O'BRIEN IN COURT

Today to Hear the Testimony of a Hitherto Unheard of Witness

WHOSE NAME IS WM. LEVI POWELL

But Is Not the Man Hunted for all Over the World.

THE PRISONER IS CHANGED

And No Longer Wears the Bold, Self Assertive Air He Wore When Last Seen in Court.

George O'Brien suspected of having murdered Clayton, Relfe and Olson near Minto, a year ago next month, was in the police court again today to hear the testimony of Wm. Lion Powell, who, by reason of bearing the same surname, was yesterday supposed to be the witness, about whom there has been so much talk. Mr. Powell testified that during last November, his scow was frozen in on Lake Lebarge, and that having two teams with him, he began freighting the cargo down the river. Between the 16th and 18th of December he had visited the B. L. & K. cabin about seven miles above Minto, where it was his intention to cross the river. Here he had seen O'Brien and his companion, supposedly Powell the missing witness, or accomplice, and had been threatened by the former with a rifle if he persisted in crossing the river in the vicinity of the cabin, and had been told by him that he had no business there and to keep away.

Notwithstanding this, the witness, accompanied by a man named Federley, visited the place the next day, when they crossed the river and saw the missing Powell, who is described as being a larger and heavier man than O'Brien, full faced and smoother shaven. They had been told that he, Powell, was suffering from a fall on the ice, and that they were waiting there till he should be sufficiently recovered to proceed with the journey.

After this one of the men was seen from the opposite side of the river, standing on the ice for as long a period as two or three hours, and the other making trips of from 15 to 20 minutes duration from the cabin into the woods. Mr. Powell identified both the prisoner and his dog Bruce.

Prisoner George O'Brien appears somewhat changed since he was last seen in the court room, which was during the month of August last. He seems to have grown paler and thinner. His hair has been allowed to grow rather long and curls up slightly at the ends, his face has lost something of its color, and the canvas coat which he wears, even though it is gathered in a huge tuck at the back, still hangs loosely upon him and his white nervous hands barely reach through the sleeves. But beyond all this there is still a greater change in him which is more noticeable, yet harder to describe. This change is of the eyes, and the general bearing of the man. Last summer his bearing was marked by its easy indifference, even assurance, and the boldness of his eyes as they took in the people and surroundings during his hearing. These things are all gone from him now, his eyes, if not downcast do not seek the faces of men, and his form seems to have shrunk into itself, and the general air is one lacking of assertion.

During the time he was in court today, O'Brien busied himself wholly by writing rapidly in a note book, or holding whispered councils with Attorney Robertson, his counsel. The case was remanded till December 5th next.

Harry Wilson

Last night a number of men were met who were well acquainted with Harry R. Wilson, the man whom the telegraphic reports say committed suicide at South Omaha on the 16th instant. George Butler was quite well acquainted with Wilson, having known him at Juneau, Wilson having lived there where, for a long time, he was employed in the Treadwell mines on Douglass island. Wilson came to the Yukon in '95 going on to Fortymile where he mined with varied success until the discovery of gold in the Klondike, when he came here, securing claim No. 14 below on Bear creek. From this claim he took out a large amount of money; later he sold his claim on Bear creek and bought an interest on Gold Hill which also proved very valuable, turning out a large amount of gold. It is said that at one time during the past season Wilson took out $9000 in a period of 18 days. Although it is not known for a certainty, Butler and others who knew Wilson are of the opinion that he sold his holdings in this country before leaving for the outside in September. The suicide is not the Wilson who married Sadie O'Hara; that being Frank Wilson who left here for Nome last spring. It was not learned whether or not the man who killed himself is the same as was infatuated with "Babe" Wallace and who is said to have been heart-broken at her not reciprocating his ardent affections. The dead man was about 36 or 38 years of age.

Morning Fire Alarm.

The fire bell rang this morning for a fire in the two-story frame building owned by Edward Vashon at the corner of Fourth avenue and First street south. The fire department responded but before its arrival the blaze had been extinguished with but slight damage.

This time the fire was not due to the chronic cause of a defective flue, but to the carelessness of some one who went out and left a candle burning near a bed. The bedding took fire and from it the wall paper.

Bitten by a Mad Dog.

This morning A.R. McLean appeared at the barracks and displayed a badly lacerated and much swollen hand, which he explained was the result of a bite from a dog presumably mad. Mr. McLean was on his way to the Forks and when a little way out of town this morning a dog came running swiftly towards him down the road. Another man walked ahead of him, and at him the brute snapped viciously in passing, tearing his coat and frightening him out of the road. The animal then flew at McLean, driving its teeth through his hand just above the fingers and making a most ugly wound between the bones of the first and second fingers of the left hand. It then ran on towards town, and was followed by the man it had bitten, down to South Third street, where it was killed with an ax.

The wound was immediately cauterized by the police surgeon, and it is thought no serious results will follow. This is the fourth case of the kind since winter set in.

Bowling Tournament.

A five team bowling tournament is now on at the Reception, the first ten game match being played last night, the contestants being Pozzie and McGill vs. Rainbow and Harwood, the score being 674 to 678 in favor of the latter team. This is one of the highest as well as one of the most closely contested scores recorded in the history of the game. The return game between the above mentioned teams will be played tomorrow night. The contest to night will be Hall and Swartz against Allen and Hemen, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

The Weather.

During the 24 hours preceding 9 o'clock this morning the minimum temperature was 20.5 and the maximum 3.5 below zero. Reports from up the river was that the storm prevailing here was general at all points above, although the weather was mild.

Slorah Is Sick

James Slorah, condemned to hang next March for the murder of Pearl Mitchell, is still the subject of much talk about town, and last evening a rumor was abroad to the effect that he had neither eaten or drunk during the past four days, and as this fasting was due to his own volition, it was said he was trying to put an end to his life by means of starvation, and that he was in a fair way to accomplish his design.

A call upon Inspector Rutledge, commanding in the absence of Capt. Starnes, at the barracks this morning, however, revealed the fact that this rumor was of the order which passeth the understanding and can in no wise be accounted for.

Slorah is not eating heartily, nor has he since the trial, but he does eat and drink a little, and that he is not more voracious is thought by the doctor to be due to his change of living and the worry and nervous strain consequent upon his position during and since the close of the trial.

Private Hockey Court.

For the past two days a number of prisoners have been at work on the hockey court in the barracks square, but the work of yesterday was practically lost owing to the heavy fall of snow last night. Today the snow was being winnowed up, and, as it is of the kind that does not burn readily, it will be hauled off the grounds. When cleared of all obstructions, the court will be again flooded, after which the police hockey team will endeavor to get in shape to retrieve lost laurels.

Sit Down and Wait.

There is a notice on the door of a Second avenue cobbler's shop that is not encouraging to the man whose shoes need repairing. The notice reads: "Gone out! Will be back about March 1st."

SLEIGHING PARTY ACCIDENT.

Rich Strike Reported on Yellow River—Two Swedes Struck It Rich Last Summer.

Skagway, Nov. 27.—The first mail out over the ice from Dawson arrived by last night's train from Whitehorse, being 17 days en route. The carrier reached Whitehorse 15 minutes before the train left. He reports a hard trip, his horse having broken through the ice several times. Twelve of the 18 sacks brought were entirely submerged in water and their contents, when opened here, looked like pulp. The mail is being dried today.

Shipbuilder P. J. Christiansen has been awarded a contract for the construction of two steamers which are intended to be the swiftest on the Yukon river. The steamers will be built at Whitehorse by Skagway and Whitehorse capital.

During a heavy wind and snow storm here last night an electric light wire was blown down which was run on to by a sleighing party. The legs of the horses struck the wire and both animals went down. The driver in attempting to straighten things out was knocked down by a shock, but not otherwise injured. One of the horses had a hoof practically burned off.

R. M. Morrisey, of Seattle, left here this morning for a new strike 300 miles south of Holy Cross Mission and on the Yellow river which is tributary to the Kuskokwim. He says there are only 12 men in the district; that two Swedes went in last July and at Seattle a few days ago showed $34,000 in gold taken from a patch of ground 16 feet square; that bedrock is found at a depth of two feet.

TOO MANY DUTIES.

When the long looked for ballot boxes are finally received and the new members are seated in the session chamber of the Yukon council, the question of incorporating Dawson will undoubtedly be among the first measures to receive consideration. As a matter of fact the town should have been incorporated a year ago, and probably would have been if any reasonable or equitable plan of incorporation had been brought forward.

We believe the advisability of incorporation is generally recognized, provided always that the desired end may be accomplished in a way that will give the town a fair share of privileges to which it is legitimately entitled.

The Yukon council, which, nominally is a legislative body with powers extending over the entire territory, is in fact, but little more than a local council, by far the greater amount of business transacted by it being devoted entirely to matters pertaining to Dawson. Each member of the council has also other important duties to perform which of themselves are sufficient to make the detail work required in conducting the affairs of the town decidedly burdensome.

Meanwhile other communities are springing up, the control of which will come under the Yukon council and which of necessity must serve to divide the time and attention of that body. Whitehorse will require a great deal of consideration in the spring; Grand Forks is assuming quite a metropolitan appearance; there is certain to be a little town on the other side of the dome and Stewart river will, in another year demand attention, if present indications can in any respect be accepted as forecasting the future.

With these and other matters of a territorial nature such as road building, etc., dividing the time of the council, it would appear that the time has come when Dawson should begin to look after its own affairs.

There should be no particular difficulty in framing a charter suitable to our requirements. A carefully selected body of representative citizens with the governing charters of other municipalities to aid them ought to be able to prepare a document which would be in every way satisfactory.

Dawson has been in swaddling clothes long enough. It is time that they be removed.

Sudden spasms of virtue such as have recently affected the local authorities are apt to bring about unlooked for results. In fact care must be exercised in order that the wave of moral reform which has been inaugurated does not defeat its own object. The people affected by the new orders have thus far pursued their method of gaining a livelihood under quasi cognizance of law. To summarily dispose of them as provided in the recent order, in the middle of a Klondike winter, leaves the action of the authorities open to the criticism of having been determined upon with undue haste. The logical sequence to this action will be a lower drop in the scale of morality on the part of the women concerned. This practical feature of the case should have been taken into consideration before the order was placed in effect.

We desire again to direct attention to the fact that the contest for the cash prize of $50 for the best story contributed for publication in our holiday issue, will close on December 5. All manuscripts must be in the Nugget office on or before that date and none received afterwards will be considered in the competition. Remember that the story must contain not to exceed 4000 words and that manuscripts are to be signed with nom de plume only. The author's real name and nom de plume are to be enclosed in a separate envelope. Contributors are requested to write on one side of paper only.

Typhoid fever seems to be unusually prevalent in Dawson for this season of the year. It must not be forgotten that sanitary matters require as much attention and care during the cold weather as in summer. Carelessness in this respect is responsible for a large proportion of sickness in Dawson.

Joe Clarke, in addition to numerous and sundry other titles now signs himself "representative of Arthur Wilson, member-elect of the Yukon council." We never heard what injury Mr. Wilson has inflicted on Joe, but it must be something pretty serious.

Late Presidential Candidates.
Americans in the Klondike were not probably aware that there were nearly a dozen candidates for the presidency voted for at the late election. Here only two were known—McKinley and Bryan. But there were others. The tickets and dates of naming them were as follows:

Socialist Labor, named January 27—Job F. Harriman for president and Max S. Hayes of Ohio for vice-president.
Social Democracy, named March 6—Eugene V. Debs of Indiana for president and Job Harriman of California for vice-president.
United Christian, named May 1—Rev. S. C. Swallow of Pennsylvania for president and John G. Woolley of Illinois for vice-president.
People's Independent, named May 9—W. J. Bryan of Nebraska for president and Charles A. Towne of Minnesota for vice-president.

Populists, named May 9—Wharton Barker of Pennsylvania for president and Ignatius Donnelly of Minnesota for vice-president.
DeLeon Socialists, named May 23—Jos. Maloney of Massachusetts for president and Valentine Remill of Pennsylvania for vice-president.
Republican, named June 19—William McKinley of Ohio for president and Theodore Roosevelt of New York for vice-president.

Prohibition, named June 28—John G. Woolley of Illinois for president and H. B. Metcalf of Rhode Island for vice-president.
Democratic, named July 4—William J. Bryan of Nebraska for president and Adlai Stevenson of Illinois for vice-president.
Silver Republicans, named July 4—William J. Bryan of Nebraska for president and no nominee for vice-president.

National party, named September 5—Donaldson Caffrey for president and Archibald M. Howe for vice-president.
Union Reform, named September 5—Seth Ellis for president and S. T. Nicholson for vice-president.

Mountains of Ore.
Glacier bay, by reason of the famous Muir glacier, is chiefly noted for its scenery, but the day may yet come when that district will divide its glory between the sightseeing and the mining. Tourists who come to gaze may yet remain to dig, for mountains of ore are to be found there, and ledges rich in metal are exposed to full view. Like Snettisham, Glacier bay hangs its mineral wealth along the shore, where it can be mined and loaded with a barrow to ships or barges.

If a straw vote were taken among the owners of ledges now located there, with a view of determining their political affiliation, it is highly probable that W. J. Bryan would be highly gratified with returns, for Glacier bay is a silver camp.

Assays made from several well-defined ore bodies discovered near to the big glacier, and a small mill test brought an average return of $50 in silver and $10 in gold. The ore has an antimony base and is refractory. While the size of the ore bodies may rival the Treadwell, it has not its free milling qualities; but the fact that it may be loaded on ships so easily greatly lessens the cost of shipping the ore to the Puget sound smelters, which will be necessary until Skagway has that much promised smelter.

U. S. Customs Inspector Warner, now stationed at White Pass, and J. E. Snevely are together associated in the development of two rich claims in that district, and Mr. Snevely will leave in the near future to resume development work. The latter gentleman first discovered the properties from the deck of a vessel while sight-seeing, the ore bodies being clearly exposed. The mountain on which the claims are situated is itself a huge mineralized monolith.
"We have a hundred tons of ore in sight," said Mr. Snevely today, "and even at the present low price of silver we can dig out our development capital from the mine itself."—Skagway News.

A City Without Soap.
Kate V. Johnson, of Madison, Ind., who has lived in Japan for 13 years, talks in an interesting way of the little people of that country, who live without chairs, bedsteads, knives, forks, spoons, or soap; of the women who paint their teeth black and shave their eyebrows to indicate loyalty to their husbands; of the carpenters who make long beautiful shavings by drawing their planes towards them and who place the back door at the front of the house; and of their books in which the preface is placed at the end of the book and foot notes at the head of the page.

Miss Johnson first went to Akita, a city of 60,000 persons, and found it a city without soap. Naoye Saito, a young Japanese girl who came to live in her house, had never had a soap bath in her life. She kicked and screamed when her first bath was given her and said they were trying to kill her. A cake of Ivory soap was sent to Naoye Saito's father with instructions to use it on his person. He came back the next day and asked for another cake, saying he had used it all up.
Before Miss Johnson left Japan last summer she took Naoye Saito, who had been with her for 10 years, back to her native province and left her to earn her own living. While still in Tokio, a few days before sailing for America, Miss Johnson received a letter from Naoye in which she said: "I forgot one thing very necessary to our comfort in this place. Will you please go to the grocery store and buy me a dozen cakes of Ivory soap and send it to me at once?" She sent a money order to pay for it, and the soap was sent.—Ex-

Horse on Him.
"Got a good joke on myself," said the man who has accumulated a little property by hard work. "I asked my wife what was the difference between me and a horse, intending to say that I was a forehanded man and the horse was a four footed beast. What do you suppose she said?"
"Give it up," said the other man.
"Said she guessed it must be the length of my ears."—Indianapolis Journal.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "the baby is trying to talk again. It's wonderful how he takes after you!"
"What was he talking about?"
"I think it must have been politics. He started very calmly, but in a few minutes he was as angry and red in the face as he could be."—Washington Star.

A Watchmaker.
The late Aaron Dennison was called "the father of American watchmaking." He was interested in his work, because he hoped thereby to benefit his fellow man.
Often he worked late into the night, so late that his loving wife would go and beg him to "wait until tomorrow." One night she said to him: "Are you not going to bed at all? What are you doing?"

And he turned and slowly answered, "I am trying to make it possible for every poor man to have a watch," a result which he very nearly accomplished.—Youth's Companion.

He Had Read It.
"Did you read my latest novel, entitled 'A Terrible Experience?'" asked the novelist.
"Yes," answered the bluntly candid friend, "and that's what it was."—Washington Star.

SOME VERY QUEER DREAMS

Visions Which Resulted in Capture of Criminals.

Marvelous Manifestations Which Verify the Assertion That "Truth is Stranger Than Fiction."

A very remarkable instance of the tracing of a criminal by means of a dream occurred in St. Louis. A woman named Mary Thornton was detained in custody for a month, charged with the murder of her husband. A week or so after her arrest she requested to see one of the prison officials and told him she had dreamed that an individual named George Ray had murdered her spouse, giving the official at the same time full details of the tragedy as witnessed in her vision. The man Ray was not suspected at the time, but the prison authorities were so much impressed by the woman's obvious earnestness that a search was at once made for him.

After some delay he was traced and charged with the crime, the details of the same as seen in the dream being rehearsed to him. Overcome with astonishment, he then and there confessed that he had committed the crime. Curiously enough, the woman had only met the murderer once and believed him to be on the very best of terms with her husband.

Almost as remarkable was the case of a woman named Drew, who dreamed one night that her husband, a retired sailor, had been murdered by a peddler at Gravesend tavern, where the said husband was in the habit of putting up when visiting the town in question. The first news that awaited her on arising in the morning was that her spouse had been assassinated at the tavern she had seen in her extraordinary vision, thereupon she burst into hysterical sobs and cried out that her dream had become true.

She calmed down somewhat after a few hours and then handed the police officials an exact description of the peddler of the vision, giving a minute account of his dress, which included a blue coat of a very peculiar pattern. Marvelous as the fact may appear, a man wearing such a coat and following the occupation of a peddler was discovered two days later at an inn some six miles from Gravesend, and, on being taxed with the crime, he at once admitted that he was guilty and that robbery had been the motive of the outrage. He was hanged soon afterward, his doom having been brought about by the flimsy evidence of a woman's dream.

Women as dreamers seem more successful than men, but a rather peculiar instance of a crime being traced by a vision and in which the dreamer was a member of the male sex comes from Rennes, in France. A worthy merchant, having quitted his office one Saturday evening, proceeded home to dinner and after enjoying a substantial meal lay down on the couch and fell to a light doze. A very vivid dream then came to him wherein he saw two men of the burglar type engaged in rifling the safe in his office, and so much impressed was he by the vision that he resolved, upon awakening, to go to the office and see that everything was under lock and key.

His amazement may be imagined when, on arriving there, he discovered the door forced and a burglary in progress. To summon a couple of gentlemen was the work of an instant, and five minutes later the thieves, who proved to be notorious housebreakers, were on their way to the police depot, where the prosecutor told his extraordinary story. In view of the fact that the safe contained valuables to the extent of some thousands of pounds, the dream in question proved a very fortunate one for the dreamer.

How to explain these marvelous manifestations, which prove once more that truth is stranger than fiction, is a task beyond the ingenuity of man to compass. Perchance the theory of telepathy may have something to do with the mysterious business, but even that theory would appear rather inadequate in such cases as the aforementioned.

A skillful forger who moved in the highest circles of society was once detected by the agency of a dream. The affair occurred in Boston and caused the greatest excitement of the time.

The forger, a young man of eight or nine and twenty, had become acquainted with a rich publisher, at whose house he became a constant guest. One day the publisher's bankers discovered that some one was forging their client's signature to various large checks, and two detectives were at once instructed to look out for the culprit.

Their efforts proved useless, but one evening the publisher's youngest daughter, a little girl of 11, dreamed that she saw a man whom she described as "like Mr. Blank," the visitor to whom reference has been made, sitting in a room in Maine street copying her father's signature. The child's dream was communicated to the police, who though inclined to ridicule the same at the outset, eventually promised to have the gentleman watched with the result that his lodgings were raided and a complete plant for the making of bank notes found there. It then transpired that he was a man who was wanted for manifold forgeries, throughout the Union, and he was sent to prison for a very long term.

The child's dream was all the more extraordinary in view of the fact that she was too young to understand the leading incidents of the business and attributed the copying of her father's signature in the dream to the "gentleman wanting to write nicely, like papa." Strange, very strange, but none the less true, and proving once more that, as Hamlet remarked, "There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamed of in your philosophy."—Philadelphia Times.

STAGE GLINTS.

"Unleavened Bread" is to be dramatized.

Sol Smith Russell's next season will only last 20 weeks.

In St. Petersburg many of the theaters do not open before midnight.

Frederick Warde will add a production of "Hamlet" to his repertory next season.

"By Order of the Company" is to be the English title of the play made from "To Have and to Hold."

"Cyrano de Bergerac" has failed at Wyndham's theater, London, in spite of all the efforts to create a boom for it.

Ada Rehan will begin her next American tour in Cleveland early in November. Two new modern plays will be added to her repertory.

A Providence theater advertises, "Iced lemonade given to the lady patrons and cigarettes to the gentlemen free of charge at every performance."

Mrs. Leslie Carter is not only contemplating the performance of Ibsen's "When We Dead Awaken," but she is to have a new play by the authors of "Zaza" and another by Sardou.

Miss Phoebe Davies, the actress who has played the leading role in "Way Down East" more than 1,025 times without missing a performance, has become one of the wealthy women of the stage.

E. S. Willard will open his next American tour in Boston in November. Mr. Willard's repertory will comprise "The Middleman," "The Rogues' Comedy," "David Garrick," "Tom Pinch," "The Professor's Love Story" and two new plays.

Taxation Without Representation.

The United States government does not, never has and never will live up to the full and complete sense of the phrases "no taxation without representation" and "no government without the consent of the governed." To live up to those phrases fully and literally would mean an entire revolution of government policies and would undoubtedly result in serious trouble. We have thousands of women property owners who are taxed without representation, who are governed without their consent, unless such consent be obtained by their liege lord before he proceeds to the making of the laws. Their only recourse is to petition and still they are not tyrannized over and the laws are uniformly favorable to them. In fact it is doubted if they could be more favorably governed had they the right of franchise. They have always been treated as the best friend of man and the laws have always been in their favor, but with the rights of franchise they would be on a more equal footing and would be compelled to enter the turmoil of politics and fight for whatever reform they desired. Then there are the Indians who have always been the virtual subjects of this government and "governed without their consent." A criminal who serves a term in the penitentiary is disfranchised and henceforth governed without his consent and taxed without representation, if he has anything to tax. And negroes in the south are governed without their consent and taxed without representation, and southern Democrats believe it is just and right that they should be.

If the Democrats were at all consistent they would take up the fight for these disfranchised classes at home instead of expending their energies in favor of distinct people who have not yet arrived at a state when it is known whether or not they will be governed without their consent and taxed without representation. It is not improbable that anyone of these classes, especially the first mentioned, are more fit for enfranchisement and more entitled to the full rights of citizenship than the classes for which they are making their great fight. Why don't they become consistent?—Ex.

Got the Change.

"Why were you tempted to steal this man's purse?" "Because my doctor recommended me to take a little change."

Then He Felt Better.

In a certain skirmish a Colonel—general he came to call himself got a slight scratch on the leg. The wound was a matter of great glory to him, and he nursed it through after days, growing lazier with every year, that the memory of his bravery might ever be near him.

One day late in his life as he sat nursing his leg and pondering the glorious past, a young man, visiting the family for the first time, approached and sympathetically remarked:

"Lame, general?"

"Yes, sir," after a pause and with inexpressible solemnity, "I am lame."

"Been riding, sir?"

"No," with rebuked sternness. "I have not been riding."

"Ah, slipped on the ice, general?"

"No, sir!" with actual ferocity.

"Perhaps, then, you have sprained your ankle, sir?"

With painful slowness the old man lifted his pet leg in both hands, set it carefully on the floor, rose slowly from his chair and, looking down upon the unfortunate youth with mingled pity and wrath, burst forth in the sublimity of rage:

"Go read the history of your country, you puppy!"—New York Press.

How Frozen Meat Deteriorates.

Meats frozen and kept in cold storage for long periods do not undergo organic changes in the ordinary sense—that is, they do not putrefy, soften or smell bad—but they certainly do deteriorate in some intangible way. After a certain time frozen meat loses some life principle essential to its nourishing quality. Such meat lacks flavor; it is not well digested or assimilated. Its savory condition cannot be remedied or successfully disguised by the use of sauces and condiments.

Those who eat cold storage food for any length of time develop diarrheal disorders, lose in weight and would eventually starve to death unless a change of diet was made. The same reasoning applies to tinned fruits and vegetables. They should not be used after a certain period has elapsed.

Especially should people be warned against using stale eggs and old milk and cream. Milk and cream are kept for days, rancid butter is washed and treated chemically, but all food, and especially cold storage food, is damaged by long keeping, and will not nourish the body properly. There is the greatest abundance of food, but it does not satisfy.—Sanitary Record.

Memory, Not Mystery.

"Memory can play the strangest of tricks," says a specialist, "and it is responsible for not a few superstitious fears in sensitive people."

"A lady once told me that she found herself at times in places where her surroundings seemed to have been known to her before, though she knew that she had never been there previously."

"Probably you will recognize this experience, which is common enough. How many people, when reading or listening to a conversation, become vaguely conscious that they have read the passage or heard the identical words in the dim, long past?"

"It is not a haunting mystery, but just a way that memory has. Innumerable impressions of the most trivial things are stored in the brain and will come out when called upon. In the lady's case she had probably seen a picture of the scene at some time, and a view of the actual place produced memory's feeble effort to recall it."

The Billiard Tournament.

Interest in the Regina Club billiard tournament is increasing with each succeeding night's games and many would be champions in the "sawing off" contest for the final honor are pluming themselves on the strength of big scores already to their credit.

Two matches were played Saturday night with the following result:

First game, J. P. Bell, 99; J. T. Lithgow, 63.

Second game, Judge C. A. Dugas, 110; P. C. Stevenson, 62.

The games were played last night as follows:

First game, H. T. Wills, 113; A. Scott, 100, the latter winning on a handicap.

Second game, E. C. Senkler, 160; E. E. Tiffin, 75.

Third game, E. B. Condon, 145; O. E. Marks, 70.

THE LOCAL PLAY HOUSES

Put on Strong Casts for the Present Week.

"Captain Imprudence" at Standard—
"Slippery Day on the Bowery" and "Secret Panel" at Savoy.

It is too soon yet after the enforcement of the new regulation which prevents women from soliciting bar trade or drinking in the boxes, to tell what effect, or rather the extent of the effect, the new rule will have upon the theatrical business. Last night the houses were well filled, but that cannot be taken as a basis for a forecast of the matter, because the houses always draw better on the first and second nights than later in the week, so that it is still an open question as to whether or not legitimate theatrical business, run solely upon its merits, will pay in Dawson, or whether the first gloomy view taken by the managers after the issuance of the order was a correct one.

In speaking of the matter this morning Mr. Jackson, of the Savoy said: "The order is a good one, and if a strictly legitimate show business aside from the liquor trade is desired, then the order is a good one. So far as we are concerned we will, of course, always comply with the law, but we are going to remain in the show business also."

That the Standard will follow a like course is evidenced by the staging of a drama again this week, after having run a week on vaudeville and comedy. Last evening the curtain rose on Milton Royle's drama of the Mexican war with the United States, entitled "Captain Imprudence," with Fred C. Lewis in the title role, and Alf T. Layne as the other principal male character.

Although the piece is one which of necessity since it contains a battle scene and an execution, has much of tragedy in its make up, but this is largely left to the imagination of the audience, while the comedy is strongly brought out by the best talent of the Standard company. There is every opportunity given by the lines and the general action of the piece to the actors to show themselves to the best advantage, and, as they are an ambitious lot of people they are not slow to avail themselves of the opportunity so presented.

The Savoy, having made a place for itself in the good graces of theater goers, makes no change in its program, that is, so far as general make up goes, opening this week as usual with a one-act farce comedy, and closing with another slice of the same, the singing, dancing and sketches being sandwiched between. The opening piece was one of Post's, and was, without saying so, funny. It is called a "Slippery Day on the Bowery," and among other things contains a pair of most eccentric stairs, especially arranged for bill collectors and book agents. The stairs do their work exceedingly well.

"The Secret Panel" is the title of the closing act, and to its multitude of mistakes and situations are due the many excellent opportunities to laugh, which the audience last evening took every advantage of.

Both houses have succeeded this week in putting up a first-class show.

Free Library Entertainment.

The regular semi-monthly free library entertainment was no exception to the rule, but was fully up to the high standard which has made them the most popular occurrences of all the events in Dawson social life. The hall was packed to the doors and even standing room was at a premium, for those who are familiar with the class of entertainment given well know that the best talent in the city is found among the non-professionals and that it is always secured by the management of the free library entertainment. Commissioner Ogilvie presided as master of ceremonies in his usually happy and informal manner. The following program was presented, the majority of the participants being forced to respond to from one to three encores:

Piano forte solo, Mr. G. Griffith; song, "True Till Death," Mr. F. W. Clayton; recitation, (a) "Fuzzy Wuzzy," (b) "L'Envoi," Mrs. George Craig; song, "The Letter Edged in Black," Mrs. A. D. Williams; song, "The King is Coming," Mr. George Craig; recitation, selected, Mrs. J. W. Moore; story, selected, by the chairman; song, "The Blue and the Gray," Emile Craig; duet, selected, the Misses Larson; graphophone selection; song, "Hush Me, O Sorrow," Herbert E. W. Robertson; "God Save the Queen."

Voluntary contributions were accepted at the door as the audience filed out and a large amount was contributed, as those present were apparently imbued with the feeling that they had been highly entertained and the opportunity for contributing to the worthy cause was, therefore, appreciated.

A. C. Co. vs. Civil Service.

Tonight at 8 o'clock the third in the series of match hockey games will be played at the rink on Fourth avenue. The A. C. Co. and the Civil Service teams will meet and a good game is anticipated. Owing to the mildness of the weather it is expected that a good crowd will be in attendance.

The financial difficulties in which the rink management has been involved will result, it is understood, in the hockey league taking over the rink management. A proposition has been made to the creditors of the rink, with that end in view, and a decision will probably be reached today. In any event the match will be pulled off this evening and it promises to be an exciting contest.

Will Be Municipal Charge.

In his opening remarks at the free library concert last night Commissioner Ogilvie, who presided as chairman, stated that, for the benefit of those who had favored the idea of connecting the proposed museum with the library, he would explain why the scheme is incompatible. The library is for the benefit of Dawson and her people while the museum will necessarily be an affair of and for the entire Yukon district. The city of Dawson will, in the course of time, and probably in a very short time, be incorporated, after which the library will be in charge of the municipality and not of the government as at present. The museum, on the other hand, will be instituted and owned by the government and will be under governmental charge; hence, being under different managements and deriving support from different fountain heads, the two institutions can not, therefore, be assimilated and associated together. Mr. Ogilvie said the founding of the museum is practically assured and will be a reality in the near future. He paid a glowing tribute to the board of control of the library, reading and recreation room and said it had become an institution which could not well be spared from Dawson, and of which her people have good cause to feel proud.

Riley's Luck.

"That's the way Riley would play it," has come to be a common saying about the faro tables during the last few days, whenever any one wins a bet, and the reason for this is due to what is perhaps one of the most phenomenal three days' gambling record extant.

Last Friday evening Dave Allen, familiarly known as Riley, began with a $2.50 bet at a black jack table. This sum in a few bets had increased to $20 and Riley quit the black-jack table to try conclusions with a faro layout. His winnings that night ran into the thousands, and when he had finished Saturday night he was $12,000 ahead of the games about town, as his luck was not confined to one table, but seemed to follow him all over town. From house to house went Riley, and everywhere he reaped a harvest of bills. Last night he was out again and is credited with having won $2000 more, making a total of $14,000 in three nights' play, starting with a capital of $2.50.

This fortunate person pursuer of the goddess commonly fickle, intends leaving tomorrow, for San Francisco, his home.

Tonight's Entertainment.

The entertainment given tonight in McDonald hall in aid of St. Paul's church will be one of the most enjoyable musicales in the history of the city, as all the best local talent is represented on the program, which is as follows:

Piano solo, "Novelette in F" (Schumann), Mr. Arthur Boyle; song, "Simon the Cellarer," Mr. Craig; song, "Poppies," Miss Emma Allen; recitation, "Le Vieux Temps," Mr. Frank Johnstone; song, "The Bedouin Love Song" (Pinsuite), Mr. F. H. McConnell; song, "If That's the Case," Mr. C. W. MacPherson; song, "The Amorous Goldfish," Mrs. F. W. Trounce; recitation, selected, Mr. Ben Davis; song, "The Old Gray Fox" (M. V. White), Mr. Arthur Boyle. "God Save the Queen."

POLICE COURT NEWS.

This morning Capt. Starnes was taken suddenly ill, and was unable to attend his duties as magistrate in the police court. Therefore, Inspector Rutledge took his place this morning and attended to the business before the court.

Alex Siresman appeared on the complaint of a policeman charged with violating a health regulation, and was accompanied by a fellow countryman, who began making an objection but brought his address to so sudden a close that he did not cite any authorities, legal or otherwise. The cause of the sudden stop in what promised to be quite a flight of eloquence, was the stern command of the magistrate to sit down. He sat. Then the officer told his story and his honor looked over the code and said "Five dollars and costs." The fellow countryman, who appeared to represent the financial end of things produced $5, but when told that the costs and fine amounted to $10, he was unable to produce the other four. He gave audible evidence that he was desirous of negotiating a loan, but every one present seemed troubled with deafness or the marble heart, and while Alex was taken back to the guard room to await the arrival of financial assistance, his companion told the spectators that he was the unfortunate man's employer, and that Alex had worked for him till "he got nearly sixteen hundred dollar coming."

Jacques Hess appeared in the police court this morning and laid complaint against one Joseph Houston for assault. According to Hess' story he had been compelled to garnishee the wages of the warlike Houston, who had thereupon sent to him a decoy message concerning some Cleak creek property and when he had gone in response to the Hotel McDonald, the belligerent one had thereupon ambushed him and slugged him in the eye.

COYING AND GOING.

The average snow fall this winter is 18 inches.

A heavy snow storm is reported to be falling on the Dome.

Capt. W. H. Scarth is expected to return today from an official trip to Dominion.

Thomas Bruce, of Bruce & Hall, proprietors of the Holborn, is on his way in from Skagway.

It is proposed by the council to erect a building for the home of the projected museum.

After several months spent on his claim, No. 3 below on Sulphur, Geo. Noble is in the city on business.

Old Sol only shows his face these days for but an hour and within two more weeks will go into winter quarters.

A party of hunters brought in a fine bag of ptarmigans yesterday which were shot immediately back of Dawson on the hill.

A number of people have lately arrived from up the Yukon, some of them having come over the ice from as far up as Five Fingers.

Quartz is occupying the attention of Dawson's business men, as they realize that discoveries in that direction are necessary for the perpetuation of Dawson's prosperity.

Social functions of one kind or another are crowding each other this winter and scarcely a night passes that does not witness from one to three social gatherings.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals will meet at 8:30 this evening in the Board of Trade rooms in the A. C. Co.'s office building. The public are cordially invited to attend.

The curling rink which was recently overflowed by a considerable depth of water, is once more in readiness for the curling devotee, Mr. Matheson having succeeded in stopping the flow of water from the slough.

The Automobiles Are Coming.

The teams of Sonnikson & Henry arrived last night from Stewart river loaded with fresh halibut and merchandises for Swan & Anderson. The firm are sending teams about Wednesday Nov. 26, to Fort Selkirk for the automobiles for A. E. Clear. If you have any business between here and Hellgate you had better call on Sonnikson & Henry at once. They will take freight both ways, take passengers and do anything in this line for the public on the trip. Office Boyles' wharf. c28
