brown Stockings, used to say: "The way to win the championship is to make sure of all the games with the weaker teams. Play safe by defeating the weak teams, and then take your chances with the strong ones."

'Varsity will have three new men on the team in the game next Saturday. McDonald, of the Dental College, who played with Galt last year; Christmas, of Elmira, with the year's St. Thomas team; and Lytle, of the Science School, who had a bang-up record with London last season, will be the additions. They have been writing in their examinations up to the time of the game, and consequently were not able to play until this week. All three are fast fielders and heavy hitters. With this acquisition 'Varsity ought to put up a swell game this week.

St. Louis has loaned Catcher Zimmer to Cleveland.

The Columbus (formerly Page Fence) Giants will open the season at the Detroit Athletic Club on May 13 and 14.

AT THE AQUEDUCT.

New York, April 26.—There was great excitement at the Aqueduct race track yesterday in the fourth race. There was a rattling finish, with Concord, Leandro, Dan Rice and Mordecai, when Morgan tried to creep in against the rail, with Squire Abington, when the horse was taken with heart disease, and fell in a heap on the track, throwing Morgan, and dislocating his shoulder. Later the horse was killed. Dan Rice and Nautch Girl made all the running, and Concord won by a head on the post. Summary:
First race, selling, 5 furlongs—Gaze 1, Tyrian 2, Vertigo 3. Time, 1:07 1/2.

Second race, 4 1/2 furlongs, selling—Gertrude 1, Celles 2, Freilighuysen 3. Time, 57 1/2.

Fifth race, 4 1/2 furlongs—Garterless 1, Pupil 2, Big Gun 3. Time, 55 1/2.

Sixth race, 6 furlongs, selling—Sweet Caporal 1, Effervescent 2, Tut-Tut 3. Time, 1:15 1/2.

RACING IN ENGLAND.

London, April 26.—At the first day's racing of the Newmarket first spring meeting yesterday, Mr. G. M. Inglis' Elona won an all-aged selling plate, Tod Sloan rode Mr. T. Corn's Sheperton (6 to 4), but was unplaced; eleven horses ran. The Hastings plate of 500 sovereigns was won by Lord William Douglas-Baird's Jolly Tar (2 to 1), ridden by Sloan, finished third; eight horses ran. A maiden plate of 100 sovereigns was won by Noble Rose. Cydaria (6 to 4), with Sloan up, was second in a field of nine horses.

TRIGGER.

C. M. R. L. MATCHES.
The dates for the Canadian Military Rifle League matches are: May 27, June 3, July 7. The series will be the same as last year: 1. Martini or Lee-Enfield rifles; ranges 200, 500 and 600 yards. 2. Cavalry series—First section, Lee-Metford or Lee-Enfield carbines, ranges 200, 500 and 600 yards; second section, Snider or Winchester carbines; ranges 200, 500 and 600 yards; provided that there are at least three entries in each series or section. Permission is granted the Thirteenth Battalion of Infantry to visit St. Catharines on May 24, to participate in the Queen's Birthday celebration to be held there on that date.

FESTIC.

New York, April 26.—Six thousand people saw two pairs of prize fighters settle their arguments in less than three minutes' actual fighting at the Lenox Athletic Club last night. Joe Walcott knocked out Dan Creedon, of Australia, after one minute and fifteen seconds of fighting. Walcott floored Creedon first with a left on the jaw, and repeated the trick twice with two rights on the same mark. The last blow was a terrific one. Creedon fell on his back on the floor, and was unable to get to his feet in time. They were billed for 25 rounds.

LAWN TENNIS.

REVISING RULES.
A meeting of the lawn tennis committee of the London Rowing Club was held at the residence of Rev. Canon Canon on Monday night, to draw up a set of rules to be submitted to the general committee. Rev. Canon Dann was elected chairman of the committee, with Mr. H. M. Lay, of the Bank of Commerce, as secretary. The members present were: W. Hobbs, Bert Lind and Fred Beltz.

WRESTLING.

A DRAW.
St. Paul, Minn., April 26.—After a desperate contest for the two bouts, the Burns-McLeod wrestling match ended in a draw. Burns, a native of hard work. In the third bout the men wrestled for 25 minutes without either getting on top, and as both were greatly exhausted they agreed to call it a draw, and the referee declared all bets off. The match was catch-as-catch-can for the championship of the world, a purse of $500 and a bet of $250 a side.

GOLF.

ST. THOMAS LADIES' CLUB.
The following have been elected officers of the St. Thomas Ladies' Golf Club: Mrs. Miller, captain; K. Gilbert, secretary-treasurer; board of management, Mesdames Jackson, R. McLachlin, Babbitt, Ermalinger, Waterbury, Pettin, W. A. Wilson, M. A. Gilbert and Miss Hughes.

FOOTBALL.

A VICTIM.
Mr. Stanley Charlton, second son of Mr. A. Charlton, M.P. for South Norfolk, who died on Monday, had an operation performed on Sunday for perforation of the bowels. In November last, while playing football, he was hit over the stomach with the ball, and was forced to give up, owing to an attack of appendicitis, which followed.

NOTES OF SPORT.

Who Is It, the sensational racing colt, has been sold by A. G. Gurnet, of San Francisco, to Sam Gamble for $5,000. Who it is by Nutwood Wilkes out of a Happy Medium mare, and has a mark of 2:12 as a 2-year-old.

James Scanlan, of Pittsburg, knocked out Paddy Purtell in three rounds at Memphis last night. Connolly, of Philadelphia, and Barnett, of Dayton, fought 20 rounds at Newark, O. M. J. Dwyer beat Tom Lewis at wrestling in Columbus.

The Sporting Times says: "Flying Fox is just now all the rage for both the Two Thousand and the Derby, he having come out of his recent trial handsomely."

A record in English football transactions was established this month by the transfer of Settle, the Bury forward, to Everton, for which the latter club paid Bury £400.

"Mr. Jersey" (Mrs. Langtry) is making no figure at Epsom. She was summoned to Jersey a short time ago on account of the illness of her mother, and narrowly missed going on the ill-fated Stella.

Cycling West, published in Denver, Col., is authority for the statement that the bona-fide paid-up membership of the League of American Wheelmen has now exceeded 80,000, and is today less than 40,000.

Toronto Saturday Night: "Of all the games played in Canada cricket is the one that depends most upon preparation and skill, and this season these will not be lacking, for an Australian, and English and two United States eleven will visit Toronto and other cities during the season."

The estimated cost of the new cup defeated by 70,000.

John R. Gentry recently went a mile in 2:00 1/2, but the scribe who wrote that early-season record neglected to mention what train the crack pacer was on.

A "SOCIETY" BURGLAR

Went to Church, Gave Dinners and Parties, Smoked and Drank the Best and Stole $150,000.

London, April 26.—"The Social Highwayman" of delightful fiction has appeared in actuality in Robert Graham, of 6 Highbury Crescent, N. Since Graham was sentenced to penal servitude for seven years for the theft of some rings, the police have gained information of all the secrets of his predatory life, and have learned that he made not less than $125,000 to $150,000 in his time in the United States. He never entered a dwelling or a bank. He gave his attention solely to the fine shops of the jewellers.

He was an expert in the use of delicate tools employed by burglars, and, like Heiligobalus, who never used the same plate or the same linen the second time, Graham never used the same tools twice. One little article that could hardly be called a tool of his trade, though used in his illicit occupation, he used repeatedly, and regarded it as his masoc. This was a small mask to cover his face. He left this mask behind in a store at Shrewsbury, and it was for this burglary that he was arrested and sentenced. He attributes his arrest to the loss of his masoc.

In fact, he was arrested because a detective sergeant noticed on his finger two rings in which were set valuable diamonds, such as were described in the list of articles stolen from the Shrewsbury shop.

Graham is a short, fair, good-looking man of 35, who mixed with the very best people, and attended church regularly, usually in a carriage and pair.

His house was excellently furnished, and in his library are to be found many choice and valuable editions. He paid his accounts monthly, dealt with the better class of tradesmen, always insisting upon having the best of everything, regardless of cost.

He had most excellent taste in the matter of wine and cigars, and his visitors—drawn principally from the good families in the district—received with pleasure his little invitations to dinner or to his "at homes" given every fortnight.

Mr. Graham was passionately fond of mastiffs, and besides owning several of this particular breed, he has benched a couple of prize-winners.

He took also a great interest in gardening, his favorite flower being the geranium, which he grew in great variety. He did not disguise the fact that he was not adverse to a little gamble, and there are book-makers in the neighborhood of the Angel, Islington, with whom he did business. He was calling upon one of the book-makers when a detective-sergeant noticed the rings and arrested him.

THE PROBLEM SOLVED.
The New Medical Discovery Tested.

Results of the Test in Various Forms of Dyspepsia.

Chronic indigestion or dyspepsia, while a very common trouble, has for some time been looked upon by able physicians as a very serious thing, and that no time should be lost in treating it properly at the start, because recent researches have shown that the most serious, fatal and incurable diseases have their origin in dyspepsia or indigestion.

Diabetes is simply one form of indigestion, the sugar and starchy food not being assimilated by the digestive organs. In Bright's disease the albumen is not properly assimilated.

What has been the question which has puzzled physicians and dyspeptics alike, until the question was solved three years ago by the appearance of the new dyspepsia cure in the medical world known as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which it was claimed was a certain reliable cure for every form of stomach trouble.

Physicians, however, would not accept such statements without first giving the new remedy many tests and carefully observing results.

For three years the remedy has been thoroughly tested in every section of the country and with surprising and satisfactory results.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can honestly be claimed to be a specific, a radical lasting cure for indigestion in the various forms of acid dyspepsia or sour stomach, gas or wind on the stomach, too much fat and fullness or depression after eating and similar symptoms resulting from disordered indigestion. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets were not placed before the public until this three years' trial left no doubt as to their value, and they have recently been placed in the hands of all druggists at the nominal price of 50 cents a package.

No false claims are made for the remedy. It will not cure rheumatism, pneumonia, typhoid fever nor anything but just what it is claimed to cure, and that is every form of stomach trouble.

No dieting is necessary, good wholesome food and plenty of it and you may rest assured that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest it.

Druggists claim for it that it is a pleasure to recommend it to dyspeptics, because it gives such universal satisfaction.

The Growing Development of Canadian Industries.

A Hint for Manufacturers—Emigration Statistics—The Intercolonial—An Ottawa Budget.

Ottawa, April 24.—With the coming of spring there are evidences of greater and ever growing progress and development in Canadian industries. Last year the trade of the Dominion increased $47,000,000 over the previous twelve months, which was itself the biggest up to that time; the indications this year are that there will be another increase of probably $16,000,000. The increase is not all in natural products, though, naturally and necessarily, these are the mainstay of the Dominion's exports. Manufactures are developing with giant strides, and every part of the country, from Nova Scotia to Vancouver Island, is so busy with development that it is scarcely possible to mention them all. It is announced that a larger blast furnace than has yet been constructed in Canada is to be built in Toronto, and that Ottawa will be started on Midland, Deseronto and Owen Sound.

A NEW STEAMSHIP COMPANY.

A new steamship company is seeking incorporation that it may do business in Canada's inland waters, and it is the intention of the company to at once build a fleet of ten solid steel carriers, each with a capacity of 78,000 bushels of wheat. These boats will place the transportation question in a much better position than it is at present, and it will no longer be a reproach to Canada that 88 per cent of our wheat product is carried to the seaboard in American bottoms, via New York. These boats will also go extensively into the business of bringing iron ore from the head of Lake Superior to the several blast furnaces now operating or about to be con-

A NOTE FOR MANUFACTURERS.
The London (England) correspondent of the Toronto Globe gives publicity to a couple of incidents which cannot be too widely known throughout Canada for the purpose of pointing upon the observation of which much of the success and permanency of our business with the old country depends. They are, he remarks, a general example of the honest things and second of how not to do things. In the first case an agent for a Canadian patent came over to introduce his goods and meet with such success that he had difficulty in putting out the orders, and this because he noted the exact condition and requirements of the British market and modified his goods accordingly. The other case was that of the representative of a syndicate of furniture manufacturers whose orders were not filled according to specification, but were made up for the market, and in stock, which did not meet the requirements of the market, and were refused as unsatisfactory, the British dealers naturally declining to accept the dictum of the manufacturers. The first goods were "very different" than those ordered. A.

the correspondent remarks, "perhaps they prefer the home trade, if so, they have no right to ruin the market in Britain for others whom it will pay to do business in a businesslike way." He follows this comment by repeating the excellent advice previously given and quoted in these letters, that it will pay any Canadian manufacturer to make a personal study of the requirements of the British market.

The imperial emigration statistics for the month of March show that Canada is still holding her own in the proportion of settlers coming to her shores. The figures given show 1,586 Britishers left England for Canada as against 1,669 in March of the last year, and 1,174 foreigners as against 779 last year. Both the British and foreign classes there is a considerable falling off in the number going to the United States and the total emigration for the month is less than it was a year ago. The figures for the three months ending March 31, from Great Britain are: In 1899, 2,622; in 1898, 2,995; foreigners, in 1899, 2,517, and in 1898, 1,477, or an increase of 20 per cent. The total emigration for the period shows a decrease of about 8 per cent.

A SIGNIFICANT OMISSION.

It is indeed strange that when all other matters of political discussion have been overshadowed for the past two weeks by the undignified and incoherent campaign against the administration of the Yukon, and when the chief and most striking of those charges refer to the late administrator, whose home is in Brockville, the entire subject has been tactically ignored by the opposition speakers in the election campaign in that city. One would have imagined that such an opportunity to drive the charges home and clinch the indictment on the spot, would have been eagerly seized by the contras of the government, but on the contrary the position has been to all intents and purposes abandoned. It is true that Sir Charles Abbott, stung into action by a merciless castigation his well-known member, the member for Pictou, has received on all hands for his reckless and unsubstantiated speech earlier in the debate, has taken an hour to retract and state that Sir Hibbert said nothing of the allegations with regard to the Tupperesque disfigurement of facts, and no attempt to produce corroborative evidence, but the country has got so thoroughly used to the peculiarities and the procrasies of the Tupperites that they produce little effect on the country, and even the house itself, the honorable gentleman's supporters and colleagues will not take the trouble to stay in the house and listen to him.

THE IMPORTANCE OF THE HORSE.

The annual horse show, which has just been held in Toronto, is of far more local interest, for the breeding of horses can be made a source of great wealth to the Dominion. In previous years the show has largely depended for public favor and patronage upon extraneous displays and other spectacular trimmings. This year, however, the function was a horse show, pure and simple, and the fact that the public patronage was of a large and exceedingly satisfactory nature. It is very interesting to note that the exhibitors were more numerous than ever and the quality more than up to the standard. It remains with the themselves to get into the business the more numerous and progressive breeders and shippers.

THE INTERCOLONIAL.

the opposition loves to yell like that of the Intercolonial R.R. It was for many years a hole-in-the-hole into which to pour the money that the opposition can associate with the deficit from the management. There have been very few years in the history of the road when there has not been a deficit in current expenditure, and the total cost of running the road since it was opened has been some millions more than has ever been received back in the form of revenues. Last year as usual, there was a deficit, but it was not owing to the fact that there were two years' expenditure for repairs included in the one year's statement, and even then the total expenditure was lower than in several of the previous years under the present administration. But the revenue for 1898 was $55,000 higher than the next previous best, and this year, with the Montreal extension in full operation, the same can be unquestionably said. Improvement will be very marked. Under live and business-like administration there is no doubt whatever that the Canadian Railway can be made the source of permanent benefit to the country.

THE LATE MRS. BRAY.

The sympathies of many will go out to the grief-stricken family of the late Mrs. Bray, who died last night at the home of her father, Mr. T. F. Kingsmill, whom she was visiting. Besides her bereaved husband, the Rev. Horace E. Bray, four little children are left to mourn her loss. Mrs. Bray had a host of friends, not only in London, but also in Markdale and in Thamesville and Bowtell, where Mr. Bray has been rector. The funeral will be private, and will take place on Friday morning from St. Paul's Cathedral.

A RECORD-BREAKER.

Timothy Sullivan made his 39th appearance before the police magistrate this morning, charged as a drunken vagrant. He was sent down to jail for a month. Sullivan was first arrested in 1884. He is about 26 years of age.

SUMMER COTTAGES AT SPRINGBANK.

Mr. U. A. Buchner, barrister, purposes building twenty summer cottages on his property adjoining Springbank Park. The property is the site of the old summer theater, which was burned over a year ago. Mr. Buchner says he is debarred from building at present, because the water commissioners are unwilling to give him a right of way through the park grounds, possibly because they consider that the drainage from his property would affect one of the ponds in connection with the waterworks system. This Mr. Buchner thinks is not sufficient reason for the commissioners shutting him out, as they are. He threatens to put 100 hogs on the land to run loose, if a right of way is not given him, so that he may build the cottages.

CITY HALL NOTES

That Extra Thousand Dollars Causes Talk—Assessors' Clerks Appointed.

There is a great deal of talk around the city about the action of an alderman and city official in bonding the O'Callaghan terrace property for $12,000 and then naming $18,000 as its price, in the event of its being chosen as a site for the armory. It has been asked why an alderman should be interested in trying to put the city to extra expense. Is it not an alderman's duty to save the city unnecessary expenditure? It is hardly likely that a Mazet commission is needed in this city to investigate the city administration, but many think this is an affair that the county judge may properly be asked to look into.

The assessors will start work on Monday, and will complete one ward at a time. Their attention will be directed first to No. 1 ward. Clerks have been appointed as follows: Thomas Dreaney, with Assessment Commissioner Grant; William Brown, with Assessment, and Charles Doble, will Assessment.

The council is expected to declare the tax rate at the regular meeting on Monday night. What it will be nobody knows, but the general opinion is that the high-water mark of 2 1/2 mills in 1885 will be exceeded. The large deficit owing to too low a rate being fixed last year, the diversion of the revenue from loan companies, and the dilapidated condition of many streets and sidewalks, which have been allowed to go unattended two or three years longer than they should have gone, are all important factors in the increase.

The estimates for streets and general improvements have assumed gigantic proportions. An alderman asked the city engineer how much he would be, and Mr. Graydon replied that if the board endorsed the claims of the individual aldermen they would be asking $60,000. The amount last year was $22,500, and this year it is probable the board will hold out for $10,000 more, for there will be a supplementary appropriation of $7,500 from the sewer debenture fund.

BRUMELL—PETERS.

One of the most fashionable weddings of the season took place today at 87 Maple street, when Miss Kate, daughter of the late Samuel Peters, was married to Mr. Walter Brumell. The ceremony was performed at 2:30 by the Rev. Jas. Allen, of Sherbourne Street Methodist Church, Toronto, in the presence of a few of the most intimate friends and relatives. The bride was attired in a fashionable brown tailor-made gown, and was supported by Miss Agnes Young, of Toronto; Mr. G. E. Toye, of Toronto, acted as best man. The decorations consisted of pink carnations, roses and palms. Among the guests present were Mrs. Brumell, Miss Carter, Mrs. (Rev.) James Allen, Mr. and Mrs. John Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Clarke, Toronto; William Grant, Toronto; Mrs. John McClary, city; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hamilton, Mrs. Kingston and Master King, New York. The happy couple left on the evening train for New York city and Lakewood, New Jersey, where they will be the guests of Mr. George Gould during the honeymoon.

MANSON—JOHNS.

The residence of Mr. Charles Johns, 242 King street, was the scene of a happy event yesterday afternoon, the occasion being the marriage of Mr. Johns' daughter, Mary, to Mr. Robert Manson, of McCook, Neb., formerly of Ayr, Ont. The ceremony was performed at 1 o'clock by Rev. W. J. Clark. Misses Nellie and Jennie Pearson were bridesmaids, and Mr. Charles Johns, jun., assisted the groom. The bride was richly attired in cream silk, and the bridesmaids wore gowns of pink and blue. The decorations of the house and table were in green and white.

A large number of guests were present. Mr. and Mrs. Manson left at 5:10 p.m. for eastern cities. Returning, they will spend a few days in the city before going to Nebraska to reside. The best wishes of a large circle of acquaintances go with the happy couple to their new home.

WHITE—WELDON.

Miss Sadie Weldon, youngest daughter of the late Andrew Weldon, was united in marriage today at high noon to Dr. Edwin Bruce White, of Oil City, Pa. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. J. Teleaven, assisted by Rev. Richard Hobbs.

P. O. CARRIERS' BELTS

Letter Carrier Suspended for Refusing to Wear a Belt.

A letter carrier was laid off today because he refused to wear the belt that is usually worn by letter carriers. The reason why he refused was because it was injuring his health. It is said that the wearing of these belts is not made imperative in other places. One would think the main interest of the public was in having their mail promptly delivered. It looks like a bit of martinet business to suspend an employe for any such reason as above given. The case referred to will be brought to the attention of the postmaster-general by Col. Lays.

LATE SPORTING

The Schedule—London Gets Nine Saturdays and Three Holidays at Home.

BASEBALL.

THE SCHEDULE

Bert Sheere says London is fairly well satisfied with the schedule arranged by President Cal Davis. The Cockneys get May 24, July 1, Civic Holiday, and nine Saturdays at home. They are billed for several Saturday games away from home, with one open date. May 2, London also gets a hospital share of Wednesday games at home. Wednesday is a good baseball day here. London will play away on Labor Day. Guelph goes to Hamilton on May 24, and to Chatham on July 1. Hamilton opens and closes the season at home, getting butler on both sides of the bread. Unless the rivalry between Guelph and Chatham causes trouble, it is probable the schedule will be confirmed with little or no change.

THE LONDON TEAM.

The London team are all here, except Franks, McFadden and Hart. McFadden is expected this afternoon. Franks on Saturday and Hart has Mr. Lohman guessing.

GROUNDERS.

The Western League season opens tomorrow (Thursday).

The Eastern League season is scheduled to start on Saturday.

Pitched Killen has been released by Washington.

Buffalo will have to strengthen up a lot to land anywhere near the top in the Western League.

Quans in need of two good, heavy-hitting outfielders would make no mistake in signing Jordan and Latimer, of this city.—Toronto Globe.

A Buffalo writer says it is dollars to doughnuts that the Eastern League gives up the ghost before Aug. 1. He is still entitled to half a dozen guesses.

The Toronto Y. M. C. A. gives generous encouragement to athletic sports, as shown by the following announcement: The General Young Men's Christian Association will be glad to set aside a room for the free use of baseball, football, lacrosse and other clubs that desire to hold their business meetings in some central place. A telephone message to the secretary's office will be all that is necessary to arrange the matter.

Umpire James Ward, of the Western Association, is reported to have eloped from Rockford, Ill., with Miss Clara Wolcott, and to have been married at Janesville, Wis.

THE TURF.

WON THE 2,000 GUINEAS.

London, April 25.—At the second day's racing of the Newmarket first spring meeting today, Sir R. W. Griffith's Styria (4 to 1), ridden by Tod Sloan, won the Wilbraham plate of 200 sovereigns. St. Paulus was second and Complaisance third. Four horses ran. The 2,000 Guineas, at Newmarket today, was won by the Duke of Westminster's bay colt Flying Fox. Lord William Beresford's Caman, ridden by Tod Sloan, was second, and Mr. Leopold Rothschild's Trident was third. Eight horses started.

GWYN.

Her little hands were imprisoned in his. His tall, strong figure was inclined over hers. Her raised eyes looked into his. Then, stooping, he would have touched the girl's forehead with his lips; but, gently, quickly, Gwyn avoided it, and rose to her feet.

"Why, what is this, love?" he asked, amazed, gazing inquiringly into her dark eyes.

"Do not be pained—do not be grieved, Mr. Gower," began Gwyn, trying to keep her voice steady.

"Mr. Gower!" he interrupted. "Good heavens, Gwyn! What means all this?"

She dropped her head, trembling; then, mastering her emotion, she lifted it, the light of a great love, a great compassion, but a great resolve on her beautiful face.

"It means, dear Rowland, that I have awakened," she replied, "as you have, and I must be our last love."

"Our last meeting?" ejaculated the young man, aghast. "Gwyn, are we betrothed? Are you not to be my wife?"

"No, Rowland," she replied, shaking her head. "It has been a sweet, happy dream to me; its remembrance will ever continue so; but it cannot be. I tell you I have awakened. I am not of that class from which you should choose a wife."

"Gwyn, if you have no other reason, this is unkind—it is folly. Why this now?"

"Because," she repeated quickly, "I have awakened. No, no, Rowland; in pity to you I would not let you wed one whom—she shivered, her voice sank lower—"whom your family would despise."

"Despise you, Gwyn?" he cried, passionately. "Then they are no friends of mine. Did you not save my life? When my boat capsized—when I should have been drowned—did you not leap into the sea, and at your own peril, come to my rescue?"

"And you were grateful," she said, resting her hand kindly on his shoulder.

"Grateful," he repeated, a pained expression on his countenance. "Yes, grateful at the first moment of my preservation; but when my eyes rested on your preserver, I loved."

The girl's lip quivered; she averted her face.

"I know it, Rowland," she said simply. "I know the strength of your affection. It is that which has aroused me to your danger."

"Danger?" she rejoined, trying to smile. "You must not marry me. I am not fitted to mix in your society—you are not in mine. Yours will be a few hours' happiness, succeeded by a life of misery."

"Gwyn," cried the young man, seizing her hand, "your own words refute you. You are not of your class—you are above it. You have the intellect of a gentleman—the noble heart of a woman."

The moon, flashing out at the moment, lighted up the girl's face. There was a sad smile on her face; her expression was one of pain, yet compassion.

"That is what you feel?" she said. "Rowland, I would trust you, yes, with my whole soul; but for your sake, I must not. Hush, hush!" And again her hand rested on his arm. "You dare not own your love for me to your family."

The young man raised his head quickly; his cheek reddened; an indignant denial was seemingly on his lip; but as he encountered Gwyn's steady gaze, his dropped.

"Gwyn," he said evasively, "you do not understand—you cannot. I do not own my love to my uncle, it is true. But directly my father returns from abroad, he shall know. I will not keep my secret from him."

"And he will withhold his consent," said Gwyn, calmly, though her very heart was sick.

"If he do, dearest," quickly exclaimed Rowland Gower, "then must he. My love to you can never change. Oh, Gwyn, Gwyn!" he cried, "do you think that the whole world, I would surrender you? Never!"

"Taking her in his arms, he drew her to his breast. Much agitated, Gwyn strove to release herself.

"How!" he exclaimed, "do you repulse me, Gwyn? Do you hold this heart, this bosom, no longer a worthy shield—a worthy protection? Gwyn, do you no longer love me?"

"Rowland, you know how dearly I love you," she replied. "It is my affection that makes me act as I am doing."

ing. For your sake, Rowland, we must part."

"Part—never! I declare, Gwyn, if you persist, neither you nor anyone shall see my face again, save in death!"

He held her hands; she lifted her scared eyes to his.

There stood within the shadow of the cliffs; yet the dim gray light enabled her to see his features. They were not angry, but firm and resolute. He met her glance, and saw she divined his meaning.

"Gwyn!" he said decisively. "I cannot live without you! My life, or death, is in your hands."

Uttering an alarmed cry, she threw her arms about him.

"No—no," she ejaculated in terror. "Oh, Rowland, you would not. There—there. Let us say no more about it. Another time—another time."

"Yes, another time," he retorted, with a joyous laugh, as he kissed her brow; "until when you shall still be my sea-queen—my own, sweet Gwyn."

Panting yet from that sudden fear, his resolute words and expression had created, she did not resist his embrace.

She had, indeed, promised to be his wife, but on reflection, reason asserting her sway, she had recognized the enemy she might thus prove to him, and had courageously resolved to sacrifice her love, herself, for his future welfare.

Gwyn felt no pride for herself, as others more worldly-bred might have done, in entering a family that would despise her. She would have been content—knowing that she might sit at his feet, see to his every want, and tend him in sickness, in need, in distress.

What was the world's opinion to her? He was her world, but she felt she could not be his world. Man had higher aims, as man should have.

Thus, when she had reflected how that he might be banished a father's love and home, she had bravely resolved to break their engagement. The result has been shown.

Rowland Gower was triumphant, and rejoiced in his victory. He would hear no more of Gwyn's pleadings, and checked her half-commenced efforts.

Though the thought of his father's been troubling him as he came down the cliff path—though, with mental trepidation he had asked himself however he should dare confess the state of matters to the diplomatist—the words of Gwyn had aroused all his passion, and in conquering her scruples, father, family position were forgotten.

For Gwyn's sake, Rowland Gower always surrendered the pleasure of accompanying her back to the hamlet; tonight, however, he broke through the rule. They had been too occupied to note the tide, which had advanced rapidly upon them; while the rising wind lashed into frothy billows the breakers that were breaking on the beach.

At high-tide many portions of the sands became impassable and dangerous, and though Gwyn knew every spot from childhood, she was too dear to Rowland for him to let her go alone.

They found, indeed, that as it was, they had to cling close to the base of the cliffs, while the waves often covered their feet.

Marian would have gone into hysterics; Gwyn only laughed; and she looked bewitchingly pretty as at last, standing safe, she shook the salt spray from her dark hair.

"Give you up, my sea queen?" said Rowland, contemplating her. "Never."

He would have caught her again in his arms, but with a scared glance towards the hamlet now in sight, the girl slipped away, and he followed her, his hands outstretched over her shoulder and sped on alone.

For all the precaution, the parting had been observed. Eyes had watched them as they advanced along the beach, and from the shadow of the fisher's cottage, had seen them separate.

As the figure, however, approached, the figure moved rapidly away up the street.

Ignorant of the espionage, Rowland Gower, waiting until his beloved was safely home, followed at a slow pace.

As he passed the cottage, stooping, he laid his hand on the curtain into the humble interior beyond, only illumined by the red firelight. On one side the hearth sat, asleep, Daniel Reba, a fine, rugged-faced old fisher, with bronze cheek, and gray flowing hair, like a veritable descendant of the sea.

Opposite, his good dame, neat and homely, sat knitting; while Gwyn sat on a stool at her feet, her beautiful head resting against the dame's knee, her dark eyes fixed on the fire, while a smile curved her lip.

[To be Continued.]

Sir William C. Van Horne, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has arrived at San Francisco from Montreal. With him are W. D. Matthews, a director of the Canadian Pacific; the Hon. R. M. Wells, counsel, and Dr. J. G. Haddock, consulting surgeon of the company.

OUR BEARDED LADY.

Designing men, through alluring and cunningly worded advertisements, constantly endeavor to work upon the feelings of a woman, and secure a woman's sympathy.

It is well to remember that the best sympathy is to be had at home and not from strangers, perhaps hundreds of miles distant. The object of the sick is to get help, and however precious sympathy may be, it never cures a seriously afflicted woman.

While the sympathy of your milliner or dressmaker might be appreciated and be of benefit, if not more so, than sympathy from a stranger, yet it can not effect your cure if you are an ailing woman.

It is loudly proclaimed through the press that "a woman can best understand a woman's ailments," and on this ground sick women are invited to "write to a woman" and get the benefit of a woman's advice.

The sort of "understanding of her ailments" wanted by a sick woman is a trained medical understanding. If a woman has this trained medical knowledge she understands a woman's ailments not as a woman, but as a physician. If she is not a doctor she cannot understand the ailments at all, and cannot treat them successfully, because she lacks the necessary training.

As far as known, there is no regularly qualified woman physician connected with any proprietary medicine especially designed for women—no one, therefore, qualified by learning and experience, to advise on questions of disease and its cure.

It is certain that there is no one, man or woman, connected with any "put-up" medicine for women, excepting only Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, who, like Dr. Pierce, is a regular graduated and qualified physician, and who has, like him, devoted more than thirty years to the special study and treatment of diseases of women.

For more than thirty years Dr. R. V. Pierce, a regularly graduated doctor, has been chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. On his staff are nearly a score of regular physicians, experienced and skilled physicians, each of whom is a specialist in his chosen class of diseases. Every letter addressed to Dr. Pierce as above, has prompt, conscientious attention, is regarded as strictly confidential and is answered in plain envelope so your private affairs are kept safe from prying eyes.

THE COAL OIL DUTY

Arguments For and Against Removing It.

Western Ontario Members Defend the Industry.

Northwest and Maritime Province Men Want Free Oil—Freight Rates Too High.

The following is a continuation of the debate in the House of Commons on Mr. Davis' motion to put coal oil on the free list:

Mr. Fraser (East Lambton) opposed the motion. He said that the mover was in error in his calculation, and asserted that 90 per cent of the capital invested in the oil industry was in the hands of Canadians and Canadian workmen were employed in the production. The money invested in putting down the wells had been invested by Canadians at great risk to develop the industry, and it was on behalf of these people, numbering at least 700, that he desired to speak against this motion. Not more than ten or fifteen at the very most had sold out to the Standard Oil Company, so he was well within the mark in saying that the 90 per cent of the capital was in the hands of Canadians who were interested in the oil industry, and had no interest whatever in the Standard Oil Company. Furthermore, as to the quantity of crude petroleum produced, the quantity represented by the gentlemen who sold out to the Standard Company is very small indeed as compared with that represented by these gentlemen who still own wells. The statement that all these wells owned had sold out is very far from the fact. The cost to the consumer in remote parts of the country was, he admitted, very large in some cases, but the cause was to be found in the high freight rates, which were not the fault of the industry. The cost of transportation was abnormally high. He had in his possession an invoice from the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, which showed that the cost of sending a tank car of refined oil to Winnipeg was $3.20, or about 6½ per gallon. The honorable member for Saskatchewan had also been in error in his calculation that the abolition of the duty would result in a saving of the cost of inspection. It was, he contended, the utmost importance that the oil sold should be properly inspected, whether there was any duty collected or not, and therefore there must be an inspection fee. The inspection fee referred to was not a very large sum for the refiner or dealer to retain for himself the whole of the duty. The honorable member for Saskatchewan had quoted prices for American oil, but he was not aware that the oil referred to was of an inferior quality, which would not pass the Canadian inspection. He deprecated the practice of speaking derogatorily of everything Canadian in comparison with similar articles of American manufacture. The mining business had done more for the development of Canada than any other with the single exception of agriculture, and the coal oil industry was an important branch of the mining industry. The value of the petroleum industry in Ontario, as stated in a recent issue of the Globe, was $1,777,591, $100,000 more than the value of the products of all other mining industries in Ontario. The value of the oil industry in Ontario was, he estimated, $1,777,591, $100,000 more than the value of the products of all other mining industries in Ontario. The value of the oil industry in Ontario was, he estimated, $1,777,591, $100,000 more than the value of the products of all other mining industries in Ontario.

Mr. Johnston (West Lambton) contended that the tariff is one that is calculated in the best interests of the country. In this particular question as has been pointed out by the honorable member for London, this article of coal oil had been singled out as all others in the tariff as the object of attack. The people in the east and west should remember that the people invested their money in the oil fields to develop the oil resources, and it was most unfair that this question should be brought up every year. This should be properly classed as a mining industry, and it is not nearly so much of a class of enterprise, being generally as speculative as the business of mining. For every productive well which was developed there were four or five dry holes sunk without any return. The abolition of the duty would not result in any gain to the farmers, and it would result in the entire cessation of the production of oil in the west. The tariff has given every satisfaction to the people, and should not be interfered with.

Mr. Oliver (Alberta), while agreeing with the general tariff policy of the government, was satisfied that some improvement might be made with respect to coal oil. He was not a free trader, but a protectionist in theory. (Opposition hear, hear.) His theory was that as the number of consumers of the oil increased, the protection, they were entitled to protection, as well as the producers. This tariff, as he understood it, was a tariff for revenue. Under an equalized tariff for revenue articles of luxury should be placed, and the duty on oil should be 25 per cent. The general tariff is 25 per cent, the duty on coal oil, instead of 66 per cent, should be below the general average. Instead of a duty of 66 per cent, a duty of 25 per cent is the full measure of protection to which the coal oil industry is entitled.

Mr. R. L. Richardson (Lisgar) said he voiced the sentiments of his constituents when he accepted the statements of the members of the government that the tariff is not finally revised, and therefore accepted the tariff as it stood for the present. He took issue with the honorable gentleman who had proclaimed himself in favor of moderate protection. He was opposed to any measure of protection at all. The expectations of the people in Manitoba had undoubtedly been that coal oil and agricultural implements placed upon the free list. They had not been so placed, but he hoped that there will be a gradual scaling down of the duty and that ultimately they would be brought down to the free list. There is a very large quantity of oil, which constitutes the only material for light which the farmers of the west have to depend upon. He agreed that the excessive price was in some cases due to high freight rates, which had been prevalent for a considerable time. Inasmuch as bounties are paid for iron and steel, it has occurred to him that if some assistance is necessary to enable the industry to continue, a bounty on oil might be considered, as a compensation for the abolition or reduction of the duty.

Mr. Monk (Jacques Cartier) said that in many places in his county his constituents were suffering from the effects of the duty on coal oil, and he was now prepared to support the proposal. There was a distinct pledge that the duty on coal oil would be reduced, and he was now prepared to support the proposal. There was a distinct pledge was a very interesting one, and one which had frequently come before the house. It was one, however, with which the government could not deal separately. The whole question must be dealt with as part of the whole tariff subject, and he thought it wise to make no statement on that or any other tariff matter before the budget came down. He, therefore, moved the adjournment of the debate.

After recess Mr. Davin continued the debate, and said he did not see how, if the duty is abolished, it would injure the Canadian producers, as if the whole business in refined oil is stated in the hands of the monopoly, the company would still have to get the crude material. He argued that there is no competition now, and the abolition of the duty would result in competition to the detriment of the independent wealthy corporations on the other side of the line who stand out from and compete with this great octopus, the Standard Oil Company. By creating a monopoly the oil men had deprived the producers of the right to claim protection. He quoted from a campaign sheet issued by the liberal organizer in 1896, in which coal oil was enumerated among the articles which enjoyed 66 per cent protection, and which should be relieved from the heavy duty then imposed upon it. He quoted from speeches by the postmaster-general and the minister of marine and fisheries, prior to 1896, in which they favored the removal of the coal oil duty. The premier was an advocate as presaging that the way of free trade was fast approaching. If the general promises regarding the tariff and the specific promises with reference to coal oil are carried out, the minister of finance would not divide the house upon his amendment, but would allow the motion to pass.

Mr. Thomas Beattie (London) regretted that coal oil was singled out every year for attack, causing uncertainty in this most important industry. The price of oil had been reduced from $1.70 to $1.40 per barrel, and was likely to remain there in the future. The price of oil had been reduced by 20 per cent, and the refined oil had increased by 20 per cent. The coal oil refiner was getting more and the producer less than ever, but no one was complaining of the price. A reduction in the duty would destroy the industry in Canada.

THE MEMBER FOR WEST LAMBERTON.

Mr. Johnston (West Lambton) contended that the tariff is one that is calculated in the best interests of the country. In this particular question as has been pointed out by the honorable member for London, this article of coal oil had been singled out as all others in the tariff as the object of attack. The people in the east and west should remember that the people invested their money in the oil fields to develop the oil resources, and it was most unfair that this question should be brought up every year. This should be properly classed as a mining industry, and it is not nearly so much of a class of enterprise, being generally as speculative as the business of mining. For every productive well which was developed there were four or five dry holes sunk without any return. The abolition of the duty would not result in any gain to the farmers, and it would result in the entire cessation of the production of oil in the west. The tariff has given every satisfaction to the people, and should not be interfered with.

Mr. Oliver (Alberta), while agreeing with the general tariff policy of the government, was satisfied that some improvement might be made with respect to coal oil. He was not a free trader, but a protectionist in theory. (Opposition hear, hear.) His theory was that as the number of consumers of the oil increased, the protection, they were entitled to protection, as well as the producers. This tariff, as he understood it, was a tariff for revenue. Under an equalized tariff for revenue articles of luxury should be placed, and the duty on oil should be 25 per cent. The general tariff is 25 per cent, the duty on coal oil, instead of 66 per cent, should be below the general average. Instead of a duty of 66 per cent, a duty of 25 per cent is the full measure of protection to which the coal oil industry is entitled.

Mr. R. L. Richardson (Lisgar) said he voiced the sentiments of his constituents when he accepted the statements of the members of the government that the tariff is not finally revised, and therefore accepted the tariff as it stood for the present. He took issue with the honorable gentleman who had proclaimed himself in favor of moderate protection. He was opposed to any measure of protection at all. The expectations of the people in Manitoba had undoubtedly

DAWSON CITY'S ONE TREE.

Color-Sergt. Edwin J. Freeland, of the Seventh Fusiliers, has received a letter from his son, Private Frank Freeland, who is one of the 60 picked men who form the Yukon field force. Private Freeland is a member of Company A, of the Royal Regiment of Canadian Infantry, and has been stationed at Dawson City during the winter. He writes interestingly of the country. His last letter dated Feb. 15, reports a very heavy immigration already set in. He refers to the story of the finding of a pre-glacial mastodon of enormous size, embedded and preserved in ice. The story was telegraphed all over the county a short time ago. Private Freeland explains that it was a pure fake, invented to advertise a Dawson City saloon. Private Freeland says there is only one tree in Dawson City—a cottonwood. It is one of the city's most prized institutions.

ARCHBISHOP DINED AT STRATFORD.

Archbishop O'Connor was the guest of honor at a dinner given yesterday at Stratford by Rev. Dr. Kilroy. The rectory was en fete for the event. Dinner was served at noon, covers being laid for 21. Dr. Kilroy occupied the head of the table and to his right sat Archbishop O'Connor. About the board were the following priests: Revs. Fathers Brennan, St. Mary's; McKeown, St. Augustine; McCormick, Woodstock; Kreidt, Carmelite Order; Niagara Falls; Croghan and Miller, Toronto; Downie, Logan; McRae, Parkhill; Gnam, Hesson; Quinn, Bismarck; Dixon, Kingsbridge; Connolly, Ingersoll; Foster, Simcoe; Corcoran, La Salle; McCabe, Seaford; Fogarty, Irish; O'Neil, Kinkora; Cook, Stratford; and Costello, Stratford. When the covers were removed Dr. Kilroy proposed the health of the archbishop, couching his reference to his lordship in felicitous terms. His lordship responded in feeling terms, expressing the deep regret he experienced in severing his connection with this diocese. He took an affectionate farewell of the clergymen with whom he had of late been so many years. Father Brennan also spoke. Archbishop O'Connor left on the 4 p.m. train for London. Prior to leaving he was waited on by a lay delegation, who tendered congratulations.

WINTER WHEAT

Badly Damaged by the Severe Frost—Fields Plowed Up and Resown

An Advertiser correspondent sends the following from Waubuno: "The wheat and clover in Moore township, except in sheltered locations, is badly damaged. Many farmers are plowing up the clover and cultivating and re-sowing part of their wheat fields with barley."

"JOHN YOUNG.

FALL WHEAT KILLED.

Milverson, April 26.—The fall wheat in this vicinity is almost destroyed, except in a few favored spots, where the snow covered it till lately. It was thought a week ago that it had wintered well, but when the frost came out of the ground it was found to be killed at the root, and many are plowing up fields that looked very promising ten days ago.

WHEAT FIELDS SOWN TO OATS.
Smith's Creek, Mich. April 26.—Farmers in this vicinity are very much disappointed over the present outlook for the wheat crop. Under present conditions only about one-third the usual yield is expected. In many cases large fields have been sown to oats.

Quaint Sayings.

It is interesting and instructive to read bright and well-constructed advertisements. Messrs. C. I. Hood & Co., of Sarasaparilla fame, must have been at a great feast and taken everything home with them. They are using a bright selection of quaint old sayings and proverbs as the starters in a series of clever advertisements, wherein the proverbs are neatly turned and paraphrased to fit the subject matter. The public like this breezy advertising, as it reminds of other proverbs and opens up discussion.

AMUSEMENTS

Frank Daniels Gets a Rousing Reception at the Grand.

Frank Daniels is evidently as popular as ever in London. "The Idol's Eye" drew a bumper house at the Grand last night. There wasn't a vacant seat in the house. Frank Daniels has the happy fortune to appeal with equal success to both the pit and the gallery. His fun is refined enough for the former, and genuine enough for the latter. "The Idol's Eye" is grotesque enough and furnishes sufficient scope for scenic effects to satisfy all the requirements of first-class comic opera. The scene in the second act, showing the interior of a Hindu temple, with attendant priests and priestesses, is particularly effective. The story—if the flimsy thread can be called a story—turns on the adventures of a ruby which has been stolen from the eye of an idol, and which gives its possessor an irresistible charm over women. There is a dearth of humor in the story itself, but the songs are new and catchy, the dialogue bright and witty, and the jokes fresh. Independently of the vehicle or of any accessories, Mr. Daniels' own original and inimitable humor is what makes for success. In each act he comes on and goes off by balloon. The entry in the second act is particularly good. The chorus was good and the girls pretty. Some novel groupings were introduced, and the costumes and lighting effects were exquisitely beautiful. There was a decided plethora of osculation, which got rather treacherous before Mr. Daniels had satisfied his Hobson hobby. He would do well to cut a little of that out.

Yvonne Kopp, as the Nautch Girl, is very graceful and piquant. Kate Dart, the Chief Priestess, has a rich contralto voice and much talent. Alf C. Wheelan, as the Vagabond Highlander, is a genius, and forms the foil for some of the songs. "Fair Tales" and "The Tattooed Man," made decided hits. Judging by last night's reception, Frank Daniels may come to London as often as he likes.

Classical Concert.

The orchestra of the First Methodist Church Sunday school gave a classical concert in Wesley Hall last night, before a large audience. Every number on the somewhat lengthy programme was greatly appreciated, and numerous encores were in order. The orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. Jas. Cresswell, rendered a number of selections. They had to respond on each occasion. The Imperial Quartet, composed of Messrs. H. R. McDonald, W. E. Collins, J. C. Lockhart and A. Carpenter, sang "Remember Now Thy Creator," and "Annie Laurie," and received an ovation. Mr. McDonald sang with much feeling and effect, "The Tuning and the Tuner," dedicated to him by the composer, Mr. J. T. Wolcott, organist of the First Methodist Church. Other numbers on the programme were: Solo, "Crade Song," Miss Maggie Philip; violin solo, "Sixth Air Varla," Mr. James Cresswell; solo, "Little Tugger," Mr. W. E. Collins; violin duet, "The Charming," Master B. V. Miles and Master E. Coombs; solo, "Because," Mr. A. Carpenter; cornet solo, "El Caporal di Sellmana," Mr. H. E. St. George; solo, "The Sailor's Grave," Messrs. J. Coates, Lockhart and Messrs. J. T. Wolcott and Robert Fisher were the accompanists. The proceeds of the concert go to the funds of the school orchestra, which is now becoming recognized as one of the finest musical organizations in London.

A. O. F. Smoker.

The union committee of the Ancient Order of Foresters of the city gave a smoking concert to the members and friends of the order at Duffield Hall last night. Bro. Richard Taylor presided. The programme included songs by Bros. Stickles, Lockhart, H. Hogg and A. G. Stevens; musical selections by Bro. Dibsdale, Smith and Stewart, and gramophone selections under the direction of Bro. Hogg. Cards and cigars were the chief features in the evening's proceedings, however. The committee are to be congratulated upon the success of the affair.

GLASS IN HIS NECK

For 18 Years—Thought Neuralgia Was the Trouble.

Dover, N. J., April 26.—After suffering for years from what doctors pronounced neuralgia, Frank Leek, a painter, has been relieved through a remarkable discovery.

Leek was in such distress that he went to a doctor a few days ago. The doctor made a careful examination of the side of his face and neck, and discovered a hard substance under the flesh of his neck at about a point where Leek said the pain usually started. It was decided to make an incision to discover the cause of the hardness.

When the spot was laid open the doctor found a piece of window glass, three cornered, about an inch from apex to base, and a little less than three-eighths of an inch at the base.

Leek knows how the glass came

DOINGS AT QUEEN'S

A Chair to the Memory of Sir John A. Macdonald Inaugurated.

Kingston, Ont., April 25.—This afternoon, shortly after 2 o'clock, the students of Queen's marched from the college to the monument of Sir John A. Macdonald and placed a beautiful wreath of roses and lilies upon the statue of the statesman. R. Burton, M.A., president of the Alma Mater Society, and J. M. Farrell, W. F. Nickle and J. S. Short, past president, made fitting references to the event. Queen's was today, they said, inaugurating a chair to Sir John's memory that would be more enduring than any that could be reared.

At 4:30 p.m. Sir Charles Tupper reached the city hall, and was greeted by a great audience. Principal Grant told of Senator Gowan's effort in behalf of a chair of political and economic science associated with the name of Sir John A. Macdonald. Several letters from various persons on the subject were read, eulogizing the movement. Already $20,000 has been raised, of which $6,000 was the venerable senator's gift.

Rev. Dr. Barclay, Montreal, presented Sir Charles Tupper for the honorary degree of LL.D. Chancellor Fleming welcomed him, and asked him to address the gathering.

Sir Charles took considerable time in a review of Canadian affairs, and the work accomplished by the late Sir John A. Macdonald. His accomplishments were enduring. He rejoiced that Kingston his name was to be perpetuated as also that of Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, who erected the Royal Military College as his monument. Sir Charles afterwards drove to the college and planted a tree. Tomorrow, in connection with the convocation, a bust of Lady Aberdeen will be unveiled, as also a memorial brass to Senator Gowan and other benefactors of the Macdonald chair of political science.
