NO PEACE WITH KAISERISM, TENOR OF WILSON'S REPLY TO GERMANY

President Tells Chancellor to Put a Stop to Teuton Atrocities and Depose Emperor—Military Advisers Must Be Consulted Before Allies Grant Armistice.

Washington, Oct. 15.—President Wilson has answered Germany's peace proposal with a decision which not only fulfills the expectations of supporters of his diplomacy, but also dispels the fear of those who predicted he would substitute victories at arms with defeats at diplomacy.

No peace with Kaiserism, auto-armistice must go, no armistice can be thought of while Germany continues her atrocities on land and sea, one cannot be considered unless it fully is dictated by the allied commanders in the field in such terms as absolutely provides safeguards and guarantees that Germany's part will not be a scrap of paper.

This in a few words is the President's answer. It does not bring a capitulation which may be a mere truce, an armistice, or a suspension of hostilities. It is a formal statement at the White House by Secretary Tumulty.

The Government will continue to send over 250,000 men with their supplies every month, and there will be no relaxation of any kind. Quite outside of the formal phrases of a diplomatic document that was President Wilson's word to the world that he had no thought of stopping the fight at this stage.

The Senate chamber rang with the applause of Senators as the President's answer was read a few minutes after it had been announced at the State Department.

Senator Lodge, the President's chief critic in his course until to-day, issued a statement expressing his gratification at the President's decision. Opinion at the Capital and throughout official Washington was unanimously in approval.

The official note which will convey the President's decision to the German Government, and more important, to the German people, was delivered today by Secretary Lansing to the Charge of the Swiss Legation in Washington.

Mr. Wilson, according to the view now finally informed the German people that if they want peace they can only attain it by getting rid of the Kaiser and his system.

Although countless small fires were burning throughout the district to-day and the more serious blazes died down considerably during the night, a revival of the seventy-mile-an-hour gale of Saturday would bring further horrors and add greatly to the tragedy.

FISH
The food board is advising the public to eat more fish—fresh fish, frozen fish, and fish products. From a patriotic standpoint, the consumption of fish means the conservation of food products that can more readily be exported to Europe to feed the men who are fighting the Empire's battles there.
Besides, fish possesses a high food value, it is an appetizing and economical article of food.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS, AUTHOR OF "MARGARET GARRETT'S HUSBAND," AND OTHER NOTABLE STORIES.

Distressing Wait and a Lame Explanation. CHAPTER XLVIII. Hour after hour Ruth sat by the window, watching, listening. Occasionally she would doze off for a few moments, tired with her hard week's work, and her long ride on the rail road. But she woke at the slightest noise. Eleven struck, then twelve. Where could Brian be? One, a quarter past. She rose and, going into the bedroom, she undressed and slipped into a wrapper. Just as the half hour struck she heard Brian's key in the door.

With an immense effort she pulled herself together. She wouldn't blame until she knew. Once more she recalled what her aunt had said about surprises reacting upon the one who has to live with them. She should have let him know she was there. Brian, the moment he opened the door, had sensed her presence. The faint odor of the perfume that she always used, greeted him, warning him she had arrived. "Oh, Brian! I thought you'd never come!" she exclaimed as she rose to meet him. "Why didn't you let me know you were coming? How's a fellow to keep track of you? I'd like to know!" and while he kissed her affectionately, his tone was impatient. "I wanted to surprise you, dear. I finished before I expected, and thought you would be so pleased." "Surprised yourself instead. Well, come on, let's go to bed!" It took a long bus ride, didn't realize it was so late. Ruth wanted desperately to ask if he took the bus ride all alone, and she hit her lip to keep the words back. She was thankful for the dim light. Her eyes were full of tears.

and she did not want Brian to see them. Like all men, he had little patience with a weeping woman. "Have you been comfortable?" she ventured. "Has Mrs. Crawford cooked nice things for you?" The dim light also hid from her the flush that rose to Brian's face as he replied. "She hasn't had much cooking to do! You didn't suppose I was coming up to this dump, to eat alone every night, did you?" "Oh, Brian! how can you call our pretty home a 'dump'?" It is so pretty. "Anything is a dump when a man's alone." "Well, dear, I may not have to go away again for a long time. I did good work, too, I know I did." She longed for understanding and sympathy and it won't be long before they will see I am worth even more than they are paying me. "Then you can crow over me still more!" Brian returned, yet thinking he hoped she had some money left; he had spent all he had. "Don't, Brian! not to-night," now her voice was full of tears. "All right, I'll be good," and then they kissed and "made friends," as Brian affectionately expressed it. But in the night Ruth was awakened by Brian talking in his sleep. "You're a good girl, Mollie!—he wattered! then after a moment, 'Not many girls as popular as you—' Ruth waited, scarcely breathing, so fearful was she he would stop, "would spend so many evenings with—'he waited longer, 'this time, 'an old married man,' he finished. "So her fears had not been groundless after all. He had been with Mollie King and—'he had said 'so many evenings.' Perhaps he had been with her every night. No wonder he had no time to write to her. Bitterness filled her heart. She was working for his comfort as well as her own. She had no thought but to share all with him. And he, he was spending his time with Mollie King while she was hard at work to improve their condition. For the first time came the thought: Brian hadn't much money. Perhaps that was why he had borrowed of Clark that time when she went to Philadelphia. To take Mollie King out. He wasn't to do that again. She would ask him in the morning if he was out of money. She must use tact about it, or he would get angry. Brian didn't begin to care about borrowing. She had quite a little left over from her salary and all she saved from what she was allowed for expense money. A very generous allowance it was too. She slept no more that night. At breakfast she said: "If you have been eating out, Brian, it must have cost you a lot. I didn't begin to expect you to be borrowing. I had no heart to do anything all alone, so I went to bed. All but one evening, then I went to a show," she talked fast so he wouldn't interrupt. "Here's twenty dollars until I get some in." Then, as he hesitated to take it, "you have all most saved it on the living. 'Crawford' couldn't have used much of it. What I left her only getting breakfasts." "That's so!" and convinced he would take it without a blow to his dignity, Brian put it hurriedly into his pocket. "You see, Ruth, I took Mollie out to dinner with me. You know how I hate to eat alone, and it costs something to buy grub now-a-days." (To be continued to-morrow.)

Wells Draws His Portrait

A GLIMPSE of Wells as he sees himself and the world of which he forms an important part is being afforded those who are following the new Wells novel, appearing in "The New Republic." A series of illustrations has been especially prepared by the author. The novel is called "The Education of Peter," and the section printed in a recent issue discloses one of the characters of the book "taking in" Oxford, and the influences that radiate from it into British life. One reads: "It became manifest to Oswald that the real work of higher education, the discussion of God, of the state and of sex, of all the great issues of life, while it was being elaborately evaded in the formal education of the country, was to a certain extent being done, thinly, unsatisfactorily, pervertedly even, by the talk of boys and girls among themselves, by the casual suggestions of tutors, friends and chance acquaintances, and more particularly by a number of irresponsible journalists and literary men. For example, though the higher education of the country afforded no comprehensive view of social interrelationship at all, the propaganda of the Socialists did give a scheme—Oswald thought it was a mistaken and wrong-headed scheme—of economic interdependence. If the school showed nothing to the children of the Empire but a few tiresome maps, Kipling's stories, and all his lingo violence, did at least breathe something of a living spirit. As Joan and Peg grew up they ferreted out and brought to their guardian's knowledge a school of irresponsible contemporary teachers, Shaw, Wells and the other Fabian Society pamphleteers, the Bellows, Chesterton group, Cunninghamham, Graham, Edward Carpenter, Orage of 'The New Age,' Galsworthy, Cannon, the suffragettes and the like. If the formal teachers lacked boldness, these strange self-appointed instructors seemed to be nothing if not bold. More and more did this outside supplement of education in England press upon Oswald's reluctant attention. "Most of these irregulars he disliked by nature and tradition. None of them had the dignity and restraint of the great Victorian, the Cornelian elegance of Ruskin, the Teutonic hammer blows of Carlyle, Shaw, he understood, was a lean, red-haired Pantolon, terribly fatuous and vain; Bellows and Chesterton thrust a shameless obesity upon the public attention; the social origins of most of the crew were appalling; Bennett was a solicitor's clerk from the potteries; Wells a counter-jumper, Orage came from Leeds; Oswald had seen a picture of Wells by Ma that confirmed his worst suspicions about these people; a heavy bang of hair assisted a cascade of moustache to veil a pasty face that was broader than long and with a sly, oily expression; the creature still wore a long and crumpled frock coat, acquired no doubt during his commercial phase, and rubbed together two large, clammy white, misshapen hands. "Except for Cunninghamham Graham there was not a gentleman, as Oswald understood the word, among them all. But the writers got hold of the intelligent young because they did at least write freely where the university teacher feared to tread. They wrote, he thought, without any decent restraint. They seasons even wholesome suggestions with a favor of scandalous excitement. It remained an open question in his mind whether they did more good by making young people think or more harm by making them think wrong. Progressive does he found maintained the former opinion. With that support Oswald was able to follow his natural disposition and leave the reading of his two wards unrestrained. "And they read—and thought—to such purpose as we will presently tell."

Hunting Out the Snipers

Now Reduced to Fine Art By Fighters at the Front. SNIPING and counter-sniping has been reduced to a fine art in modern warfare, and the sharpshooter uses many other branches of the service to assist him. An incident which occurred in the British lines in Flanders shows how a little artillery work is sometimes necessary in bringing about the undoing of the German snipers. Lieut. Jackson, battalion sniping officer, was walking down the trench when he heard a sudden rattle of musketry—German bullets striking one of the British sniping plates. One of his sniping posts was being battered by German armor-piercing bullets. The officer hurried to the scene and with his periscope located the spot where the Germans were firing. It was a big post on some ground behind the enemy firing line, hidden with earth and looking exactly like any one of the other tangled hummocks with which shells and mines had strewn the vicinity. But his trained eye quickly marked out four small apertures which he knew to be loopholes. The excellence of his periscope even enabled him to see the puff of unburned powder which came from the four hostile rifles at every shot. "They are behind concrete and steel under that surface mud, sir," said the sergeant. "It won't be easy dealing with them." "It's a case for the heavy artillery, I'm afraid," murmured Lieut. Jackson, regretfully—he disliked calling in any outside assistance for his snipers. "I saw the major of that heavy battery which covers us going by a moment ago, sir," said the sergeant. Lieut. Jackson hurried off down the trench and found the major who was up on a survey of the enemy line for special targets. A hint of what had developed brought the major back, and a minute later he was in the nearest signal dugout, telephoning instructions to his battery. Meanwhile Lieut. Jackson beckoned the sergeant away out of the major's hearing. "Put Haggarty and Brown into post 9, sergeant," he ordered. "I don't think the Germans have any day communication into that post of theirs, and they will have to bolt for cover over the ridge." Presently the first heavy projectile came rumbling up from the rear. It burst fifty yards wide in a great splash of earth. The second shell burst in the German firing line, right in front of the sniping post, and tore a huge gap in the parapet. The third fell right on top of the post itself. But the concrete of the structure was strong, and the shell actually ricocheted clear and burst several yards away. "That his frightened them," exclaimed the major suddenly, as four figures appeared from behind the sniping post and raced madly for the crest of the ridge. Just then a shot rang out from the British trench, and the first German pitched forward on his face. The second fell a yard further on. The remaining two were dropped as they reached the crest.

Rippling Rhymes

AXES TO GRIND. The man who has an ax to grind is always genial, bland and kind, and sweetness he is full; and he indorses all I say, however far I roam astray from truth, which is his goal. His friends I usually meet when I go bulging down the street, their own views entertained; and if I say the day is grand; when there's rain to beat the band, they say I've gone insane. And if I talk of politics, and stand up for a lot of Hicks these friends of mine desert; they say my 'dome is full of bats, and prod me earnestly in the slats until they spoil my vest. I surely like the honest skate who doesn't pause or hesitate at speaking of his meat there's nothing in it, but I dislike the one who is an urbanic gent who always is in salams, who has an ax to grind. He is so passing sweet this morn I might trample on his corn, and he would trample on mine; I'm most certainly not blind what sort of ax he has to grind, in just a little while. Some day he'll grab me by the coat and he'll like to have my vote, he needs it, forty ways; and when I gently turn him down, he'll shake the smile and spring a frown, and hate me all his days.

In the police court this morning, the list was chiefly composed of offenders who had been too freely engaged in the worship of Bacchus. John Denby was assessed $200 and costs for having liquor in the Commercial stables, and $10 and costs for being under the influence of liquor. Of two others, on the latter charge, one was remanded and the other fined $10 and costs. A charge of theft was laid over.

THE MARKETS

The number of produce vendors that gathered on the market to-day was exceedingly small as compared with former week-day markets. A few were gathered on the south side of the market, while a few loads of hay were on sale at the northern side. Apples, potatoes and a small amount of grapes composed the balance of the produce offered for purchase.

BRANTFORD BOY WAS IN EXPLOSION

Ernest Patterson, an old Collegiate boy, who has been engaged as a chemist for the past month in the plant in Trenton in which the explosion took place yesterday, came through the crash safely. At the time of the explosion shortly after seven o'clock last night, he was approaching the plant about to go on duty. At the first detonation the ground shook. This was followed by several other explosions. A panic prevailed for some time near the works and at first it was thought that there had been a large number killed. Immediately following the explosion a cordon of men kept back all crowds from the scene of the explosion.

SIX LOCAL CASUALTIES

Word has been received by Mrs. John Angus, 139 Nelson street, that her son, Pte. George S. Angus, was wounded on October 1st. Pte. Angus was over 212th, 125th and was later transferred to the 4th Battalion as a despatch runner. He is one of four sons who have served their country. A brother, M. R. Angus, returned home last week while another brother paid the supreme sacrifice last April. Another brother is yet in France.

PTE. JOHN CURRAN

The funeral will take place Thursday.

Death of Leading Young Manufacturer

Very few deaths in Brantford of recent months have occasioned more genuine regret and sorrow than that of Mr. J. Gordon Scarfe, of Scarfe and Co., Ltd.

Mr. Scarfe, who was only 38 years of age, was as late as Tuesday actively employed in philanthropic work, devoting the day to canvassing on behalf of the Hut Fund of the Knights of Columbus. Taken ill with influenza that evening, symptoms rapidly became serious, and pneumonia developing, he slept peacefully early Sunday morning at his residence, 42 Brant Avenue. The news of his demise coming as a great shock to many friends, not only in Brantford, but throughout the Dominion.

Mr. Scarfe, who was a prominent member of Zion Church, was the third son of the late Sheriff Scarfe, and was born and educated in this city. When, comparatively speaking, a young man, he entered upon a most successful business career, becoming identified with his brother, Mr. Reginald Scarfe, in the manufacture of varnishes and paints—a business which has now assumed extensive proportions with branches in Winnipeg and elsewhere. Possessed of a particularly winning personality he numbered his friends by the hundreds from coast to coast. Having business acumen above the ordinary, his services were much in request in the activities of the Board of Trade, in the Rotary Club and in all the various organizations. His willingness "to serve" in every good cause was most marked, and he gave both of his time and ability unstintingly in this respect. He was very fond of all amateur sports, and tennis and golf especially found in him an ardent supporter. He was a director of the Brantford Golf and Country Club, and here, where, where, was simply indefatigable. He ranked extremely high in his own particular manufacturing circles and enjoyed the very high honor of being a director of the American Paint and Varnish Association, one of the most representative associations of the continent. He was married seven years ago

Our Heartiest THANKS

Are extended to the citizens of Brantford who gave so generously to the Catholic Army Huts Campaign last week. All citizens who contributed to this worthy cause have reason for pride and satisfaction in the knowledge that they have helped to make life more comfortable for the boys over there.

We extend thanks, also to each and every worker who gave such faithful and effective service during the campaign, under conditions of unusual stress, and to whose individual efforts is due a share of the success achieved. We thank also all public speakers, organized societies, and the public press, who lent their support or approval to our campaign.

Owing to the prevalence of influenza in the city last week, it was found impossible to reach everyone, and the campaign will be extended this week. Anyone who has not yet been solicited may send a contribution to H. T. Watt, treasurer, at the Imperial Bank where all additional donations will be received with thanks.

TORONTO CLOSES SCHOOLS TO DAY.

Toronto, Oct. 15.—All public schools and collegiate institutes will be closed to-day until further notice in order that nurses, medical officers and teachers who have first aid or V.A.D. training may be available to combat the influenza epidemic.

This decision was reached by Dr. Hastings, M.O.H., last night after hearing that 25 of his nurses were on the sick list, and a consultation with the Chief Inspector and some of the trustees.

"I found this evening," said Dr. Hastings to a representative of The Globe last night, "that 25 of our nurses are ill. We must have nurses and doctors to look after the epidemic, so it was decided to close the schools after a consultation with Inspector Cowley and a number of the trustees."

"Furthermore, we feel that many of the teachers with V.A.D. training and even those without, will be glad to volunteer and render whatever aid they can."

Commandeers Civic Motor Cars.

Yesterday the doctor sent a requisition to the Board of Control asking that all civic automobiles, with the exception of two or three which should be held for emergency calls from other departments, be turned over to the Medical Health Department for use in combating the disease.

URIC ACID IN MEAT CLOGS THE KIDNEYS

Take a glass of Salts if you feel back pain or bladder troubles.

If you must eat your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaker, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick, headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, use four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

MANY CIVILIANS BECOME FREED

By Courier Leased Wire.

Paris, Oct. 15.—Thirty-five hundred civilians were liberated when the French troops entered the city of Laon. It was officially stated to-night. The statement issued at the War Office says that the French have passed far beyond the town on the whole front between the Oise and the Ailette River.

The text of the official statement reads:

"Pursuing the enemy, our troops resumed the advance this morning over cut-up roads, which the enemy evacuated in hot haste, leaving quantities of material, shells, barbed wire and railroads intact. At 10.45 o'clock our advancing guards reached the Laon-Lafere railroad, where they were met by a violent machine gun fire coming from Beacy, El-Lefey and La Montagne which were occupied by enemy rear guards.

"At 11 o'clock all the St. Gobain forest was clear of Germans."

Franchise Fight in Germany

WHENEVER German military looks down, the German democratic movement looks up. Defeat of the German armies always means fresh promises of political rights to the German people. It is no mere coincidence that the German Chancellor presses again the bill for a democratic franchise in Prussia at the moment when the Russian military system is breaking under the blows of Foch and Haig. The two things have a deep inner relation.

Last March the Kaiser talked only of the glories of his House and of the wonderful things that his armies were going to do. To-day he calls upon the German people to vote for a limited class franchise. Count Hertling solemnly warns the Prussian Herrenhaus that "the protection and the preservation of the crown and dynasty are at stake."

What is this measure thus declared vital, and what is its history? It is simply a bill to base representation in the Parliament of Prussia upon a one-man one-vote suffrage. The Reichstag is elected on the basis of such a franchise, why not the Prussian Parliament? Because the Junkers would not have it so. Because the nobles and the landlords have an innate dislike and dread of democracy. Because Bismarck and the other framers of the constitution for united Germany saw to it that Prussia should dominate the empire, and that in Prussia a limited class should dominate by having two or three votes to the ordinary man's one. This was a crying grievance long before the war. The war heightened it. The three-vote men had not three lives to give up for the country. Equality of sacrifice on the battlefield sharpened the demand for equality of political privilege at home. Finally, the Kaiser had to give way to this demand, and announced that he and his Government favored the enactment of a law for an absolutely equal and democratic franchise in Prussia. It was made a Government question. Count Hertling went so far as to say last February that "the whole future of Prussia and of Germany" depended upon the acceptance of the bill by the Prussian Parliament.

Was it accepted? No, it was only bedevilled by the odorous Junkers. The ups and downs of the bill are interesting. The end aimed at, of course, was the abolition of plural voting. But to this the Prussian Landtag would not consent. On the second reading of the bill, May 2, the essential clause was entirely made over. Instead of a single equal franchise, five special qualifications were set up, each of which would entitle a man to an additional vote. The plan, against the strong protests of the Government, was adopted by a vote of 232 to 183. When the bill was read a third time, on May 14, the Government moved to restore the equal-suffrage provision as first drawn. But it was voted down, 236 to 185. Finally, a "compromise" was adopted, in the shape of a grudgingly modified form of plural voting, and then there was put into the bill a clause to the effect that any future change in the Prussian Constitution must require a vote of three to one. This was intended to bang, bolt, and bar the door to further reform. This, then, is the bill, adopted by the lower House in the teeth of the Government, and now under discussion in the upper House, which the Chancellor affirms the Government cannot approve. Admitting that he is theoretically opposed to equal suffrage, Count Hertling warns the Herrenhaus that the time has come when "social distinctions" in the matter of voting must be done away with. And he adds his conviction that upon the right decision of the question may hang the fate of crown and dynasty.

This may be almost conscious exaggeration for the sake of political effect. It would be an argument in line with many that are just now being addressed by the authorities to the German people. The appeal to dread of consequences is openly made.

It is not only the General Staff that acts as if it knew not where next to turn. The Kaiser's nobles, the Government chaps and chancers. One day it is with the Pan-Germans, the next dead against them. First von Kuhlmann is contemptuously dismissed, and next he is conspicuously decorated by the Emperor. What all this vaillation and evidence of perturbation may bring forth in the future, only a man wise in his own conceit would undertake to say positively. But the present evidence that the German morale is breaking no one can fail to see to be conclusive, and full of hope for the righteous cause of the Allies.

With the Fingers! Says Corns Lift Out Without Any Pain

Sore corns, hard corns, soft corns or any kind of a corn can shortly be lifted right out with the fingers if you will apply directly upon the corn a few drops of Freezone, says a Cincinnati authority.

It is claimed that at small cost one can get a quarter of an ounce of Freezone at any drug store, which is sufficient to rid one's feet of every corn or callus without pain or soreness or the danger of infection.

This new drug is an ether compound, and while sticky, dries the moment it is applied and does not inflame or even irritate the surrounding tissue.

This announcement will interest many women here, for it is said that the present high-heel footwear is putting corns on practically every woman's foot.

Masses of people are being driven along the roads in Belgium by the Germans.

Cause of Falling Hair.

Dandruff is the primary cause of falling hair. This disagreeable condition of the scalp and hair glands is almost certain to cause temporary or permanent baldness.

Loss of hair may also be ascribed to the use of improper shampoo containing irritating substances, mineral oils and alcohol, many of which may produce gradual decay of the hair.

Don't use a stale liquid preparation that contains too much alkali (a harmful irritant). The sure, safest and easiest way is to study your own liquid. Buy a carton of Velsor at any drug store. Dissolve one of the small packets into half glass of fresh water and you will have an abundance of non-irritating liquid that will relieve itching of the scalp, falling hair and dandruff. It improves the natural color of the hair. Velsor being in concentrated form never spoils and will keep forever.

What last year's Victory Loan achieved

LAST year the people of Canada lent the nation $425,000,000 by buying Victory Bonds.

And because Canada now needs more money and will presently ask the people to lend it, the people have a right to know what was accomplished by last year's loan.

Every dollar of it was spent in Canada.

Not only was it spent in Canada—it was circulated—it became the working capital of the nation.

It financed millions of dollars worth of munitions for Great Britain through which great sums of money were passed along to the workers in a hundred cities and towns and to the coal and iron miners of Nova Scotia and New Ontario.

It financed the purchase of thousands of aeroplanes for Great Britain through which again, millions of dollars were passed along to scores of lumber camps in British Columbia and to thousands of workers in the cities.

It financed the export of millions of dollars worth of copper, lead and zinc and that again gave employment to an army of miners and metal workers all over Canada.

It financed the building of 112 steel and wooden ships in the Maritime Provinces, Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia through which many more millions were passed along to the artisans, miners, steel workers and lumbermen of Canada.

It financed the purchase of hundreds of millions of dollars worth of foodstuffs as a result of which the money passed along to the farmers all over Canada.

And the farmers and the workers of Canada deposited their savings in the banks and the banks in turn loaned it to more producers who circulated it again and yet again, until every individual in Canada felt the benefit.

THE money from the Victory Loan, like any other working capital, was "turned over" several times. It kept working, over and over again, until it built up a tremendous commerce—it developed the greatest export trade Canada ever had, greater by several times, than the amount of the loan itself.

And this trade furnished the market for Canada's products of the field, the mine, the forest and the shop.

Thus was Canada's prosperity, upon which her war efficiency depends, kept at a high level.

And by reason of this prosperity, Canada has maintained and equipped an army of over 400,000 men—an army which has brought glory to Canada by its courage and prowess in the field, and by its heroic spirit of sacrifice.

Be ready when the call comes to lend your money

Issued by Canada's Victory Loan Committee in co-operation with the Minister of Finance of the Dominion of Canada

How Canada's Exports have Grown

What Canada's war activities and financing have actually achieved for the nation's export business may be seen at a glance by comparing certain items for the year ending March 31st, 1918, with the average volume of trade in the same items for three years previous to the war.

	Average for 1914-16	For 1918
From the Farms:
Dairy.....	$21,094,893	$40,375,370
Grain.....	97,061,983	408,086,338

From the Forests:
Pulp and Paper.....	12,480,823	59,699,339

Canada's fisheries will yield, in addition to the above, during the present year about $9,000,000 worth of export.

In addition to the forest trees 248 million feet of aeroplane spruce timber averaging over 420 per thousand is contracted for in British Columbia as the result of Canada's financial assistance to Great Britain.

Not ranking as exports, but nevertheless directly financed by the Victory Loan 1917, 2,000,000 tonnage of ships valued at $70,000,000 will be completed by the end of this year. These ships are millions of dollars worth of lumber and steel which again circulates vast sums among the workers of Canada.

TABLES MOTION ON NOVITIATE

Hamilton, Oct. 13.—The Methodist General Conference broke into a sudden clash of contention yesterday morning over the question of the visit of the Dominion Police to the Jesuit Novitiate at Guelph on June 7. The subject was introduced by Rev. Herbert B. Christie of Guelph, who presented a resolution calling upon the Dominion Government to institute a thorough Parliamentary investigation into all the circumstances surrounding the "raid." After a series of short and sharp speeches for and against, the Conference decided by a vote of 144 to 107 to take no action, but to lay the resolution on the table.

Moderate Councils Prevailed. While the Conference was sharply divided upon the question of taking action, it was evident from the speeches on both sides, and from the applause which greeted the supporters of the resolution, that the body of the Conference was at first sympathetic toward the resolution. The moderate speeches of Hon. E. J. Davis, Chancellor Bowles and Mr. W. B. Snowball, however, prevailed over the extremists. Rev. Mr. Christie, in moving the resolution, was proceeding to tell the story of the affair and to give the Conference what he said were the "facts," when he was interrupted by Mr. Cyrus A. Birge of Hamilton, who said he thought it was a serious mistake to bring a matter up there which was already dead. "It is not dead," retorted Mr. Christie, "it is one of the liveliest subjects and concerns the military reputation of that district. There were four attempts made to secure

LADY'S ONE PIECE APRON.

The part that the kitchen apron plays in household management is a very important one, and the particular housewife wants it to be just as becoming as it is serviceable. No. 8836 is an excellent "coverall" and is to be slipped on over the head. The low U-shaped neck is comfortable. The sleeves are set into very deep armholes to allow plenty of freedom for the arms. The sleeves may be either full length or shorter. Two large pockets are stitched at the sides, and a wide belt is worn with the apron.

The lady's one-piece apron pattern No. 8836 is cut in three sizes—36, 40 and 44 inches bust measure. The 36-inch size requires 5 1/2 yards 27-inch material, 5 1/2 yards 30-inch or 4 1/2 yards 32-inch material.

To Obtain This Pattern Send 15c to The Courier Office, or two for 25c.

COMB SAGE TEA. HAIR TO DARKEN IT

It's Grandmother's Recipe to keep her Locks Dark, Glossy, Beautiful. The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening grey, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, wavy color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the trouble-free lack of graying the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, twisting one small strand at a time; by morning the grey hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease, information, and in every case the authorities were blocked.

Mr. Christie was going into further details when the President of the Rev. Dr. Chown, called upon him to put his resolution before speaking upon it. Having secured a second in Rev. J. C. Reid of Stratroy, the resolution was formally put. In view of the facts the General Conference of the Methodist Church of Canada endorse the demand for a complete and thorough Parliamentary investigation into the raid on the Jesuit Novitiate at Guelph on June 7. Mr. Christie was continuing his recital of the "facts" when Rev. Chancellor Bowles of Victoria University rose and said: "I want to know if we are compelled to listen to a long address like this on a matter—ones of 'yes' and 'no'—which has already been reported, drowned the Chancellor's counsel.

Mr. Christie insisted, and said: "When our Protestant theological colleges all over the Dominion were emptied of their students by the war, we wanted to know if these Jesuit institutions were sheltering any delinquents." "Cheer!"

Would be reconstructed. "This may be all right," pursued the Chancellor, who had remained standing, but I don't think this great Church could be bound to do a thing like this. We have other other purposes. It will be misconstrued. I have lived long enough to learn that the greatest loss in the world is fact. It is unwise to act on facts from one side only, and it is not of sufficient importance. "It is important," said Mr. Christie, "to hear both sides first. Should Hear Both Sides First. "Well, it may be important that somebody's son did not go to the war, but I do not think we ought to pass this resolution without hearing both sides. I think it ought to go to a committee."

Dr. Allison of Halifax said they should know more about it before they settled the question. Mr. Justice Macleod thought they should hear both sides, and did not act on an expert statement of the case. Finally a vote was taken with the above result.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH

When constipated or bilious give "California Syrup of Figs." Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, if it is raw and sore, if your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. "When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad, has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of California Syrup of Figs" and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again. You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative," they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid. Ask your druggist for bottles of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here. Be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

UPHOLDS PRIEST IN FORD CHURCH

Windsor, Oct. 12.—Staying the petition of militant parishioners of Our Lady of the Lake Church, at Ford, for the removal of Rev. Father F. X. Laurendeau as rector of the parish, the Sacred Consistorial Congregation, the highest ecclesiastical court of the Roman Catholic Church, in an award, terms of which were made public here to-day, calls on all good Catholics of the Ford parish to obey their pastor.

Judgment of the Papal Court, which is given above the signatures of C. Card. Della Saba, Bishop of Sabina, Secretary, and C. Sassi, Archbishop of Caserta, Assessor, given authority to Bishop M. F. Fallon of the London Diocese of the Roman Catholic Church, who appointed Rev. Father Laurendeau, rector of the Ford, to repress those who resist Church authority.

The award, which was read in all Catholic churches of the border cities this morning, is as follows: "In view of the fact that several petitions have been set before the Apostolic See for the purpose of removing the Reverend Laurendeau, priest, removed from the parish of Ford, and that various motives were alleged to bring about such removal, the Holy Father, having in full assembly examined the case and maturely weighed everything, decided and decreed that no account could be taken of the said petitions, and that Father Laurendeau, priest, must be retained in charge of the parish."

Bishop of London, concerning the matter, and through him the faithful of the parish, and that those whom it concerns be seriously admonished to refrain from every hindrance and all manner of strife in opposition to their pastor; and, whereas he was lawfully applied to by the said parishioners, he rendered him the respectful obedience which is his due, if they wish to act as become Catholics, and fear the just judgments of God and the Church.

"It will be the duty of the Right Rev. Bishop of London to make these things known officially to the faithful of the parish of Ford, and authorization is granted him to repress those who resist according to the tenor of the Sacred Decree."

In a chapter handed to all those attending church to-day, Bishop Fallon makes the following comment on the award: "In fulfillment of the duty therein imposed on me, I hereby communicate to you a decree of the Sacred

SAVED BIG-GUN BATTERY. Brilliant Exploit Credited to Major Brock. An eye-witness' account has come to hand of how Major F. Erzer Brock, T.S.A., a Winnipeg officer, saved a battery of British "heavies" in sensational fashion during the spring retreat. Personal gallantry and resourcefulness combined to make the feat the talk of an army corps, according to the British officer who told the story to a Winnipeg man in England. Major Brock is a nephew of the late W. B. Brock, of Toronto, a grandson of the late Rev. John Gillespie, rector of the Church of the Messiah, Toronto.

Four hours after the infantry had retreated, leaving his gun emplacements as the outposts of the British front, Major Brock kept all his command in position. Then he sent to the rear all but the gunners, and with them set driving for another eight hours, until 8 p.m. his guns being the only British pieces in action on that front during the afternoon. A gunnery and officer were shot in turn after this hour in going back to search for a locomotive. Major Brock then proceeded to the rear, got safely to his destination, and came back with an engine. "What the Germans had meanwhile cut the railway line behind the guns, so the Canadian sent away his remaining men and got some engineers to rebuild the line," continues the narrative. "When the engine was found too light to move a gun, so he went back and got two locomotives, and the last one moved both guns out. On the way an attempt was made to use an abandoned locomotive, but it had to be blown up."

Consistorial Congregation. For the moment I refrain from comment upon it. Its terms are clear, precise and definite. They call for prompt acceptance and entire obedience from those who wish to act as become Catholics and who fear the just judgments of God and the Church. I have the fullest confidence in those among you to whom the decree may apply will observe its directions to the full, both in the letter and in the spirit."

Opposition to the appointment of Rev. Father Laurendeau, who was formerly in charge of a London parish, to be priest of Our Lady of the Lake Church, developed on September 10 of last year, when certain parishioners took possession of the church house and established guards to prevent the new priest from entering. Possession, however, was obtained by force, more than fifty police officers, acting on orders from Crown Attorney J. H. Rodd of Windsor, taking charge of the rectory. A riot ensued, and several people were placed under arrest.

There were subsequent meetings and the passing of resolutions of the malcontents, some of whom undertook to boycott the church.

STOP LUMBAGO PAIN, RUB BACKACHE AWAY

Instant Relief! Limber up! Rub pain, soreness, stiffness right out with "St. Jacobs Liniment." When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or neuritis has you stuffed up, don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Liniment" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right into the pain or ache, and, by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.
