NATIONALISTS AND ORANGEMEN COME TO BLOWS AT BELFAST; CAUSES SCENE IN COMMONS

T. P. O'Connor, in Special Cable to The Advertiser, Tells of Clash That May Be Utilized By Unionists in Fight on Home Rule.

SAYS BILL IS SURE TO GO THROUGH DURING AUTUMN SESSION OF HOUSE

Liberals and Laborites at Odds Over By-Elections, Latter Threatening to Desert Government—Churchill's Demand For More Navy Money Starts Trouble in the Cabinet.

[Special Cable to The London Advertiser by T. P. O'Connor.] London, July 6 .- During the week the run of uninterrupted luck for the Liberals and Irish was succeeded by several mishaps, small but perhaps destined to make future trouble.

Some foolish Ulster Nationalists insisted in spite of strong protests by the Nationalist leaders, on holding a meeting which brought them into an Orange region, and a scrimmage in which some school children were accidentally involved ensued. The Orange leaders exaggerated this small incident to gigantic proportions, and attacks on Catholics in Belfast followed.

FIERCE SCENE IN COMMONS.

These incidents led to a fierce scene in the House of Commons, but on the whole the charge against the Nationalists was reduced to its true proportions, while the Orange attacks on the Catholic workmen and others in Belfast produced a reaction against the Orange leaders and increased the indignation at their open appeals to violence

UNIONISTS IN DESPAIR.

These incidents mark the despair of the Unionists of a defeat of home rule in the House of Commons, and their last desperate bids have broken the gamblers, but there is some danger that such incidents may increase the extraordinary superstition in some of the ultra-Protestant quarters in England that Ulster means to produce a civil war if home rule is passed.

The Ulstermen know civil war will simply mean attacks on the Catholic houses and Catholic individuals, but all such occurrences will produce a bad effect on the other side.

THE HOME RULE BILL. The progress of the home rule bill in the Commons goes on with perfect regularity, however, Asquith answering every attack on the bill with commanding logic, and the divisions show big Liberal

The Unionists made a vain attempt to arrest the progress of the measure by an effort to create a scene of violence, and the expulsion Orange members but this frizzled.

The final passage of the home rule bill is suspended till the beginning of the autumn sittings in October, when a drastic closure rule will be proposed at once, and the bill steadily kept at till it passes the final stage at the end of November.

DEMONSTRATION FOR ASQUITH.

Great preparations have been made to give Asquith a splendid popular reception in Dublin next week, with a torch-light procession and a welcome by every nationalist mayor in Ireland, and ample precautions have been taken against a repetition of the ridiculous attempts of the suffragettes to insult the Premier.

THE LABORITES.

The most serious mishap of the week was the breach between the Liberals and Laborites, which was chiefly due to the claim of the Liberals to take the constituency of Henley, recently vacated by Enoch Edwards, the great miners leader. After some attempts at reconciliation the local Liberals insisted on having a contest, and in the threecornered fight the Tory may be elected.

THREAT TO DESERT. A similar result may happen in Crewe, another great working-class centre, where the member of parliament recently died. This conflict was accompanied by the threat of the Laborites to desert the Liberals in the House of Commons temporarily, and thus reduce the majorities on the home rule and other Government measures. However, the Liberal leaders take the situation philosophically. The Laborites pushed things too far recently in putting up a third candidate in a Liberal constituency in Yorkshire. Keir Hardie actually recommended that the workingmen vote for the Unionist candidate, in another election, with the result that 2,000 workmen voted for the Unionist and enormously reduced the majority of Colonel Seeley, the new war minister. Another disquieting item is the pushing forward of the strong new land reform movement by some of the single taxers, which the wealthy Liberals resent.

TROUBLE IN CABINET. It is reported also that there is some friction in the cabinet. This refers to Winston Churchill's demand for enormous additions in the appropriations for the navy, and the antagonism between him and Lloyd George on this and other points.

But these difficulties, though worthy of record do not seriously modify the situation. Asquith's determination is to carry the home rule bill through absolutely unchanged, and the Liberal party remains enthusiastic and united behind him, and will push this measure

There will be ups and downs, irritating incidents, and the usual amount of cross purposes between the different sections of the Liberal coalition, but home rule advances steadily, and the Unionists continue to deplore the impossibility of raising the least antagonism or even excitement on the subject in the English constituencies.

The Unionists still continue their attempt at ambuscades in the House of Commons, but during most of the week the Liberals attended splendidly, having majorities at some times of over a hundred for home rule, but their attendance was rather slack on the other nights, and on Thursday the Government majority ran down to 46.

The Liberal whips are making a strong appeal to the Liberals for more regular attendance, pointing to the example of the Irish Nationalists, who remain in constant attendance, and always are ready to rescue the Government from any difficulty.

Runaway Created Much Excitement at Corner of Dundas and Adelaide Streets.

One of Ross Bros.' livery horses, that had broken loose from its buggy in a runaway, terminated its mad career in a rather exciting manner near the corner of Dundas and Adelaide streets last night when it whirled around the corne from the south and jumped upon the fender of a westbound Ottaway car in charge of Motorman McDonald.

The car was proceeding at a fair rate, although slackening for the intersection when the runaway horse suddenly gal-loped around the corner at a terrific rate loped around the corner at a terrific rate and plunged into a head-on collision with the car, one of the open "canary" type.

Motorman McDonald plunged his machine and reduced the impact the impact to the control of chine and reduced the impact to a certain extent, but the dash of his car was caved in, damaging the controller and breaking the wiring. The car was disabled and had to be towed back to the barns on Lyle street, but the horse escaped very serious injury.

A case of more than usual severity to dumb animals was reported to the officers of the Humane Society yesterday afternoon. A rig containing two young men, and at one time there was double that number, all being more or less under the influence of intoxicating liquor, were first seen on the Hamilton road driving a fine horse at a high rate of speed.

From the Hamilton road the race continued down Rectory street till the Homister House was reached, where a brief stop was made. Continuing, they tore up Egerton street, the vehicle swaying and crossing frequently from one side of the road to the other. At an East End livery the race ended and the horse was taken away from the

It is not known who owns the animal as yet, although many inquiries have been made. The police have been notified and are investigating the matter, but so far no trace of the culprits have been found. "T. P.." as he is familiarly called, is an Irishman sitting for an English constituency—the Scotland division of Liverpool. Many a witticism has been directed at the selend of Ireland, England and Scotland. He is a Nationalist, but has always been a moderating influence tetween Britain and the Emerald Isle. Next to his love for Ireland is his love for old London, where he went as newspaper writer over forty years ago to seek his fortune and found it.

An orator and parliamentarian, he is better known as the most versatile and prolific journalist in the United Kingdom, and one of the most successful. "T. Man Created Much Excitement at the Grand Trunk

Several hundred people swarmed to the G. T. R. depot at 10 o'clock last night when the police patrol carrying a couple of detectives and half a dozen men whirled down Richmond street and onto Depot.

An Elizabeth street man, who notified the police last night that he had been held up on York street, opposite the G. T. R. freight sheds, created much excitement apparently without reason, for the complainant turned up at the Carling street station this morning and asked that the whole matter be allowed to drop.

Craft First Used in 1689 and Splendid Display of Gems and Looks Today As Sound As Ever.

[Canadian Press.]

London, July 6. - The King and Queen proceeded up the Thames to the Henley regatta aboard the state barge today. The royal progress was witnessed by millions.

Built in 1689 to the order of William III., the famous state barge appeared as sound today as it was when launched from Salter's Yard at Oxford. It was originally designed to be rowed by ten watermen, but a few years ago the number was cut down to eight to provide more adequate accommodation for the passengers.

The barge, which is built of English oak from Windsor forest, is usually kept at Windsor. The last occasion on which it was used was when King Edward and Queen Alexandra, with their elder grandchildren, visited Eton in 1904. On this trip the barge was accompanied by the Eton "Wet Bobs," in their boats.

William III. made frequent use of his barge when passing his time at his favorite residence at Hampton Court, both to visit London and to go upstream as far as Windsor. After his death, however, it was rather neglected by the Georges, and, indeed, upon more than one occasion was in imminent danger of being broken up. Fortunately it was "lost" for several years, and this probably accounts for the fact that it is still in existence.

The office of King's bargemaster, who stands in the stern of the craft is little more than a parade. when it is affoat, with the royal arms of England behind him, is now attached to the lord chamberlain's depart-ment, and is at present filled by Mr. William Giles East, of Liverpool, once sculling champion and one of finest watermen the Thames has ever produced. The office is of considerable antiquity, as it seems there was never a day when a British king did not maintain his barge on the Thames.

Toilettes at Buckingham Palace Affair.

[Canadian Press.]

London, July 6. - A state ball at Buckingham Palace is one of the most stately ceremonies of the London season. The King and Queen are giving two this month, the first of which was held last night.

When the King and Queen, accompanied by other members of the royal family entered the ballroom, the sight was a glorious one. There was glittering display of jewels, and the white walls of the great chamber showed to perfection the splendid tollets of the ladies, and the gold and silver brocades, which are now popular. Delicate shades of vellow, from the deepest gold to the tenderest tints of maize, seemed to predominate, but blues, shell pinks and mauves were much in evidence.

The guests numbered 2,500. The King wore the uniform of the Royal Horse Guards, the Riband of the Garter and a number of decorations. The Queen's gown was of cream and gold brocaded silk. She, too, wore the Riband of the Garter. Her jewels were an emerald and diamond tiara, and her neck ornaments were splendid diamonds. The Queen was frequently among the dancers, but the King only

Socialist Wells is certainly proof of

"Tono Bungay." I think better of De

Morgan than to place him in the en-leans that way. Here is a story, however that is betwixt and between. Its is based upon the assumption that there are people in the world today who are inspired by a desire to set things right. "The Lighted Way," by

E. Phillips Oppenheim, is a breathless narrative suitable for a summer holiday, but its setting requires modern

But Mr. Oppenheim has no social gospel to preach. ' He takes advantage of the unsettled conditions of modern society in order that he may build up an exciting story. And he has certainly evolved a curious combination of circumstances and characters. He seems to have obtained the main hints for his novel from three recent occurrences-the revolution in Portugal, the shooting of the anarchists in Houndsditch by the police, and the operations of the Black Hand. Necessarily there are a couple of murders, first-class mysteries, automatic pi tols, and tax-the striking thing about the story is the fact that Mr. Oppenheim makes it centre about the prosaic person and business house of Mr. Samuel Wea-of Tooley street, London. Weatherley is the sort of character that seems instead of a cheese Weatherley found a wife. Or rather the lady, and the tiger, her aristocratic brother, found him and compelled him at the point of the pistol to marry the penniless but well-bred Portuguese beauty. As I have said, Weatherley's troubles began as soon as he arrived home in Tooley street. His wife and her brother were plotting for the removal of the king from the throne of Portugal, and they saw fit to gather around them a number of evil per-

[Entered at London Postoffice for transmission through the mails as second class matter.]

LONDON, SATURDAY, JULY 6. IN THE INTEREST OF TRUTH. Some of the Conservative newspapers of the province, and the Prime Minister himself, have been misled by untruthful reports of Mr. Rowell's magnificent meeting in this city. The London Free Press excels itself in this piece of misrepresentation:

platform and from participation in the meeting is a remarkable one. The absentees include: 1.-The president and officers the London Liberal Association. 2.—The president and officers of the London Liberal Club. 3.-The Liberal candidate for London in any election, provincial or 4.-The Liberal senator for Lon-5.—The only Liberal member of the House of Commons for Middlesex. 1. The vice-president and secretary of meeting and helped to organize it. The president had to go to Merritton to atindustrial concern, of which he is the his back was turned. chairman.

2. The president and secretary of the London Liberal Club and members of the executive were at the meeting, and assisted in the preparations.

3. There was no Liberal candidate in the last Provincial election,

4. The Liberal senator for London was not present, but he publicly gives his unqualified indorsement to Mr. Rowell's speech and policy. When he last attended a political meeting he was accused by the Free Press of degrading his office.

5. The only Liberal member of the House of Commons for Middlesex, Mr. D. C. Ross, was at the meeting, accompanied by a score of Liberals from Strathroy.

Mr. Rowell's self-respecting opponents may not be particularly pleased at the success of his meeting, but they can have no desire to be misinformed.

PARTY AND PRINCIPLE.

Perhaps there are some good citizens who say that Mr. Rowell's policy is all gressive" in the senate, excepting La very well in itself, but is advanced as Follette. Sensible Republicans see a party dodge. Perhaps they say that that the Republican machine may be while they are opposed to the bar, they smashed without a new party club. will not support the Liberal advocate Woodrow Wilson will serve the purof abolition.

What are parties for in a democratic state if not to emulate each other in doing the greatest good to the greatest number? Those who take the ears of the tariff reformers. He forground of approving the measure, but gets that he is in Great Britain at declining to vote for it as their own party leaders happen to be strongly against it, clearly think more of securing office than of securing the adoption of a principle. They do not understand, or they pervert the party system of government.

But Mr. Rowell has tried to remove any pretext of opposition to his policy. His own record ought to be guarantee enough of his sincerity in the campaign against the bar; there can be no "dodge" in simply continuing to maintain the position he has held year in and year out for so long a time. But he tried to remove any doubts from the minds of political opponents. There is no particular reason why "the abolition of the bar" should necessarily be a party issue, and Mr. Rowell magnanimously offered in his Dominion Day speech to co-operate with Sir James Whitney in the good work, if the Premier were willing. He is ready to help Sir James to win the glory of abolish-Ing the bar, and so attain the end desired by him. Even to those Conservatives, then, who are more concerned to vote for their party than to close the barrooms of Ontario,, the door was opened to take up the abolition policy. If they would not vote for Mr. Rowell, they might urge the policy upon Sir James Whitney. But as Sir James so far has refused, what pretext is left to a temperance Conservative to support him longer?

The chief Conservative organ has openly invited the opponents of the bar to prove their strength. They have proved it as far as possible in the local option contests, which have shown an overwhelming majority for out and aire one day and said: out prohibition of the retail sale of liquor. Much stronger still must be the public sentiment against the bar. Already it is clear that on the one hand stands the great majority of electors in favor of Mr. Rowell's policy; on the other floats the banner of the Whitney Government with its tinkering mottoes of "three-fifths" and "no treating." Sir James has declined even a courteous parley. The only way in which the electors can further respond to the Mail's invitation is to vote for Mr. Rowell,

THE LATE ROBERT SUTHERLAND. The death of Robert Sutherland, M. P. P., will shock friends and acquaintances who saw him recently in what seemed to be his usual robust health. Although there were no outward signs time when he was attending to his public duties and private busin Mr. Sutherland furnished an Illustration of the opportunities in the grasp of the Western Ontario farmer. He began farming on a small scale, and became a very rich man. His money was made entirely in his business and by straightforward methods. His integrity and good nature gave him a popularity which served him well when he ran in December for the Legislature, his first bid for public honors. His winning of the normally Conservative riding of East Middlesex was followed by an even more striking personal tribute—the voluntary subscription of money by his Conservative friends and neighbors to meet the proceedings to

HED SOX WALLOP TECHNISEHS AND MOVE INTO SECOND PLAGE

Indians Play a Miserable Game After Reitzman Had To Be Removed in Second Inning, and Kane's Men Have An Easy Time Winning the Game.

afr. Bowerman's Binglers started out in the first inning of yesterday's little occurence at Tecumseh park with the cruel intention of beating Mr. Kane's would-be pennant snatchers off the face of the premises. But cruel fats, ably assisted and pennant snatchers off the face of the premises. That is why the Red Sox won by absted by Mr. Chas. Nichols, ruled otherwise. That is why the Red Sox won by the score of il to 4.

It was presumed that the real picnic day of the London baseball team had laken place on Tuesday, July 2, but it appears to have been one of those costponed-taken place on Tuesday, lind. This deduction is arrived at after a minute inspection of the box score and the application of the methods used by the great Skylark for of the box score and the application of the methods used by the great Skylark lit will be observed that Mr. Nichols spilled the beans no less than twice in the same course, and his conduct was such that he should have been ordered from the same course, and his conduct was such that he should have been ordered from the table and put to carrying water for the rest of the afternoon.

REITZMAN TAKEN ILL.

It all started when Southpaw Ernle Reitzman, who began the game and working like a gatling gun with just as much effectiveness, had to retire at the end of the second inning owing to an injury in his side. He has been suffering for the past two days with it, and was kept out of the game at St. Thomas yesterday because of the pain it caused him. However, today he thought he could work all right, but it became worse and he was in a serious condition when removed at the end of the second chapter. It was necessary to call a doctor, and Relizman was removed the weeks before he will be well enough to pitch again.

Kane's Men Wake Up.

Novak also singled to the same place.

Kane's Men Wake Up.

When Reitzman departed, the Indians were two runs in the lead, while Mr. Kane's Kanines had falled to get even a look-in for that eleven that eventually won them the game. In the first inning Mr. Reitzman made them walk the plank and fall off backwards, while in their half of the spasm the Redskins went in and rounded the circuit for a duet of tallies. After Lindeburn had gone out, Elake squeezed, a pass from Mr. Bonovan's assortment and stole second. Herbauer times without making an impression upon the ball, but Mr. Flock very obligingly fumbled Powell's grounder long enough for that gentleman to get safe. Powell stole second, and with third and second occupied. Cocash singled to left, Blake and Powell coming in. Nichols struck out.

"Fitz" Was Not Mad.

Mr. Fitzpatrick, a St. Thomas castoff, went into the box in the third inming for the locals. This was because Mr. Matt Hynes, who has been spending the past two days vacating at his home among the Palmerston wilds, did not get through telling the natives how he lost Tuesday's game in time to catch the only train out of the burg for the next day and a half, the should have been at the local back lot yesterday afternoon, but he did not do so bad at that, and had the team behind him "come clean" with the support in the pinches, the story might have been different.

The Red Sox gave him a great reception in the third inning by connecting the mative propertion in the third inning by connecting. The reception in the third inning by connecting the native propertion and a propertion of the training the past this week, and a third one was just a hilf the con much for him. He did not do so bad at that, and had the team behind him "come clean" with the support in the pinches, the story might have been a game worth white great ball all the way through, and had felten the pinches, the story might have been all game a game worth white great the local back lot yesterday afternoon, but he did not do so bad at that, and had the team behind him "come clean" in the pinches, the solution in the Red Sox gave him a great reception in the third inning by connecting safely three times for a trio of runs. After Lamond had struck out, Donovan, with two strikes on him, singled to left.

scored. The other two batters structed out.

In the seventh the Red Sox added two more, Kane's single and triples by Ivers and Clark turning the trick. They also added another in the ninth, and made the total count eleven. Donovan pitched great ball all the way through, and had Reitzman been able to go the distance it would have been a game worth white. Otherwise, well, it might have been a whole let worse. whole lot worse.

Poyal Vinolia

Trio of Shaving Pleasures - Try Them

SHAVING STICK

In Royal Vinolia is summed up all that science and experience in the art of high-class soapmaking can effect, to produce an ideal Shaving Soap; yields a luxurious, creamy lather-refreshing, soothing, and wonderfully stimulating to the skin-and does not dry on the face.

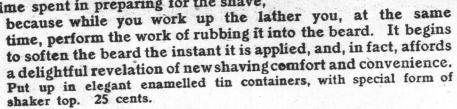

A Shaving Soap so pure and perfect that it can be used with either hot or cold water, with equally satisfactory results.

Provides the smoothest, pleasantest shave on any beard. In handsome nickel box, fitting company for the finest pieces on your dressing table. Price, 25 cents.

has the same purity and quality as Royal Vinolia Shaving Stick, in Powder form. Many gentlemen prefer it to any other form of shaving soap because of the convenience and ease with which it is used. Wet the brush, sprinkle a little powder on it, then rub well into the beard, and a creamy, soft, luxurious lather quickly results.

Shortens the time spent in preparing for the shave,

A very unique member of the Vinolia family. Aims to permit the user to dispense with both shaving brush and water during the shave.

And succeeds remarkably well, as everyone who has used this soothing, delightfully refreshing preparation will testify. All you need to do is rub the Cream with the finger tips well over the beard, no water or brush needed—and no matter how wiry the hair, your razor will do its work with even more than its usual effectiveness. And more—after the shave you'll find your face cool, refreshed, benefited and free from irritation. Comes in large, collapsible tubes. 25 cents.

CHAPTER XIII.

The Tables Are Turned.

As soon as the door was closed behind the messenger Thorne laid his cigar down on the table. Then he picked up the dispatch from the Secretary of War which the messenger had just brought in, and folded it very dexterously. Then with a pair of scissors which he found in a drawer he cut off the lower part of the Secretary's dispatch containing his signature. He put this between his teeth and tore the rest into pieces. He started to throw the pieces into the waste basket, but after a moment's reflection he stuffed them into his trouser pocket. Then he picked up his coat from the back of the chair and took from the inside breast pocket another document written on the same paper as that which had just come from the Secretary of War. Spreading this out on the table he cut off the signature and quickly pasted to it the piece of the real order bearing the real signature. He carefully wiped the pasted dispatch with his handkerchief, making an exceedingly heat job of it. CHAPTER XIII.

As he did so, he smiled slightly. Fortune, which had dealt him so many rebuffs had evened up matters a little by giving him this opportunity. He was now in possession of a dispatch bearing the genuine signature of the Secretary of War. Even if he were interrupted the chances were he would still be able to send it. As soon as he had doctored the dispatch, he sat down at the instrument and once more essayed to send the message.

To Discard Freckles, Tan, Pimples, Wrinkles

(From Feminine World.) The use of creams on the face some times causes hair to grow. You can avoid the risk of acquiring superfluous hair by avoiding cosmetics and using mercolized wax instead. There is nothing better for any condition of the skin, as the wax actually absorbs the offensive cuticle. The latter is naturally replaced by a clear, smooth, healthy complexion, full of life and expression. It's the sensible way to discard a freckled, tanned, over-red, blotchy or pimpled skin. "Drop that gun!" he shouted. "Drop it quick, or you are a dead man!"

There was no possibility of disobenience. Thorne straightened up and laid his revolver on the table. The two conformed each other, and if looks could have killed they had both been dead men. The soldier shrugged his shoulders at last, took his handkerchief out of his pocket, put one end between his teeth, and with the other hand wrapped it tightly around his wounded wrist.

The civilian meantime advanced toward him, keeping him covered all the time with his revolver.

"Do you know why I didn't kill you like the dog you are?" he asked truculently, as he drew nearer.

"Because you are such a bad shot, I suppose," coolly answered Thorne, between his feeth, still tying the bandage, after which he calmly picked up his cigar and began smoking again with the utmost indifference. transformation. ### FIELD CROP WORK DISCUSSED AT O. A. C.

Big Convention of the Judges in the Government Competition.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Guelph, July 5. - A most successful convention of Ontario Government judges in the standing field crop competition terminated at the O. A. College today. Many matters pertaining to the welfare of agriculture in Ontario were discussed by representative farmers from all parts of the Province, nearly 100 being in attendance.

main object of the meeting The was for the purpose of arriving at a uniform system of marking the different score cards and a uniform system of judging. Two hundred agricultural societies have entered this standing field crop competition, and 5,000 individual farmers, members of these societies, are competing. This field crop work is considered the most important line yet taken up by the farmers of Ontario. It was inaugurated six years ago by Superintendent Wilson, and the grant for this year is $18,500. Among other important matters, a resolution passed that the Dominion Government be memorialized to amend the seed control act of 1911, so that it will be necessary to have all receptacles, packages, sacks or bags of alfalfa seed offered for sale in Canada marked in a plain and indelible manner, with the name of the province, state or country in which the seed was grown.

BAILEY --- BAILEY

A Very Pretty Wedding in South London.

On Wednesday, July 3, the residence of Mrs. Thomas Hill, 35 Tecumseh avenue, was the scene of a very quiet but pretty wedding, when Miss Florence Helena Bailey, of Dudbury, England, was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. G. Bailey, electrical engineer of the hydro pumping station. The ceremony was performed by the Very Rev. Davis. The bride, who was given away by Mr. T. H. Hill, looked charming in a gown of white voile and lace over white silk, and carried a bouquet of white carnations. Miss Maud Hill, who acted as bridesmaid, were a becoming gown of silk, and carried pink carnations, while Mr. John Dawson sup-ported the groom. After the ceremony a very dainty wedding breakfast was served in a marquee on the lawn. Later in the evening the happy couple left to spend a week in Port Stanley, LINIMENT CURES after which they will take up their residence on Talbot street, this city.

ARE USUALLY THE VICTIMS OF PALE, WATERY BLOOD.

Anaemia is the medical term for coor or watery blood. It may arise from a variety of causes, such as ack of exercise, hard study, improperly ventilated rooms or work-shops, imperfect assimilation of food, perly etc. The chief symptoms are extreme pallor of the face, lips and gums; rapid breathing and palpitation of the heart after slight exertion; headaches, dizziness, sometimes fainting spells and a tendency to hysterics, swelling of the feet and limbs, a feeling of constant tiredness and a distaste for food. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a certain cure for anaemia, because they make new, rich blood, stimulates and strengthens every organ and every part of the body. The following is one among thousands of cases of this serious trouble cured by the use of Dr. Pink Pills. Miss Georgina liams' Raymond, St. Jerome, Que., says: "About a year ago my health began to give out. I suffered from headaches, heart palpitation, dizziness, and appeared to be threatened with a general breakdown. I was at this time employed in the family of a doctor, who, seeing my condition, fully for some time, but with no benefit, and I grew much discouraged. ## MEXICAN REBEL ARMY

Remnant of Insurrecto Forces Will Adopt Guerilla Warfare in the Future.

[Canadian Press.] El Paso, Texas, July 6.—Only 4,500 men are estimated as comprising the remnant of the rebel army today. Desertions because of lack of food and meney and federal triumphs, have greatly reduced the insurrecto columns within the last week.

General Pascual Orozco today was expected at the new rebel capital Juarez, to launch further plans for a continuation of the revolution. Though the plan of guerilla warfare originally called for a division of the rebel forces into detachments of 150 men, General Orozco now has ordered that each column shall contain not less than 500 able men to dominate region detailed to it. Already the rebel invasion of the State of Sonors has been begun. Nearly a thousand men under General Emilio Campa are marching from Casas Grandes on the Mexican Northwestern Railroad toward Bavispe, one of the mountain passes leading into Sonora. En route from Agua Prieta opposite Douglas, Arizona, to check them is the federal column of 9,000 men under General Sanjines who will make his headquarters at Colonia Morolos, near the enora State line, and fifty miles south of the international border. "SOME FISH, THIS"

A Big Haul Made by Mr. Harry Pea-

To Mr. Harry Peacock, the premier expert of the old school of fishermen, goes the banner catch of black bass and pickerel for the season. Mr. Peacock, in company with several other South London Nimrods, tried his luck this week in the Thames, near Delaware. Mr. Peacock landed several exceptionally large black bass between three and four pounds in weight; also the largest pickered caught for many a A resolution extended sympathy to the family of the late Archibald Mc-Gilawee, of North Easthope, a prom-in ent Liberal worker and a member day. A large number of fishermen, after viewing the catch, envied Mr. Peacock's wonderful luck.

hands with the city of London,

Will Attempt to Oust Him From Chair.

Washington, July 6 .- As the result of the bitterness growing out of the Baltimore convention a movement has een started to defeat the re-election of Speaker Clark, to his present office, in the event that the Democrats con-trol the House in the next Congress. Two elements are said to be en gaged in this business. One is made up of the friends of William Jennings force for the past four years is Bryan, who resent the charge on the part of the supporters of the speaker that Bryan knifed Clark in the conven-tion. The other emanates from the friends and backers of Oscar W. Underwood, who likewise resent the attitude of the speaker in regard to what the Underwood people in the conven-tion did toward the nomination of Woodrow Wilson, derwood manager, Senator Bankhead, ing.

in releasing the Underwood delegates. Court Adjourns. The Underwood delegates thereupon went to Wilson, and his nomination followed before the Clark people could blink their eyes.

At the very moment that Bankhead mounted the platform to release the Underwood delegates it is said Boss Murphy, of New York, and Boss Sullivan, of Chicago, had agreed to give Clark one more chance to capture the nomination. Clark himself, at that very moment, was in the Baltimore Club sending for his friends in the convention as fast as he could, for the purpose of urging them to stand firm nd prevent the nomination of Wilson. But the moment the Underwood manager learned that Sullivan was about o go back to Clark, thus cutting 58 votes away from Wilson, Bankhead determined that the time for decisive ac-Canada Machinery, 25 at 25; Spanish River, 20 at 92%; Porto Rico, bonds, $500 at 96; Sao Paulo, 25 at 238; La Rose, 85 at 330; Steel of Canada, 100 at 30; Mon-

It is very apparent that if the House goes Democratic this fall Clark have a fight for re-election as speaker and that the friends of Underwood will make a mighty effort to have the Alabama leader succeed Clark. Whether the Bryan supporters of the House will stand for Underwood remains to be seen. Underwood is the

GREAT SUFFERING BY CHICAGO HEAT WAVE

Seven Dead and Many Prostrated By Excessive Humidity at Windy City.

[Canadian Press.] Chicago, Ill., July 6 .- Seven dead, a score of pedestrians prostrated, and a number bitten by heat-maddened dogs was the summary early this morning in Chicago at the close of the hottest day thus far this year

Excessive humidity, registering above 80, and a maximum temperature of 92 degrees, resulted in great suffering. Thousands of people in all parts of the city slept out of doors, on roof tops, and in the parks last night. Lake steamers were crowded with people seeking to escape the great heat in the city. Crowds at the bathing beaches refused to go home at the usual hour for closing, and many remained on the shore all

MARSHALL GRAYDON MAY BE CANDIDATE

If Major Beattie Is Made Senator.

The announcement that Major Thos. Beattle, M. ## Ophir Cobalt

During the past few days development work on this mine is meeting with plendid results, and before Shaft No. 2 has reached the 100-foot level we anticipate a still further advance in the price of this stock.

The floating supply of Ophir stock is inadequate to meet the demand at present, and should spectacular ore be encountered, as the management expect, market quotations will go up in skips and bounds.

IN OUR OPINION OPHIR IS ABOUT DUE FOR A 100 PER CENT. ADVANCE, AND WE STRONGLY ADVISE

Germany's Commercial Policy. From Commodore W. H. Beehler's "Germany as a Sea Power" in the July Century.]

The policy of providing for Gerany's future on the sea is the natural result of the enormous strides made by the population of Germany. Except a few South Sea islands and tropical parts of Africa, there remain no territories for the Germans to colonize; so their future is necessarily linked with the sea. During the last twenty years the German seafaring population has increased much more than that of any other nation. Only fifty years ago there were compara-tively few German ships, the German flag was seldom seen at sea, and there was no German navy. Only a few ships of the free cities and of Prussia vere afloat.

Migration of Small Birds

problem of how small birds were able to manage long flights from other countries exercised the minds of naturalists for centuries. The first man to collect accurate information on the subject was the late Herr Gatke. Living on the little island of Heligoland, in the direct route of migration, and entirely devoted to his subject, he was able to verify for himself many facts which had until then escaped notice.

For instance he pointed out that birds on migration often flew very high — probably as much as twelve thousand feet (over two miles) above They do not fly at a great height has been corroborated by astronomers, who have seen birds flying across the face of the moon at a height of not less than one mile. Gatke's idea on speed were probably exaggerated, but only by a theory of a tremendously swift flight at a high altitude could he account for the fact that certain birds were never, or rarely, seen in the countries between their winter and summer quarters. For instance, he pointed out that the blue throat, which winters in Africa, rarely met with in any of the countries on the line of route—Italy, Greece, Southern Germany.

When they arrived in Heligoland, they came in large flocks and were they and exhausted; also they always further investigated. How do birds find their way? So far as we are aware only one experiment has been made on these lines. This was carried out by Dr. Watson, an American, who took some terns from their nests on a rocky islet near the coast of Florida. Having marked them, he released them at sea about 800 miles to the north of their home, and several hundred miles north of their normal range. The birds, therefore, being liberated at sea, where neither they nor their ancestors had ever been before, it would seem that they could not find their way back. Yet in the course of a few days a fair proportion had returned to their island home This experience is certainly conclusive showing that some birds have power of orientation and of finding their way without the ald of any landmarks or inherited knowledge.

His career in the House of Commons before his party came into power, revealed the same qualities. "A young member," replied Disraeli, "should al-ways be in his place in the House, unless when he is in the library reading Hansard's parliamentary debates." Hansard's parliamentary And this was the principle on which Mr. McKenna acted. could have dared to take. Fitted for the Office. Then came promotion to different offices until at last he found himself land, which was a stumbling block many legal and tortuous paths, and it is therefore a very considerable addition to a home secretary's equipment for his great and difficult office that he should know all the law books have to give of rules, precedents, and decisions on intricate legal questions. But, after all, it was not because he had had the training of a lawyer that Mr. McKenna, has been such a success at the home office. His qualities of character supply the real reason. Great courage, quiet selfconfidence, a clear and practical judgment, these are the qualities that he has, and these are the qualities that make the successful home secretary. He came into no easy task. From the first hour of his taking office he had to confront innumerable, even affrighting difficulties-the fanaticism of the suffragettes, a national coal strike, and now the strike at the port London. Through them all he has come, not without criticism, some-times malignant and unjust, and even insane, but he has come through successfully. The strike at the port of London might well have tired the nerve of any man and especially a man who has the popular sympathies and the political affiliations of a Liberal home secretary. London might have been starved, it has scarcely felt even a pinch of privation; there might have been serious riots, there have been none of any consequence; there might have been even the more disastrous incidents of violent collision and extensive bloodshed; up to the present there has been none. All that was wanting to bring into the relief and to the notice of the most casual unobservant man in the street, this magnificent triumph of combined courage and judgment, was an attack by his enemies. The fatuousness of Mr. Bonar Law and of Mr. Austen Chamberlain did Mr. McKenna that service. And when at last he faced his assailants, his speech was such his enemies lay flat triumph that speechless and broken before him, and he rose at once to a place in the House of Commons, which is on the level with his gifts.

The Sphere of London prints a picture showing a new defensive weapon which is being provided for some of the English constabulary. It consists of a metal shield, designed to protect the user from missiles thrown by rioters. When not in use it is carried on the back as a knapsack. With this shield covering his head and breast, the English policeman somewhat re-sembles a mediaeval warrior. Are body armor and the shirt of mail to

Failing in this, the radical rose in revolt, and on every hand the wildest confusion began to show it-

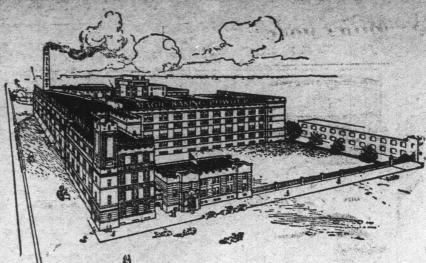

Meanwhile the public workshops were proving an obvious nuisance. The number of workmen was more than one hundred thousand in Paris alone, and the expense of maintaining them threatened to bankrupt the Gov ernment. Private enterprise was almost at a standstill, and conditions were rapidly becoming worse than they were under Louis Philippe. Thinking to help matters the Government issued a decree that all unmarried workmen between the ages of eighteen and twenty-five should enter the army, while the rest were to be transferred to the department. All who refused to comply with the decree were to be excluded from the verkshops.

We herewith have the honor to inform you that the board of regents, officers and faculty of Carnegie University, chartered and incorporated for $100,000 under the laws of the State of Delaware, have decided at a special meeting, to confer honorary degrees upon those adies and gentlemen of sufficient educa tion who are willing to show, their financial assistance or otherwise that they have the interest and welfare of the university at heart.

It didn't take Chief Postoffice Inspector Dickson much time to find the vulnerable points in the armor of the awe-inspiring faculty. Every statement contained in the catalogue, the circulars and the advertisement concerning degrees, tuition, buildings, value of stock, degrees possessed by the instructors, be ng false, the president and secretary vere indicted, arrested and released on $3,000 ball They failed to appear in court when their case was called the other day. According to Mr. Vandiver, attorney for the County Medical Association, who has been co-operating with Chief Inspector Dickson in driving out of business medical fakers, there are still four diploma mills doing business in this country and letting loose every year on the unsuspecting and long_suffering public hundreds of "graduates" whose incompetence is ridiculous when it is not

One of these wild-cat universities, Mr Vandiver said, is located right here in New York city, and its president, whom the County Medical Association is watching closely, was arrested once and fined heavily for practicing medicine without a license and a second time for another offence. After receiving free board for two years and six months from the State of Pennsylvania he conceived the idea of founding a university.

New York, however, is dangerous ground for such educational experiments, for the law here is rather strict. Medical and educational fakers manage to evade the law in this state sometimes by obtaining a charter under the laws of Delaware or West Virginia. It was the State of Virginia which granted was the State of viginia a charter to the famous "Old Physic-Medical College," whose eminently suitable for framing and whose prosperous career was cut short when its president became the guest of the State of Pennsylvania.

The days of the wild-cat college and of the self-styled doctor are, however, num bered. Osteopathy used to be the resort to which illicit practitioners turned to get out of trouble. As osteopaths are now required to submit to regular examinations and to apply for a license the fakers have created the new science of mechano-thermy and the degree of M. T. D. thermy and the degree of M. T. D. the maid that show. therapy, and the degree of M. T. D. enables many a conscienceless faker to build up a practice as "doctor."

One picturesque line of business which the postoffice slueths have probably blighted forever, as publicity is its deadliest enemy, is known as the dead man's scheme. Mr. X. dies. For several days, if not weeks, mail will reach his house dressed to the dead man, and especially if X's death wasn't preceded by a long illness he must have left a good many deals unfinished, a good many details of his business life unattended to. One morning an envelope is brought

What can that be? If the expressman happens to call just at the time when the family, worn out by several sleep-less nights, is starting for the cemetery, some one, to get rid of the expressman, will pay the money.

At some other time an inquisitive relative will insist on opening the package before accepting it. It contains a letter which reads:

My Dear Sir: We have, according to esteemed instructions of the 22nd inst., replaced gold-filled stub on the enclosed fountain pen by a fourteen carat stub. Deducting your previous remittance of $2 from the retail price of same, $5.75, leaves $3.75 still due. "We don't need that pen," the widow may perhaps reason with her children "but poor father wanted it anyhow and we might as well get it since he had already paid $2 on it." The 14-carat pen usually proves to be a disappointment, for it is the kind which is given free with a $5 box of cigars or a set of Poe's works. Poor father always was a little gullible, his

BURKE SOLD STOCKS.

W. H. M. Burke, alias Lucius P. Wilson, hired a little office at 24 Stone street and furnished it with a desk and a stenographer's table. Also he secured he services of a clipping bureau. Every morning at 9 o'clock he opened his mail, read clippings from hundreds of different cities and towns. From these clippings he made up a list of names and addresses and gave the list to his stenographer, who from the morning to the closing hour wrote the following letter to every one of the customers. o every one of the customers.

Dear Sir (or Madam): We regret the delay in forwarding enclosed stock.

Kindly forward money order for $5 cost of same and oblige. W. H. M. Burke.
The stenographer then put the letter in an envelope together with a certificate for five shares of stock of Porcupine Realty and Mines, Limited; capital $50,000, a circular and a map of the "property." Among other interesting facts the circular said that:

The Percupine Realty and Mines, Lim ted, was incorporated principally to do general real estate business, although charter is broad and comprehensive and allows the company to act as trus-tees, to build and equip trolley systems, waterworks and other municipal require. nents, to manufacture goods of any kind, to build buildings of any character, to conduct hotels and places of amuse_

Quick to recognize the necessity of such an organization, the company purchased from the Ontario Government and owns a forty-acre tract of land exceedingly well adapted to the requires ments of a new city, and the land has been surveyed and laid out in town lots and streets. The depot of the Temis kaming and Northern Ontario Railroad at Golden City lies just across the street from the company's property, giving the company the ideal location of the city.

The company will soon begin the sale of a portion of its lots, and as its expense is exceedingly light monthly dividends can soon be expected which will idends can soon be expected which will greatly enhance the value of its shares. Had Mr. Burke only used the mails nore frequently he might have escaped detection. He knew, though, that post-office inspectors are wide awake and he therefore sent his letters by express.

And thus he was caught, just as the fountain-pen genius and the diamond ring genius had been caught; Express agents in some small towns were surprised at the number of C. O. D. etters they were asked to deliver to lead men.

For the clipping bureau serving Mr. Burke had been directed to cull obituary notices from many papers. Mr. Burke's customers were all dead people. It is not known and may never be found out how many widows and orphans are now stockholders in Porcupine Realty and Mines, Limited. So valuable, however, was the stock of this "Safe and attractions of the stock of this stock of this safe and attractions of the stock of t tive proposition" that Mr. Burke simply dumped into his waste paper basket not only the letters that had failed to land the prospect but the certificates as well. Now and then, of course, Mr. Burke sent letters by mail, and after the ex_ press companies had called the postoffice's attention to those puzzling shipments to dead men one letter was trac-ed, the dead man's son remitted the money by mail, Mr. Burke acknowledged by mail receipt of the remittance and a case was made against him for using the mails with intent to defraud.

Mr. Burke's system showed ingenuity but was distinctly inferior to that used by the originators, of the post-mortem sales of pens and diamonds. Notes in encil or ink made by relatives returnng Billy's shipment on the certificates hemselves or his own letter prove that he wasn't always taken very seriously.

Canon Horsley was ten years chaplain of the old Clerkenwell prison, and a hundred thousand prisoners passed through his hands. Now, the writer knows that when it comes to course you can! The maid that showed you in has done time, and I never had a better servant." Canon Horsley had to take a Christmas service at Newgate. There been a delivery of the jail, and but one prisoner remained in ward. He was to be hanged at 9 next morning. Think of the feelings of the clergyman as he mounted into the pulpit to preach to this man at a moment's notice a Christmas and funeral sermon! In 1889 Canon Horsley accepted the living of Holy Trinity, Woolwich, and entered on a new stage in his career. The course in thus indicated:

"It was at once evident, from the state of the slums touching, but decorously out of sight behind, the church, that I must war against municipal neglect and private pro-

Woolwich, in brief, meant for the democratic parson the Housing Prob-lem. Into the thirty-two acres of the low-lying Thames parish Trinity were crammed 4,300 people-125 to the acre. In a warm summer the river was a mere open sewer; "the lifting of a brick in a yard showed a subtratum of sewage." streets were without dust bins. Cellars were used as bedrooms." The one official of the local board had 5,000 houses to inspect, and into the worst corners he penetrated about once in five years. In this congested and infected area the new rector became the people's tribune and the landlords' The local board was aghasi at his schemes for reform, and the landlords' organ talked of "coercion for Woolwich." Presently, however, Canon Horsley was able to report-

"progress all along the line-land-lords were making a virtue of necessity; plumbers and jobbers were making their fortunes; tenant were alive to their rights, and knew how to get the laws passed for their protection put into force. One hundred and twenty-six houses were dealt with under the housing of the working classes act during year, and I noted that out of 233 complaints in the book of the board, 127 had been lodged by me as secretary of the local committee of the Mansion House council."

Neither the clergy of the Establish ment (one excepted) nor the Noncon-formist ministers lent the fighting parson any countenance, but the re presentatives of those whom he helped to lift out of squalor backet him to a man; and their testimonial to him when he went from Woolwich to St. Peter's, Walworth, is a rather different sort of document from the common things of its class. It is a kind of a slogan. We should like kind of a slogan. We should like to quote the whole of it; we can give but a few lines:

"Your name, Sir, has been a terror to slum owners, rack-renters, and other exploiters of the poorest, and, therefore, most defenceless, if our class, who, by their insanitary deathtraps and sweating proclivities, induce conditions which result in crime and lunacy, disease and prewhich result in

"The prey of these harpies—the democracy—applaud you for the courageous declaration made in your farewell sermon of January 1894, viz.: that never would you confine yourself to spiritual duties whilst the people were in squalor and misery; and emphatically indorse your statement that 'to preach temperance, sobriety, and chastity to dwellers in insanitary dens, without attempting to ameliorate their condition, is a canting absurdity."

The story of Walworth, so far as i concerns Canon Horsley, is pretty much the story of Woolwich. "Fourteen thusand peple in a parish of about six hundred yards square, and some twenty acres of it worn-out slums, now happily cleared, when the leases ran out by the ecclesiastical commissioners." Under the new lis houses, resulted in a gain of over £12,000 to the parish. Sampling was properly done under the Food and Drugs Act; sanitary defects remedied rose to 22,000; street lighting (a matter of peculiar importance in slum parishes) was attended to: a children's playground was opened. rector of St. Peter's, in fact, was "marching against Philip," precisely as the rector of Holy Trinity had done. Does anyone ask where the clerical work comes in? We might answer offhand that in parishes of slums all this is clerical work of the best practical kind (work albeit that a clergyman, as a clergyman, may wofully and direfully neglect); but let these passages be culled from a parochial letter:

"1. That after any and every service I shall be at the disposal of anyone who desires such information, help, or guidance as I can give.

"2. That I shall extremely dislike any apology such as men often in courtesy make, for 'taking up my time.' I shal have no time of my own: A priest is always on duty."

How the canon tackled the racing tipsters; how in holidays he carried Woolwich to the Alps, and later into Palestine, and was Jehu to cripples and bedlams on jaunts by brake to Epping; how he made a great, notorious, and inestimable collection of Snails, to the wonder and delight of audiences in lecture halls—this, and much else, may here be read. It is an Mr. Carnegie eminent book. do worse than buy and bind it suitably in quantities for presents to the clergy of all denominations. At sixtysix, Canon Horsley has the dash and hope and intrepidity of youth—the "forty-parson power" that Byron cried out for. May his ample and Impressive beard increase!—From the Lon-writes, on Sept. 12th, 1911: "Some time ago, you were good enough to send me a sample of Neave's Food. Baby liked it so well and it agreed with her, so I am using it right along and think it is excellent. "I have a friend with a very delicate baby. She cannot nurse it and has tried six different foods, but it does not thrive at all—is always sick and troubled with indigestion. I strongly recommended your food. Will you please send her a sample?"

Mrs. Prince wrote again on Sept. 27th, 1911. "My friend's baby has grown wonderfully. I can scarcely credit it. Her next baby, which she expects in five months, will be fed on Neave's Food right from the start-she thinks it is so good."

INFANT SWALLOWED A CHAIN BRACELET

Adelaide Street Baby Develops a Peculiar Appetite, But Danger Is Anticipated.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Ryckman, of 346 Adelaide street, swallowed a chain bracelet to which a locket was attached, yesterday afternoon, and while the jewelry is still in the child's stomach, no serious consequences are anticipated. Dr. E. Seaborne is in attendance.

Mrs. Ryckman, whose husband is employed at the Queen City Oil Company's plant on York street, was engaged in dressing the baby yesterday afternoon, when the little one slipned the chain breedet from its wrist ped the chain bracelet from its wrist and, placing it in her mouth, gulped it down, together with the small-sized

Mrs. Ryckman was caused some anxiety for a time, but no further trouble is now looked for. RAIN BADLY NEEDED

All Around Ingersell Vegetation is Badly in Need of Showers.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ingersoll, July 6.—"Give Us Rain" may truly be said to be the farmer's prayer at the present time. The humidlty of the past few days has been trying, and vegetation is not thriving as was the case up to the time the drought set in. A good rain would spoil the little potatoes, and as there is always a better demand for the larger ones interests are common, and everybody would like to see a steady downpour. Haying operations have been in progress for several days and while dry weather is essential for this work, the farmers would gladly have operations interrupted by scaking rain. It is badly needed. Of the one hundred or more Scouts in camp at Beachville all are well and enjoying the outing immensely. Although camp life is the Scouts' vacation they know few idle hours. Early to be and early to rise is one motto. to bed and early to rise is one motto that is followed to the letter, and in addition the work is so well apportioned that all are kept busy with routine assignments and the exercise stunts of the day. All arrangements have been com-pleted for the flight of the airship which was to have flown on Dominion Day. The flight will be made from a field on the farm of Mr. W. I. Nancekivell instead of Victoria Park. There are numerous trees in the park, a high hill and fences, which make a high hill and fences, which make it most unsuitable from the aviator's standpoint. The field chosen is level, free of trees, and has many advantages in favor of the aviator.

The sixth annual meeting of the Brantford District Library Association will be held in the basement of the Ingersell library next Monday and Tuesday. About fifty delegates are expected, and important topics will be discussed by competent speakers. Amongst the speakers will be Mr. W. O. Carson, of London.

CORRESPONDENCE

To the Editor of The Advertiser: The ancient Jew deemed God a national deity, and patriotism stopped with their country's bounds. Love for and service in their country's needs took no cognizance of the outer world, who were but Gentiles, aliens, enemies, having no right or claim on anything the Jew desired.

Wherein is our patriotism of today, even of Christian nations, better than the old and crude idea of the Jews? Jesus came and reared a shining pedestal whereon to build a truer, purer patriotism, but men and nations still go back and build upon the old. How many of England's wars, I will How many of England's wars, I will not speak of other nations, for I love England best, have been waged et Christ's command to "Love your enemies," and in the spirit taught by the good Samaritan? Let us each one, man and nation, remodel our definition of patriotism to the conception of the Master, whom all pretend to follow.

Patriotism is love and service for Master, whom all pretend to follow.

Patrice in is love and service for one's county, not regardless and exclusive, the inclusive and regardful, of every other country in the world, for nothing it of that can answer Christ's idea of the "Fatherhood of God, and the bretherhood of man."

CAUGHT RED HANDED

White Man Was Giving Indian a Bottle of Liquor.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Sarnia, July 5. — Two men, an Indian and a white man, were arrested by Police Officer Johnson today. The redman, whose name is White, had reuman, whose name is white, had liquor in his possession, which was furnished by his paleface friend, named Brown. The officer was fortunate enough to catch the offenders redhanded and they werep romptly taken to the police station. There is consider-able traffic of this kind around here, and it is very hard to secure evidence against the guilty parties, although their names are well known. As a general rule the Indians will take thirty days in jail rather than divulge the name of the person who supplies them with liquor. Brown and White appeared before the magistrate for a hearing, and the latter was allowed his liberty, the former being remanded

A Wyoming young man came to the police station today and requested the officers to secure his bicycle, which had been stolen about a week ago. It appears that he loaned the wheel to a friend last week to go to Petrolea. The friend, he alleged, pedalled to Sarnia, where he traded the bicycle for another, which he sold. The stolen propwas recovered and the culprit will be placed under arrest.

Men Alleged to Have Been Dissatis With Checking System.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Sarnia, July 6.—It is reported that about a hundred men employed by the Imperial Oil Company quit work and he was given perfect support.

Ardell hammered out a home run and isfaction over the time check system is a couple of days ago owing to dissatisfaction over the time check system is use. According to the latest reports the strikers are now all back on the system having been the job, the system having been changed. So far as can be ascertained two checks were issued to the em-ployees, one of which was handed in n the morning, and the other at noon and both were taken out again in the evening. This meant quite a bit of bother for the men, who, of course, had to line up three times a day waiting their turn to put the checks in or take them out Becoming tired of this, they demanded a change and walked out A new system was introduced, one check being handed in when entering
